WASHINGTON - George Bush spent his last day as vice president Thursday rehearsing the presidential inaugural address he will deliver at noon today and saluting the mentor whose shoes, he said, would be "pretty darn hard to fill."

On the eve of his installation into the heavy responsibilities of office, Bush was upbeat. "I really feel this," he said. "Our best days are yet to come."

Bush spent much of the day out of the public eye, preparing for one sentimental last visit to the Oval Office as a loyal subordinate, giving interviews and rehearsing the 15-minute address, giving interviews and preparing for a sentimental last visit to the Oval Office as a loyal subordinate, giving interviews and rehearsing the 15-minute address, giving interviews and preparing for one sentimental last visit to the Oval Office as a loyal subordinate, giving interviews and rehearsing the 15-minute address.

For this state occasion, Washington's weather was glorious. Visitors and Washingtonians alike strolled with topcoats unbuttoned in the balmy-for-January sunshine. A mixture of sunshine and clouds, with an afternoon chill, was predicted for today, when Bush takes the oath.

Bush, appearing before an audience of top high school students from around the country, was upbeat. "I don't know where they are," the outgoing president admitted, saying any rescue attempt would have been foolhardy.

"There hasn't been a moment that this hasn't been on my mind," Reagan told news service reporters.

IN BRIEF

At least 20 percent of American adult men have had one or more homosexual experiences, and a minimum of 3.3 percent have such contacts with some frequency, according to a study by the National Research Council. The study, an analysis of data collected by questionnaire in 1970 and in a 1988 national survey, suggests that the minimum number of American men who have had at least one homosexual experience is lower than the estimates compiled 40 years ago by famed sex researcher Alfred Kinsey. The study indicates there is a need to compile accurate data on homosexuals in order to assess the progress of the epidemic of AIDS. - Associated Press

A therapy using foreign genes transferred into human patients to fight cancer was approved for the first time on Thursday, clearing the way for limited trials of an experiment researchers hope will lead to improved treatment of a type of skin cancer. The National Institutes of Health and the Food and Drug Administration approved the use of a rat virus to manipulate a gene that can then be used in the experimental treatment of melanoma, a virulent and often fatal skin cancer. "Every patient we treat has advanced metastatic cancer and will die within a few months unless this treatment works," said Dr. Stephen Rosenberg, who pioneered the therapy. - Associated Press

Violence in Miami's black neighborhoods ebbed Thursday as officials estimated riot damage to buildings at less than $1 million and the community began examining the underlying causes of the uprising. Police spokesman Ray Lang said Thursday evening that no more arrests had been made than for the evidence that Miami's Overtonway, easternmost Miami's Ospreyway, was very calm. "I can't think of anything that happened," Lang said. "It's super quiet." - Associated Press

Heart disease patients who smoke are three times more likely to have chest pains and restricted blood flow to their hearts than those who don't light up, researchers say in a study touted as the long-sought "smoking gun." The finding is the first direct evidence that cigarette smoking and heart disease, said an editorial accompanying the study in Friday's Journal of the American Medical Association, is a "smoking gun." Mark McLaughlin, a spokesman for the tobacco industry's Washington-based Tobacco Institute, disputed that view. "This is not really enough evidence to make such a claim," he said in a telephone interview Thursday, noting the study involved only two dozen smokers. - Associated Press

But, while NCAA sports have reached its highest point competitively, they have never been so maligned with the wrongdoings of dopped up players, win-at-all-cost coaches and athletic directors, and overzealous boosters. And so now, those who have created, or at least allowed, the turmoil to go unchecked saddled up their white horses and rode into San Francisco for their annual get-together. This would be the year, the athletic directors decided, that they would take action to stop the beating that academia is taking from athletics. From this gallant effort came Proposition 42, an amendment to Proposition 46 placing stricter academic requirements for high school athletes receiving college scholarships. The athletic directors' collective genius said that Proposition 42, like today's college athletes, must be bigger and stronger. Its creation, however, has left Georgetown coach John Thompson crying foul, Temple coach John Chaney crying racism, and bunches of high school stars crying because many will be sitting at home in 1990. The blunder lies in this. Proposition 42 says that high school athletes who don't score a 700 on the S.A.T. or 15 on the A.C.T. and get a 2.0 in core classes cannot receive financial aid for four years to be accepted into a university. So, instead, kids who do well enough in high school for four years to be accepted into a university, but fail on a three hour standardized test can't go to a decent school on scholarship. Wasn't Proposition 42 effective? It proved to be enough to sit out a player, such as Tony Rice, for one or two years and make sure his grades checked out before allowing him to suit up. The NCAA made a good move last week in clearing up discrepancies by eliminating the partial qualifiers clause which even further clarifies Proposition 42 requirements for all schools. They should have stopped there. With Proposition 42, universities will deny the former Proposition 48 casualty from ever making good on an opportunity he deserves. If Proposition 48 wasn't tough enough, it wasn't the players' fault. It was a clear and effective deterrent and schools succeeded more than they failed in getting freshman casualties adjusted for academic and athletic life at a university.

With Proposition 42, more rules will be broken and it will be dirtier than ever. Boosters, who are possibly harder to check than anyone in sports, are going to offer to pay for academic casualties to attend their school. The players, in exchange, are going to give four years of athletic excellence on the field. The NCAA had a good thing going with Proposition 48. Players, like Tony Rice, are given the opportunity they have earned and many more have made good than failed on that opportunity. The funny thing about the whole change is that administrators around the country debate as to whether standardized testing is accurate, fair or possibly biased. Now the NCAA has made it the bottom line across the board. Fortunately, the NCAA has a chance to over­ turn Proposition 42 in its next meeting before it is to be enacted in 1990. Here's hoping that is.

Reagan pardons 10, including George Steinbrenner

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has pardoned George Steinbrenner, the owner of the New York Yankees major league baseball franchise who was fined $15,000 for campaign law violations, a senior White House official said Thursday.

The official, discussing a series of Reagan pardons on grounds he not be identified publicly, said that Steinbrenner's pardon was among 10 the president approved on Tuesday and Wednesday. The official would not speculate on whether Reagan would grant any more pardons before concluding the presidency on Tuesday.

During an interview with the chief wire services Thursday, Reagan had said only that there "have been some recommendations" from the Justice Department, whose pardons office reviews pardon pleas.

Steinbrenner was the only well-known beneficiary of the Reagan pardons, the other nine men having been convicted of violations ranging from illegal possession of firearms and income tax evasion to concealing non tax-paid whisky.

Steinbrenner, principal owner of the New York Yankees, pleaded guilty in 1974 to charges of conspiring to violate federal election laws in connection with corporate campaign contributions.

are going to be pretty darn hard to fill," he said.

Vice President-elect Dan Quayle, appearing separately before the same students, made a confession: "as one looks back at life, I'll wish I had taken education more seriously." The Bushes and the Quayles planned to join 12,000 other black tie revelers at a $9 million entertainment gala, televised live to the nation, on the eve of Bush's big day.

In the Capitol, where workers buffed the heavy mahogany doors through which Ronald Reagan will usher his successor, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved Bush's senior cabinet appointee, Secretary of State-designate James Baker III, who had appealed for an hour and a half before the same students, borrowed a line from Franklin Roosevelt: "we can't always build a future for our youth, but we can build our youth for the future."

"I really feel this: our best days are yet to come," the incoming president said.

Bush laughed at himself. "I certainly learned the importance of education during the campaign," he said. "I learned how vital it is to memorize dates - Pearl Harbor day, for example." Bush got that one woefully wrong during the campaign.

But if Bush has straightened out his dates, he still needs help on names. He told the youngsters he hopes to do better in his inaugural address than "Benjamin Harrison did. He spoke for an hour and a half and then got pneumonia and died a few weeks later." Actually, that was William Henry Harrison, Benjamin's grandfather.

Soviets to pull weapons out of Afghanistan

Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria - The 50,000 Soviet troops being pulled out of Eastern Europe will take the nuclear missiles and other arms under their control with them, the Soviet foreign minister said Thursday.

A NATO spokesman welcomed the announcement by Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze as encouraging. U.S. arms negotiator Stephen Ledogar said the speech was "very upbeat, very positive," but warned against reading more into the statement than the Kremlin intended.

Shevardnadze's speech came on the final day of a gathering that produced a 35-nation human rights accord. Shevardnadze said the agreement was the product of a changing relationship between East and West.

"The Vienna meeting has shaken up the Iron Curtain, weakened its rusty supports, made new breaches in it and hastened its corrosion," he said, referring to the East-West division as Winston Churchill described it 40 years ago.

"Truth must be visible," Shevardnadze said in promising that the Kremlin would publish before the end of the month a timetable for troop removal.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, in a unilateral move, announced in December that Soviet forces would be cut by 500,000 soldiers, including 50,000 stationed in Eastern Europe.

Shevardnadze said the troops departing Eastern Europe will take with them "all their organic armaments, including tactical nuclear systems."

He also said the Soviet Union has stopped modernizing its short-range nuclear weapons and called on the United States to follow suit.

Handicapped students replace lost leprechaun

Associated Press

JEFFERSON, Pa. - Handicapped students in Michael Kulish's shop class fought back the disappointment of learning a thief at the Fiesta Bowl had stolen the leprechaun that they had given Notre Dame and crafted an even bigger mascot for the Fighting Irish.

"These kids are excellent students if given the opportunity. But all to often these kids get shrugged off," Kulish said Thursday from the Mon Valley Secondary School.

They weren't shrugged off by Notre Dame, whose alumni were delighted by the brightly colored 4-by-4 foot leprechaun on display at a hospitality center at the Fiesta Bowl.

"I had no idea it would look as good as it did and get as much attention as it did out in Phoenix. Everybody wanted their picture taken with it," said Charles Lennon, executive director of the alumni association.

"Someone out there really liked it," because the plywood rendering disappeared from the Princess Resort, he said. Kulish's students took the affair to heart.

"They were somewhat dependent when they came back to school," from their Christmas break, having watched in vain for their leprechaun during televised coverage Jan. 2 of Notre Dame's victory over West Virginia for the national college football championship.

They later learned what happened to it and agreed to try again.

"We couldn't wait to get started," Kulish said.

The new mascot is a 6-by-4 foot pipe-smoking, bearded elf sitting on a football, which is cradled by a base labeled "The Fighting Irish, National Champions."

President P.W. Botha, hospitalized Friday, January 20, 1989 in Cape Town, South Africa -

Heunis was sworn in Thursday at Tshwane, the state president's official residence in Cape Town. In his Cabinet post, Heunis has been assigned to develop a constitutional format that would give blacks limited power sharing with the white-run government. Most prominent black leaders have refused to negotiate with Heunis, and the government's political reform process is widely perceived to be at a standstill. Heunis had been considered a contender to succeed Botha on a permanent basis, but his political fortunes have fallen during the past two years.

There have been reports in recent months that Botha planned to replace Heunis because of his inability to persuade black leaders to participate in negotiations.

Also, Heunis only barely won re-election to Parliament in 1987 when he was challenged by Denis Worrall, who had recently quit as South Africa's ambassador to Britain to run as an independent.

As prime minister, and later as president, Botha pushed through the first significant racial reforms undertaken during the National Party's 40-year rule, such as legalization of black trade unions and abolition of pass laws that restricted blacks' movements.

But Botha has refused to discuss the possibility of a one-person, one-vote system in South Africa, where 8 million whites control the government and economy.

Gunman had 'hate for everybody'

Associated Press

STOCKTON, Calif. - Patrick Purdy, the gunman who killed five Southeast Asian children in a crowded schoolyard, had no grudge against any particular ethnic group, just "a hate for everybody," police said Thursday.

Thirty other people were wounded in Tuesday's attack at Cleveland Elementary School, which ended when Purdy - a loner with drug and alcohol problems and a fascination with all things military - killed himself.

Most of his victims were children of Southeast Asian refugees, but Capt. Dennis Perry said: "through his lifetime, Mr. Purdy developed a hate for everybody."

Perry said Purdy's enemy list apparently varied from day to day. He might be mad at one group but "the next day, if he talked to Joe Dokes and he talked about the Lebanese... he probably didn't like them either."

Purdy was described as a loner by himself and others and suffering from "mild mental retardation" in a mental health report prepared after his arrest in El Dorado County in 1987, Perry said. Arrested for firing at trees with a pistol, he tried to hang himself and slit his wrists while in custody, authorities said.

Perry described Purdy, who attended the school as a boy, as a "loner, no friends, no particularly known girlfriends, a problem with alcohol, a problem with marijuana and a distinct dislike for everybody - not a particular person, just everybody."

"In a way he beat us, because we'll never know" why he did it, said Perry, chief of the investigation.

The Bergoff is Chicago's most famous old beer tavern. Features (and families who) food and its own Bergoff beer, the Bergoff is a stop worthy of the beer connoisseur. Bergoff beer is brewed by Huber exclusively for The Bergoff and the delicate nuances of the Augsberger beer, another beloved home brew.

Located at 17 W. Adams St. in the Loop, The Bergoff is just a few blocks away from the Art Institute of Chicago. The linen tablecloths, wooden tables and floors, and mature German-speaking waiters contribute to the restaurant's Old World atmosphere.

We visited The Bergoff for lunch and found the food and service excellent. The bratwurst ($4.95) came with excellent sauerkraut and red potato salad ($4.95) was similarly served and was also superb. The lunch menu also featured many other reasonably priced items such as steak and Mahi mahi. In addition to the above, all meals were served with sliced rye bread.

Bergoff offered a light and dark version of its beer ($1.35 a stein). The light was a sweet, smooth beer similar to Augsberger. Bergoff dark, although good, was not as heavy as the typical dark beer.

At lunchtime may be long, so you get there or go at an odd time. Lunchtime dinners may also get larger

Has the Mother of God really appeared at Medjugorje over six thousand times? Don't I know that she believes, but who cares, and is there a faith topic that is a faith problem? Did she really say that now the Charismatic Movement has peaked, and a devotion to Our Lady of Medjugorje is what God is planting in churches, as a replacement for the gift of tongues? The Pentecostalists may say they like English over this bit; but, like the rest of us, they are free to accept or reject as private revelation.

When Medjugorje is touted as an "urgent message from heaven for the given in a Marxist country," we're suddenly in the presence of a threat meant for all of us. Father Rene Laurentin, "a theologian of international repute," writes, "Self-destruction because of sin, in the precise meaning of the less secrets which have not yet been divulged." He adds, "This is a very important thing because for the first time, in history, there is a movement that will follow, if there are miracles and love is in the air, so miracles can happen. The Pope has the power to make Medjugorje a true oracle of prophecy and means the acceptance of Mary as a prophet of doom like the televangelists, and that's what Mary should mean to us as Christ's mother and the mother of the Church.

It seems to me that if Medjugorje is true, it turns the Church into a circus. The Pope and the bishops are in the ring, the Church is the big top, and half a billion eyes are on them. Meanwhile, God's Church is the circus tent, and God's own side-show, and she's upstairs, in a room, sending him notes by her own team of performers, who would have a better idea of what they were doing if they were trained seals. As a result, the Pope gets jerked around like Jumbo the elephant, and when he dances on command like a parakeet, the rest of us have to dance too, if we want to stay in step.

Isn't that the way it would be? Medjugorje is true? Wouldn't that be a crazy way for Christ to run His Church, as if He didn't know what was going on and only half a billion eyes were on him. Meanwhile, God's Church is treading water, and God's own side-show, and she's upstairs, in a room, sending him notes by her own team of performers, who would have a better idea of what they were doing if they were trained seals. As a result, the Pope gets jerked around like Jumbo the elephant, and when he dances on command like a parakeet, the rest of us have to dance too, if we want to stay in step.

And so are good things happening at Medjugorje? It wouldn't surprise me. Obviously, a climax to the world's creation, and love is in the air, so miracles can happen. You can't say I don't believe that a Holy Father or a Buddhist can tell you of miracles when they happen when you love and believe in God.

Nevertheless, the final warning about the punishment the world will follow, if there is no repentance, is given in the air as a threat, therefore, an act of faith, and this act of faith means the acceptance of Mary as a prophet of doom like the televangelists, and that's what Mary should mean to us as Christ's mother and the mother of the Church.
The Eighties: Reagan's Years of Glitz

As the Great Communicator rides off into the sunset today, the eighties will come to a close. True, according to the calendar, there are two more years left in the decade, but the eighties as a decade will end when George Bush ascends the throne.

Tom Varnum
third and long

Having the eighties end a bit early is not unusual. Decades do not always follow the calendar. The fifties began in 1945 following the end of World War Two and ended in 1963 with gunshots in Dallas. The sixties followed and continued until 1974 when the Watergate scandal forced President Nixon to resign. The seventies ended January 20, 1981 with the inauguration of Ronald Reagan.

When the eighties began, the class of 1989 was preparing to enter high school. As the eighties come to a close, the class of 1989 is preparing to graduate from college. Like it or not, we are the generation of the eighties. Forever our names will be linked with MTV, microwave ovens, VCR's, safe sex and the teflon mantle from Ronald Reagan.

Reagan personifies the attitude of the eighties. When people look back trying to comprehend the eighties, their eyes will come to rest upon the face of Reagan and they will understand. He will be known for reviving the American spirit. The Seventies dealt crushing blows to the American ego. Vietnam to Watergate, the recession of the seventies, hostage takeovers and the American spirit took a beating. Into this patriotic vacuum arrived one Ronald Reagan. Before his becoming President, Reagan was a former Hollywood actor, entering his seventies, occupying the highest office in the land. His election set the tone for the eighties: if you project the right image, anything is possible. Look good and people won’t mind. If something goes wrong, smile and deny responsibility. Following Reagan's election, America no longer cared whether she made mistakes or not as long as she looked good making them.

Certainly, this philosophy did wonders for an economy that was looking good and showing it. Still concerned about Vietnam? No problem.

Debates challenge students' intellect

In the beginning of this past year Student Government laid out as one of its major agenda items various programs to increase the level of debate and discussion on campus. In addition to the many programs we have sponsored thus far, a campus wide debate called “The Debate” has been organized in order to generate intellectual enthusiasm. This series, to begin at the end of this month, will address crucial social, political, and religious issues. Starting as early as August, the format of last year the rector of Sorin Hall, Joe McKenna, assumed the responsibility of organizing this large and complex event and already the debate is shaping up to be a tremendous affair.

The Iceberg debates, as they have come to be called, should have twenty-six re-teams sponsored by each residence hall. Each four-member team will compete through a series of elimination rounds until the two teams reach the finals. The winning hall will receive $500 along with many other prizes.

More importantly, this series represents an opportunity for this community to study and discuss, by informed discourse, many of the pressing issues of our day. It brings alive the true meaning of a University community. The range of topics and ideas can be analyzed through thoughtful, intelligent discussion. It has been too long since we have seen events like these occurring at Notre Dame with any regularity. If this project is judged to have merit and substance by the people who participate and attend, then we could begin this year a valuable tradition that enhances the intellectual character of Notre Dame. Obviously, this event will not satisfy by itself all the needs for debate and discussion on campus. However, a project such as this is a large step in the right direction. I am sure fulfilling out mission as a truly academic community.

The debate topics that the consultant committee will select should be exciting and controversial. These themes will challenge all of us to think about critical issues that face us as an academic and intellectual community. Participation and attendance in the Iceberg debate series will be necessary for its success. We hope that this event will stir this campus to reflect and argue challenging questions and aid in producing a more thoughtful University and intellectually exciting student body.

Jerry Durso and Todd Layton each recorded pins to lead the Notre Dame wrestling team to its 34-7 rout of Illinois State University Thursday night at Normal, Ill.

With a 6-0 record, the Irish are off to their best start in dual meets since the 1983-84 season, when Notre Dame won its first 11 matches en route to a 14-6 finish. The Irish currently are ranked 18th in the nation.

Durso, the 134 pound co-captain, earned the 116th victory of his collegiate career. The senior, a native of Plainfield, N.J., is only two wins off Phil Baly's school record for career victories.

Durso posted a 32-7 record his freshman year, went 30-5 as a sophomore and a 38-8 slate last year. He has won 21 matches so far this season.

The two teams also are similar in one other facet: both teams are having a hard time from the foul line this year. Syracuse, historically a poor free throw shooting team, is shooting 30 percent from the line. Notre Dame, normally effective from the line, but the Irish are shooting just 44 percent so far this season.

Freseman forward LaP homo Ellis leads the Irish in both scoring and rebounding with 15.9 points and 11.5 rebounds per game. Guards Joe Fredrick and Jamere Jackson average 13.6 and 13.4 points.

"They're very physical on their best strengths, rebounding and defense," said Phillips. "That's probably one of their best strengths, rebounding and defense."
ND setter's wish comes true
Bremner becomes youngest player on National Team

By GREG SCHWARTZENBACH
Sports Writer

People often wish for things after they see a falling star. Usually, the wish is not granted, but in a few instances that special dream can become reality.

Notre Dame freshman Julie Bremner is the recipient of one of those special dreams that come true. She was the first Notre Dame player ever to be selected on the United States National Volleyball team, which consists of numerous players from the 1988 Olympic team that participated in Seoul. She will share playing time with two other setters, both of whom are older and more experienced.

Bremner, who is only 19, leads the Irish to the final 16 in the NCAA Tournament before bowing out to eventual semifinalist Illinois. She will be the youngest player on a team that averages 28 years of age.

“I just don’t enjoy playing right now,” said Wilander, who won three of the four Grand Slam titles last year. “I can’t seem to get motivated.”

Wilander’s motivational problems were glaringly apparent against the 27-year-old Krishnan, a smooth-stroking Indian whose father was a Wimbledon semifinalist in 1960 and 1961.

Krishnan, ranked 51st in the world, baffled Wilander with a grab-bag arsenal of off-speed shots and forced the defending champion into a series of uncharacteristic errors.

“It’s the biggest win of my career,” said Krishnan, who won a warm-up tournament in New Zealand last week. “To beat the No. 1 player in the world is very thrilling.”

Craig: No shuffle, just performance

MIAMI - Roger Craig won’t unveil a Super Bowl shuffle if he scores a touchdown on Sunday. But Craig is likely to do plenty of high-stepping between the end zones.

Cincinnati’s Ickey Woods has drawn the thickest crowds of reporters in any running back in NFL experience and one Super Bowl ring up on Woods, just chuckles about being upstaged by a “Ickey Shuffle” all over Dade County.

Craig, who is five years’ NFL experience and one Super Bowl ring up on Woods, just chuckles about being upstaged by a showman.

“As long as I show my work on the field, that’s fine,” he said Thursday. “I think my high knee action is good enough.”

Besides, he said, Coach Bill Walsh frowns on flashiness.

“I might spike it if I score,” Craig said. “As far as dancing, it’s not in our system to do things like that.”

Behind Craig’s club-record 1,560 yards, the 49ers were the No. 2 team in the league in rushing this season, trailing only the Bengals. But while Cincinnati has a two-pronged running attack in Woods (1,066 yards) and James Brooks (931) as ball-carriers, Craig is San Francisco’s only big-yardage runner.

“I knew coming into the season as the halfback that I was going to carry the ball more,” said Craig, whose 310 carries were 96 more than his previous season high. “I knew I was going to be the main man.”

He responded by dropping 15 pounds for extra speed and going on grueling training runs in the hills of the San Francisco Peninsula in the offseason.

Craig had seven 100-yard rushing games in the regular season and another in the playoffs, and caught 26 passes for 372 yards. His 1,502 yards are the most in league.

I saw that my teammates were expecting me to come up with big plays to carry them this season,” he said. “I brought out the best in me.”

“So did the holes opened by those earlier losses as it takes the ice this weekend.”

Revenge has been our theme all week in practice,” said center Brian Montgomery. “They took a couple from us at the beginning of the year, and we need to show that we’re a good team.”

On a recent eastern road trip, the Irish outplayed national power Boston College in the third period, only to lose 7-5.

“That third period showed us that it was time for us to get some wins,” said Gosselin.

After a split with Army, Notre Dame did collect a pair of wins. In front of 11,000 fans at Arizona, the Irish scored a total of 19 goals to sweep a two-game series against the Ice Cats.

The Irish hope this recent surge brings a successful ending to a season that featured a tough schedule.

“We have a few wins under our belt now, which should help us build up to a strong finish,” said right wing Dave Bankoske.

A strong team effort will be needed tonight for an Irish win, according to Gosselin.

“Beating Notre Dame makes their season. We’ve had a few good practices and I think we’re ready to play. A few of our players had the flu while we were on the road trip, but everyone’s well and ready to go,” said Gosselin.

Lance Madison will be back in goal tonight after suffering a slight injury in the first game at Arizona. Backup netminder Mark O’Sullivan stepped in for the second game to record his first win of the season, stopping 37 shots.

Fencers open 1989 season

BY CHRIS FILLIO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame fencing team will begin their respective seasons this weekend as they travel to Chicago for the first competition of the year. An East Coast trip scheduled to take place during the Christmas vacation had to be cancelled due to conflicts within the academic schedules of some schools. The meet was to have included St. John’s, NYU, MIT, Harvard, Brown, and Princeton.

Despite the lack of any prior meets this year, head coach Michael DeCicco feels quite optimistic about this weekend’s action. “We’re going into the season without me knowing as much as I’d like to about our teams,” said DeCicco. “The important thing is to fence as intelligently as we are capable of doing, and we should come out in good shape.”

The Irish will face the University of Chicago, Lawrence, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan-Dearborn, and Oberlin.

According to DeCicco, the toughest bouts will probably come against Chicago and Wisconsin, two Midwest schools with reputable fencing programs. Wisconsin possesses an excellent foil team while Chicago will have one or two strong fencers in all three weapons.

The women’s team will have to compensate for the loss of four-time All American Molly Sullivan as well as All American junior Anne Barreda who is presently enrolled in the Anderson foreign study program. This year the Irish women will be led by captain Janice Hynes and seniors Brenda Leiser and Kristin Krachek, all members of the 1987 NCAA championship team. In addition, Hynes and freshman Heidi Piper (Brisbane, Australia) are returning from recent top performances at the USFA Olympic circuit competition on the West Coast.

“This is their first action as a team,” said DeCicco, “and the key is to work as a team. I’m quite confident about the women.”

As in past years, the men’s team present a solid lineup in each weapon. Heading the foil team once again will be senior All American Yehuda Kovacs. Returning foilists Joel Clark, Derek Roleman and Phil Leary will also travel this weekend. The epee squad will be led by seniors Ted Fad, Mark Gugel and Todd Gifflee along with freshmen Joe Cheadle and Mark Lawless. The sabre team will send six fencers—Jeff Rossi, Tim Collins, Dave Kirby, Ed Bauger, Jim Kowalaki, and Bill Pietrusiak. Both the men’s and women’s teams have the depth and experience exhibited by past championship teams. With the addition of leadership and team cohesion, the Irish may be on the threshold of a very promising season. This weekend’s action will take place on Sunday at the University of Chicago.

ND indoor track opens with conference meet

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

The Irish 1989 track season kicked off today at the Meyo Track in the Loftus All-Sports Center as Notre Dame plays host to the seventh annual Midwestern Collegiate Conference Championships.

After a brief period of absence from the MCC, the track team has re-entered the conference along with men’s soccer and baseball.

The meet, scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m. but lasting well through the evening, marks the first time the Irish have hosted a Championship meet since 1990.

Though it is the first meet of the season, the Championships should serve a valuable purpose for the Irish.

"Rarely you run a conference championship the first meet out," said men’s head coach Joe Piane. "But we’ll find out what kind of shape we’re in really fast."

Competing at the Championships will be Marquette, Detroit, Butler, Notre Dame, and Loyola.

Loyola, perennial rival of Notre Dame in cross country, is expected to field a strong team and challenge Notre Dame for the title, especially since the Irish top two distance runners, Dan Garrett and Ron Markovich, will not be running.

Not to worry, track fans, as Garrett and Markovich are not sitting out for any particular injury, but rather to give them a much-needed rest before embarking on a track season that will last into June.

"At the MCC cross country meet (in November), we didn’t beat Loyola by a lot," said Piane, "but yet they’re running all their guys, and they’re going to double-enter runners in at least two events."

"I’m anticipating a big challenge," continued Piane. "I just hope we can win without Garrett and Markovich."

The distance runners are coming off an excellent cross country season in which they finished ninth in the country. Both Garrett and Markovich achieved All-American honors.

Junior Tom O’Rourke and sophomore Ryan Cahill are expected to lead the middle distance and distance runners. Also expected to perform are Robert Fern and Mike Drake.

In the sprinter division, the runners to watch are junior Van Seany and sophomore Richard Culp. Notre Dame, however, is considered stronger in middle distance and distance than sprints and field events.

Sophomore John Cole and Jeff Smith are tops for Notre Dame in the high jump and long jump, respectively.

Despite this, the Irish are not a sprint-dominated team and distance still holds more value than sprints and field events. "It’s our first meet, but we sure don’t like to lose to Loyola," said Tom O’Rourke. "It’s kind of a pride thing."

"We don’t know exactly how good we are," said Ryan Cahill, "but if we can do well in the sprints and field events we can surprise Loyola."

The NDSMC Equestrian Club will hold its first meeting and demonstration for the season Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in room 222 of the Hesburgh Library. All new members are welcome. For more information, call Theresa at x2806. - The Observer

Bengal Bouts training is being held Monday through Saturday from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Training is at the boxing gym near Gate 3 of the Joyce ACC. - The Observer

"Anyone for a chorus of "Happy Trails"?"
Haysbert leads Irish to women's hoop victory

By FRANK PASTOR
Sports Writer

Freshman Comalita Haysbert came off the bench to score 17 points and pull down 10 rebounds as the Notre Dame women's basketball team stunned the No. 14 Orangemen 76-67 at the Joyce ACC.

The Irish (6-4, 1-0) applied full-court pressure by the Lady Titans half, relying on their half-court offense to force 17 first-half turnovers. Comalita Haysbert paced Notre Dame with 12 first-half points, spelling senior Domdra Toney. She was also instrumental in the Irish transition game, tearing down seven boards and hitting point guards Karen Robinson and Carol Elliot in stride with crisp outlet passes.

"Comalita had a great game," said McGraw. "She really played well tonight." Haysbert led four Irish players who scored in double figures. Robinson scored 14 points, Krsisi Davis poured in 12 and Sara Liebesch added 10 points and tied for the team lead with 17 rebounds.

Notre Dame opened up another 29-point advantage early in the second half when Annie Schwartz scored off a beautiful feed from Robinson. Comalita Haysbert The Irish exploded again for 16 unanswered points in a 2:58 span to post a 31-25 halftime lead. Notre Dame held Detroit to under 30 percent shooting in the first half. "I thought that was the best half we played all year," said Irish coach Muffett McGraw. "I think we're beginning to find our offense."
