Library sign signals name change to Hesburgh

By JIM RILEY

The Memorial Library has been renamed the Theodore M. Hesburgh Library. Workers attached the lettering to the building on the west and south sides Monday and Tuesday.

The renaming of the library was supposed to be a surprise for University President Father Theodore Hesburgh, according to Richard Conklin, director of public relations and information. He said the library was supposed to be renamed during the Board of Trustees meeting May 8. He did not say why the lettering was placed on the building at this time.

"Back in 1987, the trustees decided the library would be named after Father Hesburgh at an appropriate time," Conklin said. "But the time was left up to the trustees," he added.

Conklin said the library was dedicated at the completion of its construction, and he does not expect there to be a formal re-dedication ceremony.

Four more guards brought home as Marine scandal grows

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The investigation of an espionage scandal that has rocked the Marine Corps' elite embassy guard force broadened Tuesday with the announcement that four guards were being recalled from the Vienna embassy. The four will return to the Quantico, Va., Marine Base, where the espionage inquiry is being conducted.

A fifth Marine is being replaced for unrelated violations of "local security regulations" in Vienna, Sims said, and a sixth was recalled to appear as a witness at a pre-trial hearing Wednesday for Sgt. Clayton Lonetree, the guard assigned to guard duty instead of his arrest charged with espionage, was released from prison. The five guards were being recalled and assigned new duties.

The Marine Corps has tightened its screening procedures for new guard recruits, and he confirmed that an internal Pentagon study had recommended changes in the supervision of embassy guard force.

Four more guards brought home as Marine scandal grows

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, meantime, said the Pentagon might consider assigning more married Marines, accompanied by their wives, to guard duty instead of heightening their security at Notre Dame, says he doesn't think a light is necessary at this intersection. "Traffic flows smoothly," he said. "If you drive through there during rush hour, of course it will be blocked up. But not for more than 10 or 15 minutes."

"It's dangerous, and it's ugly," Parent said. "It's not as if we're talking about a multi-million dollar project. The money is there. The job just needs to be done."

According to Parent, the traffic light proposal is on hold partly because 76 percent of the land containing the intersection belongs to the county. The remainder is in the city's jurisdiction, he said.

"People don't want to see a major thoroughfare running through campus," explained Robert Richardson, county engineer.

Choice to go to Innsbruck becomes harder to make

I was ten years old when I realized Vienna waits for me, although the call was located a little further west. It came in the form of letters and postcards from my sister who was studying in Innsbruck, Austria, as a sophomore at Notre Dame. She came home with stories of beer gardens, skiing in the Alps, and weekend trips to Rome. Four years later my brother also went to Innsbruck, returning with equally captivating stories and an earing in his left ear. I decided this was definitely for me.

The year my brother left for Innsbruck was also the year I started high school, already with the goal in mind of going to Innsbruck six years later. My brother and sister had really struggled through introductory German here, so I enrolled in German in high school on their advice. In four years I gained moderate proficiency in the language and a love for the country and its culture. I devoured every bit of information I could get about Austria from language club activities, books, movies, and discussions with my high school German teacher, an Austrian. I saw Amadeus four times and quit counting my screenings of The Sound of Music after the dozen mark.

The only thing standing between me and the final realization of my dream was one short year here. Or so I thought. I guess I should do a little explaining. You see, I'm what most of us generously refer to as a "Bender." I've lived in South Bend for eighteen years to top it off, I'm a faculty brat. So it really wasn't that out of control for me to realize, as a ten year old, that the probability of my coming to Notre Dame was high. It also follows that I would be more anxious than you regarding Domer to escape the shadow of that great Golden Dome.

My father went to Notre Dame and then returned to his Pius X. Four of my brothers and sisters graduated from or are attending Notre Dame. I thought I knew what it was all about. My father used to take me to sleep to the alma mater. I knew about the tailgaters and the football games. I knew about SRY's and pad pits. I remember the alcohol riots, Molarity, and when Five Points didn't deserve its name because of traffic.

What no one could tell me about was what would happen in my life. No one could tell me that I would be able to get ready for a hall formal in only half an hour because I was running around buying peach schnapps and reserving hotel rooms. No one could tell me I would be in the Observer office until 3:00 a.m. discussing Bambi's sex and other mysteries of the universe. No one could tell me what it would feel like to beat North Carolina. No one could tell me I would actually like it here.

As the semester winds down, I keep realizing that I won't be here next year. When I return, my friends who are juniors and seniors now won't be here. My friends who are freshman and sophomores will have had a year's worth of experiences that I won't be familiar with. I won't know the other half of the students on campus. Of course, I will be seeing Europe and having many adventures that the students here won't have had. My close relationships with people here will be replaced by ones with my fellow Innsbruckers and hopefully some Austrians.

I obviously feel that the benefits outweigh the costs in this situation, for I am leaving for Austria in August. I've just realized that although things may go according to plan, they are never going to turn out exactly as expected. Even knowing that I will be back in a year, it won't be easy to leave this place that has been a part of me for so long and that I have become a part of over the past year. I guess it will just make coming back almost as fun as going away.
West Germany questions Soviets about increased radiation levels

Associated Press

BONN, West Germany - West Germany said Tuesday it will ask Moscow about higher levels of radiation in Europe that some experts believe may have been caused by a nuclear power plant accident in the Soviet Union.

West Germany and the United States have increased radiation levels in Europe said Tuesday it will ask Moscow about higher levels of radiation in Europe.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Klaus Hermann Ringwald said the request was "on its way" to the Soviets but had not yet been formally presented.

"The experts are all saying it was almost certainly a nuclear power accident," Heinz-Joerg Haury, a spokesman for the government-financed Institute for Radioactivity and Environmental Research in Munich, told The Associated Press.

A western diplomatic source in Moscow, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Kuznetsov said the Soviet Union's radiation detection equipment is "functioning well and no discharges of radioactive emissions have been registered on the territory of the Soviet Union."

In Moscow, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerashimov said the Soviet Union's radiation detection equipment is "functioning well and no discharges of radioactive emissions have been registered on the territory of the Soviet Union."

One panel consists of three retired United States military people, another panel consists of three former ambassadors, and the third panel is made up of four or five students, Gigllian explained.

"We hope to have the only University in the country to have Soviet military people discuss openly, the policies of the Soviet Union and the United States," he said.

"Gorbachev is opening the Soviet Union to an unprecedented degree."

According to Gilgillan, recent developments in U.S.-Soviet arms control talks enhance the timeliness of the Soviet visit. "This is an historic moment," Gigllian said. "Secretary Gorbatchev has made proposals about the removal of intermediate range missiles from the European theatre which are remarkably similar to President Reagan's 'zero option' suggestion of several years ago. The opportunity to discuss the significance of such developments with responsible military leaders is an extraordinary 'window of opportunity.'"

The panel discussions will take place on Friday, April 24 at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 4:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Center for Continuing Education.

The Soviet officers will arrive in Washington, D.C. on April 19, where they will meet with former admirals and generals of the United States to discuss the current military and diplomatic policies of the two nations.

Morrissey Hall residents protest firing of RA

By JIM RILEY

More than 100 Morrissey Hall residents staged a protest early this morning following the firing of a resident assistant. Steve Gallo, a third-floor resident assistant, was fired Monday and ordered to leave the dorm by today, hall residents said.

When word spread of the firing, residents staged a protest outside the dorm at about 4 a.m. The protest later moved inside the hall lobby, where it ended at about 1:30 a.m. Morrissey Hall Rector Father Thomas Streit declined to release the resident assistant’s name or discuss the reasons for the firing, saying the “matter was between myself and him.”

As a resident assistant, Gallo is considered an employee of the Office of Student Affairs. Several residents said they were not told why Gallo was fired.

Gallo only told a few close friends that he was fired Monday night, Rogers said. Word circulated about the firing Tuesday night, resulting in this morning’s protest.

During the protest, residents took turns speaking on behalf of Gallo, saying the resident assistant did a good job and didn’t deserve to be fired.

Several residents also protested the timing of Gallo’s firing, which came about four weeks before graduation.

“If (Gallo) was supposed to be cracking the whip, then they’re right (to fire him),” said one resident. “But (Gallo) enforced the law.”

Shapiro places at humor contest

A Notre Dame professor famous for his constant barrage of jokes in class recently took his show on the road to a humor contest in Arizona.

Samuel Shapiro, associate professor of history, won fifth place out of a field of 27 in a stand-up humor competition at the Western Humor Conference in Phoenix, Arizona. The competition involved each contestant presenting a five to eight minute act.

More than 1,000 people attended the conference, traveling from as far away as Russia. The conference included both contests and seminars on such diverse subjects as Canadian humor and Jewish humor.

Shapiro attended the conference to gain information for his classes.

“I’m teaching a new course on popular culture, and humor is certainly one aspect of popular culture. I learned a lot of jokes there,” he said.

Hall presidents receive letter about alcohol at their first HPC meeting

In their first formal meeting, this year’s hall council members received copies of a letter concerning campus alcohol abuse.

The letter was drafted by last year’s hall council. The hall presidents will be distributing the letters to members of their halls during the next few weeks.

Jim Wimbiscus, a member of last year’s hall council, discussed the letter with the new council members. He said the letter is meant to set forth the HPC’s position on campus alcohol abuse in light of last year’s drunk driving tragedies.

The letter emphasized the Buzz Bus and the Designated Driver Program. Wimbiscus said too many people blame the alcohol policy for the current situation on campus. “The policy is here to stay,” he said. “It is our responsibility to learn to deal with it.”

A representative from student government announced plans for a mass and picnic in honor of University President Father Theodore Hesburgh. He said the event is planned for May 1. He expects that most of the student body will attend.

William Hickey, director of University Food Services, has agreed to close the dining halls and serve dinner at the picnic site, according to Yeager.

Bond denies charges by wife of cocaine use

Associated Press

ATLANTA - Civil rights vet­eran Julian Bond yesterday angrily blasted news reports about allegations by his estranged wife that he uses cocaine, saying he does not use drugs and has not committed any crimes.

"What is at issue here is a family affair of concern only to those who are intimately in­volved," Bond said in a state­ment issued to reporters. He agreed to be interviewed be­cause hisestranged wife that he uses drugs and has not committed any crimes.

But he appeared later on a radio talk show to discuss the matter in more detail. He said he had agreed to be interviewed be­cause his responses would not be edited.

"I've never used cocaine. Never at all," Bond said. But he said he would not take a drug test. He said he did not know the details of the charges made to police by Alice Bond.

The Senate Iran-Contra com­mittee wants the records to learn about "the flow of money through these bank accounts," Davidson said.

The Senate voted last month to seek a contempt of court citation that would force Secord with imprisonment if he did not sign documents giving investigators access to bank records in Switzerland, the Cayman Islands and Panama.

Secord's attorney, Thomas Green, said Tuesday that such an order would violate the retired general's constitutional protection against self­incrimination.

"This statement that Gen. Secord is being asked to make under the threat of contempt and threat of imprisonment is less than a repugnant speech," Green said.

"It's the equivalent of transporting Mr. Secord to Switzerland or some other foreign destination and making him say to bankers 'I consent to release of bank records,'" Green said.

Judge Robinson told David­son, the Senate lawyer, he had problems with the consent clause.

I just have a problem playing that card," Davidson said. "I have a problem with an order I know is a charade."

Davidson said "consent" in the statement's context was merely a legal term so "the directive shall be construed as consent" to satisfy senators and Cayman Islands law.

And he said the Swiss au­thorities could refuse to honor the directive, knowing that Secord objected to signing it.

But Robinson nodded when Davidson argued that the only issue before the judge is the 1970 law empowering Congress to seek court orders directing production of documents.

Second's lawyer, Green, sug­gested that the court could defer its decision to give the documents to the authorities could refuse to honor the directive, knowing that Secord objected to signing it.

However, Davidson argued that the treaty is only available to prosecutors, not legislative committees.

The Senate urges judge to order release of Iran-Contra financial records

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate urged a skeptical federal judge on Tuesday to order retired Air Force Maj. General Richard Secord to release bank records believed linked to the Iran-Contra arms deals.

U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson Jr. said he would rule in the case, but he called the order the Senate was seeking "a charade," said the Swiss might reject it and suggested whatever decision he makes will surely be appealed.

Senate Attorney Michael Davidson said the Tower com­mission, appointed by Presi­dent Reagan to investigate the Iran-Contra affair, had identi­fied Secord to be interviewed be­cause his links and interest in Iran-Contra arms deals.

The commission's report also said Secord was involved in a network supporting the Nicaraguan rebels known as Contras. It said contributions appear to have been routed to the Contras through a series of private relations and brokers some of them linked to Secord.

Secord controlled bank accounts by a restricted bank account and refused to answer any questions.

"What is at issue here is a family affair of concern only to those who are intimately in­volved," Bond said. But he called the order the Senate was seeking "a charade," said the Swiss might reject it and suggested whatever decision he makes will surely be appealed.

"My fear is that there will come in and say 'What is at issue here?''' Lieberman said. "I think I witnessed his­tory," he said at a news con­ference in his office. "I think this is the approach you're going to take to Alzheimer's, to spinal cord injuries and to strokes."

He predicted that doctors in the United States would rush to adopt the procedure, in which nerve-like cells from one of the patient's own adrenal glands, located above the kidneys, are transplanted into the brain to replace degenerating brain cells.

Less than three weeks have passed since the first report of the surgery ap­peared in the New England Journal of Medicine, and George Allen at Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville has already per­formed the operation on one patient there. The patient is in satisfactory condition, and no improvements in her Parkinson's disease have been reported yet.

New York University is pre­paring to do its first transplant in May, and other hospitals will likely follow suit, Lieberman said.

He warned, however, that hasty adoption of the proce­dure could be dangerous. "My fear is that there will be a number of deaths and the government or the states will come in and say 'What is going on here?''

Lieberman said one pa­tient died from brain injuries 45 days after sur­gery, and although the Mexican patients, led by Ma­nolo Madrazo, claim the death was not related to the surgery, Lieberman said it is not possible to rule out such a link without further study.

The patient was given anti­convulsant drugs to prevent seizures, which are known to sometimes follow brain transplants. But Robinson urged a skeptical federal judge to order the Senate to determine if it could obtain the Swiss bank records under a U.S-Swiss treaty.

Mexicans develop new technique for treatment of brain ailments

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Brain sur­geons in Mexico to treat Parkinson's disease is a dramatic advance that could lead to new treatments for strokes and Alzheimer's disease, but it requires more study because two of the 11 patients who received it have died, a U.S. doctor said Tuesday.

Abraham Lieberman, chairman of the medical ad­visory board of the Ameri­can Parkinson Disease Association and professor of neurology at New York Uni­versity, went to Mexico last week to examine the patients and said he was "concerned and shocked."

Americans will work 19 more days in 1987 to pay federal income taxes

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - Just when you had finished your 1986 return and thought it was safe to forget about taxes for awhile, the Tax Foundation predicted Tuesday that the typical American will have to work another 19 days to pay up for 1987.

Invent the Freedom Day in 1987 is May 4—two days later than last year.

Economists at the nonpartisan research organization calculated that if every cent a worker earned during the first part of the year were earmarked for federal, state and local taxes, he or she would have to toil for the tax collector through May 3. Viewed another way, an average person would have to work two hours and 43 minutes of each eight-hour day to pay taxes.

This year's filing season is expected to be a hardship, IRS Commissioner John A. Berry has indicated. For example, the number of people filing electronically, a record 14.5 million, is expected to drop to 10 million in 1987, the IRS said.

But that form must be accompanied by a $50 fee, and state and local tax returns will be swamped with last-minute filers.

The IRS expects 65.5 million couples and individuals to file. This is down from 66 million expected last year. There were 67 million returns filed in 1985.

Convict parole change considered by court

Associated Press
MARTINEZ, Calif. - A plan to parole a convict who hacked the arms off a 15-year-old rape victim has caused so much anger in Antioch that state prison officials are considering changing the parole location, a state deputy attorney general said Tuesday.

A judge continued until Friday a hearing held on a suit to stop the corrections department from sending Lawrence Singleton to Antioch. Police on Monday had warned angry Antioch residents not to take vigilante action if Singleton was paroled there as planned April 26.

Morris Leek, a state deputy attorney general, said in court that the Department of Corrections is taking residents' anger into consideration and might change the parole location. Officials have said there is a possibility Singleton could be paroled to a state in the South where he has relatives.

The 59-year-old former mercial seaman picked up Mary Vincent hitchhiking in September 1978 and raped her, cut off both her arms below the elbow with an ax and left her to die on a road near Modesto, Calif. He has been in prison since 1979.

Antioch residents complained and started petition drives as soon as the plan was disclosed, and Police Chief Len

Herendeen said that some residents have been circulating Singleton's photograph.

“One thing's for sure: if he's not a danger to us, we're a danger to him," said eighth-grader Amy Hickerson, who attended a Monday night meeting of the Antioch Police Commission.

Herendeen cautioned 200 residents at the meeting against resorting to violence. Police will be closely watching Singleton, who will have to stay in his home from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. daily.

"A lot of threats have been made publicly and I would take them seriously," Herendeen said in an interview. "I can just picture some rednecks driving by his house at 2 a.m. and shooting up the windows."
Sense of hope must persist in the world

The headlines, as usual, seem bleak. The Pope calls for an end to violence in Chile, and his listeners are dispersed by tear gas from government forces reacting to a group of anti-Pinochet protesters. Outbreaks of violence in South Africa continue as the white majority government systematically cripples the black majority through its apartheid policies, while back in Washington, the United States government agrees to send 800 more missiles to Afghanistan to perpetuate that country’s ongoing battle with the Soviet Union.

Mary Ann White
guest column

Closer to home, things are not quite as bad, but still, the pressures are here. Many minorities find it difficult to “fit in” on these predominantly all-white campuses. Many seniors preparing to graduate experience the pressure of finding a job to pay off their costly undergraduate education. Other seniors, especially those planning to enter scientific or technological fields, must decide whether they are willing to work for a company whose policies they morally oppose or whether they will pass up the job offer. And for those of us remaining in South Bend for another year, we must face the increasing financial pressures of another year of higher education.

When we consider all of the pressures that surround us and all of the bleakness in the world today, it truly does seem as though the one person has opened Pandora’s box. All of the evils of the world have flown out of the box and now appear as headlines in the media. Injustice reigns.

But many people felt that one thing remained in Pandora’s box after it was opened. The survivor was Hope. True, when we look at the surface of all of the injustices in the world today, it is difficult, sometimes next to impossible, to find hope in these situations that are so far removed, so far out of our control.

When we look at the issues closer though, our perspective changes. Yes, this column is yet another call for an “awareness” of what is going on beyond the gates of our schools. But it is only through this heightened awareness of what we can begin to find “hope” in these seemingly “hope-less” situations.

The people who have dedicated their lives, or at least part of their lives, to helping the oppressed perfectly exemplify this sense of hope. Ironically, theologian Thomas Merton once wrote, “Do not depend on the hope of results.” Those who work with the oppressed recognize the fact that their work will rarely produce immediate results; however, soon they realize that the value of their work is more important than seeing these immediate results.

The dictionary defines hope as a “wish” for something with expectation of its fulfillment. Thus, we “hope” for good grades, we “hope” for a job, we “hope” for peace. But in this case “hoping” or “wishing” is not enough. If we wish for something, we must be willing to work for it. The workers who have dedicated their lives to bringing justice to the oppressed prove this to us. Again, we must remember that the importance lies not in immediate results, but rather in the value of the work itself.

But the dictionary also gives an archaic definition of hope as meaning trust or confidence. Hope then becomes a way of thinking that justice will prevail. The volunteers trust that eventually their work will help someone in some way.

This notion may seem idealistic, but if it were not for hope, would the Filipinos be where they are today? Would the black 2736 people be where we are today if it were not for a handful of “hopeful” rebels in the eighteenth century?

No longer can we turn our backs on the seemingly “hopeless” situations in South Africa, Chile, and around the world today. Instead, the time has come to view them with confidence that justice will prevail if we are willing to work for it.

Regatta organizers thank all involved

Dear Editor:

On behalf of all Fisher Hall residents, we would like to thank the entire Notre Dame community for its enthusiastic participation in the Fisher Hall Regatta.

The first annual edition of the event was exceptionally successful as Breen-Phillips captured first place in the women’s division and was fortunate enough to capture first and second place in the overall competition. Cavanagh placed third.

We would like to thank Coca-Cola for its generous financial support and William Hickey, director of University Food Services, who planned a lakeside picnic to coincide with the Regatta. Unfortunately, the brisk weather made the outside picnic impossible, but the hot chocolate came in handy. The bad weather also prevented the Student Activities sponsored band from playing. Still, the event drew rave reviews from the hundreds of boat watchers and Regatta fanatics.

Most importantly, though, the Center for Basic Learning Skills, the Regatta charity, will benefit greatly from the financial support generated by the event. This organization helps educate individuals who are lacking basic skills such as reading and writing.

Finally, we wish to extend our appreciation to the fifteen boats and the fifty “vessels” representing numerous dorms and organizations, to their courageous crews who braved the rough waters, and to our rector, Brother Edward Luther who made the Fisher Hall Regatta Notre Dame’s answer to America’s Cup.

The Adventures of Steve McStevewell
prelude to an off-campus adventure

Kris Murphy

Altered

It was another Friday night and Steve McStevewell was bored out of his skull. "I'm bored out of my skull," said Steve, "maybe I'll play another record."

"He slapped an ornament on the turntable and stared out the window into the descending night."

"Sitting here watching night descend is really bogus," said Steve. "I wish something wild and exciting would happen."

Tonight I want to feel all the rapture, all the glory that is the descending in front of the bathroom."

"Oh. Uh, I want to take a shower," said Steve, who was only wearing a towel. "Sorry," said the football guy in a disinterested tone. "There's a chick in there."

"Why don't you take a shower?" asked Steve. "Why don't you take a walk before I shove all your teeth down your throat?" came the response.

"That's an interesting question," said Steve, "but you shouldn't answer a question with another question. It's very rude."

"I'm going to kill you!" said the hormone monster. "Well, since you put it that way, maybe I'll go shave or put on some socks or something," muttered Steve, backing away down the hall. "The NCAA will hear about this and then they'll probably suspend you or cut your salary in half or something."

Steve finally found a shower, shaved, and put on a sweatshirt and some long shorts. Then he stood there looking in his mirror. "I am going to have a good time tonight," he told himself. "It won't be like that other time when I walked home from St. Louis street in sub-zero weather and froze my gamsbo off."

Good looking. These are the best years of my life, and, anyway, I could go for meeting some hot babes. I haven't done that since, well... since a long time."

He went to take a shower but found a large football player standing in front of the bathroom. "Why don't you take a shower?" said Steve, who was only wearing a towel. "Sorry," said the football guy in a disinterested tone. "There's a chick in there."

"Why don't you take a shower?" asked Steve. "Why don't you take a walk before I shove all your teeth down your throat?" came the response.

"That's an interesting question," said Steve, "but you shouldn't answer a question with another question. It's very rude."

Steve finally found a shower, shaved, and put on a sweatshirt and some long shorts. Then he stood there looking in his mirror. "I am going to have a good time tonight," he told himself. "It won't be like that other time when I walked home from St. Louis street in sub-zero weather and froze my gamsbo off. It also won't be like last week when I lost half my clothes and walked into the lake, and it surely won't be like that horrible time when I woke up in Glanet’s parking lot."

"No, tonight will be different."

"Who are you kidding?" responded his mirror.

Steve went upstairs and joined the Mikes. "We're going to walk," said Mike. "It's a warm night and drinking and driving is stupid. Anyway, I know these three girls in Lyons who want to go with us.

"Are they cute?" asked Mike hopefully. "Do chickens have lips?" responded Mike. Steve wasn't sure whether chickens had lips or not so he didn't say anything.

They went to pick up the girls. Their names were Moira, Carrie, and Kristie. Moira and Kristie were nothing to get all excited about as far as Steve was concerned, but Carrie was undeniably a goddess.

Steve decided to subtly introduce himself. "Hi," said Steve, "my name is Steve McStevewell and you are so hot that you're melting my Reeboks."

"Oh..." said Carrie playing hard to get. "Wait, Steve McStevewell, aren't you the guy who walked into the lake last week?"

"No," said Steve, fumbling for an excuse, "that was my brother Matt McStevewell."

"Oh," said Carrie. "I'm sure looked like you. Are we going to stand around here all night or are we going to go off campus?"

"Never fear," said one of the Mikes, "we're leaving now, and I can personally guarantee you the best time of your lives."

"Even better than Circus Lunch?" asked Moira. "Yes," said the Mike, "even better than Circus Lunch." "Wow," murmured Steve "Better than Circus Lunch. This might not be so bad after all."

Will Steve have a better time off-campus than he had at Circus Lunch? Will he and Carrie find anything in common? Will the three Mikes develop separate personalities? Will Moira reveal her terrible secret? Are these really the best days of your life or is someone pulling your leg? These questions and a couple more that couldn't be printed here will be answered in part two of, "Steve McStevewell: Who is he and why isn't he in jail?"

Expos pick up first win of season, Milwaukee continues to roll in AL

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - Jeff Reed drove home four runs to lead the Montreal Expos to their first victory of the season, a 9-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night.

Expos right-hander Jay Tibbs, 1-1, took a three-hit shutout into ninth inning, but Tommy Herr had a two-run double as Cardinals reliever Jim Bannister got the last three outs.

Tibbs, who had tossed a sacrifice fly to Jim Lindeman.

Reed drove in the first run of the inning with a sacrifice fly to Jim Lindeman. Reed was hit by a pitch from Niekro before scoring on a single by Sheets.

San Diego manager Larry Bowa looks a bit bewildered after his first ejection as a major league manager on Monday. The Padres lost again last night. Summary of Tuesday's major league action is as right.

Single and two stolen bases.

Ted Power, 1-0, allowed five hits in six innings, Ron Robinson pitched two hitless innings and John Franco got the last three outs for the Reds.

The Braves got two runs in the first off Power after the right-hander walked Dion James and Ken Oberkfell on Ken Griffey's sacrifice fly.

Wade Boggs led off the first with his first career grand slam. He also had a two-run double in the ninth for his third homer of the season.

The Red Sox added an insurance run in the seventh on an RBI double by pinch-hitter Paul O'Neill and Daniels' single.

Mets 7, Phillies 5

PHILADELPHIA - Moookie Wilson singled in Ken Griffey with the first of two ninth-inning runs as the New York Mets nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 7-5 Tuesday night.

The score tied at 5-5 in the ninth, Dykstra batted for Righetti, the second with his first home run. The Mets added two runs in the 16th on a throwing error by left fielder Chris Brown.

Riggs, 24-3, worked 2 2/3 innings for his second save.

Scott Bankhead, 2-0, acquired by the Mariners in an off-season trade, went three innings, allowing two runs and seven hits.

Giants 3, Padres 2

SAN DIEGO - Bob Melvin hit his third homer of the season as the San Francisco Giants defeated the Padres 3-2 Tuesday night.

The victory boosted the Giants' record to 7-2, equaling their season-best start, while the Padres dropped to 1-7, their worst beginning since 1974.

All of Melvin's homers have come against the Padres. The Giants scored single runs in each of the first three innings off starter Dave Welke, -1. San Francisco reliever Mark Gubicza, 1-0, got the win. Scott Garrelts worked the final three innings for his second save.
Hoyer’s homecoming one hit away

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - The only thing better than pitching a no-hitter is getting six runs in your family and friends. And that’s almost what happened to Jamie Moyer.

The Chicago Cub’s left-handed freshman, up in nearly everyone in the bottom of the ninth.

Moyer, who was 7-4 last season, was pitching in his 18th major league game. He struck out 12 and walked six. After Samuel’s hit, a walk and another hit followed and Lee Smith came in to save the 5-2 victory.

Moyer, who pitched three consecutive no-hitters in high school, was aware of the no-hitter but said he really felt no pressure.

“I was thinking about it in the seventh and eighth innings,” he said. “But I felt fine going out in the ninth. I was a little upset with myself because I got the pitch to Samuel up a little. It’s a guessing game and Samuel guessed right.”

He said he was getting a little tired since it was his first start of the year.

“But I thought I’d just keep going after them and see what happened,” he added. “It was kind of interesting and fun to hear the crowd cheering for me.”

Moyer’s popularity in Philadelphia was best summed up by the spooler, Samuel.

“Then the first time I’ve ever been booed in Philadelphia for getting a hit,” said the second baseman.

O’Leary is anxious to get his team on the field and he will have plenty of opportunities to do so. After break, the Irish will play four games in eight days.

“For sure we will win all, but the crucial games are the conference games. If we develop some consistency over the next two weeks, we could be a big factor in the conference race.”

Golfers take second place in Indy

By ORLANDO RUBIANO
Sports Writer

Being a runner up is akin to being a bridesmaid. You con­gratulate the bride but wish it was you who was being married.

The Notre Dame golf team did the congratulating, but un­like poor Greg Norman who must be looking for a good psy­chiatrist, second place was not at all a disappointment.

Playing in the Indianapolis Inter­collegiate this past weekend, the Irish took a runner up trophy home after firing a team total 884 that was 18 strokes behind runaway win­ner Ball State.

Coach Noel O’Sullivan said bad weather (lightning, cold temperatures and winds) kept team scores higher than they normally would have been. However, the weather did not dampen the linksters’ game as they easily outdistanced Mil­ton-Kenilworth University by 13 shots to take second.

“Thank goodness we’re not playing in the runner-up tournament,” said O’Sullivan. “It certainly is not something we want to look back on. Beside, we finished ahead of some good golf programs, which can be easily overlooked when you don’t finish first.”

The Irish were led by Norm Campbell’s 188 (79-79) for the 36 hole event. Close behind was Pat Mohan who checked in with a 169 (77-82). The rest of the squad finished, in order, with Doug Giorgio’s 162 (81-81), Chris Reno (165) and John Connelly (81-84) both at 165, and David Connolly with a 170 total (81-89). The 36-hole score in each round was not figured into the team.

The rest of the tournament field saw Wisconsin-Whitewater finishing fourth (819), followed by Franklin Col­lege (820). Cincinnati took sixth with a two-day total of 825. Wittenberg was next at 827, DuPau was eighth at 844, Evansville finished with an 865, and bringing in the rear was Butler at a disappointing 884.

The Irish will need the mo­mentum gained in Indianapolis as they head for Ohio State this weekend. The Kepler Invita­tions will finish in Columbus, Ohio, and other hopefuls. O’Sullivan calls this tournament the grand­father of them all.

“The Kepler is the most presti­gious golf tournament in the Midwest,” he said. “All the big powers from the Big Ten, MAC, and the four major independ­ent will showcase their abilities.”

The Scarlet course, home to several NCAA Championships, including this year’s, is a par 72 with a course rating of 73.9. O’Sullivan acknowledged the Scarlet course is a tremendous challenge. Ohio State, the host and favorite, recruits well in large part because of the beau­tiful facility they have, accord­ing to O’Sullivan.

“The 36-hole Kepler will be a true test of how far the Irish have come,” O’Sullivan said.

“This weekend,” said O’Sullivan, “will really prove to me how good this team can play in the face of top quality competition.

“Realistically I would be content with a Top Ten finish, but now we arrive at the Kepler, we could play in a game of a good season’s work. We have three of the five starters playing in their first Kepler ever, but if we can get consis­tency from the opening tee shot to the final putt I see us finishing well.”

The Irish will get their oppor­tunity to show that they are a team to reckon with this weekend.

Belles pull out twinbill

The home field advantage proved favorable for the St. Mary’s Belles as they would go on to combined strong hitting with tough defense to squeak by St. Francis in a doubleheader Monday, 8-7 and 6-5.

The Belles’ offensive attack was sparked by Trish Terney, Janine Adamo and Marge Reynolds who connected for two hits apiece. St. Francis scored six runs in the second inning and added four more in the seventh inning. St. Francis led 10-5 after seven innings, but the Belles would put together a big inning to take the game one 16-10.

In the second game the Belles attacked early, scoring all 11 runs in the first two innings. The Belles had to rely on strong hitting and a little luck in the victory and the sweep.

St. Mary’s defense was tested in the fifth inning when St. Francis drove four runs across the plate and then added another within runs of a victory.

But now we arrive at the hockey and basketball playoff fields and things get a little strange. Our playoff cup run­ner over with nearly every team running the same color uniforms qualifying.

In the NBL, 16 of 21 teams go on to post-season play. This means a team must win four series to capture the Stanley Cup title. With the brilliant in­stitution of seven-game series when the first round, a team can play 28 games after the season is over.

The NBA is another cuplter of making a mockery of the playoff idea. Seven of the 28 NBA teams out of 23 do not move on to post­season play. These series start out as best-of-five series, but quickly go to seven-game sets.

Irish backs look tough during spring practice

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

Chances are you won't be seeing too many 1,000-yard runners in the Notre Dame backfield during the upcoming football season.

For first-year Irish running backs coach Jim Strong, that might just be a blessing in disguise. After all, there are only so many yards to go around in a backfield stocked with talent.

Add the fact that flanker Tim Brown carried the ball out of the wishbone formation more than five times per game last season (Mark Green averaged less than nine carries at tailback) and you can see why that one-man show days of Allen Pinkett are gone for good in the offensive backfield.

Bringing on the team concept.

In fact, Strong and Head Coach Lou Holtz have yet to decide on a final depth chart this spring, and only one scrimmage, one scrimmage and the annual Blue-Gold game remain.

"We set a depth chart from time to time throughout the spring," says Strong, "but we still have Thursday's scrimmage and the spring game to take a look at how well people are doing. When our spring practices started, we knew everybody was 'in' because that's when we'll sit down and evaluate who did what.

"Until then, even though the number of practices has run down, I have to look at all the scrimmages ahead of us yet.

We've played two and have two left to take a better look.

This fall, sophomore tailback Mark Green appears to be the favorite to fill the bell at starting position at tailback.

His footwork topped out last week with 463 yards on 96 carries, and has played with the first team in each of the first two scrimmages.

Last Saturday, Green led the team in both rushing and receptions, picking up 65 yards on 12 carries while hauling in four passes for 31 yards.

"He's a tremendous athlete," Strong says. "Mark has that ability to sneak right past everybody with his pure speed, and has done a great job with his fundamentals this spring."

Gorman and Pete Graham, sizable. puddle. dribbler after splashing in a sizable puddle.

Green's main competition for a spot on the No. 1 team this spring comes from two players with rehabilitated knees - D'Juan Francisco and Alonso Jefferson.

The former injured his knee last spring and carried the ball only 18 times last season, while the latter suffered a serious injury in September of 1986 and missed virtually his entire senior year before carrying the ball 19 times last year. Both are "in," says Strong.

"I've really been pleased with Alonso's effort," Strong says. "Here's a young man who has rehabilitated his knee and has really continued to work hard both in the field and in the weight room."

"His toughness and competitive instincts are excellent.

In the offensive backfield, there might just be a blessing in disguise because of a minor eye injury suffered a few weeks ago.

Johnson has made the transition from tailback to fullback and is probably just a tad behind Braxton and Pernell Taylor right now because he got poked in the eye and missed a scrimmage," explains Strong. "But he's a good, solid, consistent football player and it's just a matter of him getting more experience in learning the position. He's running the ball very well right now."

Johnson carried the ball 60 times for 349 yards (second to Green in rushing) last season and added five touchdowns. Taylor ran the ball 69 times for 284 yards and five touchdowns in 1986, while Banks picked up 209 yards on 49 carries.

From the Irish running back situation at left.

The Irish once again will utilize the wishbone in addition to a number of other backfield formations in 1987, and Strong is familiar with Holtz's offensive philosophy from their coaching days together at Minnesota.

"We have a lot of different formations in our offense," Strong says, "so we're not going to be a true wishbone team. Sure we'll run the wishbone, but we're a team that's going to make other teams defend a lot of different formations. We'll utilize all the different formations to our advantage."

As for the spring, Strong says a coach can never be completely satisfied.

"I don't think you ever accomplish all you want to accomplish in spring practice," he explains. "I think we've made some progress. We're getting better in the fundamental areas and those basic things.

"I look at the spring as a chance for me to get to know the players and evaluate them. I've had the chance to let each of them know what we expect of them, and now we just go from there.

"And from the looks of things as the spring sessions wind down, the Irish running backs might just be getting far..."

Bookstore battles rain, fourth round to begin

By PETE SKIKO

Bookstore Basketball XVI has run the gamut of ridiculous weather conditions after yesterday, barring meteor showers or typhoons in the upcoming few weeks.

The third round of play ended yesterday with top seeds Jus' Tofu, 21-17. Oliver North stretched last year's final 16 entry to the limit in a closely contested nearly ankle-deep water because of a relentless downpour.

"Tofu's Matt O'Neill and Hanley, who had the hot hand in the first half and led all scorers with eight points, didn't mind the of the day's weather in bowing reluctantly to Jus' Tofu, 21-17. A trend is developing in Women's Bookstore Basketball. As the second day of action, the teams with the longer names are winning, the longer the better.

Yesterday's Stepan Court 8 yesterday, We Should Have Won did, beating Team 80, 21-15, in a game that was postponed due to physical action. Ann Kelly led the winners with 8 points, and Kathy Burger had another explanation. "We need to put together a solid game,

Irish lacrosse to face Lake Forest

Rain, rain, go away—and stay away. The Notre Dame lacrosse team, coming off of a big weekend win over Kenyon, will take on Lake Forest today at 3:30 on Carter field, rain or shine.

NBA, NHL playoffs invite too many guests

Ah, the signs of spring. Bookstore Basketball action almost has the Sweet 16 of March Madness ghosts raising their heads. But that horizon is quite an optical illusion.

"The seasons are not going to end soon. Some question whether they end at all, or just randomly roll together into one long, continuous season. There are at least two reasons for this dragged-out process."

First, the seasons in both sports are frightfully long. These sports eat up seven months with their regular seasons and playoffs. The NHL regular season is 80 games long and the NBA regular season requires 82 games to complete.

Major League Baseball, by comparison, takes seven months to complete its schedule as well, but its schedule has 162 games. Of course, baseball games are played nearly every day, and basketball and hockey only play about three times per week, partly because of the demand nature of the sports, and partly because the three-game series format in baseball cuts down travel.

But the question must be asked, what's the point to the regular season?

Ideally, the point to the regular season is to play a large enough sample of games over a period of time to determine who the top teams are, and which of those top teams will reap the rewards of its success and make the playoffs. The best and luckiest of that group is crowned champion.

But reality points in a much different direction. Baseball has remained traditional, allowing only the two division winners in each league to compete in the playoffs, while the National Football League allows the three division winners and two wild cards from each conference to enter the battle for the Super Bowl. This seems to be a good formula as well.
