SMC endowment not affected by recent stock market plunge

By KATIE KEARNY
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Last week's stock market decline probably caused an increase in the Saint Mary's endowment fund because it is heavily weighted in debt securities, according to Jason Lindower, Saint Mary's controller and business manager.

"We've got about 64 percent of our endowment fund in fixed income securities which have gone the opposite way of the stock market," Lindower said.

"Of the 34 percent of the endowment fund invested in common stocks, one of our advisors had 14 percent of the portfolio in cash.

Regarding the equity portion of the portfolio, Lindower said, "We're really not feeling any short-term effects of the downturn, other than we don't feel as well off as three weeks ago.

"We're not planning on changing any policies at the present time," he added.

In the long run, however, he said the market crash may affect the Saint Mary's stock portfolio.

"In the future, a larger percentage of the endowment fund probably will be placed in common stocks," Lindower said.

He said he believes if the stock market remains depressed, the Saint Mary's endowment fund could suffer. However, he said he believes the market would have to stay down for at least two years before creating a great impact on the Saint Mary's fund.

Because of the affluent nature of the individuals and corporations who contribute to the endowment fund, Lindower said he believes the decline will not adversely affect future fund donations.

Summit details still unclear

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - President Ronald Reagan on Wednesday renewed his offer to host the next superpower summit meeting in the United States, but administration officials said Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev might prefer another site.

Gorbachev's reservations surfaced as the White House and the Kremlin announced that Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze would fly to Washington for talks Friday with Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

He was expected to deliver a message from Gorbachev to Reagan, who said in speech to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., that it "would be good for Mr. Gorbac hev to see this country for himself.

But two U.S. officials, demanding anonymity, told The Associated Press separately that the Soviet leader was reluctant to have the summit held in the United States.

"He is concerned about being upstaged by the president on his own turf," one of the officials said. "They also have said they are worried about security.

"The official said the Soviets had hinted that Dublin, Ireland, might be a suitable summit site. "But," he added, "I wouldn't be surprised if they agreed to meet here.

The second official said Gorbachev felt uncomfortable about having the summit in Washington, and that was one of the reasons for his hesitation in setting a date for his third meeting with Reagan.

But another U.S. official said, "Gorbachev, himself, in discussing the summit last week with Shultz in Moscow talked only about Washing ton.

"The leaders' first summit was in Geneva in November

Storin pointed out that the press must open themselves up to a greater awareness of how the news is affecting the people it is written about. He stated that many reporters spend more time worrying about how they will obtain the information rather than what impact it will have upon the individuals they are reporting on.

Regarding the victims who die from AIDS, Storin said people feel differently about how to report the disease. The policy of The Boston Globe and The Chicago Sun-Times is to print the cause of death if the funeral home gives out the information.

Kathleen Hessert described her first few months after graduating from Saint Mary's as "miserable. I thought that my life had peaked at Saint Mary's at age 22. Eventually I realized that it was time for me to take my own talents and what Saint Mary's had taught me out into the real world."

And that is exactly what the 1974 graduate did. Hessert, president of Communications Concepts in Charlotte, N.C., elaborated on her college years and her career in a speech last night at Haggar College Center.

"It was not until I came to Saint Mary's that I realized who I was and what I could do. Saint Mary's gave me a place to grow."

Hessert's speech was the first of the "Life After Saint Mary's" series sponsored by the student government and Saint Mary's Alumnae Relations.

While taking a full course load her senior year, Hessert worked thirty hours per week for the local WJVA/WRVR radio station. She moved to Syracuse, N.Y., following commencement and started as a general assignment reporter for CBS. She remained in television broadcasting for the next ten years, her career culminating in the hosting of her own talk show.

After moving to South Carolina and taking time out of her career to have two children, Hessert decided that it was time to put her communications skills to work in a professional business.

"Communication in a competition," she said, "Words are not the only thing involved, appearance and actions count, too. The challenge is to make our good ideas matter to others. Communications Concepts helps executives learn the art of effective communication." Hessert, a humanities studies major, is a firm believer that "you can do whatever you want to do" but describes herself as being somewhat of a "late bloomer."

Next Wednesday's alumni speaker will be Kathleen Flynn Fox, the marketing vice-president for Carousel Restaurant Group. She will speak at 6:30 p.m. in Haggar College Center.

Saint Mary's given high marks

By JULIE RYAN

Saint Mary's College has been named one of the best among comprehensive colleges in America, according to a recent survey of college and university presidents in U.S. News and World Report.

The College ranked seventh out of 170 colleges. Twenty-one percent of the 68.8 percent who responded rated Saint Mary's as a top institution in the survey which ran the Oct. 26 issue.

The presidents of colleges rated the top 10 schools in the smaller comprehensive category based on the following criteria: cohesiveness of curriculum, quality of teaching, the relationship between faculty and students and the atmosphere of learning fostered by the campus.

"The thing that pleases the College most is that (the recognition) comes from peers," said Brett McLaughlin, who handles public relations for Saint Mary's. A school is considered "smaller comprehensive" if it has an enrollment of 1,500-2,500. If it has a wide variety of professional and liberal arts programs and if it awards more than half of its Bachelor of Arts degrees in two or more areas. Berea College in Kentucky was selected as number one followed by Gustavus Adolphus College (Minn.), Whittier College (Calif.), Augustana College (Ill.), Hood College (Md.), William Jewell College (Mo.), Saint Mary's College, College of Saint Catherine (Minn.), Milikin University (Ill.) and Otterbein College (Ohio).

Saint Mary's is one of the three all-women's colleges mentioned. The others are Hood College and the College of Saint Catherine.

1983. They there agreed to have back-to-back sessions the next two years in Washington and in Moscow.

But their summit last October was held, instead, in Reykjavik, Iceland.

Without putting pressure on Gorbachev to come here, Reagan said in his West Point speech that "summits can be useful for leaders and for nations- occasions for fresh talk and a bridge to better relations. It would be good for Mr. Gorbachev to see this country for himself."

Reagan added laconically: "when the general secretary is ready to visit the United States, I and the American people will welcome him."

A terse White House announcement, meanwhile, said Shevardnadze would make a brief visit to Washington and meet Friday with Reagan and Shultz. It described the talks as a continuation of discussions Shevardnadze held here in September and again Oct. 22 and 23 with Shultz in Moscow.

The agenda accepted by both sides includes arms control, human rights issues, regional problems, including the Iran-Iraq war; and U.S.-Soviet relations, said State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman.

On prospects for a summit, Redman said "our basic posture is that we'll wait and see what the foreign minister has to offer."

Grace Hall, Malloy to raise money by running
By JIM WINKLER
Staff Reporter

Notre Dame President Father Edward Malloy and 40 members of Grace Hall will participate in a 24-hour run beginning tomorrow to raise money for the Northeast Neighborhood Community Service Center, according to Seamus Brennan, chairman of the annual Grace Hall 24-hour Run.

The run, expected to raise more than the $400 collected during last year's event, will begin at 11 a.m. Friday with Malloy running the first 30-minute segment. Each of the 40 runners will follow a circular course around campus. Each runner will carry a baton which will be passed from participant to participant. Brennan said, "Basically, our goal is to keep the baton moving for 24-hours for charity."

Brennan explained that in this type of running event, distance is not the issue. Each runner participates for as long as he wants. Runners sign up for 15-minute segments, and can run as many of those as they want. Brennan mentioned that a few runners had pledged to run for an hour or more.

The purpose of this event, according to Brennan, goes far beyond demonstrating the athletic ability of a group of runners. The direct purpose is to raise money, and by doing so, to show that Notre Dame students are concerned with the community around them. Brennan said that the money collected would go to the Northeast Neighborhood Community Service Center on Notre Dame Ave.

"Giving them the money serves a dual good purpose," said Brennan. "We take care of our own Notre Dame students in the area and we show South Bend residents that we care about our community."

This can help relieve some of the tension that exists between Notre Dame students and the City of South Bend, Brennan added.

He said the work on fundraising takes place a few weeks before the 24-hour run. Brennan and his staff contacted the South Bend Chamber of Commerce to ask for local business contributions. During the run, a collection canister will be placed in the hall, which is the starting and finishing point of each runner's segment.

Brennan pointed out that the event was taking place on a football weekend when many parents will be on campus, and he said this should help in the money-raising.

Jim and Tammy's, Spuds top list of popular masks

INDIANAPOLIS Ronald Reagan and Richard Nixon are popular, but the hottest new masks for Halloween this fall are rubber likenesses of beleaguered television evangelists Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker.

Spuds MacKenzie, the Illinois dog who made its big screen debut in "60 Minutes," is another top seller.

As they do with television shows, costume retailers are keeping a close eye on celebrity politics.

"The Reagan and Nixon masks are both over $20 and have been selling even better than we expected," said Andy Hansen, president of Halloween Costumes, Inc.

Storin also referred to an incident involving a Saint Mary's student whose name was published by the South Bend Tribune after her stillborn baby was found in the trash.

Storin said he was surprised that the authorities released the girl's name when no charges had been proven. He said he felt the minor's name should not have been used, particularly because she had not been convicted of any crime.

Storin said there probably was not enough "insight" into getting about whether to print her name.

Reporters must keep practical points in mind when dealing with the topic of restraint in matters of privacy, Storin said.

One of the practical considerations an editor must make is how the public will react to a revelation, he said. People may "resent" the delay for a "called-for lack of restraint, and may be alienated by the press." He said the Gary Hart case as reported by the Miami Herald as an example and said the Hart case showed the pain the press can inflict.

Another factor is the "emotion" that may affect their per-U.S. airmen killed in Philippines

Associated Press

ANGELES CITY, Philip- pines - Suspected communist rebels shot and killed two U.S. airmen and two other people Wednesday in separate daylight attacks near the giant U.S. Clark Air Base.

U.S. officials said the dead included two Air Force ser- geants, a Filipino businessman and a Filipino police officer. The U.S. military said the attacks were in defiance of U.S. Navy warnings.

The attacks came within 15 minutes of each other and fol­lowed by several hours the slayings of two policemen and the wounding of an army colonel in Manila. Authorities also blamed those on the rebels.

Names of the victims were not immediately available. Base spokesman Maj. Thomas Boyd said both airmen were in uniform.

Maj. Gen. Donald Snyder, commander of the 13th Air Force, said the motive for the killings was unknown. But Col. Manuel Caranza, security officer of the Philippine mili­ tary’s Clark Air Base Command, said suspects were communist rebels.

He said the style of the attacks and the weapons used - 45-caliber pistols - pointed to rebel assassination teams known as “sparrow units” for the swiftness of their assaults.

Francisco Nepomuceno, mayor of Angeles City, also said he suspected communist assassination squads because of recent U.S. arms shipments and statem ents of support for President Corazon Aquino’s government.

A statement by the Philip­ pine military said the first attack came at about 3:45 p.m. when three assailants shot dead an Air Force sergeant in front of a McDonald’s less than two miles from the base.

Moments later, up to 10 gunmen ambushed the car of an­other Air Force sergeant, kil­ling him instantly. The Filipino businessman, who stopped to investigate, was also slain.

The retired Air Force sergt was shot dead as he drove his station wagon near a military housing area, the statement said.

The Air Force captain was attacked near another housing area at about the same time, the statement added. When the captain returned fire, the rebels fled.

At the Pentagon, officials who spoke on condition of anonymity said the attacks “were obviously coordinated.”

Threats, raids continue in Gulf

Associated Press

KUWAIT - Iraq said Wednesday its warplanes raided three tankers and industrial targets on the mainland. Iran threatened to respond to any Western economic embargo by sealing off the Persian Gulf.

Iraq also said three of its warplanes approached American warships south of the gulf in defiance of U.S. Navy warnings.

The 13th convoy of Navy vessels and refloated Kuwaiti tankers arrived safely at the shебek, which was hit by three Iranian missiles this month.

Shooting sources in the gulf said they could not confirm the attacks on tankers reported by Iran. The Iranians indirectly confirmed bombing sorties on the mainland by saying 18 people were killed and 70 wounded in Iraqi air raids on civilian areas.

Iranian authorities vowed retaliation and warned Iraqi civilians, as they have before in the 7-year-old war, to evacuate areas near industrial and economic installations.

Iran’s official Islamic Republic News Agency said the Iranian warplanes challenged a “U.S. navy convoy” and replied that they would fly “within the range prescribed” by their command.

Iran said the pilots “ignored warnings and a threat of attack” transmitted by radio at distances of 26, 22 and 27 miles and replied that they would fly “within the range prescribed” by their command.

Iraqi television said the first air raid came at 3:30 p.m. when one of the missiles hit the port of Kuwait.

The fire may have been accidental, the sources said, but Saudi authorities were investigating, Arab American Oil Co., commonly known as Aramco, operates the field.

President Ali Khamenei renewed the oft-expressed threat to close the gulf gatew ay whose shores is coming to us through that waterway we will not allow any ship to enter the Persian Gulf.

Cats wake family during fire

Associated Press
CHARLESTOWN, Ind. - A pair of cats named Maddee and Kitty are receiving credit for rescuing a Charleston woman and her two children from a nighttime fire in their home.

Angie Webster, 24, and children Ashleigh, 5, and Jeffrey, 3, fled through a bedroom window and escaped from the smoke billowing through the brick, ranch-style home early Tuesday after the cats began pouncing on them and making strange sounds, Webster said. "The cats were up on the bed and making weird noises, not a meow, maybe a grunting noise," Webster said Wednesday.

Danny Grace of the Charleston Volunteer Fire Department said ashes from a fireplace in the living room ignited a bucket of pine cones, and the flames spread to papers, blankets and pillows.

The home is equipped with a smoke detector, but Webster said she had disconnected it over the summer after burning some food in the kitchen and had forgotten to reconnect it.

Webster said her husband, Jeff, 27, was at work, so the children were sleeping with her when the fire broke out about 2 a.m.

The cats - Maddee, which is almost 2 years old, and her 1-year-old kitten, Kitty - came into the bedroom and jumped on the bed, Webster said. "The older one was up and walking up and down me, pacing almost. They were both very excited and agitated," she said.

"They finally woke me and I became aware of what was going on," she added. "My eyes were stinging from the smoke. I looked down the hall and all I could see was smoke."

brokering, a former witness

Associated Press
MIAMI - The man who shot two stockbrokers and himself had testified against organized crime figures in a stock manipulation case before entering the federal witness protection program, officials said Wednesday.

Arthur Kane, 35, killed the manager of a Merrill Lynch brokerage office Monday. He then turned the gun on himself. The longtime diabler in the stock market had lost an estimated $10 million to $15 million when the market dropped in the last two weeks.

The U.S. Justice Department said Kane was actually Arthur Katz, a disbarred Kansas City, Mo., attorney relocated to Miami in 1979 after testifying in a 1977 organized crime investigation in Philadelphia by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, said Thomas Monahan, the agency's Philadelphia assistant regional administrator.

In addition, Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite has been missing since January, when he disappeared during a mission to mediate with Islamic Jihad, the driving force of the hostages. No group has claimed kidnapping him.

Berri's militia has been engaged in efforts to free some foreign hostages, including an American and two Saudi Arabians.

In June 1985, the pro-Syrian militia also negotiated with Islamic Jihad, the Am erican TWA airliner in Beirut for freedom of the passengers.

There have been several kidnapnings for ransom of Lebanese in West Beirut in recent months. Press reports in Germany say that the Siemens electronic company paid a ransom for the release in September of an engineer held hostage in Lebanon. Sources in West Germany denied the reports.

Do's reportedly released came one day after kidnapped American blowtorc Anderson, the longest-held foreign hostage, turned 40 in captivity. Anderson, chief Middle East Correspondent of The Associated Press, was kidnapped in West Beirut March 15, 1985. One day later, the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, claimed his abduction.
After this weekend's USC game, a new definition of the word "classless" entered the dictionaries of all Domers. It reads: USC's band director.

Eric M. Bergamo
20 seconds into the future

This individual hit a new high in low disregard for Notre Dame. Consider his offenses.

Exhibit one. This so-called "director" forced his charges to play that fight song of theirs over and over and even when he knew it was late in the night, from forcing me to wake up screaming "Enough, band!" to playing "Your Team" when I was not interested. Just stop playing that song! Even after repeated crowd reactions to this endless rendition, the band director continued to make his band play their beloved fight song. Note that the classy Notre Dame band does not play the fight song after every first down, unlike the USC band that plays it after their quarterback is sacked.

Don't you think that this band director was playing the song at the end of the game just to get us Domers angry? Exhibit two. USC's halftime show was a little more "interesting" for us. Now Mr. USC Band Director did not run our gaitly leprechaun, Brian Stark, because he was making the halftime show a little more "interesting" for us. Now Mr. USC Band Director, did you think that we, conscious Notre Dame students, would be the least impressed by the pseudo-leprechaun of yours? No way, Jose. Maybe you could have asked our leprechaun, who is much better than your weak impostor, to be in your show.

Boy, I think you would have gotten a lot more applause than you did.

But the best offense is yet to come. Exhibit three. As the Notre Dame band was on the field, preparing to play "Notre Dame, Our Mother," Mr. USC Band Director thought it was just the right time to swing into the post-game show. I was quite surprised that a rambling group of Notre Dame students didn't tear across the field and stuff this idiot of a band director headfirst into a tuba. He surely deserves a kind of a fate.

But, despite this glaring insult, the Notre Dame band lowered their instruments and did not play until the low-brow USC band stopped. Truly a classless act, something Mr. USC Band Director should learn from.

From the reaction of the students, I feel they wouldn't cry over the possiblity that the USC band might never again travel to the friendly confines of Notre Dame Stadium.

But more telling was the reaction of some band members. They were genuinely upset and insulted at the actions of Mr. USC Band Director and they would also be glad to see the USC band go and never return.

I don't feel that it has to come to that, but the director of the USC band should get a new attitude and take a few lessons from their classy hosts.

Grace Hall debates: an intellectual forum

Last year marked the inception of the Grace Hall Debates, an event to be conducted annually by its home dormitory. Great success for the competition a year ago was markedly proven, evidenced by both the debaters' skills and the audiences' enthusiasm. Thanks to then Assistant Rector of Grace, now turned Notre Dame's Religion Hall, Joe McKenna, for laying the solid foundation for the competition, Grace Hall is enthusiastically preparing to host the debates again, beginning October 26 and running through November.

Sincere Notre Dame students, would be and the audiences' enthusiasm. Thanks to then Assistant Rector of Grace, now turned Notre Dame's Religion Hall, Joe McKenna, for laying the solid foundation for the competition, Grace Hall is enthusiastically preparing to host the debates again, beginning October 26 and running through November.

For those who may be unfamiliar to the debates, the teams of debaters are representatives from each section in Grace, which boasts twenty sections in total. Single elimination will ultimately lead to the top two teams competing for the championship. For each debate, a controversial topic will be assigned by the Grace Hall Debate Committee, with both teams arguing either the affirmative or negative side. The debates last year were far from two sides passively stating obvious points. Heated battles often ensued, and the true art of debate clearly was evinced. Aside from serving as pure entertainment for the crowd, dozens of interesting as well as important facts emerged throughout the debates. Often these points helped question the audience or even change the viewers' own personal stand on issues. Some of the issues debated last year included the legal possession of handguns, euthanasia, and the hiring of immigrant workers. Even if one believes he or she steadfastly supports one side or the other, in all likelihood certain aspects of the arguments will help soften his or her own tunnel vision view. The art of debate can be an awe-inspiring beauty, filled with skilled rhetoric and passionate emotions. It is an event all people should witness, especially during college years when one begins to form his or her own opinions regarding controversial issues in our complicated world.

One must certainly give credence to the genuineness of the Grace Hall Debates. Certain sections last year boasted previous high school, nationally ranked debaters. The judges who decide the winners are professors from throughout the university, each representing his or her own academic specialty in the related topics.

Grace Hall is proud for the success it witnessed in its first year hosting the debates, and avidly awaits for the ensuing second annual event. Grace Hall strongly encourages and warmly invites all students to join us in this special occurrence. The debates will take place in Grace's "pit" on dates and times announced in The Observer, the first taking place Oct. 29. We guarantee all who attend will witness top flight debating, and more importantly learn many new opinions about important issues in the world we live in today.

24-hour charity run needs your support

Dear Editor:

Once again it is time for the annual Grace Hall 24-hour run. This run is the largest of Grace Hall's many charitable fundraisers, the proceeds of which will benefit the Northeast Community Service Center in South Bend. The 24 hours are subdivided into smaller time intervals, all of which are run by Grace Hall residents. This year the run will commence on Friday, October 30, at 11:00 a.m. with an appearance by guest runner Monk Maloy.

Throughout the past, there has existed some animosity between the South Bend community and the Notre Dame student body. By donating the proceeds of the run to the Northeast Community Service Center, Grace Hall hopes to prove relations between the two communities. Donations will be accepted throughout the run by the Notre Dame student body would be helpful.

Boss searches for light at end of "Tunnel"

MATT SITZER
accent assistant editor

For the last 15 years, the popularity of Bruce Springsteen has been largely due to his image as a voice for the masses. Whether this voice was reflected in the adolescent rebelliousness of 1975’s Born to Run or the early-Reagan years pessimism of Nebraska, Springsteen’s albums have all gone on to reach anthem-like status with the American blue-collar...

Bruce Springsteen
Tunnel of Love

With his latest album, Tunnel of Love, Springsteen continues in the same tradition, except this time something seems to be missing. Absent from many of the songs on the album is that crucial element which had made his earlier working class hymns so palpable—hope.

Gone also, are many of the stirring rock and roll chartbusters which attracted Springsteen so many new “pseudo fans” following the release of 1984’s Born in the U.S.A., his subsequent world tour.

If these people are expecting a comparable follow-up album, they will certainly be sorely disappointed. Listening to Tunnel of Love does not leave one in a particularly festive mood. Yet, this may not be entirely bad.

The album opens rather unpretentiously with the bluesy, introspective “Ain’t Got You,” which features an unaccompanied Springsteen possibly reflecting upon his rise to superstardom (“When I walk down the street people stop and stare / Well you’d think I might be thrilled but baby I don’t care”). Springsteen clearly does not seem to be reveling in his fame.

Many of the following songs echo the tone and tempo of the first. In fact, it is not until the bayou flavored fourth track “Spare Parts” that we get any hint of the backbeat and rhythm which made Springsteen so famous. Even then, the tune epitomizes the hopeless, despairing theme inherent throughout much of the album. The chorus conveys this idea effectively, albeit quite pesalmically (“Spare parts / And broken hearts / Keep the world tummin’ around”).

Although the most commercially successful song on the album will most likely be the already overplayed “Brilliant Disguise,” the true jewel of the album is most certainly the title track E Street Band member Roy Bittman’s synthesizers and Nils Lofgren’s guitar blend perfectly with Springsteen’s iconic lyrics to create the Coney Island atmosphere around which the song revolves.

Springsteen uses the song to convey the fear and confusion felt by many in today’s younger generation. He seems to be telling us that we must keep searching hard to find the goodness in the world (“But the house is haunted and the ride gets rough / And you’ve got to live with what you can’t rise above.”).

The bleak “One Step Up” picks up the ball where “Tunnel of Love” left off, further accentuating the idea that something is definitely wrong in the world—on, at least. In Springsteen’s world (“I’m sittin’ here in this bar tonight / But all I’m thinkin’ is / I’m the same old story, same old act . . .”).

This is definitely not an album for everybody. For those who have identified with Springsteen over the years and have stuck with him through thick and thin, this album will simply be seen as a new direction for “the Boss.” However, for those expecting a carbon copy of Born in the U.S.A., Tunnel of Love may prove to be a great disappointment.

Alumni entered the season with something to prove. The 1987 version of the Alumni team went 6-5, and a repeat of that performance just wouldn't do. Well, the Dogs put together a team loaded with freshmen, coached by democracy, and full of spirit - the result was a 3-1 record and a spot in the playoffs.

"The best part of our team," said player-coach Mike Birk, "is that we have unity. We're all students and we all coach together." Alumni has utilized a potent passing attack thus far this season due to injury, but that's not about to change. Freshman John Neiers has been excellent at quarterback for the Dogs, his two favorite receivers being his tight end, Pete Skito and his wideout, Mike Chikah.

In order to qualify for the playoffs, Alumni took a hard-fought, 8-0 victory over Cranbrook. bruk scored the lone touchdown of the game on a 64 yard run. Alumni's first playoff test in two years will be against a team with even less playoff experience - Fisher. The Green Wave with its stifling defense will be a tough challenge for the offensive-minded Dogs.

With the likes of Fisher and then the hallowed Stanford team in its way, Alumni's biggest test may just be surviving the playoffs.

Pangborn (3-0-1) Pangborn dominated the Small Dorm Division with a high powered offense and a very strong defense - but dominating the SDD is a bit different than playoff competition against the likes of Dillon, Planner, and Stanford.

It just might be that this Small Dorm Division team is too small. Pangborn will face the winner of the Dillon-Planner game, and Dillon and Planner are two of the biggest teams this weekend to take home the first place trophy.

Despite scoring 77 points in four games, Pangborn's key weapon through most of the season in a 55-14 point advantage this week of the season. Pangborn's defense is its strongest point. The Pangbornites have allowed only 13 points this season.

Pangborn's running attack is keyed on two men - fullback Dan Bailey and tailback Greg Delfilippo. Their running and the occasional pass by quarterback John Jacobs allowed Pangborn to tear through the Small Dorm Division.

"I don't know if we've got the best team," said Sherman, "but in one game, anything can happen."

Flannerites have already beaten Dillon once, there's no reason why they can't beat them a second time.

The powerful defense (only seven points allowed in four games) has been led by sophomores Jim Twinn and Don DeForre. Forrester is a team with an image problem. First, they're not the Small Dorm Division champs. Second, they aren't even the champions of their league. Third, they have the potential to be.

Golf’s newest tournament is also the richest and most controversial

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas - The money - all $3 million of it - is wonderful, said Greg Norman. But should it count? The Australian raised the question Wednesday on the eve of the Nabisco Championships of Golf, the richest tournament golf has ever seen.

Norman is among the elite 30 golfers who are competing for $2 million, with $360,000 to the winner, in the Championships of Golf.

In addition, the tournament that begins Thursday on the Oak Hills Country Club course serves as the culmination of the Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf, a season-long point list based on players’ performances in regular-season events.

Another $1 million, with $175,000 to the winner, will be distributed in the Grand Prix competition.

And that money will be “official,” meaning that it will count toward the season’s money-winning lead. It is the first time so-called bonus money - anything other than actual tournament prize money - has been counted as official.

“This offsets what happens on the golf course,” said Norman, the “Great White Shark” who led the American and Australian tours in money-winning races, and is in front in the Grand Prix standings.

“In addition to the enormous prize money to be distributed, such important titles as Player of the Year and leading money-winner will be decided this week, along with the finals of the team charity competition, in which another $1.4 million in charitable contributions will be determined.”

Curtis Strange is a central figure in most of the races that end this week. He leads Paul Azinger in both the Player of the Year and money-winning races, and is in front in the Grand Prix standings.

“It was meant to be an important, season-ending tournament. It’s certainly that,” Crenshaw said.

Norman quickly agreed that “the bottom line is that it’s great for all of us to be playing for this kind of money.”

Senior sweeper

Lowney provides leadership

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

Talent, quickness, experience and leadership.

These qualities are bound to get an opponent’s attention. Add to that list an air of confidence and a tenacious style of play and you have also earned his respect.

For the past four years when the Notre Dame soccer team need a sufficient dose of these they simply turned to one player: senior co-captain Steve Lowney.

As both a sweeper and a wingback, Lowney has had a significant impact on the team since he earned his starting position his freshman year.

“We would not be the same ball club without Steve Lowney,” said Irish head coach Dennis Grace, “his leadership, attitude and work ethic are tremendous.”

Lowney has scored two goals this year, including the game-winner against Illinois State. He scored the net for the first time since tallying three goals as a freshman.

Yet his limited scoring is hardly an indication of his great importance to the team.

It is defensively, when he is on the other side of the ball, that Lowney becomes dangerous. Whether he is shouting his advice to the offense or frustrating his opponents with his aggressive marking, Lowney’s leadership is one of the main reasons for the team’s success.

“I have to let the other team know that we’ve got someone in command,” said Lowney, “and I’m very conscious of that. We become a lot more intimidating if we talk a lot.”

Consistent defensive ability and the experience gained from playing 77 collegiate games has made Lowney a candidate for all-Great Lakes Region honors as well as making him one of top players in the history of Notre Dame’s program.

“He has really learned to read the game,” said Grace, “He is very quick and is a good operator; he knows if he’s not doing his job.”

Lowney strives to improve his game, especially his heading and shooting, but focuses his efforts on his job as the team’s co-captain for the second year in a row.

SCM soccer splits over break

The Saint Mary’s soccer team came out strong Saturday after a week off, combining consistent offensive pressure with unbreakable defense to shutout Wheaton College, 2-0.

With the score tied 0-0 at the half, the Belles wasted no time in taking the lead.

Three minutes into the second half, opportunity arose when the ball went out of bounds off a Wheaton player.

Sophomore Mollie Meehan booted the ball to the center of the goal box where Celeste Aquino got her foot on it and put it in the net, putting the Belles on top.

The Belles controlled the majority of the game, keeping the ball in enemy territory and only allowing five shots on goal.

The week vacation and only two days of preparation took its toll when the Belles faced Michigan State on Tuesday and fell 6-0.

The week off hurt us in our consistency of play,” said Van Meter. “Michigan State is a very well coached team with a lot of talent,” said Van Meter.

Freeman plays key role on offensive line

Hearns prepares for Roldan

Consider five to be Tom Freeman's lucky number.

At his fifth position for the Irish, as offensive left guard — and playing as a fifth-year senior, Freeman, wearing uniform number 55, has watched his team and his peers grow toward becoming a winning team.

"Tom has been steadily improving year in and year out since I've been here," says second-year offensive line coach Jerry Faust. "He's given tremendous effort, he's a very dedicated young man who strives to improve and he has good work habits."

It took Freeman all those work habits to survive his freshman year, when he was shuffled through various positions on the defensive unit before finding a home on the offensive line.

Freeman played both offensive tackle and defensive end at Blue Valley High School in Kansas City, but he earned his reputation at defensive end. He switched to offensive end to outside linebacker early in his freshman year. After suffering a groin injury, Freeman moved to middle linebacker in the spring of his freshman year.

"I'm evaluating the situation in total offense," says Freeman. "I always thought I would be too small for the offensive line. When I graduated from high school, I was 220 pounds. The 6'4" guard from Shawnee Mission, Kan., has bulked up to 270 pounds since that time, and earned a starting position last year, in the second season of current Head Coach Lou Holtz. He joined classmates Chuck Lanza, Tom Rehder and Byron Spruell on what figured to be an inexperienced line. The line instead helped the Irish finish the season ranked 14th in the nation in total offense.

"We have more experience than anyone thought," says Freeman. "During Gerry's last year the second team. We knew we just had to be aggressive and play the way we were capable."

For now, Freeman, having graduated as a history major with a 3.01 average, is making sure he helps because it shows the other young men how to develop and how you have to work hard in practice to develop to your maximum abilities," says Yelovich.

Offensive guard Tom Freeman (55), gives quarterback Tony Rice plenty of time to run a play in last weekend's win over Southern California. Freeman's steady play has not gone unnoticed, as Steve Megargee reports below.

Fifth-year senior guard

"Hearten's an 8-5 favorite," says Faust. "He's an experienced line. The line instead helped because it shows the other young men how to develop and how you have to work hard in practice to develop to your maximum ability," says Yelovich.

Hearts prepares for Roldan

Hagler interested onlooker

LAS VEGAS, Nevada - Thomas Hearns will try to become the first boxer to win titles in four weight classes when he fights Juan Domingo Roldan Thursday night. At stake will be the World Boxing Council middleweight championship, which became vacant when Sugar Ray Leonard retired after upsetting Marvin Minard Hagler last April 6.

On hand for Hearns' bid to make boxing history will be Sugar Ray Leonard, who stopped Hearns in the 14th round of a battle for the undisputed welterweight championship in 1981, and Marvin Minard Hagler, who knocked out Hearns in the third round of an undisputed middleweight title defense in 1985.

Leonard will attend as a spectator, while Hagler will be a commentator on the closed-circuit and pay-per-view telecast of the scheduled 12-round bout at a 10,100-seat outdoor stadium at the Las Vegas Hilton.

"I'm evaluating the situation," said Hagler, who is a possible opponent for the winner. "I want to sit back, watch these guys and see what happens."

"This fight will put the money to everyone else out there," said the 28-year-old Hagler. "This fight definitely will make up for those two losses."

Hearns, an 8-5 favorite, is one of 10 men to win at least two titles in three of the last six years. Six of those 10 won their third titles in the 1980s when the number of weight classes doubled from the traditional eight and most championships have been split.

Only of two those six champions held an undisputed title - Roberto Duran, lightweight, and Leonard, welterweight.

Six to challenge for Interhall football title

By TIM SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

The games are over - the WARS have begun.
Sure, the regular season is nice, but everyone knows that the postseason is the real test of championship teams - it's playoff time in men's interhall football.

The year began with sixteen teams, all with nice fresh uniforms, and high hopes for a trophy. But now, two months later, just six teams - Alumni, Dillon, Fisher, Flanner, Pangborn, and Stanford - still have a chance to play on the grass of Notre Dame Stadium. Herewith, a capsule review of each of those teams:

Alumni (4-0)
Defending champion Stanford is again the favorite to win the crown. Using quarterback and player-coach Al Martin, wide receiver John Sheehan (7 TDs) and talented running back Dan Diebold, Stanford has been a force to be reckoned with the lead before two powerful serves by McDonald tied the score at 13. The teams again traded points to tie at 14, but Walker's dive for a point followed by a game-winning volley tied the match at one game each with the Irish 16-14 victory.

The Boilermaker power showed itself in the third game as the Irish were blown away, 15-5, despite several errors by Purdue.

"They gave us every chance in the third game," Hagamey said. "We had opportunities that we didn't take advantage of."

The Irish played stronger in the fourth game, but Purdue had the momentum. The Boilermakers jumped out to a 5-0 lead before Bennett took over for the Irish and ran off four straight kills to move Notre Dame within one point, 8-15. But again, the Boilermaker defense still has managed to keep non-Pittsburgh offenses out of the endzone on a consistent basis.

Through five of the seven Irish opponents have met.

"You've got to keep a consistent lineup in there," Martin said. "We're confident, but it's so hard to tell." said Martin. "We just haven't seen the other teams play."

Dillon (4-1)
The Big Red are a big question mark for the rest of the WARS.

The Irish volleyball team was upset by a surprising Purdue team at the Joyce ACC Pit Wednesday night in four games.

The Boilermakers took the match in four games, 15-10, 14-16, 15-2, 15-4.

"We couldn't keep track of their hitters," said Irish assistant coach Pat Haggemeyer. "It seemed like they jumped out to double or triple leads. We couldn't seem to handle their power game, especially from the subs came in. Nothing gave us any spark."

Despite their loss, the Irish didn't lose their confidence. "We have more big games coming up," said Steve Flannel. "And we'll be ready for them."

The loss will severely hurt Notre Dame's chances of an NCAA tournament bid. Although five of the seven Irish losses have come to nationally ranked teams, their current 7-1 record may not be good enough for the selection committee.

"We have more big games because we have such a tough schedule," Bennett said. "If we had won this match, I think we would have been in the tournament, because the Purdue coach has an influence on the selection committee."

"The Irish hope to bounce back against the University of Illinois-Chicago on Friday night.

Friday's match begins at 7:30 Friday in the ACC Pit.
