CONCORD, N.H. - Vice President George Bush defeated Sen. Bob Dole in New Hampshire's kick-off presidential primary Tuesday, dramatically regaining his footing in the Republican race.

The student body presidential ticket of Tom Doyle and Mike Paese will not be penalized for an Observer classified ad concerning them, even though the ad ran after the official campaigning period, said Jim Grace, Ombudsman co-director.

The person who entered the ad is "not affiliated with the campaign," said Ombudsman's other co-director John Wilson. "They can't control the whole campus. People are allowed to say what they want," he said.

The ad ran Tuesday, after the Iowa caucuses last week, from his third place finish in the New Hampshire's kick-off presidential Tuesday, dramatically regaining his footing in the Republican race.

The council also agreed to several principles that will shape Notre Dame's future academic calendars, said Daniel Winicur, University registrar.

Under the new system, a "B +" will carry a 3.33 grade point, while an "A -" will be bumped from a 3.5 to a 3.67 grade point, Winicur said. A similar division will be made for the "C -" and "B -" grades. A "C -" will carry a 1.67 grade point.

Forget fasting, fellas: Meatless meals are mean

Lunchtime, thank Heavens. That nap I took from 11:30 to 12 noon was cushioning for me in the mood for a good meal. Oh, well, the Dining Hall will have to do.

I bridge through the residual snow and slush from Cushin’ to that bastion of haute cuisine, South Dining Hall. Pick up The Observer for some diversionary reading (hm, I see in -I East Rutherford, N.J., today). As usual, the line’s slower than a thoroughbred on crutches. Let’s see what’s on the menu for today.

Cheese and Vegetarian Pizza (pass), Garden Vegetable Quiche (where else do you get that with vegetables?) and Blueberry Pancakes. Did I miss something by being on the back page for so long? Did Bill Hickey rescind his threat to cancel all special meals and declare today Vegetarian Victory Day?

This line’s still not going anywhere. I wonder what epicurean epiphanies await my palate at dinner. I hear a reply right now. “Why don’t you just go off-campus or to the Huddle?” My answer is, why should I? I’ve already paid for one meal on my meal plan. Why should I be forced into a situation where I have to pay twice to eat once? Unfortunately, that’s the only option open to me. No more going out on Friday nights. I have to save my pennies to eat because of yet another example of that most famous of all Notre Dame traditions, in loco parentis, which to me is just plumb loco. Well, enjoy your meal. We sinners are on our way to McDonald’s.

More bar raids likely in future, say police
By CHRIS BEDNARSKI

South Bend bars and taverns can expect more raids in the near future, similar to the one at Tivoli's, said St. Joseph County Sheriff Joseph Nagy Tuesday.
"If we think we continue to get the intelligence information," Nagy said, "we will continue to make more raids in our area for underage drinking.
"There's quite a bit of information that either we or the state excuse or state police has developed," he said. "Now we just need to sit down and see how much of it is actual fact and what is not." Nagy said although Tuesday's raid netted only four tickets for underage drinking, he said the intelligence information police had developed over the last two or three months appeared promising.
"All 500 of the bar's patrons were checked for I.D.," Nagy said. "None of the four cited for underage drinking were Notre Dame or Saint Mary's students. Six were arrested for disorderly conduct including Notre Dame law student Shannon Hough.
Nagy said Tivoli's was chosen because of intelligence information police had developed in the Joyce ACC before the raid, he said the tip was not from a Notre Dame student or administrator.

Date rape among college students affects both men and women, on and off-campus. One in four college women will experience sexual assault or attempted assault, according to research by Mary Koss, a professor of psychology at Kent State University.
Koss spoke Tuesday night at Saint Mary's on the results of a survey of more than 6,000 students at 32 colleges and universities she conducted in 1984 in collaboration with Ms. magazine. Her lecture was sponsored by C.A.R.E., the Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination, a group of students and administrators from five area colleges.
The statistics of date rape are startling. More than 46 percent of college women said they knew the man who raped them and 57 percent of the offenders were dates, Koss said.
One way to solve the problem of rape to change men's attitudes toward sex, said Koss. "I really think that men have an important role to play in this," Koss said. "The best way to help is to let men and women share common views about sexual intercourse. 'Men tend to say, 'How do I know the this woman isn't going to resist?' But women say, 'Men get the idea that women like to get roughed up during sex.'"
Koss said the largest risk factor for date rape is that it isn't really rape. "The rape victim is dating. That is concerned, the hurt is the same." Koss said. "There are no differences. As far as psychology is concerned, the hurt is the same.
Koss said the largest risk factor for date rape is dating. "I don't say stop dating, just use appropriate way to deter it is to be wary," said Koss. "Most people think that date rape is something less than rape, that it isn't really rape," said Koss. "'There are no differences. As far as psychology is concerned, the hurt is the same.'"
"Appropriate wariness means asking yourself, 'Do I want to be in an isolated place with this guy?'''" said Koss. "'You can't blame yourself if you make a mistake, but you can be wary.'"
"Most people think that date rape is something less than rape, that it isn't really rape," said Koss. "'There are no differences. As far as psychology is concerned, the hurt is the same.'"
Koss warned against putting unnecessary blame on women. "You can't put women in the Catch-22 situation. The way we dress is part of socialization," she said. "We're forced to toe the fine line between looking seductive and attractive, but not to go too far." Koss said adding that society tends to dwell on the actions of the rape victim.
"Rape victims will tell you that they made their non-consent clear, that they used force in trying to resist and when they finally realized that their (attacker's) was not going to stop, the major emotion they felt was fear," Koss said. "The fears of rape do not go away until after one and a half years, but anxiety outlasts them all," Koss said, citing research on the subject.

Tyson joins council; Sibs weekend back

By BRADLEY GALKO

Change was the dominant theme as Student Body President Pat Cooke brought this year’s first meeting of the Campus Life Council (CLC) to order Tuesday.

The first change Cooke proposed was to have future meetings of the CLC co-chaired by the student body president and the vice president for Student Affairs, presently Father David Tyson, rather than the student body president alone. Cooke said this proposal was for the sake of continuity.

“Presently, the leadership of the council changes over from year to year,” he said. “As a result, the CLC has not functioned in the same capacity any two consecutive years,” he added. He explained that the existence of a non-changing co-chairman such as Tyson “would offer the continuity necessary to make this body (CLC) successful.”

Tyson was removed from the CLC in the fall of 1985, said Cooke, because his presence was felt to be a problem by some former council members. John Goldrick, associate vice president for residence life, said the council body did not think this would be a problem this year, since Tyson will be working through the Academic Council as a parallel example which should alleviate any conflicts.

The second change proposed by Cooke was that an executive committee be formed consisting of one rector, one faculty member, one senator, and Goldrick, which would be chaired by the student body president. Cooke said the executive committee “will screen all business as well as generate business for the CLC agenda.” Presently the agenda is set exclusively by the student body president.

“By providing an executive committee for the council,” said Cooke, “rectors, faculty, and students will all have input in formulating the agenda.” The idea was well received by all committee members.

Cooke said both changes would be implemented on a trial basis and, if successful, “the (CLC) by-laws will be amended, to accommodate them permanently.”

The next order of business was a proposal to add Sophomore Sibs Weekend to the annual calendar of campus events. Laurie Hollenbeck presented the proposal. She said the weekend of April 15-17 would be the best weekend for the event since it is during the Senior Formal in Chicago. This would lessen any overcrowding the siblings might cause and there would most likely not be any SYR’s that weekend she explained.

She also said the number of sophomores allowed to participate would be limited to 100. She stressed that the limited number would allow more opportunities for the smaller group than for a larger group of students and their siblings. She also added the siblings from 100 people could vary, but still not exceed an unreasonable number.

Goldrick and Cooke lauded the limit, sighting the immense overcrowding on campus that the event caused in 1982. Goldrick also told the committee that the number could be expanded, much as JPW has in the past 15 years, without a great deal of bureaucracy by working through the appropriate people in the administration.

The proposal was unanimously approved and Cooke set the next meeting for March 2 at 3:30 p.m. The CLC is composed of student senators, faculty members, hall rectors, Cooke, and Goldrick. It must present all its legislation to the Student Senate. Cooke said this proposal was to have future legislation be implemented on a trial basis and, if successful, “the (CLC) by-laws will be amended, to accommodate them permanently.”

HPC vote favors Student Business Board’s ’business’

The Hall Presidents’ Council voted in favor of an amend­ment to create a Student Busi­ness Board which will assume the Student Union Board’s job of overseeing student busi­nesses.

The new board’s purpose is to “provide command for ser­vices to the Notre Dame com­munity in a fair and compet­itive manner” according to the amendment, presented by Brian Holst, District 1 student senator. Student Body Presi­dent Pat Cook said, “I think it depends on what the spread is. . . if it is very close I don’t think that it means that much.”

Earlier he’d said, “If it hadn’t been for the distortion of my positions on tax in­creases and an oil import fee, I’d be 10 points ahead.” The vice president portrayed Dole all last week as an advocate of an oil import fee and likely to cave in to pressures for a tax increase.

Dole’s campaign manager, Bill Brock, reminded reporters of a post-Iowa surge in which the Kansas senator erased most of Bush’s lead.

“We were down more than 20 points eight days ago and to have come close this is a tre­mendous commentary on Bob Dole,” he said.

Babbitt, a candidate for withdrawal on the Democratic side, said he would spend the next few days meeting with supporters in Washington before making a decision on his campaign.

The Gong Show is slated for March 29, according to s xo­more Betsy Joseph. She told the HPC that the show is looking for acts and will benefit St. Hedwig’s Outreach Pro­gram. “If it’s ridiculously stupid we want it,” said Joseph.

Another show, the Keenan Robutall, will hold tryouts March 5, said Kathleen Maglicic, president of Breen­Phillips Hall. She stressed the need for acts for the show.

The Board will donate money to an AIDS fund started by Meyerhofer, a foreign lan­guage professor at the College. The fund will be used to help pay the funeral and medical ex­penses of Richie Teders, a thirteen-year-old boy whose immunity system battled virus for three years before his death on Jan. 3. Meyerhofer learned of Teder’s death from the boy’s godfather who belongs to the professor’s church.

Teder contracted AIDS after receiving a blood transfusion infected with the virus for a car accident in 1982.

A new committee was created to critique and make suggestions about the food served in SAGA, said Eileen Hetterich, student body presi­dent, who requested that election night, Feb. 22.

The seven or eight-person committee will include one hall director, a resident advisor, one representative from each hall, and a representative from student government.

The committee will meet once a month for dinner in SAGA with Paul Bakker, food service director, and Ann Bonitas, a SAGA manager.

The first meeting will be run by Bakker and Bonitas, but in the future they want the stu­dents to conduct the meetings. In other business, Election Commissioner Frances Thompson asked fellow council members to write down suggestions to ask the candidates on meet the candidates on Mon­day night, Feb. 22.

Thompson signed up mem­bers to work the polls at SAGA on election day, Wednesday, Feb. 24.

Because there are six tickets running, Thompson said she thinks that a run-off on Feb. 26 is inevitable.

The creation of co-ed housing can only strengthen the so-called “Notre Dame Community.” By being men and women closer, one creates a closer, more balanced community. Our “community” for Notre Dame is closer than the single sex “communities” on campus. By sharing a common home, men and women become aware of the respective beauty and character of each other. Any worthwhile community cannot tolerate segregation. Whether by race, creed or even sex, segregation limits the interaction of people. Interaction, especially at a university, enhances education.

Co-ed housing will improve the personal relationship between men and women. In their co-ed situation in London, men and women meet as friends sharing a common living experience rather than “pick-up artists” sharing a common “scope.” Presently, opportunities for men and women to meet socially at Notre Dame are severely limited. Too often, these meetings are restricted to loud, drunken festivities. “Hi, what’s your name? Where are you from? What’s your major? Wanna come up to my room and see my stamp collection (wink, wink, nudge, nudge)?”

We are all adults at Notre Dame and should be treated as such. We are old enough to understand the responsibility and maturity which accompanies co-ed housing. Everyone in the university community is brought up to believe that college is a time to socialize and grow. Sooner or later, the time comes when you have to face the responsibility of adults.

First of all, co-ed housing prepares students for the real world better than single-sex housing. After all, single-sex conondos and apartment buildings are open only to freshmen. As our college homes are built at Notre Dame. Single sex dorms are simply unnatural. We have lived in co-ed housing since almost the first 18 years of our lives. After we graduate from school, most of us will return to the real world. Why does the administration disrupt this arrangement?

Early upsets are the rule as men's IH playoffs begin

By CHRIS PAULISON
Sports Writer

While the Irish basketball team anxiously awaits a ticket to the NCAA tournament, six teams in men's Interhall basketball are currently attempting to capitalize on their post-season invitations. Stanford A-1 and Morrissey, both undefeated in regular season play, were awarded for their efforts with free passes to season play, were awarded for their efforts with free passes to the second round of the playoffs. Holy Cross and Keenan joined this pair in the winners bracket with upset victories over Sorin and Stanford A-2, respectively.

In defeating the Studs 66-62, Keenan pulled out their third win in as many outings. Overcoming a slow start early on in the season, Keenan now sports an impressive 5-2 record. While concentration might have been directed to the production of the Revue as the team struggled early, Keenan has been providing most of their entertainment these days on the hardcourt. Junior forward Tom Dywer realizes the road ahead will not be easy though, as the Keenanites encounter a formidable Morrissey squad in their next engagement.

The Holy Cross Hogs utilized strong performances by 6'6" junior forward Tim Woods and 6'4" forward Mike McCleary, in never relinquishing the lead they held from the opening whistle. Senior guard John Sheehan commented on what this five-point victory over Sorin meant to his team. Because the tournament is one of double-elimination, the first-round losers will continue playoff competition in the loser’s bracket. Defending champions, Sorin and Stan­ford A-2, both with their backs to the wall, will square off tonight.

Eight teams are currently vying for the crown given to the League's B division champion on March 6. Sorin B had little trouble keeping its undefeated status in tact, as the Otters downed Flannor in a lughour Monday night. It took a controversial call and an eighteen foot buzzer shot by Bobby Rusta, for the O.C. Whitesnakes to do away with a persis­tent Dillon team. With the win, the Whitesnakes earned the right to challenge Sorin B Tuesday night.

Two more Off-Campus teams joined this pair in the winner's bracket. O.C. Madison Ave. remained the other undefeated team in the B division, mauling Grace by a wide margin. The Off-Campus team, skippered by Mike Szymanski, victimized Cavanaugh B, making a date with Madison Ave. set for Tues­day.

Men's Interhall basketball playoffs are underway and upsets have been the rule thus far. Chris Paulison has the details at left.

PW remains undefeated in women's IH basketball

By ROBERT MITCHELL
Sports Writer

As the women's Interhall basketball league approaches its regular season conclusion, a heated battle for playoff spots is being waged. So far this season, the key word is parity. No team has been able to take hold of first place and pull away from the pack. In fact, there are six teams within 4 wins of each other, and the top 10 finish will be decided by who can control the stretch run. Cathy Kronenberger, this year's team captain, Chenged PW to extend and maintain their halftime lead. Senior Phillips (4-2), one of the six contenders, was lead by Cynthia Ducken who scored in eleven points. Another good effort was put forth by BP, by conquering Pasquerilla West and Lyons, which led the majority of the game. The receiver of the weekly bye. Lyons, the second place team, has an impressive record of 6-4. Their sole defeat was at the hands of PW. On Sunday night, Lyons found themselves on the hot seat trying to avenge last week's loss, as the receiver of the weekly bye. Lyons nipped Farley 34-32.

In other competition, Lewis, the defending champion, was the receiver of the weekly bye. They sport a 4-2 record and are led by Steve Phillips and Cindy Averdo. Breen Phillips and Walsh are the two remaining teams on their schedule.

This weekend, Walsh posted their first victory of the season by conquering Pasquerilla East (3-4). Walsh's record is 1-5.

Swiss skier nears 2nd gold

MOUNT ALLAN, Alberta - Switzerland's Peermin Girardelli took a major step toward his second gold medal of the Winter Olympics on Tuesday by winning the downhill portion of the men's combined event. The result of the combined event will be decided by the best time of the two runs.

Franck Piccard of France, te ome to win the combined event, did not start. Luxemburg's Marc Girar­delli, one of the favorites for the combined title, did not start. The official reason for his absence was given as being too tired after a downhill run.

Steven Lee of Australia was tentatively listed in third place at 1:47.38, but he was later dis­qualified for missing a gate. Luxemburg's Marc Girar­delli, one of the favorites for the combined title, did not start. The official reason for his absence was given as being too tired after a downhill run.

Franck Piccard of France, the bronze medalist in the reg­ular downhill, was second in 1:47.38, and Felix Belcycz of Canada was third in 1:46.24.

Irish wrestlers thrash Olivet 38-7

By CHRIS KILEY
Sports Writer

It's all in a day's work. That is what the Notre Dame wrestlers must have thought as they rolled past the Olivet Comets in a methodical 38-7 victory last night in the Joyce Athletic Center. The Comets were no match for the Irish, who won eight of ten matches, two by pin, and two by technical fall.

The victory put the Irish back on the winning track after two disappointing losses against Michigan and Ohio State. "We wrestled well," said Irish Head Coach Fran McCann. "However, we lacked intensity. I guess that is because we came into the match expecting to win."

Jerry Durso and Mark Gerard followed suit with technical falls for the Irish. The Irish now set their sights on the remaining dual meets and then the NCAA Regional Tournament at Notre Dame on March 4.

"If we wrestle hard our remaining matches, I think we can be the number two team in the nation behind Temple," said McCann. "Northern Iowa will definitely be number one. Right now they are in the top five in the nation."

The Big Ten's top three teams - Purdue, Michigan and Iowa - appear shoo-ins for the NCAA tournament. "I'd like to see all ten of them go," said McCann. "We've got Wisconsin's Steve Yoder, whose Badgers, 3-8 in the conference and 9-12 overall, are in a battle with Minnesota, Michigan State and Northwestern at the bottom of the Big Ten standings."

"We might be a longshot to get into the NIT," said McCann. "I think Michigan State might also get into the NIT."

"I can't believe that he was killed before he died he told me. It will really devastate all of us."

Toxicology tests to determine the cause of death were also expected to be complete by Friday.

The Marshalls live in the Garden Apartments, notorious drug dealing area of the county. But his family said he wasn't a part of the traffic ring that surrounded him. "He hated it here," said his mother in an interview with the Prince George's Journal. "He wished he had known."

"I don't think five and probably disappointing losses against the winning track after two by technical fall."

"I think we can have six kids in the Nationals," said McCann. "Gerardi could be the number one seed in the Regions, based on his upset. "I can't believe that he was killed before he died he told me. It will really devastate all of us."

The Brave Irish will face Central Michigan on the road Friday before traveling to Indiana University on Sunday.

OSU Jockeys for NCAA bid

CHICAGO - Big Ten basketball coaches said Tuesday they think at least five and probably six conference teams should be in a methodical 38-7 victory after two by technical fall. The victory Monday night at Iowa, another impressive win, a 73-66 upset in a methodical 38-7 victory after two by technical fall.

The Spartans are 8-13. The NCAA announces its selections March 15. The competition begins March 17 and the title game set for April 3. The Big Ten team with the best chance at the NCAA title this season appears to be the Boilermakers, ranked No. 2 in the nation behind Temple. Purdue, 10-1 in the league and 21-2 overall, is coming off another impressive win, a 73-66 victory Monday night at Iowa, to stay one game ahead of Michigan and three in front of the dual meet win below.

U.S. hockey team hopeful after loss to Czechoslovakia

Associated Press

CALGARY, Alberta - The U.S. hockey team is right where it expected to be, if not where it wants to be, in the Winter Olympics.

“We figured to be one-and-one at this point,” said public relations director Mike Schroeder as the U.S. team prepared to play the second-seeded Soviet Union Wednesday night. “Looking at the schedule long-range, it appears now that West Germany will be our most important game.”

That game will be Sunday and it could determine whether the Americans reach the six-team medal round.

The U.S. team began Olympic play with a 10-4 victory over Austria last Saturday, as expected, and lost to Czechoslovakia 7-5 Monday night, which was also expected. The Czechs are seeded third in the Olympics and the United States is No. 7.

If form follows in this tournament, the Americans should lose to the second-seeded Soviets Wednesday night and beat No. 10 Norway on Friday night.

That would give them a 2-2 record and force them to beat No. 6 West Germany to have any chance for a place in the medal round. The West Germans are 2-0 so far after a surprising victory over Czechoslovakia on opening day and a triumph over Norway.

But even if the Americans defeat West Germany next Sunday, nothing is guaranteed for them under the complicated Olympic system. The top three teams in each pool advance after the five-game round robin, but one of the determining factors could be the score of the U.S.-West Germany game. At this point, the Americans have to beat the West Germans by two goals.

The American players have taken note of all the games that have gone against form in this tournament.

“The Swinis weren’t supposed to beat the Finns and the Germans weren’t supposed to beat the Czechs,” said Corey Millen, the scoring leader of the U.S. team. “Hockey’s a funny game.”

And the Polish team wasn’t supposed to give Canada a tough time before losing 1-0 and tying top-seeded Sweden 1-1, either.

“There’s a lot of parity in this tournament,” said Art Berglund, the general manager of the U.S. team. “People don’t realize how many good hockey teams there are in this year’s Olympics. They can all skate well.”

Like many of the American players, goaltender Mike Rich­
ør figure his team would be 1-1 after the first five games. But when the Americans jumped to an early 3-0 lead against the Czechs Tuesday, he wasn’t thinking “1-1” anymore. Then, he was thinking “2-0.”

Any time you’re up with a lead like that (2-0 after 4-8 of the first period), it really hurts to lose it,” Richter said.

If he was upset by the loss, U.S. coach Dave Peterson didn’t show it.

Asked how the team would react against the Soviets after such a “crushing” loss, Peterson responded sharply.

“It’s not crushing,” he said. “Those are your words, not mine. It was really only a one-goal loss (to the Czechs). They got an empty-net goal and won, but not the end of the world.”

“It was game in which many things went the way we wanted in terms of pace and tempo,” Littlepage said. “We wanted to keep it a halfcourt game. Our nemesis —our inability to make shots —just us because we didn’t make good shots. We just couldn’t put it down when we had it.”

Rutgers was led by Tom Savage’s 18. Steve Watfod had 14 off the bench, and Anthony Duckett added 13.

IRISH ITEMS - The win was the first in six attempts for the Irish in the Meadowlands. “It never entered my mind when they made their run at us,” Phelps joked when asked about breaking the jinx. “In the first game of the doubleheader, Seton Hall downed St. Peter’s 79-70 behind 23 points from John Morton and 20 from Mark Bryant.

Injuries take toll on Irish track

By PETE GEGEN
Sports Writer

As usual the Irish track has done well this indoor season, relying on its deep distance corps and a slew of talented freshmen.

But what is not known is that the team has suffered a rash of injuries which has knocked one relay out of chance to qualify for the NCAA championships and a potential NCAA qualifier in a field event has left the team.

Three-fourths of the two-mile relay team has fallen to injuries. Freshman Mark Lavery has missed the season with tendinitis in his foot, and sophomore David Warth missed the Central Collegiates last weekend, as did the distance medley relay team.

Out for an even longer period of time is senior Nick Sparks. Sparks reinjured his foot in the Michigan meet, the same foot which prevented him from being a member of Notre Dame's all-American two-mile relay team in 1986.

The injuries eliminate any chance of making the NCAA championships, said Piane. "I thought they would qualify. It's still not out of the question, though. Warth could qualify in the 800." Warth has recorded a time of 1:50.4 in the 800 already this season.

Dollars and cents: Spring will bring more injuries than in the past," said Piane. "He feels he needs to get away from daily life activities. As a coach it's very hard to see him walk out the door, but as a friend I feel he needs the blessing," said Piane. "He has done it with my blessing," said Piane. "He feels he needs to get away from track and field for a while."

"As a coach it's very hard to see him walk out the door, but as a friend I feel he needs the blessing," said Piane. "It's like Lou Holtz telling Tony Rice he could leave now."

Among the sprinters, senior Tony Ragunas has come back after an illness and will run the 60-yard dash later in the season.

"Tony is really fresh," said Piane. "I expect him to have his best outdoor season ever." Hardaler Glenn Watson (knee) and sprinters Yarnell (ankle) and Chris McGuire (leg) all have nagging injuries but have not missed any action.

"It seems like we've had more injuries than in the past," said Piane. "But we're still doing well in other events."

Most of the success has come in the distance events. Junior Ron Markenbach qualified for the ICA's in the 800-meter run last weekend, as did the distance medley relay team.

This weekend the team travels to West Lafayette for the Central Collegiates. Hurdler Glenn Watson, who set several meet records and qualified for the ICA's as a freshman last season, left the team for personal reasons last week.

"He has done it with my blessing," said Piane. "He feels he needs to get away from track and field for a while."

Alvarez named new Irish defensive coordinator

There is little else which can grip a world audience like the Olympics and the Olympic Games. Nameless faces and faceless names. Before the games, most of the athletes are well known only in their own country, some only in their own state or province. When they reach the site of the Olympiad, they don national uniforms which identify their origins and loyalties. But there is something which exists above and beyond nations.

Years of training and sacrifice have been dedicated to the dream of competing in the Olympic Games. Underneath the uniforms and helmets there is a drive to excel. And that drive has brought thousands of athletes to Calgary for two weeks to live out the dream, to race for the gold and to capture the attention and hearts of the world.

There are some talented athletes in Calgary right now. And some crazy ones, too. Like the former Rutgers fullback Matt Murphy, who has been called the "Flying Finn," Matty Nyaeken, whose gold medal winning form in ski jumping is rivaled only by Mykola Jordan.

Traditional sports like basketball, gymnastics and track made the Summer Olympics a little closer to home for weekend athletes, but the wild and woolly, not to mention chilly, Winter Olympic sports are amazing. The luge, the bobbed and downhill skiing take intense concentration and just a few loose bolts. These men and women have prepared for years to take on the elements in Calgary, where there are more elements than on a periodic chart.

The same people who have brought us the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat are bringing us over 90 hours of television coverage from Switzerland. Jim McKay has called the shots for ABC in 1984 and 1985 and the dream of his dying sister, Jane, in his quest for a gold medal winning form in ski jumping is rivaled only by Mykola Jordan.

There are plenty of opportunities for the thrill of victory to pick up those hearts, however. And when one speaks of Winter Olympics and thrills of victory, one can still faintly hear the echoes from Lake Placid 1980, when that town by the lake was anything but placid. When the Olympic torch was first lit, candles were being lit throughout homes in America for the 52 hostages in Iran, who were in their 15th week of captivity. The nation was badly in need of a booster shot.

It came from the most unpredictable of sources, the U.S. Olympic hockey team. The Soviet team was invincible, or so we were told. Apparently Mike Eruzione and his teammates did not hear that.

His blast which put the Americans up 4-3 may not have proven that our way of government was better, but it did say that our hockey team was better than theirs, if only for a day.

Tonight in Calgary the team names and the commentator will be the same. The USA vs. USSR, with ABC’s Al Michaels doing the play-by-play. Team USA will once again be overwhelming underdogs. But it’s happened before. And there is no better man to be calling the game than Michaels, whose joy as the clock ticked down in Lake Placid was symbolic of the pride of a nation.

Take the war that is raging in the Middle East and add the war that is raging in the southern tip of Chile. And multiply that by four.

That is the situation on the quarter line in the Notre Dame defense today.

A former halfback at Penn State, the 24-year-old Moore coached his team to victory on Saturday afternoon against UCLA, when it became obvious that Notre Dame was going to lose.

Rivers Leads 2nd Half Spurt as Irish Lance Rutgers 75-62

By DENNIS CORRIGAN

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J... It was billed as David Rivers' homecoming, the New Jersey native's last appearance there in an Irish uniform. Most eyes were on him and the senior guard did not disappoint.

When Rutgers choked out of the game with 25 seconds to play, he had scored 29 points, handed out nine assists and even came up with six rebounds in leading Notre Dame to a 75-62 victory over Rutgers at the Meadowlands.

"I played an adequate game," Rivers said in the understatement of the year. "I was looking forward to coming home and seeing my family. Yet, I had a job to do. We couldn't afford to lose to Rutgers. I'm glad it worked out well."

Quite simply, it was more than "an adequate game." Rivers was in the top 10 in the nation in steals, rebounds, assists and free throw percentage.

Rivers put on a one-man show in the first half while the Scarlet Knights had four players in double figures.

Rivers scored the first six points of the game and went on to score 15 in the first half. He knocked down his first six shots before the Scarlet Knights even scored their first bucket.

But the Scarlet Knights couldn't control the game. The Irish, Gary Vorey had 10 and Keith Robinson added 11. The biggest contributor was Scott Paddock, who came off the bench to score seven points and more impressively grab 12 rebounds, six on the offensive glass. Paddock's rebounding was especially key after the Scarlet had cut the lead to 50-46. Paddock went to the line for two shots, hit the first and missed the second. But the sophomore dashed down the lane for the rebound and was fouled again. This time he converted both and the Irish were set for Rivers' heroics.

"We were struggling rebounding, and that's why Rutgers stayed in the game as long as they did," said Paddock, who set a career best in rebounding. "Once we asserted ourselves on the boards, we were able to get the outlet to David. He was able to lead the fastbreak."

Up until then, the game had been played deliberately, to be sure. Suddenly Rutgers, which had only trailed by four minutes earlier, was out of it.

Rivers was anxious to go home and play his last game in New Jersey, said Irish head coach Digger Phelps, whose squad now stands at 15-7. "Like Sunday, UCLA, when it became obvious that the Irish weren't going to go home and play their last game in New Jersey, said Irish head coach Digger Phelps, whose squad now stands at 15-7. "Like Sunday, UCLA, when it became obvious that the Scarlet Knights had to be done."

But the Scarlet Knights, which we all know he is, said beleaguered Scarlet Knight head coach Craig Littlepage, whose club lost its 14th-straight in falling to 3-16. "We felt that even if we got him and we could control the others, we would be in the game."

On the offensive end, the Irish had to be done.

Barry Alvarez, who served as the Notre Dame outside linebackers coach last season, has been promoted to defensive coordinator for the Irish.

Alvarez joined the Notre Dame staff as tight ends coach following an eight-year stint at the University of Iowa. He was linebackers coach for the Hawkeyes, and last season the 55-year-old Moore worked as the offensive line coach.

Alvarez also will serve as inside linebackers coach next season.

Joe Moore, a former assistant coach for Pitt and Temple, joins the Notre Dame coaching staff as tight ends and offensive tackles coach.

A former halfback at Penn State, the 24-year-old Moore coached his team to victory on Saturday afternoon against UCLA, when it became obvious that Notre Dame was going to lose.

Again in transition, Rivers and his sixth straight under coach Lou Holtz. Next year will be his first attempt at coaching defense, after coaching the offensive line for Minnesota in 1984 and 1985 and the tight ends the past two years for the Irish.

No one has been announced as the new defensive line coach. Joe Yonto, last season's defensive line coach and 24-year veteran of the Notre Dame football staff, accepted a position as special assistant to Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal last Wednesday.
