Aquino declares emergency state in Manila Wednesday

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Corazon Aquino declared a state of emergency Wednesday and evoked the "people power" revolution in throwing her government. The emergency declaration came after a cease-fire agreement was broken when government forces killed five rebels and two government soldiers in the bloodiest fighting since Friday. Government board described the event as "an impression of St. Mary's," leading to the second floor and yelling "I want to kill me — so that they can rule out land," she said.

The emergency declaration launched Friday by thousands of soldiers. On Wednesday, rebels still held parts of the Makati financial district in Manila and the Makati Air Base in Cebu, 350 miles south of the capital. At least 79 people have been reported killed and more than 570 wounded since Friday. The emergency declaration came after a cease-fire arrangement between rebel and loyalist forces so about 1,800 foreigners, including about 250 Americans, could be evacuated from Makati, scene of heavy fighting since Saturday.

After her speech Wednesday, the government announced that Mrs. Aquino had proclaimed a national state of emergency, giving her broad powers to cope with the rebellion.

Salvadoran plane destroyed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas shot down a military observation plane, and scattered fighting killed five rebels and two government soldiers, the army said Wednesday.

The government plane was shot down by rebel rifle fire Tuesday near the town of Ozatlan, 88 miles southeast of the capital, killing the pilot, the army said.

The rebels took the body and dumped it in the coridor of the third floor by sex and sent the men out the corridor before opening fire on the women. Six women were shot dead in that room, and a seventh in an other room. Then the man, carrying what looked like a .22 caliber rifle, left in search of more victims. St. Laurent said.

The gunman prowled the halls, killing three women in the cafeteria and four more women in the corridor of the third floor, where he then shot himself.

One police officer called to the scene found his daughter was among the dead. St. Laurent at one-point told reporters police were looking for two accomplices but said later he was mistaken and the man arrested.

"I saw the bodies of the people who were slain — they were all women," said Louis Courville, director of the engineering school, his voice shaking.

One student said a bullet

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Corazon Aquino declared a state of emergency Wednesday and evoked the "people power" revolution in throwing her government.

Aquino's husband, Benigno Aquino Jr., was slain in 1983 as he arrived from self-imposed exile in the United States to challenge President Ferdinand Marcos. She took his place as the opposition presidential candidate and was swept into office in February 1986 by a civilian-military uprising.

After her speech Wednesday, the government announced that Mrs. Aquino had proclaimed a national state of emergency, giving her broad powers to cope with the rebellion.
Careful readers are aware of world events

Every day we have a golden opportunity to expand our world, but we often only read the comics and toss them away. Newspapers and magazines come to us every day with all the information to put us in touch with events, but we are somehow too busy expanding our educational horizons on Aristotle to take a couple minutes to read it. By neglecting current events we are forgetting the very reason we are in school.

Education gives us the tools and ability to piece together the events around us in an intelligent manner. Teachers aren’t here to tell us exactly what happened and newspapers don’t clearly lay out why things happen. As educated adults it is up to us to take the information around us and draw our own conclusions. We can’t do that without media or education. The two go hand in hand.

It is not a coincidence that The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Newsweek magazine and the likes offer student rates. These publications arecreated to give a future market. Don’t think the discount is out of charity. No, the big boys know better. Reading habits formed in college follow us through life.

Students often feel as if they don’t have time to be informed right now, but when they get out of college they will have the time to read the paper every morning. That is a much different scenario. If we are busy now, we will never get motivated. There is no excuse for a student at a nationally acclaimed university to be ignorant of current affairs.

Television does a great job bringing a little information to a lot of people. A six-second blip on a television screen, however, doesn’t make one enlightened. Television should just really give the base and newspapers and magazines can fill in the details. Yet most of America is content to let the tube do it all.

Newspapers, magazines and TV should not be considered completely objective. People write for the media and try as they might to avoid it, they cannot be totally indifferent. It is unscrupulous to try to be admirable to be skeptical, but never indifferent.

But an educated populace, as a campus should be, ought to be able to sort through events and make the media bring it to us. Knowledge doesn’t come only from a textbook.

These publications often give background on an occurrence, if you read the stories to the end. If you stop at the third paragraph and skip to Calvin and Hobbes you’re not going to find out how the chain of events got started.

Only an avid newspaper reader would have made it this far, so go ahead, you deserve it — turn to Calvin and Hobbes.

It was not a happy landing for Nigeria's foreign minister. As the private jet carrying Maj. Gen. Ike Nwachukwu descended over Lunuka, Zambia International Airport on Nov. 16, the pilot broke the news: the runway landing lights were off, the airport was dark and there was no response from the control tower. The crew managed to call the airport fire station and made emergency landing, aided by the lights from four fire trucks.

President Kenneth Kaunda set up a commission to investigate the affair. The state-owned Times of Zambia reported on the inquiry in its Wednesday editions.

Gene coding for brain function discovered

NEW YORK (AP) — Researchers have found the first gene of a type crucial for brain function, an advance that could lead to improved treatment for strokes and better understanding of how the brain learns and remembers, scientists say.

"This discovery is extremely important," commented Charles Stevens of Yale Medical School.

The gene is one of several that tell brain cells how to make a protein called a glutamate receptor. The receptor sits on the surface of brain cells, and when it is exposed to a substance called glutamate, it makes the cell more prone to fire off messages to neighboring brain cells.

This process is a fundamental regulator of brain cell communication.

The new discovery can be used to find genes for the other kinds of glutamate receptor, said study co-author Stephen Heinemann. Finding the gene is a first step toward studying a receptor's structure and behavior.

Eventually, glutamate receptor studies may lead to development of drugs that limit brain damage from strokes, head injury or repeated head trauma, and to new understanding of learning and memory, the scientists said.

Heinemann and colleagues at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in San Diego reported their findings in the journal Nature.

The same issue carries reports of similar findings in frogs and chicks by scientists at the Salk Institute, the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., and the Weizmann Institute of Science in Rehovot, Israel.

Stevens wrote an editorial accompanying the reports.

In a telephone interview, Heinemann said his group went on to isolate the entire gene. Finding the human counterpart of glutamate receptor genes for further research should be relatively easy, he said.

He said he hopes the work will lead to finding the gene for another type of glutamate receptor, called the NMDA receptor because it binds to a molecular chemical called N-methyl-D-aspartate.
Sandinista newspaper threatens Honduras

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Honduras "will pay" for allowing Contra rebels to remain on its territory, the official Sandinista newspaper Barri­cada said Wednesday.

The newspaper's warning came a day after a regionally approved deadline for dismantling the U.S.-backed rebels passed. It was also issued the same day the Bush administra­tion said the rebels should re­main where they are because Nicaragua has not met its part of the regional accords.

Honduras claims Nicaraguan forces have been massing on the border near the Contra camps.

The ruling Sandinista paper also said Wednesday that El Salvador will be "fuming the fire" of its 10-year-old civil war unless it finds a negotiated so­lution. Leftist rebels in that country are battlin­g a U.S.-backed right-wing government.

The editorial in Barri­cada reflected a sentiment, expressed in private conversations by government and party officials, that Nicaragua has been fulfill­ing its part of regional peace par­ties, while other countries have not.

Under the Aug. 7 accord reached by Central American presidents in Tela, Honduras, the Contras were supposed to voluntarily dismantle their Honduras jungle camps by Dec. 2. In exchange, Nicaragua moved up the date of its presi­dential elections to Feb. 25.

However, the rebels were not part of the Tela accord and have said they will go home only after a general amnesty or the elections.

The Barri­cada editorial said Honduras' "old practice of turning a deaf ear and a blind eye" to the presence of the Con­tras is a "boomerang" that hurts Honduras, not Nicaragua.

It said Honduras' president­elect, Rafael Leonardo Callejas, already was feeling pressure from Hondurans to oust the Contras. The editorial praised Callejas, saying he was echoing Nicaragua's call for disbanding the Contras.

"If the Contras continue in Hon­duras, it will be Honduras which will pay now for the bro­ken dishes of its godfathering" the rebels, the editorial said. It did not elaborate.

U.S. officials have expressed fears that Nicaragua might in­vade Honduras in an effort to wipe out the Contras.

Palestinian barred from West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — The leading spokesman for Pales­ tinians was barred Wednesday from entering the West Bank and Gaza Strip, and Israeli De­ fense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the Arab uprising might last another two years.

Troops opened fire in the West Bank town of Nablus to disperse demonstrators, wounding eight Palestinians, hospital offici­ als said. Six Arabs were shot by troops in stone-throwing clashes in Gaza, they said.

The army imposed a curfew on the whole territory that evening to prevent further fighting.

Three houses of Palestinians suspected in attacks on Israeli soldiers and civilians were destroyed.

Palestinian spokesman Faisal Husseini, who lives in the Arab sector of Jerusalem annexed by Israel, was banned by the army from entering the occupied ter­ ritories for six months. He ac­ cused authorities of trying to increase tension among Pales­ tinians in the occupied terri­ tories.

The army orders said the travel ban against Husseini, 49, was taken "for the sake of en­ suring public peace, the defense of the area and the establish­ ment of public order."

A military official said Hus­ seini was involved in "incitement against the authori­ ties, against the army."

The official, who insisted on anonymity, gave no details.

Husseini, a pro-PLO activist, was released from prison in January after being held for 18 months without charge or trial.

35 killed in Bogota truck bomb incident

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A truck bomb containing half a ton of dynamite exploded out­ side secret police headquarters during the morning rush hour Wednesday, killing at least 35 people and wounding hundreds.

The bomb, presumably the work of drug gangs, was the most powerful to strike the capital since Colombia's cocaine traffickers began a wave of ter­ ror after the government declared war on them 16 weeks ago.

A spokesman for President Virgilio Barco said the bombing might be the start of a new campaign of mass killings by the drug traffickers, but that the government would fight on.

The blast, which tore open a crater 20 feet deep and de­ stroyed or heavily damaged a score of buildings, occurred less than 24 hours after gov­ ernment investigators said a bomb caused the death of a Colombian jetliner last month that killed 107 people.

No one claimed responsibility directly for Wednesday's explo­ sion, but a top guerrilla leader, Bogota police chief, said it was retaliation for the work of drug traffickers.

A statement from the so­ called Extraditables delivered to newspapers and radio sta­ tions in Medellin, based on the most powerful drug cartel, said: "We will stop the war only when the Senate understands the people must be our judge."

The reference was to a bill that would permit a national referendum on extraditing drug traffickers wanted in the United States. The House of Representatives approved it Tuesday night.

passed his leg and he brought his hands up in a pleading ges­ ture. The gunman left him alone.

He was clearly gunning for the women," the student said.

"All I know is that a crazy guy came in here and began shooting at anything that moved," said Dominique Berube, 22, one of scores of terrified students who ran from the classroom.

She said some people threw themselves on the floor while others were shot and paralyzed.

The injured, several in critical condition, were taken to four hospitals.

Frenzied parents rushed to the university and were told to gather at a central location.

"I saw death close up and I shook," said student Vantionna Day, 22.

Wrestlers told police the grizzled foreigner had entered the classroom at about 5:20 p.m.

Students said the man entered from the side of the truck, fired three or four shots at a group of people and ran up a flight of stairs.

Student Francois Bordeloue said he had to drag people by the collar to keep them from going in the man's direction.

He said he heard 20 to 30 shots and the man appeared to be aiming mainly at women.

"I heard the gunman say: 'I want the women,'" said Bordeloue.

Several other witnesses con­ firmed that the gunman said that.

Student Eric Chavarie said the gunman "told us to stop ev­ erything. And then when we looked at him we thought it was a joke, but he fired a shot in the air and separated us into two groups, the guys in one corner and the girls in (another) corner.

"When that was done he asked the women, he left the girls in there."
Military issues warning in E. Berlin

The Observer Thursday, December 7, 1989

EAST BERLIN (AP) — The military issued its first warning Wednesday in the turmoil that has convulsed East Germany, and a non-Communist took over as head of state to end a 40-year lock the Communists held on the presidency.

The government reported signs that angry citizens were storming army installations, and military leaders pledged to repel any attempts to seize weapons and munitions.

Manfred Gerlach, leader of the Liberal Democratic Party, replaced Egon Krenz as interim president, the first time a non-Communist had become presi­dent since East Germany's founding in 1949. Gerlach's party recently broke off its long alliance with the Communists after weeks of spearheading reforms.

The Communists advanced their emergency session one week to Friday to overhaul the party's structure.

Shedding such "Stalinist" op­erations as the Central Com­mittee and ruling Politburo is one possibility. Breaking up the party's structure.

In seven weeks, the country has faced a virtual revolution that first ousted a hard-line leadership and then threw out senior Communist Party chief. A 25-member committee of Communists now runs the na­tion.

The National Defense Council, in charge of the armed forces, quit on Wednesday, less than 24 hours after the leadership of the once-dreaded secret police.

The official ADN news agency reported late Wednesday the suicide of an official caught two days earlier trying to leave a government building with two suitcases stuffed with East German and West German money.

ADN did not give his name, but said he was connected to the case of fugitive Alexander Schachtel-Gotowelski, the former top East German for­eign trade official accused of running a weapons-selling ring.

Manfred Seidel, the No. 2 offi­cial in that scandal-plagued office, was arrested on suspi­cion of having smuggled $110 million out of the country.

The Christian Democrats, a small party that recently broke with the Communists, said growing financial scandals were making East Germany look like a "banana republic."

The government announced a partial amnesty Wednesday, following hunger strikes spreading to penal institutions nationwide. It applies to those sentenced to three years or less and excludes prisoners con­victed of "rowdiness," a term once applied to pro-democracy demonstrators but also some­times used for more serious of­fenders.

The reform movement ex­plored here after hard-liner Erich Honecker was ousted fol­lowing 18 years as Communist Party chief. Since then, a popu­lar uprising and a flood of refugees to the West forced the government to open East Ger­many's borders and the Berlin Wall to let citizens travel freely.

East Germans also have been promised open elections, but the country's overall direction remains unclear.

Pro-democracy opposition groups so far lack the coordi­nation to fill the power vacuum left by the Communists' hasty retreat.

For days, reports surfaced of furious citizens barging into secret police offices, including storming one building in the southern city of Gera on Wednesday.

A citizens committee pressing for reforms in Leipzig occupied the regional state security head­quarters there on Monday, and an ADN report suggested the activists still controlled the building.

The assaults were meant to stop destruction of documents needed in prosecuting former Communist officials.

An investigative commission recommended criminal charges against former secret police boss Erich Mielke, $1, for police attacks against demonstrators in October that touched off the revolutionary changes.

ADVENT LESSONS AND CAROLS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Elias Hrawi was quoted Wednesday as saying he would give Gen. Michel Aoun, the rebellious army commander he fired, two weeks to leave the presidential palace peacefully.

Leaders of the Nationalist Front, a loose alliance of Syr­ian-backed Moslem and leftist factions, called for a general strike Thursday to protest "Aoun's attempts to partition Lebanon."

Hrawi, a Maronite Catholic like the general, said Moslem army units under Gen. Emile Lahoud, the new commander, were preparing a plan to invade the Christian enclave where Aoun is entrenched and dis­miss him if necessary.

Soldiers loyal to Aoun fought Syrian-backed Moslem militiamen Wednesday for a second day in Beirut and hills above the city. Police reported one person killed and three wounded.

The independent newspaper An-Nahar quoted Hrawi as saying in an interview: "I'm giving goodwill mediators a week or two to produce fruitful results."

But he stressed that he will not "compromise regarding unity of the legal authorities.""

"The presidential palace in Baabda has become a symbol that should not be given away to anyone," Hrawi said.
Students learn about global market in Europe

By Mike Kolar
Business Writer

In today's business world, there is much talk of the orientation toward a global marketplace, as well as the impact of the birth of the European Economic Community in 1992.

In this changing environment, a global awareness, and an increased emphasis on international business education is important to students planning to enter the corporate world upon graduation.

At Notre Dame, one way of obtaining a more global business perspective is the European Business Seminar. Approximately three weeks in length, this summer program allows students to travel to some of Europe's greatest cities and sights, and to visit many well known companies engaged in business in Europe. Since it was first offered at Notre Dame in the summer of 1988, the program has grown in popularity under the direction of Terry Clark, Assistant Professor of Marketing.

While the logistics of travel, hotel accommodations, and seminar activities are handled by International Business Seminars, Notre Dame arranges its own preparation and course work before the seminar. The course work involves weekly classes, as well as a major test and paper. Through the seminar program, students are eligible for three credits in International Business if they desire, or they may participate merely for their own personal benefits.

The 1989 seminar included visits to London, Paris, Lyon, Nice, Monte Carlo, Geneva, Cologne, Stuttgart, and Amsterdam, with all of the transportation on the continent being by motor coach. During their travel, the participants had ample free time to shop, sight see, and acquaint themselves with the local culture and people.

The major benefits of the trip, however, lie in the education received in visiting with the men and women who are engaged in international business, and in hearing their views on the issues facing their respective entities.

In the past year, three groups of participants visited such well known corporations as Price Waterhouse, Steinway & Sons, Cadbury, and Mercedes-Benz, in addition to the British Banker's Association and the ADN Bank.

At each of these, the group was well received, and heard views on the issues facing their respective entities. In addition, there are the cultural benefits for its participants. "First of all, it is a lot of fun. In addition, there are the cultural benefits, the business education, and the unique opportunity to get a look inside some of Europe's major corporations." While Notre Dame was not the only school represented on the seminar trip, they were, according to Clark, the best prepared, and participated more actively in seminar discussions. "My colleagues from Baylor University were so impressed, they plan to introduce our program of preparation to their student next year," Clark said.

Plans are already underway for the 1990 seminar, and the majority of the slots available to ND students are filled, according to Clark.

European seminar participants hold an important business meeting on the roof tops of Monte Carlo. Monte Carlo was one of their many stops on a three week trip through Europe's centers. The students visited multinational corporations such as Mercedes-Benz and Price Waterhouse.

Clayd feels the program holds numerous benefits for its participants. "First of all, it is a lot of fun. In addition, there are the cultural benefits, the business education, and the unique opportunity to get a look inside some of Europe's major corporations."

students are filled, according to Clark.
Women presiders do not diminish ‘Catholic character’

Dear Editor:

I was disturbed to read in The Observer (Dec. 1) that both the LaFortune Student Center and the Christmas tree at the corner of Notre Dame Avenue and Angela Boulevard were recently vandalized. Although there is apparently no compelling reason to believe that the LaFortune vandalism was done by Notre Dame students, the discovery of footprints leading from the Christmas tree back to campus suggests that some of our own are vandals.

But whether the vandalism comes from “Breeders” or “Domers,” we should be outraged. What kind of personal gratification vandals derive from deliberate defacing of things that others find beautiful and enjoyable is simply my understanding. It illustrates yet again that some people are not content simply to be immature. They insist on displaying that immaturity for all the world to see.

Another thing that disturbs me is the apparently acceptable defacing of our campus by countless people walking across lawns. I have had the opportunity to visit many college campuses nationwide, and very few are as beautiful as ours. Yet so many people on the Notre Dame campus seem totally unconcerned about the destructive consequences of their casual, repeated, leisurely strolls from their point of origin to their destination. I do not believe this is immaturity, but it is wanton carelessness. Such carelessness is unbefitting of an academic community that takes justifiable pride not only in learning but in values as well. Since we are about to begin a new year, perhaps we can all resolve to use paved rather than grassy surfaces as our walkways, and to encourage our friends to do the same.

Consider the plight of St. Michael’s Laundry workers

Dear Editor:

I am disturbed as to what was not said or was inadvertently omitted by The Observer as to the tragic loss of St. Michael’s Laundry a few weeks ago.

The Canon Law Society’s Committee on the Status of St. Michael’s Laundry was a precious landmark to many of us here on the campus, past and present. It was unique in so many ways, as were the wonderful dedicated men, women and Holy Cross Sisters who labored there throughout the decades. These dedicated people have made a unique contribution to this University, the students, faculty and Holy Cross priests, brothers and sisters. Our debt to these employees past and present is infinite.

They went about their task of sorting soiled linen and sundry clothing with little thanks or recognition. No matter how much money is spent on rebuilding another laundry, you can never replace the unique beauty of what was lost. In my 40 years near and around this campus, I consider myself fortunate in knowing so many of these totally dedicated people, and my life has been enriched fourfold by our mutual friendship.

Mr. Zadrozyj has inadver- tently omitted the sadness and sal effect on the lives of the laundry employees. May St. Michael come to our assistance in our loss.

Misfits in Disguise

Local students make comedy debut with 'SNL'-type skits at Alumni Senior Bar

CAROL DOMINGUEZ

The group is Misfits in Disguise, but unlike their name, the Notre Dame student performers are not fake, they are real.

Misfits, a student-run 15-member comedy company that represents a cross-section of student talent, is making its debut on campus Thursday, December 7, 1989, at the Alumni Senior Club.

Brad Perry, founder and leader of the Misfits, attends Holy Cross Junior College, Alyssa Moehle and Annie Parker are Notre Dame students, and Brian Maggio and Karl Rohling are seniors at Saint Mary's College.

"We're fresh and entertaining — something new for people to do on a weekend night. We're young and fun, we hope we're funny, we know we're funny!" Karl Rohling are seniors at Notre Dame. John Zeman, a 1989 ND graduate and improvisational pianist, enhances the impromptu character by providing musical accompaniment for each skit. Since last fall, these students have been meeting each weekend to perform skits. They plan to perform at least four times a semester. "We're fresh and entertaining — something new for people to do on a weekend night. We think we're funny, we hope we're funny, we know we're funny!"

Each skit is a dynamic, enthusiastic individual with a hidden desire for the stage. With friends' encouragement, Parker decided to utilize her comic talent, make new friends, and conquer an unexplored interest. Rohling, though not planning on an improvisational career, admits that "if doors are open because of this, I'll put my foot through." Perry, however, hopes one day to perform in Second City/Saturday Night Live, participates in campus comedy with this goal in mind.

Soon Misfits in Disguise would like to perform for a broader audience at Washington Hall. They think they can catch the company starting this Saturday at Alumni Senior Bar. Rohling speaks for Misfits when he says, "Give us a chance — try something new. We'll surprise you."

The Green Album: Gumby should stick to cartoons

MATTHEW SPATZ

I suppose somebody somewhere has been waiting for it and sooner or later it had to come. It did. The Green Album, a collection of mostly new songs celebrating the little plastic green hero of our childhood, Gumby. Ranging in musical styles from pop-rock to zeodee, and reggae to polka to physical comedy, the album features such greats as the Zappa siblings, Frank Sinatra Jr (yes, the son of Old Blue Eyes), Flo & Eddie, Sly & Robbie, Moon Unit Zappa, Brian Eno, Brian Magee, and a couple of other people you've never heard.

It is supposedly a response to the thích-ADVremake of the 1960s TV show, sweeping the college campus circuit from which, I suppose, Notre Dame has been graciously spared. But in California, where these things seem to make a difference, Buena Vista records felt it had enough of a market for an otherwise doomed Gumby concept album. Basically, it is a novelty which will be outdated before it is reviewed. Nonetheless, there are a few things which should be pointed out.

The album starts with a slightly more-than-catchy but frankly less-than-enduring self-proclaimed "speed metal" tune by Dwight and Moon Unit Zappa called "In Love With You Gumby". After stating that "You're dependable, dependable, most of all befriendable/ Gangly and green, you're tall and you're lean/ Kissable, missable, more than imperishable. Everybody wants you!" you know what I mean, "Moon Unit pleads to her newfound lover to "Show me the stuff that your made of, 'cause I think I'm in love."

The bad news is, it doesn't get much better than this. The album is packed to the brim with silly and meaningless lyrics and less than innovative melodies. At this point, let me make it clear that I like Gumby. That said, let me continue by saying that, if it weren't for scheming, trend-creating, money-grubbing producers like Ship-Shape, the Zappa siblings would be passing out flowers on behalf of the Church semi-consciousness in the lobby of L.A.X. (where they belong). Someone should isolate that gene pool now.

There are two 60's remakes, three if you count the original theme song by Sinatra. Eddie Wade, who producer Stern claims has legions of fans, with a tremendous voice does his version of (appropriately enough) "Bend Me, Shape Me". Other less-than-memorable songs include "Yeodeco Gumby Ya Ya", "Don't Be Blue if you should be Green! Do what the Cajun's do," and "Pokey's Polka" by Brave Combo, who describe themselves as "the first nuclear polka band."

One slightly imaginative song by Flo & Eddie is the Beatleque "We All Are Gumby", complete with cello backup and the now-immortalized Tears for Fears trumpet riff. It begins with "I'm not green and you're not green, but he in green and plasticine to boot" and continues "all that we are really saying is 'give Gumby a chance.'" In the conclusion, there is an incessant chant of "Gumby! Gumby! Everybody's Gumby!" and even an allusion to the "Pokie is dead" rumor with an atmospheric "Craberry Pokie" or "I buried Pokie." It's too difficult to figure out.

The most classy piece is the remake of the show's theme song by Sinatra. Eddie Wade, who producer Stern claims has a legion of fans, performs the old favorite (?) "Concrete and Clay." Donna Summer, another newfound lover to "Show me the stuff that your made of, 'cause I think I'm in love."

On the whole, however, The Green Album could quite possibly be the worst musical tragedy I've encountered.
Trades: Red Sox make big deals on deadline day.

The Boston Red Sox made significant trades on the final day of the winter meetings, acquiring several key players to bolster their roster for the upcoming season.

On the day of the deadline, outfielder Mookie Betts and pitcher Chris Sale were traded from the Red Sox to the Los Angeles Dodgers in a blockbuster deal. The Red Sox received shortstop Xander Bogaerts and a minor league pitcher in return.

In another deal, the Red Sox acquired pitcher James Paxton from the Seattle Mariners in exchange for a conditional 2022 minor league pick.

With these deals, the Red Sox set themselves up for a strong 2022 season, aiming to compete for a World Series title.

Missouri 106, Hawaii Loa 48

Fourth-ranked Missouri shot a school-record 75 percent and Doug Smith scored 17 points to lead five players in double figures as the Tigers beat NAIA member Hawaii Loa 106-48 Wednesday night.

Missouri (6-0), which won its 20th straight home game, opened the game with a 23-4 burst, led by Nathan Buntin’s 13 points. The Tigers led 56-23 at halftime while shooting 83 percent. The 75 percent for the game broke the record for third season in 1982.

Michigan 100, Central Michigan 51

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan led in goal percentage last season, hitting 56.6 percent of its shots en route to the national championship, and it appears the Wolverines are trying for that distinction again. The third-ranked Wolverines shot 56 percent overall en route to a 100-51 victory over Central Michigan on Wednesday night.

"We got good shots and made them," Michigan coach Steve Fisher said. "It was a game that was a little easier than we thought it would be.”

Terry Mills scored all his 17 points in the first half, and after a 2-1 start, was stripped of his starting spot by fishermen West and Mike Maddox, Kevin Pritchard scored 12 each.

Kansas 86, SMU 53

DALLAS — Terry Brown hit four 3-pointers and scored 14 points to lead second-rated Kansas to an 86-53 victory Wednesday night over last-night Southern Methodist.

Kansas (8-0) trailed only once as it had six players in double figures. Mark Randall, Perkins Markkanen, and Kevin Pittard had 12 points apiece while Freeman West and Mike Maddox added 10 each.

PAM (14) was led by Reginald Muhammad who had 13 points and Vernon Perdue, who chipped in with 10.

Kansas outshot SMU 57 percent to 37 percent and outrebounded the Mustangs 33-28.

Syracuse nips Duke in Challenge contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Everick Sullivan scored nine points as No. 11 Syracuse opened with a 14-0 run and was never headed in beating Vanderbilt 101-75 Wednesday night.

It was the second straight time Louisville (5-1) hit the century mark, having beaten Cleveland State 104-77 on Monday.

Sullivan, who scored 13 of his 20 points in the first half, hit two jump shots, a 3-point shot and a slam dunk during the opening spurt, which was capped by a 3-4 free throw at the 14:17 mark.

Louisville’s full-court pressure defense forced Vanderbilt (2-3) to miss its first eight shots and commit three turnovers before Derrick Wilcox broke the drought with a jumper from the top of the key with 15:55 left in the half.

Louisville then upped its advantage to 26-6 over the next three minutes on the strength of a 3-pointer from LaBradford Smith, who had 10 points in the half, one fewer than leader тысяч Мальцев, who added 10 each.

Vanderbilt pulled within 11 points three times, the last at 27-16 with 9:57 left before Sullivan scored 10 of the final 14 points in the half for a 48-31 lead at the break.

Kansas 86, SMU 53

LOUISVILLE — Despite six starters hitting five or more 3-pointers, Missouri outshot SMU 57 percent to 37 percent and outrebounded the Mustangs 33-28.

Duke 89, Kansas 77

The Blue Devils spun a 22-point second-half burst to put away the Jayhawks here Wednesday night in the annual Challenge.

Kansas (8-0) trailed only once as it had six players in double figures. Mark Randall, Perkins Markkanen, and Kevin Pittard had 12 points apiece while Freeman West and Mike Maddox added 10 each.

NEW YORK (AP) Mohammed "Moe" Elewonibi was minding his business, having a little fun booting a soccer ball around on the campus of Snow Junior College in Ephraim, Utah, when the football coach wandered by, caught a glimpse of him and led him away.

Two years later, the 6-foot-5, 290-pounder found himself at Brigham Young University and Wednesday he was named winner of the Outland Trophy as the best college lineman in America.

Elewonibi beat out Morris "Moo" Gardner, junior nose tackle from Illinois and Michael Tanks, senior center from Florida State for the award presented by the Football Writers Association of America. He is BYU's second Outland winner in four years, following Jason Buck of the Cincinnati Bengals, who took the award in 1986.

Elewonibi, a native of Nigeria who grew up in Kamloops, British Columbia, never played high school football. "I was small when I came to Canada," he said. "I wasn't even tall enough to play basketball."

Soccer was his game but when he got to Snow JC, he found the sport limited to club status. "There were guys from the Middle East and Africa and we played a little pickup soccer," he said. "But there were no other teams for us to play. We even played BYU once and lost 13-6.

By then, though, he had grown large enough to try other things. So he had no hesitation about playing football. His first game was less than a crossing success, however, with Snow losing, 41-7.

"I was emotional thinking about it, thinking if I did this or that," he said. "I'm competitive by nature. I don't like to lose. I worked on my technique and by the end of the season, I was as good as everybody has been saying for the last couple of years."

Boston seems to have made one of the biggest moves of all by signing Heardon. That should shore up the Red Sox bullpen woes, created when Lee Smith's career burned out faster than expected. It still remains to be seen whether the Sox will deal Mike Greenwell or Ellis Burks for some starting pitchers.

in years before. It should be intriguing to see the results of the Joe Carter trade. I wonder how Carter could help a team he actually enjoys playing for, particularly a potential contender like San Diego (provided the Padres do not make again those choices to start their season around late August). We also finally will realize whether Sandy Alomar is as good as everybody has been saying for the last couple of years.

Gerardi's newfound confidence leads to productive start

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

Mark Gerardi has been wrestling since the age of seven, but his attrition to the sport wasn't exactly love at first sight.

“My dad had done some wrestling in high school, so he brought my brother and me down to some local high school,” recalls Notre Dame’s 167-pound wrestler. “I hated it at first. We went to a few tour-ments where my brother wrestled, but it took a couple of them before I entered one.”

Fortunately for Fran McCann and the Fighting Irish wrestling team, Gerardi eventually changed his attitude. The junior from El Cajon, Calif., has started all three years at Notre Dame and is off to his best start ever this season.

Gerardi has recorded individual championships in the Michigan State Invitational and the St. Louis Open. Most recently, Gerardi placed fourth in the 167-pound bracket at last weekend's prestigious Las Vegas Invitational.

Gerardi’s early accomplishments this season are all the more remarkable in that they follow what some may have considered a disappointing sophomore season. Following a 29-8 freshman campaign in which he was named to the Amateur Wrestling News Freshman All-Star team, Gerardi fell victim to the sophomore jinx, dropping to 21-14 last season.

“I can’t put my finger on it, but I really didn’t wrestle as well as I could,” said Gerardi. “Now I’m starting to get back where I was freshman year.”

Minneapolis (AP) -- Luther Darville was sentenced Wednesday to 18 months at Stillwater state prison for stealing $186,000 from the University of Minnesota when he supervised its minority affairs office.

A jury last month convicted Darville of three felony counts of theft by swindle despite his testimony that he gave the money to student-athletes and other students on orders from his superiors at the university.

The prosecution contended he used the money to buy a personal jet and pay off student-athletes he supervised during his three years as the university's assistant director of student-athlete development.

Sentence Darville to six months at the county workhouse for contempt of court. The workhouse term will be served after the prison sentence is completed. The contempt sentence was for failing to obey a court order that Darville reveal names of athletes he said had given him the money.

Darville, 37, was sentenced to 18 months in prison on one count, 15 months on the second count and one year and one day on the third count. Fitzgerald then ordered the sentences to run concurrently, said the judge’s law clerk, John Conley.

Darville will get credit for time already served in jail, which totals about 111 days. Conley said.

Under Minnesota sentencing guidelines, Darville could have received probation.

But Phelps says it hurt "for us to have 16 turnovers (in the first half against Indiana) where we only scored 29 points. If you score shooting 50 percent on eight of those 16 possessions, you have the possibility of getting another 16 points, well then, you actually are what we were in the second half when we only had 5 turnovers and scored 43 points."

One doesn’t need to decipher all of Phelps’ equations to understand that the Irish are simply killing themselves with turnovers. In the first half, Notre Dame coughed up the ball 16 times to a less experienced Hoosier squad. Such numbers are enough to cause nightmares for a coach who is trying to run an up-tempo offense.

“The exact game plan was to drive on Indiana,” said Phelps. “Forget the perimeter shooting, drive on Indiana.” said Phelps.

“Now I’m starting to get back where I was freshman year.”

since we don’t have LaPhonso Fills inside.”

Last year Eillery offered some much-needed spark early in his season, particularly in the Big Four Classic against Kentucky, when he scored 17 points and went for 6 from the three-point stripe. This year Eillery, a five-foot-11, 186-pound junior high school Player of the Year his high school coach credited him with the majority of his minutes in the paint, averaging 4.3 points and 1.3 rebounds per game.

In speaking of his team’s problems with turnovers, Phelps sounds more like a math teacher than a basketball coach.

Gerardi says. “They tell us that if you don’t think you can win, you won’t be able to do it,” said Gerardi, who had a California state record 129 consecutive wins while in high school. “You have to have faith in your abilities and know when you go out there that you can win.”

Gerardi, who is wrestling at 167 pounds this year after competing at 158 the past two seasons, adds that the change in weight classes might have played a factor in Gerardi’s improvement.

“It might have helped,” said McCann. “He seems a little stronger. He didn’t really have to cut lots of weight, but it has given him one less thing to worry about.”

DAVIVILLE was sentenced to six months in the paint, averaging 4.3 points and went 4 for 6 from behind the three-point stripe.

Holtz says Irish ought to be No. 1 if they top Colorado in bowl game

BY KEN TYSIAC
Sports Writer

Sophomore guards Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet, who make up Notre Dame's "Texas Express" backcourt, sparkled Tuesday against Indiana, earning the right to start for the first time in Saturday's game against Marquette.

Bennett and Sweet will replace slumping senior co-captain Kevin Ellery, who was suspended for the first half against Indiana. Holtz Jackson in the starting lineup at the Bradleym Center in Indianapolis. Irish coach Digger Phelps is concerned about the players' form, but he feels that they may be ready to come off the bench.

"You try a different bat if you're in a slump, or you may have a better one in the garage," says Holtz. "But in Fredrick's situation, we'd like to go back to where he came from and the last game, Vanderbilt and Georgetown and Notre Dame played well. If we top Colorado, we beat Oklahoma, they beat Nebraska and they beat a pretty good Illinois team 38-16.

"Let's face it, no team is involved in games of this magnitude very often. We didn't have that much experience last year when we won the national championship. Colorado is the only major undefeated team in the country, will be playing for its first national title.

"This is a new experience for us," McCartney said. "It would be easy for us to say, 'We're going to the Orange Bowl,' and we'd be satisfied with that. But that's not going to happen because we realize what's at stake.

"This is a very special time for Colorado. We haven't been in this situation since the '40s, the entire state and the city of Boulder are electrified."

Bowl committees, that meant Georgia would play a bowl game.

Georgia Tech whipped its intrastate rival 33-22 to close out the season at 7-4. With the loss, the Bulldogs fall to 6-3.

In the twisted logic of the bowl committees, that meant Georgia will play a bowl game after Georgia Tech will not.

That doesn't ring true when you look at each team fared against those schedules. One of Colorado's losses was to a weak South Carolina State team. The Bulldogs' loss was to a still undefeated Alabama team.

I used to think that one of the major positives regardless of who starts, so Fredrick and Jackson need not worry about a lack of playing time. But he believes that Sweet and Bennett should be proud of their accomplishments thus far.

"They've earned it. They're the best," he praises. "We beat more than just Indiana. He was on fire, hitting 8 out of 9 shots from the field and finishing with a team-high 16 points and four rebounds. Bennett also shot well, scoring 15 points and connecting on 6 out of 11 from the field.

"After your first season it doesn't make a difference how many people are in the arena. Sweet says of playing in Assembly Hall in Bloomington, 'You don't think about the tradition of the place. You just want to do your job, win and leave. Unfortunately we didn't win, but we still had to leave.'"

Irish forward Kevin Ellery, who suffered an ankle injury in the Midwest matchup, probably will not play against Marquette. According to Phelps, Ellery's ankle has been bothering him for the past three weeks.

"I know we're going to miss Kevin Ellery," says Phelps. "We used to think he was one of the key players. I don't know if he's gone because he played very well, we lose all for last fall against Kentucky and Indiana, as well as UCLA. He's so powerful for us inside, and that's something we need right now, especially in the postseason. How many people are really looking forward to a Georgia-Syracuse contest?

Aside from Kansas' upsets of LSU and UNLV in the Dodge CIT last month, the first true college basketball excitement of the season has come from this week's ACC-Big East Challenge.

Of course, another interesting early-season tournament will arise if you gather up all of Oklahoma's pre-conference opponents and had them play a round robin tournament. First-round matches would be between Northeastern Illinois vs. Alaska-Anchorage and U.S. International vs. Angelo State.

These winter baseball meetings seem to have featured more deals of liberal players than
