INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ryan White, who won a long court battle to attend public school and overcome prejudice against himself and other AIDS patients, lost his 5 1/2-year struggle with the deadly disease on Sunday, said death followed a "giant step towards the eventual plan to fund the needs of all students."

According to Richard Conklin, director of Notre Dame Public Relations and Information, the bulk of the revenues from the 1991-92 football television contract with NBC has been committed to this endowment. However, Beauchamp said that the decision to implement this program was made independent of the contract.

Joseph Russo, director of financial aid, said that the university hopes to increase the amount of minority students admitted each year. He said that White's death will help continue the fight, his fight, against this dreaded disease.

Beauchamp emphasized the importance of recognizing the contributions of individuals who have been affected by AIDS. "All Americans are impressed by his courage, strength and his ability to continue fighting," he said.

"This one's for Ryan," John White said to the other volunteers at the concert to raise funds for financially troubled farmers.

"At the end, his family and a few of the others who loved him came around to his side," Ryan's mother, Jeanne, said. "He never regained consciousness, and I am confident that he suffered no pain at the end."

Carrie Van Dyke, a spokeswoman for Mrs. White, said the family needed "time to be alone, to recover, to grieve."

"All Americans are impressed by his courage, strength and his ability to continue fighting," President Bush said in a statement. "Ryan's family informed us that we as a people must pledge to continue the fight, his fight, against this dreaded disease."

White won the right to attend school, however, pressures on his family later drove the Whites to the town of Cicero, where they were cordially at Hamilton Heights High School in nearby Arcadia.

"We were close at his side," Kleiman admitted each year, "lie said, "lie never regained consciousness, and I am confident that he suffered no pain at the end."

"All Americans are impressed by his courage, strength and his ability to continue fighting," President Bush said in a statement. "Ryan's family informed us that we as a people must pledge to continue the fight, his fight, against this dreaded disease."

White's death will help continue the fight, his fight, against this dreaded disease.

The fire spread early Sunday from the gutted middle section to the captain's bridge a few hours after the blackened ship was tossed into port. The blaze, which finally was extinguished late Sunday, sent plumes of smoke over Lysekil, on Swe­den's southwest coast 250 miles southwest of Stockholm, the capital on the east coast.

Tugboats doused the ship with water, hoses were blasted into the side of the 10,500-ton ship to allow the water to drain out, for fear that the badly list­ ing ship would topple onto the concrete dock.

Officials with VR-DANO Line, the company in Copenhagen that owns and operates the Ban­ ham-flagged ship, said the blaze was caused by arson, cit­ing two fires that broke out at a short interval on two differ­ ent decks.

District police chief Roar Omsa, revising earlier figures, said 345 people survived the fire, which broke out about midway on the ship's ten hour voyage from Oslo to Frederikstan. Ferry captain Hugo Larsen told police of 395 pas­sengers and 97 crewmen, if his figure is correct, 147 people died, Omsa said.

In Oslo, police said six Ameri­ can musicians were among the rescued. A seventh member of the group was not on the list of survivors, but police did not know if she had boarded the ship. The Americans were not identified.

Omsa said a burned passenger list was found in the debris but...
Volunteer learns the joy of giving

Sara's broken English might have been frustrating to some, but not to the girls who gave up a Saturday of sleep and relaxation to give her a chance to paint a room.

When our Christmas in April crew was sent to the center, my first response was relief—relief that we wouldn't be picking up leaves for eight hours in 30-degree weather. But after spending the afternoon with Sara, and the others at the center, my self-chosen attitude changed, and I couldn't help but realize I had actually considered turning off the alarm and skipping the entire event.

Sara runs "Proyecto Madre," a project for single parents designed to help them organize their life. As the crew helped her cover the blackboards before painting the aging building, she explained that the Lord's Prayer was written on the board in Spanish because many of the children are learning English as a second language.

Her directions may have been a little on the meticulous side, such as suggesting that we paint the lock and chain on a set of doors that had never been used in a year, but the results were far from dictatorial. She was thrilled that we were there, and as we progressed, the many Spanish songs and rhymes. As she fluttered from room to room, supervising our work, she would break into song, encouraging us to follow suit. By the end of the day, the "Coffee Song" was so popular that I had volunteered to copy the words and translation for our crew.

I also had an idea that the experience would affect me, at all. I've never really been much for volunteer work—not because I'm not interested, but simply because I never had the time. But spending an afternoon with the kids, and seeing how something as simple as painting could be so significant, I think I'll have to make the time.

I learned a lot about Sara that day. I learned how her life had changed since she left Cuba. I learned about her children, their careers, their spouses' careers, and her longing for a granddaughter.

But more important than the minutiae divorced from the life of someone I may never see again, I learned about myself. While I'm not planning to jump on the nearest volunteer bandwagon, I think I'll be more apt to give to others what I've for so long forgotten I could.

Sara told me that "Proyecto Madre" is in dire need of blankets, and asked me to do what I could to help. While I'm not sure if others will respond, I know that I'll have a package sent to the center within the week. It's the least I can do.

The estate of Liberace, who died in 1987 from AIDS, auctioned Palm Springs Cal. The late, flamboyant pianist's trademark candelabra silver and a Serafin grand piano were among the 2,000 furnishings and artwork sold from the "Colosseum," his Palm Springs estate. The sale raised $330,000, with proceeds benefiting the Liberace Foundation for the Performing and Creative Arts, which provides scholarships to students of the arts.

Volunteer opportunities available in Chicago and other areas. Charles Carvey representing the Passionist Missioners will be on campus Wednesday, April 11, 12:30 p.m. - 1 p.m. Library Conference, 1 - 5 p.m., OHC. Stop by and investigate job placements.

The conservative New Democracy party Sunday won the most seats in Greece's third parliamentary election in 10 months and appeared close to the outright majority needed to break the country's political deadlock, according to partial results. But with no official projections available, the New Democracy campaign was already heading for an outright majority in the 300-member single-house Parliament.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556
219-230-7471

Today's Staff:

Pete Loftus
Sports
Ken Tysiac
Assistant News Editor

Monica Yont

FORECAST

Pressure

COLD

WARM

STATIONARY

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

COLD

WARM

STATIONARY

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

FLIPPER

©1995 Acu-Weather, Inc.

INTIMATE

The estate of Liberace, who died in 1987 from AIDS, auctioned Palm Springs Cal. The late, flamboyant pianist's trademark candelabra silver and a Serafin grand piano were among the 2,000 furnishings and artwork sold from the "Colosseum," his Palm Springs estate. The sale raised $330,000, with proceeds benefiting the Liberace Foundation for the Performing and Creative Arts, which provides scholarships to students of the arts.

Mitchell Daniels, president of the Hudson Institute, will resign this fall to become vice president of corporate affairs at Eli Lilly and Co. Daniels will oversee government relations, corporate communications, community relations, corporation contributions and health issues management at the Indianapolis-based pharmaceutical company. Daniels worked on Reagan's staff before the Hudson Institute.

Violent crime in Gary rose 9.1 percent last year to lead the state, according to figures released Sunday by FBI Director William Sessions. Evansville and Indianapolis also reported an increase in violent crime, while figures for Fort Wayne decreased. Regionally, the South and West experienced slightly larger increases -- 3 percent -- in violent crime than the Northeast and Midwest at 2 percent.

Of Interest

Student Union Board applications for positions in the marketing and relations departments and for assistant controller can be picked up on the second floor of LaFortune at the USB secretary's desk. Application deadline has been extended until Wednesday, April 11.

"Women in the Work Force of Tomorrow," Held in the Student Center, is sponsored by the National Occupational Information Coordinating Committee. The program will give a lecture tonight at 7 p.m. in the Haggar College Center auditorium. The talk is part of the college's alumnae speaker series.

Celebrated novelist Mario Liosa won the first round of presidential elections in Lima, Peru Sunday, but he fell far short of the majority needed to avoid a runoff, according to unofficial projections. Liosa, 54, of the center-right Democratic Front coalition, has run on a free-market ticket. He said the results showed voters had rejected leftist policies and the governing left-of-center Aprista Party for its "catastrophic five years in government." Alberto Fujimori, a political independent, was in second place in projections with 26.7%.

A federal judge barred police Sunday from confiscating photographs from an exhibition of Robert Mapplethorpe's works in Cincinnati, Ohio that led to an obscenity indictment against an arts center and its director. U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin also ordered county and city authorities not to interfere in any way with the exhibition while the obscenity charges are tried in state court. The Contemporary Arts Center hailed the protective order, which will let the 173-photo exhibit proceed unanswered until a jury can decide whether its seven sexually explicit photos are obscene.

The Observer (LISPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday by the Student Union Board. Copyright 1990 by the Observer, Inc. All reproduction rights reserved.

Ken Tysiac
Assistant News Editor
More riots erupt in English prisons; inmate found dead

LONDON (API) - Rioters broke out in several prisons in England and Wales on Sunday, and one government official said the prisons were inspired by the eight-day-old rebellion at Strangeways Prison. Only one inmate was found dead in his cell.

The government said it was too dangerous to forcibly end the siege at Strangeways in the north-central city of Manchester, because of the condition of the largely demolished prison buildings.

Only 22 of the hundreds of Strangeways inmates who rioted on April 1 remain on the loose, authorities said. The overpowered prison was heavily damaged when inmates set fires and hurled roof tiles at guards and firefighters.

In Dartmoor Prison, in southwest England, inmates hurled chunks of roof into the prison courtyard, and set fires in their cells, prison governor John May said.

Almost 100 prisoners barricaded themselves into one wing of the prison, but all but one had given up by Sunday night.

After the rioting was contained, the body of a prisoner was found in a fire-damaged cell. He refused to give any other details and said it was unknown when the fire occurred.

Home Office Minister David Mellor said the dead prisoner was severely burned and pledged that inmates responsible for the wave of unrest would be prosecuted for any criminal offenses.

May said the prisoners at Dartmoor were protesting prison food and their isolation from their families. Guards blamed prison conditions for the unrest at the prisons.

Indian Gov. Evan Bayh ordered flags at the Statehouse flown at half-staff Wednesday, and Strangeways' White's funeral is planned.

All the riots have been inspired by the Acct 211 rioting, which started on April 1 and remained on the loose. Officials said the unrest was inspired by several events.

Wayne Kitch, superintendent of the Hamilton Heights School Corporation, said he has been made many decisions on what specific activities might be conducted at the school Monday, when classes resume after spring vacation.

"When people have lost a hero, there is a sorrow and sadness that they passed away, for our school system and our community," said Actress Judith Light, who played White's mother, Jeanette, in the movie of his life and voiced her sympathy for her and her daughter, Andrea.

"Ryan has already, in his brief lifetime, contributed to mercy and dignity to the world. I hope the man and people do in many decades," said the actress, a star of the hit television series "Lost."
continued from page 1

to pay his respects to the family.

"He was a personal friend," said Jackson, who had given White a red Mustang sports car and kept in frequent touch by telephone. White was Jackson’s guest at the star’s California ranch over the New Year’s holiday. "He was a good friend of mine, and I’m too overcome with grief to talk about it," the reclusive Jackson said in a statement.

Three limousines took Jackson, Trump and their entourages to the Whites’ home in Cicero, about 20 miles north of Indianapolis, where the car Jackson had given White was parked on the front lawn, surrounded by floral arrange­ments.

Jackson, Mrs. White and Andrea walked over to the car. Jackson sat in the back seat and Andrea started the car so that he could listen to the sound system.

White's legal and medical fight was dramatized in a 1989 television movie, "The Ryan White Story," in which he had a cameo role. He also helped develop an AIDS education program called "I have AIDS — A Teen-ager’s Story," which won a Peabody award.

White’s attorney, Charles Vaughan, called White a "courageous young man." "He went through his case  more for others, so that they wouldn’t have to endure, than he did for himself..." Vaughan said. "He fought it to the end. There was no quit in Ryan White."

Dr. Woodrow Myers Jr., who as Indiana state health comm issioner supported White during his legal battle, said his death meant "the nation has lost one of its major leaders...
 a major spokesperson on the disease."

"Through his eloquence, he showed all of us our true colors and showed all of us we had picked the wrong enemy," said Myers, now New York City health commissioner. "We should have been fighting all along against the disease rather than the people who had it."

According to the federal Centers for Disease Control, more than 2,000 U.S. children have gotten AIDS since the epidemic began a decade ago.

White’s last public appearance was with Reagan and his wife, Nancy, at an Oscar party.

At the end of the semester, the move is on...to home, to a new apartment or a new job. Whether you’re moving from a dorm or off-campus apartment, you’ll find Hertz Penske’s "do-it-yourself" move is quick, easy and very affordable.

Get together with a couple of friends or go it alone.
Hertz Penske will help you "keep it all together" with everything from packaging materials and accessories to a moving guide that helps you plan every step. Our trucks are some of the newest on the road and are available with all the good stuff...automatic transmission, air conditioning, radio, easy load ramp and much more.

For an estimate of what your move will cost, or to make a reservation, call today. And be sure to mention your college to receive your "return discount," a 10% discount for your return to school...or your next move.

At the end of the semester, the move is on...to home, to a new apartment or a new job. Whether you’re moving from a dorm or off-campus apartment, you’ll find Hertz Penske’s "do-it-yourself" move is quick, easy and very affordable.

Get together with a couple of friends or go it alone.
Hertz Penske will help you "keep it all together" with everything from packaging materials and accessories to a moving guide that helps you plan every step. Our trucks are some of the newest on the road and are available with all the good stuff...automatic transmission, air conditioning, radio, easy load ramp and much more.

For an estimate of what your move will cost, or to make a reservation, call today. And be sure to mention your college to receive your "return discount," a 10% discount for your return to school...or your next move.

1-800-222-0277
Efforts to form East German democratic government fail

EAST BERLIN (AP) — Christian Democrat leader Lothar de Maiziere failed Sunday to form East Germany's first democratic government after a grueling round of talks with other parties.

The breakdown in talks came after Christian Democrat leaders said de Maiziere already had drawn up a proposed Cabinet that would have brought together the nation's leading political factions.

Despite widespread optimism that an agreement was near, Christian Democrats and the rival Social Democrats ended five hours of discussions with no accord.

De Maiziere leads a three-party conservative alliance that holds the most seats in the 400-member Parliament but was trying to build a coalition broad enough to control the legislature.

A two-thirds majority is needed to enact constitutional changes that would clear the way to unification with West Germany, the main issue in the East Germany's first free elections on March 18.

An alliance with the Social Democrats would give de Maiziere control. But if negotiations with that party fail, his alliance has enough seats to build coalitions with other parties and still secure control of Parliament.

The two major parties and a smaller alliance of liberal lawmakers began meeting Sunday after a long set of talks the night before.

Moyer said that there's a need for more supervisors who could give instructions to the unskilled workers. He also believes that workers should be told what they will be working on prior to the day of the project.

"It was a good experience," said Miller. She said that the quality of the day, however, depended on the individual's work site.

Sophomore Fran Moyer was not as pleased with his work site. He said he "didn't expect to do as much as he did."

Some of his chores were very difficult and somewhat hazardous, he said.

Moyer and other students had to move a furnace out of a cellar and up a flight of stairs unsupervised, a task that he said was both difficult and dangerous.

In addition, Moyer said that he and his friends did not receive masks, and therefore inhaled slate dust from the roof that was being repaired. He added that there was animosity between the group of skilled roofers and the unskilled students.

Student Government's LAST LECTURE SERIES

TUESDAY, APRIL 10th

Professor Lapsley from the Psychology Dept.

8:00pm at Theodore's
BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Voters choosing Hungary's first freely elected government in 43 years gave an overwhelm­ ing victory Sunday to Hun­ gary's main conservative party, according to final unofficial re­ sults.

It was the second conserva­ tive sweep in Eastern Europe in as many free elections. East Germans gave conservatives a clear victory in elections on March 18, relegating the Com­munists to an opposition role.

In Hungary, Democratic Fo­rum President Janos Antall de­clared, "I am completely certain that we won the elections."

"But it is not we, but the Hungarian people who have won these elections," he said to jubilant supporters crowding party headquarters six hours after polls closed.

He turned 58 Sunday, and a rare smile creased his face as he was presented with a gigan­ tic bouquet of flowers.

Final official results for the 261 parliamentary seats at stake in runoff elections Sunday were not expected before Tuesday. The results were combined with elections held March 25 for a total of 386 seats in the 394-member parliament. Eight seats will be allocated based on minority representation.

The national vote counting center reporting unofficial results show the conservative Hungarian Democratic Forum winning 42.7 percent of the vote. That gave the party 165 seats after both rounds.

The agrarian-based Small­holders party won 43 districts with 11.1 percent of the vote, while reform Communists grouped in the Socialist Party had won 33 with 8.5 percent. The Federation of Young Democrats and the Christian Democrats won 21 seats with 5.4 percent of the vote each.

The other 11 seats were divided among six independents, four candidates supported by several parties, and a candidate of the splinter Agrarian Federation.

Direct voting Sunday determined 171 of the 261 seats at stake. Ninety seats will be determined on the voting percentage each party receives.

The early conservative advantage forced a concession from Free Democrat leader Miklos Haraszti.

"It is clear that the HDF will gain the most seats," he said.

Elections two weeks ago left 261 of the National Assembly's 394 seats undetermined. That balloting gave no party an outright majority but relegated the former Communists to fourth place.

No party was considered strong enough to win a majority in Sunday's polling and a coalition government was expected. More than 7.5 million people were eligible to vote.

Both front-running parties, the Democratic Forum and the Free Democrats, have refused to consider forming a government with the former Communists.

Most polls closed at 6 p.m. after 12 hours of voting. State television began its 24-hour election program two hours later with preliminary estimates of a more than 40 percent turnout nationwide, indicating that more than 3.25 million people voted.

Many Hungarians seemed wary after the second round of balloting in two weeks.

Conservatives win Hungary elections; oust Communists Democratic Forum receives 42.7 percent of vote; results unofficial

Voters choosing Hungary's first freely elected government in 43 years gave an overwhelming victory Sunday to Hungary's main conservative party, according to final unofficial results.

It was the second conservative sweep in Eastern Europe in as many free elections. East Germans gave conservatives a clear victory in elections on March 18, relegating the Communists to an opposition role.

In Hungary, Democratic Forum President Janos Antall declared, "I am completely certain that we won the elections."

"But it is not we, but the Hungarian people who have won these elections," he said to jubilant supporters crowding party headquarters six hours after polls closed.

He turned 58 Sunday, and a rare smile creased his face as he was presented with a gigantic bouquet of flowers.

Final official results for the 261 parliamentary seats at stake in runoff elections Sunday were not expected before Tuesday. The results were combined with elections held March 25 for a total of 386 seats in the 394-member parliament. Eight seats will be allocated based on minority representation.

The national vote counting center reporting unofficial results show the conservative Hungarian Democratic Forum winning 42.7 percent of the vote. That gave the party 165 seats after both rounds.

The agrarian-based Smallholders party won 43 districts with 11.1 percent of the vote, while reform Communists grouped in the Socialist Party had won 33 with 8.5 percent. The Federation of Young Democrats and the Christian Democrats won 21 seats with 5.4 percent of the vote each.

The other 11 seats were divided among six independents, four candidates supported by several parties, and a candidate of the splinter Agrarian Federation.

Direct voting Sunday determined 171 of the 261 seats at stake. Ninety seats will be determined on the voting percentage each party receives.

The early conservative advantage forced a concession from Free Democrat leader Miklos Haraszti.

"It is clear that the HDF will gain the most seats," he said.

Elections two weeks ago left 261 of the National Assembly's 394 seats undetermined. That balloting gave no party an outright majority but relegated the former Communists to fourth place.

No party was considered strong enough to win a majority in Sunday's polling and a coalition government was expected. More than 7.5 million people were eligible to vote.

Both front-running parties, the Democratic Forum and the Free Democrats, have refused to consider forming a government with the former Communists.

Most polls closed at 6 p.m. after 12 hours of voting. State television began its 24-hour election program two hours later with preliminary estimates of a more than 40 percent turnout nationwide, indicating that more than 3.25 million people voted.

Many Hungarians seemed wary after the second round of balloting in two weeks.
Christmas IN APRIL
Photos by David Short and Lance Scott

ASK ABOUT OUR COLLEGE GRADUATE FINANCE PLAN
You deserve some credit... you've earned it.

Jordan's Auto Mall
609 E. Jefferson
Mishawaka
(219) 259-1981

Lick Alikes
What's better than one delicious Colombo frozen yogurt? How about two? Buy a large serving and get another one of equal or lesser value Free with this ad.

YOGI'S YOGURT
17911 SR 23 (Across from Martin's)
EXPIRES 5-11-90

PREGNANT MOTHERS: PLEASE DON'T SMOKE!

American Cancer Society
Aid continued from page 1 that 15 percent of the students admitted in 1989 were minorities. In this regard, Russo said, "the last two years have been very successful."

Russo emphasized that this plan is a "phase-in program," and that it will not affect current students.

Both Russo and Beauchamp said that this financial plan will exclude grants to athletes, ROTC scholarships, and tuition remission for faculty and staff children.

Financial need is determined by subtracting an expected family contribution from the annual cost of a Notre Dame education (which is currently around $16,200). Students are expected by the university to help pay for their education through part-time campus employment and student loans.

Attention ND/SMC Pre-Law Society:

There is an important meeting TONIGHT, in Cushing Auditorium.

Juniors preparing for law school are strongly encouraged to attend.
Ferry

did not tally with the captain's account, and questions remained unclear.

Ferry, 900 passengers and crew were rescued from the ferry deck after it was hit by a rogue wave.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island. The passengers and crew were rescued using small boats and life rafts.

The ferry had been en route to Copenhagen when it hit the wave.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.

The ferry went aground on the north side of the Outer Breakwater, which runs parallel to Skagen Island.

The ferry was carrying 900 passengers and crew when it hit a large wave coming from the north.
Clean air laws are cause of troubles for coal miners

KINCAID, Ill. (AP) — When Gary Hart described the darkness of the coal-rich soil each day, he fears the future. As a mine, he could lose his job. As mayor, he could lose his town.

The double threat comes from hundreds of miles away, where Congress is rewriting the nation’s clean air laws, setting new pollution standards that could crush this tiny town that lives and thrives on coal.

“If they shut down completely, I’m not going to have a community to lead,” Hart said. “I’ll sit there and die. People will have to move to get jobs. It’s just a sad thing. People come to work, they want their jobs, but how do they keep them?”

Across the Midwest and northern Appalachia, high-sulfur coal country, Kincaid and other mining towns are in a frenzy. New clean air laws will pit health against wealth, reducing prosperity with pollution.

“There is a need for clean air,” Hart said. “But completely wiping out an industry is not the solution to the problem. It just creates a bigger problem.”

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A strike by longshoremen against stevedoring companies in the Twin Ports entered its third day Sunday as the companies continued to use supervisory employees to load grain ships.

Supervisors were loading grain onto the Algomorsh, the second ship of the season to arrive in the Twin Ports, and Duluth longshoremen said they had been locked out of their jobs.

Lynch retires at 46 to catch up on his family life

Peter Lynch may have taken on his toughest challenge yet.

As the world’s best known, and most successful, stockpicker, he made it look easy. He is an unassuming remarkable investor.

But now my longtime friend has set out to do something that, even for him, may be truly impossible. He has announced his retirement, at the ripe old age of 46.

The news that Lynch will quit May 31 as head of the $53 billion Fidelity Magellan Fund, whose performance has led all others for the past 15 years, has set off a turmoi in the financial world. Should shareholders immediately sell out? Can the new manager, Morris Smith, ever begin to fill Lynch’s mighty brogan? And what does Lynch really have up his sleeve?

Lynch called me to give me this column’s inside version, which he says is considerably less deviant than any of those currently being strutted by outside conspiracy theorists. He’s perfectly happy with Fidelity, he said, and in fact will continue some associations here. Nor is he about to launch a major closed-end (or other) fund bearing his name, which he surely could do right now to the personal tune of many millions of dollars.

What it actually all came down to, he told me, was a soccer game featuring his 11-year-old daughter, Annie. “Her team lost, 0-7, but it was the best day of the year,” Lynch said. He started to wonder why, having made an impressive personal form in recent years, he was spending so little time with Annie and her sisters, Mary, 15, and Beth, 7?

“Lynch has been a classic workaholic, routinely putting in workdays and visiting more than 200 companies every year - 'kicking the tires,'” as he puts it, rather than relying on the Wall Street numbers crunchers. So, I said, why not just throttle back and stop killing yourself for a moment and then replied, “My car has a very small gearbox - 'overdrive' or ‘off.’”

In a sense, of course, Lynch is merely living out another aspect of the American dream: having made his pile, he enjoys it. He wants to enjoy it while he is young. In his case, there is another complicating factor: his father died around the age Peter is now. So he may lead him to hear time’s footsteps a bit more sharply than a man typically has.

What will Lynch do to pass on the knowledge he has acquired at two other Fidelity funds? He leaves all grades of gas, types of service, and all taxes.

Price rises were especially higher in the Midwest, said survey head Trilby Lundberg. She suggested that higher freight and distribution costs to the Midwest may have brought the price increases, with retailers already in a margin pinch from increased wholesale prices immediately passing on the costs to customers.

The survey also averaged wholesale posting for a gallon of gas, not including rebates and other price breaks, was 95.35 cents a gallon for the same two-week period, a 3.2% increase over the last survey, she said.

Here are the Lundberg survey average gas prices:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Service stations</th>
<th>regular unleaded</th>
<th>premium unleaded</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>less than 1 mile</td>
<td>101.53 cents</td>
<td>118.77 cents</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 to 3 miles</td>
<td>101.78 cents</td>
<td>119.02 cents</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 to 5 miles</td>
<td>101.93 cents</td>
<td>119.27 cents</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 to 10 miles</td>
<td>102.13 cents</td>
<td>119.52 cents</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10+ miles</td>
<td>102.33 cents</td>
<td>119.77 cents</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Longshoremen striking in the Twin Ports

Longshoremen in neighboring Superior, Wis., went on strike Friday at the Harvest States Cooperative’s elevator, the largest grain elevator in the Twin Ports.
Black stereotypes abound at Notre Dame

Upenn at arriving at Notre Dame for my first year. I didn’t note much difference between the campus and my rural hometown in Virginia. I was accustomed to green grass, bushy-tailed squirrels and large percentages of prominent black. However, only problem I anticipated as a black freshman was being called a “nigger” by people who wouldn’t realize that I wasn’t “really” black. After all, I was an intelligent person who had always been integrated with whites, was above associating with blacks unlike myself, in these respects, I felt secondarily blame every little dilemma on their skin color.

Hence, I was irritated at being acknowledged by the black community on my second day. I was sitting alone in the JAC after an orientation meeting when another black freshman came over and introduced herself. I was shy, chatted for a few minutes, and when she asked me to join her in a room with her friend, I agreed. However, as we walked toward the room, she said, “You’ll have to stick together, you know.”

No, I didn’t understand why. Why did I need to stick with the blacks in order to raise my self-esteem? Unfortunately, we were in the room by this point and blacks from all directions proceeded to greet me and tell their names. I was in a panic. Outside of family gatherings, I had rarely seen so many blacks in one setting in my entire life. I almost wanted to scream. “Really, you’ve got it all wrong. Alva Lewis, black girl,” I felt immediately touched a nerve when I heard, said offhandedly, “Oh, I didn’t understand why race was so important, but I assumed that I needed a counselor.”

I did begin to comprehend the problem as if it wore my full name and agitated me like a novice in the race to have friends. In the conversation, I mentioned that both of us had attended the concert, he grumbled and said that I didn’t understand the inquisitor. Unfortunately, he persisted, saying that we had to know the moves.

Then, I ran into a girl who immediately asked if I knew her roommate. I was pleased by her question, for I suggested that, in her mind, all the black students were friendly to one another. When my friend and I left, I was nearly in tears. I was all blacks considered to be excellent dancers? Why didn’t the girl care if any of the other guests were acquainted with her roommate.

I did begin to comprehend the feelings of the “segregated” blacks at this point. They knew that race made a difference in the world. In my sheltered life, I had not had to embrace my blackness. On the other hand, I had an idea of my name, said offhandedly, “Oh, I didn’t understand why race was so important, but I assumed that I needed a counselor.”

I did begin to comprehend the problem as if it wore my full name and agitated me like a novice in the race to have friends. In the conversation, I mentioned that both of us had attended the concert, he grumbled and said that I didn’t understand the inquisitor. Unfortunately, he persisted, saying that we had to know the moves.

I was thoroughly confused. The realization, however, did not occur until the particular moment. For instance, although I enjoyed many types of music, my biggest passion was (and still is) hard rock. So when tickets to the Van Halen concert were being sold, I excitedly purchased one.

An hour before the concert, a friend and I visited a few of her friends. In the conversation, she mentioned that both of us would be at the concert. One of the guys said to me, “Shouldn’t you be listening to Michael Jackson?” I remarked that I wasn’t really fond of him, and he appeared shocked. The next day, when I told a black that I had attended the concert, he grimaced and said that I needed to listen to Public Enemy (also black group).

I was thoroughly confused. Everyone, regardless of race, didn’t seem to believe that I was “black enough.” A white friend, after urging me to say a slang word that I had never heard, said offhandedly, “Oh, I forgot. You’re a ‘negro.’” Another friend said that I didn’t look “petite” and “dark.” I didn’t behave like the blacks that her father had grown up with. I didn’t think that I would ever learn the meaning of blackness.

During this turbulent period in my life, I was truly thankful for the support of my two black roommates. Because of their views, I came to understand that being black didn’t require the assumption of the stereotype. I didn’t have to spend each minute of the day with blacks in order to consider myself black, either. According to them, the awareness of the race was one of the only necessary ingredients. Since I had come to terms with my racial status through the experiences I had endured at Notre Dame, I had accomplished my goal.

Alva Lewis Reflections of Minorities

I felt even worse after meeting my black freshman adviser. Why, I wondered, was it assumed that I needed a counselor of my skin color? There was nothing wrong with me. I was a happy, well-adjusted person who happened to be black. What I was supposed to talk about with a woman that couldn’t say to a non-black adviser? I didn’t understand why race was so important, but I assumed that I needed a counselor.

One day, I was enjoying a solitary breakfast when a black freshman mentioned the sitting area and promptly set her tray across from me. I was angry because I knew that she would have ignored me if I had not been black. Despite my boiling emotions, I politely pursued the standard Domoer conversation with this near-stranger. I accidently touched a nerve when I enquired about her roommate’s name, as she returned bitterly. “Some white girl named

I was stunned. Didn’t this unassuming black freshman realize that there was much more to a person besides skin color? Wann was the roommate’s mind important to her? I didn’t want to seem a devil in a dream, so I kept my thoughts to myself.

Not long after that incident, I discovered a friend talking in her sleep. She was having a dream in which she was introducing herself to someone. The person must have asked for her name, I replied. “Alva Lewis, black girl,” as if it were my full name and identity.

Because of my racial confusion, I experienced an identity crisis. Before enrolling at Notre Dame, I was merely forced to accept my African roots. Suddenly, it was obvious, although I enjoyed spreading light: “to be the candle or the mirror that reflects it.”

Edith Wharton
Library theft undergoes inquiry

Dear Editor:

Readers of The Observer have probably noted reports in various media on the FBI arrest of a student-athlete in Des Moines. Many of these prominently mentioned materials referred to some of the material that was apparently stolen from the University of Notre Dame Libraries. A few words of explanation to the University community about the local situation seem in order.

The University libraries have been in contact with the FBI in Des Moines and will be kept apprised of any developments there. As of this date, the FBI does not have available any lists of the more than 11,000 volumes which they seized. As might be expected, the mere listing of the source of the material will be difficult, perhaps even impossible in some cases. We will be cooperating fully with the FBI in this matter and may indeed at the appropriate time send a staff member to Des Moines to assist in the identification of any materials from Notre Dame. In the mean time, we are going to put together a list of materials that are known to be missing from our collections.

That may sound like a simple task. In the case of library materials over two million volumes, most of which are housed in open stacks on seven different sites, it is not. Despite the use of well trained staff for routine shelving, shelf watching and ongoing inventories in a number of locations, the typical way a book is identified as missing is through the inquiry of another user in need of the individual item. I wish that it were otherwise, but I know of no library where it is. Of necessity, libraries must make trade-offs between security of the collections and user convenience. The only way to be absolutely sure is to lock up all material and allow only bonded individuals to remove such materials under very tight security. That clearly would be too punitive and certain to cause general collections, though somewhat more cost effective in the case with some classes of "rare books." I should add that it is my conviction that if there are indeed materials from Notre Dame among the cache seized by the FBI, they are most likely from the general stacks.

If past history is any guide, it may be months or even years before this case will be closed. In the meantime, we will assist the authorities in any way we can and at the same time strengthen our efforts to provide appropriate security to the collections. The understanding and cooperation of our users in this will be most appreciated.

Robert C. Miller
Director of Libraries
April 3, 1990

Date rape dialogue yields results

Dear Editor:

On Sunday, March 25, as a positive gesture to show its concern, the staff of Keenan in­vited Lewis’ staff for an infor­mal discussion of date or ac­quaintance rape and male-female relationships at Notre Dame. Though it was a casual setting, the meeting was suc­cessful for one simple reason: the exchange of ideas.

The main focus of the discus­sion was an article appearing in the winter issue of Notre Dame Magazine entitled “Against Her Will,” which dealt with date rape generally and with  date rape specifically.

During the meeting, no one came up with the end all solu­tion to date rape, an existing problem on many college cam­puses, which are often the result of silence of their victims. All agreed, however, that as a first step an increase in casual social interaction is needed. Discussion focused on this very topic as well as various inter­hall get-togethers which have been planned to achieve this aim. A deeper understanding between the sexes will prevail over cur­rent negative attitudes only with enhanced interaction.

Hopefully, this simple event will serve as a positive, initial step to encourage students and other hall staff to address the situation that begs attention. Lack of respect for the individual not only diminishes the pre­sent quality of life, but contra­dicts the very foundations and ideals of this University.

Linda Romero
Lewis Hall
Matt O'Donnell
Keenan Hall
April 9, 1990

Deficit speaker omits germane issues

Dear Editor:

An engaging speaker does not a prophet make. Proof of this was Aaron Wildsmy’s diatribe about the April 5 trustees’ meeting at the Center for Social Concerns.

The deficit has become the culprit for everything that doesn’t make sense in the economy. The economic bread rise is no lie; that it is not partially responsible for the bad taste of economic affairs is I differ with Wildsmy in re­spect that I don’t think wildsmy is indicating that anyone with rudimentary arithmetical abilities can mas­sage numbers to make them seem so innocuous. The point is that regardless of the percent­age of the deficit that defense spending makes up, I still question the needless spending on programs such as SDI and the Stealth Bomber. Has Congress done anything to help reduce the deficit? Indeed, claims our interlocutor, Has it done necessary? Obviously not. Disagreement on the amount of a deficit must carry an excuse, but not all economic growth, even if it prevents a depression, is good.

Wildsmy’s only failure to mention the concept of sustain­able growth — high on the list of options in the area of energy — is his absence of a nutritional value.

Cold-turkey diets are hard to digest are no new dish, but can be concoct a tasty delight. Organizations should ask the questions of feeding the home­less while putting the fat cuts on a much needed diet? Too many cooks like Wildsmy have been out to save the world for a high time for an unsold din­ner at the budget table.

A. Liliana Castaneda-Hildago
Graduate Student
International Peace Studies
April 3, 1990

Date rape dialogue yields results

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my disap­pointment in yet another of the administration’s policies. I was insul­ated and isolated for the University when my parents told me they had received a bill for my diploma. In the past few weeks the parents of all gradu­ating seniors have been receiving the gen­erously worded invitations for them to join us as part of the Notre Dame family in the cele­bration of graduation. These were followed shortly by a bill for the diploma.

I do not know of many family celebrations in which the hosts are asked to pay for the party, let alone for the degree. Of course, the administration might be expected, the mere fact that the honored members are required to pay for their own degree, it is a four years of hard work the seniors have already paid for and earned our degrees. The diploma should be a reward which we are entitled to, the cost of the diploma, given, not a token we must buy. Putting a price tag on the certificate of our achievements is the true value of a Notre Dame education. As a student-athlete at Notre Dame, I have received several awards for which I was not asked to pay. They were given in recognition of athletic achievement, just as a diploma should be given for academic achievement. The administra­tion repeatedly has told me that I am awarded as a student, first and an athlete second, just as the Louisiana Tech must. Did I know of no library where it is. Of necessity, libraries must be. Apparently the busi­ness side of the administration does not agree with this ideal.

The University should recog­nize the message it is sending to its students by maintaining this practice—that athletic success is more impor­tant than academic ones, and a degree from Notre Dame is be­tter represented by a purchased certificate than an earned one. The administration would not en­courage us to frivolous spending and therefore should change their policy for charging the senior for their diploma.

Kay Richter
Off-Campus
April 2, 1990

Diploma charges deny grads well-earned awards

Dear Editor:

I am writing to respond to the article by Alicia Sierra and Amy Eckert entitled, “Pro­-choicers are not pro-abortion” (April 5). Pro-choice is not pro-abortion. On what is the “choice” a choice to do anyway? Sierra and Eckert make a case that Repro­ductive habits, also falls under the name of “freedom.” Freedoms can’t be tram pled to death in this instance. Freedoms are never absolute. There is always a limit. For ex­ample, the freedom to defend personal property falls short of killing a burglar in that de­fense. Freedom to exercise any sort of lifestyle, including reproductive habits, also falls short of killing someone. Taking a human life really begins at conception. To try to discredit the pro-life position, Sierra and Eckert claim we don’t know if human life really begins at conception. Even if we accept that uncertainly, when there are poten­tially millions of lives at stake, doesn’t it produce demand that we take the cautious position until it is proven that the fetus is not a human life? Would a pro-lifer who is not a human life? Would a pro-life supporter of imposing a law to stop abortion be against my life really begins at conception. Even if we accept that uncertainly, when there are poten­tially millions of lives at stake, doesn’t it produce demand that we take the cautious position until it is proven that the fetus is not a human life? Would a pro-life supporter of imposing a law to stop abortion be against my

Dear Editor:

I am sunshine to respond to the article by Alicia Sierra and Amy Eckert entitled, “Pro­-choicers are not pro-abortion (April 5). Pro-choice is not pro-abortion. On what is the “choice” a choice to do anyway? Sierra and Eckert make a case that Repro­ductive habits, also falls under the name of “freedom.” Freedoms can’t be tram pled to death in this instance. Freedoms are never absolute. There is always a limit. For ex­ample, the freedom to defend personal property falls short of killing a burglar in that de­fense. Freedom to exercise any sort of lifestyle, including reproductive habits, also falls short of killing someone. Taking a human life really begins at conception. To try to discredit the pro-life position, Sierra and Eckert claim we don’t know if human life really begins at conception. Even if we accept that uncertainly, when there are poten­tially millions of lives at stake, doesn’t it produce demand that we take the cautious position until it is proven that the fetus is not a human life? Would a pro-lifer who is not a human life? Would a pro-life supporter of imposing a law to stop abortion be against my

Dear Editor:

I am sunshine to respond to the article by Alicia Sierra and Amy Eckert entitled, “Pro­-choicers are not pro-abortion (April 5). Pro-choice is not pro-abortion. On what is the “choice” a choice to do anyway? Sierra and Eckert make a case that Repro­ductive habits, also falls under the name of “freedom.” Freedoms can’t be tram pled to death in this instance. Freedoms are never absolute. There is always a limit. For ex­ample, the freedom to defend personal property falls short of killing a burglar in that de­fense. Freedom to exercise any sort of lifestyle, including reproductive habits, also falls short of killing someone. Taking a human life really begins at conception. To try to discredit the pro-life position, Sierra and Eckert claim we don’t know if human life really begins at conception. Even if we accept that uncertainly, when there are poten­tially millions of lives at stake, doesn’t it produce demand that we take the cautious position until it is proven that the fetus is not a human life? Would a pro-lifer who is not a human life? Would a pro-life supporter of imposing a law to stop abortion be against my

Bruce Latz
Third Year Graduate Student
Department of Chemistry
April 6, 1990

Freedom’s can’t override respect for life

Dear Editor:

I am writing to respond to the article by Alicia Sierra and Amy Eckert entitled, “Pro­-choicers are not pro-abortion” (April 5). Pro-choice is not pro-abortion. On what is the “choice” a choice to do anyway? Sierra and Eckert make a case that Repro­ductive habits, also falls under the name of “freedom.” Freedoms can’t be tram pled to death in this instance. Freedoms are never absolute. There is always a limit. For ex­ample, the freedom to defend personal property falls short of killing a burglar in that de­fense. Freedom to exercise any sort of lifestyle, including reproductive habits, also falls short of killing someone. Taking a human life really begins at conception. To try to discredit the pro-life position, Sierra and Eckert claim we don’t know if human life really begins at conception. Even if we accept that uncertainly, when there are poten­tially millions of lives at stake, doesn’t it produce demand that we take the cautious position until it is proven that the fetus is not a human life? Would a pro-lifer who is not a human life? Would a pro-life supporter of imposing a law to stop abortion be against my

Bruce Latz
Third Year Graduate Student
Department of Chemistry
April 6, 1990
'Paradise'
Western adventure series offers escapist entertainment

Joe Bucolo
To be continued...

Television works in cycles. Prime-time slots are on the decline, sit-coms are at their peak, the western is on the horizon. ABC has "The Youngriders" and CBS now adds its contribution to the genre with "Paradise."

The sun rises in "Paradise" on Saturdays at 8 p.m. Lee Horsley stars as Ethan Cord, a cowboy who is also guardian of three orphans. He's the typically macho cowboy reminiscent of old western heroes.

Each week presents the goings-on in Ethan's Old-West town. Usually, some new bad guys stir up just enough dust to be cleared up before the show's hour is over. In one episode, the lovely Amelia (Sigrid Thornton,) Ethan's girlfriend, has to travel to another town to meet with a lawyer. At the start of the journey, Amelia catches the eye of some of the town's scoundrels. Ethan immediately anticipates trouble. At the local saloon, the group begins to harass Amelia, however, Ethan arrives and begins to knock his enemies around in a fantastic barroom brawl. He single-handedly polishes off all the men—at least for the moment. As Ethan escorts Amelia to the other town, the gang plans its revenge. (TV bandits never give up before the second commercial.) While gathering firewood for a campfire, Ethan is attacked by the gang, which leaves him to die and kidnaps Amelia.

Of course, Ethan recovers—albeit slowly. He searches for the whereabouts of the gang and soon discovers their hideaway. After a few hundred gunshots, the day is saved. "Paradise" doesn't solve any world problems or break any new ground, but it is great fun. It entertains audiences to the fullest. Each episode presents an involving plot with excitement ranging from gunfights to brawls. There is little doubt in viewers' minds that Ethan will triumph over evil, but—hey—there's always room for another hero. Lee Horsley is quite convincing in the role of Ethan. He plays the perfect "tough but sensitive" cowboy. Thornton's performance as a leading woman often turned into a "damsel-in-distress" is quite good as well. They are one of TV's best couples.

The show also makes a point to show audiences the townspeople. Mr. Axelrod owns the general store, for example, and is a sort of comic figure. He tries to take eggs from the children without paying and offers a bit of humor to the show.

"Paradise" is the first western to hit the tube in a while. It's already inspired the creation of ABC's "The Youngriders" and is sure to cause a great many more westerns to mosey into primetime. "Paradise" is a great place to see.

Joe Bucolo guest stars on "Paradise" which airs on CBS every Saturday at 8 p.m.
Mears begins season with a victory

PHOENIX (AP) — Rick Mears started 1990 the way he ended 1989 — in the winner's circle. Mears took the lead 68 laps into the race Sunday and ran away with it on the front straight to repeat as champion at the Autoworks 200, the season-opening event for Indy cars, at Phoenix International Raceway.

Mears won the pole last year by winning the final race on the CART-PPG circuit at Laguna Seca. He averaged 126.291 mph in his Chevrolet-powered Penske Racing team and claimed $88,300. His time of 1 hour, 35 minutes, 11.12 seconds was the third-fastest ever by an American on the formula One Grand Prix circuit last year, placed seventh in his first Indy-car race since 1986.

Mears won the pole and the race last year on the 1-mile oval. He went on to capture two other poles, two other races and $1,165,684, putting him second behind Philippo in the overall points standings.

Mears picked up where he left off after finishing fourth at the front of the field, won the jump on Mears at the start, beating him into the first turn and getting Mears back off. Mears gave up the lead to Rahal, who joined the Albuquerque-based Galles organization to get a Chevy-powered Lola T-9000, on the 27th lap. Mears was 132 miles into the race.

His time of 1 hour, 35 minutes in his Chevrolet-powered Penske 90 and earned $88,708. His average speed was 126.130 mph. Unser averaged 126.090 mph.

Mario Andretti was fourth, Mears' Penske Racing teammates Emerson Fittipaldi and A.J. Foyt were fifth and sixth, respectively, and Eddie Cheever, the only American on the Formula One Grand Prix circuit last year, placed seventh in his first Indy-car race since 1986.

Starters won the pole and the race last year on the 1-mile oval. He went on to capture two other poles, two other races and $1,165,684, putting him second behind Philippo in the overall points standings.

Mears picked up where he left off after finishing fourth at the front of the field, won the jump on Mears at the start, beating him into the first turn and getting Mears back off. Mears gave up the lead to Rahal, who joined the Albuquerque-based Galles organization to get a Chevy-powered Lola T-9000, on the 27th lap. Mears was 132 miles into the race.

His time of 1 hour, 35 minutes in his Chevrolet-powered Penske 90 and earned $88,708. His average speed was 126.130 mph. Unser averaged 126.090 mph.

Mears began season with a victory

Wayne, Indiana 46804

send $10 today for Resume's

$3/PG

EXPERT TYPING SERVICE. CALL EXPERT TYPING

Student, 18 years old, wishes to do started 1990 the way he ended into the race Sunday and ran for Indy cars, at Phoenix

CART-PPG circuit at Laguna

200, the season-opening event seconds — about a third of a mph in his Chevrolet-powered

LOST: H.S. CLASS RING.

and learn. Strong interest in sports

Penske 90 and earned $88,708.

VAX/VMS experience will

m ph, and Unser averaged

Racing team, was third. Bahai's desk.

library security at the front

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.

NOTICES

HOLIDAY PARTIES

#4436.

SWEATER. If found, please call

LOST: BROWN ARAN WOOL

my weekend-ext 1938

and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Saint Mary's office, Haggar College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per cent per character, including spaces, 308-1500.
SUNNY TRAINING

W. L. Pct. Site

American League

W. L. Pct. Site

Chicago 6 9 .400

Baltimore 6 9 .400

Minnesota 6 9 .400

Oakland 6 10 .375

Kansas City 5. Detroit 2

Philadelphia 11. Cincinnati (ss) 8. 7 innings

Wednesday, April 11

Chicago 109, Dallas 108

Milwaukee 110, Washington 100

Golden State 108, Denver 99

Saturday, April 14

Los Angeles at Calgary, 9:35 p.m.

Hartford at Boston, 7:35 p.m., if necessary

New Jersey at Washington, 7:05 p.m., if necessary

New Jersey at Washington, 7:05 p.m., if necessary

Wisconsin at Chicago, 7:30 p.m.

New York at Toronto, 7:30 p.m.

Monday, April 9, 1990

Los Angeles 4, California 2

New York Mets 2. New York Yankees 1

BASEBALL

AUTO RACING

Notre Dame 11, Dayton 3

Placed sixth at the Manchester Invitational

Placed sixth at the Manchester Invitational

Placed sixth at the Manchester Invitational

Placed sixth at the Manchester Invitational

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.

Army—Announced the resignation of Les Wothke, administrative assistant.
Old Masters can't bring home green jacket from tournament

Floyd blows four-shot lead in most disappointing loss

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Raymond Floyd led the most disappointing thing that's happened to me in my career,

Floyd, at 47 trying to become the oldest Masters champion, blew a 4-shot lead with 16 holes to play Sunday and then lost the championship on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff to defending champion Nick Faldo.

"I've had a lot of losses, but never like this," the distraught Floyd said. "I've never felt like this ever. I've never had anything affect me like this."

"At this stage of your career, how many chances are you going to get?"

Floyd appeared to be on a cakewalk to victory with a birdie on the par-3 12th, one that put him four shots ahead of Faldo, the Englishman who was to become only the second player to put together consecutive Masters titles.

"I didn't think I could lose it," Floyd said.

"I think what happened was nobody ever got running at me early," he said. "That dictated play. I started playing for pars, I think naught. But that's what happened. I just think that was the way the round set up."

The victory that slipped away would have put Floyd in the record book as the only player ever to win major titles in four decades.

Instead, it was Faldo who carved out history by winning his second Masters in a row, a feat previously accomplished only by Nicklaus in 1965 and 1966.

Faldo forced the playoff with birdies on Nos. 13, 15 and 16, and a bogey-5 by Floyd on the 17th, when he three-putted from 50 feet.

Both players parred No. 10, the first playoff hole, although Faldo had come out of the sand to do it.

The task became easy for Floyd when Faldo's second shot stopped 18 feet from the hole. He lagged to a foot, tapped in for par and had the victory.

"I competed marvelously well all week," Floyd said. "That's one thing I can be proud of when I look back. I did not play well today. It was a struggle."

Asked what the victory would have meant to him, Floyd replied:

"It would have meant so much that you can't imagine. To be the oldest to win the Masters, to have broken the par-3 jinx — everything."

Floyd had won the par-3 competition Wednesday. No one has ever won the Masters after winning that pre-tournament competition.

He was asked if his feelings might not be as bad had he lost in regulation.

"To blow it coming in and not get in a playoff," he concluded, "that would have been worse."
Catcher obtained by Cleveland in the 3-for-1 deal, hit two homers and drove in four runs as the Indians beat Cincinnati 12-6 Sunday on the final day of exhibition games.

The Indians finished spring training at 10-5, best among American League teams. The Padres won their last 10 games and wound up at 12-2, tops in the major leagues.

San Diego defeated Seattle 2-1 in their swap. Pitchers fared pretty well in most places as Oakland beat San Francisco
2-0 and the Mets edged the Yankees 2-1 in New York.

Still, though, pitchers are not pitching very long. Few have gone more than five innings and it’s uncertain how long they’ll last when the regular season opens Monday.

The Indians are worried mostly about scoring. They were last in the league with 604
runs last season, the first time since 1933 that Cleveland has been at the bottom.

“Obviously, coming in here with an infield single. Seattle tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and drove in the
tie-breaking run in the seventh inning with an infield single. Seattle starter Scott Bankhead went four innings and gave up two hits.

Athletics 5, Giants 0

Scott Sanderson gave up two hits in four innings and Curt
Young finished with five innings
of two-hit relief as Oakland
beat San Francisco at home.
Sanderson and Young combined to strike out six and walked just one.

Quarterback Jake Ketchner carried the ball 12 times, more than any Irish running back, in the second spring scrimmage Friday.

The Indians are worried
mostly about scoring. They were last in the league with 604
runs last season, the first time since 1933 that Cleveland has been at the bottom.

“Obviously, coming in here with an infield single. Seattle
tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning with an infield single. Seattle starter Scott Bankhead went four innings and gave up two hits.

Athletics 5, Giants 0

Scott Sanderson gave up two hits in four innings and Curt
Young finished with five innings
of two-hit relief as Oakland
beat San Francisco at home.
Sanderson and Young combined to strike out six and walked just one.

Quarterback Jake Ketchner carried the ball 12 times, more than any Irish running back, in the second spring scrimmage Friday.

The Indians are worried
mostly about scoring. They were last in the league with 604
runs last season, the first time since 1933 that Cleveland has been at the bottom.

“Obviously, coming in here with an infield single. Seattle
tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and drove in the

}<
Monaghan wins LPGA Red Robin Classic by two strokes

Monaghan wins LPGA Red Robin Classic by two strokes

POWAY, Calif. (AP) — Kris Monaghan shot a 4-under-par 67 Sunday for a two-stroke victory in the $300,000 Red Robin Kyocera Classic, his first victory in six years on the LPGA Tour.

Monaghan, whose round included six birds and two bogeys, pushed his scoring average to 72.67; 70.67 and finished at 8-under 280 for the tournament.

StoneRidge Country Club is a privately held course. She earned $45,000.

His company purchased a new multimillion-dollar corporate jet last month. It spent $100,000 to paint the Mariners logo on the plane's tail.

Borrowing money in huge amounts isn’t cheap. Emmis spends $2.5 million a month to borrow money from other banks.

Records show Smulyan’s empire is worth more than $1 billion. At the time of the filing last November, the company owned 11 radio stations, a magazine, and other properties valued at $182 million.

Monaghan, 43, a former NHL player, had debts of $219 million.

He purchased KPWZ-FM in Los Angeles for $12 million and turned the moribund station into one of the profit centers for Emmis Broadcasting Co. paid Smulyan $7.1 million last year.

He has said his company’s growth strategy is described in the marketing lingo of borrowing and buying.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS

"Are you OK to drive?" "What's a few beers?"

"Did you leave too much in the wash?" "I'm perfectly fine."

"Are you to gochange the oil?" "For sure, do it.

"I think you've had a few too many" "Two kohls, I can drive with oxygen tanks."

"You've had too much to drink, let me drive."

"Nobody drives my car but me."

"Are you OK to drive?" "Not sure, am I?"

"You have only one life to live, drive carefully."

Win the computer you need to succeed in the real world and a chance to use it there.

Try a Macintosh* and enter Apple's Real World Sweepstakes. You could win a week at any one of these leading organizations and a Macintosh computer.

The Mariner's launch their 14th AL season in Anaheim Monday night.

Win the computer you need to succeed in the real world and a chance to use it there.

Try a Macintosh* and enter Apple's Real World Sweepstakes. You could win a week at any one of these leading organizations and a Macintosh computer.

Enter April 2nd - April 20th

*See your Campus Computer Supplier for Sweepstakes details and rules.

Entrants 14 years of age and older, and who are residents of the U.S., are eligible to win a Macintosh computer.

Get the computer you need to succeed in the real world.

Apple's Real World Sweepstakes.

You could win a week at any one of these leading organizations and a Macintosh computer.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.

Visit a Macintosh authorized reseller and request a sweepstakes entry form.

Applicants will be selected at random.
Jets fly past Oilers with late goal
Hawerchuk’s tally helps Winnipeg regain lead in series

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Dale Hawerchuk scored with less than five minutes remaining to give the Winnipeg Jets a 2-1 victory over the Edmonton Oilers Sunday night and a 2-1 lead in their Smythe Division semifinal series.

The veteran Jets’ center scored his third goal of the playoffs at 15:30 of the third period, snaring an errant clearing pass in the Oilers’ zone and whipping a 20-foot screened wrist shot past Oilers goalie Bill Ranford.

Ranford, making his third straight playoff appearance despite a shaky start in the opening game, was outstanding, stopping Doug Small with a sliding kick save on a breakaway and later diving in front of Pat Elynuik’s rebound shot in the opening period.

The Oilers took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Reijo Ruotsalainen’s power-play goal.

The Finnish defenceman ripped in a slapshot from the point behind Jets goalie Bob Essensa at 16:35 with Paul Fournier serving a hooking penalty.

The Blues 6, Maple Leafs 5
TORONTO (AP) — Sergei Mamoncev’s second goal of the game at 6:04 of overtime Sunday gave the St. Louis Blues a 6-5 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs and a three-game lead in their Norris Division semifinal series.

Mamoncev used defenceman Tom Kurvers as a screen and fired a slap shot from the blue line that beat goaltender Allan Hunter through the pads. It came less than a minute after Hunter stopped Brett Hull on a solo dash down right wing.

The Blues, who lost seven of eight games in Toronto during the regular season, can advance to the Norris finals with a victory at Maple Leaf Gardens on Tuesday night.

Kings 2, Flames 1
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Tony Granato scored the first shorthanded overtime goal in Stanley Cup playoff history as the Los Angeles Kings, rejuv­enated by the return of Wayne Gretzky, beat the Calgary Flames 2-1 Sunday night to take a surprising 2-1 lead in the Smythe Division semifinals.

Granato knocked the puck loose at the ice edge, chased it down in the offensive zone and skated in on goalie Mike Vernon, who eluded a screen by Uwe Krupp and scored in the first overtime period. He beat Vernon with a 10-foot wrist shot from close in on the right side for his second goal of the series.

Gretzky returned from a seven-game layoff and set up the Kings’ first goal, by Tomas Sandstrom 23 seconds into the second period. Gretzky had missed the last five inter­season games and his first two playoff games in 11 seasons with a hyperextended back.

The best-of-seven series re­sumes with Game 4 Tuesday night, also at the Forum. Kings goalie Kelly Hrudey turned in a solid performance and was 5-55 away from his first playoff shutout when Joe Mullen banged in a rebound of Theoren Fleury’s wrist shot from near the blue line. The Kings failed to clear the puck and Mullen banged it in from straight on for his second playoff goal.

Blackhawks 2, North Stars 1
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Steve Lalonde snapped a scoreless tie with 9:48 to play as the Chicago Blackhawks re­gained the advantage in the Norris Division semifinals Sunday night with a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota North Stars.

Greg Millen, yanked out of Chicago’s goal by Coach Mike Keenan after allowing the first-period goals in Game 2, made 31 saves. Chicago, which had lost 2-1 at home in Game 1, rallied for a 5-3 win with Ed Belfour in net.

Game 4 of the best-of-seven series is Tuesday night at the Met Center.

On the winning goal, Denis Savard beat Dave Gagner on a foaroff in the left circle. Greg Gilbert passed to the top of the right circle to Larmer, whose shot hit Gagner’s skate and deflected back to him. He then beat goalie Jon Casey low to the glove side.

The North Stars thought they had tied the game about 1 1/2 minutes later, when Gagner poked a rebound past Millen. But referee Bill McCreary said the puck never crossed the goal line. Television replays were incon­sistent.

Upcoming Events
TUESDAY, APRIL 10
Brown Bag Seminar
RITA M. KOPCZYNSKI
Assistant Director, IIPS
REFLECTIONS ON THE CURRENT SITUATION IN EL SALVADOR
12:15 p.m. - Room 115 Law School

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18
Lecture
DANIEL LUECKE, Director
Rocky Mountain Regional Office
Environmental Defense Fund
GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES & NATIONAL SECURITY: Comments on Our Common Future
4:00 p.m. - Room 121 Law School
Navratilova defeats Capriati, captures Cup

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Martina Navratilova won the battle of tennis' old and new generations Sunday, beating 16-year-old Jennifer Capriati 6-2, 6-4 to win the Family Circle Cup. It was the 156th career singles win for the 33-year-old Navratilova, who won her 14th of those tournaments before her 18-year-old opponent was born.

Navratilova won the match at the net and by using her serve-and-volley attack on the green clay at the Sea Pines Racquet Club.

Capriati, who was just 2 years old when Navratilova earned her first Grand Slam title, 14 years ago, was frustrated with her serve and rushed her shots when Navratilova came to the net.

Capriati was playing in just her third tournament since turning pro last month. She is now 1-1 and her loss to Navratilova, ranked second in the world, makes her 3-2 against players in the top 10.

Faldo continued from page 24

The last four holes.

All of that he accomplished.

He came back from the po- tential devastation of the first playoff in the Masters when he missed both his 20-foot and 15-foot putts on the 18th green.

Now, 50, he tried to use a re-juvenating victory in his first start on the Seniors Tour a two years ago as the springboard back to the heights.

He almost worked. At one point on the front side, he shared second place.

Could he make it happen? One of his three-putts that tried mightily. But the shots didn't quite come off. The putts just missed. He couldn't make up ground. On the back side, with the holes running out and Floyd's lead growing, he began to gamble.

And he paid the price.

Nicklaus bogeyed three of four holes and three-putted for par on the other, a string that sent him spiraling back into the pack.

The three-putt par on 13 killed any hopes he had. Needing the minor miracle of an eagle, he charged a 30-foot putt up, over and around a greenside bunker on the right. From there, he hit into a ridge to get it close. He did, and cheerfully applauded himself out of it with a 40 on the front nine and finished with a 73.

But it only prolonged things.

"The shot on the 11th was in the water the moment it left my club," he said. "It's the most devastating thing that has hap- pened to me in golf.

"I lost before, but never like this. I've never had any- thing affect me like this. I've never felt like this."

Lanny wadkins and John Huston tied for third at 283. Four shots out of the playoffs, Wadkins came from far back with a 68, but was not a title threat. Huston, who started the day two strokes back, took himself out of it with a 40 on the front nine and finished with a 75.

The Observer

is currently accepting applications for the following position:

Advertising Clerk

For more information contact Beth at 239-6900 or 283-2772

FR FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORES

? Questions about what classes and teachers to pick?

? We can help you out.

Come in Today from 1-4 pm in 210 O Shag (the Honors Program Office)

Peer Advising Sponsored by the Arts & Letters Student Advisory Council

The Observer

Monday, April 9, 1990

PEER ADVISING SPONSORED BY THE ARTS & LETTERS STUDENT ADVISORY COUNCIL

Lenten Penance Service

Tuesday, April 10, 1990

10:00pm, Sacred Heart Crypt Church

Fr. Richard Warner, C.S.C., President

music provided by the Notre Dame Folk Choir

Opportunity for individual confession following the service.

More information call 284-4640

SAIN T MARY'S COLLEGE DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION AND THEATRE

THEATRE CLASSES

Thur 126 Introduction to Theatre
Thur 201 Play Analysis
Thur 272 Th/Prc of Tech Theatre
Thur 276 Intro to Acting
Thur 385 Theatre History
Thur 410 Acting Techniques
Thur 415 Advanced Topics in Acting, Music, Theory and Practice

PRINTED ON RECYCLED PAPER
The Observer

Person leads Pacers to win over Knicks; Rockets triumph

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chuck Person hit a 12-footer with 1.5 seconds to play, and Trent Tucker missed a potential game-winning 3-pointer at the buzzer as the Indiana Pacers hung on to beat the New York Knicks 99-97 Saturday.

The Pacers, who reduced their magic number to four for clinching a playoff berth, built substantial leads three times in the game. Each time, the Knicks rallied, led by Patrick Ewing, who had game-high 30 points, 12 rebounds and four blocked shots.

Indiana led by 91-85 with 4:38 to play, but the Knicks reeled off eight straight points and tied the game on Ewing’s 16-footer with 1:43 remaining. Reggie Miller and Delbert Schrempf combined to make four free throws and return the lead to four points for the Pacers, but Person couldn’t inbound the ball with 54.8 seconds left. Gerald Wilkins cut Indiana’s lead to four points for the expansion Magic.

The Pacers won their seventh straight for 78 first-half points en route to a 119-109 win over the Golden State Warriors.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Sleepy Floyd scored a season-high 32 points for the Warriors, while J.R. Reid and Richard Anderson scored 15 points each. The Warriors reached the Western Conference.

The win snapped a four-game losing streak for the Nets (17-50) and a three-game winning streak for the NBA’s worst team.

The win by the Warriors over the Golden State Warriors was the sixth straight victory for the Lakers, who now have a four-game lead over Detroit in the race for the best record in the NBA and a home-court advantage in the playoffs. Los Angeles trailed 94-87 before the decisive 19-3 run, which ended with the Lakers 102-97 after a tip-in by Green with 3:42 remaining.

Denver pulled within six on a three-point play by Fat Lever, who led Denver with 31 points, and Chris Adams scored 22 for the Nuggets.

The Lakers built their winning margin by hitting 29 of 33 free throws, compared to 16-19 for Denver. Denver led for most of the first period before the Lakers went up 26-25 on a follow shot by Green with 1:47 remaining.

The Lakers won their final three games of the regular season to claim the Western Conference’s top spot. The Lakers won the final three games of the regular season to claim the Western Conference’s top spot.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Lakers, who now have a four-game lead over Detroit in the race for the best record in the NBA and a home-court advantage in the playoffs.

The Nuggets scored just one point in their final six possessions, on a foul shot by Chris Dudley with 50 seconds left, and that proved to be the winning point when Shermaine Douglas hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer, giving him 27 points.

The Nuggets led by three against Denver reserves in the fourth quarter, has lost nine straight for Miami (17-59), the worst team.

The win by the Warriors over the Golden State Warriors was the sixth straight victory for the Lakers, who now have a four-game lead over Detroit in the race for the best record in the NBA and a home-court advantage in the playoffs.

Los Angeles trailed 94-87 before the decisive 19-3 run, which ended with the Lakers 102-97 after a tip-in by Green with 3:42 remaining.

Denver pulled within six on a three-point play by Fat Lever, who led Denver with 31 points, and Chris Adams scored 22 for the Nuggets.
The Saint Mary's outdoor track team, led by sophomore Lynn Pfeffer, placed sixth at the Manchester Invitational with 32 points this weekend.

The Belles competed in Saturday's tournament against 10 teams, including the University of Notre Dame, Taylor University, University of Indianapolis and Manchester.

Pfeffer led the Belles with a first place finish in the javelin throw. She threw the javelin 114 feet, 1 1/2 inches. In the triple jump, she soared 30 feet, 10 inches to capture third place.

"I'm really satisfied with the javelin," said Pfeffer. "I've been working for it this month and yesterday was my best." She attributed her performance to the training of Szczechowski.

In the 400 meter run, sophomore Leslie Tedrow drew to a fifth place finish recording a time of 55.20 seconds. Senior Maggie Daday dashed to a fifth place of 28:10 seconds. Senior Nicole Hill has an ankle injury and freshman Eric Kelly is out with a back injury. Coach Szczechowski is waiting to see what is wrong with sophomore Jennifer Simson. He expects all but Simson to be back for the Districts tournament at Hanover on April 23. He also expects the team to place again this year.

"I'm looking forward to a real good showing. I think the competition we've had this year has really helped us out. Last year we finished sixth. I think this year we can do better than that."

The Belles were plagued with injuries this year, but Szczechowski expects the team to place again this year. Szczechowski observed, "We have a very strong team this year," coach Szczechowski said. "We're a really good showing. I think the competition we've had this year has really helped us out. Last year we finished sixth. I think this year we can do better than that."

First Baseman Joe Binkiewicz and the rest of the Irish stretched their season record to 17-5 with their four game sweep of Dayton this weekend.

Frosh continued from page 24

Sinnies closed the door on the Flyers in the top of the ninth. The Irish had their most impressive comeback victory of the season.

"It seems to be someone different coming through in the clutch every time," said Murphy. "But you can't single out Counsell and Maisano as coming through when we needed them. Binkiewicz could have hung his head low, but instead he came through with a home run later on. That's a sign of maturity and of a successful hitter."

The dramatic events had a devastating effect on the Flyers, who also have a young program and have been losing close games all season. With the four losses, Dayton fell to 6-22, but the fact that the team came into Notre Dame with great hopes and left winners, "Losses like this are never learning experiences," said a dejected Dayton coach Mark Schlemmer after the 10-9 comeback. "That coming from behind in the final inning is the fifth time that's happened this season, and the 15th or 16th one-run loss we've had. That's tough on a team, especially when you've got a young team and you're trying to build a program."

In the first game on Sunday, Alan Wa nalin pitched his first complete game and earned his first victory as the Irish won 7-1. Wa nalin scattered eight hits, all singles, through the seven-inning game, lowering his ERA to 3.09.

Counsell and Maisano again provided much of the scoring punch, providing two RBIs each. Counsell singled in Brutches and Danapilis in the third, making the score 3-0, while Maisano doubled home Edwin Hartwell and Coss in the sixth, closing the scoring at 7-1.

On Saturday, the Irish seemed to cruise through both victories. In the first game, an 11-3 browbeating, Sinnies worked out of a fourth-inning jam created by Brian Piotrowicz, earning Sinnies the victory. Over the weekend Sinnies improved his record to 3-1 and lowered his ERA to a startling 0.90.

Frank Jacobs had a pair of two-run singles for the Irish, while Mike Coss had a two-run triple and Cory Mee scored two on a single.

In the second game on Saturday, freshman Pat Leahy continued his excellent pitching, shutting out the Flyers for six innings. He then left the game for no other reason than having pitched many innings recently, and Murphy did not want to overuse him. The final score was 6-4.

"He has thrown a lot of innings lately, he's a freshman, and I don't want to put stiff ness in his arm, so I took him out early," said Murphy concerning his decision to pull Leahy.

Adam Maisano's bat was heard from once again in that game, as he sent a Sean Sullivan fastball high in the air in right, clearing the fence for a three-run home run. Maisano has been to the plate five times this year, all as a pinch-hitter, and has converted four of those times. The 5-6, 240-pound curviness has seven RBIs in four official at bats, his batting average is .750 and his slugging average is 1.750.

"I felt pretty confident out there I guess because I've been working toward it all season," said Maisano. "I was pretty happy because I had a chance to contribute. I've accepted my role as a pinch hitter and I'm now comfortable with it, especially since I've been responding to it."

"Adams is a hitter only, but does a hell of a job at it. To have had five at-bats and to come through four is exceptional, especially for a freshman. But it doesn't phase him."

The Observer/John Studebaker

Catcher Ed Lund was responsible for handling a young Irish pitching staff as freshmen won all four games in the weekend series against Dayton.
Positions for 1990:

- Relations
- Marketing and Publicity
- Campus Entertainment
- Assistant Controllers

Job descriptions and applications available on 2nd floor LaFortune

Due: April 11th

---

An Tostal Sign-Ups

When: Tuesday, April 10 6-8 pm
Where: S.U.B. Office

- Golf Tourney
- Mini-Hoops
- Mattress Race
- Impersonations
- Pillow Fights
- Air Band Contest
- Slam Dunk
- Tire Rolling
- Charriot Race
- Tug-of-War

Take Part in the Fun!
Frosh lead the way for Irish in weekend sweep of Flyers

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame baseball team relied on freshman pitching and a dramatic come-from-behind victory in the final contest to sweep a four-game series with Midwestern College. The Irish swept opponents Dayton over the weekend at Jake Kline Field, improving its record to 17-5.

The freshmen pitchers shut down the Flyers, picking up all four victories. David Siennes and Pat Leahy won their games on Saturday by respective scores of 11-3 and 6-4, while Alan Walania and Siennes improved their records on Sunday 7-1 and 10-9 victories.

The Irish seemed to do everything right over the weekend, even when they found themselves down 9-6 in the fifth inning of Sunday's second game. In that contest, Dayton scored nine runs in the first four innings and the Irish countered with 10 runs in the final four.

The Irish could score runs when we've had to," said Irish coach Pat Murphy, who watched his team score six runs in the first; one in the sixth and three in the eighth in the nightcap on Sunday. "We shouldn't have been nine runs behind. We had one inning that really hurt us, but we really hit in the clutch."

The one inning that set the Irish back was the Dayton second, when sophomore starter Joe Binkiewicz allowed six runs to cross the plate. Freshman left-hander Chad Hartvigson replaced him, only to allow three more runs in the next two innings.

After the fourth, it was all Notre Dame. Siennes relieved Hartvigson and extinguished the Flyers' fire, allowing only two hits in the final five innings. The Irish bats then seemed to awake from a four-inning slumber, exploding for six runs in the fifth.

With the bases loaded, Craig Counsell drew a walk that scored Cory Mee. Junior Frank Jacobs followed with a single, scoring Mike Coss and Dan Bautch. Counsell came home on an Ed Lund sacrifice fly, and Eric Danapilis delivered the final blow of the inning by smashing a line-drive home run over the left field fence, making the score 9-6.

After a solo home run by Binkiewicz in the sixth, pinch-hitter Mike Rotkis opened the eighth with a walk off Dayton ace reliever Sean Sullivan. Mike Rooney ran for Rotkis, and Coss followed with another walk. Murphy then substituted freshman hitting specialist Joe Binkiewicz for Coss and put down the side.

The Notre Dame baseball team's sweep of two doubleheaders against Dayton climaxed in a comeback from a 9-0 fifth inning deficit in the last game of the series.

Adam Maisano came through with a single between third base and home, scoring Rooney. Counsell promptly followed with a smash up the alley in right center, scoring Coss and pinch-rather Mike Madish. Counsell was called out trying for third base, but the runs put the Irish up 15-9, and...