MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A U.S. attack to staunch the world's largest oil spill may stop crude from flowing into the Persian Gulf, but the still-spread ing stain will cause grave environmental harm and could foul drinking water.

The spill will spill to water, dolphins, whales, sea cows and birds, according to experts and government officials. The fishing industry could be ruined for a decade or longer.

Governments in the area have already written off marine life. Efforts have been centered on protecting critical desalination plants, which provide provide two-thirds of the gulf states' 18 million people with drinking water.

"We just can't worry about the environment right now," one high-ranking Saudi official said. "It's a choice between clean drinking water and fish. We've got to protect our drinking water first."

Those efforts could be hampered if expected high waves render useless oil booms and other devices.

The spill, allegedly caused by Iraqi forces at the Sea Island Terminal off the Kuwaiti coast, contains 250-300 miles of black slicks over an area 35 miles long and 10 miles wide, said Commodore Ken Summers, commander of Canada's Gulf forces. Secondary slicks stretched over the length to about 85 miles.

The previous record spill was the 176-million-gallon, 1979 blow oil blow in the Gulf of Mexico.

Ixtoc gushed and dissolved into warm, open body of water, and did not cause critical environmental damage.

The previous largest spill in the Persian Gulf took place in 1979 Ixtoc oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Norwegian "anti-pollution" tanker Al Waadi, the first commercial vessel to involve itself in the fight, readied to leave the gulf port of Abu Dhabi. The tanker can swallow a half-mile of slick a day, its owners say.

Sources in Saudi Arabia said the tanker would protect Saudi Arabia's critical desalination and electrical plant at Jubail. The plant, the biggest in the world, processes 30 million gallons of drinking water a day and is expected to be threatened by the slick in about four days.

Soviet army captain shoots Lithuanian

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — A Soviet army captain shot a Lithuanian at a military checkpoint Sunday afternoon, and officials of the breakaway republic said they have begun keeping a record of brutality inflicted on their citizens, a government spokesman said.

Government spokesman Andris Azubalis said a Soviet patrol stopped the Lithuanian, who was driving a car with two hitchhikers about 1 a.m. The driver was asked to get out of the car and put his hands on the windshield.

A shot fired at the ground by the captain, apparently as a warning, ricocheted and hit the man in the leg. The Lithuanian, identified as A. Shalkinas, was taken to a Vilnius hospital for treatment.

Azubalis also said the last of six Lithuanians seized after a shooting incident involving paratroopers Thursday was released, then taken to a hospital for treatment of a concussion.

The Lithuanian Health Ministry reported a similar case Saturday in Kaunas, 60 miles west of Vilnius, where a man detailed Jan. 24 by the military was released and taken to a hospital suffering from a concussion, arm fractures and chest injuries, Azubalis said.

The commander of the Soviet Army garrison had warned Saturday that his troops were getting "more and more out of control."

Student Body elections need to be more fun

R. Calhoun Kersten assured Notre Dame students that his 1991 campaign for Student Body President that "God has agreed to extend July for two weeks." Kersten set up his campaign in the fourth floor bathroom of Welch Hall, outfitting himself in regal attire and promising voters to "come out unexpectedly and indefensibly on every major issue."

His platform included the abolition of all Student Government positions and the establishment of an oligarchy, recruitment of Young Democrats from Brazil and negotiations for a Rocks-Rocks discotheque franchise on campus. On-Candidate the Cat, a silver tabby, ran as the vice-presidential contender and became Notre Dame's first female to seek elected office. In short, Kersten challenged campaign standards.

He also won.

This year I'm thinking of making a "No campaigners Allowed" sign for the door. To borrow a phrase, "I've had it."

Everyone at Notre Dame has a responsibility to pay attention to the student body elections. Experience has taught me that one day in four years is sufficient.

In 1988, all nine tickets put up posters complete with their pictures and their resumés, and campaigned door-to-door for a week. In 1990, a few candidates added spot color to their flyers. Oh, and they spent the week—you guessed it—campaigning door-to-door.

In 1972, Kersten brought fun and creativity to the process, and the student body responded. He started as a joke ticket, which does not guarantee a successful campaign. nor is it usually the hallmark of inspiring leadership. But it is possible to win without following Notre Dame's formula for a successful campaign. Kersten's panache can be utilized without sacrificing substance.

I'm throwing down the gauntlet to this year's hopefuls. We're bored. Do something new. I'm not sure the student body is ready for another old-fashioned political ticket. I'm ready, as long as they prove that they not only can do the job, but can have fun with it.

Bergin elected to Humanities board

BERGIN—Thomas Bergin of Notre Dame was among the eight new members chosen to the board of directors of the Indiana Humanities Council. He will serve an initial 3-year term of office and will then be eligible for re-election to a second 3-year term. Bergin is Dean of the Center for Continuing Education. The Indiana Humanities Council is a non-profit organization that supports the public's use of the humanities to enrich personal and civic life in Indiana.

The "neutral standard" of evaluation in the workplace must be changed to accommodate women and their strengths, according to Teresa Phelpo, Notre Dame associate professor of law.

Phelpo, one of seven panelists in a discussion on women in the workplace, explained that this standard poses the greatest difficulty for women because it is not neutral. "It is a white male standard," she said.

Phelpo was a member of the panel that assembled Saturday to discuss "The Situation of Women in Different Fields" as part of the Snite Museum's "Day of Women."

Other members of the panel included Jean Bibb, assistant professor of art, art history and design; Deanna Francis, deputy managing editor of the South Bend Tribune; Mary Roemer, therapist at the Omni Center for Women's Health and Medicine; Marcia Sawyer, professor of history; Kristen Stamile, ND senior; and Dr. Ellen Stecker, family practitioner.

The traditional method of evaluation in the office along with a woman's unrealistic expectations of herself creates intense pressure which can only be alleviated by changes in the way society views working women, according to the panelists.

Roemer suggested that women too often seek external, often male, approval for their actions. "We need to trust in ourselves and our womanliness and not the over-valued masculine way of doing things," she said. Stecker added that men need to find a balance between work and family as well.

It is not easy to change the climate in the workplace, agreed the panelists. Opportunities for women and minorities that are a result of Affirmative Action programs often cause resentment among workers.

Sawyer shared her unique way of dealing with those who ask whether she was only hired to fill a quota. She told the audience to "agree with them (opponents of Affirmative Action bringers) . . . with the complete confidence in your qualifications and competency serving as support."

Although the panelists were from diverse backgrounds and fields, they shared common experiences with discrimination, family problems, and difficulties with relationships. The panelists explained how work, husbands, boyfriends and children often interrupt their pursuit of an education.

The sentiment toward the delays and deviations was varied.

Stecker felt the irregular path reinforced her ambition. "Learning to pick up the pieces in the face of defeat is an invaluable lesson," she said.

In contrast, Sawyer expressed a desire for an "antidote to senility" that would install patience into college seniors trying to rush a career, family, and marriage.

The panelists agreed on the importance of discourse and events like "Year of Women" lectures in inducing change in society. Stecker recommends that women sustain the prejudice of a Carol Lucey, one of seven panelists in a discussion on women in the workplace, emphasized the importance of "Year of Women" lectures in inducing a change in a male-dominated society.

Father James Burtchaell named head of JustLife

Special to The Observer

Father James Burtchaell, professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, was recently elected chairman of the board of directors of JustLife, a nationwide political action committee established in 1986 to support candidates and legislation upholding a consistent ethic of life.

According to its policy statement, JustLife supports government programs that empower the poor to become self-sufficient; opposes all abortions, except when necessary to prevent the death of the mother; and rejects the position that "more and newer weapons systems are the way to achieve disarmament."

"JustLife, Burtchaell wrote, "We are calling for a fellowship of Americans who are alarmed alike by the cry of the poor, the massacre of the innocents and the terrorism of the beasts of war."

Burtchaell, who is on leave for research and writing at Princeton University during this academic year, has been a member of the Notre Dame faculty since 1966 and served as the University's provost between 1970 and 1977.

University Libraries receive $385,000 grant

By PETER LOFTUS
Assistant News Editor

Future improvements of the University Libraries, including closer cooperation between Notre Dame and three other Indiana libraries, will be made possible by a recent grant and funds received from ND's Strategic Moment campaign.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., awarded University Libraries a two-year, $385,000 grant that will "enhance inter-institutional cooperation" between the libraries of ND, Bethel, Holy Cross and Saint Mary's College's, according to Cynthia Scott, assistant director of ND's department of public relations and information.

The grant will finance a linkage of Notre Dame's online computer system, UNLOC, with the systems of the other three colleges, as well as allow University Libraries to expand certain collections, such as Eastern Europe, European history and literature, according to Robert Miller, director of University Libraries.

University Libraries have also received over $6 million from ND's Strategic Moment campaign, recently completed ND fund-raising drive, launched in May of 1987, which attracted over $450 million from over 61,000 individuals. The $6 million appropriated for University Libraries will be placed in various investments, the earnings of which will be used to improve the libraries.

According to Miller and Kathy Blackstead, Library advancement officer, several future improvements of the library include:

•expansion of holdings in Eastern European history and literature, West European literature, art, music, history of science and technology
•acquisition of additional UNLOC terminals and renovation of old terminals and printers
•inclusion of periodical indexes in UNLOC
•the establishment of a campus directory of information, including that taken from organizations not owned by the University, such as Educational Media
•renovations to the Hesburgh Library, including space allocation brought on by moving non-library departments out of Hesburgh's ground floor.
•increases in staff size, in order to further help users to learn how to use the library's resources
•amalgamation of the coding for government documents, as well as UNLOC, with call numbers used for most of the libraries holdings. ND's library is an official depository for government documents, including statistics and reports used for research purposes.

University Libraries also plans to initiate the inclusion of user names in its circulation information, according to Blackstead. In order to protect the rights of individual users, it will be possible for users to request that their name be not included in the circulation information.

The addition of user names to circulation information is designed to encourage sharing of information between users, said Blackstead. However, she did add that University Libraries would make every effort to respect the right of privacy of users.

Women talk on media and the workplace

By ANN MARIE HARTMAN
News Writer

Women in the work force attempting to regain their femininity was the focus of "Women in the Media and the Workplace," a lecture held as part of the Snite Museum's "Day of Women" on Saturday.

The panel of women assembled to speak consisted of three Notre Dame faculty members from the communications and theater department and the department of economics.

Teresa Ghilarducci, assistant professor of economics, opened the lecture in discussing the idea that today's working woman loses her femininity because she is "more prone to alienation and loss due to her subordinated work positions...women have more jobs that are alienating."

Because of this, Hildy Radner, assistant professor of communications and theater, added that women are "isolating themselves from the role in culture that [women] are to represent."

Radner supported this statement by implying that women in the workplace are attempting to regain their femininity through material purchases. "Traditional sex roles designate women as the shoppers," said Ghilarducci.

Ava Collins, adjunct instructor of communications and theater, used the hit movie, "Pretty Woman," to show the transformation of a woman in today's society. Collins attempted to prove that the way women are seen in society, as well as the ways in which they see themselves, come through their purchases.

Radner gave examples from a survey taken of female corporate executives who are the primary readers of fashion magazines. Nearly forty percent of the ads in the eight most read fashion magazines, display advertisements for methods of self-improvement for women. The consumer market is being designed around a more ego-satisfied female shopper, said Radner.

This lecture concluded the morning segment of The Snite Museum of Art's Day of Women.

International prayer for peace to be hosted by Abbey of Monte Cassino

Special to The Observer

Italy's ancient Abbey of Monte Cassino, destroyed during World War II by American bombers and rebuilt after the war, will be the site of an international prayer for peace that will begin Feb. 15, the date of the 1944 bombing. Sponsoring the prayer is the St. Thomas Aquinas Society, the national spiritual enrichment program of the University of St. Thomas. The patron saint of the society and the university, St. Thomas Aquinas, studied at Monte Cassino in the 13th Century.

Invitations to the opening event have been extended to representatives of the Italian government, the Holy See and the nations which had military personnel involved in the battle that raged around Monte Cassino before and after the bombing. These nations include Britain, Canada, France, Germany, India, New Zealand, Poland and the United States. The remains of thousands of soldiers from these nations are buried in cemeteries near the abbey.

Father John McHenry, the society's executive director, said the prayer will be a novena, a program of the University of St. Thomas Aquinas Society, the government are formally departments of the republic's legislative supervises laws passed by the government. Right-wingers survive French election's first round

PARIS (AP) — Two rebel right-wing politicians won the first round Sunday of special parliamentary elections they billed as a crusade to rid France of political corruption. Turnout was light.

A third finished second in her district but will also compete in runoff elections Feb. 3.

The three — Lyon Mayor Michel Noir, Jean-Michel Dubernard and former health minister Michele Barzach — quit last month to form the National Front, which favors expelling immigrants from France.

Noir and Dubernard easily won their Lyon contests and will face runoff opponents from Jean-Marie Le Pen's extreme-right National Front, which posted a surprisingly strong showing ahead of the traditional mainstream parties.

Noir captured 43 percent of the vote for his seat, while his nearest challenger, Bruno Goldnich, weighed in with 16 percent. Dubernard won 40 percent of the vote compared to 18 percent for the Front's Alain Brillouin.

Record low voter turnout may roil the candidates but will also compete in a former premier and leader of the conservative Rally for the Republic. Michel Noir, Jean-Michel Dubeu and former health minister Michele Barzach resigned last year after he said there were too many Arab immigrants in France.

The Communist Party also decided to boycott the election, which they say is a sham.

Michel Noir, Jean-Michel Dubernard and former health minister Michele Barzach resigned last year after he said there were too many Arab immigrants in France.

The Communist Party also decided to boycott the election, which they say is a sham.

One reader: 'The crusade failed to attract widespread support, but the resignations further loosened Chirac's weakening grip on his fractious party, divided among diehard Gaulists and a younger generation of deputies like Noir and Barzach. It also demonstrated the disintegration of the traditional right as a unified force against the governing Socialists, a fact borne out by the National Front's good showing.'

The National Front leader Jean-Marie Le Pen said the record abstentions and his party's Lyon success "marks the loss of confidence hitting the establishment parties." Le Pen's party favors expelling immigrants from France.

Oil slick threatens region's water supply

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia—A Saudi environmental official said Saturday that the mammoth oil slick pouring into the Persian Gulf from Iraq-occupied Kuwait does not threaten the kingdom's water supply. The official, Abdulbar al-Gain, also said Saudi Arabia is building a desalination plant to cope with toxic chemicals. "There is no danger, absolutely, to the kingdom's water supply," al-Gain said. "The oil is not so toxic that we can't use it to support the 'liberation-seeking' struggles of Palestinians throughout the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip."

"No further details were given," said the official. "Karruti also said that Iran "will certainly fight Israel along with other Muslim states" if Israel enters the war against Iraq."

His remarks were reported by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia.

Karruti's five-point peace plan proposes that Islamic forces from unspecified countries supervise withdrawals of allied and Iraqi forces from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, respectively, then replace both sides in those lands. The Islamic forces would also supervise the lifting of United Nations' embargoes on shipments of food and medicine to Iraq.

The plan seeks an unconditional halt to "the Jewish influx" into Iraqi-occupied territories and the formation of a committee of Islamic states to support the "liberation-seeking struggles" of Palestinians throughout the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Pan Am refuses Iraqi passengers

NEW YORK—Pan American World Airways has turned away Iraqi passengers since war began last week in the Persian Gulf, a newspaper reported today. The New York Times quoted an unidentified Pan Am employee in Los Angeles as saying the airline ordered ground staff to turn away all Iraqi nationals on all domestic and international flights. "We will not carry anyone from Iraq," an airline employee told the newspaper on condition of anonymity. "We help them get onto another airline if we can. They are told, 'We cannot accept you for transportation, however, we can get you a reservation on XYZ airline.'"

"The employee said the ban applied to Iraqi visitors as well as legal resident aliens in the United States, the newspaper said. It said a security guard at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York asked an Iraqi passenger seeking a flight to London whether there was "an embargo," and then asked his name to verify he was in the list of contacts needed to travel. "There's no limit to how much one can plan," said one employee.

Bancroft called a resumption of economic sanctions and diplomatic measures, measures he considered the best way to "resolve the situation in Kuwait."

"Only by stopping the bombs from falling can we ensure that our loved ones will come home alive," said GCAG members.

ND students march in Washington, D.C.

By JOSEPH ADAMS

Thirty-three Notre Dame students representing the Gulf Crisis Action Group (GCAG) joined members of other campus groups and peace organizations for a demonstration against the Persian Gulf War on Saturday in Washington, D.C.

"The demonstration was an important occasion in which to make dissent apparent," said graduate student Kevin Banney, a representative of the group. Bancroft called the march a success and said approximately 100,000 people participated. He also was pleased with the diversity of the participants. In addition to the many religious groups and labor organizations present, "a significant proportion of young people were represented at the march." Also present was the Michiana Coalition for Peace, a local activist group. The GCAG is calling for a "cease fire" and a reduction of troops in the Persian Gulf. The group also would like to see the U.S. troops stationed in the Middle East replaced with U.N. forces.

CBS presses search for missing crew, gets CNN help

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS continued its efforts Sunday to find a four-member news team missing for nearly a week, and a CNN correspondent in Baghdad reported that Iraqi authorities say they have no word on the crew.

Correspondent Bob Simon, producer Peter Bluff, cameraman Roberto Alvarez and soundman Juan Caldera disappeared last Monday while covering the Persian Gulf war. They were traveling without military escort near occupied Kuwait.

“We are doing all we can to determine if indeed Bob Si­mon and his crew are in Iraqi hands, and if he is, that he be brought to safety and shipped home,” CNN’s Peter Arnett reported in a live broadcast by satellite phone Sunday from that city.

But “the Iraqis are saying they do not have him alive, Simon, or they don’t have any information about him at this point,” said Arnett, who has been reporting from Baghdad since the war began on Jan. 16.

A Saudi military patrol found the crew’s upturned boat in the desert Sunday, Simon reported. Saudi officials said Friday that the crew apparently had been heading into occupied Kuwait, more than 350 miles southeast of Baghdad.

“We’ve been urgently and ag­gressively contacting every one of our people in the region who might be able to help or provide information that might help us to find the crew,” CBS spokesman Tom Goodman said.

This includes U.S. and Saudi military officials, Iraqi officials in France, Japan, Western Europe, Iran and the United Nations, Goodman said. CBS also had made a written appeal to Soviet president Mikhail Gorbachev.

In addition, he said, CBS vice president Don DeCesare has been trying to reach Saddam Hussein and is trying to visit the area where Simon and his crew disappeared.

CBS News also is seeking Iraq’s permission for let pro­ducer Larry Doyle into Bagh­dad for the sole purpose of seeking follow-up on information about the missing crew, Goodman said.

He praised CNN’s assistance in seeking information, saying the rival network’s “has been very helpful” in relaying CNN’s requests for any information to Iraqi officials in Baghdad.

Simon, 49, with CBS since 1967, has long experience covering conflict around the Middle East. He also covered the Vietnam War and the fighting in Lebanon.

(AP) — Flag-waving Americans turned out Sunday in several communities to send a message to National Guard battalions or demonstrate their backing for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf. Students in Nevada stretched a 23-mile yellow ribbon of support.

More than 100 million people were expected to stay indoors and watch the Super Bowl football game being played in Tampa, Fla., where the war meant extra security and a patriotic halftime show.

In Lafayette Park across from the White House, a few dozen anti-war demonstrators kept the vigil Sunday by banging on drums and cans. A few Bush supporters also were there, including a 17-year-old girl with “Storm” on her poster. Disannoyed jubilants and sign­ers gave the only evidence of the crowd that had marched up 14th Street Saturday on Saturday in one of two huge protests held across the country.

In San Francisco police esti­mated 30,000 people poured into the city’s Civic Center plaza Saturday, but organizers estimated the crowd at 225,000. In Wash­ington, police estimated anti-war crowds at 75,000; organizers said 200,000.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein had few supporters among the 200 Arab Americans, many of whom marched in the suburbs.

“We want to show the American people that there is opposition to Saddam Hussein, both inside Iraq and outside Iraq,” said Shabib Shunia, spokesman for the Iraqi American University.

Meanwhile, at the Congregation Shaarey Zedek in the suburban Southfield, Mich., a crowd of about 3,000 waved American and Israeli flags as speakers spoke of support for Israel.

A 23-mile-long yellow ribbon was tied around the Reno, Nev., area to show support for the troops. Twenty-three teams from the Western Nevada National Guard stretched a mile of ribbon on the ground at the same time.

The final ends of the ribbon were tied byivre Sorensen, a World War II veteran who won the Medal of Honor for throwing himself on a live grenade lobbed by the Japanese.

We have been divided before, but now is the time to stand behind our men 100 percent and hope they can come home safe,” Sorenson said.

An estimated 3,500 people turned out for a rally in St. Paul, Minn.

“Men and women serving in the gulf, we support your mis­sion. We know you’re not risk­ing life and limb simply for a can of oil. We know the stakes are much, much higher,” said Joseph Chase of Grand Rapids, an organizer of Patriots for Sup­port of Our Troops, which sponsored the rally.

Hundreds of flag-waving supporters lined a North Little Rock, Ark., street Sunday to give 270 members of the Na­tional Guard’s 212th Signal Battalion a rousing sendoff for their tour of duty.

In eastern Kentucky, hun­dreds of coal trucks, pickup trucks and cars snaked for miles through two counties. The caravan was met by hun­dreds of spectators who waved American flags and displayed support for the troops.

“We truckers just want to show our support in this small way of our president, of our troops and of the families back here,” said Roy Mullins, the caravan’s organizer.

ENVIRONMENTAL DISASTER IN THE GULF

Environmental experts said there was no way to stop a mammoth oil spill pouring from Iraqi-held Kuwait. The slick has already crept 70 miles south along the Saudi Arabian coast.

The oil slick threatens:

- Fresh water: Desert states on the Gulf’s southern shore depend on desalination to make it drinkable.
- Volatile chemicals: Many customers in the United Arab Emirates do not have him (Simon), said Sorenson. He said CBS also had brought him to Baghdad and apparently had been heading into occupied Kuwait.
- Health: Rain runoff containing residual oil will contaminate the water’s surface.
- Weather: The slick will affect weather patterns in the region.
- Wildlife: The slick will affect wildlife in the region.
- Refineries: The slick will affect refineries in the region.
- Fisheries: The slick will affect fisheries in the region.
- Coastal wetlands: The slick will affect coastal wetlands in the region.
- Port operations: The slick will affect port operations in the region.
- Tourism: The slick will affect tourism in the region.

Protests over rumored attempt to free Haitian coup leader leaves 10 dead

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Rumors of a plot to free the jailed leader of a Jan. 6 coup attempt provoked street violence Sunday that left at least 10 people dead and 14 wounded, according to independent radio reports.

The dead included four reputed agents of the ousted Duvalier family dictatorship lynched by a mob and six protesters shot by soldiers, the reports said.

Government and military officials denied there had been an attempt to free coup leader Roger Lafontant, who is being held for participation in the coup attempt.

Radio reports said the disturbances began before daybreak as barricades of flaming tires and debris in many sections of Port-au-Prince, capital of this impoverished nation of 6 million.

In suburban Carrefour, soldiers opened fire on an unruly crowd, killing at least six protesters, Radio Haiti Inter said. It listed 14 as wounded.

Witnesses said a police station was burned in Carrefour and that the Army opened fire on the crowd. One of the killed was a blind musician, organist Ulrick Pierre.

In a separate incident, Radio Metropole reported a mob lynched four men reportedly linked to the 29-year-old "Papa Doc" Duvalier dictatorship, which ended in 1986. It said the victims' bodies were burned.

By 7 a.m. EST, general calm was restored after the Army High Command and Port-au-Prince Mayor Evans Paul announced in separate broadcasts on state radio that rumors to free Lafontant were unfounded.

Paul said Paul Jean-Marie of the militant National Front for Change and Democracy, which nominated him for office, was stabbed in the back when he tried to persuade the mob to go home.

Students, a SUFR member said. The fact that there are so few minority professors, this member said, causes these professors to be "spread very thin" because so many minority students would like to take classes from them, do independent studies with them and have them as club advisors.

"If the University is truly committed to cultural diversity, then it will use all the resources at its disposal to maintain it. Minority professors are in demand; the University must compete to get minority faculty. The resources are available, but they are not evenly distributed on the part of the University to commit themselves to the effort," one SUFR member said.

The University is aware that there is a problem in the number of minority faculty on campus, said Provost Timothy O'Meara, but they believe this is a national one, not one specific to Notre Dame.

"As evidence of this shortage in minority faculty, O'Meara pointed to the number of individual who got their Ph.D.s in the Mathematics last year. There were 1,000 new mathematics Ph.D.s last year, but only forty, or 4 percent, were African-Americans, he said.

"At Notre Dame, I don't see a problem, not just at Notre Dame, but in the country," he said.

Pan Am refuses Iraqs on all flights

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways' reported ban on Iraqi passengers since war began in the Persian Gulf is discriminatory and violates the U.S. Constitution, an Arab-American leader said Saturday.

M. T. Mehdi, president of the American-Arab Relations Committee and the National Council on Islamic Affairs, said he has called on Pan Am to rescind the directive and apologize to Iraqis and Arab-Americans.

Since the war commenced last week, Pan Am has ordered its ground staffs to refuse all Iraqi nationals on domestic and international flights, reported The New York Times in Saturday's editions.

Quoting an unidentified Pan Am employee, the newspaper said the ban applied to Iraqi visitors as well as legal resident aliens in the United States.

Pan Am spokesperson Pamela Hanlon declined to discuss the airline's security measures.

Patriot rockets for Gulf war produced in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Electric generators for the Patriot rockets used in the Persian Gulf war are made by General Motors Corp.'s Allison Gas Turbine division in Indianapolis.

The Patriot rockets have been successful in intercepting Iraqi Scud missiles. Allison won the contract to build the generators in August 1980, said spokesperson Anthony Perona.

He would not comment on the exact number of generators Allison has built or if it has been asked to build more.

Raytheon Co. of Lexington, Mass., developed the Patriot as prime contractor for the U.S. Army.

The missile went into production in 1986, the same year Allison generator sets were ordered for the project.

The generator is based on an Allison engine developed in the 1970s. According to Perona, the Allison engine was developed as a turbine engine for trucks.

Although the use of engines in trucks never passed out, the generator was deemed suitable for the Patriot, he said.

Allison is principally known as a builder of turbine engines. These engines are typically used for commercial and military helicopters and airplanes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saudi Arabia will contribute $13.5 billion to help defray U.S. costs of the conflict with Iraq over Kuwait, Secretary of State James Baker announced Saturday night.

Baker said the contribution is for the first three months of the year. It follows pledges in the past week of $33.5 billion from the overthrown Kuwait government and $9 billion from Japan.

The contributions "clearly underscore the strength and determination of the coalition," Baker said, referring to the 31 nations who have united in an attempt to force Iraq to relinquish Kuwait.

Baker said the Saudi pledge is the amount requested by the Bush administration. Pledges from other nations are expected, he added.

He announced the Saudi pledge after meeting at the State Department with Soviet Foreign Minister Aleksandr Bessmertnykh.

President Bush said on Friday he was "very pleased with the cooperation and participation from foreign countries" in financing the war.

"The burden sharing is coming along pretty well," the president added.

Bush rushed U.S. troops to defend the Saudi oil fields after Iraq invaded Kuwait in August. Some members of Congress have questioned whether the Saudis had contributed enough in light of mounting profits from their oil production.

Last year, the Saudis contributed $3.5 billion in aid to nations such as Egypt and Syria that participated in Operation Desert Shield and $3 billion in U.S. support.

Baker and other Bush administration officials have defended the monarchy against accusations the Saudis were making windfall profits.

Saudi officials had indicated earlier that the kingdom would contribute about 40 percent of what the Bush administration intended to raise from wealthy countries.

Colt pistols set record price for American guns

NEW YORK (AP) — Two gold-inlaid pistols, one of them the mate to a gun given to the czar of Russia more than a century ago, were sold for a record $352,000, an auction house said.

The 1851-model pistols, made as show pieces at the Hartford, Conn., factory of gun maker Samuel Colt, were purchased Saturday by an anonymous London dealer, said Roberta Maneker, a spokeswoman for Christie's auction house.

They were sold by a British collector, who also did not want his name disclosed.

The price was a record for American guns sold at an auction, she said.

Lavishly decorated by engraver Gustave Young, they display the elaborate craftsmanship that was the trade-mark of Colt's pistols.

One of the two is the mate to a pistol that Colt presented to Czar Nicholas I of Russia in 1854.

It is engraved with intricate gold-inlaid scrolls. These intricate gold-inlaid scrolls illustrate wolves, eagles, and serpents. It also illustrates a reclining lion, dog and cat.

In 24 karat gold relief on the barrel are a goddess of liberty and a mounted American Indian aiming a revolver at a buffalo.

The Nicholas I revolver is presently in the Hermitage museum in Leningrad.

The end of Eastern

Eastern Airlines tickets agents, Melanie Smith, left, and Tina Hirsh commiserated on the loss of their jobs at Hartfield Atlanta International Airport. The airline suspended operations at midnight Friday.

Saudia Arabia will contribute billions in an attempt to defray U.S. war costs

Overall, the Gulf war is expected to cost anywhere between $26 billion and $36 billion, according to the Congressional Budget Office.

The contributions of all Gulf countries last year totaled $12 billion, including $5 billion from Kuwait.

Baker spent much of the past week trying to line up additional financial support for the war effort. In the past week alone, he conferred first twice with the ambassadors of Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.

The administration also has asked Germany for a substantial increase in its 1990 contribution of $2.2 billion. Chancellor Helmut Kohl said his country "will continue to do everything it can" to support the anti-Iraq coalition.

The war is estimated to cost at least an estimated $600 million a day, according to U.S. officials. That figure would skyrocket if the United States sends ground combat troops into Kuwait.

Bishop's crusade against Medjugorje is scandalous

In 1984, Bishop Pavao Zanic, Ordinary of the diocese of Mostar, which includes the village of Medjugorje, spread throughout the Church incorrect information regarding the reported apparitions in Medjugorje. On May 2, 1986, in an unprecedented move by church authorities, jurisdiction for ruling on the reported apparitions in Medjugorje was taken out of the hands of Msgr. Pavao Zanic.

But Bishop Zanic wasn't stopped. Fourteen months later, on July 25, 1987, with a miter and crosier from the altar of St. James in Medjugorje, he declared, "I am by divine right the lowest place in Hell!"

On Jan. 5, 1991, Vienna-based Medjugorje Gebetskaktion found it necessary to issue a Reaction to the "Katrewsp" report of Jan. 3, 1991, "Bishops: Medjugorje. 'Bishops: Supernatural.' The following emerges from information received from the secretariat of the Yugoslavian Bishops' Conference and from several members of the investigating commission that is responsible for the events in Medjugorje.

1. "As of this date, the investigating commission has offered no definitive judgement concerning the supernatural character of the events in Medjugorje."

2. "The investigating commission is charged by the bishops' conference to continue further with its work."

3. "The secretariat of the bishops' conference has taken no position on the events in Medjugorje. It is astonished and is asking itself how it could happen that the Italian news agency ANSA could have come by such information."

From an interview with Cardinal Kuharic on Croatian T.V. on Dec. 29, 1990, one can conclude that the Yugoslavian bishops' conference—including the Cardinal personally—is taking a positive stance towards the events in Medjugorje. Kuharic said, "It appears that certain circles are in very much of a hurry to distribute incorrect reports concerning Medjugorje within the public mind, and by this to create a prejudice before the official report of the Yugoslavian bishops' conference becomes known. Through this, apparently, confusion is supplied. I support the bishops so as to render more difficult a possible positive decision."

The theme for the June 14-16, 1991 National Conference on Medjugorje at the University of Notre Dame in America is, "You will know them by their fruits." Our Lord's words apply to Bishop Zanic as well. His recent actions have once again degraded the episcopal office.

It is scandalous that Bishop Zanic doesn't take his responsibilities more seriously. Last February, I spent an hour and a half with him. Our discussion was videotaped. In answer to my plea, "It would show great openness on the part of Your Excellency if you would come to Medjugorje and pray during a reported apparition," he responded, "I've them on video tape. I don't need to go to Medjugorje."

This attitude is particularly interesting in light of a recent statement in Medjugorje Gebetskation, which is periodically translated into seventeen languages and published throughout the world by Msgr. Paul Hrujica, S.J., Auxiliary Bishop of Rome. "When I speak with people who doubt about Medjugorje then I always counsel them, 'Come and see!' This is the answer that the Savior also gave once. I myself have often been in Medjugorje for I see it as my obligation to form my own judgment. Concerning no other pilgrimage site do people speak so much about today as Medjugorje. Both sides, for and against, can have certain reasons. As bishop, in order to know where the truth is I must scrutinize it closely, all the more so because the church has not yet spoken any judgment concerning it officially, and already millions of people from all over the world are making pilgrimages there. Therefore, I, myself, go there, for when one sees a thing up close he can better judge concerning it. I find that each bishop (who, of course, is the guardian of the faith), should go there in order to form for himself a judgment, with all the possibilities of checking and investigating. "Is it true, or not?" When he is there with the heart and the eyes open, then he has to come to the conclusion: It is genuine!

The Observer reported that two personal ads in its Dec. 14 edition that seemed to be directed at lesbian and gay students. The ads appeared to have been written by someone who was looking for a partner, though the text was unclear due to the nature of the ads. The ads were discussed in the context of the growing visibility and acceptance of LGBTQ+ communities, with a focus on the importance of understanding and respecting diversity.

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

In my opinion, the ads published in the December issue of The Observer were not in line with the principles of inclusivity and equality that Notre Dame espouses. These ads, which were advertised in the campus newspaper, targeted specific interests, which can be exclusionary and potentially harmful to certain groups. Such ads discourage open discussion and inclusivity, which are critical components of a diverse and inclusive community.

As an advocate for equal rights and inclusivity, I urge the editorial board to consider the impact of their decisions on the well-being of the entire student body. It is essential to ensure that all students feel safe and supported, regardless of their identity or orientation.

Ordinarily, the phrases "high adventure" and "fine dining" do not seem compatible. However, there are always exceptions, and Hana Yori of Japan is one of those instances.

Located at 3601 Grape Road, just south of Edison, Hana Yori is a large coo king area on the ground where we are served. It is a large gong which is struck by the chef himself, to signal the start of the meal.

"There is... a small river you must cross before being seated, and a three foot golden statue of Buddha that greets you at the door."

is not just dinner, it is an experience. The decor is what you would expect from a Japanese restaurant—the waitresses wear kimono, the walls are covered with screens, and there are covered with screens, and there is a large gung which is struck periodically. There is also a small river you must cross before being seated, and a three foot golden statue of Buddha that greets you at the door.

Even with reservations, we waited almost half an hour before being seated. It was worth the wait. There are eight people seated in a horseshoe around the table. In the center is a large cooking area on which the dinner is prepared. The entrees include steak, chicken and seafood, alone or in combination. Included with each entree is soup and salad, shrimp appetizer, vegetables, rice and green tea. Prices range from $9.95 to $19.95 per entree.

Each course was delicious, especially the appetizer, which consisted of shrimp covered in "Japanese Cheese Whiz." We tried the steak and the chicken and shrimp combination. Both entrees were fabulous, as were the accompanying vegetables and rice.

But the highlight of the meal was watching the dinner be prepared. The chef brings a cart to the table and cooks everything in front of you. Knives are flying, flames are shooting, shrimp tails are soaring. It is quite a show. The chef himself was also entertaining. He tried several times to sell us a complete set of Ginsu knives, only slightly used.

If the preparation doesn't sound like enough of an adventure, there is always the sushi bar to try. It has a fairly extensive menu, including several kinds of fish, octopus, eel and something called a "Michiana Roll." Each sushi order is two pieces and costs from $3 to $4.

Minnesota is cold.

It's so cold that they don't even bother issuing weather advisories anymore. One step outside gives you all of the advice you need. Go Back. Need-less to say, it cuts down the number of ways you can burn time during vacations. Water-slides, for instance, just aren't an option.

So we shop. We do it in groups or alone in large heated shopping malls. And we do it often. Mostly, we buy cold weather clothes, but that's not all, of course. We shop for everything and anything. As a result, almost every native Minnesotan gets very, very good at it.

I, alas, am one of the excep-tions. My whole life I've been something of a fashion illiter-ate. Even with all that practice shopping, I never really quite developed the knack.

Which is not always the best way to be at Notre Dame.

A fresh friend of mine once said to me, "Chuck, ya know, this sounds bad, but you've gotta like ND because people, like, know what brand names are." She looked down at my shoes and was embarrassed until she read "Reebok" through the grille.

Now I've always been some-one who believed you shouldn't always go with the crowd. Dress how you want to dress. Act how you want to act. You know, be yourself.

But though my old Reeboks were just plain comfortable, our conversation drove home the fact that they were also just plain ugly.

So one especially frigid day (I'm talking 40 below here, no lie), my brother and I got the car started and went to the mall. My previously ladackadical attitude towards fashion footwear was about to change dramatically. We marched into Footlocker with a mission.

The sales guy in the black-striped shirt took one look at my old, beat-up shoes and smirked.

"Little did he know, I didn't know exactly what kind of shoes I wanted."

I decided to just Do It. The results are awesome.

No longer do I need to change shoes when I switch from basketball to tennis. Or soccer to football. Or jai alai to squash.

The guys in the dorm were impressed. Timm wanted to know if my new shoes "like eat up" those kind of results.

And it wasn't long after I bought my new Crostrainers that I began to improve in all kinds of sports. You don't even need to be wearing them to realize the benefits, as my recent 210 bowling score shows. So I highly recommend Crostraining to all of my friends. I mean, you just can't explain away those kind of results.

It's Gotta Be the Shoes.

to get the guy in the right frame of mind, I said, "Take me to the Jordans." His eyes lit up like the score-board behind him. Here was a customer to be reckoned with. On a long shot I hedged our bet to the Reebok Pump depart-ment where even a single sale is a commissioned employees' dream.

The Reebok Pump is a combi-

Irish matem capture National Championships title

Surfing on a wave of confidence, the Notre Dame wrestling team hosted and ran away with the 1991 National Catholic Championships yesterday at the A.C.C.

The Irish, who amassed 124.575 total points en route to their fourth consecutive Catholic Championship, placed 11 men in the field of nine teams, followed by John Carroll (114.5), Marquette (113.75), Manhattan College (107.25), LaSalle (25.0), Boston College (21.75), St. John's (11.5), Marist (8.0), and Dayton (7.75).

"Our goal was to be relaxed and have fun," stated Notre Dame head coach Frank McCann, who was named Catholic Coach of the Year at the conclusion of the meet. "I believe we accomplished that goal. We executed really well. We had a great sentiment value inside. If found, please call Erin at x1458."

The long day of wrestling was over, and McCann, as freshman Chris Jensen battled his way through the 118-pound bracket to win the championship. He is set to overtake senior Nick Salata of John Carroll.

"The little goal sets the tone," said McCann, referring to Jensen. "Chris really showed his composure, especially in overtime."

At 126 pounds, Notre Dame junior Marcus Gowens continued his season-long rampage of excellence, as he pinned LaSalle's Chris Shalbert at the 3:48 mark to seize first place.

Senior Mark Gerardi surpassed the 100 career victory mark en route to winning the 167-pound division. Gerardi, whose 167-pound division is the eight most of nine Irish collegiate winners, won the championship with a pin of LaSalle's Brian Mahoney (1.58), a 4-3 decision over John Carroll's Josh Smith, and a 12-8 downing of Marquette's Bill Kumprey.

J.J. McGrew, a freshman from Cleveland, Oklahoma, also continued to impress onlookers as he blazed his way through the 134-pound bracket to score an impressive 20-9 major decision in the championship match.

Irish meet early-season goals at Western Michigan

By HUGH MUNDY
Sports Writer

Going into Saturday's meet at Western Michigan University, the Notre Dame men's track team had two objectives - be competitive and stay healthy. By posting numerous creditable performances while escaping injury during a day marred by several spills and accidents, the team managed to achieve its objectives.

Irish head coach Tim Connelly, however, was not elated about his squad's efforts.

"Some of the younger sprinters ran pretty well," he noted. "They took advantage of the chance to gain experience. A lot of guys didn't compete as well as I would have liked. The season is too short to waste opportunities."

Notre Dame returns home next week for the Meyo Invitational, a meet which features several outstanding teams and individuals from across the United States.

Belles come back to down Albion 76-71

BY CHRIS BACON
Saint Mary's sports editor

In an exciting second-half comeback effort Saturday afternoon, the Saint Mary's basketball team got back on the winning track, upsetting visiting Albion College, 76-71.

Junior guard Janet Libbing, playing on a hurt ankle, led the Belles (8-5) with 27 points, grabbing 10 rebounds and capturing seven steals. Albion (6-9) was led by guard Richelle Rickey's 23 points and nine rebounds.

Albion grabbed control early in the first half, racing to an 8-0 lead. Costly turnovers hurt the Belles as Albion extended its lead to 15 with 1:50 to go in the half, 37-22. Just before halftime, Libbing sank a three-pointer to cut the Belles' deficit in 37-25 at the intermission.

"They (Albion) came to play," said Belles head coach Mary Wood. "That is the best thing an opposing coach can say. They are aggressive and they have the best blocking on the boards I have seen all year. They are a good ball club and they took us out of our game," explained Libbing. "We didn't play as a team and we got discouraged."

The Belles returned to action Saturday night.

The 1991 MCAT Will Be An All New, Completely Revised Test.

Stanley H. Kaplan Is Ready.

Students planning on applying to medical school will be facing a completely revised Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) starting in April 1991. The Association of American Medical Colleges has announced that the new MCAT will measure a broader range of skills.

Fortunately, the test makers aren't the only ones making changes. Stanley H. Kaplan, the first name in MCAT prep, has already designed a brand new course to help students get ready for the brand new test. All our lessons, home-study notes, practice tests, and review will reflect the latest MCAT format and content.

Does Kaplan preparation work? Over HALF the students in medical school today are Kaplan alumni! New test? No problem.

Henke wins Phoenix Open

PHOENIX (AP) — Nolan Henke rolled in an 18-foot birdie putt on the final hole Sunday, ending a back-nine collapse and giving him a one-stroke victory over Curtis Strange, Tom Watson and Gil Morgan in the Phoenix Open.

Henke, whose only previous victory in three years on the PGA Tour was in last year's B.C. Open, finished with an even-par 71 and a 16-under total of 268.

The victory was worth $180,000, more than half of what the 26-year-old Henke earned last season.

Morgan and Strange both bogeyed the 18th hole to fall to 15 under with Watson, winner of 32 tour events since 21978 Nabebo Championship.

Watson became the early clubhouse leader with a 65 featuring birdies on five of the last six holes.

Morgan shot a 66 andStrange a 67 on the 6,992-yard TPC course.

Swim teams take two on the road

Women handle both Vikings and Bonnies with ease

By BECKY WOOD

The Notre Dame women's swim team proved its power on the road this Bonaventure by downing both Cleveland State (191-105) and St. Bonaventure (151-141) within less than twenty hours.

As expected, the Vikings raced significantly faster than in years past, but Irish depth controlled the meet Friday night. Notre Dame won both relays and nine of eleven individual swimming races with nine different swimmers. Diver Jenny Kipp recorded two wins in both the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events.

In Saturday's meet against St. Bonaventure, the Irish women met the Bonnie challenge head-on by winning more close races and scoring maximum depth points. Although Notre Dame won only seven of fourteen individual events, the Irish scored six seconds, twelve thirds, seven fourths and won two of three places in both relays.

"The meet was every bit as intense, competitive, and challenging as we thought it'd be," said Head Coach Tim Welsh. "It was a real tribute to how much St. Bonaventure has improved."

Welsh was pleased with sophomore Tara Williams' "tremendous versatility."

"We were able to ask her to race where we needed points," he said.

Williams won both the 100 butterfly and 200 individual medley, beating St. Bonaventure's university record holders. Both other winners were freshmen Allison Feehery (100 and 200 freestyles) and junior Shanna Stephens (100 and 200 backstrokes).

Freshman Kristin Heath captured the 200 butterfly crown with second place.

In the pool the Irish depth and versatility kept everyone fresh.

"Being able to race different line ups in both meets, is key for planning. It's very demanding and effective championship meet preparation," Welsh said.

"This weekend's results mark a big step up for us. We're learning a lot about racing...we enjoyed winning."

with 1:49 remaining. Stith scored seven points in the final 32 seconds and Notre Dame could manage just one Bennett free throw as the advantage slipped to 66-64.

Bennett added another free throw with 25 seconds remaining, but Stith answered by slogging the lane for a dunk to cut the margin to 67-66. When Stith hit his free throw with seven seconds left, it was the first Notre Dame lead since a 17-15 advantage with 12:46 left in the first half.

Notre Dame built its biggest lead of the game at 33-21 late in the first half. Virginia scored eight of the last 10 points of the half to trail 32-21 at the half.

Irish coach Digger Phelps lamented, "I think he scored every time he touched the ball. That's taking the game over." Virginia coach Jeff Jones did not seem surprised at his star's performance. He thought that the Irish foul trouble late in the game had a lot to do with Stith's success driving to the hoop.

"He just made up his mind he was going to score," Jones said. "They put Bryant Stith in one-on-one situations on our offensive end, and with them trying not to foul, he took advantage.

Indeed, Stith's scoring run did come after 6:11 Irish center Keith Towler fouled out with 1:52 left to play, leaving freshmen men Jon and Joe Ross to do the job inside. With Towler's sizeable presence absent from the middle of Notre Dame's zone defense, Stith found himself a home right in front of the basket.

"Towler's a big body," Stith said, "and Jon Ross and his brother just aren't as strong inside yet."

'It didn't matter what defense the Irish used."

"He just really went after it," Phelps said. "We played a 1-3-1 zone, a 2-3 zone, and a man-to-man, but we just couldn't stop him."

'Strangely enough, Stith, who was averaging 20.2 points per game coming in, didn't rank this performance as the best of his career.

'This is definitely one of my top performances this year," Stith said, "but last year's game against Wake Forest was pretty good."

In that one, Stith poured in 37 points in a 71-70 overtime triumph. Jones realizes that he has a valuable commodity on his hands, somebody who wants the ball in close games when it counts.

"Sometimes, when our backs are against the wall, he just takes over," Jones marveled.

Stith's performance at the end of the game was especially important to the Cavaliers because the Irish star had the Irish did on Virginia guard John Crotty. Crotty, who was in foul trouble throughout the game, scored just 11 points - none in the second half.

So although Notre Dame managed to virtually shut down Virginia's top two threats throughout the first 37:36 of the game, Stith's performance sunk the Irish once again, saddling them with perhaps their most disappointing loss.

Oilers defeat Winnipeg 3-2

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Kelly Buchberger's first goal of the season with 1:40 remaining in the third period gave the Edmonton Oilers a 3-2 victory over the Winnipeg Jets on Sunday.

Buchberger converted a perfect pass from Ken Linseman, just four minutes after Linseman had tied the score. Craig Simpson also scored for the Oilers.

Randy Carlyle and Ed Olczyk scored for the Jets, who had a three-game winning streak snapped.

Two of the three previous games between the Oilers and Jets went into overtime — including a 1-0 Winnipeg victory and a 3-3 tie.

The Oilers opened the scoring on their first shot 5:46 into the game after Simpson stripped goalie Bob Essensa of the puck, swept around the goal and converted into an empty net.

But Winnipeg tied the score before the first period ended. Carlyle's shot kicked the point the net while Jets winger Paul MacCarell lay top of Edmonton goalie Bill Ranford at 16:42.

Olczyk put the Jets ahead with a power-play goal at 11:22 of the third period, deftly flipping a shot between Ranford's pads, but Linseman tied it with a deflection at 14:34.

Flames 5, Sabres 4

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Al MacInnis broke a 3-3 tie in the third period and Doug Gilmour added what proved to be the deciding goal on Sunday as the Calgary Flames beat the Buffalo Sabres 5-4.

Buffalo had overcome a 3-1

Calgary lead on goals by Dean Kennedy in the second period and by Alexander Mogilny at 1:25 of the third.

MacInnis' 19th goal of the year at 6:49 came two seconds after the expiration of Theoren Fleury's penalty for slashing. MacInnis took a drop pass from Joel Otto and drove a 30-footer past Buffalo goalie Darren Puppa.

The victory ended a three-game winning streak for the Flames and snapped Calgary's six-game road losing streak.

Bruins 3, Canadiens 1

MONTREAL (AP) — Ray Bourque scored 12:30 into the third period and Ken Hodge scored into an empty net with 11 seconds left Sunday as the Boston Bruins beat the Montreal Canadiens 3-1.

Montreal, already hard by injuries, lost goaltender Patrick Roy to a sprained left knee at 3:16 of the second period.

Dave Christian gave Boston the lead at 13:27 of the first period when he tied the score with a power-play goal at 12:19 of the second.

Columbus 5, Islanders 4

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Kelly Miller scored the winning goal of the game, with 39 seconds left in regulation, capped a rare come-back victory for the Capitals.

Ken Sabourin's first goal of the season with 10:26 left in the third period, tied the score after Miller had pulled the Capitals to a 5-4 lead.

Derek King scored two goals and Brent Sutter had three assists for the Islanders, 0-4 against the Capitals this season.

Washington is 2-4-1 over its last seven games.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dikembe Mutombo scored 21 of his 23 points in the second half with No. 17 Pittsburgh’s entire frontcourt in foul trouble and No. 21 Georgetown rallied from a 16-point deficit to upset the Panthers 83-78 Sunday.

The Hoyas (12-5), winning their fourth straight over Pittsburgh, trailed by as many as 11 points in the second half, but rallied after Pitt’s leading scorer, Brian Shorter, fouled out with 6:20 to play. Shorter had 24 points and 14 rebounds.

In a physical game in which the teams were called for a Big East conference record 61 fouls, while three other Panthers had four or more fouls. Georgetown lost Robert Churchwell to fouls and four other Hoyas had four or more.

Pitt led 67-66 when Shorter left, but the Hoyas — with the 7-2 Mutombo and 6-10 Alonzo Mourning roaming at will around the basket — later went on a 10-1 run capped by Mutombo’s jam for a 76-71 lead.

Gandhi Jordan’s four-point play, a 3-pointer and free throw, cut the Hoyas’ lead to 80-78 with 28 seconds left, but Joey Brown made one of two free throws with one second remaining to give North Carolina an 86-85 lead.

Pittsburgh had 24 points and 14 rebounds. Jason Matthews had 15 points and Darelle Porter 14 for Pitt. Charles Harrison had 16 points and Brown 10 for the Hoyas, who had lost three of their previous five overall.

Georgia Tech 88, No. 7 North Carolina 86

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Malcolm Mackey converted a three-point play with three seconds left Sunday and Georgia Tech rallied from a 16-point deficit to upset seventh-ranked North Carolina 86-86.

Mackey scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half as the Yellow Jackets (12-5, 4-2 Atlantic Coast Conference) snapped a five-game losing streak in the Smith Center and won their first game at Chapel Hill since the 1984-85 season.

North Carolina took two timeouts after Mackey’s points. After the second, George Lynch sneezed a low pass to Rick Fox, who dribbled from the right wing along the baseline and banked in a short jumper. But referee Rick Hartzell waved off the basket, ruling it came after the final buzzer.

The Tar Heels, (14-3, 3-2) led 56-40 after two free throws by Hubert Davis with 17.35 remaining. From there, the Georgia Tech rally began with a three-pointer by Jon Barry at 16:45. Lynch got a layup, but the Yellow Jackets responded with a 19-1 run and led 62-59 after Bryan Hill’s dunk with 12:09 left.

The lead changed hands five more times after that. Fox made two free throws with 11 seconds remaining to give North Carolina an 86-85 lead.

Barry finished with 20 points for Georgia Tech, Geiger had 17 and Kenny Anderson 14. Fox had 20, Lynch added 16, Pete Chilcutt scored 15 and Davis and King Rice scored 11 each for the Tar Heels.

Giants capture 2nd Super Bowl in last 5 years

New York wins NFL title 20-19 as Buffalo cannot match Giants' last-second magic TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The New York Giants left the Buffalo Bills in the dust and history books Monday night with a last-second field goal.

The Giants had the ball for 40-33, leaving the Buffalo offense on the field for only 19:27. One hero of a game in which the lead changed hands four times was 33-year-old Ottis Anderson, who picked the most important game of his career to notch his first 100-yard game this season — 21 carries for 102 yards. He went in on the one for a touchdown to cap the third quarter drive. Anderson was selected the game's most valuable player.

"It's easy to run behind a group that blocks like that," Anderson said. "We knew we could put some points on the board. We tried to control the clock. They did some things early that hurt us, but we were able to come back.

Another hero for New York was Jeff Hostetler, the backup quarterback who directed the New York offense almost impeccably, running his career record to 7-0 as a starter. He completed 20 of 32 for 222 yards and Bryant Shaw in a 14-yard pass to Stephen Baker.

The Giants had the ball without a first down on the Bills' opening drive but not without a first down in the second, the Giants won the second Super Bowl by beating the Bills 20-19 when Scott Norwood missed a 47-yard field goal with 2.09 seconds left.

The winning points in the closest Super Bowl in history came on Matt Bahr's 21-yard field goal with 7:20 left in the game.

But the game was really won by New York's ball control offense, which moved the ball 87 yards to a touchdown just before the half to cut a 12-3 deficit to 12-10, then held the ball for nearly 10 minutes to set up Bahr's 28-yard field goal with 3:29 left.

Buffalo tied it 1:23 later on Norwood's 23-yard field goal. But the Giants did just what they aimed to do — control the ball.

They drove nearly 10 minutes to start the second half to take a 17-12 lead.

Stith's hercules in crunch time stave off upset for Cavaliers

With 6:33 remaining in the game, Irish center Keith Tschupp towered a short baseline jumper to open a 67-64 lead for Notre Dame.

Everything was going right for 6-5 senior Bryant Stith, who was signed to forward by Franti Syntisti made up his mind to change all that. The 6-5 senior scored the Cavaliers' last 13 points in the third quarter drive. Anderson was selected the game's most valuable player.

"It was a tough game to lose. This should have a lot of pride. These kids played their hearts out against a Top 20 team. We just didn't finish it," Daimon Sweet and Elmer Bennett scored 21 points each to lead Notre Dame, while Tim Singleton added 12. Stith tallied a game-high 26 points for the Cavaliers, and Kenny Turner tossed in 14 points including two-three-pointers.

The Irish had a one-point lead and the ball out of bounds under Virginia's basket with 11 seconds left when Singleton overthrew a streaking Sweet at the opposite end of the court.

"We were playing up on us and we wanted to keep long," Singleton said. "He (Sweet) had a couple of times on the goal but I just overthrew him.

The Cavaliers then inbounded to Stith, who was fouled by Singleton. He connected on free throws for the one-point Virginia lead.

The Irish had seven seconds remaining, but Brooks Young stepped on the left sideline while pushing the ball upcourt. Virginia turned over Notre Dame the ball with one second left, and the Irish could not get off a shot.

Notre Dame accomplished its 49 lead for Notre Dame, while Tim Singleton added 12. Stith tallied a game-high 26 points for the Cavaliers, and Ken Turner tossed in 14 points including two-three-pointers.
