NEW YORK — Wall Street braced for more battering Monday as the aftershocks of its Friday the 13th plunge were felt in Tokyo, where prices plummeted in early trading.

The Nikkei Stock Average was down 442.08 points, or 1.2 percent, at 34,673.94 in the first few minutes of trading Monday on the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

The activity in Tokyo was the first in a major foreign market following Friday's plunge on Wall Street and was expected to help set the tone for trading overseas markets, primarily Tokyo and Hong Kong. Developments in the Treasury were closely monitored by official bankers from cutting off credit to brokerage houses and securities firms suffering heavy losses from Friday's plunge in stock prices.

The Fed official said the U.S. central bank had been in touch with central banks in Japan and Europe and had received assurances from them that those officials stood ready to supply needed cash in their countries to counteract any possible fallout from Friday's plunge in stock prices.

Officials at both the Fed and the Treasury were closely monitoring developments in the overseas markets, primarily Tokyo and Hong Kong. Developments in those markets could set the tone for how U.S. markets perform when they open Monday morning.

The New York Stock Exchange planned to open its computers to receive orders at 7:30 a.m. EDT, an hour earlier than usual. Thousands of workers will be available, there is no reason to expect any problem.

The Fed's action could keep the market higher. But trouble with one of those deals Friday, the employee-management buyout of United Airlines parent UAL Corp., raised fears of problems in the "junk bond" financing market and sparked Friday's sell-off.

Market and government officials continued their weekend-long huddle Sunday, mapping out strategies to prevent a financial disaster similar to the events of two years ago, when the Dow plummeted 508 points Friday, Oct. 19, 1987, after a 108-point drop the preceding Friday.

"After what happened ... the powers that be will do a lot to avoid a major sell-off," said John Tierney, a vice president at Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc.

The Federal Reserve sent signals over the weekend that it will move quickly to meet any demands for cash on Monday, when a deluge of sell orders is expected to hit the U.S. market.

"We will be there with all the liquidity demand that is needed," said a senior Fed official who spoke on condition of anonymity. "If there are any doubts about liquidity being restorable, there is no reason to be concerned."

This week is Alcohol Awareness Week, the theme is "Help Prevent Alcohol Misuse and Abuse Through Education," Mary Blajda, a planning member of the National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week said, "The idea behind Saint Mary's Alcohol Awareness Week is to gear projects and presentations towards alcohol awareness." Daily activities are geared towards the theme of the day, said Blajda. These themes include alcohol addiction, alcohol and the family, and alcohol and the impact on society.

There will be guest speakers who will share stories of their experiences with alcohol and films that present the alcohol problems that face American society today. Promotions for alcohol awareness will be held in the dormitories, in the car along Saint Mary's Road.

"This will be a grim reminder of what can happen when mixing drinking and driving," said Blajda. All week there will be a table set up in front of Haggard College Center with pamphlets about alcohol and BEIJING — China's most prestigious university opened Saturday for the first time since soldiers crushed the massive pro-democracy protests its students helped lead.

Students gathered to buy books at the center of the Beijing University campus near a long red banner that urged them to uphold Marxist principles and take a clear stand against Western capitalist values. Few were willing to talk about the protests that ended in gunfire and triggered a hard-line backlash in which authorities claim the enrollment reductions had nothing to do with what happened.

The school has an enrollment of about 10,000, but students said some upperclassmen failed to show up, fearing investigations of their roles in the protests.

Other colleges are still continuing such investigations two months after reopening, with special teams pressure teaching and students who were heavily involved to write fuller "self-criticisms," or confessions.

An official notice posted in several places at Beijing University said the government would be lenient toward those who "turn themselves in, confess or render meritorious service," as it explained meant reporting the crimes of others or providing evidence.

Authorities announced after the protests that freshmen for the first time would spend a year at a military academy before continuing such investigations two months after reopening, with special teams pressure teaching and students who were heavily involved to write fuller "self-criticisms," or confessions.

The first is that of the black person who "has divorced himself from the black culture in order to rise in the business world," said Green.

This result, he said, occurs when a black business person allows his or her whole lifestyle to be altered by the business world's racism. A second, healthier way for a black person to deal with the oppressive atmosphere of corporate America, said Green, is "to view the changes you have made as a part of your job, not as a loss of your identity."

Conformity to the standards seems necessary to rise in the business world but it need not change your whole way of life as a black person, he said. According to Green, discrimination against blacks in the business world has its roots in the fact that there are no major businesses controlled by blacks. Because the primary motives of a business are self-interest and profit, whites are often hired over blacks with equal qualifications because of the business connections they might provide.

"Until blacks control something in the business world, there will be discrimination against them. If there is no major black customer to bring in, there is no incentive for a company to hire a black person," said Green.

Until the business world as a whole achieves a balance between blacks and whites, the black person will find it necessary to work harder and be better qualified than his white competitor, he said.
Tokyo Stock Exchange opens lower, but is firm

Associated Press

TOKYO — The rich Tokyo Stock Exchange and the dollar opened lower Monday but firm amid reports that world monetary authorities were ready to intervene to prevent Friday's Wall Street plunge from snowballing.

The dollar opened at 139.95 yen, a heavy drop from Friday's close of 144.00 yen in Tokyo. At midmorning the dollar was higher at 140.05 yen, but still below its New York close Friday of 142.85 yen after the Wall Street plunged of more than 190 points in the Dow Jones index.

The Nikkei Stock Average of 225 issues stood at 34,774.70 points, down 321.32 points, or 0.9 percent, after the first hour of trading on the Tokyo Stock Exchange. It had opened down about 300 points but then climbed on what dealers said was low-volume trading. The performance of Tokyo markets was closely watched around the world for indications of whether markets would avoid a repeat of the crash of 1987. Then, a sizable drop on a Friday multiplied on the following Monday — the Black Monday in New York that was followed by Black Tuesdays in Tokyo and London.

On the New Zealand exchange, blue-chip stocks plummeted in volatile but low-volume trading with the Barclays Index ending the morning off 265 points — or 11.79 percent — at 1948.55, the biggest fall since the 505 points of the 1987 crash. Australia's main stock price index fell 8 percent in the first 20 minutes of trading and was headed lower.

Yozo Asai, an analyst with Yamaichi Securities, a major brokerage, said there had been some panic selling at the start of trading in Tokyo but that the stock market was returning to stability.

Stepanian, said Father William Beauchamp, executive vice president of the University. He said University President Fr. Edward Malloy will be the celebrant.

Friends may call from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. today in Hickey Funeral Home Cleveland Blvd. Road Norse with the funeral service to follow, according to Dave Niech of the Hickey Funeral Home. He said Hickey will be buried in The Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Hawthorn, N.Y.

Hickey was born June 15, 1935, in Yonkers, N.Y. He had lived in South Bend since 1982, coming from Chicago.

Surviving family members include sons Michael; five grandchildren; a daughter, Karen Krawczun; three sons, Michael's Laundry; a daughter, Sharon Gamsin. "We want to pave the way for the system to work."

We're not anticipating any problems. We're not anticipating any problem. Once the market opens, a system of "circuit breakers" in stalled following the 1987 crash will automatically halt trading if the Dow rises or falls 200 points.

Gamsin said the exchange intends to let the market "go," rather than step in before the circuit breakers have a chance to work.

Insiders say a drop on Wall Street might be cushioned if corporations and brokerage step in to buy stocks. After the crash two years ago, companies stepped in to purchase their own shares to bolster prices.

Observers said the same thing could happen this time, with brokerage joining in to support the stocks they have been betting against.

Experts are quick to note that the economic landscape two years ago was markedly different.

Fed ready to inject cash to stop market plunge

WASHINGTON—The Federal Reserve put out the word Sun­day that it stands ready to flood the banking system with money to avert the biggest point drop in the his­tory of the stock market from developing into a full-blown plunge.

The Fed's commitment came as the Bush administration con­tinued its own efforts to reas­sure markets of the ready availability of cash. Friday's 190-point plunge in the Dow Jones industrial aver­age.

White House Budget Director Richard Darman, who in recent years has been critical of the Fed's handling of monetary policy, expressed full confi­dence Sunday that the central bank would act if necessary to contain the market turmoil.

Darman said that Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, Fed­eral Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan and Richard Bree­den, the new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Com­mission, were keeping in close contact monitoring develop­ments.

"I am sure they will do what is right, what is prudent, what is necessary," Mr. Darman said in an interview on ABC's "This Week" with David Brinkley.

"We will be there with all the liquidity demand that is needed," said the official, who spoke on condition that his name not be used. "If there are any doubts about liquidity being available, there is no reason to be concerned.""I think the market will lan­guish for a couple of weeks."

The term "liquidity" refers to the ability to buy or sell stocks quickly. The Greenspan-led effort two years ago was widely credited with keeping the market from plunging of 190.58 points in October 1987 from touching on the banking system and perhaps toppling the entire country into a reces­sion.

While a Fed move to inject more funds into the market to prevent a repetition of the plunge would cost the Fed in the short run, it could help it in the long run, that is by no means the case. That is by no means the case.

In Indianapolis, said Friday's market drop.

"If you slow down and think, you're in trouble. Fact is, maybe there's a few exports have been booming of late, as more and more products look more attractive to those with foreign currencies—and American consumers would find it more difficult to af­ford foreign goods. But for now, as long as your memory span is as lighting-short as the aver­age politician's. If it's any other way, however, you might recall that the Federal Reserve System, which is the central bank of the United States, and the Treasury Department, which are the agencies that control the monetary policy, are closely related to the U.S. government..."

Maturity plans not sufficient for families

In celebrating the Year of the Family at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, it is surprising that adequate allowances are not made for members of the community starting, or adding to, the family that is so revered by the institutions.

Notre Dame has a maternity plan for female faculty that allows four weeks compensated leave, with a provision for medical leave, if necessary. The plan for staff and administration is the same as the medical leave plan.

Saint Mary's programs are more extensive. The staff plan allows leave of absence decided on a case-by-case basis, generally for six weeks prior to childbirth, with the possibility of extension if medical necessity.

The Saint Mary's faculty plan, consisting of three alternative plans, is the most comprehensive, and the most beneficial for members of the community. The plan for staff and administration is the same as the medical leave plan.

Jesus himself clearly had a very important role in the early Christian Church. The stories of his life are full of examples of his teachings and actions. However, we must remember that the Gospels are not historical documents but rather sacred texts that are meant to convey spiritual truths. Therefore, it is not appropriate to seek a strict historical account of Jesus' life. Instead, we should focus on the spiritual lessons that can be drawn from his teachings.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Julie Parsons’ recent letter on the subject of women in the Catholic Church. The (Observer, Oct. 5) Ms. Parsons claims that “The Church did not allow women to be ordained.” This is not correct. Ms. Parsons does not tell us of the rest of this extremely sexist passage, which goes on, “...and it was not because women who were led away by the woman who led astray and fell in to sin. Nevertheless, she will be saved by child-bearing...” (2:12-13). It is also not clear what Ms. Parsons means by “the woman who led astray.”

Ms. Parsons quotes that “The Church did not allow women to be ordained.” Women cannot be ordained; God made the decree. The Church is only obeying to Scripture, the Holy Word of God. Ms. Parsons claims that “The Church did not allow women to be ordained,” which contradicts the First Letter of Paul to Timothy (1:22). Ms. Parsons also states that “The Church did not allow women to be ordained; God made the decree.” Ms. Parsons then states that “The Church is only obeying to Scripture, the Holy Word of God. Paul’s language does not reflect meaning

John Robinson is the program director of the Thomas J. White Center on Law and Government at Notre Dame. He is the author of “Thekkasilent Speech: The Importance of Silence” and “The Road to Renaissance: The Importance of Silence”.

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the two recent letters discussing the Catholic Church’s ordination of women. I believe that the Church’s position on this issue is based on a misunderstanding of the biblical texts that are thought to be against women’s ordination. However, I believe that these texts must be interpreted in light of the overall context of the Bible. In particular, I believe that the commandment to keep silent in 1 Timothy 2:12 should be understood as a command to maintain silence about certain topics, rather than a prohibition against women’s ordination. I believe that this position is consistent with the Church’s teaching on women’s roles in the Church.

Deacon John Robinson

Specter of sexism plagues ordination issue

Julie Parson’s recent letter on the subject of women in the Catholic Church has caused a great deal of discussion in recent days. However, I believe that we should focus on the spiritual lessons that can be drawn from the Church’s teaching on women’s roles in the Church. In particular, I believe that we should focus on the Church’s teaching that women are equal in the eyes of God and that they are capable of performing any task that is assigned to them. This teaching is based on the Church’s understanding of the Bible, which is the holy book of the Church. I believe that this teaching is consistent with the Church’s teaching on the ordination of women.

Boy genius 'Doogie Howser, M.D.' faces internship and puberty

I'm that time of year again, as the bashful trees of summer finish their last-lap autumn stripetease, the warm breezes change to cold winds and the echoes of countless tortured screams of agony reverberate across the campus. Yes, Midterms have returned, and whether you're going through this hell yourself or merely laughing at your friends who are, here are some tips to get you through the rest of the week.

Avoiding Work at the Library

There's plenty of fun to be had at the library; after you've finished looking up the dirty words in the dictionary, try finding out what's on the mysterious missing floors.

Avoiding Failing Your Classes

After all the papers and tests, it's only natural that sometimes we'd like to be able to put one over on our professors. This story probably isn't true: It hasn't happened to anyone I know, but it's so good it bears repeating.

Once upon a time there was a large, impersonal lecture class taking an exam. The professor, who was a stickler for punctuality, called time and collected all the tests, placing the identical blue books in a stack on the desk. Then he noticed that one student was still working on his test, even after he had called time.

"Young man," he said, as the student finished his test and walked towards the front, "I will have to give you an F on that test. I told you the examination period was over a full three minutes ago.

"You're going to fail me? You don't feel so guilty about that test?" the student asked, clearly bewildered. "I've been working in your room, don't you know what's up there? Or have you just fallen for the cover story perpetrated by a security-minded university-you don't really believe the 'maintenance and meeting rooms' explanation, do you? You can't actually see for yourself by going to the third or fourteenth floors of the library. The elevator won't stop there, and the door to the fire stairs is mysteriously locked. Yes, all the doors on the all the flights of stairs are locked. It's amazing how lengths you will go to avoid studying. Growing suspicions -one to prepare a meal fit for a king. (Once the grilled cheese cools, though, it's a little hard to scrape off the iron.)

As incredible as these kids are, there is one problem that plagues the good doctor personally. Perhaps an explanation is necessary. Doogie Howser (Neil Patrick Harris) aced high school in nine weeks. Graduated from Princeton at age ten, and completed medical school four years later. Now, at age 16, Doogie's the only intern at the hospital who's still experiencing puberty.

From the creators of 'Hill Street Blues' and 'L.A. Law,' 'Doogie' is a 'dramedy' (remember those from a few years ago?). The show presents a half hour drama containing many funny elements sans laugh track. Until now, ABC boasted of TV's only existing 'dramedy,' 'The Wonder Years.' Now it has a new one—one that executives hope will survive longer than 'Hopperman,' 'The Slap Maxwell Story,' and 'Fraiser.'

"Doogie Howser" is great fun. One episode involves the arrival of a new radiologist, Dr. Burke, at the hospital. She's a very beautiful woman, a fact that Howser's partner Dr. McGuire (Mitchell Anderson) wasted no time noticing. As luck would have it, Dr. Burke wants a baby. The problem: she's not married and has no boyfriends. The solution: she goes after someone who can aid her in having a baby. She...

Athletics get Series lead on punchless Giants

Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. — Give Oakland credit for pitching, power and prophecy and give San Francisco's Candlestick Park, will pitch for the Giants in Game 3 against Don Robinson, who has not started since Sept. 25.

"They're going about it very professionally," Athletics manager Tony La Russa said. "But it's not time to back off."

Mike Moore and two relievers held the Giants to four hits, one day after Dave Stewart shut them out on just five.

"We've scored one run in two games and you're not going to win too many games like that," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "Their pitching can't get any worse. They have bats and is hitless in 23 World Series at-bats, the record slump is 0-for-31 by Detroit's Marvin Owen in the 1930s.

For the Giants, a dangerous situation has suddenly gotten desperate. They went into the series with only two healthy starters, and Scott Garrelts and now Beuchals, who lasted two batters into the fifth, have been hit.

Of the 39 teams that took a 2-0 lead in the World Series, 29 went on to win. From the start, Oakland did what it needed to do while the Giants did not. Henderson drew a leadoff walk — an open invitation early in the game for-6 with runners in scoring position. San Francisco's only consolation came in ending a 23inning scoreless World Series streak that began in 1961.

Terry Steinbach, playing on a bad knee, hit a three-run home run that made it 5-1 in the fourth. La Russa started Steinbach, a right-handed hitter, instead of lefty Ron Hassey at catcher against the right-handed Rick Reuschel.

"Terry had been swinging well in batting practice and last night hit the ball hard," La Russa said.

Steinbach did it again, ending any suspense early.

"I thought it was gone, but at the Coliseum you never know," said Russa.

Mitchell reaching on a single in the first, two walks and a wild pitch loaded the bases, and now has reached base in 20 of 23 innings scoreless World Series loss to Los Angeles.

Rickey Henderson, who turned down a trade to San Francisco and instead accepted a deal to Oakland on June 20, went 3-for-3 with a walk and now has reached base in 20 of 32 postseason plate appearances.

Jose Canseco again didn't hit the ball — he did walk twice — but the Athletics didn't need him. He got nothing in two at-bats and is hitless in 23 World Series at-bats, the record slump is 0-for-31 by Detroit's Marvin Owen in the 1930s.

"Their pitching can't get much worse. They are batless and are batless while, did not come through for what it needed to do while the Giants did not. Henderson drew a leadoff walk — an open invitation to trouble — stole second and scored on Carney Lansford's double.

Clark and Mitchell, meanwhile, did not come through for San Francisco. Their bad showing with runners in scoring position early in the game when the Giants had a chance did not match the regular-season numbers of a combined .433 in similar situations. They were 1-for-8 for the game with Mitchell reaching on a single in the fourth inning.

Matt Williams, who led all playoff performers with nine RBIs, went 0-for-4 and hitless in seven at-bats. In spring training, when Oakland won eight of nine against the Giants, Williams was 1-for-32 versus the Athletics.

Moore had little difficulty, giving up four hits in seven innings. He struck out seven and walked one, and the Giants pulled few balls hard against him.

Moore, second in the American League with 17 wild pitches, tied a World Series record set by many with two more wild pitches.

Special to The Observer

Water Dolhare became the only Irish player to advance to Monday's action by defeating Arne Baarve of South Florida 7-5, 6-0 and followed up with an easier win over Mark Krajewski of Illinois, 6-1, 6-7, 6-4.

Freshmen Chuck Coleman and Mark Schmidt made it through the first round of play, but failed to advance with losses in the second.

Schmidt played a tough match against Ball State's Scott Campbell, winning 7-0, 6-3, 6-4, but was forced to default in his second scheduled match due to injury.

Dave D'Uria of the Irish has already been selected as the most valuable player in this year's tournament.
Air Force scores TD on ‘fumblerooskie’

By GREG GUFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Notre Dame turned in the big plays, but Air Force had the trick plays.

The Falcons executed the "fumblerooskie" twice in their 41-27 loss to Notre Dame Saturday night at Falcon Stadium. The first play went for 12 yards, while the second one resulted in a 23-yard touchdown.

Midway through the second quarter, the Air Force center snapped the ball on the ground instead of snapping it. Falcon quarterback Dee Dowis rolled to the right and offensive tackle D.T. Young came around the left side, picked up the ball and scampered 12 yards for a first down.

That play did not cause any argument. The second one did.

Early in the fourth period, the Falcons faced third-and-four at the Notre Dame 22. The Air Force center snatched the ball and placed it behind the leg of offensive guard Steve Wilson.

As Dowis went to the right, Wilson picked up the ball and ran 23 yards virtually unnoticed to score the touchdown. It was the first rushing touchdown scored against Notre Dame this year.

The Irish argued that Wilson had his knee down while blocking during the play, thus making him ineligible to carry the ball. The referees let the play stand.

"I thought he was down, and I told the official that," Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said.

Ricky Watters kept the Air Force defense busy all day with the best rushing performance of his career. The junior tailback gained a game-high 96 yards and afterward said he was answering a challenge from Irish middle coach Lou Holtz.

"He said he didn’t see it, and I said that was okay because our players didn’t see it either."

The mountain air took its toll on the Notre Dame players. The Irish were prepared with oxygen on the sidelines, but many players had trouble getting their breath after being on the field for an extended amount of time.

"You can’t breathe out there," Irish nose tackle Chris Zorich said. "I thought I was going to die. This is the only time that I’ve loved South Bend."

Said Notre Dame offensive lineman Tim Grunhard. "All it does is make you really thirsty. It’s a problem of getting dry-mouthed. We just had to keep the defense off the field."

The temperature at gametime was 65 degrees with a wind of 15 mph from the southeast.

QUOTABLE — Zorich: "I think their center had the most tactical. He tackled me 9 or 15 times."

Grunhard: "I think offensive line is just as quick as their defensive line. We got our assignments." Air Force coach Fisher DeBerry. "Notre Dame is on course to be national champions again. We could have made it closer than it was, but we didn’t force a lot of plays. We still have a lot of goals out there. We have to learn from this game and get ready for TCU next week."
Miami stuns Bengals; Walker paces Vikings

Associated Press

Marino, 5-for-13 for 59 yards in the first half, completed passes of 41, 34 and 36 yards to Mark Duper on three separate drives in the second half, setting up two touchdowns and a field goal. Marino also scored on a 1-yard bootleg in the third quarter as the Dolphins beat the Bengals 20-13. It was Cincinnati's first loss at Riverfront Stadium, known as "The Jungle," since 1987, a span of 12 games.

"After playing as poorly as we did in the first half today, our defense kept us in the ballgame," Coach Don Shula said. "If we did anything at all offensively, we knew we could win the game."

Also scoring surprising road wins were Detroit, Houston and Pittsburgh.

When the Notre Dame defense did not allow him to get the vaunted Air Force wishbone attack in gear, Falcons quarterback Dee Dowis resorted to the passing game and had some success. Dowis completed 15-24 passes for 306 yards.

and he passed for a career-high 306 yards.

"It doesn't matter if you don't win," Dowis said of his passing yardage. "I didn't play very well. I've got some things to learn."

The Irish got the first chance when Air Force won the toss and deferred until the second half, an option Notre Dame chooses each time it wins the toss. Said Notre Dame's Raghib Ismail, "Maybe they just wanted to show everybody they were ready."

Notre Dame was the one that showed it was ready. The Irish marched 80 yards with Ricky Watters delivering the big blow, a 25-yard run from the Air Force 31-yard line. Anthony Johnson plowed over two plays later for the touchdown, his eighth of the season.

After an Air Force punt, the Irish went 69 yards in 14 plays. They were again keyed by a big play, this time a 20-yard pass from Tony Rice to Ismail to the Air Force eight. Watters scored the touchdown two plays later on a five-yard run around the right side.

Watters ran with renewed power in the first quarter, gaining 41 yards and scoring one touchdown. He finished with a game-high 96 yards, his best total of the season.

"Coach Holtz came to me and said that except for Virginia and Michigan State, I haven't been running the ball with power," Watters said. "He gave me a challenge, and I accepted that challenge."

With Air Force trying to keep the game tight, Ismail put it virtually out of reach. Early in the second quarter, he fielded a punt at the Notre Dame 44, ran untouched up the middle and dodged two tacklers for the touchdown.

"Everyone just blocked perfectly," he said.

Air Force took its turn with the big play on the next series. From his own 39, Dowis hit Greg Johnson coming out of the backfield across the middle in full stride. Johnson ran almost untouched into the endzone to cut the lead to 21-7.

The teams then traded a pair of touchdowns. First, Rice hit Johnout of the backfield for a 27-yard touchdown. Dowis followed that act with a 26-yard touchdown pass to Steve Senn.

With 2:45 to play in the first half, Irish nose tackle Chris Zorich recovered a Dowis fumble at the Air Force 35. Five plays later, Ismail scored again, this time on a 24-yard reverse to put the Irish ahead 35-14 at the half.

Notre Dame held Air Force to open the second half, then put together a 57-yard drive that ended with a 25-yard field goal by Craig Henrich, his seventh of the season. Henrich added a 36-yard field goal early in the fourth period.

ND, Akron finish in a scoreless tie

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Assistant Sports Editor

It has been said that a tie is like kissing your sister.

Well, if that is true than the Notre Dame men's soccer has been showing its opponents a lot of sibling affection lately.

The Irish tied the 13th tie of the season Friday night as they fought Akron to a 0-0 double overtime tie.

"Hey, it wasn't a 'w' but to us it's just as good as one," head coach Dennis Grace said. "We were playing against a seasion that is ranked in the top 20 nationally, and traditionally Akron is a very strong defensive team.

So when we stop them from scoring and create chances than they offensively and do more damage, I'm not going to get discouraged. We look at things here as more than just winning and losing because it's important to play a great game."

Both squads allowed scoring opportunities to slip away, and neither team could get a firm grasp on the game's momentum.

Ski Club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Room 118 Nieuwland. Sign-ups and deposits will be collected for the Christmas trip to Jackson Hole, Wyom. Call x3662 or x2962 for more information.

Irish Insanity will meet at 7:30 tonight at Montgomery Theatre in Lafourche Student Center. Joe Frederick and Faber Jackson, co-captains of the Notre Dame basketball team, will be special guest speakers at tonight's meeting.

Irish dominated the Longhorns in every statistical category except the score. It was not until the final point that the Longhorns were convinced they had knocked the Irish. Notre Dame led Texas is total kills 51-48.

"This loss was very disappointing for us, stated Cunningham. "Texas seemed to be down, and we mirrored them." Texas moved to 13-6 on the season. The Longhorns were crushed by Kentucky in three games on Friday night. Notre Dame faces Kentucky on Nov. 5.

Irish was the play of the night. Fiebelkorn, who finished the night with 15 kills and 3 block assists, Haley expects her to be a role force in the future.

"Number 11 (Fiebelkorn) really played well against our girls," said Haley. "I really believe that they will have a stronger performance later in the year. I'm glad we played them at this point of the season because they're going to turn some heads later on."

The Irish, last year's MCC champions, looked like Olympic contenders as opposed to their competition. The women defeated Evansville 150-50, while the men's team downed Butler 139-30.

By playing both of these teams and the other two teams in the conference, St. Louis and Xavier, both the men's and women's teams are collecting more than just a superstar," said Welsh. "I'm not going to get discouraged. We can't just win, we have to play well, we're going to start winning."

"I hoped we would score after they missed that penalty kick because I felt like momentum had swung in our direction, but we didn't and in time the goals will come. We're not pushing and losing because it's important to play a great game."

Both squads allowed scoring opportunities to slip away, and neither team could get a firm grasp on the game's momentum.

G Zips present the only substantial drama of the two hours of play after forward David Wells drew a penalty while taking a shot in the penalty box.

By GREG GUFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. - It was supposed to be Air Force quarterback and tailback Tony Rice, five-star field general, rushing 14 times for 71 yards and completing 9-of-13 passes for 123 yards. A bigger and more talented Notre Dame team delivered that message via a 41-27 victory over the Falcons before a record crowd of 53,533.

In a game of big plays, the Irish turned in the bigger ones to move to 6-0. It was the 18th record crowd for the Irish, 6-10, defeated Air Force 23-19 to move to 6-0. It was the 18th

Tony Rice gets a few of the 71 rushing yards he picked up against Air Force. Rice also completed 9-of-13 passes for 123 yards.

Rice, the leader and catalyst of this 6-0 Irish team, may even be the front-runner, said Notre Dame tailback Ricky Ismail. "I think it would be Tony and Rocket," said Notre Dame tailback Ricky Ismail when asked to pick a Heisman winner. "Those would be my first two picks."

Ismail is a defensive end for the Irish, but he has been known to make some big plays. In the game against Illinois State, Ismail returned one punt 56 yards for a touchdown.

Rice/Ismail: ND's Heisman ticket

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. - It was supposed to be a battle between twoquarterbacks for the early bragging rights to the Heisman Trophy. It was supposed to be Air Force quarterback Dee Dowis, potential aviator, defender of the Stars and Stripes, representative and inspiration to overachieving short people across the nation. A victory by Dowis would have meant a victory for small over big, for David over Goliath.

But what about Ismail? "I thought we did a good job with their running game," Holtz said, "and I didn't know we could run with the success we did. I also didn't expect them to throw the ball as well as they did." Air Force quarterback and Heisman Trophy candidate Dee Dowis gained just 19 yards on the ground. Tailback early, Dowis was forced to the air.

The scene was not set, save a lanky sophomore flanker, tailback, kickoff and punt returner, who gave Dowis the ball in the fourth quarter with the game all but over.

Tony Rice, the leader and catalyst of this 6-0 Irish team, may even be the front-runner, said Notre Dame tailback Ricky Ismail. "I think it would be Tony and Rocket," said Notre Dame tailback Ricky Ismail when asked to pick a Heisman winner. "Those would be my first two picks."

It was supposed to be Air Force quarterback Dee Dowis, potential aviator, defender of the Stars and Stripes, representative and inspiration to overachieving short people across the nation. A victory by Dowis would have meant a victory for small over big, for David over Goliath.

But what about Ismail? "I thought it would be Tony and Rocket," said Notre Dame tailback Ricky Ismail when asked to pick a Heisman winner. "Those would be my first two picks."

Ismail is a defensive end for the Irish, but he has been known to make some big plays. In the game against Illinois State, Ismail returned one punt 56 yards for a touchdown.

Rice/Ismail: ND's Heisman ticket

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. - It was supposed to be a battle between two-quarterbacks for the early bragging rights to the Heisman Trophy. It was supposed to be Air Force quarterback Dee Dowis, potential aviator, defender of the Stars and Stripes, representative and inspiration to overachieving short people across the nation. A victory by Dowis would have meant a victory for small over big, for David over Goliath.
