Stock crash not affecting ND on-campus interviews

By ERIC M. BERGAMO
Senior Staff Reporter

Companies recruiting at Notre Dame have not suffered any major effects from last October's stock market crash, according to Kitty Arnold, director of Career and Placement Services.

On campus interviews have not decreased since the crash, said Arnold.

"We've only seen minor changes in the availability of interviews and potentially the availability of job openings," Arnold said. "We have not seen the number of cancellations that one might expect based on how dramatic the stock market changed," she said.

There have been some cancellations, Arnold said, but the companies are not concentrated in any one business sector.

"The cancellations go all over the map," Arnold said, adding "the cancellations that we've seen probably aren't in any large number the result of stock market problems." A cancellation by E.F. Hutton "came as no surprise," Arnold said.

Arnold cited the company's recent purchase by Shearson Lehman Brothers and the layoff of 5,000 employees as reasons for the cancellation.

Career and Placement Services "always has some cancellations every year, regardless of what's going on in the stock market," she said.

Companies estimate what positions they need to fill in the future when setting up campus recruiting sessions, she said.

"They are frequently gauging a year in advance what their employment needs are going to be, so many of the people who scheduled spring recruiting and fall recruiting (estimated their needs) in the spring of 1987," Arnold said.

Normal attrition rates may tell the company how many people they will need to fill those positions, said Arnold.

"I think it's a little closer to the time when they actually do the hiring, it's going to look a little different," she said.

The total number of interviews this year is up 15 percent from last year, Arnold said.

Arnold said she was uncertain if next year's recruiting would be affected by the stock market crash.

The companies will have had six months of "history" after the crash to determine what their jobs needs will be, she said.

Kemp doubtful of Bush, Dole

Associated Press

Rep. Jack Kemp portrayed himself Sunday as a populist and GOP presidential front-runner George Bush and Bob Dole as the "old guard of the Republican Party" while a new poll threw the Democratic race in Iowa up for grabs.

Deocrat Richard Gephardt defended his trade bill against criticism that it was "non-sense" as the seven-year-old Democratic party met in New Hampshire in debate their second in a three-day string.

Kemp complained that Bush and Dole would "definitely be a step back from what Ronald Reagan started in 1980."

"Bush and Dole represent the old guard of the Republican Party," he said on CBS' "Face the Nation," ignoring his own 18 years in Congress.

"I would like to see the Republican Party have a populist as its candidate, not an elitist," Kemp said, adding that the GOP should look beyond the "country clubs . . . and Fortune 500 companies to the minorities and elderly." Gephardt was a prime target at the Democratic debate, reflective of his position in the front tier of candidates in a poll published in Sunday's Des Moines Register.

The Missouri congressman defended his trade proposal to impose automatic sanctions against nations that have trade imbalances with the United States as a result of unfair practices.

"The whole purpose of my trade policy is to move us into a changed situation where we can really break foreign markets open," Gephardt said.

Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. said of the automatic sanctions, "That's nonsense." And former Sen. Gary Hart said it was the "worst old idea I've heard of in this campaign."

The Iowa poll showed Gephardt, Illinois Sen. Paul Simon running a close second to Bush.

Kemp said a similar vote in the Senate "will wreck his campaign." But Gephardt "can't really break foreign markets open," he said.

"The New York Times, the Los Angeles Times, the Hartford Courant, the Chicago Tribune, the Wall Street Journal, and the Los Angeles Times" all published in Sunday's Des Moines Register.

Abandoned girl visited by relative

Associated Press

CHICAGO - A 9-year-old girl whose frostbitten legs were amputated after she was found abandoned and locked in a freezing, filthy apartment got some company Sunday from relatives as she recovered from a second operation.

"She's fine as far as can be expected. Her color has come back. She's really pretty," said Katie Carlisle, the 67-year-old great-grandmother of Darwin Carlisle, the spunky child recovering from post-amputation surgery. "I combed her hair," said Mrs. Carlisle, who raised the child's father, "and put two blue barrettes in her hair to go with her gown."

"She ate well - baked chicken and potato chips - and drank her pop," Mrs. Carlisle said.

The girl underwent a 2-hour operation at Wytler Children's Hospital at the University of Chicago on Saturday to close the wounds left open when her legs were removed below the knees last week.

Mrs. Carlisle said the child's father and other relatives and friends had also visited the child after the surgery and again Sunday.

"The first time she came out of surgery she was crying and she asked me who was going to take care of her and I said I will," said Mrs. Carlisle.

Miss Carlisle was listed in fair but stable condition on Sunday, said hospital spokeswoman Katrina Batts.

The girl was found locked in the freezing bedroom attic of her family's Gary apartment on Jan. 17. Authorities believe she was left there several days earlier by her mother, who has been charged with felony neglect.

"When told that many people have been asking about her, she said, 'Tell them I'm fine,'" said Dr. Victoria Dvorch, the orthopedic surgeon who performed Thursday's amputation and led the operating team again on Saturday.

Miss Carlisle is expected to be transferred to La Rabida Children's Hospital in Chicago at the end of the week but, "right now we're concerned with getting the wounds healed," said hospital spokeswoman Gretchen Flock.

"She should be up on artificial trainer legs to learn how to balance herself in a couple of weeks," the surgeon said.

Officials are not sure with whom Miss Carlisle will live when her stay at La Rabida is completed.

The Child Protective Services Division of the Lake County Department of Public Welfare took custody of her after she was discovered, and final custody will be awarded by a later court hearing.

The girl's mother, Darwin Joann Britt, 24, is in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond and faces three counts of felony neglect and a possible prison term of 60 years. She entered an innocent plea Friday in Lake Superior Court.

"I would like to see the Republican Party have a populist as its candidate, not an elitist," Kemp said, adding that the GOP should look beyond the "country clubs . . . and Fortune 500 companies to the minorities and elderly." Gephardt was a prime target at the Democratic debate, reflective of his position in the front tier of candidates in a poll published in Sunday's Des Moines Register.

Morals are something which can’t be taught

"You can’t legislate morality." - The Observer

"Tell that to the Indiana state legislature. House Bill 1067, passed in committee by a 31-1 vote, states that sex education in Indiana public school must, among other things, “include that abstinence from sexual activity is the only certain way to avoid out of wedlock pregnancy, sexually transmitted diseases, and other associated health problems,” and that they “must teach abstinence from sexual activity outside of marriage as the expected standard for all school age children.” It is technically true that abstinence is the only 100 percent effective method of avoiding sexually transmitted diseases (STD’s) and pregnancy. But other methods, such as latex condoms and spermicides, have an effectiveness rate of “over 99.9 percent.” According to a national toll-free AIDS hotline.

Teaching that abstinence is the only way to be safe is technically correct. But it is misleading. It really isn’t teaching at all - it’s dictating morals.

The proposed law could have been worse. The previous version would have the state teach schoolchildren that the only way to avoid sexual diseases was to avoid sexual activity except in a “faithful monogamous relationship in the context of marriage,” which is flat wrong. The sponsor of this original version said he might not support the new version because it weakened its moral statement. As if the new version isn’t a moral statement.

Anyone who knows teenagers at all will realize that one easy way to get them to do something is to tell them not to do it, preferably in a sound and a manner as severe as possible. Inner city public schools have tried variations on this theme in sex education, only to see teenage pregnancy rates rise alarmingly. Simply telling high school students not to have sex is not best and at worst wrong.

Aside from whether teaching abstinence will reduce teenage pregnancies or STD occurrences, the question arises: “Should the state legislate morality?” Does a state or nation have the right to force the views of the majority on the minority who practice them. Does the state have the right to legislate something, be it sex or seat belts, for “your own good?”

Someday we may be forced by law to vote for the Conservative Party “for our own good.” But at least we won’t have to worry about AIDS.

Even in Indiana. Even in Notre Dame, Indiana. Indiana isn’t the only state to try to legislate its residents into the Catholic Church, though. New Jersey went through a similar debate a few years back, and I’m sure other states are engaged in similar debates with the advent of AIDS.

But even if only a small minority of citizens believe in premarital sex, it isn’t right to force-feed the opposite belief to their children. If premarital sex or homosexuality or other forms of ‘deviant’ sexual behavior are wrong or harmful, they are not hurting anyone other than the people who practice them. Does the state have the right to legislate something, be it sex or seat belts, for “your own good?”

Someday we may be forced by law to vote for the Conservative Party “for our own good.” But at least we won’t have to worry about AIDS.

Former chief of police elected Haitian leader

Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti

The government on Sunday declared political scientist Leslie Manigat the winner of Haiti's presidential election, state-run radio said.

A former police chief under dictator Francois Duvalier was elected mayor of Port-au-Prince, the radio said, quoting results released by the government-appointed Electoral Council.

Opposition leaders said the election run by the ruling junta was a sham, and the U.S. government said it could not be considered "free and fair."

The radio said Manigat garnered 50.3 percent, or 534,080 votes, out of a total 1,061,916 votes cast in the Jan. 17 election, according the Electoral Council results.

The junta led by Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy has promised to turn over power to an elected president on Feb. 7. The three-man junta has ruled this impoverished Caribbean nation since dictator Jean Claude Duvalier fled to exile in France in February 1986.

Reagan to address Union

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's favorite recipe for a State of the Union address:

1. Stir an oratorical stew of optimism, patriotism and nostalgia laced with hyperbole.

2. Sprinkle with legislative proposals, mostly leftovers.

3. Add a dash of spicy rebukes for big-spending Democrats, a dollop of praise for the Nicaraguan Contras and a pinch of scorn for Soviet militarists.

4. Top off with tributes to an American hero or two sitting in the balcony with Nancy Reagan.

5. Heat to bubbling. Serve before a joint session of Congress and a nationwide television audience.

If his six previous speeches are any guide, look for Reagan to stick to his standard formula for a boffo performance when he delivers his seventh State of the Union address Monday night. Once again, in the tradition of presidents past, it's likely to be long on rhetoric and short on substance.

But watch to see if Reagan sweetens the pot with a surprise. The old Hollywood actor hinted as much last week when he told a rally of senior administration officials, "As they say in show biz, let's bring them to their feet with our closing act."

There's an unmistakable Hollywood aroma, in fact, to much of Reagan's past State of the Union oratory.

His early succession of speeches, focusing on restoring the country to economic health, contained robust imagery evocative of the late celluloid cowboy John Wayne. In 1983, he declared that "America is on the mend." In 1981, "America is back, standing tall." In 1986, "America is on the move."

While other presidents have quoted the likes of Tom Paine, Ben Franklin or Alexis de Tocqueville, Reagan summed up his vision of America in 1986 with a line from Steven Spielberg's popular movie, "Back to the Future." In the same speech, he appealed families and communities as "the co-stars of this great American comeback."

Reagan has seen few of his major State of the Union initiatives gain the approval of a contentious Congress.

Police officer shot with own gun despite pleas for life

Associated Press

DALLAS - A man seized a policeman's gun and fatally shot the officer in the face as he pleaded for his life as some spectators yelled "Shoot him," authorities said.

Officer John Chase, 25, who last month switched from an evening to a day shift to spend more time with his bride of three months, was attacked Saturday as he was writing a traffic ticket.

The suspect, Carl Dudley Williams, 34, was shot by duty officers who responded to the call. The men died a few days later at Parkland Memorial Hospital, police said.

A crowd of about 30 people gathered around the officer and his assailant, a homeless man with a history of mental illness, according to police and witnesses.

"The officer was saying, 'Don't shoot me. I'll help you,'" one witness said.

In case of a tie a drawing will be held to determine the winner

"All we know is what the police have told us," the father said.

"This is very unusual. It's not like him." He said his son was gentle but had a history of mental problems. He declined to elaborate or to explain why Williams lived on the streets.

Cryonics offers cold solution to new life

Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — When a cryonics company froze Doris Kent's head last month, it was with the hope that the 83-year-old woman could someday be revived and live in a new body without the disease that plagued her first life.

But while the members of the Alcor Life Extension Foundation cast themselves as visionaries, others consider cryonics the work of mad scientists.

Cryonics is the freezing of the dead in hopes that technology will someday advance to the point that the bodies can be revived - a practice scoffed at by most medical authorities.

On Jan. 7, Alcor President Michael Darwin and five members were handcuffed and taken in for questioning, and the Riverside County coroner demanded to examine Mrs. Kent's severed head.

The physician and Alcor member who signed Mrs. Kent's death certificate, indicating she died from pneumonia, is under review by the University of California Los Angeles School of Medicine. An independent forensic pathologist, a graduate research pathologist, the man who removed the woman's head - a research associate at the medical school - has been put on a paid leave of absence.

Alcor has refused to turn over Mrs. Kent's head, and earlier this month received a temporary court order preventing the coroner from disturbing the frozen remains. A Feb. 1 hearing is set.

Alcor officials say it is the novelty of the field that got them into trouble.

"The law is really behind the times in dealing with it," Alcor attorney Christopher Leanders said.

Coroner Ray Carrillo has found that few if any regulations exist to police cryonics firms.

"It's a big, new, unregulated field," said John Gill, executive officer of the state Cemetery Board, which licenses cemeteries and crematories.

Gill would like to see cryonics firms outlawed, but he added, "Nothing is going to happen from a legislative and regulatory point of view until you have more proven abuses."

There have been abuses. In 1980, authorities, acting on the concerns of relatives, opened a tomb in Chatsworth, where four people were said to be frozen. Instead, they found rotting remains.

"I'm almost certain that we're going to have to do some tightening up of the law," said state Sen. Robert Prestly.

The Riverside County coroner's investigation was sparked because Mrs. Kent's death certificate indicated she died at a residence, later determined to be Alcor's laboratory, without a doctor present.

An autopsy on her headless body was unable to determine the cause of death.

An estimated 14 heads or complete bodies are known to be frozen by U.S. cryonics firms: two bodies are kept by the Cryonics Institute in Oak Park, Mich.; three heads and two bodies at TransTime Inc., in Oakland, Calif.; and one body and six heads at Alcor, which also has a cat and two dogs.

Alcor is the second-largest cryonics group in the nation, with about 250 members, 98 of whom want to be frozen, Darwin said. TransTime claims to be the largest with 102 seeking preservation. The Cryonics Institute has about 60 seeking cryonic treatment upon death.

At Alcor, clients pay $100,000 to have their body frozen, $35,000 for a head. There are also $200 annual dues.

Pictures taken of clients before their deaths, greet visitors at Alcor's two-story lab, in an industrial park 56 miles southeast of Los Angeles. A long-haired man wearing a metal-studded choker and a woman's head - a research associate at the medical school - are among the portraits.

The remains are frozen at 320 degrees below zero. The heads, stored in aluminum canisters, are sealed in a cloth bag and nestled in synthetic wool amid swirling liquid nitrogen.

Soviet enterprises run in red in several ways
Associated Press

MOSCOW - More than one Soviet enterprise in eight lost money last year, and the nation's factories have been slow to innovate, the Communist Party daily Pravda reported Sunday.

The report on the nation's performance in meeting economic goals set by the party and the government showed many sectors were struggling under sweeping reforms introduced by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

A "great number" of enterprises that were free to negotiate contracts under the economic reforms did not meet commitments, the report said. It was issued by the State Committee for Statistics and published in Pravda.

Last year about 13 percent of the country's factories and economic enterprises ran in the red, and economic organizations did not meet goals for high-quality production, the report said.

"On the whole, they failed to capitalize on the advantages of the new mechanism of management," the report said. It said supplying factories and enterprises with materials continued to be a "sore point."

Royal couple fly to join Australian bicentennial
Associated Press

LONDON - The Prince and Princess of Wales flew to Australia on Saturday to join the country's 200th birthday celebrations.

Prince Charles, the 39-year-old heir to the throne, and his wife Diana, 26, will spend 10 days in Australia. Upon arrival in Sydney, they will present Britain's bicentenary gift - the square-cogged ship Young Endeavour.

Their visit is the first of three royal tours in the bicentennial year. Australia is a member of the British Commonwealth.

In May, Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, will attend the opening of the Australian Parliament, and in early autumn the Duke and Duchess of York will visit.

In addition to their luggage, the two van loads of it - Prince Charles and Princess Diana took with them "The Ashes," the treasured cricket trophy for which England and Australia have been competing more than 100 years.

The urn is traditionally never allowed out of Britain, even when Australia wins the series. But in honor of the bicentennial, the trophy will be put on display during the bicentennial test match.

145 nations gather for world AIDS summit
Associated Press

LONDON - Health officials from 145 countries are gathering in London this week for a world AIDS summit at which they will plan a global assault on the deadly epidemic.

The three-day conference, which opens Tuesday, will be the largest meeting of government ministers ever held on a single health problem, according to the World Health Organization.

The U.N. agency, based in Geneva, and the British government are co-sponsoring the event.

"The conference, we believe, is going to mark another critical turning point in the global mobilization against AIDS," Dr. Jonathan Mann, the American director of WHO's Special Program on AIDS, said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Health ministers from 131 countries and government advisers from 14 others have registered for the World Summit of Ministers of Health on Programs for AIDS prevention.

Princess Anne, the daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, will deliver the opening speech. Attending from the United States will be Surgeon General Everett Koop, Dr. Robert W wield, the No. 2 official at the Department of Health and Human Services; Dr. Gary Noble, deputy director of the Atlanta-based Centers for Disease Control in charge of AIDS activity; and Dr. Peter Fiebiginger, AIDS coordinator for the Public Health Service.

Unlike conferences involving medical experts working on vaccines and treatments for AIDS, this summit deals mainly with government efforts to control the spread of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

It states aims are:
- To present WHO guidelines for AIDS prevention and control and consider how they can be used as part of a global strategy.
- To provide an update on the global AIDS situation, including its social and economic impact.
- To review national policies for slowing the spread of AIDS, with emphasis on public education campaigns.

Since AIDS was first identified in 1981, the disease has spread throughout the world, with the number of reported cases doubling roughly each year.

WHO has recorded 75,392 AIDS cases in 130 countries by Jan. 12, but the organization estimates the actual worldwide toll is twice that because many cases are not reported.

The United States leads the world with 51,361 confirmed cases of AIDS as of Jan. 4. Of that number, 28,683 people have died.

AIDS destroys the body's natural immunity to disease, leaving victims defenseless against a variety of infections and cancers. It is fatal, and there is no known vaccine or cure.

AIDS is most often spread through sexual contact. Other known means of transmission include transfusions of contaminated blood and blood products and sharing of contaminated needles by drug abusers. The disease can also be passed from pregnant mothers to their unborn children.
Debate on the homeless ignores causes

At the start of the 80's, a terrible "new" problem showed up on the TV screen of America: a just-discovered mass of people called "homeless." People of good conscience everywhere wondered where this group had suddenly appeared, who they were (and how they got that way), and what could be done to solve the problem. To this day, a big question mark remains in the minds of most American citizens regarding the homeless population, while the imperative to "do something" seemingly becomes greater every day. Clouds of misinformation spewed out by self-styled homeless advocates have merely added to the confusion. We are flippantly told that the size of population ranges "oh, between 2 or 3 million or so" and that all of the homeless people themselves are: "just like you and me."

Such "truth" fails to confront the truth about homelessness (for various reasons, not just ignorance) while we sit with a national travesty on our hands.

Glenn Fogarty
the american vision

So who, then, are the homeless, and how many are there? University researchers, guided by policemen, social workers and local homeless people, have searched through the nation's major cities for the past several years. Most of these empirical studies have placed the number of homeless between 250,000 and 350,000. The National Institute of Mental Health studies in different sections of the U.S. have consistently determined that fully one-third (over 100,000) of the homeless are severely mentally ill. Another third suffers from alcohol and drug-related problems, and a sizeable group is composed of disturbed veterans. The common denominator of the homeless population seems to be a varying degree of mental illness.

The average American asks "But if they're 'crazy' why are they being left alone?" If a my friend's, a story well worth remembering. In 1965, the population of public institutions peaked at an all-time high at 599,000. Thirty years later, after thousands of evictions and denied admissions, the mental hospital population stood at 146,000. Something obviously happened.

Through a combination of intellectual quackery, both professional and political, and the "best of" intentions, the deinstitutionalization movement was born 30 years ago. With the advent of psychoactive drugs like Thorazine, many psychiatrists believed that the insane could be rendered docile enough for release (with occasional treatment at "community centers") into society. The patients would then improve radically simply because of the social stimulation they would find on the outside, in contrast with the bleak routine of life inside the hospitals. Popular at the time as well were the views of crackpot psychiatrists like R.D. Laing, who claimed that insanity was merely a rational response to an irrational society.

"Enter the Civil Libertarians." The liberal American Civil Liberties Union and its ideological bedfellows soon launched an attack upon the idea of deinstitutionalization as a whole, claiming that it interfered with the rights of people whom "no one" had the slightest right to deem "mentally incompetent." Thus they forced a Supreme Court decision that changed involuntary commitment, mental health procedures from decisions based upon professional judgment to court room escapades examining a person's "potential for imminent criminality." Unlike the liberal insistence on easy discharge and quick parole for the insane, this policy totally unpriortized the patients who could find on the outside such huge numbers.

Despite liberal insistence on easy sentences and quick parole for criminals, which makes society the victim, it is not the people (staffed not by psychiatrists, but mainly social workers) totally unprepared with deviants who have found on the outside such huge numbers.

Today, the liberal insistence on easy sentences and quick parole for criminals, which makes society the victim, is not the people (staffed not by psychiatrists, but mainly social workers) totally unprepared with deviants who have found on the outside such huge numbers.

"The very nature of the present homeless population dictates a need for more than simply some bed and a roof. Liberal social policy ignores such complications.

One result of the homeless state hospitals for those who can't live uninstiutionalized, and vigorous community outreach programs for the few who can live independently (and take their medicine) to do. As to charges that hospitals only offer inhume treatment, no problem. A patient has no excuse for such a situation, even if resources aren't up to par, as it is patient and methods that are to blame. The funds for such a system are readily available from the federal government.

Is any resolution of the problem of the mentally ill homeless on the horizon? Not really. Congress' recent homeless bill provides little if any beneficial measures for the root causes of so much of the homelessness (the mental illness and substance abuse). The problems will ultimately remain intact, thanks to ignorance and misguided ideas in Congress and the nation. Much of the blame rests on the "homeless advocates," a well-meaning lot who more often than not place political agendas ahead of any pressing concern for the real homeless. According to scholar Myron Magnet, "the advocates have shaped the national perception of the homelessness along with the nascent agenda for addressing it. But their picture obscures more than it illuminates." With their insistence that all of the homeless are "just like you and me," they paint a Grape of Wrath paradigm of depression traceable to one figure, the Eternal Father who the Republican Party could sell. Reagan's All-purpose radical activists like Mitch Snyder attempt to connect the present-day "new cold war" in Nicaragua, the "new" cold war, the American way of life, and any number of other scapegoats. Sadly ironic is their insistence that Reagan's "cure" in social spending have "caused the entire problem, as if it never existed before 1981. Reagan's budget in real terms have in fact doubled the amount of social spending since the height of the Great Society in the mid 60's. Peter Rossi, a University of Massachusetts sociologist whose census of the Chicago homeless was published in leading scientific journals, says "The advocates want you to say 'there for the grace of God go I.'" Meanwhile the real homeless are out freezing, or festering in shelters with their mental illnesses and self-enervating habits still very much intact.

There is no comprehensive and effective social policy stress self improvement in order that the individual, if possible, can assume a normal role in society; they should merely institutionalize the problem. Ignoring such complications, understanding the problems of the individual is key, rather than lumping him into one category. Understanding the nature of the present homeless population dictates a need for more than simply some beds and a roof. Liberal social policy ignores such complications. Weakly attacking the symptoms while leaving the root of the problem unscathed. Without ignoring basic human attributes, it can not create more problems than it solves. Consequently, the problem is merely sustained while money is poured down a black hole. A humane society cares for those who have no resources and no desire of themselves. Effective help for the homeless (especially for the mentally ill), a picture of one large segment of the group), is help that is well-intentioned but more importantly, well-coordinated. The Romans pull its weight

The Romans really pull their weight during a live performance. In their pre-tour, Friday engagement at the acoustically imperfect Stepan Center, the band overcame a subdued crowd and poor sound quality, provided by the facility's dour roof, to give a clinic on performing live.

After a forty-five minute set from special guests Frank Allison and the Odd Sox, the Romans blasted out 20 songs in an hour and a half, including five new tunes from their yet to be released album, and, of course, their classics "What I Like About You," "Go Back in," and "Talking in Your Sleep." Drummer David Petratos, the lead vocalist Coz Canler's background harmonies. Skillfully, the Romans brought to life what the fans know, as if they could have done it better.

Through a quality musical performance, accented acoustically by the lack of an appropriate facility, and a sincere portrayal of a rock musician, the Romans are one of the best bands to come out of South Florida's Skyler in 1965, handled the lead voic spot on the remaining tunes. The crowd missed a beat, pounding out the time on his 28-inch bass drum with relentless fervor throughout the evening. Petratos is the partial product of drum mentor Gene Thaler, who has helped to guide such drumming greats as Steve Hyl of Shadowfax and Mac Weinberg of the E Street Band. Petratos' style and experience, as well as that of the entire outfit, was more than evident throughout the evening at Stepan.

With any luck, Allison, and the Sox, will get well deserved exposure via their single, "The Rodent of Love and its B Side "Some Odd Girl." Unfortunately, this single is available only by mail, so as a special favor to Frank, write: Frank Allison and the Odd Sox, P.O. Box 7776/Ann Arbor, MI 48117. Good luck to Frank and his Sox (Da Becker guitar, John Boyle bass, Nathan Logus drums).

Both the evening's acts, the Romans and Frank Allison, fit the criteria needed to be fitted for the success of a live performance. Without a harmonious coexistence between the ideals of musicianship and all the elements which create a specific mind set on stage, live performances are most deceiving. Still, seeing, and hearing, is believing.
Delco to offer car DAT players

Associated Press

WARREN, Mich. — There will be few, if any, tapes to play on them, but Delco Electronics Corp. has a prototype digital audio tape players for some General Motors Corp. vehicles by the end of the year, said John B. Wholihan, Delco Electronics' general marketing director.

Delco, GM's digital audio tape systems, or DATs, offer virtually perfect sound reproduction because like CDs, or compact disc systems, the music they play is translated into digital signals — an inaudible to the ear sound wave is recorded.

"DAT is the next step in playing music in the car," said Wholihan, "And we want to be one of the first to offer it and develop it." John B. Wholihan, Delco Electronics' general marketing director.

DATs are designed to offer car passengers high quality of CD sound reproduction by playing through small car-sized audio players. The DATs will provide the best possible music experience and the smallest possible size. Delco has already completed a prototype of a DAT system and has developed an in-car test program to assess the system's performance.

Delco announced Wednesday that it will offer optional radio systems that include CD players after March 1 and will follow with a DAT system probably by summer. Prices have not been set, said W. Don Helm, Delco's audio systems director.

Delco showed prototypes of its CD and DAT player systems at a three-day "Technology in Motion" show at GM's Tech Center in Warren.

The CD system will be offered on 30 GM models and the DAT system initially on selected GM cars. But both will fit any car equipped with a recent Delco radio system, said Deb Morgan, one of many Delco employees in charge of ordering, dealing with suppliers, and general maintenance.

"We're in charge of personnel and all of Sarge's banking. Our duties include booking employees, scheduling the workers. Our head manager, is in charge of Sarge's finance and accounting. He oversees all aspects of managing the business and accounts—the books and the payroll. Every month Bower must submit a balance sheet and income statement to Walsh. Both Bower and Schnur are amazed at the success of Sarge's. Although they say they are not sure if it's because they have done a lot of things, or just because they have the right people on the job."

Creativity and entrepreneurship found at Grace foodsales

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series examining the business of dorm food sales.

Since Chuck Bower and Mark Schnur began managing General Motors Corp. dorms in 1984, yearly sales have increased about 20 percent.

"Sales increased by 20 percent in the first year alone," said Bower.

Bower credits the overall success of Grace's foodsales, named Sarge after a short, shifty, retired head maid that Grace residents nicknamed "Sarge," is due largely to Bowers and Schnur's marketing efforts and efficiency.

"Sarge" is run by three student managers: Charles Bower (Head Manager), Mark Schnur (Inventory Manager) and Paul Waguespack (Personnel Manager).

"Sarge" is personified by a large cardboard cutout of a woman, dressed in a white apron, a bright yellow hat, and a gold name tag that reads "Sarge." People walk into the store and say "Hi Sarge," and the cardboard woman nods her head and smiles.

Waguespack (Personnel Manager) and Paul Waguespack (Personnel Manager), are the mainstays of "Sarge," and Schnur's marketing efforts and general management. Waguespack is in charge of ordering, dealing with suppliers, and general maintenance. Bower and Schnur are amazed at the success of Sarge's. Although they say they are not sure if it's because they have done a lot of things, or just because they have the right people on the job.

Floyd saw Kodak enter the $1 billion photographic market with its $1.5 billion purchase of Sterling Drug Inc. The $65 per share offer easily surpassed previous bids by Hoffman La Roche & Co. Kodak will be taking advantage of the American photographic industry's profitability, boosted recently by a weak dollar and the quicker approval of new products. The loss of its instamatic camera line does not seem to be slowing the giant.

Columnist Carol Kleinman recently wrote about a study of the the Peace Corps Dr. Joseph O'Donoghue. He has followed the careers of 1000 Peace Corps alumni, and found that they tend to rise above their peers in careers after four years of tour of duty in the Corps. The salaries of Peace Corps alumni are 23.5 percent higher in education, 10.6 percent higher in government and a whopping 46.1 percent higher in health service. The rest, including business professions, earned an incredible 68.56 percent higher than the average.

Does this mean that joining the Peace Corps will build one into a super worker? Unfortunately, Dr. O'Donoghue overlooked the obvious fact that those who have the motivation to spend a year or two in a third world country helping the poor will be as motivated in their careers, and will be more than willing to make the necessary sacrifices. The Peace Corps more than likely gives these people an opportunity to prove oneself. But if that is an obvious fact to us, it will be an obvious fact to employers when searching through resumes.

Another instance of Spuds Mackenzie burning occurred over the holiday season. As part of a their holiday promotion, the Anheuser-Busch had Spuds dressed as Santa Claus suit on Bud Light twelve-pack cases. The State of Ohio, however, banned the sales of these festive cases of beer. According to an obscure Ohio law, Santa Claus may not be used to promote alcoholic beverages.

McCann not satisfied with closedout, as wrestlers fall to Clarion State

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Notre Dame wrestling coach Frank McCann wasn’t about to be satisfied with coming close.

Two years ago, the Irish had faced Clarion, a nationally-ranked wrestling school, and had been blown out 32-8. In last Friday’s rematch at the JACC Pit, Clarion won by a single point, 20-19. But that was small consolation for the fourth-year Irish coach.

“What’s the difference between one and 24?” said McCann. “We are a better Irish coach.”

But in the turning point of the dual match, Clarion sophomore Brian Burk defeated Irish freshman Todd Layton 6-5 in the 130-pound competition. Following Clarion’s win, Irish senior Ron Wisniewski, gave the Irish an early 11-4 lead.

Andatfirst, itlookedlikenotre Dame (4-2) was ready to add another number to Clarion’s loss column. Major decisions by 118-pound sophomore Andy Radenbaugh and 134-pound junior Jerry Durso, and a win by 142-pound senior Ron Wisniewski, gave the Irish an early 11-4 lead.

“We are a better Irish coach,” said McCann. “We had to win 190. That hurt us. There’s no way he (Layton) should have lost that match. He just didn’t look real good; his concentration was nil. If he had won that match, we would have won.”

N ow, both years ago, the Irish had faced Clarion, a nationally-ranked wrestling school, and had been blown out 32-8. In last Friday’s rematch at the JACC Pit, Clarion won by a single point, 20-19. But that was small consolation for the fourth-year Irish coach.

“My big concern is the future,” said McCann. “It’s not about this one - the one we’re expecting to win.

Inde­

viduals had to realize they have to get better in every match. We have to get fouled.”

They Irish, though, showed the patience of Job. They had trailed from the opening tip off, but in the fourth quarter, they outscored the Jayhawks 25-16, giving them a 19-point lead.

“We still didn’t panic, and we didn’t lose our poise,” Phelps said. “We didn’t want to call time outs, but we did.”

The Irish went ahead for good at 74-72 with 31 seconds to play, but Kansas took off on a 16-4 run, capped by a Gary Voe three-pointer. Voe hit 71 percent from the field, but Kansas hit 61-62 with 8:04 left. From there on it was give and take, with the score tied four times and the last seven minutes.

Johnson collected 24 first-place votes, 22 seconds and 20 thirds.

“We’ve got four walk-on’s on our lineup, and that makes it tough,” said McCann.

“Whoever’s the best man should win that award,” said McCoy. "There’s a reason why they’re starting. We have to win that award, because we’ve been to the Final Four, and a lot of people have been to the Final Four.”

Major decisions by 118-pound freshman Mark Gerardti and 177-pound junior Chris Geneser gave Notre Dame a 12-lead with two matches left. But as fate would have it, the match ended with the strongest part of Clarion’s lineup going against the weakest part of Notre Dame’s lineup.

STUDENT UNION BOARD

S.U.B. is seeking fun, dedicated, enthusiastic, and creative people who would like to provide Notre Dame students with beneficial services and wild and crazy social activities. We are now accepting applications for commissioner positions for the 1988-89 school year.

CAMPUS ENTERTAINMENT COMMISSION: Did you see Hypnotist Gary Conrad or Larry ‘Bud’ Melman, Rita Rudner, and Emo Phillips in the AT & T Comedy tour? These were sponsored by the Campus Entertainment Commission which also sponsors “We Can Make You Laugh,” Nightclub Nights at Theodore’s, trips to Chicago, and various social events.

SPECIAL EVENTS COMMISSION: What about An Tostal? Who are the people in charge of that? The Special Events Commission sponsors this along with other week-long events such as Welcome Week, Multi-Cultural Fall Festival, and Winterfest.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT COMMISSION: What did you like about THE ROMANTICS? This concert was brought to you by the Musical Entertainment Commission as were concerts by IPSO FACTO, PIECES OF A DREAM, TRIP SHAKESPEARE, and PAR 3. This commission is also responsible for the NAZZ competition, campus band jams, and lip sync contests.

IDEAS AND ISSUES COMMISSION: This commission sponsors lectures on campus by national speakers such as John Kenneth Galbraith, George Plimpton, and Shirley Chisholm. They are also involved in planning debates and panel discussion.

MOVIE COMMISSION: You can always count on being able to go to see a movie at Cushing Auditorium. The Movie Commission’s is responsible for the popular new and classic movies shown weekly on campus.

CULTURAL ARTS COMMISSION: Remember the ODG San Francisco Dance Company and the Alpha-Omega Players’ performance of BAREFOOT IN THE PARK? The Cultural Arts Commission is responsible for these performances as well as the SOPHOMORE LITERARY FESTIVAL, THE COLLEGIATE JAZZ FESTIVAL, A STUDENT PLAYERS’ PRODUCTION, and trips to Chicago and the Morris Civic Auditorium to see theatrical productions.

SERVICES COMMISSION: Are you headed to South Padre or Vail for Spring Break? These trips are brought to you by the Services Commission. They also provide valuable services like STEPLAN MALL, the USED BOOK SALE, and refrigerator rentals.

PUBLICITY COMMISSION: Somebody has to make sure everyone knows about all these great events. This commission coordinates all the advertising such as Observer and Scholastic ads, posters, table tents, and other methods to “get the word out” about S.U.B. activities.

BUSINESS AUDITOR: If you’re a business major, this may be the position for you. The Auditor maintains the books and keeps the financial statements for the S.U.B. student-run businesses such as ADWORKS, IRISH GARDENS, and THE CELLAR.

CONTROLLER: You also need to be a business major for this position. The Controller keeps track of all financial matters and monitors spending of all the commissions.

BOARD MANAGER: Be “head-honcho.” Organize and oversee the activities of all commissions.

Applications for these positions are available in the secretary’s office, second floor LaFortune, and are due on Feb. 1. Interviews will be held the next week. Stop by the S.U.B. office on the 2nd floor of LaFortune or call 239-7757 for more info.

Michigan thumps Hoosiers

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON Michigan Coach Bill Frieder knows Bob Knight built a reputation with tough defense, so he knew he had to find a special advantage. We changed all of our offense. Frieder said Sunday after his seventh-ranked Wolverines beat Knight's Indiana squad, and stopped the Hoosiers' home winning streak at 28 games, the second-longest in the nation behind Kansas' 55 games.

"When Bobby has a week to prepare, you know he's going to know all of your plays by name. So we changed our entire offense. That's hard to do in one or two days," Frieder said.

Rumal Robinson scored Michigan's first 11 points of the second half, keying the rally that lifted the Wolverines to their 14th victory in 16 games and their fifth Big Ten win. "We've got to bear down and play defense," said Temple Coach John Chaney, whose team fell to 14-1.

"They're a big play team and they got the big plays today," said Temple Coach John Chaney. "We changed all of our offense," Coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "When Bobby has a week to prepare, you know he's going to know all of your plays by name. So we changed our entire offense. That's hard to do in one or two days," Frieder said.

Indiana, the defending national champions, dropped to 9- and the top-ranked Wildcats, who had their 18th win in 19 games. "It's hard to do that's hard to do in one or two days," Frieder said.

Arizona 86, UCLA 74

Second Elliott scored 27 points and the top-ranked Wildcats withstood a late UCLA rally to post their 18th win in 19 games. UCLA, which trailed 56-41 early in the second half, rallied to take a 64-64 lead. But the Wildcats outscored the Bruins 59-58. Reserve Anthony Todd hit a 10-foot jumper with two seconds left to cap the comeback.

"It's just a miracle for us to win this game," UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "With seven minutes to play, our defense was up a notch higher. We got into total denial." Brothers Keith and Karl James each hit 3-pointers for UNLV during the late rally. "They're a big play team and they got the big plays today," said Temple Coach John Chaney. ND tennis team starts strong, shuts out Broncos in opener

By TIM SULLIVAN

First year coach Bob Bayliss didn't know quite what to expect, as his men's tennis team entered its first match of the season.

They had a successful fall season under recently retired head coach Tom Pashen, but that was three months and one head coach ago.

Many of Bayliss's questions were answered Saturday at the ECK Tennis Pavilion, where he saw his Irish handily defeat Western Michigan 9-0.

"I thought we were a better team going in," said Bayliss. "But I really didn't know. I haven't been through the cycle yet. It'll take me most of this year to learn about the teams we play."

Bryan Kalbas didn't skip a beat in his first match of the season, downing Western's Karl Krauter 6-2, 7-6. The junior, who played number one throughout the fall, has only confirmed his reputation as the Irish's best player with Bayliss.

"He's earned that spot," said Bayliss. "He hasn't lost a challenge match yet. He's an excellent player."

A pair of seniors were the keys to the shutout for Notre Dame. Sean O'Brien, who "hasn't played a whole lot of singles," and Paul Daggs, who was hurt by the flu, each came up with big performances to seal the victory.

Belles take 2nd in tournament

The Saint Mary's basketball team placed second this weekend in a four-team tournament held at Athlectic Facility. The Belles' record now stands at 6-6.

Other teams in the competition were Cedarville, Marian and University of Michigan.

In the first game, Saint Mary's, played Cedarville. The Belles got into foul trouble early, but took a 7-0 lead. Cedarville rallied to tie the game with a score of 14-14. The score remained close throughout the first half, but then Cedarville pulled ahead for a 28-26 lead.

The second half resembled the first with neither team gaining a significant lead. Saint Mary's obtained control with six minutes remaining and dominated the tempo for the rest of the game for a 58-49 victory.

Tammy Radke led Saint Mary's with 18 points. In the championship game, against Marian College, the Belles ran into trouble from the start. Marian built a 12-8 lead early in the game, but the Belles were able to close it within one at 18-17. Saint Mary's, however, was unable to keep up with the quick pace and Marian rallied to take a 19 lead at the half.

Saint Mary's created trouble for themselves by only shooting 9-for-41 in the first half. In the second half, Marian continued to stretch their lead until Saint Mary's changed to a full-count, man to man press and rallied to bring the score to 57-54 with two minutes remaining. The Belles were unable to beat the clock, however, and were unable to rally until 69-59.

Once again, Tammy Radke was the leading scorer with 29 points, followed by her sister Julie with 12.

"The girls played defense extremely well but we need to improve on our shooting percentage," said Wood. "We came back strong but couldn't get over the hill to win it.

Irish upset 16th-ranked Jayhawks 80-76
ND gamble contains KU

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame picked up the dice Saturday against 16th-ranked Kansas, rolled them, and came up with sevens. By playing a sagging zone defense around the Jayhawks Danny Manning, the Irish gambled that the other Kansas players wouldn’t be able to hit from outside consistently. The gamble paid off in an 80-76 upset.

Manning scored 22 points, but took only 13 shots and made nine. His team couldn’t pick up the slack. Chris Piper, normally a 60 percent shooter from the floor hit on only two of eight attempts.

“To hold Manning to 13 shots was a great job by Gary Vooce, Scott Paddock and Mark Stevensson,” said Irish head coach Digger Phelps. “We knew the things we had to do to beat Kansas. Manning is best working from half court, and we did a great job holding him to a few shots.”

And while Kansas couldn’t get the ball to Manning, the Irish made sure that David Rivers had it in crunchtime. Rivers simply took the game over when it was on the line. He scored a game-high 29 points, including six straight free throws in the final minute of the game to ice it. For the game, he shot a near-perfect 14-of-15, as he penetrated the lane and looked to kick the ball out or find a way to score.

“I don’t see myself missing a free throw,” Rivers, who has made 99-of-116 free throws this season, said. “Digger helped me on the free throw line and looked to kick the ball out to open people up or find a way to score.”

The words were shocking, but they seemed to work.

“You’re better than Danny Manning,” Keith Robinson’s former high school coach Art Sertone told the 6-9 Robinson before Notre Dame’s 80-76 upset of 16th-ranked Kansas on Saturday.

Robinson scored 10 points, grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds and made a crucial steal in the final minute of what Irish coach Digger Phelps agreed was the sophomore’s best game for Notre Dame.

“I told him that I didn’t come 500 miles to see him lose,” said Sertone, who drove into South Bend from Buffalo, where he coached Robinson at Grover Cleveland High School. Robinson’s father and 15-year-old brother also made the trip.

“I told him that I thought he was better than Danny Manning,” Sertone added. “From what I saw today, he’ll be above and beyond (Manning). He can do everything, and his attitude is fantastic.”

Manning, who averages more than 30 points a game and is considered by many the favorite for Player of the Year honors, notched 22 points for the Jayhawks on Saturday. And although Sertone’s comparison might be a bit premature, Robinson showed a sold-out crowd at the Joyce ACC and a national television audience that he can play.

ND sweeps Bison, despite subpar play

By PETE SIKKO

The Notre Dame hockey team raised its record to an impressive 17-2-2 after a weekend sweep of North Dakota State this past weekend at the JACC.

But the play of the Irish was somewhat less than impressive against the Bison, a club team which has won the national club hockey championship three years in a row. Irish head coach Ric Schafer knows that his squad must pick up its level of play for its next two series against Kent State and Air Force.

“I would say we played pretty average,” said Schafer, in his debut season as the Irish mentor. “I’d give our effort about a C or a B-. It’s tough because I saw the guys play about as good as I think they can last weekend at Army and anything less than that appears to be a letdown to me. But I can’t expect that kind of intensity every time we take the ice.”

Amazingly, Notre Dame won Friday night’s contest only 6-3 while outshooting the Bison 57-20. Although the Irish came away with the win, Schafer was concerned about the shooting inaccuracy.

“You could say we kept the pressure on,” said Schafer, “but we really were not accurate at all. I mean, their goalie
