Many students thought the housekeepers left behind their cleaning supplies when they found a bottle of pink liquid, a bottle of blue liquid and one sponge in their dorm rooms Sunday.

However, as they soon found out, the maid service at the University of Notre Dame has been discontinued, with the exception of trash removal.

According to David Woods, director of support services, the changes were implemented due to a lack of efficiency in the management and distribution of the cleaning staff.

Another reason for the discontinuance of maid service was that out of 40 colleges and universities polled, no other school had any form of personal cleaning service, said Woods. The schools polled included Ivy Leagues, Catholic colleges, Big Ten schools, and private colleges in the Indiana and Ohio area.

Although Woods feels this is a positive change, manymaids and students feel otherwise.

"MARY," who asked to remain anonymous to protect her position at Notre Dame, now a "general housekeeper," expressed concerns about the change in hours and cutbacks in overtime. She said that some of the staff depended on that extra $2,000 a year in overtime pay which they no longer receive.

Woods said that there was too much overtime previously, which was an indicator of poor management. He said that for the majority, the pay raise given to 60 percent of the employees and the change from a 30-hour week to a 20-hour week for most maids has compensated for any overtime.

However, he also added that the 350 would be affected by the cutback of overtime hours, and that the University wage scale is above the average of most colleges in the area.

"Joan," another housekeeper now on a specialty crew, said that the common rooms will be cleaner, but not the dorm rooms which might lead to a greater problem with ants, mice and roaches.

Woods said that this may be a potential problem, but that the students are being asked to compensate for the cleanliness of their own rooms.

He said that it is "natural for some resistance to change," and that he believes the change will give it a chance.

"Both," another housekeeper said that the changes would increase the responsibility of the maids who are left in the dorms.

"It is only a change in responsibility, not an overload," said Woods. "There is no more showing cleanliness (for making the dorms) and this will reduce (their) responsability."

Father George Rozum, rector of Alumni Hall, said, "It's too early to tell."

Carla Garcia, a junior, said "It took a fire to take away laundry from guys, and only two days to take away maids. I think it is unfair that they charge us more tuition and fees."

In what is often a rarity in politics, Student Body President Rob Pasin says he and Vice President Fred Tombar will fulfill their campaign promise of a corporate-sponsored lecture series for the 1990-91 school year.

The lecture series will include prominent national figures, including:

- William Webster, director of the CIA
- Leslie Stahl, CBS White House correspondent
- Bruce Rabbit, former governor of Arizona and Student Body President at Notre Dame in 1960
- Father Daniel Berrigan, political activist
- Jack Kemp, secretary of HUD

"We are very happy about fulfilling our campaign promise of a lecture series," Pasin said. He explained that finding the corporate funding was largely due to the assistance of William Sexton, vice president of University Relations.

The goal of the lecture series is, according to Pasin, "to spark discussion and debate about important issues of the day."

Pasin also revealed "new and improved communication between student government and the student body" as another reason for this and student government's plans for the year.

A phone line to be dubbed "the FRED line" after Tombar will serve as a sounding board for student suggestions, Pasin said. Students who dial F-R-E-D will be able to leave a message about their complaints, concerns, or general campus issues that student government should be aware of, he said.

Pasin said that the phone line, as well as a student government newsletter to be sent to all students and an open forum in each dorm with him and student government representatives, will "be a great place to get out of line and into the classroom. Classes begin at 8 a.m. today for returning Notre Dame students."
So, you're having roommate problems...

So you're new here and you're having roommate problems. You are in hell and you figure it couldn't possibly get any worse. Well, you could be living with a 300-pound strangling redneck neck named "Bubba," who has suggested that you share a bunk and insists on calling you "Mama." The fact is, they both he owes me money!

Anyway, everybody and their brother have been writing these "Okay-I'm-Cool-So-Listen-To-My-Advice" columns. While they were good, they didn't tell you on their chosen topics. I know plenty about roommates, due to my stay at the Joilet Correctional Center in Illinois. Four years of hard time for stealing a water buffalo. I was framed.

But getting back to my point, there are a few things to keep in mind in order to make your roommate experience survivable.

First, be tactful. If you tend to get unnerved when your roommate walks around the room in his/her Garfield undies, singing the theme song from "Baywatch," you should probably ask him to get a clue. You should most certainly not club him like a baby seal. Your rector might get mad.

Second, gentle accommodations are needed when it comes to decorating the room. You might think your honor roll certificates and New Kids posters are really neat, but your roommate might be partial to Guns N' Roses and Brit Elfis portraits. My suggestion would be to forget all your stuff and buy your roommate a few things. Right. I will make your room look really cool for cheap. And I have this really weird lava lamp. Wholesale, even.

As for tunes, it is necessary to be tactful concerning what you think of as "Freedom Rock." You might have been big in your neighborhood, but your roommate might be a big 2 Live Crew jock. I, however, can supply you with enough tunes to rock your section to the ground. My collection of New Kids classics is enough to turn any party into an all-out love fest. My Eitel Merman disks are also crowd pleasers. Once again, they're cheap.

A roommate's interaction with members of the opposite sex can also cause tension. Do you get angry when your roommate's HTHs are all gone before yours and the two of them disappear into the loft with enough flux to cause a "toaster"? My advice to you is to quit whining and stop listening through the bedroom door. That's just sick. P.S.—try and get the chick's phone number. I, um, think she needs counseling.

Now, I know that I didn't cover sources of roommate tension, but you should be able to at least start working toward a better relationship. If things don't work out, maybe you should consider moving out. This year, I'm having this problem with my roommate.

The University of Notre Dame has received a bequest of more than $360,000 from the estate of Charles Leo Eaton of Bloomington, Ill., to establish a scholarship fund in his name. Eaton scholarships will be awarded to students based on demonstrated financial need and typically will provide $1,500 per year in financial assistance. The University is one of six institutions, along with Bradley University, Illinois State University, Illinois Wesleyan University, Saint Mary's College and the University of Illinois, to share equally in the estate of Charles Eaton, who died in 1984. The bequest comes as Notre Dame initiates a major effort to increase scholarship funding with the ultimate objective of meeting the full demonstrated financial need of all students. As part of this effort, the University will seek to raise $100 million in new financial aid endowment during the next ten years.

Father James Rigert, associate professor of earth sciences at the University of Notre Dame, has been named chairman of the Department of Earth Sciences, according to Francis W. C. Castledine, the College of Science and Kierleider-Pezold professor of biochemistry. Rigert obtained his doctorate in physics from the University of Illinois in 1972 and a second doctorate in geophysics from Texas A & M in 1979. His specialty is math and physics applications in geology, in such courses as geostatistics, structural geology and geophysics. His research includes work at the Naval Research Lab and serving as a visiting scientist at the Los Alamos National Laboratory. Rigert graduated from the University of Portland, where he was valedictorian of his class. He received his master's degree in solid state physics from Cornell University in 1960.

The Department of Communications and Theatre has received a grant from Arts Midwest in support of its presentation of a world premier by Theatre Grottesco next year. Theatre Grottesco, a theatrical company from Detroit, was founded in Paris in 1983 and takes its name from an Italian word meaning fantastic, ridicu­lous, absurd, or comic. It will appear at Notre Dame's Washington Hall February 27-March 3, presenting the first performance of a play which the company has surrounded with secrecy, but which is believed by Thomas Barkes, manager of Washington Hall, to be "a modern, melodramatic love story." Arts Midwest is a regional arts or­ganization whose programs support the arts, artists and cultural development in the Midwest.

So you're new here and you're having roommate problems...
By CATHERINE KANE

On Monday, June 4, Michael Peter Russo, a sophomore-to-be at Notre Dame, died as a result of injuries sustained in a single vehicle automobile accident three weeks earlier.

Russo, 19, had just returned from Notre Dame to his home in St. Louis, Mo. the night of the accident. He had traveled in tandem with his father in one car and his roommate, Lance Cochran, who was going to visit for several days, in the other car.

After spending about 15 minutes at home unpacking the car, Russo, was eager to show Cochran the local custard diner.

On the way back, the vehicle, driven by Russo, skidded around a curve and flipped over. Russo sustained massive internal injuries. Cochran, in the passenger seat, was unharmed.

Only a miracle would have saved him, according to Brother Michael Smith, rector of Flannery Hall, where Russo resided at Notre Dame.

"A lot of people liked Michael," said Smith. "He was a super nice guy." He was very outgoing and friendly, and he liked to have a good time.

Russo was going to enter the college of Business Administration to study Management and Finance. He was interested in hockey, all sports, sketching, and music. He was a member of the hockey team at Notre Dame. Rich Schafer, the hockey coach, said of Russo, "as a goal tender, he was pretty good, but as a person, he was tremendous."

According to Schafer, he was the kind of person who leaves one "searching for superlatives to describe him."

Russo is survived by his parents, Peter and Nelia, and a sister, Mary Lynn.

A late admission from the waiting list, "he was thrilled to be at Notre Dame," said Schafer.

"I'd say there wasn't a day (that went by) that he didn't exude enthusiasm about being at Notre Dame," Schafer said.

Russo's parents may come to Notre Dame later in the year accompanied by Cochran's parents, and at that time a memorial mass may be scheduled, according to Smith.

Schafer said, "his memory will last a long time with us."

The Saint Mary's Community suffered the loss of fellow classmate Regina Symonds on August 16 who was killed in an auto accident on her way home from South Carolina.

Reports say that Symonds, 19, fell asleep behind the wheel, woke up before impact, then tried to gain control of the automobile but failed. The car fell into a deep ravine. Symonds was vacationing with friends.

As it was late and the road deserted, the accident was not discovered until approximately an hour and a half later. Regina died on impact while two others, who were brothers, died hours later. The fourth passenger remains in critical condition.

Regina Symonds

Services were held for Symonds in Andersonville on Monday, August 20th.

Symonds would have been returning to Saint Mary's as a sophomore. The students who were supposed to be her roommates this year said she was considering either elementary education or communications as her major, but "she knew that she wanted to live in Indiana—she was a definite Hoosier."

Symonds was from Andersonville, Indiana where her parents and younger brother reside. This past summer Symonds worked at a local bank.

Along with her studies, Symonds was planning on being confirmed this year. Symonds was also a strong swim team member.

In honor of her spirit and enthusiasm there will be an annual swim team award to honor those women "who exemplify the characteristics of Reggie," such as determination and team spirit, said swim team member Jennifer Danahy.

A new advisory council has been created by the University of Notre Dame, according to Father Edward Malloy, University president, joining eight other advisory councils, all organized since 1946.

The purpose of the Advisory Council for Graduate Studies and Research, said Malloy, will be to continue the momentum of graduate education and research, clarify strategies, and communicate to those outside the Notre Dame family the importance of its endeavors.

"We are interested in making quality the hallmark of our efforts in graduate education and research and in creating a climate that will link outstanding teaching to graduate programs and research endeavors of stature quality," said Nathan Hatch, vice president of graduate studies and research and dean of the Graduate School.

"As a national Catholic research university, we have an important niche to fill between that of a liberal arts college and that of a comprehensive research university."

The creation of this council symbolizes the University's goal of making Notre Dame as strong on the graduate level as it is on the undergraduate, Hatch said. "The University is convinced that a small but superb graduate school, well-focused in its mission, can enhance Notre Dame's traditional distinctive—first-rate academic training in an environment that takes people seriously and addresses questions of value and meaning."

Notre Dame currently has nearly 1,200 graduate students enrolled in 23 doctoral and 35 master's programs. About 60 percent of these students are enrolled in humanities and social sciences, 20 percent in science and 20 percent in engineering.

The research division of the graduate school receives about $18 million annually from public and private sources to support projects of Notre Dame faculty. The new council is the University's ninth advisory council and the first organized since 1980, when the advisory council for the Institute for Pastoral and Social Ministry was created.

Other Notre Dame advisory councils include those for the College of Arts and Letters, the College of Science, the College of Engineering, the College of Business Administration, the Notre Dame Law School, the University Libraries, and the Snite Museum of Art.

Advisory council members are appointed by the president, with membership typically ranging from 20 to 30 members. Members are appointed for three-year terms, which can be renewed.

Advisory councils at Notre Dame do not determine academic policy but draw on the expertise of members to advise the dean or director on matters in which he or she seeks their counsel.

The council also meets privately with the president of the University, the faculty, and student and faculty associates specific to the academic component and its development.

Members of this newly established advisory council of graduate studies and research have been announced by Father Malloy.

They are J. Paul Bolduc, vice chairman of W. R. Grace, and Michael Browning, president of Browning Investments Inc.

ND/SMC relations discussed by KELLEY TUTHILL

Saint Mary's student government is committed to improving relations between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students during the 1990-91 academic year.

Maggie Belin, vice president of academic affairs and college relations, said that the leaders of the student government also hope to sponsor "more major events" on campus, such as bringing bands to Saint Mary's. In addition, Belin said that student government is trying to build a feeling of community on the campus. "We are promoting Saint Mary's as a woman's college."

Student government is also working on showing a "major movie" on the campus.

The first Board of Governance meeting Wednesday, September 5 at 6 p.m. in Room 306 of Hagggar College Center. To learn more about student government and other campus clubs and organizations, students are encouraged to attend Activities Night on September 6.

Students are also welcome to stop, student government offices located on the third floor of Hagggar College Center. Office hours are Monday and Tuesday, 2 to 4 p.m. and Thursday, 4 to 6 p.m.

Tanner to occupy newly created faculty position

The Observer
Tuesday, August 28, 1990

Tanner’s appointment, effective for the 1990-91 academic year, makes her one of the University’s first two "named" assistant professors. The other is Veronica Blasquez, assistant professor of biochemistry, whose appointment to the Galla Assistant Professorship is also effective for the upcoming year.

In announcing the appointment, Provost Timothy O’Meara said, "In Carol Tanner the College of Science has attracted one of the most outstanding young physicists in the county—exactly the kind of candidate the Clare Boothe Luce Fund wishes to encourage. Dr. Tanner’s presence will greatly strengthen what we believe to be one of the finest small atomic physics groups in the world."

Tanner will join Notre Dame’s faculty after holding a prestigious National Research Council Postdoctoral Fellowship at the National Institute for Standards and Technology (formerly the National Bureau of Standards) for the past 2-1/2 years. Her research in laser spectroscopy has implications for theories of elementary particles, cooling atoms in laser beams, perhaps the most dramatic and promising developments in laser science in the 1980s.

She was a research associate at JILA-University of Colorado from 1985-88. An honors graduate of the University of Illinois at Urbana, she received her master’s and doctoral degrees from the University of California at Berkeley, where she also was a head teaching assistant and a graduate records assistant.

Notre Dame is one of 14 colleges and universities named by Mrs. Luce, who died in 1987, to participate in the $70-million fund, which is administered by the Henry Luce Foundation.

he said. He hopes that the construction will change that.

The new home of the Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force ROTC detachments will be the Pasquerilla Center. It was completed last spring and its dedication is scheduled for this fall. Notre Dame Trustee Frank Pasquerilla underwrote the project, the largest privately financed ROTC building in the country, according to Conklin.

The old ROTC building will now house University Security, the risk management office and the Environmental Health Department. The building has been repainted and also contains classrooms and a "24-hour computer cluster," said Dedrick.

Koons Rehearsal Hall, on the east side of campus, was also completed in the spring and is currently occupied by the Notre Dame Marching Band, the concert band, three smaller varsity bands, two jazz bands and woodwind, brass and other ensemble bands. A sheet music library, offices and storage areas are located in the building also, Conklin said.

A new support services building, located north of the Notre Dame Credit Union, was scheduled for completion Aug. 17. It will house custodial services and grounds and general maintenance.

Holy Cross Hall and St. Michael’s Laundry were demolished this summer. A new laundry facility is being constructed near the credit union and support services building and a parking lot will be built where the old laundry previously existed, said Dedrick.

"Dormitory renewal work centered on Dillon Hall this summer with new plumbing lines and fixtures installed and rooms and halls painted," said Conklin.

Press publishes Garvey's writings

"Finding Fault," a new collection of writings by Michael Garvey, assistant director of public relations and information at the University of Notre Dame, has recently been published by Thomas More Press.

In his preface, Garvey says of the 37 short essays in this book, "They are about... faith, family, prayer, marriage, war, children, sex, abortion, television, foolishness, money, madness, hospitality, sin, forgivingness, power, fear, and doubt. Whatever happened to being on at all moments on other words."

On some of these subjects, notably when he is driving from the temple, "Yuppies, flowers, vegetarians, New Age geeks, herbal tea drinkers, sunshine zappers", he draws linking lines, and vacuum-brained "DIEs" ("directors of religious education"). Garvey is the faultfinder of his title, glowingly lamasting the failures of world and Church if stupidity existed chiefly for his amusement.

Tongue-in-cheek bluster gives way to sober meditation, however, when he comments on matters such as "domesticated Christianity" that avoids engagement with the mysteries and demands of faith, "the destruction of one land a half million children a year" by abortion; or El Salvador's "suffering desplazados who are, in Christ, flesh of our flesh, bone of our bone. Eucharist of our Eucharist." More than a third of the essays evoke the humor, the terror and the awe of child rearing (Garvey will not abide the term "parenting") deftly uncovering in the pride and pratfalls of family life reflections of the Catholic mysteries of incarnation.

The Jeff Heilert Memorial Fund was set-up to benefit both Heilert's high school, Waunakee South High and Notre Dame. The monies for Notre Dame will wholly be used to donate something permanent in Cavanaugh Hall to preserve Heilert's memory, said Kempinger.

Donations may be sent to Heilert's parents at 309 Westminster Drive, Waunakee, Wisconsin 53186 or given to Stephen Kempinger at 111 Cavanaugh Hall.

A mass will be celebrated in Heilert's memory on Sunday, Sept. 2 at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of Cavanaugh Hall.

The University of Notre Dame has received a $3,500 grant from the Amoco Foundation to initiate an annual series of awards to outstanding teachers in the University's Colleges of Business and Engineering. The University has also received the first installment of the Amoco Foundation's $25,000 commitment to the University's Minority Engineering Program.

"We are deeply grateful to the Amoco Foundation for these benefactions and pleased by its recognition of the significance of great teaching and of support for the education of minority students," said Father Edward Malloy.

The new Amoco Teaching Awards were given last month to Michael Morris, associate professor of accounting and Leonard Horse-Fortier, assistant professor of civil engineering.

Annenberg Foundation gives ND $5 million

Special to The Observer

The University of Notre Dame has received a gift of $5 million from the Annenberg Foundation.

Walter Annenberg, the former U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, is providing this endowment for the University’s Hesburgh Library and Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center (JACC). Income from the endowment will be used to maintain the buildings, which are the two largest on campus.

"The cost of maintaining Notre Dame’s physical plant has almost trebled during the past decade, which makes this benefaction particularly timely and welcome," said Father Edward Malloy, president of the University. "It will ensure the integrity, appearance and usefulness of these two structures for many years to come."

"Over the years," Annenberg said, "the aura of Notre Dame has been an exciting revelation to me, and I could not resist the desire of having some association with this spirit of dedication." The gift, he said, was the result of his admiration of the leadership of former University president Father Theodore Hesburgh, and former executive vice president Father Edmund Joyce, after whom the library and JACC are named.

Annenberg has been a major benefactor of individual colleges and universities as well as of the United Negro College Fund. A patron of communications and the arts, he has amassed one of the world’s finest collections of Impressionist and Post-Impressionist paintings.

Annenberg’s support of Notre Dame spans more than two decades since his first gifts to the University in the late 1960s.

Cannon aims at women

By KEVALEEN RYAN
News Writer

In honor of the Year of the Woman, Sister Kathleen Cannon, the newly appointed Associate Provost, is focusing her efforts on the improvement of the situation of women at Notre Dame.

Most recently an assistant professor of preaching and communication at Catholic Theological Union in Chicago, Cannon has assumed the position left vacant by the promotion of Eileen Kolman to dean of Freshman Year of Studies.

The Provost office itself, headed by Timothy O'Meara, is responsible for "everything connected with the academic running of the institution," said Cannon.

This responsibility is, in turn, divided between four Associate Provosts. Cannon's specific duties include women's concerns, teaching and research faculties, ROTC, handicapped students, the coordination of dinners for the recipients of endowed chairs and commencement.

According to Cannon, the Associate Provosts are there to facilitate contact between the administration and the aforementioned areas and to "keep the lines of communication open."

Cannon's interest in Notre Dame was sparked by her post as visiting professor of theology in the fall of 1986.

"I was excited and stimulated by contact with the students and faculty... when the opportunity for this position opened, I was excited to be a part of the building of a Catholic university," she said.

Cannon said that her predecessor made an exceptional contribution to all the areas covered by the Provost office, especially in regards to women, and hopes to do the same.

Although she has only held office for a week and has not had the opportunity to discuss the issue with the Faculty/Student Committee on Women, Cannon still has some vague ideas as to this year's agenda.

She plans to take measures to address, "the women on the faculty and their appeals for promotions and tenure and develop and increase the profiles of women on campus."

Cannon received her bachelor's degree in mathematics from Ohio Dominican College in 1965, her master's degree in religious studies from Providence College in Rhode Island in 1975 and her doctorate degree from Catholic University of America.

Maids
some cases there are more.
For instance, Lewis Hall has a staff of three maids; Pasquerilla East and West will each have two and one-half maids, which means that one housekeeper will divide the day between the two dorms.

Siegfried and Knott, Keenan and Stanford, and Dillon and Morrissey, will also have two and one-half maids per dorm. Flanner and Grace will each have three and one-half people, said Woods.

There used to be four different classifications of cleaning staff: housekeeper one, housekeeper two, a lead housekeeper, and a utility person.

All four groups have been combined into the single classification of "general housekeeper," said Woods.

SPECIALTY CREWS

Specialty crews were created to clean the dorms in a more efficient way.

The replacement crew is made up of a group of housekeepers that will be rotated weekly. These housekeepers will substitute for others who are sick, instead of hiring employees from an outside temporary employment agency.

Notre Dame was then paying sick leave for the housekeeper and also paying a temporary employee for the day's work. Not only is this new system saving money, but it is also much safer, said Woods.

Strangers will no longer have access to students' rooms, and the replacements will have the advantage of knowing the way around campus.

Second in the detail crew. This crew is responsible for cleaning carpets, stairwells, beds, and walls on a regular basis. They will also be rotated weekly, according to Woods.

The shower crew is the third one which will also be rotated on a weekly basis.

Woods said that the University has spent about $15,000 in new high-pressure equipment to clean the showers.

The fourth crew is the fixture crew which will clean the lights in the halls. A new ultrasonic cleaning machine was purchased to accomplish this job more efficiently.

The trash will now be emptied once a week by two of the four crews. There will be additional receptacles on the floors of the dorms so that students may empty their own trash when it's full.

Dorm rooms will be thoroughly cleaned five times each year, Woods said.

This will be done before students arrive in the fall, over October break, Christmas break, spring break, and before commencement. The students are expected to do any necessary cleaning between these times, said Woods.

This was all outlined in an informational sheet Woods sent out to the dorms.

Woods said he is optimistic that the program "has enough merit to deal with problems as they arise."

In May of 1992, the responsibility of emptying their garbage will fall completely upon the students.

The new system has been in the planning stages for the past 15 months, Woods said. The final briefings were given to the officers of Notre Dame in March.

It was shown that the "potential was there to save money," according to Woods.

However, the officers wanted all the savings to go back into cleaning. "They did not want anyone to think they were doing it just to save money," Woods added.

A lot of the money saved has already been put back into the housekeeping. Over $45,000 has been spent on new equipment and cleaning supplies.

New vacuums were purchased and are being distributed on the basis of one per resident assistant (R.A.) in each dorm.

The R.A.'s will then be responsible for signing the vacuums out to the students in their section, Woods said.

Sarah Voigt, an R.A. in Pasquerilla West, said that in her dorm the maids will be in charge of signing the vacuums out during the day, and then whatever R.A. is on duty that night will then take over the process. It will be strictly on a first-come, first-serve basis, Voigt said.

Woods said that the only student input he received was in the form of complaints. He added that there have been no formal changes, although he did brief Student Body President Rob Pasin and Student Body Vice President Fred Tombar after the changes had been implemented.

The housekeeping staff was told in May about the change and Woods said that there was "initially a lot of unrest." People are generally threatened by change, he added.

Housekeepers expressed concern about long-term employees and new staggered hours, Woods said.

As a result, he said that supervisors met in both group and one on one sessions with the housekeepers to get their input.

Malloy urges students to take advantage of all ND offers

Dear Notre Dame Students:

I want to welcome you back to the campus for another academic year. I hope that the summer was a productive time for each of you. The campus has been quite active in your absence, with projects of construction, renovation and beautification projects. We are all glad to see Sacred Heart Church has been reopened and can once again serve as our center of worship. The Juniper Road corridor has undergone extensive improvements, and additional parking spaces have been made available in the three main parking areas. As you have already heard, Professor Patricia O'Hara is our new Vice-President for Student Affairs. She eagerly looks forward to working with you during this new year. Dr. Ellen Kolman is our new Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies. As always, there have been a number of additions to the faculty and staff.

This is the "Year of Women." A number of activities are being planned under the auspices of the committee headed by Dr. Kolman. I hope that you will participate in a number of these events. We all need to grow in our comprehension of the significance of gender in our experience of life, work and relationships. I am confident that Notre Dame can become an ever more welcoming and supporting environment for all who study and labor here.

All of us in the administration look forward to a fruitful and cooperative year. We have elected outstanding leaders in student government at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. I am confident that they will represent you well.

I encourage you to get to know your faculty in a personal way. They can be a tremendous resource as you explore the options of your life. We are proud of the high quality of faculty that we have been able to attract and consider them the most precious resource of the University. For those of you who live on campus, your rectors and assistant rectors, as well as the other staff in Student Affairs, are readily available for counsel and support. Share your life with them and take full advantage of their dedicated presence.

I look forward to having the opportunity to speak with many of you during the course of the year. May God bless us all in this coming academic year.

Cordially,
Rev. Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C.
President
University of Notre Dame

Dear Saint Mary's Students:

Welcome back!

Each year, when students begin to arrive on campus during these late August days, I am strengthened by the knowledge that you are from many of you who remain on campus for the summer are repregnated by the exuberance that you bring with you when you return. I hope that you are rested and ready for the rigors of the academic year. All of us on campus - my fellow administrators, the faculty and staff - look forward to the 1990-91 academic year with the hope that your intellectual and personal growth will be enriched by your experience at Saint Mary's.

Our immediate objective is to provide you with the finest education available, but our hope is that we will educate you in a way that ensures that your educational process will be lifelong. To accomplish this long range goal, we must rely on your commitment to learn, to question, to seek answers that may at first elude your understanding. I encourage you not to be discouraged or dissuaded when the path to understanding becomes difficult. You will need to stretch your mind in the classroom and in your personal lives - if you are to gain full advantage if all that is offered to you at Saint Mary's.

I urge you to be receptive to the knowledge and experiences that are in store for you and your fellow students. Commit yourself to do well in your course work, and challenge yourself to take part in the numerous cultural, social and spiritual activities available. Attending class and completing assignments are critical to your successful completion of an undergraduate degree, yet they represent only a portion of the education that your college years should provide.

The time you spend at Saint Mary's represents only an interlude in your life. Before you know it, you will be preparing for graduation and interviewing with potential employers. These years on campus offer a unique opportunity to grow as an individual, to become involved in programs that expand your vistas, to expose yourself to individuals of different cultures and ethnic origins and to explore formal and informal opportunities to grow in knowledge and understanding. Together, they offer a richness of experience that is available only rarely in each lifetime.

I hope that you will take advantage of all that is available for your personal and educational development while you are a Saint Mary's student, but it is YOU who must make the commitment to become involved - to make the most of all there is to learn and do here.

Theatre tickets on sale soon; 1990-91 plays announced

KEVALEEN RYAN

In an effort to provide more theatre performance opportunities for students at Notre Dame, the Communication and Theatre Department is sponsoring four new plays at Washington Hall for the 1990-91 season, according to Mark Pilkinton, chairman of the department.

The first will be a presentation by Catholic University's National Players of Shakespeare's classic "The Taming of the Shrew" on Sept. 19-23.

"The Bard's vivid language and elaborate puns produce a raucous comedy in which a determined suitor, Petruchio, accepts the challenge of "taming" the fierce and contentedly unwed Katharina. National Players is a touring group made up of young professionals and students in Catholic University's graduate theatre program.

Next on the agenda is Richard Nelson's adaptation of Dario Fo's "Accidental Death of an Anarchist," running from Dec. 5-9. This brilliant satire of police corruption in Italy which ridicules everything from the government to the latest shoe style will be directed by Pilkinton.

On Feb. 27-Mar. 3, Theatre Grottesco, a theatrical company from Detroit, will perform the world premiere of a new comedy which has been surrounded by an intriguing secrecy. The company was founded in Paris in 1983 and is known for its physicality and presents works in which the comedy, sadness and absurdity of life are emphasized. The name Grottesco comes from an Italian word meaning fantastic, ridiculous or comic.

The final play of the season, running from Apr. 24-28, will be Betolt Brecht's "The Good Woman of Setzuan." Directed by Frederic Syburg, this play is a contemporary version of the medieval morality play. It is the story of three gods in search of people who are both good and happy, however, in Setzuan the only virtuous person is a prostitute.

In addition to this four-play subscription series, the department is planning to inaugurate the Notre Dame Studio Series. These productions will take place in Washington Hall's laboratory theatre and are designed to promote new experimentation among student actors and directors. The initial October debut, directed by Reginald Bain, will be Euripides "Trojan Women."

Subscriptions for the Notre Dame Theatre season will be available until Sept. 14. Single tickets for "Taming of the Shrew" will go on sale Sept. 3 at the ticket office of the LaFortune Student Center (239-8128).

Funderburke re-enrolls at IU

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Lawrence Funderburke, who abruptly left Indiana University’s basketball team last winter, returned to the campus for the start of classes Monday.

Funderburke wants to play basketball in 1991, but not for Indiana, said Bret Bearup, a Louisville, Ky., attorney and friend of the player.

He is enrolled as a full-time student for the fall semester, the IU registrar’s office said Monday.

“We know he’s on campus, we know he’s enrolled, but we don’t know his plans,” said Brian Teter, assistant sports information director.

Coach Bob Knight kicked Funderburke out of practice last December and the talented forward never returned to the team.

Instead, he enrolled at St. Catharine College in Springfield, Ky., saying he was unhappy with Knight’s system.

He attended the first day of classes Jan. 18, but left shortly thereafter.

Knight refused to release Funderburke from his letter of intent, and he revoked Funderburke’s scholarship.

Funderburke’s attorney, William Fleck of Columbus, Ohio, was on vacation Monday and unavailable for comment.

In April, he had advised his client to complete the nine hours.

Funderburke could not be reached for comment Monday.

“He hasn’t met with Coach Knight, who’s been out of town the last three weeks,” Teter said.

Knight is not due back in Bloomington until Sept. 10.

Funderburke tried to meet with Knight in July, but Knight’s schedule prevented them from talking, Teter said.

“There was a rumor that he was going to ask to be let back on the team,” Teter said.

Funderburke’s presence on the Bloomington campus has sparked speculation about whether he will try to make the team as a walk-on, or complete his nine hours and transfer, Teter said.

Another nine hours of classes would allow Funderburke to complete his freshman year, and get him out of the letter of intent.

Funderburke plans to transfer at the end of the semester. Bearup told the Herald-Times of Bloomington on Monday.

“He plans are to take 12 hours this semester and then look for a school at the end of the semester,” Bearup said.

Fall schedule will soon begin for Irish athletes

Observer Staff Report

Notre Dame's 1990 fall sports schedule will begin soon as the Irish volleyball and soccer teams will return to action by Sept. 2 and the cross country teams will begin competing on Sept. 15. With the new season comes a sense of optimism for Notre Dame's athletes and their coaches as they begin the fall with a clean slate.

The Irish volleyball team will try to rebound from a 1989 campaign which saw Coach Art Lambert's squad struggle to its first losing record since 1985 against a murderous schedule. Notre Dame finished 14-17 a year ago, but will try to improve on that mark as five starters return to the lineup and a talented freshman class will provide support.

Once again, though, a difficult schedule which begins Aug. 31 at the Washington State Invitational in Pullman, Wash., could block the Irish road to success. Included among Notre Dame's 1990 opponents are 20 teams which earned top 20 rankings at some point last season, and 10 teams which participated in last season's NCAA Tournament.

Traditional powers Penn State, Illinois, LSU and Colorado all will visit the Joyce ACC this fall, and the Irish will travel to Texas, Pittsburgh and Minnesota as well. The Soviet Junior National Team will also appear at the Joyce ACC on Oct. 4 in its annual tour of the United States.

"Once again, we have a pretty rough schedule," Lambert said. The Notre Dame women's soccer team begins its season Sept. 1 at Kruise Stadium against Northeast Missouri State. The match will be new head coach Chris Petrucelli's first test since coming over from Old Dominion with Berticelli.

Joe Plane

After the Northeast Missouri State match the Irish will travel down tobacco road for matches at Duke and UNC-Greensboro in what could be the most difficult part of their schedule. Under Petrucelli Notre Dame will try to improve on last year's 12-10 record.

The Irish played their only exhibition match of the season when they took a tough Wisconsin squad into overtime before losing 4-1 on August 21 in Madison, Wis.

The Notre Dame men's and women's cross country teams will return to action against Georgetown Sept. 15 at Burke Memorial Golf Course under the direction of Coach Joe Plane. The men's squad has defeated the Hoyas in each of the past three years, including last year's 32-33 triumph.

All-American Mike O'Connor is back to lead the men's team, which finished ninth in last year's national rankings and won its second consecutive Midwestern Collegiate Conference championship. Senior captain Terese Lemanski will lead the Irish women, who finished second last year at the ACC this fall, and the Irish will

There's a lot more to an Apple® Macintosh® computer than just something to make a résumé look good. Sure, it's got the capability to improve the look of practically any document. But once you get beyond Macintosh as just an elegant formatting tool, you begin to understand why it's becoming so widely accepted in the business world. My Mac® can crunch numbers with the best of them. It just plain makes me more efficient in everything I do. That frees me up for serious book time—and for not-so-serious stuff, too.

Having my own Macintosh is a big plus now, and I know it'll give me an edge in the real world, too. I'll be able to interface my Mac with mainframes and MS-DOS® computers and still have the ease-of-use that Macintosh is famous for. And that'll make me work better for whoever I work for.

Macintosh is going to make my résumé look better—in more ways than one.

News continues to filter down after former Notre Dame line- man Steve Huffman's first-person article in Sports Illustrated in which he said there was widespread steroid use by Irish football players.

In Sunday's Atlanta Constitution, columnist Terence Moore says Notre Dame is among the few colleges that test for drug and steroid use. He cites Frank Cryan, head of the NCAA's drug testing program, as saying that only 60 percent of Division 1 schools have any drug-testing program and only half of those test for steroids because it is extremely expensive.

Moore writes, "If Huffman's steroid story is correct, Notre Dame has spent thousands of dollars on testing so they can ignore the results.

Makes sense to me."

In an article in the Boston Globe, Will McDonough says that he talked with many top personnel men in the NFL and all said they never considered Notre Dame a "steroid school" and that those who know say Huffman never came to the NFL for a coaching job in the NFL at the conclusion of last season.

McDonough further says that Ken Herock of the Atlanta Falcons, who was in charge of hiring a new coach, denied that Holtz had "ever in any way con- tacted the Falcons about their vacant coaching job that even- tually went to Jerry Glanville."

Notre Dame is ranked second in the inaugural Associated Press poll behind defending national champion Miami.

Auburn, Florida State, Colorado, Michigan, Nebraska, Tennessee, Southern Cal and Clemson round out the first 10.

The Irish will meet seven of the top 25 teams in the poll in 1990. Notre Dame is 19th in the Associated Press poll.

The Irish will play their first four games on the road.

As horrible as his statements were, they brought to light a huge national problem regarding admission of blacks and minorities into country clubs.
Let's hope that those crass but candid words result in a far-reaching reform which allows equal access to Country Clubs across the country.

Cavanaugh leads Eagles past Colts for 17-16 win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Matt Cavanaugh may have forced Philadelphia coach Buddy Ryan to rethink his roster plans. "We might have to go with three quarterbacks," Ryan said Monday night after the 33-year-old Cavanaugh led a fourth-quarter rally by the Eagles for a 17-16 victory over the Indianapolis Colts. "We may have to cut short the defensive safeties or something. Matt did a good job," said Ryan, who earlier this summer signed Jim McMahon as a backup to Randall Cunningham.

Cavanaugh, a 13-year NFL veteran, completed nine of 10 passes for 109 yards and set up a touchdown and then Roger Ruzek's winning 33-yard field goal with 1:56 to play. "The Colts played with emotion. We didn't play well," Ryan said. "Just well enough to win. We didn't look good." Indianapolis coach Ron Meyer, who also used a third-string quarterback in the fourth quarter, wasn't as gloomy as Ryan, even with the loss. "It was a fairly acceptable football game," Meyer said. "Too many people are going to put too much emphasis on the score, and frankly I hope they do. I hope they take us lightly." "I feel we really closed the gap appreciably," Meyer said. Indianapolis (0-3), using rookie quarterback Gene Benhart in the final period, was unable to move the ball and gave up possession at the Philadelphia 18 with five minutes to go. Cavanaugh then hit four of five passes, taking the Eagles to the Indianapolis 16, before Ruzek's fourth-down field goal gave them the victory. "We're a 13-year veteran," Meyer said of Cavanaugh. "The quarterback we had in there can't count to 13, he's not 13 years old." Benhart, who's actually 23, hit one of five passes and was sacked once in the Colts' final possession.

Cavanaugh hit four straight passes for 54 yards on his first series as the Eagles (2-1) rallied from a 16-7 deficit in the final period. A pass interference penalty in the end zone gave Philadelphia the ball at the 1 and Robert Drummond scored on the next play, cutting the Colts' lead to 16-14 with 10:34 remaining in the game.

Jack Trudeau, still fighting for a starting job that seems destined for $15 million rookie Jeff George, hit 10 of 12 passes for 113 yards and a 4-yard touchdown to Ken Clark midway through the third quarter for Indianapolis.

George, the overall No. 1 pick in the draft, gave the Colts an early lead with a 1-yard touchdown pass to Pat Beach late in the first quarter and finished with 153 yards on 11 completions. "I don't see a great urgency to name a starting quarterback," Meyer said. "They're both progressing. The Colts led 6-0 on George's pass to Beach and Dean Blascovic's 23-yard field goal 58 seconds into the second quarter before Jim McMahon's 9-yard touchdown pass to Maurice Johnson with 4:31 left in the half cut the deficit to two points. McMahon, who signed with Philadelphia as a free agent, entered the game in relief of Cunningham midway through the second quarter.

Trudeau went 4-for-4 for 64 yards in the Colts' final scoring drive, hitting Clark for the touchdown and a 16-7 lead. The Colts had two chances to increase their lead before halftime but turned the ball over both times.

The first came when George was intercepted by Teal Jenkins at the Eagles' 20. After an unsuccessful fake punt and fourth-down run by Terry Hoage gave the Colts the ball at Philadelphia's 46 in the closing seconds, rookie Anthony Johnson fumbled a pass reception at the Eagles' 19, keeping the halftime lead at 9-7.

Minnesota hurler throws third straight complete game, allowing four hits in shutout of Chicago Sox

ANDERSON doesn't have to look Anyone wondering what happened to the outstanding pitching form of Minnesota's Alan Anderson doesn't have to look any further than the pitching mound.

"Old Andy never went any­where," Anderson said after shutting out the Chicago White Sox, 7-0 on four hits Monday night.

A year ago, Anderson was 17-10 but his current 6-16 record has the twins scratching their heads.

After Gene Larkin hit a three­runner home in the first inning there was never any question that Anderson looked like the pitcher of a year ago.

"He made great pitches," Chicago manager Jeff Torborg said. "He pitched like he had 16 wins instead of 16 losses. His inside strike caught people looking and he had great defensive plays behind him."

Andre has three career complete games in a row but can't put a finger on any one thing for his sudden improvement.

"It's just a manner of minor adjustments of everything," he said. "The only thing I need to control is to stay within myself, and I've been doing that lately.

"When you come up with three runs in the first inning it's very important to set the tone. We had something to work with, and it worked out well."

Anderson struck out five and walked two en route to his third career shutdown. The Twins, who supported Anderson with only 32 runs in his 16 losses, have scored 37 in his six victories.

Loser Melido Perez (11-12) gave up all seven runs and eight hits in 7 1-3 innings as the White Sox fell 5 1/2 games behind idle first-place Oakland in the American League West.

With two out in the Minnesota first, Kent Hrbek singled, Gary Gaetti walked and Larkin hit his fifth home run of the season.

The Twins got two more runs in the third inning. Dan Gladden singled and scored on Nelson Liriano's triple. After Hrbek and Gaetti struck out.

Larkin hit an RBI single to tie his career high of four RBIs in a game. Liriano had an RBI single in the seventh and Larkin tripled in the eighth and scored on a double by Gagne.

The White Sox' best threat came in the fifth inning when Scott Fletcher and Craig Grebeck singled with two out. Anderson retired Ozzie Guillen on a grounder.

Notes: Kirby Puckett missed his first start at the Metrodome since being called up in 1984. He has a sore left hamstring. Puckett has a nine-game hitting streak (13-for-45, 371). For the season he is hitting .301. . . . The Twins have hit just 10 home runs in August. The club low for a month in six in September 1978. . . . Chicago rookie Frank Thomas has walked 16 times in the last seven games and has hit in 11 of his last 15 (11-for-46, .347).

We would also like to welcome back everyone returning from a very short summer! We've got an intense year awaiting us since SUB has been busy making arrangements for this year's line-up of big name entertainment.

However, in order to start this year off right, An Tostal, ND/SMC's annual spring festival, is sponsoring THE SHIRT, an event whereby the entire student body will show our Fighting Irish unity/support by wearing a kelly green T-shirt to the Notre Dame vs. Michigan Football game on September 15th. Holtz says line will be fine under direction of Moore

By GREG GUFFEY
Sports Editor

Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz knows his defensive line will be good, if not intimidating. The high schoolation mark right now could be the offensive line, a unit which lost three starters from last year's team.

Gone are standouts Tim Grunhard, Dean Brown and Mike Brennan. Grunhard was a second-round pick of the Kansas City Chiefs. Brown was selected by the Indianapolis Colts and Brennan was a fourth-round pick of the Chicago Bears. Those three players started all 13 games for Notre Dame in 1989.

But Holtz is not about to push the panic button, despite losing those talented linemen. He is confident that offensive line coach Joe Moore will assemble a talented and productive unit before the Sept. 15 opener with Michigan.

"I know Coach Moore," Holtz said after practice Monday. "Coach Moore has never had a bad offensive line. I don't expect this year to be any different.

"Center Mike Helt and guard Tim Ryan were standouts on last season's line, which allowed Mike Birell to gain more than 287 yards per game. Helt, one of four captains on this fall's Notre Dame squad, is a strong All-America candidate.

"While the Irish do not have proven talent, they do have depth. Gene McGuire, Winston Sandri, Mirko Jurkovic, Justin Hall and Joe Allen have all seen substantial amounts of playing time.

"McGuire spent the spring playing center when Helti missed all of the workouts with a dislocated elbow. Sandri played more minutes than any other non-starting tackle in 1989, and Jurkovic, Grunhard's backup, saw more playing time than any non-starting lineman.

"Hall played in 10 games last season as a sophomore after sparing an ankle in the first day of fall pads, while Allen has more than 100 career minutes including time in all 13 games last fall.

"Several others will compete for playing time, including senior Brian Shannon, seniors Joe Allen and Lindsay Knapp."

Holtz and the Irish are in a unique situation this fall. When Tony Rice was an inexperienced sophomore quarterback, in 1987, he had a veteran offensive line. When Rice was the veteran the following season, the offensive line was young. In 1989, the whole offense was loaded with veterans. With sophomore quarterback Rick Mirer set to start his first game against Michigan, both units will be inexperienced on the playing field.

"One thing Notre Dame missed Saturday in its first scrimmage was the leadership of Rice. "I know the problem is leadership, chemistry and togetherness on offense," Holtz said.

"You don't replace a guy like Tony Rice. He just tied that whole offense together. We really missing him. That will have to come."

In Saturday's scrimmage, Mirer completed 6-of-16 passes for 142 yards, but 79 of those yards came on a pass completion to Raghib Ismail (25) eludes the grasp of several defenders in Saturday's intrasquad scrimmage. Ismail is one of the few bright spots in an offense which has been unimpressive to this point in the fall.

IU edges Illinois in Golden Boot

Special to the Observer

The Notre Dame men's soccer team lost a close 1-0 scrimmage to powerful Indiana on Saturday in a tuneup for its Sept. 1 season opener against Dayton.

Chad Deering scored from 20 yards out to lead the Hoosiers to victory in Saturday's Golden Boot Soccer Match, played in Indianapolis.

"We played one of the best teams in the country tonight and they scored a brilliant goal," said first-year Irish coach Mike Berticelli after his team's second scrimmage of the fall.

"Indiana had an advantage in maturity and they played like an experienced team. I saw some things in our guys that encouraged me, but my main concern is that we're in better team in September than we are right now.

"Indiana, who also hosts Notre Dame on September 28, is in one of the top teams on the Irish schedule that appeared in last fall's NCAA tournament. The Irish play Duke on September 7, Saint Louis on September 14 and Evansville on October 22.

"Notre Dame has a history of success against Dayton, going 6-1-1 against the Flyers in a series dating back to 1977. Last season, the Irish defeated Dayton 2-1 in a home match.

"The Flyers return eight starters from last year's 8-1-3-1 squad, including three leading scorers. Junior forward Brady O'Toole led Dayton with five goals last season. Also returning are sophomore midfielder Jim Halter and defender Steve Mitchel, the Flyers' Most Valuable Player in '89.

"Notre Dame closes its pre-season schedule with a final home scrimmage against Central Michigan on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Heroes and villains abound in a brief review of summer

After suffering through an entire summer without a public forum, I've returned to offer my unsolicited opinions to whoever bothers to read this column. What better way to start the new academic year than by ridiing the sports villains of the past summer and congratulating some of the heroes as well?

Topping this summer's villain list are Pete Rose and George Steinbrenner. Fortunately, justice was served in both men's cases, as Rose went to jail for tax evasion and Steinbrenner was essentially banned from baseball by Commissioner Fay Vincent.

In the end, though, Rose and Steinbrenner at least were honorable enough to accept their punishments without a lot of fuss. Meanwhile, golfer Hale Irwin sits atop the list of heroes. Go! can be a pretty dull sport at times, but the 45-year-old Irwin displayed youthful exuberance as he high-fived and danced his way to a victory in the U.S. Open in mid-June.

Irwin's antics earned him at least one fan as he became the oldest man to win the Open.

Coach George T. Loy of a Willow Springs, Ill., Little League baseball team didn't win any fans when he attacked opposing coach John Hills with a bat. Loy set such a marvelous example for his 13-15-year-old players that he was arrested on two counts of battery, Hills, who suffered fractured ribs and a broken nose, claimed, "It's just a game..."

"It's too bad Hills didn't have a chance to talk to 40-year-old Sayid Abdel-Al of Egypt. Abdel-Al hanged himself when Egypt was eliminated from World Cup soccer competition in a 1-0 loss to England. His suicide note wished Egypt good luck in the 1994 World Cup. Meanwhile, the few Americans who tuned in to TNT's World Cup broadcasts nearly died of boredom.

On a more pleasant note, give a gold star to the EDMONTON Oilers for proving that they are still pretty good without Wayne Gretzky by winning the Stanley Cup against Boston in five games. Bill Ranford proved that Edmonton's goaltending is still sensational without Grant Fuhr as he stopped both 8-of-15 shots in the Finals en route to winning the Conn Smythe trophy as Most Valuable Player of the playoffs.

Thirty-six-year-old Dutchman Arie Luyendyk also proved himself by winning the Indianapolis 500 on May 27 with a record average speed of 185,984 miles per hour. Luyendyk surprised everybody as he outran Emerson Fittipaldi and Bobby Rahal to capture the Indy flag.

Last on the villain/hero list is somebody who fits into both categories. Hall Thompson of Shoal Creek Country Club in Birmingham, Ala., sent shock waves across the nation when he told a reporter that his private club discriminates against blacks.

"We have the right to associate or not to associate with..."
