Martinez flown to U.S.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Reputed Medellin cocaine cartel money launderer Eduardo Martinez Romero was flown Wednesday night by U.S. officials out of Colombia bound for the United States, an administration official disclosed.

Drug Enforcement Administration agent Frank Shults said: "It's in the air, coming into the United States sometime in the early morning.

Martinez was flown out of Bogota on a DEA plane, Shults said. Shults did not say where the plane would land.

Martinez was arrested during the first weekend after Colombia President Virgilio Barco launched a crackdown on drug traffickers in his country.

Cocaine seized

A police officer stands guard over 1,276 ponds of cocaine that was seized by narcotics investigators called the Labor Day weekend. The cocaine, said to have a street value of $75 million, was found in two modest Monterey Park, Calif. homes. Eight Colombian nationals were arrested.

Vacancies prevalent in ND dorms

By VALLI VAIRAVAN

Over the course of two years, campus housing has switched from a situation of overcrowding and freshmen boarding in study lounges to empty and partially filled rooms all over campus.

The Office of Student Residences expected some overcrowding to occur this year, according to Director Evelyn Reinbold. In preparation for this, the office sent out a bulletin last year to all dormitory residents stating that a lottery might be used to determine who could reside in the dorms this year.

Reinbold said, "I don't really know for certain what happened...I think there were more people who moved off campus and who didn't return to the university. That took care of that."

The first indications of trouble came over the intercom when the captain reported that either a fax machine or an express phone was not a possibility for registration that either a fax machine or an express phone was not a possibility for registration or for returning the students schedules to the University for faster processing of schedules.

The former registration process entailed sending a member of the faculty to the foreign study sites where he or she would collect the schedules and bring them back to the University.

"We hope overseas students will have the same shot at touchtone phones, which are necessary for registration, or enough phones to accommodate students overseas," Charles added that if telephone phones were not a possibility for registration that either a fax machine or an express phone was not a possibility for registration or for returning the students schedules to the University for faster processing of schedules.

The new registration process entailed sending a member of the faculty to the foreign study sites where he or she would collect the schedules and bring them back to the University.

"We hope overseas students will have the same shot at touchtone phones, which are necessary for registration, or enough phones to accommodate students overseas," Charles said.

The Office of Foreign Studies will change its registration policy to try to accommodate students this year, according to Isabel Charles, director of foreign study programs.

Charles said the change comes because of the University's new online registration. The online registration will make it possible for students to register for their classes by phone and confirm almost immediately their course schedules for the following year.

"The actual use of telephones overseas (to register) may be a problem," said Charles. She said that there might not be

SMC student survives plane crash

By CHAD KERLIN

One of the worst disasters of the year, the Sioux City, Iowa crash of a United Airlines DC-10, holds special significance for Saint Mary's College senior Kari Milford.

She is a survivor - one of the 186 who were lucky enough to live through the crash and its fiery aftermath. There were 110 others who were not so lucky.

Milford was flying home to Marion, Ind. after a visit with her sister in Denver, Colo. last July 19 when disaster struck. The flight from Denver to Chicago went horribly wrong when the plane experienced a "complete hydraulic failure" due to an explosion in the rear engine. The plane, just seconds short of a level emergency landing, plowed into the earth in a cloud of dirt, smoke and flying metal.

"I clearly remember all the flying glass and smoke everywhere. And the noise... I guess I've just managed to block most of that out," Milford said.

Milford was travelling beside one of her nephews, her older brother and another nephew across the aisle in the second to the last row of the plane.

"On my other side were two old ladies. I remember they shared their Oreos with us," Milford recalled. "They didn't survive. I guess it's stuff like that that really bothers me the most.""In fact, only a handful of people in her section survived - both her nephews and her brother were among the lucky.

The first indications of trouble came over the intercom when the captain reported that they were going to have to make "a rough landing."

Milford recalls, "I didn't realize how rough they were going to have to make "a rough landing."

Milford said, "I thought it was going to be like speedbumps or something. I just prayed all the way down and hoped for the best. All the passengers were great - appreciatively calm. You could tell it was serious, though, by the looks on the faces and in the eyes of the stewardesses."

"Instead of speedbumps, the impact shook us so much that I felt like I was in a dryer, being flung all over and over. We were told to assume the crash position and even though I tried as hard as I could, my head was still flung all around."

"Where the plane settled, the stewardesses just kept yelling, 'Unfasten your seatbelts and get out, it might blow'!"

In the confusion, Milford didn't know if her brother and her nephew across the aisle were alive or even where they were, So she just kept yelling, 'Unfasten your seatbelts and get out, it might blow!'"

Wallflower

Sophomore Marc Cerrone ponders which piece of contemporary wall art he should buy to hang in his room in Holy Cross. Cerrone is one of many students to buy art at the annual poster sale, which runs until Friday on the 2nd Floor of Lafortune.
WORLD BRIEFS

A passenger boat with 175 people on board sank in rough seas off eastern Java, Indonesia and at least 28 people drowned, police said Wednesday. At least 101 people were missing after the boat sank in the Madura Straits on Friday.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Wu'er Kaixi was among China's best, a promising student at Beijing Normal University when the June events in Tiananmen Square thrust him into the forefront and then into a flight for his life. Wu, 21, is now at Harvard University, where he will try to keep the reform movement alive. He knows he may need and they send cards and hold masses. In the University at the Grotto just anywhere. And they will walk to the Grotto and light a candle for someone you love. At a small mass in Notre Dame are reserved for those who chose to express their religion as such, but Christianity is found in so many other ways at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame is a place where you can find a friend who will walk to the Grotto and light a candle for someone you love. At a small mass in Notre Dame, students infected with the AIDS virus should be free to attend class without fear their disease will be made public, a new guide for the nation's schools said Wednesday. "Someone At School Has AIDS," released by the National Association of State Boards of Education, said the deadly virus "is not transmitted by casual, everyday contact" so confidentiality should be school policy. Parents shouldn't have to reveal their child's infection if the decision is sanctioned by a physician, who finds the child does not have secondary infections, such as tuberculosis, said the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents." aktuali, that the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents." aktuali, that the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents." aktuali, that the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents."

Students and teachers infected with the AIDS virus should be free to attend class without fear their disease will be made public, a new guide for the nation's schools said Wednesday. "Someone At School Has AIDS," released by the National Association of State Boards of Education, said the deadly virus "is not transmitted by casual, everyday contact" so confidentiality should be school policy. Parents shouldn't have to reveal their child's infection if the decision is sanctioned by a physician, who finds the child does not have secondary infections, such as tuberculosis, said the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents."

Our Deserts.

Our Mountains.

Our Air.

Our Rivers.

Our Towns.

Our Cities.

Our Oceans.

Our Trees.

Our Towns. Our Teachers.

Our Forests.

Our Rivers.

Our Air. Our Mountains.

Our Plants.

Our Fishes.

Our Streams.

Our Deserts. Our Lakes.

Our Tomorrow.

Give a hoot. Don't pollute.

Forest Service, U.S.D.A.

W EATHER

Partly cloudy today with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Highs in the 80s. Partly cloudy Thursday night with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Low temperatures 50s to 60s. Friday, partly cloudy and warm Friday with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Highs in the middle 80s. Information compiled from Observer wires and Observer staff reports.

A sense of compassion exists at Notre Dame

"Sometimes I feel like I am going crazy. I've got all this sex-drive going in me, pounding in me, torturizing me. It delights and yet disturbs me; it confuses me and bewilders me. What do I do about it often bothers me and makes me feel rotten about myself." A line from a Judy Blume novel? No, quite. Actually it's a quote from "For afu Of Slaves Towards Sex," from the "Day by Day" prayer book. Campus Ministry puts out this gem once a year filled with prayers for the Notre Dame student. The book has something for everyone including one "For a Pre-med," "A Nurse's Prayer," and "Cadet Prayer." One may pray "The Party," prayer prior to going out and in the morning try "Prayer before Examinations" in case you don't get a chance to study. My personal favorite is "The Cafeteria" which begins "Today I complained about the food in the cafeteria. Forgive me, Lord." My guess is Bill Hickey likes this one, too. You're probably wondering if I have a point to all this or if I'm just trying to get a laugh. I personally would not pull out this book and try to find the prayer for the lame journalist, but the book does present a larger point about Notre Dame. Notre Dame is a great Catholic University and "Day by Day" is just a small symbol of that fact. A prayer book like this is available to all those who chose to express their religion as such, but Christianity is found in so many other ways at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame is a place where you can find a friend who will walk to the Grotto and light a candle for someone you love. At a small mass in Notre Dame, students infected with the AIDS virus should be free to attend class without fear their disease will be made public, a new guide for the nation's schools said Wednesday. "Someone At School Has AIDS," released by the National Association of State Boards of Education, said the deadly virus "is not transmitted by casual, everyday contact" so confidentiality should be school policy. Parents shouldn't have to reveal their child's infection if the decision is sanctioned by a physician, who finds the child does not have secondary infections, such as tuberculosis, said the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents."

Students and teachers infected with the AIDS virus should be free to attend class without fear their disease will be made public, a new guide for the nation's schools said Wednesday. "Someone At School Has AIDS," released by the National Association of State Boards of Education, said the deadly virus "is not transmitted by casual, everyday contact" so confidentiality should be school policy. Parents shouldn't have to reveal their child's infection if the decision is sanctioned by a physician, who finds the child does not have secondary infections, such as tuberculosis, said the guidelines. The report suggests that school superintendents be notified, but even those "decisions should be left to the parents."

OF INTEREST

The Society of Women Engineers is holding a s'mores party today at 7:30 pm in the Lewis Courtyard for all current members, freshmen, interns, and anyone interested in joining. Call Jane at x4673 for more information.

Brigadier General Bruce Miketino, Chief of the Army Health Corps and Director of Health Care Operations office of the Surgeon General, will discuss administrative and professional health care career opportunities on Thursday, September 7, 4:30 pm, Hayes-Healy Auditorium.

The Council for Fun and Learning volunteer orientation meeting will be tonight from 5:30 to 7 pm in the CSC multi-purpose room. Any questions? Call Peter Smith at x3659.

Neighborhood Study Help Program sign-ups will continue Thursday and Friday in the dining halls. Our organizational meeting is Sunday, September 10, at 6:30 pm in the multi-purpose room of the CSC. Tutoring begins Monday Sept. 11 and Tuesday, Sept. 12. Call Jennifer at x3725 or Patty at x4231 if you have any questions.

The formal opening of the school year will take place in Stephanie Center at 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, with a concelebrated mass. The presiding celebrant will be University President Father Edward Malloy. All members of the faculty are expected to attend the opening mass and to participate in the academic procession in academic robes. For further information, contact Associate Provost Isabel Charles.

Anyone interested in volunteering at the Center for the Homeless is required to attend one of the organizational meetings. The meetings are being held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday from 6:30 to 8:30 pm in All South Dining Hall.

The N.D. Martial Arts Institute will have beginner classes Thursday and Sunday from 6:30 to 8:30 pm in the Center for Social Concerns. Anyone interested is invited to attend. No experience needed.
Psychiatrists establish program for satanic teenagers

Associated Press
CHICAGO—Psychiatrists and psychologists at Hartgrove Hospital bristled Wednesday at being called modern-day exorcists, but they are creating one of the nation's first treatment programs to wean teenagers from Satanism.

"In no way are we comparable to the old exorcists," said Michael Weiss, an adolescent psychologist at the North Side hospital, which plans to begin offering the program this month.

"The kids who will be admitted will be here primarily because of their behavioral and emotional problems. No one will be hospitalized for strange beliefs or unusual values that we would disagree with," Weiss said.

"I don't think there is any doubt Satanism is a growing problem," said social worker Dale Trahan, who has been researching satanic beliefs for three years and was contracted to organize the program for Hartgrove's new Center for the Treatment of Ritualistic Deviance.

"We don't know the percentages because so much is secretive, but we do know...it is beginning to show up throughout the country," Trahan said.

More such programs will be needed as police, teachers and parents learn to recognize involvement, said Jerry Simandl, a Chicago police youth officer and expert on satanic cults, who has helped train Hartgrove staff.

"That's been the problem. There aren't places to take the kids," Simandl said.

In the program, teenagers will spend four to eight weeks as in-patients and undergo individual and group counseling. Most of the youths will be admitted voluntarily.

Hartgrove's facility -- to be staffed by specially trained psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and nurses -- should receive its first patients in two to four weeks, and initially will take as many as six patients at a time, Weiss said. A similar program exists at Denver's Bethesda Psychiatric Hospital.

The new program will seek to undermine Satanism's underlying belief system, which hampers conventional treatment.

Satanism "gives them the promise of power and privilege beyond anything they ever imagined. Not only can they have everything they want...but can do so while totally indulging themselves in drugs, sex or any momentary pleasure," Weiss said.

"We try to help them see how unrealistic the promises are. Our ultimate goal is to make them able to function in the world so they can have a reasonable and successful life for themselves and not harm anyone else."

Youngsters involved in Satanism often exhibit unusual behavior, which can include psychokinesis, violent rages, rejection of family, drug use, sexual promiscuity, a drastic drop in grades, intensified rebellion, a strong interest in heavy-metal music, role-playing games or horror films, and the use of occult symbols such as "666" or upside-down crosses.

By LAUREL VITALE

Saint Mary's Board of Governors met Wednesday to discuss plans for Alcohol Awareness Week and cultural diversity seminars to be held this semester.

Student Body President, Lisa Catenacci, and student government leaders are involved in planning the Alcohol Awareness Week, which is scheduled for October 15-21. The activities are being directed toward people who are "aware of the potential dangers of alcohol but don't realize how easily overwhelming it can be," Catenacci said.

There will be an alcohol and relationships panel consisting of students and faculty to relate personal stories and ideas on alcohol and how it can be enjoyed but not abused.

A cultural diversity seminar will be held October 12 with actor Gene Carlo Esposito. The actor, who starred in the movie "Do the Right Thing" will be facilitating a discussion at Saint Mary's concerning cultural diversification on Saint Mary's and Notre Dame's campuses.

SMC Board discusses Alcohol Awareness

IN VITATION
TO SACRAMENTAL PREPARATION

BAPTISM, FULL COMMUNION, CONFIRMATION in the Roman Catholic Church

INFORMATION SESSIONS:

Tuesday, September 12:
7 pm:
- for unprepared people interested in joining the Roman Catholic Church and their sponsors.
- for baptized people interested in Full Communion in the Roman Catholic Tradition and their sponsors.

Wednesday, September 13:
7 pm:
- for Roman Catholics interested in receiving the sacrament of Confirmation and their sponsors.
- for volunteer sponsors for Catholics preparing for Confirmation.

Meeting Place:
COUNSELING CENTER MEETING ROOM
Third Floor, Student Health Center

Call: Sr. Mary Curran, CSC - Radin Hall - 239-5242

“666” or upside-down crosses
During the spring semester. Gutting, director of the London Program, according to Gutting, the policy of checkmarking courses makes course selection very uncertain even for those on ramps. The London Program, independent of the Office of Foreign Studies, has already initiated using an express courier to re-turn schedules for prompt registra-tion. The main problem with registering students, said Gutting, is the lack of personnel in the London Program office. “Right now we have two people in the office to deal with 80 students each semester and the Registrar’s Office didn’t seem conscious of that until last year,” Gutting said. “We will see to it that students on the London Program have the same advantage (for registration) as all other students at Notre Dame,” said Gutting.

The problems that occurred in London were the same problems here,” said Anastasia Donovan, a senior philosophy student at Notre Dame, referring to the new policy. The change in registration policy. The main problem with registering students, said Gutting, is the lack of personnel in the London Program office. “Right now we have two people in the office to deal with 80 students each semester and the Registrar’s Office didn’t seem conscious of that until last year,” Gutting said. “We will see to it that students on the London Program have the same advantage (for registration) as all other students at Notre Dame,” said Gutting.

President Bush’s pledge to fight drugs “block by block, child by child” was a popular sound bite on newscasts Wednesday, but when young people on one block were asked if the war on drugs could be won, most were pessimistic. “It’s going to take a lot, because it’s not just the students, it’s like everybody, you know, policemen, people like that, the big people,” said Yolanda Brown, 17, one of a group of students interviewed Wednesday outside T.C. Williams High School in Alexandria, Va., about Bush’s speech the night before.

The chairman of the Chicago Housing Authority, Vince Lane, said on “CBS This Morning” that the president had taken an important step by throwing down the gauntlet. I was surprised to hear that we did get $50 million allocated to public housing. ...With about $30 million here in Chicago I can clean up every troubled high-rise in the city. So the money will be very much appreciated.”

Need to Get Away?
TAKE THE WINDY CITY SHUTTLE
Spend the Day in Chicago - Cost is only $10.00
Come to the Information Desk, 1st. Floor LaFortune, for details
NEW YORK — The stock market, Wednes­day suffered the first sizable drop since reaching all-time highs last month, but the Dow Jones in­dustrial average remained within striking distance of record levels.

In other markets, the dollar retreated after its recent surge and bond prices improved.

The healthy bond market helped arrest the slide in stocks, which saw the Dow Jones average fall nearly 40 points around midday. At the close the average was down 24.89 points to 2,719.79.

Analysts said there was no major economic news to ac­count for the stock market's retreat, which followed a rally that pushed up the widely watched industrial average 150 points from late July to late August.

"You had some sell programs in a market that was ripe for some R&R anyway," said Walter Murphy, a senior mar­ket analyst at Merrill Lynch & Co. He was referring to com­puterized trading strategies that buy and sell stocks based on predetermined formulas.

It was an insidious begin­ning for the post-vacation au­ tumn trading season after the sluggish activity surrounding the Labor Day holiday.

"Most traders were looking toward a pickup of the market with the big players probably all back, so it was rather dis­appointing," said Charles Jensen, an analyst at MKI Securities Corp.

In the bond market, the Treasury's benchmark 30-year bond rose more than $1 for ev­ery $1,000 in face value. Its yield, which falls when the price rises, dropped to 8.1 percent. The improvement came in spite of persistent concerns that the Federal Reserve will not move to lower interest rates anytime soon.

The dollar's decline was at­tributed partly to speculation that West Germany and Japan might like their interest rates, and to reports that Japan's central bank was continuing to sell dollars to knock the cur­rency down.

But Earl Johnson, a trader for Harris Trust & Co. in Chicago, said overall demand for the dollar remained strong.

"We're just seeing a technical retracement," he said.

The stock market is behaving differently from two years ago. In 1987, the Dow Jones indus­trial average hit an all-time high on Aug. 25 and then snow­balled downward.

Coors to introduce new Keystone beer by featuring male fantasies

Associated Press

GOLDEN, Colo. — Adolph Coors Co. plans to unveil its new Keystone beer this month with a high-priced advertising campaign designed to attract male buyers by featuring their perceived fantasies.

The beer, the brewer's first entry into the "popular-priced" category, will be touted as "bottled-beer taste in a can" and will sell for about $10.45 to $11.50 a case, a Coors spokesman said. Coors is scheduled to begin selling the beer Monday.

The beer will get its multi­million dollar advertising debut during professional football and major league baseball games Sept. 16-17.

Popular-priced beers — such as Old Milwaukee, Miller, and Milwaukee's Best — are a bit cheaper than the premium beers, but more expensive than economy beers.

Although popular-priced beers have lost market share in recent years, Coors decided to go ahead with Keystone be­cause "we didn't think that we'd pick up that volume with a premium beer," said Robert Klugman, company vice presi­dent of development.

"We promised our distribu­tors we'd spend at a greater level" than the $11 million to $12 million that the Stroh Brewery Co. spends on Milwaukee brand, the nation's No. 1 popular-priced beer, Klugman said.

The ad campaign, designed by Fｏoste, Cone & Belding of Chicago, features fantasies of men photographing wom anChicago, said overall demand for the dollar remained strong.

"We're just seeing a technical retracement," he said.

The stock market is behaving differently from two years ago. In 1987, the Dow Jones indus­trial average hit an all-time high on Aug. 25 and then snow­balled downward.

Coors to introduce new Keystone beer by featuring male fantasies

Associated Press

GOLDEN, Colo. — Adolph Coors Co. plans to unveil its new Keystone beer this month with a high-priced advertising campaign designed to attract male buyers by featuring their perceived fantasies.

The beer, the brewer's first entry into the "popular-priced" category, will be touted as "bottled-beer taste in a can" and will sell for about $10.45 to $11.50 a case, a Coors spokesman said. Coors is scheduled to begin selling the beer Monday.

The beer will get its multi­million dollar advertising debut during professional football and major league baseball games Sept. 16-17.

Popular-priced beers — such as Old Milwaukee, Miller, and Milwaukee's Best — are a bit cheaper than the premium beers, but more expensive than economy beers.

Although popular-priced beers have lost market share in recent years, Coors decided to go ahead with Keystone be­cause "we didn't think that we'd pick up that volume with a premium beer," said Robert Klugman, company vice presi­dent of development.

"We promised our distribu­tors we'd spend at a greater level" than the $11 million to $12 million that the Stroh Brewery Co. spends on Milwaukee brand, the nation's No. 1 popular-priced beer, Klugman said.

The ad campaign, designed by Fｏoste, Cone & Belding of Chicago, features fantasies of men photographing wom anChicago, said overall demand for the dollar remained strong.

"We're just seeing a technical retracement," he said.

The stock market is behaving differently from two years ago. In 1987, the Dow Jones indus­trial average hit an all-time high on Aug. 25 and then snow­balled downward.

Coors to introduce new Keystone beer by featuring male fantasies

Associated Press

GOLDEN, Colo. — Adolph Coors Co. plans to unveil its new Keystone beer this month with a high-priced advertising campaign designed to attract male buyers by featuring their perceived fantasies.

The beer, the brewer's first entry into the "popular-priced" category, will be touted as "bottled-beer taste in a can" and will sell for about $10.45 to $11.50 a case, a Coors spokesman said. Coors is scheduled to begin selling the beer Monday.

The beer will get its multi­million dollar advertising debut during professional football and major league baseball games Sept. 16-17.

Popular-priced beers — such as Old Milwaukee, Miller, and Milwaukee's Best — are a bit cheaper than the premium beers, but more expensive than economy beers.

Although popular-priced beers have lost market share in recent years, Coors decided to go ahead with Keystone be­cause "we didn't think that we'd pick up that volume with a premium beer," said Robert Klugman, company vice presi­dent of development.

"We promised our distribu­tors we'd spend at a greater level" than the $11 million to $12 million that the Stroh Brewery Co. spends on Milwaukee brand, the nation's No. 1 popular-priced beer, Klugman said.

The ad campaign, designed by Fｏoste, Cone & Belding of Chicago, features fantasies of men photographing wom anChicago, said overall demand for the dollar remained strong.

"We're just seeing a technical retracement," he said.

The stock market is behaving differently from two years ago. In 1987, the Dow Jones indus­trial average hit an all-time high on Aug. 25 and then snow­balled downward.

Coors to introduce new Keystone beer by featuring male fantasies

Associated Press

GOLDEN, Colo. — Adolph Coors Co. plans to unveil its new Keystone beer this month with a high-priced advertising campaign designed to attract male buyers by featuring their perceived fantasies.

The beer, the brewer's first entry into the "popular-priced" category, will be touted as "bottled-beer taste in a can" and will sell for about $10.45 to $11.50 a case, a Coors spokesman said. Coors is scheduled to begin selling the beer Monday.

The beer will get its multi­million dollar advertising debut during professional football and major league baseball games Sept. 16-17.

Popular-priced beers — such as Old Milwaukee, Miller, and Milwaukee's Best — are a bit cheaper than the premium beers, but more expensive than economy beers.

Although popular-priced beers have lost market share in recent years, Coors decided to go ahead with Keystone be­cause "we didn't think that we'd pick up that volume with a premium beer," said Robert Klugman, company vice presi­dent of development.

"We promised our distribu­tors we'd spend at a greater level" than the $11 million to $12 million that the Stroh Brewery Co. spends on Milwaukee brand, the nation's No. 1 popular-priced beer, Klugman said.

The ad campaign, designed by Fｏoste, Cone & Belding of Chicago, features fantasies of men photographing wom anChicago, said overall demand for the dollar remained strong.

"We're just seeing a technical retracement," he said.

The stock market is behaving differently from two years ago. In 1987, the Dow Jones indus­trial average hit an all-time high on Aug. 25 and then snow­balled downward.

Government only observer in airline takeover attempt

Associated Press

Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner met Wednesday with the head of United Airlines in Washington but said the government is merely an ob­sserver in the proposed em­ployee-management takeover.

"I haven't prejudged any­thing," Skinner said before meeting with Stephen Wolf, chairman of United parent UAL Corp., on plans for the nation's second-largest carrier.

Skinner said one of the de­partment's top priorities has been scrutinizing the proposed takeover of Northwest Airlines by Los Angeles investor Alfred Checchi. He said his staff will add United to its watch list.

Skinner said he should have a better idea in a couple of weeks about what, if any, action his department should take on the buyout trend. He said he may make some recommendations to President Bush.

The transportation secretary recently expressed concerns about potential foreign in­volvement in U.S. airline takeovers. British Airways PLC is expected to help finance the $300-a-share labor-manage­ment UAL buyout offer.

The $6.75 billion offer for Chicago-based UAL is spear­headed by United pilots who belong to the Air Line Pilots Association.

"AN EVENING WITH HENRI NOUWEN AND THE L'ARCHE COMMUNITY: EXPERIENCING GOD'S LOVE IN CARE AND COMMUNITY"

Thursday, September 7, 1989
8:00 P.M.
Washington Hall - Admission Free

This presentation is
• for students, faculty, and staff who work with the mentally handicapped or who have a handicapped family member
• for members of the local community who are interested in service and ministry of any kind
• for all who are willing to be challenged to a deeper appreciation of God's love
• for everyone open to developing stronger faith in and through work and daily life

This L'Arche community/family will share with the Notre Dame family their experience of care and God's love, an integral part of the L'Arche communities founded by Jean Vanier in France twenty years ago. There are now 3,000 people in 80 L'Arche communities/families around the world, handicapped persons living in small homes in a family environment.

A unique opportunity! Henri Nouwen and his companions will share their reflections on experiencing God's love in care and community. There will be an opportunity for questions and interaction.

CO-SPONSORS:
University of Notre Dame Center for Social Concerns Office of Campus Ministry Psychology Department Notre Dame Seminary

FOR MORE INFORMATION: 239-5293
Making the grade without making the sacrifice

It's 10-58 and you have two minutes to finish your pop tart, brush your teeth, pack your books and high-tail it to class. Though life may be a bit hectic at this moment, you may still have time to ask yourself one very important question:

Why did I choose such an early class? Or possibly, why am I even going to class at all?

Answering such a question might require more than a modicum of thought. After all, you've been in school for nearly all of your life, so there must be some reason for forcing yourself to make the trek to class. To get a good job? To make mom and dad proud? How about because you might enjoy learning? Sorry, that's not what you've been in school for nearly all of your life, so there.

The desire to learn and the desire to have fun aren't mutually exclusive. The problem occurs when we separate our lives into "study mode" and "party mode." Both the desire to learn and the desire to have fun should exist side by side.

Dave Bruner
Viewpoint Editor

Graduated tax falls short

Dear Editor:

Last Wednesday, Leona Helmsley was pronounced guilty of evading 2 percent of her federal income taxes between 1983 and 1985. Her lawyers disagreed, claiming that the tax laws are written in such a way that she may not really have been legally responsible for that 2 percent. For the purposes of this letter, I will assume that the tax laws in this country are written just as clear as a bell, and Leona Helmsley did fail to pay $1.2 million out of the $5.9 million that many people refer to as "her fair share." I wish to address the question: Is it "fair" that some people pay $59.9 million in taxes when they use less governmental services than the people who pay only a few thousand, or, for that matter, no taxes at all? I also wish to examine the philosophical implications of a graduated income tax.

Politicians long ago figured out that they could promise all kinds of special interest groups all kinds of money in order to get elected. I have never understood why it is considered a bribe to offer a politician in return for favor, but it is not a bribe when the politician offers money in return for votes. The big swindle lies in the fact that the government does not make any money of its own. Every penny that it gives out, it must take from somewhere else.

Right now, the majority of your tax dollars does not benefit you. Instead, they are spent on others all around the globe. On programs that in many cases are counter-productive to their causes. Hundreds of billions of dollars are spent on welfare programs in this country and others. To ask for money and help for people in need is moral, proper and conduct such business. To hold a gun to our heads and say, "pay up or go to jail" is stealing. Also, to the extent that you involuntarily work for other people, you are a slave. Is Leona the real criminal in this game?

The concept of a graduated income tax is worse than a flat tax percentage. A graduated income tax encourages the productive for being productive. The more someone produces, the more that is taken from him or her. In this country, the businesses that make the most money are the ones that have the most value to society. They produce the best products (if they didn't, they wouldn't be the ones making a lot of money), and they provide the most jobs. Their products, inventions, and ingenuity have made our standard of living the highest in the world. These are the people that, by our current tax laws, must pay the most taxes and the highest percent-age.

On the other hand, there are people who never acquired the knowledge to be productive enough to support even themselves. There are people who never stopped to think that they should not have children before they could afford them. These people do not pay taxes, since they are paid out of tax dollars. The system ends up punishing the competent for being competent and rewarding the incompetent for being incompetent. A system that holds thinking and producing as vices and nonthanking and nonproducing as virtues is doomed for destruction.

Richard Inecketta
Sorin Hall
September 4, 1989

LETTERS
Fr. Nouwen shares his L'Arche family with ND

Father Henri Nouwen is a man of passion. When he speaks, his hands fly. He points, waves, pounds on the podium, engaging and enthralling his audience. But it is not the former Notre Dame professor's pronounced Dutch accent or his wild gesticulations which captivate the crowd. He may be fascinating to watch, but it is the form and substance of his words that are electric. At 8:00 p.m. in Washington Hall, Nouwen kicks off the Year of the Family as he returns with four members of his new family, the L'Arche Daybreak community, to share his story of involvement with L'Arche, his journey to Daybreak, and his reflections on the theme of "God's love in care and community." Nouwen, one of today's foremost spiritual writers and a former professor at Harvard, Yale, and Notre Dame, is currently spiritual leader of the L'Arche community in Toronto. He is accompanied by Gregory Lannan, Karen Noole, Joe Van, and John Guido who are members of L'Arche. An international network of more than 50 communities, L'Arche was founded 20 years ago by Frenchman Jean Vanier for mentally handicapped persons and their assistants to live together according to the gospel. Nouwen and his companions live and work at Daybreak, the first L'Arche community in North America.

Says Nouwen, "It's not an institution. It's not a group home. It's not even an organization which wants to help as many mentally handicapped persons as possible. It's a spiritual community where handicapped people are in the center. L'Arche exists not to help the mentally handicapped get 'normal,' but to help them share their spiritual gifts with the world.

It's a spiritual community where handicapped people are in the center. L'Arche exists not to help the mentally handicapped get 'normal,' but to help them share their spiritual gifts with the world.

Father Henri Nouwen (l) and companion Bill Van Buren at L'Arche community in Toronto. Nouwen discusses the L'Arche experience tonight in Washington Hall.

CINDY PETRITES
ac.com writer

JOE BUCOLO
To be Continued...

In the heat of the night, there's passion. In the heat of the night, there's power. In the heat of the night, there's pain. NBC presents all these elements — and others — intricately combined in its explosive drama, "In the Heat of the Night."

Airing at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesdays, "Night" presents the adventures and scandals faced by the police force of a small Southern town. Inspired by a movie of the same title, this program fills each episode with clever writing, powerful storylines, and compelling characters. Carroll O'Connor (from "All In The Family") stars as Chief Gillespie, and his partner, Virgil Tibbs (Howard Rollins), is a police officer from Philadelphia whose fast-paced methods don't always comply with the "laid back" methods of the South. While Tibbs searches for facts and follows "the book," Gillespie allows lurches and feelings to solve the mysteries. Other regulars include Sergeant Skinner (Alan Autry), Deputy Jimson (Hugh O'Connor), and Sergeant Parker (David Hart).

The writers chose to deal with quite intense subjects, and they are aggressively portrayed. One episode, for example, copes with the problem of wife abuse. The storyline graphically presents the cruel and violent nature of this very real problem; however, the writers manage to add a twist to the plot, as they do in most of the episodes. As the mystery surrounding a woman's bruises evolves, so does a mystery surrounding Tibbs' childhood. When the episode ends, the woman comes to grips with the fact that her husband -- and not herself -- has the problem, and Tibbs copes with the brutal murder of his sister many years ago. It is precisely this creative plot-weaving that puts the heat in "Night."

Adding to the intense realism depicted on "In the Heat of the Night" are the characters. Chief Gillespie is a compassionate, caring gentleman who uses all the resources at his disposal even if it means dealing with criminals to catch other criminals. Tibbs, on the other hand, is an urban family man. He cares deeply for his wife and children, but puts everything in the back of his mind when dealing with a case.

A review of "Heat" wouldn't be complete without a comment on Carroll O'Connor. His presence in the program is flawless. His Southern accent is quite believable. Fans of "All in the Family" will be amazed at O'Connor's switch of character. He's genuine and superb. NBC's: "In the Heat of the Night" is a compelling program of the highest quality. In the heat of the night, there's excitement. In the heat of the night, there's energy. "In the Heat of the Night," there's excellence.
SPORTS BRIEFS

A Family Tennis Clinic will be held by the ND varsity tennis program in the gymnasium of the Family. The clinic is open to staff and students of Notre Dame and their families. Saturday, Sept. 9, from 1-3 p.m. at the Courtyard Hotel (Erick tennis courts if rain). The clinic is free of charge and there will be instruction, competition and games. - The Observer

Water Polo Club will hold a meeting for new and returning members Thursday, Sept. 7, in the Montgomery Theatre. For more information, call x2457. - The Observer

The Rowing Club will hold a meeting for novices at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Cushing Auditorium. No experience is necessary. - The Observer

A Tennis Mixer, held by the Irish varsity tennis teams, will be held Friday, Sept. 8, from 6-8 p.m. Students can sign up individually and form teams. The mixer will be a friendly tennis competition for all players. All students are invited. Prices and refreshments are available. Sign up at NVA before the mixer starts.

Lynx Volleyball Tournament scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 9, is still accepting entries. Call x2851 to enter a team. Must have six members with at least two girls. The entry fee is $9 per team. - The Observer

Interball football captain's meetings will be today in the football room, scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. followed by the men's at 4:30 p.m. Call NVA at 239-6100 for more information. - The Observer

VARSITY SOFTBALL

Tryouts will be from 4 to 6 tomorrow and Friday, Sept. 7-8, at the softball field in front of the tennis pavilion. - The Observer

SMC CO-ED FOOTBALL

Tryouts will be held at 4 p.m. today in Angela Athletic Facility. - The Observer

OFF-CAMPUS FOOTBALL

The Minot Express will hold its first practice at 4:30 p.m. today on Stempel Field. Call 287-9649 for more information. - The Observer

The student manager's organization, which serves the football and baseball teams, will hold a fall organizational meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in the football auditorium of the Joyce ACC. Enter Gate 2. - The Observer

SMC basketball team will have a meeting for any interested players at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, in the Angela Athletic Facility Lounge. - The Observer

SMC volleyball team will begin its season at 7 p.m. by hosting Francis College at Angela Athletic Facility. - The Observer

Mens' Volleyball Club will have tryouts at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Joyce ACC pit. Call x2333 or x2093 for more information.
Becker displays dominating form in victory over Noah

NEW YORK — Boris Becker, beginning to look as dominant at the U.S. Open as he has at Wimbledon, surged into the semifinals with a 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 victory over Yannick Noah Wednesday night.

The three-time Wimbledon champion qualified for the Open semis for the second time — he also got there in 1986 — and he ended Noah’s string of five-set victories and surprising success at Flushing Meadow. Just a week ago, Becker was headed out of the tournament; he has never come close to winning. He was down two match points in the second round to Derrick Rostagno. But, with great help from a net cord, the second seed rallied and has gotten stronger since.

Just a week ago, Becker was 1-0 in the round robin. That was against a much better opponent in Brian Gottfried. Since then he has won his last seven matches, all in straight sets. He had nothing left for occasionally great help from a net cord, the second set against the second seed and has gotten stronger since.

For Noah, once ranked fourth in the world and now 23rd, it was a prime-time disappointment. The Frenchman had overcome a two-set deficit to beat Amos Mansdorf in a bitter third-round match. Then he outlasted No. 10 Alberto Mancini in another emotional match.

But he had nothing left for Becker and once again failed to make a Grand Slam semifinal. Noah hasn’t gotten to the final four of a major tournament since his French Open title in 1983.

On the women’s side, Steffi Graf and Gabriela Sabatini, last year’s finalists, took different routes into the semifinals.

Graf, the top seed and defending champion, needed only 44 minutes to rout No. 5 Helena Sukova, 6-1, 6-1. It was the 11th straight victory over Sukova for Graf, winner of six of the last seven Grand Slam events.

Sabatini, seeded third, and Arantxa Sanchez Vicario went more than 44 minutes in the first set alone. The baselineers played extended points throughout their 2-hour, 17-minute match, won by Sabatini 6-4, 6-4.

Graf and Sabatini, who are doubles partners and have reached the semifinals here, will meet in Friday’s semifinals. No. 2 Martina Navratilova and her conqueror in last year’s Open, No. 5 Zina Garrison, are in the other. Garrison ended Chris Evert’s Grand Slam career on Tuesday.

In a men’s quarterfinal, No. 11 Jay Berger retired with severe leg cramps in the fourth set against No. 14 Aaron Krickstein. Berger won the first set 6-4, the second 6-4, and 6-3, but he was trailing 2-3 in the third set when he called it quits.

He let three of Krickstein’s serves go by in that game, served underhanded in the seventh game to fall behind 5-3, then sat in his courtside chair during the break, drinking. Berger limped back onto the court, carrying a water bottle.

Falcons close to agreement with Sanders

SUWANEE, Ga. — Deion Sanders said goodbye to the New York Yankees Wednesday night and apparently headed for the Atlanta Falcons with whom he reached a tentative contract agreement earlier in the evening.

The Falcons announced the agreement with the defensive back from Florida State, their No. 1 draft choice and the NFL’s fifth overall, just as the Yankees were starting their game in Seattle with Sanders as the left fielder.

Falcons spokesman Charlie Taylor said Sanders’ agent was trying to reach the athlete and that the team wanted him in training camp Thursday to take his physical and begin practice.

After striking out in the sixth inning, Sanders went down the Yankees dugout shaking hands and then was seen heading for the locker room carrying two bats and his glove. Luis Polonia replaced Sanders in left in the bottom of the inning.

There are two late evening flights from Seattle to Atlanta. Taylor said the agreement came about 10 p.m. EDT after eight hours of negotiations in Suwanee between team financial officer Jim Hay and Sanders’ agent, Steve Zucker.

No contract details were released.

Returning members of the Undergraduate Schools Committee

If you missed the Wednesday night meeting, and still want to visit your high school:

Sign up between 7 - 8pm Tonight outside the library lounge

...or stop by the Admissions Office

(113 Administration Building)

taking some time to enrich your marriage this year

The Office of Campus Ministry, in conjunction with the Notre Dame Year of the Family, is offering a Marriage Enrichment Program this semester.

This 2-part program involves the married couple taking the ENRICH Marriage Inventory, (a 125 item questionnaire), followed by a structured discussion session for each couple to process their answers. PRE-REGISTRATION is required by Monday, Sept. 11th. More detailed information about this program is available. If interested, call Campus Ministry at 239-5242 for a brochure.
Wrestle

continued from page 12
played a brand of sportsmanship that the Irish could never have imagined.

"Everybody's seen Rocky IV, and all these people bloodthirsty for Americans," said Radenbaugh. "It was a 180-de­gree difference. We were brush­ ers in wrestling, and everyone was in good spirits."

In fact, many people from the host cities seemed almost a lit­tle too jovial. Wherever the Irish went, they ran into Soviets walking or traveling by train from their home countries. The wrestlers all returned to the United States in late May with the customary Soviet fur hats and athletic shoes, received dis­counts not available to other students and accepted free food and lodging from athletic boosters.

Head basketball coach Jim Valvano said he did not know players were selling tickets and shoes, but said he could under­stand why they would.

"If you don't have any money and you only get room, board, books, tuition and fees, what do you do? ... How do you go home for the holidays? How do you buy a birthday present? So when someone said 'Why would a kid sell a ticket?' I as­sume the answer is — for the money." Valvano said. "Now does that make it right? I didn't say that, no. It's a viola­tion."

Valvano said he was ready to suffer any penalties the NCAA handed down.

The university will now try to follow up on the claims before going before the NCAA's Committee on Infractions.

"I want to assure you we are taking these as very serious mat­ters," Chancellor Bruce Poulton said at a news confer­ence.

"The Irish also took an eye­opening 14-hour train ride from Minsk to Leningrad. "We get to go through the country areas and saw some of the poverty there," said Radenbaugh. "In the cities, they made sure to show us the good parts, but they couldn't really hide anything on the train."

There wasn't time for too much touring, as the Soviet hosts kept the team's schedule busy throughout the trip.

"I was impressed because it was so organized," said McCann. "Every moment was precious. We couldn't have asked for anything better."
CAMPUS EVENTS

The ND-SMC Equestrian Club will meet at 8 p.m. tonight in room 22 at the Notre Dame library. -The Observer

LECTURE CIRCUIT

Thursday
4 p.m.
"Brazilian Politics: Sixty Days before the Election." Elio Gaspari, Canossi Center for Portuguese Speaking World, Columbia University. 131 Decio. Sponsored by the Kellogg Institute.

4:30 p.m.

8:00 p.m.

8:30 p.m.
"Divine Freedom and Human Freedom in the Context of Creation—an Interfaith Colloquium. (All sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Continuing Education Center)

8 p.m. "The Freedom of Creatures of a Free Creator"

COMMENTS

Chicken Mozzarella
Baked Sole with Dressing
Cheese Enchiladas
Hot Meatloaf Sandwich

SUMMER CAMP SATURDAY

12:00-5:00 Around St. Joe's Lake

Tie-dying...arts and crafts...canoeing...smores...campus bands... scavenger hunt...frisbee contests...sailing... Basically all the stuff you loved as a kid and miss as the mature adult you are now!

Sponsored by the Student Union Board
ND soccer works overtime to edge MCC foe Detroit

By KENTYSAC

Sports Writer

Freshman Kevin Pendergast's 10th-minute goal sent the game into overtime Wednesday afternoon as the Notre Dame soccer team took the 1-0 victory over the Butler University Democrats.

The Irish (2-1-1) have now won their last three games.

Belles adds to football resume

By STEVE MEGARGEE

Thursday, September 7, 1989

Steve Belles fires a pass during the 1988 Blue-Gold Game in Notre Dame Stadium. Belles has added to his impressive Irish resume after starting at flanker against Virginia.

Belles moved from running back to flanker last week to start for the first time at the position. He has now played two games at flanker, one against Air Force at tailback, and the other against Tennessee.

Belles is listed at 5'8" and 180 pounds.

Cubs lose to Phillies; Cardinals gain ground

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - Bruce Ruffin scattered eight hits for his first complete game since May 17, 1987, and Derrek Daulton and Dickie Thom each drove in three runs as the last-place Philadelphia Phillies defeated the first-place Chicago Cubs 9-1 Wednesday night.

The Cubs lead over St. Louis in the National League East was cut to 2 1/2 games after St. Louis swept the Cardinals on Tuesday night.

Ruffin, who is making a gradual comeback after a wild story of drug use, personal problems and career walks, walked three and struck out five in seven innings, allowing only one run on two hits.

The Phillies rapped out 17 hits against Greg Maddux, 16-11, and three relievers.

Cardinals 3, Mets 2

NEW YORK

Pedro Guerrero drove in the tying and winning runs and the Cardinals took advantage of two New York errors for their 10th victory in 23 games.

With two out in the ninth inning, Mercury Morris doubled and was safe at third on an error by first baseman Buddy Bell.

Morris was aboard when Mike Devereaux hit a sacrifice fly to center, and Guerrero doubled to right-center, driving in Morris and winning it for the Cardinals.

Football Notebook

Steve Megargee

Thursday, September 7, 1989

10 yards on three carries as the Irish won a national championship in his hometown.

Now, with four years of experience and an economics degree in hand, Notre Dame's 1984 national championship-winning quarterback is preparing for his senior year quarterbacking at Notre Dame, with a career total of three completions in seven attempts for 111 yards, two touchdowns and an interception.

But over the last three years, the fifth-year senior has done everything possible to add to the Irish fortunes. He became a rarity among college quarterbacks by contributing on special teams, and he has gained 143 yards on 25 carries during his occasional turns at tailback.

He even combined the two talents last season against Air Force, lining up at tailback and taking a pitch from quarterback Tony Rice, then being driven for a 50-yard touchdown bomb to Ricky Watters.

The former high school free safety has even helped out on defense, making a tackle for a loss of one yard against Miami last season when the Hurricanes attempted to fake a punt.

In his Fiesta Bowl homecoming, he gained 10 yards on three carries as the Irish won a national championship in his hometown.

Now, with four years of experience and an economics degree in hand, Notre Dame's 1984 national championship-winning quarterback is preparing for his senior year quarterbacking at Notre Dame, with a career total of three completions in seven attempts for 111 yards, two touchdowns and an interception.

But over the last three years, the fifth-year senior has done everything possible to add to the Irish fortunes. He became a rarity among college quarterbacks by contributing on special teams, and he has gained 143 yards on 25 carries during his occasional turns at tailback.

He even combined the two talents last season against Air Force, lining up at tailback and taking a pitch from quarterback Tony Rice, then being driven for a 50-yard touchdown bomb to Ricky Watters.

The former high school free safety has even helped out on defense, making a tackle for a loss of one yard against Miami last season when the Hurricanes attempted to fake a punt.

In his Fiesta Bowl homecoming, he gained 10 yards on three carries as the Irish won a national championship in his hometown.

Now, with four years of experience and an economics degree in hand, Notre Dame's 1984 national championship-winning quarterback is preparing for his senior year quarterbacking at Notre Dame, with a career total of three completions in seven attempts for 111 yards, two touchdowns and an interception.

But over the last three years, the fifth-year senior has done everything possible to add to the Irish fortunes. He became a rarity among college quarterbacks by contributing on special teams, and he has gained 143 yards on 25 carries during his occasional turns at tailback.

He even combined the two talents last season against Air Force, lining up at tailback and taking a pitch from quarterback Tony Rice, then being driven for a 50-yard touchdown bomb to Ricky Watters.

The former high school free safety has even helped out on defense, making a tackle for a loss of one yard against Miami last season when the Hurricanes attempted to fake a punt.