U.S. lacks anti-terrorist strategy, study says

Associated Press

WASHINGTOl:- Despite reams of rhetoric and multi-million dollar budgets, the United States has no effective strategy to cope with the increasing threat of terrorism and guerrilla warfare, according to a Pentagon study.

The report says the U.S. effort to protect its interests around the world is hampered by bureaucratic infighting and the inability of U.S. leaders and agencies "to comprehend the nature of this type of conflict."

The report was prepared over the past year by a joint team from the Army and Air Force. There are no plans to publicly release the document, although a copy was made available to the Associated Press.

U.S.S.R. Army and Air Force generals opened their secret nuclear test range Monday for the first time in 14 years and for all. As such, the project has strictly observed the 1974 test zone area.

While the authors were military, the report also looked at civilian agencies such as the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency. The report said it was intended as a starting point with which the U.S. government could understand the problem and wasn't designed "to recommend those few relevant 'fixes' that would settle this bothersome problem once and for all. As such, the project is not a blueprint but a dialogue."

More and more, the study noted. U.S. interests around the world are being threatened by "low-intensity conflicts," a term used to include terrorism and guerrilla warfare of the type being waged in Central America, the Middle East and the Philippines.

"As a nation, we do not understand low-intensity conflict," the study concluded. "We respond without unity of effort, we execute our activities poorly, and we lack the ability to sustain operations."

America's vast and powerful military machine was built to fight a nuclear war or a large-scale conventional war, particularly in Western Europe, but was not structured to cope with the current situation, which the report notes is "neither war, nor peace."

A central feature of the Reagan administration's foreign policy has been to strike back at terrorists who hit U.S. citizens, such as with the bombing raid on Libya earlier this year. The administration is also supporting guerrilla groups around the world who are fighting Soviet-backed forces, particularly in Central America and Afghanistan.

But there is no overall policy, the report says, warning that "a comprehensive civil-military strategy must be developed to defend our interests threatened by the series of low-intensity conflicts, or rather, conflicts that are low-intensity conflicts."

"It must be crafted in comprehensive terms, not focused on a single conflict or on a single department. It must integrate all the national resources at our disposal - military and non-military, with the overt and the covert," the study noted.

Many recent U.S. efforts have been thwarted by failures, the study noted.

Soviets display dormant nuclear test range

Associated Press

KAZAKHSTAN, U.S.S.R.- Army and Air Force generals opened their secret nuclear test range here for a group of Japanese and American journalists and official escorts left Moscow on Friday in a special Aeroflot Tu-134 jet to the city of Semipalatinsk in the north-east corner of Kazakhstan, about 370 miles from the border with China.

A smaller plane ferried the group from Semipalatinsk to the garrison for the test area, an unnamed and uncharted town along the Irysh River. From there the visitors traveled by Mi-8 helicopter over salt lakes and herds of wildlife to the foothills of the Semipalatinsk range.

Rusted rail tracks and control rooms are the only signs left of what was the site of nuclear tests here in the 1950s. All的身影 are gear and major installations on the site are gone.

Before the moratorium, all Soviet tests on the site were carried out in shafts bored horizontally into the granite, said Gen. Arkady D. Ilyenko, commander of the test area zone.

A new tunnel was built for each test, with the length depending on the strength of the blast, Ilyenko said. He said that the Soviet Union has strictly observed the 1974 threshold treaty with the United States, which limits the two powers to underground explosions of no more than 150 kilotons. A kiloton equals the explosion of 1,000 tons of TNT.

The United States, which has declined to join the test ban, with government officials citing as one reason the need for continued testing to maintain the efficiency of existing weapons.

Ilyenko said he could not accept U.S. arguments that no fully reliable means yet exist for monitoring nuclear blasts.

Since July, two American scientific observers and a team from the Soviet Academy of Sciences have been operating three monitoring stations near Semipalatinsk.

Non-varsity Domer Runs

The Non-varsity Athletics Domer Runs are not what they used to be. An epidemic of over-enthusiasm has reached another "just-for-the-fun-of-it" sporting event.

Non-varsity Athletics sponsors a three- and a six-mile run each semester. The Domer Runs are in the fall, followed by the Irish Spring Six in the spring. A small entry fee is required to cover the cost of the T-shirt that each finisher receives. The number of entrants has averaged around 200, consisting of students, graduate students, faculty and staff. Sundays turnout was good, but it certainly was a different crowd.

A major change this year was the introduction of dorm competition. For the same fee, at least four runners could sign up together, representing their dorm. When I saw this, I thought it would be a different race than the previous six-mile races that I have run in. The competition monster would attract the runners who wanted to win, while scaring away those who just wanted to run.

One of the great features of the earlier runs was the spectrum of ability that came out on a Saturday morning. The latest edition was moved to Sunday, due to the football game. Former high school track stars, occasional joggers, women, men, students and non-students showed up in every condition from being a model of superior fitness to being hung-over. The "real" runners could go and win the handful of trophies, while the rest worked on personal records, ran with friends, or simply stayed conscious long enough to cross the finish line.

I am a great runner. I just started running the summer before my freshman year, after overcoming a phobia of muscle cramps. (If you've never run, you run. Try it.) I go away in a few weeks.

What attracted me to my first Domer Run was the challenge. Having never run six miles before, I didn't know if I could. This motivated me to train harder, and I ran what turned out to be my best time ever. Each run after that I did worse, but I kept coming back. I enjoyed the crowd as well as pushing my body to the limit.

Several others had the same attitude about the run. As runs past the grueling two-mile stretch of the golf course, I received several encouraging words. "Keep it up . . . don't give up yet . . . and you're doing great" mean a lot when your legs are spaghetti.

A "brown bag seminar" will focus on the topic "The Labor Movement and Democratization In Uruguay" Tuesday at noon in 131 Decio Hall. MINNEAPOLIS - People who need counseling can turn to an increasing number of telephone therapists who offer their clients the privacy and convenience of not having to leave their home or office.

Psychologist Marilyn F. Mason operates Tele-Psy Inc. in Minneapolis and says many of her clients express too busy to visit her in person or concerned about being seen entering a psychologist's office.

"Some psychologists, however, are not sure that such services are in the client's best interest. "We have some concerns about doing therapy in this way," said David H. Mills, ethics director of the Washington-based American Psychological Association. "Our ethics code says psychotherapy is done in the context of a personal visit."

The association has no rules governing telephone psychologists, who have been cropping up across the country in increasing numbers, Mason said. But guidelines will probably be adopted by the end of January, she said.

Hunt continues for injured killer

Associated Press

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. - Scores of officers hunting a former mental patient accused of three murders investigated a vacant trailer home Sunday, the seventh day of the search, authorities said.

The officers, hunting with bloodhounds and a helicopter, found no trace of Michael W. Hunt, who is now a vice president of Space Industries Inc. of Houston, Jordan, who graduated in 1957 and is now a lawyer in Washington, said a liberal arts education prepared him for "two-thirds of our life that is not about our jobs, our work or our lives, but about dullness, about inwardness, about our capacity for affiliations. In other words, values."

He said he left campus with an understanding of how to use the English language, the ebb and flow of history, a grasp of the importance of science, an appreciation of art and literature and knowledge about state, federal and local governments and citizen responsibility.

Student Body President encourages feedback

Beginnings, births, starts, sources, first parts of a place or a thing, an early stage, initiation, setting into motion. Are you with me. Saint Mary's? Think back - no, not to Adam and Eve, just the month of August. You've already survived a lot of beginnings and first for the 1986-87 year: classes, football season, dining hall food, the library basements, University Park Mall, alumni, the sweet smell of et- hamol, a fight with your roommate (just a gentle brainstorm, please), Dillon Hall, a parking raid and plenty of party raids.

Jeanne Heller
Guest column

There are more beginnings. Think back to elections last February. Remember the three aspiring politicians who came knocking on your door at 11:30 p.m. to introduce themselves? To you? That was us - Jeanne Heller, Sarah Cook, and Betty Burke. Remember what we said to you? "We want to represent you and to work for you. We'd appreciate your support." Remember what you did? You elected us! So here we are, not exactly sitting around, but getting out into the Saint Mary's College community, working with departments and administration to improve life on campus. FOR YOU. We represent you. If you're not happy, you're not happy. Sort of - what I mean is, if we know you're not happy, then we're not happy. Admittedly, I can read minds, I can't I know hard to believe. But it's true. However, Sarah and Betty haven't quite mastered this trick yet, so we all need your feedback - your comments, concerns, questions, criticisms, and ultimately your request.

"Good enough", you're thinking, "but how do I do that?!" On girls! Tell me what you think. 3'5" I'm pretty approachable, I answer to Jeanne, Jeano, Jean Marie, Babydoll, Beets, and various other names which can't be printed here. I'm easy to find! Know where the Maggie Center or the Counseling Center is? There's a third floor - yes, the Student Government offices are up there. It's not just a jolly to get you runningstairs. And inside the offices...the officers! Mine's the first one - either be- fore you. I'm the fearless leader because that's the only office the couch will fit in. It's a comfortable couch, I'll let you sit on it. And if you don't like James Taylor, you can bring a tape of your own to play, and we'll just rap. I promise to be there three Sun- day through Wednesday from 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m. Thursday nights we're all around, but you have to catch us between Bill Cosby and Hill Street, depending on what's going on.

If you don't want to see our faces, leave a note on the door, or call the office at 284-5573 to gripe, or we can set up a time to do that lunch thing. Guaranteed we're always available for lunch if you have questions about who's who (SPRL, VPA, and VPAACR), or what's what (like Board of Governance, Programming Board, and Student Academic Council), we want to not only tell you, but also show you. Want to see what goes on at a meeting? I'll tell you this much - we have fun, we have food, and we get things done.

Beginnings...a new President, some awesome sports teams boasting winning records, active clubs and organizations, faculty who know you by name, and an effective Student Government. And did you check out that Science Building?! This is an exciting year for you, so take ad- vantage of the opportunities before you, and if you signed up for a group at Ac- tivities Night, how about following through? If you have an option, tell me, not your roommate! And don't forget about lunch - I'm in the book.

Jeanne Heller is the student body presi- dent of St. Mary's College.

Information in letter requires clarification

Dear Editor,

The Observer's account (9d) of Vice President of Student Affairs Father David Tyson's July 7th letter to three members of O&As and Lesbians at Notre Dame/Saint Mary's College may provide the faculty's only information concerning the matter, as well as its only opportunity for direct comment. The topics raised merit general expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Bleak alternatives to SYRs are considered

Dear Editor:

In response to the Viewpoint column of September 23 - namely, Lou Sarabando's "Abuse of alcohol runs rampant at hall SYR's." I trust, in defense of the remaining shreds of the Notre Dame social scene, wonder if Sarabando is as naive as he appears. He is misled to think that hall SYR's are simply uncont- rolled drunkenness. Certainly there are many who choose to become inebriated every chance they get, but that is hardly the norm. There are many people who know how to drink conservatively and have fun doing that.

Ed Manier

My worry is that the increased anti-alcohol rhetoric proclaimed by all of these flaming teetotalers might actually lead to a decision by the administration to abolish SYR's. Can you imagine that? No SYR's! We would be the biggest group of unhappy campers known to man. It's bad enough that you are met by the South Bend SWAT team every time you attend an off-campus party, but no SYR's? What would we do to let off our steam? The only activities I could devise to replace SYR's would be campus-wide bridge tourna- ments or weekly trips to University Park mall.

So, to all the conservatives who can't stand the sight of alcohol, please under- stand - Notre Dame is a good university and we work hard all week long. We deserve a good party once in a while.

hello boys and girls. Today we're going to talk about Jam's. Can you say Jam's? I thought you could.

Do you know Jam's? boys and girls? Because they're pretty? Yes, they are pretty indeed. Because everyone likes them? Yes that's true too. And maybe if you wear them everywhere you will one like you too. But do you know how Jam's came to be? boys and girls? Ah, I thought not. Well gather round quick like little bunnies, and I'll tell you a story.

Many moons ago in an ancient surfer tribe, there lived a surfer man named Nino. Nino was a fine man. Not only was he the smartest and strongest and most handsome of all the men in the tribe, but you would have to go far, boys and girls, to find a surfer better than him. All the men in the tribe admired him. All the women had fallen in love with him.

But Nino had eyes for only one of his clan. Her name was Koli, and she was the loveliest woman of the clan. Her name was Koli, and would do anything for him of his clan. Her name was Koli, and would do anything for him that allowed.

This she dreaded times, men sometimes did this. She started. And so It went. She gnashed her teeth and tore at her hair... Dawn broke. Kino arrived finding his love fast asleep in a pile of animal skins cluttering the finished surfing rag in her flat. Gently removing it from her grasp, he kissed her and with a lost look, left quietly to prepare himself for the day's competition.

As the hours of the morning passed, Kino found himself to be very busy and never actually looked at his new surfing rag until it was time to dress for the contest. Imagine his horror and frustration behind her actions more completely than he ever thought possible. And at that moment he had never loved her more.

There are many stories about Jam's. One clan tried to decorate the rags with maple syrup and that is how we discovered maple leaf rag. Another clan connected Jam fever... but as I said there are many stories and they have no place here. The story I have just told is the story of how Jam's came to be. Wasn't that nice? Well boys and girls it's time to go. Tomorrow we'll have something new to talk about and won't that be fun. Be good now.

In our last installment Kris Murphy, an unknown midwestern poet, treated us to a small glimpse of poetry from his upcoming collection entitled "Ice Cream Head Rushes and Other Things That Make Me Cross My Eyes and go Uhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh..." due to the incredibly negative response, we have asked Mr. Murphy to share some more of his groundbreaking work. So in this again, in this, today's installment. Our featured passages are from "The Meaning of Existence and Other Stuff I Figured Out in the John," a philosophical treatise written by Mr. Murphy. It was published last year by Murphy's own publishing company, Bonehead Books. Response to this invaluable work was lukewarm and this puzzled Mr. Murphy who was quoted in The New York Times Review of Children's Books as saying, "Like a guy spends months writing, from like the bottom of his guts, and then they tell me I write like a Hoosier. I dunno man, you figure it out..."

In an attempt to bring this book to a larger audience, we have agreed to publish excerpts from "The Meaning of Existence and Other Stuff I Figured Out in the John." Present philosophy students will appreciate Murphy as his he more precise and to the point than Socrates or Aquinas ever was. Enjoy.

Chapter One: What Is

What is will never cease to be as long as all is continuous within the bounds of the universe. God is one with all that is and all that isn't and whatever isn't now will never come into being in the near future or at least until "The Cosby Show" gets canceled. If you're one of those that isn't you're in trouble, because those who are will never cease to be and that means there's going to be one hell of a waiting list to become something that is as opposed to something that isn't like you. This also means that you can't be in Indiana anywhere else, because it's hard to borrow someone's I.D when you don't exist. It's even harder to find someone that looks like you. So give it up and go back to limbo where you came from.

In conclusion, being and not being is different states of sameness and everybody's got something that's nothing even if they're really somebody. Always be yourself. If you don't, who will be?
Broncos beat Patriots

Associated Press

Broncos 27, Patriots 20

Sammie Winder and Gerald Wil- liams each scored two touchdowns and the Denver defense smothered New England halfback Tony Zendejas, rallying the unbeaten Broncos past the Patriots.

Trailing 20-14 in the third quarter, the Broncos scored four of their five possessions in the second half.

John Elway - who endured a dreadful interception and was benched for one series during Denver's stunning turn- around on Denver's opening possession of the second half. He completed 17 of 24 passes for 189 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

Pittsburgh's Rick Wood returned two touchdown passes in overtime to set up Waltieri's 49-yard TD run that gave the Bengals their victory over Houston.

Steelers quarterback Mark Malone went 11 yards on a boot- leg prior to Aberg's scoring run that gave Pittsburgh its first win of the season, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Falcons 23, Bucs 20, OT

Mick Luckhurst's third field goal of the game, a 34-yarder, with 8:10 left in overtime, was the difference in the Falcons' 23-20 victory over Tampa Bay.

Verne Lundquist and Joe Kapp had the game's only interception - returned to form on Denver's opening possession of the second half. Jim McMahon threw three touchdown passes to inspire a slug- ging offensive outburst.

caught Holtz’s attention more than his running. "Anthony Johnson is the guy who busts up the wedge on the kickoffs,” said Holtz. “That’s not his intention, but he always seems to end up there.”

One of Johnson’s special teams tackles came on the kickoff immediately following his fourth touchdown run. But Johnson’s running was just one of the keys to Notre Dame’s successful running game. Holtz, who had been stressing the run all week in practice, saw his running backs gain 276 yards on 60 attempts, both highs for the season.

"In addition to Johnson, both Mark Green and Pernell Taylor had rushing touchdowns, and Tim Brown, D’Juan Francisco, and Brandon Banks combined to make the afternoon a long one for the Purdue defense. According to Holtz, though, the improvement in the running game over the previous weeks was because of the line. "We blocked better,” Holtz said simply. "Our offensive line had being under Coach Tony Yelovich for the Purdue game over the previous weeks and he kept saying that they’d be all right. But they really played hard, really played well.”

Johnson admitted that the running is much easier behind the likes of Shawn Heffern, Chuck Lanza, Tom Freeman, John Askin and Byron Spruell. "Our line’s awesome," said Johnson. "There’s not much wrong you can do behind these guys." Holtz, who was not sure how the Irish would do against the young Purdue defense, was very happy with the results. "I was sincere when I said this was the best defense that I had seen at Purdue," he said. "I didn’t know if we would have the ability to run the football.

"But we felt that if we are going to be a consistent football team, we will have to run the football, and I don’t think we could have come out better (than this game)."

SMC gets lessons from NCAA teams

The Saint Mary’s varsity tennis team, whose record stands at 5-1, is working towards attaining a season goal of a perfect 10-0 record. With their current losses falling to NCAA scholarship squads, the Belles maintain an undefeated division record.

Last week, the team lost to St. Joseph’s and Wisconsin-Milwaukee, by scores of 5-4, 5-4. "They didn’t have those close matches,” said head coach John Flanagan. "The team simply lacked tenacity." Matches are played against NCAA teams for experience. But Johnson’s running was simply. "Our offensive line had been under Coach Tony Yelovich for the Purdue game over the previous weeks and he kept saying that they’d be all right. But they really played hard, really played well.”

Johnson admitted that the running is much easier behind the likes of Shawn Heffern, Chuck Lanza, Tom Freeman, John Askin and Byron Spruell. "Our line’s awesome," said Johnson. Irish sweep Valpo with strong pitching

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Pre-season reports of the Notre Dame baseball team suggested that the Irish might not have the pitching to win consistently. But, if yesterday’s doubleheader against Valparaiso is any indication, the Irish might have much stronger pitching this spring than anyone expected.

The Irish took a pair of seven-inning games, 3-0 and 7-4, from the Crusaders at Lake Binne Field. A pair of freshman pitchers, Brian Piotrowicz and Mike Coffey, shut out Valparaiso in their first starts of the spring. The doubleheader sweep raised Notre Dame’s fall record to 3-1.

In the first game, Piotrowicz hurled a one-hitter, with an .054 fielding average, making only the offense the Crusader’s only out. "He pitched very well,” said Irish head coach Larry Gallo. "He stayed ahead in the count, looking at him as a starter next spring.

"We didn’t play defense really well. But Piotrowicz came back and really bore down.”

Despite the four Irish errors in the first inning, Piotrowicz praised the team’s fielding.

"The team backed me up and really supported me,” said Piotrowicz. "Even when they made errors, they kept trying and made a good play later.”

Valparaiso pitcher Doug James was able to match Piotrowicz’s performance for a while. The teams were scoreless after three innings, with each side managing only one hit.

Notre Dame’s Scott Rogers led the Irish out of their temporary hibernation by driving a home run to left-center field, giving Notre Dame a 2-0 lead. Brent Bartel became the new Notre Dame pitcher one batter later, and the Irish offense gave irish sweep valpo with strong pitching

him a rude welcome to Jake Rilline Field in the fifth inning. With John Flanagan and Pat Pesanato on base, sophomore second baseman Steve Skupien rified a hit up the middle to score Flanagan. A fly ball scored Pesanato, and a double by Rogers scored Skupien. Rogers’ hit gave him the first win in the game, and closed the scoring at 5-0.

"We scored a few more runs than we did last week,” said Coach Gallo. "The more we play, the better we’ll hit the ball.”

Notre Dame scored a total of only seven runs in a doubleheader against Bradley last week. The Irish scored twelve runs in yesterday’s doubleheader. In the second game, Mike Coffey didn’t start out as effectively as Piotrowicz, giving up three hits and walking three batters in the first three innings, but he was able to get out of trouble in the fifth inning.

Valparaiso scored a total of five-inning slant. Valparaiso scored four runs off sophomore Tom Howard in the sixth inning. "He (Coffey) pitched well at spots,” Gallo said. "But he made the pitches when he had to,” said Coach Gallo. "Howard did a little bit better, but he gave up a few hits in a row.”

Notre Dame head coach Larry Gallo was pleased with an almost entirely different lineup in the closing game, the Irish took advantage of Valparaiso mistakes in the big lead.

After getting a run in the second inning from sophomore left fielder Pat O’Brien, stoppy Cruiser defense helped Notre Dame load the bases with nobody out in the third inning. Skupien made the most of this opportunity by scoring a John Sauter pitch while in the left field fence to put the Irish ahead 2-0.

Poor Valparaiso fielding led to two more Notre Dame runs in the fourth inning, as the Crusaders made two errors on one play to help the Irish tally their last two runs in the 7-4 win.

Women place 8th with strong showing

By THERESA KELLY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's cross country team ran well against strong competition at the National Catholic Cross Country Championship Friday afternoon at Burke Memorial Golf Course. The Irish team placed 8th overall in the 16 team field. When compared to last year's fourteenth-place finish against fifteen teams, the great improvements are obvious.

Irish runner Julia Merkel finished 18th overall with a time of 19:15:9, bettering her 25th place finish last year by 49 seconds. The number-two Irish runner was freshman Linda Filari, who finished the three-mile course in 20:00.5.

A high point for the Irish team was the performance of sophomore Theresa Rice. A transfer from St. Mary's, Rice was the MAC district champion in the 800 meter run. In just her first year running cross country, she finished third for the Irish and 45th overall with a time of 20:25.2. Coach Dan Ryan said Rice "ran an excellent race" and "has really found a place on the team."

Burtnett, meanwhile, was concerned about eliminating some of his attire. "It sure was hot out there today," he said, and then was asked about the bright yellow sweater he was wearing. "I don't know but I'm not gonna wear this NOB again. I'm 1-2 and I'm going back to different attire. It may be a damn trenchcoat so I can put it over my head."

Despite generally slower times due to the wet weather, veteran Irish runners improved on last year's Championship times. Fourth Irish finisher Kathleen Lehman cut 1:06 off her finish of last year, and Nancy Loughlin improved by 24 seconds. Coach Ryan described the sharp turns on the course as "very slippery and treacherous in the rain." He said many runners were "breaking stride to avoid falling."

An important measure of the quality of a cross-country team is the time-gap between the first and fifth finishers on the team. The Irish time-gap from 1985 was 3:07, and this year's 1:37 gap is proof of great improvement. Coach Ryan has set a goal of a time gap of one minute for this year's team.

Behind the 1-2 finishes of team members Gina Procare (17:57:8) and Vicky Huber (17:56.7), Villanova won the team title with the low score of 30 points. Boston College finished second with 58 points. Both are ranked among the top sixteen teams nationally. St. Thomas, rated number one nationally among Division III schools, placed third with 104 points.

The Irish edged last year's North Star Conference champions, Marquette, for eighth place (214-216).

Gerry O'Reily turned in a second-place, 24:21, performance for Villanova. Marquette's Jackie Jenkins finished third at 24:57. Rounding out the top five, were Notre Dame's Mike O'Connor and Detroit's Jim Dubois, who came in at 24:41.

Holtz gets first win as ND romps, 41-9

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

Moments after Notre Dame's 41-9 thrashing of Purdue Saturday, Skip Holtz explained his feelings on the afternoon. "I still have confidence," he said. "We're a hard-working team, who have so many variations and different guys will have to step in to do the job, and the more experience they have, the more comfortable they're going to feel out there."

But, as quarterback Steve Beuerlein noted in his story at right, and Pete Gegen features Burtnett, however, is one man who is glad to be a little farther away from the center of the action, as the Irish signal-caller late in the contest. "I knew he (Holtz) planned to get Terry and possibly Steve in there," Beuerlein said. "I don't doubt that we'd get it eventually. Motre Dame is a very, very special place."
