WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush clashed Wednesday with leaders of Congress trying to limit his war-making powers but assured anxious lawmakers he has not decided to use military force to push Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

In a two-hour meeting, Democratic leaders insisted that Bush's plan needed Congress' approval before taking military action in the Persian Gulf. He refused to give any such guarantee.

He president did not indicate either a commitment to do so or refusal to do that," Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell said later.

Secretary of State James Baker III said Bush would follow the Constitution, but be pointedly added, "It's a question of what the Constitution requires.

While acknowledging that only Congress has authority to declare war, Baker said, "There are times when it is clearly consistent and situations indeed where there should be action taken against American citizens or against American interests that would call for very prompt and substantial response."

Fears of war in the Middle East were flamed by Bush's decision last week to send up to 200,000 more troops to the gulf, nearly doubling the American military force there and adding what Bush called an offensive capability.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops on Wednesday adopted their first comprehensive guidelines on human sexuality, portraying it in unexpected language for it to be taught in Catholic schools.

Against some opposition and attempts at delay, the document was approved by a strong voice vote by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

It says sexual education should be taught in schools and parishes as well as in families, a provision strongly opposed by several bishops who said many parents want such education kept in the home. One said families might remove their children from Catholic schools if sex education is required.

Describing sexuality as a "wonderful gift," the bishops said they approach the subject with "a deep and abiding sense of appreciation, wonder and respect."

They said, "We are dealing with a divine gift, a primal dimension of each person, a personhood of soul and body, which shares in God's own creative love and life."

The status of the Student Bill of Rights (The Second of a Three Part Series)

BY JOHN O'BRIEN
Managing Editor

The Student Bill of Rights, left for dead by most students, is still very much alive, although some students might not recognize it.

The Bill of University and Student Relations Task Force, formed by the Campus Life Council at the beginning of this academic year, is currently working on the ideas which the original Bill discussed. However, the Bill's original form has been discarded and many of its ideas have been clarified, according to Raja Singh, executive coor dinator of the Student Government.

NCAA should not change policy on draft

Anyone who watched the halftime show during the recent Tennessee game learned that the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) is considering legislation that would allow a football player who applies for the draft as a junior and does not get drafted to retain his college eligibility. This would be a big mistake for the NCAA because it discourages players from finishing their education and makes a negative statement about college athletics.

Under the current system, a junior that is not drafted loses his college eligibility. This means he loses the chance to play football on national television in front of college recruiters for another year. Additionally, in most cases, he loses the chance to finish up his education. Without a degree and without a football career, he finds himself between a rock and a hard place.

This discourages players from applying for the draft early because they have a lot to lose for a rather small chance at a gain. If the player stays in school, however, he can have another year of playing with additional exposure and often finishes his degree program. Therefore he has something to fall back on in case his degree is ended prematurely by injury or worse.

If the system is changed as the NCAA now proposes, however, far more players will leave school as juniors and relinquish their college eligibility. Then a few weeks, months, or maybe even a couple of years down the road when he gets cut from a training camp or waived or seriously injured, the player will find himself with no degree, no scholarship and lacking for a good job. Unfortunately, the demand for sportscasters and spokespeople with a one-year or less football career is rather limited.

Another problem with the NCAA would be the kind of image this legislation gives to college football. Are colleges and universities, places where people go for four years to gain an education and degree and simultaneously sharpen their athletic skills, or are they just places to bide your time until you can try again.

This is not the image college athletics should project.

In light of the long-term damage to players and the negative image this new proposed legislation would present, the NCAA should not adopt this new legislation but, rather, encourage guys to “stay in school.”

James Baker III, U.S. secretary of state, will meet this weekend with the foreign ministers of U.N. Security Council members Ethiopia, Ivory Coast, and Zaire, in an effort to solidify support for U.S. actions in the Persian Gulf. Baker hopes to persuade them to support a resolution authorizing the use of force to expel Iraqi invaders from Kuwait. Baker last week lined up the Soviet Union, China, Britain, and France, which, as permanent members of the Council, could have killed the resolution with their veto. He then will fly to Paris to meet Sunday with the foreign ministers of Rom­ania and Finland and hold another session with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and British For­eign Secretary Douglas Hurd.

A television journalist will become the first Japanese citizen in space when he joins Soviet cosmonauts on a mission Dec. 2, officials said. Toyokiryo Akiyama of Japan’s TBS television network appeared at a news con­ference Monday with Soviet cosmonauts Victor Afanasjev and Musaa Manapov at the Soviet space complex at Star City, the government newspaper Itar-Tass said. The December flight, details of which have not been an­nounced, will be the first for a Japanese citizen. Other foreigners, including those from France, Afghanistan and Cuba, have flown on Soviet space flights. The Soviet Union has been trying to boost the image and prestige of its space program following budget problems and a series of mishaps. A batch on the Soviet space station was canceled during a flight this year, and a rocket exploded on the launch pad last month, destroying what a U.S. expert said was probably a spy satellite.

Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

If there was something the foreign students would change at Saint Mary's, they agreed that there should be a mandatory geography course.

"Americans' geographical ignorance was just one of the topics discussed in "To See Ourselves As Others See Us," Students and faculty from Belgium, Spain, Bolivia, Germany, and Nigeria gathered to share their American and native experiences to increase worldwide awareness.

Ravi Parashar, visiting instructor of business administration and economics, said that when he came to teach at Saint Mary's he was concerned about how people would receive him, but "students don't wonder why you're different. They expect diversity since this is a university and they take it in stride that I'm just from another part of the universe."

Born in India, Parashar has a strong Indo-Latin background that he has chosen to preserve by wearing his traditional dress. Both men and women wear "all colors of the rainbow" and Parashar's own colorful wardrobe reflects his attitude. "I feel happy and lanky all the time. It's a Latin phenomenon," said Parashar, who has lived in Mexico.

One student from India pointed out that younger students from foreign countries come with another point of view and try to integrate their dress. Parashar attested to the graduate students being more prone to "keep their culture" in the visible sense. However, he said that no one forgets their culture no matter where they go.

Since Parashar came to South Bend directly after living in Mexico for twenty-one years, his American experiences have been chiefly in this area. "For the life of me, I can't remember an unfavorable experience in South Bend," Parashar stated. "There are things I don't agree with, but I have many positive stories to relate.

The bus system is a source of amazement for Parashar as he has been surprised at how accommodating they are. He recalled getting on the wrong bus once with two other foreigners. The bus driver called another bus, that took a detour from its route to pick them up and take them home.

"How come people are so nice in South Bend?" Parashar mused and then answered his own question. "I think it's because this is a small town. South Bend is different from Chicago and New York."

Danielle Marechal, a student from Belgium, is married with a son but does not feel that that has set her apart from the other students.

"I don't feel anything by being older and hope nobody else does," she said. "I feel eighteen in my heart."

Marechal described an initial "culture shock to an extent" because of the effort to "make new acquaintances, and just know your way around." The way American businesses are "fun was also foreign to her. Marechal's husband was put in a position of authority and she said that terminating employees was difficult for him.

"In Belgium, if you have dinner with (employees), or have social contacts, you are considered friends. My husband couldn't fire friends," Marechal explained. Atim Appio, a freshman from Nigeria, came to America after five years of schooling in Scotland.

"At the age of fourteen, I had to decide what I was going to do with the rest of my life," said Appio. "I wanted to change my major later on. I chose Saint Mary's to get a liberal arts education." Other students related the same reasons for going to school in the states.

Maria Trigo, a student from Bolivia, was impressed by the attendance here.

"European colleges try to flunk you. Here, the professors will help to get and everybody goes to class. In Spain, no one does," Trigo said.

Students admitted to having preconceptions of America, some of which were disproved.

"I thought that all the land from coast to coast was like New York. When I came to South Bend, I was shocked," Elizabeth Forestor, a student from London, said. "(Foreigners) are intrigued and interested by the expansive thought and territory in America.

She is impressed by "the different modes of dress and practices that contribute to society.

Parashar said that international students are pleased with American hospitality and like to return some of it by "sharing their heritage with hosts. They are usually ready to perform and show their culture."

This informal discussion held in Haggard Parlor was sponsored by the Anthropology Club.

greatly their original plan. Before Wednesday’s decision, the Task Force had planned on evaluating four individual re­ ports, compiled by the Legal Department, and then sending their recommendations on to the CLC, according to Singh.

There the CLC would discuss the individual reports and sub­ mit any resulting resolution to O’Hara, who would then have seven days to respond. If ac­ cepted, the resolution would become official University pol­ icy. If vetoed, though, the par­ ticular resolution would be dead.

Under the new process, the final recommendations will be sent to O’Hara for her consider­ ation. She told the task force that she will respond to each recommendation and that she will consider the recommenda­ tions and keep them in mind when the University reviews du Lac this summer.

“This new method should expedite the entire process,” said Singh. “Now, the debate will be over the spirit of the recom­ mendations instead of the letter of them."

He added that the CLC had run into problems debating resolutions because they must be taken literally. The recom­ mendations, because of their non-binding nature, should eliminate these problems, he said.

“The CLC can now talk about the ideas and let the practical aspects be worked out by Pro­ fessor O’Hara and her staff,” he said.

The Task Force, which will be making recommendations to the CLC is made up of represen­ tatives of the students and Administration. Joining Singh are Student Government Judi­ cial Coordinator Vinny Sanchez, Student Senators Joe Wilson and Lisa Bostwick, and Stan­ ford Hall Rector Bill Kirk.

Also on the Task Force are Law student Jim Hogan, Peter Singh, staff member "w ill meet with one student to the panel.

Professor O’Hara liked a lot of the ideas in the resolution, she just didn’t like the fact that they were mandated," said Singh.

In the letter, O’Hara stated that the resolution did not clearly define "collective re­ sponsibility," which caused her to be hesitant in accepting the resolution.

“I can think of few instances in which I would not be willing to consult with student lead­ ers," she said, "but I am unwilling to adopt a University pro­ cedure in which I am mandated to do so in every instance of an event that has been only loosely defined."

While the issue of collective punishment has already gone before O’Hara, the second is­ sue, judgement by peers, is in the early stages of debate.

Wednesday’s meeting was the first time that the Task Force discussed the Legal Depart­ ment’s report on judgement by peers. In the report, major changes in current University Judicial procedure are pro­ posed.

The report proposes changes in all three types of disciplinary proceedings: administrative hearings, disciplinary confer­ ences and residence hall judicial procedures. In the meeting Wednesday, only the proposal dealing with administrative hearings was discussed, said Singh.

An administrative hearing is a hearing before a three-member panel of Residence Life staff. These hearings are only held in cases of violations punishable with suspension or dismissal from the University.

These hearings are much like trials, said Singh, with students being allowed the assistance of "undergraduate student counsel" and the petitioning of wit­ nesses. Approximately 130 out of 400 cases heard each year go to administrative hearings, said Singh.

The Legal Department report recommends the addition of one student to the panel.

“We didn’t have much of a problem with this type of hear­ ing, but we felt a student on the panel would have a better idea of the context of the violation,” said Singh.

In discussing the recommen­ dation, members of the Task Force questioned the number of panel members.

Some people were concerned that an even number would cause problems in a vote," Singh said. "But these decisions are usually made by consensus and not by vote, so the numbers really don’t matter," he added.

The Task Force expressed agreement with the recommen­ dation to add one student.

Sigh said.

The recommendation regard­ ing disciplinary conferences, which will be discussed at next week’s task force meeting, is more complicated. All violations that are sent to Student Affairs and not handled by an administrative hearing, are settled through a discipli­ nary conference. In these conferences, a Residence Life staff member “will meet with the student to investigate, dis­ cuss and resolve the alleged violation,” according to du Lac.

“We felt this is where the problem lied,” Singh said. He said concerns arose over Resi­ dence Life staff members being the “ones who investigate, try, judge and punish.”

“We saw room for problems here,” he added.

To counter these problems, the report offered two alterna­ tives:

•The creation of a campus-wide Judicial Board to deal with disciplinary confer­ ence level infractions.

•The creation of four or five district Judicial Boards to handle all hall and University violations within their district.

The first alternative raises the question of matters which du Lac calls "serious and sensitive matters and pastoral concerns." In these cases, the see RIGHTS / page 6

Heseltine to challenge Thatcher's leadership of Conservative Party

LONDON (AP) - Former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine said Wednesday he will stand as a candidate in the Conservative Party's leadership contest against Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, setting off a six-day war threatening against Iraq.

Heseltine, who will stand against Thatcher in a battle among the 372 Conservative legislators on Tuesday, accused her of splitting the party on Europe and alienating voters with unpopular local government.

The challenge by Heseltine, a self-made millionaire who espouses hard-line capitalism in contrast to Thatcher's rigorous free-market views, poses the biggest threat to her survival since she won power more than 11 years ago.

"I am persuaded that I will now have a better prospect than Mrs. Thatcher of leading the Conservatives to a fourth general election victory," Heseltine said.

Kenneth Baker, chairman of the troubled Conservative Party, said the 65-year-old prime minister may call a third leadership vote to keep power - though he expressed doubts.

"This contest is unwanted and unnecessary," Baker said. "I am sure she will win on the first round.

Heseltine, 64, who was a member of Thatcher's Cabinet in 1986 in a war threatening against Iraq.

"Rebellion has simmered in the party for more than a year, partly over Thatcher's isolation and a section of wing was also in the party dumping the leader who faced down the unions, led the war in the Falkland Islands and whose gritty brand of nationalism bolstered the nation's self-image as a European power and America's No. 1 ally.

Heseltine said that if he wins he will order an immediate review of the tax, which he said was the greatest political asset which the Conservative Party and our nation have," said party chairman Baker.

Hurt, who could pose the biggest threat of all to Thatcher, said he will stand as a third and final vote among the last three top contenders will be held Nov. 29.

Parliamentary critics have repeatedly accused Thatcher, 71, of being out of touch with the country's economic problems and foreign policy.

The attempt to overthrow her threatened to become a dirty, no-holds-barred campaign for the leadership of the party, which has a majority in the 650-member House of Commons.

On Tuesday, the 4-million-circulation Sun newspaper carried pictures with intimate details of the private lives of some of Thatcher's known supporters, including that one had a mistress and another had visited a gay club.

The plane was burning like a volcano," said an official. "It didn't seemed linked to the weather.

The plane broke apart on impact. Smoking wreckage, covered with soot, was scattered about the muddy hillside. The tail section had broken off. One landing gear was also in the cockpit.

Alitalia jetliner crash kills 40; Swiss officials investigating

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - An Alitalia DC-9 jetliner approaching Zurich airport crashed into a hillside and burned Wednesday night, killing all 40 passengers and six crew members aboard, police said.

Flight AZ404 of the Italian airline, coming from Milan, crashed at 8:50 p.m. (EST) five miles north of Kloen international airport outside Zurich, near the village of Weilach, airport spokesman Peter Gutknecht said.

Witnesses reported what appeared to be fire and explosions before the plane crashed into a wooded hill, Zurich police told a press conference.

Only a few on board were Italians, an Alitalia spokesman said. Italian reports said most of the other passengers were apparently Swiss and Japanese. Alitalia said it did not expect to publish a full passenger list before Thursday.

The Swiss Federal Meteorological Office said visibility at the time of the crash was good - even at 10 miles, with light rain and light winds. Early reports had cited heavy rain.

Fire raged in the wreckage and woodside for at least 1 1/2 hours, police said.

"This contest is unwanted and unnecessary," Baker said. "I am sure she will win on the first round.

Hers of political assets which the Conservative Party and our nation have:" said party chairman Baker.

Hurt, who could pose the biggest threat of all to Thatcher, said he will stand as a third and final vote among the last three top contenders will be held Nov. 29.

Thatcher's crisis is rooted in this century.

Panel members regret late report on AIDS treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some members of a scientific panel said Wednesday they should have moved faster to draft guidelines for adding steroids to the treatment of a killer pneumonia in people with AIDS.

"In retrospect, it should have happened more quickly," said Paul Meier, professor of statistics at the University of Chicago and vice chairman of the panel that convened last May.

AIDS activists also said the panel took too long, but federal medical officials said their critics were disregarding some important facts.

Still other panel members said the approval process could not have been significantly speeded up.

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases on Oct. 10 sent an alert to physicians treating patients whose treatment was supplemented with steroids.

Steroids are known to weaken the immune system, and AIDS is a disease of a collapsing immune system.

The letter, sent to 2,600 medical practitioners, was based on the findings of the 17-member panel organized by the institute and the University of California at San Diego.

Mike Merdian, executive director of the National Association of People with AIDS, said the five months it took the panel to come up with its recommendations was "unconscionable" and "unethical" but not unusual.

"We've long said there are many therapies available we're not aware of," he said.

But the chairman of the panel rejected the criticism and said the time it took members to analyze the studies was well spent trying to agree on the wording of any recommendations as to which patients would benefit most from steroid treatment, in what doses and for what period of time.

Panel discusses women's role and merits of ordination of women in the Church

By STEVE ZAVESTOSKI

Religious devotion is inversely proportional to a woman's desire to obtain ordination, according to research data presented by senior Julie Shadd, a member of the panel which discussed the position of women in the Catholic Church last night.

Shadd said that women more involved in the Catholic Church are the ones intimidated by the idea of ordination. This is a fear based on the socialization of the church in which women are typically subordinate.

According to Shadd, "we need to realize that there may come a point when the (church) doctrine is irreconcilable with the needs and desires of modern women.

Shadd added that her generation may be affected by changes in church doctrine if women begin to speak out now.

"Sometimes I have found in discussion of the woman's ordination issue, that theology smuggles its way in too quickly and may cloud what I see as some of the key issues," said panelist Clark Power, associate professor in the Program of Liberal Studies.

Power maintained that "the failure to ordain (women) is an injustice." He said, according to theologians, "the ordained ministry is not privileged, it is not high status, it does not hold power—it is a service.

"Obviously, in the Catholic Church ordained ministers do have power," said Power.

He pointed out that at the latest Synod, bishops agreed that there was no apparent problem with the priesthood, yet no women were involved in that decision-making process.

Power also disputed the argument that men are more moral than women by referring to studies of morality tests. He noted that in most cases women and men with equal educations tested to be equally moral.

According to Power inequality breeds immorality based on the process of power assertion while equality encourages morality and shared power.

Power suggested that "such a community (as the church) may effectively keep its members in line but it will be ineffective as a moral teacher.

Power concluded by comparing the subject of the ordination of women in the Catholic Church to the subject of an alcoholic father in a family. He pointed out that the family of an alcoholic usually avoids this topic just as the church tends to avoid the topic of the ordination of women.

Detroit (AP) — The Inventor of the passing windshield wiper agreed Wednesday to acccept $10.2 million from Ford Motor Co. to settle a 12-year­ old lawsuit for patent infringement.

Robert Kearns’ agreement sends a signal to 19 other automakers he has sued, claiming they violated his patent for intermittent windshield wipers.

Chrysler Corp. may be the next defendant up for trial, a Kearns attorney said. Chrysler said it is ready.

"Because of the Ford settlement, we’re encouraged that we will probably be able to reach agreement with Kearns without extended litigation," Chrysler spokesman Tom Houston said. He would not elaborate.

Ford attorney Malcolm Wheeler said the settlement resolves all disputes between the company and the 63-year-old Kearns.

"We’re pleased to be done with the litigation," Wheeler said. "We still believe that if we had another shot at it, the patents would have been held invalid. We think this is an extremely reasonable settlement."

Kearns said the size of the award was beside the point.

"I don’t think the goal was the magnitude of the money," Kearns said after he signed the settlement in U.S. District Judge Avern Cohn’s courtroom. "What I saw (as) my role was to defend the patent system. If I don’t go further, there really isn’t a patent system."

Intermittent windshield wipers, now standard or optional equipment on nearly all cars sold in the United States, automatically start and stop at intervals.

Bill Durkee, an attorney for Kearns, said Chrysler probably would be the next legal target, but he also said Chrysler has agreed not to dispute the validity of Kearns’ patents.

Durkee said the $10.2 million settlement, of which his firm is expected to get 30 percent to 40 percent, was a good deal for Ford.

"I think Ford got away with more than they should," Durkee said. "They made a profit from their infringement." Kearns sued.

It has been estimated that dealers have sold about 20 million Ford, Lincoln and Mercury cars equipped with intermittent wipers.

If the Ford settlement pattern were followed with Chrysler’s estimated 13 million cars with intermittent wipers, it would work out to about $4.3 million.

Kearns, who lives in Houston, claimed in his lawsuit that he installed intermittent windshield wipers on a 1962 Ford Galaxie and took it to the automaker.

Kearns, a professor at Wayne State University in Detroit at the time, said he was led to believe by the number of questions company engineers asked that Ford would buy his invention.

But that did not happen and Kearns sued.

During the course of the litgation one mistrial was declared after a jury was unable to decide on an award. In a re­
room after writing an angry letter to the judge and disappeared for several days.

Now, with the settlement

money due in an escrow account by the end of the week, Kearns said he plans to pay off some legal debts and perhaps buy a house in Texas. And he will continue the legal battles to protect his patent.

"They (lawyers) are running a business," he said. "I’m running a cause."
WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sales growth slowed to a barely perceptible 0.1 percent in October, the government said Wednesday, prompting analysts to predict that the holiday gift-buying season will be flat.

"I think holiday sales are going to be pretty lousy," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch Capital Markets in New York. "Comparing to Christmases past, it's not going to look very good."

Economist Sandra Shaber of the Futures Group in Washington agreed, basing her opinion on two months of declining sales at department and clothing stores — often gauges of consumer sentiment.

"Consumers have a limited budget," she said. "With the rapid deterioration of the job market and more inflation, consumer spending will probably be less money to spend.

The Commerce Department said sales totaled a seasonally adjusted $152.3 billion, up from $152.1 billion in September. But like the previous two months, sales were artificially inflated by high gasoline prices, not volume.

In the department said sales actually fell 0.1 percent in October compared with September. The changes were excluded. The price of gasoline has spiraled since the Gulf War, and many believe a recession is now in a recession. Retail sales within stores, which exclude consumer spending which itself accounts for two-thirds of the nation's economy.

Mike Shaber predicted a repeat of last year's holiday shopping season, when many retailers cut prices and offered other promotions to lure consumers to their salesrooms.

"It's really a very, very promotional Christmas already," he said. "We have too many stores and too many malls now being aggravated by the erosion of household purchasing power."

Retailers depend on the holiday shopping season for about half of their sales and profits. Automakers, which represent about 20 percent of retail sales, showed a 0.7 percent gain from a 2.9 percent increase in September. But Steinberg said unit sales were down in October, suggesting the increase reflected higher prices for new-model-year cars.

Excluding the auto industry, overall retail sales were unchanged from the previous month.

Sales of durable goods, which include cars and other items expected to last more than three years, rose 0.7 percent, jumped 1.1 percent gain a month earlier.

Purchases of building mater­ials, which rebounded 1.5 percent from a 1.5 percent drop in September, helped boost other home furnishing sales fell 0.3 percent.

Non-durable sales, such as food and gasoline, slipped 0.2 percent rising 1.2 percent the previous month.

Gasoline service station sales were up 3.2 percent after in­creases of 4.8 percent in September and 7 percent im­mediately after the August invas­sion.

But department store sales were down 0.6 percent after a 1.1 percent loss the previous month, while apparel purchases declined 10.0 percent following September's 1.7 percent drop.

Sales at restaurants and bars rose 1.6 percent after a 0.5 percent decrease last month.

"People are taking more aspirin because they're more worried," Steinberg suggested.

Days of 'fast buckaroos' gone forever for S&Ls

San Francisco (AP) — The era of "fast buckaroos" is over in the savings and loan business, and the gov­ernment needs to work new on attracting private in­vestors to thrifts, the new chairman of the S&L trade group said Wednesday.

S&L rescue legislation enacted 15 months ago has succeeded in ending thrifts' irresponsible growth, Bos­ton Shackleford told the U.S. League of Savings Associations, which completed its 98th annual convention.

"The new guys coming in, the fast buckaroos — that's over," he said.

However, the new law has failed to attract the in­vestors needed to reduce the government's risks, he said. Surviving S&Ls must attract new capital if taxpayers are to be insulated from future losses.

"The only way to get the government out is to get pri­vate capital in there. There are three sources. It's either pri­vate money or the government's money. There is no ball coming to put money in," he said.

Shackleford, a Harvard Business School graduate, is chairman of State Savings Bank in Columbus, Ohio, one of the strongest S&Ls in the nation.

He is vouching over the head of Robert O'Brien, chairman of Carter Savings Bank, Morristown, N.J., who asked to remain as league vice chairman while he works to solve the debt problems of Carter's holding company.

San Francisco businessman charges that the collapsed Wall Street investment bank eng­aged in bribery, coercion, extortion, fraud and other il­legal activities that created huge losses for the savings and loans.

The Federal Deposit Insur­ance Corp. and the Reso­nabone Trust Corp. said they would seek to recover $750 million from Drexel and former Drexel junk bond leader Michael Milken from two separate federal restitution funds.

Regulators file billions in claims against Drexel

New York (AP) — Federal savings and loan regula­tors filed claims Wednesday for $6.8 billion against Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. alleging the firm plan­nered more than 40 failed thrifts through junk bond dealings.

The filing in U.S. Bankruptcy Court charges that the collapsed Wall Street investment bank eng­aged in bribery, coercion, extortion, fraud and other il­legal activities that created huge losses for the savings and loans.

Alumni reunite with Glee Club for 75th anniversary

One key to a successful television series may be the ability of the program to recreate situations that occurred in the youth of the viewer. Although "The Wonder Years" has not demonstrated the quality of last year's episodes this season, the series continues popularity originates from its ability to present scenes universal to childhood. "The Flash" also functions in a similar manner.

"The Flash" can be seen on Thursday evenings at 8:30 P.M. on CBS. For much the same reason that "Twin Peaks" could not obtain a popularity base on the Notre Dame campus, I firmly believe that no one will ever watch this program. "Cheers," will forever dominate our lives, but this continue reading this evaluation of "The Flash" because it definitely is a program worth watching.

While "The Wonder Years" excites memories of youthful events, "The Flash" presents the comic book hero whose feats imitated as youths. The concept of the comic book hero is intrinsic to youth, and while you personally may not have had a closet bursting with old Fantastic Four comics, everyone pretended to be Superman or Wonderwoman at one time or another.

The Flash may be a lesser known hero, but those familiar with the comic book scene claim that he is well-known in the inner circles, and his origins are common to all superheroes. "The Flash" uses the interchangeable parts of generations of comics. How did the Flash become the Flash? By an electrical storm creating an explosion in a science lab, of course. Does the Flash have a girlfriend? Yes. Does she know of his powers? No, of course. Imagine a fast Spiderman who does not swing webs, and you have the Flash.

The Flash is actually Barry Allen (John Wesley Shipp), a hard-working police chemist in Central City crime lab. His girlfriend Iris (Paula Marshall) has no clue as to his identity, but she does know that her man is getting much closer to scientist Tina McGee (Amanda Pays). Tina is the one person who knows the secret powers that Barry possesses, and her assistance helps Barry deal with his more difficult situations.

To deal with these situations the Flash has only his incredible speed, and as far as superhuman abilities go, this speed seems kind of weak. Despite this, Barry uses his talent fairly well in protecting the fair citizens of Central City.

In this past week's episode the Flash saved his father from a criminal whom he arrested twenty years earlier. (Barry followed in the footsteps of both his father and brother when he chose to fight crime.) Hicks was this fowl character's name, and as tough as he claimed to be, he was no match for the rapid-fire punches of The Flash. Speed may seem dull compared to other superhuman abilities, but it functions well in this particular series.

The nature of the true comic book hero also has a darker and more secretive side as may be witnessed in Michael Keaton's portrayal of Batman. This series is missing this harsh and multi-dimensional side of its main character, and this fact is somewhat disappointing. "The Flash" presents a superhero who is almost too good and extremely flat.

However, these flaws are easy to ignore because this character still maintains the viewer's interest, and the program adds the typically over-dramatic lines found in all good comics.

The Notre Dame Glee Club will be presenting its seventy-fifth annual Fall Concert on Friday night at Stepan Center. This year's concert, however, will be a special performance as it will reunite the group with over 200 former members to commemorate the silver anniversary of the all-male chorus.

Under the guidance of the dynamic conductor Carl L. Stam, who is in his tenth year at Notre Dame, the Glee Club will be presenting an exciting and diverse repertoire of selections ranging from black spirituals to popular American folk songs. In addition to both the spiritual and secular music slated, the Glee Club will also perform Franz Biebl's "Ave Maria" as well as the ever popular Notre Dame Football songs.

"This promises to be a very exciting and enjoyable show," said Kevin Hoffman, Publicity Manager of the Glee Club. "Director Stam is an energetic conductor and audiences are usually excited because of his vitality."

The Glee Club's Anniversary Concert is also unique in the fact that it will serve as a reunion concert for over two hundred former Notre Dame Glee Club members.

The present sixty-three member chorus will be joined on stage in the second act by an additional two hundred and fifty alumni members to form a rollicking musical onslaught.

The Glee Club, since its introduction in 1915, has represented the University in thousands of performances nationwide. Most recently the Glee Club concluded a six concert, eight day tour of the East Coast held over Fall Break.

Highlighting this trip was a special performance on the morning talk show, "Live With Regis And Kathy Lee," the Tuesday following the Irish football victory over Miami. The men's chorus performed two songs live: "Irish Bucks," as well as "The Notre Dame Victory March," the latter directed by host Regis Philbin.

Under the delightful direction of Stam, the Seventy-Fifth Annual Fall Concert is sure to be an entertaining musical adventure. The concert is scheduled for Friday, November 16 at 8:30 p.m. in Stepan Center.

Tickets are currently on sale at the LaFortune Ticket Office for $3; student tickets may be purchased for $2. Tickets may also be purchased at the door the night of the concert.

BOSTON (AP) — One night after his lowest point total in four years, Larry Bird scored 45 points and the Boston Celtics survived a late Charlotte comeback for a 135-126 victory over the Hornets on Wednesday night.

A 116-101 lead with 7:35 remaining dropped to 122-117 with 4:21 to play on Rex Chapman’s driving layup. Boston’s Kevin Gamble then made two free throws and the Hornets came no closer than five points the rest of the way. Bird, who had five points in a 119-91 loss at Milwaukee on Tuesday night, added eight assists, eight rebounds and five blocks against the Hornets.

Golfe, a graduate of Notre Dame, made a bet with Tennessee graduate White on the outcome of the game (in which the loser would have to sing the opposing school’s fight song.

Fortunately for Golfe, the Irish prevailed 34-29 and White was forced to sing the first three verses of the Notre Dame Victory March before a public audience.

Report says new conference will be started up in Midwest

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati and five other schools have finalized an agreement to form a new conference for basketball and other sports, according to published reports.

An announcement is tentatively scheduled for Thursday in Chicago. The Cincinnati Post reported Wednesday.

The new league, tentatively referred to as the Big Midwest, is to begin play in 1991-92. It will include Cincinnati and Memphis State from the Metro Conference, Alabama-Birmingham from the Sun Belt Conference, St. Louis and Marquette from the Midwestern Collegiate Conference based in Indianapolis, and independent DePaul. The Cincinnati Post reported Wednesday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association requires a five-year wait for an automatic bid to its post-season tournament.

Cincinnati athletic director Rick Taylor declined comment on reports that an agreement had been reached. DePaul athletic director Bill Bradshaw also declined comment.

But Bradshaw said an announcement could be made this week concerning the new league.

"If everything goes together, that could happen," he said.

In Memphis, Memphis State president Thomas Carpenter told The Commercial Appeal that his school was ready to make the move to the new league, calling it "an opportunity we should move with."

Cincinnati and Memphis State, charter members of the Metro, which started play in 1975, have been involved in discussions about the new league since early this year.

Florida State has accepted an invitation to leave the Metro Conference and join the Atlantic Coast Conference.

South Carolina is leaving the Metro for the Southeastern Conference. Only Louisville, Virginia Tech, Southern Mississippi and Tulane will remain.

With Taylor and Memphis State athletic director Charlie Cavagnaro pushing for the Metro to sponsor football as a conference sport, the league tried to put together a 12-to-16 team superconference that would have included football.
Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma used a 16-0 run early in the first half to take control against New Orleans and the 15th-ranked Sooners rolled to an 85-65 victory Wednesday night in the first round of the Big Apple NIT.

Temple's previous appearance in the NIT came 13 years ago. Oklahoma extended the spurt with a 3-pointer and four other players scored during the four-minute streak that gave the Sooners a 21-4 lead. Mullins finished with 16 points, one of six Sooners in double figures.

Oklahoma has no full-time starters back from a year ago.

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Iowa coach Tom Davis sees something frighteningly familiar in the Temple team his Hawkeyes will play in the first round of the Big Apple NIT.

The Owls remind him of the Michigan team that won the national championship last year, he said.

Temple's lineup of guards Mark Macon and Michael Harden, forwards Mik Kilgore and Mark Strickland and center Donald Hodge bring to mind Loy Vaught, Terry Mills, Rumeal Robinson, Glen Rice and the rest of the Wolverines of two years ago.

"They just remind me of Michigan's ball club with deep, tall talent," Davis said. "This is a very strong ball club. We know we've got our hands full." Temple coach John Chaney draws a blank about the Hawkeyes, though.

"We don't have a clue about them. I've known Tom a long time, and I know with him having to struggle with young players it will take some time to get going," Chaney said.

Compared to Davis, Chaney is in an enviable position coming into the season.

He returns five starters, headlined by Macon, a 6-foot-5 senior from Saginaw, Mich., who has scored 1,926 points in his career. That's more than all the lettermen on Iowa's team, who have combined for 1,425 points in their careers.

Macon averaged nearly 22 points and six rebounds a game last season and helped lead the Owls to a 20-11 record and an NCAA tournament berth.

"Macon is being talked about by everybody as an all-American and an NBA lottery pick," Davis said. "He can jump over you, he can go around you, he can work you one-on-one, he can shoot from tremendous distance. He's capable of getting into the 30s with his scoring."

As good as Macon is, Davis is just as concerned with Temple's depth.

Macon scored 26 points and Strickland had 17 points and eight rebounds in a 94-77 victory over Ferris State.

They're NBA-type bodies," Iowa's coach said.

Macon scored 26 points and Strickland had 17 points and eight rebounds in a 94-77 victory over a Soviet national team in the Owls' only exhibition game.

Unlike Chaney, Davis has a raft of newcomers, including six freshmen, five juniors and three sophomores. A fourth sophomore, Dale Reed, announced this week he was transferring to Washington State at the end of the semester and Davis said Reed wouldn't play in any games.

James Moses, Wade Lookingbill and Troy Skinner have the most experience from last year's 12-16 team, but Lookingbill is slowed by a back injury and may have to be given a medical redshirt.

Drabek near-unanimous winner of NL Cy Young

Doug Drabek of the Pittsburgh Pirates missed a unanimous decision in the NL Cy Young race by one vote.

"He wouldn't get a bust down or something and he'd let it affect his pitching for two innings," Miller said. "He was working too hard to let something like that get to him. He's the hardest worker on his staff."

"He can go out and throw a one-hitter, and the next day he's in here running, riding the bike for a half hour. He's a textbook example of a guy with good stuff who became a great pitcher by working hard."

Hyfield won't surrender his WBC title

NEW YORK (AP) — Evander Hyfield will not surrender the World Boxing Council's piece of his heavyweight championship without a fight.

Hyfield, who won the undisputed title from James "Buster" Douglas Oct. 25, is signed to defend it against 42-year-old George Foreman April 19.

"The fight is happening April 19 because Evander Hyfield is the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world, and there's nothing (WBC president) Jose Sulaiman can do to change that," Dan Duva, Hyfield's promoter, said Wednesday. He spoke at a news conference called to officially announce that the World Boxing Association had changed its stance and will sanction the match.

The WBC, WBA and International Boxing Federation all ruled that Hyfield's first defense had to be against Mike Tyson, who lost the title to Douglas.

At the news conference, James Rims, counsel for the WBA, read a letter from WBA President Gilberto Mendoza to Hyfield in which Mendoza said the WBA would sanction the fight with Foreman "upon the condition that the winner must defend the title against the then leading available contender, by no later than July 11, 1991."

Tyson, who is to fight Alex Stewart Dec. 8 at Atlantic City, N.J., currently is the No. 1 contender of all three governing bodies.

Duva threatened court action against the WBC and take his case to the public and to advertisers who sponsor WBC fights on television, adding: "I believe the WBC is going to sanction this fight or get out of boxing."

"I see the possibility of a congressional investigation into the WBC if they steal Hyfield's title."

Inaugural WLAF season will begin in March, 1991

DALLAS (AP) — The World League of American Football announced Wednesday that it will kick off its inaugural season as scheduled in March 1991 with 10 teams in three divisions, including seven North American cities and three European sites.

The announcement was made by president Mike Lynn, following a report to shareholders in the unique operation.

The Europe division will be made up of London, Barcelona and Frankfurt. North America East includes New York, Montreal, Orlando, Fla., and the Carolinas, and the North American West has Sacramento, Calif., San Antonio, and Birmingham, Ala.

Lynn said that the team in the Carolinas would be based at either Raleigh or Charlotte, with a decision to be made by Dec. 1.

"Starting tomorrow, we will hold a series of press conferences in league cities involving ownership, front office executives, team nicknames, logos, and uniform colors and other league news," said Lynn, who has approved franchise ownership commitments in eight of the cities.

"For business reasons, the league will own and operate the London and Frankfurt franchises and will announce management groups for those franchises," he said.

The league will announce a playing schedule by Dec. 1, including a site for the inaugural World Bowl championship game.

The WLAF will open a 10-week regular season on March 23 with semifinal playoffs game scheduled June 1-2 and the World Bowl on June 9.

ABC Sports will televise a national game of the week each Sunday and USA Network will cablecast prime-time games on Saturday and Monday nights.

There will also be six telecasts on Saturday afternoons during the season.

The league will have its first player evaluation combine and draft Feb. 11-24 at Orlando.

"We've signed some 100 players and we intend to sign about 1,000 players by February," Lynn said.

Lynn said that he received no opposition from the NFL about the league, although some of the shareholders discussed whether the spring league should have been delayed a year because of the unstable economy.

"It was decided that the time to negotiate is over and that everything is in place and we need to go on with it," Lynn said.

During the special NFL owners meeting, a committee was formed to study giving commissioner Paul Tagliabue new powers under a reorganization plan, which included putting some television, NFL Films and NFL Properties under his office.

The committee includes owners Norman Braman of Philadelphia, Art Modell of Cleveland, Mike McCaskey of Chicago and Jerry Jones of Dallas.

Tagliabue said the management council also will be absorbed into the league office at a later date under his own discretion.

Jack Donlan, the executive director of the NFL management council, emerged unscathed despite predictions he was on the way out.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

If you think you've come far in the past four years, you won't believe how far you could go in the next five.

If you've spent the past four years developing a solid technical background, we have an extraordinary opportunity for you: The Travelers Telecommunications Technology Management Program (TTMP).

The most comprehensive training program of its kind in the financial services industry, TTMP is a five-year introduction to a state-of-the-art telecommunications environment. Through a variety of rotational assignments and supplemental classroom study — TTMP is singly focused on developing the managers who will keep us on the cutting edge.

TTMP is not easy and it's not for everyone. But, if you're looking to develop the full range of skills needed to manage the most sophisticated telecommunications technology available, there's simply no better place to begin your career.

Find out more. Come to The Travelers' Information Session on Thursday, November 15th, at 6:00 PM, LaFortune Student Center, Foster Room. Interviews will be conducted November 16th.

Summer Intern candidates are also encouraged to attend.

ND kicks off season with NIT matchup vs. Fordham

Rams look to surprise Irish in first round of tournament

By GREG GUFFEY
Sports Editor

Notre Dame hopes it can surprise some of the so-called experts in college basketball this season.

But Fordham hopes to surprise the Irish first.

The two teams will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Joyce ACC for a first-round Dodge/NIT contest. The victor will play the winner of the Temple-Iowa game on Saturday night and the place to be announced.

"I think this is something that is very good for college basketball," said Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps, who began his coaching career at Fordham.

"It be part of the field of 16, we're anxious to get started."

The Irish lost to Western Kentucky four years ago in the first round of their only other appearance in the tournament. The Hilltoppers advanced to the championship game before falling to UNLV in double overtime.

Notre Dame players know this tourney could give them a lot of credibility from people who are not following the team much of a chance for the entire season.

"Look at Kansas last year," said Irish center Tim Singleton. "Kansas won it (preseason NIT). They weren't even giving them much of a chance for the entire season.

"Look at Kansas last year," said Irish center Tim Singleton. "Kansas won it (preseason NIT). They weren't even giving them much of a chance for the entire season.

"I wanted to accept an invitation to the Orange Bowl," said Phelps. "I would have preferred to take a team to the Sugar Bowl, the Cotton Bowl or the Fiesta Bowl, but it wasn't feasible to go to the Sugar Bowl because our seniors would have played in the Sugar, the Fiesta, the Cotton and the Orange."

Barring an Irish loss to Penn State or USC in the next two weeks, the Orange Bowl would pit top-ranked Notre Dame against No. 2 Colorado in a rematch of last season's Orange Bowl matchup, which the Irish won 21-6.

Atlantic Coast Conference champion Virginia (No. 9) is expected to play the winner of Saturday's Southeastern Conference game between No. 14 Tennessee and No. 15 Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl.

Rumors of Holtz leaving Notre Dame at the end of this season to pursue a professional head coaching job have been as numerous as injuries on the Irish offensive line.

The Minnesota Vikings and Cleveland Browns are the most recent NFL teams to have been linked with Holtz's name, but the fifth-year Irish head coach continues to deny published reports that this will be his final year at Notre Dame.

"I planned on this being the last job I'd ever have when I came here," Holz said. "I'm not the type of job you can keep for 11 years, but I plan to come back next year if they will have me."

Irish Hockey will host UMass-Boston

ND kicks off season with NIT matchup vs. Fordham

Rams look to surprise Irish in first round of tournament

By DAVE DIETEMAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team, looking to improve on its 1-5-1 record last season, takes on the Beacons of the University of Massachusetts-Boston tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Joyce A.C.C.

Tonight's game will be the first meeting ever between the Fighting Irish and the Beacons, a Division III team. This season, UMass-Boston has come out shooting, and are a 4-0 record into the matchup with Notre Dame.

The Beacons opened their season with an 8-5 win over East Coast Athletic Conference rival St. Anselm, followed by a 7-2 decision over Salem State (also in the ECAC) and a 6-0 victory over Southeastern Massachusetts.

Junior forward Mike Dalton leads the Beacons in scoring with eight total points (three goals, five assists). Brian Hickey, a sophomore defenseman, is second in scoring with six total points (three goals, four assists). Sophomore forward John Venuti, meanwhile, has chipped in five goals. As a team, the Beacons have managed to spread their scoring around, with six players scoring multiple goals and eight players with four or more total points so early in the season.

UMass-Boston is also tough on defense, as the Beacons have allowed on average 11 goals while registering 81 saves.

The Irish, however, are well apprised of the situation at hand.

"We need to score more goals," said Notre Dame head coach Rich Schafer. "We have had some good scoring opportunities and have not taken advantage of them. We also need to show up on defense. Our goaltending has been very good, but I think that we really have two objectives: scoring and preventing them from scoring."

"This team we are facing excites us. It is important for us to keep going forward. We have been going forward even though our record is not great. We have managed so far.

Schafer is also quick to warn onlookers to not be deceived by the team's apparently sub-par record.

"We have gotten better this year," noted Schafer, who has played hockey both at Notre Dame and for a Swiss pro team. "We have played against some stiff competition. Last Saturday [a 5-4 loss to Ferris State] we see it and we have to keep going forward."

"I planned on this being the last job I'd ever have when I came here," Holz said. "I'm not the type of job you can keep for 11 years, but I plan to come back next year if they will have me."

Holtz would prefer Sugar, but Orange is fine as well

Notre Dame Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal's announcement Sunday that the University will accept an invitation from the Orange Bowl to play second-ranked Colorado on Jan. 1 once an invitation is officially extended came as little surprise to most.

Head coach Lou Holtz's desire to play in the Sugar Bowl at the present time. I wanted to accept an invitation from the Orange Bowl to play second-ranked Colorado on Jan. 1 once an invitation is officially extended came as little surprise to most.

"I would have preferred to take a team to the Sugar Bowl," Holtz said Sunday. "I think that would have been in the best interests of our football players, but it wasn't feasible to go to the Sugar Bowl at the present time. I wanted to go to the Sugar Bowl because our seniors would have played in the Sugar, the Fiesta, the Cotton and the Orange."

Frank Pastor
Football Notebook

Holtz's Irish will probably play in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.
