Police in South Bend work to improve relations

By ERIC M. BERGAMO

The Judicial Council received a report Wednesday night on a meeting between members of the Student Rights Committee and representatives of the South Bend Police Department, Notre Dame Security and the Office of Student Affairs.

"We wanted to develop some sort of plan to better our relations between the local law enforcement agencies and the students," Student Rights Committee Chairman Artie Nagy said of the meeting.

The meeting, held Jan. 23, was attended by South Bend Police Chief Charles Hurley, St. Joseph County Sheriff Joseph Nagy, Notre Dame Director of Security Rex Rakow and Assistant Director Phillip Bellard and administration officials Dr. John Goldrick, Anne Firth and Elizabeth Pavlicki, said Nagy.

Feles said that relations between students and the South Bend Police have been strained in the past, but have improved recently.

The committee brought up questions about the rights of members of the Pledge for Resistance group, which are also "trying to challenge the motives and influence the Congress," Kourtesis said.

The FBI investigated groups opposed to U.S. involvement in Central America and is investigating "alleged criminal activity in South America," Smith said.

The FBI began its investigation in South America, Smith said, after the Contras were granted refugee status in the United States. The FBI is also investigating "threats of some groups to better our relations with the FBI and has a lot to do with their attempt to improve relations in South America," Smith said.

The FBI's field offices found no evidence to back up that claim, she said, so the focus of the investigation was turned to "foreign intelligence-terrorism" inquiry even though no basis for such existed.

"The new category allowed the FBI to utilize special techniques that are considered illegal when applied to domestic investigations," she said.

The big thaw

Partly sunny and warmer today with a high of 25. Low tonight 20. Tomorrow's high temperature is expected to soar to 45.

The Observer

The independent newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

ACCENT: Keenan Revue jokes not funny

VIEWPOINT: Weight jokes not funny

By CATIE KARNEY

Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

In an attempt to increase public awareness of United States involvement with Contra aid in Nicaragua, Peter Smith, a Saint Mary's associate professor of philosophy, is fasting from Jan. 25 to Feb. 3.

Smith said he and about 25 other members of the Pledge for Resistance group are also "trying to challenge people to write and call their congressmen and say they are against any aid to the contras."

According to Smith, the fast is in solidarity with the Vietnam veterans who are fasting on the Capitol steps in Washington, D.C. with the goal of influencing Congress' Feb. 3 vote against continuing aid to the contras.

He said the group is fasting "to express the depth of our concern for the atrocities being committed against the Nicaraguan people with our weapons." Smith is allowing himself only water for this week, but he said he does not believe it will interfere with his teaching ability.

"I've been O.K. so far," Smith said. "The mornings are fine, but I got tired by the afternoon. Most of my classes are in the mornings and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday," he added, "so I think I will be alright." Smith and four other members of the Pledge for Resistance group recently pleaded not guilty to criminal trespassing charges in connection with the Dec. 24 sit-in at the office of Third District Congressman John Hiler office to protest U.S. support of the Contra Rebels in Nicaragua. They are presently awaiting a court date to be set.

Smith, a long time peace activist, has been arrested twice before in similar situations. He also is responsible for the three crosses on U.S. 31, just south of the Saint Mary's entrance.

Smith said the middle cross is there to "call people's attention to the situation in South America," and is inscribed "Pray for peace, work for justice." The other two crosses stand for Nicaragua and El Salvador, which Smith said he believes are the "two countries our money is causing the most problems for."
Beware of becoming a human hood ornament

You car dodgers are a nutty lot. You dash across ice-covered streets, dodging traffic, in the dark, against the stop light, in a snow storm.
You all are taking one heck of a chance. After all, there are lot of drivers out there like myself — unused to driving on ice blocks.

Some of us, for example, are from sunny Florida. Down there snow rarely, if ever, covers the road. The only thing slippery on the street are dead possums.

So we're not used to driving on two feet of icy white stuff. Trying to avoid doing a 360 on four wheels is a new experience for us.

So is trying to see in an Indiana blizzard. Sure, down South our windshields may be hit with a bird dropping now and then.

But even that never covers the entire windshield, so we have no problems seeing while driving.

Ice and snow are different matters, though. With that on my windshield, I know how Mr. McGoo feels when driving.

Seeing the road, then, much less staying on it, is a challenge.

And it's not just some of us from the Sunbelt who have trouble driving in the winter here. Maneuvering on icy roads is a nightmare for anyone.

To be running anywhere near the road in this weather, then, is just plain crazy—which means you car dodgers are just plain loony.

Now, everyone has run across the road against traffic at least once in their lives. And everyone has walked too close to the roadway.

But you car dodgers do it consistently.

You seem to like getting into oncoming traffic near the Commons and Bridge.

You love the warmth of Joyce A.C.C. to jog and breathe exhaust on Notre Dame Avenue.

And you glory in walking behind cars backing out on ice-covered parking lots.

You even ignore your Mom's heartfelt advice: "Don’t drive drunk, or ride with anyone who does in a snow storm.

You dash across ice-covered streets, dodging traffic, in the dark, against the stop light, in a snow storm.

You are taking one heck of a chance. After all, there are lot of drivers out there like myself — unused to driving on ice blocks.

Some of us, for example, are from sunny Florida. Down there snow rarely, if ever, covers the road. The only thing slippery on the street are dead possums.

So we're not used to driving on two feet of icy white stuff. Trying to avoid doing a 360 on four wheels is a new experience for us.

So is trying to see in an Indiana blizzard. Sure, down South our windshields may be hit with a bird dropping now and then.

But even that never covers the entire windshield, so we have no problems seeing while driving.

Ice and snow are different matters, though. With that on my windshield, I know how Mr. McGoo feels when driving.

Seeing the road, then, much less staying on it, is a challenge.

And it's not just some of us from the Sunbelt who have trouble driving in the winter here. Maneuvering on icy roads is a nightmare for anyone.

To be running anywhere near the road in this weather, then, is just plain crazy—which means you car dodgers are just plain loony.

Now, everyone has run across the road against traffic at least once in their lives. And everyone has walked too close to the roadway.

But you car dodgers do it consistently.

You seem to like getting into oncoming traffic near the Commons and Bridge.

You love the warmth of Joyce A.C.C. to jog and breathe exhaust on Notre Dame Avenue.

And you glory in walking behind cars backing out on ice-covered parking lots.

You even ignore your Mom's heartfelt advice: "Don’t drive drunk, or ride with anyone who does in a snow storm.

I guess you assume drivers can see you at night. I imagine you think cars can stop without sliding and spinning on the ice.

Unfortunately, you’re wrong. Dead wrong. You’re luck is going to run out. No matter how skillful a driver is, no matter how careful, he won’t be able to stop in time. And you’ll be plowed.

You’ll be eye-to-eye with the driver, him in the car and you on it. You’ll be a human hood ornament.

The driver will feel guilty. His car will be dented. You’ll be squashed. And your friends and family will be crushed.

All this can be avoided, however. The next time you’re jogging near or running across the road, assume the driver doesn’t see you. Assume he can’t stop his car without sliding.

Heck, assume he’s just arrived from Florida. That way you won’t end up like all those possums down there.
Frosty needs a bath

Put away the spoons - this isn't a triple scoop of chocolate chip ice cream. Frosty's makers in Zahm just decided to give him a little character.

Vocational Counseling and formation program for becoming a priest?

applicants are now being accepted for

APPLICATIONS

A A /what is the academic

A A /what scholarships and

A A /what are the various

A A /how do I pray

For personal, confidential

For appointment, call between

FRIDAYS 8:30am & 4:30pm 219-239-6385

Holy Cross Fathers

Vocational Counseling on campus at

Associated Press

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis on Wednesday criticized the Reagan administration's "failed and illegal" policy in Central America and said he would challenge a Pentagon order to send National Guard troops there. A new poll showed George Bush gaining on Republican rival Bob Dole in Iowa.

In Michigan, meanwhile, Republicans waded through credential challenges to 1,800 delegates to this weekend's state GOP convention, where Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp are expected to split most of the 77 national convention delegates at stake.

In Boston, Dukakis switched gears and said he would file a federal lawsuit against a Pentagon order to deploy 13 Massachusetts National Guardsmen, a public relations unit, to Panama and Honduras for two weeks in late May.

"I wasn't aware you had to go to Honduras or Panama to learn how to write a press release," Dukakis said.

Dukakis had said Monday he would honor the Pentagon order under protest. But Wednesday, Dukakis, a critic of aid for the Contra rebels in Nicaragua, said he will challenge a 1986 federal law that stripped governors of their peaceetime power to block National Guard assignments abroad. If there is no ruling by the May 28 deadline, Dukakis said he would obey the order.

Republican Pete du Pont, with Paul Revere's Massachusetts home as a backdrop, accused Dukakis of "forgetting the lesson that we cannot mistake peace for freedom. We did not during our war for independance and we cannot now as the Nicaraguan resistance strives for freedom."

Another Republican contender, former Secretary of State Alexander Haig, campaigning in Dixville Notch, N.H., said he did not initially support aid for the Contras, but the United States now cannot afford to abandon the rebels.

"We created the covert movement and now to cut and run on it would send a devasting message to Moscow, Havana and the rest of Central America," he said. "We simply cannot afford to do it."

Bush, campaigning in Wyoming and South Dakota, took comfort from a USA Today/CNN poll of 500 likely GOP caucus-goers in Iowa that indicated the race there is tightening. The latest Bush poll dole was ahead, 33 percent to 25 percent. Nine days earlier, a similar poll put Dole on top, 41 percent to 36 percent.

Dole, campaigning in North Conway, N.H., predicted that in the long run, the Democrats would benefit from the vice president's contentious inter­vention with Chavez anchor Dan Rather over the Iran-Contra arms deal.

"Democrats are not going to let this issue die," Dole said.

Bush, in Casper, Wyo., ex­pressed sympathy for the state's struggling oil industry. The one-time Texas oilman said, "I know what it's like to have a rig sacked."

Candidates step up efforts

Associated Press

In an Arab neighborhood of Jerusalem, police armed with assault rifles and clubs fired tear gas and rubber bullets at about 25 young Arab protesters.

"Somebody there will get his head smashed. We'll break their bones," Associated Press reporter Sergei Shargorodsky heard a policeman say. The officers entered only the edge of the neighborhood and the protest ended without casualties.

Palestinians began rioting.

FRIDAYS

APPLICATIONS

315 LaFortune Student Center

Deadline for submitting applications is

February 22, 1988

VIOLENCE IN JERUSALEM PERSISTS

From $365 up, pays for transportation, hotel accommodations, free parties, and much more! And don't get arrested in Padre on Florida. Go where everything's legal and the sun shines 280 days a year, with white beaches, blue oceans, and no one knows what an ID is.

SPRING BREAK IN CANCUN

MEXICO-8 days, 7 nights

Come to Mexico - call Doug at 1650

START EXECUTIVE TRAINING NOW

Don't wait until you finish college to start a management training program. If you have at least two years remaining, consider Air Force ROTC. We can give you a head start on a fast-paced career.

CAPT SAM GAGLI DIO

219-239-6634

AIR FORCE

ROT C

Leadership Excellence Starts Here

In an Arab neighborhood of Jerusalem, police armed with assault rifles and clubs fired tear gas and rubber bullets at about 25 young Arab protesters.

"Somebody there will get his head smashed. We'll break their bones," Associated Press reporter Sergei Shargorodsky heard a policeman say. The officers entered only the edge of the neighborhood and the protest ended without casualties.

Palestinians began rioting.

Dec. 8 in the West Bank and east of Gaza Strip, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East War.

The Israeli gunfire has killed 38 Arabs, according to U.N. figures, and Rabin said the policy of beating rather than shooting took effect Jan. 3.

The daily tabloid Hadashot published an interview with a soldier in Gaza whose description of his orders contradicts Rabin's statement that beatings were not used as punishment, but only to quell riots.

"In order to make people in the camps aware of the army's presence during curfews, we were given orders to knock on doors, enter inside and take the man out," reporter Menachem Shizaf quoted the 20-year-old soldier as saying.

"We entered almost every other house. We stood the men outside with their faces against a wall, and while questioning them, the soldiers beat them with clubs. The men screamed in pain," the soldier said.

"This whole business caused serious arguments among sol­diers. Over time, the number who opposed the beatings grew, but no one refused an or­der."
THE NCR $300,000 STAKEHOLDER ESSAY COMPETITION FOR STUDENTS

THE MISSION

TO CREATE VALUE

At NCR, we've found that in order to create value, we must first satisfy the legitimate expectations of every person with a stake in our company. We call these people our stakeholders, and we attempt to satisfy their expectations by promoting partnerships in which everyone is a winner.

- We believe in building mutually beneficial and enduring relationships with all of our stakeholders, based on conducting business activities with integrity and respect.
- We take customer satisfaction personally: we are committed to providing superior value in our products and services on a continuing basis.
- We respect the individuality of each employee and foster an environment in which employees' creativity and productivity are encouraged, recognized, valued and rewarded.
- We think of our suppliers as partners who share our goal of achieving the highest quality standards and the most consistent level of service.
- We are committed to being caring and supportive corporate citizens within the worldwide communities in which we operate.
- We are dedicated to creating value for our shareholders and financial communities by performing in a manner that will enhance the return on their investments.

THE CHALLENGE

TO WIN

We're so committed to our mission that we're encouraging the next generation of leaders to re-examine America's business values. We're doing this by holding the NCR Stakeholder Essay Competition which all full-time undergraduate and graduate college or university students may enter. Entries should explore the topic: "Creating Value for All Stakeholders in Corporations and/or Non-For-Profit Organizations."

The student chosen as the first place winner will be awarded $50,000 cash. Plus, the entrant's school will receive $100,000 in NCR data processing equipment. The second place winner will receive $15,000 cash and the entrant's school will receive $35,000 in equipment. One hundred $1,000 awards of merit will be given to chosen participants. In addition, selected award-winning entrants will be invited to attend the first NCR International Symposium on Stakeholders to be held June 9 & 10, 1988, in Dayton, Ohio.

THE RULES

1. The NCR Stakeholder Essay Competition is open to any full-time undergraduate or graduate student attending an accredited college or university in the United States or its territories.
2. Entries must be original, unpublished work on the topic: "Creating Value for All Stakeholders in Corporations and/or Non-For-Profit Organizations."
3. Essays must not exceed 3,000 words. Areas of discussion may include, but are not limited to: Ethics, Corporate Governance, Strategic Management, Social Responsibility, or Managing Change as these topics relate to managing for stakeholders.
4. Entries must be typed, double-spaced on 8'/" x 11" bond paper, one side only. A separate cover sheet should list the entrant's name, school, home address and title of the essay. Subsequent pages should be numbered sequentially and include the essay title in the upper right margin. Winners will be required to produce proof of current full-time college or university enrollment.
5. All entries must be postmarked by March 31, 1988, and received by April 15, 1988 to be eligible for consideration. Submit entries to: NCR Stakeholder Essay Competition, NCR Corporation, Stakeholder Relations Division, Dayton, Ohio 45479. NCR is not responsible for, and will not consider, late, lost or misdirected entries.
6. State and territorial judges will consist of panels that include NCR stakeholders. Final selections will be made on the basis of the quality of the essay.
7. State and territorial judges will consist of panels that include NCR stakeholders. Final selections will be made on the basis of the quality of the essay. Winners will be required to sign publicity releases and affidavits of eligibility and compliance with all rules governing the competition. Failure to return executed affidavits and releases within 15 days of receipt will cause the award to be null and void.
8. All entries become the property of NCR and will not be returned.
9. By participating in this competition entrants agree to these rules and the decisions of the judges which shall be final in all respects, and further agree to the use of their names, likenesses and entries for NCR advertising and publicity purposes without any further compensation.

State and territorial judges will consist of panels that include NCR stakeholders. Final selections will be made by a national panel of judges.

If clarification is necessary, call (513) 445-1667, 8am -5pm EST.

Award winners will be notified on or about May 16, 1988. To obtain a list of finalists, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

NCR Stakeholder Essay Competition
NCR Corporation
Stakeholder Relations Division
1700 South Patterson Boulevard
Dayton, Ohio 45479

NCR's Mission: Create Value for Our Stakeholders
Aspirin: ‘an amazing drug’

Associated Press

BOSTON—People have taken aspirin since ancient times, but the ubiquitous white tablet has become a glamour drug of modern medicine, good for a growing list of seemingly unrelated ills.

"It's an absolutely amazing drug," says Harold DeMonaco, director of pharmacy at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Impressive enough are its best-known attributes aspirin's power to ease pain, lower fever and relieve inflammation. But that's just the beginning.

In its latest and perhaps most dramatic incarnation, aspirin turns out to be a potent weapon against heart attacks. A study published in the New England Journal of Medicine shows that healthy men who take aspirin every other day can cut their risk of heart attack almost in half.

"Anyons practicing medicine has always been amazed at how utilitarian aspirin is and how widely it has been used for many different purposes," said Dr. Lawrence Cohen of Yale Medical School.

If aspirin is a miracle drug, as the people who make it like to say, then it's a miracle that's already widely experienced. The Aspirin Foundation, a trade organization, says Americans take more than 60 million aspirin tablets a day. It's also a miracle with drawbacks.

Aspirin makes the blood less likely to form clots, or thromboses. This is how it prevents heart attacks. But at the same time, this increases the chances of unwanted bleeding.

"Aspirin is a major cause of bleeding in our society," says Dr. Daniel Deyken of Boston University Medical School.

"Thrombosis is an even larger cause of grief, but you can't get away from it,"

Studies have shown that one dose of aspirin can make a person's stomach release up to a teaspoon of blood. People with active ulcers are usually urged to avoid aspirin.

Aspirin also can cause stomach upsets. Prolonged, heavy doses can interfere with kidney function. Use in children with fevers has been linked with a rare illness called Reye's syndrome.

For these reasons, experts caution that people should consult their physicians before taking aspirin day after day to prevent heart attacks.

"Because aspirin is so common, many people don't take it seriously," said Dr. Arthur Jacknowitz of West Virginia University's School of Pharmacy.

German abducted in Lebanon

Associated Press

BEIRUT—Seven Germans in Lebanon were seized as they walked across a sidestreet off the Hamra commercial thoroughfare at 11:05 a.m., said a police spokesman, who identified the hostage.

"The kidnappers had called the family," the police spokesman said, adding that it was not clear who they were.

However, a high-ranking official of the militant pro-Iranian faction in Lebanon, Abdul-Hadi Hamadi, heads the security apparatus of Hezbollah and is the most militant pro-Iranian faction in Lebanon.

Ralph Rudolf Schray, 30, was grabbed as he walked across a sidestreet off the Hamra commercial thoroughfare at 11:05 a.m., said a police spokesman, who by regulation cannot be identified.

The stocky, blond Schray works for an engineering company and has lived in Lebanon for most of his life. Police said the kidnappers had called Schray's Palestinian uncle, but made no demands. The uncle refused to talk to reporters.

"The kidnappers did not state any demands," the police spokesman said, adding that it was not clear who they were.

However, a high-ranking official of Hadi's militia informed a relative of Schray that Abdul-Hadi ordered the abduction "to put pressure on Bonn so that it would release his two jailed brothers," the Christian-run Voice of Lebanon quoted the relative as saying. It did not name the relative.

Earlier, the judge in the Hamadi trial warned that if the Schray kidnapping was linked to the proceedings, "it could make the situation tougher here."

Schray was the first foreigner abducted in Moslem Beirut since June. His kidnapping brings to 22 the number of foreigners held hostage in Lebanon. One other West German is a captive, and his kidnappers have demanded the release of Mohammed and Abbas Hamadi.

The kidnapping occurred as the people who make it like to say, then it's a miracle that's already widely experienced. The Aspirin Foundation, a trade organization, says Americans take more than 60 million aspirin tablets a day. It's also a miracle with drawbacks.

Aspirin makes the blood less likely to form clots, or thromboses. This is how it prevents heart attacks. But at the same time, this increases the chances of unwanted bleeding.

"Aspirin is a major cause of bleeding in our society," says Dr. Daniel Deyken of Boston University Medical School.

"Thrombosis is an even larger cause of grief, but you can't get away from it,"

Studies have shown that one dose of aspirin can make a person's stomach release up to a teaspoon of blood. People with active ulcers are usually urged to avoid aspirin.

Aspirin also can cause stomach upsets. Prolonged, heavy doses can interfere with kidney function. Use in children with fevers has been linked with a rare illness called Reye's syndrome.

For these reasons, experts caution that people should consult their physicians before taking aspirin day after day to prevent heart attacks.

"Because aspirin is so common, many people don't take it seriously," said Dr. Arthur Jacknowitz of West Virginia University's School of Pharmacy.

LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS

FRIDAY, JAN. 29

9PM - 4AM

DON'T MISS YOUR CHANCE

AT THE JACC

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

SPRING BREAK

Burlap underwear on a pledge does not constitute hazing, according to officers of Kappa Sigma at Southwest Texas State. One Kappa Sigma pledge was arrested after he refused to explain why he was in a field at 3 a.m. wearing burlap underwear and covered with motor oil. He was charged under a state law that requires anyone with knowledge of a hazing incident to report it. All 25 Kappa Sigma pledges wore the burlap underwear, a fraternity tradition.

The National On-Campus Report

Help for the homeless will be an issue in a student referendum vote this month at Columbia College. The student council decided to ask students if they approve of a homeless shelter in an unused campus building. There is no word whether the administration would support this measure.

The National On-Campus Report

Possessing milk crates will soon be illegal in Pennsylvania. Penn State's residence hall association decided to hold Milk Crate Day so that students could turn in their "finds" without fear of reprimand. The idea was that students would be "uncomfortable" returning their crates to the police.

The National On-Campus Report

The ugliest campus is Texas Tech, according to Sports Illustrated. For the second year in a row, Tech has won the dubious distinction. In response, loyal Tech supporters voted for "the ugliest magazine staff in America."

The National On-Campus Report

Portable toilet stuffing was a recent student government event at Long Beach City College. One group managed to pack 32 people into one of the green receptacles.

The National On-Campus Report

Gay Scholarship and sexuality research have become the focus of Yale's new Lesbian and Gay Studies Center, one of the nation's first centers for homosexual studies. The center aims to promote research, discussion and understanding of the varieties of human sexualities.

The National On-Campus Report

The annual snowball fight across a street at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln injured several people. Students from residence halls and Greek houses also threw rocks, eggs and ice, as well as snowballs. The battle caused $1,400 dollars damage in broken windows. There is no word yet on how the student senate will pay that bill.

The National On-Campus Report

Preventing fake Illinois I.D. cards from circulating is the aim of a new state that享受的特权 for offenders. People caught with a fake Illinois license face a 30-day jail sentence, a $500 dollar fine and, if an Illinois resident, suspension of driving privileges for one year.

The National On-Campus Report

College Briefs

LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS

FRIDAY, JAN. 29

9PM - 4AM

DON'T MISS YOUR CHANCE

AT THE JACC

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

SPRING BREAK

South Padre Island $128

North Padre/Mustang Island $156

Daytona Beach $99

Steamboat $87

Galveston Island $124

Fort Walton Beach $126

Orlando/Disney World $132

Miami Beach $133

Hilton Head Island $131

DON'T DELAY

TOLL FREE SPRING BREAK INFORMATION AND RESERVATIONS

1-800-321-5911

E O E
Substitute fat cuts calories

Associated Press

NEW YORK - NutraSweet Co. on Wednesday unveiled the first all-natural substitute for fat that mimics its rich taste and texture but cuts the calorie content in ice cream, butter and other foods by up to 80 percent.

NutraSweet Co.'s proposed fat substitute, Simplesse, which was announced last May and is being scrutinized by the Food and Drug Administration, was released today.

"(Simplesse) certainly offers interesting possibilities, although it doesn't mean automatic health benefits to consumers," said Dr. Michael Jacobson, the center's executive director.

Dr. Robert Shapiro, NutraSweet's chairman and chief executive, told a crowded news conference, NutraSweet is the maker of the most widely used no-calorie sweetener.

Simplesse could help reduce diseases stemming from fat-heavy diets that cause 100,000 premature deaths annually in the United States, said Vernon Young of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"My colleagues and I are really very excited," said Young, a professor of nutritional biochemistry who was recently appointed to the scientific advisory board of the Skokie, Ill.-based NutraSweet.

Simplesse could help people p.m. on weight and cut their cholesterol intake by providing a way to do so without sacrifice, he said.

"Food," he said, "is meant to be enjoyed."

The fat substitute even received a cautiously favorable reaction from the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a Washington-based watchdog organization.

The center has been lobbying against Procter & Gamble Co.'s proposed fat substitute, Olestra, which was announced last May and is being scrutinized by the Food and Drug Administration.

"(Simplesse) certainly offers interesting possibilities, although it doesn't mean automatic health benefits to consumers," said Dr. Michael Jacobson, the center's executive director.

In Washington, FDA spokesman Bill Grigg said, "The NutraSweet Co. has not yet provided the FDA with enough information for an appraisal, but the agency will look at the substance to determine whether it presents any regulatory, or in particular, safety issues."
Baby abandoned in freezing home

Associated Press

CHICAGO - A 7-month-old baby found abandoned in an unheated apartment wearing a wet sweatshirt but no shoes, socks or gloves will not need surgery to save her frostbitten limbs, as another child did last day, doctors said Wednesday.

Dominique Starrs was suffering from hypothermia and frostbite when found early Tuesday by a friend of her 18-year-old mother, Wayne Brown. He said he had demanded that the teen-ager tell him where the baby was, then discovered Dominique lying on frozen rags in the abandoned West Side apartment.

Officials estimated she had been left alone for at least two days, but she was reported to doctors Tuesday by a friend of her mother. She was reported to Sinai Medical Center.

Carolina Starrs was charged with felony child abandonment. Prosecutors met Wednesday to decide whether to ask a judge to grant temporary custody of the infant to the Department of Children and Family Services, said Terry Levin, spokesman for the Cook County State's Attorney.

"Everybody here was cheered because she responded so well to warming, and she will not lose any of her appendages," Ms. Sugar said. "She was dehydrated, but she's taking fluids well."

She said several callers already had offered to donate money to help the child and that at least one offered to become a foster parent.

From the Chicago area had been charged with abandoning a child with no protection against a numbing Midwest winter.

"We average one (abandonment) a month and she pretty much fits the pattern," Dave Schneider, spokesman for the child-welfare agency, said of Carolina Starrs. "Young, single, unemployed, facing another mouth to feed, a responsibility that must seem overwhelming."

"People should weep as much for the mother as for the child," he added.

Spokesman Jan Sugar said doctors estimate Dominique had been abandoned at least 48 hours when found.

Roses are red, Violets are blue, Give your sweetheart a cake that's as sweet as you!

KILLILIA OLD'S NISSAN:

- '85 Buick Skylark 4 door Air Automatic stereo $4995
- '83 AMC Alliance DL 4 door Automatic air stereo $3995
- '83 AMC Eagle 4 wheel drive 2 door very clean air automatic $305
- '83 Ford LTD 4 door air automatic stereo $4295
- 72 Buick Centenial Convertible one owner 60,000 miles $1895
- call Joe Sargent or Tim Berger 255-9644

Racism persists in rivalry

Associated Press

EVANSVILLE, Ind. - The basketball coach at Bosse High School said Wednesday his team no longer will play Heritage Hills High School in Lincoln City because of a series of racial taunts, including the burning of a cross this week.

"I'm not going back," said Bosse Coach Joseph Mullan.

"T'll forfeit before I go back. If I was a parent of one of those players, I would not allow them to be subjected to that kind of abuse."

The cross-burning, usually associated with the white supremacy group Ku Klux Klan, took place about a half mile from Heritage Hills as the Evansville team's bus stopped at a railroad crossing, Mullan said.

People riding in a pickup truck and a car appeared to be tracking the bus and communicating by citizens band radio as it neared the school for Tuesday night's game, the Evansville coach said.

Mullan said several young people could be seen running from the 6-foot flaming cross. The players and cheerleaders on board the bus were shocked, Mullan said. The Bosse team received a police escort out of Spencer County after winning the game, 77-75.

"I think 'apalled' is the word that you use here," said David Bennett, assistant principal at Heritage Hills.

Bennett said he did not know whether anyone connected with Heritage was responsible for the incident, but that police had been asked to investigate. Bosse Principal Robert Adams said he was considering terminating a contract between the two schools that provides for basketball games, the only sport in which the two play each other.

The cross burning was not the first racial incident involving the schools, Mullan said.

Two years ago a Heritage Hills fan threw an empty chicken box on the court after a game between the schools and made verbal taunts, Mullan said. Then, four years ago as a group of Heritage Hills fans showed up for a game wearing hubcaps and crocheted watermelons around their necks, the coach said.

Mullan said 22 percent of Bosse's students and four of the basketball team's five starting players are black. Heritage Hills has no black basketball players.

"We normally just receive a lot of verbal abuse" at Heritage Hills, Mullan said. "We did receive some of that last night. They were making sounds like monkeys, which really affects some of my black players."

None of the Heritage Hills team members or coaches have participated in the harassment, the Evansville coach said.

Bosse standout Gary Frazier said the Tuesday night insult helped spur his team to leading performance.

"On that last play, I saw the 'T' in Patriots (on a Heritage Hills jersey) and it reminded me of the burning cross we saw on the way here," Frazier, who is black, told The Evansville Courier. "That inspired me."

The 6-foot-5 senior made the deciding basket in the Bulldogs' victory with less than two minutes remaining, and stole a pass with six seconds left to preserve the win.

Attention ALL CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

Effective immediately, new Reservations policy for Theodore's:

1) A reservation application must be received seven days in advance of event. Application can be picked up during office hours 4-5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday in Theodore's office which can be accessed off the south stairwell on the second floor of La fortune or in the Student Activities Office.

2) A deposit of $50 CASH must be received three working days prior to the event. A cancellation must be received 24 hours before event or deposit will be lost.

3) Reservations can only be made for Monday-Tuesday 2 p.m.-12 a.m. Other days and between times are left to the discretion of the management.

If you have any questions, contact Noel Murtha, Reservations Manager at 283-3435.

IBM-XT/AT COMPATIBLES

- Wholesale Direct IBM™ XT & AT Compatible Microcomputers
- JANUARY SPECIAL: COMPLETE Mono systems starting at $560; Color systems starting at $740 including monitors
- Full line of components & accessories (Hard Drives, Mouse...) and warranty backed by 100% reliable people
- Special system configuration and upgrade available
- See our system currently on display at Notre Dame Computing Center Micro Demonstration Lab

COMTALK COMPUTER SYSTEMS

271-0444

Conveniently located at University Gardens on S. Rt. 23

#19, 6910 N. Gumwood - Bldg. 22 Suite G
Dear Editor:

What’s the difference between a beached whale and an ND chick? There.

What’s the difference between a Lyons chick and a stick of butter? What?

Jokes like these have become standard campus humor and an accepted source of material for events such as the Morrissey Christmas skits, Sorin’s talent show and the annual Keenan Revue. This form of humor is commonplace, and continued exposure to such jokes results in immunity to their implications and potential consequences. Women are expected to be good sports, take these jokes in stride and appreciate “fat jokes” as being “all in good fun.” But jokes with such serious stigma attached necessarily have equally serious repercussions.

As half staff of a women’s dorm, we feel a responsibility to express our concern about the impact these “jokes” can have. Our culture is one which places great importance on a person’s exterior, and women are made to feel the connection between self-esteem and physical appearance. Weight-related humor magnifies this pressure to be thin to maintain their self-esteem.

We recognize that “fat jokes” do not necessarily lead directly to the overnight development of an eating disorder. However, these jokes create the delusion that with thinness comes attractiveness. Distortion of expectations becomes so great that food abuse seems an appropriate vehicle to increase self-esteem. Here at Notre Dame, women abuse food and abuse themselves to avoid being categorized as objects of these attempts at humor.

These jokes are abusive and insensitive, and seem to us to be blantly inappropriate entertainment for an intellectual Christian community. If Notre Dame is indeed the community we want to think it is, then we all need to be aware of the effects of our actions on fellow community members. Someone must take the time to help those who are in any way affected at the expense of others, and Notre Dame women cannot afford the cost of “fat jokes.”

The dorm staff of Notre Dame men are also affected by the attitudes tied to these jokes. Negative stereotyping limits both men and women in their development and adds strain to an already inhibited social atmosphere.

Eating disorders are a human problem and as such require a human response. As the opening night of the Keenan Revue approaches, and moreover as we continue daily to face these issues, we ask you, men and women both, to consider just how funny those “fat jokes” really are.

Mimi Bereta
Polly Carl
Cara March
Ann Wiedemann
Jenny Pignon
Hosanna Silve

Homeless belong in national light

Dear Editor:

In his attempts to clarify the debate on the homeless, Glenn Fogarty writes on Monday, Jan. 25, that “the very nature of the present homeless population dictates a need for more than simply shelter and a roof.” He goes on to say that “help for the homeless... should be help that is well-intentioned but more importantly, well-planned and specific.” I cannot disagree with these statements.

But beyond these easy, albeit worthwhile generalities, Fogarty is misinformed about the numbers and the nature of the homeless, about the causes of homelessness and about what is currently being done to help the homeless in the United States.

First, Fogarty places the number of homeless between “250,000 and 500,000” persons that figure is presumably taken from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) study in 1984. Soon after the 1984 study, a house survey conducted in a city revealed the flaws in the study, including deliberately low estimates and incomplete sampling. A later subcommittee investigation found a cautious number of 1.5 million homeless persons in America.

Second, Fogarty misrepresents the many dynamics of homelessness. The number of homeless persons in the United States has increased about 600 percent since 1970, due mainly to the rapid increase in the number of homeless families with children, the fastest growing sector of the homeless. Today there are over 500,000 homeless children in the United States. According to Jonathan Kozol in “Rachel and Her Children,” three-fourths of all homeless persons in Massachusetts are children and their parents.

Third, Fogarty says that the root cause of homelessness is “behavioral difficulties” and that the common denominator for nearly all of the homeless is a “varying degree of mental illness.” The truth is that about 36.4 percent of the homeless population suffers from mental illness, but that more than half are economically disadvantaged. Nearly half of the homeless held jobs in the last five years.

Furthermore, the main reason for the rise in homelessness is the lack of low-income housing. Half a million low-income housing units are eliminated every year for gentrification, arson and demolition. Add to this the near doubling of all rent prices in the ten major cities since 1975, the 66 percent decrease in federal spending on housing since 1981, and changes in the urban economy that exacerbate unemployment for the unskilled labor.

Behavioral difficulties? For a sector of the homeless, specifically the mentally ill, participation in the economy is indeed difficult due to individual problems. But for 60 to 70 percent of the homeless population, structural changes in the urban economy, including high rent, unemployment, and eviction, have a more profound impact on the number of homeless.

Fourth, Fogarty claims that “funds for such a system are readily available if one looks closely.” In fact, federal housing assistance has dropped about 75 percent since 1981, from $33 billion to $8 billion. And more than half of the assistance for the homeless has come from non-profit private foundations, not from public monies. It is clear that “readily available” funds are not accessible.

Finally, the crucial mistake in Fogarty’s article lies in his lack of prescription. Where does he look for solutions? He derails homeless advocates for placing homelessness on the political agenda. Unfortunately for Fogarty, that’s exactly where the issue belongs.

The New York Times said recently “Americans are ready to put housing back on the nation’s agenda.” Those, like Fogarty, who minimize the problem of homelessness, or the lack of low-income housing, of unemployment in our central cities, only prevent the issue from gaining attention that it warrants. Our cities have at least 1.5 million homeless people. These people deserve to be a topic of our political debate.

Ken Kollman
Morrissey Hall
Volunteer for the Overnight Shelter for the Homeless
January 27, 1988

Garry Trudeau

Quote of the Day

“Life is like riding a bicycle. You don’t fall off unless you stop pedaling.”

Claude Pepper
Letters to a Lonely God

Thursday, January 28, 1988

I would have liked to go to the Revue but I didn’t feel like lining up for tickets. It’s interesting, in a sense, that what you do see every day is put on stage and exaggerated, which is what makes the Revue funny. You can see yourself in those situations and laugh.”

Maolin Mohammed
Junior

"I’m going to the Revue Friday night. Someone gave me an extra ticket. I guess it’s because this is such a boring time of year. It’s a lot of fun, but I don’t think any of the shows are that great. Maybe it’s the Revue funny. You can see yourself in those situations and laugh.”

Florentine Roeker
Freshman

"I wasn’t able to get tickets. I’ve never been to it, so I have no idea why it’s so popular. I’d like to go sometime, though.”

Rita Richnett
Freshman

"In the Revue, I sometimes wonder why it’s so popular. I guess it’s because this is such a boring time of year. It’s a lot of work for the people involved. At auditions, you don’t think any of the stuff is funny, but the reason work on Thursday night, first show, it all comes together. Every year, people seem to enjoy it more and more.”

Charley Buckley
Senior

"Revue Previews"

Compiled by
Cara Anthony and Christine Walsh
Photos by John Studuke

"A valediction forbidding mourning"

FATHER ROBERT GRIFFIN

Letters to a Lonely God

of educating the campus about the truth of AIDS. Would it be crucial to inform us of the facts about AIDS when the essential warnings are to be found on a single sheet-handout? If “education is the only vaccine against AIDS,” the telling of the truth will have to be more extensive than the information we could get on a single sheet-handout. If “education is the only vaccine against AIDS,” the telling of the truth will have to be more extensive than the information we could get on a single sheet-handout.

The simple truth is, we should see the face of any loser as the face of Christ.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.

The terrible truth is—If I can believe what I read, some AIDS patients learn nothing from their experiences. Their only regret is that their lives can’t continue in the same carefree way, as though there were no consequences to be faced as a result of their, or my own, or any man’s, unbridled hedonism. Even if I weren’t a Catholic, I shouldn’t find my point of view. I don’t wish to see them rackied by guilt as they face the end. But couldn’t they have the kind of sorrow a smoker has when he’s coughing his lungs out, realizing that the troubles he has been brought on himself?

This, as I have mentioned, is part of the column I didn’t buy. If I had read it, I would have moralized even more. Others, hearing from me writing it, it was the sound of sounding like Jimmy the Greek. Maybe, in spite of myself, I sound as ignorant or insensitive as Jimmy the Greek; if so, I’m sorry. All I have ever wanted to do is to warn people, especially the young, about hurting themselves. Now that the campus is serious about dealing with the AIDS crisis, I don’t want to see you sugar-coat ugliness with sentimentality.

Some of you, hating what I say, will accuse me of minority-bashing, though that’s far from my intention. I’m not hating the minority, will use any old stigma to beat up the sick and dying. Perhaps the rest of you will forgive me for sounding like Jimmy the Greek, and believe that I’m telling the truth when I say it means the world to me to understand as to try to help you.

But, in dealing with AIDS patients, I don’t want to be limited to a valediction that probables mourning. Why waste the truth about a sad death? “Don’t cry for me, Argentina” doesn’t make much of a funeral anthem.
Classifieds

Varsity mens crew will have a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in 127 Nieuw. Contact Mike Hammett if you are unable to attend. The Observer

The O.C. Hockey team plays St. Edwards tonight at 10:30 p.m. in 127 Nieuw. The Racquetball Club will be organizing spring leagues. Please call Tom (1425) or Mark (1422) before tomorrow to sign up. All levels of players are welcome. The Observer

The mens volleyball team will host the Second Annual Rich O'Leary Classic this weekend. The opening round Friday night, Michigan plays Bowling Green at 6 p.m. in 127 Nieuw. The consolation game will be held on Saturday night and the championship follows at 2 p.m. All games are at the JACC.

Men's III basketball games scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 31, have been canceled. Call NVA at 239-6109 for new dates and times. The Observer

Referees are needed for SMC intramural basketball. Call 546 for more information. The Observer

The NVA aerobics regular 4 p.m. Friday class will be held. There will also be a class from 11:30-9 p.m. in the Student Center on the Late Night Olympics. A donation to Special Olympics is required. The Observer

An advanced conditioning class will be offered to all students from Feb. 1 to March 12. The sessions will be on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 4:30 p.m. in the Loftus Sports Facility. A physical examination is recommended. The Observer

The women's lacrosse team needs more players. All levels of experience are welcome. Call Heidi (3775) for more information. The Observer

A Gymnastic Invitational will be held at SMC Saturday, Jan. 30, at 4 p.m. for club members only. Mandatory for the week. Monday's practice is at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday practices are from 4:30 p.m.-6:30 p.m. The Observer

Anyone interested in forming a women's rugby team, please contact Lauren (3560), Cathy (4067) or Sarah (4038). No experience necessary. The Observer

Anyone interested in becoming a student athlete should contact Jim Russ, JACC training room, as soon as possible for information and registration. Travel and benefits are available, and students must have discipline and be hard working in nature. The Observer

Sports Briefs

The Observer城际 N.D. College, located on the third floor of Laffortune Student Center, accepts classified advertisements for Spring Break, May 24-May 30, through Friday. Through the Observer城际 N.D. College, looking for female Furnished House Safe oriented students for challenging, Travel Opportunities. Expense paid $11,500-56,800. Call (602) 838-8885, May. Call Cathi at 3773.

CANDIDATES FOR SKI SCHOOL AND \ THE UNIVERSITY DIRECTORIES ARE NEEDED FOR APPLICATION (784)- 2464.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES: Average $16,600. Now hiring experienced, sales, and public relations people selling page advertising for the office. Fax office telephone Directory. Travel, company paid retirement, free office paid training program in Chapel Hill, NC. Local candidates preferred. Experience in advertising, sales, and public relations selling yellow page advertising for The Observer. Call the office at 234-6727.

WANTED: For rent, two roommates to move into a very large one, swim like the wind! The Observer

YOUR OFFICIAL N.D. hotel for Spring Break is the Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break. Located on the third floor of the Student Center at 26-1-436. Call (219) 283-2676 Info call Dianna at 283-2676.

Social Security.

Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break is the Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break. Located on the third floor of the Student Center at 26-1-436. Call (219) 283-2676 Info call Dianna at 283-2676.

The Observer城际 N.D. College, located on the third floor of Laffortune Student Center, accepts classified advertisements for Spring Break, May 24-May 30, through Friday. Through the Observer城际 N.D. College, looking for female Furnished House Safe oriented students for challenging, Travel Opportunities. Expense paid $11,500-56,800. Call (602) 838-8885, May. Call Cathi at 3773.

CANDIDATES FOR SKI SCHOOL AND \ THE UNIVERSITY DIRECTORIES ARE NEEDED FOR APPLICATION (784)- 2464.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES: Average $16,600. Now hiring experienced, sales, and public relations people selling page advertising for the office. Fax office telephone Directory. Travel, company paid retirement, free office paid training program in Chapel Hill, NC. Local candidates preferred. Experience in advertising, sales, and public relations selling yellow page advertising for The Observer. Call the office at 234-6727.

WANTED: For rent, two roommates to move into a very large one, swim like the wind! The Observer

YOUR OFFICIAL N.D. hotel for Spring Break is the Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break. Located on the third floor of the Student Center at 26-1-436. Call (219) 283-2676 Info call Dianna at 283-2676.

Social Security.

Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break is the Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break. Located on the third floor of the Student Center at 26-1-436. Call (219) 283-2676 Info call Dianna at 283-2676.

The Observer城际 N.D. College, located on the third floor of Laffortune Student Center, accepts classified advertisements for Spring Break, May 24-May 30, through Friday. Through the Observer城际 N.D. College, looking for female Furnished House Safe oriented students for challenging, Travel Opportunities. Expense paid $11,500-56,800. Call (602) 838-8885, May. Call Cathi at 3773.

CANDIDATES FOR SKI SCHOOL AND \ THE UNIVERSITY DIRECTORIES ARE NEEDED FOR APPLICATION (784)- 2464.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES: Average $16,600. Now hiring experienced, sales, and public relations people selling page advertising for the office. Fax office telephone Directory. Travel, company paid retirement, free office paid training program in Chapel Hill, NC. Local candidates preferred. Experience in advertising, sales, and public relations selling yellow page advertising for The Observer. Call the office at 234-6727.

WANTED: For rent, two roommates to move into a very large one, swim like the wind! The Observer

YOUR OFFICIAL N.D. hotel for Spring Break is the Your official N.D. hotel for Spring Break. Located on the third floor of the Student Center at 26-1-436. Call (219) 283-2676 Info call Dianna at 283-2676.

Social Security.
Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - Scott Draud scored 22 points, 18 on 3-point goals, to lead Vanderbilt Wednesday night. The victory snapped a 13-game Vanderbilt losing streak to Kentucky and allowed the Commodores to improve to 12-4 in SEC play Wednesday night. The Commodores, who connected on 11 3-point shots during the game, outscored the Wildcats 20-8 in the final 8:05 of the game to seal the victory. Rex Chapman topped Kentucky's scorers with 18 points. John Todd Grant scored 30 points and grabbed 12 rebounds Wednesday night as 100th-ranked Oklahoma sprinted to a 109-86 Big Eight victory over No. 12 Iowa State.

Applications for Theodore's Student Managers for the 1988-1989 school year will be available in the Student Activities Office after Feb. 5. They must be turned in by Feb. 22.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY M.K.

MAD SCIENTIST

CAN YOU BELIEVE
SHE TURNED 19?
DOESN'T SHE LOOK
LIKE FUN? GIVE HER A CALL
284-5272

LOVE, MARY, ANGIE, and MEL

IRISH

continued from page 16

Dame is big and strong up front but I just didn't see the effort, especially in the second half. "I told our guys after the game that there isn't a single player in the Notre Dame locker room saying, 'Wow, we really had to work hard to win that game'. That's disappointing. We're not going to win if we don't get down and scrap with teams."

Butler's shooting Tuckered out in the second half, as it hit only 3-of-10 field goal attempts (26 percent). But the Bulldogs, the best free-throw shooting team in the country, connected on 20-of-23 from the stripe in the second half (including 18-of-19 from Tucker), and shot 21-of-25 (84 percent) for the game. That's a mere one percent above their mark for the season. Irish head coach Digiger Phelps wasn't thrilled at raising that mark.

"We did a lousy job of taking away one of their biggest weapons - free-throws," said Phelps. "But overall, I thought we played a good game. I mean, we shot 72 percent in the first half and only led by five. We thought if we stayed aggressive in the second half we could rattle them. I give a lot of credit to our defense in the second half, and to Joe Frederick, Kevin Ellery and Tim Singleton, who all helped turn that seven-point deficit into a five-point halftime lead."

Sophomore Keith Robinson also hit two big shots during that stretch and turned in a solid overall performance. The 6-6 forward scored 19 points and grabbed five rebounds in only 22 minutes. Robinson is beginning to feel very comfortable with Phelps' system and considers this game a step in Irish open varied schedule in first match with an Ivy

BY FRANK PASTOR

Sport Writer

It is often said that variety is the spice of life. If this is indeed the case, then the Notre Dame women’s tennis team looks to enjoy the tasty flavor imparted by its schedule.

For starters, the Irish kick off their dual match season Friday through Sunday at the Yale Quadrangular in New Haven, Connecticut.

Other teams participating in the Quadrangular include Yale, Brown and Wake Forest. The inclusion of Yale and Brown marks the first time the Irish have faced Ivy League competition.

"I have a lot of depth in their lineup," said Irish coach Michele Gelfman. "They play the ability to sprint away from the defense it’s hard to describe."

The Quadrangular is only part of a unique schedule the Irish plan to tackle this spring. In a break from the traditional diet to the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, Notre Dame will play Cal-State Northridge, Colorado Boulder, UNLV, Alabama, Princeton and Utah.

Add this to the traditional diet of Midwestern schools from the Big 10 (Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State, Northwestern, Wisconsin) and Mid-American Conference (Toledo, Eastern Michigan, Western Michigan, Miami of Ohio) and you get an idea of the variety on this year’s schedule.

The Quadrangular follows the standard dual match format, which consists of six singles and three doubles competitions per match. Gelfman plans to concentrate more on singles this week. Last week’s practices were devoted almost exclusively to doubles play in preparation for the Gopher Doubles Invitational.

The women emerged from last week’s Gopher Invitational with three solid doubles teams. The dynamic duo of freshman CeCe Cahill and senior captain Michelle Dasso comprise Notre Dame’s top doubles combination.

Gelfman chose to postpone a challenge match between the tandems of Stephanie Tolstedi Kim Pacella and Alice Lohrer at The Observer (239-5303)

Natalie Illig. Gelfman cited "a number of academic commitments" which the women were expected to fulfill as the reason for the delay.

The challenge match will be played after the team returns from this weekend’s tournament.

"Overshadowed by the out break of these new doubles pairings at last week’s Gopher Invitational was the return of Lohrer to the lineup. An injury suffered during the fall campaign kept her sidelined for much of the season.

"Alice came back with flying colors," enthused Gelfman. "She’s still not 100 percent yet, but probably around 80 per cent. She should be back to normal by mid-February. That will be a good indicator."

The Observer / Suzanne Poch

Elway wins an admirer in Starr

Associated Press

EVARNSVILLE, Ind. Bart Starr, the most valuable player in the first two Super Bowls, is impressed with quarterback John Elway of the Denver Broncos.

Elway, whose National Football League team will take on the Washington Redskins in Super Bowl XXII in San Diego on Sunday, is a careful or­ chestrator of a rhythm passing game, unfazed by mental strong, disciplined and a master tech­ nician, Starr said.

"You combine all that with his ability to sprint away from defenders," he said during an appearance in Evansville. "There’s such a thing as the defense it’s hard to describe."

When Starr led the Green Bay Packers to a upset win over the Kansas City Chiefs on Jan. 15, 1967, the contest was called the World Championship Game. About 30,000 seats in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum were empty.

The showdown between the NFL and AFL champions wasn’t called the Super Bowl until the next year, when the Packers defeated the Oakland Raiders 33-14. But Starr wasn’t surprised the championship quickly became a national in­ stitution.

"Even in those early years, I detected that the game was something very special," he said. "I knew it was a unique happening, I’m proud to have been a part of it."

Starr talked to reporters Tuesday before an address to the National Football Hall of Fame. He is promoting his recently released autobiography, "Starr," written with Murray Olderman.

The three-time NFL passing leader has watched nearly every Denver home game the last two years and thinks the Broncos are determined to win another Super Bowl.

"I think they’re on a mission this year," he said. "It will take a superb effort from the Redskins to derail the train."

Starr, who was elected to the Professional Football Hall of Fame in 1977, had a 33-7-3 record in nine years as head coach of the Packers.

In an era of domed stadiums and artificial turf, he remembers a 1-yard sneak for the winning touchdown against the Dallas Cowboys at Lambeau Field in 1967, when the temperature was 16 below.

Starr prefers natural grass and outdoor football, but doesn’t criticize the innovations.

"Now it becomes part of the game, adjusting to the artifi­ cial turf and unique noise levels," he said.

He also doesn’t object to NFL rule changes in the late 1970s that gave the offense more freedom.

"The general intent is very good," he said. "It gave in­ creased exposure for the pass and I see nothing wrong with it. It’s properly accepted as part of the game."

Starr is affiliated with a group hoping to gain an expan­ sion franchise in Phoenix, and had no comment regarding the move to that city by the St. Louis Cardinals, which is seeking NFL approval.

He praised for the philo­ sophy espoused by late coach Vince Lombardi, who stressed individual effort to win and keep on winning," he said. "We won more championships in a shorter span than any team has won."

Elway with the Notre Dame women’s tennis team opening its spring dual match season this weekend, sophomore Alice Lohrer has returned to action. Lohrer was out with an injury for much of the fall season.}

The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s is accepting applications for the following position:

Accounts Receivable Clerk

For further information contact John Oxider

at The Observer (239-5003)

SUPER

SUPER

SUNDAY!!

Watch the super bowl on one of three big screens

$2.00 includes drinks,pizza, chips, popcorn, and build your own super bowl sundae.

open from 12:00 until after the game.

featuring the grateful dead, jimi hendrix, joan baez, and many more.

playing thursday night.9:30 at theodore’s free of charge.

the movie starts at 9:30.

D. J. ‘s and dancing after the movie.
Nowosielski sparks fencers

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

Leszek Nowosielski and the rest of the fencing team will have their hands full as they compete this weekend, traveling to Wayne State on Friday and to a six-school meet in Dearborn, Michigan, on Saturday.

The undefeated Irish will face one of their toughest rivals in Wayne State. Competition in Saturday's meet includes Chicago, Cleveland State, Detroit, Eastern Michigan and Tri-State.

"We are going to face a very tough Wayne State team," says Irish coach Mike DeCicco. "They have added three very talented European fencers, one foilist and two epeeists, but lack our depth."

"We'll need to perform well in sabre and foil to defeat them, but I think we're ready. This will be quite a test for our young fencers."

One young fencer is Leszek Nowosielski, a freshman saberman, who has had his share of testing in the past.

"He came to us as a highly talented European fencer from Canada," said DeCicco. "He's not only an athlete. His high school credentials are excellent.

Nowosielski was born in Montreal, Canada, and raised in Ottawa, where he learned how to fence in 1980. He was coached by Mike DeCicco.

"He's an outstanding saberman, one who is destined to be an All-American caliber fencer, even as a freshman," says DeCicco.

Nowosielski has traveled to faraway places to fence, including Madrid, Spain, where the best junior fencers in the world assembled for the Junior World Cup. He finished 34th out of 90 contestants in the worldwide competition.

"If he's willing to work hard, he may be a future National Champion," says DeCicco.

Nowosielski is thinking the same thing.

"We've got a pretty strong team," he says, "And I'd like our team to place at least third in NCAAs, if not first."

"I'd also like to win the National Championship individually, if not this year then the next."

The Observer / Brian Mast

Ferdinand named Horse of Year

The Eclipse Awards will be selected as the top 3-year-old champion and Alysheba was second in the voting, but only 8-7 in the TRA balloting would have made Theatrical Horse of the Year.

Theatrical's margin over Ferdinand in the NTWA voting was 21-19. Alysheba finished third in the voting of all three groups. Java Gold, Manila, Groovy and Miesque also received votes.

Earlier this month, Ferdinand won the Eclipse Award as best handicap horse of 1987. Theatrical was voted grass champion and Alysheba was selected as the top 3-year-old.

The Eclipse Awards will be given out at a dinner in New York Feb. 5.

Charlie Whittingham, Ferdinand's 74-year-old trainer, said he was "pleasantly surprised" but not "overly surprised" by the Horse of the Year honor. He said the deciding factor was Ferdinand's victory over Alysheba in the Nov. 21 Classic at Hollywood Park.

"I think he should be a better horse this coming year," Whittingham said. "He's big. He's sound.

Ferdinand finished one-two in voting by the writers and trackmen of the Daily Racing Form and racing secretaries from member tracks of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. Theatrical, a grass specialist, beat Ferdinand in voting by the National Turf Writers Association. Ferdinand beat Theatrical 30-15 in the Daily Racing Form voting, but only 8-7 in the TRA balloting. A one-vote switch in the TRA balloting would have made Theatrical Horse of the Year.

Theatrical's margin over Ferdinand in the NTWA voting was 21-19. Alysheba finished third in the voting of all three groups. Java Gold, Manila, Groovy and Miesque also received votes.

Earlier this month, Ferdinand won the Eclipse Award as best handicap horse of 1987. Theatrical was voted grass champion and Alysheba was selected as the top 3-year-old. The Eclipse Awards will be given out at a dinner in New York Feb. 5.

Charlie Whittingham, Ferdinand's 74-year-old trainer, said he was "pleasantly surprised" but not "overly surprised" by the Horse of the Year honor. He said the deciding factor was Ferdinand's victory over Alysheba in the Nov. 21 Classic at Hollywood Park.

"I think he should be a better horse this coming year," Whittingham said. "He's big. He's sound.

Happy 21st Birthday M.C.!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Chris & Catie
Boilers don't feel pressure

Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. - Purdue's best-in-the-nation 16-game winning streak is something the Boilermakers don't want to think about, something they can't afford to dwell on.

"That's what's surprising about this team," said St. Cloud coach Gene Keedy, whose second-ranked team is unbeaten in six Big Ten Conference games and takes a 17-1 overall record to Bloomington on Saturday to face slumping Indiana.

"One of the things we've been good about is not talking about any strings, not worrying about it, just trying to improve each week," said Keedy, whose 90 conference victories over the past eight seasons is tops among all Big Ten coaches.

Returning four starters from last year's 25-5 conference-championship team, the Boilermakers were also ranked No. 2 in the 1987-88 preseason poll before losing to Iowa State in the second round of the Big Apple NIT in November.

Purdue is coming off a nationally-televised nonconference victory at Louisville and will have had a week's rest before challenging the defending NCAA champion Hoosiers, who backed into a conference co-championship with Purdue last year when the Boilermakers lost their final game to Michigan.

But Purdue is the only Big Ten team with an overall series advantage against Indiana, having won 90 of their 150 games since the two rivals first played in 1901. It's been difficult winning in the Hoosiers' Assembly Hall, however, where Purdue has won only three times in the past 16 years, twice under Keedy.

Purdue, losing career scoring leader Steve Alford from last year's national championship team, was 9-6 overall and 1-4 in the Big Ten going into Wednesday night's game at Ohio State.

"One of the things that has really helped us (this year) has been our balance," says Keedy, who is 90-42 in Big Ten games and 166-66 overall with Purdue. "We've had five different leading scorers this year; we've had six different leading rebounders, even though we haven't been a great rebounding team. We've really been a team of great balance."

The Boilermakers have shot 69% or better from the field four times, including 66% against Louisville. For the season, Purdue has hit 52.5 percent of its shots while holding opponents to 45.2 percent. Only five opponents have shot better than 50 percent.

Bloomington on Saturday to face slumping Indiana.

Conference games and takes a second-ranked team is unbeaten in six Big Ten Conference games and takes a 17-1 overall record to Bloomington on Saturday to face slumping Indiana.

"One of the things we've been good about is not talking about any strings, not worrying about it, just trying to improve each week," said Keedy, whose 90 conference victories over the past eight seasons is tops among all Big Ten coaches.

Returning four starters from last year's 25-5 conference-championship team, the Boilermakers were also ranked No. 2 in the 1987-88 preseason poll before losing to Iowa State in the second round of the Big Apple NIT in November.

Purdue is coming off a nationally-televised nonconference victory at Louisville and will have had a week's rest before challenging the defending NCAA champion Hoosiers, who backed into a conference co-championship with Purdue last year when the Boilermakers lost their final game to Michigan.

But Purdue is the only Big Ten team with an overall series advantage against Indiana, having won 90 of their 150 games since the two rivals first played in 1901. It's been difficult winning in the Hoosiers' Assembly Hall, however, where Purdue has won only three times in the past 16 years, twice under Keedy.

Purdue, losing career scoring leader Steve Alford from last year's national championship team, was 9-6 overall and 1-4 in the Big Ten going into Wednesday night's game at Ohio State.

"One of the things that has really helped us (this year) has been our balance," says Keedy, who is 90-42 in Big Ten games and 166-66 overall with Purdue. "We've had five different leading scorers this year; we've had six different leading rebounders, even though we haven't been a great rebounding team. We've really been a team of great balance."

The Boilermakers have shot 69% or better from the field four times, including 66% against Louisville. For the season, Purdue has hit 52.5 percent of its shots while holding opponents to 45.2 percent. Only five opponents have shot better than 50 percent.

That was the general tenor of the debate over which team feels worse about its loss. The Broncos were beaten 39-20 to the New York Giants a year ago. They claimed that the aftermath of that defeat - Denver coach Dan Reeves uses the word "haunted" to describe his feelings - has given them an unequivocal thirst that can be slaked only by victory.

"It's almost as if to win a Super Bowl, you have to lose one first," Schafer said.

"I certainly remember both our Super Bowls," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, whose team beat Miami 27-17 in 1983, but it wasn't.

"I think everyone was thinking, 'We lost. You'd think it would be over and buy a few 'Sold Out' signs for the future."

Schafer continued from page 16 goal Schafer was aiming at before his team ever took the ice.

"It gives us an opportunity," Schafer said. "It gives us an opportunity."

The Broncos were beaten 39-20 to the New York Giants a year ago. They claimed that the aftermath of that defeat - Denver coach Dan Reeves uses the word "haunted" to describe his feelings - has given them an unequivocal thirst that can be slaked only by victory.

"It's almost as if to win a Super Bowl, you have to lose one first," Schafer said.

"I certainly remember both our Super Bowls," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, whose team beat Miami 27-17 in 1983, but it wasn't.

"I think everyone was thinking, 'We lost. You'd think it would be over and buy a few 'Sold Out' signs for the future."

Schafer continued from page 16 goal Schafer was aiming at before his team ever took the ice.

"It gives us an opportunity," Schafer said. "It gives us an opportunity."

The Broncos were beaten 39-20 to the New York Giants a year ago. They claimed that the aftermath of that defeat - Denver coach Dan Reeves uses the word "haunted" to describe his feelings - has given them an unequivocal thirst that can be slaked only by victory.

"It's almost as if to win a Super Bowl, you have to lose one first," Schafer said.

"I certainly remember both our Super Bowls," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, whose team beat Miami 27-17 in 1983, but it wasn't.

"I think everyone was thinking, 'We lost. You'd think it would be over and buy a few 'Sold Out' signs for the future."

Schafer continued from page 16 goal Schafer was aiming at before his team ever took the ice.

"It gives us an opportunity," Schafer said. "It gives us an opportunity."

The Broncos were beaten 39-20 to the New York Giants a year ago. They claimed that the aftermath of that defeat - Denver coach Dan Reeves uses the word "haunted" to describe his feelings - has given them an unequivocal thirst that can be slaked only by victory.

"It's almost as if to win a Super Bowl, you have to lose one first," Schafer said.

"I certainly remember both our Super Bowls," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, whose team beat Miami 27-17 in 1983, but it wasn't.

"I think everyone was thinking, 'We lost. You'd think it would be over and buy a few 'Sold Out' signs for the future."

Schafer continued from page 16 goal Schafer was aiming at before his team ever took the ice.
Campus

13 p.m.: Video and discussion of journalism under the Chilean dictatorship with Rodrigo Atria, Associate for Latin America, GALL Kellogg Graduate Student Workshop. Room 131 Decio Hall.

3:30 p.m.: Aerospace Mechanical Engineering Seminar with Dr. Michael Stanisic, U. of Illinois, Chicago. Room 303 Fitzpatrick Hall.

7:30 p.m.: Basketball, SMC vs. Tri-State University. Angela Athletic Facility.

8 p.m.: Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple," by the St. Edward's Hall Players. Washington Hall. $2 at the door.

10-11 p.m.: Interview with Father Edward "Monk" Malloy, C.S.C., on Campus Perspectives, WVFI-AM 640.

---

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame

French Onion Soup
Sausage Pepper Grinder
Spaghetti & Meatballs
Stuffed Shells

Saint Mary's

Turkey Cutlet with Gravy
Pork Sukiyaki over Rice
Spinach & Mushroom
Crepes with Supreme Sauce

Wish your friends a happy birthday with Observer advertising.

Call 239-6900

---

Comics

Bloom County

By Gary Larson

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

---

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Economist
   Smith
2. Plateaus
3. Lone

14. Lengthy story
16. Decline
18. Decline
20. Cuban patriot
22. Russ., river
23. Filemsy
24. Law
26. Wreath
27. Fashion
29. Ought
30. Aslee
32. G. letter
33. Employees publiction
37. Author Peton
38. Kitchen
39. Fine
40. Street language
41. "— Death"
42. Gratis
44. Beasty or Rowan
45. Part of a.m.
46. Snoos
47. Priest's gown
48. Baseball's Mel
49. Superlative
50. "Fall of the — " (Rud)
51. "Kate and — "
52. Woe is me!
53. "Kirk of — "
54. "Kirk of — "
55. "Fall of the — " (Poe)
56. "Fall of the — " (Poe)
57. "Kate and — "
58. "Kate and — "
59. "Kirk of — "
60. "Kirk of — "
61. "Kirk of — "
62. "Kirk of — "
63. "Kirk of — "
64. "Kirk of — "
65. "Kirk of — "
66. "Kirk of — "
67. "Kirk of — "

DOWN
68. "Kirk of — "
69. "Kirk of — "
70. "Kirk of — "
71. "Kirk of — "
72. "Kirk of — "
73. "Kirk of — "
74. "Kirk of — "
75. "Kirk of — "
76. "Kirk of — "
77. "Kirk of — "
78. "Kirk of — "
79. "Kirk of — "
80. "Kirk of — "
81. "Kirk of — "
82. "Kirk of — "
83. "Kirk of — "
84. "Kirk of — "
85. "Kirk of — "
86. "Kirk of — "
87. "Kirk of — "
88. "Kirk of — "
89. "Kirk of — "
90. "Kirk of — "
91. "Kirk of — "
92. "Kirk of — "
93. "Kirk of — "
94. "Kirk of — "
95. "Kirk of — "
96. "Kirk of — "
97. "Kirk of — "
98. "Kirk of — "
99. "Kirk of — "
100. "Kirk of — "

---

S.U.B. presents:

EVIL DEAD

8 and 10 p.m.
Tonight
$2.00

Cushing Auditorium

---

From the Directors of Eddie Murphy's "Raw" HOLLYWOOD SHUFFLE

Friday and Saturday
8&10 PM
$2.00

Sponsored by SUB

Cushing Auditorium
Irish burn Butler with not shooting

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

Put all thoughts of a pre-Kentucky letdown out of your mind. It took about half the game to do it, but the Notre Dame men’s basketball team was able to finally shake loose of the Butler Bulldogs last night at the JACC, 85-66, behind 26 points from David Rivers and a red-hot 61 percent field goal shooting.

But the seemingly lopsided win was very much in doubt until early in the second half, mainly because of the sweet touch of Butler’s Chad Tucker. Tucker, a 6-7 fifth-year senior, scored 17 first-half points (31 for the game) and almost single-handedly kept his team in the game early.

The Bulldogs, who average less than three three-point field goals per game, contributed 6-of-7 to the Irish in the first half alone to nullify Notre Dame’s torrid 72 percent shooting in the half. And the sparse crowd became edgy as Butler bolted out to a 31-24 lead with 6:18 left in the first.

But the Irish went on a 16-4 run to close out the half and swing the momentum back in their favor. The key basket in the run was contributed by Rivers, who drove the lane, arched his back to avoid a defender and then slammed it in from behind his head while falling down. That gave the Irish breathing room at 38-34, and got the crowd into the game.

The second half was an exercise in physically wearing down a smaller team. The Irish outrebounded Butler 39-18 for the game. But Bulldog head coach Joe Saxson didn’t think that was the size difference was the deciding factor.

“Our ‘blue collar’ work was terrible,” said Saxson, in his 11th year as Butler’s mentor.

“I was extremely disappointed with our defense, hustle, and our general ability to get physical with Notre Dame tonight. We might not have won tonight had we done those things. Notre Dame has a lot of size and is competitive.”

While Vogel sets an individual goal for each meet, he does have one long-term feat he is pushing toward.

“There’s nothing more that I’d like than to finish in the top three of the Midwest championships,” Vogel said.

And with his recent performances, that dream may not be too far in the future.