227 arrested and 9 hurt as rally turns violent

Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile—Thousands of people rallied in Santiago Sunday to protest President Augusto Pinochet's nomination as the only candidate in the Oct. 5 presidential referendum. More than 300 were arrested and nine were hurt in clashes with riot squads, police said.

Police fired tear gas and water cannons when tens of thousands of demonstrators marched toward the city center, blocking traffic on the broad boulevard leading to the government palace.

Organizers said 300,000 people packed the avenue for the generally festive rally that became violent when some groups began to march toward the capital's central district.

Journalists estimated the crowd at more than 100,000. The national police said nine people were injured and 227 were arrested in the clashes.

The police report said a group of demonstrators looted and damaged two electronics factories, and that several shops also were damaged.

It was the first rally by the opposition since Pinochet, the army commander, lifted on Aug. 27 the state of emergency that restricted public gatherings.

Scattered street demonstrations broke out after Pinochet's nomination was announced Tuesday, and three people were shot to death and hundreds were arrested.

Pinochet, in an "open letter to the men and women of my country" printed Sunday in most local newspapers, promised full democracy if he is returned to office.

In an interview printed Sunday in the conservative newspaper El Mercurio, Pinochet also promised to resign as army commander and govern as a civilian.

Pinochet, 72, came to power in the 1973 military coup that ousted the elected government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Soviet minister may face death penalty

MOSCOW—The trial of Leonid Brezhnev's son-in-law, accused of taking $1.1 million in bribes, is expected to lay bare the widespread corruption of the Brezhnev era.

Court begins Monday for Yury Churbanov, a former first deputy interior minister who once moved in the top levels of Kremlin society. If found guilty of bribe-taking and abuse of office, he and eight co-defendants could be executed by firing squad.

Their trial, and the extraordinary publicity given its investigative phase, are in line with Communist Party chief Mikhail Gorbachev's drive to break with the cronyism, corruption and nepotism now seen as endemic under Brezhnev.

Brezhnev ruled the Soviet Union from 1964 until his death in 1982.

The court case, to be heard by the Military Collegium of the Soviet Supreme Court, may also have a political aim—to signal the Kremlin Old Guard who flourished under Brezhnev that their time has passed and that continued resistance to Gorbachev-era reforms must cease.

Churbanov, who married Brezhnev's daughter Galina in 1971 after divorcing his first wife in 1964, is a central figure in an embezzlement and bribery scheme authorities say centered on the Central Asian republic of Uzbekistan.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said that beginning in the 1970s, cotton harvests in Uzbekistan were padded by almost 1 million tons annually, and Moscow was made to pay for the non-existent crop by corrupt officials all the way up to longtime Uzbek party boss Sharaf Rashidov, who died in 1983.

"Today it has been proven that the cotton barons stole more than 4 billion rubles ($6.34 billion) from the state, half of which they stuffed into their own pockets," Pravda said earlier this year in a sensational expose on the fraud, whose scale is without Soviet precedent.

Churbanov, 51, who held the rank of colonel general in the Moscow-based ministry responsible for police and law enforcement nationwide, was a power-hungry epicure who helped shard the racket, Soviet press accounts say.

INSIDE COLUMN

Notre Dame students are too resistant to change

After spending 15 minutes fighting her way to the keg, she returns holding aloft a cup of the cheap brew of the evening. She takes a tentative sip, grimacing as she does so, gazing with distaste at the contents of the plastic cup. Concerned, I ask her what is wrong. Smiling self-consciously, she confesses in a stage whisper that she "doesn't really like beer." I feel somewhat compelled to ask her why she spent the last quarter of an hour being liberally doused in a substance she doesn't even like so she can spend the next hour pulling attractive faces as she forces it down. When I tactfully point out that there are women on this campus who, given the choice, would date a senior who twenty-one going on twelve before considering a freshman who conducts himself with the self-assurance of someone older never ceases to amaze me. It also saddens me when I think of people who close their hearts and minds to relationships because they feel threatened by the insecurity of what could happen. The guy or girl is nothing like the type you usually date; therefore, the relationship is doomed. They prefer the security of staying home on Saturday nights to taking a chance with someone new. Sure, you run the risk of having to listen to the excuse that the bosom blond bimbo you saw hanging all over the love of your life's arm when he thought that we were at home with the flu is really his long lost sister, but on the other hand you could be missing out on a fantastic experience.

People who select their majors based on the likelihood of finding a job after graduation are another prime example. I would never consider wasting four years of my life and spending thousands of dollars to study something I don't really like and don't believe in. Maybe deciding to go into a business major was not the right one for me decreased my job prospects, but at least I won't be gnashing my teeth over classes I hate. For all of you who, if I don't like studying a certain subject, I probably won't like the job it prepares me for much better. I may never own a yacht or a townhouse in a fashionable area of London, but I'll be doing something I enjoy.

Generally speaking, I have found that the students at this university are extremely resistant to change. They are afraid that by admitting that a decision they have made is wrong, they are also conceding that they have failed in some way. Too many people run away from this possibility by avoiding situations that they have not previously encountered. No one knows himself so well that he knows what will befall him when he pursues the unfamiliar. Those who always choose the safe path may never know the humiliation of stumbling and falling, but they will also never feel the exhilaration of having taken a chance and come out ahead.

Bangladesh floods endanger millions

Associated Press

DHAKA, Bangladesh - Floods have inundated three-quarters of this impoverished nation, stranding at least 20 million people who are eating raw food and drinking muddy, probably contaminated water, officials said Sunday.

At least 882 people have died since June, when rivers began overflowing their banks in annual monsoon flooding in this country of 110 million people, according to newspapers in Dhaka. The government count of 333 dead is widely considered low.

"It is a calamity," Information Minister Mahbubur Rahman told reporters Sunday night. "It is a havoc-creating, menacing flood."

The rivers flood almost every year after the monsoon rains in Bangladesh and India. This season, some refugees have found shelter in relief centers or relatives' homes, said government officials who spoke on condition of anonymity. But they estimated that at least 20 million people were either stranded in their homes or marooned on small outcroppings of high ground with few supplies.

Indiana lacks personnel policy on workers convicted of crimes

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - With no state policy to help them, directors of state agencies must rely on their own discretion when an employee commits a crime.

"There isn't a black-and-white rule that says any crime will get you fired," said Keith Beesley, deputy director of state personnel.

State employee Mark Abbey, who was charged with felony crimes after a domestic incident involving his estranged wife, has benefited from the lack of a strict policy. Abbey has kept his job as an oil and gas inspector for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. The decision was made by Gary Fricke, division director.

"I was glad to hear him (Fricke) say he wanted me to stay," Abbey said. "At the time that's all I could see that I had going for me. And had I lost that, it would have been worse."

"It would have been a prime opportunity to terminate a marginal employee who didn't show any potential," said Fricke.

But Abbey, 33, didn't fit that mold. His job with state government, at least for the moment, remains secure.

"You can hire someone convicted of a felony, but you don't have to," Beesley said. "It's a legitimate reason to pass over someone. I'm sure there are former felons working for the state of Indiana. I'm not sure how many."

Abbey was charged with four felonies last November. He abducted his wife from the University of Evansville campus and held her captive in a truck for several hours, according to police records. Then there was a struggle and the gun discharged, causing damage to the truck.

Police reports characterized the incident as a domestic dispute.

A judge has sentenced Abbey to spend weekends in a community corrections center in Evansville. He will do so for more than 90 weekends as part of a plea agreement.

Soviet cargo plane aborts takeoff at air show

Associated Press

FARNBOROUGH, England - A massive Soviet cargo plane aborted takeoff Sunday when flames shot from an engine 100 yards from spectators as Europe's top aviation event opened under the shadow of last week's West German air show disaster.

Soon after a Soviet MiG-29 fighter thrilled the crowd at the Farnborough Air Show with precision maneuvers, a blue-and-white Antonov-124, the world's heaviest aircraft, began its takeoff.

About 10,000 spectators stood by as a 20-foot sheet of flame shot out of the No. 2 engine. A pilot cut the other engines and halted the nearly 450-ton aircraft of the Soviet Aeroflot state airline. No one was injured.

An official of the Soviet delegation at Farnborough said the Antonov-124 "will fly again before the end of the week." The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, did not immediately give the cause of the mishap.

The Antonov, 227 feet long and with a wingspan of 240 feet and a cargo bay 21 feet wide, was to have given daily demonstrations during the week-long Farnborough show, Europe's main aviation showcase.

Organizers stressed that Farnborough's safety regulations were stringent.

Los Angeles-Gang violence rages on in the City of Angels and street thugs are expanding their drug trade to other cities in the United States despite police sweeps, a new FBI task force and two "gang summits."

More than 200 people have died in gang-related slayings so far this year; 11 people were slain last weekend, and an undercover police officer was shot to death Saturday while tailing suspects in a drive by shooting.

Los Angeles County had a record 387 gang-related slayings in 1987, and authorities are expecting more than 420 in 1988, said Deputy District Attorney Michael Genelin, head of the district attorney's Hardcore Gang Unit.

Drive-by gang killings now average more than one a day and often claim innocent bystanders.

Community outcry prompted Los Angeles police to launch a full-scale assault in March. Twice since then, they have marched 1,000 officers into the most gang-infested areas on weekends.

The result has been a decline in the overall crime rate, although the gang murder rate continues to climb.

"We're in a holding action. We're keeping the flames from spreading but we're not putting them out," said Robert Philibosian, former district attorney and head of a state task force on gangs and drugs.

Los Angeles gangs are expanding their cocaine-trafficking networks as far as Seattle, Kansas City, Mo., and Philadelphia, law enforcement authorities said.

"We have people coming from L.A. to sell cocaine, not to start gangs. It's a business deal here, it's not gangs," said Seattle Police Officer Dan Por-dice.

Campaign kick off set for Labor Day

Associated Press

Michael Dukakis and George Bush rested up Sunday for the traditional Labor Day kickoff of the presidential campaign while GOP vice presidential contender Dan Quayle stumped in the South, telling stock car drivers what the candidates soon will hear: "Gentlemen, start your engines!"

Quayle ended his Southern swing with a rally in Richmond, Va., where he told the crowd, "The South is going for George Bush."

"I can't tell you what an upbeat feeling we have had on the campaign trip, visited Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and Virginia before traveling to Newark, N.J., for a Labor Day appearance at Liberty Island."

Democratic nominee Dukakis spent Sunday in Boston, preparing for a Labor Day tour that includes stops in Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago.

The vice president relaxed in Washington, D.C., before embarking on a West Coast trip to Oregon, Washington and the biggest electoral prize - California with its 47 votes.

In a survey conducted for the Wilmington News-Journal papers in Delaware, Bush led Dukakis 38 percent to 34 percent with 28 percent of the 1,824 registered voters undecided.

Freshman laments football flasco

Dear Editor:

"Get your football tickets?" people ask me.

"Of course," I tell them. "Who doesn't get football tickets?"

"What section?" is the typical follow-up.

"13, 16, twice, 17, 18, 21, and 23," I tell them, trying to suppress my frustration.

You won't see me or a few hundred of my classmates in the student section at any of the football games this year. Not because we're not loyal, spirited Irish football fans. Not because we'll be out of town. Not because we'll be too busy for the seven biggest events on the campus, scattered at random throughout the stadium.

Those freshmen towards the back of the line were not issued the standard student ticket books. Instead, the ticket office exchanged our $73.50 for seven student ticket books. Instead, the ticket office would have issued our $73.50 for seven student ticket books.

As the children of the Class of 2006 head off for kindergarten, we realize that they all have a common destiny.

AS THE CHILDREN OF THE CLASS OF 2006 HEAD OFF FOR KINDERGARTEN, WE REALIZE THAT THEY ALL HAVE A COMMON DESTINY.

In light of the above mentioned criteria for participation in the process, Student Government will run a dual project of voter registration and political information. That is, beginning in approximately two weeks in the dining halls and out on Field House Mall, Student Government will have tables set up to register any student who will want to vote in the November election. Concurrently, along with the registration, information stations will be provided with literature on both presidential candidates, George Bush and Michael Dukakis.

Clearly, the time has come for Notre Dame students to demonstrate their commitment to political participation in this country. Our mission here is not to sit back and watch the country move ahead or fall behind. Instead, each of us must make a commitment to be active in the system of which we are intrinsically a part. Robert Kennedy in his 1967 campaign for the presidency called on young voters to make a difference. He said, "The youthfulness I speak of is not a time of life but a state of mind, a temper of the will, quality of the imagination, a predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite for adventure not the fear of it. If we accept the failures of today as a reason for the cruelties of tomorrow. It believes that one man (or woman) can make a difference and that men (and women) of goodwill, working together, can make a future and mold it to our will."

Students should register and vote

Dear Editor:

The 1988 election year has proven to be an exciting and controversial time. We have been assaulted by scandal and controversy. However, beyond the images and superficial questions bandied about the media, there is a deeper issue that strikes at the heart of this entire political season. That is, how, as responsible adults, do we participate in choosing the next President of our country?

The two most obvious answers are not to be informed about the stands and background of the respective candidates and to vote.

I know that as students, we were entitled to sit in the student section. I guess we were naive to think we might be placed outside the student section. We've been welcomed to the family all right, but on unequal terms. It's like that as students, we were entitled to sit in the student section. I guess we were naive to think we might be placed outside the student section. We've been welcomed to the family all right, but on unequal terms. It's like that as students, we were entitled to sit in the student section. I guess we were naive to think we might be placed outside the student section.

ND students recruit at their high schools

Dear Editor:

When I first volunteered for the Undergraduate Schools Committee as a freshman, I made the mistake of telling an intramural director that the football season that I really liked U.S.C. After much rather tenuous discussion, I finally convinced the now dilated domer that I did not like that hated school in Southern California and rather enjoyed participating with the student arm of the undergraduate admissions office. As such, U.S.C. has nothing to do with football per se but much to do with the spirit behind the football chant, "We're From U.S.C."

Members of U.S.C., excited about Notre Dame and what it means to them, volunteer to visit their high school during fall or Christmas break to talk to interested students about Notre Dame. Since admission offices cannot possibly visit every high school where their prospective students are, let alone every high school from which present students come, people who may already have heard about Notre Dame are not learning important things about Notre Dame. By having the opportunity to enjoy Notre Dame go back to visit their high schools, at least some of these students for whom attendance at Notre Dame would be beneficial are reached.

In other words, by talking about Notre Dame to high school students of any race or belief all across the country, the undergraduates of Notre Dame, the very same people who chant "We're From U.S.C.", became visible representatives of Notre Dame and important agents in the constant effort to improve Notre Dame's student body.

Last year approximately 280 students participated in U.S.C., and an enthusiastic reception was received from both the Notre Dame students and the high school students with whom they talked. However, considering the size of our student body, the spirit we are known for and the number of people who will return to their home towns for at least one of these breaks, 280 people is a relatively small break. If you are interested in visiting your high school to talk to your students, please fill out the form attached to this letter or call 335-4928. You could be important to 280 people and could be eager to represent Notre Dame to other people who can benefit from the experience of Notre Dame.

Dear Mom,

It's been well over a week now since we said goodbye, and I am starting to realize that you'll have to know I am still alive and well and living in South Bend. I know that first phone call home wasn't exactly the friendliest one you've ever had, but it was very awkward to talk with you on the phone in a room filled with suitcases who were still strangers; eventually you must have noticed how much of my answers were in the form of, "I can't really tell you what is happening here.

These past few days have been some of the busiest of my life. I've moved in, bought books, joined clubs, met people, and yes, attended class. The weather isn't as bad as I was led to believe, but then again, nothing short of a sunshine would have been.

By the way, I have now arrived late to every class on my schedule at least once, which just goes to show two things: one, that some things never change, and two, that the snooze alarm is one of the greatest technological advancements of man since the invention of fire. The classes themselves are fine; it turns out that I wasn't the only one in my Spanish class who didn't speak like a native, and I even got by the much dreaded swim test. But generally, I can tell that classes in college move much faster than I thought they would.

The Club may be reserved for rental before business hours during off days, according to Viz. These people who have visited The Club already this school year have probably noticed one monetary change - before they even got to step foot in the place. The $2 cover (up from $1 last year) may initially turn off some customers, but if you frequent The Club enough, you can invest in a lifetime membership. For $25, you can free yourself of that $2 cover charge and receive an Alumni Senior Club mug, t-shirt and cap, take advantage of 75 cent refills (when you bring in your mug) and special discounts on drinks.

Every night is a special night at The Club, with mixed drinks and brand beer at special student prices. Wednesdays are dollar import night, where people can dance and eat their dinner for only $1. Friday and Saturday nights are The Club's biggest nights, with a live band, a DJ, and a host of other entertainment options.

Miami destroys Florida State; Hawaii stuns Iowa

Associated Press

While taking care of Florida State in impressive fashion, the Hurricanes continued a glittering run against No. 1 ranked teams in this decade.

Steve Walsh passed for two touchdowns and Cleveland Gary ran for one to lead the Hurricanes. Miami used a lightning-quick defense to smother one of the nation's most explosive offenses, limiting Florida State to 91 yards in the first half and permitting the Seminoles to cross midfield just twice in the first two periods.

So dominant was Miami's defense that FSU tailback Sammie Smith, who rushed for a school-record 123 yards last year, was held to just six yards, a career low, on 10 carries.

Hawaii 27, Iowa 24

Freshman place-kicker Jason Elam, making up for a key earlier miss, hit two fourth-quarter field goals and Hawaii held on to upset Iowa.

Iowa just missed tying the game when a 43-yard field goal attempt by Iowa place-kicker Jeff Skillet fell short with 21 seconds remaining. Before connecting on his game-winning field goals, Elam had missed one in the third quarter.

Elam's second field goal put Hawaii ahead to stay with 1:36 left. Skillet had tied the game for Iowa on a 44-yard field goal with 7:48 left.

Nebraska 63, Utah St. 13

Quarterback Steve Taylor ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to lead the Cornhuskers past Utah State, their second victory in two tries.

Irish volleyball spikes Hoosiers in home opener

By GREG SHECKENBACH
Sports Writer

The Irish women's volleyball team started the season Saturday night with a bang. Or maybe it was a boom. “Boom” was the cheer from the Irish fans at the Joyce ACC as Notre Dame spiked its way to an impressive 15-9, 15-7, 15-7 victory over state rival Indiana.

After starting slowly in the first game, Notre Dame easily outmatched the Indiana team with an assortment of shots that included power spikes, quick sets, and finesse dinks. The serving in the first game did not please Irish head coach Art Lambert as Notre Dame put five serves into the net. The team rebounded with four service aces in the following two games.

Senior outside hitter Zanette Bennett, who led the team with 14 kills, blasted her way farther into the record books as Notre Dame's career kill leader. She also led the squad with 10 digs, most of which were of spectacular fashion.

Indiana's leaders were Liz Armbrecht and Jill Beggs, who each contributed nine kills. Indiana had a kill percentage of .136 compared to Notre Dame's .483.

Arrambust and Jill Beggs, who each contributed nine kills. Indiana had a kill percentage of .136 compared to Notre Dame's .483.

Art Lambert was pleased with the results of the opening match. “I am happy with the way we played, but we had too many unforced errors,” he said. “If we do that against Stanford (the next Irish opponent) we'll get beat.”

“Consistency was a weakness tonight,” added Lambert. “We would phase in and phase out giving them three or four point spurts.”

Lambert was especially pleased with Junior Kathy Cunningham and freshman Julie Brenner. Cunningham, who is coming off shoulder surgery for an injury suffered early last season, contributed eight digs and six kills. Brenner gave Irish hitters 29 assists from the setter position. She also stuffed the Hoosiers with a variety of quick hits from everywhere on the court.

“We'll be learning to play with much more intensity if we plan on beating Stanford,” said Brenner.

Maureen Shea and Mary Kay Waller dominated at the net for the Irish throughout the match. They had nine and eight kills respectively. The major contribution of the two six-foot seniors was their play at the net. They snuffed out Indiana's big hitters with numerous blocks.

“In the first few points we definitely had first game jitters, but we settled down in the second and third games,” Waller said.

Senior Whitney Shewman came off the bench to add eight digs, which was second on the team. Freshman Joanna Bruno played well despite game jitters. She had seven kills and two service aces along with four assists to Irish hitters.

“I was really nervous,” Bruno said. “I was shaking on the first play, and the first hit came right to me.”

Overall, Notre Dame dominated almost every aspect of the match. The Irish will be looking for an equal performance against fourth-ranked Stanford Wednesday night. Last season, Stanford was the runner-up in the NCAA tournament.

Sports team takes tourney by beating Lafayette 3-2

Steve LaVigne started the Irish spurt by scoring at 51:00. Robe Behrje tied the game 14 minutes later, and Joe Sternberg scored the championship-winning goal with eight minutes left in the game.

Randy Morris recorded two assists during the Lafayette game to become Notre Dame's all-time career leader in that category. Morris has 31 career assists.

In Saturday's game with Maine, Bruce "Tiger" McCourt led the Irish attack with two goals.

Tom Conaghan started the scoring against the Bears at 23:00. Tony Zendejas, who missed a 1-0 lead The score remained 1-0 at halftime.

McCourt scored one goal at 60:00, on an assist by Morris, then added his second goal with help from Sternberg at 79:00.

Brown runs 97 yards for LA

Beuerlein gets first NFL start in 24-13 Raider victory

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown returned the first kickoff of his NFL career 97 yards for a touchdown as the Raiders began the climb back from their worst season in 25 years.

Brown's return with 1:43 to go before halftime followed Vince Abbott's 23-yard field goal and gave the Raiders a 14-0 first-period lead.

Steve Beuerlein, another former Notre Dame standout, completed only 13 of 29 passes for 171 yards in his first NFL start.

The Raiders, 5-10 last season, limited San Diego to only a 54-yard scoring pass from Babe Laufenberg to Jamie Holland with 3:30 to play.

Marcus Allen ran for two Raider touchowns.

Bears 34, Dolphins 7

Jim McMahon, whose ailing shoulder had robbed him of the ability to pass and the Chicago Bears of their inspirational leader, guided a devastating attack on Sunday that buried the Miami Dolphins 34-7.

McMahon ran for two touchdowns and led the Bears on two other long scoring drives to keep the ball away from Miami quarterback Dan Marino.

On the rare occasions that Marino had the ball, the Chicago defense routinely destroyed his pass pocket, limiting him to a career-low nine completions and sacking him once.

"A lot of people wrote us off," McMahon said. "But we have a lot of confidence in this team. We accept the role of underdogs."

"We went out there and played as bad as we've ever played," Miami coach Don Shula said. "We were bad in all phases - offense, defense and special teams. I'm bitterly disappointed in our team."

"Neal Anderson scored two touchowns, the second after Richard Dent's fumble recovery on the Miami 1-yard line, for a 14-0 first-period lead.

Steve Grogan threw for 256 yards and two touchowns, both to Irving Fryar, and rookie Teddy Garcia added three goals for New England.

The Patriots led just 6-3 at halftime despite Grogan's 165 passing yards against an inexperienced Jets secondary. A short punt sent up Grogan's 51:00. Rolfe Behrje tied the game 14 minutes later, and Joe Sternberg scored the championship-winning goal with eight minutes left in the game.

Randy Morris recorded two assists during the Lafayette game to become Notre Dame's all-time career leader in that category. Morris has 31 career assists.

In Saturday's game with Maine, Bruce "Tiger" McCourt led the Irish attack with two goals.
