Bush names Malloy to Drug Advisory Council

The people who are most well-off are those in "insecure families," conservative activist Phyllis Schlafly said Monday. The traditional one-income family is still the most efficient way of supporting people, said Schlafly, who lectures around the nation and has written several books.

In a lecture sponsored by the Student Union Board's Ideas and Issues Commission, Schlafly cited the feminist movement as a cause for most of the recent changes in the roles of women in society.

"One thing that has changed society most in recent years is the change in divorce laws," Schlafly said, because "more kids are growing up without the consent of the other.

"After divorce, a woman's income usually drops 73 percent, while a man's income rises 42 percent, according to Schlafly. "That can hardly be called liberation for women," she said.

Schlafly also pointed to the trend toward abortion, which she called a "battle between forces of life and forces of death.

"There are no women officers of the University, no female deans and two female department chairs," said Kolman.

Kathleen Biddick, associate professor of history and re­chair of the Faculty Senate Committee on the Status of Women, said the Liguorawas, has a problem retaining women faculty members.

She said that although many women have agonized over the decision to leave Notre Dame, they leave mostly because of the quality of life here.

"All other things equal," Biddick said, "many women will choose another university because of such things as parent­ing leave.

The world will never be the same. The courage and vision of thousands who have marched for freedom in Poland, China, and, not least, East Germany have inflicted a mortal blow on communism and the centralized administrative state. The quest for freedom in East Germany has swelled past the point of no return. The people's will for self-determination has proven superior to the state's quest for tyranny.

The throngs of East German emigrants who have left their homes for a better life in the West bear witness that socialism is on its deathbed. The failure of centralized state planning of economic and political life is clear. Communism has failed in theory and in practice.

But some refuse to acknowledge the obvious. On Friday, Barbara Ehrenreich, co-chairperson of the Democratic Socialists of America, told a national television audience that "nothing has changed to alter the relevance and urgency of socialism — democratic socialism." What the Russian miners struck for...is what we call democratic socialism," she said.

What the Russian miners, the Chinese demonstrators and the East German emigrants strike for is not socialism, but autonomy and freedom, the antithesis of socialism. Socialism increases the state's power and legitimizes state tyranny. Socialism has proved adept at oppression. Freedom seekers everywhere recognize that democratic capitalism is the best hope for political autonomy.

Of course, the demonstrators and emigrants are seeking more than political freedom, they can no longer tolerate their desperate economic conditions. Here, too, capitalism is the better instrument of reform. Democratic capitalism is more productive, more efficient and works better than socialism, "democratic" or otherwise. About the only remaining claim that socialism has for its legitimacy is its supposed moral superiority to capitalism. Because capitalism lacks a focused center, a "master plan" for the development of society, it is sometimes attacked as immoral, or, minimally, amoral.

The lack of a central plan, however, is precisely what gives capitalism its moral strength. By giving humans freedom to choose how they spend their lives, capitalism allows them the potential to fully develop their skills and talents. The lack of a master plan for society allows humans to achieve through liberty a level of dignity impossible under any known socialist order. Capitalism is not without problems, and our world is far from utopian. We should learn from Eastern Europe, however, that socialism is not an answer but a problem.

Phyllis Schlafly said the Way to do it is to enhance and respect and care for the family. She said that the DART system is the sole cause of the student's inability to get the classes they want. "The problems are fundamental to the system," she said.

Schlafly said that the issue of ERA has no chance of resurfacing. "It's dead. The American people don't want a gender-neutral society," she said.

Problems with DART assessed by senate

By SANDRA WIEGAND

A resolution requesting ad- ministrative intervention regarding the DART system, including faculty, large class sizes, and increased tuition fees, was passed unanimously at the Student Senate meeting.

The resolution outlined these problems, and asked that "appropriate action" be taken. It was referred to the Senate administration, the Academic Council, the Faculty Senate, and the Campus Life Council for further action.

It was recommended in the resolution that the Office of the Provost "contact student and faculty leaders in regard to this issue, in the near future."

"The problem is money," said Ken Schaefer, academic commissioner of the Student Senate. The addition of an arbitrary 100 faculty members would change the entire tuition structure, Schaefer said, and added that they might be other than yet undiscovered solutions to the problem.

I would like to see the budget committee put some effort into this," he said.

Dean of the College of Arts and Letters Michael Louis has appointed a committee to analyze the DART system. Schlafly said that the DART system, as a lottery, does put the students who have previously registered at a disadvantage over other students. Schlafly added that the issue of ERA, which she feels, is not the sole cause of the student's inability to get the classes they want. "The problems are fundamental to the system," she said.

Panel discusses pros, cons of AIDS

By LIZ NOLTZ

Grace Hall hosted a panel discussion on apartheid in South Africa Monday. The panel consisted of John Paul, Gary Sugarman, Oliver Williams, Peter Walsh, Anand Pillay and Michael Travis. The members of the panel agreed upon the need for a change in South Africa, but they disagreed on how it should be done.

Sugarman takes a three-prong approach of divestment, strong sanctions and the reinvestment in South Africa. He stressed the reinvestment in South Africa is not to be done through corporations. He says that implementing divestment alone results in unemployment of blacks.

Travis agreed and said, "Once businesses divest from South Africa, they will never come back. We should use trade credit instead of divestment, and within a couple of years, we could shut down South Africa within one week."

Walsh sympathized that apartheid has been a long and brutal policy for the blacks of South Africa. Internal pressure, black protests and economic sanctions are the key to negotiating with the white government. "It is only when the threat of sanctions are held, that we begin to negotiate with the black people of South Africa," he said.

Williams considers it crucial that the blacks of South Africa be consulted on any decision because they need to speak with one united voice. Travis stated there is no point of reference for Williams's decision-making but has been the guidance of the Catholic bishops of South Africa.

According to the Catholic Bishops of South Africa, "At the moment, we can see no justification for the sort of pressure that has been exerted on South Africa or the United States to achieve a growth in economic and political sanctions. The purpose of these pressures would be to hurt the government and gain freedom for black people."

Paul says that divestment alone is not the solution. The key to fulfilling South Africa's obligation as a trading nation is the refusal to import South African products.

As an introduction to the issues in South Africa, a film about the history and the current condition of the Apartheid will be shown.

"Sometimes I believe the greatest damage done to persons with AIDS is done by the dishonesty of those who refuse to admit the existence of AIDS as immoral."

O'Connor said doctors have an obligation to discourage the lifestyles that can cause AIDS, pointing out that an estimated 72 percent of AIDS victims in the United States contracted the disease through immoral acts and 17 percent from drug use.

The Roman Catholic Church condemns homosexual acts, but not homosexuals themselves, as immoral.

According to Titus Brandsma, "The church has not only a right but an obligation to teach that the practice of homosexuality is wrong as a matter of public health and morality."

East Germany elects Modrow to top post

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Parliament elected a leading reformer as the new premier Monday night, as hundreds of thousands of people took to the streets of Leipzig to say Communist officials are moving too slowly.

After a historic weekend in which millions of East Germans took advantage of their newfound freedom to travel west, Parliament also picked a non-Communist spokesman in the chamber's first secret ballot and urged accelerated changes.

And the government said it was dismantling internal barri eries that for three decades formed a notorious "death stric t" between the Berlin Wall and the city's sealed-off eastern sector.

Deputies appealed for truly free elections, a coalition gov ernment and removal from the constitution of language declaring their nation a socialist state.

The parliament, known as the People's Chamber, then ap proved the Communist Party's nomination of Politburo mem ber Hans Modrow to lead a new government as premier. The government has never been subservient to the party.

Modrow is a well-known refor mer within the party, which has been led by Egon Krenz since 1981. Krenz has promised some reforms, includ ing free elections.

As Modrow was ushered into the ight in East Berlin, pro-democracy activists in Leipzig pressed for continued change to prolong the spirit of hope sweeping the nation after the festival of freedom over the weekend. West German foreign sec tion estimated the number of protesters at between 200,000 and 300,000.

The protesters urged the gov ernment to live up to its promise of free elections and questioned the commitment of the new leadership.

The question is, are you (the new government) really differ cent from the others?" one speaker said at the rally.

At the session to approve Modrow, the first secret ballot in the Communist-dominated Parliament elected a new speaker, Guenther Maleuda, who told the assembly it was duty-bound to heed the calls of the reform movement.

Maleuda, 58, is the chairman of the Democratic Peasants party, one of the four small parties allied with the ruling Communist Party. The Communist Party did not propose a candi date for the post.

In addition to the parliamen tary session, the party's 163-member Central Committee set Dec. 15 for an emergency party congress that will elect a new leadership and rewrite its political platform.

The party, which has had a monopoly on power in the 40 years since East Germany was created, is struggling to meet the pent-up demands of 16.5 million citizens who have watched their Communist neighbors restore democracy while they were denied the same freedoms.

Modrow is an anti-establish ment Communist who enjoys broad popular support. He was nominated to replace Willi Stoph, who resigned last week along with his entire 44-mem ber cabinet.

About 100,000 more East Germans crossed into West Berlin and early West Germany on Monday, but the arrivals were a trickle compared with the wave of millions of refugees who went the west over the weekend after travel restrictions were lifted.

Boston cops allowed random drug testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday permitted random drug testing for Boston police, offering new evidence the justices condone widespread testing of govern ment employees in jobs affecting public safety.

The court, without comment, let stand a ruling that forcing police officers to undergo the random tests — even when there is no reason to suspect drug abuse — does not violate their privacy rights.

A Boston police union official praised the action.

"I'm disappointed in the fact that the Supreme Court has said that police officers in this city and in this country have different personal rights than other citizens," said Robert Guinta, president of the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association.

The court's action came within minutes of President Bush's naming 27 to the bench, including medical pioneer Dr.

James Salk and former Attorney General William Smith, as advisers in the war on drugs.

With drug policy director William Bennett at this side, Bush urged the advisory panel to encourage private employers to keep workplaces drug-free and to coordinate anti-drug efforts.

The high court last March upheld drug and alcohol testing for railroad workers involved in accidents and for U.S. Cus toms Service agents who apply for drug-enforcement posts or jobs requiring that a gun be carried.

Weeks later, the justices si
letly let stand a ruling that al owed administering random drug tests within the Washing ton Township, N.J., police depart ment.

The court has never ruled definitively in a case involving random drug-testing of gov ernment employees and its ap proval in such tactics in a cert ainty.

Walesa receives the Medal of Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush bestowed the presidential Medal of Freedom on Lech Walesa in an emotional White House ceremony Monday and promised "American aid as begun and more is coming" to Poland.

The Polish trade union leader arrived in Washington as the Senate reached a bipartisan compromise on a plan to give $657 million in aid to Poland and $65 million to Hungary, ending a long battle over the proper scale of aid to those countries.

Walesa's trip to the White House was the first stop on a U.S. tour that will include a speech to Congress, a private dinner at the White House and attendance at the annual con vention of the AFL-CIO, the American trade union federa

Rebel onslaught reaches third day
245 killed in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Rebels held large parts of several poor neighborhoods Monday and halted soldiers in a third day of the worst fighting the capital has experienced in a decade of civil war.

At least 245 had been killed and 378 wounded during the rebels' attack Saturday night in their biggest offensive since 1981, according to the armed forces' civilian morgue, civil hospital and morgue, and unofficial military figures.

Thousands of civilians were trapped in their homes by exchanges of gunfire between the army and guerrillas of the leftist Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front. Helicopter gunships and military planes flew over the city, bombarding rebel positions.

Few of the city's 1 million people were on the streets and nearly all downtown stores were closed. People went to the armed forces' mortuary looking for missing relatives.

Fighting also was reported outside Usulutan, a major city in eastern El Salvador, but not in the city itself.

The army press office stopped providing information Monday and, whether combat continued in the provinces was not clear. Telephone calls to provincial cities did not go through.

No new official counts of dead and wounded were given, but the armed forces' mortuary had the bodies of 55 soldiers, 29 more than the army included in its official count.

President Alfredo Cristiani announced a state of siege and a 6 p.m.-6 a.m. curfew Sunday and legislators were considering more restrictions on civil rights. A photographer who tried to reach the legislature's building Monday was turned back by gunfire.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Barry Jacobs said an army counteroffensive had been slowed because soldiers were ordered to avoid civilian casualties.

The Bush administration said Cristiani's government had not requested U.S. assistance in repelling the rebel attack.

"It's our belief that they are in control of the situation at this point," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. Asked whether he would rule out U.S. involvement in the fighting, he said: "We can never predict the future, but at this point it's not anticipated."

Fifty-five U.S. military trainers are stationed in El Salvador but are not supposed to participate in "military missions." Fitzwater said their status was unchanged.

At the United Nations in New York, Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said it was "essential that minimal conditions be restored which will permit talks to resume and the peace process to be put back on track" in El Salvador.

Hammock spoke to a small group of people in a lecture entitled "Hunger: The Tragedy we Choose." His talk focused on the reasons why hunger exists and the choices that can be made to avoid it.

Hammock said that just sending money to recent disaster areas is not enough. "The key is long term commitments... It takes a commitment to radical work at the grassroots level."

He also stressed that Oxfam is not a relief agency and that "85 percent of Oxfam's money goes into long term development."

According to Hammock, some of the reasons for the existence of hunger are agricultural policies of Third World countries, wars, and food being used as a political weapon. He firmly believes that "people should be able to receive food regardless of their political preference."

Oxfam America is an international agency whose focus is to fund self-help development in several poor nations throughout the world. Hammock has held the position of Executive Director since 1984. He has been lecturing, teaching courses, and writing extensively on international relations and a variety of developmental issues for many years.

The lecture was in conjunction with the sixteenth annual "Fast for a World Harvest" which will take place on Thurs­day, Nov. 16. The Marriott Corporation, San Jose's food service, will make a monetary donation to the cause for each student who participates.

Last year, Sant Mary's was able to raise a total of $3,900 which was divided between several local and national agencies.

The fast will officially begin tomorrow evening with a prayer vigil held in the Regina chapel. On Thursday, there will be a series of films and discussions dealing with the controllable forces which inflict hunger on humanity. A three part presentation on how the media shapes our understand­ing of social problems will be given the day's events at 10:30 a.m.

The programs are open to the public, free of charge, and will be held in the Stapleton Lounge of LeMalls hall.

The sponsors of this year's events are the Saint Mary's World Hunger Coalition, Saint Mary's Peacekeepers, Saint Mary's student government, and Campus Ministry.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Hoosier Lottery will offer a larger top instant prize and better odds of winning when the state's second game begins Nov. 21, lottery officials said Monday.

The "Hoosier Holiday Millionaire" will have a top instant prize of $10,000, compared with the $2,000 available in the current "Hoosier Millionaire," the month-old game for which $60,985,000 in tickets had been sold by last Friday.

In the second game, whose scratch-off tickets have red and green type and a red Santa Claus cap emblazoned on them, the odds of winning some kind of prize will be 1 in 6,465, compared with 1 in 7.17 in the lottery's first game.

Besides the top prize, the game will also offer instant payoffs of free $1 tickets and $5, $20, a new $50 prize and $500. As in the first game, a ticket with three television symbols can be mailed in for a chance for the purchaser to compete on the lottery's television show, which offers a top prize of $1 million.

In the new game, the odds of winning a lower level prize will be better than in the first game. However, the odds of winning bigger instant prizes will be longer.

The odds of getting a $500 ticket will be 1 in 10,000 in the new game, compared with 1 in 7,692 in the first game. And the chances of getting the $10,000 prize will be 1 in 160,428, compared with 1 in 100,000 odds to claim the $5,000 prize in the first game.

Mayan civilization emerged earlier than once thought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Archaeologists who excavated a city in Guatemala’s jungle have learned that Mayan civilization emerged centuries earlier than previously thought, hundreds of years before the Christian era.

"Our findings indicate large-scale Mayan development, including huge temples and other stone buildings, were constructed during a period in which it was thought the most advanced form of construction was small villages," said Richard Hansen of the University of California, Los Angeles. Hansen’s research, announced Monday by UCLA, "is a very significant discovery," said Arthur Demarest, anthropology chairman at Vanderbilt University in Tennessee.

Archaeologists once believed advanced Mayan civilization emerged A.D. 300 and ended A.D. 900 during what is described as the "classic period." Research conducted during 1978-83 at El Mirador, Guatemala, pushed that date back to 200 B.C.

But Hansen’s 50-member team excavated the ancient city of Nakbe, 350 miles from Guatemala City, and determined that roughly 100 stone pyramids and other buildings dated to between 400 B.C. and 630 B.C. So did some of the 65,000 pottery pieces, sculptures, figurines and other artifacts.

Dates can be determined by the radioactivity of carbon in organic material associated with buildings. Pottery is dated by comparison with the style of pottery from elsewhere in Central America.
Militarism in Israel shatters ideal of peace

By Frank Corcoran

Since its formation in 1948, the modern state of Israel has survived several attempts by surrounding countries to annihilate this new Jewish nation, which has developed into the most formidable military power in the Middle East today. But its military strength, a large part, rests on a fantastic annulus of monetary assistance, prompting some critics to name Israel as America's fifty-first state. More significantly, Israel's excited militarism has created two great problems.

1) an economy that rests heavily on arms production;
2) the displacement of Palestinian Arabs living in Israel and the occupied territories.

Backed by the loud voice of America's Jewish population, Israel has enjoyed a steady influx of American government dollars into its rather unstable economy. Since the currency of this small nation is not internationally accepted, American dollars are vital to maintain its formidable military expenditures. Arms produced in the country, formerly used only for its own defense, are now being exported to provide a much-needed source of foreign currency. Thus, which many Israelis believe to be the conflict on which the Zionists principles on which their country was founded.

An even greater threat to the moral fiber of this Jewish nation is its treatment of Palestinians living within its borders and in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. This population, which was displaced by the actual creation of the State of Israel, has been the object of Israeli aggression since 1967. Yet until recently, Israel has been able to justify its brutal policies toward the Palestinian nation as a defense against the violent terrorist acts of the P.L.O. However, since the start of the Intifada, a relatively non-violent movement of the Palestinian people, the people of Israel have become divided over their policies toward the Arab nation in their midst.

Many view the continuing conflict as a threat to the moral principles on which Israel was founded. As this harsh struggle rages on, the people of Israel find themselves fighting a dual war, a war with their consciences as well as with the Palestinians. It is a war which now also has begun to divide the American people who see their country's continued support of Israel as a statement of approval of the aggressive action against the Palestinian people.

For the most part, the American Jewish voice remains strongly opposed to any variation of U.S. foreign policy towards Israel, regarding any proposal for better relations with the Palestinians as a threat to the security of their Jewish Holy Land. American Jews seem to have formed an exalted image of Israel as the land of God's chosen people, many view the country's policies as absolute, refusing to disagree with their revered government.

The great weakness of American Jews is their refusal to recognize the fact that even God's chosen people are capable of making mistakes. And as long as the Jewish lobby persists at attempts by the American government to influence change in Israel's policy towards the Palestinians, the situation will continue to grow more intense, resulting in an uncontrollable upsurge of violence in that nation which they believe to be so holy.

Because of its extreme financial ties with Israel, its conceivable that America could use its influence to compel Israel to negotiate with the existing representative body of the Palestinians, the P.L.O. But as long as American Jews maintain their opposition to any concessions with Palestine, America's role will be stifled. At this time America can either encourage Israel to take up peaceful negotiations with Palestine, or it can play witness to the desecration of the Holy Land through an increase in violence and bloodshed.

Through a peaceful resolution, Israel could divert its huge military expenditures to more benevolent industries, thus unifying the nation in a return to the Zionist ideal that its forebears envisioned.

Changing gender roles shape career and family goals

This week is family and gender awareness week on campus. These two issues belong together, as they are not exclusive of each other. People here at Notre Dame want to be rich, famous and happy and together; they are not exclusive grounds in education, family, and careers. How real are values and education, to strive for a good Catholic image of Israel as the exalted image of Israel as the...
Durer, Degas featured in newest Snite exhibit

MICHAEL BAECHLER, accent writer

Imagine walking into a room full of prints and drawings by artists such as Edgar Degas, Antoine Watteau, James McNeill Whistler, Albrecht Durer and Chuck Close. The Snite Museum of Art is offering you this chance. On display until Jan. 14 is the Snite’s newest exhibition “Recent Acquisitions of Prints and Drawings.” Approximately 40 works by well-known artists are being shown in the Print Drawing and Photography gallery of the museum. Upon first entering the gallery, one immediately sees Degas’ “Study of a Ballerina” hanging proudly on the wall. Moving on, the visitor views Watteau’s “Seated Woman,” James McNeill Whistler’s “Soup A Trois Soups,” Albrecht Durer’s “The Predilegal Son and the Promenade” and more modern works such as Chuck Close’s “Robert I.”

All of the displayed works are from the Snite’s own collection. Featured are the most recent prints and drawings acquired by the Museum through donations, purchases and gifts. The pieces represent the museum’s collection of Italian, German, French, English and American prints and drawings, ranging from 14th century manuscripts to contemporary drawings.

Most of the works shown have not been displayed prior to this exhibition. Visiting the show gives the viewer a chance to see great works, yet this show goes one step beyond that. In an effort to enhance the visitor’s experience, the Snite has provided basic background information with almost every piece in the show. In addition to the usual title, date and artist displayed on the placards by each work, Mary Frink, curatorial assistant, has included information on the artist, subject and technique.

The museum has done a wonderful job of bringing a variety of works by well-known artists to the campus. It’s worth the time to stop by the museum and enjoy the Snite’s “Recent Acquisitions of Prints and Drawings.”

The exhibit will be on display during regular museum hours, which are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday 1 to 4 p.m., and Thursday until 8 p.m. when classes are in session. Admission to the museum and the exhibit is free.

Three Sisters’ reflects on human nature

COLLEEN CRONIN, assistant accent editor

The time has come for the second production of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s Theater season. Three Sisters will be playing this Thursday through Sunday at Saint Mary’s College. Written by Anton Chekov, Three Sisters is set in Russia near the turn of the century. The play captures the dreams and frustrations of the three Prozorov sisters, Masha, Olga and Irina. They yearn for love, happiness and a future around them. Inevitably they become caught up with their dreams to realize the present around them.

Three Sisters is a two-sided play, a psychological drama and a romantic love story. It is a reflection of Chekov’s perception of human nature, and it is a story which speaks across time to the hopes and dreams of people everywhere.

The set design had help from guest artist Luis Ramirez, the artistic director of Acacia Creative Services in Evanston, Ill. He designed three “box sets” as well as the furniture on stage. Properties that would reflect the time period. Linda H. Wigley, a Saint Mary’s faculty member, designed the three “box sets.”

Three Sisters is a production of visual richness with elaborate costumes and realistic, well-furnished sets.

Three Sisters will be performed in O’Laughlin Auditorium from November 15 through November 18 at 8:10 p.m., and November 19 at 3:10 p.m. Tickets are $4/$5 for students and senior citizens, and $6 for general admission. They are available at the Saint Mary’s box office in the O’Laughlin Auditorium.

‘Three Sisters’ reflects on human nature

While collecting prints is part of the normal activity for the museum, he said, “this show is a chance for us to try to show the public what we are doing.”

Spiro also explained that part of the reason for the noticeable increase in the print and drawing collection is the new interest taken in the Snite’s collections by Notre Dame alumni. One graduate in particular, John D. Beli (class of 1963), has shown a special interest in the museum’s collection of prints, and is responsible for the acquiring of approximately one-third of the pieces displayed in the current exhibition. According to Spiro, Beli is just one of the many graduates who have repeatedly become active in the building of the Snite’s collections.

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Hundreds of University of Massachusetts students put down their books and picked up placards Monday to boycott classes in a protest of state budget cuts that are forcing fee increases.

"The state of Massachusetts must not be allowed to let the pressure on education get any worse as the consequences of the present generation," said Linda Fairstein, a junior from Sunderland and a boycott organizer.

The mood on campus was festive as picket lines snaked around buildings and people paraded through Barron's March through the Student Union. Nearly 2,000 faculty and staff and 25,000 students gathered on the steps of the statehouse to hear speakers at an afternoon rally calling for raising taxes, not cutting education.

"You need to convince your representatives and senators that you are a force to be reckoned with — that you will support them if they support you," said history Professor Bruce Laurie, vice president of the faculty union.

Organizers said the length of the protest depended on state legislature and participation by students and faculty of the Amherst campus and at other state schools.

The boycott protested a $2.5 million cut in public higher education brought on by the Massachusetts' fiscal crisis. The Amherst campus' share of the cutback is $6.4 million and follows a 5 percent slash ordered in July, said Paul Pawlikowski, the school's chancellor for finance and administration.

Laurie said an informal consensus among his colleagues indicated 60 percent of Monday's classes were canceled because of the boycott. The university spokesman would not confirm that number or try to determine the extent of the boycott by early afternoon.

"I'm not sure if there were some classes were being held.

Top teams make reservations for New Year's Day bowls

Although he wouldn't come right out and reveal it, Orange Bowl president Tom Wolf left little doubt Monday about the matchup in Miami.

"If you read the polls, you'll see who my favorite teams are," he said.

Alabama, the only other national title contender with a perfect record, clinched a tie for the Southeastern Conference championship Saturday by beating Louisiana State 31-16. Auburn could create a three-way tie for the title by beating Alabama on Dec. 2, but the Sugar Bowl won't wait that long to pick its SEC team. That means Alabama will play Miami, which wrapped up the other Sugar Saturday with a 24-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Cotton Bowl had to scramble for its visiting team after Nebraska players voted to go to the Fiesta. As of Monday afternoon, Tennessee appeared to be the most likely opponent for the SWC champion, which should be the winner of the Arkansas-Texas A&M game Dec. 2.

A Nebraska-Florida State pairing in the Fiesta would be a rematch of the 1988 game, which the Gators won 31-22. "That's our best matchup," said coach Barry Switzer, the bowl's selection chairman. "We want to match up Florida State with the next highest-ranked opponent we could get. And the next highest-ranked team that would be available would be Nebraska." Michigan has the inside track for the Big Ten's spot in the Rose, but the Wolverines have to beat Minnesota and Ohio State to clinch it. If they don't, Illinois probably would play Southern Cal, which won its third straight Pac-10 title Saturday by beating Arizona 24-3. If Illinois doesn't go to Pasadena, look for the Illini to play Virginia in the Citrus. But if the Cotton doesn't take Tennessee, the Citrus might choose the Volunteers instead of Virginia.

In non-New Year's bowls, the most likely pairings are Clemson-West Virginia in the Gator, Penn State-Brigham Young in the Holiday, Georgia-Duke in the All-American, Hawaii-Michigan State in the Aloha, Air Force-Mississippi in the Liberty, Texas Tech-Tulsa in the Independence and Pitt vs. the Arkansas-Texas A&M loser in the John Hancock.

Also, Syracuse vs. the Florida-Kentucky winner in the Peach, Indiana vs. the Washington-Washington State winner in the Freedom, Fresno State vs. Ball State or Central Michigan in the California and the Arizona-Arizona State winner vs. Florida, North Carolina State, Texas Tech or Syracuse in the Copper.

Happy 21st Birthday
Al DiGiallour
LSU's All-American Chris Jackson is feeling more confident about facing the press after a red-letter freshman year. LSU enters the season ranked second behind UNLV in pre-season polls and Jackson hopes to lead his Tiger teammates to a first-place berth and to yet another post-season bow.

(AP) -- UNLV, which added junior college player of the year Larry Johnson to a deep, veteran lineup, was easy choice on Monday as the Associated Press Top 25 college basketball poll. The Runnin' Rebels, which finished last season 29-8 and one victory shy of the Final Four, received 20 of 65 first-place votes and 1,447 points, just three ahead of Michigan, which had four first-place votes and 1,447 points, 16 more than LSU, which had eight first-place votes.

Defending national champion Michigan was next with seven first-place votes and 1,439 points, followed by Louisville, UCLA, Indiana and Michigan State.

Jackson has Tourrette Syndrome, a neurological disorder that causes involuntary switches and gestures and sometimes uncontrollable vocal outbursts.

"Chris and I made a spot this summer for the Tourrette Association -- a public service spot," Mrs. Weill said. "They're going to start airing it after the season starts.

"At the beginning of the season, Chris would not have done that. He helped write it, edit it, and he picked out the background music.

"He's a pro. You want to give someone a 30-second speech to remember and speak it sincerely before a camera, give it to him. "He has a wonderful ear -- a photographic memory for the score, if there is such a thing. His intellect is probably the best kept secret about Chris." He's a most delightful, clean, quiet, unassuming man.

"Although himself an LSU graduate, class of '55, Weill said he had attended basketball games before becoming a father of Coach Dale Brown four years ago. His description of Jackson's summer revealed that Weill had accepted the stereotype of the "jack.""
Jets’ O’Brien assailed for ‘wimping out’ by New Yorkers

HEMPTSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) —
Ken O’Brien has been a New York Jet for nearly seven seasons. He has been a battered player for most of that time.

Considering that, for anyone to question O’Brien’s guts on one play has Coach Joe Walton incensed.

“The way I see the play is it could happen to anybody,” Walton said of O’Brien’s scramble in Sunday’s 31-23 loss to Miami. The quarterback appeared ready to go into the end zone but, at the 1-yard line, he stood straight rather than dive and took a hard hit from safety Louis Oliver.

Not only did O’Brien not score, but the Jets wound up with a field goal when Johnny Hector was thrown for a loss on the next play.

It was the most damaging of six short-yardage failures for the struggling Jets. And the play was shown throughout the country on the highlight shows.

Even a New York Times columnist, John Heilbronn, wondered if O’Brien was “wimping out” and questioned if his teammates might think O’Brien had lost his nerve.

O’Brien wasn’t talking, which is unusual for him.

“I don’t have anything to say,” he said as he left the team’s training complex. “I have a nice day.”

Walton had plenty to say.

“The thing that bothers me the most is the way the New York media perceived the play and also got after Kenny,” Walton said. “Kenny has been a tough football player and played very tough under trying situations.

“And to insinuate he is anything else but a tough guy disappoints me.

“I think some of the press and media ought to re-evaluate when they start talking about a tough football player.

Oliver had no doubts about why O’Brien didn’t score.

“If he dove, he could’ve made it, but he just folded,” the rookie said. “I saw his face. I don’t think he wanted that touchdown. He was afraid to take a hit.”

O’Brien has taken uncounted hits during his career.

But he’s always fought back. Even this year, with the Jets 2-8 and going nowhere and with a mediocre offense that O’Brien hasn’t been able to spark, his fortitude never has been in doubt.

Until now. And he wasn’t willing to confront the issue Monday.

O’Brien’s teammates said any questions about his nerves were unfounded.

“He’s as tough as they come,” center Jim Sweeney said. “He just made a decision that didn’t work. We’ve all done that.”

“Ken O’Brien has proven his toughness over the years to everyone in this locker room and I think he’s proven it to all the reporters, too,” defensive end Marty Lyons said.

“The person you should discuss it with is Kenny,” wide receiver Al Toon said. “It didn’t involve me.”

But Toon said Oliver’s comments could plague the Dolphins in the future.

“It just makes it tough for him,” Toon said. “If you say something about someone, in most cases, try to think positive or keep quiet.

Lyons agreed.

“We could get into a verbal war with Oliver, but what for?” Lyons said. “If it happens again and Kenny knocks him on his backside, then maybe he can go over and ask Oliver, ‘What do you say now?’”

Sunday, O’Brien said, “I should have dove” for the end zone. Presented with Oliver’s comments, O’Brien said, “If that’s his opinion, I don’t think much of it. How could he know what’s going through my mind?”

Walton wouldn’t hear of any criticism of O’Brien’s toughness.

“Unless you’ve been in the arena and been in those situations with your helmet on and down on that field,” he said, “it’s tough to pass judgment on anything.”

Hawks down Magic in 2nd straight by 8

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dominique Wilkins scored 34 points and Moses Malone had 28 points and 14 rebounds as the Atlanta Hawks took advantage of Orlando's eight missed layups in the fourth quarter to beat the Magic 112-104 Monday night.

The Hawks led 102-99 with 2:15 left, then outscored the Magic 10-5 to win their second consecutive game. The Hawks, which beat the Magic by 39 points Saturday night, led 56-47 at halftime. But Orlando opened the third period with a 10-3 run to make it 59-57.

The Magic pulled within two points eight times in the third period and drew even twice. Orlando never led while losing its third consecutive game.

The Magic played without a true center, placing 6-foot-11 Dave Corzine on the injured list Monday with torn knee ligaments. Malone scored 21 points in the first half as Orlando rotated three different players at center to stop the 6-10 All-Star.

John Battle scored 18 points for Atlanta, getting eight in the fourth quarter.

Orlando was led by Terry Catledge and Jerry Reynolds with 18 points each, but they were a combined 13 of 37 from the floor.

Sam Vincent added 17 points for the Magic.

Atlanta shot 45.6 percent, making 42 of 92 attempts. Orlando struggled, especially with layups, hitting 36.8 percent — 35 of 95.

Despite the team's size disadvantage, the Magic outrebounded Atlanta 55-46.

Oilers win barnburner 26-24 over Bengals in 4th quarter

Zendejas' 4th field goal lifts Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Tony Zendejas' fourth field goal of the game with no time left capped a fourth-quarter duel between Warren Moon and Boomer Esiason. The Houston Oilers a 26-24 victory over Cincinnati and put the Bengals' hopes of getting into the Super Bowl trip in deep jeopardy.

Zendejas' 27-yard kick came at the end of a 70-yard drive engineered by Moon that began with 4:47 remaining after Esiason had twice brought the Bengals from behind.

Esiason, who left last week's game in the first quarter with a bruised lung, threw a 73-yard touchdown pass to tight end Rodney Holman after the Bengals had fallen behind 16-12. He then completed two long passes to set up Jim Breech's 38-yard field goal with 2:22 left that provided a 24-23 Cincinnati lead.

The loss left the Bengals at 5-5, two games behind Cleveland in the AFC Central and a game behind the Oilers, 6-4. Cincinnati also has what appears to be the toughest remaining schedule of the three.

The heroics all came in a fireworks-filled fourth quarter that started after Zendejas had kicked field goals of 32, 42 and 37 yards, over a 4 1/2-minute span late in the third period and early in the fourth to give Houston a 16-13 lead.

All were set up by the Oilers' special teams, which also had scored the Bengals' only touchdown to that point when Johnny Meads blocked a Lee Johnson punt and Eugene Seale recovered it in the end zone.

Just 57 seconds later, the Bengals were back in front, courtesy of the Esiason-to-Holman pass.

That lead lasted less than 90 seconds. Moon hit Leonard Harris for 36 yards, got a 15-yard face mask call tackled on, then hit Harris again for 23 yards and a touchdown, the first of Harris' four years in the NFL.

Back came the Bengals as Esiason hit Tim McGee for 40 yards and Holman's 20-yard pass to set up Breech's kick that made it 24-23 with 33 seconds left. But after each team stalled, Moon started the Oilers on their winning drive, beginning with a 20-yard pass to Haywood Jeffires, and a 10-yard run for a first down on third and 10.

Esiason had barely started that drive. Cincinnati led 14-7 at halftime, taking advantage of Houston penalties for its first two scores. The game started out like a brawl — there were five fines in the first quarter alone.

The first touchdown came on Brooks' 58-yard burst up the middle on a third-and-six play 48 seconds into the second quarter, the second on Craig Taylor's 1-yard run with 13 seconds left.

Brooks, who got 131 of his 141 yards in the first half, would never have gotten the chance to kick had not Richard Johnson been called for unsportsmanlike conduct for taunting during a scuffle with which Cris Dishman was also called for a blow to the face. It came with Cincinnati facing a fourth and 17 from its own 4-yard line. The automatic first down gave the Bengals new life that they turned into an 89-yard drive for the touchdown.

Taylor's score was set up by an 18-yard pass interference call on Patrick Allen.

Midway through the period, Houston drove from its own 42 to the Cincinnati 2. But Coach Jerry Glanville gave up the almost sure field goal to go for it, and Moon was dropped for a 1-yard loss by Jim Okow.

On the next series, however, William Fuller sacked Esiason for a 12-yard loss to the 1 and on the next play, Meads blocked Lee Johnson's punt. The ball went straight into the air and Seale emerged from a pile of players with it to tie the game with three minutes left in the half.

The Houston Oilers raised their record to 6-4 Monday by beating the Cincinnati Bengals 26-24 on a last second field goal by Tony Zendejas. Zendejas hit four field goals in the game but shared hero's honors with the Oilers' special teams, which blocked and recovered a Bengal punt for a touchdown and broke through the Bengals' line to prevent another from getting off.

The Houston Oilers raised their record to 6-4 Monday by beating the Cincinnati Bengals 26-24 on a last second field goal by Tony Zendejas. Zendejas hit four field goals in the game but shared hero's honors with the Oilers' special teams, which blocked and recovered a Bengal punt for a touchdown and broke through the Bengals' line to prevent another from getting off.

The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel sports columnist Jerry Glanville gave up the almost sure field goal to go for it, and Moon was dropped for a 1-yard loss by Jim Okow.

On the next series, however, William Fuller sacked Esiason for a 12-yard loss to the 1 and on the next play, Meads blocked Lee Johnson's punt. The ball went straight into the air and Seale emerged from a pile of players with it to tie the game with three minutes left in the half.
Jazz wins 106-93 over Bulls
