The Observer

Aide told Reagan twice of Contra money link, according to report

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A Senate committee investigating the Iran-Contra affair could vote this week on immunity for former White House aide John Poindexter, who, according to a published report, maintains he twice told the president that Iranian arms sales generated money for the Nicaraguan rebels.

Some members of the Senate select committee are pushing for a speedy vote on immunity for key figures in the investigation, but other senators say that would be too soon.

One Congressional source said the Senate panel is "moving toward a decision one way or the other" on whether to grant immunity to Poindexter, the former national security adviser, and fired White House aide Lt. Col. Oliver North, and perhaps North's associate, retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord.

But the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said it was too soon to say whether the necessary two-thirds majority of committee members would vote for immunity.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post, citing "a well-placed legal source," said Poindexter contends that on two occasions in 1986 he told President Reagan that the arms sales to Iran were generating money for the Contras.

This source, according to the newspaper's Sunday editions, said Poindexter did not tell the president of illegal diversion of the money, but did say the funds contributed by the Iranians or Israelis were a side benefit to the arms sales.

A close Navy associate of Poindexter, who the newspaper did not identify, said Poindexter in December told him his actions followed "the chain of command."

White House officials, according to a "source close to the president" quoted by the Post, anticipate that Poindexter "will say he had direction and that he did not act 'directly' by Reagan and that the former security adviser's testimony would damage the president's claim that he did not know of any diversion of funds from the arms sales to the Contras.

The Tower commission, appointed by the president to investigate the Iran-Contra affair, said it found no evidence to dispute Reagan's contention that he had no knowledge of the diversion.

see REAGAN, page 4

Work begins on athletic facility with astroturf surface

By DIANE SCHROEDER

The new building will encompass the new track and field area, which will be enclosed by a track. Construction, which began four weeks ago, is scheduled to be completed by the end of October, said Don Dedrick, director of the physical plant.

The surrounding space will accommodate a weight room and exercise area, as well as sports classes and conference rooms, according to Dedrick.

"One of the greatest benefits is the massive amount of space the building will make available for recreation while reducing the congestion at the Athletics and Convocation Center," said Dedrick.

The new indoor track will be one of the finest in the country, allowing for faster times, said Dedrick.

"Because the track will be so weit, there will be fewer turns which will allow for more straight-away track and faster times," said Carrington. "Most indoor tracks have ten laps to the mile, and ours will have only five or six."

The track and field area of the north dome of the ACC will be turned into basketball courts for the students, and the ACC varsity weight room will also be made accessible to the students, according to Corrigan.

see BUILDING, page 3

Mountain man Claude Dallas finally captured

friends in the area, authorities said. His been a good day, a great day," said Owyhee County, Idaho, Sheriff Tim Nettleton after hearing about the capture. Nettleton headed the initial investigation that led to the 1982 capture of Dallas in Paradise Hill, Nev.

"Claude Dallas, in the exception of being a game hog and game officer killer, was a nice guy. A lot of people share his sentiments but they don't kill people," Dallas, 37, became a folk hero to some after cutting his way through two prison fences on March 30, Easter Sunday, and fleeing into the high desert of southern Idaho and northern Nevada. He was serving a 30-year sentence for manslaughter.

Many admirers saw Dallas as a modern-day version of the rugged individual of the Old West. He was the subject of a CBS-TV movie last year, "Manhunt: Search for Claude Dallas," which many critics said romanticized the killer.

"He's as much of a Western hero as Charles Manson," author Jack Olson, who researched Dallas for his book "Give a Boy a Gun," had said earlier. "Dallas would kill a lawman with about the same guilt and conscience as he eats his Wheaties in the morning."

Dallas had managed to evade authorities for 16 months before he was arrested in the 1981 slayings of the two game wardens, Bill Pogue and Conley Elms.

He was put on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List 47 days after his prison escape. A reward fund had grown to more than $15,000.

Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Calif. - Self-styled mountain man Claude Dallas, who escaped from the Idaho State Penitentiary after being convicted of killing two state Fish and Game wardens, was captured Sunday in California, the FBI said.

Dallas, using the alias Al Schreck, was peacefully arrested at a convenience market in this ranching-area community 50 miles east of Los Angeles, said FBI spokesman Fred Regan.

Dallas apparently had

see WVFI, page 4

WVFI to broadcast after break

By MARILYN BENCHIK

WVFI will tentatively start broadcasting again the after break, according to Sheila McDaniel, station manager/program director.

The AM radio station has been off the air since the last week of finals in December. "We usually go off the air see WVFI, page 4

The Observer/Zoltan Ury

Study temple

As sunshine hit the campus, students hit the quad this weekend. These three "priestesses of Stonehenge" seem to be having a (large) ball as they study by the Peace Memorial Fountain.

PR director: Hesburgh not speaker

By GREG LUCAS

This year, the honorary degree members will be leaders in the areas that Father Hesburgh himself is distinguished," such as civil rights and education, Conklin said. The choice of who is invited to be commencement speaker is made entirely by Hesburgh and the Board of Trustees, Conklin said. The honorary degree recipients are chosen in the same manner, Conklin added.

"Our policy is to wait everyone before releasing names," said Conklin. According to Conklin, invitations have been sent out to this year's prospective graduation speaker and approximately 10 or 12 potential honorary degree recipients.

"I would not be surprised if (Hesburgh) speaks sometime during the ceremony, but he will not be the commencement speaker," Conklin said.

By JOHN R. LOFTUS

Areas previously used by varsity athletes at the ACC will primarily for varsity athletes, said Athletic Director Gene Conklin. The surrounding space will accommodate a weight room and exercise area, as well as sports classes and conference rooms, according to Corrigan.

"One of the greatest benefits is the massive amount of space the building will make available for recreation while reducing the congestion at the Athletics and Convocation Center," said Dedrick.

The new indoor track will be one of the finest in the country, allowing for faster times, said Dedrick. "Because the track will be so weit, there will be fewer turns which will allow for more straight-away track and faster times," said Carrington. "Most indoor tracks have ten laps to the mile, and ours will have only five or six."

The track and field area of the north dome of the ACC will be turned into basketball courts for the students, and the ACC varsity weight room will also be made accessible to the students, according to Corrigan.

see BUILDING, page 3

Mountain man Claude Dallas finally captured

friends in the area, authorities said. His been a good day, a great day," said Owyhee County, Idaho, Sheriff Tim Nettleton after hearing about the capture. Nettleton headed the initial investigation that led to the 1982 capture of Dallas in Paradise Hill, Nev.

"Claude Dallas, in the exception of being a game hog and game officer killer, was a nice guy. A lot of people share his sentiments but they don't kill people," Dallas, 37, became a folk hero to some after cutting his way through two prison fences on March 30, Easter Sunday, and fleeing into the high desert of southern Idaho and northern Nevada. He was serving a 30-year sentence for manslaughter.

Many admirers saw Dallas as a modern-day version of the rugged individual of the Old West. He was the subject of a CBS-TV movie last year, "Manhunt: Search for Claude Dallas," which many critics said romanticized the killer.

"He's as much of a Western hero as Charles Manson," author Jack Olson, who researched Dallas for his book "Give a Boy a Gun," had said earlier. "Dallas would kill a lawman with about the same guilt and conscience as he eats his Wheaties in the morning."

Dallas had managed to evade authorities for 16 months before he was arrested in the 1981 slayings of the two game wardens, Bill Pogue and Conley Elms.

He was put on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List 47 days after his prison escape. A reward fund had grown to more than $15,000.

Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Calif. - Self-styled mountain man Claude Dallas, who escaped from the Idaho State Penitentiary after being convicted of killing two state Fish and Game wardens, was captured Sunday in California, the FBI said.

Dallas, using the alias Al Schreck, was peacefully arrested at a convenience market in this ranching-area community 50 miles east of Los Angeles, said FBI spokesman Fred Regan.

Dallas apparently had
Many tobacco lovers in this city of 80,000 people will have to lift up away from their desks Monday because a smoking ban went into effect over the weekend affecting virtually all public places. As of Sunday, this hub of academia and home of Harvard University outlawed smoking in private, state, county and municipal buildings, affecting an estimated 86,000 workers. Each institution is to set a smoking policy with non-smokers in mind. Designated smoking areas can be established only if they do not affect non-smokers. - Associated Press

Of Interest

"Inflation in Latin America: Old Lessons and New Ideas," a Brown Bag seminar, will be presented by Rene Cortazar of the department of economics and a Faculty Fellow, Tuesday at 12 p.m. in Room 131 Decio Hall. - The Observer

Tickets for the April 5th Huey Lewis & the News concert will go on sale Tuesday at 8 a.m. You will need your student ID to purchase the tickets. In order to accommodate Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, on Tuesday students only will be able to buy tickets starting at 5 p.m., at the ticket windows located at Gate 3 of the ACC. A valid Notre Dame or Saint Mary's I.D. is required to purchase tickets at the Gate 3 location. There will be a limit of four tickets per purchasing student. No lines may form before 6 a.m. on Tuesday. A ticket sale for seniors will begin at the same time at Gate 10 ticket windows. - The Observer

Margaret Theisen, director of Volunteers for Educational and Social Services, will distribute information and answer questions about the program being offered to graduating seniors, today 9 a.m.-12 p.m. in the Library Concourse and 2-4 p.m. at the Center for Social Concerns. - The Observer

The Collegiate Jazz Festival poster design contest has been extended until Tuesday, March 10. Designs are due Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Student Activities Board secretary's office. For further information, call Kevin at 285-0319. - The Observer

Weather

All weekend you've been playing Frisbee, kog softball, and lounging in the poppy field dreaming of spring break. Though Monday, the good witch of the north, waves her magic wand and out of nowhere it is cloudy, windy and cold today with slowly falling temperatures. There's no place like home.

Activity advisers should let students make the decisions

Like the rest of the seniors, come spring break, my four years with The Observer will end. From 8 a.m.-12 p.m. on Tuesday, the managing editor's desk will be Mark Pankowski. It'll be up to him to handle the daily crises and to stay up until dawn, if necessary, to get the paper to the printer.

Mark, I wish you nothing but the best. As look back on four years, one of the things that has made working for The Observer so exciting is the ability to make decisions and to take responsibility for my actions. It's this decision-making ability that has motivated me to continue with this organization for four long years. Needless to say, the experiences I've had made it all worthwhile.

But this year, the headlines in The Observer have marketed an interesting but disturbing trend away from student leadership and responsibility.

Consider Senior Bar. At the end of last semester, the Office of Student Activities hired a full-time general manager to oversee the operations of the student-run Senior Club. The new professional manager assumed some of the responsibilities that were previously solely handled by the student managers.

Consider the incident with Scholastic. When the student editors ran an illustration showing a sexually explicit scene, the Office of Student Activities shut them down. Everyone cried "censorship." While the independence of student media is a reality we need to respect, I think, is that the Office of Student Activities, their "publisher," no longer trusts the student editors, whoever they may be in future years, to make responsible decisions. The student editors may have made a bad decision to run the artwork showing a sexually explicit scene. But the student editors should have been left to take the responsibility for the bad publicity that their decision might have caused.

Next consider what happened with the Danin' Irish. The faculty board in control of athletics disbanded the Danin' Irish on Jan. 29 after reviewing complaints about the group's performances. The appeals committee reinstated the Danin' Irish for one more year but added several stipulations to the organization's new lease on life. One of these was the appointment of an adviser to assure duties that the group's co-captains had previously handled.

The trend that I perceive in each of these three incidents is that student leaders are playing less and less of a role in responsible decision-making because the University has decided that professionals are more competent to make vital decisions than are students.
The Observer Monday, March 9, 1987 - page 3

Group sponsors collection contest

By CARL MARTINEZ

News staff

The Friends of the Library are sponsoring "Print and Sound Collector's Contest - 1987" for Notre Dame graduate and undergraduate students who have literary and music collections.

The purpose of the contest is to recognize and encourage the intelligent formation of personal libraries by Notre Dame students. Entries will be judged on the basis of a unifying theme and a discriminating selection of titles.

Entries need not be extensive, but titles would be sufficient. Deadline for entries is March 31.

According to Vikki Maac- houk, special assistant to the Director of Libraries, the themes represent great diversity. "They include books, magazines, newspapers, compact discs, records, tapes expanded to poetry and new wave. I think the contest is unique. You can take it in any direction you want to go. It's very broad."

"This will be the first time the Friends have sponsored such a contest," said Maac- houk, who keeps contacts between the group and the library.

Since the contest is new, the requirements for entries are loosely set to encourage creativity and allow for versatility.

"Because of the broadness of the contest it is hard to come up with judges and set rules. This is why we've decided to leave it quite loose. Those who will be judged include representatives from the music department, English department and two librarians," she said.

Kristen Trimble, American studies public relations intern, proposed the idea for the contest last spring along with the help of John Harlan, special assistant to the Director of Libraries.

"The Friends wanted a new activity and they liked Kristen's idea," said Maac- houk.

Bodies of victims still trapped inside ferry

Associated Press

ZEERBRUGGE, Belgium Engineers tried Sunday to right a capsized British ferry in an effort to retrieve the bodies of 82 people believed trapped in the half-submerged vessel off the Belgian coast.

Relatives of passengers, meanwhile, went to a makeshift morgue in a basketball court to identify the 33 bodies recovered so far. Of the 548 passengers and crew, 408 survived.

The Herald of Free Enterprise fell on its port side outside the port about 15 minutes after departing Friday night for Dover, England.

On Sunday, two salvage ships carrying giant cranes moved in on thestricken vessel. The un-recovered corpses were presumed trapped under heavy debris or in sections of the boat inaccessible to divers.

Building

continued from page 1

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh said, "The generosity of John Loftus will both enhance the quality of student life and undergird Notre Dame's splendid athletic tradition."

Loftus, a native of Dixon, Ill., earned a Notre Dame monogram in basketball.

Said Loftus: "This building acknowledges in a small way what the spirit of Notre Dame has meant within my family."

Class of '90

Tuxedo Rental

Senior Formal

Pierre Cardin,
Bill Blass,
and more....

Black Classic... $35.00

Pay no more than $50.00

Century

Formalwear

1622 Mishawaka Ave

287-5938

We Want to Fight For You!

Vote: "General" Gene Patton

Doug/Jeff/Rich

Anti-Violence Activist

Center for Teaching Non-Violence & Peace

1611 Chestnut St.

Philadelphia, PA 19103

215/238-7356

P.O. Box 219, Chicago, IL 60680

We are students dedicated to non-violent change. We are dedicated to the elimination of violence in all forms.

Tuxedo Rental

Senior Formal

Pierre Cardin,
Bill Blass,
and more....

Black Classic... $35.00

Pay no more than $50.00

Century

Formalwear

1622 Mishawaka Ave

287-5938

We Want to Fight For You!

Vote: "General" Gene Patton

Doug/Jeff/Rich

Anti-Violence Activist

Center for Teaching Non-Violence & Peace

1611 Chestnut St.

Philadelphia, PA 19103

215/238-7356

P.O. Box 219, Chicago, IL 60680

We are students dedicated to non-violent change. We are dedicated to the elimination of violence in all forms.

The Observer

The Observer

St. Edward's Hall Players

PRESENTS

and the j

IN 1234 ACTS

BY WILLIAM VAN ZANT

AND JANE MILLIGAN

Washington Hall

March 9, 10, & 11

8:00 P.M.

Admission - $1.50

We Want to Fight For You!

Vote: "General" Gene Patton

Doug/Jeff/Rich

Anti-Violence Activist

Center for Teaching Non-Violence & Peace

1611 Chestnut St.

Philadelphia, PA 19103

215/238-7356

P.O. Box 219, Chicago, IL 60680

We are students dedicated to non-violent change. We are dedicated to the elimination of violence in all forms.
Reagan
continued from page 1

last day of classes before finals," McDaniel said. She said the station originally planned to begin broadcasting during the first week of March. "While we've received the equipment, transmitters and rack cabinets, we're still waiting for equipment.

"The equipment took longer to build than we and the company expected," said McDaniel. She said the station had not ruled out buying from another vendor.

"These meters can detect problems with the transmissions of air waves, such as problems with the sound quality, or inability to broadcast to a certain dorm," said McDaniel. She said the station had not ruled out buying from another vendor.

"We have the same turntable, cassette deck, and program board," she said. McDaniel said the station would conduct a larger promotion during the spring semester.

"They're psychic to get back from break and get on the air. Everyone has missed broadcasting," she said.

Indictments expected in Iran deal
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Investigators working for the special prosecutor examining the Iran arms deal expect to bring indictments and are studying criminal charges against current and former government officials, The New York Times reported in Monday editions.

The newspaper cited law enforcement officials with knowledge of the investigation as saying investigators are focusing on at least three felonies: conspiring to defraud the government, obstructing justice and making false statements to the government.

The officials said special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh and his staff had not ruled out anyone, including senior Reagan administration officials, as suspects, according to the Times.

Reagan
continued from page 1

Security Beat
The following incidents were reported to Notre Dame Security this week:

Friday

12:40 a.m. - An off-campus graduate student's car was damaged while it was parked in the Main Circle. Damage is estimated at $100.

3:47 a.m. - A Law School student reported that his wallet was stolen from his coat while he was in the library of the Law School. The coat was left on a chair in one of the study areas. Loss is set at $25.

4:30 p.m. - A resident of Sorin Hall reported that vandalism had been done to his car while it was parked in the D-3 lot. The right front wheel jack was broken but no entry was made to the car. Damage is estimated at $100.

9:30 a.m. - A University employee reported that the hood ornament from her car had been broken off while it was in the bookstore lot. Damage is set at $100.

9:15 p.m. - A resident of O'Hara-Grace reported that his jacket was stolen from the arena of the ACC while he was attending the High School Sectional basketball game. The victim sets loss at $20.

10:45 p.m. - Two vehicles were involved in a property damage traffic accident near the corner of Edison Road and Juniper Road. The first vehicle was stopped in traffic while the second car came from behind and struck the first from the rear. The driver of the first vehicle was the second driver was not reported. Damage to the second vehicle is estimated at $1,000.

Saturday

4:15 a.m. - Security along with the ND Fire Department responded to Sorin Hall on an alarm. Upon arrival, units found that two posters on a bulletin board on the third floor had been set on fire. The floor is being held at security until an owner can be contacted.

3:30 p.m. - While on patrol, a security officer found a down vest in the D-2 lot. The vest is being held at security until an owner can be contacted.

10:45 p.m. - A resident of Mishawaka reported that his 1986 Mercedes Benz was stolen while it was parked in White Field. Value on the hood ornament is approximately $100.

Sunday

12:30 a.m. - A resident of South Bend reported that his car had been vandalized while it was parked south of the ACC. The car's aerial had been broken off and the vents of the car were thrown on the pavement. Damage is set at $20.

4:35 a.m. - A Dillen Hall resident reported that another vehicle had struck and damaged his car while it was parked in the Main Circle. Damage is estimated at $100.

10:18 a.m. - A resident of the Knob Hill Apartments checked the building but no suspects were found.

10:45 a.m. - Security and ND Fire Department responded to Sorin Hall on an alarm. Upon arrival, units found that two posters on a bulletin board on the second floor of LaFortune. McDaniel said not all of the equipment in the new office is new. "We have the same turntable, cassette deck, and program board," she said.

McDaniel said the station would conduct a larger promotion during the spring semester.

"They're psychic to get back from break and get on the air. Everyone has missed broadcasting," she said.
Elliott Richardson, former Attorney General and Secretary of Defense under President Nixon, called it "enephobic" and "McCarthyesque - both ludicrous and dangerously misleading." Jeff Cohen of Fairness and Accuracy in Reporting gloated that "this shows the Soviets as dying to get at us. It's the premise that's the problem. The star, Kris Kristofferson, was disliked by it.

I hate the idea." Veteran Moscow correspondent Harrison Salisbury said it "unrealistically shows a future United States turning into a mass of quivering protoplasm." So what was all the fuss about? Believe it or not, it was about ABC's miniseries Amerika.

Kevin Smant

guest column

The show, charged left-wing critics, portrayed the Soviet Union as evil conquerors desiring nothing less than the total subjugation of the United States. In this way, it raises the temperature of East-West relations and possibly brings us a step closer to war. Part of America was shot on location in Toronto. During the filming, protesters garbed in white robes drifted slowly through the streets, holding lighted candles, and passing out leaflets. Propaganda Alert, screamed their message. The Cold War Comes To Our Neighborhood!

In a way, peace protesters of this kind have always had powerful argumentative tools. With shaky voice and unsteady hands they point to the gloom of cemeteries filled with war dead; to the piles of nuclear weapons stocked by the Superpowers. War must be avoided at all costs, they preach. Hence a confrontation with the Soviets, too, must be avoided.

We on the other side have no such visible reminders. We have only an abstract ideal - one that is conspicuously missing from the arguments of many peace activists. That ideal is freedom. And it is here that ABC's Amerika performs it most valuable service. Amerika presented to us, in living color, a horrifying vision of what it would mean to lose our freedom. Schoolchildren in this type of society are indoctrinated with a Marxist version of history. Capitalist America was evil, filled with enslaved workers and the decadent, wealthy few. The new order brings a vision of "socialist brotherhood." All opponents of this new vision must be "crushed." Talent is no longer the only consideration, a dancer is now called must also "cooperate." Those people that, for one reason or another, have run afoul of the government are "exiled" to distant places, and must live in shantytowns amid poverty and squalor. All news filters through a "National Network," and desirable happenings are censored. Due to the lack of food (the bulk of which has been expropriated for more deserving socialist brothers), coffee shops serve soybean pancakes and ersatz coffee. In order to travel from one "administrative district" to another in Amerika, one must have a special passport - obtainable only from the government. Soul one break any law, a "psychiatric hospital" could be one's next stop, in order to eliminate "antisocial behavior." And one could go on and on.

It is important for us to see such things. Today, in our country, we have the freedom to believe what we wish, to live where we wish, and to worship what we wish. Almost the entire country has our material abundance. But what many seem not to understand is that freedom, this abstract ideal, must be defended. Communist and other totalitarian regimes are not blind. They know, deep inside, that given a choice, people will choose a free society. Millions of residents from behind the Iron Curtain have thus "voted with their feet" since 1945. There would be more, but such hindrances as the Berlin Wall, barbed wire borders, and mine fields have deterred would-be escapees. It should be no surprise, then, that there are those in this world who do not wish freedom well. In that sense, Amerika was right on target.

Americans, than, need to realize their blessings. They need to participate in their democracy to assure its continued survival. We should be proud of what we have built here. And we need not be ashamed to take the steps necessary to defend it. Nikolai Vishnevsky of the Soviet Novosti "news agency" growled that the airing of Amerika would "boost anti-Sovietism." Well, anti-Soviet attitudes aren't as prevalent as I would like, Nikolai. But as long as the Soviet Union stands for what it does, I'll keep trying.

Kevin Smant is a graduate student in history.

P.O. Box Q

Only abstinence can stop AIDS epidemic

Dear Editor:

It was disappointing to read Tom Varnum's article appearing in the Feb. 25 edition of The Observer. Mr. Varnum's "preventive cure" for AIDS is reflective of the very same attitude which led to the initial rise of the disease - whatever feels good, do it; have sex, but make it "safe"; "protect your self." I fail to understand how pro-miscuity with invitation toward increasing promiscuity - and the advertising of condoms - can ever decrease the number of unwanted pregnancies. The quick fix is really no fix; it only postpones the problems much deeper and much more fatal problem.

Robert Nicholas

The Church is allowed to make some mistakes

Dear Editor:

In response to Steve Hipp's March 4 column, "Conscience Must be Formed Through Moral Percepts," I would like to share the observations of a Church historian.

I did not attend Regina Coll's lecture, but based on the information presented by Mr. Hipp, what he termed "representative quotes" which I will present, I remain puzzled as to how he can conclude that Coll "rejects the authority of the magisterium." I see nothing overtly anti-Catholic in what she said. In fact, her basic argument, that the Church is culturally conditioned and in a constant process of historical evolution, is not a "psychiatric hospital" could be one's next stop, in order to eliminate "antisocial behavior." And one could go on and on.

It is important for us to see such things. Today, in our country, we have the freedom to believe what we wish, to live where we wish, and to worship what we wish. Almost the entire country has our material abundance. But what many seem not to understand is that freedom, this abstract ideal, must be defended. Communist and other totalitarian regimes are not blind. They know, deep inside, that given a choice, people will choose a free society. Millions of residents from behind the Iron Curtain have thus "voted with their feet" since 1945. There would be more, but such hindrances as the Berlin Wall, barbed wire borders, and mine fields have deterred would-be escapees. It should be no surprise, then, that there are those in this world who do not wish freedom well. In that sense, Amerika was right on target.

Americans, than, need to realize their blessings. They need to participate in their democracy to assure its continued survival. We should be proud of what we have built here. And we need not be ashamed to take the steps necessary to defend it. Nikolai Vishnevsky of the Soviet Novosti "news agency" growled that the airing of Amerika would "boost anti-Sovietism." Well, anti-Soviet attitudes aren't as prevalent as I would like, Nikolai. But as long as the Soviet Union stands for what it does, I'll keep trying.

Kevin Smant is a graduate student in history.

Only abstinence can stop AIDS epidemic

Dear Editor:

It was disappointing to read Tom Varnum's article appearing in the Feb. 25 edition of The Observer. Mr. Varnum's "preventive cure" for AIDS is reflective of the very same attitude which led to the initial rise of the disease - whatever feels good, do it; have sex, but make it "safe"; "protect your self." I fail to understand how pro-miscuity with invitation toward increasing promiscuity - and the advertising of condoms - can ever decrease the number of unwanted pregnancies. The quick fix is really no fix; it only postpones the problems much deeper and much more fatal problem.

Robert Nicholas

The Church is allowed to make some mistakes

Dear Editor:

In response to Steve Hipp's March 4 column, "Conscience Must be Formed Through Moral Percepts," I would like to share the observations of a Church historian.

I did not attend Regina Coll's lecture, but based on the information presented by Mr. Hipp, what he termed "representative quotes" which I will present, I remain puzzled as to how he can conclude that Coll "rejects the authority of the magisterium." I see nothing overtly anti-Catholic in what she said. In fact, her basic argument, that the Church is culturally conditioned and in a constant process of historical evolution, is not a...
Come and play, everything's A OK.

Kevin Walsh
Behind the screen door

It was as much a part of my single-digit years as Lite-Brite, Captain Kangaroo seriously anymore? I think "Sesame Street" avoided these snare by trying to stay hip if only in a naive sort of way. The show I watched on Monday had a reggae-reworking of the classic, bath-glorying "Rubber Duck." I remember from my days as a religious watcher of the show there were a couple Beatles take-offs, "Letter B" and "Hey Food." Later they moved into Bruce Springsteen with Bert and the Sesame Street band's reading of "Born To Count." I'm not making any of this up. The theme song could probably hit the Top Twenty if released today. If the Monkees can get back there, anybody can. It's actually a great song, with a slowed-down acoustic Chuck Berry riff, jangling guitars, harmonica and the kids choir vocal. Think of the ensuing pandemonium if you played it at a party. Some smart band out there will cover it some day and make a million bucks.

The amazing thing about "Sesame Street" is that even as I watched it, grinning at things I recognized, puzzling over a time in my past when concepts like loud and soft, under and over, and high and low were hard to grasp, there were little kids out there somewhere who were watching it and absorbing it all for the first time. The ideas of cooperation and the number 12 are new to these little guys. It must be a great feeling to create something like this which spans generations, giving so much to so many for so long.

"Selze the moment it said. The present is the most important thing. Appreciate every day."

Like anything useful, "Sesame Street" has changed over the years. There's a new major character, an old owl named Hoots who acts like an old-time jazz man and plays saxophone. He has a naive little granddaughter named M ethena to whom he teaches a goofy, two-headed monster from another planet who teaches cooperation. I also noted the marked absence of Big Bird and Snuffleupagus. Surprisingly, some of the things here are exactly the same. All the main characters are still around. Susan, Gordon, Bob, Luis, David, Maria and Olivia. Mr. Hooper is of course dead now. All of the little spots about letters and numbers seemed familiar. "It is forelephant who eats up an egg. Es for eagle...etc." Maybe "Sesame Street" is where I got my penchant for bad poetry. The highlight for me in every show was when the baker would walk out and sing something like "10 W onderful Spongecakes!!!" before falling down a set of stairs and getting the cakes all over himself. It was a cheap slapstick laugh, but it got me every time.

The point was though that you got to learn to count even as you were laughing. Watching "Sesame Street" again made me wonder about how smart I was then. I never realized some of the subtleties going on. I never watched the TV-base that "Sesame Street" was set into. The show is broken down into basic five-minute segments, separated by spots for the various letters and numbers which always "spoon" the concept. It's a format they're comfortable with. I never realized all the obvious puns either. For six days the show I watched and didn't even include the Count, who, of course, counts.

I also unbeknownst to thousands of little kids out there watching, "Sesame Street" passed me a cheap sense from "Sesame Street," but it wouldn't be a bad place to start. It's one of the few places left on earth that eschews the greater 60's "Peace, Love and Understanding" message. It's set in a small-town, rural, neighborhood with no crime, no racism and no graffiti. The only eyesore is Oscar the Grouch's trash can and even that has a certain charm to it. The adults on "Sesame Street" were perhaps overly benevolent and maybe didn't prepare me for a world full of cruelty and indifference. We all get enough of that in the real world. We don't need it on a TV show that formulates our minds.

Perhaps the most important message I got out of watching "Sesame Street" last Monday came in a little skill about memories of the past and how they can blind us to the realities of the present and the hope of the future. (Sure that kind of a heavy interpretation to a piece which involved green turtle popsicles that talk, but...) Selze the moment it said. The present is the most important thing. Appreciate every day. It was an ironic message to get out of a television trip down memory lane.

I would recommend "Sesame Street" to anyone of any age now. It'll be the new college craze in a while, you watch. Settle down some Friday afternoon with a few beers. Bag the car's rooms, just like your mom always told you. Watch, "Sesame Street." I'll guarantee you more laughs than any. Mr. Belvedere in "My World."

The Observer/Linda Dunn

The Gong Show

These children from St. Hedwig's Outreach Program were the beneficiaries of the freshman class sponsored Gong Show on Friday evening. The Gong Show benefit raised approximately $1700 for St. Hedwig's. Coach Lou Holtz supported the benefit and the first prize winners will have the privilege of a dinner with Holtz.

The Observer/Linda Dunn
Comback continued from page 12

In the last minute.

"In the second half, we felt that if you go at Dayton more and gave them a lead, you're going to create more.
I thought we just stayed with it long enough,
we got the lead, we just iced it.
We iced it with fouling and with good defense when Dayton was starting to take the longer shots and we got the rebounds.

The Irish started the game with four straight points filling in for Scott Hicks, who sprained his ankle in the Miami (Fla.)
game last Thursday. The start was not serious, but Phelps decided to let Hicks sit on the floor in order to get him ready for the NCAATournament.

The Irish fought back
from seven points behind, Dortch found Corbitt as he made a layup. The free throw gave Dayton a 17-15 lead.

Corbitt then went baseline for a field goal, and Robinson added a short jumper and two layups to increase the Irish lead to 23-17, firing up the crowd at UD Arena.

Meanwhile Notre Dame was ice cold from the field, shooting 26-67 in the first half.

"The first half we had good shots, but we weren't making those shots," said Phelps.
"Rivers, Royal and Stevenson were four for 21 in the first half, and that's just horrible. You're not going to beat people doing that on the road and you're not going to beat people in the tournament.

Both control in the second half, hitting six of eight shots from the floor including the three-pointer. On one layup, the junior guard cut twoneath defenders to make the shot. He finished with a game-high 19 points.

Irish center Gary Vore was the only player in double figures for the Irish.

Vore grabbed 11, several of those down when the Notre Dame wound the game.

Jamarcus Jackson saw the most playing time in early in the game and was on the floor as the Irish went up three from the field and grabbed three rebounds.

Dayton's Grant and Corbitt
both took Irish defenders under the paint before pulling up for short jumpers. Grant finished the game with 17 and Corbitt added 14.
Irish women end season with win as Gavin, Botham reach milestones

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

DAYTON, Ohio - The Notre Dame women's basketball season did not end with the NCAA tournament, but with a tenuous graduation of seniors, the winning of a conference title and the garnering of a tournament bid.

By analogy or at the University of Dayton Arena, the 1986-87 campaign ended the way Irish head coach Mary DiStanislao wanted it to end. It ended with a loss to Miami, and with a 59-48 dumping of North Star Conference foe Dayton behind a balanced scoring attack and some scrappy play throughout.

"Our loss to Tennessee earlier in the year was probably the most embarrassing defeat this program has ever had," said DiStanislao, whose squad was blown out, 96-55, by the eighth-ranked Volunteers. "We had a choice to make. We could either finish 7-20, or we could work hard and go out winners."

The Irish chose the latter route, and Saturday's victory marked their sixth straight since the Tennessee disaster, giving them a final record of 12-15 after the slowest start in the history of Notre Dame women's basketball.

"On paper, you'd have to say the play of Annie (freshman Annie Schwartz) was the key to the turnaround," said DiStanislao. "But the heart and soul of it was the seniors -Mary Gavin, Sandy Botham and Kathy Barron. They've done a great job leading and the others have done just as good a job following."

Schwartz, who has found her role as a constant threat from the outside for the Irish, scored 14 points and hauled down a game-high eight rebounds, while Botham worked the middle for 14 points of her own. Notre Dame scored 11 consecutive points and jumped out to an early 11-2 lead, but the hot hand of Michele Kruty brought the Lady Flyers back within striking range. An Irish run near the end of the half gave Notre Dame a 25-18 lead at intermission, and Dayton never pulled to within seven the rest of the way.

At times it seemed amazing that no punches were thrown in the context (outside of a few minor shoes during the course of play), as the game turned into an endless struggle for position.

"Our games with Dayton and DePaul are always wars," DiStanislao said. "It's the rivalry, but I love it. It gives us extra incentive."

"We thought that if we controlled the boards and shut down their inside game, we could take it to them. (Kathy) O'Brien hurt us (17 points, 15 rebounds). But I love it. It gives us extra incentive."

Booth and leading Irish scorer Heidi Buneck, Notre Dame's version of the Twin Towers, were both hit with their fourth fouls early in the second half, and were out of the game for a crucial four-minute stretch from the 11:00 to 7:03 mark. During that time, freshman walk-on Molly Mahone lined up in the middle of the 2-3 zone, and the Irish held on to a nine-point lead until Botham and Buneck were re-inserted. Notre Dame outshot the Flyers, 32.2 percent to 37.5 percent, and also had a pair of players reach milestones in the game.

Botham's second of two free throws with 18:33 left in the first half marked her 1,000th career point. She is the fifth player in Irish history to reach that milestone.

Gavin dished out nine more assists in the game, giving her a career total of 194 and surpassing Mary Beth Schueth's old mark of 187 to make her Notre Dame's all-time leader.

"It's always too soon to quit," DiStanislao smiled, "and never too late to be a winner."

Heidi Buneck and the Notre Dame women's basketball team wrapped up its season by posting a 59-48 victory at Dayton on Saturday. Marty Strasen has the game coverage at left.

NIT field is almost filled

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Villanova, college basketball's national champion in 1985, leads the field for the 50th edition of the National Invitation Tournament, it was announced last night.

The Wildcats, 15-15, were among the 39 teams named to the field. The remaining two teams, as well as the sites for two of the games, will be announced today. Missing from the list of 39 was Louisville, the defending national champion which was passed over by the NCAA for its field of 36 earlier Sunday.
The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s is accepting applications for the following position:

Assistant Production Manager

Please leave a letter of application at the office by Monday, March 9, 1987 at 5 p.m. Questions should be directed to Melissa Warnke.

---

NCAA Pairings

First Round
March 12-13

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Unlv 1</th>
<th>Arkansas 9</th>
<th>Virginia 5</th>
<th>S.R. Lake City 12</th>
<th>UCLA 4</th>
<th>C. Michigan 11</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Second Round
March 14-15

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Michigan 14</th>
<th>UTEP 7</th>
<th>Arizona St. 10</th>
<th>Iowa 2</th>
<th>Santa Clara 15</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Regional

Midwest
Cincinnati, Ohio
March 20 & 22

West
Seattle, Washington
March 20 & 22

Southeast
New Orleans, Louisiana
March 28

National Championship

| Notre Dame | Kentucky 11 |

Semifinals

| Louisville | Seattle 15 |

Second Round
March 20 & 22

| Kentucky 9 | Ohio St. 8 |

First Round
March 14-15

| Oregon 12 | Kansas 12 |

---

NCAA continued from page 12

The winner of the Notre Dame-Middle Tennessee State game will play the winner of the Texas Christian-Marshall game in the second round.

Final continued from page 12

The top seed in the East is North Carolina. The regional finals will be held in East Rutherford, N.J., March 19th and 21st.

---

The Observer

Monday, March 9, 1987 - page 9

---

NCAA Pairings

First Round
March 12-13

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Unlv 1</th>
<th>Arkansas 9</th>
<th>Virginia 5</th>
<th>S.R. Lake City 12</th>
<th>UCLA 4</th>
<th>C. Michigan 11</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Second Round
March 14-15

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Michigan 14</th>
<th>UTEP 7</th>
<th>Arizona St. 10</th>
<th>Iowa 2</th>
<th>Santa Clara 15</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Regional

Midwest
Cincinnati, Ohio
March 20 & 22

West
Seattle, Washington
March 20 & 22

Southeast
New Orleans, Louisiana
March 28

National Championship

| Notre Dame | Kentucky 11 |

Semifinals

| Louisville | Seattle 15 |

Second Round
March 20 & 22

| Kentucky 9 | Ohio St. 8 |

First Round
March 14-15

| Oregon 12 | Kansas 12 |

---

NCAA continued from page 12

conference tournament. ESPN announced that it would broadcast the game live at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Blue Raider head coach Bruce Stewart is in his third season and is leading his squad to its second appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Irish head coach Digger Phelps, who is leading the Irish to their third-straight appearance in the tournament and 11th overall, was returning from Kansas City last night where he was the color commentator for ABC's coverage of the Big Eight Conference Tournament finals and was unavailable for comment.

Notre Dame will be allocated 250 tickets for the games in the Charlotte Coliseum, which has a seating capacity of 11,666. As of late Sunday night, no word had been released about ticket sales.

The winner of the Notre Dame-Middle Tennessee State game will play the winner of the Texas Christian-Marshall game in the second round.

The top seed in the East is North Carolina. The regional finals will be held in East Rutherford, N.J., March 19th and 21st.

Final continued from page 12

Tion of left and right punches to destroy Quinn’s resistance. Quinn escaped the onslaught by regaining his title by a unanimous decision.

---

The Observer

Monday, March 9, 1987 - page 9

---

NCAA Pairings

First Round
March 12-13

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Unlv 1</th>
<th>Arkansas 9</th>
<th>Virginia 5</th>
<th>S.R. Lake City 12</th>
<th>UCLA 4</th>
<th>C. Michigan 11</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Second Round
March 14-15

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Michigan 14</th>
<th>UTEP 7</th>
<th>Arizona St. 10</th>
<th>Iowa 2</th>
<th>Santa Clara 15</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Regional

Midwest
Cincinnati, Ohio
March 20 & 22

West
Seattle, Washington
March 20 & 22

Southeast
New Orleans, Louisiana
March 28

National Championship

| Notre Dame | Kentucky 11 |

Semifinals

| Louisville | Seattle 15 |

Second Round
March 20 & 22

| Kentucky 9 | Ohio St. 8 |

First Round
March 14-15

| Oregon 12 | Kansas 12 |

---

NCAA continued from page 12

conference tournament. ESPN announced that it would broadcast the game live at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Blue Raider head coach Bruce Stewart is in his third season and is leading his squad to its second appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Irish head coach Digger Phelps, who is leading the Irish to their third-straight appearance in the tournament and 11th overall, was returning from Kansas City last night where he was the color commentator for ABC's coverage of the Big Eight Conference Tournament finals and was unavailable for comment.

Notre Dame will be allocated 250 tickets for the games in the Charlotte Coliseum, which has a seating capacity of 11,666. As of late Sunday night, no word had been released about ticket sales.

The winner of the Notre Dame-Middle Tennessee State game will play the winner of the Texas Christian-Marshall game in the second round.

The top seed in the East is North Carolina. The regional finals will be held in East Rutherford, N.J., March 19th and 21st.

Final continued from page 12

Tion of left and right punches to destroy Quinn’s resistance. Quinn escaped the onslaught by regaining his title by a unanimous decision.

---

The Observer

Monday, March 9, 1987 - page 9

---

NCAA Pairings

First Round
March 12-13

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Unlv 1</th>
<th>Arkansas 9</th>
<th>Virginia 5</th>
<th>S.R. Lake City 12</th>
<th>UCLA 4</th>
<th>C. Michigan 11</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Second Round
March 14-15

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Michigan 14</th>
<th>UTEP 7</th>
<th>Arizona St. 10</th>
<th>Iowa 2</th>
<th>Santa Clara 15</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Regional

Midwest
Cincinnati, Ohio
March 20 & 22

West
Seattle, Washington
March 20 & 22

Southeast
New Orleans, Louisiana
March 28

National Championship

| Notre Dame | Kentucky 11 |

Semifinals

| Louisville | Seattle 15 |

Second Round
March 20 & 22

| Kentucky 9 | Ohio St. 8 |

First Round
March 14-15

| Oregon 12 | Kansas 12 |

---

NCAA continued from page 12

conference tournament. ESPN announced that it would broadcast the game live at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Blue Raider head coach Bruce Stewart is in his third season and is leading his squad to its second appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Irish head coach Digger Phelps, who is leading the Irish to their third-straight appearance in the tournament and 11th overall, was returning from Kansas City last night where he was the color commentator for ABC's coverage of the Big Eight Conference Tournament finals and was unavailable for comment.

Notre Dame will be allocated 250 tickets for the games in the Charlotte Coliseum, which has a seating capacity of 11,666. As of late Sunday night, no word had been released about ticket sales.

The winner of the Notre Dame-Middle Tennessee State game will play the winner of the Texas Christian-Marshall game in the second round.

The top seed in the East is North Carolina. The regional finals will be held in East Rutherford, N.J., March 19th and 21st.
Irish hockey ends year, takes second in ACHA playoffs

By CHRIS DALLAVO
Sports Writer

It was the American Collegiate Hockey Association’s first tournament, Lefty’s last, and Michigan-Dearborn’s best. The Wolves came from the fourth seed to win, beating the Irish 4-3 in the championship game.

Notre Dame played its best game of the year and lost in crushing Lake Forest 4-1, while Michigan-Dearborn beat Kent State 4-1 to set up Saturday’s final.

Lefty

continued from page 12

and 50 players sent to major college hockey.

In taking the Notre Dame head coaching position in 1984, Smith undertook the task of building a program literally from the ground up, since varsity hockey had not been played since the days of the Four Horsemen. He even had to buy the equipment and run the ice rink.

The program has developed considerably in his 19 seasons. The Irish joined the Western Collegiate Hockey Association in 1970, where Smith quickly led the program to national prominence. During the 1972-73 season, the Irish powered their way to the WCHA finals, losing in the controversial final game in the final minutes to Wisconsin. That team featured eventual NHL stand-out Bill Nyrop, and Smith was voted coach of the year for his efforts in molding the team.

During the 1981-82 season, the Irish switched from the WCHA to the Central Collegiate Hockey Association. Smith’s star that year was Dave Poulin, now the captain of the Philadelphia Flyers.

After dropping the program down to the club level in 1983-84, Smith regrouped his players and began once again to rebuild. He realizes that, without scholarships, it is tough to compete with some of the other schools.

“We have to recruit a special kind of player,” Smith says. “He has to be intelligent, have enough money to go here, and be a good hockey player. The good ones usually go to the bigger schools with scholarships.”

With the formation of the new American Collegiate Hockey Association, Smith feels that the potential is there for a promising future.

“I’ve tried to establish a solid base here,” says the veteran of 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.

Friday, the Irish jumped in front of the Foresters on a power-play goal by team captain Mike McNeill, but Lake Forest tied the game at 1-1 early in the second period.

Brian Montgomery regained the lead for the Irish 19 seconds later, and Tom Mooney buried a shot behind Lake Forest goaltender Gary Willette to give the Notre Dame the 3-1 lead it never lost.

Bob Bilton capped off the Irish scoring, taking a fantastic feed from Mooney and firing a shot past the sprawled-out Willette, making the final tally 4-1. “All phases of our game were good - the specialty teams, goaltending, and all four lines contributed,” commented Irish head coach Lefty Smith. “It was as well as we played all year.”

Unfortunately, Saturday did not end as happily for the Irish, as they were unable to hold any of the three leads which they had over Michigan-Dearborn.

Bob Herber opened the scoring before the Parents’ Night crowd eight minutes into the first period, converting a 3-on-2 break in the corner.

Michigan-Dearborn came back to within a goal early in the second period, and 19 Irish campaigns. “I have tried to create a philosophy and some traditions which can put us on the road back. I think we are on the right track now.”

Through all of the problems and pitfalls which have faced Smith and the Notre Dame hockey program, he has managed to compile a 307-220-31 lifetime record.
Today

Bloom County

Beer Nuts

JJB T O  ••!

Berke Breathed

Far Side

Gary Larson

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1 Out-of-the-park hit 6 Large group
10 Horse port 14 Ms Ghostley
15 Soccer great 16 Narrow reef
17 Fallout 19 Camp out
20 In — (quickly) 21 Check out
22 Aries 25 Warm up
26 US-Canada highway
29 Large wave 31 Aias and —
34 Blow a horn 35 Neglectful tenant of a kind
37 Done — turn 38 Rest period
40 SRO show 42 Fr. artist
43 Maddox 45 Eng. composer
46 Rab signature 48 Bitter vetch
49 Erodes 50 Enlia
51 Total 52 Secluded
53 S ea god 54 Pop
55 Berlin's one

DOWN
1 Goldie — 2 Ragout
3 Boxing glove 4 Briefing on
5 Witches 6 Snaggletooth
7 Jenny — 8 Uncle
9 Cop out on a bet 10 Bonnie
11 Stadium turn 12 Revelings
13 Baseball's 14 Legal point
15 Till 16 Bailey or
17 Rocky crag 26 Rose essence
27 Fr. river 28 Out-and-out
29 Out-and-out 30 Evaluate
31 Enumerate 32 Em
33 Smith and 35 Hint
36 Always to a poet
37 Liquid part of oil 38 Widow
39 Liquid part of oil 51 Total
40 Poison 52 Sea god
41 Pretentious 53 Antidotes
42 Athletic area 54 Pop
43 Relaxation 55 Berlin's one
44 Rocky crag

SAB presents:
The Hustler

Wednesday, Thursday 7, 9:30, 12 p.m.
$1.00 EG Aud
Irish slated for Charlotte after defeating Dayton

NCAA tabs ND fifth seed in East

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

The good news is Notre Dame will not face a team with a hyphen in the name. The bad news is the Irish, seeded to be a fifth seed in the tournament, will play against a relative unknown in the form of Middle Tennessee State in the first round Thursday.

Close fights highlight finals of 57th annual Bengal Bouts

By KELLY TOWNSEND
Sports Writer

Friday night, Stepan Center was packed by spectators eager to witness the final bouts of the 57th annual Bengal Bouts. Not to be disappointed, the crowd witnessed many close bouts and outstanding performances.

The action began with one of the most interesting matchups of the evening. Eric 'Dingo' Bender took on his roommate Kevin 'the Vigilante' Duggan for the Junior Lightweight title. Despite their relationship, both boxers kept up a continuous onslaught of punches, much to the delight of the crowd.

By the third round, Bender and Duggan were near the end of their strength. Duggan drew upon a reserve supply of energy and was able to rally with a solid right-left combination to win the bout by a unanimous decision.

In the Junior Welterweight final, David 'Sugar' Cane faced Tim 'the Sniper' Hartigan in the first split decision of the evening. In the first two rounds, Hartigan maintained control of the bout, using his power to weaken Dave. In the third round, Cane came back with hard jabs and elusive footwork that cut down Hartigan's domination of the bout. The Sniper still emerged as the winner by a split decision.

In the bloodiest fight of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop thebout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.

In the third round Powers sent Gleason down and out of the ring, causing the referee to stop the bout 51 seconds into the round. The power of 'Righteous Ray' proved too much for 'the Honeymooner'.

After the bloodbath of the night, Jack 'the Honeymooner' Gleason and 'Righteous' Ray Powers exchanged punches with no regard for style or skill. By the second round, both boxers were bleeding but neither seemed to notice. Powers connected with a hard right to give Gleason a standing eight-count. Gleason was able to shake off the blow, only to be driven back into a corner by Powers.