Senate overrides veto, votes for highway bill

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate rejected a personal, last-minute plea from President Reagan and voted Thursday to override his veto and enact into law an $88 billion highway and mass transit bill.

The 67-33 vote, exactly the two-thirds majority necessary, capped two days of political struggle over the bill that became a high-stakes test of wills between the Republican president and leaders of the Senate's Democratic majority.

Democrats demanded one vote they had lost in an initial test on Wednesday, but Republicans were unable to switch any of the 13 GOP senators who voted to override the president's veto the day before.

Besides authorizing highway and mass transit projects that the president had opposed with pork, the bill permits states to boost the speed limit on rural stretches of interstate highways to 65 miles per hour from the current 55 mph.

But arguments over the substance of the legislation were overtaken by the political fight.

Afterwards, though, the winners and losers alike sought to minimize the impact on the president's influence.

"This isn't going to make or break the president of the United States," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, see BILL, page 6

Hearing of ND student postponed for second time

By ANN KALTENBACH
Senior Staff Reporter

The pre-trial hearing of the 21-year-old Notre Dame student charged in connection with the accident that resulted in the death of junior Michael Cogswell has been postponed to April 22.

This marks the second time the hearing has been postponed. Originally scheduled for March 17, the trial had been postponed until Thursday after the Jan. 29 recommendation of the St. Joseph County Grand Jury, County Prosecutor Michael Barnes said the student will be charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, a Class A misdemeanor.

The charge carries a maximum punishment of one year in prison and a $5,000 fine, Barnes said. The student could also be placed on probation.

On the same day, Barnes said the student was originally charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

He did say, however, "the entire factual circumstances of Mr. Cogswell's death were exposed. And the grand jury, after reviewing the case, made what they thought was an appropriate recommendation."

Cogswell, a 30-year-old Zahm Hall junior, died Dec. 6 from massive head injuries 10 hours after being struck on Saint Mary's Road.

Charity Ball seeks to raise money and consciousness

By KENDRA MERRILL
Staff Reporter

The third annual Charity Ball to benefit the Catholic Relief Services will take place this Saturday.

Danny Harrison, a fifth-year engineering and French major, founded the ball three years ago. Last year, he studied abroad in France and could not be a part of the ball, but is once again chairman this year. Sophomore Jill Gollen is assistant chairman.

According to Harrison, the ball has been "a thriving success." The ball was inaugurated on April 20, 1985 and raised $11,000. In 1986, $18,500 was raised. The goal for 1987 is $20,000, Harrison said.

He said all benefits will go to Ethiopia and Third World countries, but the object of the ball is not just to raise money.

"The basic goal is to raise consciousness and awareness about hunger and world suffering," said Harrison. "Raising $2 would be OK if it makes 2,000 people aware of these problems."

Harrison stressed the need for Notre Dame students to be generous in their giving.

"We're so blessed with everything," see BALL, page 6

Abortion issue not solved until agreement is reached, prof says

By SHARON HEGG
Staff Reporter

The abortion issue cannot be solved until an agreement on the evaluation of human is reachend, according to Professor of Christian Ethics Father Richard McCormick in a lecture Thursday night.

"Abortion, the unjust taking of a life, constitutes a major moral dilemma of society today," McCormick said. "The national debate usually falls to slogans, where some master evidence, accurate or not, to support their position."

According to McCormick, in order to address the issue of abortion, "it is essential to submit personal conviction to scrutiny by other people. The Catholic community has been historically reluctant to do this."

Richard McCormick

"In the past 15 years, nearly every Episcopal conference has addressed this issue. It is not only a Catholic issue.

"The substance of the position of the Catholic Church, as I see it, is that human life is a basic gift of God. It is the foundation of all other good. The church is human life from fertilization. (For abortion) to be left-saving life-saving there must be at stake a human life or the equivalent."

McCormick feels that public policy and moral teachings on abortion are integrally related. If fetal life is regarded as human life, it should be protected by law.

"The problem is the feasibility of a policy. Is a particular law practical, adoptable? Permissive laws mean injustice to the fetus. Restrictive laws mean injustice to women."

The key problem is not the "definition of personhood" is the fetus a person-not the see ISSUE, page 6
In Brief

Mormon Church president Ezra Taft Benson surprised many followers when he told them women should stay at home and care for children. Women in and out of the church condemned the declaration, saying the 87-year-old Benson, considered a prophet by the faithful, was out of step with the times and had added a burden of guilt to families with financial problems. Few Mormons believe that worship, the 40 percent of the church’s female members who are in the work force will forsake jobs and careers as a result of Benson’s position. - Associated Press

Of Interest

Freshman Dorm Olympics will be held tomorrow on the East Step-on Football Field. Sign-up at the games starts at 1:30. Look for your dorm’s banner. The games begin at 2 p.m. -The Observer

BACCHUS will sponsor “Blank Generation” playing at the Fieldhouse Mall today from 4:30 to 6:30, weather permitting. -The Observer

An Italian Mass will be held at 4 p.m. on Sunday in Badin Hall. Refreshments will be served after the Mass. -The Observer

A Spanish Mass will be celebrated by Fr. Nesbitt on Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Farley Hall Chapel. The Mass is sponsored by the Center for Social Concerns. -The Observer

Faculty Chamber Music Recital presents Laura Klugherz on Sunday at 4 p.m. in Washington Hall. For more information, contact Eric Kuehner at 239-6201. -The Observer

The North Carolina Dance Theatre will perform classical and modern works tonight at 8 p.m. in O’Laughlin Auditorium. The program concludes the Saint Mary’s 1986-87 Performing Arts Series. -The Observer

Ceramic artist Stephen Mickey will present a slide presentation today at 2:30 in the Iris Gallery on the third floor of Riley Hall of Art, Art History, and Design. -The Observer

ISO Elections will be held today from 3:30 p.m. in the ISO Lounge. All active members are eligible to vote. -The Observer

Betta Alpha Psi has invited Ricardo Mora, vice president International of Ernst-Whitney in Miami to lecture on “Today’s International Accountant.” The lecture will be held at 4:30 on Monday in the Salt Hall. All Beta Alpha Psi members must attend, and the lecture is open to all others. -The Observer

Weather

Jim and Tammi Bakker had better snug up close together because the weather forecast calls for partly cloudy and cold today with a few snow flurries. High in the middle 30s. Partly cloudy and cold tonight and Saturday with a few snow flurries. Low in the lower 20s. High Saturday in the upper 30s. - Associated Press

‘Monk’ is a regular guy, but don’t tell the media

What he reads, wears, and thinks has suddenly become important to more than his friends and family. ‘Monk’ Malloy has become a celebrity. Room 414 no longer houses merely the Monk Malloy who is president-elect of the University and is in residence at Notre Dame, but the Monk Malloy who is lionized by “60 Minutes” and the international media. If he were other than a priest, someone might think of packaging him and offering him contracts for endorsing eyeglass frames, tall men’s stores, and basketball sneakers.

Maybe some have.

Under the circumstances, an article in the public interest seems appropriate. Its purpose is to answer a few of the innumerable questions surrounding Monk and to dispel some of the myths and misinformation which circulates concerning the role of the president-to-be of the University of Notre Dame.

His life begins each morning at around 9:30 a.m. - he is not a stickler for standards - but you consider that Monk went to sleep between 3 and 4 a.m. the “night” before. He does not eat breakfast.

Approximately at 2 a.m., an hour or so before going to bed, Monk has a snack. Frequently, that consists of a bowl of cereal with 2 percent milk and some fruit. Earlier in the evening, he may have a Diet Coke and, once in a while, a bag of cheese flavored tortilla chips or Doritos. He eats a light lunch (vegetables, fruit) and dinner.

He reads The New York Times, The Times of London, The Chicago Tribune, The Chicago Sun Times and The Chicago Tribune each day. When he’s on the road, he reads USA Today. Monk flips to the sports pages with special attention to how the Celtics, Bears, and Redskins are doing and with not too much interest in hockey and baseball. His method for reading the Sunday edition of “The New York Times” consists of reading the Travel and Entertainment sections first, saving the front page, the News of the Week in Review, and the Magazine section for last. He sees many magazines, reading “anyone you can think of.” Admitting an “addiction” to crossword puzzles at one time in his life that peaked while he was in San Francisco on sabbatical it years ago, he has since kicked the habit of spending an hour each day on the “New York Times” version. In San Francisco, he also worked through several books of collected Times’ crosswords.

He drives a 1982 Chevrolet Celebrity, beige, and when asked what kind of car he would like to drive, he admitted he has a preference for any kind that runs.

Travel and Entertainment sections first, saving the front page, the News of the Week in Review, and the Magazine section for last. He sees many magazines, reading “anyone you can think of.” Admitting an “addiction” to crossword puzzles at one time in his life that peaked while he was in San Francisco on sabbatical it years ago, he has since kicked the habit of spending an hour each day on the “New York Times” version. In San Francisco, he also worked through several books of collected Times’ crosswords.

He drives a 1982 Chevrolet Celebrity, beige, and when asked what kind of car he would like to drive, he admitted he has a preference for any kind that runs.

The Observer =

Chris Donnelly
Assistant Production Manager

The last move he saw was the much-acclaimed and honored “Platoon.” He agreed with the critics that it was very good. He seldom is around for the evening news on TV, but frequently watches the early morning re-runs at 1:30 or 2 a.m. on the Independent News Network.

He knows that his position at Notre Dame will make him a very visible priest in the country and even the world. What he hopes people will see in him as priest is a sensitivity to other people’s needs, a commitment to reinterpreting the Gospel in contemporary terms and a willingness to center his life on other people. All of this can be summed up in the word “service” - service to, for, and on behalf of others.

Monk’s Catholic identity has a fallout on the University. The agenda for the president of a Catholic university is to preserve its Catholic character without only paying lip-service to its denominational affiliation. The authenticity of that commitment, he feels, is his to preserve and encourage.

That may be apparent on the “60 Minutes” tentatively scheduled to be aired this spring on CBS. Once it became clear that the producers and interviewers of the show were friendly, Monk said, and following the advice of the PR department, he consented to their interview. It will be seen by thousands that come with the territory of being president at Notre Dame.

CLASS of 1988

Well, almost there! Our Senior Year! Senior year is full of big events: Disorientation week, U of M Trip / Party, Senior Class Trip, Senior Formal, the Ski Trip, Senior Month and many more! We all need to make these events a reality your enthusiasm and participation. Unlike getting positions in the real world, our jobs require NO PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE. We want fresh ideas and new people (or fresh people with new ideas).

All seniors-to-be should have received 2 forms in the mail, an application for senior council positions (just check and circle whatever looks interesting) and a Senior Trip Choice Form. Please return both of these to your dorm rep by Friday.

Remember, if you’re looking for something else on that resume, working on class events means meeting lots of people and having fun at the same time.

We have come up with some pretty impressive job titles and are really excited about having you on the team.

Thans,
Diane, Sean, Amy & Jim
Malloy calls for committee to study research, teaching

By SHANNON OAKES
Staff Reporter
University President-elect Father Edward Malloy has called for the establishment of a committee to study the optimal balance between research and teaching. The committee, to be appointed by University Provost Timothy O’Meara, was established because Notre Dame professors are becoming more involved in research.

“Under Father Hesburgh, Notre Dame has developed from a teaching university to a teaching and research university,” said O’Meara. “Both must be emphasized and every faculty member should be strong in both.”

There has been concern that Notre Dame professors will look more toward research than toward teaching and thus neglect the education of students. This concern stems from the observation of other universities that have become primarily research-oriented, to the detriment of their students.

“In light of what we’ve seen happen at other universities what do we do to stop it from happening here?” said O’Meara. He said the committee will strive to answer this question. “It will make specific recommendations, but there will not be mathematical solutions.

“The committee will establish proper expectations for the faculty and expectations of the University of how faculty should strike a balance (between research and teaching) and suggest ways to maintain the balance,” said O’Meara.

O’Meara said the need for professors to be involved in research as well as in teaching is obvious. “With no research, professors in every field become stale,” said O’Meara.

The expectation of Notre Dame towards its professors is in both teaching and research. “To gain tenure there is an expectation of teaching, research and publication, and service,” said Executive Vice President-elect Father William Beaumont. “A professor cannot get promoted without research and publication or if he is an awful teacher,” he said.

Kremlin says U.S. soldier defects; Pentagon unable to confirm report

Associated Press

MOSCOW - The Kremlin announced Thursday an American soldier has defected to the Soviet Union and been granted asylum because they feared political persecution.

The U.S. Army in West Germany and the Pentagon in Washington could not confirm the defection, saying the army would issue the first by an American serviceman to the Soviet Union since the Vietnam War.

The Pentagon issued a statement, however, saying it was investigating an enlisted man with a name similar to that announced by the Soviets who had deserted in West Germany a month ago. It said it was not certain if he was the same person.

The reported defection came at a time when the U.S. embassy in Moscow was trying to deal with an spy case in which two former Marine guards have been charged with espionage.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov announced Thursday an American serviceman had defected to the Soviet Union and been granted asylum. “This case is not far from our heart,” said O’Meara. He said the need for professors to be involved in research as well as in teaching is obvious. “With no research, professors in every field become stale,” said O’Meara.

The expectation of Notre Dame towards its professors is in both teaching and research. “To gain tenure there is an expectation of teaching, research and publication, and service,” said Executive Vice President-elect Father William Beaumont. “A professor cannot get promoted without research and publication or if he is an awful teacher,” he said.

Kremlin says U.S. soldier defects; Pentagon unable to confirm report

Surrogacy mother vows to continue fight for custody of ‘Baby M’

Associated Press

RED BANK, N.J. - Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead, stripped of the right to see her daughter again, vowed Thursday to continue her legal battle for the child, saying she'll never stop loving the little girl known as Baby M.

Jeffrey World and Elizabeth Stern in the eyes of the law. The biological father, William Stern, won custody and Sorkow, minutes after reading his 121-page decision, allowed Stern's wife, Elizabeth, to adopt the child.

The case, which brought worldwide attention to surrogacy, was sparked by Whitehead's refusal to honor the $10,000 contract under which she was artificially inseminated with Stern's sperm.

The 28-year-old housewife readied to give the baby to the Sterns and, with police officers at her Brick Township home, handed the baby out a window to her husband.
Fire breaks out in mine trapping 53, killing 1

Associated Press

MURDOCHVILLE, Quebec - A fire broke out in a copper mine in the Gaspé area of eastern Quebec, trapping dozens of miners underground overnight. Mine officials said today one worker died but 53 others were found alive.

The cause of the fire was not known, but mine officials were ruling out an explosion. The fire started about 2,500 feet below-ground.

The fire trapped the miners during a shift change at 7 p.m. Wednesday, and many of the workers made it safely to the lunchroom area where they have fresh water, ventilation and radio communications with ground level. Mine officials said they would not let the miners leave until the smoke was cleared.

The copper mine, both underground and open-pit, has a work force of 800 and is the major employer in the town of Murdochville, population 3,900. It is located about 250 miles northeast of Quebec City on the Gaspé Peninsula at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River.

Noranda Inc., one of Canada's biggest corporations, owns the mine.

Beirut profs still held captive

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Moslem kidnappers released Thursday a videotape showing U.S. hostage Jesse Turner saying his abductors were determined to trade him and three other educators for 400 Arab prisoners in Israel.

Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, said Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine was "firm in its demand" that a swap be arranged. The group had claimed responsibility for the Jan. 24 abduction of the four.

But his voice was barely audible in the poor quality, three-minute tape, which was delivered to the independent Beirut newspaper An-Nahar.

Reporters who saw and listened to Turner on the videotape said they were having difficulty transcribing what he said.

But they said he appeared to be making a new appeal to the American administration to put pressure on Israel to arrange the swap so that their lives would be saved.

Previous communiques from the group said hostage Alain Steen, 47, of Boston, was dangerously ill and might die. It cited high blood pressure and breathing difficulties.

The group said Steen's illness prompted it to renew its offer of the swap, which Israel has rejected.

Steen, Turner, fellow American Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City, and Indian Milheshwar Singh, 60, were kidnapped at the U.S.-affiliated Beirut University College in Beirut's Moslem sector. Singh is a legal resident alien of the United States.

The release of the new tape came a few hours after students rallied on campus to demand the release of the four teachers held hostage for 68 days.

"All of you stand up and call, call for the release of our kidnaped four," a dozen fine-arts students chanted.

This spring, make a break for it.

$89

Anywhere Greyhound goes.

This Spring Break, catch a Greyhound* to the beach, the mountains, or your hometown. For just $89 round trip, you and your friends will have a great time wherever you go.
Israelis collect $150,000 for ND scientist's son

Associated Press

The father of convicted spy Jonathan Pollard said Thursday that $150,000 in private contributions from Israel for his son's defense expenses is "spent already." Moross Pollard, a microbiologist at the University of Notre Dame, said Israel has been generally supportive of the Pollard espionage case. Mrs. Pollard said: "These were donations by people on the street." Defense expenses for Jonathan Pollard and his wife, Anne, have been estimated at $200,000. Pollard, 32, a former Navy intelligence analyst, was sentenced to life in prison for espionage. Mrs. Pollard was sentenced to a five-year term for his son's defense expenses is "spent already." The attorney, Harold Katz, who holds dual American-Israeli citizenship, has denied any involvement. A Reagan administration source says investigators believe Katz's Washington apartment was used to pass top secret military documents obtained by Pollard.

Associated Press

Frozen fans

The only hardiest of fans turned out for preliminary games of the Bookstore Basketball tournament. The action was much hotter than the weather. Games will continue to be played in colder than normal temperatures for the weekend.

Pope speaks during Chilean visit

Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile - Pope John Paul II told 80,000 youths who packed an open-air stadium Thursday night their faith could transform society. Student orators departed from their texts to denounce the right-wing regime and what one called its "culture of death."

Earlier, slum dwellers thronged to welcome the pontiff but stoned the police who escorted him. Some shared his loathing for Pinochet's government. Vatican sources described the meeting as courageous and substituted back-up for President Augusto Pinochet, who the pontiff has said runs a dictatorial government. Vatican sources described the meeting as courageous and substitute back-up for President Augusto Pinochet, who the pontiff has said only democracy in the Middle East," he said. The South Bend community as well has been generally supportive, he said. "We are living in a haven of kindness here," he said.

The Jerusalem Post

Celebrating Easter With Flowers.

Flowers Say It Best!

Easter is a special time of year when you want to remember your family and friends. Show how much you care by sending a EASTER ARRANGEMENT.

Erikas Flowers & Gifts

409 DIXIE WAY NORTH
SOUTH BEND, IN 46637

272-NDND
Frozen food

Holy Cross residents Doug Giorgio and Jim Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Bill continued from page 1

The Observer Friday, April 3, 1987 - page 6

D-W. Va. "There will be other vetoes." Reagon issued a statement saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the defeat would help the president by demonstrating his willingness to fight in his final 21 months in office.

Hours before the vote, Reagan had upped the ante in terms of his commitment to the veto, by visiting the Capitol to plead with GOP senators to back him.

F Fitzwater quoted Reagan as saying he was "deeply disappointed" by the outcome but vowing to continue the battle against excessive federal spending.
Murder suspect attempts suicide

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - A man charged with murder after police found half-naked women chained in his basement and body parts in his freezer tried to hang himself in jail Thursday, but was not seriously injured, authorities said.

Gary Heidnik has been held without bail at the Philadelphia Detention Center since being arrested last week and charged with two counts of murder and multiple counts of rape and kidnapping.

David Owens, superintendent of the Philadelphia prison said Heidnik found his T-shirt to suspend himself from the shower pipe.

A corrections officer discovered Heidnik, who was being kept in isolation in the adult services wing of the center and was alone in the shower room at the time of the attempt, Owens said.

An officer assigned to watch Heidnik was outside the room but lost sight of him in the steam from the shower, Owens said.

Heidnik was taken to the Griffler Medical Center, where Dr. James Giuffre said the prisoner had an abrasion around his neck, but was not seriously injured.

Hospital spokesman Frank Craven said Heidnik was brought to the hospital about 10:30 p.m. "with what looks like an apparent suicide attempt."

S. African priest discusses freedom

By MARTIN RODGERS
Staff Reporter

Father Malusi Mpumlwana spoke Thursday night at the Center for Social Concerns as part of the African Studies Program and the International Peace Lecture Series.

Mpumlwana asked his audience to reflect on the historical evolution of the present movement in South Africa which will eventually "bring down the most inequitable system since Nazi Germany."

In his lecture, "South Africa: The Struggle for Liberation," he broke down South Africa's history in this century into three historical periods: the stage of incredible (1940-1949), the stage of preparation (1946-1963) and the stage of "concerted action" (1963-1986). The latter stage was the ultimate focus of the lecture.

Mguwenu, a graduate student at the University of Capetown, said the concert action phase was one where various liberation groups have begun to "pool together." Those who previously claimed that they could not -- or would not -- work together have "begun to find each other."

This concerted action offers new opportunities which I believe will eventually lead to the next stage, that of the government's "retreat," said Mpumlwana, who is at Notre Dame continuing his theological studies.

"But this is just beginning and the government still has massive resources."
Equality in work place needs adequate time

Dear Editor:

Given the recent Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action for women, I would like to give a few opinions concerning women and pay disparity. First, before being attacked as chauvinistic, I would like to point out that the rational people, myself included, support equal pay for equal work. To deny the same pay for equal work would be ridiculous.

Unfortunately, women may be discriminated against due to forced absences. They may get pregnant. Even if a pregnancy is not planned initially, who is a woman changes her mind. Companies are wary of promoting women to positions which they may be forced to leave. Can a woman blame men? If only for a short time, these "vacations" can be costly to a business. This is a fact of life.

What can be done? There are no easy answers. Promoting women for the sake of promoting women, or any minority for that matter, can lead to further friction between groups in the work force. What about being promoted on merit, qualifications and performance? Disparities in pay in the past cannot be made up over night. Short term solutions are not the answer to a problem that will require long term results. I am not saying that all programs directed towards rights for minorities should be disbanded, but advancement should be based on merit. Programs should be directed at people helping themselves. Progress at another's expense can lead only to resentment and further hostility between minorities and the "majority".

In conclusion, one must be wary in interpreting statistics concerning pay between men and women. Comparisons must be made with care. For example, matching a male factory worker to a secretary is useless. Women have traditionally held the majority of lower paying secretarial and clerical jobs which have lower wages. It has only been in recent history that it has been common for women to go to college and then enter the work force in professional positions. It will take some time for these women to fight their way up the corporate ladder. I wish them all the luck.

Douglas J. Sibilia
Dillon Hall

P.O. Box Q

Open discussion should include non-dissenters

Dear Editor:

While I did not have the opportunity to listen to Father McCormick in his lecture concerning abortion, I did have the opportunity to article of his from the November 8 issue of America in which he argues for the necessity of dissent. His firm conviction about the Catholicity of dissent needs to be addressed.

Fr. McCormick is, of course, a Catholic who, among other things, recognizes the supremacy of the Pope above all others in doctrinal affairs. "Theologians cannot speak for the whole Church. Only the Pope and the bishops with the Pope can do that." A transgression against this notion is clearly not Catholic.

Where, then, does the role of the theologian fit in? Does he have no "freedom" of thought, of inquiry? Of course, according to Vatican II, freedom to express their minds humbly and courageously about those matters in which they enjoy competence." Dissent then, as Fr. McCormick is so determined to tell us, is Catholic.

The question then arises: Why was Father Curran stripped of his teaching authority along with his pastoral powers removed? Are the Pope and Cardinal Ratzinger in direct conflict with Vatican II plainly stated? This is, of course, the complaint McCormick and many of his "liberal" group are leveling at the Vatican and other "conservatives." The problem, of course, lies in how these two different camps interpret Vatican II's definition of "dissent." The spirit of Vatican II is ambiguous. A boy can "freely inquire" whether it is right for him to present dissenting views (strange as that might be). While we are at it, why not go for it all and ask Ratzinger? He's a "dissent." "Huss" danger we pose for the young minds here who might get the impression that dissent is at the center of Catholic theology. Second, while what these theologians have to say is interesting, we can rest assured that their dissenting views are not Catholic because the Pope and Ratzinger have listened to their ideas again and again and have rejected them.

Finally, I have an idea. Let us arrange to hear a theologian who will not present dissenting views (strange as that might be). While we're at it, why not go for it all and ask Ratzinger? True, he may not be the type of enter­

Donnesbury

Garry Trudeau

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Re and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Columns, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Quote of the day

"Rather than being less finicky about who is married, we probably should be more finicky about who is baptized and who is ordained."

Rev. James T. Burtchaell

"For Better, For Worse"

1985

P.O. Box Q

Kevin Becker

Garry Trudeau

P. O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

Editor-in-Chief

Managing Editor

News Editor

Viewpoint Editor

Sports Editor

Account Editor

Photo Editor

Quote of the day

"Rather than being less finicky about who is married, we probably should be more finicky about who is baptized and who is ordained."

Rev. James T. Burtchaell

"For Better, For Worse"

1985

APRIL 3, 1987 - PAGE 8

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Re and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Columns, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Business Manager

Marketing Manager

Advertising Manager

Marketing Coordinator

Production Manager

Production Coordinator

Systems Manager

Systems Coordinator

Editorial Manager

Graphic Arts Manager

Development Manager

Michael Shamon

Michael Whitton

Melinda Chapleau

Melissa Warma

Mark Murphy

Michael Naughton

Tracy Schindele

Laura Stanton

Garry Trudeau

Kevin Becker

Ann combine to press

Pope speaks for the whole Church" - theologians cannot fine. Let us have more of these "open view" discussion. Let us have talks on abortion; let us invite more Maguires, some Curran's, some "dissent." How dangerous we pose for the young minds here who might get the impression that dissent is at the center of Catholic theology. Second, while what these theologians have to say is interesting, we can rest assured that their dissenting views are not Catholic because the Pope and Ratzinger have listened to their ideas again and again and have rejected them.

Finally, I have an idea. Let us arrange to hear a theologian who will not present dissenting views (strange as that might be). While we're at it, why not go for it all and ask Ratzinger? True, he may not be the type of enter­

Donnesbury

Garry Trudeau

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

Editor-in-Chief

Managing Editor

News Editor

Viewpoint Editor

Sports Editor

Account Editor

Photo Editor

Quote of the day

"Rather than being less finicky about who is married, we probably should be more finicky about who is baptized and who is ordained."

Rev. James T. Burtchaell

"For Better, For Worse"

1985

APRIL 3, 1987 - PAGE 8

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Re and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Columns, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Business Manager

Advertising Manager

Marketing Manager

Marketing Coordinator

Production Manager

Production Coordinator

Systems Manager

Systems Coordinator

Editorial Manager

Graphic Arts Manager

Development Manager

Michael Shamon

Michael Whitton

Melinda Chapleau

Melissa Warma

Mark Murphy

Michael Naughton

Tracy Schindele

Laura Stanton

Garry Trudeau

Kevin Becker

Ann combine to press

Pope speaks for the whole Church" - theologians cannot fine. Let us have more of these "open view" discussion. Let us have talks on abortion; let us invite more Maguires, some Curran's, some "dissent." How dangerous we pose for the young minds here who might get the impression that dissent is at the center of Catholic theology. Second, while what these theologians have to say is interesting, we can rest assured that their dissenting views are not Catholic because the Pope and Ratzinger have listened to their ideas again and again and have rejected them.

Finally, I have an idea. Let us arrange to hear a theologian who will not present dissenting views (strange as that might be). While we're at it, why not go for it all and ask Ratzinger? True, he may not be the type of enter­

Donnesbury

Garry Trudeau

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

Editor-in-Chief

Managing Editor

News Editor

Viewpoint Editor

Sports Editor

Account Editor

Photo Editor

Quote of the day

"Rather than being less finicky about who is married, we probably should be more finicky about who is baptized and who is ordained."

Rev. James T. Burtchaell

"For Better, For Worse"

1985

APRIL 3, 1987 - PAGE 8

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Re and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Columns, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Business Manager

Advertising Manager

Marketing Manager

Marketing Coordinator

Production Manager

Production Coordinator

Systems Manager

Systems Coordinator

Editorial Manager

Graphic Arts Manager

Development Manager

Michael Shamon

Michael Whitton

Melinda Chapleau

Melissa Warma

Mark Murphy

Michael Naughton

Tracy Schindele

Laura Stanton
NOTICES

WANTED

Shelby, you told me you had a pair of shoes and a birthday party! If you're reading this, please call me. Shelby. 472-5971.

NOTICE: Lost my keys on the campus. Clean, please call 365-1959.

FOR RENT

FOR SALE

WANTED

PERSONALS

Classifieds
Hagler confident of fight victory

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS - Marvelous Marvin Hagler is aware of Sugar Ray Leonard’s popularity, but he also is secure in his talent and in his place in boxing.

"Just because he won a gold medal and became America’s sweetheart, doesn’t mean I’m a bum," said the middleweight champion who will fight Leonard in a scheduled 12-round bout Monday night at Caesar’s Palace.

Leonard is coming out of retirement for the challenge, and a lot of boxing people think the challenge is too late.

Leonard, who won a gold medal in the Olympics almost 12 years ago, has had just two fights since his last, the ninth-round knockout of Kevin Howard May 11, 1984.

"I don’t believe he has any business in there with me right now," Hagler said Thursday. "He’s been sitting on the other side (outside) of the ring (as a television boxing analyst) and thinking he has the tools to do it."

"That’s great. It makes me a lot of money.

Hagler is guaranteed $12 million, and promoter Bob Arum said that Hagler, who also has a percentage deal, should get at least $15 million. Leonard is guaranteed $11 million.

"I need a new breath of air, like something to motivate me," Hagler said of Leonard’s challenge, which has been criticized in some quarters because of retinal surgery on his left eye that prompted him to retire in 1982.

"I’m not thinking about his eye," Hagler said. "He’s the one that made the choice. I’m going in there to do a job. My job is to defend the world middleweight championship.

Hagler is a 3½-to-1 favorite for the bout at a soldout 15,265-seat outdoor stadium. It is being sanctioned as title fight by the World Boxing Council.

The International Boxing Federation recognizes Hagler as champion, but would declare the title vacant should Leonard win.

Leonard has said he doesn’t care what titles are at stake because the challenge of fighting Hagler is enough for him.

Leonard also said he will retire again, win or lose.

Gooden: When did the drugs start?

Associated Press

NEW YORK - It was a mild October night in Boston, the fifth game of the World Series between the Red Sox and New York Mets had barely begun and Dwight Gooden’s face.

Suspicion seeped from under the brim of his cap, into his eyes and off his chin. Temperature at game time in Fenway Park was 64 degrees and dropping rapidly after a rain-shower.

Gooden had dark circles under his eyes; his face looked drawn. He pulled at his hat, pulled it back at his Mets jersey. He wiped his forehead with his long sleeves. He blew on his pitching hand as if it were cold.

That Gooden was laboring was obvious. He lasted four innings, giving up three runs and nine hits as the Mets lost 4-2 in nine innings of play. He lasted four innings giving up three runs and nine hits as the Mets lost 4-2 in nine innings of play.

Despite rumors circulating during the 1986 season that Gooden was on drugs, his teammates said they never would have guessed.

"I heard the same rumors that you heard," said Ray Knight, the Mets third baseman, now with Baltimore.

"But I never saw any indication of any changes in his personality. But then again, I don’t know what you look for. What do you look for?"

"When I was in his presence, he was always the same," Knight told the New York Post.

"And I observed him closely."

Gooden’s 1986 season was rife with erratic behavior that might have suggested drug use, Yancovitz said.

Before spring training even had begun last year, Gooden tried to hide an ankle injury. Then, he was fined for missing a spring workout. Initially, he said he was in a car accident, and that turned out to be untrue.

In April, Gooden, his sister and his fiancée were detained by police at LaGuardia Airport after an argument with a rental-car agent.

At the same time, Gooden’s performance fell off. He was 3-4 in his Cy Young campaign of 1985, but 17-6 last year. After giving up 17 hits and eight earned runs in nine innings of two World Series losses, Gooden missed the Mets ticker tape parade. He said he overslept.

Last Dec. 13, he was arrested along with a nephew and three other friends after a late-night fight with Tampa police. Gooden had been pulled over in his silver Mercedes-Benz while on his way back from a basketball game. And, last month, Gooden’s girlfriend, Carlene Pearson, pleased guilty to possession of a stolen .38-caliber handgun that she had tried to carry through a metal detector at LaGuardia on Jan. 30.

"Not waking up? that’s glaring. Sweating? it could be a symptom," Yancovitz said.

"The mood swings, inappropriate behavior, inability to tolerate the little troubles we have in everyday life … it’s very symptomatic, very suspicious."

EXPLORE THE BRAIN study neuroscience at IOWA

Tuition scholarships and stipends of $8,500 to $11,500 per year are available to support study leading to the Ph.D. in Neuroscience. Write or call for information.

The University of Iowa Neuroscience Program 5-660A Bowen Science Bldg. Iowa City, IA 52242 (319) 335-7830

Summer STORAGE RESERVATION CALL NOW 683-1959

• VERY CLOSE TO CAMPUS
• APPROX 2 1/2 MILES NORTH US 31-33
• GATES OPEN ALL DAY SUNDAY

Master Mini Warehouses P.O. BOX 100 NILES, MICHIGAN 49120 "BEST LITTLE STORE-HOUSE IN MICHIGANA" DON'T EVEN TOUCH THAT DIAL!

WVFI is back on the air

MIKE RESTLE
features writer

WVFI, the Voice of the Fighting Irish (channel 64 on your AM dial), has finally begun broadcasting again. The student-run radio station shut down just before finals week last semester in order to begin work on a $70,000 renovation project. And as many disgruntled listeners soon discovered upon returning to school in January, the station remained off the air for the next two months as the work continued.

The major project of the renovation was a complete overhaul of what has been said to be the oldest broadcasting system in the country still in use today. Because the conventional method of transmitting radio signals directly into the air requires a very expensive tower antenna as well as hard-to-get FCC licensing, the station instead uses the electrical wiring of the buildings on campus as antennas. That is why the station's signal can only be received on the Notre Dame or St. Mary's campus (or in very close proximity). Repairs were necessary on these wires in the tunnels under the campus, as well as on the couplers in each dorm. Also, an entirely new transmitting system was set up to replace the old one in the studio.

Who's paying for all this? Wonder of wonders, the University finally gave in. The Administration found that it was no longer able to keep dodging the bullet as it had managed to do so often in the past. "A student-run radio station is a waste if the students can't hear it," says Station Manager Kara O'Neill. "We were (finally) able to persuade the Administration to agree with us." So the Board of Trustees approved for the station $35,000 for three years. "We spent two of those in one," laughs O'Neill, referring to the $70,000 project. A loan from the University covered what the appropriation didn't.

The renovations were finally completed during spring break, and on Monday morning after students were back, the highly-touted return of the "new" WVFI

see WVFI, page 2
Fischer captures a school and a soul

MATT HYLAND
features writer

Edward Fischer's autobiography "Notre Dame Remembered" fills the spirit of a man and of the place of which he has been a part for most of his existence. He tells the story of people like Red Smith, Knute Rockne, John M. O'Neill, and Thomas Stritch, James Wilsey, Paul Fenion, and Thomas Stritch, all of whom have brought a certain richness to Notre Dame. He was a friend of Sister Madeleva, who led Saint Mary's through dynamic changes.

His work manages to praise Notre Dame and Saint Mary's without hype-up-sensationalism. His quiet and respectful tone puts Notre Dame in a new perspective. He makes the side of the university seen by students, faculty and WVFI more meaningful to someone familiar with only the surface of the place.

When asked what he is doing now, he responds, "I'm retired." This does not mean he has retired, however. On the contrary, he walks every morning to his home in Notre Dame's old house on Saint Vincent Street, to the Memorial Library, and later walks a mile and a half to Saint Mary's for lunch. In retirement he has completed nine books, seven of which were written in the Far East. When they were completed, he begins another the same day. With his autobiography "Notre Dame Remembered" now available, Fischer has already begun "Life in the Afternoon," which is about good ways of growing old. Self-discipline, he claims, is the hardest and most important part of writing. Even on days when he does not feel like writing, he does anyway, "Writing is harder than teaching," says Fischer. He has to dissclip himself more to write. "Not writing would be even more difficult for me," he says. In the classroom the discipline was external. "You are expected to do so and you prepared, you don't want to look silly. But whether or not I show up at the typewriter each morning, no one knows and no one cares," he says. "To do my best writing when I'm walking," he says of his lonely walks. Fischer's autobiography tells of a childhood spent mostly in solitude. Even though he is in the basement, he has a quiet aura about him as he leans back in a chair and listens to the radio. "I'm trying to be as good a father as possible," says Fischer. His quiet and humble personality sets the tone for his lucid account of his years at Notre Dame and his youth. Fischer stresses that an artistic humility is essential in writing. "Learning to rewrite is most important. Tolstoy wrote 'War and Peace' several times," he says. An arrogant writer would consider the draft as final and not work hard to make it better. Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.

Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.

Translate that into European and American bands that no one would think of listening to, groups such as The Th, Green on Red, Pilling Joker, and The Damned. However, WVFI also plays more familiar groups like U2, REM, and the Talking Heads.

Random student pool participant Joe Jarosz, for one, is glad that the station is back on the air, "WVFI is a good change from the hard-core punk enthusiasts. You don't have to look silly. But even with all the new offices and equipment, there are still the calls-in that happen over the air. One is the size of the city that people call in with a request, I have to go all the way down the hall, find the record, and make it back before the record I'm playing ends. I think they're trying to make sure we get enough exercise around here."

Also, because the station can't be received by off-campus students, O'Neill would like to increase exposure to that group by piping music into the South Bend Public Library and LaFon-
ture, but has run into problems there, too. Although the librarian has already set a system in place, the echoes created by the cathedral ceiling created a problem. The system in LaFortune is not really working well, either. These problems must be worked out if the ideas are to materialize. For now though, WVFI will be keeping its fans very happy just the way it is: lively, stronger, and refresh-

not true. Time is far more valuable than money. You can't repay a minute."

Fischer's book is also filled with humorous anecdotes that share a remarkable look at the Notre Dame of the past and the changes it has undergone. The reader sees the continuity of the Notre Dame tradition that began with Father Sorin on the shores of Saint Mary's lake. "Notre Dame Remembered" is being well received. Professor Donald Costello, chairman of the American Studies department, said, "I've never read a better autobiography." Father Hesburgh said of the work, "It's a wonderful book, especially for one who loves this place and cherishes it as I do." Sister Marjorie Jones of Saint Mary's College observed, "I thought no one could put words together as beautifully as E. B. White did, but Professor Fischer does it equally well, and that is pretty close to perfection in my estimation. "Winus Reviews," a service for librarians and bookstores, reports the following: "Well-written and self-hearts, this book is great for Notre Darmers, and there is much in it for others as well."

The Observer — April 3, 1987

Eduard Fischer's autobiography "Notre Dame Remembered" is a service for librarians and bookstores. It is about him as he leans back in a chair and listens to the radio. "I'm trying to be as good a father as possible," says Fischer. His quiet and humble personality sets the tone for his lucid account of his years at Notre Dame and his youth. Fischer stresses that an artistic humility is essential in writing. "Learning to rewrite is most important. Tolstoy wrote 'War and Peace' several times," he says. An arrogant writer would consider the draft as final and not work hard to make it better. Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.

Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.

Translate that into European and American bands that no one would think of listening to, groups such as The Th, Green on Red, Pilling Joker, and The Damned. However, WVFI also plays more familiar groups like U2, REM, and the Talking Heads.

Random student pool participant Joe Jarosz, for one, is glad that the station is back on the air, "WVFI is a good change from the hard-core punk enthusiasts. You don't have to look silly. But even with all the new offices and equipment, there are still the calls-in that happen over the air. One is the size of the city that people call in with a request, I have to go all the way down the hall, find the record, and make it back before the record I'm playing ends. I think they're trying to make sure we get enough exercise around here."

Also, because the station can't be received by off-campus students, O'Neill would like to increase exposure to that group by piping music into the South Bend Public Library and LaFon-
ture, but has run into problems there, too. Although the librarian has already set a system in place, the echoes created by the cathedral ceiling created a problem. The system in LaFortune is not really working well, either. These problems must be worked out if the ideas are to materialize. For now though, WVFI will be keeping its fans very happy just the way it is: lively, stronger, and refresh-

not true. Time is far more valuable than money. You can't repay a minute."

Fischer's book is also filled with humorous anecdotes that share a remarkable look at the Notre Dame of the past and the changes it has undergone. The reader sees the continuity of the Notre Dame tradition that began with Father Sorin on the shores of Saint Mary's lake. "Notre Dame Remembered" is being well received. Professor Donald Costello, chairman of the American Studies department, said, "I've never read a better autobiography." Father Hesburgh said of the work, "It's a wonderful book, especially for one who loves this place and cherishes it as I do." Sister Marjorie Jones of Saint Mary's College observed, "I thought no one could put words together as beautifully as E. B. White did, but Professor Fischer does it equally well, and that is pretty close to perfection in my estimation. "Winus Reviews," a service for librarians and bookstores, reports the following: "Well-written and self-hearts, this book is great for Notre Darmers, and there is much in it for others as well."

The Observer — April 3, 1987

Eduard Fischer's autobiography "Notre Dame Remembered" is a service for librarians and bookstores. It is about him as he leans back in a chair and listens to the radio. "I'm trying to be as good a father as possible," says Fischer. His quiet and humble personality sets the tone for his lucid account of his years at Notre Dame and his youth. Fischer stresses that an artistic humility is essential in writing. "Learning to rewrite is most important. Tolstoy wrote 'War and Peace' several times," he says. An arrogant writer would consider the draft as final and not work hard to make it better. Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.

Fischer finds all inspiration prov-dential. "I do what I feel is the intelligent thing to do. I don't fight it. You have to go with your feelings," says Fischer. In his book the reader learns that through the years he has learned that when you are supposed to do something you had better go.
TOWER OF POWER: MAKING HEADLINES WITH THE NEWS

This Sunday Huey Lewis and the News will play at the Notre Dame ACC. They will be joined throughout their set by the group Tower of Power.

"Who is the Tower of Power?" you ask. "And what are they doing on my campus?"

This is a good question. To answer, the Tower of Power hails from Oakland, California. In their own words, they play "funky soul and rhythm and blues." In their early days they were popular in their own right, touring and recording with bands like Creedence Clearwater Revival and the Family Stone. Elton John and Smokey Robinson. Then in the late '70s they dropped out of sight.

Now in the mid '80s they are experiencing a big comeback. England loves them and Elvis Presley's fans idolize him. They have been prominently featured on several Huey Lewis and the News albums and are now touring with him. I talked with group leader Emilio Castillo on Wednesday afternoon, about the group's new success.

Ob: You guys have been around for quite a long time, right?

EC: We've got five original members.

Ob: Your press release says that you've gotten your biggest boosts in Europe. Do you find that Europeans are more open-minded about music?

EC: I think in general there's a trend toward soul music over there, starting in the late seventies. We went over there a few years ago. We've gone back several times since and our market's definitely there. They love soul music and see us as the real thing.

Ob: Doesn't that seem strange since soul is so distinctly American?

EC: Well, I think Americans take it for granted because this is where it came from.

Ob: Are you going to do any solo dates while you're touring with the News?

EC: Well, do eight dates in some small arenas, some colleges, the Bottom Line in New York, and the Letterman show on May 6th.

Ob: Will you be playing with the Late Night House Band?

EC: It'll be their band and our horns. We'll tape during the day and then do the Bottom Line shows.

Ob: How did you get involved with Huey Lewis?

EC: He came up to me at an awards benefit called The Bammys in San Francisco (the Bay Area music awards), and he said to me, "You're Emilio Castillo aren't you?" He said that he and his band had been fans of ours since they were all about 11 years old. He was just joking on about how much he liked the band and I said, "Thank you, what's your name?" He said, "Huey." He said, "Huey, is your band the News?" You guys got debut album of the year, right?" But he says, "Oh yeah... but that's nothing, you guys are the greatest and blah, blah, blah..." So about a month later he brought his whole band over to the old Waldorf to see us. This was back in '82. Anyway, they came backstage and they were all excited and we became really good friends. A little while later we did our first tune with him, "Hope You Love Me Like You Say You Do," and I was very pleased to find that they played good, soulful music. I kinda thought they were a punk band or something, at first, but was really pleased with that song 'cause it sounded like Sam and Dave or something.

Ob: Are those your influences? Sam and Dave? The Motown session musicians?

EC: Our influences include all R and B, Memphis, James Brown, Philadelphia, any soul.

Ob: You seem to have had a real resurgence in popularity these last few years. To what do you attribute that?

EC: Well, for one, we never gave up. We stayed together and toured. We've also an excellent performing band, and I think people get more out of a stage performance. Oh! How have you guys been received on the Fare tour? Do you get a solo spot?

Ob: Oh, yeah, Huey features us and says our name loud and proud. He even sings one of our songs. "Nothing's Stopping Us Now." He's a big fan of ours and I wouldn't be doing this if he weren't. Soon it got to the point where the Tower of Power was getting more popular, getting more offers for gigs. But they were all the same kind of gigs. You know, club dates where you have to travel forever, do all this work, and end up getting taken by some club owner. Well, when Huey featured one of my songs on the Fare album ("It's So Simple As That") and needed our horn section, we signed on. Now we're turning people down when they call for gigs. You know, the less you're around the more they want you and the more you're around the less they want you.

Ob: That must be pretty satisfying, having promoters chasing you.

EC: It's satisfying, actually. It's funny (laughs). Oh! How is playing for 20,000 people in an arena different from playing for 50 people in a club?

EC: There's no real difference. You play the same way to the hill.

Ob: That must be pretty satisfying, actually. It's funny (laughs). Oh! How is playing for 20,000 people in an arena different from playing for 50 people in a club?

EC: There's no real difference. You play the same way to the hill.

Ob: Well, I think you have a great sound and there's a great balance in the band. It's a real good blend of R and B, funky soul and rhythm and blues.

EC: That's it (laughs). It's just a great sound.

Ob: How are things with the Fare tour? Are you happy with the audience reception?

EC: It is satisfying. Actually, people are saying our name loud and proud. The band's name and schedule to The Observer office.

Campus Band Publicity

The Observer

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's newspaper

Be a part of it.
Greetings from London

As much as they miss Notre Dame, the students of the London program of studies cannot complain. Approximately 80 juniors are chosen each semester to take their arts and letters endeavors abroad. All will agree that the chance to travel and study in Europe as well as building new and strong friendships accentuates the Notre Dame experience.

Photos and text by Brian Mast

A member of the "Men's liberation organization" degrades the female species at Speaker's Corner in Hyde Park, while a street artist performs for small change at the Tower of London.

"Cheers!" - A group of students the Commons at the college.
Gordon MacLachlan composes another masterpiece at the hotel, while Brian Owsey attempts to control a hungry crowd at the flats with his cookery.
Adam Clayton and Larry "credible" performances have promising idealism and far from perfect, but it had Fire, rock n' roll fans the world in the two years since U2's Tree, but release it they have, it's a big relief. Instead of becoming pompous and "biggest groups in the world."

"I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For" deals with that obsession. Bono sings, "I believe in the Kingdom Come/Then all the colors will bleed into one/But yes I'm still running," Musically, the first two songs are typical U2-Edge's ever-changing, and the highly assertive rhythm section of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

The Observer — April 3, 1987

Scene-Page 6

U2's best effort yet

Kris Murphy

The Observer

Brian Eno and Daniel Lanol's return and they're responsible for the cathedral organ that greets the listener as the albums first sound. Then from somewhere in the background comes the familiar choppy ringing of the Edge's guitar and Bono is singing, "I want to run/ I want to hide/ I want to tear down all that/ I'm old inside." Those words are from "Where the Streets Have No Name" and they sum up the central theme of the album: people are walled in, imprisoned by everything from their governments to themselves. This is an album about people struggling with powers bigger than themselves for their freedom. It's also about a boy subject, they've always been obsessed with.

The second song "I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For" deals with that obsession. Bono sings, "I believe in the Kingdom Come/Then all the colors will bleed into one/But yes I'm still running." Musically, the first two songs are typical U2-Edge's ever-changing, and the highly assertive rhythm section of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

The Observer — April 3, 1987

Scene-Page 6

U2's best effort yet

Kris Murphy

The Observer

Brian Eno and Daniel Lanol's return and they're responsible for the cathedral organ that greets the listener as the albums first sound. Then from somewhere in the background comes the familiar choppy ringing of the Edge's guitar and Bono is singing, "I want to run/ I want to hide/ I want to tear down all that/ I'm old inside." Those words are from "Where the Streets Have No Name" and they sum up the central theme of the album: people are walled in, imprisoned by everything from their governments to themselves. This is an album about people struggling with powers bigger than themselves for their freedom. It's also about a boy subject, they've always been obsessed with.

The second song "I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For" deals with that obsession. Bono sings, "I believe in the Kingdom Come/Then all the colors will bleed into one/But yes I'm still running." Musically, the first two songs are typical U2-Edge's ever-changing, and the highly assertive rhythm section of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

PSYCHEDELIC FURS

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.

Open City(1945) Monday, April 6 at 9 pm, Snite revolution and becomes a hero. Full of unusual comic ideas, with a generous dose of sight gags. Allen casts himself as a meek factory worker who runs off to South America, where he leads a liberation film during the actual Nazi withdrawal from Rome) and, most of all, its passionate effort significant and influential films of the past decade. For Stanley Kubrick it is simply the best American

of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

PSYCHEDELIC FURS

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.

Open City(1945) Monday, April 6 at 9 pm, Snite revolution and becomes a hero. Full of unusual comic ideas, with a generous dose of sight gags. Allen casts himself as a meek factory worker who runs off to South America, where he leads a liberation film during the actual Nazi withdrawal from Rome) and, most of all, its passionate effort significant and influential films of the past decade. For Stanley Kubrick it is simply the best American

of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

PSYCHEDELIC FURS

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.

Open City(1945) Monday, April 6 at 9 pm, Snite revolution and becomes a hero. Full of unusual comic ideas, with a generous dose of sight gags. Allen casts himself as a meek factory worker who runs off to South America, where he leads a liberation film during the actual Nazi withdrawal from Rome) and, most of all, its passionate effort significant and influential films of the past decade. For Stanley Kubrick it is simply the best American

of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

PSYCHEDELIC FURS

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.

Open City(1945) Monday, April 6 at 9 pm, Snite revolution and becomes a hero. Full of unusual comic ideas, with a generous dose of sight gags. Allen casts himself as a meek factory worker who runs off to South America, where he leads a liberation film during the actual Nazi withdrawal from Rome) and, most of all, its passionate effort significant and influential films of the past decade. For Stanley Kubrick it is simply the best American

of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughters/Were cut down and taken from us/Heartbreak in the wind..."

The Joshua Tree is a challenging and consistent statement from one of this decade's strongest bands. The music is singing and eclectic and the lyrics continually address real problems in an intelligent manner. Bono insists that music can change things for the better and its hard to argue with this when faced with The Joshua Tree.

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

PSYCHEDELIC FURS

Psychedelic Furs in a 'holding pattern'

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.

Open City(1945) Monday, April 6 at 9 pm, Snite revolution and becomes a hero. Full of unusual comic ideas, with a generous dose of sight gags. Allen casts himself as a meek factory worker who runs off to South America, where he leads a liberation film during the actual Nazi withdrawal from Rome) and, most of all, its passionate effort significant and influential films of the past decade. For Stanley Kubrick it is simply the best American

of Mullen and Clayton.

The next song shows the strong influence of Eno and Lanol's. It's called "With or Without You" and it's another great mid-tempo ballad that is memorable due to the dread that one would feel when hearing a late-night knock at the door. Bono approaches the tragedy from a mother's point of view; "Midnight, our sons and daughter..."
The Cost of Loving: style at too high a price

KEVIN WALSH
features writer

Paul Weller first came into the public eye as the angry young mod leading the sonic assault of The Jam, one of the primary punk bands that was once as popular in England as Van Halen is here. Weller led the band with a flying splinter intensity which seemed to ignore fatigue. They had a problem, though. The Jam got too big. Weller's attempts to keep the music fresh were only bogged down by the band's popularity and the demands of its public. The Jam disbanded and Paul Weller formed the Style Council, it seemed like a logical move at the time. Mod culture, upon which Weller based his ideals, and The Jam were steeped in the great soul music of the sixties that with "The Big Chill," became a sort of a beginner's primer in hip. The Style Council would later return to this fantastic soul tradition and Weller would get back to its roots. Well, I think he went right past them, and three albums later. It seems like Paul Weller is bogged down again.

The Cost Of Loving starts off as Paul Weller, "Angel," a muzak-y love song, which seems as if it may be a partial disavowal of his days with The Jam. He pulls the same schizophrinic trick in "Waiting," which appears to be another love song, but could also be a response to his army of new critics.

The rap song which we have come to expect from a Style Council record is here. It's called "Right To Go" and is another rather generic rap against politics, capitalism, and society, espousing the right to vote with a standard rap group who use a lot of "Check It out," and "Alright, all's well, Atlee Lee, the lovely girl with a near perfect voice who has appeared on all the Style Council albums, has apparently finally been recognized as a full-time member. The band is better for it. She lends the Style Council a graceful soul credibility which it needs, but even she can't save it completely. Her one solo shot, the unlisted "A Woman's Song," isn't pulled off as successfully as she merits. It is a ballad from an unemployed divorced woman singing her child to sleep with the tale of her life. Her voice, as always, is stunning, and the understated instrumentation works well, but the song itself somehow rings false.

The remainder of the album is basic, sugar-coated Paul Weller. A semi-funny bass line curtsies happily around the harmonies of the two singers as the beauty of the harmonies tries to cover up the lyrics. The only song on the album not penned by Weller, "Angel," points up this problem very well. Interestingly enough. It boasts an atmospheric synth line, chiming bells, chilled vocals, but just lazy lyrics. I really do hesitate to write Paul Weller off as a rock 'n' roller, but this album has as much to do with rock 'n' roll as my grandmother (which is not to say I love my grandmother). The Cost of Loving is soothing. It is listenable. It is good rainy day music. It's like Windham Hill with a frosted hallucinatory, a new without a past, sort of cozy loafer. It is not rock 'n' roll. And for a man with as a grand rock 'n' roll tradition to uphold as Paul Weller, it's just not enough.

The Observer — April 3, 1987

Scene-Page 7
Sitting at the dinner table next to him, I wonder what the retiring chap likes about as much as he gets ready to hang up the gloves? Imagining Father Hesburgh's stream of consciousness is like trying to guess what went through Rockne's mind as he composed the Gipper speech.

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

Is his head as tired as mine would be after 35 years? Are these bittersweet days for him? The word "bittersweet" comes to mind, because he once described something I wrote as bittersweet. He was right; the bittersweetness was there. I could see it after he pointed it out. A university president could experience his final six weeks in office as bittersweet.

He's reviewing the good times and the bad times, scared as well as relieved, like a schoolboy reading his report card that tomorrow will be different from the time that is still left behind, the hope he has been at home so long. Like the basketball season, the Hesburgh years will not be over until they are over. When will the last brick be laid, the final cornerstone blessed, of the buildings that go up because of Father Ted? I wonder; is he impressed with Father Ted? An anecdote in circulation for decades takes this form: though the subject of the anecdote is not Father Hesburgh, a Notre Dame administrator calls up a contractor to get an estimate for building a mausoleum. The contractor, after studying the specs, says: "It will cost $10,000." "That much?" exclaims the administrator. "Are you crazy? I'm only planning to use it three days." It's obvious that the style wasn't inspired by the Hesburgh style, since he is immortal. He must be proud of the recipient as they become available, but he doesn't see them built as though his blood were in the bricks as his monument.

When the first astronaut landed on the moon, the national recalled Kennedy, who promised a moon landing at the end of the decade that started with the Camelot interlude. At a number of dedications still ahead, Father Hesburgh will be mentioned as the dreamer who saw in his mind's eye what had not yet happened, and asked: "Why couldn't it happen here?" With the help of Notre Dame's friends, the buildings go up.

Reading The Observer, I wondered if he noticed a new note added to the usual complaints: "The new boss understands us: the old boss stood ready to close us down." This hint of the father being played against the grandfather could make Father Hesburgh's departure bittersweet. If it becomes the fashion. With so much on his mind, perhaps he doesn't pay attention or maybe he takes in stride.

The hard feeling caused by the suppression of team names reminded me of the time I was introduced to a racketeer who wore a ring set with diamonds that spelled the most common of the four-letter words. I've read the word, heard the word, and perhaps even used the word, in my salad days, when my judgment was green. I was surprised to meet a man who took pleasure in wearing the word on a piece of jewelry. My reaction was: "This bird doesn't have much class." I wondered if his wife and children were proud of his tasteless father. The word "class" is not easily defined, and neither is the word "personality." "Years ago, John F. Kennedy put his finger on Richard Nixon's flaw: "He lacks class." Cardinal Newman wrote, "It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never insults pain." Watergate caused the nation systemically. Stylistically, Nixon was an embarrassment, and that's painful too. Nixon has paid for his sins: nowadays I feel sorry for him. He shows us how a failure in style or class can be fatal if it leaves you paranoid about being the odd man out.

Some people are born classy; you can tell they have class the first time you meet them. Some people develop their class as they go along. Their traits are good; they quickly discover how class helps to be lovable like a garter snake. Some people are born warts with neutralized tendencies. Though they are not ill-willed, you can't even imagine them as an acquired language. Class, as a code of ethics and a set of norms that sets it apart. Hesburgh has paid for his sins; nowadays I feel sorry for him. He shows us how a failure in style or class can be fatal if it leaves you paranoid about being the odd man out.

Some people are born classy: you can tell they have class the first time you meet them. Some people develop their class as they go along. Their traits are good; they quickly discover how class helps to be lovable like a garter snake. Some people are born warts with neutralized tendencies. Though they are not ill-willed, you can't even imagine them as an acquired language. Class, as a code of ethics and a set of norms that sets it apart. Hesburgh has paid for his sins; nowadays I feel sorry for him. He shows us how a failure in style or class can be fatal if it leaves you paranoid about being the odd man out.

Undergraduates are not allowed to act classless, though they're kicking and screaming that they gotta be me." Class is part of the Notre Dame education, it is something students pay for without wanting their money's worth. I ask seriously: Is it really censorship to be deprived of cheap language embarrassing to the University? Don't students want the departiment leader to think he has given them better values than that?

What thoughts are on Father Hesburgh's mind as he gets ready to retire? Joan of Arc, on trial for her life, was asked about the mystery nobody can answer. "Are you in a state of grace?" She answered. "If I am, I pray God will keep me there. If I am not, I pray God will put me there."

Perhaps Father Hesburgh prays for Notre Dame to hold onto -- or, if any of it has been lost, which God forbid, to find it again -- the grace that makes us Catholic and Christian. He trusts his successors to set their course by the eternal stars.

The Catholic soul is what Notre Dame class and style are about. Hesburgh has struggled as a priest to keep the spirit of the age, which is death-bearing, from ruining the school. Do the undergraduates appreciate how important his religion is to him and all the old timers? If he comes back in 100 years as a ghost, he'll check to see if the chapels are still being used for Mass. This will be his last stop -- not the number of buildings -- that something was done well in the Hesburgh years. How many headaches has he suffered holding the line against an old-fashioned priest, during the times of the great change?

In a season of tainted evangels, we've never had to apologize for him, or ask him what he did with the money raised. This time he seems ready to retire without a backward look. The changing of the guard is a classy act, of which Hesburgh is the star. The Elijah's cloak falling from his shoulders should fit Monk well.

Cut - Rate - Liquors

Formerly Locks' Liquor World

1218 South Bond Ave. - 277-3611
Across from Yellow Submarine

Milwaukee's Best

Busch

Lite

$8.29 a case

$9.99 a case

Schlitz Malt

40 oz-99¢

Papa's Vodka

$8.99 175ml

Everclear

$1049750 ml

WE

$5.99 5th

Peachtree Schnapps

$5.99

Our motto is to wheel and deal.
Come and talk to us about parties,
Syr's, etc. Also check our beer prices.

Warm or Cold Beer Available
Irish hope to conquer Badgers on strength of freshman Peltier's bat

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Try to snap out of a defensive slump that has seen the Notre Dame baseball team give up 20 runs in its last two games, the Irish may not be facing the best team to remedy the situation this weekend in the University of Wisconsin.

The 7-10 Irish are slated to play two doubleheaders against the Badgers at Jake Kline Field. Saturday's action is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. and Sunday's games will begin at 12 noon. Wisconsin held a 5-10 record going into yesterday's game against Valparaiso.

"Wisconsin's been in the same boat we've been in," said Irish head coach Larry Gallo. "They haven't been able to play many games lately either." California's cancellation of yesterday's Bethel game marked the third cancellation of any home game this year.

Although Wisconsin's record is mediocre, it is no fault of the Badgers' starting lineup. Wisconsin has a batting average of .326. Centerfielder Mike Barker and first baseman Scott Cepek lead the Badgers with respective batting averages of 414 and 360.

Those numbers aren't welcome sights for the Irish pitchers, who have seen their team earn run average soar above 4.50 in the last week. Notre Dame plans to start the team's three leading starters--this weekend, with the fourth starter not yet determined.

"We're pitching's going to have to come around," continued Gallo. "They have to get ahead in the count more often." Wisconsin's pitching has been the cause of its downfall so far this year. The Badger cute and do the things they know they are capable of doing, and we'll get on a roll."

One hitter who has provided some timely hitting already for the Irish has been freshman Dan Peltier. The rightfielder sports a .356 batting average and leads the Irish in home runs (2), runs batted in (16), walks (10), and in slugging percentage (.492). While most freshmen take some time to ad just, Gallo is not too surprised with Peltier's quick start.

"I just needed to get my defensive position set because this is my first year in the outfield, and I want to get comfortable," said Peltier. "I still don't think of myself as a power hitter," said Peltier. "I think of myself as a gap hitter, getting doubles and triples, and when the home runs come, that's nice. I don't go up swinging for the fences."

Peltier's quick start has also earned him the confidence of his teammates.

"A lot of players feel if they get on base for Peltier, he'll knock them in," said Gallo. "He's a lot of RBI's. I'm not going to say he's going to come through all the time, but he's been coming through lately.

While Peltier has been one of the few highlights in a season that has disappointed the Irish so far, Peltier feels the Irish are better than their record indicates, and that the team is ready to come on.

"I definitely think that our record doesn't show what kind of team we have," said Peltier. "We've lost a lot of close games in the late innings and lost. I don't think any team we've played has been better than us."

The Observer/Greg Kohs

Freshman outfielder Dan Peltier has been an unexpected source of power in the baseball team's lineup. The Irish will take on Wisconsin this weekend for a pair of doubleheaders at Jake Kline Field.

GRADUATE NURSES

Your education will not end with graduation. As a graduate nurse at Rochester Methodist Hospital, you will receive comprehensive twelve-week-long, fully-paid orientation where you will further develop your professional skills. Beyond orientation, you will have the challenges and the growth opportunities that a world-class medical center can provide.

Rochester Methodist Hospital is an 800-bed acute/care Mayo Foundation Hospital. Choose challenge: Choose growth. Choose Rochester Methodist Hospital.

Rochester Methodist Hospital Personnel Services
Nursing Recruitment Section 702 200 First Street
Rochester, MN 55902
Call Collect: (507) 289-7591

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, EUGENE III

Searcy

continued from page 16 scores corresponding to its per formance against each individual team.

The Irish will need another impressive meet in the field events, but a solid performance from all is necessary if they are to take all three meets.

"I expect us to do very well," said Piane, "I see no reason why we can't do as well or even a little better in the field events."

Piane added that everyone will participate in their regular events this weekend.

The Observer is accepting applications for the following paid positions:

DAY EDITOR & TYPIST

Questions should be directed to Jim Winkler at the Observer office (239-5133).

Summer Sessions at Indiana University at South Bend
May 18 - June 29
July 6 - August 14
For your copy of the schedule call 287-4455
IUSB Admissions Office 1700 Mishawaka Avenue
Lopez seeks top LPGA spot
nine tournaments while Nabisco Dinah Shore at Mission Hills Country Club.

Nancy Lopez has cut back on travel around the tour. Lopez, with the help of a nanny, returned to the tour after giving birth to her second child. Lopez is to win the Nabisco Dinah and grow.

The Irish struggled through the early part of their season, but came alive in the final weeks to win six straight games.

“I have never enjoyed coaching a team as much as I did those last three weeks,” said DiStantislaw, who noted her 200th career win in a S3-44 upset against No. 23 DePaul on February 21. Junior point guard Mary Gavin was named the team’s Most Valuable Player and presented a plaque by the National Monogram Club. Gavin was also presented with a game ball to commemorate her becoming Notre Dame’s all-time leader in assists and steals, with 335 and 188 respectively.

Freshman Annie Schwartz was presented with the Coach’s Award as the “unsung hero.”

Her return to the tour this weekend.

“Eligibility is one of the major topics that will be decided this weekend,” said Mike Moran, director of the USOC’s public information department. “Helmick says the time for talking is over and a final policy needs to be determined.”

Testing athletes for the use of marijuana, one of the drugs not on the USOC’s list of banned substances since it is not considered a performance-enhancing substance, is also expected to be reviewed.

However, Moran doesn’t anticipate a decision on the issue. About 300 delegates will hear reports from USOC committees to the organization continue to prepare for the 1988 Summer and Winter Olympics. Roberts, the USOC president, is proposing an amendment to the Olympic eligibility rules that ban athletes who have been professional athletes or professional coaches in any sport.

About 300 delegates will hear reports from USOC committees to the organization continue to prepare for the 1988 Summer and Winter Olympics. Roberts, the USOC president, is proposing an amendment to the Olympic eligibility rules that ban athletes who have been professional athletes or professional coaches in any sport.

Currently the international federations in several sports disagree on eligibility criteria. The International Amateur Athletic Federation recently rejected applications for reinstatement from professional football players Willie Gault, Henry Ellard and Vince Courville. IAAP president Prime Nsibio recently announced that former pro football players Stanley Floyd, Mel LaTiany and Mark McNeil had been reinstated in accordance with an unofficial policy that athletes who indicate they are finished playing professional football can compete in track.

The International Tennis Federation, however, wants an open Olympics for their sport.

USOC wants eligibility decided

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - Robert H. Helmick, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, wants the issue of athlete eligibility decided by the organization’s House of Delegates this weekend.

“The goal now is to be No. 1 again,” said Lopez, the LPGA player of the Year in 1978, 1979 and 1985.

“I want to be the only player in history to be No. 1 and the mother of two,” quipped Lopez, who was scheduled to begin play today in the $500,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore at Mission Hills Country Club.

“I want to keep on winning. My immediate goal, of course, is to win the Nabisco Dinah Shore, which is my favorite tournament.”

The 36-year-old Lopez, married to Baltimore Orioles infielder Ray Knight, recently returned to the tour after giving birth to her second child. Erin Shea is now 10 months old, and Ashley Marie is 3. Lopez, with the help of a nanny, keeps the girls with her as she travels around the tour.

Lopez, who won an amazing nine tournaments while playing a full schedule on the tour in 1978, said she plans to limit herself to 18 or 19 tournaments this year.

“If I need more work to keep shooting well, I’ll add a few as I go along,” she said. “That’s the schedule I’ll keep until Ashley begins school.

Bob Bayliss, an 18-year veteran of coaching tennis at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the U.S. Naval Academy, has been named the new head tennis coach next fall at Notre Dame. He replaces Tom Fascetti, who is retiring this spring after leading the program for 31 years.

The ND women’s golf club is hosting a tournament with DePaul and Indianapolis Sunday. The 18-hole tournament begins at noon at the Burke Memorial golf course.

Team rosters for the An Tostal ultimate frisbee tournament are due today between 3 to 5 at the An Tostal office on the second floor of LaFortune. For more information, contact Pat Dunne at 283-1562.

The St. Louis Cardinals traded outfielder Andy Van Slyke, catcher Mike Lavallier and pitcher Mike Dunne to the Pittsburgh Pirates for catcher Tony Pena.

Lopez seeks top LPGA spot

Associated Press

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. - Nancy Lopez has cut back on golf to have more time for her family, but she still has a definite goal in her sport.

“My goal now is to be No. 1 again,” said Lopez, the LPGA player of the Year in 1978, 1979 and 1985.

“I want to be the only player in history to be No. 1 and the mother of two,” quipped Lopez, who was scheduled to begin play today in the $500,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore at Mission Hills Country Club.

“I want to keep on winning. My immediate goal, of course, is to win the Nabisco Dinah Shore, which is my favorite tournament.”

The 36-year-old Lopez, married to Baltimore Orioles infielder Ray Knight, recently returned to the tour after giving birth to her second child. Erin Shea is now 10 months old, and Ashley Marie is 3. Lopez, with the help of a nanny, keeps the girls with her as she travels around the tour.

Lopez, who won an amazing nine tournaments while playing a full schedule on the tour in 1978, said she plans to limit herself to 18 or 19 tournaments this year.

“If I need more work to keep shooting well, I’ll add a few as I go along,” she said. “That’s the schedule I’ll keep until Ashley begins school. By BRIAN O’GARA

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women’s basketball season came to an official conclusion last evening at the team’s year-end banquet in the ACC Monogram Room. Several individuals were presented with awards while the Irish were praised for overcoming adversity during their 12-15 season.

“It was the best of times, it was the worst of times,” quoted Head Coach Mary DiStantislaw. “We lost the wind from our sails for a while, and had our backs against the wall.

“We had to dig deep,” continued DiStantislaw, “but we found what it was like to be a team. With a little faith, resolve and commitment, we were able to spring forward and grow.”

The Irish struggled through the early part of their season, but came alive in the final weeks to win six straight games.

“I have never enjoyed coaching a team as much as I did those last three weeks,” said DiStantislaw, who noted her 200th career win in a S3-44 upset against No. 23 DePaul on February 21.

Junior point guard Mary Gavin was named the team’s Most Valuable Player and presented a plaque by the National Monogram Club. Gavin was also presented with a game ball to commemorate her becoming Notre Dame’s all-time leader in assists and steals, with 335 and 188 respectively.

Freshman Annie Schwartz was presented with the Coach’s Award as the “unsung hero.”

The 3-2 forward caught fire midway through the season and finished with 9.1 points and 4.7 rebounds per game. In the final 11 games, Schwartz averaged 12.5 points per contest, including a career-high 29 points against Detroit on February 11.

The Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph’s Valley’s Student-Athlete Award was presented to Junior Kathy Barron, while senior Sandy Botham was awarded a game ball for notching her 1,000 career point in the season finale at Dayton. Gavin and Botham were named to the first team of the North Star All-Conference team, while sophomore Heidi Bunek was named to the second team.

Gavin named MVP at banquet

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - Robert H. Helmick, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, wants the issue of athlete eligibility decided by the organization’s House of Delegates this weekend.

“Eligibility is one of the major topics that will be decided this weekend,” said Mike Moran, director of the USOC’s public information department. “Helmick says the time for talking is over and a final policy needs to be determined.”

Testing athletes for the use of marijuana, one of the drugs not on the USOC’s list of banned substances since it is not considered a performance-enhancing substance, is also expected to be reviewed.

However, Moran doesn’t anticipate a decision on the issue. About 300 delegates will hear reports from USOC committees to the organization continue to prepare for the 1988 Summer and Winter Olympics. Roberts, the USOC president, is proposing an amendment to the Olympic eligibility rules that ban athletes who have been professional athletes or professional coaches in any sport.

Currently the international federations in several sports disagree on eligibility criteria. The International Amateur Athletic Federation recently rejected applications for reinstatement from professional football players Willie Gault, Henry Ellard and Vince Courville. IAAP president Prime Nsibio recently announced that former pro football players Stanley Floyd, Mel LaTiany and Mark McNeil had been reinstated in accordance with an unofficial policy that athletes who indicate they are finished playing professional football can compete in track.

The International Tennis Federation, however, wants an open Olympics for their sport.

ATTENTION ALL GRADUATING STUDENTS

Measurements will be taken for Caps and Gowns
Tuesday April 7, 1987
Wednesday April 8, 1987

Between 9:00-4:30 at the
NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

Sunrise Promotions Presents

HUEY LEWIS
and The News
Sunday April 5
7:30 pm Notre Dame ACC
Reserved seats: $16.50

Tickets available at the ACC Gate 10
Box Office or charge by phone
(219) 239-7356
Expansion franchises approved by NBA

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The NBA expansion committee recommended Thursday that the league expand to 26 teams by adding franchises in Charlotte, N.C.; Minneapolis and either Miami or Orlando, Fla., for the 1988-89 and 1989-90 seasons.

The five-member committee recommended that Charlotte be admitted for the 1988-89 season, Minneapolis the following season and the Florida team in one of those two seasons. A decision between Miami and Orlando will be made by the league in October.

Each city would pay $32.5 million for its franchise if the NBA board of Governors goes along with the recommendation when it meets April 22 in New York. A three-quarters vote of the owners is needed for a franchise to be accepted.

"We're extremely delighted. We were such a long shot candidate," said Dan Lohwasser, a spokesman for NBA Charlotte. "People even locally didn't give us much of a chance of even making it, much less coming out No. 1. Of course, it still has to get by the NBA board of Governors, so we still have some work to do."

"We won't make any type of real decisions until after April 22," said Bob Stein, the attorney for the group which would return pro basketball to Minneapolis where the Los Angeles Lakers franchise originated.

"Now we're just hoping the rest of the league agrees. We're excited about having the opportunity to join the league. We are thrilled and flattered that we are being considered like this."

The committee also considered Toronto, Anaheim, Calif., and St. Petersburg, Fla.

"We feel like Charlotte was in such a strong position, having a new coliseum," Lohwasser said. "This is the heart of basketball country, right dead in the center of the ACC, and we had an excellent coliseum lease with the full backing of the city. Businesses came through with season ticket sales we sold 8,900 season tickets.

"It's a growth area and they're businessmen and recognize that we were a viable city for a major league team," said Lohwasser, whose team would be known as the Spirit.

The Observer

Mother Nature made defense a chore, as wet courts and driving, snow-filled winds whipped up on winners and losers alike.
Walsh is key for Irish

By KELLY TOWNSEND

Sports Writer

Tomorrow the Notre Dame men's tennis team travels to Ball State hoping to up their record to 14-8. A powerful force for the Irish will be hard-hitting junior Dan Walsh. Walsh began the season at the sixth spot, but through hard work and a little luck has spent most of the season in the fourth and fifth spots. The key to Walsh's success is twofold. His combination of skill and power has given him a strong baseline game while his attitude gives him a mental edge over his opponents as well.

"In order to win, you need to be intense," said Walsh. "You have to go out there wanting to win."

This intensity has enabled Walsh to establish a 20-1 record so far this season in singles. Along with his singles record, Walsh has teamed up with fellow junior Paul Daggs in the doubles event. This duo has spent almost three seasons smashing opponents. Daggs' powerful serves and volleys compliment Walsh's baseline game. This season, the pair have attained a 10-2 record at the number two doubles spot.

Coach Tom Fallon is impressed by Walsh both as a player and captain.

"Dan is one of the most consistent players," said Fallon. "He sets a good pace for the team. In doubles, Dan and Paul are a good pair. When they are hot, they are a match for anyone in this area. Some days they are just unbeatable."

"Last year Dan did a great job for us. He played at the number one spot at a much higher level than he was ready for. He stuck with it and made it easier for those behind him by taking on the tougher opponents." The team并将参加最后一场球。这是一场非常有挑战性的比赛，因为我们需要努力去赢得最后一场比赛。"
Bloom County

Robert Rodos, ND, Library Lounge
6:30 p.m.: Starburst - High School All-Star Basketball Classic, ACC girls at 6:30 and boys at 8:15, tickets $5, to benefit Special Olympics.

Friday Night Film Series, "Dawns of the Dead," 1979, color, 140 minutes, directed by George Romero, USA Annenberg Auditorium

9 - 10 a.m.: First Saturday Holy Hour
11 a.m.: Spanish Mass, by Fr. Theodore Hyden Jazz Quartet, at the South Dining Hall, tickets are $8 per person or $10 per couple
12 p.m.: Baseball, ND vs. Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison, Jake Kline Field
1 p.m.: Dept. of Music Concert, Chamber Music Recital with members of the South Bend Symphony, Washington Hall, tickets required, call 229-0052

Saturday is Cindy Harvey's 19th Birthday. Wish her a happy one. Call # 2736 or stop by at 342

Far Side

Gary Larson

"Land of the people", part of the "Land of the people, the". You couldn't make "Land of the people" part of the song "Land of the people". "Land of the people, the".

The Greystokes at marriage counseling

The Daily Crossword

FRIDAY

Last day for course discontinuance
3 p.m.: Tennis, ND vs. Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, Courtney Courts
1 p.m.: Baseball, ND vs. Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison, Jake Kline Field
2 p.m.: Varsity Softball, SMC vs. Indiana University, Bloomington, and Purdue University, Indianapolis, SMC Softball Field
7 - 9 p.m.: SMC Opening Reception for Senior comprehensives III, all galleries, SAB Presents:
11 a.m.: Spanish Mass, by Fr. Theodore Hyden Jazz Quartet, at the South Dining Hall, tickets are $8 per person or $10 per couple
12 p.m.: Baseball, ND vs. Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison, Jake Kline Field
4 p.m.: Dept. of Music Concert, Chamber Music Recital with members of the South Bend Symphony, Washington Hall, tickets required, call 229-0052

SATURDAY

9 - 10 a.m.: First Saturday Holy Hour of Reparation, Corby Hall Chapel, Blessed Sacrament exposed, all welcome
1 p.m.: Tennis, NDW vs. Ohio State, Courtney Courts
6:30 p.m.: Starthurst - High School All-Star Basketball Classic, ACC girls at 6:30 and boys at 8:15, tickets $5, to benefit Special Olympics.
7:30 p.m.: Friday Night Film Series, "Dawns of the Dead," 1979, color, 140 minutes, directed by George Romero, USA Annenberg Auditorium
8 p.m.: SMC Performing Arts Series - North Carolina Dance Theater, O'Laughlin Hall, for tickets, call 384-4626
8:15 p.m.: Dept. of Music Concert, Notre Dame Glee Club Spring Concert, Washington Hall, tickets required, call 229-0052

"Hi guys, it's my B/day.
"Really no applause."
SEACRY hopes to break 47-second mark in weekend meet

I'd like to say thank you to all those involved in the decision to censor the names of teams involved in Bookstore Basketball XVI. I'm in favor of freedom of expression and creativity just as much as anybody else. The reason I say thank you is much more personal.

No longer will I have to drag myself across campus to wade through the list of a particular day's results and next day's schedule in search of words and phrases that might offend the weak-minded. Last year when technical difficulties at The Observer retarded, allowed us to print results and schedules, I went through this routine every night, usually well after midnight. I would sit in front of a terminal and replace offending phrases with ellipses.

This year, thanks to Assistant Vice President for Student Services Father Peter Rocca, I don't have to worry about it. Why? They've taken the editorial decision on what to print and what not to print right out of my hands.

"(The names) were unfit for publishing and they were terribly gross," said Rocca in an article in The Observer on Monday. Thanks for taking control of my job, Father. You see, what has basically happened here is that The Observer, which has had a long history of maintaining editorial independence, has been censored through the back door. I can't print what I don't have. (No folks, I haven't seen an uncensored list so don't ask me for a copy.) By keeping what has been deemed offensive by the authorities out of my sight, I don't have to make editorial decisions. Or don't I?

Thank you, Father Rocca, for my job well done.

Love to Eat. Daniel Boone, Father Sorin and Three Other Guys can eat Beaver In The Wilderness but if you're looking for Volatile Donuts, you have to look for a selection number.

It just doesn't make sense that a team named 4 Nicotoms and a Married Man was cut, but 4 Guys Who Date SMC and a Virgin makes it.

In the future of Bookstore Basketball, I'd cut a few teams down either because of length of name (remember this for next year: if your name is short, it has a better chance of being printed) or something that might be construed as objectionable. Sorry, they were funny.

The point is, someone, namely me, does edit the list. I don't need any help, thank you. Judging by what made it and what didn't, I think the editing could be left to someone with a little experience.

Oh, well, at least I can get to bed earlier.