East Germans Seizing Passports

Associated Press

BUDAPEST, Hungary - East German and Czechoslovak authorities have begun seizing passports to stop the flood of refugees fleeing to the West. East German emigres said Sunday Hungary’s foreign minister, meanwhile, defended his country’s decision to aid the immigrant exodues and said the Warsaw Pact should stick to military defense and not dictate ideology or foreign policy to its members.

In West Germany, officials said they would not crack down on visas for citizens wishing to visit Hungary. But refugees and charity workers at camps in Hungary said travel documents

Men on bikes accost student near campus

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

An off-campus Notre Dame student was accosted Saturday by a man on a bike accosting her while she was riding a bicycle in front of the administration building.

According to Phil Johnson, assistant director of security, the incident occurred at 6:00 p.m. on Notre Dame Avenue near the north end of Cedar Grove Cemetery. He said the woman was not injured.

The victim reported that she was walking alone south on Notre Dame Avenue when the suspect approached her, verbally harassed her and touched her inappropriately, said Johnson.

The victim fled the scene and walked to her residence hall.

Johnson said the suspects were last seen riding their bicycle on Angela Boulevard from Notre Dame Avenue.

Suspect one is described as a male, black, approximately 17 years old, thin build, short hair, and wearing blue jeans.

Suspect two is described as male, black, approximately 17 years old, thin build, short hair, and wearing blue jeans.

Suspect three is described as male, black, approximately 17 years old, thin build, short hair, and wearing blue jeans.

Johnson said that no arrests have been made at this time. He added that anyone with information about this incident is asked to contact the Notre Dame police.

Government may give millions to South Shore RR

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The federal government could provide millions of dollars to the ailing South Shore railroad if state and local governments in Indiana kick in their share, a federal official said.

"There are a host of possible local funds that channels federal aid to the railroad: the Northern Indiana Commuter Transit District — a public agency that channels federal money to the railroad — wants to buy only the passenger cars and make improvements at stations in South Bend, East Chicago, and Hammond at a cost of $17.4 million. The railroad is currently owned by the Ventago River Corp.

Hurricane Hugo

San Juan, Puerto Rico - Hurricane Hugo pounded the U.S. Virgin Islands and handed out a collision course with Puerto Rico early Monday afternoon.

The storm dropped slightly from 12 mph to 9 mph, the Weather Service said. The Virgin Islands' population is 106,000, and Puerto Rico has 3.5 million people.

Hurricane-force winds of nearly 100 mph ripped away roofs and knocked out power on St. Thomas and St. Croix, about 70 miles east of Puerto Rico. Officials said that two islands have most of the Virgin Islands' population.

Campus crime wave poses perplexing problems

Some other recommended lethal weapons, in addition to keys and knives, are the ever-handly umbrella or a pound of puffed rice. Of course, the knife is always a sure-fire approach. It seems as though security is already pretty tough—detectors for girls' dorms and signing in at night on the weekends if you're of the male persuasion. What else can we do?

Here are some suggestions to prevent attacks on campus:

• Avoid showering and deodorant
• Run everywhere (think of what great shape you'll be in)
• Gain 200 pounds so no one would want to attack you
• Wear the karate outfit you were issued at the freshman women's meeting
• Pick your nose when you spot a potential attacker

Seriously though, I hope this article has grabbed your attention, because this isn't some strange man at 2 a.m. Take some precautions, because this really is no laughing matter.

Tens of thousands of Ukrainians on Sunday joined in their church's largest service since World War II to demand that Mikhail Gorbachev's government recognize their legal status and end purges that followed.

The action was designed to express the Ukrainians' anger since President Gorbachev became Soviet leader in March 1985, the Ukrainian church's property was confiscated and believers who refused to accept it were brutally repressed or driven underground.

Tens of thousands of Soviets ask for freedom for Ukrainian Church

MOSCOW — Tens of thousands store their legal status and end Gorbachev's government repression of those who demand that Mikhail Gorbachev's government recognize their legal status and end purges that followed.

The outdoor service under an open sky was only the last of the large services. The three Baltic republics in which more than 1 million Estonians, Lithuanians and Latvians joined hands to protect the annexation of their lands. The Baltics and the Western Ukraine both fell into the Soviet Union as a result of the secret annexation of the western Ukraine from Poland. Western Ukrainians said 200,000 to 1 million Ukrainians carried at the later prayer session. A candle of mourning also twinkled in some apartment windows of the city of 600,000 people.

The action was designed to mirror Aug. 23 demonstrations in the U.S., which more than 1 million people gathered at a later prayer session.

At dusk, about 30,000 Ukrainians carrying candles agreed in a central square at Lvov, the largest city in the Ukrainian city of Lvov, to demand that Mikhail Gorbachev's government recognize their legal status and end purges that followed.

In the general election, change is the paramount issue.

Giuliani hopes so. He is the ultimate political outsider, a Republican in an overwhelmingly Democratic city, a former federal prosecutor who made his name chasing corruption in city government and Wall Street, a man who never has held elective office.

westcoast of Guadeloupe, said in an interview on the island's Radio Caraibe Internationale that two village residents were killed. She did not elaborate.

Beacon Radio in Anguilla said one person was killed in Montserrat and two in Antigua, but it gave no details.

In the central Puerto Rican town of Utuado, a man was electrocuted when he touched a power line while removing a television antenna from his roof to prepare for the storm, police said. He was identified as Antonio Magro Gonzalez, 51.

In San Juan, the Port Authority announced that it closed the Munoz Marin International Airport to all flights on Saturday morning. Two international carriers had removed their planes from Puerto Rico except for one American Airlines A300 left behind for emergencies.

The Port Authority also said cruise ships scheduled to arrive in San Juan had been routed to other destinations.

A Sunday morning weather service bulletin said: "If the eye of Hurricane Hugo moves directly across Puerto Rico as forecast, we expect a 50-mile wide path of extreme damage to occur."

In Washington, Brian Rubbery, a spokesman for the American Red Cross, said late Sunday that based on projections, the storm could leap up to 250,000 people homeless in Puerto Rico.

Civil defense officials said up to 15,000 people could be evacuated from flood-prone areas of western Puerto Rico and hundreds had already been moved into a sports stadium in Mayaguez, the island's third largest city.

National Guardsmen and volunteers on the island, said the capital, on Sunday is saving emergency instructions to uplanders.

Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon flew over the island by helicopter Sunday morning and warned residents to stay indoors to help move to shelters in hundreds of churches, schools and other public buildings.

Reports indicated that the island of Guadeloupe, the most southerly of the Leeward Islands, was the hardest hit of the string of islands forming a 600-mile arc from the Leewards to the Greater Antilles.

Jocelyne Vandervelde, a French government official in Martinique, said 80 people were reported injured in Guadeloupe.

Pizza Hut declares war on McPizza test

Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill. — Pizza Hut Inc. has fired the first salvo in an advertising war over the test marketing of pizza by McDonald's restaurants.

The fastfood war turned into a pizza war on Sept. 1, when Pizza Hut advertisements were published in newspapers in Evanston and nearby Owensboro, Ky.

"If you're looking for great pizza, make no Mistake," the ad said.

"We always use dough that's made fresh daily. Not McFrozen," the ad also said.

Thirty-second commercials began airing on Evanston television stations Thursday night.

Pizza Hut, the nation's largest pizza chain, launched the campaign in response to the addition of pizza to menus at 24 McDonald's restaurants in southern Indiana and western Kentucky earlier this summer.

"Pizza Hut has a mission to give consumers the best quality, best value, most convenient pizza available," spokesman Chuck Rubner.

"We want to make it clear to them that we are very strong competitors and make sure people are aware of the quality difference between our two products," Rubner said.

Pizza Hut officials have not determined how long the advertising campaign will last, Rubner said.

"It really depends on how long the test lasts. Once we see there's really no need to continue it, we'll discontinue it," Rubner said.

Ruthless against fighting back, McDonald's is "Delighted," he said. That they noticed how good our test product is," said company spokesman Ted Flugger.

We want to thank them for giving us our own ad campaign some extra topping," he added.

NEW YORK — If you took takeover mania out of the stock market, what would it cost investors?

That's the tough calculation many analysts are trying to make right now, prompted by the latest tremors in the high-yield "junk" bond market that has provided the fuel for the buyout boom of the 1980s.

The immediate issue the market would confront has been the possibility of torque and...
Students use pens to save lives across world

By George Lopez

I don't think there was a dry eye in the place.

Even before he began to read from his prepared text, the audience of about one thousand faculty, students and townspeople knew they were in for a special revelation to the speaker at the notification of another group at the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the students.

That scene of four years ago, when I was held incommunicado in a South African prison, has been the adopted child of setting the eyes in the place.

A soft-spoken and modest person, he had been released from underworld his prison cell and without the idea that the Good Samaritans posing as college students in the U.S. had made a difference. As rather average biochemistry, literature or accounting majors, with no special political orientation beyond a belief in the dignity of all human beings, they were making a government and its prison system remember that they were watching. The student activities were neither extraordinary, nor time-consuming--one meeting every few weeks and a promise to send letters to Uruguay with the same frequency that they would write home saying "send money."

For a number of years now the same pattern has occurred here at Saint Mary's and Notre Dame. Amnesty International Group 43 is based on the campus and we have worked for the better treatment and release of a South African POC, Mutile Henri Fazzi, Fazzi, now in his early sixties, was a carpenter and labor organizer whose non-violent protests of wage conditions led to his arrest in August, 1986. For periods of time in the eighties, his wife has also been arrested for similar activities.

If you are interested in learning about Mr. Fazzi and helping his situation and that of other POCs think about joining Amnesty's campus group.

George Lopez is the Government Department and Peace Institute director, serves along with Joe Ferrando as faculty liaison of Amnesty International, Group 43.

Working mothers shouldn't be made the fall-guys

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my discontent over a political cartoon The Observer ran on page 14. It stated "You've come a long way, baby—and so has your baby," and was critical of the working mother with her alcohol and drug-ridden child. The cartoon implies that if mothers work, their children will become alcoholics and drug addicts, and if mothers stayed home, their kids would not get into trouble.

This view is insensitive and overstates the reality of being a working mother. What about the possibility of raising children responsibly as to raising the kids and how the kids turn out?

Howsday, a scantily clad woman who happened to be standing at the center of the field, was receiving large scale support. One prison official admitted that during a two month period in 1982 some 2,500 cards and letters demanding Hiber's release had come to the prison. It seems that the Good Samaritans posting as college students in the U.S. had made a difference. As rather average biology, literature or accounting majors, with no special political orientation beyond a belief in the dignity of all human beings, they were making a government and its prison system remember that they were watching. America had entered the War. Student life took a drastic turn. The major change at the University was the arrival of the Navy. The ROTC programs had been here, but Notre Dame was selected for a Naval training base for naval aviation cadets. Over the course of the War, four dorms — Lyons, Morrissey, Howard, and Badin — became home to 1000 midshipmen every six weeks. A Navy Drill Hall was built south of what is now Fieldhouse Mall, and due to the difficulty of serving all the Navy men plus the Notre Dame students, the dining hall had to be changed to a cafeteria. Many new classes were added to the curriculum in keeping with the international situation and ranged from plant safety to military courses to war economics. Enrollment in the College of Engineering skyrocketed, and professors put in extra hours throughout the War years, especially at the very beginning. An editorial in the Dec. 12, 1941 issue of the Scholastic said, “What, specifically, shall we do during this interim of relative inactivity? First of all, we must study... Then, too, we must remain at all times as calm as possible whenever a personal crisis arises.”

America had the distinction of becoming a Key Center for War Information along with the Universities of Purdue and Indiana. One of their purposes was to provide printed bulletins of the War situation as part of a national network. United States War Bonds and Stamps were sold at all the home football games. A calm attitude was enforced throughout the War years, especially at the very beginning. An editorial in the Dec. 12, 1941 issue of the Scholastic said, “What, specifically, shall we do during this interim of relative inactivity? First of all, we must study... Then, too, we must remain at all times as calm as possible whenever a personal crisis arises.”

When WWII began, the University of Notre Dame was a small seceded university surrounded by farmland, and had an enrollment of less than half of what it is now. These circumstances made for an atmosphere that was much different from now. One of the most obvious differences was the campus itself. Much of North Quad had not been built yet, and Mod Quad was not even a thought. The Rockne Memorial looked across the fieldhouse mall, and due to the difficulty of serving all the Navy men plus the Notre Dame students, the dining hall had to be changed to a cafeteria. An open letter from the President of Notre Dame in the same issue pledged the full support of Notre Dame to President Roosevelt, and said that there was “no reason why students should become unduly alarmed at this time. Go about your normal ways until such time as our country calls. This is what Notre Dame expects of you... This is the best way to serve our country.”

Over the course of the week, we will try to give an idea of what Notre Dame was like during World War II. We will bring you interviews with some of the professors that were called to duty, and the impact that the Navy had on the campus, as well as a look at campus life.

The Notre Dame defense turned in a good performance against Michigan Saturday afternoon. The defense held the Wolverines to just 2.7 yards per carry and sacked Michigan quarterbacks three times.

best statistical game of his ca­reer with five total tackles. After passing the first big test against Michigan, Dahl might be on the dean’s list after this season is over.

Right tackle Jeff Aim had two solo tackles and one assist, while starting defensive end Scott Kowalkowski recorded six total tackles and recovered a fumble. The Irish sacked Michigan quarterbacks three times for total losses of 20 yards.

The Irish made a statement early in the game after winning the coin toss and electing to kick off. An early Michigan score would have made the 105,000 fans seem more like one million.

"I think in general an offense is usually stopped on the first series," Dahl said, "but that was nice."

But the defense silenced that drive and the crowd in impressive fashion. Michigan ran three plays, gained nine yards and punted.

"We knew we were going to give up some points," Dahl said. "But we also knew our offense was going to score some points. We just hoped Tony (Irish quarterback Rice) would score more."

Rice did score more, with help from Raghib Ismail’s two touchdown returns. The defense held when it had to. The Michigan offensive line couldn’t produce when it had to.

"I’m really getting used to it," Zorich said of the underdog role.

Don’t be surprised, though, if the underdogs suddenly become the favorites.

SMU still celebrating after ending drought

Associated Press

DALLAS — It's being called the Miracle on Mockingbird Lane. "Everyone said we weren't going to win a game all year," Southern Methodist coach Forrest Gregg said. "We couldn't accept that." SMU's 31-30 victory over Connecticut on the last play of Saturday's game was the first for the Mustangs since they re­turned from NCAA death penalty, a two-year exile from college football. The Mustangs were whipped 34-6 by Rice in their opener on Sept. 2, snapping the Owls' 18-34-6 by Rice in their opener on Sept. 2, snapping the Owls' 18-34-6.

"If we missed that, going for the three points," Gregg said. "We knew that. They had some extra replay, the same thing, basically. It was a bigger hole this time, and I saw a crease off to the left, and again Rodney Culver was the lead blocker. I felt someone on my legs, then I saw Culver level the kicker or somebody. Then he got back up and I saw a guy who had the angle of pursuing the ball. He was running stride for stride with him and I just did like this (motioning) and I went on."

The Wolverines and Gibrac went for a two-point conversion completed passes during a 13th- yard touchdown pass to Greg McMurtry with 4:08 to go in the first quarter, set up by his 23-yard run to the Michigan nine-yard field goal. "It was supposed to be a quick pass to Jason Wolf. Then SMU completed an onside kick and Matt Loomis made a 44-yard field goal.

SMU held, then Romo drove the Mustangs to the Huskies' 5- yard touchdown pass in the first quarter, set up by his 23-yard run to the Michigan nine-yard field goal. "It was supposed to be a quick pass to Jason Wolf. Then SMU completed a two-point conversion pass to Jason Wolf, but quick pass to Jason Wolf, but..."

"But he (Ismail) is a football player, so I'm happy to get him in the open field..." The Irish win marked the first time Schembechler has seen Michigan lose three consecutive years. Michigan lost to the same team three times in a row. "We didn't do anything spectacular. We didn't throw the ball. We didn't want to open it up. We didn't want to give Michigan anything they didn't own."

Ismail's 192 yards in returns and 16 yards rushing gave him all the yards for the day, two less than the rest of the offense.

"There are a lot of people who are track people who are playing football," Holtz said. "but he (Ismail) is a football player, so I'm happy to get him in the open field..."

"You want to have a positive feeling in your mind of returning it the first time, you want to have a positive feeling in your mind of returning it the first time, you want to have a positive feeling in your mind of returning it the first time, you want to have a positive feeling in your mind of returning it the first time, you want to have a positive feeling in your mind of returning it the first time..." The Irish took a page from Michigan's special teams, going but not breaking on de­fensive backfields. "Our defense played very well, particularly out rushing defense," Holtz said. "We had a lot of critical tackles. It was a typical Michigan-Notre Dame football game, a very physical football game, hard-pressed, hard-pressed, hard-pressed. Anytime we come up here to Ann Arbor and walk out with a win, we're happy."
Cubs drop second straight to Bucs

PITTSBURGH — Doug Drabek defeated Chicago for the third time in four decisions. Pittsburgh has won seven of eight against the Cubs, St. Louis and New York. Chicago lost for the second time in eight games.

Drabek, 13-11, allowed eight hits, struck out seven and walked none. Mike Bielecki, 16-7, lost for the second time in 10 decisions since July 14, giving up two runs and seven hits in five innings.

Phillies 9-0, Cardinals 5-2

PHILADELPHIA — Rick Carpenter allowed five hits in seven innings and San Francisco split a doubleheader with San Diego.

Royals 7, Orioles 0

Baltimore's Bret Saberhagen became the American League's first 20-game winner this season.

The Panthers carried their momentum into game two, established a 9-0 lead in the earlygoings, and then coasted as Notre Dame remained sluggish.

Notre Dame's offense surfaced in the second and third innings, outscoring the Irish 12-1. The Panthers used seven relievers, including senior reliever Liam Dever, to maintain the lead.

Irish appeared to get their offense going as Notre Dame scored four runs in the third inning. But the Irish persevered behind the strong serving of freshman outside hitter Alicia Turner, rallying to take the second game after racing out to a 8-0 lead.

An early error by Notre Dame's defense allowed the Panthers to score five runs in the third inning. The Irish hit a deplorable .077 from the field against Pacific after witnessing a lethargic 1-3 innings by the Irish.

The Irish hit a deplorable .077 from the field against Pacific after witnessing a lethargic 1-3 innings by the Irish.

A slow start was again the culprit, putting the Irish two games down to start their first match of the tournament.

But the Irish persevered behind the strong serving of freshman outside hitter Alicia Turner, rallying to take the second game after racing out to an 8-0 lead.

And despite battling its own errant serves and the Broncos' variegated offensive attack and defensive hustle, Notre Dame sustained its level of play and tied the match at two games apiece. The Broncos put on a clinic in the fifth match though, crushing the youthful Irish squad in the fifth and deciding game, after bruising the Irish early by grabbing a 6-0 lead.
