The Observer

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1986

Vol. XXI, No. 64

the independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

Campus Scene - inside

Night light
Notre Dame's grotto, in light of the Christmas season, has taken on an added twinkle. In the approaching exam session, students will need a little extra enlightenment from the grotto.

Senate panel questions top CIA official as query goes on

By MIRIAM HILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Concern over drunk driving has prompted Notre Dame Security to offer students the opportunity to test the level of alcohol in their blood Friday night at the Main Circle. Security officers will be stationed inside the Lewis bus shelter from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. to conduct the tests, according to Assistant Director of Security Phillip Johnson.

Students who volunteer to take the test will not be asked their names or ages, Johnson said.

"These tests are not tied to any enforcement action; they're strictly educational," Johnson said. "We see them as a very important learning experience for college students ... because it's very difficult for anyone to gauge what their blood alcohol level is," he added.

The main purpose of the tests is to help students learn how much they can drink before they are legally drunk, Johnson said.

"What we really want to do is encourage people to stop by (the bus shelter) if they've been drinking or if they've been at a party or at a bar and see what their blood alcohol level is," he said. In Indiana, a person can be arrested for driving while intoxicated if his blood alcohol level is .1 percent or higher.

A long-distance disagreement surfaced within the administration over the rights of the president's controversial Iranian arms policy. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said "we don't agree with" Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's contention that Reagan acted on bad information that Reagan acted on bad information. Weinberger's contention that Reagan acted on bad information. Speakes said "we don't agree with" Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's contention that Reagan acted on bad information. Speakes said "we don't agree"

Student panel questions top CIA official as query goes on

By MARILYN BENCHIK
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Copies of A Manual of Students' Rights, published by members of the Judicial Council, were distributed to dorms Tuesday, according to Judicial Coordinator Maria Cintron.

"It's a summary of students' rights put in a concise form. The manual takes what du Lac has in it and reduces it. This specifies different rights you have," Cintron said.

"The manual's a lot smaller. I don't want to say don't read du Lac and read this, but (the manual) is a lot more concise," she said.

The manual recommends different courses of action students may take if accused of a University offense.

"The manual covers more University offenses than anything else," Cintron said. Also contained in the manual is a list of lawyers from the South Bend area willing to work with Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. The lawyers offer free consultation and reduced student rates.

"We saw the need for including the list because people came to us asking where they could go to for legal advice," said Cintron.

"They're basically lawyers who graduated from Notre Dame as undergraduates or from the Law School.

120 lawyers from the area were solicited and 10 responded. "I thought it was an excellent response for a mail campaign," Cintron said.

Brendan Judge, a Judicial Council member, chaired a Legal Referral Committee that researched which lawyers to petition.

"For students with citations we have information for the pre-trial diversion program," Cintron said.

see MANUFACTURE, page 4
In Brief

A proposal that would extend Sunday night parietals until 12:30 a.m. is still awaiting a decision from Vice President for Student Affairs Father David Tyson, according to Tyson's secretary. The proposal was approved by the Campus Life Council Nov. 20. Brian Holst, chairman of the student senate committee on parietals, said the extra hour by popular demand will allow "go-old receptions" after hall masses. - The Observer

A suspicious South Bend fire, set in an apparent attempt to hide a burglary, caused $250,000 damage Thursday to a southside McDonald's restaurant, the second such restaurant damaged by fire in three days, South Bend officials said. Fire investigators discovered the restaurant's safe had been tampered with and an unsuccessful attempt to open it. Assistant Fire Chief Larry Dobski said "We interviewed management to ask if they have any disgruntled employees and they didn't think that was possible." - The Observer

Four or five people were shot Thursday at a high school where a basketball tournament was under way, authorities said. Lewistown Police Chief Russell Dunnington said the shootings occurred in the classroom area of Ferguson High School, away from the gym where the Class A girls state basketball tournament was being played. Authorities were looking for whoever fired the shots and were not able to immediately identify the victims, and police were telling people to stay away from the school. - Associated Press

Of Interest

Notre Dame Security is seeking information in the Tues­day afternoon burglary at O'Callaghan Fieldhouse. Director of Security Rex Rakow said someone broke one of the windows of the car and damaged the dashboard during the thief's attempt to break into a 1972 or 1973 Oldsmobile. Anyone with information should call Rakow at 239-5555. - The Observer

The Kellogg Institute will sponsor a public lecture today at 4 p.m. in 131 Decio. George Lopez, a faculty fellow from the Institute for International Peace Studies, will speak on "Old Controversies and New Evidence Regarding Human Rights Indicators." - The Observer

Food, clothes, and medicine will be sent to Nicaragua by local student groups Saturday. Peace Saturday morning. For more information, contact Peter Smith at 284-4611, Mike Keen at 256-5302, or 239-5293. - The Observer

The Saint Mary's Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Roger Briggs, assistant professor of music, will perform Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Moreau Hall Little Theatre at Saint Mary's. Admission is free and open to the public. - The Observer

Weather

College is so theoretical. All the reading, thinking, where does it end? We need something real, really real. Hey, how 'bout a war? Yeah, let's have a war! Let's have a basketball game; let's have a war tomorrow. It will be sunny but cold anyway, high near 30. Saturday's not much better with the basketball game and cloudy and cold, low 30s. Better put war and reality off for another few weeks. - Associated Press

Gippertage: it's more than a problem of Reagan's politics

Where have they been? The people of National Review, Ronald Reagan's favorite magazine, sent me a notice to subscribe "during the most exhilarating presidential era of our lifetime."

I got the subscription offer yesterday. In the mail. After picking up a copy of The New York Times, the juxtaposition between the obviously outdated subscription offer and "The Times'" extensive coverage of Gippertage and between how Ronald Reagan was perceived just a few weeks ago and today demonstrates how fleeting presidential power and public approval can be.

Earlier in the week, A New York Times/CBS News Poll "showed an extraordinary drop of 21 percentage points in the President's approval rating." The rhetoric coming from all quarters has been as extensive as any in my lifetime. And the coverage has matched the rhetoric. Columnists are rushing to out-analyze each other's words for the press has left every one wondering what Bush knew and when he knew it. Came out and walked a political tightrope aligning himself with the president, but appearing the press by saying mistakes had been made and by declaring clearly the Contra connection.

Yet, because of all the jockeying, Americans are losing an important opportunity to, as Notre Dame student Matthew Slaughter stated in a column in Wednesday's Observer, "step back and analyze where exactly it is we want to go." Meanwhile Bush, whose hide-and-seek game with the press has left everyone wondering what Bush knew and when he knew it, came out and walked a political tightrope aligning himself with the president, but appeasing the press by saying mistakes had been made and by declaring clearly the Contra connection.

After we have answered such questions as "what did the President know and when did he know it?" we must as a nation ask the deeper questions of what kind of a country we wish to be and what means we are willing to take to achieve the ends we seek.

In short, what I suggest is that this latest crisis in the Reagan presidency is not a political one as much as a constitutional one. Failed policies have become the rule rather than the exception because the president's role may not be properly defined, may be ill-defined or may be limited by the various duties become intrinsically conflicting. Is the Constitution inadequate, if within the case are pouring forth. What has not been asked, but what should be asked, is why did this happen?

Could it be that the Executive branch saw a conflict between its duty to protect the people from the communist threat, whether real or imaginary, in our hemisphere and its duty to first receive Congressional approval and decided its duty to the former override its duty to the latter?

Unless we identify what characteristics of the Constitution should be altered to avoid one branch using its power to disregard provisions of law, then we will continue to find ourselves imbedded in one constitutional crisis after another. As Slaughter said in his column, I do not claim to know which policies are in our best interest. I do know we must not overlook a lengthy introspection of what kind of a nation we wish to be and how the characteristics of our Constitution can be strengthened to promote the ends we seek.

Let me say, America is a great country. The final question for all is how we can make it better.

Joe Murphy
Editor-in-Chief

Know Our Rights!

Take a look at the Students' Rights Manual being distributed throughout the dorms this week. Giving a detailed outline of the rights that Domers have at ND, this manual also lists the proper procedures to take when accused of an offense. Also available is a listing of South Bend lawyers who are willing to work with students at reduced rates.

Free Pregnancy Tests 234-0363
Speakes to quit, go to Wall Street

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes, who faced the daily gridiron of White House briefings longer than any of his recent predecessors, announced Thursday he is resigning to take an executive post with Merrill Lynch & Co., the Wall Street investment firm.

Speakes, 47, had been negotiating for the senior vice presidency, which sources have said pays about $250,000 a year in salary and benefits, for two months. He plans to begin his new job Feb. 1.

President Reagan, speaking to reporters: "Congratulations on getting a fine job." Speakes, answering his decision at his daily mid-day briefing, said the new job "comes as close to matching this, as anything could."

"Nothing could ever match this," he said of the $75,000-a-year job he has unhesitatingly adored, despite the constant grilling of the White House press corps, with which he has maintained a relationship marked both by rancor and rapport.

Administration sources, asking to remain anonymous, have said Interior Undersecretary Ann Dore McLaughlin is Speakes' most likely successor if White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan keeps his job in the face of congressional pressure for his resignation over the handling of the secret weapons deal.

Mrs. McLaughlin worked for Regan when he was treasury secretary and sources say she has been advising him on how to deal with the present crisis. She would be the first woman to run the White House press office.

Martin Fitzwater, Vice President George Bush's press secretary and another former Reagan associate at Treasury, also has been mentioned as a prime candidate for Speakes' job.

Asked about his leaving in the midst of the current furor, Speakes said he considered that but decided staying on for two months "would be quite a fair time to let the president choose my successor" and "enough time to serve the president in the current situation."

He added he had been discussing the position with the brokerage house since early October, before the current crisis arose.

Speakes has been President Reagan's principal spokesman since press secretary James Brady was critically wounded in the assassination attempt against Reagan on March 30, 1981. He has held the job longer than anyone since President Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, held it through two full terms.

Brady, who has never fully recovered from his injuries, continues to hold the title of press secretary to the president.

Honeywell to sell S.African holdings

Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Honeywell, Inc. will sell its small operation here to a local firm and join the exodus of American companies from South Africa, a company executive said Thursday.

The sale to South African owners follows a pattern set by General Motors Corp., IBM and dozens of other U.S. companies which bowed to divestment pressure from the anti-apartheid movement and to poor economic conditions.

A major South African industrial group, Marquardt & Roberts, is to purchase the Honeywell operation for an undisclosed amount and all 175 employees probably will keep their jobs, said Markus Timmerkens, Honeywell's local managing director.

At Honeywell's Minneapolis headquarters, spokeswoman Susan Eich said: "I think it's generally acknowledged that the business environment in South Africa is volatile."

"We took into account the total business environment in that country and came to the conclusion it's in our best interest to sell the affiliated affiliate," she said.

Honeywell, which has $1.4 billion in annual sales and 24,000 employees, has stepped up a divestment program that has already cost it $147 million over its first two years.

"We began the program in April 1984 and have already divested assets in Europe, Australia and Japan," Eich said.

At least 24 sets of divestitures have taken place: 17 in Europe and seven in the Far East.

At least 24 this year.

Honeywell, which sells and services electronic control systems for buildings and industries, accounts for less than 1 percent of Honeywell's revenues, which totaled $6.6 billion last year, Eich said.

"We're very pleased with the progress we've made in our divestment program," she said.

"The divestitures are helping us focus more on our core businesses and move away from our reliance on multinational businesses."
FUND DRIVE TO SAVE WIDOW’S FARM FALLS SHORT

Associated Press

ATLANTA - A drive to save the farm of a widow whose husband killed himself fell more than $64,000 short Thursday, but a businessman said the Federal Land Bank had given him an extra two weeks to raise the money.

The contract with the bank on Annabell Hill’s farm had been scheduled to expire at 5 p.m. Thursday. Mrs. Hill’s husband had committed suicide in February as the farm was about to be foreclosed.

Atlanta businessman Frank Argenbright Jr. said under the terms of the extension, the entire farm would have to be paid off within two weeks, removing the possibility of saving part of it and having part of it sold at auction.

He returned from Dallas on Thursday afternoon with a $9,000 check from a farmer. The farmer told Argenbright that he will consider paying off half of the remaining mortgage after he talks to Mrs. Hill, 65, and her son Leonard.

Argenbright said the farmer, who did not want to be identified, was seeking assurances that the land would not go back into debt.

Under the terms of the land bank extension, the entire debt of $187,000 must be paid off or the Hills will lose the entire farm.

Argenbright said with the money already raised, including recent contributions, the Hills still have to raise $25,000 and New York real estate developer Donald Trump would provide the remaining $30,000.

Trump, at one point, had offered to match half of the then-outstanding debt of $78,000 if the other half could be raised elsewhere.

Manual continued from page 1

The diversion program allows a student, who receives a citation or arrest, to erase the offense off of his or her record.

“The student performs a community service, pays a user’s fee and signs a contract not to commit the offense again, and then the citation or arrest is taken off of the record,” she said.

Last year the manual was originally drafted by Judicial Council Members. Last year we only printed up 300 copies which were basically distributed to rectors and Judicial Council members,” Cintron said.

PROBE continued from page 1

Retiring House Speaker Thomas O’Neill, D-Mass., predicted that "everybody will be smoked out" in the investigations that will come, even if they use the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering questions. But O’Neill, who has been aポイントman for Democratic opposition to Reagan for the past six years, added that the issue does not appear to be a Watergate-type scandal that will force the president to resign.

Attention Fighting Irish Fans

CHRISTMAS SPECIAL: Buy one Ringer and get the second one for 13.95!

Simply plug it into your phone and enjoy the song when friends call you.

(please pay by cashiers check or money order. Personal checks will delay your order due to check clearance time.)

Due to limited quantities the unfilled orders will be returned unopened.

Enclosed is $9.95. Send Ringer to:

Dr. David Tavel has reduced the price of Softmate daily or extended wear contact lenses to $19.86.

"At Dr. David Tavel's Premium Optical, we've been caring for eyes for over 40 years with 32 locations in Indiana. Shouldn't you trust the care of your family's eyes to Indiana's largest, oldest and most-trusted name in eyecare."

Attention Fighting Irish Fans

CHRISTMAS SPECIAL: Buy one Ringer and get the second one for 13.95!

Simply plug it into your phone and enjoy the song when friends call you.

(please pay by cashiers check or money order. Personal checks will delay your order due to check clearance time.)

Due to limited quantities the unfilled orders will be returned unopened.

Enclosed is $9.95. Send Ringer to:

Name

Address

City

Zip

FUTURE VISION telecommunications

Box 831541

Richardson, TX 75083

Now you can treat yourself to the contact lenses you've always wanted at a price anyone can afford! For a limited time, Dr. David Tavel has reduced the price of Softmate daily or extended wear contact lenses to an unheard of price of $19.86.

"All Dr. David Tavel's Premium Optical, we've been serving Indiana's eye care needs for over 40 years. We carry a wide selection of excellence that you won't find anywhere else. And that's a promise from the doctor."

Call for an appointment today. You'll see better for less. Dr. Tavel's Premium Optical has been caring for eyes for over 40 years with 32 locations in Indiana. Shouldn't you trust the care of your family's eyes to Indiana's largest, oldest and most-trusted name in eyecare.

Providers for all insurance programs.

For more information, call:

Tavel Premium Optical

291-4000

Medicaid Welcome

SOUTHBEND - MISHAWAKA

Broadmoor Plaza

K-Mart/Martin Center

Kenwood Square

871-9300

258-5000
Ward, other recounts set to begin next week

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - The State Recount Commission on Friday approved instructions Thursday to guide state examiners in recounts of elections in the 3rd District congressional race and three Indiana House contests.

The commission approved ballots counting equipment and procedures based on Indiana's election laws and a list of general procedures examiners will follow in the field during the recounts, which will begin next week.

"These documents will be sufficient to get the State Board of Accounts into the field," said Secretary of State B. Evan Bayh, who chairs the recount commission.

James Gutter, head of the State Board of Accounts, said he expects state examiners in north central Indiana to be briefed on recount procedures early Monday and possibly to begin counting ballots by midday in Elkhart and St. Joseph counties.

Ballots in the two northern counties must be tallied for the 3rd District race and recounts in Indiana House Districts 3 and 5.

Examiners who will move to Kosciusko, LaPorte, Marshall and Starke counties, which lie in the 3rd Congressional District but who are not in Wayne County, must be trained to begin counting ballots by midday in Kosciusko, LaPorte and St. Joseph counties.

The Observer Friday, December 5, 1986 - page 5

Mapping turmoil

Professor Peter Walshe points to where the trouble in Africa lies in his lecture "Africa in Turmoil: A search for understanding" given in the Memorial Library lounge last night.

Ice is cause of crash, source says

Associated Press

WASHINGTON Investigators believe the crash of a military charter that killed 248 U.S. soldiers last month was caused by the crew's failure to deice the jetliner before it left Gander, Newfoundland, according to Canadian and U.S. aviation sources.

The Canadian Aviation Safety Board findings are not expected to be released until late spring or early summer of next year, although the writing of a draft report on the accident has begun.

Sources familiar with the investigation said, however, the investigation clearly points to ice contamination on the wings of a military charter that killed the 248 U.S. soldiers most likely caused the jetliner to stall and crash as it did, said the sources, speaking on the condition that they not be identified.

The jet was carrying 248 U.S. soldiers, all members of a Middle East peacekeeping unit, home for the Christmas holidays when it crashed. Everyone aboard was killed.

The accident prompted a Pentagon review of its military charter program after questions emerged about Arrow Air's safety record and investigators found the DC-8 aircraft involved in the Gander accident was in shabby condition.

Other factors, including excessive weight and perhaps reduced power in one of the plane's four engines, may have contributed, but in themselves would not have caused the jetliner to stall and crash as it did, said the sources, speaking on the condition that they not be identified.

Canadian investigators along have considered icing a possible culprit in the accident. A freezing drizzle fell during most of the Arrow Air flight's stopover, and the plane is believed likely to have accumulated enough leading edge ice on the wings during the landing.

The investigators continued, however, to examine other possibilities until late September and early October when a series of computerized flight tests were conducted in Copenhagen, Denmark, simulating the conditions at Gander on Oct. 10, according to sources knowledgeable about the tests.

Those tests singled out icing as the most likely cause of the crash, the sources said.

Ice on the wings of an aircraft, especially along the leading edge or on the top side of the wing, interferes with the flow of air across the wing and inhibits the plane's ability to lift.
Many of us thought back to what it must have been like for our grandparents and great-grandparents as they arrived in this foreign land, unable to speak the language at all or doing so only with a giveaway accent.

They gave up everything to come and work in the fields, mines and factories that are the cornerstones of this nation. Working long hours for little pay, they dreamed of better things for the future. They dreamed of a better life to the people who had dreamed enough in search of a better life and to my grandparents and parents who had kept that dream alive. I realize also that there are new immigrants coming everyday who share this dream, a dream still based on education as the way of giving their children a better life. I owe these people a lot, too, because they brought with them the new energy and ideas that keep our nation from stagnating.

These noble thoughts, of course, passed quickly and by the time I got back to school they were all but gone. As the work began to pile up and the first round of tests and papers appeared on the horizon, they disappeared without a trace. Now that the turns have passed, however, and the air is cleared of the stories of woe about them, the thoughts have reappeared and gained a new vitality.

Students should show support for oppressed

Dear Editor:

"Is this Russia?"

Every day, I see T-shirts bearing this phrase. I know, as do most students, that this phrase is meant to draw attention to the issue of the many oppressed parties throughout the world. It is true that these people are being oppressed; against what they feel is a violation of their rights. They are standing up for what they believe in.

Everywhere in the world, the countries and people over the whole world have their rights violated. It's not just some local police breaking up a party, issuing citations and making a few arrests. It's the military and the government imprisoning, torturing and executing those who don't believe the same way that the government dictates they should, people who are of the "wrong" racial, religious, social, or national background.

Every day, millions of people all over the world stand up for what they believe in and speak out against these unjustified arrests. These people are members of Amnesty International, a non-political worldwide organization that is especially for the release of prisoners of conscience (those who have been apprehended as described above). These people members do not work within their own country, but they write letters to foreign leaders, prison wardens and courts around the world, requesting information on or investigation into specific cases and expressing a general concern about human rights and civil rights abuses.

The second week of December is Human Rights Week. In recognition of Human Rights Day (Dec. 10), Amnesty chapters throughout the U.S. will be holding write-a-thons for human rights.

By becoming a writer, you will be able to write-those-thoughts-of-the-heart. The Notre Dame Saint Mary's chapter of Amnesty has decided to participate in the vast Amnesty campaign during this week, and we ask for your support on and around Monday, Dec. 8. You can show your support by sponsoring a letter writer, by becoming a letter writer, or by making a donation to the Amnesty cause.

By becoming a sponsor, you will pledge a certain amount of money that will be more information for that write-a-thon. By providing a letter writer, you will write a letter or the release of prisoners of conscience. By sponsoring a writer, you will write a letter or the release of prisoners of conscience, with people sponsoring your writing. Each letter usually follows a specific format regarding the issue of human rights or civil rights abuses.

There is no doubt that I would rather not have to study the nights away, but there is also no doubt, or at least not much, that somewhere down the line there will be something that will make all of this worth the effort. I have no precise idea what this will be, but when I think back on the work my forebears did to make it possible for me to be here, the work I'm doing suddenly appears in a different light. They worked through those long hours with the hope that the next generation would not have to. My education, then, is both a burden and a burden. It gives me the opportunity to succeed as well as the responsibility to use that success in a manner that fulfills my immigrant ancestors' dreams, and affords today's new immigrants the chance to keep those dreams alive. The American dream revolves around education with the college diploma serving both as a ticket to the mainstream of society and as a symbol of responsibility to those who helped one attain it and to those who will arrive to enter that mainstream in the future. Remembering this is something that just might help us all through finals week.

Adam Milani is a junior English major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Doonesbury

Student should show support for oppressed

Dear Editor:

"Is this Russia?"

Every day, I see T-shirts bearing this phrase. I know, as do most students, that this phrase is meant to draw attention to the issue of the many oppressed parties throughout the world. It is true that these people are being oppressed; against what they feel is a violation of their rights. They are standing up for what they believe in.

Everywhere in the world, the countries and people over the whole world have their rights violated. It's not just some local police breaking up a party, issuing citations and making a few arrests. It's the military and the government imprisoning, torturing and executing those who don't believe the same way that the government dictates they should, people who are of the "wrong" racial, religious, social, or national background.

Every day, millions of people all over the world stand up for what they believe in and speak out against these unjustified arrests. These people are members of Amnesty International, a non-political worldwide organization that is especially for the release of prisoners of conscience (those who have been apprehended as described above). These people members do not work within their own country, but they write letters to foreign leaders, prison wardens and courts around the world, requesting information on or investigation into specific cases and expressing a general concern about human rights and civil rights abuses.

The second week of December is Human Rights Week. In recognition of Human Rights Day (Dec. 10), Amnesty

Garry Trudeau

Write to P.O.Box Q

"For me there's no such thing as black and white. I exist in the gray area of life."

Don Montanaro
Student Body Vice President
October 4, 1986

Campus Quote

The Observer

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the University. The Observer is registered as a newspaper and objectively as possible. Unsubscribed editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Friday, December 5, 1986 - page 6

There is no doubt that I would rather not have to study the nights away, but there is also no doubt, or at least not much, that somewhere down the line there will be something that will make all of this worth the effort. I have no precise idea what this will be, but when I think back on the work my forebears did to make it possible for me to be here, the work I'm doing suddenly appears in a different light. They worked through those long hours with the hope that the next generation would not have to. My education, then, is both a burden and a burden. It gives me the opportunity to succeed as well as the responsibility to use that success in a manner that fulfills my immigrant ancestors' dreams, and affords today's new immigrants the chance to keep those dreams alive. The American dream revolves around education with the college diploma serving both as a ticket to the mainstream of society and as a symbol of responsibility to those who helped one attain it and to those who will arrive to enter that mainstream in the future. Remembering this is something that just might help us all through finals week.

Adam Milani is a junior English major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Doonesbury

Student should show support for oppressed

Dear Editor:

"Is this Russia?"

Every day, I see T-shirts bearing this phrase. I know, as do most students, that this phrase is meant to draw attention to the issue of the many oppressed parties throughout the world. It is true that these people are being oppressed; against what they feel is a violation of their rights. They are standing up for what they believe in.

Everywhere in the world, the countries and people over the whole world have their rights violated. It's not just some local police breaking up a party, issuing citations and making a few arrests. It's the military and the government imprisoning, torturing and executing those who don't believe the same way that the government dictates they should, people who are of the "wrong" racial, religious, social, or national background.

Every day, millions of people all over the world stand up for what they believe in and speak out against these unjustified arrests. These people are members of Amnesty International, a non-political worldwide organization that is especially for the release of prisoners of conscience (those who have been apprehended as described above). These people members do not work within their own country, but they write letters to foreign leaders, prison wardens and courts around the world, requesting information on or investigation into specific cases and expressing a general concern about human rights and civil rights abuses.

The second week of December is Human Rights Week. In recognition of Human Rights Day (Dec. 10), Amnesty

Garry Trudeau

Write to P.O.Box Q

"For me there's no such thing as black and white. I exist in the gray area of life."

Don Montanaro
Student Body Vice President
October 4, 1986

Campus Quote

The Observer

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the University. The Observer is registered as a newspaper and objectively as possible. Unsubscribed editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.
SPORTS BRIEFS

WVFY-AM 61 will air live tonight's Notre Dame-Michigan-Dearmouth hockey game beginning at 7:15 with "The Lefty Smith Show" and 7:30 with the face off. Sean Pierie and Jamey Rappis will have the play-by-play. Also, WVFY will air live tomorrow's Notre Dame-Brimingham Young basketball game. Frank Mastro and Rick Rietbrock will describe all the action from the ACC beginning at 7:20 p.m. - The Observer

IH football equipment is still out, and NVA is offering one last chance to return it today from 3:30 to 4:30 at Gate 9 of the Stadium. Any equipment not returned will be billed to the individual student account. For more information contact NVA at 239-6100. - The Observer

The Observer

SPORTS BRIEFS

The Observer

Classifieds

NOTICES

WANTED: DEC. 5-7, EXP. TYPING 277-9649 or 277-5833.

THE OBSERVER

Classifieds

Classifieds
The Observer Friday, December 5, 1986 - page 8

Leftovers

continued from page 12

several highly-successful seasons, competing in the WCHA and then the CCHA, two of the top collegiate hockey programs.

Just five seasons ago Smith's squad, led by Hoby Baker Award finalist and future captain of the Philadelphia Flyers Dave Poulin, finished 23-15-1, finishing second in the CCHA and then the WCHA, two seasons, competing in the several highly-successful continued from page 12

finishing second in the CCHA

tain of the Philadelphia Flyers

Award finalist and future cap­ squad, led by Hoby Baker

Dave Poulin, finished 23-15-1, in year's, missing the Back to Division I and are team s which share Notre Dame's philosophy of fiscal responsibility and academics.

With the changes Smith and his teams have gone through, he has maintained his equanimity and is proud that his players have gone on to success in their endeavours outside of hockey. Congratulations to Coen Smith on his achieve­ments.

Notre Dame's 67-62 loss to Indiana

This isn't a weekend leftover, but it's on the shelf anyway. Call it night and day, black and white, any contrast you want. In two weeks, the Notre Dame basketball team made greater strides than some programs make in years. After giving up 16 offensive rebounds and committing 23 turnovers against Western Kentucky, the Irish only had seven and 13, respectively, against the Hoosiers.

With the changes Smith and his players have gone on to success in their endeavours outside of hockey. Congratulations to Coen Smith on his achieve­ments.

Alabama's Cornellus Bennett, shown here sacking Notre Dame quarterback Steve Beuerlein, was awarded the Lombardi Trophy for college football's most outstanding lineman. Beuerlein suffred a concussion on the vicious hit by Bennett.

Notre Dame

The 400-yard freestyle, meanwhile, was won by sopho­more Peggy Halloran in a time of 5:16.85. Halloran also took second in the 100-yard freestyle.

Sophomore Tanya Reeves took second place in both the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:46.67 and the 100-yard butterfly stroke with a time of 1:19.07.

"(Benedictine's) pool was a 25-meter one which was a great experience and a lot harder," said Kuzmitz. "We also did not have divers, so we lost some points."

The Belles will swim in the Notre Dame Invitational tomorrow before their home opener next Friday against Albion and Valparaiso.

St. Mary's swimmers lose; freshmen are impressive

By JANE SHEA
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's swim team travelled to Lake Forest, Ill., Wednesday and was defeated by Benedictine College by a score of 56-51. With the loss, the Belles' record fell to 1-3.

"I am pleased that we did this well because Benedictine is strong in relays and distance events," said Head Coach Nancy Je Kuzmitz. "Our depth and close finishes helped."

Saint Mary's freshman Erin Tierney won three very close races, finishing first in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:28.83. Tierney also swam the 50- and 100-yard freestyle with times of 00:29.64 and 1:06.18, respectively.

Freshman Clair Druley, meanwhile, placed second in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Other fine performances for Saint Mary's were turned in by junior Megan Rafferty and senior Patty Juckness, who took first and second respectively in the 100-yard back­stroke with times of 1:18.45 and 1:19.07.

Saint Mary's also won the 400-yard free relay with a time of 4:31.51. The team consisted of Rafferty, Tierney, Juckness, and freshman Julie Courtney.

The 400-yard freestyle, meanwhile, was won by sopho­more Peggy Halloran in a time of 5:16.85. Halloran also took second in the 100-yard freestyle.

Sophomore Tanya Reeves took second place in both the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:46.67 and the 100-yard butterfly stroke with a time of 1:19.07.

"(Benedictine's) pool was a 25-meter one which was a great experience and a lot harder," said Kuzmitz. "We also did not have divers, so we lost some points."

The Belles will swim in the Notre Dame Invitational tomorrow before their home opener next Friday against Al­
bion and Valparaiso.
Madson takes over in net for Irish

Freshman adjusts well

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team is looking toward the future with the acquisition of one of the most talented groups of freshmen in the last few years. One of those freshmen who has provided the squad with good reason to be optimistic is goaltender Lance Madson.

Madson and the rest of the Irish take on Michigan-Dearborn tonight at 7:30 and tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m. in the ACC. Notre Dame is coming off of a sweep of Lake Forest last weekend and takes a 4-4 record into tonight’s matchup.

Madson, a 6-1, 180-pound native of Minnetonka, Minn., assumed the first-string goalie position upon his arrival at Notre Dame. That, in itself, is impressive considering that he faced both the return of senior monogram winner Tim Lukenda and a battle for the back-up position with junior Jeff Henderson.

Notre Dame head coach Lefty Smith hoped that Madson might progress over the course of the year, but didn’t expect such an early emergence from the pack.

"During the early part of the season, Lance was our number-one goalie," said Smith. "Over the past couple of weeks, we’ve tried Lukenda and Henderson under game conditions to get them experience."

"I’d have to say Lance has the inside track right now, though. He has a very quick glove and is excellent at cutting down shooting angles. Overall, Lance has fine goaltending skills."

Smith expresses surprise at the speed of the development of his young goalie, especially in his ability thus far to make the smooth transition from high school to collegiate hockey.

"When we first saw Lance," said Smith, "we felt that maybe during the second semester or perhaps as a sophomore Lance would make some kind of an impact on the team. But ever since he’s arrived here, he’s been a hard worker and has had a great attitude. He’s responded very well to the challenges that the upperclassmen have thrown in front of him, and he’s one of the most competitive players on the team."

"Lance is a great kid, a fine student, and as clean-cut an individual as they come. He will be an asset to our team over the next few years," said Smith.

Madson expects improvement in both the team’s performance and his own play during the rest of the year, based on some encouraging signs that he has seen over the last week.

"I think it took a little while year, but I think we’re playing pretty well right now," said Madson. "The attitude is really good and things are starting to flow smoother now."

"When we first started this year, I was playing really well, but then I fell into a bit of a slump. Now, I think I’m playing pretty well again and hopefully I’ll be playing more on a full-time basis after Christmas."

Madson has a deep respect for his teammates and attributes much of his enjoyment of playing this year to the overall closeness of the team.

"They’re just a great bunch of guys," said Madson. "You’d think that it would be tough to come in and play as a freshman and not have a problem with some of the players, but it’s been just the opposite. Everybody wants to help out."

Notre Dame is currently a member of the American Collegiate Hockey Association, which includes Michigan-Dearborn, Kent State, and Lake Forest. The ACHA is in its inaugural year, and each team in the conference plays the others four times.

This weekend, the Irish play their first set against the Wolves of Michigan-Dearborn, and Smith expects a closely contested series.

The Irish are slightly banged up and will miss the services of sophomore Matt Hanzel, who is nursing a bad knee. Center John Welsch (thumb) and left wing Tom Smith (wrist, knee) are also questionable for this series.

Ivan Lendl defeated Ecuador’s Andres Gomez 6-2, 7-5 Thursday night in the Masters Tennis tournament in New York. See story on page 7 for details.
ND’s Brown named
First-team All-Americans chosen

Associated Press

The nation’s top runner and No. 1 passer - Temple tailback Paul Palmier and Miami of Florida quarterback Vinny Testaverde - were named Thursday to the Associated Press All-American football team for 1986.

Miami and Oklahoma each put three players on the elite squad while Auburn and Ohio State had two each.

Testaverde was joined by teammates Jerome Brown, a defensive tackle, and free safety Bennie Blades, who led the nation with 10 interceptions.

Testaverde, who is expected to win the Heisman Trophy on Saturday, led Miami to a No. 1 ranking in the AP poll for the last 10 weeks by completing 175 of 276 passes for 2,557 yards and a nation-leading 36 touchdowns in 10 games. His completion percentage was 63.4 and he led the country in passing efficiency but missed the final regular-season contest with bruised suffered when he fell off his motor scooter.

The 355-pound Brown was the top lineman on a unit that finished sixth nationally in total defense.

Oklahoma, the team Miami displaced as No. 1 after beating the Sooners 28-16 on Sept. 27, is represented by inside linebacker Brian Bosworth, tight end Keith Jackson and defensive tackle Mark Hutson, all juniors.

Bosworth is one of five repeaters and nine juniors on the first team. The other repeaters are offensive guard Jeff Bregel of Southern California, defensive backs Thomas Everett of Baylor and Mark Moore of Oklahoma State and punter Barry Helton of Colorado.

The other juniors besides Blades, Helton and the Oklahoma trio are wide receivers Tim Brown of Notre Dame and Cris Carter of Ohio State, defensive tackle Al Noga of Hawaii and inside linebacker Chris Spielman of Ohio State.

The rest of the All-America team consists of offensive tackles Harris Barton of North Carolina and Danny Villa of Arizona State, center Ben Tame­burelo and running back Brent Fullwood of Auburn, placekicker Jeff Jaeger of Washington, outside linebackers Cornelius Bennett of Alabama and Shane Conlan of Penn State, nose guard Danny Noaman of Nebraska and defensive back Rod Woodson of Purdue.

The AP all-America team will be featured on Bob Hope’s Bagful of Christmas Cheer on NBC TV, 9-10 p.m., EST. It will be Hope’s 48th annual Christmas special on radio or television.

The team was selected by the AP’s regional sports editors, along with the college football editor and the sports editor, from all-conference and all-sectional lists.

Three 1985 first-teamers failed to repeat. Michigan State tailback Lorenzo White and LSU linebacker Michael Brooks were hampered by injuries. Texas A&M linebacker Johnny Holland made the third team.

Bennett gets Lombardi

HOUSTON - Linebacker Cornelius Bennett of Alabama was awarded the 77th annual Lombardi Trophy honoring the nation’s outstanding college football linemen Thursday night.

The award was presented at a benefit dinner sponsored by the Downtown Rotary Club of Houston with proceeds going to cancer research.

Bennett, a 6-4, 235-pound outside linebacker, led the Crimson Tide in quarterback sacks even though he missed two games because of a pulled hamstring. He has been timed over 40 yards in 4.4 seconds.

He will close out his college career when Alabama faces Washington in the Sun Bowl on Christmas Day.

Texas continued from page 12

Beth Morrison (starting in place of ill Heidi Bunek, who may be ready for tonight’s game). Senior captain Lavetta Wills, meanwhile, scored 10 points and took down six rebounds.

But even all those numbers are not enough. Let’s add one more: the fact that tonight’s game is the number-one home game for the Longhorns since winning the national championship last year. A large crowd is expected.

“I’m sure a big crowd will be out and that Texas will be playing at its very best,” said DiSanisio. “We’re very excited about playing a team with their talent and tradition. But they’re not the only strong team in this tournament. Ohio State won the Big 10 last year and Colorado won 21 games. We’re going to have our hands full both nights.”
Today

Bloom County

Beer Nuts

Campus

FRIDAY
11:15 a.m.: Civil Engineering Seminar
“The Role of Sorption Phenomena in Soluble Transport in Subsurface Systems,” by Doctor Walter Weber Jr., Distinguished Professor of Civil Engineering, University of Michigan, 258 Fitzpatrick
8:00 p.m.: Swimming, NDM and NDW vs. Nebraska Theatre Caravan, "Kiss of the Spiderwomen," by the Depts. of Anthropology and Communication and Theatre Latin American Film Series.
9:00 p.m.: Basketball NDM vs. Brigham Young, ACC Ice Arena
SATURDAY
8:00 a.m.- 6:00 p.m.: First Annual AFROTC Christmas Classic Basketball Tournament, a 12-team tournament of Air Force, Army and Naval ROTC units from Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio, Stegan Center
12:15 p.m.: Liturgy, "Rite of Becoming a Deacon," St. Joseph Church
12:30 p.m.: Public Lecture, "Old Controversies and New Evidence Regarding Human Rights Indicators," by George Lopez, Peace Institute, Notre Dame, sponsored by Kellogg Institute, 131 Decio
Ft. DeLong, ND graduate student, thesis proposal, 131 Decio

FRIDAY

Don’t squeeze either of you unless you know just how you’ve been messing with the “WORLD’S WEIRDEST LADY.”

GEORGE BUSH IS A THIEF! I’M DOING MY SOCIAL CONSCIENCE.

Buddies dreams

Beer Nuts

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame
Crab Gumbo
Boston Baked Scrod
Nantucket Chicken & Dumpling
Seafood Platter

Saint Mary’s
French Dip Sandwich
Broccoli Stuffed Fish
Spinach Crepes
Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Tech readings
3. Alarm
10. Theda of the silents
11. Albany-Buffalo canal
15. Winged
16. Footless
17. Middling
18. Southdown site
19. Yellow fever name
20. Impressively attired
23. Fence flight
24 & 25 Cocktail
26. Minor minor
29. Service winners
30. Hog sound
35. Impressive disaster
36. Miss Kett
41. Watered silk
42. On the — (proceeding correctly)
43. Impressive dressers
46. Piano or oarsman
47. Braille
48. Kathryn a.g.
1. Pronoun
52. Meadow
55. Mo. town
57. Impressively attired
62. Gr. portico
64. Race official
13. Use an abacus
66. Rope fiber
69. "Swan Lake" character
68. Hawaiian fire goddess
69. Orient
70. Martian volcano
71. March 15th
5. Shopping place
6. Saint of Norway
7. Scruff
8. Mr. "I'm the King"
9. Gr. letter
10. Reveal attired
11. Opening
12. Heels
22. Lofty
26. Handle
27. Article
30. Singer Perry
31. Eng. school
32. Monitor and Meritman
34. Garment
35. Lynx
36. Whodunit name
37. Chair
38. Alphabet run
39. Weed
40. Automatic realms: var.
44. Unemployed
45. Edible root
46. Soared
48. Impeached
49. Gene variation
50. Mud volcanoes
53. Bar legally — from (excluding)
54. — from
55. "Happiness is a Choice"
56. Giraffe's kin
58. Transported
59. Jennings of old films
60. Printing term
61. Hold at bay
62 & 61 somehow
63. Pesce

SAB Presents:

WHITE NIGHTS
Fri, Dec 5 & Sat, Dec 6
EG Auditorium
$1.50

Absolutely no food or drink allowed

SAB Presents:

Steamboat Ski Trip!
over Spring Break
$259

Interested?
Call Jeff(*3660)
Joe(*1190)

©1986 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All Rights Reserved
Sports

Notre Dame survives Big Red scare in comeback win against Cornell

By ERIC SCHEUERMANN
Sports Writer

It didn’t turn out to be as easy as most expected, but the Notre Dame basketball team used a surprising five-guard lineup to struggle past a disciplined Cornell squad, 60-56, last night at the ACC.

The Big Red jumped out to 4-0 lead on the Irish, and led by as many as 11 points in the first half. An Irish charge out the deficit to seven, 33-26, at the halfway point.

Still down by a 42-36 score with 11:52 left in the game, Irish head coach Digger Phelps inserted sophomore Mark Stevenson for 6-9 freshman Scott Paddock. This move left the Irish with a lineup of Scott Hicks, Jamere Jackson, David Rivers, Michael Smith, and Stevenson - all true guards.

Hicks hit a jump shot to bring the Irish within four, and strong pressure defense forced the Big Red into a five-second call on the inbounds play. Another Hicks jumper continued the rally, and more Cornell turnovers followed. The Big Red lost the ball 13 times in the second half, after only giving it away five times in the first. A streak of 12 points gave Notre Dame a 46-42 lead before Cornell could score again with 6:35 left in the half. A 16-foot Stevenson jumper during this stretch moved the Irish ahead 44-42, which was the first time this year that Notre Dame has led in a game.

The small lineup even turned the tables in the rebounding department, which is what hurt the Irish in the first half. Jackson, a freshman, pulled down two clutch offensive rebounds during the rally, something the Irish big men had not been able to do consistently while they were in.

“Jellicent when I was in there because the coaches have shown they have confidence in me,” said Jackson. “Somebody has to pick up the slack with Royal out. Against Indiana, it was Scott Paddock. Tonight it happened to be me.”

“The intensity of the small team on defense got us back in the game,” said Phelps, “and I credit Michael Smith to come off the bench and be a part of that. If Jamere Jackson and Scott Hicks can get offensive rebounds, that shows me we should be able to get them at both ends of the court. Our big men are not reading the floor situations and boxing out - that’s what concerns me. We’re not going to be able to afford those breakdowns.”

In fact, the Irish were out-rebounded 29-20 (18 in the first half) and were only able to pull the game out because of strong, 54 percent field goal shooting. Hicks and Rivers led see GUARDS, page 7

Time to savor some Thanksgiving leftovers of sports

Just like at the dining hall, there are a lot of leftovers in the sports refrigerator from the past weekend. Somewhere between the molding cranberry sauce and green mashed potatoes lie a few nuggies.

Notre Dame’s 31-27 victory over USC: Without a doubt, this was one of the biggest wins at Notre Dame for many reasons. First, it was the end of many frustrating games and seasons. Of their six losses, the Irish were in positions to win five of them in the final minutes of the battle, but didn’t. In the words of one sportswriter, this time they got it right. Obviously, this gives the team the momentum and attitude to carry through winter workouts and spring ball.

Second, this win is sure to pay big dividends from a recruiting standpoint. Notre Dame has been strong in California of late (Steve Beuerlein, Braxton Banks and Mark Green, all of whom had big games last Saturday, are just a few of the Californians on this year’s squad). With the fourth straight win over the Trojans, Lou Holtz, no slouch in the recruiting department, should be able to grab a few more players from the Golden State. The big win on national television didn’t hurt the Irish around the rest of the country.

David Rivers and Scott Hicks scored 16 points apiece last night as Notre Dame struggled to beat Cornell last night in the ACC.

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

Sometimes one really is the loneliest number.

This weekend, the Notre Dame women’s basketball team faces more number-ones than most teams would care to face in an entire season, as the Irish open play in the four-team Texas Classic tournament in Austin, Texas.

And the most important of all the number-ones Notre Dame head coach Pat D’Amiliano’s squad will have to face comes in the form of the Lady Longhorns, the top-ranked team in the nation and defending national champions. The Irish square off with the Longhorns tonight at 7:30.

Ohio State and Colorado tip-off the tournament in the early semifinal.

“All we can do is our best,” said D’Amiliano. “I think, player for player, Texas is probably the most talented team in the United States, and they work well as a team on top of that. We can’t afford to make mistakes if we’re going to beat a team like that.”

Speaking of mistakes brings us to the second number-one Notre Dame has to look at. Namely, in Notre Dame’s 71-50 loss to Rutgers in the number-one game on the 1986-87 schedule, the Irish turned the ball over 21 times in that contest and were outrebounded 50-40. Against the Longhorns, who rode a perfect 34-0 record on their way to dethroning Cheryl Miller and Southern Cal, 98-81, in the NCAA championship, Notre Dame cannot afford to be beaten in those areas.

“We’ve just got to take care of the ball more,” said D’Amiliano. “Rutgers played good defense, but we were the cause of a lot of our own problems in that game. Some of the problems stemmed from poor shot selection, and we’ve really got to work on that.

Texas is big and we’ve really got to hold our own on the boards. I don’t recall ever playing a team with their height.”

Part of that height makes up the next number-one facing Notre Dame, the number-one forward duo in the nation. Andrea Lloyd (9.2 points per game, 7.5 rebounds per game) and Charmion Davis (21.4 ppg. and 7.7 rpg.) return to fill the forward slots for Texas, and both are preseason All-America selections. In addition, eight players on the Longhorn roster line up at six feet or better.

Beaverly Williams is a constant scoring threat at guard, averaging more than 11 points a game in last year’s dream season.

Notre Dame, on the other hand, is still searching for a consistent scoring threat, especially from the outside. In the opener against Rutgers, freshman guard Julie Garase came off the bench to lead the team in scoring with 12 points. But foul trouble hampered the contributions of inside players Sandy Botham and Andrea Lloyd, chosen by some to be the best player in women’s college basketball. She will face one of a host of tough Lady Langhorns who will face the Irish in the upcoming Texas Classic. Marty Strasen previews top-ranked Texas at right.
Throng of students participated in the rally in front of the Administration Building. People sat in and some joined in a roaring chorus of "One Beer a Chance." Every table in the dining hall was buzzing with animated conversations. National news agencies and broadcasters were having a heyday reporting on the protests at our fine Catholic university located 90 miles east of Chicago. The Observer headline read "The Party is Over" and the university alcohol policy was officially unveiled.

The much discussed policy eliminated parties and happy hours in dorm rooms. It forbade undergraduate students to attend parties in hall social spaces where alcohol is served. The policy also contained additional guidelines for public drunkenness. It even prohibited parties in which no alcohol was being served. The definition of party by Father William Beuchamp, chairman of the committee on the responsible use of alcohol, of "a gathering of more than four people or twice the number assigned to a suite," caused quite a stir.

The many critics of the policy feared it would greatly inhibit the residential character of Notre Dame and send students off-campus in search of a healthier social life. They predicted that the policy would not deter drinking habits but move them away from the campus and thus increase the chance for driving under the influence or being in an accident. The critics' predictions have been accurate to a certain extent. The amount of students living off-campus has increased significantly since 1983 when no policy was in effect. This year 40 percent of the senior class lives off-campus which is the largest percentage in University history.

This year's senior class has a unique perspective because they have experienced life before and after the alcohol policy. Many detect differences in attitudes and enthusiasm about dorm life, since the advent of the policy. They think that dorm life has changed and definitely not for the better. "The dorms are so quiet and boring on weekends, nobody sticks around," one senior commented. Another remarked, "Hall parties were an integral part of social life freshman year. We met the majority of our good friends there." This response was typical of many seniors, they expressed a concern that freshmen might have more difficulty meeting people.

"Every weekend the whole freshmen class is roaming Campus View in search of a party," said one Senior OC resident. This increase of freshmen and sophomores who previously stayed closer to home on weekends has caused part of the problem many off-campus residents experience. The party-givers hate to say no to students, but when things become too crowded and the famous decade-long meter starts rolling, police dogs arrive and the fines flow freely.

Life at Saint Mary's has not been greatly effected by the policy. The percentage of students living off-campus increased slightly the first year the policy was in effect but has remained fairly constant since then. Pat Rissmeyer, director of residence life and housing, expected an exodus to Saint Mary's for social life. There has been an increase but no problems have arisen.

Student leaders have anticipated this problem and have taken steps to combat this directive imaginatively. One of the most memorable of these attempts was the Oura record-breaking musical chairs contest of 1984. The event was extremely popular but is not the type of thing to be repeated.

Theodore's has been successful in its short history and movies are generally well-attended. There are plenty of things going on on-campus and the various movies and concerts are appreciated by the students but some think that this is still not a substitute for social events involving alcohol.

The other big alternative and one being shown more and more is to live off-campus. Students repeatedly cite the feeling of independence, relaxed atmosphere, and diversity of people as reasons for their decision. Kathleen Kennedy, a Turtle Creek resident enjoys the chance to interact with people other than 18-22 year olds.
Renaissance for the palate

KAREN L. KOCZAKI
features writer

Did you want to be transported back in time to another age? You can experience medieval culture for a night when the Saint Mary's department of music presents its 14th Madrigal Dinner. This annual event recreates a typical court scene from the time of the English queen, Elizabeth I.

Under the long reign of Elizabeth I, art and culture flourished. The tradition of the madrigal dinner began approximately 50 years ago to preserve this culture.

Forty to 45 members of the Saint Mary's and Notre Dame community will perform in costumes of the period. The costumes are rather authentic and look just as their pictured in the movies. Traditional music and dance will accompany the meal to further add to the experience.

A typical madrigal dinner menu consists of roast beef, roast potatoes, glazed carrots, winter salad (apples, celery, nuts), bread, plum pudding, and wassail, a traditional Christmas punch.

Medieval manners...

Participants in the meal will wish to note some 16th century rules of etiquette.

I. Guests must not stuff their mouths. The glutton who eats unhastily, if he is addressed, he scarcely answers thee.
II. Guests should not prick their teeth at the table augh a knife, astray, or stakes.
III. Guests must not tell unseemly tales at the table, nor squire the clothysyle knife, nor rest yeare legs upon the table.
IV. Guests must never leave bones on the table; always hide them under the changes.
V. Guests must not supper their greedy fingers on the table.
VI. Guests must not leave on the table such thyre el-
VII. Guests must retane thyre fingers or they shall be forced to grubbe wyth theyre fingers.

The first Saint Mary's madrigal dinner was presented on campus in 1973. Since that time, Clayton Henderson program coordinator says, "It's become part of the tradition here at Saint Mary's." The dinner was not presented in 1983, but was brought back by the Saint Mary's Music Department of Theatre and Dance, the Notre Dame Men's Choir, Saga, and various other contributors.

The event is sponsored by the Saint Mary's Music Department upon the table.

With help from the departments of Theatre and Dance, the Notre Dame Men's Choir, Saga, and various other contributors, those of you who wish to experience the 16th century and have decent table manners can attend the dinners on Dec. 4, 5, 6, or 7. Admission is $12.50. Seating begins at 6:30 p.m. and the entertainment starts at 7 p.m. in Regina North Lounge.

Tanning Center

Housing

continued from page 1

She also likes the opportunity to further add to the experience. "It's becom e part of the tradition here at Saint Mary's." says, "It's becom e part of the tradition here at Saint Mary's."
Saturday Night Live: behind the scenes, it's all laughs

ERIC M. BERGAMO

Feature writer

Captain's Log: Stardate 2286-124

When we last left our heroes on the planet Vulcan, Spock was trying to regain his memory, the Enterprise had been destroyed, everyone was a fugitive from his memory, the Enterprise had been a scout ship. Like all clean-cut good guys, the crew decides to make the journey back to Earth to face the charges against them. That is, unless the crew of the former Enterprise can figure out what the space probe wants. (Hint: They're really big and they live in the ocean.)

Star Trek IV is enjoyable epic adventure

ANDY SAAL

Features writer

Enter the plot complication: a mammoth, unknown probe from deep space is on a collision course with the Earth. This strange space alien emits high energy waves and blows every electrical fuse within a parsec of itself. And oh yes, it also causes the oceans to boil and wreaks South Bend-like weather over the entire globe. (Mankind) is helpless and doomed in the face of such an entity... That is, unless the crew of the former Enterprise figure out what the space probe wants. (Hint: They're really big and they live in the ocean.)

The solution, however, lies in the 20th century. And so, The Voyage Home becomes a real visit for movie viewers.

Directed by Leonard Nimoy, Mr. Spock, Star Trek IV is probably the best Star Trek film to date. The characters are well-rounded and relaxed in their roles. The dialogue flows with the ease and subtlety which made the television series fun to watch. And most importantly, the plot fulfills the Star Trek genre perfectly.

Movie review Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home

* last movie was a rusty, defunct Klingon scout ship, like all clean-cut good guys, the crew decides to make the journey back to Earth to face the charges against them. Thus, Star Trek IV. The Voyage Home, launches the crew on another epic adventure and makes a truly enjoyable movie along the way.

Summary:

- Saturday Night Live was a series that changed television, but that's not how they had to show their efforts in the early days of the 1970s. Gilda Radner, Laranne Newman, Anne Beatts, Michael O'Donohue and Tom Shiller were creating a show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.

The Coneheads were a popular comedy routine on Saturday Night Live in their day.

The movie along the way. But this new "anti-comedy" didn't have a national platform on which to perform. A show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.

Saturday Night: A Backstage History of Saturday Night Live

Doug Hill and Jeff Weingrad

ERIC M. BERGAMO

Features copy editor

"Saturday Night Live" was a show that changed television, but that's not how they had to show their efforts in the early days of the 1970s. Gilda Radner, Laranne Newman, Anne Beatts, Michael O'Donohue and Tom Shiller were creating a show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.

Saturday Night: A Backstage History of Saturday Night Live

Doug Hill and Jeff Weingrad

ERIC M. BERGAMO

Features copy editor

"Saturday Night Live" was a show that changed television, but that's not how they had to show their efforts in the early days of the 1970s. Gilda Radner, Laranne Newman, Anne Beatts, Michael O'Donohue and Tom Shiller were creating a show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.

Saturday Night: A Backstage History of Saturday Night Live

Doug Hill and Jeff Weingrad

ERIC M. BERGAMO

Features copy editor

"Saturday Night Live" was a show that changed television, but that's not how they had to show their efforts in the early days of the 1970s. Gilda Radner, Laranne Newman, Anne Beatts, Michael O'Donohue and Tom Shiller were creating a show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.

Saturday Night: A Backstage History of Saturday Night Live

Doug Hill and Jeff Weingrad

ERIC M. BERGAMO

Features copy editor

"Saturday Night Live" was a show that changed television, but that's not how they had to show their efforts in the early days of the 1970s. Gilda Radner, Laranne Newman, Anne Beatts, Michael O'Donohue and Tom Shiller were creating a show that would be different story: drug abuse and inner-city accents. The idea was given to an executive named Dick Ebersol, who concocted an acquaintance from Canada to ask if he wanted to produce the show for NBC. That man was Lorne Michaels.

- "Saturday Night Live" was a hit that would grow to tremendous proportions. It also meant the creation of larger problems when Hollywood began beckoning to the cast. Eventually, this temptation was no wonder that so many people associated with the program turned to drugs. Unlike Bob Woodward's book "Wired" on John Belushi, Hill and disputes with the network were much bigger. The book tells the story of that impact in an interesting manner.
Money makes the world go 'round.

A broker in a red jacket yells at a man dressed in a blue jacket. His mouth opens wide to shout over the roar that fills the floor. The man in the blue jacket ignores the loud attention. His hands, lifted above his head, signal to a messenger across the floor. In frustration, the man in the red jacket fixes his glasses and turns to the middle of the pit. A buzzer sounds. It's five to two. The Chicago Board of Trade is about to close and money makes these men go 'round.
The Chicago Board of Trade, founded in 1848, is the largest futures options exchange in the world.

During the lunch hour the crowds move off the trading floors and onto the Chicago streets.

The world go 'round

A agricultural products, precious metals, financial instruments and stock indexes are floors of the Chicago Board of Trade.
TIM ADAMS
features writer

The Beastie Boys love beer, girls and White Castle hamburgers. They really heavy rock music. They love rap and sets the stage for the rest of the record. "Fight for Your Right," Licensed to Ill's party anthem, simply shakes the house. The song's subject — how one generation refuses to accept the next generation's culture and how parents can be so oppressive — is not exactly earth-shattering material, but it's something almost every teenager experiences and this helps expand this tune's appeal.

The rap stuff, of course, is cool. Lots of talk about a drink called Brash Monkey, getting ill, stealing other guys' girls, stealing. This is where Metallica and Schoology-D cross paths, putting others bands' songs, hanging out, etc. There's a lot of diversity in song tempos and styles, so this record will not bore you. In fact, the whole thing is pretty intriguing and, uh, fresh. If you've got any AODC or Pat Boys records, or anything in between, I'd say own it yourself to pick up Licensed to Ill and do the Jerry Lewis until you're blue in the face.

Timbuk 3: husband, wife, jambox

There are certain cities in the country that are becoming meccas for new music-for example, Austin, Texas, home of the Butthole Surfers, Joe King Currasco, Zeitgeist and now Timbuk 3, whose debut LP entitled Greetings From Timbuk 3, was recently released on the IRS label.

Timbuk 3 is the husband and wife team of Pat MacDonald and Barbara K who split lead vocals and electric guitars. Pat also plays harmonica, 12-string guitar, bass and synth while his wife adds violin and mandolin. The third member of Timbuk 3 is a JVC jambox, which the MacDonald's use to play backing rhythms while on stage or out on the street.

With all the different instruments, you expect a musical potpourri and Timbuk 3 doesn't disappoint. They play a blend of blues, funk, reggae, folk, country and straight-out rock, often in the same track. The music is an often warm, often bouncy, often dreamy, often you-name-it album. There's a lot happening stylistically on this album.

The key to Greetings From Timbuk 3 though is its music. By not using any one style in a song, Timbuk 3 has created its own sound. Acoustic guitars share space with screaming electric solos on the same tune. A bouncy-countryish song, "Cheap Black and White," sits next to a funk rap, "Shame On You." It's all part of the fun.

Lyrically Timbuk 3 is strong, from the quirky first single "The Future's So Bright, I Gotta Wear Shades," with its sarcastic view of (shudder) the yuppie life, to the plaintive love song "I Love You In The Strangest Ways." Pat MacDonald takes an off center look at life. If you liked the humor in "The Future's So Bright ..." take a listen to "Hairstyles and Attitudes," a celebration of non-conformity, or is it? MacDonald can be cutting to make a political point as he is in "Just Another Movie," or warm and inviting, as he is in "I Need You." He's not afraid to tackle any subject.

This might not be one of the greatest albums ever made, but it is one of 1986's most original.

WVFI Top Ten

1. A Way The Bolshoi
2. Ghost Dancing Simple Minds
3. Panic The Smiths
4. Every Lover's Sign The Lover Speaks
5. C'mon Every Beatbox Big Audio Dynamite
6. Ask The Smiths
7. Big Time Peter Gabriel
8. World Machine Level 42
9. Summer Of Love The B-52s
10. Totally Nude The Wallets

This chart compiled from the playlists of WVTI-AM940 as of Nov. 25.
The alternative: brunch at Tippecanoe

FRANCES DEASY
features writer

There's an alternative to Sunday morning's usual scrambled eggs with shells or a gross imitation of an enchilada -- brunch at Tippecanoe Place.

Tippecanoe is one of South Bend's most notable historical landmarks. In 1869, the Studebakers built the mansion which currently houses the restaurant, and the atmosphere clearly reflects the period in which it was built. Unlike the typical dining hall, Tippecanoe allows one to dine in a library or nursery. Many customers enjoy the historical and formal flavor that Tippecanoe provides.

During brunch, the restaurant offers a waffle bar, an omelet bar, a pastry bar, a salad bar and a hot food bar. The omelettes and waffles were excellent, and it was fun to watch them being prepared. The pastry and salad bars were also good, since both featured a variety of items. My only criticism is that the hot food bar had cold food, but the chicken, ham, roast beef, sausage, and eggs were still an improvement over any cafeteria's.

The service at Tippecanoe is characterized by a courteous and pleasant staff. They are quite knowledgeable about the history of the mansion and are more than willing to share their knowledge with the customers. However, their tasks during brunch are clearly not very demanding since the most difficult thing that they do is bring coffee and clear plates.

There are two problems with Tippecanoe's brunch that might discourage the typical student from using it as an alternative to the norm. The first is the price. One can expect to pay at least $10 per person for a meal that is probably only worth $5. Admittedly, most brunches cost that much, but it clearly costs far less than $10 for any restaurant to offer such a meal. For most students there is always that nagging feeling that 10 bucks is not worth it. Obviously, Tippecanoe's brunch is not as inexpensive as brunch at South Dining Hall.

The second problem with brunch at Tippecanoe, or any other restaurant, is that it is generally an unpleasant experience after a night of beer drinking. Mixing scrambled eggs and a cheese danish available for 20 cents at Dunkin' Donuts is not worth it. Obviously, Tippecanoe's brunch is not as inexpensive as brunch at South Dining Hall.

Tippecanoe, located at 620 W. Washington Ave., is definitely a great alternative to the dining hall if one can afford it and stand the thought of digesting food on Sunday morning.

Movies

The Student Activities Board presents "White Nights" tonight and Saturday night in the Engineering Auditorium. Mikhail Baryshnikov stars in the thrilling story of a dancer whose plane crashes in the Soviet Union, turning him there after he had defected some 10 years earlier. Gregory Hines ("Cotton Club") also stars in this fast-paced dance drama. Showtimes are 7 and 9:30 p.m. and midnight. Admission is $1.50.

"Kiss of the Spider Woman" will be showing at the Annenberg Auditorium tonight at 7:30 and 9:40 p.m. The movie, starring Raoul Julia and William Hurt, depicts the struggle of two very different prisoners in a Latin American jail. Admission is $1.50.

The biography of the last Tsar of Russia and his wife, whose reign ended with the cataclysmic revolutions of 1917, is told in the movie "Nicholas and Alexandra" showing Sunday at the Little Theatre on the campus of Indiana University at South Bend. There will be two showings at 5 and 8 p.m., and admission is $1.75.

Music

The Notre Dame department of music is sponsoring a concert of music for Advent and Christmas presented by the Notre Dame Chorale, Chapel Choir and Brass Ensemble. The concert will be Sunday at 7:15 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church. For more information contact Eric Kuehner at 239-1201.

The South Bend Symphony Orchestra with Kenneth Kiesler conducting will present its annual All Orchestra concert Saturday at the Morris Civic Center Auditorium. Included in the performance will be Rossini's "Overture to Semiramide," Mozart's "Symphony No. 35," and "Duo Quixote." The concert begins at 8:15 p.m. For more information and tickets contact the South Bend Symphony Office at 234-6343.

Theater

Notre Dame communication and theatre will present "Good" by C.P. Taylor, the gripping drama of a "good" man who becomes a Nazi and the chief terrorist behind the "final solution."

"White Nights"

"Kiss of the Spider Woman"

"Good"

Notre Dame Ave Apartments

2 bedrooms, completely furnished
Second Semester Discount Program
Call for Details 234-6647

Focus on America's Future

Help Prevent Birth Defects
Awaiting the child’s birth: The first Advent

Joseph, the carpenter at Nazareth, watched his wife Mary light the Sabbath candle; as she finished the prayer, she wished him peace in the Jewish way: “Shalom Aleichem.” to which he replied, the traditional “Aleichem shalom.” Catching his hand she said: “Is something bothering you, old timer?”

Joseph was so emotionally busy with God that he couldn’t find the words to answer. He loved his wife, but she was not his mother, she was the mother of his child, the child that God had promised him. He was going to be the foster-father of the Holy Child, the Child who would be the fulfillment of the promise God had made to Abraham, the promise of a child who would be the savior of the world. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not used to having a child; as a working man, he wasn’t used to having conversations with angels. Yet Joseph understood that he had to be there for his child, the Child that God had promised him. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not afraid of any test that God would impose on him. He was willing to believe that nothing is impossible with God. The dream about Abraham was a test of his faith. Joseph knew that he had to believe in the promise of a child, a promise that God had made to Abraham. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not afraid of any test that God would impose on him. He was willing to believe that nothing is impossible with God. The dream about Abraham was a test of his faith. Joseph knew that he had to believe in the promise of a child, a promise that God had made to Abraham. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not afraid of any test that God would impose on him. He was willing to believe that nothing is impossible with God. The dream about Abraham was a test of his faith. Joseph knew that he had to believe in the promise of a child, a promise that God had made to Abraham. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not afraid of any test that God would impose on him. He was willing to believe that nothing is impossible with God. The dream about Abraham was a test of his faith. Joseph knew that he had to believe in the promise of a child, a promise that God had made to Abraham. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.

Joseph was not afraid of any test that God would impose on him. He was willing to believe that nothing is impossible with God. The dream about Abraham was a test of his faith. Joseph knew that he had to believe in the promise of a child, a promise that God had made to Abraham. He was going to be the protector of the Child, the one who would keep the Child safe from the evil that was about to come upon the world.