Prisoners’ day celebration

5 thousand people rallied in the center of Moscow two days ago in support of political prisoner’s day. People carrying old Russian Empire flags and portraits of Lenin’s face blanked out are shown.

At least 24 die in Indian violence as Hindu fundamentalists storm shrine

AYODHYA, India (AP) — Thousands of Hindu fundamentalists failed in a new attempt Wednesday to storm an ancient shrine claimed by Moslems, and at least 24 more people died in violence sparked by the dispute.

A government minister resigned to protest Prime Minister V.P. Singh’s attempts to block construction of a Hindu temple the one-story mosque, which has been the center of a decades-old dispute between India’s Hindu majority and Moslem minority.

Hindu fundamentalists broke through police cordons on Tuesday and chipped away bricks and bits of plaster from the one-story mosque, which they want to replace with a temple.

At least five Hindus were killed and 20 injured when police opened fire to throw back the rioters. At least two of the injured died Wednesday, doctors said.

Press Trust of India said at least 22 other people were killed in street battles between Hindus and Moslems in four widely separated cities.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the administration is “very distressed by the violence and loss of life and we hope that this crisis can be averted without further bloodshed.”

The dispute has killed at least 170 people in the past eight days and pushed Singh’s 11-month-old government to the verge of collapse. The Hindu fundamentalist Bharatiya Janata Party withdrew support from the governing coalition last month to protest government policy on the temple project.

The desertion left Singh without a majority in Parliament, but he has said he will win a vote of confidence scheduled for Nov. 7.

Singh’s attempts to ride the religious and political crisis re­ceived another setback Wednesday, when the deputy minister for sports, Bhakta Charan Das, resigned to protest the police action at Ayodhya.

Das, a Hindu, accused Singh in his resignation letter of “lack of foresightfulness” in tackling the crisis.

The dispute also triggered violence in neighboring Bangladesh, an Islamic nation, where Moslem mobs attacked temples and Hindu shops and homes after hearing of the situation in Ayodhya. Authorities clamped curfews in the capital Dhaka and the port city of Chittagong to curb rioting.

In addition to the T-shirts, the association established to take phone orders is still taking orders for the original T-shirt design. It had previously approved the plan on Sept. 11.

Ivan Silaev, the republic’s prime minister, told parliament that a series of proposed laws would be drafted within the next three weeks.

"Reall, all this means is they have started the clock ticking and underlined their determination to go ahead" with the 500-day plan, said Shod Muladzhanov, a political commentator for the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda.

"I spent the whole day here asking people what concrete steps they planned to take, and no one could give me an answer," he added, gesturing from a balcony overlooking the parliament’s marble meeting hall.

Sale of ‘cause’ T-shirts raise money for accident victim; new version now for sale

By ANN MARIE HARTMAN

News Writer

The story of the "T-shirt with a cause" which surrounded the Notre Dame-Miami football game is not over.

The game commemorative shirt, created by the Notre Dame student body to raise money for a hit and run victim graduate student, sold out before kickoff on Oct. 28. About 20,000 T-shirts were bought in a span of two weeks, creating nearly $45,000 in profit. All of this will be donated to the victim.

In addition to the sales on campus, an 800 number was established to take phone orders. 4000 more shirts were sold this way raising the total to nearly $100,000. "The support of the Notre Dame community has been overwhelming," said Joe Cassidy, Notre Dame director of student activities.

For those still interested in buying a "Cause" T-shirt, they will be on sale "until the bottom falls out and the demand no longer exists," says Cassidy. Cassidy hopes that by the end of the week both long and short sleeve versions of the shirt will be available at all on campus outlets.

The Bookstore, Alumni Association, Information Desk, and the Hockey ProShop will be selling the shirts and featuring the short-sleeved version with the final 29-20 score on the front. 1-800-345-5027 is still taking orders for the T-shirt, as well.

In addition to the T-shirts, watch for order forms that will soon hit campus for the "Cause" sweatshirt that bears the original T-shirt design. This pre-pay, pre-order option is open only to students and faculty of Notre Dame and St. Mary’s.

Homes demolished

Palestinian family gives the victory salute in an expression of defiance after their home was completely destroyed by Israeli soldiers Tuesday, in the West Bank town of Sirqi.

Soviets announce new program for economy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian parliament voted Wednesday to start a 500-day transition to a market economy on Thursday, putting it on a collision course with President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and the national legislature.

Gorbachev and the Supreme Soviet legislature agreed Oct. 19 on a compromise economic rescue plan that is slower and less radical than the 500-day plan.

Russia, the largest of the 15 Soviet republics, has declared sovereignty from the central Soviet government. It claims the right to put its own economic reform plan into effect on its territory, which covers two-thirds of the Soviet land mass.

It is unclear who will be obeyed if the Russian government, led by Gorbachev’s leading political rival, Boris N. Yeltsin, gives economic orders that contradict the national government.

Already, the central government has warned bank officials they will be fired if they carry out a new Russian regulatory law creating independent banks, according to Deputy Russian Premier Gennady Filibin.

The Russian parliament also challenged the Kremlin by claiming control over the republic’s natural resources and other assets, including state institutions and construction projects, Tass reported.

It said the legislation was intended to “lay the foundations for the republic’s economic sovereignty.” The bill says the Russian government has the right to accredit foreign firms and control imports and exports from its territory.

The parliament voted 155 to nine with two abstentions to begin implementing the 500-day plan on Thursday, but it did not approve any specific steps. It had previously approved the plan on Sept. 11.

Ivan Silaev, the republic’s prime minister, told parliament that a series of proposed laws would be drafted within the next three weeks.

"Really, all this means is they have started the clock ticking and underlined their determination to go ahead" with the 500-day plan, said Shod Muladzhanov, a political commentator for the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda.

"I spent the whole day here asking people what concrete steps they planned to take, and no one could give me an answer," he added, gesturing from a balcony overlooking the parliament’s marble meeting hall.

Soviets announce new program for economy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian parliament voted Wednesday to start a 500-day transition to a market economy on Thursday, putting it on a collision course with President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and the national legislature.

Gorbachev and the Supreme Soviet legislature agreed Oct. 19 on a compromise economic rescue plan that is slower and less radical than the 500-day plan.

Russia, the largest of the 15 Soviet republics, has declared sovereignty from the central Soviet government. It claims the right to put its own economic reform plan into effect on its territory, which covers two-thirds of the Soviet land mass.

It is unclear who will be obeyed if the Russian government, led by Gorbachev’s leading political rival, Boris N. Yeltsin, gives economic orders that contradict the national government.

Already, the central government has warned bank officials they will be fired if they carry out a new Russian regulatory law creating independent banks, according to Deputy Russian Premier Gennady Filibin.

The Russian parliament also challenged the Kremlin by claiming control over the republic’s natural resources and other assets, including state institutions and construction projects, Tass reported.

It said the legislation was intended to “lay the foundations for the republic’s economic sovereignty.” The bill says the Russian government has the right to accredit foreign firms and control imports and exports from its territory.

The parliament voted 155 to nine with two abstentions to begin implementing the 500- day plan on Thursday, but it did not approve any specific steps. It had previously approved the plan on Sept. 11.

Ivan Silaev, the republic’s prime minister, told parliament that a series of proposed laws would be drafted within the next three weeks.

"Really, all this means is they have started the clock ticking and underlined their determination to go ahead" with the 500-day plan, said Shod Muladzhanov, a political commentator for the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda.

"I spent the whole day here asking people what concrete steps they planned to take, and no one could give me an answer," he added, gesturing from a balcony overlooking the parliament’s marble meeting hall.
INSIDE COLUMN

ND must learn to live in a glass house

Returning to Notre Dame as a junior, I thought I knew a fair amount about the character of this institution. But more than once this year, especially in discussions concerning Notre Dame, I was surprised by me.

Kathleen Welch
Asst. Viewpoint Editor

Over the summer, when the steroids issue surfaced, one media person commented that when you live in a glass house, you have to expect a few stones hurled your way. He went on to call Notre Dame the "quintessential glass house." Perhaps these comments are just sensationalized news lead lines; yet, they may give rise to some interesting reflections on our part with respect to community and private identity.

Why do those who deliver such news about us as the public seem to delight in any opportunity to criticize us? Lou Holtz said in a press conference that to get the number one ranking we have to win consistently and, interestingly, that perhaps we are judged on a different, more difficult standard than other teams.

So our achievements, it seems our critics are exceedingly unmerciful on the football field and, I would suggest, in a general response to Notre Dame. The "glass house" analogy is a useful one when we look to understand those outsider reactions to Notre Dame. Perhaps we could excuse this anti-ND sentiment as sour-loosership on the part of members of the public and media that have loyalties to other schools and want to see the long-time winning team lose a few.

But I am inclined to see this issue in a broader light, where the media commentary on football is just one example of a broader-based sentiment. I don't think people would disagree if I said that religion and morality are a large part of our identity both as we see it, and as it is seen from the outside. We have seldom attempted to hide our positions on moral issues. And these are often stances that, in this age of conformity, make a lot of people uncomfortable. Our openness with respect to our morality and, as a result, our vulnerability to the scrutiny and criticism of others lend themselves to the glass house analogy. Yet, to live in a glass house is frightening because it feels like one small stone could shatter that whole image which is so much a part of us. While many are throwing stones, the last thing we want to do is give them ammunition to base against us. I think this is why our behavior, as students, is so important.

As an institution, we are frequently and poignantly reminded of our failures. Still, at Notre Dame we ought to realize that it is better to be dwellers in the glass house than stone throwers.

_____

"The Nuts and Bolts of Applying to Graduate School," a workshop for seniors, at 4:30 p.m., today in the Notre Dame Room in LaFortune.

Take back the Night March-A candlelight procession to bear witness to the fact that people do not feel safe walking alone. Meet in front of O'Shaughnessy Hall at 8 p.m.

Clubs, Organizations & Departments—Information for the Spring Calendar of Events (Daily Shillelagh) is due in the Student Activities Office, this Friday, Nov. 2. Please include the name of the event, date, time, place and sponsoring organization or department.

Off-Campus Students may pick up phone books at the Student Government Secretary's Office on the 2nd Floor of LaFortune, Monday-Friday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

The Hispanic American Organization will hold a meeting this Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in Farley Hall's basement. Details for the upcoming dance will be discussed.
Bookfair held to benefit education organization

By DANNIKA SIMPSON
News Writer

The Early Childhood Development Center (ECDC) will be holding a bookfair on November 2 and November 5-8 in Havican Hall on Saint Mary's campus.

According to Terri Kosik, the ECDC, a non-profit organization, is holding the bookfair to earn money to purchase educational and classroom materials. The organization will be selling children's literature as well as nonfiction books and books for older adults. World Book Encyclopedia's and Atlases will also be available.

Kosik also said Discovery Toys can be purchased. "(These toys) are educational, manipulative toys that foster cognitive development," she said.

The fair began about five years ago because there was a need to provide quality literature for children, according to Kosik. "It's really hard for parents to find award winning books locally." She said that award winning books were available in libraries but not in stores.

She also said, "(The bookfair) is a way we (ECDC) can raise money and provide a valuable service to families." ECDC will receive thirty percent of the proceeds from the bookfair.

Kosik said reading to children is the "best pre-academic" activity parents can engage in. Although she does not suggest that parents should stop buying toys, she explained, "We're trying to offer an option to toys."

The bookfair will be held from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Careers to be focus of showcase

By SUSAN MINAHAN
News Writer

"Showcase '90: Spotlighting Career and Employment Choices," will provide students and faculty the opportunity to meet over 40 representatives from various corporations, non-profit organizations, graduate schools, and government agencies tonight from 3 to 5:30 p.m.

According to Jeffrey Roberts, Assistant Director of the Counseling and Career Development Center and Coordinator of Placement Services, the Showcase is an excellent way for students to become acquainted with internship and occupational opportunities, build professional networks, and obtain information on particular organizations.

Approximately 12 representatives are Saint Mary's alumni, and six are fathers of Saint Mary's students. IBM, Price Waterhouse, the Food and Drug Administration, Holy Cross Associates, and Arthur Andersen & Co. number among the guest organizations.

According to Roberts the Showcase is one of the biggest events offered during the year because it not only provides a clear idea of the opportunities available to students following graduation, but it is an excellent way to gain respect from the employment sector as well.
The Observer
Thursday, November 1, 1990

On the offensive
Democratic Gubernatorial candidate Laton Chiles takes the offensive during a debate with Florida Governor Bob Martinez Tuesday night at an Orlando television station.

Sweeping changes in SAT unveiled
BOSTON (AP) — College Board trustees announced Wednesday the most sweeping changes ever in the Scholastic Aptitude Test, adding some math questions that aren’t multiple choice and introducing optional essay questions.

Board officials rejected suggestions that charges of cultural bias prompted the revisions in the test used heavily in deciding who gets into what college.

The new Scholastic Aptitude Test, called SAT-I, will be introduced in the spring 1994, said College Board President Donald M. Stewart.

In the language section, emphasis on reading comprehension will be increased. Students will be allowed to use calculators in the math section.

The revisions are aimed in part at reducing students’ reliance on test coaches, Stewart said at the board’s annual meeting.

Critics have long charged that the SAT — the most widely used college entrance exam — was biased, particularly against women and minorities.

“Nothing could be further from the truth,” Stewart said. “The SAT has been in almost continual evolution. It has never been set in concrete.”

“The new SAT will combine the high, academically demanding standards of the current tests with revisions that increase their educational relevance and quality for all college-bound students.”

The old SAT had 85 verbal and 60 math questions. The SAT-I will have 75-85 verbal and 55-60 math questions.

The new math questions requiring students to produce an answer rather than choose one from a list will make up about 20 percent of the math section.

The changes also include the introduction of the optional SAT-II, an expansion of the achievement tests that some schools presently give in addition to the SAT to help gain admission to some colleges.

SAT-II will include a written essay section, language proficiency tests for non-native English speakers of Japanese and Chinese, and proficiency tests for non-native English speakers.

Observers had predicted the essay would be included in the main SAT. But Gregory Angar, president of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., which administers the test, said field trials showed an essay would make the exam too long.

Bob Schaeffer, a spokesman for the group FairTest and author of the book “Standing Against Women and Minorities,” said field trials showed that the essay would make the exam too long.

“Bob Schaeffer, a spokesman for the group FairTest and author of the book “Standing Against Women and Minorities,” said field trials showed that the essay would make the exam too long.

“The new SAT amounts to little more than rearranging the deck chairs on an educational Titanic,” Schaeffer said. “The SAT should be optional and it should be comprehensively overhauled to address its problems.”

FairTest and other critics have claimed that the SAT tends to cover subjects that while male and affluent test-takers are more likely to be familiar with.

On the defensive
Democratic Gubernatorial candidate Laton Chiles takes the offensive during a debate with Florida Governor Bob Martinez Tuesday night at an Orlando television station.

Sweeping changes in SAT unveiled
BOSTON (AP) — College Board trustees announced Wednesday the most sweeping changes ever in the Scholastic Aptitude Test, adding some math questions that aren’t multiple choice and introducing optional essay questions.

Board officials rejected suggestions that charges of cultural bias prompted the revisions in the test used heavily in deciding who gets into what college.

The new Scholastic Aptitude Test, called SAT-I, will be introduced in the spring 1994, said College Board President Donald M. Stewart.

In the language section, emphasis on reading comprehension will be increased. Students will be allowed to use calculators in the math section.

The revisions are aimed in part at reducing students’ reliance on test coaches, Stewart said at the board’s annual meeting.

Critics have long charged that the SAT — the most widely used college entrance exam — was biased, particularly against women and minorities.

“Nothing could be further from the truth,” Stewart said. “The SAT has been in almost continual evolution. It has never been set in concrete.”

“The new SAT will combine the high, academically demanding standards of the current tests with revisions that increase their educational relevance and quality for all college-bound students.”

The old SAT had 85 verbal and 60 math questions. The SAT-I will have 75-85 verbal and 55-60 math questions.

The new math questions requiring students to produce an answer rather than choose one from a list will make up about 20 percent of the math section.

The changes also include the introduction of the optional SAT-II, an expansion of the achievement tests that some schools presently give in addition to the SAT to help gain admission to some colleges.

SAT-II will include a written essay section, language proficiency tests for non-native English speakers of Japanese and Chinese, and proficiency tests for non-native English speakers.

Observers had predicted the essay would be included in the main SAT. But Gregory Angar, president of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., which administers the test, said field trials showed an essay would make the exam too long.

Bob Schaeffer, a spokesman for the group FairTest and author of the book “Standing Against Women and Minorities,” said field trials showed that the essay would make the exam too long.

“The new SAT amounts to little more than rearranging the deck chairs on an educational Titanic,” Schaeffer said. “The SAT should be optional and it should be comprehensively overhauled to address its problems.”

FairTest and other critics have claimed that the SAT tends to cover subjects that while male and affluent test-takers are more likely to be familiar with.
New York Daily News strike grows; gains momentum as more unionists join walkout

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 500 unionists joined striking Daily News workers Wednesday at a raucous, old-fashioned labor rally outside the News building, portraying the newspaper battle as a fight to save all unions.

Pickets were buoyed when News columnist Jack Newfield, a management employee with ties to the city's unions, resigned. Because the whole city is behind the strike, Newfield said he would not attend a meeting that prompted some union members against newsstand operators to strike.

Sunday night, a management employee with the Newspaper Guild, representing reporters and other editorial employees, joined the strike the next day, following months of negotiations over contracts that expired in March.

The unions charged unfair labor practices following an incident that prompted some drivers to walk out of the News' Brooklyn printing plant. The drivers led the strike hours later.

Security Council puts Iraqi assets in escrow

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council's next move against Baghdad is a resolution that would put Iraq's frozen assets into an escrow account to pay for war damages, U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering said Wednesday.

Pickering told reporters the resolution would allow Iraqi funds and property frozen for the duration of the crisis to be put into a "compensation account."

The assets from each country's escrow account would not be divided until the crisis has run its course, because there is no way of assessing total costs until then.

On Monday, the Security Council voted to hold Iraq liable for human rights abuses and occupation of Kuwait. But that resolution did not contain a means of distributing Iraqi funds. The new resolution apparently would provide such a mechanism.

Pickering said the council could begin deliberating the measure later this week or early next week.

He becomes president of the council for the month of November, with powers to sway the pace of negotiations and help set the body's priorities.

Pickering alluded to the escrow account plan Monday, when he told the Security Council that Iraq would be liable for full compensation for the losses and damages it has caused by its illegal invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

Iraq has about $4 billion in overseas assets, of which about $800 million are in America. That money could be used to rebuild Kuwait if its government is restored after an Iraqi withdrawal.
Anxious hostage families worry about fate and condition of relatives held in captivity

(AP)—Simple daily rituals are growing more difficult for Margaret Williams, whose son growing more difficult for Saddam Hussein’s “human shields.”

She sets the dinner table and recalls a month-old letter smuggled out of Iraq in which her son says food is growing scarce. She pulls an electric blanket down from the closet and thinks of the desert winter’s unforgiving cold.

“It’s awfully hard to do these things when you know your kids are suffering,” Mrs. Williams said Wednesday from Germantown, Tenn. “We’ve just got to help these people out.”

Spirits were boosted late Wednesday by a report that Baghdad officials had promised the families of American hostages in Iraq would be offered an opportunity to see videotaped messages from their loved ones.

Anxious relatives were somewhat less enthusiastic about another offer from the Iraqi government: to let them come visit Saddam’s “guests” over the Christmas and New Year’s holidays.

“It’s probably just another psychological play,” said Dawn Baznet, whose husband was videotaped early in the crisis asking Saddam to let foreign women and children go. “I’m hoping that we won’t have to visit my husband there ... but if it comes down to it, I will go.”

“I’d like to see a video of him, sure,” said Doris Whately of Shreveport, La., whose husband was last reported at an Iraqi military installation. “But what I really want is for him to come home ... where he’s safe.”

The families of many hostages held in Iraq and Kuwait have repeatedly called the Kuwaiti Task Force at the State Department in recent weeks to express concerns about the conditions under which their loved ones are living.

“We are looking into the possibility of sending packages to our embassy in Baghdad to be forwarded to the Iraqi government, which would then hopefully forward them to the hostages,” said Diane Salishbury, a task force spokeswoman.

Sources speaking on condition of anonymity have said the satellite was to spy on Iraq.

Top NASA managers on Tuesday scheduled Atlantis’ launch for Nov. 9. The shuttle was cleared for flight following a fuelling test last week that found it free of dangerous hydrogen leaks.

A fuelling test on Tuesday cleared the shuttle Columbia for a December astronomy mission.

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP) The Air Force on Wednesday delayed Atlantis’ classified flight next week because of problems with a spy satellite aboard the shuttle.

“Details are classified, and it is too early to predict a new launch date,” the Air Force said in a two-sentence statement.

The Air Force described the problem as “anomalies discovered during cargo testing.”

Capt. Marty Hauser, a Pentagon spokesman in Washington, refused to say whether the problem was detected and declined to discuss the flight further.

Sources estimated the delay would be one to two weeks.

It is the seventh shuttle flight dedicated entirely to the Defense Department. Two more Defense Department missions are planned, both next year, but their cargoes are unclassified.

The bottom line is it’s no longer affordable to maintain secure operations for a mission, said a Pentagon official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The delay was disappointing news for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which had been hoping to close the year with six shuttle flights. NASA had planned for nine missions this year, but was delayed by hydrogen leak on Columbia and then on Atlantis.

Mass Schedule

Feast of All Saints • Nov. 1, 1990
Holyday of Obligation

Feast Day Masses: Wednesday, October 31, 1990

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5:15p</td>
<td>Sacred Heart Church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6:30p</td>
<td>Parish Crypt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:15p</td>
<td>Sacred Heart Church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10:00p</td>
<td>Sacred Heart Church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12:10p</td>
<td>Sacred Heart Church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:00p</td>
<td>Sacred Heart Church</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Refer to your residence hall bulletin board for scheduled masses in the dorm.
House Speaker Thomas Foley, along with other Democratic leaders, discusses the approved deficit-reduction bill passed by the House. The bill includes tax increases and funding for minority colleges.

Campus video store to open in November

By CHRISTINE WALSH
Business Editor

ND Video will tentatively open for business in mid-November in the basement of LaFortune Student Center. Containing 300 titles, mostly new releases, ND Video will be targeted primarily to the student body, but will be accessible to the faculty and staff as well. There will be an initial membership fee of $5 and membership this semester will also include a free video rental coupon. Regular rental fees will be $2 per tape per night.

Steve Perkins, a senior business major, will manage the store that will occupy the space vacated by The Cellar record store. The Student Business Board, which will oversee ND Video operations, decided last May to change the focus of the store from records to videos. At that time, Perkins was manager of The Cellar.

When the Student Business Board approached Perkins with the idea of incorporating videos along with compact disks at The Cellar, Perkins proposed that the store move to an all-video format instead. ND Video is funded by a $6,600 grant, $6,000 of which was carried over from funds for The Cellar, and a $5,400 loan from Notre Dame Student Government. The $5,400 loan is significantly less than the $9,000 Perkins was seeking earlier in the semester.

Perkins initially requested $15,000 to cover start-up costs. The $12,000 that ND Video will receive is the "bare bones" amount of money needed to cover costs, said Perkins. "We plan to spend roughly $10,000 on the purchase of videos and the other $2,000 on other miscellaneous expenses such as advertising and video cases," he said.

Perkins is counting largely on membership fees to generate capital in the very beginning. ND Video will be operated by the Notre Dame Student Business Board, which also operates two other LaFortune-based businesses—Irish Gardens and Adworks. The board's function is to provide services to the student body while also providing valuable work experience for students.

Budget promises aid to minority colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new budget carries a pledge from top Democratic lawmakers to try to spend billions of dollars more for black colleges and inner-city programs. It also makes it easier for Holocaust survivors to get Medicaid nursing-home aid.

Other provisions only now coming to light in the massive deficit-reduction measure lay aside assistance for Americans fleeing Iraq and Kuwait, create a cash award named after a House committee chairman for protecting coastal land, and provide money for certain centers to treat patients with AIDS or Alzheimer's disease.

The items are among many little-noticed details lawmakers stuffed into the package of tax increases and spending cuts that Congress passed Saturday before adjourning for the year.

The measure was the main thrust of an effort to slash the federal deficit by $496 billion over the next five years. Hiding obscure provisions in major bills has become such an art form in Washington that yesterday Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa., is offering dinner for two at a Capitol Hill restaurant for anyone who brings one to his attention that benefits five or fewer people.

"The clever way the language is written, you might never even see it or realize it's there," Weldon complained Wednesday.

No one has yet unearthed a provision in the budget that benefits such a small number of people. But there are items that target particular groups or locales.

The report accompanying the bill contains an unusual promise by Democratic congressional leaders to try to increase federal spending for minorities by at least $8.8 billion over the next three years.

The leaders promise an effort to target science and energy research and education initiatives to traditionally black and Hispanic colleges and universities. They say they will try to set up a new federally backed bond program for new construction at the schools, of which there are about 120, mostly in the South.

The Democrats also say they will try to increase spending on foreign aid to Africa; housing; urban development; education, health, child-care and anti-gang programs in inner cities; welfare; job training and veterans.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said Tuesday that the language had nothing to do with the hunt Democratic leaders made last week for support for the budget, which the House approved 228-200.
Dear Editor:
The Center for Social Concerns, United for Justice and Peace, Dame is no exception. Unfortunately, Notre Dame rises to a frightening one in three. Unfortunately, Notre Dame is no exception.

In response to this, Women United for Justice and Peace, the Center for Social Concerns, Democratic Socialists of America, Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination and student government are sponsoring a "Take Back the Night March." This march is to illuminate the areas on campus where women no longer feel safe walking alone.

An open invitation is extended to all people who wish to bear witness to this gross injustice. A basic human right is removed when one is no longer free to walk safely. The march is tonight, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m. It will be a candlelit procession through the campus, from O'Shaugnessy to Saint Mary's road. Please come.

Erin O'Neill
Women United for Justice and Peace
Oct. 31, 1990

Observer prints tasteless photo

Dear Editor:

I had hoped that The Observer staff, after their recent blunder in covering Notre Dame's Multicultural Fall Festival (The Observer, Oct. 1), would find it prudent to be more sensitive about what is printed! This they proved wrong by printing the tasteless AP photo of a dwarf-throwing contest in The Observer, Oct. 1. When will the editors learn what is, and what is not, appropriate?

Emily Neufeld
Lewis Hall
Oct. 15, 1990

Homeless plight hits close to home

By Jim Joyce
Center for Social Concerns

The deadline for signups for the 1991 Urban Plunge is rapidly approaching. The Plunge is a 48 hour program which enables students to see, firsthand, the struggles of the underprivileged face in inner-city America. As a participant in the Pittsburgh area Urban Plunge during Jan. 1990, I highly recommend this program. I would like to share some of my experiences from last January with you, firstly, to give an example of an Urban Plunge and, secondly, to eliminate some common misconceptions concerning the plight of the homeless in our society.

One group I was involved with during the Plunge believes in assisting the homeless by teaching them job skills, setting them up with job interviews and helping them to develop social skills. This organization is called the Pleasant Valley Shelter and is located in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The facility is a large community of churches on the north side of Pittsburgh called Northside Common Ministries. The shelter was run by six men who showed me the importance of helping people rebound from a bad break and getting them back on their feet as soon as possible.

The first night before actually entering the shelter, "Reggie" (one of the men who is called the "caregiver") gave us a talk about what to expect when we arrived at the shelter. It was Reggie's talk that helped me realize what the workers were there to do, and it helped me see the homeless in a totally new light. Reggie told us that we should not stereotype the men in the shelter as fat, lazy wisons who would never amount to anything in the world. He told us that many of the men in the shelter were just like us, but because of circumstances beyond their control, they were forced into this situation. At first I found this hard to believe, but as I went into the shelter and began talking to these men, I found that Reggie was right. The following is a brief description of some of the men I met and how they ended up in the shelter.

Jeff is a young man of about 20 who has very strong beliefs and who works very hard to make his beliefs known. Jeff reminded me a lot of myself in many ways. He was a college student at a small midwestern college. He seemed quite intelligent but stated many times that school just was not for him, so he quit. He said that since he quit college, he had been travelling around the country and helping people rebound from a bad break and getting them back on their feet as soon as possible.

Dean is quite different from Jeff, but he still reminded me of many people I have known. Dean is a middle-aged man who graduated from Penn State University with a degree in business. He said that his life was pretty normal until he began taking classes at a local community college to earn a new degree. He felt that the government should raise the minimum wage. After hearing his story, I tend to agree with him. The government should raise the minimum wage.

Any one of my friends, or even I, could end up in a homeless shelter if we had a few unlucky breaks and had no one to turn to. This leads me to believe that we must do something for the poor immediately and stop taking for granted the wonderful shelter. Eliminating stereotypes begins with a change in attitudes. This is especially true of the reference of programs such as Urban Plunge, we can see the homeless in the proper perspective.

This Christmas break, I urge you to participate in an Urban Plunge. It is an opportunity to gain understanding for the plight of the less privileged in our society, so that we will not be as insensitive to their needs. Looking back on my experiences of Urban Plunge, I found that the 48 hours of my time were insignificant compared with the perspective I gained while at the shelter. Realizations people demand our attention. This Christmas, give them at least that, and give yourself a chance to respect and understand them. You might be surprised at what you see.

Jim Joyce is a junior in the College of Arts and Letters.
George Wendt 'Cheers' for his 'Old Notre Dame'

BY PAUL PEARSON
accident writer

The only title INXS could come up with for its new album was all of one letter, X. They might have borrowed a better title from Aerosmith—"Same Old Song and Dance." Once upon a time, the six-man Australian team of Andrew Farriss, Michael Hutchence, Jon Farriss, Garry Gary Beers, Kirk Pengilly and Tim Farriss were known as a group of innovators, as the band you could count on to come up with something you had not heard before.

Now, it seems that after their phenomenal success with the multi-platinum album Kick, life in the limelight has turned INXS from innovators into imitators. In fact, another appropriate title for this new album would be "Kick, the Dance Remix.

The album's first single, "Suicide Blonde," opens with a brief harmonica riff, supposedly in the attempt to do something original (even though there are very few harmonica arrangements left to be created). The song follows is great for dancing, but reminds you too much of "What You Need" done in a different key. It contains a feeble attempt at your world around again.

Ah, yes, just what everyone wants. A few profound lyrics for everyone to ignore because they are too busy dancing to the familiar guitar chords.

The songs that follow also reek of the same "Shut up and Dance" mentality to much unlike the songs found in Listen Like Thieves and The Swing. "Disappear," another song off the album, shows another attempt at profundity: "All the problems! all the fears! and the world seems to disappear."

The one thing that struck me about the album is that the songs sound too much alike. If any of them, including "Suicide Blonde," were removed from the album, the only person who would notice would be the one with a stopwatch running.

Those fans out there who were waiting for a return to the Listen Like Thieves-style of the INXS of the past will just have to eat up X for the very same reason: INXS lacks innovation in their new album X as the songs seem to resemble those of their earlier smash album Kick.

The best way to judge your reaction to X is to compare it to your reaction to Kick. It will be impossible to hate one and love the other. No matter what reaction you had to Kick, however, you should agree that this album could be renamed "Kick Revisited." Or "INXS Makes More of the Same." Or "Mike's Purple Elephant." Or ANYTHING but!!!

M'M, guys, you can do better than that for a title.
NEW YORK (AP) — A jury on Wednesday decided that former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson fooled both the public and a Manhattan dance club in 1988 and awarded the woman $100,000 in compensatory damages.

The five-week-long, one-woman trial ended Tuesday when the judge refused to rule on Tyson's financial status before ruling on punitive damages.

The woman, Sandra Miller, asked for up to $2.5 million in punitive damages in her civil lawsuit.

The jury deliberated about 4 1/2 hours before finding that the former heavyweight champion grabbed Miller's breasts and buttocks after she refused his advances at Bentley's Disco on Dec. 10, 1988.

Tyson, who testified during the three-week trial, acknowledged that he was at Bentley's Disco that night but denied knowing or ever touching the woman.

Before deciding punitive damages, the jury will get a copy of Tyson's financial status. Miller's attorneys said they also plan to call another woman who said Tyson for similar incident that allegedly happened the same night at Bentley's.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Observer office, 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Daily's office, 114 Lewis, or by fax at 623-2007.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Observer office, 12:30 to 3 p.m. at the Daily's office, 114 Lewis, or by fax at 623-2007.
NFL STANDINGS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Conference</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>Pts</th>
<th>GF</th>
<th>GA</th>
<th>PCT</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>NFC East</td>
<td>NY Giants</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>33</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>71.4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Dallas Cowboys</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>13</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>58.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Philadelphia Eagles</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>19</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>42.9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Washington Redskins</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>22</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>36.7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| AFC East   | New England Patriots | 6 | 1 | 0 | 19 | 51 | 15 | 60.0 |
|          | Buffalo Bills | 5 | 2 | 0 | 14 | 39 | 15 | 57.1 |
|          | New York Jets | 3 | 5 | 0 | 12 | 19 | 15 | 42.9 |
|          | Miami Dolphins | 2 | 6 | 0 | 0 | 19 | 15 | 13.0 |

MLB MANAGERS OF THE YEAR

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1989</td>
<td>Don Zimmer, Chicago Cubs</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1990</td>
<td>Jim Leyland, Pittsburgh Pirates</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1985</td>
<td>Whitey Herzog, St. Louis Cardinals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1983</td>
<td>Tommy Lasorda, L.A. Dodgers</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TRANSACTIONS

- CINCINNATI REDS signed Powel, pitcher.
- MINNESOTA TWINS signed Baas, catcher.
- PITTSBURGH PIRATES signed Biddle, pitcher.

SOCCER

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Result</th>
<th>Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>New York Red Bulls</td>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>Sept. 20, 1990</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Jose Earthquakes</td>
<td>2-0</td>
<td>Sept. 22, 1990</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FOOTBALL

- SAN DIEGO CHARGERS 41-10 over Tampa Bay Buccaneers
- DALLAS COWBOYS 20-17 over Philadelphia Eagles

BASEBALL

- NEW YORK YANKEES 7-0 over Boston Red Sox
- ST. LOUIS CARDINALS 3-1 over Los Angeles Dodgers

RESULTS

- New York Red Bulls 1-0 over New York Red Bulls
  - Thursday, November 1
- San Jose Earthquakes 2-0 over San Jose Earthquakes
  - Friday, November 2

SCOREBOARD

- New York Giants vs. Minnesota Vikings
- Philadelphia Eagles vs. St. Louis Rams

---

Actor's Stage at Washington Hall

Thursday, November 1 - Saturday, November 3

Shakespeare

Thursday, November 1

- ACTORS FROM THE LONDON STAGE
  - ASHFORD, CONN.
  - ORLANDO, FLA.
  - LAS VEGAS, NEV.

Friday, November 2

- KATHLEEN NI HOUHANISH'S SONS AND DAUGHTERS
  - ASHFORD, CONN.
  - ORLANDO, FLA.
  - LAS VEGAS, NEV.

Saturday, November 3

- Four Seasons Theatre
  - ASHFORD, CONN.
  - ORLANDO, FLA.
  - LAS VEGAS, NEV.

---

Alex's Shoe Shop

Alex's Shoe Shop has been serving the Notre Dame community since 1919. You can't take the streetcar anymore, but you can enjoy your quick trip downtown still rewards you with caring, friendly service often when you wait and old time craftsmen. Keep your feet in shape by trusting your footwear maintenance needs to Alex's Shoe Shop.

---

American Heart Association

American Heart Association

American Heart Association

American Heart Association

American Heart Association
Belles finish season tonight

By CHRIS BACON

The Observer Thursday, November 1, 1990

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Leyland, who turned the Pittsburgh Pirates into contenders and guided them through the pressure of a pennant race, was selected the National League manager of the year on Wednesday.

Leyland took a team that went 74-88 in 1986 and finished fifth in the NL East in 1989 and molded it into a division champion at 95-67. The Pirates overcame New York Mets and all the odds in the stretch to finish with the second-best record in baseball.

The Pirates had Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla for offense, but it was Leyland's deft handling of the rotation or a relief ace. Leyland juggled his staff and wound up with 18 different pitchers getting victories.

Leyland got 17 of the 24 first-place votes and finished with 99 points. Lou Pinella, who led the White Sox to the World Series, was tied for third with 32 points. Leyland also had the benefit of watching Doug Drabek, who emerged as one of baseball's best starters, plus the Killer Bs — Bonds and Bonilla, along with Sid Schemer, Wally Backman and Jay Bell.

The Pirates finished four games ahead of the Mets. Many had thought the division would be decided by a three-game, season-ending series against New York at Three Rivers Stadium, but by the time the Mets came to town, Pittsburgh already had won its first division title since 1979.

Robert L. Franklin, M.D. announces the opening of a South Bend office for the practice of

PSYCHATRY and PSYCHOANALYSIS

American Psychanalytic Association accredited training; University of Chicago medical faculty; treating people with personal, relationship, or career problems. Increased self-knowledge and new opportunities for meditation used only when indicated. For appointment call 234-5656.
Daulton signs with Phils for 3 years, $6.75 million

BALTIMORE (AP) - Catcher Darren Daulton, who had declared free agency, changed his mind and returned to the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday, signing a three-year contract worth $6.75 million.

Both Daulton and the Phillies said the key to their agreement was Daulton's right to test the free-agent market at the expiration of his new contract. Phillies president Bill Giles, who personally negotiated the contract, said that if Daulton, 28, had signed with any other team he couldn't have been a free agent again for five years.

Daulton, a 206 lifetime hitter before this year, hit .268 in 1990 and career highs in almost every offensive department, including games played (139), home runs (12), doubles (30), RBIs (57) and walks (72).

General manager Lee Thomas said Daulton had agreed to a $500,000 signing bonus, a salary next season of $1.75 million and $2.25 million in 1992 and '93.

"We're glad to have him before he goes into the so-called minor field (free agency)," Thomas said. "Once you get out there you don't know what can happen. You don't know if you can keep your own and that's what we did."

Daulton, who was visiting with his parents in Kansas, said by telephone that he and his agent talked to some teams and they were interested, "but in my heart I wanted to stay in Philadelphia, and I wanted to keep my free-agent status at the end of the contract."

The Phillies were anxious to sign Daulton because he had developed into one of the top defensive catchers in the NL. He threw out 39 percent of opposition base stealers and effectively handled a young pitching staff that won 10 more games and helped the club out of the East Division cellar.

Daulton said the New York Mets, San Francisco Giants and some American League teams had expressed interest in him. He made it clear that no contract terms were discussed since that was illegal until after Nov. 5.

Daulton said he really didn't know what turned him around as a hitter in the last half of the 1990 season. He hit .297 in the second half.

"Maybe it was being moved up in the order," he said. He had been the eighth-place hitter in the lineup and was elevated to batting second, where he saw a lot more fastballs. He is known as a good fastball hitter.

"I really had a fun year," said Daulton, whose career nearly ended in June 1986 with a severe knee injury. "I think we are headed in the right direction. If we can acquire a quality player, we can win.

Daulton said that despite the reconstructive knee surgery that handicapped him for more than two seasons, "I always thought in my heart and mind I'd reach this level one day, and I'm going to do a lot better."

Giles said he always had admired Daulton because "he's a workaholic. I like people who show extra effort and dedication."

Daulton had been seeking a four-or even five-year contract, but changed his direction when the subject of reducing his free-agency rights after three years instead of five was put on the table.

Giles said he had told Daulton's agent that the club president was going to talk to the Phillies of Wednesday night, and that if they didn't reach agreement before free-agent negotiations began. That meant the catcher could be free the three-year free agency rights.

The Phillies also announced the signing of Johnny Podres, 58, as pitching coach to succeed Darold Knowles, who was released after last season.

A year later, a football story still affects two players.

Jackson, Miss. (AP) - Brad Gaines telephoned Chuck Mullins in his new position as head football coach at the University of Notre Dame. Gaines said he didn't think he was going to the game, either.

"There's not a day that goes by," Brad Gaines said, "that I don't think about Chuck Mullins."

He remembers almost every detail of the play: The catch. The ball being jarred loose. The scramble for the ball. Staying on his knees in an attempt to catch his breath.

"Then five minutes passed. Ten minutes passed. I finally walked over to their huddle and asked them what was wrong. They said, 'He can't move any more.'"

"I still forget the feeling that took over my whole body when I heard that."

For a week, he couldn't discuss the play with anyone. "We played Virginia Tech the next week, and I was absolutely horrified," Gaines said.

He finally went to Vandy coach Watson Brown. "I told him, 'Coach, I feel like I need to do something for the guy.'" But Watson told me that the psychologists and doctors he had talked to didn't think it was a good idea that I see Chuck at that point."

On the field, Gaines managed to block out Mullins, to some degree, the remainder of the year. "I finished up strong," he said.

Off the field, he couldn't get Mullins out of his mind. "I used to go to bed at night, thinking of Chuck," he said. "And when I wake up, he'd be the first thing I thought about. That went on for quite awhile."

Gaines finally met Chuckie face to face last December, on the day of the Rebels' Liberty Bowl game with Air Force.

"Me and my brother drove down to Memphis, and when we got to the hospital there must've been 100 people in line, waiting to go in to see him," Gaines recalled.

He wondered how the people would react once they learned who he was. "I know it wasn't my fault," he said. "But I still felt guilty because I was a participant."

And 'I couldn't help but wonder what all those people were thinking about me."

Once inside, Gaines experienced the "most humbling experience of my life.""

"The last time last time I saw Chuckie, he was a big, strong football player, playing in the SEC, which has some of the best athletes in America. I go in there, and he's lying on his back with tubes stick all in him. He couldn't move. He could barely talk.

Gaines visited with Chuckie about 30 minutes. Neither mentioned the play. We just small-talked," Gaines said, "I owed him to hang in there, to keep praying."

Gaines broke down on his way to the elevator. "I'm a fighter, a competitor. But that trip to see Chuckie showed me a whole new side to playing games."
Rangers knock off Kings; Sabres, Canadians win

NEW YORK (AP) — Darren Turcotte set up two second-period goals and scored the clincher in a five-goal third period as the New York Rangers routed the Los Angeles Kings 9-4 Wednesday night in a battle between the NHL's two hottest teams.

The Patrick Division-leading Rangers (11-3-0) won their eighth home game in as many tries and 11th in 12 games overall. They cooled off the Smythe-leading Kings, who came into the game with a 9-2-1 record and the best winning percentage in the league.

Turcotte set up goals by Paul Broten and Ray Sheppard in the first 1:15 of the second period for a 3-2 lead at 8:08, beating Reggie Lemelin with a shot on which Bourque screened his goalkeeper.

Craig Janney and Dave Christian also scored for the Bruins, while Alexander Mogilny and Mikko Makela were Buffalo's other goal scorers. Boston is 0-5-1 in its last six road games.

In six of the eight exhibition games the Rangers played with the system's incendiary devices, there was the go-ahead goal in recognition. In the first one, Fitzsimmons' Suns threw down a 38-minute en route to a 186-123 win; in the third, the Atlanta Hawks scored 116 points in the second half of a 194-166 victory; in the fourth, the Boston Celtics shot 70 percent from the field in a 173-155 runaway.

Being kind, a primer of the Nuggets' preseason might read something like this: See Denver run. See their opponents laugh. Their opponents — taller, stronger, more experienced — can run, too. Being less kind, the newspaper punchlines.

Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons saw it and didn't have to call it. "I can't describe to you that game," he said afterward. "You had to be there to see it."

St. Mary's College of Maryland

WORK ABROAD

Mark up to 6 months in Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, Japan, New Zealand and Australia. Can be taken before or after your first year or between your two years. All students and majors eligible. Enroll before the fall deadline.

MARRIED STUDENTS AND ADULT STUDENTS WELCOME. For information and class starting dates, contact St. Mary's College of Maryland, 4th floor, O'Leary Hall 1-222-1123.

All performances in O'Laughlin Auditorium unless noted. Tickets on sale at the Saint Mary's box office, in O'Laughlin, Mon.-Fri., 10-4.

VISIT/MASTERCARD: 284-6262. For updated program information, call the Saint Mary's Campus Events Hotline: 674-0000, category 1740.

KAPLAN

How to start your law career before you start law school.

Start with the Kaplan LSAT prep course. After taking Kaplan, thousands of LSAT students score over 40. That's the top 10% nationwide! And candidates who score over 40 on the new LSAT enjoy the best chance of being accepted to the law school of their choice and going on to practice with top law firms or corporations.

So call any of our 120 centers for information and class starting dates. The Kaplan LSAT prep course could be the one pre-law course that determines the course of your law career.

KAPLAN

STANLEY H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION
DON'T COMPete WITH A KAPLAN STUDENT—BE ONE

1771 L. South Bend Ave.
South Bend, IN 46637

Phone 219/372-4135

Thursday, November 1, 1990
CAMPUS

2 p.m. Presentation "Computer Networks and Collaborative Learning: The Challenge of Teaching in a Chaotic Environment," Prof. Mark Jordan, Medieval Institute, Room 221, O'Shaughnessy. Sponsored by the Departments of History and Science.

4 p.m. History and Science Graduate Colloquium, "The Disappearance of Galenism in the 13th Century," Prof. Silvia M. Arrom, Indiana University. Room 131, Decio Faculty Hall. Sponsored by Kellogg Institute.

4:30 p.m. Mathematical Colloquium, "Recursive Groups," Prof. Richard Rotellini, University of Illinois. Room 103 Computing Center/Math Building. Sponsored by Department of Mathematics.

8 p.m. Shakespeare's "As You Like It." Actors from the Royal Shakespeare Company: Washington Hall. Admission $6 for students, $8 for senior citizens and $10 for public. (Tickets available at the LaFortune Student Center Information Desk.) Sponsored by Provost's Office.

8 p.m. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.

10 p.m. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.

---

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

2. Anne de Beauspré [6]
4. "God's Little -" Caldwell [14]
5. Flower stalk [15]
6. Orchestra leader who promoted 22 across [18]
7. Express gratitude [19]
9. Center of activity [21]
10. Oke, Eunice and Eileen [52]

DOWN

1. Cluny, e.g. [1]
2. Pigment by Gamboge [21]
3. Kind of balloon [23]
4. Dry, as wine [25]
5. He's a Wonder [27]
6. Jewish month [29]
7. Tardy [35]
8. Scottish nightshirt [37]
9. Scottish nightshirt [37]
10. To the rear of a phone: 1-900-420-5656 (756 each) [39]
11. Danish in name [47]
12. Mother Hen's [49]

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

19. Fiancée
20. Bachelorette
21. Pinto
22. Kind of lineage
23. Vignette
24. Part of the... (9) [59]
25. From a hole in the ground... [60]
26. People can't tell Good Art [61]
27. Society is culturally illiterate [62]
28. And that many people can't tell good art from a nose in the ground [63]
29. Disappearance of Galenism in the 13th Century, Prof. Silvia M. Arrom, Indiana University. Room 131, Decio Faculty Hall. Sponsored by Kellogg Institute.
30. The fate of Don King's great-great-grandfather [59]
33. The Indiana Consortium on Latin America Lecture, "The Disappearance of Galenism in the 13th Century," Prof. Silvia M. Arrom, Indiana University. Room 131, Decio Faculty Hall. Sponsored by Kellogg Institute.
34. History and Science Graduate Colloquium, "The Disappearance of Galenism in the 13th Century," Prof. Silvia M. Arrom, Indiana University. Room 131, Decio Faculty Hall. Sponsored by Kellogg Institute.
36. Shakespeare's "As You Like It." Actors from the Royal Shakespeare Company: Washington Hall. Admission $6 for students, $8 for senior citizens and $10 for public. (Tickets available at the LaFortune Student Center Information Desk.) Sponsored by Provost's Office.
37. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
38. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
40. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
42. History and Science Graduate Colloquium, "The Disappearance of Galenism in the 13th Century," Prof. Mark Jordan, Medieval Institute, Room 221, O'Shaughnessy. Sponsored by the Departments of History and Science.
43. Mathematical Colloquium, "Recursive Groups," Prof. Mark Jordan, Medieval Institute, Room 221, O'Shaughnessy. Sponsored by the Departments of History and Science.
44. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
45. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
46. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.
47. Film, "Dirty Harry," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center. Admission $1. Sponsored by Student Union Board.

---

CUTTING EDGE CLOTHES

ON THE ONE HAND, ITS A GOOD SIGN FOR US ARTISTS... (9)

ON THE OTHER HAND, MY TERRORS REALISTICALLY GROWING SHOWS THAT OUR SOCIETY IS CULTURALLY IL-... (9)

MY "C" EYES ESTABLISH ME ON THE CUTTING EDGE OF THE ARTISTIC... (9)

DOESN'T IT HAVE TO MEAN STILL... (5)

THIS DRAWING I DID CAREFULLY CHALLENGES THE KNOWLEDGE COMPLEXITY OR THOSE WHO PREFER SAFE, PREDICTABLE, JULIETTE, BUNNY, BUNNY... (5)

---

SUB MOVIES

TONIGHT, Nov. 1:

Dirty Harry
Montgomery Theatre-LaFortune
Showtimes are 8PM and 10PM.
Tickets are $1.

Friday, Nov. 2:

The Hunt for Red October
Cushing Auditorium
Playing at 8PM and 10:30PM.
Tickets are $2.

---

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

---

TINY LIGHTS

See the TONIGHT's show begins at 8:30P.M.
Show begins at 8:30P.M.
FREE!!
Men's soccer will face St. Louis in MCC Tourney

By RICH KURZ
Sports Writer

With a 4-10-3 record, the Notre Dame men's soccer team probably couldn't be blamed if they hung their heads or developed a negative attitude. Well, this team is not one to pont out on might-have-beens or what-ifs. Instead, they're looking ahead to their first-round MCC Tournament match with Saint Louis, a nationally-ranked team.

"We want to use this as an opportunity to turn our season around," said senior co-captain Danny Stebbins.

The two teams played earlier this season at Moose Krause Stadium, with the Billikens pulling out a 3-2 win, scoring the game winner with only 11 minutes left to play. The Irish played an exciting game against a good Saint Louis team, and attracted a spirited crowd.

After that promising start, Notre Dame has struggled. The Irish have lost their last three games, and five of their last six. Notre Dame did play well in its last game, however, a 3-2 overtime loss to Florida International, and it might have even won the game if they hadn't had four goals called back.

The Billikens, on the other hand, have enjoyed a successful season, playing its way to a 14-3-2 record and a second-seed berth in the MCC Tournament. Saint Louis goalkeeper Kevin Johnston has a GAA of 0.88, and has eight shutouts on the year.

Even so, the Irish don't sound like underdogs.

"This is the best draw we could get under the circumstances," said senior co-captain Paul LaVigne. "We know we can beat SLU.

Part of Notre Dame's confidence comes from its new style of defense. Although the system itself is the same, a change of approach suits the Irish players better.

"We slow the pace down, and let them come to us," said LaVigne. Danny Stebbins echoed LaVigne's comments.

"We played really well against EIU with the new style," he said.

A phone call Danny Stebbins had the other day also gave the Irish some more hope.

I was talking to a friend the other day, and he said that two of SLU's best players are out for the game," said Stebbins.

Though they have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

SMC soccer ends record year

By CHRIS BACON
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

The Saint Mary's soccer team wrapped up its first NCAA Division III season on the road this past weekend, defeating Bowling Green, 3-2, and tying with College of Wooster, finishing its season at 12-3-2.

The Belles, coming off their week-long layoff, experienced unexpected turbulence in winning a 1-0 match against a Bowling Green club team.

"I thought we played well, considering we had a week off. We had a week of practice, said Head Coach Tom Van Meter.

"I thought they did a good job of creating scoring chances, said Van Meter.

The Irish jumped out to a quick start before going down in defeat, 15-4, 15-10, 12-15, 7-15. 9-15. The Billikens, who mean nothing, though.

"Both teams have had rough seasons," commented Irish sophomore Marilyn Cragain. "We've had some tough practices in the past few days, so we should be able to come out and give them a good match."

Despite coming up short in their last five outings, the injury-plagued Irish have made some adjustments in hopes of finding the right combinations. Last Sunday at Penn State, the Irish played well but lost in three games, 8-15, 9-15, 9-15, and to the 31-0 Nittany Lions.

"We lost against Penn State, but we gave them a good match," said Cragain, who registered 13 kills for the Irish in the Penn State loss.

While the losses have been difficult and often, the Irish want to begin a win streak tonight that will take them into the final leg of a grueling schedule.

"We're looking forward to giving them a good match," said Cragain.

Volleyball hopes to rebound vs. Illinois

By DAVE MAHON
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's volleyball team hopes to put a halt to its five-game losing streak tonight when it hosts the 13th-ranked Illinois Fighting Illini at 7:30 p.m. in the Joyce Center. SportsChannel will tape the match for broadcast at a later date.

Illinois, bringing a 15-7 mark into the match, has been a tough test for late for the Irish this season. In their 1988 NCAA Tournament clash, the Illini beat in to the match, has a 1-0 mark into the match, has an automatic entry into the final leg of a grueling season. The Observer/Andrew McCloskey

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The Irish are certainly underdogs in this match, which may actually work in their favor. They appear loose going into the match, and are confident knowing they defeated the Billikens tough earlier this season. Add in the desire of the seniors, who are facing the end of their career, and you have a dangerous situation. If we very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The last two years have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The Irish are certainly underdogs in this match, which may actually work in their favor. They appear loose going into the match, and are confident knowing they defeated the Billikens tough earlier this season. Add in the desire of the seniors, who are facing the end of their career, and you have a dangerous situation. If we very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The last two years have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The Irish are certainly underdogs in this match, which may actually work in their favor. They appear loose going into the match, and are confident knowing they defeated the Billikens tough earlier this season. Add in the desire of the seniors, who are facing the end of their career, and you have a dangerous situation. If we very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The last two years have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The Irish are certainly underdogs in this match, which may actually work in their favor. They appear loose going into the match, and are confident knowing they defeated the Billikens tough earlier this season. Add in the desire of the seniors, who are facing the end of their career, and you have a dangerous situation. If we very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The last two years have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.

The seniors have a special motivation to play well, as their playing days are numbered. At the very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The Irish are certainly underdogs in this match, which may actually work in their favor. They appear loose going into the match, and are confident knowing they defeated the Billikens tough earlier this season. Add in the desire of the seniors, who are facing the end of their career, and you have a dangerous situation. If we very least, expect Notre Dame to hang close.

The last two years have seen the Irish facing the Billikens in the MCC Tournament, with Notre Dame knocking Saint Louis off two years ago on its way to becoming conference champions, and losing 2-1 last year.