East German demonstrators stage a peaceful sit-in on a junction in downtown East Berlin Saturday night. They demanded democratic reforms and shouted "Gorbty help us!" in reference to Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev who was in East Berlin on the 40th anniversary of the German Democratic Republic.

'At least' 70,000 march in Leipzig

Associated Press

BERLIN - Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched and shouted "We need freedom!" in Leipzig on Monday during the largest pro-democracy rally in East Germany since a 1953 workers' uprising, witnesses said. Protesters also held a vigil in East Berlin to demand democratic reforms after a weekend of demonstrations across this hard-line Communist nation.

On Saturday and Sunday, clashes broke out between police and demonstrators with hundreds arrested, several injuries, and one death reported by news organizations and witnesses. The government has issued no official toll.

Christoph Wonneberger, pastor for the Lukas Lutheran Church in Leipzig, said "at least" 70,000 demonstrators marched in Leipzig on Monday night. Wonneberger said he was surprised by the restraint of police and paramilitary troops who were deployed nearby.

"Even though this demonstration is the largest (since 1953), to our knowledge it went off completely without violence," he said in a telephone interview with West Germany's ZDF television network.

In 1953, Soviet forces crushed a workers' uprising. "Some Leipzig demonstrators even felt they had been surrounded by paramilitary troops" after the crowd started dispersing by mid-evening, Wonneberger said.

He said, "I consider this (police restraint) a very hopeful sign following the violence" in earlier demonstrations.

Police clubbed pro-democracy protesters in six East German cities over the weekend and an opposition leader said that unless the government eases its policies, violence may increase.

Before the Leipzig march, officials of the Leipzig Communist Party promised publicly they would push for an open dialogue between citizens and the government, church sources said.

Senate debate over racially offensive remarks goes on

By SANDRA WIEGAND

Verbal complaints are not a satisfactory method of combating faculty who make racially offensive remarks, said Rob Price, president of the Black Cultural Arts Council at the Student Senate meeting yesterday.

Presently, all complaints to the provost's office are verbal, and often no complaints are on file for a specific faculty member because the complaints are not in written form, said Price.

In regard to a recent incident Price said, "We wanted to meet with the provost and with the professor to discuss this issue, so that they could be aware of what was happening. The provost told us that we can't make that move because this professor has no file. Our point was, you have no method of complaint, no form so that we can get complaints in his file..."

A 22-1/2-foot-tall paper clip was unveiled outside a business in Florida on Monday to honor the Norwegian who invented the office helper 90 years ago. The paper clip, weighing a desk-crushing 1.33 pounds, is a scaled-down replica of Norwegian Johan Vaaler's 1899 invention, said Per Langanger of the Norwegian School of Management. "The paper clip is 100 percent accurate and fully functional," he said through a paper. "It was refused service in a Dover, Del., restaurant."

Panamanian coup leader buried, opposition leader ends his fast

Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama—The army major who led the unsuccessful coup against Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega was buried Monday and opposition leader Guillermo Endara ended a 19-day hunger strike.

Several reports have said an enraged Noriega personally shot Maj. Moises Giroldi, 38, to death minutes after the coup attempt against the Panama-nan leader ended a week ago.

Giroldi's relatives said he was shot once in the neck and twice in the chest. His mother, Eloisa, cried, "They murdered him!" and flung herself on the coffin.

The major led an uprising Oct. 3 and captured Noriega, who commands the Panama-nan military and controls the government, but gave up when loyalists counterattacked while U.S. troops looked on from a few hundred yards away.

A medical bulletin said his "conscious process was excellent and his conversation coherent," but he was suffering from "progressive debilition..."

The opposition leader has urged Panamani ans to delay paying taxes and utility bills and to shun the government lottery and casinos, on which the government has depended for much of its revenue the past 18 months.

The United States has applied economic sanctions against Panama since federal grand juries in Florida indicted Noriega in February 1988 on charges of drug trafficking and money laundering.

Noriega claims all efforts to oust him are part of a U.S. plot to retain control of the Panama Canal after 1999, when it is to be turned over under treaties signed in 1914.

At a news conference, Endara said he felt his hunger strike was a success. He said the opposition did not approve of the coup but that "Panamanians have rejected "Noriegism without Noriega," not a movement toward democracy.

Capt. Leon Tejada, another rebel, was buried at the same small red stone church over the weekend. "He had one bullet wound in the right temple," said Tejada's mother, Esther, who was at the church again for Giroldi's burial.

About 100 people attended the funeral Mass for Giroldi.

U.S. university reopens in Beirut

Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Hundreds of students returned to campus Monday when the American University of Beirut reopened after being closed for six months, its longest shutdown since the sectarian civil war began 14 years ago.

"The whole family's back," said Radwan Mawlawi, spokesman for AUB, the alma mater of the Arab world's elite and once the most admired university in the Middle East.

The cafeteria was packed on the launch pad if necessary to halt the launch.

Attorneys for the space agency and its citizens' groups are to present oral arguments Tuesday before U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch in Washington.

The launch opponents contend that an explosion on liftoff could spread cancer-causing plutonium over a large area of east-central Florida.

NASA officials have said the two nuclear generators aboard the Galileo spacecraft have been thoroughly tested and that flying them poses minimal health and environmental risks. Similar devices have flown on 22 other U.S. spacecraft without a problem.

"We're going to count down to launch on Thursday unless we are told to stop," NASA test director Ron Pholps said Monday as the countdown got under way. He described Atlantis as "in terrific shape.

The astronauts assigned to the mission flew here Monday from their training base in Houston for final flight preparations.

All five have said they are not worried about the plutonium in the cargo bay.

"My family is going to be down there watching the launch, as well as other people that I love, and so I'm not concerned about it; I feel it's safe," said Elena Baker, one of the crew members.

The others are commander Donald Williams, pilot Mike McCaffrey, Franklin Chang-Diaz and Shannon Lucid.

HUD spent $35 million on last day of fiscal '88

Associated Press

WASHINGTON— Federal HUD officials approved $35 million in loans on the last day of fiscal 1988 in an apparent rush to spend the money before it was transferred to another program, according to auditors and agency documents.

Most of the Section 312 multifamily housing loans totaling more than $40 million were approved in the final month of fiscal 1988, according to HUD records. Of the loans totaling $40.8 million were approved in September 1988, all but 23 of them, totaling $3.5 million, on the final day.

New chair to command endowment for the arts

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The situation is getting a new chairman this week who promises to strike a balance between freewheeling artistic freedom and respect for the city's traditions.

"We are not the nation's official artistic freedom, and it's important that the country know that," said John Frohnmayer, a 47-year-old lawyer from Portland, Ore., who takes command of the beleaguered arts endowment today.

Nonetheless, some members of the cultural community are expressing fear that the bitter controversy over the endowment's role in financing controversial art might undermine future support for bold, innovative — and unpopular — artistic ventures.

The worst political crisis in the NEA's 24-year history began earlier this year when conservative members of Congress were outraged to discover that $45,000 in endowment funds had been used to support two exhibitions they found offensive.

One featured works by the late photographer Robert Mapplethorpe that included homoerotic and sadomasochistic themes and pictures of nude children. The other show, by artist Andres Serrano, featured a photograph of a crucifix submerged in a container of urine.

In a surprise move, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., won Senate approval of his sweeping proposal to prohibit spending federal funds on "obscene and indecent" art or any work that "denigrates, debases or reviles" anybody on the basis of race, creed, sex, handicap, age or national origin.

His amendment to the arts endowment's $171 million appropriation bill caused a furor in the arts community, and House-Senate negotiators finally produced a compromise last week that contains a watered-down version of the Helms proposal.

The legislation, awaiting action by President Bush, would bar government financing of works that "may be obscene" and lack "serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value" — the Supreme Court's 1973 guideline on obscenity.

The NEA chairman, however, would retain authority to make final decisions on the artistic merit of grant applications.

DRINKGOD DRINKS GOD

"I was trying to drink God out of the bottom of a bottle. If I would drink enough, I'd have done it."

That is a paraphrase of a statement by Bill Wilson - one of the founders of Alcoholics Anonymous. While looking for the most he could get out of life, he found alcohol. As a result, he destroyed himself, his job or friends. His marriage was in jeopardy. He was suffering ill-health, emotionally, physically and spiritually.

As he began a process of recovery (with the help of his co-founder - Dr. Robert Smith), he began to realize that there was a greater possibility that rather than leading him from his quest, alcohol was leading him to a process of accomplishing it. The more he admitted how unmanageable his life had become because of alcohol, the more rigorous his quest for meaning was to become.

At the Notre Dame community celebrates Alcohol Awareness Week (October 9-15), it might be of value to investigate some of the spiritual aspects of alcohol consumption. Approaching the topic from the point of view of persons most seriously impaired by alcohol does not serve well in giving warning to those with an disease predication, but such an approach could help identify some universal drives of imbibers and nonimbibers alike.

Alcohol plays a central role in the life of the Notre Dame community. The President's Task Force of Whole Health and the Use and Abuse of Alcohol began its report last spring with a very sober statement: NOIRE DAME HAS AN ALCOHOL PROBLEM.

So, a Thesis: A primary goal of the consumption of alcohol at Notre Dame is to alter consciousness. A primary reason we drink alcohol is to become or to feel other than we are. Our desire to "become other" might be temporary or it might be permanent. It is, in the common denominator of most drinking at Notre Dame.

Why would we want to be other than who we are? A number of reasons could be suggested (and some of them might even be true).

We don't like who we are

We don't feel what we need to feel.

We don't feel what we are supposed to feel.

We want other people to think we are someone else.

It's a way to do things we otherwise wouldn't do or even think of doing, but want to do.

We have a desire to go somewhere beyond ourselves.

The suggestion is that most of the time we at Notre Dame drink alcoholic beverages in quantity we do so for one or more of the above reasons. We might not like how we feel now, or feel about ourselves now, and want that to change for some reason. Or we might not like how we feel ever, and want that to change forever. But rarely do we at Notre Dame drink alcohol merely because we are thirsty or because we like the taste.

The bad news side of the task force statement on Notre Dame's alcohol problem is that the role alcohol plays in the life of the university community is detrimental to its health. If any of the above reasons for drinking are true, we can conclude that many members of the Notre Dame community don't like themselves as they are or don't like what they feel much of the time or want others to see them in ways other than as they are.

The good news might be that the Notre Dame community has a strong desire to move beyond itself. In other words, many people at Notre Dame have a great spiritual thirst, but most of us have not found healthy ways to satisfy that thirst.

For Bill Wilson, Bob Smith and millions of other alcoholics, alcohol came to be seen as the metaphor for their spiritual quest. They were indeed attempting to drink the meaning of life out of the bottom of a bottle. So are we. Alcohol becomes a mode of transport for our journey into the world of the spirit. When we use alcohol as a proxy for the spiritual journey, what feels like fulfillment under the influence really is a great emptiness which cannot be felt because of pleasure's own narcotic effect.

Any spiritual journey is a process of moving from self and acknowledging consciousness contact with and awareness of a power greater than ourselves: Allah, Buddhah, Jehovah, Allah, Yahweh, God. The process of self-awareness is an understanding of being existing not to satisfy senses or ego but to grow along spiritual lines beyond what is explicitly known, felt or seen into a relationship with God as God becomes understood.

When we move beyond the narcotic and acknowledge great emptiness, we experience God most profoundly. When we are so reined up against our own will and our own pleasure and great emptiness then we know God is present, waiting to be recognized and seen.

Then alcohol can take its rightful place in our lives and our real journey can begin.

Two cancer researchers to share $469K

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO—Two University of California cancer researchers won the Nobel Prize in medicine Monday and immediately reap the perquisites of success: box seats at the National League baseball playoffs. "We're off to the game—just got tickets," a jubilant J. Michael Bishop said shortly after he and Harold Varmus learned that they had won this year's prize.

The 50-member Nobel Assembly of the Karolinska Institute, Sweden's largest and oldest medical university, cited Bishop and Varmus for their discovery that cancer genes in certain viruses are altered forms of normal animal genes. The research helped scientists understand how cancer begins, and it "widened our insight into the complicated signal systems which govern the normal growth of cells," the assembly said.

Varmus called the research a "cornerstone in understanding the genetic mosaic of cancer." The basic idea that we helped establish is that cancer has its origins in genes that normally do us some good. But after they become abnormal through mutation, they can play a role in cancer," he said.

The two scientists are colleagues at the University of California Medical Center, Bishop and Varmus were optimistic about the practical applications of their work, just as it helps understand the nature of cancer and possibly some aspects of the AIDS virus.

But they were cautious about forecasting a cancer cure in the foreseeable future. "This is just another step in what's a long journey," Bishop said. "It's very difficult to predict when a full view of the cancer cell will be at hand.

"Gradually, he discovered he enjoyed being in the laboratory more than the clinic, and his research career began, he said when the telephone began ringing at 4 a.m.

"I don't think you're in the running, but nevertheless, there are a lot of other good people in there too. . . . It's a shock," Bishop said. "We didn't nominate each other," Varmus said.

Soviet scientists vouch for UFO landing in park

Associated Press

MOSCOW—It was a close en-counter of the Communist kind. Last week, four Russian cosmonauts from outer space landed their Ufo in the Russian city of Voronezh, with a promise for a promenade around the park, spreading fear among residents.

At least that's what the offi-cial Tass news agency said Monday. Tass, contributing to a string of weird tales that have crept into the formerly stuffy state-controlled news media, said a recent survey by the Soviet sci-entists vouched for the Ufo's landing.

"Scientists have confirmed that an unidentified flying ob-ject recently landed in a park in the Russian city of Voronezh," Tass said. It's not April Fool's day," he said.

The Soviet media, under the Kremlin's policy of glass-ceiling-operations, feel free now to hyp e incredible sto-ries that seem more at home in the supermarket tabloids of the West. Recent examples in-clude sightings of abominable snow-men type creatures, and a tale about a young mystic who goes into a trance and flies about the cosmos. A rash of mystics and ESP-artists also have in-vaded state TV.

In Buffalo, N.Y., Paul Kurtz, chairman of the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, commented: "We're extremely skeptical of this claim. It's not the first one (in the Soviet me-dia). There's many. There seems to be a rush of reports, largely uncorroborated."

According to Monday's Tass report, a large shining ball or disk, was hovering over the park by Voronezh residents. They saw the Ufo land and up to three creatures similar to humans emerge, accompanied by a small robot, Tass said.

Hungary Communists elect centrist leader of old party

BUDAPEST, Hungary—The ruling Hungarian communist party that earlier changed its name and embraced democratic aspirations elected the centrist leader of the old party on Monday to head a slate of reformers in the new one.

Breznev Nyers, president of the Hungarian Socialist Party, told reporters Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev was the first to congratulate him.

"Gorbachev conducts very fast diplomacy," a tired but elated Nyers said. "They gave me his telegram within two hours of my election." He was named president in closed session after key reformists reluctantly shelved some of their reservations about him to avoid a possible split.

Spokesman Emil Kimmel told state TV the congress also elected a 25-member National Steering Committee, the new party's executive leadership and successor of the communist party Politburo.

Delegates said reformists Imre Pozsgay and Premier Miklos Nemeth, members of the old party's collective leadership, were among the 25. They were unhappy with the choice of Nyers, former chairman of the communist party.

Delegate Gyorgy Kerekes said Nyers won the support of 86 percent of those present, and Barabas said from 70 to 80 percent voted for the Steering Committee list.

The congress opened Friday and ended early Tuesday with more than 1,200 delegates approving the following resolutions — all watered-down versions of what radical reformers wanted:

—Start of discussions in Parliament about the fate of party-controlled assets accrued illegally and during its predecessor's 41 years in power.

—Informal support of the largely volunteer Workers' Militia, now facing dissolution, if it decides to give up its paramilitary character and become an emergency aid organization during fires, floods and other catastrophes.

Florida Rep. who is a doctor gets heat for abortion ruling

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A first-term state representative and physician is in the center of Florida’s abortion storm this week because he’s the only legislator who performs abortions, making him a lightning rod for protests.

Rep. Graber even got hate mail. “They need something to marshal their forces around,” he said of abortion opponents.

The obstetrician-gynecologist’s Ponte Vedra Beach women’s clinic drew a raucous demonstration Saturday, just three days before the state Legislature was to begin a special session on abortion called by Gov. Bob Martinez.

“They were frustrated by the (Florida) Supreme Court decision. They decided to make me the target, an ideal situation with the legislative session coming up,” Graber said Monday.

The state Supreme Court last week cited the state privacy law to strike down a 1988 statute requiring minors to get parental consent for abortions. If upheld, the court’s first trimester, and emphasize individual privacy rights in abortion decision-making.

The governor acted within weeks of the U.S. Supreme Court’s July 3 ruling upholding Missouri state restrictions on abortions, making Florida the first state since then to call a session devoted to abortion.

At Saturday’s demonstration, Graber said several of his patients, most of whom seek abortions, were barred from the clinic. He said he performs two or three abortions a week and only as part of his practice.

The Rev. Pat Mahoney, a South Florida coordinator for Operation Rescue, an anti-abortion group that demonstrates at clinics, was arrested and charged with assault on a police officer, obstructing justice without violence and trespassing.

Gibson called Operation Rescue “a terrorist organization” and said he will seek a restraining order against the group and damages.

Gibson has his office picketed before. But the latest protest is perhaps the most stident, he said.

British deny involvement with Hong Kong activists

Associated Press

LONDON — The Foreign Office on Monday rejected a Chinese official’s accusation that Britain is conniving with activists in Hong Kong to overthrow the Chinese government.

The Chinese army’s attacks on pro-democracy students in June, which left hundreds dead, are “the cause of the loss of confidence in Hong Kong,” said a Foreign Office spokesman.

The British colony is scheduled to revert to Chinese rule in 1997.

“As for the view that we have connived at acts of sabotage in an attempt to overthrow the Chinese government, that is quite wrong,” the spokesman, speaking on condition of anonymity, said.

“I think the people of Hong Kong attach great importance to democratic freedoms, under their own legal system,” he said. “Equally it is important that such freedoms are used within a sense of responsibility.”

“There is no evidence that Hong Kong is used as a base for activities against the Chinese government. The democratic freedoms of Hong Kong must be preserved.”

Ke Zaihuno, who heads China’s delegation to a Chinese-British liaison committee in Hong Kong, on Sunday accused Britain of adopting an “attitude of connivance” toward alleged efforts in Hong Kong to overthrow the Communist government.

The official Xinhua News Agency also quoted Ke as saying Britain had “unspeakable responsibility” for widespread fears in Hong Kong about the Chinese takeover that have triggered mass efforts to emigrate.

Hundreds of thousands of Hong Kong residents have protested the army attack in Beijing, and several groups have been formed to work for democratic change in China. China has called the groups subversive but Hong Kong’s British-appointed governor has refused to ban them.

IRA claims responsibility for shooting

Associated Press

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—An attacker pulled up in a car and fatally shot a 28-year-old man in another vehicle Monday, police reported. The outlawed IRA claimed responsibility.

Police said Thomas Gibson was shot several times as he sat in his car in the village of Kilrea. They said the gunman opened fire at point-blank range from a car that pulled up alongside Gibson’s.

The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility in a statement delivered to news organizations. It said Gibson worked for the Ulster Volunteer Force, an outlawed but significant paramilitary group that frequently is an IRA target.

Downtown Radio, a Belfast station, said the Protestant group denied Gibson was a member. Police said he was not connected with security forces.

Ukraine: a ray of hope behind the Iron Curtain

By Sergei Basarab

Due to perestroika and glasnost, which were warmly welcomed into the U.S. political vocabulary, most Americans no longer identify all Soviet people with being "Russians." Baltic Popular Fronts have condemned movement in support of reconstruction (now, more creative the peaceful, parliamentary revolution is.

In Latvian, Lithuanian and Estonian proved that democracy by words is a mightier weapon than criticism by arms. Ethnic Azerbaidjanians and Armenians chased the latter, but they couldn't put out the flames on national conflict. Instead, they fanned these flames. It is no surprise that people in both republics are saying "Why live in this world?"

The question is common there, but unfortunately, there are still no answers. Citizens of Georgia, Ukraine, and some others. They are the ones to live in the square of Georgia's capital, Tbilisi, Georgia, the place of national meetings. So the decision to use armed forces was an unlawful act. Such is the situation in yesterday's "territories" which today want to be dignified states (still within the Soviet Union).

Georgia: Do you have an idea of what Ukraine is? This mighty republic of fifty million people is a rich land larger than the states of California and Florida combined. The Ukrainian S.S.R. holds a separate membership in the United Nations, UNESCO and other international organizations. Where is the voice. We have heard, is highly respected. Yet, for a long time, there has been silence at home. While neighboring

DOONOESBURY

〈Crimea, Donetsk, the area where miners recently went on strike, Voroshilovgrad〉 are completely Russian-speaking, where people are more interested in economic and social reform. On the other hand, there are certain elements in our society which pay no attention to the national issues, during the radical majority in traditional Ukrainian-speaking areas. How can we bridge the two extremes? I believe that there is but one way: the deliberate enlightenment of people with different points of view, making them aware of the importance of both national and economic matters. This is a challenge for all Ukrainian intellectuals who are proud of not only their language, but to work together, they can unite a divided nation.

Chances are... When will they become reality? Nobody can answer for sure. Meanwhile, as I've stressed above, there are some signs of awakening, but we are far from being wide awake. We are still quiet Ukrainians, though our backs are unbending, and our voices are sounding louder. I am reminded of the famous words of Lincoln: "You can find all the people some of the time, and all the people all the time."

There was a time in the Ukraine when even the recipe for a cake had to be approved by officials in Moscow. Then people realized that this was absurd, and they became furious. I guess the more days that pass, the wiser (or more sober) we will become. Finally, we will rush to the point which far-sighted people have already seen. I mean a prosperous Ukraine within the Union of sovereign republics.

Grace debate covers role of US in aiding perestroika and glasnost

Dear Editor,

The Grace Hall Debate Series, now in its fourth year, will begin on Tuesday, October 10. The debates will run through the end of November and will cover a wide range of topics, the first of which is "The United States should immediately grant laws and other eco-comic incentives to the U.S.S.R. in an effort to promote perestroika and glasnost." Each debate will pit three representatives from each party against each other to discuss

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"The first and worst of all frauds is to cheat oneself." - Gamaliel Bailey
These words inspired the Housing NOW! day. March on Washington, D.C. last Saturday. It never has, and it never will."

The march was a culmination of a week of protests to demand decent, affordable shelter as a human right in the United States. Monument to the Capitol. Along with the students, over 60 people from the community marched in buses to Washington, D.C. on Friday afternoon and marched the next morning. The march was a culmination of a week of protests to demand decent, affordable shelter as a human right in the United States. From a stage behind the Capitol, Rev. Jesse Jackson, across SuSan Ivey and others spoke out against homelessness, and musicians such as Tracy Chapman and the Jefferson Starship entertained the crowds. Over 200 other celebrities were present to help draw attention to the housing problem which has left no corner of America untouched.

According to Kathleen Boyer, coordinator of Services/Social Actions Groups for the Center for Social Concerns, participation in the march was a good way for students to work with the local community on an important issue, and understand how social changes take place in a democratic society. Several of the participating students are involved in OLA, or work at the homeless shelter in South Bend, but many others were motivated solely by the idea of such a huge march.

"This national event was an effective way of initiating action for housing the homeless on a local level," said Mary Sue Twitty, one of the student organizers of the trip. "The experience of the march was very unifying.

One of the most moving speeches of the day was an address made by a 9-year-old homeless child to President Bush, who was at Camp David at the time.

The march was attended by people of all ages and from many groups, but also by many homeless from other cities. This fact, according to Notre Dame participant Dave Pritchard, was one of the most positive aspects of the march. "It was neat to think that these homeless people were marching for a problem that they shared with the homelessness of Washington."

Another student, Jeanne Ballot, called the march "an incredible experience."

The emotion felt by such a national call to action was enhanced by the large number of different people participating for the same cause. "There were a lot of groups represented with many individual causes," she said, "but they were all united for one reason."

The march occurred at a time when most experts now estimate the number of homeless Americans at 3 million, with families representing the fastest growing sector of the homeless population. Today, the nation's capacity is experiencing the largest increase in homeless families.

The Housing NOW! coalition hopes to change that. At the start of Ronald Reagan's first term, the U.S. spent $77 on defense for every $1 spent on housing today. The ratio is $44 to $1. Furthermore, since 1980, federal housing assistance programs has been cut by more than 75 percent — from $32 to $7.5 billion a year.

These are the types of statistics that the Housing NOW! coalition of over 200 organizations hopes to change.

...The Real World

I finally broke down and bought an answering machine. I'd had it for a year or so, never really knew what to do with it, but the sound of it beeping really bugs me. I finally gave in. The move was quick and I bought an answering machine.

I've been using it for a week now and I must say it's been a revelation. Although, had I not acted now I would have bought nothing I would have been regretful about. For example, you can tell a lot about a person by what he or she says in a message, and "Hey, you gotta pick up," is a damn poor liar. Another thing to look out for is a message that's too long. Nobody wants to call you and sit there for 20 seconds listening to you drone on about who knows what. What they want is to get to the part where they want to hear the beep and use the "S" and "F" words at you for leaving them on the line. And "I'm sorry, but I'm unable to come to the phone now," is a damn poor liar. You know who you are. Everybody knows that you have enough money to lose $40,000 on a car that performs no better then one at half the loss. The reason you need this image is that the person calling may very well be looking to go out with you. Obviously this new trend of bugging into the machine is unacceptable. Burgs simply do not turn on prospective dates (unless it's a really good burg). Most importantly, you must not insult the caller's intelligence. For example, you need not tell them that you are not answering the phone personally. Obviously you're not home or you wouldn't sound like Darth Vader on helium. You don't know what to do, I'm mean, if anyone calls, hears the beep, and doesn't know what to do. I'm sure you want to terribly sure I want to talk to them anyway.

Vikings express interest in Dallas running back Walker

Associated Press

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. — Celebrating the 100th anniversary of Minnesota Vikings general manager Mike Lynn said Monday that he will pursue a trade for the Cowboys’ star runner that would make him one of the NFL’s top 5 players.

Lynn, who on Tuesday will begin meeting with other owners in an effort to select a successor to retiring commissioner Pete Rozelle, hopes to do a little dealing on the side with Dallas owner Jerry Jones and Coach Jimmy Johnson.

He also said he’ll be talking to other organizations in an effort to improve the Vikings before the Oct 17 trading deadline.

Lynn considers the Vikings very close to being a Super Bowl team and agrees with Coach Jerry Burns that half a dozen key players could become the biggest difference between winning and losing.

Walker led the NFC with 1,371 yards rushing and 13 touchdowns last year. He is in the fourth year of a $20 million, four-year pact and is looking for a new deal.

Lynn’s plans put the Vikings closer to that goal.

“We like to add four new starters every year, but we made the Merriweather trade last draft day, so we’re not going to get four this year,” Lynn said. “So you would think our draft choices would be very important to us now.”

But Herschel Walker, that’s the Dallas Cowboys’ Herschel Walker (34) is looking to escape his team’s dismal exploits. Last year’s rushing leader has been taking trade talks with the Minnesota Vikings, a team which sports greater potential to be a very unique case, one that doesn’t come around but once every 10 years.

“I think we’ve taken some risk and, so far, the deals have panned out.

Vikings backed off 2-8 yards a carry in last week’s 24-17 victory over winless Detroit but Burns said, “I don’t like to blame it all on the running backs.”

ND stays atop AP; Colorado steadily gains respect

The Associated Press

The poll says No. 2 Miami is better than No. 2 Colorado.

“Herschel Walker is unique,” Lynn said. Calling Herschel Walker unique, Lynn considers the Vikings to be part of the deal, but Lyn has hinted that the offer consisted only of several high draft picks.

Bums said he would happily trade draft choices for impact players like Walker. The Vikings have been successful doing that in recent years, getting linebacker Mike Merriweather, tackle Gary Zimmerman and receiving Anthony Carter via draft trades.

“Herschel Walker is a unique case for a unique player,” Lynn said. “So you would think the Vikings would be part of the deal, but Lynn says he is looking for people who are:"
Howe plans to return to NHL

Associated Press

DETROIT — Gordie Howe, who retired in 1980 as hockey's all-time scoring leader after a 26-year career, says he will return to the ice in 1990 to add another record to his long list of achievements — playing in six decades.

The 61-year-old Howe, who finished his NHL career with 1,850 points, said he plans to rejoin the Hartford Whalers for one more season. Howe finished his career with Hartford in 1980 after a career spent mostly with the Detroit Red Wings.

Asked Sunday what he thought about Wayne Gretzky's drive to topple his point record, Howe said he planned to set a new record and challenged Gretzky to match it. He and the Los Angeles Kings star are friends.

Howe watched Gretzky pick up three assists in a 5-0 victory over the Red Wings in Los Angeles on Sunday night to move within seven points of Howe's career point mark.

"The only record I'm going to worry about is mine," Howe said. "The only record I'm going to make sure about is that I'm the career scoring leader."

I've played in six decades," Howe told the Detroit Free Press. "Then I challenge the little guy (Gretzky) to do that."

Howe also holds the NHL records for most seasons (26), games (1,767), goals (801), game-winning goals (122), All-Star selections (21) and playoff appearances (20). Howe played for Detroit from 1946-71 and for Hartford in 1980.

If Gretzky stays on pace he will break Howe's scoring record this year in his 13th season—15 seasons sooner than it took Howe to achieve that milestone.

Islanders beat Canucks 5-2; Bruins down Canadians 2-0

Associated Press

VANCOUVER, British Columbia — The New York Islanders scored four times within five minutes in the third period and rallied to beat the Vancouver Canucks 5-2 Monday.

Goals by David Volek, Doug Crossman, Brent Sutter and Alan Kerr wiped out a 2-1 Vancouver lead.

Volek, who assisted on two other goals, tied the score when he batted in a rebound at 14:06. Crossman and Sutter scored on power plays and Kerr added an empty-net marker to complete the comeback. The Islanders had lost their first two games of the season.

Patrick Flatley scored the other New York goal and combined with Volek and Sutter to form the most dangerous attacking unit.

Vancouver scorers were Petri Skriko and Paul Reinhart as the Canucks dropped to 1-2.

The Irish did not panic after this early goal and were able to settle down and engineer some scoring chances of their own. The Irish have shown in recent matches that they can play with their opponent, according to senior co-captain Dave Augustyn.

In the second half, Santa Clara azimuthted several times with the long ball, but the Irish defense was able to keep the ball from finding its way into the net. Dave Augustyn had two scoring chances, but the Irish were unable to convert either.

Mike Smiggen, who returned from a knee injury, was able to play the game, but he was unable to find the net.

The Irish will attempt to improve their record to 4-4-1 when they face the University at Krause Stadium on Friday night.

Oakland building 'dynasty' as they claim AL pennant

Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Ever so slowly, when baseball people talk about the Oakland Athletics, they say: "potentially a dynasty.

The A’s won the American League West in 1988 and made changes for this year.

They signed free agent pitcher Mike Morgan for $3.95 million last December. They traded for outfielder Rickey Henderson on June 20. And they won the pennant again, closing out the Toronto Blue Jays on Sunday in five games.

It doesn’t take much for a dynasty these days.

The A’s are the first repeat pennant winner since the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers each did it in 1978.

The 11-year stretch was the longest in baseball history without a team winning consecutive pennants.

The A’s will open the World Series at home Saturday. Tony La Russa, the vice president for baseball operations, and Tony La Russa, the manager, choose their words carefully.

"To me, we won the division the first three months of the season as much as anything we did," La Russa said.

That’s because Jose Canseco didn’t play until July 13 because a stress fracture in his right hand.

Mark McGwire missed 14 games with a bad back and his presence brought out the offense.

His speed added to the offense. It was Henderson when Jose Canseco, Mark McGwire and...
Grace, Clark etch names in record with 13 hits, eight runs and 24 tough situation, 0-2 count, and best left-handers in the game pennant. Giants a 3-2 victory and the NL the eighth in n in g o ff Mitch Grace tallied two dingers and eight RBI to hit 650. Both turned in record performances during the series as Grace hit .647 with one homer and eight RBI and stalwarts on their squads during the National League pennant race decided Monday by the Giants 3-2 win.

Grace, not to be outdone, "I admire Will Clark and I try to be the kind of player he is," Grace said. "But I'm not a power hitter." Maybe not, but Grace sure looked like one in the playoffs. In the Cubs' 9-5 victory in Game 2, Grace went 3-0-4 with four RBIs. Clark and Grace each had two hits in Game 3, and kept it going Sunday night. Clark had two doubles, a single and scored twice with Grace had two RBIs, including a triple.

Clark's 13 hits in the series broke the record held by Terry Puhl, Ozzie Smith and Jeffery Leonard. Of course, Grace surpassed them, too. The performances by Clark and Grace while outstanding, really aren't all that shocking. In three major-league seasons, Clark has a .304 average, 48 home runs and 352 RBIs. This season, he finished second to Tony Gwynn in batting with a .333 average.

"I would have liked to win the batting title, but I'm here and Tony's not," Clark said. As a rookie for the Cubs last season, Grace hit .296 with seven home runs — all on the road.

He led the Cubs with a .314 average this year and hit 13 homers with 79 RBIs. Clark and Grace are also among the best defensive first basemen around.

"It's been exciting to watch them go at it," Chicago manager Don Zimmer said. "Mark knows he's not where Will Clark is right now, though."

SAN FRANCISCO—Thanks to the ultimate Thrill from Will, the Giants have just beginning for the San Francisco Giants and the Bay area.

Clark's bases-loaded single with two outs in the eighth inning gave the Giants a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs and the National League pennant Monday, setting up a Bay Bridge World Series starting Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum.

Clark, in one of the greatest postseason performances ever, set an NL playoff record with 13 hits. a .620 batting average and 24 total bases and was voted the series' most valuable player. His single to center off Cubs reliever Mitch Williams gave the Giants their first pennant since 1962, four games to one.

"You saw one of the great performances ever," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "But Will has done that all year."

"I just try to hang in there," said Clark, who fouled off two tough pitches before his big hit. "I feel like I'm going to get a hit every time up. Just like Rickey Henderson did for the A's."

"Mitch is a gamer. He's come in all year and gotten people out. I fouled off a few tough pitches and finally got one I could handle."

"The Cubs, tough, fought until the end. With two out in the ninth inning, Giants reliever Steve Bedrosian gave up three straight singles and a run before retiring Ryne Sandberg on a grounder to second.

Cubs manager Don Zimmer, who was a batting coach for several years, including with the Indians, coaches that Clark is a fine baseball player but not quite as good as he's perceived to be. "I'm not sure I'd be as good as he is."

"The best team won," Zimmer said, "and I hope they go on and win the Series."

Clark scored eight runs and finished with a 1.200 slugging percentage. "I hated to see Will Clark up there," Cubs first baseman Mark Grace said. "He buried us the whole series."

It was yet another disappointing loss for the Cubs, who have not won a World Series title since beating Detroit in 1908 and have not even been to one since 1945.

"Don did a tremendous job with this club," Craig said of his longtime friend. "They shouldn't be too disappointed. They had a great year."

The Bay Area has a 9-23 record in spring training, and most observers picked them for fifth or sixth in the NL East.

It was the 16th NL pennant for the Giants since the World Series started in 1903, with 14 coming when the team played in New York. The Giants last won a World Series in 1954 when they swept Cleveland.

It was the first time the Giants have clinched a title of any kind at Candlestick Park and set up the first "Subway Series" since 1962, when the New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in seven games.

"My teammates were great and so were the Bay area fans," Clark said.

The Bay area can now look forward to a confrontation between former Olympians Clark and Mark McGwire at first base.

The Notre Dame women's soccer team raised its record to 7-6 this weekend by handily defeating Miami of Ohio 3-0.

The Irish, led by assistant coach Neil Schmidt while head coach Dennis Erwin recuperated, walked the men's team to California, took an early lead on two goals from sophomore Susie Zelis. "Miami was unable to recover, and freshman Denise Chabot's first half goal added insurance to Notre Dame's shutout victory."

"We basically just dominated everything," said freshman Margaret Jarc. "We kept control and everyone got to play."

Finishing remains a problem as the Irish defense continues to struggle to convert shots into goals.

"We didn't test their keeper at all," Jarc said. "We certainly could have scored a lot more." Notre Dame returns to Kresge stadium tonight at 7:30 p.m., this time as host to Tri-State, the first in a four-game home-stand that includes RJSU, Alma and St. Mary's.

"They're small colleges, but a lot of work has been put into women's soccer in the past few years, and they have strong programs," said Jarc.

Four teams stay unbeaten in IH football action

The third Sunday of men's interhall football was a day that could have brought ramifications, as four teams remained undefeated, the first playoff spot was clinched, and a stunning performance was turned in by a marching band.

In Parsegian League action, the Giants' making Grace triumphed in the battle of the towers, blanking Planned Parenthood behind a face-mashing, stingy defense, unassisted by Bob Allard turned in a storybook performance, as did corner-back Jim Ian and linebacker Jeff Abbot. "Happy to be winning," Grace has managed to hold its opponents scoreless in their first three games, and at 3-0, shares the top spot in the Big Dorm division with the Off-Campus Crime, also 3-0.

Off-Campus shattered the Dillon Big Red (1-2) early, returning a first-half punt for a 7-0 lead. However, Dillon tied the game before halftime and led 10-7 midway through the second half. Yet it was the Crime who stole the show, recovering a fumbled snap on the Dillon 30 and cashing it in for six more points, seriously dampening the Big Red's playoff hopes.

Meanwhile, in the Leahy League, Savannah (3-0) continued its winning ways, clinching the first playoff spot and interhall playoff spot with a 7-0 victory over Alumni (1-1), in front of a capacity crowd of fans and a marching violin. On the second play from scrimmage, "Conquesti..."
