October break may be moved

The University is considering moving fall break to the week of Thanksgiving, but the matter of changing fall break, said Winicur, but there is the possibility of moving it. "Nothing drastic" happened at the meeting Wednesday night, he added.

The council is also considering having the semester begin later, said Winicur. "Lots of issues are involved," he said. The main problem is that the stress begins too early, and students cannot work as long as they may need to during the summer, according to Winicur. Another option is to start the fall semester later, he said, which would also move final exams to later in the year.

If fall break was moved, Winicur said, the change would not take place next fall because the 1987-88 academic year calendar already has been established. The change would occur "the year after next at the soonest," he said.

Students or faculty members as a whole do not have a say in the matter of changing fall break, said Winicur, but they do have representatives on the Academic Council, he said. "It is up to the members of the (student and faculty) bodies," he said.

Dan Gerlach, one of the student members of the council, said he did not think October break should be moved.

"The longest time I spent (at Notre Dame) was August to October of my freshman year," said Gerlach. "It is really good for freshman to go home" in October because of less stress. "I think many students want to start the new year fresh," he said. Gerlach added that one year Notre Dame did not have October break and "things got really stressful."

Notre Dame can expect to receive approximately $2.2 million for participating in the Cotton Bowl. All of this revenue, minus expenses, will go directly into the University's athletic endowment, according to University Vice President Father William Beauchamp.

Based upon past bowl experiences, "Our expenses will be in the vicinity of $1 million, but I don't have an exact figure," he said.

Expenses may include transportation, food, and hotel accommodations for the players, guests of the University, and the Notre Dame Marching Band, as well as funds for official time spent in Dallas related to the Cotton Bowl. The remaining $1 million will go into the athletic endowment, Beauchamp said. University policy is any

On Sunday, Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns, the public is invited to the annual Christmas Concert. The concert is free and open to children for Christmas. The Semper Fi campaign will give money or toys at Senior Bar and Theodore's today. Toys are invited to assist Amnesty's fight for Human Rights.

Mr. Gameshow is another amazing toy. For the low price of $99.99, you can learn how to play game shows from an animated wisecracking "host," closely resembling Bob Barker. This little plastic guy remembers your name, tells jokes and even manages your money. All you have to do is push a cassette tape in his slot.

And speaking of wisecrackers, Christmas would not be complete without the ridiculous Alf. For a mere $69.99, you can listen Alf say such intelligent phrases as "I'm hungry. Where would you live if you turned the corner of every other building?"

So you thought my request for a baby sister was out of line? Nowadays, I could just go to the store and buy one. "Julie" advertised as "The World's Most Intelligent Talking Doll," selling at $99.99, can talk and even read. But who wants this competition? "She's the friend you need and bright little girl with a gingerbread face. She's everything you could want in a best friend-she's funny, loyal and always ready to turn the neighborhood upside down."

Why even play with the neighbors or make any friends of your own when you can buy one of these, which is an elderly Mrs. Beasley. "At least we were not in a popularity contest and she never talked back when I told her my secrets. Julie's friend, "Jill," selling at $139.99, claims, "I'm a lot like you, my arms move as I speak, my mouth moves, and I look around and even blink." "Thanks Jill, but there's a little more to us than blinking and moving our heads."

Where did Light Bright, G. I. Joe and Shrinky Dinks disappear to? And have you seen Barbie lately? Maybe you didn't recognize her. She's got her own band and they've even cut a record, no joke! Barbie and the Rockers is a scary group dressed in silver and neon jumpsuits featuring Barbie's heavy boyfriend Ken (his hair is as long as Barbie's now) and her little sister Skipper. And you can forget the Barbie Townhouse. She's moved into the Rockin' House Party, it has a Hot Rockin' Stage Set complete with keyboards and T.V. monitors, a Rockin' Pool Party and even a Fun Hut in Tahiti with a talking Parrot. Oh, and she drives a red Ferrari and wears Oscar de la Renta dresses.

And those plastic green army men? They've been overthrown by He-ManMaster of the Universe, Voltron Defender of the Universe and the rest of their barbaric buddies. It's too bad the toy world has gone haywire just when I've grown up. Now that I'm mature, though, my Christmas list is a little more realistic. I no longer want the doll. I'm too tired to skate, and I know I'll never get a baby sister so go ahead, ask me again.

What do you want for Christmas, Katie? "Nothing big this year, just a carerer, at least a $50,000 starting salary and a condo on Michigan Ave." -Katie Kearney, Merry Christmas Everyone.

A hi-tech Christmas makes wacky wishes real

What do you want for Christmas, Katie? "A dolphin, a baby sister and an ice skating rink in the back yard!" was my standard reply from the time I was five to about twelve years old. I still don't know why Santa didn't deliver. I was always a good girl (at least, not naughty near Christmas) and besides, I didn't ask for Flipper. I said a dolphin. And he could live in the skating rink once it melted in the warm weather.

Did you think you were kids today? My requests don't even compare to what's on the market this year.

One of the hottest selling toys this Christmas season is a hi-tech gun that looks like a spaceship and shoots at cartoon characters. Big deal, you say? Right, but these characters shoot back. This is really amazing. Kids can watch the Captain Power television cartoon and fire visible beams of light from their "vehicles" and "scure "hits" and are "hit" back by the cartoon characters. How do they do this? I don't know, I wonder if little kids would find this a bit perplexing? How do the little men get in the television anyway?

ND drug to fight heart attacks

By NATASHA WILSON
Staff Reporter

Researchers from Notre Dame's Lobund Laboratory have developed a new chemical for dissolving blood clots that has been heralded as the new wonder drug for heart attacks.

Tissue plasminogen activator (TPA), an enzyme naturally present in the body, has been tested on the blood clots of seven species of animals as well as those of humans.

"TPA is very important as a rescue agent for people who have developed blood clots in vital organs, such as the heart, lungs, brain and also in the vascular system of the legs," said Morris Pollard, Lobund director.

Pollard said he has spent the last five years developing cells in laboratory rats which are capable of producing a high level of TPA.

The Food and Drug Administration approved two weeks ago a different recombinant type TPA, produced through genetic engineering techniques.

Using recombinant DNA techniques, biologists have cloned the TPA gene to produce the drug in quantity.

This recombinant TPA, made by Genentech Inc., has been deemed by much of the medical community, as the best available treatment for heart attacks due to blood clots.

Such clots, scientists believe, cause 85 percent of heart attacks.

Pollard said he and his research staff have renewed their interest in TPA studied at Notre Dame "because of the possibility that it might provide an alternative to the recombinant type TPA. This (the Lobund TPA) is a natural form of TPA which has along with it other agents that might contribute to the clot dissolving effect."

He said that to his knowledge the Lobund Lab is the sole developer of the natural TPA.

"We are continuing our studies on it (TPA) to determine if it has any toxic side effects, Pollard said." Thus far they have found no evidence of adverse side effects in lab animals, he said. TPA is a unique compound because once injected it attacks only clots and not normal blood compounds, Pollard added.

Dr. V. V. Kakkar, a British authority on blood clotting, visited the Lobund Lab last month to study the TPA. Pollard said Kakkar indicated "some limitations to its usefulness." Kakkar took samples of the TPA to England and is presently testing it in a major blood coagulation center.

Pollard said he expects the British experts to find the limitations and correct them.

Pollard said the Lobund TPA will not be marketed for human use for many years. He explained that all of the past and present experimentation on the agent has been on lab animals.

"If the animal experiments are successful, then we're going to have to go permission (from the FDA) to use it on humans."

"We, in the meantime, have a patent that has been approved by the U.S. patent office for the production of TPA."

Pollard received the patent last May and he promptly assigned it to American Biogenetic Sciences Inc., which has a collaborative biotechnology venture with Notre Dame.

The Saint Mary's Business Administration and Economics department honored four of its faculty members with an informal potluck luncheon in Madeleva Hall Thursday.

Lyne Wright was recognized as the first Saint Mary's graduate to become a professor in the business department. Wright, a South Bend native and 1982 graduate, will teach three accounting classes next semester. "If I believe teaching at Saint Mary's will be a great experience and will allow me to give students a good insight on the transition from college to the business world," Wright said.

"I can provide students with that insight by having gone through it so recently."

"Wright, a certified public accountant, said she believes her Saint Mary's education provided her with an "advantage in the business world" because the issues business women encounter were already addressed in the Saint Mary's classrooms. "Hopefully I can provide my students with that same experience," Wright added.

The department also recognized retiring accounting teacher and CPA, Robert Sanford, who will end his seven year teaching career at the end of the semester. Sanford, a Notre Dame graduate and former cheerleader, was in private practice prior to teaching.

"I was attracted to teaching at Saint Mary's because my wife is a Saint Mary's graduate," Sanford said. "I found the Saint Mary's students to be an interesting and alert group and I enjoyed working with them very much."

Joe Miller and his son Jim Miller, Saint Mary's adjunct professors, were also honored but could not be present at the luncheon. Joe Miller, a leading South Bend tax expert, lawyer, and CPA in South Bend will retire at the end of the semester according to William Shanon, acting chairman of the business and economics.

Joe Kernan, South Bend
democrat mayor, made a brief stop at the luncheon after

A more active role needed from bishops

The informed and informative panel who discussed the Synod on the Laity on Nov. 10, criticized the Synod for dropping all the women's issues. But then the panel undercut their own criticism by buying the Synod's argument that those women's issues were only questions of internal structure and couldn't compare in weight with the great evils in the world crying out for justice. But that particular structural injustice in the Church - treating women as inferiors and implying that it was God's idea - contradicts anything the Church can say to the world about equality and justice. Jesus told us what to do when we recognize in ourselves some evil we are challenging in an institution. The News is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unedited excerpts represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. Corrections and letters to the Editorial Board present the views of their authors. Column space is reserved for members of the ballot community, and the free expression of varying opinion on campus through editors is encouraged.

Julian Pleasants

The panel also asked the bishops for more forming and inspiring of the laity for the lay role in the world, but then let them off the hook by including half the Church from the ecumenical ministry that the laity need for getting them stirred to action. Must the Church face this formidable world half blind, half lame, and with one hand tied behind its back? The Synod didn't have the courage to advise the Pope on this question.

It's time for individual bishops to reclaim some of the freedom, power, and responsibility they have as bishops, rather than merely advise the Pope and then wait for him to decide everything for everybody at once. The laity began reclaiming their own freedom and responsibility as baptized Christians in 1964, when they discovered they were being bound to unity for the sake of not being and obedience for the sake of obedience, not unity and obedience for the sake of a worldly goal which required them.

Pope Paul VI let the cat out of the bag when he announced a papal commission would advise him about possible changes in the previous papal position on birth control. The very fact that he would reconsider the views of previous Popes showed that it was not a question of infallible truth. It was not a teaching at all, but a ruling. Why was he going to consider a new ruling? On June 23, 1964, he told the College of Cardinals: "In a subject of such serious importance, it certainly seems that Catholics want to follow a single law, such as the Church authoritatively proposes, and it therefore seems opportune to recommend that no one should, for the time being, take it upon himself to pronounce in terms differing from the norm in force.

Evidently he was planning to bind everyone to his eventual ruling because it seemed to him that Catholics wanted it that way and therefore it would be right or wrong. American Catholics had news for him: we did not want any binding rulings in an area in which the hierarchy might not know as much as we did. We would like to have the courage to advise the Pope on this question. Other rites within the Roman Church have had married priests. Why couldn't some dioceses have women priests? If at the same time other dioceses did not have wuerten priests, it would at least be clear that it's not because of the Church...something lacking in women. From 50 years of experiencing liturgical innovations here at Notre Dame and nearby Little Flower parish, innovations eventually made official after Vatican II, I'm convinced that the hierarchy secretly hopes some other daring soul(s) will experiment with the new before it is officially permitted. If it fails, the hierarchy still looks good. If it succeeds, the hierarchy will get some concrete results to guide its future directions.

Senator Eugene McCarthy was ND's Senior Class Fellow after he had stuck his neck out on U.S. involvement in Vietnam. He told the class: we expect soldiers, policemen, firemen and doctors. But we never expect a politician to risk his career for us. I'm daring to hope that the hierarchy may possibly take some concrete steps to guide its future directions.
Rainmakers pour it on

Dennis Corrigan, accent writer

Toward the end of last night and brought their straight-ahead rock 'n' roll to a small but energetic audience at the Campus Theatre on the University of Arizona campus. The band's sound was well-crafted and their dedication to their craft was evident. The group kicked off with a rendition of "Tomato of Love" and ended with "Long Gone Long." Drummer Pat Tomek and bassist Rich Ruth provided a solid rhythm section while Steve Phillips sizzled on guitar. The focus of the show was on the interplay between the musicians, each bringing their unique talents to the table.

The rock group The Rainmakers dropped into Stepan Center last night and performed to rave reviews. The band played verses from "Let Me Go-Go" and "Big Fat Blonde." Perhaps the only disappointment of last night's show was that more people didn't see one of the freshest, most powerful acts to hit this campus in some time.

Cotton Bowl sales lower than expected

By PETE GEGEN

The instructions for the Cotton Bowl ticket sale said that no lines were to form before 6:30 a.m. But students, fearing the student allotment of tickets would run out early Thursday morning, arrived at Gate 10 of the Joyce ACC as early as 5 a.m. "We didn't want to take the chance of not getting tickets," said junior Dan Izzo. The funny thing is, there really was no need to rush. Out of Notre Dame's allotment of 13,000 tickets, about 1,000 were sold to students on the first day, according to Ticket Manager Mike Bobinski. Any student who wanted a ticket had no problem buying one.

The sale of tickets for the student section continues today until 5 p.m., and Bobinski said he hopes the number sold to students will double.

Notre Dame's allotment includes all tickets which will be sold to alumni. If tickets are still available after alumni respond, a general sale to students, faculty and the South Bend community will be held Monday.

Early Thursday morning Bobinski said he was concerned about an early sluggish response from the alumni. He said there was a chance that the allotment will not be completely sold by the Cotton Bowl committee's deadline of next Friday. We want as many Notre Dame people there as possible," he said. "Texas A&M will be well represented. They've indicated to me that anything we can't sell, they could sell in two days. And we don't want to eat too many tickets we can't sell at $25 a pop." Approximately 31,000 applications were mailed out to all contributing alumni.

"We may not see the response until Friday or Monday," said Bobinski. "But it's not quite what we expected." He later indicated that Thursday's mail doubled the number of ticket requests from alumni.

Meanwhile Bobinski said he was happy with the strong student response, despite the cold and rain.

Izzo and Mike O'Leary, two juniors from Keenan, arrived at Gate 10 at exactly 4:47 a.m. to claim the first spot in line. They bought six tickets, two for themselves and four for friends. "They said they had all tests today," said Izzo. "They were girls, so we believed them."

Even though the next student did not arrive until 6 a.m., there was a mad dash for the door.

"It was so cold that we waited in the car until the next person came," Izzo said. "As soon as we saw a person coming, we ran to get ahead of them."

They outprinted Amy Wertheimer, a sophomore from Lyons and the second person in line. A free place to stay in Dallas was her motivation for rising out of bed early to buy the tickets for herself and three friends two of whom are sisters who live in Dallas. She also wanted to experience the thrill of standing in line for tickets to the New Year's Day classic.

"It's just like waiting in line for Bob Dylan tickets," says Wertheimer, who apparently was trying to flatter the football team. Several Dallas natives also arrived early, including Dan Janick, a junior from Morrissey. He indicated that the club might sponsor events for students making the trip to Dallas. The details should be announced before students leave the campus after exams.

Spielman takes '87 Lombardi

HOUSTON - Ohio State All-America linebacker Chris Spielman, a finalist for the Lombardi Award in 1986, won the 40 pound granite trophy Thursday night as the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman of 1987.

Spielman, named Tuesday to the Associated Press first team, was the third Ohio State player to win the award, named for the former Green Bay Packers and Washington Redskins coach who died of cancer of 1970.

Ohio State's Jim Stillwagon won the first Lombardi in 1970 and Ohio State tackle John Hicks won it in 1972.

Spielman's personal achievements were somewhat overshadowed this season by the tribulations surrounding the Buckeyes football program, including a 6-4-1 record and the firing of Coach Earle Bruce.

"When I look up and see myself around guys that are going to bowl games, it hurts me deep inside," the 6-foot-2, 234-pound Spielman said. "I'm jealous of them.

Guay boosts Irish hockey

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Just a year ago this weekend, the Notre Dame hockey team hosted Michigan Dearborn, and a freshman wing named Bruce Guay scored a goal for the Irish.

The Irish host Michigan-Dearborn again this weekend, and if things go according to form, Guay has a good chance that's where the similarities end for the Irish hockey team and Guay.

Notre Dame struggled to a 16-19-1 record last year with Guay scoring just seven goals. The Irish already are close to matching last year's win total with an 8-1-2 start, and Guay has doubled his scoring production with a team-leading 13 goals. But Guay is not about to credit himself for the improvement.

"I'm playing with two of the finest back-up guys I've ever had the fortune of playing with in Mike McNeill and Tom Mooney," says the North Smithfield, R.I., native. "It's not necessarily me, it's the whole line as a unit. We play the same aggressive style and we click really well.

And he is not about to take any credit for the team's improvement, even if he has scored more than one-fourth of Notre Dame's goals.

"We are a very talented and we only lost two players from last year," says Guay. "We've come together as a team, we're playing a lot better and the coaching system is a lot better."

Irish coach Rie Schafer acknowledges that the presence of McNeill, Notre Dame's top scorer the past two years, has helped Guay's statistics improve. But he thinks an added dose of confidence also has played a major role.

"Last year he only had seven goals, and now he's already doubled that and he's playing with good linemates in McNeill and Mooney," says the first-year head coach. "He sees he can score, and we always knew he could score."

Guay realizes his confidence has increased, but he connects that to what he thinks is a changed attitude on the team this season.

"With the new coaching system, our line and our team in general has a lot more intensity and desire in the practices and games," Guay says. "We've a lot more serious about the game.

"We wanted to improve our record from last year, which was kind of dismal. Our goal was to turn that around and win a lot of one-goal games and overtime games. Then, we could turn ourselves around and be winners."

Guay has played a big role in turning around the close games, starting with the season-opener against Windsor. Behind 3-1 after two periods, Guay scored two goals in the final period as the Irish won, 5-4, in overtime. The next weekend at Kent State, Guay scored the final goal of the game both nights, one with just 21 seconds left in regulation, as the Irish came away with two ties.

Guay has shown no signs of slowing down. In three games last week at Mercyhurst and Canisius, Guay scored six goals, with one hat trick, to become the ACHA player of the week.

"He's been in the right spots at the right times," says Schafer. "He's taking more shots, and we like him to take a lot of shots. He doesn't have the hardest or most powerful shot on the team, but he is accurate. Sometimes it doesn't have to be a hard shot."

But Guay's improvement has not come entirely on the offensive end.

"He's certainly not a one-way hockey player," Schafer says. "I've talked time and time again about forwards helping out with defense, and he's been very unselfish."

Perhaps the only negative statistic attached to Guay's name this season can be found under the penalty minutes column. His 38 minutes in the box are almost twice as much as any other Irish player.

"A lot of people think 'That's great, you're leading the team in penalty minutes, but that doesn't help the team at all," says Schafer. "I agree. There's nothing you can do in the box, and you get the team in a shorthanded situation. I have to be more patient with myself. At times I get too aggressive and get stuck with a penalty."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. -- The word "intimidation" does not appear to be in LaBradford Smith's vocabulary.

Smith, a freshman guard for the University of Louisville, has been tabbed by Coach Denny Crum to start in Saturday's season-opener against Notre Dame in the Big Four Classic at Indianapolis. Crum has never started a pure freshman in the Cardinal backcourt in his 17 seasons at the helm.

Against Notre Dame, Smith will be matching dribbles with David Rivers, a senior who is considered one of the best guards in the country. And it doesn't get any easier in the next three games as he will face Rex Chapman of Kentucky, Ken "Mouse" McFadden of Cleveland State and Keith Smart of Indiana.

So how about it, LaBradford, are you nervous?

"I'm hoping they look at me like I'm a freshman who has to prove to them that I can play," Smith said. "I'm looking forward to playing with them. It will show me how far along I am and how much I have to work on." He smiles.

"They're all very good players, but they have to prove to me they're all-Americans, just like I have to prove to them that I can play," Crum acknowledged that Smith is the best guard he has, but notes that freshmen are prone to mistakes.

"He'll have his ups and his downs," Crum said. "But he's got the mental toughness to fight through the downs, and the physical ability to give us the kind of guard play we didn't have last year."

Smith's life has been lined with examples of instant excellence in many sports, but his first love has always been basketball.

"For as long as I can remember, my brother has been in love with basketball, working on building his vocabulary."

"I kept a pair of shoes his size in my office in case he changed his mind," said Ron Mills, Bay City's football coach. "I still believe he's the best basketball prospect we've had here, and we've put three of them through the program.""It always told LaBradford he could pick up those shoes any time he wanted to."

Smith didn't. And now he's controlling the Louisville offense, hoping to see the Cardinals pick up more victories than the 18 they had last year.

"Never Nervous" Pervis Ellison, at 6-9, returns to anchor the team at center and big forward. Ellison averaged 15.2 points and 8.7 rebounds per game last year, blocked at least three shots in 17 contests and was a summer standout on Crum's Pan-American squad.

"Pervis Ellison is one of the premier players in the country," Phelps said. "He's one of the five best players in the country because he's so active defensively, he's so active blocking shots and he's so active on the boards."

Tony Kibnro (11.1 points) and Herbert Crook (13.5 points, 8.6 rebounds), both 6-7, also return to the starting lineup and, according to Phelps, will be tough to keep off the boards.

"We've got to improve our shot selection and get on the boards if we're going to win Saturday," Phelps said. "I don't think we have the front line to match up with Louisville."

They're a powerhouse. You look at Len Bias, Perry Wallace, Darrell Griffith every four years, and they're in the Final Four. This is one of those years, and that's the kind of team we're up against."
ND faces first-place Dearborn
By STEVE MEGARGEE Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team can be excused for thinking it is looking in the mirror when it faces its opponent on the JACC ice this weekend.

In the Michigan-Dearborn Wolves, the Irish face a team that has a new coach (24-year-old Tom Anastos) like themselves, is coming off a mediocre season (21-18-2) like themselves and, most importantly, is having a great start (10-1-3) like themselves.

"They're going to be the best team we've played so far. They're on a par with Windsor," said first-year Irish coach Ric Schafer. "They've got a new coach, had a successful recruiting year, and they're a good team in our league, so it's going to be an important series."

Notre Dame and Dearborn will fight for first place in the ACHA in games on Friday and Saturday night at the JACC. Action for both games starts at 7:30.

Dearborn struggled to a 19-18-2 regular season last year but came in on the post-season, defeating the Irish, 6-4, for the ACHA title. The Wolves have carried that momentum into this season, as they lead the ACHA with a 3-4-1 league record and their impressive overall mark.

But the Irish are not far behind. Following a 10-19-1 campaign last year, Notre Dame has turned things around under Schafer with a 9-7-1 record and an 11-4-1 record overall.

Notre Dame has played particularly well recently, riding a seven-game winning streak and a nine-game unbeaten streak. Dearborn also has a nine-game unbeaten string going into this weekend's showdown.

"I suspect they'll be close games," said Schafer. "We need to keep improving our defense. They have proven scorers, so we have to be especially attentive in that regard."

"The Wolves do indeed have an abundance of proven scorers," said Schafer. "We've played good defense. They have proven goalies. We need to get our goaltenders before," said Schafer. "We just have to get a lot of shots. We need to get at least 30 shots off."

"We're going to be the best team in our league, so it's going to be an important series," said Schafer.

Notre Dame has gotten much of its scoring from the front line of Tom Mooney, Mike McNeill and Bruce Guay.

McNeill leads the Irish in points with nine goals and 17 assists, while Guay has a team-leading 15 goals. Sophomore Kevin Markovitz has seven goals and 13 assists, while Mooney has recorded six goals and 13 assists.

"They're going to be the best team in our league, so it's going to be an important series," said Schafer.

INDIANAPOLIS As if Indiana wasn't enough, another national basketball power awaits the Irish.

The Notre Dame basketball team, fresh off a 76-59 loss to the national basketball power Arkansas on Tuesday, continues its first head plunge into the 1987-88 basketball season Saturday afternoon at the Hoosier Dome against Louisville. The game (12:30 p.m., ABC national television) is the first in the Bank One Big Four Doubleheader, Indiana plays Kentucky in the second contest.

"This is a moment for college basketball," Irish head coach Digger Phelps said of the first-year event, which is scheduled for the Hoosier Dome the next four years. "We're very fortunate to have the Hoosier Dome, where we can do something like this. "It can be one of those things like the Final Four, that you can go witness and be a part of. If you're a basketball junkie, this is one of the best shows you'll ever see."

But Phelps is more concerned about the kind of show his Irish are going to put against the 13th-ranked Cardinals, who will be looking to rebound from an un-Louisville-like season.

Senior point guard David Rivers showed why he is considered one of the nation's best with flashes of his wizardry in a 24-point performance against the Hoosiers. But Notre Dame needs more than a one-man gang to compete against the Cardinals. "Keith Robinson has got to be a factor for us on Saturday, both offensively and on the boards," Phelps explained. "We've got to start going to (Gary) Voce inside. We've got to start looking for (Mark) Stevenson. And we've got to see if Sean (Connor) can get open on the weak side."

Denny Crum's Cardinals are in an unfamiliar position coming into this season. Louisville did not receive a bid to the NCAA Tournament for only the second time in 12 years. "It's the biggest games yet," Phelps said.

Tim Brown played the last five games of the season with a slightly dislocated shoulder, Irish head coach Lou Holtz said Thursday. The shoulder still bothers Brown, and will keep him out of the Notre Dame practices the next two weekends.

Brown's dislocated shoulder kept quiet by Holtz and ND

Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz announced Thursday that Tim Brown played the last five weeks of the season with a slightly dislocated shoulder, but should be ready to play in the Cotton Bowl against Texas A&M.

"We didn't want to say much about it for the last two weeks," Holtz said of the injury to Brown's left shoulder. "He suffered a slight separation, but we think he will be much better by the Cotton Bowl."

Holtz said the injury occurred in the sixth game of the season (against USC), but Brown said it was in practice when he first felt it.

Brown slipped on the wet grass around the first down marker and fell directly on the shoulder.

"I think that was the week of the USC game," Brown said.

When it did start to bother Brown was when he re-injured it in the eighth game of the season against Boston College. Brown tackled Ed Duran after Duran picked off a Tony Rice pass in the third quarter, and Brown once again landed on the shoulder.

"It really hurt after that tackle," Brown said.

Brown left the field for a good 10 minutes before returning to the game. "It (the shoulder) still bothered me now," Brown continued. "In the games I just wore a broken ring finger."

The shoulder still bothers Brown enough to keep him out of the two weekend practice sessions the Irish have scheduled before final exam week. Brown said, "I'm not sure how I will be doing the practice regularly until Dec. 31 in Dallas. Brown's hometown."

Brown would be a force to be reckoned with in the 1987 season. Thomas had 35 carries for 214 yards and one touchdown.

Opponent offensive player of the year -Miami's Mike Thomas. He was simply a terror, making a total breakdown dashed the Irish dreams of a national title.

Opponent defensive player of the year -Penn State's Blair Thomas. Pitt's Craig Heyward had the best season of any Irish opponent, but Thomas had the best game of any player against the Irish this year. Thomas had 35 carries for 214 yards and one touchdown.

 Irish MVP-Tim Brown. Not much of a surprise. No player in the country made teams change their game plans like Brown did. Teams wouldn't kick to him and triple-teamed him. They gave up the ball at midfield rather than let Brown beat them. So what if his stats were down? Look at all the company he had whenever he stepped on the field. Because of that alone he deserves the Heisman.

Best player of the year -BMirror's Sping, reverse field kickoff return against Navy. It was one of the best runs of the year, but it was called back by a penalty.

17 tackles registering one sack and recovering a fumble. Zeke Gazdon of Pitt probably had the best year of any Irish defensive opponent.

Irish offensive player of the year -The offensive line of Chuck Lanza, Byron Spruell, Tom Freeman, Tom Behder, Jeff Robinson and Tim Grunhard. When most teams get in trouble, they look to their quarterbacks' arm. Not Notre Dame. It looked to its offensive line. It was directly responsible for beating Purdue and Southern Cal.

Irish defensive player of the year -Ned Bolcar. After waiting his turn for two years, the junior responded by leading the team in tackles with 106. Irish newcomer of the year-Tony Rice. He had the most impact of any newcomer. The Irish changed their offensive style to take advantage of his skill in executing the offense.

Game of the Week -The Irish hockey team is off to its best start since 1986, the first season in the modern hockey era, at 8-1-2. Tonight Notre Dame plays its first game in the American Collegiate Hockey Association. The Wolves lead the ACHA at 3-0-1 and have a 10-1-3 overall record. The Irish are 2-0-2 in conference play. Attendance this year as been way up, and these are the biggest games yet.
