President Bush speaks to Chinese Protestants, discusses U.S.-China relations

Associated Press

BEIJING—President Bush reminded Sunday about our "home away home" at the Chongwenmen Protestant Church, telling Chinese worshippers that a strong faith in God helps people to cope with difficult problems.

Just before going into meetings with top Chinese officials, Bush mixed secular and spiritual talk in brief remarks to roughly 1,400 worshippers seated in the sanctuary of the church hidden behind high stone walls.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said that while relations between the United States and China are basically sound, "Sometimes our problems can seem bigger than life itself—intracetable and fearsome. But I am convinced that, with each other, with our faith in God, we can meet any challenge, and we will."

Bush was meeting with senior Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping later Sunday, and with Cambodian resistance leaders that a strong faith in God helps people to cope with difficult problems.

The attention of Bush's top aides on the trip continued to be diverted by the administration's problem with the John Tower nomination in Washington.

In Beijing, White House chief of staff John Sununu asserted that Democrats "are getting nervous" about the upcoming Senate vote on the defense secretary-designate, and that some of them appeared to be coming around.

Bush plans to meet with a group of Senate Democrats at the White House early next Tuesday, the day after he returns from his trip to the Far East. The administration is trying to salvage the Tower nomination after the Senate Armed Services Committee last week voted against recommending the former Texas senator's approval by the full Senate.

In a gesture reminiscent of Ronald Reagan's hosting of Soviet dissidents in Moscow last year, Bush has invited China's most famous dissident, Fang Lizhi, to a Sunday night banquet.

Well, here it is, a Notre Dame fairytale based on reality. There's even a moral to the story . . .

Once upon a time there was a basketball game against Temple. It seemed like the student body got up on the wrong side of bed. A couple of bad calls from the referees, and the mood got ugly. By mid-way through the second half, the usual crowd references to the referees' marital habits were going full strength, despite the cheerleaders' attempts at motion cheer.

Along comes a television time out that was a bit too interminable than usual. The band, attempting to keep the crowd going, had launched into one of those stirring renditions of the "Hey' song." Well, all of a sudden the game starts, then it stops. The referees confer. Then over the public address: "By NCAA rules, the band is not allowed to play during the progress of the game."

So the crowd decides to play the Hey song" anyway, though I think the band yelled on them a little. "Hum-de-hummm-hum HRV" and so forth. It was funny at the time.

Look! Here comes Dick Rosenthal, master athletic director. He yells at the band, apparently for inciting the crowd or something. Yet the crowd kept humming along.

The moral of the story is that Notre Dame, like anything else in life, is what you make of it. The band and the crowd decided to make something of Notre Dame that day against Temple. Maybe it wasn't Dick Rosenthals vision of Notre Dame, but it was their own.

We oftentimes make a big deal complaining about the decisions that are made by the powers that be at Notre Dame. Alcohol, sex, parking, social life . . . we bitch a lot but it seems that we do little.

Some of the groups on campus have decided to make their compromises with Notre Dame. The cheerleaders do Dancin' Irish stuff to please Rosenthal. The band plays "Amazing Grace" because the Year of Cultural Diversity image has been stuffed down their throats. The Observer has stopped running alcohol advertisements to avoid a tangle with the dry-campus crowd under the Dome. This paper decided to knockle under because it was easier. So did the band and the cheerleaders, though at least the cheerleader coach had the guts to resign.

If you don't have the guts, then compromise is fine. But perhaps it's not as admirable.

I've seen a lot of negative press about Notre Dame in this space over the last five years. Some of it has been mine. Some of it has been valid: some of it hasn't. But the bottom line is that if you don't like the alcohol policy or parking or the frozen turkeys, then go drink and screw around and park in Main Circle for three hours. And if the administration decides to send you to counseling, then take it like a hero.

In the end, the administration isn't Notre Dame. The football team isn't Notre Dame. The alumni aren't Notre Dame. For four years of your life, you are Notre Dame. Or better yet, Notre Dame is you.

This being my last writing for The Observer, I'd just like to say a few words to a great many people who have made this job easier over the years. So to Phil Johnson, Tom Doyle and Mike Pasone, Bill Holley, Jim Beley and Chris Bednarski, the entire Public Relations office, Mom, Cheryl, and especially the Big G staff members: thank you.

And to those of you who haven't made my job easier, at least you've made it interesting.

The Iceberg Debates final, pitting Stanford and Zahm Halls, will cap a five-week competition Tuesday, Feb. 28 at 9 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium.

The debates began Jan. 30 as the first campus-wide debate series to be held annually on social justice issues in a single-elimination tournament. Five weeks, 28 teams and 112 competitors later, the Iceberg Debates are coming to a close.

Stanford and Zahm will debate the topic, "That U.S. economic aid to a Latin American country should be tied to the improvement of that country's record of upholding the human rights of its citizens."

Stanford will take the affirmative side of the debate while Zahm will argue the negative side in a standardized format used throughout the debates. A five-member panel of faculty and graduate students will judge the debate and present their observations, according to Iceberg Debates Chairman Joseph McCraig, of Morris-town, N.J.; Rose Harley of Hackenack, N.J.; Anthony Fallon and Barbara Fallon of Long Beach, Calif.; Mary T. Handley of Bay City, Mich.; Lee Campbell of Wellington, New Zealand; and Dr. John Michael Crawford and John Swann, both of Sydney, Australia.

The nine missing passengers were identified as Susan Craig and Harry Craig of Morris-town, N.J.; Rose Harley of Hackenack, N.J.; Anthony Fallon and Barbara Fallon of Long Beach, Calif.; Mary T. Handley of Bay City, Mich.; Lee Campbell of Wellington, New Zealand; and Dr. John Michael Crawford and John Swann, both of Sydney, Australia.

According to Hawaii Department of Transportation spokesman Marilyn Kali, the youngest in United's jumbo jet fleet, took off for New Zealand at 1:14 a.m.

$1 billion in heroin seized by agents in Chinatown

Associated Press

NEW YORK—It wasn’t like the “French Connection” heroin bust. There was no careening car chase, no "Popeye" Doyle cracking the case.

But agents who smashed a Hong Kong-to-Chinatown narcotics ring last week stumbled onto the largest heroin haul in U.S. history when they seized $1 billion worth of the drug packed in hollowed-out golf cart tires.

“This seizure is much bigger than the ‘French Connection,’” said U.S. attorney Andrew J. Maloney, who prosecuted some of the cases stemming from the drug ring that inspired the Oscar-winning 1971 film.

“The biggest seizure from the whole ‘French Connection’ was about 220 pounds. But this—everybody was amazed by the size of this seizure.”

Federal authorities on the night of Feb. 20 hit three locations in the borough of Queens, grabbing 828 pounds of 90 percent pure heroin from Southeast Asia—enough to supply one out of every five U.S. heroin addicts for a year.

The amount of heroin was so big that when Assistant FBI Director James M. Fox arrived at his office Tuesday morning, he cautiously asked if a radio report he had heard was correct: Had 300 pounds of heroin really been seized?

“No,” replied a colleague, with a straight face. “It was 828 pounds.” "We didn’t know if we were going to get just a couple of pounds (of heroin) or what when we went in,” Fox said three days later. “What a way to start the week.”

Eighteen suspects were arrested in New York City and 13 in Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Singapore, Hong Kong and Canada. Seized along with the drugs was $3 million cash.

While a bust of this size would hurt the heroin trade, Maloney acknowledged it was no death blow.

Fed encourages higher rates to ward off possible inflation

Associated Press

WASHINGTON-The Federal Reserve Board's decision last week to boost its key lending rate to combat inflation is likely to be followed by further credit tightening moves and even higher interest rates, many analysts believe.

They say the central bank's move to increase the discount rate by a half percentage point to 7 percent on Friday came too late and was too mild to effectively quell an inflation spiral, and that further steps to cool the overheating economy will be necessary. "The Fed is signaling that its definitely trying to encourage higher rates in order to fight the inflationary pressures," said Donald Ratliff, an economist of the Economic Forecasting Center at Georgia State University.

The only question is whether they're signaling a little late and a little timidly," he said.

Boosting the discount rate, the fee the central bank charges for short-term loans to banks, is the strongest signal the Fed can send of its concern about inflation. The Fed also has been employing more subtle credit-tightening moves for the past year, reducing the availability of cash and thus driving up the interest rates that banks charge when making loans.

Major banks last week boosted their prime rate—charged to the most credit-worthy commercial customers—for the second time in two weeks to 11.5 percent as lenders continue to pass along their higher costs for funds. A variety of lending rates covering mortgages on home purchases, home mortgages on cars are expected to ratchet upward as a result of the latest round of Fed tightening, and the pattern is expected to repeat itself. "Until the Fed sees some clear evidence that the economy is slowing down, it is going to continue to tighten," said economist David Wyss of Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass. "It believes the economy is running too fast, inflation is accelerating and it's going to put on the brakes. But it takes awhile for the brakes to work." Higher interest rates are used to gradually moderate economic growth to avoid the higher prices caused by tight labor markets and supply bottlenecks.

Other analysts are predicting a continuing Fed tightening throughout the remainder of this year, reducing the availability of cash and thus driving up the interest rates that banks charge when making loans.

Finnish claim 'sex holidays' necessary

The panel's work was described in a story published last week by the country's largest newspaper, Helsingin Sanomat. A draft memo prepared for a draft memo the committee sent to the Ministry of Health and Social Affairs.

The memo recommends that people be "given the possibility of having sex holidays during which they can forget pressing matters and concentrate on relaxing in erotic pleasure and satisfaction." The notes were written by 243 members of the Eroticism and the Promotion of Health Committee, appointed by the Ministry a year ago to study health and sex in Finnish society.

Sexually transmitted diseases such as gonorrhea and syphilis are decreasing in Finland, and the number of abortions has dropped by 50 percent since the 1970s, mainly due to government-sponsored information programs.

The spread of AIDS also seems to have slowed in Finland. The latest figures show 243 known HIV carriers and 41 AIDS cases, only a slight increase over the same period last year.

Pauliina Aarva, a member of committee, said the education campaigns have worked well, but she wants more discussion of the positive aspects of sex.

"What we have to do is to be able to talk about sex in a positive manner. It seems that whenever the subject is brought up it is either in association with such negative elements as AIDS, diseases, abortions or even something weedy," she said.

Dirty dancing

Roger Hupp and Laura Polutanovich dance the night away at the all-campus SYR held on Friday.

Bush, at the urging of dozens of U.S. lawmakers, is expected to bring up China's suppression of pro-independence activists in Tibet and China's human rights record in general.

From the time he arrived in this sprawling city on Saturday afternoon, Bush had been greeted by well-wishers. At a banquet Saturday night, he said that U.S. and Chinese leaders "owe it to mankind to work together."

During his talk Sunday, Bush noted that his daughter, Dorothy LaBlond, had been baptized at the Chongwemen Protestant Church here in 1975, when she was 16.

"That gives us a special feeling of identity and warmth," he said.

It's been one year now since we "gave peace a chance" in Nicaragua. That is, about one year ago, after a lengthy bat­ tle between the Reagan Administration and Congress, the House voted to cut off military aid to the Contras. Democrats and liberal special interest groups argued that with the Contra war ended, the Sandinistas would lose their excuse for repression and would begin to democratize. So, one wonders: What is the Sandinista record of the last twelve months?

on politics

The respected columnist Charles Krauthammer asked the same ques­ tion, and came up with disturbing re­sults. The Sandinistas continue to prac­tice repression. They admit to holding 3000 political prisoners. Un­ doubtedly they have more, but even this is only one-tenth of one percent of the population. ABC News last month reported that 2000 Nicaraguans per week escape. Not only does Agrarian Reform Minister Alejandro Wheelock promise no last­minute reward salaries, but it also punishes. If anyone raises a strike ban­ ner before the revolution begins, they do flee Sandinista repression, but also a disastrous economy. Inflation rates are running 22,000 percent annually.

These internal problems have not stopped the Managua regime from turning its attention to its "allies" in other nations. The Sandinistas continue to serve as sanctuary and supplier to refugees. An estimated 500,000 to 750,000 Nicaraguans have fled the country, which is between one-fifth and one-sixth of the population. ABC News last month reported that 2000 Nicaraguans per week escape. Not only does Agrarian Reform Minister Alejandro Wheelock promise no last-minute reward salaries, but it also punishes. If anyone raises a strike banner before the revolution begins, they do flee Sandinista repression, but also a disastrous economy. Inflation rates are running 22,000 percent annually.

The deeper meaning behind the Christian tradition of honoring parents may lie within a deeper understanding of "parents." Jesus does not call Joseph his father for he has only one Father, who is in Heaven. And when Jesus is told that his mother and brothers are waiting outside to see him, he answers, "My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it." (Luke 8:21). What we do with our lives is neither ours nor our parents' to decide; only we do not choose our careers but heed vocations, be they secular or religious. And while the opinions of others close to us are not negligible in discerning our respective calls, ultimately only the individual can tell where God is leading him/herself. The irony is that those who honor their parents in the old sense usually do well and live long; those who honor their parents in the new sense are often unhappy and disillusioned.

Honor one's parents

Only the Fourth Commandment carries a promise along with its injunc­ tion. Presumably, the values behind all other commandments are evident enough so that rewards need not be added to them to provide incentive for their observance. However, the Fourth Commandment, "Honour your father and your mother," is qualified by the clause "that your days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with you, in the land which the Lord your God gives you" (Deut. 5:16). Those honoring their parents are justified in the Lord's eyes but also receive the consolation prizes of long­evity and prosperity.

Biblical sociologists point out that an attitude of tender solicitude shown by the young toward their older gener­ations is conducive to a stable society in which community traditions can be passed smoothly. Some speculate that the commandment regarding our parents may be read in a strictly economic sense, a kind of primitive, familial social security system. Many Sandinista systems are no longer able to support themselves, their children must support them. Whatever the case, the commandment is in accordance with a sense of duty to parents permeates the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Traditionally, Jesus is looked upon as the fulfillment of the Old Law; a prophet whose purpose is not to erase even a dot of the law but rather to il­ luminate the inner-personal meaning of ethical commandments. If Jesus is not only able to support himself, but to serve as a model of-smooth-social trans­ition ' '  ' model of transitions. Only when he leaves his hometown is Jesus powerless to per­ form miracles. Only when he leaves his hometown is Jesus powerless to perform miracles. Only when he leaves home in a definite and self-directed way does Jesus have power to make the blind see.

The Christian message indeed seems antithetical to the kind of "guardian of smooth-social-transition" model of family relations discussed above. Jesus promises that his call will pit father against son - not that it will make for pleasant family dinners. In fact, he has a "Career which will secure the parents' promises. How they stand in the light of the Gospel is another matter.

America must support the Contra cause

The Observer

P. O. Box 6, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556 (219)239-5203

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. The Observer is not a part of any religious, political, social or other faction of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unedited selections represent the opinion of the majority of the Editorial Board. This publication is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus. Through these, an encouragement demonstrates that we can assume a permanently peaceful attitude toward it.

It is easy to become pessimistic. The call of those who have asked for help from us grows longer: the Hun­ garian rebels of 1956, the Cubans at the Bay of Pigs; the South Vietnamese; and now the Nicaraguan contras. All were either denied help entirely, or were abandoned in a time of crisis. Of all of them, only possibly the de­ feat of Mr. Gorbachev and his "reforms," Communists in the United States are able to compete with the United States for world supremacy, be it economically, militarily, or diplomatically. How many of us wish to see a world dominated by the USSR, even if it is led by Gorbachev? Given this, it does not matter how "vulnerable" or "changing," the Soviets and their proxies are, if we do not also attempt to compete and take advantage of their difficulties.

We cannot allow allies such as the Contras to die. A contest must, and will, have a winner. In the end, America is bound to lose if it does not try to win.

JPW is an important event

Dear Editor:

In response to Miss Walsh's column on JPW I would simply like to ask one question: What is different about JPW? For freshmen, sophomores, and seniors the answer should be nothing. They can continue their normal routines of sleep, study, and relaxation without the help of the junior class. That is, I assume, what people on campus and the Joyce ACC are being closed for two nights - but it's no worse than a football weekend.

For juniors, the answer should be that JPW is one of the most memorable weekends at Notre Dame. It is a special time to meet the parents of your roommates, and to spend quality time with your own parents.

I feel sorry for those juniors unable to participate in JPW, but I feel especially sorry for those like Miss Walsh who would "escape the drudgery of JPW" to drink in Leicester Square.

JPW seemed all too short for juniors

Dear Editor:

For the past week the candidates vying for Notre Dame's student body president and vice-president have covered our campus in the form of posters on our bulletin boards, personal appearances in our dorms, and debates in Cushing Auditorium. Each ticket has worked to distinguish itself by sharing their vision for the upcoming year.

As we watch the election develop and look at the platforms of each ticket, it has caused us to reflect upon our role over the past year. There have indeed been a great number of successes as well as occasional setbacks; however, more than anything we have come to realize the great number of ways student government directly impacts the lives of Notre Dame students. Student government assumes many roles ranging from the planning of events on campus to representing student interests to the University administration. The success of student government, and thus the quality of student representation, depends upon the active participation of its readers. All members of its leadership do make a difference, and the difference rests entirely upon those people whom you elect. Vote and vote thoughtfully today.

Accepting cultural diversity

For too long now I've been standing on the outside waiting for others to grow up and I'm tired of waiting. For too long people have pre judged me, have formed opinions of me, or have asked questions or rumors they heard about me was true. And for too long I've been blocking out this eighth grade behavior and keeping everything inside. Well, hear me out now.

Diane Alvarez

Since I was born, I've always been teased by kids, "Are you mixed?", "Are you a zebra?", "Are you an oreo cookie?" Not that it was anyone else's business, or that it should make any difference. But I excused their crudeness and knew that, deep down in me, there were too many different shades of skin color that I was ashamed of. How, I wondered, could people have prejudged me, have formed opinions of me, or have asked questions or rumors they heard about me was true. And for too long I've been blocking out this eighth grade behavior and keeping everything inside. Well, hear me out now.

Two startling nominations are also present this year. The first is the nomination of “Roseanne” in the Favorite TV Comedy Series category with “The Cosby Show” and “Cheers.” Seldom does a new show have a large enough following to make this category. “Roseanne” is also nominated for Favorite New TV Comedy Series with “Murphy Brown” and “The Wonder Years.”

A second interesting nomination occurs in the Favorite Male TV Performer category in which Tom Selleck, who no longer stars in a TV series, competes against Michael J. Fox and Bill Cosby. This nomination may simply be due to Selleck’s recent surge in movie popularity. “Knotts Landing” battles “L.A. Law” and “Murder, She Wrote” for Favorite Dramatic TV Series, while “China Beach” confronts “Heartbeat” and “In the Heat of the Night” for Favorite New TV Drama. In the female categories, Roseanne Barr, Phylicia Rashad and Cybill Shepherd fight for the title of Favorite Female TV Performer, and Roseanne Barr (again), Candice Bergen, and Dana Delaney compete for Favorite Female Performer in a New TV Series. The two special All-Time categories will provide some interesting competition in the annual gala. Competing for the prestige of All-Time Favorite TV Series are “The Cosby Show,” “M*A*S*H,” and “Star Trek.” The candidates for All-Time Favorite Movie are “E.T.,” “Gone With the Wind,” and “The Sound of Music.”

“The People’s Choice Awards” always provides an evening of quality entertainment filled with all the glitter and glitz that is Hollywood. Being nominated for these awards is an honor itself; however, the feeling of taking the glass award home must be a feeling of accomplishment like no other. Remem ber, though, that it’s not whether you win or lose, it’s how you play your part.

Landry contemplating future

Associated Press

IRVING, Texas—Deposed Notre Dame coach Louie Dampier was back in Miami on Sunday after flying to Dallas from his Austin-area home. He says his wife said the dismissal came so fast, they haven’t even decided what they’ll do next.

“IT’s a sad thing and we really don’t have any immediate future plans and I am not sure Tom will stay on with the Cowboys to talk the media yet.”

All he said was, “He just hasn’t set any time frame for it.”

As for Landry’s mood, Schramm said: “I think Tom is feeling better. He knows it wasn’t his doing.”

Landry’s contract calls for some $600,000 a year for two years, but Jones left the door open for more than 200 games and two Super Bowl rings around in a yet-to-be-named capacity.

“I think Landry is the Cowboys, and just like Tex (Schramm) is in Buffalo.”

And we’ll have to address that at a later date,” Jones said.

“Let me tell you this, Jimmy Johnson would be the first to tell you he couldn’t carry Tom’s water bucket.”

And added, “In time, Tom might be like a great big gorilla, getting what he wants. But I think Jerry Jones. However, I would not have taken the job without Jimmy Johnson as my head coach.”

The couple spent Saturday at Austin. Jones wastex. Schramm visited Landry later in the afternoon when he told him of the changes.

“I HAVE A DATE!”

said he’d sold the team to Jones for a record $160 million to come back to Miami.

Schramm said Johnson, teaming with Jones on the 1961 Arkansas Razorbacks, would hold a press conference in Dallas on Tuesday.

Johnson refused to speak at today’s news conference in Miami.

While Jones will be the new owner, there will be five minority owners, including Ed Smith of Wilmington, Del. The group includes 27 percent under Bright’s ownership. The other minority owners include Charles Why, Sam Wiley and Evan Why, who are affiliated with U.S. kake, owners of the Banana Steakhouse, chain, and Russell Glass.

Jones soon will be moving to Dallas and will have an office at the team’s headquarters at Valley Ranch, becoming the team’s first hands-on owner.

“Tex is used to standing out front, but he’s a little behind right now. But he’s still going to be a very important part of the Cowboys, more than anything,” said Jack Pardee, Schramm’s right-hand man.

“I’m going to be a very aggressive part of the organization. The Cowboys will be my life.”

Jones said is subject to approval from 21 of the 28 NFL owners.

MIAMI - Mike Glasson turned in a pair of out-18s and scored 11-0 in the 108-77 win over Loyola.

Notre Dame's victory over Loyola, Tennessee and Dayton. However, the Flyers out-scored in the running for the fourth and final playoff spot.

Tobette Pleasant scored 16 points to pace a Dayton squad that placed four players in double figures. Kailin Good- man and Cindy Fredricks poured in 14 points apiece, while Lisa Green added 10 of her own. Lischke led all Notre Dame scorers with 11-0 points before fouling out in the second half. Davis also fouled out for the Irish.

"We just shot so poorly," said McGraw. "That was a real problem for us. It hurt our defense because we were in foul trouble all game." Notre Dame's victory over Xavier eliminated the Lady Musketeers from contention for the MCC tournament. Dayton and Detroit remain in the running for the fourth and final playoff spot.

Tony added six points of her own in a supporting role.

"It was like we were trying to m ake birdie," Calcavecchia said. "It kind of relaxed me. I knew I had to go right at him. But his 6-iron approach, he said, was caught up in the wind, and when you take the three-gam e losing skid, the Irish, which took it into the lake.

"Our press was very effec-tive," said Irish coach Muffet McGraw. "It was 42-40 at one point, and then we forced a few turnovers in a row. We got they never came any closer." Notre Dame's starting back-court turned in a pair of out-standing performances against Xavier. Sara Liebscher scored 14 points and pulled down seven rebounds to tie Davis for the team lead. Point guard Karen Robinson also scored in double figures, pouring in 10 points for the Irish.

But the key to the game was Notre Dame's bench, particu-larly frontcourt players Annie Schwartz and Donnara Toney. Schwartz scored 14 points on six of 10 shooting from the field, while Toney added six points of her own in a supporting role. The Irish (10-2 in the MCC, 16-9 overall) proved their mettle in bouncing back from a three-game losing skid, during which they lost to Loyola, Tennessee and Dayton. Notre Dame plays Loyola Thursday night at 7:30 in a rematch of last week's 108-77 Loyola win.

Dayton defeated Notre Dame Thursday despite hitting only 39 percent of its shots, com-pared to 41 percent for the Irish. However, the Flyers out-shot Notre Dame 21-7 from the charity stripe.

"(The foul shooting) was a big factor in Thursday's game," said McGraw. "Dayton has a good inside game, and when you take the ball inside as much as they did, you'll draw a lot more fouls." Who's responsible for the men's tennis team's shocking 11-4 record in the first two matches of the season? Is it coach Bob Bayliss who is trying to imitate Joe Hult, and turn a program around in three years? Could it be No. 1 Dave DiLucia, the Chris Jackson of collegiate tennis?

Boy Bayliss who is trying to imitate Joe Hultz, and turn a program around in three years? Could it be No. 1 Dave DiLucia, the Chris Jackson of collegiate tennis? Doesn't know he is only a freshman? Or is the culprit Brian Kalnas, who at times seems like he would rather fight in the Bengal Boats than swing a tennis racket?

Whatever the reason, the Irish made believers out of three teams this weekend at the Eck Pavilion. For the doubting Thomases who follow the men's tennis team, rest assured. Notre Dame is no fluke.

The Irish converted Colorado, Southern Illinois, and Iowa to this belief. Moreover, the Irish clinched two out of three victories in the singles competition.

On Friday, Notre Dame corralled the Buffaloes of Colorado with a 5-1 victory. The doubles contested were won because they could not change the outcome of reasons.

In the third meeting between the two schools, the Irish latched on their first-ever victory. This year's victory was extraordinary considering in 1986 Colorado won the match in the singles, and this year, the Irish returned the favor.

"Notre Dame is 50 percent better than they were last year," said coach Ron Smarr. "They believe in themselves more, and are a lot more confident."

No. 1 Dave DiLucia snared a straight-set victory, 7-6 (3), 6-4 against James Johnson, ranked 60th in the nation. The No. 6 Irish player has posted three other wins against nationally ranked foes, all ahead of the No. 28, No. 49, and No. 60 players in collegiate tennis.

The Colorado contest was the stage for senior Dave Reiter's reemergence in singles play. Reiter dusted off the cobwebs of his singles' game to earn his first singles victory since April 23, 1988. Reiter who is one-half of the No. 2 team came up on the winning end against No. 6 Kevin Johnson in two sets, 6-3, 6-3.

Ryan Wenger snapped a three match losing streak at the No. 1 position by knocking off Jeff Kochever, 7-6, 6-2 in a baseline battle.

Against Southern Illinois, the Irish pounded on the Salukis early to catapult them to a 6-3 win. The Irish, on Saturday morning, captured four singles victories and two of three doubles to ink their tenth win of the year.

"After we got over the hump to beat Colarado, we might have gotten a little overconfident," said Bayliss. "With Dave playing so well, there is a little security."

In the third match of the weekend, the leg- weary Irish mustered a 6-3 win over the Iowa Hawkeyes. Notre Dame, winners over Iowa since 1987, clinched the victory in the singles with a two-set victory by Paul Odland over David Novak, 6-4, 7-5. The No. 5 player snapped a seven match winning streak while sealing the Irish win.

"The win was pivotal to get some momentum," said Odland. "It will bolster my confidence, and I am all a-game with good feeling to help the team win.

Iowa head coach Steve Haughton attributed his team's loss to a couple of reasons.

"It helps the the whole team to have DiLucia," said Haughton. "Notre Dame has gained more confidence, and won a high percentage of key points.

One of the major forces behind the recent success of the Irish has been the play of No. 3 Walter Dolhare. Dolhare, a native of Buenos Aires, has been fantastic since Feb. 17.

"Walter has been sensational," said Bayliss. "Walter has great ground strokes when he arrived, but now he is becoming more aggressive. He is putting pressure on his opponents, and learning to attack from his approach shots."

The Iowa matchup provided the stage for DiLucia to extend his winning streak to 12 matches. The last time DiLucia lost was Feb. 4 against Ohio State.

"It took a month off from playing during Christmas, and that didn't help," said DiLucia. "I started playing again, and I got match tough. I am serving well, and everything is starting to click again."

Notre Dame, winners of four of its last five matches, has raised the eyebrows of many including its own coach.

"I keep getting surprised with these guys," said Bayliss. "I am not going to underestimate these guys again. This weekend, we didn't dazzle anyone but we are learning to win ugly.

We believe we are on the right track.

Two-mile relay squad qualifies for NCAA tourney

By SCOTT BRUTCACO
Sports Writer

Notre Dame played host to the Alex Wilson Invitational on Saturday at the Meyo Track and Field, and for the second day in a row, the relay squad, it was a last chance at achieving a goal that has eluded them for one member, very elusive.

It was the last chance for senior Dave Warth, who had just missed qualifying for the NCAA's in both of his last two seasons. This season, however, Warth and the entire two-mile relay squad were not to be denied.

In grand fashion, Notre Dame placed third in the two-mile relay finals with a time of 7:34.70, right behind Villanova and Georgetown.

"For me it's like the four years I have finally paid off," said Warth, who runs the final leg of the race. "It feels great after all these years finally to get to go."

In sophomore year Warth missed qualifying for the NCAA's in the 1000 meters by 0.7 seconds. A year later, Warth missed qualifying in the half-mile by 0.2 seconds.

"I was beginning to wonder what it took to get to NCAA's," said Warth. "But going into the meet, we knew we were going to qualify. We had a completely different attitude going in, and that atmosphere made the difference."

The squad was aided by the strength of its competition as well, to which coach Joe Piane went to great lengths to invite the best two-mile relay teams in the country. Plane's endeavors were made good with four NCAA qualifying times by 42 percent from the field in the final 20 minutes. "We just played tentative and didn't take it back to them," said Phelps. "When you have a breakdown, that's when teams can make a run at you. We just didn't get the thing rolling again."

The Irish could have entered the half leading by more than 11, considering how well the Irish looked and how pitiful Tech was in those first 20 minutes. But Notre Dame committed 14 fouls in that half, and Tech turned that into a win.

Those free throws helped the Jackets remain in the game and actually have a little momentum at halftime.

"It was an excellent basket made by Comrens. "Notre Dame's young. They're an excellent team. But you've got to remember they are a young team.""

"I'm excited to the moon to go," said Peppard. "When I first came over to South Bend in August the coaches told me that the NCAA's was our aim. Achieving it this year has made it particularly fantastic."

"Hopefully when we go to Indianapolis (site of NCAA Championships) we'll run a little better and we'll be able to win."

Although no other athletes qualified for the NCAA's, several qualified for the upcoming IC4A's on March 4.

Fifth-year senior and All-American Dan Garrett, previously out with injuries, qualified for the IC4A's in the 3000 meters with a time of 8:11.26.

Sophomore Ryan Cahill qualified in the same event by running the event in 8:13.86.

Pasquerilla East defeats Lewis; teams must play again tonight

By KEN TYSIAC
Sports Writer

In women's Interhall basketball action on Sunday, Pasquerilla East got a 25-23 victory over the Lewis Rebels to force another game between the two teams tonight.

The winner of tonight's contest between Lewis and P.E. will play Breen-Phillips, which won a forfeit victory over the Rebels Sunday, Tuesday night at 6:30 p.m. in the Joyce ACC Pit.

P.E. trailed 16-12 after third quarters against Lewis, but its physical inside play helped to dominate the fourth quarter. P.E. took its first lead of the game on a breakaway layup by Colleen O'Connor, and then Molly Mahoney cashed in a three-point play for a 25-20 P.E. lead.

Lewis hit it to 25-23 on a Sue Lippa free throw with 10 seconds to play, but could only hold on as P.E. ran out the clock. Mahoney led Pasquerilla East with 11 points, while Ellen Mouch had 7 for the Rebels.

P.E. co-Coach Ray Flannery and Joe Hippler attributed their victory to increased defensive intensity and good rebounding in the second half.

The winner of tonight's rematch between P.E. and Lewis will have to beat B.P. twice in order to win the championship, because both P.E. and Lewis have already lost twice in this double-elimination tournament. B.P. remains one victory away from the Interhall championship, however, by virtue of its unbeaten record in the playoffs.

Senior wrestlers go in style with convincing win

By GREG SHECKENBACH
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame wrestling team demolished a much improved Marquette squad 44-2 at the Joyce A.C. in the last dual meet of the year Saturday.

In a sense, the match was the end of the beginning for the Irish. It was the last match for seniors Jerry Durso and Chris Geneser, who four years ago put Irish wrestling on the map. They will end their careers as Notre Dame's only blemish, won easily by technical fall at seven minutes and seven seconds.

They will end their careers as the top two wrestlers in Notre Dame history. It was the last match for Co-captain Durso, who won his final regular season match very uneventfully with a forfeit. At 142 pounds, junior Andy Radenbaugh had a more difficult match at 126 pounds, winning by a close 4-2 score. Geneser, a freshman, has been on a tear lately, winning all his matches since the Oklahoma match on Feb. 4.

In the 142-pound match, Boyd (19-4) won a major decision 16-2 against an overmatched opponent. Todd Layton recorded his 25th victory at the 158-pound level, winning 6-3 in a slow-moving match. Layton is currently fourth for the Irish in total wins this season behind Radenbaugh, Durso, and Geneser.

Sophomore Mark Gerardi (19-12) pinned his opponent in just 1:17, his tenth pin of the year. Gerardi qualified for the NCAA tournament last year as a freshman at the 158-pound level. Tomazic (18-12) won by technical fall at seven minutes in his first match at 177 pounds.

Notre Dame's only blemish came at 190 pounds when freshman Tom Salvino was tied by Marquette's Jon Fieggen. Mullaney in the lightweight match on Feb. 4.

Mold Gierardi (19-12) pinned his opponent in just one second in a major decision 16-2. At 167 pounds, junior Andy Radenbaugh (33-7) won by forfeit.

In the 142-pound match, Boyd (19-4) won a major decision 16-2 against an overmatched opponent. Todd Layton recorded his 25th victory at the 158-pound level, winning 6-3 in a slow-moving match. Layton is currently fourth for the Irish in total wins this season behind Radenbaugh, Durso, and Geneser.

Senior Pat Boyd may wrestle again next year if his injury hardship is approved. Otherwise, this is the finale for the catalysts of Notre Dame wrestling.

From the beginning, Notre Dame (10-3) never let Marquette into the match, grabbing an impressive 38-0 lead. At 118 pounds, junior Andy Radenbaugh (33-7) won by forfeit. Marcus Gowens had a more difficult match at 126 pounds, winning by a close 4-2 score. Gowens, a freshman, has been on a tear lately, winning all his matches since the Oklahoma match on Feb. 4.

In the 142-pound match, Boyd (19-4) won a major decision 16-2 against an overmatched opponent. Todd Layton recorded his 25th victory at the 158-pound level, winning 6-3 in a slow-moving match. Layton is currently fourth for the Irish in total wins this season behind Radenbaugh, Durso, and Geneser.

This was Salvino's first action since the beginning of the year due to a knee injury.

In the heavyweight division, Chuck Weaver won a major decision 16-4 in what was one of his easier matches of the year. Weaver, who has been improving as of late, recorded his tenth win this weekend.

The Irish will travel to Des Moines, Iowa, for the Western Regionals. Last year, Notre Dame placed six wrestlers in the tournament which is qualifying for a trip to the national tournament. The Irish ended their dual season with a 10-3 record, the best in Fran McCann's five-year stint.

scored on a Jacobs double to put the Irish up 10-5. Sass drove in Jacobs for the final run of the inning.

Catcher Ed Lund singled home the final Irish run in the eighth.

Texas came back with four runs in the eighth, but reliever Mike Coffey ended the Texas rally and earned his second save of the season, despite facing the tying run at the plate in the ninth.

"They've had four national championships, their coach (Cliff Gustafson) is a legend, and they've got a great tradition. This is a credit to these baseball power," Murphy said.

"Texas is a perennial college baseball power," Murphy said. "They've had four national championships, their coach (Cliff Gustafson) is a legend, and they've got a great tradition. This is a credit to these kids, to come in here and come out on top like this."

The Irish used four pitchers, including Coffey, with Tony Livorsi getting his first win of the season.

The win brings more credibility to the Notre Dame program, credibility that it earned last fall by sweeping a two-game series against highly touted Miami.

"People were questioning the legitimacy of our wins over Miami," Murphy said, "saying they didn't play their best lineup against Texas." They pitched their number one and number two pitchers, and we beat them straight up.

"People are looking for excuses to why we beat Miami and beat Texas. It's because we can win, that's all."

"I really can't expect us to go down to Florida and beat Texas. I think people can win, that's all."

And only if we know human nature and the nature of the true good for human beings can we arrive at an idea of the truly just society.

Which of the following points out a potential flaw in this reasoning above?

(a) What one human being thinks is good might well be something that another human being thinks is not good.

(b) Many people have arrived at ideas of the just society, and all of them have been slightly different.

(c) It is possible to know human nature and the nature of the true good for human beings, but it is not possible to know what is the true good for human beings.

(d) Philosophers have argued for centuries over what specifically defines human nature, without coming to a general agreement.

(e) Arriving at an idea of the just society may require more knowledge of human nature and knowledge of the good for human beings.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. - Sean Elliott scored 24 points Sunday and No. 2 Arizona needed a missed free throw with one second left to beat No. 9 Duke 77-75 and set up a probable return to the top spot in the poll.

Elliott gave the Wildcats the lead for good with a 3-pointer with 54 seconds left that broke a 70-70 tie. He also grabbed 10 rebounds in his matchup with fellow player of the year candidate Danny Ferry, who had 29 points and 12 rebounds.

Anthony Cook finished with 19 for the Wildcats and Matt Muehbach had 14.

Christian Laettner had 12 points and 10 rebounds for Duke.

Arizona improved to 22-3 and has won 14 of 15, while Duke, 21-5, had a seven-game winning streak ended.

Noone joins elite with victory in finals
Shannon wins football battle

In a super heavyweight battle that electrified a Stepan Center crowd of 3,600, Brian "The Cannon" Shannon outslugged an extremely game Steve Roddy in a unanimous decision to cap the scintillating evening of sweet science that also saw two-time champion Mike "High" Noone join the illustrious quartet of four-time champions in the 56-year history of the Bengal Bouts.

Noone displayed the class and courage of a true Fighting Irishman as he dissected an overmatched Pete Bottini as mercilessly as possible while chasing the ghosts of previous foes "Slam" Reidl, "Sky" Johnson, "Rudy" Molino, "Motor" Reardon, Tim Reardon Sr., Roland Chamblee, and Anthony Ricci.

After bloodying Bottini with a barrage of hooks, Noone, a senior from Breesten, N.Y., planted a right to the ribs that melted his fourth crown at 1:05 of the third round.

Two other fighters who successfully defended their crowns were boxing club officers Doug Biolchini and Vance Bechtold, both juniors who will chase the trifecta next year.

Biolchini needed a strong third-round showing to retain his junior middleweight champion status on a split decision. Becklunder hauled out a lopsided unanimous decision over "Slim" Reed to dispel his "Pretty Boy" appellation in seizing his second successive light heavyweight title.

In the night's most controversial decision, junior welterweight David "Sugar" Cane used a cute and quick style bolstered with one big left late in the third round to earn a split decision in an up-tempo grudge match against junior Tim Reardon. Reardon, who has seen consecutive finalist decisions go against him, will have to aim for '90 in hopes that two of three is not bad against Cane.

Mike Noone follows through with a punch to Pete Bottini in the final of the bantamweight fight Friday night. Noone became a four-time champion after the fight was stopped in the third round.

Junior Rick Purcell switched to a southpaw style to capitalize on a big third round in taking a unanimous decision from Pat Griffin. The walk-on defensive back from Cincinnati accustomed the crowd to the big-punch attack that had the Stepan Center rocking when Shannon staked a claim to offensive-line supremacy upon scoring a unanimous decision over defensive lineman Roddy.

In the other finals, junior Joe Dieterle won the flyweight decision unanimously over second-year law student Tom Berens, while senior Dan Scherl's left jab proved his "Pretty Boy" appellation in seizing his second successive light heavyweight title.

Senior Troy Duncan's powerful right forced two standing eight counts which senior Michael Canavan could not overcome in the lightweight title bout, and senior Dan Schneider won a narrow split decision over freshman Mattaulston for the welterweight crown.

Freshman Kenny Waterman handed punching rights in scoring a unanimous decision to see BENGALS, page 13.

Big second half lifts Georgia Tech over Irish

ATLANTA—When Georgia Tech basketball coach Bobby Cremins entered the Alexander Memorial Coliseum court Saturday, he saw a group of about 30 fans dressed just like him, complete with the trademark gray hair.

Those Cremins impersonators were about the only thing that the Yellow Jackets coach enjoyed in the first half of his team's 90-80 win over Notre Dame. The Irish led by as much as 17 points in the first half, thanks in part to Tech's 7-of-30 shooting from the field.

"That's just bad," said Cremins. "I couldn't believe the first 15 minutes. I didn't know what was going on." What was going on was some uninspired play by the Jackets and perhaps the best half of the season for Notre Dame. Behind Joe Fredrick's 13 points and a 27-16 rebound advantage, Notre Dame jumped to leads of 27-7 and 30-13 before going into intermission ahead 41-30.

The game was over seven minutes old before Tech got its first points from someone other than Tom Hammers, who finished with 15 points for the game. Tech's other big gun, Dennis Scott—shot 2-of-11 with three turnovers in the first half—was really upset at the way he came out and made some bad turnovers," said Scott. "I got down and missed a lot of easy shots. Coach just said, 'Don't let up and give up.' Whatever Cremins said must have worked. In the second half, the Jackets (19-9) outrebounded the Irish 22-12 and shot over 70 percent from the field to walk away with the victory.

"I thought Tech played very, very well in the second half," said Irish coach Digger Phelps. "They came out with more intensity and did a better job rebounding. They did a better job of running the transition game.

"We just didn't do a good job ourselves of getting into the second half, and Tech took it from there." The second half's first points came when Scott nailed a three-pointer, which raised the volume of an already deafening capacity crowd and set the tone for the rest of the game.
