A platoon of Soviet soldiers march by a Soviet from Afghanistan. The Soviets claim that all soldiers transport planes in the final part of the Soviet withdrawal have been removed from Kabul.

Moscow claims all troops are gone from Kabul

Associated Press

LONDON - Moscow Radio said Soviet troops completed their withdrawal from the Afghan capital of Kabul on Sunday, according to British Broadcasting Corp. monitors.

Ten days before the agreed deadline for the departure of all Soviet soldiers from Afghanistan, the radio quoted Monday's edition of the newspaper Pravda as saying: "Pravda's special correspondents report that on Sunday the last Soviet soldier left Kabul," the BBC said.

The Soviet troops, sent in December 1979 to help the Marxist government fight Afghan insurgents, were to have been removed by Feb. 15 under a U.N.-mediated agreement.

The Soviets began their withdrawal last Friday, according to British Broadcasting Corp. monitors in London. The Associated Press reported Monday that all Soviet troops have been removed from Kabul.

Afghan leader says his government will survive after Soviet withdrawal complete

Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan - President Najib told thousands of communist loyalists at a rally Sunday his government will survive after Soviet troops leave and his soldiers will win the nation's 10-year-old civil war.

Moscow Radio said all Soviet troops were out of Kabul, according to British Broadcasting Corp. monitors in London. The radio quoted Monday's edition of the communist daily Pravda as reporting that "on Sunday, the last Soviet soldier left Kabul." There was no way to immediately confirm the report.

"God is with us. The people are with us. We will win the war," Najib told about 10,000 members of the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan, who gathered in the room, said Skurski. "The room used to be the basic O'Shaughnessy class-room so we wanted to change its appearance," said Skurski.

The search began as each student was given a test consisting of 15 puzzles. The students had to write in the remaining letters.

Although "Wheel" originally intended to interview only 100 students, representatives agreed to allow all those in line, just over 110, into Theodore's. Once inside, officials requested that students complete a brief registration form.

The search began as each student was given a test consisting of 15 puzzles. The puzzles had several letters revealed and students had to write in the remaining letters. The test lasted five minutes. "Wheel" officials quickly graded the tests. Those who completed eight puzzles or more correctly progressed on to the second round. The crowd shrank from its original size to 33 after the first cut.

During the second round, remaining students played several games. Representatives from "Wheel" were not so much concerned with students who solved the puzzle, but were looking at how the students played the game. After several games, officials made another cut. Twenty students remained.

Those 20 stood up briefly and described themselves to the officials. Another cut was quickly made and the remaining 13 students played another round of games. After the round finished, officials announced that because of the weather, no contestant was eliminated.

"It'll be a lot of fun, especially competing against Miami," said former Bamenson."Every time you watch
OF INTEREST

Major Gerneral Joseph Ahearn, highest ranking Notre Dame graduate in the Air Force who is presently deputy director of Engineering and Services will be speaking today 3:25 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library auditorium. All those interested are invited to attend. The Observer

The Campus Ministry Office is preparing a campus Bible study for Lent. The first session will meet Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. Each meeting will be one hour in duration. Father Al D’Alonzo, C.S.C., will direct the sessions which will meet in the Conference Room of the Campus Ministry Office in Main Building. The study will be conducted throughout the period of Lent. These study sessions will provide an opportunity to explore the Bible message, to pioneer its meaning, and become acquainted with the revealed word. All students are invited to attend; no previous Biblical experience required. The Observer

Any freshmen or other interested students who would like to help run the student presidential elections are invited to a meeting of the Omasbudsman today at 7:30 p.m. in the student government offices, 2nd Floor LaFortune. If you have any questions please call John Wilson (283-1094) or Patrick Stadler (283-1791). The Observer

Graduate student life will be the topic of a workshop with Father Malloy today at 7:30 p.m. in Theodore’s. Graduate students will have an opportunity to voice their opinion and ask any questions regarding the future of graduate students at Notre Dame. The Observer

All Saint Mary’s students running for student body or class offices for the 1989-90 school year must attend one mandatory election meeting either today or tomorrow. Meet at 7:00 p.m. in Room 304 Haggard College Center. All members on your ticket must attend. The Observer

A national championship salute will be held today for Mr. ACC, Coach Lou Holtz, the U.P.I. National Championship presenter, and the Notre Dame football team will be in attendance. The Observer

The Governor’s Office of Indiana offers a one-year fellowship in state government to 10 graduating students from Indiana. A current Governor’s Fellow (Notre Dame graduate) will be selected to attend the Career and Placement conference room to discuss details of the program on Tuesday from 12:00 to 5:00 p.m. Graduating Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students are encouraged to apply. The Governor’s Office and Placement Office for the short informational sessions. The Observer

Applications are now available in the Office of Student Residences for positions of summer hall manager and assistant manager. They may be picked up in Room 311 Administration Building. The deadline for return of applications is March 15, 1989. The Observer

The Application Deadline is today for the Washington and Saint Mary's Regional Information Center at the Fort Wayne Fair. The Observer

AIESEC will have a general meeting today at 6:00 p.m. in Room 124 Hayes-Healy. All are welcome. Any questions, please call Jeff Stark 283-3376. The Observer

The Notre Dame eating disorder survey today at 7:00 p.m. in Breen-Phillips members of the University Counseling Center will present the results of the eating disorder survey conducted on campus last spring. The Observer

Observer Of Interests and other public service announcements may be submitted at The Observer main office on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center until 1 p.m. prior to the date of publication. Of interest announcements, campus-wide events of general interest, Circuit announces on-campus and local lecturers. Campus announces other events of general interest, free or paid. The Observer reserves the right to edit all submitted materials and determine if and where announcements will be published. The Observer

The Observer
Panel discussion will focus on ND diversity

By SHANNON RYAN
News Staff

A panel discussion on the topic of "Cultural Diversity at Notre Dame: Past, Present and Future" will be held Feb. 13 at Theodore's.

The panel will consist of six students representing varying ethnic backgrounds, Professor Erskine Peters, Professor Luis Praga, and University President Father Edward Malloy. President Emeritus Ted Hesburgh will serve as mediator.

The discussion will focus on such issues as racism on campus and what the university can do to meet the cultural needs of minorities.

The discussion is sponsored by the Multi-Cultural Executive Council.

The only way to travel

The Observer

Leading newspaper reports that Botha might retire soon

Associated Press

President of South Africa P.W. Botha, who suffered a stroke Jan. 18, resigned Thursday as head of the National Party and was replaced the same day by National Education Minister F.W. de Klerk, who is considered Botha's heir as president. Botha said he will stay on as president, but he has appointed Constitutional Development Minister Chris Heunis as acting president while he recovers.

Doctors say the 73-year-old Botha is making a rapid recovery but will need at least another month before he can consider returning to work. Botha was not present for the opening of Parliament in Cape Town on Friday and has not been participating in the government's day-to-day operations, officials have said.

The Sunday Times, the country's largest paper, said in a front-page story that Botha's decision to step down as party chief "is a prelude to complete withdrawal from public life."

The newspaper, citing unidentified sources within the National Party, said Botha may retire "within weeks."

Botha has to retire from the presidency soon to solve the crisis," the newspaper reported, also citing unidentified sources within the National Party.

The Observer

Applications are now being accepted for the following positions:

Managing Editor
Business Manager
Systems Manager

A three-page personal statement and a résumé must be submitted to Chris Donnelly by 5 p.m. Wednesday, February 8.

News Editor
Viewpoint Editor
Sports Editor
Accent Editor
Saint Mary's Editor
Photo Editor

Art Director
Ad Design Manager
Advertising Manager
Production Manager
Controller
OTS Director

A two-page personal statement and a résumé must be submitted to Chris Donnelly by 5 p.m. Friday, February 10.
Bush ethics aide in conflict-of-interest controversy

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The man in charge of President Bush's ethics policy has found himself in the midst of a possible conflict-of-interest controversy because of his chairmanship of a multimillion-dollar communications company.

C. Boyden Gray, who served as Bush's counsel when he was vice president and continues to serve in that capacity now that Bush is president, has told The Washington Post and The New York Times that he plans to continue serving as chairman of the family-owned company, Atlanta-based Summit Communications Group Inc.

During his eight years as the vice president's counsel, Gray served as the paid chairman of the company, earning several hundred thousand dollars and reporting that on his annual financial disclosure forms. He told the newspapers that starting at the beginning of this year, he no longer was accepting fees for that job.

"Due to my promotion and due to the policies enunciated by (Bush) during the presidential campaign, I cannot and I will not take outside income and so have instructed the family company," Gray told the Post.

Gray also said he could function without any conflict of interest both because he has removed himself since 1981 from any matters concerning communications and because he was not Summit's chief executive or operating officer. He said he only devoted four to six days a year to overseeing the company.

The Reagan White House had an unwritten policy that no White House officials should accept outside earned income or serve on the boards of outside corporations, said Frank Nebeker, director of the Office of Government Ethics. The Times noted that this unwritten policy was mentioned in a 1983 written advisory opinion by the ethics office that was distributed to all government ethics officials, including Gray.

Gray was not bound by those regulations because he worked for the vice president, and the policy in the vice president's office there was more lenient, Gray's deputy, John Schmitz, told the Times.

$99 roundtrip airfares on Northwest Airlines.

A special offer for students, only for American Express Cardmembers.

If you want to go places, it's time for the American Express® Card.

Because now you can take advantage of new travel privileges on Northwest Airlines only for full-time students who carry the American Express Card.

Travel privileges that offer:

Two $99 roundtrip tickets — fly to any of the more than 180 cities served by Northwest in the contiguous 48 United States.

Only one ticket may be used per six-month period.

Special Quarterly Northwest Destination Discounts through $99-up to 25% off the lowest available fare.

5,000 bonus miles in Northwest's WORLD PERKS® free travel program — where only 20,000 miles gets you a free roundtrip ticket to anywhere Northwest flies in the contiguous 48 United States or Canada.

And, of course, you'll enjoy all the exceptional benefits and personal service you would expect from American Express.

The only requirements for privileged travel: you must be a Cardmember, you must be a full-time student, and you must charge your Northwest Airlines tickets with the Card*. Getting the Card is easier than ever because now you can apply by phone. Just call 1-800-942-AMEX. We'll take your application and begin to process it right away. What's more, with our Automatic Approval offers, you can qualify now while you're still in school.

Apply now: Fly later — for less.

Apply Now: 1-800-942-AMEX

*Some restrictions may apply. For complete offer details, call 1-800-942-AMEX. Current student Cardmembers automatically receive two $99 vouchers in the mail. © 1989 American Express Travel Related Services Company, Inc.
Andres Rodriguez is the godfather of drug smuggling, said Williams. "First of all, you have to take into consideration, smuggling of anything is the biggest business in Paraguay. Rodriguez is the godfather of smuggling, everything from drugs to cigarettes to Scotch whisky, to Japanese transistors to Tinker Toys and the like. And that's no exaggeration." He was the godfather in terms of providing protection, official sanction, safe routes, sometimes the actual conveyances," Williams said. "He had a land taxi service there for many years."

Smuggling became a major enterprise in Paraguay after Stroessner lowered import duties, and items often went through that country en route to Brazil, Argentina and other nations, Williams said. "You could literally drink Scotch cheaper than in any other country in the world," he said.

Rodriguez is a career military man who was a confidant of Stroessner for at least two decades, Williams said.

"He was in fact, up until 1983, the muscle behind Stroessner," he said. "In 1983 they had a falling out, but Rodriguez was so powerful that Stroessner could not jail him or shoot him or anything. He was 'promoted' to a desk job where he had no control of troops but had a fancy title."

"I think it's bad for Paraguay if I really do. I'd have to rate Stroessner ahead of Rodriguez, and he was no charmer," he said.

The United States should use diplomatic means to convince the Paraguayan leadership to move toward democracy, and only if they happened under Rodriguez, Williams said. "It's not known how long Stroessner intended to stay on, but if they were gone as early as Wednesday, the output will go at least initially."

The report said that although troops had moved from Kabul, there still were troops in other areas of Afghanistan moving toward the Soviet border. It said troops were moving from farm in Tiberaba, located in southeastern Minas Gerais. It was not known how long Stroessner intended to stay on a farm in rural Ubarba or why that particular place had been chosen.

"It is up to the Brazilian government to choose the place Stroessner will go at least initially," said Paraguayan ambassador Salvador Paredes said in the federal capital of Brasilia.

Wheels continued from page 1

the show, you say you can play it better than the contestants.

LEGAL AID offers
Free legal counseling to N.D. students, faculty & staff.
Call 239-7795 or visit downstairs N.D. Law School.

Najib continued from page 1

erad in freezing temperatures near the presidential palace.

In neighboring Pakistan, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze extended talks on the civil war. Guerrilla sources said he would meet Monday with the Moslem guerrillas fighting the Soviet-backed Afghan government.

"I always thought, 'That would be so fun,'" said Valus. "I never thought I would make it through the whole process. I'm in shock."

When asked what they will do with their earnings, the students had various replies. Bannon said he hopes to win a lot of "potato tuition loans and get merchandise for themselves."

The top three teams will progress to the fifth and final game, during which they will acquire cash for their universities. Students on the team will determine which student will play in the final round.

"I never thought I would make it through the whole process. I'm in shock."

When asked what they will do with their earnings, the students had various replies. Bannon said he hopes to win a lot of "potato tuition loans and get merchandise for themselves."

The top three teams will progress to the fifth and final game, during which they will acquire cash for their universities. Students on the team will determine which student will play in the final round.

"I always thought, 'That would be so fun,'" said Valus. "I never thought I would make it through the whole process. I'm in shock."

When asked what they will do with their earnings, the students had various replies. Bannon said he hopes to win a lot of "potato tuition loans and get merchandise for themselves."

The top three teams will progress to the fifth and final game, during which they will acquire cash for their universities. Students on the team will determine which student will play in the final round.

"I always thought, 'That would be so fun,'" said Valus. "I never thought I would make it through the whole process. I'm in shock."

When asked what they will do with their earnings, the students had various replies. Bannon said he hopes to win a lot of "potato tuition loans and get merchandise for themselves."

The top three teams will progress to the fifth and final game, during which they will acquire cash for their universities. Students on the team will determine which student will play in the final round.
ICEBERG DEBATES
TONIGHT
SECOND ROUND AND CONSULATION ROUND
9:00 - 10:00 P.M.

"That by Fall semester of 1990, this university should convert three undergraduate residence halls for use as optional coresidential housing for all undergraduates."

Lewis (pro) hosts Alumni (con)
Fisher (con) hosts Badin (pro)
Flanner (pro) hosts Farley (con)
Cavanaugh (pro) hosts Zahm (con)
Pasquerilla West (con) hosts Stanford (pro)
Pasquerilla East (pro) hosts St. Edwards (con)
Lyons (con) hosts Sorin (pro)
Dillon (pro) hosts Carroll (con)
Grace I (con) hosts Breen Phillips (pro)
Pangborn (pro) hosts Howard (con)
Knott (pro) hosts Grace II (con)
Keenan (pro) hosts Holy Cross (con)
Walsh (con) hosts Morrissey (pro)
Siegfried (con) hosts Off-Campus (pro)

* $15.00 Certificate at each debate for BEST SPEAKER.

Sponsored by Student Government and Center for Social Concerns
Coed housing to be debated tonight

Notre Dame has its problems; at least, that's the way many people feel. They may feel that the social life is not so good. They say there's not much to do. A lot of guys say that it's hard to meet women, some of the women say it's hard to meet the right kind of guy. And sometimes, when social life is the issue, and the menwomen thing is discussed, students say, "What's the matter, haven't we heard coed housing. That will make it a lot better."

Kerry Temple

I hear about other problems. Students tell me they wish faculty were more accessible. The students would like to meet with them informally to talk about things on their minds. But, they continue, the faculty are under so much pressure to reach their科研 targets, and they're so busy that they don't have time for released time.

I hear faculty saying that what the students really care about is their GPA, that they are not intellectually curious, are not inclined to challenge faculty members in class, much less drop their hands, as they put it, when their doors are open. When I talk with faculty or administrators about students, they, too, seem academic. They may not see that the students are so into academics that they don't see the wider world, they're not as interested in social justice issues as they should be. And a university is a place where such issues can be raised, where all these topics should be discussed openly, where intellectuals should challenge the students.

Sometimes I hear the graduate students are left out of the equation, they're not included in the debate about coed housing. When I hear the griping (and a lot of it, I think, is on the mark) I am disturbed. That so many false and invisible barriers exist at a place like Notre Dame. It is a relatively visible barrier at a place that, in itself, is an invisible barrier, to the perception of the campus it promotes the idea of being a community, a family, a community of scholars. This whole scheme appears to be a neat fit with a lot of the problems people seem to grapple with. It's even scheduled for voting (hence, "Iceberg Debates") in order to combat the seasonal hibernation.

Finally, the topic for this Monday's debates (held from 9 to 10 p.m. in various residence halls) is coed housing. Specifically: "That by the fall semester of 1996, this university should convert three undergraduate residence halls for use as optional coresidential housing for all undergraduates." Now this, too, just might be a solution to some of the problems around here. Perhaps coed housing would make for more natural, more realistic and healthier relationships between the sexes and -- thus a vastly improved social life. Maybe by living closely with men, women will see them as unique individuals, not as stereotypes or sex objects or mysterious aliens. And this order, whole perhaps that impression will take with them into the world.

But the organizers will still say that having guys around would be an invasion of privacy, that they like the friendships established by having the dormitory space, that single-sex living enables them to concentrate on their work, that dormitory is home and it's best to keep it as comfortable as possible. Others, men and women -- are aware of the complications that may arise from putting young males and females together in this new environment. Others may say coed housing would disrupt the residential community except with a security system of coed housing, appropriate prizes, or that it would signal an end to the university's traditional responsibility for student morals, etc., or that it would alienate alumni benefactors.

I'll leave this all to the debate and to those responsible for such decisions. Women say, "It's a matter of opportunity to bring the issues out in the open and discuss them reasonably. The fact that judges will weigh in on the issue is even a question and answer period following the formal debate." Perhaps, with the issue clearly clarified and student sentiment more focused, the topic may stay on the table for further discussion and debate.

Meanwhile, attendance and support of the Iceberg Debates gives you a chance to be part of the solution to the problems everyone is talking about.

Kerry Temple is managing editor of Notre Dame Magazine and a member of the Iceberg Debates consultant committee.

Results of eating disorder survey

The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family history. The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family history. The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family history.

The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family history. The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family history.

Susan Steibe, Ph.D. is a psychologist at the University Counseling Center.

Editor's note: The following is the second in a series of five articles dealing with eating disorders.

Last spring the University Counseling Center conducted a survey of the undergraduate women at Notre Dame. Here are the results of that survey.

Susan Steibe, guest column

According to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual -- Revised (DSM III-R) published by the American Psychiatric Association, a binge is a "rapid consumption of a large amount of food in a discrete period of time during which one experiences a lack of control over eating behavior." From the Notre Dame Eating Disorders Survey approximately 60% reporting engagement in binge eating.

How does a 60% occurrence of binge eating among Notre Dame Women compare with other studies of binge eating among college students? Hawkins and Clement (1980) reported that 79% of female college undergraduates in their sample and 49% of college male undergraduates reported binge eating occurrences. Halmi et al (1981) also reported a high rate of binge eating in a college population, where the next part is and where you're going on spring break and how much Nancy's going to buy. The reason I'm talking about all this now is because some people are trying something that could help them with these imperfections in the quality of life, it seems like it. It's the Iceberg Debates. The idea is that if we can establish a debate series that prompts people to take a look at their problems, we can enhance some understanding, spark some learning, build on the perception of universality beliefs. The emphasis is on the awareness here, not on debating style (leave that to the law students). But the organizers have other models in mind. For example, the teams have set up to bring men and women together into partnership, not to reinforce competition. The debate is being held in residence halls, to give men and women a reason to enter foreign territory. Faculty have gotten involved as judges and as advisors -- in order to bridge that gap, so to get students and professors talking with each other. Grad students are available as consultants or mentors or whatever to get them (again, at least peripherally) participating.

The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame approximately 70% of those respondents who report binge eating before coming to Notre Dame. Most of these women (50%) began to binge eat during high school. The remainder of the respondents (30%) report their age of onset for binge eating as younger than 13 years. Does having someone in one's family with a problem with food increase one's chances of developing an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family member who has a problem with food and oneself having a problem with food. Results demonstrate that for women who have a serious eating disorder, one in two report that a family member has a problem with food and one in eight report that a family member has a problem with food. Thus, the more serious the eating problem one has, the more likely there is a family member who shares the problem. Does having someone in the family with an alcohol, drug, or other problem correlate with the development of an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women attempted to gain information regarding the relationship between having a family member with a substance abuse problem and one's own development of an eating disorder. The results of the survey demonstrate that women with normal eating behavior, one in five report a family member with a drinking or drug problem. For women with some eating disorder or with some symptoms of an eating disorder, that number increased to one in two. Does having someone in the family with a problem with food increase one's chances of developing an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family member who has a problem with food and oneself having a problem with food. Results demonstrate that for women who have a serious eating disorder, one in two report that a family member has a problem with food and one in eight report that a family member has a problem with food. Thus, the more serious the eating problem one has, the more likely there is a family member who shares the problem.

What is the average age that women begin to binge eat? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women attempted to gain information regarding the relationship between having a family member with a substance abuse problem and one's own development of an eating disorder. The results of the survey demonstrate that women with normal eating behavior, one in five report a family member with a drinking or drug problem. For women with some eating disorder or with some symptoms of an eating disorder, that number increased to one in two. Does having someone in the family with a problem with food increase one's chances of developing an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family member who has a problem with food and oneself having a problem with food. Results demonstrate that for women who have a serious eating disorder, one in two report that a family member has a problem with food and one in eight report that a family member has a problem with food. Thus, the more serious the eating problem one has, the more likely there is a family member who shares the problem. Does having someone in the family with an alcohol, drug, or other problem correlate with the development of an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women attempted to gain information regarding the relationship between having a family member with a substance abuse problem and one's own development of an eating disorder. The results of the survey demonstrate that women with normal eating behavior, one in five report a family member with a drinking or drug problem. For women with some eating disorder or with some symptoms of an eating disorder, that number increased to one in two. Does having someone in the family with a problem with food increase one's chances of developing an eating disorder? The Eating Disorder Survey of Notre Dame Women sought to explore the relationship between binge eating and one's family member who has a problem with food and oneself having a problem with food. Results demonstrate that for women who have a serious eating disorder, one in two report that a family member has a problem with food and one in eight report that a family member has a problem with food. Thus, the more serious the eating problem one has, the more likely there is a family member who shares the problem.
Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Ms. Marley for being the first in the series of Graduate Student Union workshops on graduate student life tonight at 7 p.m. in Theodore's.

I am convinced that these workshops can provide an excellent vehicle for graduate students to express their concerns, and for the University administration to learn firsthand about their experiences and their needs. I therefore encourage every graduate student to join me tonight to share their ideas about how to make Notre Dame a better place.

Father Edward Malloy
President
Feb. 6, 1989

Reading SI not only active at ND

Dear Editor:

While it may not be the weekend, we, as men of Notre Dame, are all too willing to wait to heed Ms. Marley's suggestion for our social lives. We have decided to poll the pages of our old editions of Sports Illustrated's swimsuit issue, ogling them, drink beer, and criticize Notre Dame women. I think we should actually try to get to know one and we have indeed met quite a few genuinely interesting women at SI.

We do have one major problem, though. From the article it appears that Ms. Marley is upset with the unequal treatment of women in the Sports Illustrated swimsuit issue. However, we have control over any national publication, we have some influence in the world of sports. If we really believe that this is the case then we should actually try to get to know one and we have indeed met quite a few genuinely interesting women.

Mike Basil
Petey
Rich Zell
Dave Kelly
Feb. 1, 1989

Swimsuit column fuels animosity

Dear Editor:

I am outraged by the generalizations that your Assistant News Editor, Sara Marley, made in the Jan. 31 issue. She grouped every young man at Notre Dame as worthless slime that girl have to disgust them from "photographs of beautiful females" in the annual Sports Illustrated swimsuit issue. She also went as far as to mention Playboy and Penthouse magazines.

Not all of us will look at this issue of SI, go to our afternoon classes, and ask, "Gee, why can't more of these girls look like Elle Macpherson?" To say that the men of Notre Dame do, is unfair. We do not live in a world of passing physical beauty and appearances, we live in a world with real people as students.

Mike Basil
Petey
Rich Zell
Dave Kelly
Flanner Hall
Jan. 31, 1989

USA gives world empty rhetoric

Dear Editor:

When, oh when, will we learn? For how long will the citizens of the United States, the most free society in the world, refuse to avail themselves of the wealth of information in the murder of our country's mistakes?

The latest American atrocities in Nicaragua, Guatamala, and to our own people. The destabilization of popular governments has become a way of life for a populace in the grip of anti-communist paranoia. In Iran we witnessed the seeds for fervent American sentiment by installing the late Shah in a coup d'état. He carried out a murderous and brutally oppressive campaign to Westernize his country over the often courageously vehement objections of his people. Many hated him and us, praying for the day that Allah would liberate them from the long, oppressive arm of Americans. The day came, but not before thousands were slaughtered by American policies.

What ever happened to popular will expressed through people's choice of their own government? Have we no confidence that capitalist and free markets can beat communism in a fair contest? Why resort to contra and other CIA operations?

We do not acknowledge our role as voting citizens who can change our government's policies in the murder and oppression of innocent peasants by American-supported bands in El Salvador and to our own people. The United States differs from the USSR in that "we the people" suppose to have one vote, unlike the USSR in that "we the people" suppose to have one vote. Because of this, we are supposed to have one vote, we actually have one vote. Because of this, we are supposed to have one vote.

Sean Ellington
Off-Campus
Feb. 3, 1989

Quote of the Day

Monday, February 6, 1989

"He who is silent consents." —Anonymous

The Observer retains the right to edit all commentaries submitted to the Viewpoint department. Please note that the more concise the piece, the less we will have to edit it to fit our space.
students dance the Latin merengue during last Saturday night’s International Festival.

The subjects of his work are mainly autobiographical, such as the bittersweet "Another Life," which many have called arguably the best long autobiographical poem in the English language. His poems are often filled with romantic visions of a world that could be, tempered with the melancholy of reality.

"The Season of Phantasmal Peace" starts: "Then all the nations of birds lifted together; the huge net of the shadows of this earth in multitudinous dialects, twittering tongues, stitching and crooning... and this season lasted one moment, like the pause between dusk and darkness, between fury and peace, but, for such as our earth is now, it lasted long."

Partial towards descriptive excesses, Walcott paints vivid pictures with his prose and injects them with an atmosphere that creates a moving sense of place, which is often his tropical home. In "Missing the Sea" he longs for the familiar: "Some sound like the gnashing of windmills around To a dead halt: A deafening absence, a blow."

"Midsummer, Tobago" is a reflection on the passage of life viewed from the stage of his home: "Broad sun-stoned beaches. White heat. A green room. A bridge. Scorched yellow palms. from the summer-sleeping house drowning through August. Days I have held, days I have lost, days that outgrow, like daughters, my harboring hands."

Most sophomore core classes have some of Walcott's works on their reading lists. For them, or indeed for anyone familiar with Walcott or his ecumenical embrace of poetry, an hour's, or perhaps a day's reading, will continue to embrace and celebrate his work, and his shimering ability to turn his attention to any subject of human kind and build a soaring body out of a spark of perception.

From original story, "One night, the International Student Organization entertained a sold-out Washington Hall crowd with its International Festival, "a night of songs and dances from all over the world."

The evening was the culmination of weeks of preparation and hours of practice. According to Ramzi Bualah, chairperson of the event and one of the emcees, approximately 170 people from over 30 countries participated in this year's show, making it the biggest one ISO has ever produced.

There were folk songs, piano pieces, and a gospel song. One song from the northern part of India "entertained the beauty of the rains after a dry and hot summer." A "jala," or regional song, from the northern part of Spain told the story of someone who wished he or she were ivy in the sun. The merengue, a dance which originated in the Dominican Republic and which has become one of the most popular rhythms in Latin America. The seven couples who merengued Saturday night and each weekend during that time that they had the audience hooting and hollering right along.

The other spectacular dance was a Filipino one called "tikling." The dancers perform intricate steps and turns between and around hibiscus poles that are pounded together. This act had the audience holding its breath for the safety of the performers' feet and drew a hearty round of applause at its dramatic end.

During all of the acts, elaborate beadwork and fringed costumes were worn. One act, the Folkloric Fashion Show, however, focused entirely on the clothing of the world. Dresses, saris, shirts and suits from Malaysia, India, the Philippines, Vietnam, Korea, Pakistan, Mexico and Ecuador were some of the fashions modeled.

Bualah wrote in the show's program that the ISO takes "pride in presenting a show that (they) feel truly symbolizes the essence of the Year of Cultural Diversity" at Notre Dame. Saturday night, the group did an absolutely splendid and riveting job of "promoting awareness of different cultures from around the world," with each performer sharing his or her talents and countries' traditions with the crowd.

A lively, educational, new tradition has begun on campus, and it can only be hoped that, for years to come, the Notre Dame community will continue to embrace and be dazzled by the intricate footwork and melodic sounds which reminded us this weekend that it is "a small world after all."
By HEATHER ATKINSON
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's basketball team wrapped up its five-game, long stretch of away games with a win and a loss over the weekend.

At Anderson College Friday night, Saint Mary's captured an easy 77-63 victory. The Belles took the lead early in the game and never allowed their opponents to catch up. Saint Mary’s led by as much as 27 points at one time in the game and was on top 46-22 at the half. The 25-point spread between the two teams at the end of the game was the closest Anderson played all game. "Anderson just isn’t a very strong team this year," said co- head coach Marvin Wood. "All fifteen of our girls got at least one minute of playing time in the game and everyone played equally well."

Saint Mary’s had three triple-doubles lead by Cathy Restovich led with 13 points, Anne Gallagher had 12 and Linda Garrett added 11. Gallagher and Garrett also held up defensively as they pulled down seven and six rebounds, respectively.

The Belles were able to keep their momentum going and southwest to Notre Dame for January night and were defeated, 66-57, by the Fighting Irish.

Franklin College

Franklin is one of the top teams in the district and Saint Mary’s had trouble getting by their speed and offensive abilities.

Coach Wood said this was one of the best defensive games of Saint Mary’s but, his players in double figures against the entire game and it had trouble getting position and good shots.

“Our defense was great and we really created some problems for them, but we just couldn’t get our offense going,” said Wood. “Our reserve strength is beginning to make some major improvements for the team, but Saturday we just didn’t could what we wanted and what we usually do well.”

Calvecchia captures LA Open

Calvecchia, who won his second tournament of the season, finished with a 227 total, 12 strokes under par in the Riviera Country Club course that was still soaked from the rains of the major dislocated play Friday and Saturday.

Calvecchia, who won by seven shots in Phoenix two weeks ago, won for the third time of his PGA tour career.

The Observer Notre Dame Office, located on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Observer Saint Mary’s office, located on the third floor of Haggerty College Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid in person or by mail. The charge is 10 cents per five characters per day.

BELLEWSplit weekend games

The Observer Monday, February 6, 1989
ND hockey loses two against UM-Dearborn

By FRANK PASTOR
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team enjoyed its most successful month of the season in January, posting a 6-4 record and distancing itself from the frigid memories of December's 0-7 slate.

But just as the Irish (9-23-2) were beginning to get accustomed to their recent three-game winning streak, the calendar played a cruel trick on them—February had arrived, and with it came Michigan-Dearborn.

The Wolves chilled the hearts of the Irish faithful this past weekend, sweeping Notre Dame in a home-and-home series that proved there is clearly no love lost between the two teams.

Michigan-Dearborn (17-11-2) rallied from a 5-1 deficit to defeat Notre Dame 7-6 Friday night, and completed the sweep Saturday with a 5-2 victory over the Irish. The Wolves won the season series outright by compiling a 4-1-1 record against Notre Dame this year.

Only five goals separated the two teams in the physical six-game series which is rapidly becoming a an intense rivalry.

"We're two evenly-matched teams," said Irish defenseman Kevin Markovitz, who scored two power-play goals in Friday's contest. "Both teams play a hard-hitting style of game. They're not exactly our favorite team to play."

Notre Dame looked like two completely different teams in Friday night's game, dominating most of the first two periods in mounting a 5-1 lead before Michigan-Dearborn surged back with six consecutive goals to put the game out of reach in the third.

Notre Dame jumped out to a 2-0 first-period lead behind power play goals by Tim Kuehl and Mark McClew. Larry Pilut scored from the left faceoff circle to put the Wolves on the board in the second period, but the Irish came back to score three straight goals, and the rout was on.

Or was it?

The dramatic turnaround that followed shocked the assembled crowd of 985, but one quick glance at the statsheet told the whole story. The Irish were outshot in the game 46-27, a statistic that is becoming only too commonplace for Schafer's squad.

"We were really excited being up 5-1 against a team as good as Michigan-Dearborn. That really hasn't happened to us very often this year. We got a little overconfident at that point. They got a couple of quick goals on us and changed the tide."

Michigan-Dearborn scored twice more in the second period, including a buzzer-beater by Pilut to clip the Irish lead to 5-3 going into the second intermission.

The Wolves used the momentum they had built up at the close of the second period to take charge in the third. Michigan-Dearborn scored four goals in less than nine minutes to take a 7-5 lead.

Mike Lebert put Notre Dame back in the game 34 seconds later when he rebounded a Bobby Berber shot into the net for yet another power-play goal. The Irish converted all four power-play opportunities in the game.

© 1988 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc.
'Meyo Mile' highlights 2nd annual Invitational

By KEN TYSiAC
Sports Writer

The second annual Meyo Invitational, held in the Loftus Athletic Center on Saturday, showcased some of the best track and field athletes in the country.

The meet was highlighted by the "Meyo Mile," an independent invitational which featured four runners who had run sub-four-minute miles.

The runners in the Meyo Mile were just a hair shy of the four minute mark this year, with the winner, John Trautman of Arizona, finishing in 4:00.6. Ed Slowokowski of Loyola was a close second with a time of 4:01.01.

John Quade of Arizona, who won the event last year in 3:57.3 and was the favorite again this year, finished a disappointing sixth with a time of 4:07.15.

Notre Dame athletes had another share of stars, as Raghib "Rocket" Ismail won the 800-meter dash in 1:53.35, and teammate Rusty Setzer was close behind, finishing in 1:53.63.

"For the short time that they've been with us, Rocket and Rusty did great jobs-especially Rocket," said spritng coach Ted Potts. "He came out and handled the work really well."

Ismail was also scheduled to run in the 400 meters, but was scratched because he "felt kind of tight," according to Coach Potts, and they want him to be ready for the Central Collegiate meet next weekend.

Also running strong for the Irish were: Richard Culp with a 1:05.23 in the 400 meters; Scott Vandenberg, who finished the 400 meters in 50.1 seconds; and Ryan Cahill, who missed qualifying for IC4A's by 0.49 seconds in the 1000 meters with a time of 2:37.87.

The Irish were running this week without two of their best strikers, co-captains Rusty Markelitch and Dan Garret, who were both injured. Neither had Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps concerned before the game.

"You can't put a gadget defense on Ferry because he's so creative with his passing," said Phelps. "That's where a lot of teams get into trouble." Aside from the slow start in the second half, Ferry turned in an impressively consistent performance. His first-half totals included 13 points, four rebounds and four assists. In the second half, Ferry scored 15 points with four rebounds and two assists.

He managed all this despite an injured back that still has him playing under 100 percent and a crowd that continually harassed him, yelling "Ferry, Ferry" at his every move.

Ferry has started to grow accustomed to that chant. "They always do that," Ferry said about the treatment he gets from crowd.

The crowd's really good here. We were fortunate to be ahead the whole time and get the crowd out of the game a little hit."

"Two years ago (a Notre Dame 70-66 overtime win) when we got down, the crowd really got behind them."

Thanks in large part to Ferry, Duke wasn't falling behind too often this time.

Ferry continued from page 16

Dame's brief comeback

First came an eight-footer that gave the Devils a 54-53 lead.

After a Scott Paddock dunk, Ferry answered with a basket in the lane to make it 58-56.

Then, after a Joe Fredrick jumper, came the killer. Ferry connected on a three-pointer and was fouled by Elmer Bennett. Ferry hit the free throw. Duke led 61-34 and Notre Dame never would get closer.

"Danny made some big baskets down that stretch," said Krzyzewski. "When you get a magnificent player in a situation like that, he's going to do those things."

Fredrick, who led Notre Dame with 21 points, agreed wholeheartedly with Krzyzewski's assessment.

"Ferry played great today," said the Irish co-captain. "He may be the best in college basketball, and he showed why tonight. That three-pointer - only Ferry could do that."

Although it was that second-half outburst that put the game out of reach, Ferry also showed the ACC crowd and a national-television audience that scoring is only part of his performance. His first-half total included 12 points, one rebound and two assists. In the second half, Ferry scored 15 points with four rebounds and two assists.

 rebounds and four assists. In the second half, Ferry scored 15 points with four rebounds and two assists.

He managed all this despite an injured back that still has him playing under 100 percent and a crowd that continually harassed him, yelling "Ferry, Ferry" at his every move.

Ferry has started to grow accustomed to that chant. "They always do that," Ferry said about the treatment he gets from crowd. "The crowd's really good here. We were fortunate to be ahead the whole time and get the crowd out of the game a little hit."

"Two years ago (a Notre Dame 70-66 overtime win) when we got down, the crowd really got behind them."

Thanks in large part to Ferry, Duke wasn't falling behind too often this time.

"Danny made some big baskets down that stretch," said Krzyzewski. "When you get a magnificent player in a situation like that, he's going to do those things."

Fredrick, who led Notre Dame with 21 points, agreed wholeheartedly with Krzyzewski's assessment.

"Ferry played great today," said the Irish co-captain. "He may be the best in college basketball, and he showed why tonight. That three-pointer - only Ferry could do that."

Although it was that second-half outburst that put the game out of reach, Ferry also showed the ACC crowd and a national-television audience that scoring is only part of his performance. His first-half total included 12 points, one rebound and two assists. In the second half, Ferry scored 15 points with four rebounds and two assists.

He managed all this despite an injured back that still has him playing under 100 percent and a crowd that continually harassed him, yelling "Ferry, Ferry" at his every move.

Ferry has started to grow accustomed to that chant. "They always do that," Ferry said about the treatment he gets from crowd. "The crowd's really good here. We were fortunate to be ahead the whole time and get the crowd out of the game a little hit."

"Two years ago (a Notre Dame 70-66 overtime win) when we got down, the crowd really got behind them."

Thanks in large part to Ferry, Duke wasn't falling behind too often this time.

"Danny made some big baskets down that stretch," said Krzyzewski. "When you get a magnificent player in a situation like that, he's going to do those things."

Fredrick, who led Notre Dame with 21 points, agreed wholeheartedly with Krzyzewski's assessment.

"Ferry played great today," said the Irish co-captain. "He may be the best in college basketball, and he showed why tonight. That three-pointer - only Ferry could do that."

Although it was that second-half outburst that put the game out of reach, Ferry also showed the ACC crowd and a national-television audience that scoring is only part of his performance. His first-half total included 12 points, one rebound and two assists. In the second half, Ferry scored 15 points with four rebounds and two assists.

He managed all this despite an injured back that still has him playing under 100 percent and a crowd that continually harassed him, yelling "Ferry, Ferry" at his every move.

Ferry has started to grow accustomed to that chant. "They always do that," Ferry said about the treatment he gets from crowd. "The crowd's really good here. We were fortunate to be ahead the whole time and get the crowd out of the game a little hit."

"Two years ago (a Notre Dame 70-66 overtime win) when we got down, the crowd really got behind them."

Thanks in large part to Ferry, Duke wasn't falling behind too often this time.
Men's and women's swim teams fall to Ball St.

By MARY GARINO
Sports Writer

Both the men's and women's swim teams lost heartbreakers to Ball State on Saturday. The meets lived up to the expectations of excitement as the last event decided the winner in both contests. The Irish knew that they would have to swim at their best, and they did, but they were outdone by Ball State.

The women's team (5-6) lost by a score of 144-156. The Irish started out well by taking both first and second in the first event, the 200-yard medley relay, but Ball State came back and tied the score on the next race. That set the tone for the rest of the meet. Ball State never led by any more than 12 points, and that was at the end. Notre Dame swimmers had six first place finishes, including two by Becky Wood and two by Amy Tri. Tri, a sophomore from Minnesota, was one of several swimmers who turned in their best performances of the season.

"From first to last, it was the best total team performance of the year," said Irish coach Tim Welsh. "The women have arrived as a team, and it was great to see."

To the loss by the women's team followed the pattern of improvement which has been evident over recent meets. The times for the Irish have been steadily improving. Welsh sees this as a good sign as the championship races approach later this month.

The men's team lowered its record to 6-3 as they were defeated by a score of 115-128. The men's meet was similar to the women's meet. It was close during each event. The Cardinals' greatest margin over the Irish was 14 points.

The Irish recorded five victories in individual races by five different swimmers. What characterized the Notre Dame effort was the timing. When the Irish needed a win, they got one.

At one point, when Ball State had accumulated a 14 point advantage, sophomore Jim Byrne came through with a first place finish in the 200-yard backstroke. Later, Tom Penn won the 200-yard breaststroke, the second to last event, to set up the final race, the 400-yard freestyle relay. The Irish needed to take first and third, but only managed to take second and third.

The men's team had season-best times in six events, including the last race, but was unable to upset Ball State. "It's to their credit that they won," said Welsh. "They were alert and well-coached, and they made the key adjustments necessary to win."

Welsh added that, on paper, both Cardinal teams should have won easily, but the Irish surprised them. His goal, however, is to have teams expecting a tough fight from Notre Dame.

"There were a lot of upsets by us," Welsh noted. "It was a very exciting team performance, in both spirit and aggressiveness."

A key result of the meets is that both Irish teams gained confidence, despite the loss. This is obviously important as the Midwestern Collegiate Conference Championships are less than two weeks away.

---

YOU ARE NEEDED FOR ANOTHER GREAT NOTRE DAME TRADITION

JUNIOR PARENTS WEEKEND

February 17, 18, & 19, 1989

JOBS

WAITERS - WAITRESSES - LABORERS - ESPEDITERS

Make Money For Spring Break
Group together as a Dorm - Raise Money to fund Dorm project
Work and donate to favorite Charity

SIGN UP TODAY

South Dining Hall Accounting Office - Telephone # 7814

Information -
Director's Office # 7253

Join us in making this a weekend to remember for Juniors and Parents
Syracuse too much for Irish

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's basketball team came into Syracuse on Saturday without a full head of steam. After soundly beating Detroit Thursday night, the Irish were ready for the Orangemen. But Syracuse met the Irish head-on and a quick crew of Syracuse forwards, with a little help from a sputtering Irish defense, defeated them, 63-56.

Syracuse's head coach, Jim Boeheim, said after the game, "We played hard, but we weren't ready for the game. We played well, but we couldn't keep them off the boards, and they made us pay for it." He was referring to the Orangemen's 40-23 rebounding advantage.

Syracuse's 3-point shot was the key to their victory. They shot 10-25 from the three-point line, while Notre Dame shot 6-26. The Irish's 2-point shooting also wasn't up to par, shooting 39-84.

Notre Dame was down by six at halftime, but was still down by six at halftime, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.

Notre Dame played Syracuse tough throughout the first half but was still down by six at half, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.

Notre Dame played Syracuse tough throughout the first half but was still down by six at half, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.

Notre Dame played Syracuse tough throughout the first half but was still down by six at half, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.

Notre Dame played Syracuse tough throughout the first half but was still down by six at half, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.

Notre Dame played Syracuse tough throughout the first half but was still down by six at half, 36-30, and even into the second half, the Irish had trouble gaining the lead after closing the gap.

"It wasn't like we gave up when we were down by six," said Davis. "But our offense kept sputtering and no matter how close we got, we just couldn't get over that hump." Sophomore guard Karen Robinson tried to get the offense going, canning jumpers from the outside to help her tally a team-high 13 points.

Liebcher played well on both sides of the ball as forward and on the boards, tallying four and two rebounds, respectively. With little size underneath to stop them, the Orangemen opened the boards and fell forward Daneene Hopkins added eight.

The most dangerous of these rebounds were the offensive ones, especially the eight recorded by Kendrix which helped her tally 12 points for the game.
CAMPUS

11:00 a.m. Sophomore Literary Festival workshop with T. Coraghessan Boyle, Hesburgh Library Lounge.

4:00 p.m. Art department presentation by Graham Marks, Cranebrook Academy of Art, Michigan, Annenberg Auditorium.

7:00 p.m. The Graduate Student Union presents "Graduate Student Life," by Father Malloy, Theodore's.

7:00 p.m. Communication and Theatre film "Memilmontan," Annenberg Auditorium.

8:00 p.m. Hesburgh Program in Public Service lecture on service in the public sector by Steven M. Thomas, City of New York, Center for Social Concerns.

8:00 p.m. Sophomore Literary Festival reading by Derek Walcott, contemporary poet, Stepan Center.

9:00 p.m. Communication and Theatre film "Menilmontant,"

9:00 p.m. "The Graduate Student Union presents "Graduate Contest,"

DISSERI MENUS

Notre Dame
- Boneless Rib Sandwich
- Meatloaf
- Roast Turkey
- Vegetable Marinara

Saint Mary’s
- Roast Turkey
- Sweet and Sour Pork
- Roman Rice
- Deli Bar

NEW YORK TIMES CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Kind of coast: 6 letters
2 A kind of plant: 5 letters
5 Laos go
10 Tie to the stupid: 8 letters
13 North American Indian: 5 letters
14 Where to await the Perfect P.: 8 letters
15 Move quickly, as clouds: 9 letters
16 Banker: 5 letters
17 Met production: 6 letters
18 Comedian Jay: 5 letters
19 With 37 Across, words from a Mummy: 7 letters
22 Cash: 4 letters
23 Tennis: 6 letters
24 The last frontier: 8 letters
26 Five Comb form: 6 letters
28 Here’s looking at you, e.g.: 8 letters
30 Greek letter: 5 letters
33 Not on: 5 letters
35 Nice view: 8 letters
36 Journalist Jacob: 13 letters
37 See 19 Across: 6 letters
41 Fiiko: 5 letters
42 O glasses: 7 letters
43 Ougling, e.g.: 8 letters
44 There ——: 6 letters
45 Bright-eyed and bushy-tailed: 16 letters
47 Good one’s twin: 8 letters
51 Alpine fiber: 8 letters
52 Rubber tree: 9 letters
55 Meadow: 5 letters
56 Competitive- ness in the family: 9 letters
61 Kind of tube: 5 letters
62 Actor Dudley or Roger: 6 letters
63 Like some TV coverage: 9 letters
64 Baxter or Bananof: 10 letters
65 Proctor’s John: 9 letters
66 Forest denizen: 10 letters
67 Author’s submissions: 14 letters
68 Fine sprays: 8 letters
69 Totals: 8 letters

DOWN
1 Be fragrant: 8 letters
2 Depictive figure: 10 letters
3 Keep: 5 letters
4 Arccose: 5 letters
5 Knock for a loop: 10 letters
6 Meal: 4 letters
7 Ted: 7 letters
8 Word: 4 letters
9 Chair or sofa: 8 letters
10 Concept for a film: 12 letters
11 Chinese name of Confucius: 14 letters
12 Allah words: 12 letters
13 Jerko: 7 letters
14 19 Across: 8 letters
15 Ein: 5 letters
16 Rough sketch: 9 letters
17 D.D.E’s predecessor: 8 letters
18 Dawn goddess: 6 letters
19 "...- cat" bag: 11 letters
20 Western film: 10 letters
21 Cigarette product: 12 letters
22 Little quartet: 8 letters
23 Pifpaf: 6 letters
24 Actor O'Neal: 10 letters
25 Blessings: 6 letters
26 Equivalents: 9 letters
27 Bread type: 7 letters
28 Israeli desert: 7 letters
29 Region: 6 letters
30 Western film: 10 letters
31 Cigarette product: 12 letters
32 Little quartet: 8 letters
33 Pielpate: 8 letters
34 Started a tennis match: 11 letters
35 They do some leading: 8 letters
36 French cleric’s title: 10 letters
37 Legal claims: 9 letters
38 Mosque priest: 10 letters
39 --- no tangere: 10 letters
40 Figures in some pantheons: 11 letters
41 Hawkeye on TV: 10 letters
42 Loud noise: 9 letters

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1. I
2. B
3. E
4. P
5. A
6. E
7. F
8. G
9. H
10. J

COMICS

Bloom County

Comic strip featuring various characters and situations.

Berke Breathed

Comics strip featuring a character with glasses.

The Far Side

Gary Larson's popular cartoon strip.

Buzz McFlatop

Cartoon featuring a character named "Raid!!"

Michael F. Muldoon

Cartoon strip with a character named "The Mole."
Sports

Ferry powers Blue Devils past Irish, 102-80

By THERESA KELLY

Assistant Sports Editor

For a four-minute stretch Sunday, Notre Dame's basketball team was better than the 12th-ranked Duke Blue Devils. But led by Mr. Everything, senior forward Danny Ferry, Duke proved which was the best team at the Joyce ACC Sunday night in a 102-80 pounding of the Irish.

"I said there were going to be some times when we'd get whacked this year," said Irish head coach Digger Phelps. "We got whacked today, even at home."

The 23-point difference was the largest loss margin of an Irish team since a 57-44 loss to Virginia in 1983, and the most lopsided home loss since 1981.

After the Blue Devils dominated the end of the first half, the Irish made the game exciting, momentarily, early in the second half. Notre Dame ripped off 12 consecutive points to cut Duke's 52-36 halftime lead to 52-48. Duke didn't score until 35:56 in the half, and even that was a goaltended bucket credited to Alon Abdonsky.

Were the Blue Devils about to be victims of another Notre Dame upset?

"I'm Catholic," Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "I know how holy water works.

"I'm Catholic," Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "I know how holy water works..."

However, after his 28-point performance led the Blue Devils to a 102-80 rout, he said it was his short time off the floor which led to his game-clinching sport early in the second half.

"I'd forced a couple of shots, and I kind of lost my composure," Ferry said, referring to his team's 12-2 run at the beginning of the second half. "Coach (Mike) Krzyzewski sat me down for about 30 seconds and said, 'Take it easy. Slow down.'"

"I got myself back together, and the shots started falling."

Whatever Krzyzewski said to Ferry obviously worked. Duke's Player of the Week candidate promptly turned a huge Irish comeback into a Duke blowout upon his return.

Notre Dame head coach Mike Brey said when Duke halftime lead at 52-48 in less than four minutes. During that time, Ferry had missed two relatively easy shots and committed one foul.

After spending 35 seconds sitting on the bench, the senior from Benchs, Md., returned with Duke ahead 54-48. He scored Duke's next eight points that effectively ended Notre Dame's season.

By THESA KELLY

Assistant Sports Editor

Irish give strong effort in Eck Doubles Classic

By CHRIS COONEY

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team proved that it could play with some of the best squads in the nation this weekend as the Irish finished the Eck Doubles Classic with a championship and two runner-up trophies.

"I couldn't have asked for more," said Head Coach Mike Gehlen. "The girls did this.

"I couldn't have asked for more," said Head Coach Mike Gehlen. "The girls did this."

The tandem was undefeated throughout the three days of the tournament, finishing with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Northwestern's Lynn Nahre and Julie Staples in the finals. In the other flights, the second doubles team of Katie Clark and Kristy Doran finished fifth, while the players at the third and fourth positions displayed the depth of the young Irish squad.

At the third spot, Kim Pacella paired with Natalie Illig to place second to a strong Nebraska team. Pacella-Illig were defeated in the finals 7-5, 6-4 after going 4-1 in the earlier rounds. In the No. 4 doubles bracket, the duo of Resa Kelly and Cathy Bradshaw was also 4-1, before they led to Northwestern 6-1, 6-0 in the championship. A No. 5 doubles team of Tyler Musleh and Anne Marie Dega also entered in the fourth flight and finished fifth.

The victories were especially satisfying for the Irish after last weekend's disappointing losses to Minnesota and Marquette.

"The pressure of playing in a dual meet was off of the girls and they could play more for themselves and their partners. They didn't have to worry about a critical match that would determine the outcome for the whole team," said Gehlen. "That psychological edge really helped the younger players."

Gehlen also attributed the win to Notre Dame's regular doubles combinations. The third pairing of playing with normal partners added strength and confidence to the pairs.

Cahill, half the victorious No. 1 duo, echoed Gehlen's comment.

"We work really well together," said Cahill, "because I hit the ball with finesse while the other player provides power."

The combination mixes up our opponents because they never know what we're going to do," said Cahill.

Barton agreed and added that the tournament should be a confidence booster for the 92 Irish.

"CeCe really helped me a lot," said the freshman Barton.

Irish give strong effort in Eck Doubles Classic

By CHRIS COONEY

Sports Writer

The tandem was undefeated throughout the three days of the tournament, finishing with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Northwestern's Lynn Nahre and Julie Staples in the finals. In the other flights, the second doubles team of Katie Clark and Kristy Doran finished fifth, while the players at the third and fourth positions displayed the depth of the young Irish squad.

At the third spot, Kim Pacella paired with Natalie Illig to place second to a strong Nebraska team. Pacella-Illig were defeated in the finals 7-5, 6-4 after going 4-1 in the earlier rounds. In the No. 4 doubles bracket, the duo of Resa Kelly and Cathy Bradshaw was also 4-1, before they led to Northwestern 6-1, 6-0 in the championship. A No. 5 doubles team of Tyler Musleh and Anne Marie Dega also entered in the fourth flight and finished fifth.

The victories were especially satisfying for the Irish after last weekend's disappointing losses to Minnesota and Marquette.

"The pressure of playing in a dual meet was off of the girls and they could play more for themselves and their partners. They didn't have to worry about a critical match that would determine the outcome for the whole team," said Gehlen. "That psychological edge really helped the younger players."

Gehlen also attributed the win to Notre Dame's regular doubles combinations. The third pairing of playing with normal partners added strength and confidence to the pairs.

Cahill, half the victorious No. 1 duo, echoed Gehlen's comment.

"We work really well together," said Cahill, "because I hit the ball with finesse while the other player provides power."

The combination mixes up our opponents because they never know what we're going to do," said Cahill.

Barton agreed and added that the tournament should be a confidence booster for the 92 Irish.

"CeCe really helped me a lot," said the freshman Barton.

Fencers victorious at home

By CHRIS FILLIO

Sports Writer

In their only home meet of the season, the Notre Dame fencing teams dominated the opposition in a clean sweep of the weekend action.

The competition at the Joyce ACC on Saturday included teams from Detroit, Tri State, Oakland University, Michigan, Cleveland State, Eastern Michigan, and Wayne State. However, none of the teams were much of a match for the Irish as they retained their perfect season records.

"Things went pretty much as I had expected," said Irish head coach Michael DeCicco. "I thought that our depth really showed more than our opposition. Our kids are fencing exceptionally well. It's going to take a very good team to beat Notre Dame this year."

"The women's squad made particularly quick work of most teams until locking swords with the defending national champions from Wayne State. Despite the temporary loss of top-ranked Lorenda Ranaa, out with the flu, the women of Wayne State gave the Irish as much as they could handle."

Powered by fine performances from Kristin Kralicek and Heidi Pipper, the women went on to complete a perfect day with a 9-7 victory over Ohio State.

"We did what we wanted to do today," said women's coach Yves Auriol. "We won and that was the important thing. (Irish captain) Janice Hynes (3-3) was definitely affected by her week-long illness. The bottom line is that if we want to go all the way this year, we have to fence better than we did today."

Auriol cited the contribution of senior Brenda Lessie (8-3) as a key element in the win over Wayne State. In addition, freshman Heidi Piper (7-1) seemed to be making the most of her graduated four-time All-American Molly Sullivan less and less of an obstacle as she continues to pick up crucial victories most meet after meet.

Sophomore Lynn Kadri and freshman Tara Kelly both went 6-0 on the day, while senior Stephanie McNiel (6-0) and freshman Mary Westrick (9-0) were also undefeated.

In the men's competition, the foil team led the way once more. The only loss of the day came at the hands of a couple of close calls against the impressive Notre Dame men. The Irish were also victorious in the epee and sabre, with only the sabre men's competition not being won by Notre Dame.

The only loss of the day came at the hands of a couple of close calls against the impressive Notre Dame men. The Irish were also victorious in the epee and sabre, with only the sabre men's competition not being won by Notre Dame.

"We work really well together," said Cahill, "because I hit the ball with finesse while the other player provides power."

The combination mixes up our opponents because they never know what we're going to do," said Cahill.

Barton agreed and added that the tournament should be a confidence booster for the 92 Irish.

"CeCe really helped me a lot," said the freshman Barton.