Disidents kept under house arrest

MOSCOW — Three Soviets were kept under house arrest Sunday after sending a protest to a Kremlin-sponsored peace forum, and the official media said Jews demanding emigration were roughed up by security agents.

“Poison” the meeting.

Sunday after sending a protest were kept at home by police Sunday to join relatives abroad were left in plainclothes security agents.

She said she was not sure if the appeal, and he was received.

Leonid Yuzefovich, a Jewish activist, said he and two women got through security at one forum site, the Kosmos Hotel, and distributed an appeal for free emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

Yuzefovich said Soviet officials there refused to accept the appeal, and he was detained for an hour by milliamen.

Tickets debate goals, administration

By BUD LUCEPE

Seven candidates for student body president voiced their ideas and opinions Sunday night in a debate that focused on “realistic goals” and criticism of the administration.

Each of the candidates began with a two-minute opening statement and then answered two questions from each of the two panelists, Joe Murphy, editor-in-chief of The Observer, and Kathleen McKerman, news editor for Scholastic magazine. The candidates ended with two-minute closing statements.

The Unknown candidate, whose running-mate is also unknown, spoke first. He said he was not running “another joke ticket, nor just another Switk and Montana.” The Unknown candidate proposed more “world-record attempts” on campus and more outdoor band concerts.

He also said he wants to develop a student-run television station. “We’ve got a $450,000 budget and we’re definitely going to spend it,” he said.

The Unknown candidate was the only candidate to speak on the gay-lesbian issue. He said he was opposed to any school-sponsored gay-lesbian club.

The next speaker, Marty Rodgers, characterized he and his running-mate Buzz Eckelkamp as “normal, laid-back guys who know how to have a good time.” Rodgers, the executive coordinator for Student Affairs at Notre Dame, is running for student body president with Joiner Dillen Hall President “Buzz” Eckelkamp running for vice president. Other tickets include juniors Bill Sammon and Grace Giorgio, running for student body president and vice president, respectively, as well as junior John Lake and sophomore Debbie Delahanty, juniors Willie Gore Vidal, actor Gregory Peck and industrialist Armand Hammer were among the Americans at the gathering, called the Moscow Forum for a Nuclear-Free World and the Survival of Mankind.

A group of Soviets who want to join relatives abroad were kept at home by police Sunday after sending a telegram to the forum in which they said the protestors seeking Begun’s release were beaten by security agents.

“We want this inhumane and illegal action against peaceful people to be known by all members of the forum, including Mikhail Gorbatchev and Andrei Sakharov,” said the telegram, sent Saturday by Galina Gerasimov, Alexander Zhdanov and Vladimir Pimonov.

Gerasimov told The Associated Press on Sunday that all three were being kept from leaving their apartments by plainclothes security agents. She said she was not sure if the telegram, sent to the president of the forum, was ever received.

Leonid Yuzefovich, a Jewish activist, said he and two women got through security at one forum site, the Kosmos Hotel, and distributed an appeal for free emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

Yuzefovich said Soviet officials there refused to accept the appeal, and he was detained for an hour by military.

GLND/SMC knew nothing of flyers, says spokesman

By ANN MARIE DURING

Staff Reporter

A spokesman for the group calling itself the Gay and Lesbian Students at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s stated it was not responsible for the flyers posted last week that bore the group’s post office box number.

Although the flyers carried the approval stamp of the Office of Student Activities, Adele Lanan, assistant director, said, “We did not approve them. We never saw the flyers (before they were posted).”

Lanan said, “We do not know if a stamp was stolen. Security is investigating the matter.”

Student Activities must approve all flyers that are not from clubs and organizations of Notre Dame before they may be posted on campus, Lanan said.

The poster bore the box number and the group’s name, according to several people who saw the flyers before Security removed them.

Michael Dini, chairman of the public relations committee of GLND/SMC, said he had no idea who might be responsible for the flyers.

Dini said the posting of the flyers “was done at a time when the Student Senate was debating the issue of homosexuality.” There are lots of people on campus, I suppose, who would want to see that our group doesn’t get any official recognition.”
In Brief

A Notre Dame student will be formally charged today with driving while intoxicated in connection with the Dec. 6 fatal traffic accident involving junior Michael Crepwell, 19, who died at a Champaign hospital. The December 7, 1986 accident occurred at a stop sign on Le Roy Road and State Road 47, where he collided with a vehicle driven by Champaign County sheriff's deputy Gary Leventhal, 22. Leventhal survived the accident with minor injuries.

Women who were pregnant and lived near the Chernobyl nuclear power plant when it exploded and burned last year are 50 percent more likely than others to give birth to a mentally retarded child, a researcher said Sunday. Dr. Robert Gale of the University of California, Los Angeles, who has treated victims of the Chernobyl disaster, said 300 babies have now been born to mothers who were exposed at short range to Chernobyl’s radiation during their pregnancy. The estimate is based in part on studies of survivors of the Hiroshima atomic bomb in World War II, Gale said at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. - Associated Press

Weather

According to the National Weather Service, the cold front that passed through the area yesterday will move eastward tonight. Expect below-freezing temperatures tonight, followed by a gradual warming trend throughout the week. High pressure will dominate the area, resulting in mostly clear skies and light breezes. The temperature will hover around the freezing mark through the weekend, with a high of 40 degrees expected on Sunday.

If you care enough to send the very best, send yourself

This year, I forgot to send Valentine’s cards to the people I love the most. When I think about it, I realize I haven’t sent my parents a card for Valentine’s Day for years, although they still keep my collection of preschool paste-and-crayon Valentines. It’s not that I don’t love my parents, because I do. And it’s not that I don’t “care enough to send the very best.” This year, I did send the very best. I went home.

But this time, situations in the family-at-large were in an uproar. I got home just in time to drive with Mom to the airport for her flight to Austria. Dad and I were in such a nervous state we didn’t even remember what O’Hare lot we’d left the car.

We didn’t even remember what level the conservatory blue Buick was on. (I kept telling Dad that if we’d bought a Mercedes like I had wanted and had it painted pink, this type of thing would never have happened.) But somehow I am thankful for the four hours in the airport (two of them in the parking garage), because they brought my father and I closer together.

ND student assaulted early Saturday

By MARK PANKOWSKI

Notre Dame Security and South Bend Police were continuing their investigation Sunday into Saturday's graying of assault and robbery of a female University student.

The student suffered minor injuries in the incident, which occurred at about 10:30 p.m. near 1124 Eddy St., Assistant Director of Security Phil Johnson said.

The student was returning from an off-campus party with two other students when two men walked out from an alley behind John's and had minor injuries, Johnson said.

The assailant struck her in the head with a plastic flashlight, Johnson said.

When one of the students said they had no money, a suspect struck her in the head with a plastic flashlight, Johnson said.

One of the suspects then stole a pin from the student, and the two men fled.

Johnson said the student was taken to St. Joseph's Medical Center where she was treated for minor injuries and released.

One suspect was described as a black man, 25-32 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 140 pounds. He has short black hair and was wearing tennis shoes.

The other suspect was described as a black man, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. He has short black hair and was wearing new jeans, a gray ski jacket and a white stocking cap.

Johnson asked that anyone with information about the incident contact Security at 239-5555.

Franklin and Jim Magnan, as well as "Unknown."

In the senate race, there are eight candidates running. One student is elected from each district for a total of five student senators. In this year's election, three of the five districts have candidates running unopposed: sophomore Sean Hoffman of Stanford Hall in District 2, incumbent junior Brian Holst from Holy Cross in District 1, and junior Steve Wene, off-campus, in District 5.

In District 3, two candidates are running: freshmen Dave Bruner and freshmen Mike Carrigan, both from Dillon Hall. In District 4, there are two challengers to the sophomore incumbent Steve Viz of Planner: sophomore Laura Janke from Pasquerilla East, and freshmen Michael Schadek of Grace.

Two referendums have also been added by the senate to the ballot. The first referendum states: "The University and the students who govern it should divest of its holdings in companies engaged in business activities in South Africa - Yes, No, or Undecided." The second referendum states: "Every student pays a mandatory $12 annual Observer fee. The quality of the Observer is Very Good, Good, Average, Poor, or Very Poor."

and "work in cooperation with the administration, but we can't be friendly with the administration. We want the ability to constructively criticize."

Rodgers distinguished his ticket from the others in saying that he and Eckelkamp "already had the respect of the administration" and knew how to deal with it.

Vince Willis said he and running mate Cathy Nonenkamp have realistic ideas that he promised they would implement if elected. "We will represent student opinion to the Board of Trustees and the administration where a lot of the change has to take place," said Willis. Willis said he would make sure students "get their money's worth" out of student government and stressed the need for more awareness of student programs and for more underclassmen involvement.

John Lake also emphasized the need for realism in student government. He criticized past platforms for proposing ideas that have "never been implemented. Basically you can't change the administration," he said.

Lake said he and his running mate, Debbie Delahanty, do not have much experience, but he said he was glad that he did not because "I don't want to be involved with past governments."

Sophomore Class President Pat Cooke is matched with JPW commissioner Laurie Bink. Cooke said he wanted to "make student life a little easier." He said he was positive about the student government needs to challenge the administration, "make them change their ways." Cooke said, "the major obstruction to college life here at Notre Dame is the alcohol policy." He accused the administration of forcing drinking into private rooms instead of promoting social drinking. "We need a more constructive policy, one that stresses individual responsibility," Cooke said. Franklin said student government needs to have some impact on the administration. "If we can't make them change their ways we can at least make them look foolish in front of a great number of people," he said.

would stress the tradition of Notre Dame. Of the University, Sammon said, "It's Irish. It's Catholic. It's everything that's ever meant anything good."

Sammon said, "We'd like to set realistic goals for what we think our (student government) administration can do. Student government has been basically impotent as far as student governments go."

Sammon, who came to the debate in a kilt, said he wanted to have "a lot of fun" instead of trying to change the administration. "The administration will be the same administration," he said.

Willie Franklin and Jim Mag- non round out the presidential nominees. Franklin said student government needs to challenge the administration, "make them change their ways." "For the sake of perspective," he said, the group's point was to offer an awareness of "questionable and unethical" activities of the agency. "It was strictly an information campaign," said Gardner.

The bulletin reviewed the activities of the CIA in the past 25 years, from its involvement in the 1965 coup in Indonesia which the bulletin said led to the slaughter of nearly one million people to its implication in the recent Iranian arms scandal.

We endorse the ticket of Pat Cooke and Laurie Bink for student body president and student body vice president.

Strong leadership that brings results," Cooke and Bink's optimism, experience and professionalism make them the most qualified for the position.

Their platform is based around two main objectives.

The first objective is to bring student government back to the students. In order to do this, Cooke plans to reach the students by sitting in the dining halls and listening to the suggestions of the student body. He wants a realistic outlook toward student government and seems to recognize that government can be effective if students want to get involved.

The second objective of the platform is "to make student life easier." Student services, such as providing shuttles to and from the airport before and after breaks and increasing parking security, were two ideas Cooke proposed.

Cooke and Bink's experience in student government affairs was greater than the other candidates. Cooke has served as president of the Freshman Advisory Council and currently serves as sophomore class president. Bink is currently JFW commissioner.

Cooke also seemed confident of his ability to deal with the various structure of government.

The tickets of Marty Rodgers and "Buzz" Eckelkamp and Vince Willis and Cathy Nonnenkamp were also well qualified for the position. Although Rodgers and Eckelkamp's platform was based on the strength of Rodgers' experience as student government's executive coordinator for student affairs, Cooke's work ethic and practical knowledge of the government structure make the ticket superior to Rogers'. Despite Vince Willis and Cathy Nonnenkamp's familiarity with student government affairs, Cooke's assertiveness in dealing with student affairs and his administration make their ticket a better choice.

Pat Cooke and Laurie Bink's ticket is the best, most well-rounded ticket in this election. They seem to have the knowledge of the student government structure, the desire to begin new activities, and the competence and confidence to effectively run student government and truly make it representative of student interests.

The Observer
I was sitting around my room Wednesday night. Nothing much was happening. I'd done some homework, gone to visit a friend, had a beer but still there was something wrong. I was feeling restless, on edge. Something was in the air.

I sat there feeling this way for another half hour before the knock came. I opened the door and there she was.

Marilyn Monroe. I was dumbfounded. So dumbfounded that I uttered the word "impossibly" in history. "Uh, hi, I thought you were dead." "I'm here for one person only. Love," she murmured huskily, "and I'll show you things, take you places, teach you what you could never learn anywhere else."

"I believe that," I replied, "but you call yourself a product of the arts-type-weakness-for-women-mixed-up-idiom-imagi‌nation?"

"Don't be a fool," she purred, running her hands through my hair and blowing smoke in my ear, "I'm as real as you can possibly be and I'm here for one person only. You."

"That's not easy though," I replied. "I go to school here. All my friends are here and my parents paid a lot of money for all of this."

"No, she said. "It is easy. Forget all this and come with me. I'll show you things that aren't in books."

"I'm sure you will," I muttered, glancing at her legs. I thought about it for a while. Here I was, sitting in my room while Marilyn Monroe bled in my ear. Millions of men had dreamed about little moment and I was having trouble making the decision.

Suddenly though, it all became clear to me. I would do it but I needed time to say goodbye. "Can I have week to think about it?"

"Sure she is Murph," he sighed. "I'll pick you up Monday morning. Let's hope for an answer to your proposal."

"That's why I've come for you. I know you appreciate beautiful women and I know that you're confused, restless. But it's nothing abnormal. Just a thing that happens to people everywhere."

"What can you do for me?" I asked, feeling confused and excited.

"I want you to come with me," she murmured huskily. "I'm here for one person only. Love."

Hicks. Aside from his 19 points, Hicks said, as his win, turned on only one of his 16 attempts from the field.

"The game plan was to concentrate on getting open shots," said Hicks of his scoring. "When David Rivers would drive, the Irish defense would collapse, and I was able to get open shots and my rhythm going."

As for Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski, he had nothing but praise for his team's performance.

"It was a game of many opportunities," he said. "We had them 20 points up. These kids are ready. I think they are ready to go out and play with the best of them, and they converted on their chances, said Krzyzewski, whose Blue Devils fell to 3-10."

"Defensively, I thought we played pretty good, but we lost a lot. But to get fouls means you're playing good defense, and then to make the foul shots means you're shooting under pressure."

"Maybe we pushed our opportunities because we wanted to quicken the tempo. But we made some poor decisions. We missed a lot in transition and the inside shots that we put back up and couldn't hit. It was very frustrating."

Sunday's game started strongly. The Irish jumped out to a 9-0 lead early, but quickly fell behind, 12-9. From then on, the Blue Devils took back control and far. The Irish got down nine near the end of the second half, but the Blue Devils overtook them in the second half. From then on, the Irish showed DePaul at the ACC on Feb. 25.

"I think we're one of the top teams in the nation," said Krzyzewski. "I've been impressed with their balance. Take a look at the teams in with 10 to 13 losses."

"That's all we're going to do. We're going to go out and play with the best of them, and they converted on their chances," said Krzyzewski, whose Blue Devils fell to 3-10."

Irish wrestlers' long weekend hurts

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Friday night's dual meet with Michigan was the epitome of a Notre Dame wrestling season that has included more than its share of injuries and misfortune.

In a meet that began more than two hours later than its original starting time, the Irish fell, 39-7, and, more importantly, lost two 20-match winners - Andy Radenbaugh and Pat Boyd. Radenbaugh and Boyd had been among the last few wrestlers from the season's original starting lineup to survive the year with no injuries.

"This is just the craziest year I've experienced in my life," said Head Coach Fran McCann. "I've never seen anything like this. You're going to get bumps and bruises, but these are all serious injuries. I've never had anyone out for the season before this year."

The meet, which had originally been switched to an 8 p.m. start just this week, never got started until 9:30 p.m., causing an Irish team that had just gotten off a bus to Michigan to get even more tired.

"The meet was scheduled for 7, they called me and said it was going to be at 8, and it didn't get started till 9:30 because a women's basketball game was going on. We traveled on the bus for three hours, hung around for three hours, and got on the mat at 9:30," said McCann. "The sad part is that they (Michigan) knew all along when the meet was scheduled for and they lied to us. I would never treat a team like that, and they showed no remorse for it afterward."

Things got worse. In the first match, Radenbaugh, leading 4-1, fractured his leg just above the ankle. Radenbaugh underwent surgery Saturday, and will be out for the remainder of the season.

Two matches later, Pat Boyd hurt his shoulder in the first period of his match. He continued to wrestle, and he went on to win the match, but Boyd is now out for at least two weeks.

"We didn't know how hurt he was," said McCann. "He showed a lot of guts to continue."

The injury is similar to one suffered by fellow 20-match winner Jerry Durso earlier in the year, which sidelined him for two weeks.

"It's a little worse than Jerry's. The swelling's pretty good, and he can't raise his arm at all," said McCann. "It will be at least two weeks. We hope to have him back for regionals."

The Irish could not recover after that, as junior Ron Wiesniewski's major decision was the only other Notre Dame victory.

"Ron wrestled very well. It was a nice win for him. He was wrestling a three-time high school state champ in Michigan who was highly recruited, and Ron wrestled hard the whole time," said McCann. "We were just intimidated by them, and that bothered me."

"It was not a very good weekend. Once Andy got hurt, it just cast a big black cloud on everything. I was extremely upset about the whole organization of the meet. It may have had some effect on people getting injured."

"It wasn't fair to the kids," McCann continued. "They were put in a bad situation, and I blame Michigan for it."
Elliot claims second Daytona win

Associated Press

Bill Elliott won his second Daytona 500 as defending champion Geoff Bodine, losing a high-stakes gamble, ran out of gas three laps from the end yesterday at Daytona International Speedway. Elliott, the 1985 winner, out-muscled the fastest field in Daytona history most of the day. But he had to watch and wait in the last 13 laps as Bodine took a calculated risk by staying on the racetrack, hoping to squeeze out 45 laps of racing out of a nearly-empty gas tank. Bodine did get in 42 laps and was about 30 seconds in the lead on the 3.5-mile track when his Chevrolet sputtered and quit. The engine stopped just after he had passed the pit entrance, forcing him to roll slowly around the track while Elliott's Ford Thunderbird and the rest of the lead cars roared past. Elliott then held off Benny Parsons for the victory. The winner crossed the finish line just six-tenths of a second ahead of Parsons.

Lady Vols thrash Irish, 90-55

Special to The Observer

KNOXVILLE - Notre Dame fell victim to Tennessee's relentless pressure defense Saturday afternoon and the Irish fell to the seventh-ranked Lady Volunteers, 90-55, in women's basketball.

Tennessee forced 28 Irish turnovers and converted many of those into breakaway layup baskets. Meanwhile the Lady Vols featured a balanced attack, with seven players scoring at least eight points. Notre Dame drops to 6-15 while Tennessee improves to 18-5.

"We didn't play well at all," said Irish coach Mary DiStasiada. "We were obviously undermanned and we didn't do too much to help our cause. Tennessee's pressure defense just gave us all kinds of problems and we certainly didn't rebound very well."

The Irish were beaten on the boards, 48-28. Sophomore guard Disendra Tooney led the Irish with 18 points, equaling her season high. Freshman Annie Schwartz had 16 and Heidi Bunek 11.

Notre Dame stayed close for the better part of 10 minutes, and trailed by just eight points with eight minutes to play in the half. But a Tennessee spurt in the closing minutes left the Irish staring at a 37-22 halftime deficit.

Things got no better in the second period, as Tennessee methodically built on its lead. The final margin of 35 was the game's largest.

The Irish were plagued with foul trouble from the outset. Bunek, Sandy Bot ham and Cathy Emigholz all fouled out, leaving Notre Dame with just six players in the final minute.

Shelly Sexton had 16, while Carla McGhee and Tavia Frost had 12 each for the Volunteers.

Notre Dame shot 35 free throws while Notre Dame shot only five.

Notre Dame returns home to meet Illinois-Chicago at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Phillips said it would.

"He kept telling me this was going to be my game," Fredrick said. "I remember riding around since the first week of practice, he told me I was going to win a game and it wasn't going to be a little one, it was going to be a big one on television."

"Friday, when I went into practice for Scott, I shot about 1,500 free throws. I just shot free throws and he told me 'You know it's going to be a little different with all the fans here but it's going to be the same thing as you're going to make your routine and hit it.' He told me all week I'd be on the line with a chance to win the game. There's just something about him," he continued. "I don't know how he knows these things are going to happen."

"After those free throws, it was time for the other freshman of the day, Padock, to do his part. Put into the game when Donald Royal was hitting two free throws with 24 seconds left to give the Irish the lead for good, Paddock rebounded the missed free throw by Smith, a 79-percent free-throw shooter on the season, and was fouled. Paddock, shooting 36 percent from the line, then hit both ends of the one-and-one to seal the win.

"We were in the huddle and the guys said, 'Smith's going to miss that free throw and just make sure you box out,'" Padock said. "Everything worked out well, I boxed out, I got the rebound and when I went to the line, I tried to block out all the distractions and just remember what I worked on in practice. Once I made the first one, the second one was easy." Fredrick gives a lot of credit to Scott Hicks, his roommate on the road, for curing the "freshman blues."

"He had a really big day," Fredrick said. "He's helped to keep me up. It's a big day for our veterans and I'm really happy for Scott." The final statistics give a modest report of the fresh- man's work. Fredrick finished with four points, one steal and one turnover in 13 minutes of play. Paddock ended with four points, two rebounds, one foul and one blocked shot in eight minutes of play. But those numbers hide what the game meant to the Alumni Hall roommates.

"We've had to step up for the Gold team all week so we knew the coaches were giving us as much as the starters did," Paddock said. "I think we took advantage of it."
Irish hope to avoid letdown, stop Bailey against Wagner

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

Digger Phelps and the Notre Dame basketball team have a couple of things to think about when they take the ACC floor against Wagner tonight.

One is that the NBC cameras, the Dick Enberges, the Al McGuirees and the nationally-ranked teams from the Atlantic Coast Conference are gone, but they still have to play basketball.

Another is Terrance Bailey. The Seahawks were 12-7 heading into a pair of games late last week, and riding a six-game winning streak. Bailey, their main offensive weapon, was fourth in the nation in scoring with an average of 28 points per game, and the 1986 champion.

"Bailey is a tremendous talent who does everything for Wagner," said Phelps. "They're strong on the boards and right now they're just really in a groove in terms of playing well and doing the right things to win games."

The senior guard is complemented in the backcourt by another senior, Andre Van Droost, who averages eight points per contest.

At forward are a pair of players with foreign playing experience. Largest Agbejemin (no, we're not kidding) stands 6-7 and hails from Badan, Nigeria, while 6-4 Dean Borges, who played high-school ball in Puerto Rico, fills the other forward slot. Agbejemin averages better than 13 points and 11 rebounds a game, while Borges contributes 13 points and five boards per contest.

Sophomore Todd Grain, 6-8, fills the middle and averages eight points and six rebounds per contest.

But perhaps even more powerful than Bailey, although a lot less exciting, is that invisible opponent that seemed to haunt the Irish after their last upset win over a nationally-ranked team - the letdown.

It happened in a Notre Dame overtime victory over LaSalle after the Irish had knocked off top-ranked North Carolina, and Phelps thinks it might happen again after yesterday's 76-66 upset of 15th-ranked Duke.

"I'm concerned about having a letdown after this big win," Phelps said yesterday. "We're playing Wagner here and everybody's going to laugh. I guarantee that, in the first half, that's not going to look like the same team that played Duke here (yesterday). That's just human nature."

The last time the Notre Dame played on back-to-back days was on January 20th, and either Southern Illinois Edwardsville or Western Illinois or Quincy.

Stanford/Lewis squad wins LNO

Special to The Observer

The team representing Stanford and Lewis wins the overall championship in the first-annual Late Night Olympics competition Friday and Saturday at the ACC.

Puffer-Howard-Pasquella West was second, with 891 points, to the winners 1,050, while Cavanaugh-Breen-Phelps/Hoosier Midwest placed third with 864. Points were awarded for participating in events, winning games and taking part in the not-so-olympic activities.

Stanford-Lewis also won the grand-prize competition, in which eight of the 13 teams participated. Teams put in $100 to participate. "We're finally gotten to the indoor," said Sally Derengoski, Assistant Director of Non-Varsity Athletics, which sponsored the event. "The participation level was excellent and a lot of the extra events went well."

Advance entries amounted to better than 300 teams and 1,200 participants. Derengoski said approximately 1,000 people actually took part in the Olympics, which lasted from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Soccer team plays well in tourney

By PETE GEGEN

The Irish soccer squad performed well, but an old nemesis kept the team out of the finals of the Butzweider Indoor Soccer Classic in St. Louis.

In a three-game set on Saturday, the Irish defeated Meremac, 3-1, and Sangamon State, 3-2, but fell to rival Indiana, 4-1.

A controversial goal by Indiana gave the Hoosiers a 2-1 lead. Notre Dame pulled back from a 17-point third-quarter deficit to a 106-104 victory over the Boston Celtics, giving the Lakers the best record in the NBA.

Johnson averaged 12 points and six rebounds a game this season, one game better than the Celtics.

With the Lakers down by three, Johnson hit a 15-foot jumper and then made a spinning layup with 1:29 to play to give Los Angeles a 96-97 lead.

Los Angeles tops Boston

Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. - Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 29 points and led Los Angeles back from a 17-point third-quarter deficit to a 106-104 victory over the Boston Celtics, giving the Lakers the best record in the NBA.

Johnson scored eight points over the final three and a-half minutes, including two clinching free throws with four seconds to play, to lift the Lakers to their 38th victory in 50 games this season, one game better than the Celtics.

With the Lakers down by three, Johnson hit a 15-foot jumper and then made a spinning layup with 1:29 to play to give Los Angeles a 96-97 lead.

Irish dump Duke in OT, 70-66
ND adds No. 15 Blue Devils to growing ACC casualty list

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

If Notre Dame's upset of North Carolina two weeks ago was a Notre Dame Moment, then Notre Dame's 70-66 overtime upset of 15th-ranked Duke has to at least qualify as a mini-moment.

Senior guard and co-captain Scott Hicks scored a season-high 19 points, and freshmen Joe Fredrick and Scott Paddock came off the bench in overtime to hit key free throws to add another installment to the Irish tradition of knocking off highly-rated opponents at the ACC.

As has been the case all year, the 14-3 Irish fought and scrapped to hang in the game and have a shot at victory in the final minutes. Sunday, the lead changed hand seven times and was knotted on 11 occasions.

"We've been in every game we've played this year," said Phelps. "We're a team right now that doesn't know how to lose because we just don't quit. Even (near the end of regulation) when we went down four, we went to zone and got back up two, that's how these kids adjust. That's why I love this group. They just do things that they're not supposed to do. That's what makes this an interesting basketball team that is not done yet with what we're trying to do.

The Irish dodged a bullet, when with 16 seconds left in overtime, Duke guard Tommy Amaker led a three-on-one Blue Devil fast break. Rather than press the advantage, Amaker pulled up and fired short on an 18-foot jumper.

"When they went down at the end of regulation and didn't score," Phelps said, "I thought the momentum went our way. I liked that juvenile.

The final moments.

Although few fans would have guessed it, Notre Dame head coach Digger Phelps knew it all week. He told Joe Fredrick he was going to be a hero against Duke.

And even though it took a while, Fredrick made Phelps' predictions come true.

The freshman guard combined with his classmate, Scott Paddock, to seal another installment to the Irish tradition of knocking off highly-rated opponents at the ACC.

Fredrick replaced Mark Stevenson, who fouled out just two seconds into overtime, hit a jumper and two free throws, while Paddock gathered in John Smith's missed free throw with four seconds remaining and made two more free throws to ice the game.

Phelps pointed out the contributions of the freshmen when mentioning the crucial points of the game.

Fredrick coming off the bench- and he knew this week that he was going to play- along with Scott Paddock, got us six points at the end of the game.

For the freshmen to get those six points was the key to the game, Phelps said. But their success came as no surprise to the Irish coach. He was telling anyone who would listen all week long that it was going to happen.

"I mentioned to people all week the hero of this game was going to be number three (Fredrick)," Phelps said. "I don't know why, I just felt it. That was just something that came out, that Joe Fredrick was going to be the guy that's not going to be afraid to come off the bench and stick them when we need them no matter what the situation was going to be.

"And I prepped him on it all week. I spent time with him on his foul shooting all week, I spent time with Scott Paddock's shooting fouls all week, and those kids were just going to step up and be heroes today.

"Even though Fredrick had spent nearly the whole game on the bench, Fredrick said Phelps had not forgotten his prediction when he put the guard in the lineup to replace Stevenson.

"He said, 'I told you that you were going to be a hero, now you've got five minutes to do it,'" Fredrick recalled.

When Fredrick entered the game in the overtime, the Irish ran the same offense that had opened Stevenson for jump shots earlier. The Cincinnati, Ohio, native produced the same results as Stevenson had by burying a baseline jumper to tie the game at 62.

Then, after getting a player control foul, Fredrick got open in the lane and David Rivers found him off a drive. Fredrick was fouled and nearly hit the shot. That left him at the line for two his first free throws of the season with 1:04 left in overtime and the game tied at 64. He made both foul shots.

Once again, it happened just as Phelps had predicted.

Freshmen Fredrick, Paddock respond down the stretch

The Notre Dame hockey team lost one and tied one this weekend against Michigan Dearborn. Chris Dallavo recap the action at right.

The Notre Dame hockey team lost one and tied one this weekend against Michigan Dearborn. Chris Dallavo recaps the action at right.

The lone Irish goal was scored by freshman defense- man Bruce Haikola in the third period, which averted the shutout.

Contrary to what the score indicates, goaltending was not the main problem. It was more of an overall lack of enthusiasm at both ends of the ice.

"We were hurt by poor play up front, and also on defense," Smith continued. "Four of their goals came right after a face-off, which indicates how bad it was."

Saturday was a different story, however, as the Irish fought back to tie the game with only 23 seconds left. The comeback was spurred by the return of Irish captain Mike McNell to the center position. McNell, who had been moved to defense because of injuries, ignited the offense with two goals, including the game-tying tally.

"If we could split McNell in half, we would be in great shape," praised Smith. "He really means a lot to this team.

The Irish got goals from Matt Hanzel and Bruce Guay prior to McNell's crucial scores.

The game-tying goal came when the Irish pulled their goaltender, which is the first time that has worked this year.

"This team is hard to figure out," Smith said. "One day we play well, the next we come out quite lack of enthusiasm, and the next, we show the heart that we were missing."

Injuries continue to plague the Irish, although Smith hopes to get three key players, Brian Montgomery, Roy Remiss and Tom Smith, back this week.

"We're still shuffling lines around, but hopefully we will settle down when they return," Smith noted.

The Irish travel to Lake Forest next weekend for a pair of games as they try to gain some momentum for the upcoming American Collegiate Hockey Playoffs to be held at Notre Dame March 6-7.
