8 Canadians die in Alaskan crash

Associated Press

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—Canada pulled out of joint cold-weather military exercises Monday, the morning after eight soldiers were killed in the crash of a C-130 transport plane trying to land in icy fog at 50 degrees below zero.

The four-engine Hercules was carrying eight crewmen and 10 para troopers from Ed mo nton, Alberta, to participate in Brim Frost '89 when it crashed Sunday night at the end of the runway at Fort Wainwright, said U.S. army Maj. Sherrel Mock.

Three men were in serious condition, one was listed as sta ble and six others were being held for observation at the base's Bartlett Army Commu nity Hospital, Mock said Monday.

"We don't know if the cold weather had anything to do with it," Mock said. "Tea ms are out there right now, going through the wreckage."

"The investigation is still in its early stages. They're wonder ing if it was the weather or something mechanical."

A 450-man para troop force was to support the U.S. army's 1st Brigade, 6th Infantry Division (Light), as the centerpiece of the Brim Frost ground exercises near Fairbanks.

But after the crash, Canadian offi cials canceled their forces' participation and recalled their remaining aircraft and soldiers, Mock said.

"They canceled because of the equipment they lost (in the crash)," Mock said. "The aircraft was bringing in equipment ranging from snow machines to cold weather gear."

Military planners call Brim Frost "the premier cold weather training exercise in the free world."

But temperatures plunging to more than 60 below zero during the past two weeks have been too much of a test. The bitter cold has caused metal fatigue and rubber failure in trucks and aircraft, stalling equipment and generally slowing maneuvers, Mock said.

"But we've been able to land aircraft," he said.

"Another Canadian C-130 had landed an hour earlier," he said. "The third aircraft in the flight was diverted to the Fairbanks airport because the runway was blocked."

The plane's last contact with the control tower was at 6:47 p.m. There were no explosions or fire after the plane broke in two and skidded to a halt about a quarter-mile down the runway, he said.

Six victims were dead on ar rival at the Army hospital and two others died later, he said.

About 26,000 servicemen, 120 aircraft and 1,000 vehicles from the U.S. army, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard, Na tional Guard, Civil Air Patrol, reserve units and Canadian Forces were participating in the arctic training exercise.

The $15 million exercise began Jan. 20 and is to continue through Feb. 1.

Plane crash

Wreckage from a Hercules C-130 military transport is strewn over the snow at Fort Wainwright Army Post in Fairbanks, Alaska, Sunday. The plane crashed on landing, killing at least seven aboard.

By BRADLEY GALKO

Staff Reporter

The C-2 parking lot, located on Juniper road across from the Computing Center and Mathematics Building, will be closed permanently at the end of this week, according to Phil Johnson, assistant director of Notre Dame Security.

The University will close the northern half of the lot to make room for a new ROTC building that is being constructed over the lot, said Johnson.

Johnson said the construction area will be enclosed by fence, and "...half (of the lot) will remain open and available for parking" during construction. Construction is scheduled to begin Thursday or Friday.

Labeling the lots "interchangeable," Johnson said those with C-2 parking stickers who find the lot too crowded can park in lot B-2 across from the library.

Johnson said the parking lot will be closed "plenty of room" in B-2 for displaced C-2 sticker-holders.

It has not yet been determined whether the C-2 lot will continue to be used by faculty and students if it will be used by military officers after the completion of the ROTC building. "We haven't discussed how the parking will be reallocated...beyond this year," Johnson said.

Old C-2 parking lot to be closed

Associated Press

WASHING TON—Oliver North's Iran-Contra trial will begin today with President Bush free of a subpoena seeking his testimony but with former President Reagan still "subject to call," the judge in the case said Monday.

Portions of Reagan's diary also might be required as evidence, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell ruled. However, he rejected North's subpoena seeking Bush's tes­timony in the trial in which North faces 12 criminal charges.

When North, who was in­dicted last March, walks into the U.S. courthouse near the foot of Capitol Hill, he will be­come the first figure in the Iran-Contra affair to stand tri­al.

Many of the same witnesses who testified in the nationally televised congressional hearings two years ago are ex­pected to be called by the prosecutors, including former Attorney General Edwin Meese III and North's secre­tary, Fawn Hall.

At North's side will be Bren­dan Sullivan, an aggressive Washington lawyer who also represented North before the congressional panels inves tigating the Iran-Contra affair.

At a hearing Friday, the gov­ernment had sought to quash North's subpoenas seeking tes­timony from both Reagan and Bush as well as records from Reagan.

Gesell said North's lawyers have "made no showing that President Bush has any spe­cific information relevant and material to the charges of the indictment which makes it neces­sary or appropriate to re­quire his appearance."

But "President Reagan shall remain subject to call on the subpoena" served on him by North in December, Gesell said in a three-page order.

"The judge said Reagan wouldn't be called as a witness "unless and until" the court is­sues another order after giving by military officers after the completion of the ROTC build­ing. "We haven't discussed how the parking will be reall­ocated...beyond this year," Johnson said.

Reagan 'subject to call' in trial

Opening soon

The Observer / Jim Brain
The Observer
Tuesday, January 31, 1989

INSIDE COLUMN

Sports illustrated sinks with swimsuit issue

Sara Marley
Assistant News Editor

Hey guys, it’s just one week away. You’ve been waiting for it since last February, it’s the Sports Illustrated Swimsuit Issue.

Now you can get your cheap thrills under the auspices of a legitimate “sports” magazine. Forget the humiliation of having to walk into a store and face the cashier who looks like the babysitter you had when you were seven and actually buy your soft-core pornography. Or take the ribbing from your dorm room person for your monthly black wrapped arrival. After all, imagine your mother’s disappointment if by some accident your Playboy or Penthouse subscription was to find its way to your home during the summer.

But what could be safer than Sports Illustrated? Your mother probably gave you your subscription for your thirteenth birthday. Maybe she renews it every year for Christmas.

In keeping with the tradition of the past twenty-five years, America’s most popular publication devoted to sports will abandon shots of muddy football players grinding one another into the dirt and sweaty basketball players getting elbowed and will for one week instead delve its readers, likely women inclusive, with photos of bodacious females wrapped in, well, almost nothing.

Harmless, you say. Hardy, I say.

Two prevailing sentiments can be found at Notre Dame. There are men with bad attitudes about women and women with bad attitudes about themselves. The swimsuit issue propagates both.

Men have a host of excuses for why exactly they “read” this issue. Simple aesthetic appreciation is but one of many women, for example. The high caliber of the photographs, for another. Or maybe it’s a chance to see the exotic locations. Maybe it’s art. The legal connotation of freedom clearly abounds.

The swimsuit issue has nothing to do with sports. It’s an excuse to do with pornography. The issue is not about the issue itself, rather what it stands for and what it leads to.

The swimsuit issue is entirely and simply a representation of women as sexual objects and playthings.

Moreover, it leads the reader to a false expectation of what women really are like. It seems the fitness craze has made very little progress in reforming the ideas of what a woman’s body should look like from the Twiggy look of the sixties. The ideal Barbie-like figure seems to prevail, although now women are supposed to have muscles too and look good in Spandex.

The swimsuit issue is an opportunity for Notre Dame men to compare women at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s to the women in the photos. Look around you. Think about the most beautiful woman you know. I mean personally. Or that cute girl in your 1:15 class. But compare her to the goddesses in SI and she probably looks pretty homely. And she surely looks pretty fat.

Now look at the guys in your classes. Are they trim, athletic deities? In some cases, perhaps.

Do women on campus really eat more ice cream than men? Do they wear sweats more often? What if by general female decree we made it socially unacceptable to, say, wear baseball caps to brunch on the weekends?

It’s true that women criticize men, physically and otherwise, but in no such conspiritive way. There is no national campaign in which women devote a week to gazing at photos and wishing their husbands and boyfriends looked like Greg Louganis or Tom Selleck. Most women would be too busy to do that anyway.

Women on this campus are an easy target. Boys will be boys, it can be argued, but boys grow into men who become fathers and leaders and influencers. The damage done through subtle subjugation of women like the swimsuit issue is not negligible.

Men on this campus spend a lot of time complaining about the women here and very little time doing anything about it. The same guys who will spend half of next week drooling over SI (their roommates will have their copies the other half) will most likely spend next weekend sitting around a dorm room, drinking beer and talking about how ugly and boring the women here are.

If you would try actually (gasp) asking one out or getting to know one, you might actually discover, despite the normal proportions and looks, she could be a genuinely interesting person.

SANCTUARY SAB PRESENTS:
STEVE HARRIS
THE DOPPER RABBIT
FREE!
JAN. 31- FEB. 2
9PM & 11PM
EACH NIGHT
CARROLL AUDIUM
EVERYONE IS INVITED . SMC & ND
STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD
ST. MARY’S COLLEGE
Hesburgh speaks on public service

By CHRISTINE WALSH
Staff Reporter

The bottom line of public service is "You can change the world," according to Father Theodore Hesburgh, who spoke in a lecture Monday for the Hesburgh Program in Public Service.

"I have to confess from the onset, I never in my life had a class in public policy," admitted Hesburgh. He claimed that all of his knowledge in the public policy area came from practical experience, starting in 1954 with an appointment to the board of the National Science Foundation by President Eisenhower, and continuing even today.

There are two kinds of public service, according to Hesburgh. The first is in the government area, and the second in the private sector.

In the public sector, Hesburgh said he has served on such commissions as the National Commission on Civil Rights, the State Department Commission on Education and Cultural Affairs and as an ambassador to the United Nations.

In the private sector, Hesburgh has served the Rockefeller Foundation to alleviate hunger.

Although he played many roles in the shaping of public policy in past administrations, Hesburgh said he did not serve under President Reagan because he had to give up golf, bridge and all remnants of a social life in order to keep up with his work schedule.

"Wherever you go, in the world, you meet interesting people," said Hesburgh.

The greatest rewards of public service is that "You can face God at the end of life and say, 'I tried to love my neighbor,'" said Hesburgh.

SMC strives for minority awareness

By ANGELA MCDONALD
News Staff

Recently Saint Mary's College was the recipient of a $75,000 institutional development grant from Lilly Endowment Inc. According to Brett McLaughlin, public information specialist at Saint Mary's, this grant will be used to implement a diversification program for the Saint Mary's community.

McLaughlin said one of the main features of the program will be the appointment of a MINT (minority, international and non-traditional aged student) director.

To: JUNIORS
All Juniors Planning to Apply to Health Professional Schools

FIRST MEETING
DATE: WEDNESDAY, FEB 1, 1989
TIME: 7:00 PM
PLACE: 127 NIEUWLAND SCIENCE HALL

PLEASE MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO ATTEND

SMC strives for minority awareness

By ANGELA MCDONALD
News Staff

Recently Saint Mary's College was the recipient of a $75,000 institutional development grant from Lilly Endowment Inc. According to Brett McLaughlin, public information specialist at Saint Mary's, this grant will be used to implement a diversification program for the Saint Mary's community.

McLaughlin said one of the main features of the program will be the appointment of a MINT (minority, international and non-traditional aged student) director.

The Observer is always looking for talent. If you have any, come to our offices and start working on your newspaper.

MATEO'S
Two-Buck Tuesday is Back!

Get any 7" sub for only $2.00 every Tuesday. No coupon necessary

SPRING BREAK
SEMINARS
WASHINGTON
THE GLOBAL EDITION
March 5-11
APPALACHIA
INTERDEPENDENCE
March 5-11
In the mountains....
You can change the world.
INFORMATION NIGHT
Tuesday January 31 at Center for Social Concerns
Washington 7-8 pm
Appalachia 8:30-9:30 pm

Throw me something mister

AP Photo
Mardi Gras float riders are greeted by sea of hands and a traditional cry of "Throw me something mister" as the parade rolls through the streets of New Orleans Sunday afternoon. Spring like temperatures greeted the riders much to the delight of all.

The Lilly Endowment grant will be used not only to establish the position of the MINT director, but also to institute "D-2 was crowded, and there was a reluctance to park near the back. C-6 should substantively reduce the crowding in the back. C-5 should substantially reduce the crowding in D-2 and be more convenient for the residents of Breen-Phillips," he said.

Security has sent letters to the four halls' residents whose cars are currently registered in D-2. Johnson said. "Residents of these dorms may trade in their D-2 decals at no expense," he added.

The new lot, designed to accommodate a maximum 170 of cars, "cost about $85,000, which included fencing and lighting."
Foreign study steady despite terrorism

By CATHY FLYNN

Although terrorism is often a major concern for students planning to study abroad, Anastasia Gutting, director of the Notre Dame London program, says the recent Pan Am incident has not caused enrollment in foreign study programs to decline.

"It's like crossing the street," said freshman Julie White, who intends to study in Austria next semester. "You can't let those things (terrorist threats) stop you from living life to the fullest.

The Pan Am flight 103 disaster, in which 30 Syracuse students died, occurred right before Notre Dame students left to study in London for the Spring semester. Gutting said she had expected possible withdrawals from students planning to participate in the program, but they never came.

"I was surprised that none of the students voiced any concern to me," Gutting said. Some of the students who had been in London for the Fall semester had known some of the Syracuse students, she said.

There have never been any cases of terrorism involving Notre Dame students in any foreign study program, according to Isabel Charles, associate provost and director of the Foreign Studies Program. He said the Jerusalem program was cancelled last Spring, however, due to the country's unstable and potentially dangerous political situation.

"If there is a problem, we stay in close contact with the American Embassy in that country," Charles said. "We also talk to the directors of the programs overseas, and they make the decisions as to what action we should take."

The directors of the program teach students how to behave so they can avoid becoming targets of anti-American aggression, according to Charles. She says the students are told not to congregate in "American" places, such as McDonald's, and not to be boisterous and loud.

"When students have had that kind of experience (going abroad), they form an understanding of the United States that they didn't have before," Gutting said. "Seeing the United States through another culture is a growth experience."

Senate meets, sets student government election dates

By FLORENTINE HOELKER

Staff Reporter

Student Senate Monday evening discussed the upcoming student government elections, and a variety of other issues and events were discussed.

Candidates planning to run for the offices of president, vice-president and senator may pick up petitions for office on February 14. The petitions are due on February 17, and campaigning begins February 19 and ends February 26. Primary elections will be held February 27.

The senate also discussed the possibility of student body co-presidents, but decided that an accurate interpretation of the student government constitution prohibited such a possibility.

Student government said they, along with the Office of Student Affairs, are actively working on the problem of off-campus crime. Student Body Vice-President Mike Paese said meetings are being scheduled with both the mayor and the police chief of South Bend to deal with the problem.

"We in student government and the Office of Student Affairs are very concerned. Student Affairs is on top of this issue; off-campus is," Paese said.

Teacher/course evaluation forms are also ready to be sent to the student body. The forms contain eight questions and will be used to assign letter grades to both professors and courses.

A pep rally for the National Championship football team will be held on February 7 in the JACC. According to Student Body President Tom Doyle, the rally promises to be a "gala affair," with the presentation of trophies and highlight films of the football season.

PROJECTED STUDENT ALUMNI RECEPTION

Come mingle with Alumni in the Gold Room of North Dining Hall

4:45-6:30 February 2, 1989

Sponsored by SARG and ND Alumni Association

JPW SEATING

All former seating arrangements have been voided due to inconsistencies in numerous responses. Come to the CCE THIS WEEK on Tues or Wed from 2-10.

You must bring ID's for every person you wish to be seated with.

Maximum 9 ID's per person.

Questions? Call 239-6028 between 2 and 9 p.m. on M, T, W or Th night.
New national health care system is proposed

The proposed strategy of providing access by asking every American to take responsibility for his or her own care and to assume a very small share of the cost of those who cannot assume that responsibility is eminently fair," the commission said in its report.

Without change in the nation's health care system, costs are expected to grow from the current $550 billion a year to $1.5 trillion by the year 2000, said Paul Rogers, a former Democratic congressman from Florida who co-chaired the commission with former Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, a Republican.

The commission-supported by 38 corporations, unions and foundations- spent two-and-a-half years preparing the report. Three former presidents-Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter-served as honorary co-chairmen.

The proposed system would continue a major role for private insurance and would encourage employers to extend such coverage to more employees. All Americans would be covered by a basic package of medical services, which would be the minimum coverage for all private health insurance plans and for a publicly funded benefits pool.

Many workers would continue to get privately financed coverage as an employment benefit, with the employer paying most or all of the premium, and they could add to that coverage if they wanted. Also the federal Medicare insurance program for older and disabled Americans would continue.

Everyone else would be covered by the pool called the Universal Access program. Medicaid, the federal health insurance program for the poor, would be abolished and its recipients would be covered by the new program.

The Universal Access pool would be financed by all employers and by all individuals not covered by Medicare who earn incomes above 150 percent of the poverty level. Under the schedule of fees would be designed to encourage employers to offer coverage to employees and to improve coverage under some existing plans.

"There is strong incentive to keep the pool of people falling into the public system as small as it can be," said Dwe Reinhardt, a Princeton University economist and member of the commission.

Chaos reigns in ticket line

Q. What pairs all the excitement of a world class bout and all the name-calling of WWW wrestling?

A. Keenan Revue ticket distribution.

Gregory Coughran

guest column

All hell broke loose as one overzealous student made a break for the Gate 10 entrance at the Joyce ACC on Friday. And to think I thought that Psychology of The Mob 101, just for kicks.

Finally, a chance to put my classroom knowledge to good use. So what did I do when the whole mob broke and ran for the entrance? Let me just say that while the will of a mob is a powerful thing, individual will is stronger. I walked, sacrificing a good place, but preserving my dignity. I did, however, beat the guy on crutches. It was rather easy after I kicked them from under his arms. There was a lesson to be learned from the witty repartee that took place too.

When the mob finally silenced, and a student in the front said, "They're out of tickets," I was greeted with a cheery chorus of "Crucify him, crucify him!" And judging by the collective will of the mob, they intended to do just that, whether it be to the clever guy with the megaphone yelling, "Please form a single-file line," or the poor soul wearing the USC hat.

Unfortunately, it was short people like myself who suffered. We were crushed, our hands were pinned, and we couldn't get any air. Now I was determined to get a ticket for myself and that special someone who would be my companion, but I would never resort to screaming, "I gotta poke, I gotta poke," just to get a better position. There had to be a better way. There was "Look, there goes Lou Holtz!" Then came the shock.

Someone screamed, "Monk, Monk!" What a relief. Father Malloy could straighten out his "Notre Dame community." But imagine my shock when I saw Monk try to bite someone. Worse yet, Monk was now down among the feet of the angry mob. In his defense, I think he was more scared than angry. I guess I should mention that Monk was someone's pet dog, but nevertheless, what kind of place was this for someone's pet dog, but nevertheless, what kind of place was this for domesticated animals? Surely we were teaching him bad habits.

But wait! The guy with the megaphone came up with a better idea.

"Please form two lines." I had to admit, it was twice as good as his first idea. I guess I should probably make an honest attempt at rectifying this all too-inefficient Notre Dame experience.

Well, here goes.

Giving credit where credit is due, I liked the idea of one of the students in front of me—screaming the tickets. This would discourage those who really have little interest. But if they stood in line long enough under those circumstances, surely they wanted the tickets? I assure you that many people would have preferred to leave when things were getting nasty, but there was no way to get out. We were literally sardines in a can.

Another bonus, Keenan Hall could donate the admission fees to charity. What better way for the Notre Dame community to prove our commitment to an inclusive Notre Dame experience? Distribution might also aid in helping the first digit of our student ID's. I'll admit it, it was humorous at times, but it was also disgusting.

I'm saying there is must be a better way. And to that special person who will get the opportunity to accompany me, I say, "If you knew what I went through to get these tickets, you'd think of a better excuse than I have to wash my clothes that night."
REGIS COCCIA
accept writer

"Mississippi Burning" is a powerful film based on the true events of racism and hatred in Mississippi when segregation practically spanned the entire area between whites and blacks.

Starring Academy Award-winning actor Gene Hackman and Academy Award nominee Willem Dafoe as two FBI agents investigating the disappearance of three young Civil Rights workers in 1964, the movie is a riveting account of segregation in the early days of the Civil Rights Movement.

Hackman and Dafoe discover the bodies of the young Civil Rights workers shot to death by a group of Ku Klux Klan conspirators. They suspect includes the town’s Sheriff’s Department. But neither agent can prove their suspicions.

The straitlaced, by-the-book Special Agent Alan Ward (Dafoe) can’t figure out his partner, Agent Rupert Anderson (Hackman), a streetwise former Mississippi sheriff who doesn’t care how much he helps end the war for the sake of justice. Ward, unable to get any leads on the three murder victims, reluctantly agrees to let Anderson do it his way.

"Just don’t lose sight of whose rights we’re violating," Ward tells Anderson.

"Don’t sit me on your perch, Ward.

"Don’t drag me down to your gutter, Anderson."

JIM DOPPE
accept writer

If you’re a Rush fan, I hereby issue an apology — not for what I’m going to say about them and their latest album, a double live set called A Show of Hands, but as a concession that the band has put out such a disappointing album as this.

This album, like other unfortunate live albums, makes one wonder what the band’s ideas are about performing live. It is an oft-repeated story: a band which has based its career on unique, intimate performances has hit a wall and can think of nothing to do but become a caricature of themselves, a human jukebox — between fifteen and twenty of your favorite hits played as you know and love them for only $17.90! Lame T-shirts extra!

So this album is "good" in the sense that it gives the die-hard fans what they want — the trademarks of Rush: Alex Lifeson’s earthy, David Gilmour guitar riffing, Neil Peart’s lightning-quick, never-out-of-step drumming, Geddy Lee’s hilariously histrionic vocals. But the question which must be asked of this album is, so now that we all know that the band is going to make serious bucks on this album due to the inevitable response from their already established market, what else does the band accomplish? What does it all mean? Quite a problematic question for many bands, but for Rush it is especially acute, since the recent catalog of songs has very little unity in the first place, it is hard to think up a concept to hold this album together. The songs here range from the anti-capitalist "The Big Money" to the anti-everything "The Rhythm Method," Neil Peart’s pointless but obligatory drum solo which, though replete with technical bravado, shows much less innovation, spirit, or out-and-out rage of other "great" rock drummers such as Keith Moon or John Bonham. The album does have its good points, however, their modern classic "Subdivision," a classy handling of the traditional "teen rebellion against social cliques" rock theme, showcases the band at their majestic best. Also, they seem to have resolved their recent identity crisis (i.e., their strong grounding in hard rock combined with emerging pop instincts) to an extent with the ballad "Time Stand Still." It sounds like a pop tune, but it is tender and appealing nonetheless (due in no small part to the wonderful backup singing of Aimee Mann of 'Til Tuesday). Still, the pop much of the rest of the album seems to be oriented towards generic hard rock with only very vague references to the band’s recent album’s final song, "Closer to the Heart," a neo-Speedwagon cliché which, though it galvanizes for "a new mentality, closer to the heart," elicits about as much heart-tugging emotion as, say, Ed Shafer does. So what does it all mean? It means that once again, Rush has dragged out the "melodic hard rock with tricky rhythm" formula this time around.

"Mississippi Burning" is a painful reminder of the temper of that time. It will shock some and anger others, but the film serves as a warning that the bigotry and hatred which inflamed Mississippi during the turbulent 1960s can surface today if society becomes complacent.

This film has all the makings of a great movie and should be a strong contender for Picture of the Year honors. It closes on a chipped tombstone that says "1964 . . . not forgotten." Viewers won’t soon forget "Mississippi Burning."

Gene Hackman (Rupert Anderson) and Willem Dafoe (Alan Ward) star in riveting segregation film, Mississippi Burning.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Viewers reminded of horrors of South

ACCENT
Tuesday, January 31, 1989
page 7

ROBERTO G. GROSELLA
accept writer

Rush fans will be slow to buy new album

"The Rhythm Method," Neil Peart’s pointless but obligatory drum solo which, though replete with technical bravado, shows much less innovation, spirit, or out-and-out rage of other "great" rock drummers such as Keith Moon or John Bonham. The album does have its good points, however, their modern classic "Subdivision," a classy handling of the traditional "teen rebellion against social cliques" rock theme, showcases the band at their majestic best. Also, they seem to have resolved their recent identity crisis (i.e., their strong grounding in hard rock combined with emerging pop instincts) to an extent with the ballad "Time Stand Still." It sounds like a pop tune, but it is tender and appealing nonetheless (due in no small part to the wonderful backup singing of Aimee Mann of 'Til Tuesday). Still, the pop much of the rest of the album seems to be oriented towards generic hard rock with only very vague references to the band’s recent album’s final song, "Closer to the Heart," a neo-Speedwagon cliché which, though it galvanizes for "a new mentality, closer to the heart," elicits about as much heart-tugging emotion as, say, Ed Shafer does.

So what does it all mean? It means that once again, Rush has dragged out the "melodic hard rock with tricky rhythm" formula this time around. It is true that this time put crowd noise behind it (although even that is pushed down in the mix), it is still producing an image of the band’s onstage manner as bland and distant, but it will probably sell. Yes, Rush fans, excusing its superficiality and blandness for the sake of its debut, probably like it. No, I don’t.

Gene Hackman (Rupert Anderson) and Willem Dafoe (Alan Ward) star in riveting segregation film, Mississippi Burning.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES
SPORTS BRIEFS

Bruce Kimball, a 1980 Olympic silver medal-winning diver, was sentenced to 17 years in prison Monday for a high-speed drunken driving accident last summer that killed two teenagers and injured four others. -Associated Press

In college basketball Monday, Pitt edged St. John’s 85-81 in overtime, Indiana whipped Iowa 104-89, Rutgers thrashed St. Bonaventure 79-50 and Boston University brushed Colgate 83-62. -Associated Press

Tom Chambers of the Phoenix Suns, who averaged 33 points, seven rebounds and five assists over his team’s three games, was named NBA Player of the Week for the week ending Sunday. The Suns went 2-1 over that span. -Associated Press

The Off-Campus hockey team has a game against Keenan today at 10:30 p.m. Each player must bring $5 to cover the cost of jerseys. Any players who are not able to come to today’s game should call John Kirk at 289-1124 or Chris O’Grady at 288-2438. -The Observer

Sports Briefs are accepted in writing Sunday through Friday in The Observer offices on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center before 3 p.m. on the day prior to publication. -The Observer

---

Summer Camp

Positions

- Counselors: 21+, coed, sleepaway camp, Mass.achusetts, WSI, arts & crafts, tennis, all land and water sports, drama, gymnastics, piano/organ for shows, judo, dance, photography, computers, nature, wilderness, model rocketry, guitar, yearbook, woodworking, RN, typist, Write: Camp Emerson, 5 Brassei Rd, Eastchester, NY 10707 or call 314/773-9406

BROKEN HOMES

ON SALE NOW with special guest SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4 8:00 PM MORIZ CIVIC AUDITORIUM All seats reserved $15.50 Tickets available at the Civic Auditorium Box Office, Night Winds, Record Connection, and the usual outlets.

---

CorporatePresentation by Shaw Industries

Major Fortune 500 Corporation

Topic: Goodbye College, Hello World of Work

Given to the Marketing Club and the Arts & Letters Business Society All members welcome

Alumni Room of the Morris Inn Tuesday, January 31 at 4:00

---

Mookie Blaylock of the Oklahoma Sooners plays his trademark hawking defense during a game earlier this season. Blaylock’s Sooners moved into the number one position on the Associated Press’ Top 20 college basketball poll yesterday. Details and a list of the Top 20 can be found below.

---

Sooners back into No.1 spot

Illinois, Georgetown and Louisville blow their chances teams at the NCAA Tourney. Phelps attributes that to the rivalry that has developed between the squads. But he also indicates that Notre Dame comes along at a crucial time in the Flyers’ season.

---

Dayton continued from page 12

The fact that Dayton and Marquette have joined the Midwest Collegiate Conference doesn’t mean that the tradition between Dayton, Marquette, DePaul and Notre Dame won’t always be there. But right now, Dayton is just looking for a good road win. They’ve got some confidence after winning three of their last four on the road, and we’d be a nice team for them to beat.

“You have to be on guard against them because they can shoot (three-pointers) when they need to. But nothing changes with us. We want to keep playing a transition game when we can. This is a very talented basketball team that’s just waiting to explode. I just hope it’s not against us.”

---

Summer Service Projects

$1200 Scholarship for eight weeks of your summer devoted to service work

In cities of Alumni Clubs all over the U.S.

APPLICATION DEADLINE FEBRUARY 1

stop by the Center for Social Concerns for info and application
Stanford/Lewis wins

Special to The Observer

The team of Lewis and Stanford Halls won the team title in Non-Varsity Athletics' Late Night Olympics for the third consecutive year last weekend at the JACC.

Lewis-Stanford amassed 1,770 points to outscore second-place Pangborn-Carroll-Siegfried-Le Mans, which had 1,460. The Studs-Chickens have won the event since it started in 1987.

Augusta finished third with 1,435 points.

"We had 281 teams registered in the various activities," said NVA assistant director Sally Derengoski. "That's up over 50 teams from last year. Last year we were pleased, so to go up by that much, we were dumbfounded."

The event, which netted $1,800 to benefit St. Joseph County Special Olympics, began at 9 p.m. Friday and ended at 4:50 a.m. Saturday.

Indiana's Lyndon Jones (4) let this rebound get away against Illinois last week, but he and the Hoosiers didn't let last night's Big Ten game with the Iowa Hawkeyes get away. Indiana won 104-89 at Assembly Hall.

"They had an exceptionally down year last year," said the second-year head coach. "This year they have a nice balance of youth and experience and are very much improved."

Dolhare continued from page 12 consecutive years, leads the series 40-20. Last year, the Irish trounced the Broncos 9-0 but Bayliss professes that last year's decisive victory is not indicative of the current talent on the Western Michigan squad.

Holy Cross Priests & Brothers

Vocation Discernment Retreat

For those who are considering a vocation to priesthood and religious life in Holy Cross as a possibility.

Founders of the University of Notre Dame, Holy Cross Priests & Brothers serve in a variety of worldwide ministries: schools, foreign missions, parishes and auxiliary services.

PURPOSE: To meet and pray with others who are also searching in a supportive atmosphere

DISCERNMENT: Is the art of finding God's will; it is the process of discovering what we are called to be.

PLACE: Fatima Retreat Center – Notre Dame campus

DATE: Begins Friday, February 10th at 7:30 PM

Ends Saturday, February 11th at 9:00 PM

COST: No cost

REGISTRATION: Call Vocation Office at 239-6385

LEGAL AID offers Free legal counseling to N.D. students, faculty & staff.

Call 239-7795 or visit downstairs N.D. Law School

The Nation's Bar Review

Over 100 Centers Nationwide Offering Proven Preparation For The Bar Exams Of:

California Colorado Connecticut Dist. of Columbia Florida Illinois Massachusetts Maine Maryland New Hampshire New Jersey New Mexico New York Pennsylvania Rhode Island Texas Vermont Virginia Wyoming

STANLEY H.
KAPLAN-SMH BAR REVIEW SERVICES

KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

1717 E. SOUTH BEND AVE.

SOUTH BEND, IN 46637

219/272-4135

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND

FOR SPRING BREAK

* 7 NIGHTS - LUXURY CONDOMINIUMS
* ROUND TRIP AIR TRANSPORTATION
* 1 HOUR FREE HOBBY CAT SAILING OR WIND SURFING

$437 INCLUSIVE

To sign up call Bob 283-1521 or

Student Activities Office 239-7308
NEW YORK TIMES CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Gay (13)
2 Skip (10)
3 In the distance (8)
4 Indulge (8)
5 Sheltered from wind (8)
6 Earthly (8)
7 Chasten (8)
8 Agenda of sporting events (12)
9 Gradual (8)
10 Power hungry (8)
11 Carol or Coward (7)
12 Split a log (7)
13 All gone, at dinner (7)
14 Formula of belief (7)
15 Surname of author (5)
16 Support (8)
17 Wings for an angel (8)
18 Star or TV series (8)
19 Was able (8)
20 Become (8)
21 Enraged (8)
22 Reformer's charges (8)
23 Gene of Grace (4)
24 Ever (5)
25 Challenge (7)
26 Pox (5)
27 Filing thread (4)
28 Powell (4)
29 Trump (5)
30 Horse (5)
31 Ignite (5)
32 Sounding (5)
33 Formula of belief (7)
34 Scamp (4)
35 Fad (5)
36 Bellow (5)
37 Meditate (8)
38 A relative (6)
39 Omb (5)
40 Consigned (5)
41 Grounded (5)
42 Tangle (5)
43 Sons (5)
44 Gnome (5)
45 Ate (5)
46 Challenge (7)
47 Pong (5)
48 Encourage (5)
49 Divulged (5)
50 In the line (5)
51 Conformed (5)
52 Greater number (5)
53 Smudge (5)
54 Head of a gang (5)
55 An attempt (5)
56 Stony (5)
57 Above (5)
58 Reward (5)
59 Expense (5)
60 Money (5)
61 Fair (5)
62 Admire (5)
63 English (5)
64 Rocket stage (5)
65 Together (5)
66 Fairy-tale villain (5)
67 Evil one (5)
68 Ruminant (5)
69 Regress (5)
70 Greater number (5)

DOWN
1 Afican republic or state (6)
2 Colossal (5)
3 Mosque priest (5)
4 Tiara (5)
5 Rosy pleasure boat (7)
6 Voically (6)
7 Neutral reformed (5)
8 Madison Ave. come-on (5)
9 Unorthodox, unconventional (5)
10 Denmark's toads (5)
11 Strange (5)
12 Not imaginary (5)
13 Whimsy (5)
14 Draft animals (5)
15 A native (5)
16 Crib (5)
17 Leave (5)
18 Chalice (5)
19 Minicked (5)
20 Colored (5)
21 Boy (5)
22 Made a lapsus (5)
23 Readers (5)
24 Impaired (7)
25 Sausage (7)
26 Heavy hammer (5)
27 Rock reader (5)
28 Appointment (5)
29 Napkin (5)
30 Container for wine (7)
31 Elephant (5)
32 Bewail (5)
33 Hatch (5)
34 Meditate (8)
35 Period (5)
36 Member of a gang (5)
37 Minicked (5)
38 Ink (5)
39 Prince (5)
40 Shells (5)
41 Anted (5)
42 Fledgling (5)
43 Gnome (5)
44 Lest (5)
45 Conformed (5)
46 Monarch (5)
47 Impaired (5)
48 Mammal (5)
49 Type (5)
50 Heart (5)
51 Wrist (5)
52 Mountain (5)
53 Great sound (5)
54 Gazed (5)
56 Bony fish (5)
57 Old fashioned (5)
58 Budapest -- of the line (5)
59 Visual aid for short (5)
60 Biblical palindrome (5)
61 Be bombastic (5)

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

12 Not imaginary
14 Whimsy
18 Draft animals
20 A native
23 Readers
24 Impaired
31 Elephant
34 Meditate
40 Shells
43 Gnome
44 Lest
70 Greater number

COMICS

Bloom County
Berke Breathed
The Far Side
Gary Larson

STUDENT UNION BOARD

MOVIES

Thursday:
SOME KIND OF WONDERFUL

Friday:
WILLOW

Saturday:
ROGER RABBIT

All Shows 8 and 10 pm

COMEDY ZONE

Steve Seagren
Mark Reedy

Thursday 9 pm in Theodore's
Page 12

Sports

Dayton Flyers try to break JACC jinx

By PETE SKIKO
Assistant Sports Editor

The Dayton Flyers come to town Tuesday night to face the Notre Dame men's basketball team.

And if history can be any judge, Don Donaher's squad doesn't have reason to be terribly optimistic.

The Irish have dispatched Dayton in each of the Flyers' 12 visits to the JACC, although Dayton leads the series away from South Bend 9-7.

But whatever history says, Notre Dame head coach Digger Phelps knows Donaher, who is in his silver anniversary year with Dayton, too well to underestimate his 9-7 Flyers.

"Dayton is deceptive at 9-7," said Phelps, whose team picked up a much-needed 64-60 win against Temple on Sunday.

"You can't take their squad lightly, simply because they're as deep as we are as far as experience and personnel is concerned. Their kids have all been there before, and I know Don will have them ready to play." The Flyers will be paced by their junior backcourt tandem of Negele Knight and Ray Springer. Knight's 16 point per game average is a team high, he shoots 50 percent from the field (7-for-13 from the three-point line), and has a team-leading 24 steals and 63 assists. Springer is the Flyers' leading three-point shooter, connecting on 21 of his 50 attempts from 19 feet, nine inches and beyond. The junior (9.8 ppg, 4.4 rpg) also leads Dayton in free-throw shooting percentage.

Dayton's leading rebounder is the team's only senior, forward Steve Pettman (13.3 ppg, 6.3 rpg). His partners in the frontcourt are junior forward Anthony Corblitt (7.3 ppg, 5.9 rpg) and center Bill Uhli (6.7 ppg, 2.8 rpg).

"Dayton has routinely played the Irish tough, despite the lopsided record between the two

see DAYTON, page 9

Notre Dame women's tennis drops two over weekend

By CHRIS COONEY
Sports Writer

With the addition of some talented freshmen, experience is the big thing lacking from a young Notre Dame women's tennis team this year.

Unfortunately, the Irish are gaining that experience the hard way, losing two difficult dual meets this weekend in Milwaukee, Wis.

On Saturday, Notre Dame was surprised by the depth of a tough squad from Minnesota. The Gophers won the meet 7-2.

"We didn't play poorly, they were just better than us at the lower positions," said coach Michele Gelfman. "It was the first time in a dual meet for our freshmen and they didn't quite understand what we needed to do to win." Despite the disappointing loss, a bright spot for the Irish was the play of sophomore CeCe Cahill at number-one singles and doubles. Cahill won her singles match 6-1, 6-2. In doubles, she combined with freshman Tracy Barton to gain Notre Dame's only other victory.

"The combination of CeCe and Tracy is outstanding," commented Gelfman. "They started playing together in October and have made terrific progress. I'm excited at the prospect of having them together for a long time."

On Sunday, the story was different. A less talented Marquette team held on to defeat the Irish 5-4.

"In Sunday's meet, we definitely beat ourselves," said Gelfman. "Because Krissy Doran was out sick, we had to change our doubles teams and the new combinations didn't work well.

As on Saturday, the Irish gained victories from their top singles and doubles positions. Gelfman again attributed the losses to the inexperience of the young line-up, which included three freshmen.

"The freshmen didn't quite realize the impact each and every match has on the outcome. They have tremendous talent but they need to adjust to the pressures of collegiate tennis," Gelfman said.

"It was good to lose so easily in the season," said Gelfman. "(But) the season will be like."

"In Sunday's meet, we definitely beat ourselves," said Gelfman. "Because Krissy Doran was out sick, we had to change our doubles teams and the new combinations didn't work well.

As on Saturday, the Irish gained victories from their top singles and doubles positions. Gelfman again attributed the losses to the inexperience of the young line-up, which included three freshmen.

"The freshmen didn't quite realize the impact each and every match has on the outcome. They have tremendous talent but they need to adjust to the pressures of collegiate tennis," Gelfman said.

"It was good to lose so easily in the season," said Gelfman. "(But) the season will be like."

Gelfman hopes that the rest of the team will follow the example of Clark and Illig and concentrate on playing with more intensity.

"I think we realized our potential to win this weekend," Gelfman commented. "Now we just need to work on staying focused throughout our matches."

The Irish open their home season this weekend when they host the Eck Doubles Classic, which will include 10 of the best teams in the nation.

Our daughters women's tennis drops two over weekend

By BOB MITCHELL
Sports Writer

Even though the Notre Dame men's tennis team has started the spring season 0-2, Walter Dolhare, the number-three singles player, is right where he wants to be.

Dohare, a junior transfer from Austin Peay and a native of Buenos Aires, Argentina, has traveled 6000 miles to do whatever he can to build the Irish tennis program into a national power. This is extraordinary considering Head Coach Bob Bayliss, at one point, had decided it wasn't a good idea that Dolhare attend Notre Dame.

"I was a little hesitant about bringing in a transfer since it was my first year here," said Bayliss. "I decided that it wouldn't be a good idea to continue with Walter. Then, I got a call from Walter's girlfriend at Austin Peay. She very nicely chided me out for not expressing interest in Walter. So, I decided to ask other coaches about him. I got glowing reports about both his tennis and particularly the type of person he is. So, I decided to continue to recruit him." Dolhare compiled a 54-26 singles record while playing the number-one position at Austin Peay for the last two years. Before his days at Austin Peay, Dolhare was ranked number two in Argentina in the 18-and-under level. The 6-2 junior's resume also includes being a member of the Argentine Junior Davis Cup team.

The fall season was not kind to Dolhare since he was hampered by a severe ankle injury which he suffered on the second day of practice in August. But now, a healthy Dolhare is looking forward to putting his best foot forward.

"I feel that I'm coming right back," said Dolhare. "I need to get a couple of wins to get my confidence back." According to Bayliss, Dolhare's best tennis is undoubtedly ahead of him.

"Walter has a world class backhand and solid overall groundstrokes," said Bayliss. "We've only had a healthy Walter for two weeks but I think he is beginning to reach his potential level. He can be a top national level collegiate player."

And how does Walter feel about his new home?

"I'm very happy at Notre Dame," said Dolhare, who is a marketing major. "I came to Notre Dame for two reasons: to be more academically challenged and to be part of a rising program and contribute to it."

Dolhare's next challenge will be to help the Irish to earn their first victory of the young season today at Western Michigan.

Notre Dame, which has beaten the Bronco's for three

see DOLHARE, page 10

Dolhare is key Irish import

Argentina native fills number-three spot for men's tennis