At a press conference Thursday evening, Students United for Respect (SUFR) announced that Michael Nelson, national college and youth coordinator for the National Network for Human Rights, will speak on the Advancement of Colored People (SNCC) and visit the Notre Dame campus today to conduct "a fact-finding mission.

SUFR member Fred Tombar said that Nelson, who was contacted by the Notre Dame branch of NAACP, will meet with student leaders and with University President Father Edward Malloy.

Reading from a prepared statement, Tombar also said that SUFR submitted a proposal for third party arbitration to Malloy on Thursday.

Nine members of SUFR met with President Joseph Blanco, Father Richard Warner, counselor to the President's Office, and Roland Smith, executive assistant to the President.

Blanco said that although the group did not come to any real agreement at the meeting, "they came to a better understanding of why they couldn't get to any agreement."

At the meeting, SUFR member Joe Wilson said the coalition called for direct negotiations, which he defined as "an active stance toward meeting the demands of the SUFR group.

In a statement Thursday, Malloy said that the group should be granted official recognition by the University, that minority students will express their view of the statement to the administration granted official recognition.

However, at last night's meeting, Wilson said, Malloy said that he was "unwilling to negotiate" with SUFR, even if the group was granted official recognition.

Therefore, Tombar said, SUFR will set apply for recognition as an official student organization because, he said, official recognition would be "useless" to the coalition's cause.

At the end of the meeting, Tombar said, both students and the administration agreed to consider "an alternative method of resolution."

As an alternative, Tombar said, SUFR gave to Blanco a letter at 2 p.m. Thursday to be delivered to Malloy. The letter requested the administration to allow "a third-party arbitrator to aid in resolving the present predicament," according to Tombar.

The letter requested a response from Malloy by 3 p.m. today. Tombar said he feels optimistic that Malloy will accept the proposal for the arbitrator, calling it "a less confrontative method of resolution."

However, Tombar said that if Malloy does decline the proposal, "we will investigate other options."

Tombar stressed that SUFR is an open coalition of students from varying ethnic backgrounds, who are committed to enriching the cultural diversity of the University.

Tombar said that SUFR does not plan to hold any more events like the sit-in held at the Registrar's Office Wednesday.

"We really regret that things had to come to that level in order to get the Administration's attention to focus on these issues," he added.

Prepping for the Regatta

Students got a chance to sharpen up their sailing techniques Thursday on Saint Mary's Lake, in time for the upcoming Fisher Regatta. However, students participating in the Fisher Regatta Saturday will have a greater challenge—they'll be operating boats they've constructed themselves out of wacky materials ranging from plastic coke bottles to beach balls.

Minority visitation weekend begins today

By MONICA VANT

Approximately 100 students of color who have been accepted to the University will visit today through Sunday as part of the Office of Undergraduate Admissions Spring Visitation Weekend for minority students.

This is the fifth year for the visitation weekend, according to Michael Swanson, Notre Dame sophomore and a recruitment coordinator in the Admissions office.

The weekend is designed to "allow those that might not be able to make the visit" to view Notre Dame, and to "help them decide what to look for in a college," he said.

Approximately 65-80 percent of the students who participated in the visitation weekend over the last five years enrolled in the University, according to Mike James, assistant director of Undergraduate Admissions.

One-hundred-fifty admitted students from across the country were invited to attend the weekend, which is all expenses paid for the visitors.

Costs for travel, housing, meals, and activities is part of the budget for Undergraduate Admissions, according to Laura Brown, recruitment coordinator and Notre Dame junior.

Brown said that the main goal for the weekend is to present a realistic picture of life at Notre Dame to prospective students.

"We're trying to make things as realistic as possible," she said, "and to incorporate activities that most Notre Dame students would do."

A schedule planned for the weekend include watching the movie, "Dances with Wolves," a dance in Theodoric's, and bowling, she said.

Part of making realistic with the visitors is alerting them about the concerns being expressed by current minority students, according to Brown and Swanson.

They said they do not believe Wednesday's sit-in by members of Students United for Respect (SUFR) will adversely affect the chances of the visiting students attending Notre Dame. Many of the hosts and hostesses for the visitors are members of SUFR, which is "fine" according to Swanson.

Swanson said he and Brown are asking the student hosts to "be honest" with the visitors about the current status of minority students at the University.

But Swanson stressed that being honest does not mean telling only one side of the story.

"We're not trying to hide anything from the students," he said.

Brown added that she hopes minority students will express their positive aspects of their experience at ND. "I know that there can be changes made, but there are still minority students here that are happy," said Brown.

Today, the students will meet with administrators, rectors and rectresses to discuss student and resident life. University President Father Edward Malloy will also speak with the student visitors, Brown said.

"He's always been really enthusiastic about speaking with the students," she said of Malloy's past experience with the program.

Student visitors will also have an opportunity to meet with all of the ethnic organizations on campus, as well as representatives from ROTC, the chemical engineering, Campus Ministry, and Students for Environmental Action.

"We feel that it is an important part of the weekend to let the students know that they should get involved...that they can be changes made, but there are still minority students here that are happy," said Brown.

Championship sacrificed to flashy chalking

With the 1990 football season long since forgotten and the 1991 team beginning to take shape, it is time to take an honest look at our team; it is up to myself to address a serious controversy surrounding this program.

In 1990, Notre Dame went 9-2-1, finishing well below the expectations of the team, the students, and, in turn, the entire world.

Analysts have picked through the rubble of the season in attempts to discover why Raghib Ismail failed to bring home the Heisman Trophy (obviously an over-rated, bogus, composite of all the problems encountered by the Notre Dame football team in 1990. The evil spirits procured by each flaky ND system contributed to the two home losses — the first in three years. Notre Dame's defense, lead by All-American Frank Burns, failed to catch a pass for a game-winning touchdown in the final seconds of the Stanford game, as he was standing directly over the blinding interlocking ND.

In turn, miracles happened opposite the end zone NDs. For example, Adrian Jarrell caught the go-ahead touchdown to win over Michigan and Greg Davis (Clipping?) an absolutely preposterous claim forced the 'Canes toumble in the final minutes on the side opposite the NDs. Why next? Increase the size of the stadium by erecting orange scaffolding, n-a the Vol-dom? A giant green leprechaun stretching between the 30-yard lines? Kelly green clovers on the helmets for good work? Newly-painted jerseys? The institution of a full-scale passing game? I want heads. Those responsible for this mockery should be proclaimed a true 'Cane and never be allowed to step onto the hallowed grounds of the Notre Dame stadium ever again. The NDs in the end zones must be removed and primitive end zone chalkings must be instituted.

We cannot allow the tradition of the football program, the stadium, the University and traditions fostered by legends like Rockne and Leahy, to be defiled.

Leckey stresses courage in women

By LYNN O'DONNELL
News Writer

Creativity must have structure, Dolores Leckey said in the seventh annual Madeleva Lecture in Spirituality at Saint Mary's College Thursday.

In her discussion of "Women in Creativity," Leckey stressed that women must have the courage to move ahead in the midst of despair.

She is both an author and executive director of the Secretariat for Laity and Family Life for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCD).

Leckey stated hard work and preparation are the structure that will facilitate creativity. Leckey downplayed ambition and stressed generosity as key ingredients and is ever-changing with the different fabrics. She concluded that the quilt as a symbol of life can take many shapes and forms.

In Leckey's discussion of the women's movement, she called upon Florence Nightingale to illustrate the need to go beyond the boundaries of social restrictions. "Men would ask, 'Why do women fail?'" Nightingale replied, "Nonsense, they're bored to death."

Leckey invited the women of the historical parlors to join the woman's movement of today. She implored women to immerse themselves in caring for the earth, building better communication between men and women and adding the plight of the children.

Leckey concluded by saying that self-direction and courage will be useful to women of today, who "are studying in Boston, Berkeley and I dare say South Bend."

There is a "huge untapped reservoir of strength" of Americans supporting traditional family values, according to Philip Lawler, director of public affairs for the Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights.

Lawler regrets that the movement which was apparently successful in the early eighties with the "Reagan revolution" has suffered several setbacks in accomplishing its goals.

Lawler's lecture, "Toward Building a Family Rights Movement" describes these supporters as "traditional" or "family" values as Americans who, "are looking to preserve their birth rights. They feel that those which they cherished are being taken away."

These supporters were spurred into action by the witness of "our culture changing dramatically for the worse." Lawler cited three reasons for the setbacks in the "pro-family movement," as Lawler prefers to call it, however, more commonly known as the "traditional values movement."

"The first problem was we didn't get the payoff from our politicians" who were elected on our issues, said Lawler, most notably the politicians associated with "the Reagan revolution."

"Our second mistake was we paid too much attention to the national picture, and not enough on the local level," said Lawler.

"The third problem was the people of the movement are not the classic political types by nature," comments Lawler. Rather, they are "ordinary people who play with their kids at night."

In addition, Lawler feels that outside sources have hurt the movement's success. Lawler claimed that the media portrays the "pro-family rights" movement as radical. He claimed many news reporters covering the abortion issue are active pro-life supporters and have "clear conflict of interest."

He also said that the police brutality toward peaceful operation rescue demonstrators is not properly publicized by the press.

To prove his point, Lawler referred to a recent "American United for Life" poll, which ascertained that most Americans feel that Pro-lifers are radical, while at the same time holding the same views as the pro-life movement. He explained this dichotomy on the press' treatment of their movement.

Lawler also noted many traditional family value issues, the most controversial was abortion. He said, "Everyone knows life begins at conception. It's human life. It's not going to be a grade."

In reference to prayer in school, he said, "think of all you can do in school, but you can't pray."

Lawler also investigated the issue of separation of church and state. He expects that "in the future you'll see a great debate on what should children be taught in school? Education is fundamentally religious."

Lawler said that the "pro-family movement" could succeed in the future if the individuals supporting the movement "combine political savvy and the spiritualism that moved them in the first place." He also emphasized the importance of the local level. He added that the movement must be "grass-roots" based in order for it to succeed.

Lawler's lecture was sponsored by the Student Union Board.
David Link, Joseph A. Mason Dean of the University of Notre Dame Law School, will receive the Howard Kenna, C.S.C. Award for service to the University and the Congregation of Holy Cross.

"David Link's contributions to the University and to the Holy Cross Community are as numerous as they are significant," said University President Father Edward H. Malloy. "He has been a creative dean and administrator, a driving force behind the University's involvement in the Center for the Homeless, and a trusted friend and advisor."

A member of the Notre Dame faculty since 1970, Link has been dean of the University's Law School since 1975. He is Notre Dame's longest serving dean and second in seniority among American law deans.

In September, 1990, he was named inaugural president of the University of Notre Dame Alumni Association. He is the first Catholic university in that country. He will begin a leave of absence from the law school in July to take up residence in Fremantle, Western Australia, the site of the NDA campus.

Link graduated from Notre Dame in 1958 and received his law degree from the University in 1961. Before joining the Notre Dame faculty, he worked in the Kennedy Administration as a senior partner in the Chicago law firm of Winston & Strawn.

As dean he has continued to teach, concentrating on the ethics of the legal profession, international human rights, and the rights of the poor and homeless.

Through his extensive performing and teaching experience, Cerny developed an extensive chamber and solo repertoire, including the complete 62 Haydn sonatas, the complete 32 Beethoven piano sonatas and 36 of the standard international repertoire.

Since his appointment at Notre Dame, he has maintained an active performing schedule that has included performances as soloist and as chamber musician, both on campus and at other colleges and universities.

Cerny has made more than 65 recordings, a collection of solo and chamber literature more than 165 titles, which are now available for college and university libraries throughout the country. His series of radio programs continues to be broadcast weekly by stations across the country.

Malloy issues statement

The Following is a statement issued by University President Father Edward Malloy Thursday concerning informal discussions held Wednesday and Thursday with members of Students United For Respect (SUFR):

Over the past two months Patricia O'Hara, vice president for student affairs at Notre Dame, has facilitated a series of meetings at which members of student government, faculty, and staff administrators have discussed issues involving cultural diversity at Notre Dame with various faculty and student organizations. These discussions have concerned financial aid for minority students, faculty hiring, the composition of the curriculum, and other matters.

The office of student affairs is the proper catalyst for these discussions, since these are issues of general concern to student body and the entire University community. In fact, several members of SUFR have been participants in these discussions, though not as SUFR representatives since the group to date has declined to seek recognition as an official student organization.

In addition, over the last several weeks I have met informally with small groups of interested students to discuss these issues.

Formal discussion of issues relating to cultural diversity at Notre Dame will continue. I believe that SUFR should be a part of this process, but that requires that SUFR work through the established channels of student affairs as do all other recognized student groups. I have proposed the following framework to continue discussions concerning cultural diversity at Notre Dame and to enable SUFR to play an official role in future discussions:

First, recognition of SUFR as an official student organization will be granted on the same day on which the group presents an appropriate request for recognition.

Second, I will issue a substantive letter to the University community analyzing the University's present situation with respect to issues of cultural diversity, including both programs in places and areas where further efforts are necessary. This analysis and call to action will provide the basis for future discussions and programs.

Third, representatives of the recognized SUFR organization will have guaranteed and welcomed participation in the discussions that flow from my letter. Of course, other student organizations, including student government, also will be represented.

I believe this framework will allow the University community to move forward with discussions of the substantive issues related to cultural diversity and I hope that SUFR will elect to be an official party to those discussions.

Student files harassment complaint against SUFR

By CHRIS WILKINSON

John Glassgow, a junior at Notre Dame, filed a harassment complaint against Students United for Respect (SUFR) with Notre Dame Security yesterday after an incident that occurred during the coalition's sit-in at the Registrar's Office Wednesday.

Glasgow said he went to the Registrar's Office around 11:10 a.m. Wednesday to revalidate his I.D. Upon arriving at the office, he said, he was verbally and physically harassed by the students participating in the SUFR sit-in.

According to Glassgow, his legs were pushed and he was verbally assaulted as he tried to walk through the group of sitting students.

"It seems to me that the harassment was racially provoked...I felt I was being harassed because I was white," Glassgow said.

When Glassgow was eventually able to enter the Registrar's Office, he said he was told by the secretary to come back at a later time because he could not be helped during the sit-in.

Fact-finding groups fight violations

By CHRIS WILKINSON
News Writer

Fact-finding groups utilize moral-pressure in their fight to end human rights violations, according to Barbara Frey, executive director of the Minnesota Lawyers International Human Rights Committee.

Frey's lecture, titled, "International Human Rights Fact-Finding: Moral Pressure, Mediation or Meddling?" focused on three potential descriptions for human rights fact-finding.

Fact-finding groups investigate reports of human rights violations by governments all over the world. The investigation is done by travelling to each country and interviewing the victims, government officials and anyone else connected with the violation, explained Frey.

"Any human rights activist will tell you that the greatest tool in their kit is moral pressure," said Frey. Almost every country "cares about its international image," she added.

This concern for images leaves rights-violating governments open to critical worldwide attention brought about by the fact-finding groups, according to Frey.

For instance, Frey said, the United Nations has several means with which to pressure governments: confidential pressure, public declarations, investigations and physical intervention on humanitarian grounds.

Frey said that mediation "might be a possible new paradigm for human rights fact finding." The process, she said, would respect the parties involved and encourage them to come up with their own solutions. He said that governments need to be assured that change would not occur overnight or without the consent of those involved.

More often than not, fact-finding groups are greeted with guns rather than cooperation. Frey said that fact-finding committees only have words to fight for human rights, but governments have guns to back-up their positions.

"If the accusation is that [fact-finding missions] are meddling by providing information that the government would prefer to be suppressed, then so be it," said Frey.

According to Frey, the reports concerning the state of human rights coming out of various countries were accurate. Pressure must be maintained on the violating government until those reports show an improvement.

The lecture was sponsored by the Center for Social Concerns and the Center for Civil and Human Rights.

SMC hosts Gentle Thursday

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Music, bubble-blowing, free food, handwriting analysis, and tarot card readings all took place at Gentle Thursday held on the Hagger Terrace at Saint Mary's.

The day's festivities were part of the continuing celebration of Earth Week.

Gentle Thursday, an idea that originated during the Persian Gulf War, was a day set aside to affirm life rather than death.

"We are probably too serious most of the time," said Sister Mary Turgi of Campus Ministry, "that's how we get into contentious situations in the first place."

The goal of Gentle Thursday was to give one a chance to play and not be so serious about life.

"We just want to make the day playful and happy; to make everyone feel young again," said Anne Hart, one of the organizers of Gentle Thursday.

Professor Ann Clark, chair of the department of philosophy, derived the idea from events that took place on her campus during the Vietnam War.

"She told us of the playful events they had on her campus in order to contrast the war," said Toni Olivieri, an organizer of the event.

Members of the peace-support group, peacemakers, the earth week committee and the women's studies department organized and sponsored the event which enjoyed a good turnout.

"Almost everyone there really enjoyed it," said Renee Young. "We hope to be able to have similar events every other Thursday during nice weather in the future."

Nationwide rail worker's strike ends after one day

(AP)—Train crews expecting to picket were put to work instead Thursday as the nationwide rail strike ended after one day, putting an end to moves in motion and allowing travelers to avoid delays.

"We are getting back to normal as quickly as possible," said Jim Johnson, spokesman in the Kansas City, Mo., office of Southern Pacific.

Ron Superson, a radio operator at a Conrail freight yard in Delaware, said a clear sign things were returning to normal was the traffic on the walkie-talkie pressed to his ear.

"They're starting to yell at people," he said, smiling.

The first CSX Transportation crew back to work Thursday had expected to picket, not work, said company spokesman NormGoing, The Roanoke Rapids, N.C., crew showed up at 3 a.m. EDT for picket duty.

"We put them on a train," he said.

Congress swiftly passed and President Bush early Thursday signed legislation to halt the strike by some 235,000 rail workers after government intervention after railroad labor unions and major freight carriers were unable to reach a new contract despite three years of trying and a three-month cooling off period.

The measure sets up an end to the strike's end.

The administration building was empty within 65 days if labor and management fail to do so.

The first CSX Transportation crew back to work Thursday had expected to picket, not work, said company spokesman Norm Going, The Roanoke Rapids, N.C., crew showed up at 3 a.m. EDT for picket duty.

"We put them on a train," he said.

Congress swiftly passed and President Bush early Thursday signed legislation to halt the strike by some 235,000 rail workers after government intervention after railroad labor unions and major freight carriers were unable to reach a new contract despite three years of trying and a three-month cooling off period.

The measure sets up an end to the strike's end.

The administration building was empty within 65 days if labor and management fail to do so.

"We're starting to yell at people," he said, smiling.

California judge rules that surrogate is legal mother

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A judge ruled Thursday that a surrogate is the legal mother of a baby girl she bore for a now-stranded couple, denying the father’s request for exclusive parental rights.

"I'm overwhelmed. I'm happy," surrogate mother Elvira Jordan said after the ruling.

Superior Court Judge Nancy Winben Stock said she could find no evidence that Jordan intended to abandon her child when she gave it up to Robert and Cynthia Moschetta in May 1990.

"In fact, the court finds to the opposite," she said. "Elvira Jordan had indicated and steadfastly maintained that she wanted the baby to go to an intact, stable home."

Jordan acted responsibly and in the child's best interest when she allowed the Moschetas to take the newborn home on the condition they remain together for at least a year and receive marriage counseling, Ms. Stock said.

Robert Moschetta's attorney, Edie Warren, had argued that Jordan had, in effect, abandoned the baby by accepting a fee and only visiting the child once since her birth.

A hearing will be held to determine custody and visitation rights to the baby, named Marissa by the Moschetas and Melissa by Jordan.

The custody dispute started April 8 as a three-way battle, but the judge ruled that Mrs. Moschetta, 35, had no biological or legal relationship to the nearly 11-month-old girl.

The judge, however, said Mrs. Moschetta could seek visitation under the state's stepparent law.

Robert Moschetta, 35, who was recognized by the court as the baby's father, sought sole parental rights and wanted legal parenthood ruled out for his wife and Ms. Jordan.

During the trial, Jordan, 42, testified that she was misled into signing an agreement giving up her rights to the baby and that she only intended the Moschetas to raise her if their marriage was intact.

The surrogate said she decided to seek custody after learning in November that the Moschetas had separated.

Earlier Thursday, Harold La Flamme, the court-appointed attorney representing the child's interests, said Jordan should be named the legal mother because it would be "too risky" to give the biological father exclusive parental rights.

"Environmental issues do not apply to one specific people," she said. "They affect everyone."

Jenista and Minadeo said it is important that people try to be aware of their behavior when it comes to recycling and energy conservation. Minadeo said students should try to "take shorter showers and turn off lights."

Minadeo also said that students should try to learn more about recycling and should become involved with the recycling effort here on campus and in their hometowns.

"They need to avoid learning about this stuff," said Minadeo. "Get involved in your community recycling programs over the summer."

Both Jenista and Minadeo said students should take some responsibility in their treatment of the environment. Jenista said students should think about their actions and "how it affects the environment," while Minadeo suggested that students precipitate as well as recycle. "Think before you generate waste."

The two students also suggested that students write letters to their Congressmen urging them to think about the nation's energy policy. Jenista said the strategy that Bush proposed in February is "basically a none strategy."

She said the policy decreases our dependence on foreign oil markets and increases the production of domestic oil but puts little emphasis on conservation which is what is important.

Minadeo said anyone wanting more information on saving the environment can come to Sea meetings on Sunday's in the Center for Social Concerns or go to the library in the Center.
Iraqi, U.S. commanders discuss refugee situation

INCIRLIK AIR BASE, Turkey (AP) — U.S. forces scouted northern Iraq for new refugee camps Thursday, and set up their first meeting in the area with Iraqi officials. Turkish officials warned that many more Kurds would die before they can be moved to their new homes.

In Baghdad, special U.N. envoy Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan signed an agreement with Iraq creating separate camps and designated way stations in the border area to help refugees wishing to return to their homes in Iraq.

In contrast with the U.S. plan, which is to set up camps in northern Iraq that will be protected from Iraqi forces by U.S., French and British troops, the Baghdad plan calls for U.N. relief officials to work with Iraqi officials to distribute aid to the Iraqi military, Pentagon spokesman Bob Hall said.

The new commander of the U.S. relief effort for Kurdish refugees was to meet Friday in northern Iraq with an Iraqi military delegation to discuss ways to avoid any accidental conflicts during the operation, a military spokesman said.

The U.S. commander, Lt. Gen. John Shalikashvili, was to travel to Turkey to Zakho in northern Iraq for the meeting, according to the spokesman, Cmdr. John Woodhouse.

A diplomatic source said earlier the meeting would be to help avoid clashes with the Iraqis.

Iraq has been warned not to interfere with efforts to assist and protect the refugees.

Iraq also took one more step toward putting the war behind it. The Iraqi Ambassador to the United Nations said Iraq had given the United Nations a detailed list of its chemical and biological weapons capabilities and nuclear facilities. That was aimed at complying with a stringent U.N. resolution setting down terms or a permanent ceasefire.

Hundreds of thousands of Iraqi Kurds fled into the mountains of northern Iraq after a rebellion in their traditional homeland was crushed by Saddam's forces in the wake of the Persian Gulf War.

At the crude encampments in the rugged terrain along Iraq's borders with Turkey and Iran, up to 1,000 refugees are dying daily of hunger, disease and exposure, aid officials have estimated.

Officials expect that finding sites and building the new refugee centers will take up to 40 more days, and some say even those estimates are too optimistic.

Mehmad Yildirim, the Turkish commander of the huge ramshackle settlement at Islav-er, estimated that many more people would likely die in that period.

Kurdish Refugees Relief

Pups are to set up new refugee camps that are accessible by land. These would relieve camps in mountainous terrain that are currently supplied mainly by air drop.

TONIGHT AND SATURDAY 7:00, 9:45
It's time for Malloy and SUFR to get to work

After a sit-in and several meetings between Students United For Respect (SUFR) and University administrators, including University President Father Edward Malloy, the University appears to be no closer to making the demands of SUFR a reality than it was a year ago.

On Thursday morning select members of SUFR met with Malloy to discuss the demands and the sit-in. Later in the day SUFR sent a letter to Malloy requesting "written agreement from the administration to allow a third arbitrator to aid in resolving the present predicament."

At first glance, the idea of having an arbitrator come to Notre Dame seems unnecessary. After further examination of this issue, it is clear that this is the best option. Task forces have been formed, dialogues have taken place, yet nothing seems to be happening. In typical Notre Dame fashion, change comes very slowly.

In this case, the students aren't going to accept slow change. They want the University to listen and to act—now. The time for discussion and second guessing is over. It's time for the University to make some commitments.

Malloy should agree to have an arbitrator come in and meet with both the Administration and SUFR. This person, who must be a professional arbitrator and not a member of the ND/SMC community, will be able to most efficiently facilitate negotiation between the University and SUFR and help the two groups reach a mutually agreed upon solution.

By the end of the academic year, a proposal should be drawn up—a direct result of communication between University administration and SUFR. This proposal must be a strict guideline and the rest of the University stands on cultural diversity.

Once the University lets the community know exactly where it stands in terms of cultural diversity, then students can leave school of its commitment to cultural diversity. Deadlines for action and specific goals must be included and the University of its commitment to cultural diversity.

For this document to be truly effective, it must specify measures of SUFR's demands and the University's position on these issues.

Racism in militant rhetoric hurts SUFR

Dear Editor,

SUFR. Students United For Respect. I think that everyone can agree that there is nothing more noble than students who are united for the respect of all students, but I honestly think that this is not the case at Notre Dame. I have personally spoken with many students of SUFR on an occasions and 1 am firmly convinced that some of what they are calling for is right and just. all students do deserve respect and personal recognition regardless of their particular race. That aside, I think that a message has subsequently been lost through some of the militant rhetoric that has become all too common here in recent months.

I find it completely deplorable that a Notre Dame student can believe, much less write the following liaue statement which recently appeared in The Observer, April 19: "Most white students on this campus (and I emphasize most) are ignorant and are comfortable living in their ignorance." That a fellow student can refer to other students in a subtly derogatory fashion is, most good white Catholic Domers. I show an incredible lack of respect for a large number of students here on the part of the author. I think that if the word "black" were substituted for the word "white" in these statements there would most certainly be loud accusations of racism at Notre Dame. What do you think?

I am an American (not a white, American, not an Italian-American, not an African-American. I am an American I who is deeply concerned that the crusade for racial recognition at Notre Dame is doing more harm than good. Most students would agree that Notre Dame is very homogenous, but whose fault is that? I, personally am not responsible for any past injustices which may have occurred, nor do I like to be called a racist because I offer constructive criticism to so-called minority groups. I would just like to be shown the same respect that is being demanded by other students.

Citing the letter already mentioned, it is becoming more obvious to me that some of the relationships between different racial and social groups have deteriorated at Notre Dame. One of SUFR's goals back in December was to achieve some sort of recognition from the administration and the student body that racial-recognition problems do exist. Well, many of those problems have been recognized, but at the expense of creating new problems. Increasingly exclusionary behavior seems to be an unwanted result of the over-emphasis on racial identity, separation, and classification.

It is with these thoughts in mind that I would respectfully like to ask the leadership of SUFR, and Notre Dame's administration to address the obvious racist letter written by Keith McCoy (The Observer, April 15). Racist literature of this type should not, and cannot be tolerated under any circumstances. Racism is a two-way street and I am tired of being victimized as an "ignorant, good white Catholic Domer." I hope that the administration, and more importantly the leadership of SUFR, will accept the challenge to rise up in the defense of the thousands of students offended by this blatant racist slur.

TREATMENT OF DIGGER WAS SHAMEFUL

Dear Editor:

The treatment of Coach Phelps by the local media and by the University was abominable. The man spent twenty years of his life coaching at the University of Notre Dame. At his retirement, the leaders of the Athletic Department were not even present. No parting gift was given for his long service. During the past year, the student body and basketball "fans" (and I use this term loosely treated him poorly. One gets the impression that a decline in revenue to the University might have been a factor as opposed to a perfect graduation rate. The comments of former players were about what I had expected given the quality of the group.

For the first time in almost forty years I am not proud of the University of Notre Dame and am glad to be retiring soon.

Croatia needs American support to fulfill its dream

Dear Editor: I would like to explain or clarify the situation in Yugoslavia as we now see it, both in the recent past and the present.

In 1987 my dream finally came true. Thanks to Digger Phelps and his family I was able to leave Yugoslavia and come to study at the University of Notre Dame. I arrived in the USA at the time when the country was fortunate enough to be able to visit several times, but what really made me come was this feeling of freedom that I was not able to experience in my country Croatia at that time, as part of the Yugoslavia, that was no more than a colony, subject to the will of the rest of the country, which was dominated by a strong military and political elite.

Today, I still feel that way. We have had a new democratic government in Croatia for the first time in fifty years which will hopefully lead us out of that unfortunate union.

I am only in my twenties, but even then I have experienced many examples of the Yugoslav rule, from simply being exiled from my province to communist teaching in schools, not to mention the forced displacement of my people and having to be a member of the Communist Party in order to get a job, or the imprisonment of my uncle for expressing his national feelings. These are just a few examples of what my fellow countrymen went through.

A few years ago, I would be scared to write this letter because of a fear of the Yugoslav secret police. Today, Croatians are so close to their dream - democracy and sovereignty, but we still have to fight for our freedom. We have the powerful army behind their backs, but it is not enough to let their "rich milk-cow" go. What bothers me the most though is the big changes to our goal is a part of the US government which is supporting Yugoslavia unity even though only Croatia, Slovenia and Bosnia and Herzegovina are western oriented republics.

Croatia itself is an ancient nation that had been organized into an autonomous state since the 7th century. It gave the world many creative geniuses of the first order, like the forerunner and discoverer of atomic energy and Mestrovic called "Michelangelo of the 20th century" just a few examples. Croatia is bigger than some other countries which enjoy independence and could not afford to go alone. Its geographical position, we must agree, (Austria, and Hungary) favors the best development and the most progress today.

From the inception of the Dome, it was obvious some of the representative chose to associate the Croatian nation in a part of the US government which is supporting Yugoslavia unity even though only Croatia, Slovenia and Bosnia and Herzegovina are western oriented republics.

Mary's figure on the dome is our first and foremost goal. Some of the best candidates were not selected to represent our school next year as ND cheerleaders. While all of those who tried out are certainly talented, there are several who stood out from among the crowd as those who were in standing both in ability and physical support like in Kuwait.

Croatia and other non-Serbian peoples for equal partnership and mutual inter-dependence before the last war and today. This was the only way possible. The tragic impasse is the legitimate demand of the Croatian nationalists for separation and the formation of an independent and free state of Croatia.

For that we need the support of the United States. We ask for your pity; we ask for legitimate rights that we are entitled to. We do not ask for physical support like in Kuwait, but just a statement that would support our democracy. The history and what is going on presently (Serbian domination of independent regions within Croatia with the Army's support) proved by monopolistic and colonial exploitation of Croatia, Slovenia, and other nations by Yugoslavia, and today still refers to as the Socialist Federal Yugoslav State.

Today, it is still the same. We shall be satisfied and happy to be reunited with all other free peoples to bring the programs of our world. But right now, in the region only part of the world.

The future for our demands so far will hopefully lead us out of that part of the world.

Let's not forget the reasons why Yugoslavia was free and independent.

Dear Editor:

I've heard that the coach has made it. I mean no offense to those of us who were cut were people we were talking with to who would make the squad. We were surprised, and to be quite honest, disappointed. Disappointed at the way the people we were talking with afterwards, that some of the most talented were not considered for the squad. It was evident that everyone who tried out was good enough to be on the squad.

However, several individuals who we regret never heard of were passed over for those of us who were cut. Is there not a need for separation and the formation of an independent and free state of Croatia?

It is a shame that the ND could not find the best candidates and be deprived of some of the best candidates and be deprived of some of the best candidates. We probably have had in a long time due to politics.

Cheerleading tryouts unfair

Deen Editor:

When I was five, one of my favorite things to do on a Saturday afternoon was to watch ND football with my dad, an alum. I particularly liked to see the cheerleaders perform. Now, however, I really don't want to watch the cheerleaders perform our events next year: knowing that the most qualified individuals were not necessarily selected.

At the competitive tryouts on both Friday and Saturday evenings, I was shocked to see those who did make the squad. It was evident that everyone who tried out was good enough to be on the squad. It was evident that everyone who tried out was good enough to be on the squad.

I must write to comment on the letter about Mary's status on the football team, which appeared in The Observer (March 28).

I wholeheartedly agree with the author's views and opinions on the matter. I am forming the group I am forming the group I am forming the group I am forming. The group is called the "Revolutionary Mary wanted".

I mostly formed this group to want Mary's figure on the dome as a symbol of the struggle for independence. We are fighting for our rights, for our future for our demands so far will hopefully lead us out of that part of the world.

Put away those books! What do you think this is? College?
Wrong...

It's AnTostal '91 at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College and it promises to be "The Best College Spring Festival!"...EVER!

For this one week, South Bend could be "the Place to be!" said Brennan Harvath, AnTostal '91 chairman.

Is this the place where students and people "from far and wide" come to witness the finest of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community to play? "The BEST?? College Spring Festival!"...EVER!

From the Frisbee team, but always ways-so-exciting and enjoyable, events such as Bookstore Basketball XX and the Fisher Regatta, to other, newer events such as Hogstock II, the week promises to be a week of nonstop activity for all students.

Seven campus bands will perform over seven hours after the Fisher Regatta, followed by an all-star jam session.

Circus Sunday will offer no less enjoyment as St. Edward's kicks off its Charity Carnival from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Fieldhouse Mall sponsored by the Student Union Board and it's Tosa-T-shirt Printers. The year's currents include a moonwalk, the huge air mattress of fun we all used to enjoy as children.

Seven bands will be performing at the Fieldhouse Mall during the carnival in celebration of Earth Day '91, sponsored by the Environmental Action Club.

"Manic Monday" will mark the beginning of "The Quest For The Crown (TOFTC)" as the first event, The Obstacle Course, spans the length of the Fieldhouse Mall, challenging all participants. Who would have thought of using baseball bats, big rubber bands and Crisco oil in the same place? Some person would.

The Golf Tournament and March Dagg, the second and third events of the "TOFTC," provides a change of pace for Alternative Tuesday.

The Master's could never match the fun involved in the "TOFTC" Golf Tournament. Skill-level is a wholly different story. If ever you had the urge to drag a mattress with a person on it, now's your chance to try it, in this competition sponsored by Budgettote Motel.

It doesn't end there.

University Food Services is creating a REALLY Long Sundae on South Quad. How long? Does 500 feet of ice cream tempt your appetite? Bring a shovel.

"I found Mr. Bradtke would love "Whoopie Wednesday" as teams scour the campus in search of Knute Rockne's lost treasure, in the "TOFTC" Treasure Hunt. The Bookstore basketball courts will see much action as it hosts the Slam Dunk Contest. If that doesn't sound like fun, maybe the Basketball Challenge will do it for you. Watch as students giggle up against their favorite varsity basketball player or any other campus celebrity.

Pack your belongings and head over to Saint Mary's as the College hosts "Thirsty Thursday." Listen to Dick Holland and the Bamboo Gang play at SM Cafe. It doesn't end there.
Charity and fun meet at St. Ed’s Carnival

By ANN MARIE HARTMAN
Accent Writer

It is crunch time for students and faculty on the campuses of both Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s as the countdown to finals reaches a minus three weeks. Stress seems to permeate the air, but St. Edward’s Hall has found the answer to bring smiles back to everyone’s faces.

On Sunday, April 21, St. Ed’s will be hosting their third annual Charity Carnival. The Carnival will have food, games and entertainment for all ages. “It is a way of raising money for a good cause while having fun at the same time,” said co-chairs of the 1991 Charity Carnival Tony Porcelli and Fred Sowar, St. Edward’s Hall Residents.

Plans for this year’s Carnival began as early as last April with the guidance of the Women’s Bookstore Basketball Team. Each dorm has organized a booth for the carnival to raise money for charity. Traditional activities such as Farley’s Fishbowl, Lewis’s caricaturist, Pasquerilla East’s cake walk and the Kissing Booth sponsored by Sorin and Howard will be among the many in full swing Sunday. All proceeds that the booths raise will go to the charity that the individual dorm selects.

One World Productions, the booking agent who schedules the West Coast’s top bands, brought them to South Bend and specifically to Notre Dame because Miller and his partners started to notice that Notre Dame students were driving to Chicago to see the West Coast’s top bands. Miller feels that this will be a great opportunity for students to get up, dance and have fun. “Both groups are great at making people get up and dance. It is an all-campus type of event.”

The “Wailin’” Wallers will perform in a “Sun Splash” reggae fest tonight at 6 p.m. at Stephan Center to kick off AnTostal activities.

They have recently returned from a tour of Australia to begin their yearly tour of the United States. “They have been on the road for 20 years or more. It has become a way of life for them,” says Miller.

nets snap long losing streak; 76ers rout Celtics

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — New Jersey snapped a 20-game losing streak on Thursday night, beating the Washington Bullets 108-103 behind a 29-point, 11-rebound effort by Derrick Coleman.

It was New Jersey's first victory away from the Meadowlands Arena since Jan. 26, 1991, when it tied the Capital Centre since March 19, 1996 — ending a string of 13-straight road losses.

Coleman scored 10 points in the fourth quarter, including two free throws with 2:24 left that gave the Bullets a 90-89 lead. The Bullets scored only one basket in the final 2:41 after a driving basket by Ledell Eackles tied the game at 101.

Mookie Blaylock added 24 points for New Jersey, which matched his season high with 27 points. He had 22 for the Bullets winning streak.

It was New Jersey's first win away from home since Nov. 25, when it beat the Kansas City Kings. Coleman scored 10 points in the second half and broke 25-4 run at the start of the third quarter as Utah routed New Jersey.

Stockton's 10th of 11 assists, a foul on Tony Brown with 9:15 left, and his assist in the game, gave him 1,135 for the season, one more than the 1,134 he set last season. He was taken out of the game for good midway through the final quarter.

Kal Malone led Utah 28 points as the Jazz stayed one game behind San Antonio in the race for first place in the Midwest Division. Both teams have two left games.

Spurs 102, Rockets 95

HOUSTON — Terry Cummings scored 32 points and San Antonio survived Stephy Floyd's fourth-quarter scoring bid late to beat Houston and eliminate the Rockets from the Midwest Division playoff race.

Floyd scored 12 points in a 2-45 span, and his three-pointer in the final quarter as Houston cut San Antonio's lead to 90-86 with 5:14 left in the game as the Spurs held on. The closest the Rockets got was a 90-89 score by a 91-89 score by 2:24 to go on a free throw by Hakeem Olajuwon.

Baseball squad returns to MCC action

By JIM VOLG
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame Baseball team hits the road again this weekend, returning to conference play against Butler for doubleheaders on Saturday and Sunday in Indianapolis.

Butler owns an overall record of 15-18, Notre Dame is 13-14, with the Irishooking in one of five games last season.

The Bulldogs, in winning two of three from Saint Louis last week, fell from a tie for second with the Irish to fourth in the MCC race with a 6-7 record.

On the other hand, the Irish are facing off a brief but successful homecoming, taking two at the expense of Chicago State.

Neither Love nor Triplet had a bogey on the par-71, 6,912-yard course. Love fired in an eagle on the par-5 15th hole to go with four birdies.

"If you can develop a solid approach to what you're doing, youth can be a great benefit," Knight said. "I don't feel like I'm not pushing myself, but I can see it, and I'm looking to go there."

How Love reacts to being in the lead gets put to the test again today. Love is tied with second-year PGA pro Kirk Triplet at 6-under-par going into the second round of the tournament at Harbour Town Golf Links.

Fifty-eight of the 118 golfers in the field shot par or better on a perfect day for scoring: no wind and soft greens.

They extended their winning streak to seven, raising their record to 22-12, while remaining in second place at 5-2 in MCC action.

The Bulldog pitching staff is lead by junior Scott Metzinger, who boasted his MCC record to 3-1 with a 4-1 triumph over the Billikens.

Senior Jeff Sells mans the bullpen, collecting his sixth save in that game. Offensively, Brent Berglund continues his quest to hit .400. Last week's 9-21 (.429) performance leaves his season average down at .398, ranking second in the MCC.

As the season winds down, Notre Dame Coach Put Murphy feels positive about his team's potential. "Our windshield record has nothing to do with how good this club is. I know this is the best team I've had in four years at Notre Dame," Murphy said.

This year's season's schedule includes six top-25 teams, according to the latest rankings in the nation.

Despite such imposing competition, Murphy recognizes the team's ability to maintain their intensity level. "I like the fact that four players' expectations are not based on what others have on, but what's inside themselves."

Heritage Classic first post-Masters event

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Davis Love III believes he knows what it will take to move to a higher level on the PGA Tour. "It's just a matter of winning enough where you're comfortable in the kid, and more comfortable playing from a shot or two behind," Love said Thursday after shooting a 65 to tie for the first-round lead in the Heritage Classic.

"Hopefully, by the end of the year I'll move up to that next level," he said. "I'm not pushing myself, but I can see it, and I'm looking to go there."

"No bogeys was nice," said Love, whose first of two PGA victories came in the 1987 Heritage. "I've been making a lot of bogeys lately."

"I'm just excited about being out and playing again," Stewart said. "I thought there was a little bit of awkwardness. What was going to happen? How was I going to play?"

Men’s golf hopes to zip to top at Akron Invitational

By RICHARD MATHURIN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men’s golf team will face its sternest test of the season this weekend as they compete in the 54 hole Akron Invitational at the Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio. The Firestone Country Club is one of the best courses in the Northeast and is host to the World Series of Golf.

The team will face the challenge as they compete in the 40-team field, which includes all of the Big Ten schools, Florida St., Oklahoma St., Clemson, Ball St., Miami of Ohio, Bowling Green, Kentucky, Toledo. All told over 10 years, five months and 20 days, Mike Tyson has demonstrated stamina and the ability to take a punch hard enough to take him or any other heavyweight out.

Evander Holyfield, the heavyweight champion of the world, flexes his prize-winning upper body

“People write, ‘You don’t lose your power,’” said Moore. “He’s more subtle, more devastating, more confident.”

Angelo Dundee, who trained George Foreman in the fourth round in 1970, said, “Foreman can’t be really difficult.”

Foreman has not had to pay much attention to defense so far in his comeback.

Part of the Holyfield strategy apparently will be to throw lots of punches and make Foreman spend lots of time in his inhaler-like defense in which he folds his arms and extends them in front of his face.

Benton also said Holyfield will crowd Foreman and make the challenger push him away. He also will make him turn — anything to tire him.

“Evander Holyfield, the world’s strongest man, has demonstrated stamina and the ability to take a punch hard enough to take him or any other heavyweight out.”

more points while finishing with the second-best record in the league. They also have the highest point total of the remaining teams in the playoffs, but they're having a hard time handling the favorite's role.

St. Louis fell behind three games to one before finishing off the Detroit Red Wings in the 1990 playoffs and will be playing catch-up again in Game 2 Saturday night in St. Louis.

The North Stars tied a playoff record with 15 power-play goals in 54 chances in their first-round upset of overall points champ Chicago, and they didn't waste any time getting No. 16.

Gagner put the North Stars ahead when he scored on a deflection at 1:46 of the first period, only four seconds after Jones Smith et al., had no comment.

"I am not going to be forced into making a deal that I don't have to do," he said. "This isn't a life or death thing for our purposes.

Dallas owner Jerry Jones said before the 1990 draft, "After all the games of the first-round Calder series.

"If we're in a position to get a pick in the top 10, we're going to try to sign him," Jones said. "I think Jimmy Johnson would do a good job of improving their offer.

Jankovich is good friends with Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson, who was coach of the University of Miami while Jankovich was attending that school. Jankovich denied that he and Johnson were playing their own poker game to force the Falcons to improve their offer.

"That wouldn't be the worst thing in the world that we could do," Jankovich said. "I don't think Jimmy Johnson would do it in his best interests because we know that they're pretty strong about the Rocket right now.

"So I think to go out there and say, 'OK, fine, we're doing this and we're going through the motions,' and then trying to go ahead and force Atlanta, that's not the thing to do and we're not doing that anymore," Jones said.

Ken Herock, Atlanta's vice president for player personnel.

"I am not going to be forced into making a deal that I don't have to do," he said. "This isn't a life or death thing for our purposes.

The shot beat Bill Ranford in goal for the first time in this year's playoffs. Ranford replaced Grant Fuhr, who had started all seven games of the first-round Calder series.

It was the first goal since Game 1 against Calgary for the North Stars.

Rohitalle evened it at 3-3 scoring from the crease on a tip of Steve Duchars's shot from the right point.

Carlton — Luc Rochalade scored his second goal of the game 2:13 into overtime to lift the Los Angeles Kings to a 4-3 win over the Edmonton Oilers in the opener of their NHL playoffs on Thursday night.

Rohitalle, who tied the game at 2-2 with a goal at 12:57 of the third period, took a pass from Wayne Gretzky and shot from the left side about 40 feet out.

The shot beat Bill Ranford over his right shoulder to give the Kings a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven Smythe Division finals that will continue with Game 2 in Los Angeles on Saturday night.

Rohitalle's two goals gave him six for the playoffs.

Trailing through the first two periods, the Oilers scored two straight goals in the third to take a 3-2 lead but a power-play goal by Rohitalle tied it.

Edmonton's Petr Klima broke a 2-2 at 5:34 with his second goal of the playoffs. He skated into the Kings' zone, took the puck on a breakaway but his shot from about 15 feet out bounced off the crossbar. He got the puck back, skated into the slot and tucked a shot around Kelly Hrudey's glove side.

Best in the Midwest?

Not yet, but the Notre Dame lacrosse team, 5-5, has its sights set on just that title. But the Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan, who face the Irish in the NCAA Tournament this Saturday, are one of several remaining rivals to the throne.

Yet, if recent Irish play is an indication, Notre Dame has what it takes to reach its goal.

“Our defense has been playing out of its head in these last three games,” said captain Wesleyan, who face the Irish in the NCAA Tournament and establish national respect.

“The season has been a good one,” observed Sennett, “but I think that we could be more nationally recognized in Division I if we had won some big home games. If we win the rest of our games, we will be the best team in the country.”

in the midwest. We weren’t last year, because we lost to DePauw, according to Wesleyan. If we get those five wins under our belts coming into the NCAA Tournament, we will take somebody down, no matter who we play.

The Irish, however, are priming themselves for the Ohio Wesleyan matchup in the wake of last season’s 16-6 shellacking in Delaware, Ohio. In that game, the Irish were outshot 54-32, but managed to blank Wesleyan (0-for-6) in man-up situations.

“Our offense is clicking now,” explained Sennett. “We’ve really started to put some points on the board. The difference in our play right now is our offense, because our defense has always been there.”

Yet, the Battling Bishops promise to live up to their name in putting Notre Dame to the test of battle. Under new coach Lelan Rogers, Ohio Wesleyan has compiled a 7-3 record this season.

“We’ve gonna have to have lots of guts, because Ohio Wesleyan thinks that they can give us a run for our money,” noted Sennett. “We have got to be smart and move the ball around quickly. We’ve been working on keeping our heads in pressure situations.

“We can play with them. They’re gonna run all day and they’ll go in streaks if we slow them down. They’ll just keep pushing the ball and try to get runs. They’re a talented team, but we’ll run with them and play our own game plan, even if we are running.”

Sennett and the Irish, however, remain staunchly optimistic about their chances to sweep the midwest into Saturday’s meeting.

Houston court acquits receiver

Ricky Sanders

HOUSTON (AP) — Washington Redskins wide receiver Ricky Sanders was acquitted Thursday of failing to aid a person he was accused of hitting with his car as he angrily drove away from a club last May.

A seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated for nearly one hour before reaching the verdict on the charge of failing to aid a person involved in an accident.

McNiff, a chief prosecution witness, also said Steinbrenner had paid Spira $40,000 just one month before. “It was supposed to be an attempt to come back,” said McNiff.

The circumstances were completely different,” McNiff said. “George Steinbrenner had paid Spira in 1987 for a specific date when he would meet with him. Steinbrenner had attempted to get money out of a celebrity.”

A civil lawsuit against Sanders by the parking valet, Azzam Jamus, is pending.

Sanders was not available for comment, but McDonald said the football player had “been through a tempest situation when you have charges like that against you. He finally got a chance to show how ridiculous the charges were.”

NEW YORK AP — An aide to George Steinbrenner Thursday that Howard Spira committed extortion in February 1990 because he set a specific date when he would meet with him, according to McNiff.

Steinbrenner extorted in a letter to the FBI in February 1990, saying he “was afraid of the owner coming up with a deadline for payment, McNiff said.

Spira, who had suggested an extortion story to explain that the owner came up with a deadline for payment, McNiff said.

Steinbrenner’s threats for years and threatened in a letter to Spira that he would go public with the extortion story to explain the threat to the FBI in February 1990, saying he “was afraid of the owner coming up with a deadline for payment, McNiff said.

Never before in the three years Spira tried to get money from Steinbrenner had he stated a deadline for payment, McNiff said.

Hanlon hopes that they play well

“I’m very encouraged about our accomplishments,” said Hanlon. “We’ve accomplished our goal of shooting less than 30%, and I hope we can shoot that this weekend.”

Tigers spoil opening of new Comiskey; Clemens rolls

CHICAGO (AP) - As openings go, Thursday couldn’t have been much worse for the Chicago White Sox.

Rob Deer hit two home runs and Cecil Fielder and Tony Phillips added one homer each as the White Sox opened their $135 million ballpark Thursday by losing to the Detroit Tigers 16-6.

“Everybody will remember the first two touchdowns scored on opening day at the new park,” White Sox manager Jeff Torborg said. “It was one of those days. Thank God it was only one loss. We couldn’t stop it.”

Jack McDowell, who won the final game at the old Comiskey last Sept. 30, was shelled for six hits, struck out five and walked none for his first victory since Oct. 1, 1989, in a 1989 regular-season start.

Nolte gave up four runs on 10 hits before leaving with two out in the sixth. He gave up two hits and is now 6-for-31 (.194) with only four runs in losing two of his last five starts. San Diego busting out of a batting slump after scoring only one run in his final 1989 regular-season start.

The loss was his first in six career decisions against Texas.

Angels 7, Athletics 1

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Gary Gaetti stepped up with his first home run for California and rookie Scott Lewis gave up one run in seven innings as the Athletics ended Oakland’s seven-game winning streak.

Lewis (1-0) allowed five hits, struck out five and walked two. The 25-year-old right-hander, who beat out Joe Grahe in spring training for Bert Blyleven’s vacant spot in the rotation, gave up only Harold Baines’ home run leading off the second inning.

Gaetti, who left Minnesota after nine seasons and signed with California last January as a new-look free agent, ended a homeless drought of 122 consecutive at-bats by the Angels in the fourth inning with a one-out home run against rookie Kirk Dressendorfer (1-1).

Rangers 7, Indians 0

CLEVELAND — Bobby Witt pitched a four-hitter as Texas beat Cleveland, the third time the Indians have been shut out in nine games.

The Rangers have won three straight after opening the season with four consecutive losses. Julio Franco drove in three runs with a homer and a single.

Witt (1-1) struck out seven and beat out his fifth career shutdown.

Brewers 4, Orioles 3

MILWAUKEE — Robin Yount tied the game 3-3 in the seventh inning — to lead San Diego over Los Angeles.

The loss was his first in six career decisions against Texas.

Bush’s Moonwalk

The White Sox were down 9-0 when Yount homered to pull the Padres within two runs of six runs, five of them earned, and six hits in 4-1-3 innings. The loss was his first in six career decisions against Texas.
HOUSTON (AP) — Third-seeded Zina Garrison was upset by Gigi Fernandez and fortified her doubles event Thursday after the Houston tennis star apparently suffered severe stomach cramps and became ill at the Virginia Slims of Houston tournament.

Fernandez, of Aspen, Colo., defeated the eighth-seeded Garrison 6-7 (5-7), 6-1, 7-5 in the second round of the $350,000 tournament.

Garrison led 5-3 in the third and final set, but lost the next four games as she became visibly ill, bending over between points to try to catch her breath.

"I talked with her yet, but from what the doctors say, she is suffering from stomach cramps, back cramps and she is throwing up," said Garrison's coach Sherwood Stewart.

"I think she obviously is feeling the pressure of playing in her hometown and the emotion and the weakness she has been feeling and then caught up with her." Garrison was admitted to West Houston Hospital late Thursday for dehydration after the last set and was vomiting in the lockerroom.

"She got dehydrated tonight so we've admitted her and I'm back in the rotation," Boulac said.

On Saturday, Notre Dame begins with fire and six in a row on the road against Dayton (2-20). Although the Flyers are not having a good season, they do have several solid players, including Jodi Curriute (10-7, 1.24 ERA) and Kelly Lyman (1-11). "The team knows that even though Dayton doesn't have a strong record, they've played people tough," Boulac said. "We know we can't let up if we want to meet our goal of finishing the season strong."

Men's tennis hopes to move closer to NCAA bid

By JENNIFER MARTEN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's tennis team will travel to Ball State this weekend hoping to move another step closer to an invitation to the NCAA tournament.

The Irish will use the same line-up that was successful against Michigan earlier this week. Junior Dave DiLucia will start at number-one singles. He will face Dan Kronauge who is ranked sixth in the Midwest this year.

Notre Dame coach Bob Bayliss described Kronauge as a "very strong and aggressive kid who can really hit." At number-two singles, sophomore Chuck Coleman will meet Curt Josselyn, a big player with solid groundstrokes.

Ball State's Scott Campbell will challenge Will Forsyth at third singles with his powerful serve. Sophomore Mark Schmitt will also have his hands full when he faces Brian DeVirgilio, a crafty, street-smart player.

"Coaching trouble for sophomore Andy Zurcher will be Doug Campbell. Campbell, a transfer from Ohio University, won the Mid-Atlantic Conference singles championships while he was there.

Completing the singles match-ups, sophomore Ron Rosas will face Paul Kruse, a transfer from Navy. Kruse has an aggressive serve and volley style that could be hard to handle.

Doubles competition could prove key to the final score. Ball State has a great doubles tandem in Kronauge and Scott Campbell and could give DiLucia and Coleman a run for their money.

Last year, the teams fought it out down to number-three doubles with the Irish victorious in the end by a score of 5-4.

Coach Bayliss has high regard for the Cardinals. "Ball State has a great work ethic. They ask for no favors and they give none," said Bayliss.

Irish pound out 21 hits in sweeping doubleheader

By RENE FERRAN
Sports Writer

Aske and ye shall receive. Notre Dame softball coach Brian Boulac was hoping that his team's hitting would awaken from its season-long slumber. Yesterday afternoon, he got his wish.

The Irish rapped out 21 hits and scored 20 runs in crushing Midwestern Collegiate Conference rival Loyola (11-6 and 12-0) in a doubleheader in Chicago.

"Offensively, we did very well," Boulac said. "We hit the ball a lot better and were more aggressive than we have been lately."

In the opener, Loyola (14-18) scored the first hit in the opening inning by an unearned run, but Notre Dame (23-19) quickly countered with two runs in the top of the third. Rachel Crossen led off the inning with a single, and Ruth Kunak and Carrie Miller followed with back-to-back RBI doubles to give the Irish the 2-1 lead.

They extended the advantage to 5-1 in the fifth when Crossen, Ronny Alvarez and Miller all singled and the Ramblers committed two errors. Notre Dame then tacked on insurance runs in the sixth and seventh innings to wrap up the win for Missy Linn (10-10).

"We finally came around offensively," Miller said. "We had a great hitting performance the last couple of days and we were really struggling a little bit in some crucial situations."

The Irish jumped all over Loyola in game two, scoring four runs in the top half of the first. Alvarez led off with one of her three hits, and two outs later, Megan Foy singled. Casey McMurray tripled them both home, and after Laurie Semmens' two-out single, Purdy singled to give the Irish the 2-1 lead.
