Preparing Old College
Workers paint Old College getting ready for the sesquicentennial celebration. Old College is the first and oldest building on campus, built in the spring of 1843.

Gorbachev threatens to quit

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail Gorbachev, warning of impending "catastrophe," threatened Tuesday to quit unless the Soviet Union's splintering republics can at least preserve a military and economic union.

As he spoke, a seventh republic spun off from the union. The Soviet president, who only a week ago was a prisoner of the hard-line coup plotters who briefly toppled him, made a forceful and impassioned plea to the national legislature to maintain the country's cohesion or risk disaster.

Shouting at times to be heard over the clatter, Gorbachev said the Soviet Union stood "on the point of collapsing" and warned: "If it does, it would be a catastrophe."

But the Soviet president indicated he is willing to settle for a two-tier union: an economic and preferably a military alliance of all 15 republics, and a political union of only some of them.

Amid growing pressure to set the Baltics free, he said it was formally recognized the independence of the three Baltic states, joining a growing list of foreign governments granting diplomatic recognition to the republics or saying they would do so soon.

In a strong new sign of the Kremlin's loosening grip on the Baltics, the new Soviet defense minister, Yevgeny Shaposhnikov, said Lithuanian youths drafted into the Soviet army can go home. Shaposhnikov also told Lithuanian lawmakers the infamous "black beret" troops, blamed for bloody attacks, would be withdrawn from the Baltics.

Robert Strauss, the new U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, strongly hinted that President Bush may extend diplomatic recognition on Friday to the Baltics. He said Bush "probably will have something significant to say" about the matter that day.

The official Tass news agency said the seven surviving

O'Hara implements changes in Office of Student Affairs

By MONICA YANT
News Editor

Several changes in the Office of Student Affairs were made this summer as part of a reorganizing plan by Professor Patricia O'Hara, vice president for Student Affairs.

Three changes were made at the Senior Staff level, including the addition of a fourth assistant vice president for Student Affairs. A new director of the Office of Minority Student Affairs was also hired following the resignation of Ken Durgans this summer.

Replacing John Goldrick as Assistant Vice President for Residence Life is William Kirk, former resident of Stanford and Holy Cross Halls. His responsibilities include the supervision of the offices of Residence Life, Security, and Student Residence.

Kirk brings to his position knowledge of the residence hall system and experience in both legal and financial affairs, according to O'Hara.

He received an undergraduate degree in accounting in Notre Dame in 1984. He worked for the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse for the next four years, serving as a staff accountant and as a consultant in the Management Consulting Services division.

Kirk returned to Notre Dame in 1988 to begin his law studies, which he completed this spring. During his three years in law school he served as an assistant in Warren Smith to Norris Hall, and resident of Holy Cross and Stanford Halls.

For a law student to reach such positions is considered "highly unusual," according to O'Hara, who said she believes the experience will be highly beneficial to him in his new position.

She cited new federal legislation on alcohol and drug policies as just one area where Kirk's legal background will be helpful.

Joining the office as a new Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs is Kevin Warren. His newly-created position places him in supervision of the Office of Minority Student Affairs and of the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education.

In addition, he will be responsible for the concerns of off-campus students.

The position was created as a means to reorganize the Office of Student Affairs while alleviating some of the burdens on the other three assistant vice presidents, O'Hara said. Warren's arrival adds "a whole new dimension" to the office, she said.

O'Hara said that placing the Office of Minority Student Affairs under Warren will allow Sister Jeanne Lenz to focus formal responsibility on graduate students, a segment of the student body that she has informally supervised for some time.

Warren comes to Notre Dame with an undergraduate degree from Grand Canyon University in 1986, where he was an academic and athletic All-Americans in basketball, and an M.B.A. from Arizona State in 1987.

He then entered Notre Dame law school, where he excelled in the area of trial advocacy, according to O'Hara.

Upon completion of his law degree in 1990, Warren worked for a law firm in Kansas City, specializing in the representation of universities involved in NCAA violations.

In addition to his responsibilities, he will serve as a concurrent assistant professor of law.

An additional change in the senior staff brings Ann Firth back to the office on a part-time basis as an Assistant to the Vice President in January when she returns from her maternity leave, O'Hara said.

As they go into the fall term, the director of Residence Life, will work on special projects in her new position.

Maid services restructured

By PAUL PEARSON
Associate News Editor

Students returning to the Notre Dame campus Sunday found that the cleaning supplies that were in their rooms last year were no longer there.

This was one of several changes in the housekeeping services that are being implemented this year by Colonel David Woods, director of Support Services.

The cleaning supplies found in dorm rooms last year will now be provided only to students who request them through their resident. This was implemented because, according to Woods, 80 percent of the supplies given to the students last year were never used, relating to an "incredible expenditure."

Also last year, shower cleaning crews traveled between residence halls, and showers were cleaned on a weekly basis. This practice has been discontinued.

Each member of the rotating crews will be assigned to a building on a permanent basis, and the showers will now be cleaned by the permanent residence hall crew.

In the men's residence halls, we're back to the way we were before the rotating crews were set up last year," Woods said.

In addition, the private bath-rooms found in residence halls, such as Walsh Hall, were cleaned by housekeepers once a week last year. These bathroom will now be cleaned three times a week. According to Woods, this is due to numerous complaints last year of clogged drains in these bathrooms.

"The students with private bathrooms have a right to a clean room, but they also have a responsibility to help maintain it," he said.

The rotating crew which issued linens has also been discontinued. This year, the sheets will be issued by the permanent
INSIDE COLUMN

Stiff penalties for breaking alcohol policy

As the hot summer heat bears down on the men and women of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, one's thoughts turn to one thing: beer.

Once again, students have returned to campus to find that the alcohol policy has been changed. And, in their attempts to minimize the importance of alcohol to students' social lives, the people responsible for revising du Lac have once again brought the subject of alcohol to the forefront of everybody's consciousness.

Now, only those of legal age may own or possess alcohol in any public area of campus, an amount of alcohol which is consistent with the concept of responsible individual consumption.

This new clause raises several concerns, the first being, how much is enough for responsible consumption?

Say there's some 350 lb. guy who lives in Dillon who can drink a case of beer without even burping. If he's carrying a case of beer across campus, he is obeying the rule for responsible consumption?

By the same token, say some 85 lb. freshman is carrying a six-pack across campus. Providing he has never drank before, isn't that too much for responsible consumption?

Furthermore, as an Observer EXCLUSIVE, we have received a copy of the Student Affairs directive, and it appears that regarding safe amounts for responsible drinking and suitable punishments for violators of this rule. That directive has set the following guidelines:

- Five beers (or one bottle of liquor) over the limit is punishable by a $20 fine.
- Ten beers (or two bottles) over the limit is punishable by a "swiff kick in the privates.
- Fifteen beers over is punishable by a sentence of seven days in the women's hang-in dorm. That directive has set the following guidelines:
- Twenty beers over and you have to serve them to the entire female population of the entire male population of the entire campus, from the football team to the freshman class.
- Twenty beers over and you have to serve them to the entire female population of the entire male population of the entire campus, from the football team to the freshman class.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned.
- Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Twenty beers over and you have to serve them to the entire female population of the entire male population of the entire campus, from the football team to the freshman class.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned.
- Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be thrown in to a bucket of gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
- Anything over that amount makes you a party ball, allowed to be doused in gasoline and burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned. Anyone caught with a party ball will be burned.
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association on Tuesday gave its mid-level rating of "well qualified" to a member of the Supreme Court.

Two of the 15 members of the ABA panel that evaluates judicial nominees voted Thomas "not qualified" to sit on the high court. An ABA source who requested anonymity said one panel member said he took part in the vote. The names of the two dissenters were not made public.

The ABA, the nation's largest lawyers organization, has three rankings for high court nominees — well qualified, qualified and not qualified.

The mid-level rating for Thomas is the same ABA evaluation he received when he was appointed a federal appeals court judge in 1989.

Ron Olson of Los Angeles, the head of the ABA evaluation committee, was not immediately available for comment.

While House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said in a statement from Kennebunkport, Maine, that President Bush welcomed the finding that his nominee was qualified.

"We are very pleased that the ABA's Standing Committee on the Federal Judiciary has found Judge Thomas to be qualified to be an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court," Fitzwater said.

"As the president stated here two months ago, Judge Thomas has excelled in everything he has attempted and the president is confident that Judge Thomas will serve on the court with distinction."

Thomas, 43, a conservative black judge and former chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, has been attacked by civil rights groups, including the NAACP, and women's rights groups. The civil rights groups oppose him for his criticism of affirmative action and have said he was too lax in enforcing antidiscrimination laws as head of the EEOC. Women's rights groups said they expect him to vote the same way as the court's 1973 ruling which legalized abortion nationwide.

The Senate Judiciary Committee bearings on the Thomas nomination are scheduled to begin Sept. 10 and are expected to be highly contentious.

Economists predict a slow recovery from recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk among economists about the prospects of a "double-dip" recession has pretty much died, but most predict the current economic recovery will be modest at best.

Both the Bush administration and private forecasters agree the first recession in eight years is over and see little chance of a repeat, as has happened in five of the last eight economic downturns. However, the forecasters disagree over the strength of the rebound. The administration is counting on above-average annual growth of better than 3 percent to help overcome the budget deficit and improve the prospects of President Bush's re-election.

Private analysts, meanwhile, foresee weak growth at first with little to set much different than the recession.

"I don't believe we're going to have a so-called double-dip recession," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch. "On the other hand, I do think this recovery is going to be weaker than in the past by far over 50 years. It's going to be pretty lame."

More information on the state of the economy was expected later this month with release of the June Federal Reserve's updated look at the gross national product for the April-June quarter as well as their look at corporate profits for the period.

Many analysts were looking for little or no change from an original report a month ago since the economy is growing at a slight 0.4 percent annual rate in the second quarter.

That compared with a sharp 2.8 percent decline in the first quarter and a 1.6 percent drop in the last three months of 1990.

Economists will be studying today's revisions, and trying to see how the economy is performing in the current July-September quarter.

For instance, most analysts expect the economy's production of goods for inventories was weaker in the second quarter than in the first and for U.S. exports, one of the few areas of strength during the recession.

Among the threats to the recovery is the possibility that spreading weaknesses in Japan and Western Europe will cut demand for U.S. exports, one of the few areas of strength during the recession.

Another area of concern is commercial construction. Overbuilding and the reluctance of struggling banks and savings institutions to finance new projects has deeply depressed that sector.

The most closely watched sector — and the largest, representing two-thirds of the economy — is consumer spending.

Lean inventories mean that any pickup in sales will quickly translate into increased production at factories and eventually into more jobs. On the other hand, the nation's trade performance in the quarter likely was somewhat better than thought previously. The Commerce Department said Tuesday the merchandise trade deficit, on a balance of payments basis, shrank to an eight-year low of $15.6 billion in the second quarter.

Economists predict a slow recovery from recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk among economists about the prospects of a "double-dip" recession has pretty much died, but most predict the current economic recovery will be modest at best.

Both the Bush administration and private forecasters agree the first recession in eight years is over and see little chance of a repeat, as has happened in five of the last eight economic downturns. However, the forecasters disagree over the strength of the rebound. The administration is counting on above-average annual growth of better than 3 percent to help overcome the budget deficit and improve the prospects of President Bush's re-election.

Private analysts, meanwhile, foresee weak growth at first with little to set much different than the recession.

"I don't believe we're going to have a so-called double-dip recession," said economist Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch. "On the other hand, I do think this recovery is going to be weaker than in the past by far over 50 years. It's going to be pretty lame."

More information on the state of the economy was expected later this month with release of the June Federal Reserve's updated look at the gross national product for the April-June quarter as well as their look at corporate profits for the period.

Many analysts were looking for little or no change from an original report a month ago since the economy is growing at a slight 0.4 percent annual rate in the second quarter.

That compared with a sharp 2.8 percent decline in the first quarter and a 1.6 percent drop in the last three months of 1990.

Economists will be studying today's revisions, and trying to see how the economy is performing in the current July-September quarter.

For instance, most analysts expect the economy's production of goods for inventories was weaker in the second quarter than in the first and for U.S. exports, one of the few areas of strength during the recession.

Among the threats to the recovery is the possibility that spreading weaknesses in Japan and Western Europe will cut demand for U.S. exports, one of the few areas of strength during the recession.

Another area of concern is commercial construction. Overbuilding and the reluctance of struggling banks and savings institutions to finance new projects has deeply depressed that sector.

The most closely watched sector — and the largest, representing two-thirds of the economy — is consumer spending.

Lean inventories mean that any pickup in sales will quickly translate into increased production at factories and eventually into more jobs. On the other hand, the nation's trade performance in the quarter likely was somewhat better than thought previously. The Commerce Department said Tuesday the merchandise trade deficit, on a balance of payments basis, shrank to an eight-year low of $15.6 billion in the second quarter.

Economists predict a slow recovery from recession
Professor says coup attempt was poorly planned

By PAUL PEARSON
Associate News Editor

Igor Grazin, a member of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., called last week's attempted overthrow of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbatchev "a bad coincidence of events."

Grazin, 48, is also the Paul J. Schelter/fortunate Howard Corp. distinguished visiting professor of ethics at the Notre Dame Law School, was in Moscow during the attempted coup by hard-liners. He was there only to pick up papers for his courses at ND. He returned to the United States Thursday.

At a press conference Tuesday, Grazin, a native of Estonia and an outspoken independence advocate for the Baltic states, said that the coup was badly organized from the very start.

For example, he said he went to the Kremlin last Monday and encountered some Soviet soldiers there. "Two or three of the soldiers asked me for cigarettes, and one other one asked me for some sandwiches, because they had not eaten for 10 hours."

According to Grazin, this indicates that the army "lacked even the elementary logistics" to pull off the coup.

In another incident, Grazin interviewed 10 Soviet officers and soldiers. "I asked them what are your orders?" and they said 'Our orders were to come here and stay here, and that's it.' I asked them where do you get your new orders?" and they said 'We don't know. The radios don't work.'"

The atmosphere of Moscow during the coup, according to Grazin, was "one full of anger, but also full of irony. 'The people were laughing at the junta,' he said."

As one example of the irony, Grazin noted that one tank he saw carried a sign with "a four-letter word" addressed to the Soviet commander-in-chief. This sign, Grazin said, showed that "laughing at the enemy is a useful weapon."

Grazin said that he was able to move freely, and he never feared for his own life during the coup, as the people in power were afraid that our families were afraid of our strangers."

Kennebunkport, Maine (AP) -- President Bush held a far-reaching review with senior advisers Tuesday on the revolution in the Soviet Union, and the administration signaled it would grant formal recognition to the breakaway Baltic states as early as Friday.

Administration leaders readily acknowledged they were unsure what will be left of the Soviet empire and the central government in the aftermath of the collapse of communist power.

"I don't think anyone knows what the end product is going to look like," said Robert Strauss, the new U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union. "It looks to me like my job may have a lot less geography involved and a lot less travel. It may also be far more complex in terms of the problems."

He said Gorbatchev and Yeltsin, partners in trying to prevent the nation from collapsing in chaos, appear to have established a good working relationship.

"We should stand with Yeltsin and the Baltic people in the name of freedom and justice," said the letter addressed to Bush. "We strongly urge that the United States seize this moment in history.""
More doctors recommend extra-strength HP.

More and more PhDs across the country are recommending Hewlett-Packard financial and scientific calculators to their students. And for some very strong reasons.

"The HP 48SX Scientific Expandable has powerful graphics tools that are remarkably helpful in students learning mathematical concepts. And with the equation solver option, it's excellent for applying mathematics to engineering," according to Dr. William Rahmeyer, a professor of civil and environmental engineering at Utah State University.

"The HP Business Consultant II has an equation solver and extensive math functions. These free the students from computational tedium so they can think and interact on a higher level," says Dr. Lee V. Stiff, a professor of math education at North Carolina State University.

So go check out the HP calculator line at your college bookstore or HP retailer. You'll agree, there's no faster relief from the pain of tough problems, HP calculators. The best for your success.

HEWLETT PACKARD

Creative way to cool off
John O'Rourke and Scott Kamenick cool off during yesterday's hot weather. They are playing gin in their "Crocodile Mike" swimming pool in front of Pangborn.

We need you.

American Heart Association
We're Fighting For Your Life

Falling rocks kill woman

CLOVERDALE, Ind. (AP) — An Arcadia woman was killed and two men were injured early Tuesday when rocks thrown from an Interstate 70 overpass broke the windshields on their vehicles.

Marsa Gipson, 28, was killed at approximately 1:30 a.m. when two large rocks were dropped on her westbound car from the Manhattan Road overpass, said state police officer Sgt. Gary Salzman.

Gipson was struck in the head and upper chest by a rock measuring 10 inches in diameter. She was pronounced dead at the scene by the Putnam County coroner.

A 20-pound rock glanced off the hood and went through the windshield on the passenger's side, injuring Stanley Hamby, 25, of New Castle, who was treated at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis and released.

A semi driven by Kimberly Schutler, 23, of Scranton, Pa., also was hit by rocks, police said. Schutler was not hurt, but her co-driver, James Polites, 29, of Scranton, sustained a broken leg. He was in satisfactory condition at Methodist Hospital.

Several other rocks were found under the overpass, about eight miles west of the Cloverdale-Greenacastle exit, police said. No arrests have been made.

State police said there have been several rock-throwing incidents along that stretch of interstate this summer.

"We've attempted to catch individuals previously with no success," said Salzman.

St. John's students expelled

NEW YORK (AP) — A St. John's University disciplinary panel has recommended expulsion for four students acquitted in court of sexually abusing a woman.

The committee of faculty and students said Monday three of the students were guilty of behavior that disqualified them from school.

The fourth student admitted abusing the woman, but avoided prosecution by testifying at the trial of the other three.

A jury last month acquitted Waller Gabrinowitz, 23, Andrew Hachi and Matthew Grandinetti, both 22, of sodomy, sexual abuse and sexual misconduct charges. They had been suspended.

The woman, now 22, testified she tried to fight her attackers but feared and suspected consciousness from alcohol in March 1990. The defense claimed the woman willingly drank alcohol and consented to sex acts.

We need you.
Adams given GEM award for minority recruitment

Special to The Observer

Howard Adams, executive director of the National Consortium for Graduate Degrees for Minorities in Engineering, Inc. (GEM), has been chosen the 1991 recipient of the Vincent Bendix Minorities in Engineering Award by the American Society for Engineering Education.

The award is presented annually to an educator for outstanding achievements in increasing minority and female participation in engineering programs.

Adams, a Davielle, Va., native, has been GEM's executive director for the past 13 years.

GEM, headquartered at Notre Dame, is an international, nonprofit organization that offers paid summer internships and financial aid for minority engineering students seeking graduate degrees. Seventy engineering and science institutions and 79 industrial or government research laboratories participate. Summer internships, stipends, tuition and fees are awarded on a competitive basis in Native-American, African-American, Mexican-American, and Puerto Rican recipients of bachelor's degrees for graduate studies.

Lines everywhere

Saint Mary's students wait in long lines at the Shahan College Bookstore on the first day of classes yesterday.

Happy 21st

"Pretties!!"

Maisd

continued from page 1

crew in each residence hall. Woods said that he is making this change somewhat reluctantly, as he fears it will produce "a rather substantial drain on the staff." Starting next year, the laundry department will take over the distribution of linen.

In another change, all the housekeepers in the residence halls will now report to work at 7 a.m. Last year, they arrived at different times and took their breaks at different times. Woods believes that this "created some perspective problems on the part of the staffs."

Woods said that these changes have been met with very positive responses from the students and the rectors.

"We've presented the changes to the HPC (Hall Presidents Council), and we've got excellent feedback from the HPC."

According to Woods, the response was even better when the changes were introduced to the housekeepers three weeks ago. "They responded with a round of applause."

These changes, Woods said, will be constantly reviewed. "That's in the fundamental of sound management."

One of the best things to come out of the changes of the past two years, according to Woods, is the "ongoing dialogue which didn't use to exist with regards to these procedures."

positions

continued from page 1

One such project involves a three-year Lilly grant recently received by the University to increase cultural diversity awareness in the residence halls, according to O'Hara. Fithi will work with the Office of Minority Student Affairs, the Office of Residential Life, Campus Ministry and hall staff in planning and developing programs to utilize the grant.

Taking Fithi's place as Director of Residence Life is Beaty Pawlicki, who had previously served as Acting Director.

A change at the department level of Student Affairs was the hiring of a new director for the Department of Minority Student Affairs.

According to Woods, the position of a minority student recruiter and as director of the Notre Dame Outreach Program is a desirable plus for the Notre Dame experience."

This change somewhat re-

people who have been active in BACCHUS and the Indiana Collegiate Drug Prevention Network, according to O'Hara.

Happy 21st

"Pretties!!"

Happy 21st

"Pretties!!"
Abortion protesters fight clinics, judge

WASHINGTON, Kan. (AP) — A fed­eral judge Tuesday offered to free jailed Operation Rescue leaders and other abortion protesters if clinic blockades end.

"If leaders step before me and tell me Operation Rescue is over, all of those incarcerated today can expect to be released at a moment's notice," U.S. District Judge Patrick Kelly said during a hearing.

Law enforcement sources said the national anti-abortion group has pledged to cease ile­gal protests as a step toward freeing its leaders. But no promises had been made to the group in return, said three sources who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Michael McMonagle of Philadelphia, Operation Res­cue's acting director, said local anti-abortion leaders are now in charge of the "rescues," or attempts to block access to abortion clinics.

But he added: "I think it's fair to say rescues were not as frequent as during the Summer of Mercy," and more frequent than in the past.

Since demonstrations and clinic blockades started July 15, there have been more than 2,600 arrests of more than 1,500 people. About 24 have been jailed after being found in contempt of court.

Among them are three Opera­tion Rescue leaders: Keith Tucci of Charleston, S.C., the group's executive director; the Rev. Joe McMonagle of Philadel­phia, and the Rev. Pat Mahoney of Boca Raton, Fla.

Kelly said anyone arrested from now on will not get a sec­ond chance. Previously, people had to have two or more arrests or had to be deemed leaders before they were subject to contempt of court proceedings.

The judge said he has now ordered that each person ar­rested be brought before him.

Tuesday was another quiet day at all three Wichita abor­tion clinics, two of which are covered by Kelly's order barring protesters from blocking access. Some protesters pick­eted at Women's Health Care Services, which is operated by Dr. George Tiller. But there were no arrests.

The protesters are targeting Tiller because his clinic is one of few nationwide that perform late-term abortions.

In court Tuesday, Kelly said he knows how Tiller feels now. The doctor wears a bulletproof vest and has been the target of many threats. The judge has received threats and has a detail of federal marshals as­signed to guard him 24 hours a day.

The judge sentenced two more protesters to 60 days in jail for contempt Tuesday. He told them they were good and decent people.

Both men, one from Balti­more, Md., and one from St. Paul, Minn., told the judge of their deep religious beliefs and their motivation for keeping patients from entering clinics.

But he added: "I think it's fair to say rescues were not as frequent as during the Summer of Mercy," and more frequent than in the past.

Kelly warned that if leaders step before him and tell him Operation Rescue is over, all those incarcerated today can expect to be released at a moment's notice.

The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

The protesters are targeting Tiller because his clinic is one of few nationwide that perform late-term abortions.

In court Tuesday, Kelly said he knows how Tiller feels now. The doctor wears a bulletproof vest and has been the target of many threats. The judge has received threats and has a detail of federal marshals as­signed to guard him 24 hours a day.

The judge sentenced two more protesters to 60 days in jail for contempt Tuesday. He told them they were good and decent people.

Both men, one from Balti­more, Md., and one from St. Paul, Minn., told the judge of their deep religious beliefs and their motivation for keeping patients from entering clinics.

But Kelly warned that if leaders step before him and tell him Operation Rescue is over, all those incarcerated today can expect to be released at a moment's notice.

The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

Smith trial judge to stay

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — William Kennedy Smith's trial judge on Tuesday refused to remove herself from the case.

Judge Mary Lupo of Palm Beach County Circuit denied the prosecutor's request in a one-sentence order.

Prosecutors had argued that Lupo had shown bias in her rulings and even her facial ex­pressions, and had lacked can­didness about potential personal conflicts in the case.

Lead prosecutor Moira Lasch also had accused Lupo of bias for postponing the trial until Jan. 13. Smith's attorneys responded Monday that the state motion had no legal basis and was an attempt to go "judge-shopping."

An appeal court removed Lupo from a 1989 personal-in­jury case on a defense request, but Smith's attorneys said that decision was based on Lupo's adversarial role, not her ex­pressions, and that the Florida Supreme Court ruled such ex­pressions were not grounds for removal.

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — A reporter who said he was investigating possible gov­ernment plot had traces of a painkiller and an anti-depress­ant in his blood when he died with his wrists slashed, author­i­ties said Tuesday.

A blood sample from Joseph Casolaro, 44, of Fairfax, Va., contained traces of Tylenol No. 3, which contains codeine, a narcotic, said Dr. Lawrence Frost, an assistant state medical examiner.

The doctor wore a bulletproof vest and has been the target of many threats. The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

The protesters are targeting Tiller because his clinic is one of few nationwide that perform late-term abortions.

But he added: "I think it's fair to say rescues were not as frequent as during the Summer of Mercy," and more frequent than in the past.

Kelly warned that if leaders step before him and tell him Operation Rescue is over, all those incarcerated today can expect to be released at a moment's notice.

The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

Smith's attorneys responded Monday that the state motion had no legal basis and was an attempt to go "judge-shopping."

An appeal court removed Lupo from a 1989 personal-in­jury case on a defense request, but Smith's attorneys said that decision was based on Lupo's adversarial role, not her ex­pressions, and that the Florida Supreme Court ruled such ex­pressions were not grounds for removal.

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — A reporter who said he was investigating possible gov­ernment plot had traces of a painkiller and an anti-depress­ant in his blood when he died with his wrists slashed, author­i­ties said Tuesday.

A blood sample from Joseph Casolaro, 44, of Fairfax, Va., contained traces of Tylenol No. 3, which contains codeine, a narcotic, said Dr. Lawrence Frost, an assistant state medical examiner.

The doctor wore a bulletproof vest and has been the target of many threats. The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

The protesters are targeting Tiller because his clinic is one of few nationwide that perform late-term abortions.

But he added: "I think it's fair to say rescues were not as frequent as during the Summer of Mercy," and more frequent than in the past.

Kelly warned that if leaders step before him and tell him Operation Rescue is over, all those incarcerated today can expect to be released at a moment's notice.

The judge also said he had no legal basis and was an "academic exercise" to deny the protesters their right to free speech.

Smith's attorneys responded Monday that the state motion had no legal basis and was an attempt to go "judge-shopping."

An appeal court removed Lupo from a 1989 personal-in­jury case on a defense request, but Smith's attorneys said that decision was based on Lupo's adversarial role, not her ex­pressions, and that the Florida Supreme Court ruled such ex­pressions were not grounds for removal.

FRESHMAN WELCOME WEEK
TODAY!

"FRESHMEN MOVIE NIGHT" * F R E E *

ENGIN EERING AUDITORIUM (CUSHING)
7:00 PM - 9:30 PM

Bus leaves ND Main Circle at 6:45 PM, 7:15 PM, 7:45 PM, 8:15 PM & 8:45 PM
All others at leaves
University Lanes at 10:00 PM

$1.75 per game w/ ND I.D.
Shoes: $1.30/pr.
FREE Transportation

For more information call 239-7308

Student Internships Available

Earn academic credit while gaining valuable "real" world experience.

For Law and Criminal Justice placements call Prof. Bryan Byers, 239-6585.

For urban planning, local government, social welfare, education and medical placements call Prof. Richard Lampman, 239-6585 or 234-2880.

Open to Juniors and Seniors only.
Course descriptions available in sociology department office, 325 O'Shaughnessy.
SENIOR PORTRAITS

SIGN UP AUGUST 27-30

NORTH DINING HALL
SOUTH DINING HALL
AND LAFORETUNE INFORMATION DESK
(9:00 A.M.-9:00 P.M.)

WHO: Class of 1992
WHEN: Pictures taken September 2-20
WHERE: Third Floor, LaFortune
WHY: To Be In 1992 DOME

Minimum sitting fee $10.00
Militants fight proposed nuclear plant

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Militant environmentalists staged a mock nuclear plant accident Tuesday in front of the state Capitol to protest a proposal to consolidate U.S. nuclear weapons plants in Tennessee.

The U.S. Energy Department scheduled hearings Wednesday and Thursday at Oak Ridge, one of five sites being considered for a new weapons production plant to be called Complex 21.

During the demonstration, sirens blared and white carbon dioxide flakes spattered from a fire extinguisher operated by a Greenpeace worker hidden in a box said to represent the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant near Denver.

Tom Clements of Atlanta, a Greenpeace campaigner against nuclear weapons, said the 10-second carbon dioxide shower represented nuclear fallout that Tennessee residents would see if they let the proposed plant be built.

"We're totally opposed to Oak Ridge receiving this nuclear plant," Clements told a small crowd on Legislative Plaza.

"Why is the United States government bent on modernizing its nuclear weapons capability now that the Cold War has ended? What this newly configured complex would mean is that the Cold War level of nuclear weapons would be maintained."

More than 300 people have signed up to testify at the DOE hearings, which a spokesperson said would not be allowed to become a forum for anti-nuclear comment.

"We're not here to solicit comments on the merits of reconfiguration of the weapons complex," said Howard Canter, the senior DOE official in Oak Ridge for the hearings.

"We're here to gather comment on the issues that should be addressed."

The push behind Complex 21 was Energy Secretary James Watkins' assessment that the nation's nuclear weapons building complex — 12 sites in 11 states — was too old and too spread out, and didn't pay enough attention to environmental consequences.

Clements also released a copy of a letter to Gov. Ned McWherter, urging him to withdraw his endorsement of efforts by Oak Ridge, site of nuclear weapons plants since World War II, to attract Complex 21.

"Your chance to speak out for peace, environmental clean up and economic conversion of the Oak Ridge area has arrived," said the letter.

Yugoslavian leaders try for peace

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Croatia's president expressed a slight hope for peace Tuesday night after meeting with Yugoslav military leaders to prevent fighting in the republic from escalating into all-out war.

Croatian officials indicated that if the talks failed they would call up all able-bodied young men for militia duty to fight federal troops and Serbian insurgents.

Croatian President Franjo Tudjman and his senior defense officials on Tuesday contended the army is ready to escalate the war imposed on Croatia. But whether anything will change remains to be seen.

Tudjman was scheduled to travel to Paris on Wednesday to confer with French President Francois Mitterrand. A Belgrade state news agency said Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, invited to go to Paris after the Tudjman, the Yugoslav state news agency Tanjug reported.

France and other European Community nations have acted as intermediaries to bring peace to the Balkan nation, but without success.

On Tuesday, European Community foreign ministers meeting in Brussels, Belgium, issued their most partisan statement on the crisis, endorsing claims by Croatia that Serbia is instigating attacks by the federal army and by ethnic Serb guerrillas to try to expand its borders.

Germany and Italy are urging the EC to recognize the June 25 independence declaration of Croatia and Slovenia if the fighting persists.

More than 250 people have died in the fighting involving Croatian security forces, Serb guerrillas and federal soldiers.

Croatian officials, who have been on the defensive in most of the fighting, indicated they were preparing to step up their attacks.

"Real war is being waged in a large part of Croatia," Croatian Deputy Premier Mato Crnic told reporters in Zagreb, Croatia's capital. "We think the government would take urgent measures, including a general mobilization, so that "the burden of war could be shared by all citizens." He predicted a "long, defensive war."

Serbia's deputy premier, Budimir Kovacevic, said in Belgrade that his republic would take "adequate measures in response to a general callup in Croatia. He did not specify what he meant.

Serbia is Yugoslavia's largest republic and one of the most independent for neighboring Croatia because of its large Serb minority. Ethnic Serbs dominate the Yugoslav army, and Croatia contends the army is aiding Serb rebels in the fighting, a charge the federal military denies.
Correction

In Rich Dolson’s column yesterday, the fourth article should have read: “Some arguments are worth thinking about.”

The Observer regrets the error.

Wednesday, August 28, 1991

Viewpoint

The following is the Viewpoint Department Policy:

I. All members of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s community may submit columns, letters to the editor, or cartoons to the Viewpoint department of The Observer. While individuals not associated with Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s community may submit columns, letters to the editor, and cartoons, the Viewpoint department gives priority to those individuals who are directly associated with the community.

II. All columns, letters to the editor, and cartoons submitted to the Viewpoint department become the property of The Observer. Any further use of these commentaries without the written consent of The Observer is prohibited. Non-profit organizations, those organizations which have a political agenda and those organizations of which The Observer is a member may be granted permission to publish commentaries with the permission of the managing editor and the Viewpoint editor. If the commentaries have not been printed in The Observer, the submitting author may return them to the author.

III. The Viewpoint department reserves the right to edit all commentaries submitted to the Viewpoint department. The Observer has no obligation to print commentaries submitted. Commentaries will not be printed if they are libelous or uninteresting.

IV. All commentaries submitted to The Observer must bear the signature of the author. Under no circumstance will anonymous commentaries appear in print. The signature of the author is an indication that the author is willing to be held accountable for his or her ideas.

V. Commentaries submitted as letters to the editor may be printed in number from the same individual or organization within the same academic semester. There is no limit to the number of times an individual or organization may have their commentaries appear in print as columnists.

VI. All commentaries printed in the Viewpoint section must be verified before being printed. The means of verification are left to the discretion of the Viewpoint editor.

VII. Only those individuals associated with the organization have the right to have their columns appear in the Viewpoint section. The primary author of the commentary is the individual(s), and the columns are signed by the organization being co-signed by the organization.

VIII. Commentaries which appear in the Viewpoint section may not have been printed previously in other newspapers, magazines or publications. Exceptions to this procedure are those organizations of which The Observer is a member, quotations used for commentaries and “Quote of the Day.” Syndicated columns are excluded from this procedure.

IX. The opinions expressed in the Viewpoint section are not necessarily those of the editorial board. House editorials appear in the Viewpoint section of The Observer. Regular columnists, those whose columns appear on a regular basis; guest columnists, those whose columns do not appear on a regular basis; letters to the editor; and cartoons are commentaries. Such status is determined by the Viewpoint editor in all incidences except when invited by the House editorial board to publish their work in the Viewpoint section. The Observer Editorial Guidelines and the Insta House Guidelines are included in the House Editorial Policy.

X. Paid employees of The Observer are not permitted to have their commentaries appear in the Viewpoint section as letters to the editor. Regular columnists and members of the Viewpoint staff also are not eligible to have their commentaries appear in the Viewpoint section as letters to the editor. The status of such columns is determined by the Viewpoint editor. Those whose column appearances in print in column form may not respond to criticism of that commentary in letters to the editor.

XI. This policy must be approved by the editorial board and can be amended by a majority vote of the editorial board. The policy applies to any individual who does not fall under the policy statement. The Observer reserves the right to print commentaries on any candidate or issue it wishes throughout the campaign period. At any time, the editor-in-chief or the Viewpoint editor may suspend this article.

XII. No commentaries of any kind will be printed in the Viewpoint section concerning and candidate for student government or hall office since the official campaign period has begun for that office. This ban on commentaries is to continue until the election for this position has been completed. The Observer reserves the right to comment on any candidate or issue it wishes throughout the campaign period. At any time, the editor-in-chief or the Viewpoint editor may suspend this article.

XIII. This policy is available to the public during normal business hours and must be prominently displayed in the Viewpoint department of The Observer.
'Think Happy Thoughts'

Cancer took Jay Kelly's life, but his spirit endures

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Editor in Chief

W hen Marianne Melnyk starts to get sad thinking about the loss of her friend and boyfriend Jay Kelly, something always happens that makes her smile and forget about the pain for a while. "I know that's Jay," she says.

According to friends, that's what Jay wanted—for his friends to be happy and not to let the sadness of the situation overcome them. When Jay would get depressed or scared about his illness, Melnyk would tell him, "Think happy thoughts. Not only do you tire yourself out, but you try only to think happy thoughts about the friend you lost prematurely.""Raymond Kelly IV, or Jay as he was known, died on July 15 after a two-year battle with cancer. University President Father Edward Malloy, a close friend of Jay's, presided at the Mass of Christian Burial in Flushing, Michigan.

Friends from Sorin Hall served as pallbearers at the mass. They included Andrew Pauline (a friend since high school), Torrence Murphy, John Evans, Jeremy Langford and Tom Gerth (also a friend since high school).

A resident of Sorin Hall, Jay was diagnosed with Ewing's sarcoma after his freshman year at Notre Dame, says Father Steve Newton, rector of Sorin. He was not able to come back for his sophomore year, but continued to take classes.

During what would have been his senior year, Jay was undergoing chemotherapy to fight off the cancer. A student in the Program of Liberal Studies at ND, Jay took courses at the University of Michigan-Flint when he was able.

During his junior year, Jay was able to return to ND and stayed as long as his health allowed him, according to Newton. He continued to come back and visit during what would have been the second semester of his junior year, even auditing some classes, Melnyk says.

Even though he was suffering a lot, he always seemed more concerned that his friends and family were all right, says Murphy. "If you met Jay, you would never know he was sick. He had an incredible ability to joke about his illness," says Pauline.

All who knew him attested to the fact that his sense of humor helped Jay get through the illness. "When Tom Gerth and I were at his house around the time he died, there were once tears, and he was breathing badly. He wasn't sleeping much and was tired. I thought, 'There's no way he's enjoying life.' But he had us laughing," says Jay.

Jay tried practically everything to help him rid his body of the cancer. During his two-year ordeal, he had an operation at Harvard University to remove a third of his pelvic bone, chemotherapy, radiation, immunotherapy, diet and a trip to the Lourdes shrine in France.

"He never wanted to give up," says Melnyk. Before Jay made his pilgrimage to Lourdes, Malloy asked him what he expected to find there. He replied that he didn't expect to be healed, but hoped to be given greater strength.

Friends attest to the fact that Jay had tremendous faith in God. Entries in his journal, which he kept from high school through his illness, are often concerning faith and his desire to help others.

"No matter how bad it got, he was always looking at what God had given him, not what He had taken away," says Murphy. "He really lived," agrees Langford. "We are all empowered to go on in his spirit.

Jay's attitude about God and life taught his friends to appreciate the gifts they have. "He created his own way of living which we can all learn from," says Langford. "If people could just live their lives like he did, the world would be an incredible place."

Frequently in his journal, excerpts of which Jay's father compiled for Jay's friends, Jay talks about life, death and God. His relationships with his friends were very important and among his goals for 1989 is to "Keep and get closer to all my friends."

In a letter he wrote to me, he said he wished everyone could know for one day how others really feel about them," says Langford. Jay told Pauline that he wished everyone could have the experience of the love and support he received.

To me, he really redefined quality of life," says Pauline. While one would expect Jay would be able to look past the pain in the beginning of the illness, Malloy says it was amazing that his attitude stayed positive until the end.

"I would ask myself, 'Could someone enjoy life like this?'" says Pauline. "But he did."

"Sometimes we learn more from the unexpected and the shocking than from the other things we do. In that sense, he was a great teacher," says Malloy.

Jay's family is very close and went through the stages of Jay's illness together, says Malloy. They spent a lot of time talking, crying and supporting one another, he says.

Jay's friends say it was ironic that his parents, Raymond Kelly III, and Kathleen Brennan Kelly, were supportive of them at a time they thought they were supposed to support the family. Jay's father gave an eloquent talk about Jay at the funeral, says Malloy.

Jay was the oldest of the five Kelly children including, two sisters, Deirdre and Laura, and two brothers, Tim and David. He also was survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kelly Jr., and Mrs. Roger Brennan.

He was preceded at Notre Dame by his father grandfather and great-grandfather. He loved Notre Dame and never gave up trying to return home, says Malloy.

His parents request that anyone wishing to make a donation in Jay's name may do so to the St. Robert Catholic School in Flushing, Georgetown Prep School in Washington, D.C., or the University of Notre Dame (c/o Chris Carlin, 212 Main Building).

A University-wide memorial mass is being planned for Jay, but no date has been set as of yet. A journal entry dated April 2, 1989, said, "Pain is temporary. Victory is forever." (Notre Dame Spring Football, 1989) As Murphy says, "Cancer wasn't the winner—Jay's spirit was victorious.”

Top: Jay Kelly hangs out in a Notre Dame dorm room. Above: Jay and his brothers and sisters good around in their home in Flushing, Mich. From front are David, Tim, Jay, Deirdre, and Laura.

Final entry in Jay Kelly's Journal

June 30, 1991
To Everyone I Love—

Well, if one page is all I have, then I'll have to do with it what I can. We've all been given a certain amount and I guess the thing is to do the best we can with it.

The only thing I can get out right now is thanks. Everyone around me has made my life so wonderful—I wouldn't change a thing. Yes, some may say that I've been short-changed or spent too much of it in pain. All of that is a part of life—and I truly believe that life is the most precious thing around.

Thanks for the memories. When I look back, the only thing that I see are smiles and laughter. I could go on writing for hours and I'd never be close to finished. Hopefully, I've brightened up some of your days, but I really hope I can do more of that in the future. I hope that when you think of me, you think of the good times, because that is how I'll remember you.

I wish that I had time to tell each one of you how I feel—but you'll have to take this. So I'll say... Know that I love you—that is, I feel, my greatest gift. Please accept it, and know that you've made one man's life the greatest in the world.

Catch you on the flip side.

Love,
Jay
FURNISHED ROOMS, ALL BILLS PAID, GREAT AREA, CLOSE TO U, 287-0650.

WANTED

BABYSITTING, NEEDED IN HOME GAMES. OTHER MISC. TIMES AVAILABLE. CALL 4-4011.

GOLF SHOP AT LOCAL PRIVATE HOME GAMES - OTHER MISC. 234-2354.

ATTENTION: STUDENTS! We have extra Purdue tix. happy birthday Joe Roberts. Call me! I'm in the same place as Joe Roberts.

ATTENTION DANCE STUDENTS: Call 255-4611.

CLASSIFIEDS

FURNISHED ROOM, ALL UTILITIES INCLUDED. 5 M.P. N. CAMPUS. 272-2552.

STUDENT RESIDENTS, CLOSE TO ND. E-fee only. One-room place available.

Next to other student housing. 234-2081 in 234 Ditch area.

3 BEDROOM HOME, CLOSE TO ND. 277-6004.

INJURED FURNISHED HOME, CLOSE TO ND. 277-6004.

FOR RENT - LARGE HOME, 2.5 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $390 MO. UTIL. INCL. 255-0035.

FURNISHED HOME, 2 BEDROOMS, AVAILABLE 4/27, 380-5100.

FURNISHED HOME, 2 BEDROOMS, AVAILABLE 4/18, 255-5050.

FURNISHED ROOM, AS KITCHEN, PHONE, PRIVATE ENTRANCE, UNUTILIZED, 5 M.P. N. CAMPUS. 272-5005.

ROOM FOR RENT - LARGE HOME, 2.5 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $390 MO. UTIL. INCL. 255-0035.

NEAR ND - 3 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $355 RECENTLY REFURBISHED. 277-3174.

FOR RENT - LARGE HOME, 2.5 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $390 MO. UTIL. INCL. 255-0035.

NEED 10 TENNESSEE GATIX.

FOR RENT - LARGE HOME, 2.5 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $355 RECENTLY REFURBISHED. 277-3174.

FURNISHED HOME, 2 BEDROOMS, AVAILABLE 4/27, 380-5100.

FURNISHED ROOM, AS KITCHEN, PHONE, PRIVATE ENTRANCE, UNUTILIZED, 5 M.P. N. CAMPUS. 272-5005.

ROOM FOR RENT - LARGE HOME, 2.5 BEDROOMS FROM ND, $390 MO. UTIL. INCL. 255-0035.
NEW YORK (AP) — This was Ivan Lendl's kind of match, one of those brutally long five-set epics that suited the Czech star where it all came down to pain and destiny.

He is the Charles Darwin of tennis, the true believer in survival of the fittest. Nothing pleases him more than to see an opponent stall in the heat or stagger to the finish, especially if the opponent is younger.

For Lendl, the night he celebrated that age has nothing to do with stamina, stamina, stamina, stamina, stamina and all the weights and lifts are worth the effort.

Lendl survived Tuesday as he has in the past, coming back from two sets down and two match points from defeat in the first round of the U.S. Open to beat hard-surfacing, net-charging 19-year-old Richard Krajicek 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, 7 (7-5), 6-0.

When the sun was its hottest, when Krajicek was at his weakest, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's. And, with three days off to regroup, Lendl was ready at game-time.

"I don't think there's anything I need to do," Lendl said. "If I was 18, I'd probably go out like a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's, Lendl looked fresh as a dog's."

\"I was really Urling in my opinion."

And at exactly that moment, when Krajicek was at his weakest, Lendl showed him what it takes to win, getting on his toes and bouncing a few times as if it were the first game of the day.

Krajicek, one of several strong young players from the Netherlands, seemed on his way to an upset of the No. 5 seed as he uncorked 120 mph serves and ruled the net in the first two sets while Lendl stayed cautiously at the baseline. But it is never wise to count Lendl out of a match, especially if he spots a weakness in an opponent. In this case, Lendl saw Krajicek in the third set and make mistakes, especially on his backhand. Lendl responded by drilling shot after shot to the backhand.

"He wasn't serving it hard in the third set for some reason," Lendl said. "He was slowing down very quickly, and once I had got my foot in the door, I didn't want to let him close it. I wanted him to open it more and more."

The door opened just enough to give Lendl a chance to lose the match in the fourth set, but then it looked ready to close again when Krajicek broke Lendl's serve with brilliant forehands to go ahead 5-2.

Krajicek, weary and eager to end, smashed a perfect 19 aces to take a 40-15 lead and hold two match points. Lendl, reluctant to let set No. 3 of the match, attacked with a volley that forced an error by Krajicek, then fought off the second match point with a backhand winner.

"On the first one, I said to myself, 'You better make this one,'" Lendl said. And then I saw him moving really badly to that shot, so I thought he isn't moving. So, next one, when he missed the first serve. I made sure you push it in so he has to move to it. You don't miss it. You toe the line. And it turned out to be a winner."

Lendl broke Krajicek, with a volley winner and a forehand, then pushed harder in the tiebreaker while the teenager wilted. Krajicek double-faulted to fall behind 6-5 after holding a 4-2 lead, then lost the set when he couldn't reach a short overhead backhand volley by Lendl.

The victory allowed Lendl to avoid his earliest exit in a Grand Slam event since Wimbledon in the first round in 1981 in a five-setter against Charlie Pasarell.

He has come back from two sets down to even a match seven times in his career, winning four and losing three. At Wimbledon earlier this summer, he came back from two sets down to beat MaliVai Washington.

Lendl wasn't the only high seed to encounter trouble, although none suffered the fate of his 1987 U.S. Open semifinal opponent, Agassi. No. 2 Stefan Edberg beat Bryan Shelton 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 (7-4), 6-1; No. 3 Michael Stich beat Jacco Eltingh 7-6 (7-5), 6-1, 6-1, 6-2; No. 6 Sergi Bruguera beat Edouard Tuset 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Nevertheless, his coach at the front office suggested that Lendl didn't make a "dreadful" mistake.

"I think now we're young, we know we're inexperienced," Detmer entered his senior year. "But this is the year we'll find out if our Seminoles are, indeed, the nation's best team.

"We've talked about how good they are," he said before the game. "But this is the year we'll find out if we're No. 1. I'd never been there, my players had never been there. It's our act. I hope now we know how to act."

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden said Tuesday it's time to face the same teams back to back.

"The possibility of the club acquiring a starter from outside the Midwest is something the team can no longer be discounted, though it will be difficult for any player the Twins covet to slide through waivers."

"I don't think we can afford to let those two players go."

"I think we can expect moving the pitching around some," general manager Andy MacPhail said. "With the condition of Tapani and Morris, I think you can expect to see the starting pitching around posted so that those guys will not have to face the same teams back to back."

ANAHIIM, Calif. (AP) — How do you celebrate the career of a Heisman Trophy season? Try Detmer faces such a challenge this year, and he's also coming off surgery to repair a separated right shoulder.

Nevertheless, his coach at Brigham Young says Detmer will do just fine.

"I don't think there's any question he can get better quarterback than he was last year," LaVell Edwards said.

"I just think with a couple more days of work, he will be a better quarterback than he was last year," said Edwards.

\"In 1988, they picked us to win the national championship. Now, they're saying, \'No, we're in a position for a preseason No. 1 ranking for the second straight year. They can only hope for the same result — they upset Miami 28-21 in 1990.\""
Manley, released Monday, picked up by Bucs as crunch time nears

(AP)—Dexter Manley, cut by the Cardinals on Monday, was picked up by the Buccaneers. Tampa Bay also claimed ex-Jet defensive lineman Gerald Nicholls, and former Viking cornerback Alzono Hampton.

The Buccaneers also traded starting linebacker Ervin Bandle to the Chiefs for a draft choice.

Minnesota placed Keith Millard, the 1989 NFL Defensive player of the year, on injured reserve.

"He's just not ready to play," coach Jerry Burns said. "He was disappointed, but he realizes that."

Millard, who'll miss at least four games, injured his knee in last year's fourth game and was out the rest of the season after undergoing reconstructive surgery. The defensive tackle played during the preseason but was a shadow of his former self.

The Cardinals placed Eric Swann, their untested first-round draft choice, and another rookie on injured reserve and claimed wide receivers Amod Field and John Jackson.

Swann, the sixth player taken overall, and Greg Amsler, an eighth-round selection, were on the 47-man Phoenix roster after the cutoff. They must remain on injured reserve at least four weeks, missing games against the Rams, Eagles and Redskins and the Sept. 22 home opener against the Cowboys.

In addition to the other veterans reclaimed, the Redskins reactivated a half-dozen players including running back Gerald Biggs after putting a similar number on PUP.

And the Seahawks brought back wide receiver Paul Skansi and running back Darren Comeaux, who had been waived on Monday.

The 49ers, meanwhile, re-claimed punter Ralf Majelejienko, guard Tom Neville and center Dean Caliguire.

The Broncos, who placed wide receiver Vance Johnson among others on injured reserve, reclaimed kick returner Kevin Clark.

Notre Dame
Live Up to Its Word

Read the following excerpts from a 1988 University Task Force Report and compare them to the actions listed below.

WORLDS

In 1988, Notre Dame said:

"We cannot...in discussing sexuality, including homosexuality, beMsour...sexual orientation...[we cannot]...H we are serious...about educating students..."...

Evidence from many quarters indicates a widespread attitude that elects homosexual persons, which is contrary to the Christian value of the institution, a change of attitude must be brought about particularly among our students, we must..."..."...

The University should formulate and publish a policy statement which addresses the need for an atmosphere of tolerance, respect, and nondiscrimination for all persons without regard to sexual orientation..."...

The University should broaden access to campus meeting places and to channels for public notice of meetings for members of the University Community interested in discussing issues related to sexuality, including homosexuality..."...

ACTIONS

In 1991, Notre Dame:

continued to prevent liaison, gay and lesbian students from meeting on campus;

revised guidelines to specifically permit clubs of the gay and lesbian groups and leadership of gay and lesbian groups;

continued to deny employment to persons based on sexual orientation;

Gay and lesbian students and their supporters think it's time for Notre Dame's actions to catch up with its words.

To help the students who have helped us we are offering 10% off with College I.D.

Follow Douglas Road to:
50760 U.S. 31 North
South Bend, Indiana 46637
(219) 272-4500

Additional 10% off with College I.D.

With a defense anchored by senior linebacker Mark D'Onofrio, Penn State has hopes for a national championship season.

Tech
continued from p. 20

9. Oklahoma. A good team last year, it should be interesting to see how Gary Gibbs handles this season. The Sooners must battle Nebraska and Colorado for Big Eight bragging rights, but Texas should prove the only other serious competition on their schedule.

10. Colorado. For the Buffaloes' sakes, the world can only hope that head coach Bill McCartney learned a very valuable lesson by kicking to Notre Dame's Raghib "Rocket" Ismail in the closing minutes of the 1991 Orange Bowl. The Buffaloes are lucky that the Rocket did not blow their dream season to buffalo chips, but, seeing as Oklahoma and Nebraska are the toughest competition that the Buffs will face (no more Texas, Tennessee, or Washington), McCartney may just get another chance to make Colorado rue the day it gave him his 10-year contract.
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lenny Dykstra's latest bout with misfortune is one he can't forget 1991. The Phillies' hard-charging center fielder is out for the season after making a running catch Monday night at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, then crashing into the wall and breaking his collarbone.

It was the right collarbone, the same one broken in a May 6 car crash that seriously injured both Dykstra and teammate Darren Daulton. The collarbone wasn't fully healed when he returned six weeks ago.

"I'm kind of hurtin' right now, but I can't do nothing about what's happened. All I can do is say something about what's going to happen in the future," Dykstra said when he arrived Tuesday at Philadelphia International Airport.

With his season over, Dykstra seemed ready to write it off.

"I'm looking forward to next year and getting ready to go," he said, "there was only a month left, anyway.

"I made a spectacular grab in the second inning Monday night after Chris Sabo hit a line drive to deep right center about two steps from the wall.

His right shoulder absorbed the blow as he slammed full speed into the outfield wall.

"I just went for it as hard as I could, but the minute I hit the wall I knew I had messed it up," he told the Philadelphia Daily News.

"As soon as I came in I went down the tunnel. I took a couple swings. You always think you're going to be able to go. I knew I wasn't going to be able to go, I knew it was broken," he told the paper.

He was examined in Philadelphia by team physician Dr. Philip Marone, who said the fracture was along the line of the previous fracture.

"It's been four months — the worst part is the area that fractured," Marone said. For Dykstra, the impact with the unforgiving wall was the final crushing blow in a season of controversy and pain, much of it stemming from an intense approach to baseball and life.

"He plays real hard. He gives up his body a lot," said Sabo, who hit the bases-loaded shot that Dykstra chased down. "He made the catch for the team and now he's probably done."

In July, Marone had called it "a calculated risk" for Dykstra to return with the collarbone not fully healed, "as long as he understands and I think he understands.

Understands what? "That he can't play in walls, and dive into bases like he does," the doctor had said.

"Lenny came back when he knew it was broken, " he told the Daily News.

"I just went for it as hard as I could, but the minute I hit the wall I knew I had messed it up," he told the Philadelphia Daily News.

"As soon as I came in I went down the tunnel. I took a couple swings. You always think you're going to be able to go. I knew I wasn't going to be able to go, I knew it was broken," he told the paper.

He was examined in Philadelphia by team physician Dr. Philip Marone, who said the fracture was along the line of the previous fracture.

"It's been four months — the worst part is the area that fractured," Marone said. For Dykstra, the impact with the unforgiving wall was the final crushing blow in a season of controversy and pain, much of it stemming from an intense approach to baseball and life.

"He plays real hard. He gives up his body a lot," said Sabo, who hit the bases-loaded shot that Dykstra chased down. "He made the catch for the team and now he's probably done."

In July, Marone had called it "a calculated risk" for Dykstra to return with the collarbone not fully healed, "as long as he understands and I think he understands.

Understands what? "That he can't play in walls, and dive into bases like he does," the doctor had said.

"Lenny came back when he knew it was broken, " he told the Daily News.

"I just went for it as hard as I could, but the minute I hit the wall I knew I had messed it up," he told the Philadelphia Daily News.

"As soon as I came in I went down the tunnel. I took a couple swings. You always think you're going to be able to go. I knew I wasn't going to be able to go, I knew it was broken," he told the paper.

He was examined in Philadelphia by team physician Dr. Philip Marone, who said the fracture was along the line of the previous fracture.

"It's been four months — the worst part is the area that fractured," Marone said. For Dykstra, the impact with the unforgiving wall was the final crushing blow in a season of controversy and pain, much of it stemming from an intense approach to baseball and life.

"He plays real hard. He gives up his body a lot," said Sabo, who hit the bases-loaded shot that Dykstra chased down. "He made the catch for the team and now he's probably done."

In July, Marone had called it "a calculated risk" for Dykstra to return with the collarbone not fully healed, "as long as he understands and I think he understands.

Understands what? "That he can't play in walls, and dive into bases like he does," the doctor had said.

"Lenny came back when he knew it was broken, " he told the Daily News.

"I just went for it as hard as I could, but the minute I hit the wall I knew I had messed it up," he told the Philadelphia Daily News.

"As soon as I came in I went down the tunnel. I took a couple swings. You always think you're going to be able to go. I knew I wasn't going to be able to go, I knew it was broken," he told the paper.

He was examined in Philadelphia by team physician Dr. Philip Marone, who said the fracture was along the line of the previous fracture.

"It's been four months — the worst part is the area that fractured," Marone said. For Dykstra, the impact with the unforgiving wall was the final crushing blow in a season of controversy and pain, much of it stemming from an intense approach to baseball and life.

"He plays real hard. He gives up his body a lot," said Sabo, who hit the bases-loaded shot that Dykstra chased down. "He made the catch for the team and now he's probably done."

In July, Marone had called it "a calculated risk" for Dykstra to return with the collarbone not fully healed, "as long as he understands and I think he understands.

Understands what? "That he can't play in walls, and dive into bases like he does," the doctor had said.

"Lenny came back when he knew it was broken, " he told the Daily News.

Players hope injury brings padded walls

CINCINNATI (AP) — Players want pads on the unforgiving outfield wall at Riverfront Stadium. They hope Lenny Dykstra's injury finally brings some action.

"The Phillies' center fielder broke his right collarbone Monday night when he ran full- speed into the wall after making an over-the-shoulder catch. Dykstra's teammates were angry, blaming the unpadded plywood wall. And Reds player representative John Vincent.

"Great catch, great play," shortstop Dick Thon told the Daily News. "Now are we going to be affected by this? We'll find out right away. But he's big. He's one of the best players in the league, so, sure, we're going to miss him."

Dykstra finished his season with a .297 average, among Phillies regulars, a .390 on-base percentage and 24 stolen bases. But he's not batting .279.

"He's leadoff guy, he plays great defense and he's going all-out," Ricky Jordan told The Philadelphia Inquirer. "It's tough to replace all that."

"I came back the club played real good," he said. "I think we've got a positive winning attitude that can carry over to next year."

Controversy started in spring training when Dykstra admitted in court that he played high-stakes poker several years ago. He was placed on probation for a year by commissioner Fay Vincent.

Then came May 6, when he drove his Mercedes sports car into two trees in Radar Township, breaking his collarbone, cheekbone and three ribs. Daulton, the Phillies' catcher and Dykstra's passenger, fractured a bone near his eye.

Dykstra's blood-alcohol count was 0.179 percent, police said, well above the legal limit of 0.10 percent. He still faces drunken-driving charges.

Last week, a Florida newspaper reported that Dykstra had received three traffic tickets nearly after hitting a school crossing guard in 1988 and swearing at her. He also got two speeding tickets in Missouri in 1988 and 1990.

Four National League stadiums don't have padded fences: Wrigley Field, Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, Candlestick Park and Riverfront.

"The money they have tied up in players and their contracts and they don't do it," Greg Furgi told Monday night. "I'm not saying he wouldn't have busted it anyway if the wall was padded. But there's a good chance he wouldn't have."

Dykstra agreed about the padding.

"How much would it cost?" he said. "No matter what, it would be worth it."
Mackovic, Illini lose receiver Mueller to congenital health problem

CHAMPAIN, Ill. (AP) — No one likely will miss wide receiver Steven Mueller, who was ranked No. 3 in last year's preseason poll.

Mueller, who gave up football for medical reasons, was Verduzco's favorite pass target and his roommate.

"I know what he was thinking," East Carolina's Becky East said Tuesday. "It hurts when he's not going to be there."

Coach John Mackovic told reporters, then Verduzco, that Mueller had given up football on his doctor's advice. A specialist detected a narrowing in Mueller's spinal column.

"Football is a collision sport," said Mackovic. "He faced an increased risk with football. This has been a difficult decision for him personally and for our team."

Mueller, a junior from Valparaiso, Ind., underwent tests after taking a hard hit in practice. But Mackovic said the problem was congenital.

Mackovic said the loss of Mueller, who caught 32 passes for 496 yards last season, complicates preparation for Saturday's opening game against East Carolina.

Mackovic said he would look to some young players to help experienced wide receivers Gus Palma, John Wright and Elbert Turner. The loss of Mueller wouldn't reduce the passing attack, Mackovic said.

Iowa had the No. 2 passing game in the Big Ten last season, completing 64 percent of its passes for 2,696 yards and 17 touchdowns.

"We've got to find a way to produce some pressure on Verduzco," said East Carolina coach Bill Lewis. "We've got to keep him in the pocket...contain him...limit the time he has to throw the football."

Mackovic said a key for Illinois will be stopping East Carolina's option-oriented offense, led by senior quarterback Jeff Blake.

"He can run the option or he can fake and drop back and throw the ball," said Mackovic.

The Pirates rushed for 1,996 yards and passed for another 1,605 in a 5-6 season in 1990.

Bo's ready to get to know the majors

HOOVER, Ala. (AP) — Bo Jackson's three-game minor league hitting streak was in place when he reported Monday night for the Birmingham Barons, although the larger issue of his preparation for a return to the major leagues continues.

Jackson, who had four hits in 10 at-bats in two games with Class A Sarasota and in Monday night's game with the AA Birmingham Barons, drew a walk in the first inning Tuesday night at Rickwood Field in Charlotte. He subsequently scored ahead of Kevin Garner's home run, which ended the Barons' Birmingham scoreless streak.

"I'm laying the foundation for that."

Despite doubts in some quarters, Jackson said he's sure he'll be back in the majors with the White Sox. "Everything is going fine."

Toretta gets nod for 'Canes, backup QB Fortay quits

Mackovic, Illini lose receiver Mueller to congenital health problem

CORAEL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Memories of a year ago remain fresh for the Miami Hurricanes as they prepare to open the season Saturday at Arkansas.

In last season's opener, Brigham Young upset then-No. 1 Miami, 28-21. The loss probably cost the Hurricanes their fourth national championship since 1983.

"They all know that for us to have a successful season, they'll have to win that first game," coach Dennis Erickson said Tuesday. "They all know what happened last year, and they all remember what that plane ride back was like."

Miami blasted Texas 46-3 in the Cotton Bowl to finish 10-2 and was ranked No. 3 in last season's Associated Press poll. The Hurricanes are also rated third in this year's AP preseason poll.

"It's nice to be ranked," Erickson said. "That's always a great feeling. If you're ranked high and continue to win, at the end of the day you've got a chance to compete for the national championship."

Most sports television deals resulting in losses

(AP)—In 16 months television spent $8.5 billion in a shopping spree for big sports events. So what do fans get out of it?

More junk sports, less to see overall and bigger bills. Almost every one of the recent megadeal deals has resulted in huge losses for the networks, and they're determined not to let it happen again.

We can only hope that reality will set in for negotiations next time around," said Dennis Lewin, senior vice president at ABC Sports. "Last time around, really just wasn't there."

The new reality means more expensive, made-for-TV sports, independent productions, pay-per-view and less sports on the air in general.

NFC, for example, has added professional beach volleyball, celebrity golf and nine-on-three-on-three basketball to its programming. And the networks have invested more than just time in these events. Now, they're exercising control over the sports it televises. NFC, owns at least a part of all these events.

"Seventeen years ago when we were investing enormous sums in major sports properties, and at the end of the day, we had nothing to show for it," said measurement consultant Peter Schanzer, executive vice president of NBC Sports. "We owned no equity, and if those properties decided to go elsewhere, our investment was gone."

Much was the case with baseball, which, after a 49-year association with NBC, sold itself to CBS and ESPN two years ago.

Another partial solution is selling sports to independent producers, who then assume the risk. In July, ABC sold 11 time slots to Raycom, which will produce college basketball games for the network. And last month, former NBC executive producer Michael Weisman was named president of a new production company, Davis Sports Entertainment of Los Angeles, to take advantage of that trend.

Instead of employing huge production staffs of 30 to 40 people, "the trend is hiring part-time independent companies, paying them a fee, and eliminating a lot of big salaries and overhead," Weisman said.

Most sports television deals resulting in losses

SATURDAY, August 31 & Sunday Sept. 1

Mentalist, ESP Show, Psychic, Magician

8:00 pm Washington Hall
Tickets: $3.00 on sale at Lafortune Information Desk
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — When Shawn Jones was a freshman at Georgia Tech, 200 people showed up for an appreciation day and "half of them were players." This year, 3,000 fans mobbed the junior quarterback and his teammates.

"It was amazing," Jones said. "It seemed like everyone wanted my autograph. I was signing posters, helmets, jerseys — you name it. I even signed a $20 bill for one guy."

Tech's popularity has soared since it won a share of the national championship last season. The Yellow Jackets went 11-0-1, finished first in the coaches' poll and second to Colorado in the AP poll.

Despite the success, many Tech players feel the team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves. "A lot of people think last season was a fluke," said wide receiverconference. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

Wednesday night's Kickoff Classic at Giants Stadium. Although it's the first game of a long season, Ross said, Tech's popularity has soared since it won a share of the national championship last season.

"The only time I've ever beaten Joe Paterno was in the coin flip before the game," Ross said.

"Nobody has beaten Ross since Duke downed Tech 30-19 on Oct. 28, 1989," The Yellow Jackets enter the season with a 1-0-1 record against the Lions. The only blemish was a 13-13 tie with North Carolina midway through last season.

"We don't dwell on the streak," tight end Tom Covington said. "All we care about is working hard and playing up to our potential."

The Yellow Jackets have plenty of potential with an offense led by Jones and a veteran defense anchored by All-American Ken Seals. Ross expects injuries and suspensions to have left them with virtually no experience at running back. Starting fullback Jimly Linco and Tech's top two fullbacks, David Hendrix and Michael Smith, are redshirt freshmen who have never played a down in their careers.

"Once they get through the first series, they'll be fine," Ross said. "They're all talented."

Penn State has 13 starters back from last year's team, which won nine straight games and advanced to the Orange Bowl. But Paterno said the Lions 44-6 in the inaugural game in 1983.

Paterno didn't want his team to start the season so early, especially with tough games later on against

DALLAS (AP) — American League umpire Steve Palermo, who was shot in the back last month while chasing four robbery suspects, said Tuesday he is neither angry at his assailants norsorry he got in their way.

"I think my wife got the anger. I don't have the anger," Palermo said at an emotional news conference at the Dallas Rehabilitation Institute.

He also said he won't mince words. "I will walk again. Long before their punishment may be up. So who got the worst part of the deal?"

"I'm going to walk again. Long before their punishment may be up. So who got the worst part of the deal?"

The 41-year-old Palermo was able only to wiggle two toes on his right foot when he entered the rehabilitation institute July 15, but now he is walking slowly with braces and forearm crutches.

Dr. John Milani, medical director of the institute's Spinal Cord Unit, said the prognosis is good for Palermo's continued recovery but added it was impossible to tell what extent Palermo will improve or if he would be able to return to work.

But Palermo didn't mince words. "I will walk again," he said. "And I will umpire again. You can make book on it."

Milani said Palermo, shot in the tip of the spinal cord, has paralysis in his legs in which the spinal cord is injured to a point that causes difficulty in the use of the lower extremities.

"I'm going to walk again. Long before their punishment may be up. So who got the worst part of the deal?"

Palermo, an AL umpire since 1977, ran outside about 1:30 a.m. along with former Southern Methodist defensive tackle Terence Mann and restaurant owner Corky Campisi when a bartender saw four men trying to rob two waitresses near the restaurant.

"He just said two of the girls are getting beat up out there," Palermo recounted. "They're getting robbed. And we just sprung out of there."

Paterno and Mann chased the would-be robbers and caught one. The other three fled, then returned and one of them shot Palermo and Mann, police said.

Mann, who was shot in the chin, right arm and stomach, was released after being hospitalized for several days. The four suspects, including a juvenile, were captured and another was charged with two counts of attempted capital murder. Their trial is scheduled to begin July 22.

Palermo said he had no second thoughts about being a good Samaritan.

"As far as doing anything differently, the league president asked me that once when I messed up a play and I thought I had gotten it right," Palermo recounted. "And then all these replays showed I had gotten it wrong."

"But prior to me seeing the replays, he said, 'Would you have done anything differently?' I said no."

"He said, 'Well, you would have screwed it up twice then.' And I guess I'd of screwed this up twice, too. Because I'd have done the same thing."

"He said, 'Well, you would have screwed it up twice then.' And I guess I'd of screwed this up twice, too. Because I'd have done the same thing."

"I'm going to walk again. Long before their punishment may be up. So who got the worst part of the deal?"

"And I don't know how much time. But that's what I got a lot of right now — and hopefully I've got a lot of time."

Palermo also downplayed notions that he was a hero. "I don't think we're heroes. Our folks are heroes," he said. "Look at how we were helped. Obviously, we must have had some kind of upbringing that allowed us to walk through the door after those guys."

After the news conference, Palermo strapped on the braces and walked for the first time with his physical therapist Gwen Tao, photographers and television cameras recording every step.

At one point, he looked ex­ citedly at Tao, and exclaimed, "You know, I just remembered something. You're not holding me!"

The 41-year-old Palermo was able only to wiggle two toes on his right foot when he entered the rehabilitation institute July 15, but now he is walking slowly with braces and forearm crutches.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.

"We were lucky to go undefeated," Ross said. "The team hasn't gotten the respect it deserves."

"A lot of people think last season was a fluke," Jones said. "It's a chance for us to show that we can play with the best teams," Jones said.
Tickets continued from p. 20

Those purchasing tickets are in for a shock, as this year's ticket will be on perforated sheets, not perforated sheets. The change in format is due to the lack of demand for legitimate tickets. Students purchase tickets by entering their student identification numbers in a computer system, which allows for a detailed traceability of ticket sales.
M E N U  C R O S S W O R D

Notre Dame
Welcome Back Picnic, Stepan Field
Homestyle Chicken Sandwich
Smoked Thuringer
Hamburgers
Saint Mary’s
Turkey Cutlets
Beef Stew
Vegetarian Chili
Deli Bar

ACROSS
1. Indian tourist mecca
2. Minutes of a meeting
3. Tried for office
4. Trying to achieve
6. Game, Prefix with social
7. Flowery display
8. Style
9. Certain flowering layout
10. Musical bell town
11. Speech part
12. Hyphen
13. Family member
14. Kind of church feast
15. Certificate
16. Low level
17. Turkey
18. Sulkies
20. Ground grain
21. Eur. neighbor
23. Getting along
24. Spreiten
25. Verb
26. Hybrid music
27. Write
28. Ground grain
29. Loyal subject
30. Disney’s inventive mouse
31. Pod inhabitant
32. Wield man
33. Poor
34. Wet
35. Fatty
36. Exploit
37. Jaunt
38. Type of penguin
39. Type of penguin
40. Help for a troubled S.&L.
41. “— , Satan!”
42. Fla. county
43. Mascagni opera, for short
44. Goof
45. “— , Satan!”
46. “— , Satan!”
47. A M ascagni opera, for short
48. Premium on exchange
49. South Pacific island
50. Pearl
51. Batters’ stats
52. Lingo
53. Jamaican citrus fruit
54. Perfume
55. Ginger Stevens
56. Female deer

DOWN
1. Eur. neighbor
2. Look at
3. Slang
4. Ethnic group
5. Some socks
6. Falling along
7. Explosive
8. Greek marketplaces
9. Certain flowering layout
10. Longfellow’s bell town
11. Longfellow’s bell town
12. Package stamp
13. In the house
14. Prefix with social
15. Hyphen
16. Hyphen
17. Hyphen
18. Hyphen
19. Hyphen
20. Hyphen
21. Hyphen
22. Hyphen
23. Hyphen
24. Hyphen
25. Hyphen
26. Hyphen
27. Hyphen
28. Hyphen
29. Hyphen
30. Hyphen
31. Hyphen
32. Hyphen
33. Hyphen
34. Hyphen
35. Hyphen
36. Hyphen
37. Hyphen
38. Hyphen
39. Hyphen
40. Hyphen
41. Hyphen
42. Hyphen
43. Hyphen
44. Hyphen
45. Hyphen
46. Hyphen
47. Hyphen
48. Hyphen
49. Hyphen
50. Hyphen
51. Hyphen
52. Hyphen
53. Hyphen
54. Hyphen
55. Hyphen
56. Hyphen
57. Hyphen
58. Hyphen
59. Hyphen
60. Hyphen
61. Hyphen
62. Hyphen

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
ANSWERS TO ANY THREE CLUES IN THIS PUZZLE ARE AVAILABLE BY TOUCH-TONE PHONE: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).
Irish women's tennis making presence felt on national level

By RICH SZABO
Sports Writer

After achieving a first-ever national ranking and sending two players to the NCAA tournament, the Notre Dame women's tennis team is not about to become complacent. The Irish return all but one player from last year's team which finished the regular season ranked 25th in the country. The Brown Invitational, followed by victories over Yale, Brown, and Tennessee expected to participate. After hosting the Midwest College Conference Championships, and competing in the Rokuus Regionals, the Irish will finish the fall with a dual match against Tennessee, a team that finished 13th in the country last year.

Last year's national exposure, the Irish will be ready to contend with the pressures of facing the top-caliber teams. "The team is definitely more experienced this year, and making the tournament is still our main goal," said junior Melissa Harris. "Last year, being close matches to some of the good teams helped us, and we feel that we can compete with anyone."

Senior captain Tracy Barton agreed, but even further this year. I'm looking forward to pitting some of the big name teams again. We def.

The fall season consists mainly of pre-season tournaments, which ended the regular season, and sending players Tracy Barton and Melissa Harris to the NCAA's. This taste of national ranking and sending players to the NCAA's has them reaching for new heights.

"Last year was a new situation for us," said coach Jay Louderback, "that experience should make things easier for this year. I think the players expect to be in the top 25, and we will be better as a team, so we may move up in the rankings."

"We came extremely close to making the NCAA tournament as a team last year," continued Louderback. "And this year everyone will believe that we have a solid shot at it. The more we think we can do something, the quicker it will happen."

The fall season consists mainly of tournaments and intercollegiate play, and the team will be hosting the Irish Invitational in early October, competing against teams such as Kentucky, Illinois, Ohio State, and Purdue. The Brown Invitational follows, with Pennsylvania, Yale, Brown, and Tennessee expected to participate. After hosting the Midwest College Conference Championships, and competing in the Rokuus Regionals, the Irish will finish the fall with a dual match against Tennessee, a team that finished 13th in the country last year.

Senior Tracy Barton seeks her third straight appearance in the NCAA women's tournament.

1989-90, the Irish went 16-9 last year against a much tougher schedule, one that included 12 ranked teams. Louderback's efforts have produced strong recruiting and will undoubtedly continue to do so in the coming years.

ND football ticket sales begin tomorrow for seniors

By DAVE DIETEMAN
Sports Editor

Distribution of Notre Dame student football tickets is scheduled to begin Thursday, August 29 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Gate 10 of the JACC. Students who have not received their I.D. cards, ticket applications and remittance (cash or check) to the JACC, Students will be allowed to carry a maximum of four I.D.'s and four applications each.

The remainders of the tickets will be distributed as follows: Juniors, Friday, August 30; Law/Grad Students, Saturday, August 31; Sophomores, Monday, September 2; Freshmen, Tuesday, September 3.

One student may present a maximum of 4 applications and 4 cards.

FOOTBALL TICKET SALE INFORMATION

Seniors: Thur., Aug. 29
Juniors: Fri., Aug. 30
Law/Grad Students: Sat., Aug. 31
Sophomores: Mon., Sept. 2
Freshmen: Tues., Sept. 3

Issue Hours: 9:00-6:00 Bring application, student I.D., and cash or check to Gate 10 of the JACC.

One student may present a maximum of 4 applications and 4 cards.