Auburn prof discusses date rape Wednesday

By MAGGIE MCCLOSKEY

Acquaintance rape and "Crushed Signals on a Saturday Night: Straight Talk About Dating" were the topics of a lecture given Wednesday night by Barry Burkhardt of Auburn University.

Burkhardt opened his talk by explaining the difficulty found in discussing acquaintance rape because the topic does not lend itself to clear communication.

Opposing images of the word 'date' and the word 'rape' also complicate a universal understanding of date rape.

Burkhardt claimed that the word 'date' has relatively pleasant connotations; whereas, the word 'rape' conjures up opposite feelings of violence, aggression, fear, and harm.

"When you put the word 'date' and the word 'rape' together, they don't overlap, they don't match. It's very often the case that people will not talk about date rape.

Studies at Auburn and a number of other universities have shown that a woman is 50 times more likely to be raped by someone she knows than by a stranger. Between the ages of 15-25, 15-20% of all women will have at least one instance of forced sexual intercourse.

In order to determine the causes of the prevalence of acquaintance rape, Burkhardt questioned why men and women encounter harm as the outcome of a relationship.

Burkhardt said, "One of the

Noriega blames revolt on U.S.

PANAMA CITY, Panama —
Troops patrolled the city's lightly traveled streets Wednesday and U.S. helicopters watched from overhead on the day after rebel soldiers tried in vain to overthrow Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

"The gringos piranhas want to do away with me," the general, who commands the military and controls the government, said during a brief tour of the street outside Panamanian Defense Forces headquarters.

He blamed the revolt on the United States, which has tried to oust him for nearly two years.

The Bush administration denied involvement.

Spokesmen for Noriega said some of the rebels took refuge in the American embassy, which the military regime "is di­vided against itself and rejected violence, aggression, fear, and harm."

Ricardo Arias Calderon told a midday news conference. He said the military regime "is di­vided against itself and rejected violence, aggression, fear, and harm.

Panel debates the film 'The Last Temptation of Christ'

By MARIA MILANO

"The film 'The Last Temptation of Christ' is controversial not because of the issue with which it deals but what makes it controversial is the violence which it does to the representa­tion of Christ," Communications Professor James Collins said at a debate on the film Wednesday night.

"The representation of Christ which we have seen in the past is one based on the Renaissance tradition of Christ, a represen­tation of one who quotes Scrip­tures," Collins continued.

Collins said, "There is an unusual system (in the film) in which the whole resistance and doubt are seen. We see Christ's temptation about himself, and ten­sion about his message that has never been depicted in film before."

Sister Mary O'Neill of the Theology department said that the film was "not a narrative but more of a burning image that stays in ones mind and helps one feel what Jesus has gone through."

Professor Mark Pilkinton of the Communications and The­ater department stated, "The actual temptation of Christ was a real temptation. In the desert Jesus' temptation almost got the better of him."

Pilkinton said that he was pleased to see a real Christ who could be genuinely tempted and who over came the temptation.

The sexual nature of Jesus portrayed in the movie was also discussed. Sister O'Neill stated that "sexual mores are the same to the Catholic tradition as dietary restrictions are to the Jewish tradition. Speaking of sexuality of Christ strikes me as something we haven't seen before."

WORLD BRIEFS

Members of the Irish Republican Army on Wednesday shot and killed a Roman Catholic after mistaking him for a Protestant gunman, the police said. The victim, 52-year-old James Henry Babbage, was shot point-blank by two men outside a primary school, the Royal Ulster Constabulary said. In a separate incident, a top-level IRA leader, the predominantly Catholic IRA claimed it killed a gunman who was involved in several attacks against the Protestant community. The statement gave a name of the purported victim, but it was not Babbage. "The victim was an entirely innocent man who was on his way to work," the Constabulary said in a statement late Wednesday.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

The Coast Guard seized a ship carrying 11,000 pounds of cocaine, the largest maritime cocaine seizure in history, Coast Guard officials said Wednesday. The Zedot Sea, a 185-foot offshore fishing vessel reportedly headed from Colombia but flying a Panama flag, was stopped by the Coast Guard off the coast of the Galapagos Islands. The vessel was more than 300 miles from shore, authorities said. The Coast Guard said the vessel was carrying more than 5,000 pounds of cocaine.

The odds of getting an AIDS infection from a typical blood transfusion were just 1 in 100,000 two years ago, but the risk is dropping more than 30 percent a year as fewer AIDS carriers are donating blood. A study says. "The blood supply is probably safer now than it has ever been," concludes the study, conducted by the American Red Cross. However, another report cautions that some people at high risk of the disease still give blood. A man was awakened when a stranger jumped into his bed in his home in St. Paul, Minnesota and police followed to wake the intruder out. "Basically, I think he was just trying to surprise me," said Officer Tim McCarr. The man did not know the people in the room. The man who owns the house said the stranger ran through several rooms before changing clothes. Thirty-year-old son's room. The startled resident looked on as police pulled the man out of the bed. The man was arrested on a charge of burglary because he entered the home without permission, McCarr said.

Restaurant work is not all peaches and cream

If you want to retain respect for your fellow human beings, never, never work in a restaurant.

I worked for about a year and a half at a place called Friendly's, sort of a cross between a Dennys and a Dairy Queen. I went in young and innocent, eager to do my best to serve the customer. I left a distorted, bitter misanthrope, thirsting for vengeance, wanting to hurt and maim those who had wronged me.

I am firmly convinced that people undergo a complete attitude change when they enter a restaurant. Some people may normally be an upright, decent person. It doesn't make any difference. As soon as they enter a restaurant, they become cruel, dominating tyrants, demanding things of those who were trying to serve them.

When we were waiting to close, for example, there would be two or three people standing up, sitting over a single cup of coffee each for a half hour. We had ways to subtly give the hint, "Leave now!"

The gate at the front of the store would lower halfway. We would shut off all the lights in the place except the section they were sitting in. The rest of the tables would be cleaned out and set up for the next day.

If this didn't work, the entire place would stand and watch implicitly at the offenders, trying to look as pitiful as possible. The customers would go up to them and say, "Excuse me, ma'am, but are you done with that fork and knife?" and then just leave it there to be used again.

Almost as bad as this was having to serve the take-out line. The price of the ice cream cones was raised from 96 cents to $1.01, but people weren't complaining. They would just give me a dollar for their cone.

"I'm sorry, but I need one more cent," I'd say. "Oh, okay," they'd reply, and proceed to give me a $5 bill, so I'd have to make $49.99 in change.

People have been trained since childhood to treat restaurant employees like pond scum. Even this didn't work. They would just keep on demanding a lot of change.

When I was serving take-out, a seven-year-old girl was having a birthday party. She could have gotten something to go at the table, but that was too easy.

Instead, she went to the take-out line. There were nine people in line in front of her, but she pushed her way to the counter, shoved her grubby little face forward and announced in an angry, nasally voice, "I want ice cream!"

"I'm sorry," I said (even though I wasn't). "I'm really sorry, but I have to make $49.99 in change.

She started crying. "I don't want ice cream!"

Three Killed as Air Force plane explodes

Associated Press
PERTH-ANDOVER, New Brunswick — Three crew members aboard an Air Force KC-135A tanker were killed, and a fourth was feared dead Wednesday after the plane exploded in the air as it returned to Loring Air Force Base in northern Maine from a refueling mission, authorities said.

A panel of military and civilian officials was being assembled in an attempt to determine what caused the four-engine jet to blow up and crash in the woods in this border town, Air Force officials said.

"Three bodies have been recovered, but not the fourth," said Capt. Kellie Rebscher at Loring, a sprawling bomber base in Limestone less than 20 miles from the crash site. She said officials were not speculating on what may have caused the crash.

The spokeswoman identified the crew members as the pilots, Lt. Col. William Northcutt of Oklahoma City, the co-pilot, 1st Lt. Robert Weyman of Milwaukee; the navigator, Zollf. Lt. Al fred Taft of Urbana, N.Y.; and the boom operator, Airman 1st Class Jack Copp of Athens, Tenn.

The bodies were charred and it was not clear which of the men was missing, but it was not believed that there were any survivors, said Rebscher.

No civilian injuries were reported. Efforts to locate the missing man continued eight hours after the explosion, which lit up the predawn sky and started a fire in the woods. Witnesses compared the explosion to an earthquake.

"It was unbelievable," said Perth-Andover resident Paul McNally. "I've never seen anything like it — it was like fireworks."

"The noise! My whole house shook — windows and everything," said Anita Davenport, who lives near the crash site.

Rebscher confirmed that the plane exploded in the air and it was not equipped with a "black box" that could have recorded crew members' final words.

The state had cited political intrusion in hiring practices, poor test scores, failure to provide for handicapped children and unauthorized use of state funds as some of the reasons for the takeover.

On Wednesday, the state Board of Education in Jamesburg gave final approval to the takeover and formally appointed Elena Scambrice to a three-year term as superintendent of the school district.

Ms. Scambrice's first act was to abolish the jobs of seven top administrators in the district, including that of school Superintendent Franklin Williams.

The state board's action also ended in the nation's largest northern Maine from a refuelting mission to an earthquake.

The state board's action also took control of the urban district.

N.J. superintendent takes control of urban district

JAMESBURG, N.J. — A state superintendent took control of the Jersey City school district Wednesday, completing a five-year legal struggle that ended in the nation's largest school takeover of an urban school district.

Jersey City students have been subject to "educational child abuse," said Gov. Thomas Kean. "Now the community can put politics and patronage aside, and get on with the business of education."

The state had cited political intrusion in hiring practices, poor test scores, failure to provide for handicapped children and unauthorized use of state funds as some of the reasons for the takeover.

'Night Stalker' sentenced to death

Associated Press
LOS ANGELES — A jury recommended Wednesday that convicted "Night Stalker" Richard Ramirez die in the gas chamber, and the devil-worshiping serial killer snarled: "Big deal, death always went on in Disneyland."

Ramirez, convicted of 13 savage murders, rooked in his chair and peered around at courtroom spectators seated behind him as Superior Court Judge Michael Tynan read aloud the jury's recommendations, count by count.

Jurors found Ramirez deserved the death penalty on 19 special circumstances attached to felony convictions that included multiple murders, burglary and sex crimes.

State law requires a separate jury finding of special circumstances before the death penalty can be imposed. As of Wednesday, Ramirez had 263 inmates on death row in California.

Tynan will consider the jury's recommendations before he formally sentences Ramirez on Nov. 7. The facts of the case, however, made it unlikely the judge would reduce the sentence to life in prison without the possibility of parole, the only other possible sentence.

Under California law, the death sentence will be automatically appealed.

Ramirez made no comment in the courtroom but uttered his "Disneyland" remark to reporters while being taken back to jail. He apparently was referring to his lawyer's contention to the jury that life in prison was sufficient. "I will never see Disneyland again," lawyer Ray Clark had said.

The judge thanked the jurors profusely for the year they had spent on the case. "I'm very proud of you," he told them. "I know you had a tough time of it... It was a very emotionally charged case. I want to thank you for the public. God bless you."

"I have nightmares all the time about the crimes," said juror Cynthia Haden. "I'll get over it, but I'll never be the same. I'll never look at people the same.

"How are you going to return to a normal life after going through something like this?"

"Yes, your honor," asked another juror, Bonita Smith.

The jury's deliberations lasted five days in the death penalty phase of the trial. The jurors did not look at Ramirez as the word "death" was pronounced 19 times by Tynan, but they answered in firm voices. "Yes, your honor," as the judge pronounced them individually.

"It took a lot of thinking," he said. He added about Ramirez, "I think he's a pretty crazy man."

"He got what he deserved," said Deputy District Attorney P. Philip Halpin, who had urged the death penalty, describing Ramirez to the jury as a "mis­erable human being" who killed for self gratification. Defense attorney Ray Clark had pleaded for mercy.

"I think all human beings are deserving of our sympathy and should not have their lives taken in the streets, in the courts or in the gas chamber," said defense attorney Daniel Hernandez, adding he does not think Ramirez wants to die.

"There's no punishment that could fit this crime," said Judi Arnold, daughter of Night Stalker victims Maxon and Kneiding, said tearfully after the verdicts. She said Ramirez should die.

"I have to live the rest of my life seeing my parents (as mur­der victims) and what Mr. Ramirez did to them."

Jurors ruled Sept. 20 that the 29-year-old native of El Paso, Texas, was the demonic killer who broke into homes through unlocked windows and doors in the summer of 1985.

As the pattern of satanic crimes unfolded, investigators found men murdered in their beds, and women raped and battered as if they represented devilish demands of love and money.

Ramirez was convicted of 13 murders and 30 rape and robbery charges, ranging from rape and sodomy to burglary. In one murder, a victim's eyes were gouged out. In another, a woman was raped beside the body of her murdered husband.

Satanic symbols were left at some murder scenes and some victims were forced to "swear to Satan" by the killer, who held Southern California in a grip of terror during his rampage. At a preliminary hearing Ramirez held up a hand inscribed with a pentagram, a symbol of devil worship, and said, "Hail Satan."

Propane ($\text{CH}_3\text{CH}_2\text{CH}_3$) may be automotive fuel of future

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Amid the morning rush of commuters, the white Ford Taurus blended well with the hundreds of other cars on Washington's traffic-clogged six-lane Beltway.

But as the sedan passed an 18-wheeler at 60 miles an hour, the driver flicked a switch just below the dashboard and the Taurus became like no other car on the busy highway.

It was now running on propane instead of gasoline.

As Congress moves toward enacting tougher laws to combat urban pollution and other environmental concerns, including global warming, the word is out: The 1990s may well become the decade in which the alternative-fuel automobile with its fewer pollutants will challenge the conventional gasoline-powered car.

President Bush has proposed legislation calling for a phase-in of thousands of alternative-fuel vehicles beginning in 1995 and for production of at least 1 million such cars a year by 1997 in urban areas with the worst smog.

William Reilly, head of the Environmental Protection Agency, says there is no other way to attain a significant reduction in urban smog and still acknowledge Americans' love of their automobiles than to phase in large numbers of cars that use cleaner fuels than gasoline.

As a result, there has been a rush to Washington by almost every conceivable maker and promoter of alternative fuels in an attempt to carve out a niche in that yet-to-be-defined future market of motor vehicles.

...enhance Notre Dame's intellectual atmosphere."

Changes have occurred as a result of the Intellectual Life Committee's work, said Rossi. For example, the committee emphasized the need for non-classroom space for student-faculty interactions.

Many of the new buildings have been designed to include such gathering areas. Looking toward the new school year, the members highlighted the need to obtain even more concrete responses to their recommendations.

Student government President Tom Doyle and Vice President Mike Pease formed this committee in response to the intellectual life reports compiled by student government. These reports, presented to the Board of Trustees, detailed the need to improve intellectual interactions on campus.

The presidential election and the student government's Ikeyberg Debates stimulated the level of extracurricular intellectual activity on campus last year, according to a report issued by the committee. The Intellectual Life Committee wants to ensure that such activity and exchange of ideas remains an integral part of campus life.

Three killed in Gulf explosion

Associated Press
SABINE PASS, Texas — More than 100 Coast Guard personnel were joined by park rangers Wednesday in the search for eight people missing after a fishing boat struck a gas pipeline and exploded in the Gulf of Mexico.

Three people were killed and three others injured in the accident, which happened just before dark Tuesday. The 20-square-mile search was hampered by the suspected presence of hazardous chemicals.

"If they were presumed dead, we wouldn't be searching," Coast Guard Lt. Scott LaRochelle said. "The probability is high but there is still a possibility (of survivors). There's always a hope."

Mike Benson, spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, said the agency was sending a team to investigate.

The five-member team was expected to arrive in nearby Port Arthur late Wednesday. A small fire continued to burn 18 hours after the 160-foot "North Umlerland" apparently hit the 16-inch natural gas pipeline, triggering a spectacular blaze that sent flames hundreds of feet into the air, LaRochelle said.

The main fire burned itself out Wednesday morning after the pipeline was turned off.

TAIF, Saudi Arabia — Heckled by Iran, Lebanese legislators met on Wednesday and debated scrapping a 46-year-old pact that divides government jobs along sectarian lines. They agreed earlier to revamp Parliament with an equal number of Muslims and Christians in an effort to end the 14-year-old civil war.

Any agreement, however, must win the support of powerful warlords who have trolled much of Lebanon since fighting began in 1975. Modern holy orders, such as the Order of the Holy Sepulcher, have been open to debate at meetings.

WASHINGTON — The $50 billion Congress voted two months ago to rescue failed savings institutions may not be enough, a top regulator said Wednesday, raising the possibility that taxpayers could be asked for a second bailout.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Chairman L. William Seidman, whose agency is in charge of disposing of bankrupt thrifts, told the Senate Banking Committee it is much too early to reliably predict the cost of the bailout.

But, he said, “it is possible that $50 billion will prove to be an insufficient amount to deal with potential failures.”

His comments, included in written testimony to the panel, which is taking Congress’ first look at the bailout since it was enacted Aug. 9, are the strongest yet from a government official. Private analysis have been saying for months that the $50 billion likely will prove to be only a down payment.

Seidman said the Resolution Trust Corp., operated by the FDIC to dispose of failed S&Ls, expects losses on the 283 seized by regulators so far to total $30 billion.

By the time the bailout ends in August 1992, regulators may have seized as many as 300 more dead S&Ls, bringing the total to nearly 600, he said. Those projections “raise questions about the adequacy of the $50 billion in RTC funding.”

However, Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, who heads an administration board overseeing the RTC’s performance, said, “I know of nothing that’s occurred since the bill passed to change my mind” that $50 billion likely is sufficient.

That “isn’t the point. Maybe we need 52, maybe we need 48. The point is we’ve taken a bonfire andamped it down to the point where it’s embers,” Brady said.

Seidman, answering questions from senators, softened his tone a bit, emphasizing the impossibility of making a certain loss estimate. Nevertheless, he said, “there’s no way we can say for sure that $50 billion is enough.”

On a related matter, he said the RTC may have to borrow $25 billion or more, in addition to the $50 billion, to provide working cash until it can recover money by selling loans and real estate once owned by failed S&Ls.

Associated Press

Congress authorized the extra borrowing, but Sen. Donald Riegle Jr., D-Mich., chairman of the banking committee, said $25 billion was far more than envisioned.

So far, the RTC has run through $20 billion. $1.8 billion to close 24 small S&Ls, $8.3 billion to handle five large institutions by next week and five smaller not-yet-completed deals, $8.5 billion to replace high-cost deposits and $1.4 billion as a reserve fund to handle liquidity problems at thrifts that have failed but are still open, Seidman said.

Judge dismisses California suit, failed to prove sex discrimination

San Francisco — A federal judge on Wednesday dismissed the core of the nation’s largest “comparable worth” lawsuit, a claim that California deliberately underpaid thousands of women in female-dominated state jobs.

U.S. District Judge Marilyn Hall Patel ruled that the California State Employees’ Association had failed to prove deliberate sex discrimination in state salaries.

She allowed CSEA to submit new arguments on a claim that state policies had the effect of illegally holding down the salaries of female state employees. But that type of lawsuit, without proof of intent, has been made much more difficult to prove by a recent Supreme Court ruling.

CSEA sued in 1984 on behalf of 60,000 or more past and present secretaries, clerks, nurses and other people in predominantly female state jobs.

The state denied discrimination and said any differences in pay levels reflected market rates. Lower pay for female-dominated jobs based on prevailing market levels was declared legal in 1985 by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in an opinion by future Supreme Court Justice Anthony Kennedy.

THE CHASE MANHATTAN BANK (NEW YORK)

will be recruiting on campus November 2, 1989 for Corporate Controller’s and Treasury’s Entry Development Program. We are seeking candidates who are highly motivated and possess strong analytical, interpersonal and communication skills.

The Controller’s program is designed to provide participants with exposure to various units, e.g. Financial Accounting, Management Accounting, Taxes, etc. The program consists of on job training and supplemental presentations which will focus on developing technical and managerial skills. A degree in Accounting or Finance is required.

The Treasury Program concentrates on developing participants in the areas of Risk Management and the trading of Financial Instruments (short-term, medium-term, multi-currency risk groups). A degree in Finance or Economics is required. Knowledge of computer fundamentals is a plus, as is foreign language capability in Spanish or Japanese for available overseas assignments.

If you are interested in interviewing with us, please sign up at the Career and Placement Service Office, Hesburgh Library.
Dear Editor:

When Father Griffin began designating Medjugorje by associating it with Nerudah and Bayside, I let that pass, figuring that such an irrelevant and undeniating Medjugorje by Bayside, I let that pass, figuring that such an irrelevant and undeniating Medjugorje by Bayside, I almost wrote you a letter. The fact is, she does laugh, and frequently smiles.

Now Father Griffin says that, by way of an act of the danger of punishment, Medjugorje contradicts Jesus, who revealed the Father's love to us (The Observer, Sept. 15). This distorts not only the message of Medjugorje of being unfaithful to God, but also that of Jesus.

Medjugorje does not bring a message of doom and gloom nor does it depict Mary as saving us from God's bad temper. By such allegations, Father Griffin sharply demonstrates that he is ill informed about his subject, Medjugorje summons us to live faithfully the Gospel mission of faith, prayer and penance. It offers many helpful practical counsels on how to do this. It does indeed warn that if we do not convert, we are due for a terrible chastisement (which anyone, reflecting on our condition in the light of the Gospel, might have figured out for himself). But relatively little is said on this subject at Medjugorje, compared with the abundant words of hope and encouragement.

To suggest that the Old Testament God is one of love, not only does injustice to the Old Testament, it emasculates the message of Jesus. Such a position caused Marcion to be excommunicated in the second century. The God who speaks through the Old Testament prophets is the same who is revealed by Jesus. In both dispensations, his message is primarily one of love - but a tough love that includes warning sinners or figuratively as the suffering they bring on themselves. But using the same language as Scripture is hardly credible to blaspheme Christ in a movie.

It would be too long to summarize all the warnings contained in the rest of the New Testament. Let it suffice to note that the most horrifying depictions of God's wrath towards sinners are to be found in the Apocalypse, the final book of the New Testament, attributed to John, author of the Gospel of John.

It is a fair question whether what Scripture says about divine punishment should be understood literally as God punishing sinners or figuratively as the suffering they bring on themselves. But using the same language as Scripture is hardly grounds for accusing Medjugorje of being unfaithful to Scripture.

The message of Medjugorje is chiefly one of love, like that of Jesus. As his love does not deter him from speaking sternly about the lot of evildoers, Mary pleads with her children to be converted before it is too late. She weeps as Jesus wept over Jerusalem. His teaching is not distorted by her, but by those who propose a sentimental love of love. He reminds them of our gentle, loving Jesus.

Bush: Drugs are threat, not a form of recreation

By George Bush

Summer is over, and classes are back in session. As we begin the school year, our thoughts again turn to the future—a future that is threatened by drug use.

Americans agree that the biggest threat we face is a nation drugs, in particular cocaine and marijuana. Who is responsible? Everyone who uses drugs, and the women who sell drugs, everyone who looks the other way.

Some people need to drug just a brief form of recreation. They’re not. Drugs are a real and extremely serious threat to our homes, our friends and our families. It doesn’t matter where you work or what school you attend. No one is free from the threat of drugs. Inner cities, small towns and even our college campuses are all under siege—because America is under siege.

On September 5, I announced the first comprehensive national strategy to end the drug war. This war drugs with tougher laws and enforcement programs with improved treatment, education and prevention. The programs we’re proposing are all-out assault against the evil of drug use and drug trafficking. We are aggressively attacking the problem from every angle and proposing a 1990 drug budget totaling over eight billion dollars—the largest single increase in history.

America is fighting a war against drugs. Yet the most important weapon is knowledge. Americans need to know the facts. At conception, DNA, the genetic imprint that makes or not the baby is alive. The faithful Cio-cio-san, Madame Butterfly, peers from behind her fan.

The performance is filled with some of the most rich, melo­dramatic music in opera — Glenn Close played the aria in the film Fatal Attraction — and is performed with an orchestra, and sung in English. Madame Butterfly tells the tragic story of a young Japanese geisha, Cio-cio-san, and her ill-fated marriage to the dashing yet unfaithful American Navy man, Lieutenant Pinkerton.

A few brief months of wedded bliss, Pinkerton returns to the United States, promising Butterfly that he will return "when the robins nest again." For three years, the faithful Butterfly waits for her husband and raises Trouble, their son. Then comes the fateful day when an American ship arrives in the harbor bringing her beloved husband — and his new American wife.

The story ends with Cio-cio-san, disgraced and alone, giving up her son to be raised by Pinkerton and his wife in America. As the orchestra plays the final aria, Butterfly unsheathes her father's dagger which bears the inscription, "To die with honor when one can no longer live with honor."

The Minnesota Opera's production of Madame Butterfly, part of their nine-and-a-half-week tour of the Midwest and Canada, will be directed by D. Scott Glasser who is making his Minnesota Opera debut with musical direction by Michael Fardink. Friday night's performance will also feature some of the country's finest young professional singers. Alternating each performance in the role of Cio-cio-san are sopranos Jane Olan who has previously played the role with the New Orleans Opera and Texas Opera Theatre and Mary Laymon who has recently appeared with the National Touring Company in productions of Don Pasquale, Cinderella, and The Marriage of Figaro. Tenor Tom Schumacher who has performed in Minnesota Opera productions of The Jui­nerp Tree, Salome, and The Mi­kado sings the role of Pinkerton.

The Notre Dame women's soccer team, now 6-6-6, crept past the Pumas of St. Joseph Bennalleur Wednesday in overtime 2-1.

The Pumas drew first blood minutes later, the Irish quickly maturing Irish soccer team.

George Thomas justified the faith put in him. "Just a warm-up, the whole fall season is just a warm-up for the spring sea­son. We experimented with putting players in different po­sitions so that we could find out who our best players are." The Irish finished with a 302 out who our best players are. "I thought we created more scoring opportunities than we have all year, they just didn't go in."

Notre Dame was deprived a victory, winning 15-9, 16-14, in the Angela Athletic Center. The Irish are now setting their sights on the MCC tour­

Belles volleyball defeats Grace College

By COLLEEN CONDON

Excellent spiking and key blocks helped Saint Mary's storm past Grace College. Under Coach Sue Medley, the Belles improved their record to 3-4 Tuesday night at home.

"We have a team that seems to be getting better with time, the win was a total team effort. By the end of the third game, Saint Mary's had a victory, winning 15-9, 15-7, and 15-10. "We are slowly progressing," said freshman Karen Lortie. "We won tonight and got third place at the tournament last weekend. In our first match this season it took five games won and our last two have taken only three."

The Belles are looking for­ward to their own tournament. The Saint Mary's College Invitational takes place October 13 and 14 at the Angela Athletic Facility. They will be competing against Aquinas College, Madonna College, Mundell College, Saint Joseph's College, and Xavier College.

Saint Mary's next home game is October 5, at Manchester College.

"I'm really excited to go home and play them," said Kerr ex­pressing similar feelings. "I think it's going to bring out something extra in my play." It is the hope of Coach Grace and all Irish soccer fans that this enthusiasm is contagious.

If so, it would be very much a possibil­ity that the Irish can return home late Sunday night, cham­pions of the Metropolitan Life Classic. At this point in the season, it is hard to imagine a bigger confidence booster for a young, but quickly maturing Irish soc­cer team.
The Oakland Athletics’ Mark McGwire and Dave Henderson had a lot to bash about Wednesday afternoon as they led the Athletics to a 6-3 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays which put them two games up in the American League playoff series.

Athletics shoot down Blue Jays 6-3
Henderson’s record four stolen bases spark Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. — Jose Canseco had left a sour taste on Wednesday because of a bad headache. No matter. Rickey Henderson gave Toronto one all day.

Henderson sparked a two-run fourth inning rally with two stolen bases, and the Oakland Athletics beat the Blue Jays 6-3 in Game 2 of the best-of-7 American League playoffs for a 2-0 lead.

Only two of 11 teams have rallied from a 2-0 deficit to win the AL playoffs — Milwaukee in 1982 and Kansas City over Toronto is 10-0 when the dome night.

The A’s have won six straight playoff games, while the Blue Jays have dropped five in a row.

Once again, the A’s put together a combination of power, pitching and speed to beat the Blue Jays.

Starter Mike Moore allowed three hits in seven innings, Mark McGwire had three hits and Ty Smith pitched the A’s first home run in 25 postseason games spanning 93 at-bats.

Henderson had two singles and two walks, and has been on base seven times in nine plate appearances. He has six steals in the series, breaking the play-off record of five previously by Kansas City’s Amos Otis in 1978.

Carney Lansford, who hit 336, followed with a single left over a drawn-in infield to tie the score. Lansford moved to second on Parker’s grounder to first, and scored on McGwire’s double down the left-field line.

Moore, who won a career-high 19 games, entered Game 2 with a 4-12 lifetime record against Toronto, having lost seven of eight.

Oakland was breezing along a seven-game loss to St. Louis.

The A’s chased Stottlemyre in the sixth when Parker led off with a home run, driving in Dick Williams. The Blue Jays wasted Luis Salazar’s back-to-back singles.

Rickey Henderson led off the seventh with another walk and again stole second and third. He came home on a throwing error by McGriff, who was attempting to pickoff Lansford.

Oakland’s Greg McRae, pitching in the 1964 World Series for the New York Yankees, allowed seven hits and four runs in five-plus innings.

Moore led off the third inning with a single, ran to second on a throw by Shortstop Bill Freehan, and scored on a single by Nelson Liriano to hit into a 4-6-3 double play.

McGwire’s hit was a ground-rule double. Ron Hassey made it 4-1 with a sacrifice fly and Tony Phillips added a run-scoring single.

McGwire drove in another run in the fourth when he lined a double off the right field fence and McGwire followed with a single.

Jim Acker relieved and Dave Henderson hit a ground-rule double. Ron Hassey made it 4-1 with a sacrifice fly and Tony Phillips added a run-scoring single.

Rickey Henderson led off the seventh with another walk and again stole second and third. He came home on a throwing error by McGriff, who was attempting to pickoff Lansford.

Oakland’s Greg McRae, pitching in the 1964 World Series for the New York Yankees, allowed seven hits and four runs in five-plus innings.

Moore led off the third inning with a single, ran to second on a throw by Shortstop Bill Freehan, and scored on a single by Nelson Liriano to hit into a 4-6-3 double play.

PARIS, Ky. - Secretariat, whose 1973 Triple Crown triumph stamped him as the "people's horse," was humanely put down by injection at his Kentucky farm, once said, "He's a people's horse," was humanely put down by injection at his Kentucky farm.

Ron Turcotte rode Secretariat in 1973. No other could compare, he said. "He was head and shoulders above any one of them," he said. "I didn't ride B-decoration or Dr. Fagan but I rode against them, and on their best days...I never saw no horse to all of us. He was adored by all in the horse world and fans all over the country.

"We didn't think this day would come for a long time," Koch said Walter Kaufman, resident veterinarian at the farm, put the animal to sleep. The condition was diagnosed on Labor Day, Koch said.

"When the inflammation occurs, swelling results," Koch said. "And since there is little room for swelling, this is a very conditioned animal.

Not only did Secretariat win the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes in record time, but he probably also would have set a record at the Preakness if the timing process hasn't malfunctioned.

Secretariat that won 16 of 21 races in two years, but most fans remember the Belmont best. Already a winner in the Derby and Preakness, Secretariat barreled down the homestretch at Belmont Park, and, amazingly, he was alone. It was 31 lengths back to Twice a Prince. Using the customary time-race equivalent of one-fifth of a second per length. Secretariat under the wire 6 1/2 seconds before Twice a Prince came along.

Not since Citation won the Triple Crown in 1948 had any horse managed to win all three races, let alone in the style of Secretariat.

One still consider Man o' War the greatest horse of all time. Under the wire 6 1/2 seconds before Twice a Prince came along.

Yankee (76) into fifth place on the all-time assist list.

It's a thrill to work around a horse like that. He knew who he was and what he was all about," Koch said.

Secretariat was buried in a 6-foot by 6-foot by 6-foot lot lined with orange silks, the color used by Claiborne's racing stables. He was buried near the stables. He was buried near the stable door will remain there.

"Secretariat was a lot different than other horses," Koch said. "He was a very special horse like that. He knew who he was under the wire for 6 1/2 seconds before Twice a Prince.

"Of course, I'm terribly sorry," Koch said Secretariat's connections, "I'm terribly sorry. I'm sorry for all of the fans, the sport its first Triple Crown winner. After only 11 seasons Gretzky is just 14 points behind Gordie Howe's 26-season 1,850 point mark.

With 9:12 left in the first quarter of the earliest battle between No. 1 and No. 2 teams, the Houston campus kicked off what would be a two-point snack of a showdown. The Michigan Wolverines celebrate a 49-42 overtime win over the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

A University of Notre Dame football player, who had been expected to compete for a national title, sustained a serious injury during the game. The player, who is a key member of the team's special teams, was injured while returning a kickoff.

The injury has raised questions about the team's ability to compete for a national championship. The Notre Dame football program has a long history of success, but the most recent national championship came in 1988.

The player's injury is just the latest in a string of recent injuries that have affected the team. In the past week, several players have been ruled out for the remainder of the season due to injuries.

Despite the setbacks, the Notre Dame coaching staff is confident that the team can still compete for a national championship. The team has a tough road ahead, but the players are determined to give it their best shot.

The team's next game is against the University of Tennessee, a team that has been in the national title mix throughout the season. The game is scheduled for this Saturday, and the outcome will likely have a major impact on the national championship race.

The game will be played in Neyland Stadium, home of the Tennessee Volunteers. The Volunteers are currently ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press Poll and are coming off a 38-21 win over the University of Alabama.

The match-up between Notre Dame and Tennessee is one of the more highly anticipated games of the season. Both teams are playing for the chance to represent the Big Ten in the College Football Playoff.

The game is scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m. local time. Fans are encouraged to arrive early to ensure they have a good seat.

WILBUR AND WENDEL

ON WEDNESDAY WHEN THE INSPECTION TEAM CAME TO CHECK THE SCHOOL'S BATHROOMS, I WAS BUSTED. I NEEDED TO USE THE RESTROOMS, BUT THE BOYS IN MY CLASS WERE BUSTED TOO. THEY SAID, "NO NEED TO WORRY, WE'LL JUST SNEAK IN AND USE THE TOILET." BUT THE INSPECTOR CAME IN AND TOOK A LOOK. HE SAID, "YOU GUYS SHOULDN'T BE STEALING, RIGHT?" BUT I HAD TO GO, YOU KNOW. YOUR SHORTS SHOULDN'T BE STEALING, RIGHT? BUT ANYWAY, YOU KNOW, I WASN'T THE ONLY GUY THERE. THEY CHARGED ALL OF US. BUNNY'S A PROBLEM. IF YOU THINK A GUY CAN'T HANDLE A BOOK, IT'S A STRAIGHT SHOVEL ONE.

Irish men's soccer prepares to head west for two games

By CHARLIE POLLARD

San Francisco's Kevin Mitchell saw a lot of home plate at Wrigley Field Wednesday night, as he and Will Clark helped the Giants drub the Cubs 11-3 in the opening game of the National League playoffs.

Mitch Kern

"The timing of (this trip is) good to aid our total chemistry," Grace said. Sophomore midfielder Mitch Kern echoes similar thoughts. "We've had some pretty humbling experiences at home," Kern said, "thus going all the way out to California can hopefully bring us together and bond us.

In order to prevent further "humbling experiences at this weekend, the Irish need to display a combination of cohesive teamwork and strong play.

Friday's opponent, Cal State-Los Angeles, has a 3-4-2 record. They play a tough schedule and will definitely come ready to play. Golden Eagle's senior Mike Gregorian is especially dangerous. He leads the majors in scoring with seven goals, including five in the last three games. Santa Clara, the host team, should pose even stiffer competition for the Irish on Saturday. They are currently ranked fourth in the nation by Soccer America's latest poll. Their record is 8-0-1, with the only blemish a tie with third-ranked UCLA.

With ample proof, Coach Grace calls this one of the premier classics in the country, as well as a stern challenge for his squad.

An interesting aspect to the classic is the homecoming of Sophomore Mitch Kern and Freshman Jeff Rhodes.

Both Irish players went to Bellarmine High School in Santa Clara, just minutes from Santa Clara University. Both players also live a short distance from the school. Furthermore, each considered attending Santa Clara.

"I played with over half of their players," said Rhodes, "and they are truly an amazing team. I'm looking forward to the game."

Giants down Cubs 11-3 in opener

Mitchell, Clark lead Giants' offensive assault

Associated Press

CHICAGO — Once they turned on the lights at Wrigley Field, Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell turned them out on the Chicago Cubs.

Clark set a record by driving in six runs as he went 4-for-4 with two home runs, including a grand slam, and a three-run shot as the San Francisco Giants routed Chicago 11-3 Wednesday night in the opening game of the National League playoffs.

Neither Clark nor Mitchell liked to hit at Wrigley Field, one of the best hitters' parks in the majors. But no one would know it after watching the league's most feared sluggers.

"I think the night game was a factor. I saw the ball better. I didn't see it well during the day," Clark said. "I've had my problems, but this is the first time I've ever played with the wind blowing out.

"It was just one of those games," he said. "That doesn't mean I've got this ballpark or this pitching staff in my pocket.

Pitching may dominate play-off, but not this time. Clark's slam in the fourth inning off 19-game winner Greg Maddux landed on Sheffield Avenue past right field and made it 8-3. By then, there already had been four home runs and 13 hits.

Clark's grand slam came one pitch after Cubs manager Don Zimmer visited Maddux on the mound.

"I was going to leave him in," Zimmer said. "I just wanted to make sure we were together on how to pitch him, so I asked him. I got the answer I wanted, just not the result.

"He had a hell of a week," Zimmer said in assessing Clark's performance. Mitchell added the finishing touches in the eighth, homering over Waveland Avenue beyond left field after Clark had walked.

"It felt good, especially at this park," said Mitchell, who led the majors with 47 home runs and 125 RBIs. "I hadn't hit one here since 1987.

The Giants had 333 and had 23 home runs and 111 RBIs, set a playoff record for RBIs and tied the all-time post-season record set by Bobby Richardson for the New York Yankees in the 1960 World Series. Clark hit his only big-league grand slam this season, against Mike Maddux, Greg's brother.

Scott Garrelts, the league's earned run average champion, struggled early yet lasted seven innings for the victory.

Holtz urges Culver to hold onto the football

Turnovers have perplexed the Fighting Irish faithful in the past few weeks, and some of the attention has focused on running back Rodney Culver. Culver has turned the ball over twice on fumbles in the past two games, causing Lou Holtz to wax philosophical and quote Ohio State legend Woody Hayes.

"Woody once said 'Fumbling is an act of God, that is, it's an act of a God darn fool.' But I think that fumbling is because of a lack of fundamentals. I have great confidence in Rodney Culver, he's an outstanding football player. He's an outstanding blocker, he's intelligent, and he's everything you want in a Notre Dame football player."

"But I have to be honest with you. If we had other options, we'd take them. Rodney's going to have to play, and he's going to make a contribution."

"But Holtz hopes Culver can cure his ailing butterfingers. "The fundamentals of ball-carrying are very unnatural, and all you can do is keep working (on them). I have great confidence in Rodney Culver."

First-year Stanford coach Denny Green has also had problems at running back. Four out of his top five ball carriers will sit out this game, the most notable being preseason All-American candidate Jon Valpo, who gained 67 yards on 17 carries last year against the Irish and will rest his sprained left knee on the sideline.

As a result, sophomores Gary Taylor and Todd Burton will sit out this game, the most notable being preseason All-American candidate Jon Valpo, who gained 67 yards on 17 carries last year against the Irish and will rest his sprained left knee on the sideline.

But Holtz hopes Culver can cure his ailing butterfingers. "The fundamentals of ball-carrying are very unnatural, and all you can do is keep working (on them). I have great confidence in Rodney Culver."

Freshman Kevin Pendergast has helped the Notre Dame men's soccer team amass a 5-4-1 record. Pendergast and the Irish will try to improve upon that record Friday and Sunday as they play two games on the west coast in Santa Clara, Calif.
