Tie-breaking vote at Senate meeting favors divestment

By DAVID T. LEE
News Staff

In a two-hour meeting last night, the Student Senate voted 8-7 in favor of a resolution to divest from companies in South Africa by a specific date unless its government "makes significant progress to dismantle its system of apartheid," said Student Body President Mike Switek cast the deciding vote in favor of divestment to break a 7-7 tie.

Supported by Senator John Gardiner, the resolution "calls for immediate divestment from these firms should the situation deteriorate further."

The discussion allowed both sides to present their positions for 10 minutes each before giving the Senate a chance to ask questions.

Father Oliver Williams, a member on the Board of Trustees Ad Hoc Committee on South African Investments, spoke at the meeting to defend Notre Dame's policy.

"My rationale is that finally blacks are finally going to get what is going to happen is that blacks are finally going to get their independence."

William said companies Notre Dame has invested in "are in fact working to break down apartheid in society" by giving them economic power through the organization of trade unions. He wanted companies to remain in order to "continue that economic power, that feeling of solidarity" among blacks.

At a parish in Soweto, Williams said he "found blacks to be evenly divided on the issue of sanctions."

He said Notre Dame has divested from companies that violated the Sullivan Principles, which are the guidelines set of rules designed to ensure that companies work to oppose apartheid, citing divestment from a particular company this past summer.

Margarita Rose, chairman of the Anti-Apartheid Network on Campus, criticized Notre Dame's policy opposing divestment.

"Given recent pullouts of U.S. companies, the pace of change was just not quick enough ... Their presence there was not helping to dismantle apartheid," she said.

Rose cited the recent security measures enacted by South African State President P.W. Botha. See DIVEST, page 4

Two Hare Krishnas arrested at stadium

By TRIPP BALTZ
News Editor

Two members of a group identified with the Hare Krishna sect were arrested for selling game souvenirs outside Notre Dame Stadium Saturday, according to Notre Dame's Director of Security, William J. Whidell, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Joram Cadorna, of Detroit, Mich., are reportedly members of a group from Moundsville, W.Va., who associate themselves with Hare Krishnas, Rakow said. Although no arrests were reported for Cadorna, Rakow said "he looked to be in his late twenties."

A third man was arrested who Rakow said was an "independent guy." Rakow said Richard Barsanti, 47, of Western Springs, Ill., was "trying to make a buck off of Notre Dame."

All three were charged with trespass.

Rakow said the two sect members showed identification saying they were members of the group. He said group members are present at "every game" with identification showing they are from ISKON or ISK. Security has confirmed that these acronyms are associated with the Hare Krishna sect, according to Rakow.

The two sect members, Rakow said, were selling items with Notre Dame insignia on them without authorization. "They sell pancakes that say things like 'I'm behind the Irish' and 'I'm an Irish fanny,'" Rakow said. The two also sold stickers, painters' hats and round, gold-colored pins.

Rakow said Barsanti was selling similar items. "We have a long history of dealing with him," he said. According to Rakow, Barsanti has also sold T-shirts at rock concerts at the ACC. Although Barsanti has been seen at "every game" with identification, he was not charged.

"The main issue is a person's problem of dealing with drinking," he said. "We are not telling people not to drink. We just want people to know there are precautions to take in order to drink responsibly," said Kaehler. She presented tips to follow before drinking such as, eating a well-balanced meal with plenty of starch foods. According to Kaehler, people should bring money for a cab or phone call for a ride home.
Learning to laugh at yourself is key to human sanity

Ever notice how we sometimes don’t see something right in front of our noses? If we become preoccupied by our thoughts, we can easily become farsighted in regard to things we intended to look at.

Human observation (or the lack thereof) can be a comical thing to watch. The most places to get a look at this kind of comedy are those frequented by the actors—people. Shopping malls are particularly good. Take, for example, the average shopper entering the mall. Ever see someone approach the door and attempt to open it, only to find it won’t budge? After pulling with all his might, he discovers a sign on the door: PUSH.

We have a knack of doing things the hard way, simply because we don’t have an alternative. It’s pretty silly if we stop to think about it. Why do we fail to see certain objects? What makes us walk right past someone we intended to talk to? Perhaps we can answer these questions by taking a closer look at how we use our minds.

The human mind has an incredible capacity for the retention of information. Well, sometimes it does. How many times have we forgotten to do something of which we were reminded numerous times? The old trick of tying a string around one’s finger fails if the significance of the string is forgotten. Sounds sort of strange to use a memory device to remember something contingent upon remembering something else, doesn’t it?

Let’s face it, we all have our idiosyncrasies. But why do our minds wander, causing us to forget messages hourly? It’s only five minutes ago or stare blankly at nothing in particular? I like to say it’s the human mind’s way of coasting after an intense period of use. Perhaps it’s just one way our computer-like thinking systems get "rebooted." Then again it could be just plain boredom which causes us to "veg out."

One hypothesis I might offer as an explanation of this complacency, otherwise termed the human "space cadet" syndrome, is the fundamental need for us to laugh at ourselves. Why do we do the things we do? If we stupidly do them, perhaps there is a purpose in it. I think it all boils down to the need for laughter. Laughing is the music of the soul (an old proverb) . . . makes Jack a dull boy. We can make mistakes, but we can also learn from them. Let us remember then that we are only human. Well, what does that mean? The Webster’s II Dictionary, touted as "today’s most up-to-date dictionary," defines the word as "having or manifesting human qualities or form." One quality which we all share is the ability to make choices. We can choose to do something or elect not to. Either way we make a choice.

We must accept the fact that we’re all in the same boat. It may not be a very comforting thought when the paperwork piles up and demands are high, but if we can remove ourselves from our work long enough to consider this point, we can breathe a little easier, at least. Everybody has a part to play in the grand scheme of the world. We must remember that we all count and to work efficiently, we must work together.

The advice for today is to loosen up. The world is too tense too often. Stop. Think about how peaceful the world would be if everyone did this. Lastly, laugh a little. The world is too serious to do without it.
SMC hosts Career Carnival today

By MARGIE KERSTEN
Saint Mary's Editor

The third annual Carnival of Careers will take place today at Saint Mary's and it has "never been this well balanced," according to Jeff Roberts, coordinator of place­ment services and assistant director of counseling and career development for the College.

Representatives from pro­fessional associations, busi­nesses, graduate schools, volunteer programs and government organizations will be on hand to talk with students about various career options.

"The Carnival is the least threatening environment for figuring out what students want to do," Roberts said. The event will take place at Angela Athletic Facility from 3 to 6.

According to Lenore Massa, one of the senior board's career development commissioners, there is "virtually something for every major," and the rep­resentatives are willing to talk.

More than 450 invitations were delivered to representa­tives. Roberts said 366 have accepted, as compared to 50 in­vitations accepted last year.

"Last year there were more or­ganizations and less diversity, and this year there is more di­versity and more big names," he said.

This year's Carnival includes representatives from the Chicago Tribune, Arthur An­derson & Co., Mills Laborato­ries, Mellon Bank, Hilton Inn, Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern, IBM, and EF Hutton. In addition, five repre­sentatives from the Society for American Women Composers will be performing four musi­cal pieces written by women, Roberts added.

Students should approach this day by "getting basic in­formation about different careers and organizations," Roberts said, adding, they should also talk to the repre­sentatives about what they do in their position and learn about their previous positions. He said students can also use the event to build professional ties which can lead to summer jobs, internships and per­manent employment.

SMC Board hears student gripes

By SHARON HEGG
News Staff

Gripe night grievances were brought before the Saint Mary's Board of Governance at the board's meeting last night.

Betsy Burke, vice president of academic affairs, presented student complaints to Teresa Marcy, assistant to the vice president.

Regarding excused ab­ences, "a student may be ex­cused from class for a wedding if she is an immediate family member or is in the wedding party" Marcy told Burke.

However, "students will not be excused from class to inter­view" explained Burke. "She (Marcy) said this has come up an awful lot but she will not put through a change." Burke and Jeanne Keller, stu­dent body president, indicated change would have to come from student initiative. Patty Curran, senior class president, said this would be a good proj­ect for the senior class.

Answering complaints about the grading system, Marcy ex­plained to Burke that the sys­tem works to the advantage of students and many graduate schools drop the minus when evaluating an application. This is also Notre Dame's grading policy so there is no problem sending grades back and forth.

On other items at last night's meeting, the Student Academic Council discussed the senior comprehensive. Many were up­set with the policy because there is no consistency within the departments and require­ments are not given far enough in advance, said Burke.

Suggestions to improve senior comps include a gradual comprehensive program so that the emphasis is shifted away from one test senior year. As a basis for improvement, the departments should be re­quired to give a description of the comp, what is expected, and the rational for it.

Board to determine Corby Tavern fate

By MARYLYN BENCHIK
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

The fate of Corby Tavern may be decided Wednesday morning, when the proposed renewal and transfer of the liquor license comes before the South Bend Board of Zoning Appeals. The prospective buyers of the Corby Tavern, Thomas and Robert Przybylinski, two brothers, received the variance to continue legal non-conforming use of the property.

"The hearing Wednesday concerns the renewal of the present liquor license from CTI, Inc., which owned Corby's previously," said John Gourley, attorney for the Przybylinski brothers.

"The Indiana ABC or­dered the license to be held in escrow. This means CTI, Inc. was ordered not to use the license for a two-year period beginning October 1985," he said.

"The ABC ordered (CTI, Inc.) to sell within a two-year period to somebody else. What happened was the two brothers entered into a purchase agreement to buy the license together with the real estate, fixtures and equipment.

"The license has to be renewed February under the CTI, Inc. ownership," said Gourley.

"Assuming the license is renewed on Wednesday, then we will be asking for the transfer of the license to the Theta Corporation, which is the formal, operat­ing corporation owned by the Przybylinski brothers," he said.

Gourley is expecting to encounter a lot of opposition from the neighborhood resi­dents. "It's going to be a real donnybrook. Their only ob­jection should be whether or not the new applicants are qualified to do business there.

"The neighbors don't want a tavern in their neighbor­hood period. They're com­plaints are directed as to how the business was run in the past," Gourley said.

"They're not focusing on the qualifications of the new owners who intend to run a respectable business.

"The South Bend Board of Zoning Appeals has already determined that property has been, and is tavern and res­taurant as it has been for the past 25 to 30 years. We can't remember when it wasn't a tavern," Gourley said.
Retired admiral calls SDI an ‘empty bluff’

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
Associated Press Writers

Calling the Strategic Defense Initiative "snake oil" and an "illusion," retired Admiral Noel Gayler said Monday night nuclear weapons are an "empty bluff," making it worth the while.

Gayler, a 45-year Navy veteran, said he has warned in the past, this is the generally believed United States must start a nuclear war to defend a Soviet attack. "Such a war would escalate and dramatically affect the power balance of the United States," he said.

"No president with all his military power could release of these nuclear weapons in the first place. So they're an empty bluff," Gayler said. Gayler also said nuclear weapons have no political use. "There is no obvious political usefulness for these things. We have not been able to defend the Soviets from aggression in Afghanistan," he said.

Gayler called the proposed "Star Wars" system an "illusion," and it's a very pernicious one, against a magic shield that we can have that can protect from nuclear attack. Gayler said the "Star Wars" system is "the most effective non-violent tool left," while the U.S. bishops unanimously supported divestment which "aims at pressuring firms to dismantle apartheid." Gayler also said the trade unions which Father Williams said "give blacks economic power fully support divestment."

In rebuttal, Williams challenged the claim of the support of American bishops towards divestment. "How does your use your political optimally in what we think is a horrible system? What is the alternative?"

After a move for a secret bailout failed, the Senate voted to a 7-1 vote on the divestment resolution. Student Body President Mike Switek then cast his deciding vote in favor of divestment.

Disappointed with the result, several senators said there was not enough discussion on the issue. A proposal to reconsider the resolution failed because the Senate wanted to pressure the divestment issue before the Board of Trustees meets this Friday.

"We had to solve the issue tonight if it was going to do any good," said RPC Representative Tim Salomon.

---

Football continued from page 1

Hesler said he did not know whether the players would suit up for this Saturday's game against Penn State. "We don't give that list until Thursday," he said.

Because the University has a policy of confidentiality in disciplinary matters, it was not known whether the Office of Student Affairs had punished the players in connection with their arrests.

In April, Student Affairs disciplined three other football players for their involvement in the assault of a Notre Dame Security guard. One of the players was dismissed from the University, one suspended for the remaining part of the season and the third player first placed and disciplinary probation. Proctor and Gamble Finance

DEADLINE: WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12

STUDY IN EUROPE

The University of Louvain (est. 1425), Leuven, Belgium offers

- Complete programmes in Philosophy for the degrees of B.A., M.A., and Ph.D plus
- A junior year abroad programme

Tuition is 14,500 Belgium Franks (±$250)

Write to: Secretary English Programmes
Cardinal Mercierplein 2, B-3000 Leuven, Belgium

K.U. Leuven

---

Divest continued from page 1

Botha, saying "thousands (have been) detained, and hundreds "killed" under the measures.

She said the South African Council of Bishops, which are "closest to the situation than any of us," see divestment as "the most effective non-violent tool left," while the U.S. bishops unanimously supported divestment which "aims at pressuring firms to dismantle apartheid."

Rakow said they are "persona non grata," they are fans," he added. "We get a variety of people who once commanded all major sporting events in the country. For example, the name of Notre Dame. Saturdays are capitalizing on the power," he said. "We had to solve the issue tonight if it was going to do any good," said RPC Representative Tim Salomon.

---

The Observer is accepting applications for the position of Graphic Artist

An informational presentation

Tuesday, November 11, 1986 - page 4

ALL ARE WELCOME

Procter and Gamble Finance

---

Plan for next summer

GENERAL INFORMATION MEETING

Tuesday, November 11, 1986
6:30 p.m.
117 O'Shaughnessy

TIANJIN, CHINA

University of Notre Dame

Foreign Study Programs

THIS SPECIAL OFFER TO STUDENTS EXPIRES 11/23/86

---

Ray-Bans now 25% off to all customers with student ID or off-season price of any sunglasses in stock

NAMES LIKE: YUAXNET, CARRIERA, BOLLE and CHARLES JOURDAN

THE SUNGLASS CO

University Park Mall

---

Anti-Violence Activists

Write to:

P.O. Box 2157, Champaign IL 61820

---

The Observer

Tuesday, November 11, 1986 - page 4
Advertising ban raises question of censorship

A recent poll sponsored by the American Medical Association indicated that 64 percent of the public favored a cigarette advertising ban. 64 percent of the ads would dramatically decrease the number of smokers. In fact, the warning box which is largely decrease the number of smokers. In fact, the warning box which is largely decrease the number of smokers.

Most smokers are understanding of this and I appreciate it (although I had to laugh at a recent ad which stated only 38 percent people off.

This follows the recent trend by some groups to ban advertising of censorship, an attempt to eliminate what one group views to be harmful without changing the behavior of the citizens.

The percentage of smokers in the United States has been decreasing for some time now, not because advertising is less successful, but because of the other barriers which could be drawn into the equation. In restaurants and airports, health considerations or not, violating people can get somewhere sometimes.

For example, I don't want anyone to say “no” on their own.

A quick look into the relatively recent past will show that this approach doesn't work. Prohibition is probably past will show that this approach doesn't work at all.

One group's views to be harmful without changing the behavior of the citizens. Citizens of no other country enjoy as we do the ability to see for justifying a total ban on items.

While paging through a recent issue of Newsweek, I happened to see an article describing a battle currently being waged in the Tennessee courts by a growing fundamentalist movement. Seven families are suing their local school board over textbooks they deemed offensive to their religious beliefs. OK, I said to myself, I have no problems with that. If their freedom of religion is being infringed upon they have every right to protest. But what disturbed me greatly was a quote by one of the parents involved with the case which epitomizes the most dangerous aspect of the entire fundamentalist movement. “Her eyes brimming with tears, (she) also told the courtroom...she objected to teachings (which)...could produce changes in my child’s way of thinking...they could become confused.”

Matthew Slaughter

guest column

Herein lies the most serious problem with the fundamentalists. It is not their views which are at fault; every American rightly deserves the freedom to possess his or her own opinions. Rather, the problem lies in the adanacy with which they hold these views. The immutability of this growing group evokes at best uneasiness, at worst alarm. Fundamentalists today have taken a precarious step. In effect, they are now calling for the eradication of one of the basic tenets upon which our government, society and our country are founded: diversity of thought.

Because a child who grows up isolated and everyone else is wrong. Period. History provides us with foreboding examples of what such elitist thinking produces. One need look no further than this century to find all too vivid examples in Adolf Hitler’s “master race” and the Soviet Union’s “worker’s party.” Countless millions have been killed in the name of purity of thought. Such deplorable purges cannot occur again.

This is not to say that all fundamentalists must be rounded up in a heretical witch hunt and burned at the stake. Rather, fundamentalists should simply stop and re-examine what results their current fight could produce. Out of fierce religious convictions they have overstepped the boundary of acceptable actions. But this is a boundary which we must allow no one to cross. We cannot permit any group in our society to attain the dangerous mentality of intellectual supremacy which allows no room for debate. Such an attitude has produced and always will produce deplorable results. Banishing textbooks will accomplish little but the evolution of a homogenous, unquestioning youth. Society possesses a duty to itself to prevent the development of such a population at all costs.

Matthew Slaughter is enrolled in the Freshman Year of Studies.

Quote of the day

“And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country.”

John F. Kennedy (1917-1963)
Inaugural address, 1961
Student Senate must push for divestment

Dear Editor:

In the Nov 4 issue of The Observer it was reported that the Student Senate decided to table a motion to recom­ mend that the Board of Trustees divest from South Africa. The obstacle to pas­ sage of such a resolution was reported to be the concern that Senate divestment coverage was accurate, was a concern that the Senate has no proper mandate from the students on this issue. Several student leaders were quoted as saying that their constituencies were not worried about the situation in South Africa. Thus, they argue, how could we vote to recommend divestment?

The present leaders seem to be for­ getting one important thing: that on this issue, the Student Senate does have a mandate. Just last spring, in the same elec­tion which many of the present student leaders were elected, Notre Dame students voted for a resolution urging the University to divest. The conditions which prompted the students to vote in this way have only worsened since that time, to the point where many major corporations are moving to distance themselves from their hold­ ings in South Africa. Because this is true, I cannot see how the present Student Senate could rea­ sonably believe that students have changed their minds.

The Student Senate does have the campus new­ leaders the ones on the present Senate. In the same election, through two referenda, one on parietals and one on divestment, these new leaders were also given a program of action, a man­ date.

I am happy to see the Senate acting on the parietals issue. I urge the Senate to take similar action on divestment.

Joe Merchant
Grace Hall

Self expression causes concern among some

Dear Editor,

I am very concerned about my atti­ tude and the conflicting attitudes of many at Notre Dame. As we deal with the issues of morality in the way we ex­ press ourselves. My concern stems mainly from the thinking of "Louie Louie" from the band and the recent craze over the jacket bearing "Liquor in the Front, Poker in the Rear." Why do people get so offended at these ex­ amples when something like The Mil­ ler’s Tale from Chaucer’s "Canterbury Tales" is openly violent and sexual but is accepted as good classic humor? Are these same people just as offended at our television, magazines and music? Ellsworth's jacket is innocent until someone pulls the right mind looking for that second meaning finds humor, violence, or chooses to ignore it.

Life is difficult and painful, and too many hours are spent studying mass spectrometers and balance sheets. Stu­ dents physically are animals becoming sexual adults and we have deep rooted desires. Humor involving sex or vio­ lence attracts us, and also lightens the pressures of life. But this doesn't keep us from treating each other with respect and dignity.

I am somewhat insulted when some­ one finds offense in a harmless cheer or in the famous jacket. This is also related to Notre Dame's terror of being associated with anything alcoholic. We do not need a moral guru ruling over us; the Catholic Church is quite enough. The students are good people. They know sexual and violent humor is just that. Humor. They will not incor­ porate it into their moral standards. If something is in poor taste I feel the students have enough self­ esteem to do something to stop it. The problems would be solved much more effectively, internally, by the students, than by angry authority figures that the students try naturally and quietly to rebel against.

Thomas Felton
Morrissy Hall

Lecture on Nicaragua must include all sides

As a 1979 graduate of Notre Dame, I would formally like to lodge my com­plaint about Professor Sergio Ramirez, Vice President of Nicaragua, to the University.

Ramirez is a known communist and ardent anti-American. The least the University, or whoever is sponsoring the visit of Mr. Ramirez, could do is allow both sides of the issue to be pre­ sented. To exclude Nicaragua from this country or by an Ameri­ can speaking on behalf of the position can only be damaging to the University.

It is unfair to the students of Notre Dame to present only the Sandinista viewpoint. The purpose of Notre Dame is to foster and promote intellectual thought and discourse, and with only one side of an issue presented, partic­ ularly one of this nature, a great dis­ service is thereby being afforded the students of Notre Dame.

Carey L. Engv Class of 1979

Exiled Nicaraguan has questions for lecturer

Dear Editor,

Sergio Ramirez, vice president of Nicaragua, has accepted an invitation on Nov. 21 to address the Notre Dame student body. Since learning of Ramirez’s visit, I contacted the spon­ soring body (The Graduate Association of Latin American Studies). In my capacity as representative, Jürgen Brauer, to see if I could get invited to present the reality of the students in the Nicaraguan popu­ lation since the Sandinista takeover of 1979. To my surprise, I was told that I was not welcome.

Brauer’s response did not really hurt me. However, I think it is the Notre Dame student body who is going to suf­ fer from only hearing the Ramirez side.

As a Nicaraguan American who has suffered seven long years of exile, I would like to bring to your attention some facts, which in my humble opinion, are being omitted.

Today, in Nicaragua, the banner of Sandinismo is giving way to the reality of communism. Since 1979, the Sandinistas have consolidated control over the government and the armed forces. They have placed under state control, 70 percent of Nicaragua’s industry and over 50 percent of its agriculture. By the selective application of mone­ try and labor laws, they exert pres­ sure against the remainder of the in­ dustrial and agricultural sectors. The Sandinistas control all media outlets through censorship. They recently closed the country’s only independent newspaper, La Prensa. Neighborhood watch committees, informant net­ works, and enforced participants in the

On the Viewpoint pages your opinions “add up”

Over 500 letters to the editor and 300 col­ umns appeared last year in Viewpoint. Join the growing number of people who feel their thoughts and opinions do make a difference.

Write us at:
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Tuesda, November 11, 1986 - page 6

Margie Kersten
William J. Wyman
Class of 1981

Exiled Nicaraguan has questions for lecturer

Viewpoint

Tuesday, November 11, 1986 - page 6
Human Guinea Pigs: Psychology students earn credit for experimenting

DANIEL C. DECARLO features writer

Every year introductory psychology students are given the opportunity to participate in campus psychology experiments conducted by professors and graduate students here at Notre Dame. Students who decide to participate in the experiments can earn extra credit points toward their psychology classes and learn something about themselves.

The extra credit points that can be earned vary from class to class. Usually, for every hour that a student spends on an experiment he is awarded a bonus point, up to six hours or a maximum of six extra bonus points. This can usually translate into four to five percent of a student's grade.

The majority of the experiments have something to do with learning and memory. For example, Dr. Mark McDaniel of the Notre Dame psychology department developed an experiment to determine if there is a better way to learn vocabulary words other than the accepted educational practice of contextual learning, learning the words in the context of a sentence.

It is McDaniel's contention that a system called the mnemonic key word system is the most effective form of vocabulary learning, especially with people who characteristically have some sort of deficiency with their verbal skills. The system works by taking a part of the word that is familiar and applying a symbol to it. For example, the word "carta" is Spanish for letter. The subject could use the "cart" part of the word and apply a symbol to it. The symbol should be something unusual so as to heighten the individual's ability to recall it at a later time. For "carta" one could think of a cart with a big letter In it. Therefore, whenever the word comes up again the subject will recall the odd image and be able to identify the meaning of the word.

McDaniel uses two sets of randomly selected students to conduct his experiments. He will give a set of words to one group and let them study on their own. The other group will be instructed how to remember the words by use of the mnemonic key word system. He then tests both sets of students. McDaniel has found that subjects in the mnemonic group score higher than the other group.

He does point out, however, that most students with high SAT verbal scores do well in both groups. Apparently bright students can assimilate their own systems very well. The mnemonic system works best where it is the most needed, with those who have difficulty with word retention.

There are countless other experiments going on across campus, some not as intense as McDaniel's. Beth Rosenstreich, president of the Notre Dame psychology club participated in an experiment when she was a freshman designed to test the ability or willingness of a person to follow directions.

She was given a full can of carrots, instructed not to eat any but to return in one week for verification. Upon returning the following week Rosenstreich's carrot can was weighed to see if she had eaten any carrots. The can was empty, proving that Rosenstreich either loved carrots or she simply had no respect for authority.

All those students who are interested in participating in this program should see their psychology instructor.
Title
continued from page 12
In the other semi-final match-up, the outcome as well as the game's performances, were parallel to Howard Stanford game. Flanner pulled away from Sorin 13-6, to put them back in the championship, after they lost to Alumni just one year ago.

"We got off to a slow start," said Flanner Coach Jim Fitzgerald about the game, "but we made some adjustments and began to take control."

Flanner's first touchdown drive was set up by an excellent kickoff return by Mike Reyda. The key play of the drive was set up by a 22-yard pass from QB Randy Bridgeman to TE Pete Kozmackar. On the next play, Tim Murane ran nine yards for the touchdown just before the end of the first half. In the second Half, Flanner dominated the Screeching Otters both offensively and defensively, opening with a 66-yard drive, culminating with a 26-yard run by Jim Kelly, who found the endzone and padded Flanner's lead to 13-6. That was enough to secure victory as the Gamecocks defense stoned the offensive line of Ed Marcheselli, Brian McRae, Codere, Ray Are, and Darrin Mertz, ground it out in the 20-yard line, while Flanner kept Sorin at bay. Murane's interception at the Flanner 39-yard line was the key to the Otters' deepest threat at scoring.

"We are very excited about playing in Notre Dame Stadium Fitzgerald," and it was a dream that has now become a reality. We know Stanford has a great team and has the potential to score a lot of points, but we have been able to come together as a team and rise to the occasion.

There it is: undefeated Stanford versus underdog Flanner. It should be a memorable final.
Sailing Club surprises everyone with performance

Members of the Notre Dame Sailing Club surprised themselves as much as anybody else last weekend when they won the Area A Eliminations at the University of Michigan. The Irish were only hoping to finish as one of the top three teams, which would enable them to reach the Timmie Angstrom Regatta in Chicago. They expected a team like Michigan, which had beaten them earlier in the season, would keep them from placing first.

"Winning was pretty surprising. We raced Michigan earlier in the year, and they beat us," said Team Captain Mark Ryan. "We just wanted to get in the top three to qualify for the Timmies." Notre Dame scored 36 points to outdistance second-place Michigan by seven points. Notre Dame, Michigan, and Toledo all qualified for the prestigious Timmie Angstrom Regatta over Thanksgiving break.

Club President Tony Fink led Notre Dame with four firsts and two thirds. Ryan added five seconds and a first.

"I was surprised at Tony Fink's performance. His showing was incredible for Notre Dame," said senior Pete Wall.

Irish men fall to Illinois-Chicago despite encouraging performance

The Notre Dame men's swim team upset its own invitational Friday, dropping the 22nd Annual Notre Dame Relays to Illinois-Chicago. The Irish defeated North Central, Wabash, Valparaiso and the Marquette Swim Club to salvage a second-place finish with 194 points to Illinois-Chicago's 198.

"We swam a heads up, well-executed, aggressive meet," Irish Coach Tim Welsh said. "It was a tough one to lose, but we swam a good meet. We know more about our strengths and weaknesses than can a Corporation Have a Conscience (and should it have one?)'”

Come help me make my career a success

9:00 pm on Tuesday, November 11, in the New Center for Social Concerns

Please call Kevin Cronin at 283-2139.

Playoffs continued from page 12

By KATHLEEN McKER-NAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's swim team lost its own invitational Friday, dropping the 22nd Annual Notre Dame Relays to Illinois-Chicago. The Irish played outside their swimming competitions. With only the 200-yard medley relay remaining, the Irish had a one-second lead, which was our best finish ever," said Ryan. "We'd like to do the same. If we do that well, it'll be great."

Just as the varsity teams in the Rowing Club ended their fall season, members of the novice program began theirs with a regatta against Michigan last Sunday.

Both the men's team and women's team had boats enter the final heats in the regatta held at the Notre Dame boathouse.

The novice team will also participate in the Frostbite Regatta at Philadelphia on November 21. The regatta will feature several eastern and southern schools.

"They looked pretty strong, and it's a good basis for them to work with in the next three weeks," said Fink. "Technique looks pretty good. It's just a matter of polishing that technique and getting more power.

Competition does not start until February, but the Gymnastics Club may have already had its biggest struggle of the year - finding a coach. The 30-member team, which has been practicing at Saint Mary's throughout the fall, could not find someone to coach them until recently. Sandy Vandlager is an interim coach, and Steve Kimbro will take over as the head coach this Friday.

"We had to find someone who was not a student who was willing to give two hours a day, five days a week until May, so we had a hard time," said Club President Matt Sennett.

The 1987 Notre Dame COLLEGIATE JAZZ FESTIVAL

The 1987 Notre Dame COLLEGIATE JAZZ FESTIVAL Needs Your Help:

- with advertising
- with applications
- with artwork
- with production
- in many other areas

There will be a short organizational meeting at 9:00 pm on Tuesday, November 11, in the New Room, LaFortune Student Center. For more info, or if you can't make the meeting, please call Kevin Cronin at 283-2139.

THE THOMAS J. WHITE CENTER FOR LAW AND GOVERNMENT

Notre Dame Law School presents a lecture by Professor Kenneth Goodpaster Harvard Business School on "Can a Corporation Have a Conscience (and should it have one?)"

Wednesday, Nov. 12 3:45 p.m.

Center for Social Concerns

LSE

London School of Economics and Political Science

A chance to study and live in London Junior year programs, Postgraduate Diploma, One-Year Master's Degrees and Research Opportunities in the Social Sciences.

The wide range of subjects includes:-
Accounting and Finance • Actuarial Science • Business Studies • Economics • Econometrics • Economic History • European Studies • Geography • Government • Health Planning • Housing • Industrial Relations • International History • International Relations • Law • Management Science • Operational Research • Philosophy, Logic & Scientific Method • Political Studies • Politics • Regional and Urban Planning • Sea Use Policy • Social Services • Social Anthropology • Social Planning in Developing Countries • Sociology • Social Policy • Sociology • Social Psychology • Statistical and Mathematical Sciences • Systems Analysis •

Applications close 31st March 1987

For more information contact the Study Centre: Room 12, L.S.E., Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE, England, stating whether undergraduate or postgraduate.

THE FUNDUS PARVOR

ALL YOU CAN EAT

Shish Kebab, Fresh Vegetables, Rice, Salads, Pita, Specials

COME AS YOU ARE

BRING YOUR OWN BEER AND WINE

100 Center Old Mishawaka

Mon-Thurs. 4-10

Frostbite Regatta at Philadelphia on November 21. The regatta will feature several eastern and southern schools.
Williams' progress is well-received

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

Steady progress and discipline in an area typically develop an athlete into a reliable and dependable player both on and off the playing field. Joel Williams has fit that category well during his years at Notre Dame.

And now that Williams, a 6-3, 234-pound tight end for the Irish, is rounding out his college football career, he can proudly reminisce about many more years than just his playing days.

"I wouldn't trade the experience for anything," says Williams, discussing his four years here. "The Notre Dame experience is above and beyond anything that I expected, or that I could imagine. The people I've met since I've been here, the places I've visited, the experience is above and beyond anything," says Williams. "I wouldn't trade the experience for anything," says Williams. "But I'm sure his intensity will only get higher down the stretch." Williams understands that the coaching this year has meant a major difference in the total attitude of the squad.

"They're ingenious," says an admiring Williams when referring to the Irish coaching staff. "The overall philosophy that came in with Coach Holtz is just night and day from last year. There's a continuous push that's totally positive. We know that we can play, and we know that we're going to beat a lot of people, and even a lot that may have more talent than us. Coach Stewart is phenomenal. He's great coach and a great teacher, just like Coach Holtz. The motivation and drive are always there.

"The future of this team with Holtz here is going to be remarkable. I'm really happy to be part of the foundation of what's to come, but I sincerely wish I had one more year to play. Believe me, things look good for the next few years.

"Everybody's pretty pleased with the team," says Williams. "How could we not be? They handled Alabama what's to come, but I sincerely wish I had one more year to play. Believe me, things look good for the next few years."

The more immediate future is much higher on Williams' list of priorities, however. Like this Saturday.

Everybody's pretty pleased with the team," says Williams. "How could we not be? They handled Alabama pretty well, so a win over Penn State could probably be considered a season high point. We knew we needed a big game against SMU going into this week and we got it, so I guess we'll just see what happens."

Joel Williams

Williams is looked up to by many of the younger members of the squad, especially the young tight ends. One person who has seen another type of progress Williams has made is tight end coach George Stewart.

"In the last eleven months that I've worked with Joel," says Stewart, a former player and assistant coach under current Irish head coach Lou Holtz, "I've seen him mature in a lot more ways than as a player. He's matured as a young man, taking on the leadership role that comes with being a senior on the Notre Dame football team. Joel has become much more open and willing to work with the kids coming up. He's the type that leads by encouragement and by example. Joel Williams is a class act.

"In the last three weeks, Joel has made great progress in his overall game. His blocking has become outstanding and he caught a deflected touchdown pass against Navy. He's made a lot of big catches for us and I'm sure his intensity will only get higher down the stretch."

Williams has had never before thrown for more than 300 yards in a game. His previous best was a 293-yard performance in a loss to the Cincinnati Bengals in September.

The Browns, who improved to 7-3 after their sixth victory in the last seven games, lead the Cincinnati Bengals by a game in the AFC Central Division. Cleveland led only 16-10 at halftime despite dominating the half statistically, outgaining the Dolphins 331 yards to 176 yards. The Browns finished with 508 yards.
Beer Nuts
Beer was now taken to the Neighborhood Counters in a shape of freedom, only coupled with food, drink, and military supplies for the troops, etc.

A few cheers, some Hawaiian punch, and two Chicago-Sweet Gums, actually.

Dinner Menus
Notre Dame
Roast Breast of Turkey
Beef Stew over Biscuit
Russian Vegetable Pie
Bierwurst Sandwich on Rye
Saint Mary's
Baked Meatloaf with Gravy
Turkey with Dumplings
Broccoli Cheese Potato
Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1 Grain breads
5 Old poetry collection
9 Total
14 Place
15 Soviet city
16 Rope loop
17 Whimper
18 Pearce
19 Anoist old style
22 Unsupported statement
23 However
26 Gun org.
28 Loadstone
30 Day times
31 Ocean alt.
33 Soviet prefix
38 — mater
39 Passage
41 Candy
44 "A — clock scholar"
45 Feudal lord
47 Arthur of TV
48 A calming
51 Start a paragraph
53 Dormant border
54 Wood covering
55 — Na Na
57 Beauty parlor
58 — magic
59 San —
60 In profusion
61 Beauty parlor
62 Black magic
63 An —
64 Black magic
65 — Na Na
66 In profusion
67 Strong
68 Sioux tribe
goddesses
71 In food
72 High Sierra
73 Ancient Roman fortress city
74 Wise —
75 Myriad
76 — Na Na
77 In profusion
78 Strong
79 Strong
80 Strong
81 Strong

DOWN
1 Singer Gluck
2 Winner to a German
3 Northeast US
4 Guam
5 — —
6 — —
7 — —
8 — —
9 — —
10 — —
11 — —
12 — —
13 — —
14 — —
15 — —
16 — —
17 — —
18 — —
19 — —
20 — —
21 — —
22 — —
23 — —
24 — —
25 — —
26 — —
27 — —
28 — —
29 — —
30 — —
31 — —
32 — —
33 — —
34 — —
35 — —
36 — —
37 — —
38 — —
39 — —
40 — —
41 — —
42 — —
43 — —
44 — —
45 — —
46 — —
47 — —
48 — —
49 — —
50 — —
51 — —
52 — —
53 — —
54 — —
55 — —
56 — —
57 — —
58 — —
59 — —
60 — —
61 — —
62 — —
63 — —
64 — —
65 — —
66 — —
67 — —
68 — —
69 — —
70 — —
71 — —
72 — —
73 — —
74 — —
75 — —
76 — —
77 — —
78 — —
79 — —
80 — —
81 — —
82 — —
83 — —
84 — —
85 — —
86 — —
87 — —
88 — —
89 — —
90 — —
91 — —
92 — —
93 — —
94 — —
95 — —
96 — —
97 — —
98 — —
99 — —
100 — —
101 — —
102 — —
103 — —
104 — —
105 — —
106 — —
107 — —
108 — —
109 — —
110 — —
111 — —
112 — —

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

Attention Saint Mary's students
If you are interested in working for The Observer
Contact Margie Kersten at 284-5230
The Interhall football finals are set, with Planner and Stanford ready to battle for the championship this weekend. Kevin McCormack has the details from their semi-final romps in his story at right.

Women's swimming team takes Notre Dame Relays

By THERESA KELLY

The Notre Dame women's swim team looked very impressive Friday at the Notre Dame Relays at Rolfs Aquatic Center. Coach Tim Welsh's young Irish swimmers won the all-relay meet by tallying 300 points, outscoring Valparaiso, who finished second with 178 points.

Piling out into the field were the third place University of Illinois at Chicago with 170 points, Saint Mary's and Marquette (both with 106 points), and North Central (82 points).

Welsh said he was very pleased with the team's performance. "A goal we set this season was to win at least one meet we didn't win last year," he said.

The Irish, who finished second in last year's Notre Dame Relays, have accomplished that goal early in their season.

The Notre Dame team won seven races Friday, setting two meet records. The foursome of P.J. Amberg, Margaret Coffman, Beth Genega and Amy Acampora in the 400 yard medley. A record of 4:33.73 was set by Kathy Quirk, Betsy Baker, Annette Quill and Mary Darlington in the 400 yard medley.

The Irish placed first in the 800 yard freestyle, 400 yard intermediate, 400 yard butterfly, 400 yard backstroke, and 400 yard breaststroke. Welsh praised his team's efforts. "Not only did we win, but we won the right way," said Welsh, referring to successful relay swimming in two events to determine the team's flexibility, depth, and strength of the women's team. "We learned a lot. It was great to learn as much as we did and still be able to win the meet."

The girls were intelligent, enthusiastic and aggressive about this meet, Welsh continued. "I hope to see that attitude continue."

According to Sat. Jan 7, p. 10

College Football needs playoffs to determine champion

Just a couple of days into the year 1987, the national champion of the college football world will be crowned by a panel of sportswriters from the Associated Press.

There are other polls, but the AP's weekly rankings of the country's college football powers is generally accepted as the poll which determines the top college football team after the New Year's Day bowls have been played. Below is what it really does: Can a poll of sportswriters genuinely say that one team is more deserving of college football's highest honor than another, especially in a case where more than one team is undefeated?

These are questions which always seem to surface around this time of the year, when the days grow colder and the football season on the campuses starts to wind down. People start contemplating which teams will go to which bowls, which ones will be home for Christmas dinner, which ones might suffer from a letdown. This was not to be the case, however, despite the fact that Stanford was coming off two victories in which the combined scores tallied 52-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.

Stanford and Martin went to 11-0 against the Irish, this time with Martin connecting with Jay Landry on a 10-yard pass in the endzone, taking the score 14-0. Howard appeared to be a tough obstacle as well, riding a very respectable four-game winning streak. But Stanford had one goal early, to the task, dumping Howard 21-0. Combined with an unrelenting defense and a controlled passing game, behind the capable arm of Ar Martin, Stanford was in control from start to finish. It wasn't until the first half, however, that they got on the board, as Martin tossed a 25-yard pass to tight end Steve Sommers with three minutes remaining.