SUB violations now ‘corrected’

By LIZ PANZICA

Student Union Board violations of the student body constitution have been corrected, said Mike Jaeger, student government chief of staff Sunday night.

Jaeger cited three past SUB violations of the student body constitution: it maintained no public record of steering committee meetings; it kept no public records of votes; and it had no advisory council.

After these violations were made known to the student senate, SUB started to keep a public record of steering committee meetings; it kept a public record of votes; and it had an advisory council.

Although the constitution requires SUB to have an advisory council, Jaeger said SUB has not demonstrated a need for one.

"If it's not required, then let's get rid of it," he said.

Jaeger said he wanted to "eliminate ambiguity" in the constitution. He said he wants student leaders to pay closer attention to the constitution.

"I recognize the fact that some people have paid to heed the constitution because it is inefficient."

Jaeger said he would like the constitution changed so that it is consistent with the bylaws of student government.

Constitutional amendments must be approved by both the Student Senate and the HPC.

Jaeger said a constitutional amendment should not require approval from the Hall Presidents' Council because the HPC already has "adequate representation" in the senate. Jaeger said the HPC has one fifth of the vote in the senate, the second largest faction.

The constitution's status has been debated by student leaders for the last few years, Jaeger said.

In a letter released to Student Body President Pat Cooke, Student Body Vice President Laurie Bink and SUB Director Janel Blount Sunday night, Jaeger suggested constitutional reassessment.

The letter is "solely based on my four years of observations," he said.

"I would like the letter to make the public more aware, if (amendments) came to a student body vote, they would be aware," he said.

Jaeger's letter said nothing about SUB's alleged constitutional violations.

Board decides to maintain policy

By JIM RILEY

Notre Dame's Board of Trustees decided Friday to continue its policy of selective divestment from firms doing business in South Africa, said Richard Conklin, director of public relations and information.

The Anti-Apartheid Network later announced it would organize a boycott of Coca-Cola products next semester.

The Board of Trustees received a report from the finance and investment committee which said that since the last board meeting in May, Notre Dame had divested from three firms doing business in South Africa, Conklin said.

"These firms did not meet the board's criteria of working actively to eliminate apartheid in South African society," he said. Conklin. Notre Dame has divested from such firms each year it has been following the policy.

He said that after the board received the committee's report, there was discussion, and a consensus was reached. No formal vote was taken.

Notre Dame's policy had been based on the Sullivan Principles, a set of fair employment principles authored by Rev. Leon Sullivan which called for total divestment if apartheid was not dismantled within a two-year period. That period ended in May, and Sullivan in June called for all American businesses to withdraw.

Notre Dame, however, continues to hold investments in companies which do business in South Africa and will continue to divest from those companies which do not meet the board's criteria.

The board will continue to review its policy every time it meets.

Even though Sullivan has pulled away from the principles, the companies doing business in South Africa are still rated by an independent firm as to how well they are following the principles, said Conklin. Notre Dame will continue to divest from these firms.

Notre Dame has $17 million invested in 17 firms doing business in South Africa, Conklin said.

Students react to food-fight bill

By LYNNE R. STRAND

While Notre Dame students are still outraged about beating Bama, student leaders are devising ways to pay the $1,400 Michigan food-fight bill.

Members of the Hall Presidents' Council will meet with the Student Senate Monday night to decide how the student government and classes should divide the bill.

"The money has to come from somewhere," said Pat Cooke, student body president. "We (the students) should take responsibility for our own actions."

"I think we should pay for the food fight, but we don't know how yet," he said. "Student government is trying to come up with the best possible solution that everyone will agree to, while minimalizing the damage in collecting the money."

Senior Noella Menezes agrees with Cooke that the students should foot the food fight bill.

"I think it's a very good idea," said Menezes, who said she did not take part in the food fight. "I don't like the idea about wasting food. It's a very spoiled thing to do. If we're going to be foolish enough to do that, we should pay for it. This is a good way to make students responsible. It's a direct approach."

Menezes' opinion is the exception, however.

"It's a crock," said freshman Sam Battaglia. "I don't think they can make everyone pay for it." Battaglia said he was at a dining hall but did participate in the food fights.

Sophomore Rick Purcell admitted he participated in the food fight and said he does not think students should pay. "If we pay 13 thousand dollars a year to go to Notre Dame, we should have some fun," argued Purcell. "College is supposed to be fun. I don't know what the big deal is. The food is already paid for."

Criticism of today's youth mounting but unfair

It is no secret that American youth of today take a beating at the hands of intellectuals and journalists. Very little is admired of today's youth. Mostly it's a story of corruption and decline.

Of course, every generation has thought that its descendants were in some sense worse than they were. But recent publications assessing the quality of American education indicate that today's younger generation, ages 12 to 22, exceeds previous limits of ignorance, self-gratification, and partisanship.

But is it in fact true that America's youth cares only for sex, drugs, and money and is therefore the worst it has ever been? Or are these accusations only superficial understandings of an age group whose ideals have always been an easy target for academic attack?

Among the many charges directed against the younger generation is the claim that television and popular music have had too powerful an influence in shaping their minds. As a result of this mass media programming most members of this age group are believed to have attention spans of around thirty minutes, the length of a usual sit-com show. And because most songs last from three to five minutes, this figure is taken as the length of time an individual is able actually to listen to a single voice or argument.

Television is also held accountable for the decline in moral values evident in the youth. It is said that today's adolescents can only act out the roles they have seen on the tube. They are as superficial and as scatter-brained as the characters the writers have mime-ou out of soap operas. The supreme concern with material satisfaction and sexual gratification, which are taken as hallmarks of this generation, are values programmed from impersonal sources. They are not the result of self-seeking, exploration, or imagination.

Perhaps the strongest indictment of the younger generation is that imagination and creativity have been replaced by mechanical role playing. The critics need only point to the debauchery of spring breaks at Fort Lauderdale or the lyrics of such songs as Madonna's "Material Girl," or the Beastie Boys' "You Gotta Fight for Your Right to Party" to establish the superficiality of these roles. Under such conditions they argue, true love and enthusiasm are drowned out by sexual promiscuity.

Finding fault with popular culture and in particular the foolishness of the young is an easy task. For some it even seems to be a favorite pastime and career. Allan Bloom's recent, well-publicized work The Closing of the American Mind offers one such indictment of the influence popular culture on the minds of the young. You do not have to look far to find verifications for such theories of moral decline. Everything from his Walkman cassette players to the introduction of Spuds Mackenzie as the original party animal can be used as evidence that today's youth has sunk to the lowest levels of mental activity. The theory is seemingly confirmed by nearly everything on television and radio, and even by such things as the popularity of fast food and the logos printed on clothing. Little or nothing is admitted as counter evidence.

The picture presented by such observers of social thought is not a flattering one. It seems that at any given moment the mind of the average youth is likely to be occupied with one of four thoughts, sex, drugs, rock and roll, or money - all of which are immediate concerns of an entirely self-centered and superficial individual. The plastic brain of today's youth of course stands in implicit contrast to the truly youthful and noble mind of some youth of course stands in implicit contrast to the truly youthful and noble mind of some

MEXICO CITY
Nicaragua’s President Daniel Ortega made a surprise stop here on his way home from the United States and said he would brief President Miguel de la Madrid on a new Nicaraguan proposal for a truce in the Contra war.

"Now is a good time to exchange views with President Miguel de la Madrid, so he knows directly the steps my government, according to Esmee Bellalta, the director of the Justice Education Department at Saint Mary’s, is taking to comply with a Central American peace plan, he told reporters when he arrived at the Mexico City airport Saturday.

Nicaraguan and Mexican officials declined to say what Ortega was doing on Sunday.

Nicaraguan Embassy spokesman Silvio Ordonez said Ortega, who was accompanied by first lady Rosario Murillo and their six children, went out for the day "to see the city." He declined to say where they went other than probably to Chapultepec Park, a vast city park.

Murillo and the children flew in Saturday from Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, to join him here.

The arrival of the Ortegas came as a complete surprise to Mexican officials.

"We know nothing about his activities. He arrived unexpectedly," Mario Enciso, the Foreign Ministry spokesman on duty, said Sunday. "We didn’t know he was going to come."

A presidential press office official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Ortega will meet with de la Madrid on Monday.

Chile project’ scheduled

BY ANNE GALLAGHER

In an effort to show solidarity with the Chilean people, Saint Mary’s Justice Education Department and Student Body Government are sponsoring the “Chile Project,” scheduled Nov. 16-17.

Both organizations say they hope to increase awareness and raise funds to counter a poll tax currently in effect under the regime of Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet. The “Chile project” will involve the presentation of a continuous slide show in the Great Hall in LeMans, the showing of the film “Missing” at 7 p.m. in Carroll Hall and a Liturgy in LeMans Chapel at 12:15 p.m. on Nov. 17.

The slide show will deal with Chilean geography and life under the present government, according to Esmee Bellalta, the director of the Justice Education Department at Saint Mary's.

Much effort is being made by the church in Chile under the leadership of Cardinal Archbishop Ravila Silva.

“It seems appropriate to include a liturgy since the church is playing such a major role,” said Bellalta. “I think this project is important because it gives us the opportunity to link two sets of people who have common goals but are in different situations.”

Bellalta’s husband, Professor Jaime Bellalta, member of the Architecture Department at Notre Dame and a native of Chile, criticized the present political state of the country and spoke of the urgent need of support for the upcoming election.

“Presently, Chile is in an apparent state of calm, but you can see a lot of poverty among the people. Unrest and general tension keeps growing,” he said.

“Pinochet will decide when the date for the next election will be and who the candidates will be. He could prolong the date for another eight years, and there is nothing the United States or the people of Chile could do,” he noted. "To know that the United States is concerned about this procedure will make people aware that there is a situation that needs to be rectified."

William Hickey, director of Student Services, gave the $1,400 fine to the student body to pay the damages because you can't pick out who's responsible. "Cancelling dining hall events for the semester was enough to the administration is serious. I don't know what the fine is accomplishing. It's just a joke to everyone." District 2 Student Senator Sean Hoffmann said it was fair for the student body to pay the damages because those responsible cannot be pinned down. "It's unfair for those who weren't there, but that's the way it (the penalty) works. Hoffmann added that he does not want to start another precedent. "Students shouldn't think we'll bail them out for everything." Cooke said that setting a precedent is his major concern. "It's not good to charge the student body at large, but this is an unique case. A lot of student were involved. I don't think we're setting a precedent but there's no other way to cover damages." John Goldrick, associate vice-president for student life, said of the $600 fine was "a token gesture." He was not concerned with the fine being transferred to the student body because he knows the student body is responsible for paying for the food fights because there are a number of things that Notre Dame is just a slap on the hand." 2

Investment merely fortifies apartheid

Editor's Note: The following column was received before the Board of Trustees' decision of last week.

When we look at South Africa there is one thing we can all agree upon. Apartheid, this practice of racial exploitation and degradation of black South Africans, is repulsive.

Gregory Maggetti

Under the system of apartheid blacks are denied virtually all political, economic, and social rights; they are legally denied the right to vote, to receive a proper education or decent employment. Eighty-seven percent of the land is set aside for whites, while thirteen percent of the land, the poorest land, has been turned into homelands or "Bonomas" where Africans are forced to live. These homelands are not lotted space but also insures that police and military force which not only enforces racial discrimination, but which also insures that the population is not able to grow and develop, are as firmly entrenched as the system of apartheid itself.

Apartheid prohibits African families from living together in "white" cities, so supporting a family entails destruction of black family life. The health situation is appalling with a serious shortage of doctors and medical services for blacks. As for education, suffice it to say that it is free and compulsory for whites while blacks must pay automatically a positive force for change. Despite the fact that the United Nations has condemned apartheid time and again since 1977 Rev. Leon Sullivan, a member of the board of General Motors, devised a code of conduct for foreign firms. This code consisted of six principles: desegregation of the workplace, fair employment practices, equal pay for equal work, job training and advancement for blacks and improvement in the quality of workers' lives. These principles are laudable in themselves. Yet when we consider the implications of a "Sullivan principle" we don't see the potential for the total destruction of apartheid. When it is not simply ineffective but also relevant for tearing down apartheid structures. (Interestingly, Rev. Sullivan's work has come to recognize this fact and now urges all U.S. companies to get out of South Africa altogether.)

When we consider the words of John Verster, former South African Prime Minister: "Each trade agreement, each bank loan, each new investment is another brick in the wall of our conciliation - we began the war. Foreign investments are the very bricks that build the apartheid prison.

How can we help free black South Africans? We can help tear down the walls of the prison by refusing to invest and ceasing all business in South Africa. Economic sanctions threaten the lives of millions of South Africans. The world must find a way to make the South African economy more and more dependent on the South African economy to prohibit any independent development. And finally, despite changes in petty apartheid, the systematic denial of political, economic, and social rights to blacks is as firmly entrenched as ever.

In light of these results, advocates of foreign investment in South Africa realize that investment alone is not automatically a positive force for change. Despite the fact that the South African government has taken a number of steps to improve the economic situation in South Africa, the fact remains that the current system is as firmly entrenched as the system of apartheid itself. Architecture majors are mysterious people on this campus. Unlike the stereotypical 'Arkie,' who is non-social, artsy and rather nocturnal, most Notre Dame Arkies are actually disciplined and well-rounded students who appreciate aesthetic beauty as well as a good party.

The Architecture program involves majors as early as the freshman year, when would-be Arkies experiment with the discipline's demands in a studio course. Commitment increases during the sophomore year, and it is then that some students, still unsure about their major and each other, discover why the Arkies enjoy their major and each other.

The Arkies wandering around 'Expo Roma,' an exhibit of work done by the students while in Italy. The Expo is attended by visiting architects and professors from around the country. All Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are encouraged to view the visually exciting work while sipping some real Cappuccino.

One architecture student sums up the dedication Arkies feel for their major: 'It's a way of life: it's a profession. You've gotta love it.'

A Season in Review

Four of the five Irish offensive linemen are playing in their final season of eligibility and six of the seven starters on the front seven on defense are also seniors.

Holtz puts the veterans in charge of erasing the frustration of years past at the beginning of the season and instilling a new outlook.

"It all began with Coach Holtz," said co-captain Chuck Lanza. "The staff called on the seniors right from the start. We have followed through on that. It has worked and it proved once again that there is a great job of coming through."

"This team started to play with pride, confidence and a really positive attitude," said co-captain Spurrier.

The effect of the seniors showed in many areas. Alabama and Notre Dame each had 70 yards of penalty yardage, but with the exception of the unsportsmanlike conduct flag to the Irish for the fourth quarter, the Irish were able to overcome the mistakes on a regular basis. Alabama wasn't.

Evidence two key plays that helped the Irish take control of the game. A first-quarter holding penalty put the Irish in a first-and-20 position, but Brown quickly hauled in a 22-yard pass to the first-and-10 position, which got the Irish turned into a touchdown.

An interesting storyline is the defensive line. It has that challenge. We made an example to follow and the younger players have done a great job of coming through.

The coaches and the older members -- from the junior linebacker Ned Bolcar to the senior lineman Ned Bolcar on winning all five home games for the first time since 1980.

The coaches and the older group that is this is one of the plus of the team and we shouldn't lose here," he said. "Everyone says it's so great to play here, well, we don't want it to be fun for them."

Most of the Irish seniors tried to put the importance of the game above sentiments of the last home game with mixed results.

"We tried not to get too emotional," said fifth-year senior Mike Griffin, who had five tackles. "It's hard to step back and think about it right away, but we are all looking forward to the present. It's a big win for the team."

"It's great to get out a win," said Brandy Wells, who played both linebacker and free safety. "But we know it's important that we beat a good team today. We really have the best team, everyone's doing the job, and what it's that it works together."

"We were thinking that the emotion would carry over into the game," said Tim Brown. "But they came before, and it's tough to hold the emotion back. It was our big win, we put it all behind us and thought about the game."

The result of the attention was exclamation point to an unbeaten home season. And after experiencing the worst of times, filled with frustrations and near-misses, this year's seniors can look back at their last performance on the turf as a win.

"Today," he had the right scheme and the right team," said Spurrier. "It's great as a team."

"It's a special feeling," said Brown. "One that we will all cherish for years to come."

"It's really an emotional high," said Lanza. "I can't think of a better way to end

The last time the Crimson Tide lost by as wide a margin was in 1937, when Auburn shut out its state rival, 46-6.

The seventh-ranked Irish upped their record to 8-1 with their fifth consecutive victory.

The Notre Dame defense forced Curry to use three different quarterbacks in the second quarter, option play to give Notre Dame its first lead, 10-3. He then completed his first career touchdown pass later in the quarter on a fourth-down play, a three-yard toss to tight end Andy Heck that made the score 17-3.

The remaining Irish touchdown were enough to make the Notre Dame fans wish they had scored on four of its first five possessions and opened a 20-6 halftime lead.

Rice dashed into the end zone from 12 yards out on a second-quarter option play to give Notre Dame back this year and the second under third-year Irish coach Lou Holtz.

Green held that record for a whole six minutes.

That was the longest run from scrimmage by a Notre Dame back this year and the longest under second-year Irish coach Lou Holtz.

Freshman tailback Ricky Watters improved on Green's mark by one yard, springing left, weaving through defenders and cutting back to the right side en route to a 75-yard touchdown with 4:01 left to play.

Ted Gradel made good on all three Notre Dame field-goal attempts and all four extra points to account for the rest of the scoring. The senior was accurate from 49, 21 and 22 yards.

"It's like I told Bill Curry after the game," Holtz said, "Bill, you just picked a bad day to play us in South Bend. We were very emotion-al, and our defense was ab-so-lutely tremendous."

Holtz expressed concern before the game that his of-fense might have trouble moving the ball against a quick Crimson Tide defense. But the Irish racked up 465 yards to Al-abama's 185.

"This football team has to- tally amazed me," Holtz con-tinued. "This was a total team effort."

It appears Notre Dame is bound for the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1, to play the win-ner of the Southwest Confer-ence (either Texas or Texas A&M). Representatives of the Orange Bowl said they have not decided which school will receive a bid to play the winner of this Saturday's Oklahoma-Nebraska game in Miami on New Year's Day.

They said the bid is looking at Miami, Syracuse, Florida State and Notre Dame. With bids coming out in less than a week and no bargaining under way between the Orange and Cotton Bowls, however, it ap-pears likely that the bid will go to Miami before Notre Dame gets the chance to play the Hurrican-es on Nov. 28.

"If we go 10-1 with the schedule we have, I definitely think we deserve the right to play for a national champion-ship," Brown said.

EXTRA POINTS - Gradel's 49-yard field goal in the first quar-ter was the longest of his career. His previous best was 44 yards against both Michigan and Purdue earlier this season.

Sophomore cornerback Stan Smagala suffered a minor con- cussion in the first half, but is expected to practice as usual this week. Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards when the student body was charged with unsportsmanlike conduct for throwing oranges. The crowd was first warned.

The Notre Dame offense, sparked by sophomore signal-caller Tony Rice and the usual assortment of ball-carriers, scored on four of its first five possessions and opened a 20-6 halftime lead.

Outside linebacker Cedric Figaro led Notre Dame in tackles with seven, while de-fensive back Brandy Wells and inside linebacker Ned Bolcar added six apiece.

The Tide lost by as wide a margin as 56-0 in the rout of Miami on Monday, November 16, 1987.

SUFFERED A MINOR HEAD INJURY.

Bobby Humphrey, Alaba-ma's All-America tailback, gained 94 yards on 14 rushes and had 241 all-purpose yards.

"We knew they would try to give the ball to him," Pritchett continued. "We didn't change anything. We just did our jobs and it worked out."}

Outside linebacker Wes Pritchett added six apiece.

Billy Ray could not lead the Alabama offense to a touchdown in the second quarter.

Junior tailback Mark Green, who gained 149 yards on 18 carries for his third straight 100-yard game, struck early in the fourth quarter. Green took a pitch and burst through a big hole on the left side, racing down the sideline for a 74-yard score.

Watters improved on Green's 100-yard game, striking early in the first quarter on a fourth-down play for a national champion-

The Tide started the year with 17 consecutive victories and have scored on all but one of 98 possessions.

"We knew they would try to give the ball to him," Pritchett continued. "We didn't change anything. We just did our jobs and it worked out."
Farley began the scoring on its very first drive. After quarterback Carol Elliott completed two big passes, she then ran an option in from the three-yard line to put the first points on the board. The conversion was successful, making it 8-0.

The rest of the first half belonged to BP, as it scored two touchdowns.

The first TD came on a 16-yard pass from running back Ann Cureo to Carolyn Burke, a play similar to one the team used last week against Lyons. The conversion was good to make the score 8-4.

After a punt by Farley, BP was at it again, this time with quarterback Teresa Coombs connecting with Carolyn Burke for a 31-yard strike. With a successful conversion, the score was 16-8 in favor of BP, and it wasn't satisfied that the Boston Celtics are off to their best start since 1972.

"We've got to be more consistent. We took some bad shots out there and shot selection really worries me," Jones said after the Celtics beat Indiana 103-98 Sunday to bring their record to 6-0.

Larry Bird scored 11 of his 24 points in the first quarter, when the Celtics took the lead.

Boston, off to its best start since it opened with 10 victories in 1972, made 16 of its first 13 shots and shot 66 percent (17-25) in the first quarter.

"We came out a little soft in the first quarter and gave them 36 points. We can't afford to do that the way we shoot," Indiana Coach Jack Ramsay said. "They make good passes, they look for each other, plus they make the outside shots."

HALFBACK Margaret Johnson brought the ball down to Farley's 11-yard line. The touchdown was scored by another Coombs-Burke combination, this time an easy square-out in the endzone. Margaret Johnson scored the conversion and the final score was 24-16.

"We played really well," said Carolyn Burke, who scored all three BP touchdowns. "The victory was great. This was our year. We went out there to win and we did it." Burke also scored all four TD's for BP last weekend against Lyons.

"The girls worked hard this season and I'm really happy to see them win," said offensive coach Dan DeBoer. "We worked them hard and they came through." Defensive coach Jeffrey Elia echoed DeBoer's thoughts. "It was all the girls." he said. "It's been a long time coming."
Men’s basketball squads tie in annual Blue-Gold contest

BY DENNIS CORRIGAN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame men’s basketball team played its annual Blue-Gold intrasquad game Sunday night and proved that so far this team isn’t going to beat itself.

The 30-minute contest ended in a 58-58 in which Mark Steven son, playing the latter parts of the game for the Gold squad, powered in a layup with one second showing on the clock.

The Blue squad was paced by senior co-captain Gary Voce’s 24 points and 10 rebounds, while senior co-captain David Rivers knocked in 22.

Many eyes were turned to the newcomers on this year’s edition of the Irish and early reviews were mixed. Freshman Kevin Ellery, a 6-5 forward from Springfield, Ky., looked impressive along the baseline, scoring 14 points and grabbing two rebounds for the Blue squad.

Fellow freshman Tim Singleton, a 6-7 guard from New Orleans, showed burst of speed while running the Blue offense. He finished with two points but dished out seven assists.

Many eyes were also trained on 6-9 forward Keith Robinson. A sophomore, Robinson sat out last season under the provisions of Proposition 48. Robinson finished the evening with eight points and led the Gold squad with eight boards.

The two squads played the first 20 minutes in man-to-man, but Irish head coach Digger Phelps also wanted his squad to practice zone offense and defense for the final 10 minutes.

Sean Connor, who the Irish will rely on as their zone buster, filled two-of-three three-point shots for the Blue and four-of-eight from inside 19-9 for 10.

Sophomore Tony Jackson was the fifth starter for the Blue squad and had five rebounds in 22 minutes.

Scott Paddock chipped in 12 points and two rebounds for Gold while Joe Fredrick and Jamere Jackson added four and two respectively.

Stevenson saw time with both squads and finished with a combined total of 18.

The Irish will play an exhibition game against Zadar of Yugoslavia this Thursday evening at 7:30 and open their regular season Dec. 1 at defending National Champion Indiana.

Unforced turnovers stick out in women’s intrasquad opener

BY BRIAN O’GARA
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame women’s basketball team kicked off the 1987-88 season last night with its annual Blue-Gold intrasquad game held in the Joyce Center.

The final score was Blue 37, Gold 24, but that is simply a formality.

Under first-year Irish Head Coach Muffet McGraw, Notre Dame is looking to improve last season’s 12-15 record, and is favored to win the North Star Conference title with the help of five returning starters and a solid freshman class.

Often, however, the Irish of McGraw’s teams at Lehigh were committed in the game. A total of 26 turnovers were committed in the game.

Only Blue team members Lisa Kuhns, back from a knee injury that kept her out last winter, and freshman Sara Liebscher did not give the ball away.

“I was happy with their intensity,” said McGraw of both teams. “But we had too many turnovers. And 20 uncontrollable errors, but most of the turnovers were because of a lack of concentration.”

Down 13-10 at halftime and 25-14 with three minutes remaining, the Gold team set up a full-court press to close the gap to five points before the Blue team held on for the win.

“The Gold team did a good job coming along,” continued McGraw. “The Gold team had our one, two and three players (point guard Mary Gavin, junior Diondra Toney and sophomore Annie Schwartz) so they were a little quicker out there.”

Senior forward Sandy Bot ham led both teams with 12 points, while playing a strong inside game to key the Blue team’s victory. Freshman Karen Robinson led the Gold team with 10 points, including two consecutive three-pointers that led to the losing team’s comeback effort.

The Irish next take to the court on Wednesday in LaGrange at Prairie Heights High School as they face the Wales National Team. The LaGrange site is an attempt to build community support.
ND Volleyball team sweeps weekend opponents

By THERESA KELLY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame volleyball team said good-bye to the Joyce ACC Pit by winning its last three home matches against Marquette, Valparaiso and Michigan State over the weekend.

Saturday night, the Irish defeated a tough MSU squad in three home matches against fellow Miami, Fla., alumnus Jim Kelly as the Spartans' quick of-fense gave them the momentum and put them up 3-1, but defensive lapses through the middle of the game gave the Irish an 11-9 lead. The rest of the game was a tough see-saw battle, but Whitney Shewman and Maureen Shea put away the final two points and the Irish tied the match at a game apiece, 15-13.

In game three, both teams played tough, refusing to let the other move far into the lead. A strong net game gave Michigan State a 13-11 lead, but Shea and Amy White teamed up to tie the game at 13. A critical service error by MSU gave the Irish the chance to win, and Zoetee Bennett and Walker found the holes in the Spartan defense to put the game away.

The Spartans jumped out to a 6-6 lead in game four, and it looked like another marathon match was in the works. But the Irish found a second wind and battled to tie the score at 11. Walker served the final three points for the Irish as they took the game 15-11 and the match 3-1.

"The whole team may have been a little tired," Lambert said. "It was really asking a lot of the players, but Walker's performance," Lambert said. "It was a great game for Whitley, and the Irish front and back lines. The Spartans may have had the momentum, but it was Amy White who stepped up to tie the game at 13. A critical service error by MSU gave the Irish the chance to win, and Zoetee Bennett and Walker found the clefts in the Spartan defense to put the game away.

The Irish will travel to Western Michigan to take on the nationally-ranked Broncos.

Buffalo beat Denver on a last-second field goal by Bill Romano, but it was not enough.

Vikas 23, Bucs 17

Chris Doleman forced two fumbles, both recovered by Keith Millard, setting up 10 Minnesota points and leading the Vikings, 3-4, over Tampa Bay.

Oilers 23, Steelers 3

Warren Moon threw two third-quarter touchdown passes to help the Oilers defeat the Steelers at Pittsburgh for the first time since 1978.

ND dominates 11th-rated Tide

By MARTY STRASSEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame student body was a little premature Saturday afternoon, hurling oranges onto the field in quest of a bell to the Irish Bowl. But you would never know it from the way the Irish threw an inspired defense and a big-play offense against the nation's No. 11th-ranked Alabama, routing the Crimson Tide, 37-0, at Notre Dame Stadium.

“After beating Alabama like we did today, we can go all the way,” said Irish flanker Tim Brown, who caught four passes for 114 yards and compiled 225 all-purpose yards on 14 touches of the ball.

“The only thing to say at a time like this is that we were whipped,” Alabama head coach Bill Curly said. “We were beaten by a vastly superior football team. That was obvious.

“Had we responded at our very best, I doubt seriously we would have beaten this Notre Dame team today.”

Dillon goes to the air to stomp Stanford, 24-0

By TIM SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Was it Joe Montana?

No.

Was it Tony Rice or Kent Graham?

Well...maybe not. But Dillon's quarterback Mike Brammer weaved a little of his own magic on the grass of Notre Dame Stadium Sunday afternoon, as the Big Red stunned Stanford, 24-0, to capture the men's Interhall football championship.

Throughout the season, Dillon has relied on a powerful running game to compile a 7-1 record and a berth in the championship game. Sunday, though, the Big Red went to the air early and often, and stayed there.

Brammer passed 20 times in the game, completing 11 of those for 184 yards. Add to that a 21-yard option pass, and Dillon piled up nearly 200 yards in the air.

“Our offensive coordinator Ross Perri decided this week to go with the pass,” said Dillon coach Jeff Morgan. “He did so basically because he felt we've been slighted all year. Everyone knew we could run, but he knew we could throw the ball. Our offensive line played incredibly too.”

Dillon wasn't "supposed" to win.

The Studs dominated the regular season and entered the final game brimming with confidence.

“There's no reason for us not to be confident,” said Stanford coach Al Martin last week. But within minutes of the opening play, Dillon was leading 3-0 and the Studs were reeling. Stanford started the game with the ball and went nowhere (four plays, nine yards). Dillon took over on downs in Stanford territory. One first down and five plays later, Brammer nailed a 40-yard field goal which could easily have been 50.

The first half seemed like a continual repeat of those two series - Stanford stopping itself with an ineffective passing game, and Dillon using its air attack to pile on the points.

Dillon's most impressive drive of the game came late in the first quarter. Five first downs moved the Big Red 69 yards, and an eight-yard run by Tim Murphy made the score 17-0.

The prime receiving threats for Dillon in the half and in the game were Steve Murphy and Bill Celebreze. Murphy caught five passes for 123 yards and a touchdown, leading 17-0 at the half.

Leading 17-0 at the half (Celebreze's TD being the third score), the Big Red settled in to hold off the Studs' potentially explosive offense and add a few more points.

They were successful.

“We wanted to shovel it down their throats,” said Morgan of the second half strategy. “They ran it up a few times during the season. But we also wanted to get all of our players in.”

Though Stanford's offense was more effective in the second half than in the first, the Studs were still stymied by their own mistakes and the Big Red 'D'.

Stanford quarterback Al Martin began to heat up early in the third quarter. The senior signal-caller completed four of five passes on Stanford's first drive of the half, but a bobbled pass wound up in the hands of Dillon's Tim Murphy, and the Studs beat scoring threat was thwarted.

A defense ("completely new") according to Murphy's specifically designed by coach Ted Rolff to stop Stanford's passing attack apparently worked, as the Studs were held to just 98 yards in the air and 106 overall.

Senior co-captain Buzz Eckelcamp led the Dillon defensive line with two-and-a-half sacks and innumerable pressures. Martin was on the run all through the game.

The Big Red's final score was its most exciting. Early in the fourth quarter, faced with a fourth-and-two, Brammer dropped back and dumped a pass to Stanford's senior co-captain Buzz Eckelcamp, who caught the ball on the one yard line with less than a minute left in the game.

The Studs were penalized on the play, and Dillon had the first down. With the clock winding down, Murphy dropped back and dumped a pass to Studs' cornerback Roger Morgan, who caught the ball in the end zone with just 18.4 seconds left.

Dillon's win over Alabama means the Fighting Irish have captured a fourth-consecutive Interhall championship by a score of 24-0.

Breen-Phillips had a different feel in mind.

Last year, these two teams met for the championship, and Farley emerged the winner.

This year, B and Pared met in the regular season and B established itself as the “team to beat” by edging Farley 24-22.

Breen-Phillips followed through on that reputation in the title game. In what was a very passing-oriented game, the BP passing attack was a little too strong for the Farley secondary. All three BP scores were in the air, and all were scored by wide receiver Carolyn Burke.

Seniors get win in home finale

By RICK RIETBROCK
Assistant Sports Editor

Two years ago it was a case of bewilderment.

“I feel bad for our seniors, but the way we lost it, I feel bad for our whole team,” said Breen-Phillips assistant coach Steve Beurelein after another tough loss, a 10-7 heartbreaker to LSU in the final home game of the 1985 season.

“We played well but it just wasn’t meant to be.”

“It makes you wonder what it takes to win,” said Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz after last season’s 24-19 bitter loss to Pennsylvania in the home finale. “This loss affects us — especially our seniors — very deeply. Other teams have made good plays against us and sometimes we don’t do the little things we need to do.”

Last year it was just plain frustration.

“We had our chances and didn’t win,” said Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz after last season’s 24-19 bitter loss to LSU in the final home game of the 1985 season.

“We played well but it just wasn’t meant to be.”

Center for Social Concerns
1983-1988

The doors of the Center were opened for the first time in January 1983. In 1988 the Center will celebrate its Fifth Anniversary with a variety of special programs and events for students, faculty, alumni, and staff. Details will follow.

PLEASE NOTE!
Although we are well into the Fall Semester, there is still time to participate in many programs and activities through the Center. These include meetings of Student Action Groups, Seminars, Summer Service Projects, etc. If this semester’s schedule is full, check out now details on a program or group which interests you and begin to participate at the beginning of the Spring Semester.

Summer service: ‘Beyond abuse’

“...Each time our women attended a mandatory support group or parent class they met other women who were struggling like themselves and some who had broken free. Every talk she shared with us, she had learned something new about herself. Each time she faced a new challenge, applied for public aid or a driver’s license, she gained confidence in her abilities. Regaining one’s self-esteem is difficult for anyone - a growing process that can face hard issues in concrete ways. These groups deal with issues and act on what they learn. Amnesty International and World Hunger Coalition are two such groups.

Do you ever feel that your academic work is challenging you to ponder the mysteries of life without any clues? The Center for Social Concerns has some clues to offer. We believe that seeing life outside the University and encountering people of different experiences and backgrounds will give students a new way to approach the important questions that are being presented in the classroom.

The Center for Social Concerns works with approximately twenty-five student organizations that enable their members to encounter life from a new perspective. Some groups are organized to do service in the South Bend community - from visits to the elderly to caring for young children. Other groups are organized to help students face hard issues in concrete ways. Cathy Stacy

Cathy was one of 72 students who returned to campus this Fall after 8 weeks of service throughout the U.S. in Washington, D.C., and Appalachia during Fall and Spring breaks. Summer Service Projects allow students to spend eight weeks getting to know new people and serving in a variety of communities and settings. The Urban Plunge gives students a revealing glimpse of urban life. Our challenge is to gain insight as we pursue knowledge. The mysteries will never be solved, but the clues that come from new experiences and reaching out to others will, without doubt, shed some light on the big questions that we encounter in our search.

Commissions help Center with projects

This year Student Government is working very closely with the Center to facilitate student community service. There are commissions within the Student Body Cabinet which direct their efforts to this cause. One of these, the Service Concerns Commission, works in conjunction with the many organizations, on and off campus, affiliated with the classroom.

But their experience of the plaintive cry of the poor and disheartened returns to the classroom and research project to seek a better and more just way.

In the commitment to justice and peace, in efforts at spiritual and moral renewal, Notre Dame has a mission to society and the Church.”

AMERICAN RED CROSS
The NDSMC branch of the American Red Cross is a group of students who provide first aid services at such events as ND home football games, basketball games, concerts, An Tostal, interhall sports, and more. We also operate a Quick Response System for any emergency that may arise. We provide first aid or transportation to the Student Health Center when needed. All of the events we work in guarantee free admission. Call Brother Luke Hurick (239-7653) about classes. Our current student coordinators are Dave Ragan (283-1012) and Bill Pazalaro (283-3333). It's a great way to help the community and make friends. Call Dave or Bill with any questions.

Pax Christi: Notre Dame is...
- a community of support and friendship
- a way to work for peace
- a group of people committed to combating racism
- a source of strength for peacemakers
- a way to work together on social issues
- lively discussions
- prayer
- brainstorming creative alternatives or solutions to violence and injustice
- a bunch of fun people
- people who want to make a difference (no matter how small, or big!) in a world hungry for justice and peace.

COMMUNITY FOR THE INTERNATIONAL LAY APOSTOLATE
The Community for the International Lay Apostolate (CILA) is a group of students who feel that, for them, living a Christian, service-oriented lifestyle involves integrating this "orientation" into many different aspects of their lives. Thus, there are four aspects of CILA, each with its own projects. Our EDUCATION projects include faculty-dinner style dinners, which are an opportunity to discuss issues in the Third World. Our SERVICE projects include providing medical and social services to the local community, as well as other projects, such as providing aid or transportation to the Student Health Center during events. Our RECREATION projects include bi-weekly meetings and speakers, visits to local soup kitchens, participation in World Food Day and the World Apartheid Week. Our RELATIONSHIP projects include playing bi-weekly (usually Wed.nights) for prayer, discussion, and action. At our meetings you may find:

- a bunch of fun people
- lively discussions
- prayer
- brainstorming creative alternatives or solutions to violence and injustice
- a bunch of fun people
- people who want to make a difference (no matter how small, or big!) in a world hungry for justice and peace.

For more information, call Dan Keusal (239-7943) or Tom Esh (239-7735).

COUNCIL FOR THE RETARDED
The Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Council for the Retarded is one of the largest and best known volunteer organizations on campus. The CFR, in conjunction with Logan Center, participates in a wide variety of activities for clients at many different levels of ability and interest. The most popular of these are the recreation periods on Saturdays and the Friday bowling program.

The Notre Dame chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. prides itself on being the most inclusive organization on campus. Students from all races and creeds combine their energies and talents to act on issues which affect the minority peoples on campus and in the society at large. For more information on what the N.A.A.C.P. is doing, please call Lionel Coleman (283-1208), Danny Bailey (283-2325), Lois Conners (283-5909), or Jennifer Perkins (283-4304). The Notre Dame N.A.A.C.P. works for all of us.

Child Abuse & Neglect Coordinating Organization

The Child Abuse and Neglect Coordinating Organization (CANCO) has as its purpose the prevention of child abuse and neglect, and the treatment of its devastating effects.

For information about volunteering in CANCO, please contact Peggy Probst for work in the Day Care Center or Julie Cooper for the Parent Aide Program (250-0090).

Dismas House

The Dismas House student group is a relatively new project working in cooperation with the Dismas Board of South Bend to operate a community of former prisoners and students. This community provides bonds of trust and friendship between students and former prisoners, and serves as an unstructured rehabilitation program for the former prisoners who often need to be reconciled with society. Any student who is interested in living at Dismas House next fall should contact Kathy Royer (237-7982).

Women United for Justice and Peace

The members of WUPJ have joined together to educate themselves and others about the power of our common sisterhood, to lead us to understand our responsibilities in the world today, and to help each other evaluate their strategies. The Plunge process includes an Orientation Workshop, a written reflection paper, and follow-up discussions in the homes of faculty and resource persons. Participants receive one hour of academic credit. Registration for next year’s Plunge will take place next fall.

Center for Social Concerns

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE: THE URBAN PLUNGE

Early this month 402 students - a record number - registered for the Urban Plunge, a 48 hour immersion into the kind of life that most Notre Dame and St. Mary’s students have never seen. During Christmas Break, 1TP participants spend two days at an inner-city site of their choosing, hosted by contacts from a variety of sources: religious and lay church leaders, social workers, NDSMC alumni, community agencies, and other interested individuals.

The Urban Plunge offers students the opportunity to experience the conditions of injustice, poverty, and apathy found in our cities, as well as the chance to meet persons who are working to improve their conditions and to evaluate their strategies. The Plunge process includes an Orientation Workshop, a written reflection paper, and follow-up discussions in the homes of faculty and resource persons. Participants receive one hour of academic credit. Registration for next year’s Plunge will take place next fall.

The Faculty and Center Activities

A variety of faculty-related activities are available through the Center. The Friday Forum, a weekly panel-talk-discussion series, meets four times each semester to examine a particular theme. During 1987-88 it is "The University and Social Change?" A related workshop is planned for the January break. Faculty serve as speakers and discussion leaders during the week-long "Call to Peacemaking" (fall semester) and "Peace with Justice" (spring semester).

Some faculty serve as pivotal participants in the URBAN PLUNGE follow-up session where small groups of "Plungers" spend an evening at the faculty’s home to reflect and begin the analysis of their Urban Plunge experience. Other host small groups of seniors who join in the faculty’s home four or five times in the spring semester to converse about their undergraduate years at Notre Dame and to examine how social concerns are and will be integrated into their lives upon graduation. Still others are asked to serve as advisors to the various services/social action groups affiliated with the Center.

For further information, contact Kathleen Maas Weigert (239-3519323).

Washington Seminar: Spring ’88

The Washington Seminar program completes its sixth year with a Spring Seminar, to be held during the spring break. As was true during the fall break, the seminar is a chance for about 70 students to explore the relationship between social concerns, public policy formulation and Catholic social teaching. Participants can earn one theology credit.

Students

"Students at Notre Dame have been fortunate in many ways. The Center for Social Concerns and the programs which they offer give us the opportunity to reflect on our gifts with others. Their programs and our involvement in those programs are what makes Notre Dame so special." Pat Cooke Student Body President

Appalachian Service Seminar

Students during the Fall and Spring breaks perform direct services for the poor in various sites in Appalachia--e.g. repairing and building homes. This Fall almost 50 students spent their breaks at NISDC in South Bend. For more information on the Spring ’88 Appalachian Seminar contact Sue Cunningham (239-7987).

...and More

In addition to the groups and programs described here in some detail, there is a wide variety of other programs, courses, and activities available through the Center. These include:

Senior Reflection Groups: Small groups of seniors share meals and discuss common concerns and feelings about leaving Notre Dame. Hosted by Faculty and Staff in their homes. Contact Mary Ann Roemer.

Post-Graduate Service Opportunities-Workshops: seminars and other meetings enable seniors to consider the integration of service into their chosen careers and to explore the advantages of a year or two of volunteer service, e.g., Peace Corps, Holy Cross Associates: Contact Marilyn Kienast.

Academic Courses:

Theology Courses (Don Meiners, C.S.C.): courses, films, programs, activities available through the Center.

ANTI-APARTHEID NETWORK

The Anti-Apartheid Network is an organization designed to increase awareness on campus about the oppressive government of South Africa and to prompt us to do what we can to establish a just government in that country. Our main goals this year are to encourage the University to divest its holdings in all companies doing business in South Africa, and to combat racism on campus. All are welcome at our weekly vigils at 12:15 pm. on Fridays on the Dome steps where we hear news updates from the region. Contact Julie Coyle (283-1822) or John Paul Checkett (283-1822) for more information.

STUDENT TUTORIAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Student Tutorial Education Program (STEP) is dedicated to helping the residents of the South Bend area develop socially and educationally. As tutors, our major goal is to motivate the residents to complete and improve their school work, and to teach them better study habits. Each participant tutors on either Monday or Thursday evenings from 7:45 p.m. Transportation to and from the facility is provided. Questions? Call Ed Kelly (283-3155), Sean O’Kane (283-1419), or Tracy Schindele (283-4094).

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

In presenting this four-page special on the Center for Social Concerns, we wish to remind the reader that we are focusing on the student service and social action groups, and social concerns programs and activities connected with the Center for Social Concerns.

Current information on Center programs and activities is available through the CSC Calendar/Newsnotes distributed to faculty and students, and through the CSC Newsletter mailed primarily to Center alumni. Each of these publications appears quarterly.

This is a paid advertisement made possible through the cooperation of The Observer staff who assisted in its production.

Notre Dame Student Government was partially defrayed the cost of this student group which provided a writeup on their organizations in this student newsletter on their programs.

And if you wonder whose interests and followup makes all of this worthwhile, you can thank me:
