Tuition hike outpaces inflation

By MARK PANKOWSKI

For $855, you can buy 107 Notre Dame ties, 66 sweat shirts or 21 video cassettes of “Knots Rockin’ All America” at the bookstore. Or you can pay for this year’s increase in tuition at Notre Dame.

In a letter to parents last June, University President Father Edward Malloy said University’s operating budget of $119,463,100 would require a 9.9 percent increase in tuition to $9,480.

The room, board and laundry charge was also increased by $150, or 5.5 percent, increasing the average fee to $2,875.

At Saint Mary’s, tuition jumped 4.9 percent to $7,380, said Lee Hitchcock, chief accountant at Saint Mary’s. Average room and board also increased 4.3 percent to $3,260.

Undergraduates aren’t the only ones paying higher tuition bills, however. Tuition for Notre Dame graduate, MBA and law students was also hiked $855. Tuition for graduate students is now $9,360, for MBA students $9,460, and law students $10,070.

The story is the same around the country.

Average tuition and fees climbed 8 percent at private, four-year colleges and 6 percent at public institutions, the seventh straight year such costs will outpace inflation, according to the College Board’s annual survey of colleges.

Average total estimated costs at four-year private schools is less than $12,000 and at public schools almost $5,800.

U.S. simplifies arms agreement

GENEVA - The United States presented new proposals on Tuesday that it said would simplify verification procedures under a U.S.-Soviet agreement to do away with all intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

Members of the American delegation submitted the proposals in a meeting of the negotiating teams dealing with Intermediate Nuclear Forces - medium- and shorter-range weapons with ranges from 300 to 3,000 miles.

U.S. spokesman Terry Schroeder said that Soviet acceptance in July of eliminating all intermediate weapons, called the double-zero option, had enabled the United States to change its verification requirements.

Before the Soviet announcement, the plan had been for each superpower to keep 100 medium-range weapons on its own territory.

"Today we are laying out how this simplification could be achieved," Schroeder said, adding that the U.S. proposals, although simplified, will still be the most stringent ever proposed in any U.S. Soviet negotiations and will include on-site inspection."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Phyllis Oakley was asked whether the new U.S. position drops some intrusive measures, including inspection of factories and intelligence monitoring sites.

She replied: "There are two major changes in this. One is we have changed our 'suspect site' inspection proposal because the opportunity for illegal missile activities are significantly reduced when an entire class of missiles and its infrastructure has been eliminated."

"Also, we have dropped our requirement for perimeter-portal monitoring. This was done because the perimeter-portal monitoring system was designed to monitor the flow of missiles from production and final assembly facilities."

"With the production ban and the elimination of all INF (Intermediate Nuclear Forces) missiles within three years this would be unnecessary."

Schroeder would not give details of the proposals, citing the confidentiality rule the two sides have adopted in the talks.

Renovations congest North Dining Hall

BY ERIC BERGAMO

Construction on the North Dining Hall will present a number of problems for students during meal times, said William Hickey, director of University Food Services.

"Today we are laying out how this simplification could be achieved," Schroeder said, adding that the U.S. proposals, although simplified, will still be the most stringent ever proposed in any U.S. Soviet Hickey said students in Cavanaugh, St. Ed's, Breen-Phillips and Lewis Halls are being asked to use South Dining Hall during the renovation of North Dining Hall.

Students will not be forced to eat in the South Dining Hall, Hickey noted. "We’re only suggesting that as a part of the comfort zone," he said. "If you want to be comfortable, this is what you’re going to do."

Hickey is also asking that students make an effort to eat at different times to prevent congestion.

The renovation will consist of a two-story complex that will add 300 new seats and private dining rooms at the north and south ends of the building.

Blood tests indicated neither McCarthy, Rennicke, nor the van’s driver were drinking.

McCarthy liked to live life to the fullest, Scully said. He was a member of the Navy Drill team and color guard, as well as the Marine Corps Semper Fidelis. He also earned a second-degree black belt in taekwondo.

University President Father Edward Malloy will celebrate a mass for McCarthy Sept. 10 at Sacred Heart Church, said Scully.

A Keenan Hall sophomore-to-be was killed earlier this summer in an automobile accident that also claimed the life of the student’s friend.

Joseph McCarthy, 18, a Navy ROTC midshipman from Wauna, Wis., was pronounced dead at a scene at 6:20 a.m. the night of June 12 by the Marion County coroner, after the car in which he was riding went out of control and struck a van traveling in the opposite direction, according to an article in the Wauna Daily Herald.

The driver of the car, Robert Remnicke, 18, of Wauna, was also pronounced dead on the scene, the article said.

The driver of the van, Roger Kuske, 37, of Wauna, survived the accident, sustaining head and body injuries.

According to the article, Remnicke’s car was traveling northbound on a stretch of dry road, just west of the Wauna city limits. As the car reached the crest of a small hill, Remnicke lost control, veering into the southbound lane, striking the van.

The two vehicles then tumbled into a ditch where they came to rest, the van on top of the car, the article said.

The Marion County Sheriff’s department was not able to determine why Remnicke lost control of the car.

Blood tests indicated neither McCarthy, Remnicke, nor the van’s driver were drinking.

McCarthy was buried June 12 in Wauna, according to Keenan Hall rector Brother Bonaventure Scully.

"We’re only suggesting that as a part of the comfort zone," he said. "If you want to be comfortable, this is what you’re going to do."

Hickey is also asking that students make an effort to eat at different times to prevent congestion.

The renovation will consist of a two-story complex that will add 300 new seats and private dining rooms at the north and south ends of the building.
In Brief

More women and minorities than ever before have entered Notre Dame this year. About 470 of the 1,280 students entering this year are women, according to the admissions office. Also, about 180 freshmen, or 10 percent of the class, are minority students. More than 500 women entered Saint Mary’s this semester. - The Observer

Study lounges became home for 111 freshmen this semester. No Saint Mary’s students were moved into temporary housing. The Office of Student Residences said the displaced Notre Dame freshmen will be moved into permanent residences as they become available, based on how soon the students returned their confirmation forms. The office said it had “no idea of a time frame” in which the students will get permanent housing. - The Observer

No drugs was the verdict given by congressional Iran-Contra investigators in a memo released Tuesday on allegations that Nicaraguan Contra leaders trafficked in drugs. A top CIA official said “a lot of people” associated with Eiden Pastora, the former Contra leader based in Costa Rica, were linked to cocaine trafficking. One of the reasons the CIA cut its connection with Pastora in 1984 was drugs, a CIA official said. - The Observer

What happened? is the question still plaguing federal investigators in a memo released Tuesday on the Iran-Contra affair. Investigators want to know what happened with roughly 2,250 new members of this community who may be interested in working here. I thought I would take a stab at explaining what goes into putting out your daily newspaper.

Every day Sunday through Friday, some of the members of our staff of more than 300 students are up at the offices working on The Observer. Our doors open at 8 a.m. when our office manager Shirley Grauel comes in and close about 30 hours later when our design editor for the night leaves with the “flat.”

Our paper gets picked up at the main gate by a gentleman from South Bend who is contracted to drive it down to our printing plant in Milford, Ind. (about one hour from campus), where 10,000 copies are printed for campus distribution and roughly 2,000 copies are prepared for our subscription members. The finished paper then is brought back to campus for delivery to the various drop spots.

But the above is just the mechanical part; the student work at The Observer is done between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 a.m. With the unbelievable amount of money it takes to run a daily newspaper, the student monetary support that we receive at The Observer covers about one quarter of our operating costs each year. Therefore, there is a need for students to sell advertising for the paper in order to support the majority of our operation. Each day, our advertising representatives make calls to and visit businesses in South Bend to talk about advertising in The Observer. These ad reps not only get experience but also receive a commission from their sales. After this, our advertising design department makes up the ads for the paper.

Closing out the business side of the newspaper is a small business department that handles our accounting and collecting, etc. Any of the above departments offers excellent business experience for anyone who is looking for some responsibility and an extra line on the resume.

The editorial side of the paper is made up of editors, writers, copy editors and page designers. Besides the material that we take off the Associated Press wire every night, the stories and columns in The Observer are written by students on their own free time. These stories and columns are then edited by an editor or assistant editor and checked for accuracy and spelling by a copy editor. At night, people simply from the various departments come in to decide on the content of the various sections and design the pages to include all of the stories that were assigned that day by the editors and written by the reporters.

Our graphic arts department includes our campus strip cartoonist, a nightly general assignment artist, and an artist to draw the illustration for the column that appears on this page every day, the Inside Column.

Each night, there is also a person who operates our computer and typesetting equipment to take the stories that are typed into the computer and turn them into the columns that appear in the paper. These columns are then cut up by members of our production staff and placed by hand onto sheets the same size as the paper you are reading now.

When production is over, the paper is delivered to the gate and printed; it arrives back on campus at about 10 a.m., two hours after we have started the next paper.

The possibilities for students to work here are endless. These brief descriptions of some of the jobs up here are only the tip of the iceberg; there are a number of I did not even mention.

So if you have any interest at all in getting rid of some of your spare time or if you would like to make a little bit of extra money or if you need a resume boost or if you would simply like to spend a little less time sleeping, come up to our offices and see what we have to offer.

You may just like what you see.

Police investigating death of ND parent

By MARK PANKOWSKI

Police were continuing their investigation Tuesday into last week's accident that killed the father of a Notre Dame freshman, the county prosecutor said.

Thomas Naddy Sr., 65, the father of Thomas Naddy Jr., died of massive internal injuries late Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Juniper Road, police said.

The driver of the other car, Lynda Maike, 28, of Mishawaka, suffered internal injuries in the accident, said Cpl. Charles Feirrell, public information officer for St. Joseph County Police.

Police tests showed Maike's blood-alcohol level "was substantially higher than the legal limit," Feirrell said.

County Prosecutor Michael Barnes said Tuesday that police were still collecting evidence and trying to locate witnesses to the accident.

Barnes said he did not know whether charges would be filed in the accident. "It's depends on the evidence," he said.

Naddy, of Wailuku, Hawaii, was at Notre Dame to drop off his son, a Grace Hall freshman who had arrived early because he is an Air Force ROTC cadet, said Father Gerald Lardner, rector of Grace Hall.

The accident occurred at about 11:10 p.m. as Naddy was driving south and Maike was heading north on Juniper Road, Feirrell said.

The collision occurred in the northbound lane between Douglas Road and Pendle Street, Feirrell said. Investigators are still trying to determine why Naddy's car was in the northbound lane, Feirrell said.

Both drivers, the only occupants in the cars, were reported not wearing seat belts, he said. Naddy was pronounced dead at the scene.

Maike was taken to the St. Joseph's Medical Center, where she was released on Tuesday, a hospital administrator said.

which will add 200 seats, he said.

The serving areas will be remodelled to resemble the "scramble" lines in the South Dining Hall. The new lines will differ in that grills and fry stations will be on the lines, he said.

"We will be getting fresh products out to the hot food sections at all times," Hickey added.

The serving areas will also have a deli and dessert showcase, he said.

"The new serviers will "make things flow better," he said.

"If you're in a rush for class and just want to grab a sandwich, you shoot in here (to the deli), get your sandwich and go out," he said.

The serviers will be converted during the summer "because it is the demolition that will cause the most excitement as far as dust and dirt," Hickey said.

The beverage machines will be remounted in alcoves in the dining area, Hickey said. New round "conversation" tables and carpeting will be featured in the dining areas.

Food Services looked into other possibilities, such as serving the food in the dorms or using Soper Center as a dining hall, but found the ideas unworkable, Hickey said.

Other construction projects are proceeding along, according to Don Dedrick, director of the Physical Plant.

The Lofthus Sports Center, an all-sports building north of the Joyce ACC, is nearing completion, he said.

Heart Church are also continuing, he said, with workers repairing the sheetmetal and recalking cracks.

Bids for the new air conditioning system and repairs to the stained glass windows will be taken soon, he said.

Work was also done in a number of residence halls over the summer, Dedrick added.

Howard Hall, formerly a men's hall, was converted over the summer for use by women, he said.

Alterations in the dorm included modification of the bathrooms and conversion of a lounge into a laundry room, he said.

Roof work was done on Badin, Alumni and Dillon Halls; windows were replaced in Sorensen and fire safety improvements made in Cavanaugh and Zahn Halls, he said.

The Special Olympics, held on campus this summer, prevented any major interior renovations of other halls, he said.

The University also purchased a "substantial" amount of new furniture for the dorms, he said.

Tuition

creased faculty and staff salaries as one of the reasons for the hike in tuition and fees at their respective schools.

"Half of (Notre Dame's increase) went to salaries and related benefits," said Thomas M ason, vice president for business affairs at Notre Dame.

"We want our faculty to be among the best paid in the country," he said.

Theoretically, Mason said, higher salaries mean better faculty are attracted to the University. Notre Dame is trying to keep its faculty salaries in the top 30 percent in the nation.

Other reasons for the increase in Notre Dame's tuition include the cost of operating new facilities and increases in liability insurance costs, Mason said.

In the letter, Malloy wrote that "it is a source of some concern to all of us here at Notre Dame that such increases in tuition and room and board are necessary. ...In the years ahead I hope to provide (parents) with a fuller explanation of the financial situation as well as the steps being taken to address these important matters."

Malloy has asked the business affairs office to prepare a report on why tuition and fees are increasing, Mason said.

This fall marks the third consecutive year of 8 percent tuition and fee hikes at private, four-year institutions. The 8 percent average at public, four-year colleges equalled last year's rise, but was less than the 9 percent increase in 1985-86.

Last year, Notre Dame's tuition was hiked 9.9 percent and its room-and-board fee 7.1 percent. The year before, University tuition jumped 6.7 percent and room, board and laundry charges 7.46 percent.

Computerized card catalogs facilitate ND library research

By GREG LUCAS
Senior Staff Reporter

A new computerized cataloging system called UNLOC was recently activated by the University of Notre Dame Libraries. The system, UNLOC, was developed by Northwestern University, Max said, adding it was chosen for its proven effectiveness in other large research libraries.

UNLOC includes 93 terminals distributed throughout the libraries on campus, Max said. Simple or very complex searches for information can be conducted from any of these terminals, he said. At some locations printers will be available to eliminate copying time, Max said.

"The system is user-friendly, but one will need instruction for more sophisticated functions, such as Boolean search techniques. We're trying to train anyone on campus who wants to learn," Max said.

"The system is more than just a catalog system," said Max. "It is also projected that by next year, light pen technology, as used in many supermarkets, will simplify and expedite the present system for checking out books, said Max.

"Max believes that the online catalog system, like UNLOC, will become the universal mode of communication among libraries around the nation. "To use it to its fullest power, you really need some training," Max said.

Saudi Arabia warns Iran against city, oil attacks
Associated Press

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia - Saudi Arabia called Iran's government a "group of terrorists" Tuesday and said its forces would deal firmly with any Iranian attempts to attack this nation's Moslem holy places or its vast oil fields.

In Tunis, meanwhile, Arab League foreign ministers decided to give Iran until Sept. 20 to accept a United Nations Security Council resolution calling for a cease-fire in its 7-year-old war with Iraq.

"Saudi Arabia has enough defense capabilities to repulse any Iranian aggression," Interior Minister Prince Nayef warned Tuesday.

"In the past the Iranians tried to attack eastern Saudi Arabia and had one of their warplanes shot down. We will not hesitate to deal similarly with any aggression." Nayef, a brother of King Fahd, announced a get-tough policy to head off any recent gradual, under 30 years of age at the time of their election who would each serve three-year term.

Hagel, of Milan, Ohio, was a valedictorian of her graduation class and received a bachelor of science degree summa cum laude in metallurgical engineering.

SMC adds three resident directors

By SANDY CERIMELE
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Incoming freshmen are not the only new faces at Saint Mary's this year. Three new resident directors for McCandless, Holy Cross and Regina Halls have been added to the Residence Life staff, the Saint Mary's housing department said.

The new directors are Christine Benvenuto in McCandless Hall, Marie Lievens in Holy Cross Hall, and Beth Lumma in Regina Hall.

Benvenuto said her experience as a resident assistant for more than 2 years at Indiana University of Pittsburgh helped her to be better qualified for the job. "Through my experience as an R.A., I have learned that programming and communication are the key components to success in community living," she said.

Benvenuto said her goals for the year are to get everyone involved in the school and to be approachable for the students in McCandless. She attributed the size of the school as helpful in achieving her goal. "I would like to get to know all the students and promote a general closeness. I think the smallness of the Saint Mary's community allows for that," said Benvenuto.

Lievens said her love for people, background in psychology at Creighton University and two years' experience as a resident advisor all qualify her for the job. "I hope to enforce policies when addressed with issues, but not under the assumption that we are out to get everybody. There are reasons behind rules and our staff is working to help the students understand those reasons rather than just the fact that they must follow a set of rules," she said.

Lumma said her goal for the year is to spur initiative and enthusiasm, direct that to the students and keep it going through the year. Lumma said her background in social work and two and a half years as a resident assistant at Illinois State University have prepared her for the position of resident director. "My directing philosophy is to teach students self discipline and responsibility. We are not a policing force. We want the rules to make sense to the residents," she said.

Margaret "Mugs" Caven, who has 5 years of experience as a resident director at Saint Mary's, said the overall responsibility of the job is "the administration of the building and the promotion and development of the community within it.

The resident director's job is to challenge the students to pursue the unique opportunities Saint Mary's offers to be involved in the community as women leaders, Caven added.

Two great ways to cruise through the semester.

The hand on the left is poised on what could be the most essential part of your education. A Macintosh computer. And the hand on the right is gripping pure, simple, unadulterated fun. A Honda Scooter. One we're giving away.

All you have to do for a chance to drive it away is visit your campus computer center and fill out an entry form. While you're there, take a Macintosh for a test drive.

Because Macintosh can help you write term papers, categorize elements of the periodic table, plot the rise and fall of pork-belly prices, compile computer code, and talk to other computers. And the first 250 people on campus who get behind a mouse, so to speak, will receive a free Apple memo board.

So head over to your campus computer center today. And ask about our Student Financing Program. Who knows? You may soon find yourself cruising a little farther than you expected.

Test drive a Macintosh. You may ride away on a Honda Scooter.

Titanic artifacts displayed around the world as 'respectful memorial'

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The more than 300 objects recovered this summer from the wreck of the Titanic will be neither sold nor held privately, but displayed around the world, organizers of an international expedition said Tuesday.

"We have a lot of respect for the people who died" on the luxury liner, said Robert Chap- paz of France, an expedition organizer. "Titanic was a kind of link between Europe and the United States, and it's part of our common history. It belongs to the people of the world."

Artifacts also will be shown on a television special this fall, expedition officials said at a news conference.

Under the terms of the expedition's covenant, objects recovered "may never be sold," said Robert Slavitt, the expedition's lawyer. "No way, no time, no place, no how."

The expedition's investors will receive proceeds from the television program and sales of tickets to view the collection. Ticket prices would be such that "a family of six will be able to afford it," said George Tulloch, another organizer.

Following a world tour, the Titanic collection will be placed in a museum or other institution for long-term display, they said.

Despite criticism that the expedition was desecrating the resting place of the 1,513 people who died when the Titanic sank in 1912, a statement released by the expedition said the exhibit would be a "lasting, respectful memorial."

Earlier this month the Senate passed a resolution barring the sale or display-for-profit of Titanic artifacts. Although Slavitt questioned the vote's significance, Tulloch said the collection would be displayed in the United States on a non-profit basis, if necessary.

The Titanic was first located in 1985 by a U.S.-French expedition led by Robert Ballard, a senior scientist at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts. He later used a small submarine, Alvin II, and a small camera-carrying robot sub, Jason Jr., to explore the wreck, and his film became a National Geographic television special on cable station WTNH.

The latest expedition also will be the subject of a television program, a two-hour live special to be broadcast Oct. 28. The program will be narrated by actor Telly Savalas and feature the opening of a small purser's safe.

Objects recovered thus far from the debris scattered around the wreck include 160 dishes, four bottles, seven pieces of furniture, a propeller, a chandelier, a bronze cherub that once held a light on one of the ship's grand staircases and a leather satchel containing jewels, bank notes and coins.

Indiana first in number of pot plants destroyed

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - For the third consecutive year, Indiana has ranked first among marijuana-producing states in the number of pot plants destroyed, officials say.

The ranking, dubious as it is, can be attributed to an eradication program that has led to the destruction of more than 33.4 million wild and cultivated plants so far this year in the state's marijuana-producing counties.

State police believe they are winning the war against harvesters of the illegal cash crop, thanks to aerial surveillance, teen-age summer workers who spray roadside areas and farmers who report illicit activities.

Although the illegal harvesting has gone on for years, state police say it intensified in Indiana about three years ago when federal agencies began cracking down on marijuana importers.

State police began the spraying program, funded by federal grants, in 1984. The grants pay for the chemicals and supplies. Counties hire the students to do the work.

"People call in to us all the time and we find a lot of areas through (searches by) state police helicopters," said Denise Miller, who heads a team of seven "pot busters" in Newton County.

State police say more than 170 people have been arrested since last July in connection with harvesting activities. Most of those have been marijuana cultivators who grow the crop on abandoned or leased farmland, usually without the property owner's knowledge.

In rural northwestern Indiana, the leafy hemp plant, also known as ditch weed, grows wild and sometimes is as high as cornstalks along the roadside. Those arrested for harvesting the weed have included juveniles and senior citizens, local residents as well as people from as far away as Colorado and New York.

"We even have a family up here where every member has been arrested - five brothers, the father, even the mother," said Sgt. James Wallace of the Lowell state police post.

"For some folks, it is just an accepted way of life," Wallace said. "We have some families in the general area where their main source of income is generated from marijuana harvest."

Wallace said ditch weed, which was cultivated as hemp for rope during World War II, has sold for as much as $100 per ounce in northern Indiana. Despite its popularity, however, police say the quality of marijuana found in Indiana is inferior to the imported variety.
ND students receive Fulbrights

Special to The Observer

Three Notre Dame students were recipients of the 1987 Fulbright awards. Robert Anderson of Simi Valley, California, a doctoral student in Notre Dame’s Medieval Institute, received an award to study in West Germany. Anderson’s research is in medieval speculative grammar.

Christopher Vargas, a master’s student in electrical and computer engineering, received an award to study in Finland. Vargas’ research is in digital signal processing and very large scale integration design.

Grant White of Hutchison, Kansas, a doctoral student in theology, has received an award for study in England. White’s research is in oriental studies and early Christianity. The Fulbright Scholar Program was established forty-one years ago under federal legislation introduced by former Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas. Funded and administered by the United States Information Agency, the program’s financial support comes from U.S. congressional appropriations and from the governments of 27 other nations.

ND Government serves with fresh ideas

When people ask us, "What is Student Government?" our response, in condensed form, has been that student government is a service organization run by and for Notre Dame students.

Pat Cooke
Laurie Bink
Guest column

This answer is often met with nods of heads, but somehow we feel that it doesn't really clarify what Student Government does. Concrete examples might help. So let us relate to you those Student Government services which were available already this year.

Freshman Orientation is a branch of Student Government. Over seventy-five students on the Freshman Orientation committee worked to plan and organize a movie, two dances, ice cream socials, picnics, tours, an orientation booklet, and a giant game of musical chairs to welcome the Class of 1991 to Notre Dame. Freshmen seemed to have a great time. Hopefully, the work of Student Government and Dr. Hofman will make the transition from Notre Dame to Student Government easier for our new students.

Like Freshman Orientation, Transfer Orientation was organized by Student Government. Transfers were welcomed with a mass, picnic, tours, a transfer student party, and a luncheon at which Father Malloy personally welcomed them.

Outside of orientations, Student Government and the Student Union Board are offering students Planning Calendars complete with athletic games, movies, and special events already marked on the appropriate dates. These calendars are selling for one dollar through your hall presidents.

Another service provided by Student Government this weekend was a shuttle from the Michigan Regional Airport to Notre Dame. The shuttle service which was run on Sunday was very successful.

We plan to run it for the rest of the year at break times. So, there you have it - a more concrete answer to the question, "What is Student Government?" We can always use new ideas about what services the students want and need. Please bring your ideas to Student Government on the second floor of LaFortune.

Our final topic for this year is "Student Government Services Which Student Were a Source of Inspiration to All of Us." For all of us who were present it was one of Notre Dame's finest hours. Of course, we did not do it alone since it was really a cooperative effort on the part of Notre Dame, Saint Mary's College and the surrounding community. The courage, persistence and love that were so evident were a source of inspiration to all of us. Many of the athletes and their families commented to me that they had never been better treated anywhere, and they especially appreciated the genuine interest and concern they experienced.

There is no way in which I can thank each member of the Notre Dame community who participated. Some operated behind the scenes, assuring that the ordinary tasks were attended to, and others were more on the front lines. But everyone carried their weight and it was a magnificent week. Thank you for being a part of this special event. May it continue to be a sign of what we can achieve together.

'I was a freshman dork'

Mike Naughton

I'll bet you a lawn pass that you're feeling like a dork right now but relax, you're only a dork.

It took me over a month to find out that the person on top of the Golden Dome wasn't Thomas Jefferson. I don't know why I thought it was Jefferson, it must have been the stately pose and the lack of a beard.

Now that I'm a senior I admit that I really haven't changed much. I still have everything in storage and have no food in my fridge or blankets on my bed. I just missed "A Taste of Notre Dame" for the fourth year in a row and just found out that the SRA and I still don't know what those SRA's are doing. At any rate, I'm obviously still a dork but I've learned the key to happiness at Notre Dame — be what you are, not what you aren't.

You see, the worst part of being a freshman dork is that you are all trying so hard not to let it show. You know that this is one of those rare times in your life when you have a clean state. You can try to change the way people look at you. So you go out of your way to try to seem better than you are.

Well take it from me, your pal Mike, you can only do that at a SYR.

As a code for her hitman. Com- ing: Jake gets suspicious.

A panicky Tina killed the victims, then Maric's head clutched a bead from Tina's necklace. Cord accused Tina of murdering his mother. Kate and Cord postponed their wedding, giving Patrick new optimism. Tom accused Lee of being his former wife Carol, a prostitute, which she denied. Coming: Tina in hot water.

Ryan's Hope: Ben observed John taking Concetta into her apartment. John told Frank why he had been with Concetta. As Lizzie prepared to walk down the aisle, she saw Ben and knew she couldn't go through with it. Ben carried Lizzie and told her about John and Concetta. Lizzie then demanded to talk to John. John and Concetta were having an affair. Coming: The truth hurts.

Eleanor became uneasy when Pearl suspected that Hayden's letter was a fake. Gina was arrested after a carjiff with Jane. Coming: Jake and Hayley grow closer.

San Antonio: For the third time this season, the Maritimes outscored the Pats. Despite the loss, the Pats were still in the running for first place.

Tales of the Unexpected: The three episodes that followed were all quite forgettable. The first, "The Man Who Loved Cats," was a decent, if predictable, ghost story. NFC West looks tough; Rams-49ers battle over?

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO The San Francisco Forty-Niners won their fourth division title in six years the hard way, playing half of last season without quarterback Joe Montana.

But it's seldom easy in the National Football Conference West, the four-team group also including the Los Angeles Rams, Atlanta Falcons and New Orleans Saints. Moreover, the Falcons and Saints show signs of jumping into what has traditionally been a two-way fight between the Rams and 49ers.

"The team that wins the title is the one that wins outside the division," says 49ers Coach Bill Walsh.

San Francisco finished the 1986 regular season 10-4-1 record, overtaking the Rams, 10-6, by beating them 24-14 in the final game. Within the division, the 49ers were 3-2-1.

Los Angeles, which lost the division title by dropping its last two regular season games, then lost 28-7 to Washington in the NFC wild-card game. A week later, the New York Giants took the last playoff spot toward the Super Bowl title by creating Walsh's team, 27-10.

But Roger Craig, the 49ers' fullback, says, "I've got the mental attitude to go all the way." And strong safety Carlton Williams adds: "If we keep everybody healthy, we can be a Super Bowl team again.

"The NFC West also has the league's defending rushing champion, Eric Dickerson of the Rams, whose 1,821 yards gave him 6,968 in four pro seasons. Reuben Mayes of New Orleans led the NFL's rookie running backs, with 1,353 yards, and Atlanta's Gerald Riggs had his third straight 1,000-yard rushing season, gaining 1,327 yards.

One of the 49ers' major goals for 1987 is to improve the running game. Craig was the 49ers' top rusher last year with 830 yards. Veteran Joe Cribbs returns after rushing for 560 yards in his first season with the 49ers, and the team is high on two rookie running backs, first-round pick Terrence Flagler from Clemson and free agent Doug Dunleavy from Nebraska.

The new backup quarterback is Steve Young, the former Brigham Young All-American acquired from Tampa Bay.

John Robinson is heading into his fifth year as head coach of the Rams. Jim McMorin is back with the Saints after posting a 7-9 record in his first season, and Marion Campbell takes over an Atlanta team which finished 7-8-1 last year. Everett became the starter late last season and passed for 1,618 yards and eight TDs.

In Atlanta, David Archer is the returning starter at quarterback. The Falcons made Oregon quarterback Chris Milher their top draft pick, but he was a contract holdout through the opening weeks of training camp.

Atlanta used a rookie, Tony Brooks, at nose tackle last season. The veteran linebacking corps is led by Buddy Curry, team leader in tackles for seven consecutive seasons, and Kevin Mitchell, back in the defensive backfield.

New Orleans' Morton Anderson made 26 of 30 field goal attempts last year, and punter Alan Petris averaged 42.7 yards for the Saints, making the Saints very strong in the kicking department.

Pan Am Games get classing grade

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - Local organizers of the Pan American Games have received an "A" report from officials of the U.S. Olympic Committee, a USOC spokesman says.

The report card from the USOC is "what really counts in this country," said USOC media chief Mike Moran.

"There were glitches and problems here that are inherent to any international, multi-sport event, but the thing that sets them apart from at least the last two Pan American Games is how quickly they responded and fixed them," Moran said.

Moran based his rating on what he said and from the reports received from the various athletic federations and the media. The staging of the event was absolutely first class.

"There were no surprises in terms of organizational problems. It's the same thing that happens at the Olympics, the Olympic Festival, the Asian Games and Pan Am Games. It's always transportation and beds and logistics because you don't have a sort of a dress rehearsal."

Morgan said the athletes' village was first-rate, the food was outstanding and the athletic facilities were incomparable.

"The venues were the best in Pan American history," said Moran. "They were the most polished, ready and contemplative set of arenas and stadiums ever. They get a plus-A for venues."

"The events were run off well ... conducted well ... no delays ... no breakdowns. The athletes here had a very good, very good time here and to the USOC and the other Olympic committees who brought their athletes here that's a big plus for Indianapolis."

NL Roundup

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - Lance Johnson and Vince Coleman each tripled to key a two-run second inning and Jack Clark doubled to drive in his 100th run of the season, leading the St. Louis Cardinals over the Houston Astros 7-1 Tuesday night.

The victory moved first-place St. Louis 4 games ahead of second-place New York in the National League East.

St. Louis left-hander Greg Mathews, 9-6, pitched out of repeated jams early in the game and allowed eight hits in eight innings. Bob Forsch got the final three outs.

In the Cardinals' second, Johnson tripled off Danny Darwin, 8-8. Johnson slid under catcher Alan Ashby's tag at home plate on Tony Pena's grounder to tie the score 1-1. Coleman tripled home Pena. Clark's RBI double followed. Ozzie Smith's leadoff double in the fifth. Pendleton hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Rocky Colles to make it 4-1.

The Cardinals scored three runs in the sixth on Smith's run-scoring double, Tommy Herr's sacrifice fly and Pendleton's RBI single.

Dodgers 3, Mets 1

NEW YORK - Fernando Valenzuela pitched a four-hitter, struck out 13, and pitched a complete game, and John Shelby hit a two-run homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Mets 3-1 Tuesday night.

Valenzuela, 11-11, struggled throughout as he tied his career high for walks in a game, giving up eight. Leading 2-0, the left-hander lost his shutdown in the fifth inning when Mookie Wilson doubled and Tim Teufel hit an RBI single.

David Cone, 3-3, making his first start since coming off the disabled list on Aug. 15, allowed two runs on four hits. He struck out three and walked two in six innings.

Franklin Stubbs doubled in the first before Shelby hit his fifth homer. The Dodgers added a run in the ninth off reliever Terry Leach on consecutive singles by Tracy Woodson, Glenn Hoffman and Valenzuela with two outs in the ninth.

Giants 3, Phillies 2

PHILADELPHIA - Chris Speier hit a home run to snap an eighth-inning tie as the San Francisco Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 Tuesday night.

With one out in the eighth and the score tied 2-2, Speier homered down the left-field line off Kevin Gross, 8-11.

Reliever Scott Garrelts, 11-4, picked up the last 2.1 innings for the victory.

San Francisco took a 1-0 lead in the second on an infield single by Jose Uribe with the bases loaded. Candy Maldanado opened the San Francisco second with a walk and reached third on a single by Chili Davis. Bob Brenly was walked, loading the bases and Uribe then hit a slow bouncer that scored Maldanado. The Giants made it 2-0 in the third when Maldanado hit his 15th home run of the season.

Pirates 1, Red Sox 0

BOSTON - Mike Dunne pitched a two-hitter for his first major-league shutout and Johnny Ray's first inning single drive in the game's only run as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Cincinnati 1-0 Tuesday night, extending the Reds' losing streak to five games.

Dunne, 8-5, failed to allow a runner past second base, striking out seven and walking one, as the Reds fell to 63-64, the first time they have been under .500 this season.

Andy Van Slyke singled with one out in the Pirates' first and stole second before scoring on Ray's single off Ted Power, 10-8. Power lost to the Pirates for the first time in seven career decisions despite allowing only four hits over seven innings.
New stadium honors former athletic director Krause

Special to the Observer

The new 5000-seat stadium just east of the ACC will be named after former director of athletics Edward W. "Moose" Krause.

Dedication ceremonies are set for halftime of the Notre Dame-Michigan State soccer match, Sept. 18, the night before the Irish football team clashes with the Spartans. The soccer match begins at 7:30 p.m.

The lighted facility was constructed last summer for use during the International Summer Special Olympics Games. It will serve as the home for the Notre Dame soccer, track, lacrosse and field hockey teams.

IAAF starts drug tests

Associated Press

ROME - The IAAF, the governing body of international track and field, has imposed procedures for year-round drugs tests for athletes - both in competition and training - to try to prevent the use of illegal substances, its Medical Commission said.

Arne Ljungqvist of Sweden, who also heads the Medical Commission, said.

"Being able to play under the lights at Krause Stadium is really going to benefit our program," says Irish soccer coach Dennis Grace. "It's an absolutely incredible facility. It will be nice to see those lights on and several thousand people up in the stands when we come out for our games."

"I think 5000 seats is just about right. If it were any larger, then maybe the seats wouldn't be as good for spectators. But it is terrific because the fans are close to the field and high up where they can see, but not directly on top of the benches."

"With Krause Stadium," continues Grace, "we're going to try our best, starting in '88, to get some of the better teams from other regions to come here and play, and I think they

Crum defends coaching in summer's Pan Am games

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - Denny Crum said he doesn't think the U.S. Pan American basketball team's loss to Brazil in the gold-medal game will hurt his chances for being named the Olympic coach in 1992.

"I don't have any way to judge that, but I don't think so," said Crum, head coach at Louisville. He talked to several USOC (United States Olympic Committee) officials after the game and they were very complimentary.

They congratulated me on a job well done and said we just ran into a hot team. I didn't get any heat from anybody." Crum now joins Jim Gudger of East Texas State as the only coaches not to win a gold medal in the Pan American games.

Crum said despite that distinction, he doesn't regret having taken the Pan Am job. "I'm tickled to death I had a chance to do it," he said Monday. "I'd do it again. I enjoyed every minute of it. We should have beaten Brazil, but I'm not going to make a negative situation out of a great experience. It was fun." Crum also isn't going to shoulder the blame for the loss.

"In this business, you're always going to get criticized, but we did the best we could do. I don't get to shoot the basketball..."

"I don't know what more I could do. I feel good about what we did. I wouldn't change a thing, except the final score. Upsets happen; that's what sports are all about."

Molitor hits in 39; Brewers down Tribe

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE: Milwaukee's Paul Molitor extended his hitting streak to 39 games Tuesday night with a sixth-inning single against the Cleveland Indians in the Brewers 10-6 victory.

Molitor, in his fourth at bat, lined reliever Don Gordon's first pitch in the sixth for a single to right field. Dale Sveum homered and drove in five runs to pace Milwaukee.

In his first at bat in the bottom of the first, Molitor hit a fly ball to right field. Battling in the second he walked, and in the fourth he grounded out to second base.

Molitor is 68-for-163, a .417 average, during his streak. For the season, Molitor is batting .317 but doesn't have enough plate appearances to qualify among the leaders.

Molitor's streak is the fifth longest in modern major league history and the longest the majors since Cincinnati's Pete Rose hit in a National League-record 44 consecutive games in 1978. The last time an American League player had a longer streak than Molitor's was in 1981 when the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio set the major-league record of 56 games.

Molitor's next target is Ty Cobb's 40-game hitting streak in 1911. Also ahead for Molitor is Cobb's 40-game hitting streak in 1922.

Prior to 1900, Baltimore's Willie Keeler hit in 44 straight in 1889 and Chicago's Bill Dahlen hit in 42 straight in 1894. At that time, several rules were different, including foul balls not counting as strikes.

The Brewers' designated hitter will try to make it 40 straight Wednesday night when the Brewers host Cleveland again. Rich Yett is scheduled to pitch for the Indians.

All three major television networks, the MacNeil-Lehrer Newshour and a dozen newspapers who do not cover the Brewers on a regular basis descended on County Stadium Tuesday to monitor Molitor.

"If you learn anything about yourself, it's how you are going react to outside distractions of the streak. I've not had that much experience with the media in these numbers except for post-season play in 1981 and 1982 but that was more team focused," Molitor said before Tuesday's game.

"If I've learned anything, it's that this game has helped you prepare for moments like this; you can keep things in perspective."

Molitor has missed 44 games with injuries. He would need to average almost four at-bats a game the rest of the season to accumulate the 500 plate appearances necessary to qualify for the batting title.

Molitor, who went 1-for-4 with a walk, singled in the sixth inning on the first pitch from reliever Don Gordon. Molitor moved within one game of tying Ty Cobb for fourth place on the major league list of modern-day hitting streaks.

Molitor flied out in the first inning and walked in the second against starter Ken Schrom. He then grounded out sharply to second base in the fourth off Jamie Easterly.

With a count of 15,580 on its feet, Molitor didn't wait in the sixth. His liner hit the back dirt of the infield in the base between first and second base and sped into right field, and the crowd responded with a 14-minute standing ovation. Molitor flied out in the eighth. Molitor is 68-for-164 (.415) during the streak that began July 16.

Juan Nieves, 11-6, was the winner.

Tigers 5, Twins 4

MINNEAPOLIS: Chet Lemon and Kirk Gibson each drove in two runs and Doyle Alexander beat Minnesota for the second time within a week Tuesday night as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Twins 5-4.

The Twins have lost seven of their last eight games and had their American League West lead cut to one game over Oakland.

Alexander, 2-0, gave up four runs on seven hits in 7 1-3 innings. Mike Henneman relieved Alexander with one out in the eighth after Randy Bush's RBI triple and went on to earn his fourth save.

Joe Niekro, 6-10, lost for the sixth time in his last seven decisions.

Red Sox 7, White Sox 3

BOSTON - Sam Horn hit two solo home runs and Dwight Evans reached the 100-RBI mark for the second time in his career Tuesday night, leading the Boston Red Sox over the Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Evans, a 15-year veteran, and Marty Barrett keyed a four-run third inning with two-run singles. John Marzano homered in the Boston fourth.

Steve Crawford, 5-3, relieved Boston starter Al Nipper in the fifth with the Red Sox ahead 6-3 and got the victory.

Injuries, ineligibilities hit as ND fall workouts begin

While Lou Holtz has been pleased with what he’s seen on the field these past two weeks, a number of developments off the field are less than promising.

The Irish have lost the 1987 services of:

- Offensive guards Jason Cegelski and John Zaleski. The two were dismissed from the University for academic reasons after spending most of their freshman year on academic probation.

- Freshman running backs Ricky Watters and Tony Brooks were the leading ground gainers in Saturday’s scrimmage with 88 and 55 yards, respectively.

“ar backs ran well,” Holtz said. “Tony Brooks and Ricky Watters have an awful lot of talent.”

First team tailback Mark Green showed why Holtz has tabbed him the squad’s premier back, picking up 47 yards on six carries, scoring a touchdown and turning a broken play into a 25-yard gain.

Defensively, Holtz saw what he wanted to see in the scrimmage.

“The whole defense hit well,” Holtz said. “I thought the hitting was outstanding today.”

“The defense played with intensity and - above all - they scored,” Holtz said.

Holtz was referring to the first touchdown of the day, when first team inside linebacker Ned Bolcar intercepted a Pete Graham pass and returned it 61 yards for a touchdown.

Senior inside linebacker Cedric Figaro pressed Graham on the play.

“It was just a tremendous effort by Cedric Figaro today,” Holtz said.

A number of penalties - many on the offensive and defensive lines - plagued Saturday’s scrimmage, but Holtz said those can easily be ironed out.

“Most of those were on the younger players,” Holtz said. “It’s a combination of things. We don’t have a history of making those mistakes on Saturday, and we won’t make them this year.”

Sutton becomes latest scuffball suspect of season

Associated Press

NEW YORK Jim Palmer, a three-time Cy Young award winner when he pitched for the Baltimore Orioles, said Tues­ day that Don Sutton told him several years ago the best way to scuff a ball was to use sandpaper pasted on your glove hand.

Palmer recalled the advice, unaware that a television close-up shot Monday night showed a patch of some sort in the Calif­ ornia Angels right-hander’s bare left hand as he rubbed up the ball in a game against the visiting New York Yankees. Sutton, who has been accused of scuffing the ball, said the patch was a bandage to cover a blister.

Palmer, discussing scuff balls in general, said Sutton told him in the “early 1980s” how to doctor a ball.

“Don told me to just take some sandpaper and Super­ Glue, put it on your glove hand and when you rub up the ball, kind of scuff it,” Palmer said. Palmer recalled that Sut­ ton’s advice did not work for him.

“I was working on it in the bullpen and it was so humid that night, 95-degrees and humidity to match. The sandpaper kept falling off my hand and my skin was coming off because glue was taking it with it,” said Palmer.

Sutton, a winner of 318 games in a big-league career that began in 1966, pleaded in­ nocence to doctoring the ball.

“Some of the guys told me afterward that they were (zooming in),” he said. “It probably made for very enter­ taining (TV). I suppose you are not going to buy that it was pic­ tures of my kids. And, you probably wouldn’t buy that it was (a bandage) covering up a blister, which it was.

“But I give you my word, it wasn’t sandpaper, it wasn’t an emery board and I don’t mind being checked on the mound by the umpires, ever.”

In his previous start, Wed­ nesday night against Bal­ timore, the 42-year-old veteran was accused of scuffing several baseballs, and three balls were forwarded to the American League office by umpire Don Denkinger.

The Yankees, who won Mon­ day night’s game 3-2 in 11 inn­ ings, did not ask for any balls to be checked, although home plate umpire Rick Reed did remove the ball Sutton used to strike out Rick Cerone in the fifth.

Sutton, 8-10 this season with a 4.36 earned run average, al­ lowed three hits and two runs, both earned, in seven innings.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Angels said he wasn’t aware of the situation involving Sutton.
Nelson’s cancer treatable

Associated Press

NEWARK, N.J. Hodgkin's disease, the form of cancer that has stricken New York Giants tackle Karl Nelson, is one of the most treatable and survivable forms of the disease, although its cause remains unknown, physicians and researchers said Tuesday.

The disease attacks the body's lymphatic system and is characterized mostly by the progressive enlargement of the lymph nodes.

"Basically, Hodgkin's disease is a mystery to a lot of people," said Dr. Alan Lippman, associate director of the oncology department at Newark Beth Israel Hospital. "The more doctors examine it, the more questions we have. We really don't know how to classify it."

The disease first was described by English physician Thomas Hodgkin more than a century ago. Until 1947, it was considered an infectious disease rather than a cancer, said Larry Garfinkel, vice president of epidemiology and statistics for the American Cancer Society.

"What's peculiar about it is that it's has the features of a malignancy and also the features of a chronic infection, at least under a microscope," said Dr. Robert Krigel, director of hematology at the Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia.

Hodgkin's disease occurs at any age, although the American Cancer Society said it mostly strikes young adults 15 to 35.

Its symptoms include swelling in the arm, neck or groin areas, and can also be accompanied by fever, weight loss, back or abdominal pain, night sweats, nausea and vomiting.

In Nelson's case, the disease was discovered during a routine chest X-ray prior to arthroscopic surgery for an arthritic condition in his left shoulder.

Once the cancer is detected, a biopsy is performed and the tissue evaluated.

Lippman said Hodgkin's disease is classified by four stages. In Stage I, according to the Associated Press, only one area of the body is involved. Stage II is two areas, such as the neck and arm. Stage III involves two areas in different parts of the body, such as neck and groin, and Stage IV, the most serious, is when the disease has spread to an internal organ.

Nelson has been diagnosed as Stage I, according to the Giants' team physician.

There are also three or four subclassifications of the disease, depending on what cells are found in the affected lymph nodes, Lippman said.

In almost all cases, the prescribed treatment is radiation therapy or a combination of the two.

INDIANAPOLIS - Actor James Garner, who's driven the pace car twice in the Indianapolis 500, will join a motel owner in sponsoring a racing team for the 1988 race, a published report said.

Garner and Larry Cahill of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will be owners of the team, The Indianapolis News reported Tuesday. A driver will be named later.

Publicists later announced that the pair had formed a news conference Thursday in Indianapolis to discuss their partnership.

Cahill, 50, owns a racing shop in Cedar Rapids and with his brother owns 60 motels, most of them Holiday Inns, in 24 states.

Both Garner and Cahill have racing backgrounds.

Garner drove dragsters in the 1960s and became further involved in racing after he made the movie "Grand Prix" in the 1960s.

New Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal: "There are specific things about the athletic program that are very new to me."

Rosenthal did not pretend to be ready to take on a role as a leading figure in college athletics. "For my own schedule it would be highly appropriate for me to try to avoid some of those assignments for a few years and to become much more familiar with the operations of the department," he said. "Notre Dame is going to be up front in those areas, and I think we have lots of capable representatives in the athletic department."

With Corrigan leaving the ACC for the final time this week, Rosenthal has the added disadvantage of getting a late, quick start in his new job. "It would have been very nice to have had several months to get ready for the job," he said. "I'd like to think of it as being a very exciting start."

A native of St. Louis, Rosenthal was a three-year starter for the Irish basketball team. He earned all-America honors his junior and senior years, and he captained the squad his final season.

Rosenthal received his bachelor of science degree in finance from Notre Dame in 1954. After two seasons of professional basketball with the Fort Wayne Zollner Pistons, he began his banking career in 1957 as the vice president and director of Indiana Bank and Trust Co. in Fort Wayne.

For the past 25 years Rosenthal served as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the St. Joseph Bancorporation and St. Joseph Bank and Trust Co. He announced his resignation from that post June 24, 1987.

He was chosen to the NCAA Silver Anniversary Top Five in 1979 as the NCAA honored five distinguished former student-athletes who completed their eligibility 25 years previous. Rosenthal and his wife, Marilyn, are the parents of the eight children.

A misunderstanding between Notre Dame Athletic Director Gene Corrigan and a reporter for the Atlanta Journal is largely responsible for a reported coverup in the Notre Dame Athletic Department over the summer.

The reported coverup involved former Irish football player Alvin Miller and New York-based agent Norby Walters. Walters, along with his associate Lloyd Bloom, is under investigation by the FBI and by a Chicago-based grand jury for alleged payments made by the sports agents to college football players.

Miller, who decided not to return to the University for a fifth year after undergoing knee surgery for the third time during the 1986 football season, has been subpeonued along with dozens of college and pro players as well as several college administrators to testify in front of the grand jury.

On July 18 a copyrighted story in the Atlanta Journal reported that, according to Corrigan, Miller told Notre Dame officials that he accepted cash and signed with Walters and associate Bloom. Under NCAA regulations, this would make Miller ineligible to play football. The story also added that, according to Corrigan, Miller's injury was a coverup story designed by Notre Dame and Miller to explain the end of his career.

Lou Holtz has a lot to look at and less than three weeks to do it.

And - somehow - that's comforting.

At a time of the year when the second-year Irish football mentor looks more at individual performances than team play, Holtz can count on making some tough decisions before the Sept. 12 opener at Michigan.

"There were some impressive individual performances," Holtz said after the team's first full scrimmage this past Saturday. "It's tough to tell too many things about the team without seeing the films, but we look closely at individual performances.

And Holtz has more than his share of individuals who can play.

Senior flanker and Heisman Trophy candidate Tim Brown has been limited in the early fall workouts because of illness, but ran a few plays in Saturday's scrimmage and made two receptions for 17 yards.

Meanwhile, two sophomores who sat out their freshman year under NCAA Proposition 418 have completed successfully their first-year studies. On the field, inside linebacker John Foley and quarterback Tony Rice have been impressive, although a bit rusty from the year off.

At the quarterback slot, Terry Andreyiski has established himself as Holtz' top man. The elusive senior fits well into the Irish ground attack, and the big question heading into the fall was his ability to complete passes on a consistent basis.

In Saturday's scrimmage, Andreyiski threw for 44 yards on a perfect 5-for-5 day.

"All my goals are for the team," Andreyiski said. "I'd like to help us go to a major bowl game and have our offense be one of the best in the country.

The crop of freshman recruits already has been called one of the best in the country - and perhaps the best thing to do and typical of the kind of kid Alvin is." Corrigan, who denies ever knowing that Miller was involved with Walters and Bloom, said he talked to Mortensen because he was trying to help Mortensen out in his coverage of the Walters-Bloom case. According to Davidson, Mortensen is recognized as being on the leading edge of the case.

"Corrigan was very candid talking to Mortensen," said Davidson. "Chris was inclined to make the assumption that there was a Notre Dame coverup story. I don't know if that is wrong or right.
