Students recognized for their outstanding service, ND spirit

BY CARRIE KISELLA
News Writer

Selected students were recognized for outstanding campus participation and service by the Student Affairs Office, the Office of Student Affairs, and the HPC in an awards banquet Wednesday.

Recipients of the 1992 Student Activities Award were Laura Brown, Dave Catheart, John Coffey, Steve Fuller, Chuck Laffas, Jeff Lachance, Jennifer McRedmond, Laura Moeller, Mari Okuta, Kate Pamentier, John Plum, Marianne Ravy, Mike Sherman, and Kelley Tuttle.

These students were noted for their ability to "empishify the spirit of Notre Dame in social, recreational, residential, service, and religious activities."

This year's Junior Class President, Dave Catheart, said he appreciated the award and was disappointed that "everyone who helped me could not receive an award."

Four annual Irish Clover awards were given in recognition of service to the student body. Father Warner, director of Campus Ministry and co-chair of the Task Force on Cultural Diversity, received an Irish Clover award.

Chuck Lennon, executive director of the Alumni Association, also recognized for his work in unifying the student and alumni members of the Notre Dame family. Student award-winners were Katie Pamentier, chair of the Segiscentennial committee; and Karen Stohl, student government president.

The office of Student Affairs also gave out five awards in recognition of achievement. Katie Pamentier received the Collins award. The Gardner award went to Cris Toffolo. Vice-President Patrick O'Hara also recognized Karen Sireh, Joe Blanco, and Dave Lorenzo as outstanding contributors in student activities.

Father Miscamble was honored with the Frank O'Malley award.

The huge green 'F' which adorns the entrance of Fisher Hall has returned and is here to stay. This Sunday the sailors of Fisher will host their annual Fisher Regatta on Saint Mary's Lake.

1992-93 manager says SUB will learn from its mistakes

BY BECKY BARNES
News Writer

1992-93 Student Union Board (SUB) manager Pat McCarthey plans to evaluate past procedures and implement several new ideas to make next year's SUB programming "something that will be remembered," he said in an interview Wednesday.

According to McCarthey, SUB has a two-fold mission to provide students entertainment and a vehicle for the student population to direct its own programming. SUB plans to evaluate past programming methods, said the manager, and implement new ideas that no one else on campus of the same or similar nature.

Moreover, SUB is unique in that it offers students a choice to participate in events, he continued. "Students program for students," he said.

In response to criticism, SUB has received this semester following the failure of such events as the Calle Laine Kravitz concert and the Howie Mandell performances, McCarthey said, "Our programming is different in that we examine how we can make that more effective and more timely," he said.

"I think we're going to learn from the mistakes that we've made there," he said.

SUB is made up of an executive council and 19 commissioners, who are responsible for programming, said McCarthey. Each commissioner is a committee of five to 50 people working with each other.

Our programming mission is to provide entertainment and programming which will interest students. We're going to examine how we can make that more effective and more timely," he said.

"Do I look like my mom? I was never her body," said Schieider. Some of the issues pro-lifers have the "truth," "love life," and "save hope," and they propose something that is inherently good. Simply on this basis, and not on the fact that Catholic belief happens to coincide with the pro-life movement, do pro-lifers uphold our beliefs, he said.

It is untrue that the Catholic view predominates the pro-life movement. Although this is a common misconception, Schieider said. Some of the issues pro-lifers have are that they "killed their children." They have to curb the radicalism of the pro-life movement, he suggested.

Scheidler concentrated his talk following the failure of such events as the Cult/Lenny Kravitz concert and the Howie Mandell performances. McCarthey said, "Our programming is different in that we examine how we can make that more effective and more timely," he said.

"I think we're going to learn from the mistakes that we've made there," he said.

SUB is made up of an executive council and 19 commissioners, who are responsible for programming, said McCarthey. Each commissioner is a committee of five to 50 people working with them, so programming is different in each committee, he said.

"I think we're going to learn from the mistakes that we've made there," he said.

SUB is made up of an executive council and 19 commissioners, who are responsible for programming, said McCarthey. Each commissioner is a committee of five to 50 people working with them, so programming is different in each committee, he said.

"I think we're going to learn from the mistakes that we've made there," he said.

SUB is made up of an executive council and 19 commissioners, who are responsible for programming, said McCarthey. Each commissioner is a committee of five to 50 people working with them, so programming is different in each committee, he said.

"I think we're going to learn from the mistakes that we've made there," he said.

The giant green 'F' which adorns the entrance of Fisher Hall has returned and is here to stay. This Sunday the sailors of Fisher will host their annual Fisher Regatta on Saint Mary's Lake.

Pro-lifer Scheidler: "The truth hurts"

BY TONY POPANZ
News Writer

People who are pro-choice are blind to the truth that they are "pro-murder," according to pro-life activist Joseph Scheidler.

Scheidler, affiliated with the Chicago-based Pro-Life Action League, has spent 15 years campaigning against abortion.

The Observer/Rolando Risquez

Ridgley in court for public intoxication

BY PANCHE LOZANO
News Writer

Notre Dame student Troy Ridgley appeared in court for a disposition trial Tuesday on misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest and public intoxication.

Ridgley, a former defensive lineman for the Notre Dame football team, pleaded guilty to the charge of resisting arrest. His sentence included 180 days of non-reporting probation, attending the counseling group Dargis for an unspecified period of time, and court costs.

His sentence of 30 days in county jail was suspended. The charges of public intoxication were dismissed. The charges stemmed from a January 22, incident which occurred at Student Center, 2306 Mishawaka Ave. in South Bend, in which Ridgley refused to leave the kitchen of the club and resisted arrest when approached by four police officers, according to the South Bend Police Department.

Ridgley's disposition hearing was originally set for last Tuesday, but was suspended when Ridgley's attorney, Charles Asher, asked for a continuance of the case.

Ridgley's father wished to comment on the incident Tuesday, but his son, who has been arrested twice in 1991 before the January 22 incident, but charges in both cases were dropped.

Students recognized for their outstanding service, ND spirit

Mysterious reappearance

The giant green 'F' which adorns the entrance of Fisher Hall has returned and is here to stay. This Sunday the sailors of Fisher will host their annual Fisher Regatta on Saint Mary's Lake.

1992-93 manager says SUB will learn from its mistakes

Students recognized for their outstanding service, ND spirit

Pro-lifer Scheidler: "The truth hurts"
Faculty vote of no confidence is appropriate

It would be a drastic step if the Faculty Senate approved the vote of no confidence in University President Father Edward Malloy. But sometimes drastic steps are necessary.

Professor David O'Connor has told reporters that he has found most of the faculty in support of the vote, especially in light of Malloy's veto of the proposed restructuring of the Academic Council.

They have every right to be angry. All the faculty wants is a little say about things, and they should get it. Malloy is obviously doing what he feels is in the best interest in the University, but as with other recent decisions (i.e. the conversion of Pangborn, silence on the Father James Burchaell scandal) it is being called into question.

Not allowing faculty equitable representation in academic governance is a blatant show of disrespect and professional courtesy. It is, unfortunately, following a nationwide trend of administrators ignoring teachers at all levels of education.

At least now, after three years, the administration seems to be ready to sit down and discuss governance with the faculty. What cannot happen, though, is for the administration to stall the vote, hoping for the faculty to tire or to taper off with the end of the academic year. This issue that cannot be stonewalled any longer.

If the University wants to maintain its Catholic character, it cannot do this solely by having a Holy Cross priest at the helm—it is just too big. It needs a competent, Christian Catholic research institution, he must address the faculty's grievances.

Father Edward Sorin started this place in a little brick shack 150 years ago to educate Hoosiers. Today we are the premier Catholic school in the world. If Malloy truly wants to maintain the educational mission of Notre Dame and the Congregation of Holy Cross in the midst of our transition to a national Catholic research institution, he must address the faculty's grievances.

No one wants to see the faculty declare no confidence in Malloy or to cast a shadow of animosity over the Dome, but such a move is in the best interest of the University if the faculty does not receive the respect, academic authority and input that their role demands.

Students are working together to maintain the university's character, academic standards, and Catholic character.

The unique aspects of Notre Dame are the strong professorship and faculty often working together. It is not uncommon to see professors and their families at the Basilica of Sacred Heart on Sundays. Some of our teachers even say Mass at Sacred Heart.

Father Edward Sorin started this place in a little brick shack 150 years ago to educate Hoosiers. Today we are the premier Catholic school in the world. If Malloy truly wants to maintain the educational mission of Notre Dame and the Congregation of Holy Cross, it is time to consider the vote.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

WEATHER REPORT

FORECAST: Mostly cloudy today with a 50 percent chance of thunderstorms and high 60.

PRESENT

TODAY AT A GLANCE

INDIANA

Local United Way reviews reports

NOTRE DAME

ND senior awarded fellowship

STUDENT MAGAZINE RECEIVES AWARDS

CAMPUS

Hall sponsors annual carnival

OF INTEREST

MARKET UPDATE

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

The Fisher Regatta Picnic is being held Sunday from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Saint Mary’s Lake.

Wespers concerts will be held at the Basilica of the Sacred Heart Sunday at 7:15 p.m. and 8 p.m. The University of St. Thomas Liturgical Choir will perform.
Conservative Party representatives headed for majority in British House of Commons

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister John Major, who waged a come-from-behind soapbox campaign to extend 13 years of Conservative Party government, appeared headed for a nerve-wracking election victory Thursday.

With results in from 602 seats out of the 651 contested, the British Broadcasting Corp. computer analysis predicted the Conservatives were assured of an overall majority in the House of Commons, winning 334 seats. Labor was projected to win 273 and the Liberal Democrats 19, 332 seats.

Projections by Independent Television News gave the Conservatives 333 seats, Labor 271 and Liberal Democrats 21, with the rest going to smaller parties.

The evening is not yet concluded, but I believe when it is concluded, it will have a satisfactory result, the right government, and we can push ahead with the recovery for Britain that all of us wish to see," Major said. He won his majority by 36,000 votes, the biggest victory of the night. "I'm very pleased. Everything we have done in the last 13 years will now be conserved and built on in the future." Former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher exclaimed. No party had won four straight elections in Britain this century.

With actual tallies in from 596 districts, Conservatives had won 315 seats, compared to Labor's 268 and 14 for the Liberal Democrats. "The battle is not yet over," insisted Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock.

But he sounded resigned to losing his seat to which he was elected, "I take this opportunity of dedicating myself to the service of my constituency and in any capacity whatever to the people of my country," Kinnock said.

The Conservatives apparently triumphed over a lingering re-election of 9.4 percent, a disastrous experience for Labor. "The battle is not yet over," said BBC analyst Peter Kolbiner. "It is also rotten news for the pollsters they blow it."

The combined verdict of the last opinion polls this week showed Labor about a point ahead, though the difference was well within the margin of error. Labor did cut into the Tories' 369-seat majority in the old parliament.

The Observer is now accepting application for the following position:

Assistant Accent Editor
Accent Copy Editor

Please submit a 1 page personal statement and a sample column to Jahnelle Harrigan by 5 p.m. on Wed. April 15

To apply, please contact Jahnelle at 239-7471.

HALF OF THE PEOPLE WHO READ THIS AD WON'T GET INTO LAW SCHOOL.

Here's a surprise test of your math skills. Divide 95,000 low school applicants into 44,000 openings. Now you realize why it's so important to take the Ronkin LSAT Preparation course. For you'll take a free diagnostic test. Then you'll work with you in small, personalized class. You'll have free access to our computers and study programs. Plus, after the twelve-day LSAT Intensive Study Clinic the last week before the exam.

Reserve your place in our LSAT course by May 15 and we'll include the $225 LSAT fee. Call Ronkin today and find out how the better half gets into the law school of their choice.

The Offer: Reserve by May 15. Save $225.

Macri's Pizza & Italian Restaurant
Pizza-Pasta-Sandwiches-Stuffed Pizza Pies

NOW OPEN Carry out or Dine in 271-2055

OPEN TUES-SUN
29% off pizza with this ad.
2100 E. Kemans Rd.
Georgetown Shopping Center
(next to Club Shenanigan's)

SESQUICENTENIAL YEAR STUDENT COMMITTEE

KARAOKE NIGHTS

Thursday, April 9
Ramada Inn (U.S. 31)
8:30 PM to 1 AM
No cover charge

Friday, April 10
Alumni Senior Club
10 PM to 2 AM
No cover for members (co-sponsored by Alumni Senior Club)

Must be 21 to enter!

A Sesquicentennial Year Student Charity Event

Donations will be accepted for the Meghan Boeder and Colleen Hipp Memorial Scholarships

Noriega guilty of drug charges

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega, the dictator who defied a superpower and was convicted of eight of 10 drug and racketeering charges Thursday, two years after the long arm of America plucked him from Panama in a bloody invasion.

The ousted Panamanian leader's conviction included the key counts of racketeering and racketeering conspiracy. The eight counts carry a possible maximum sentence of 212 years. Sentencing was set for July 11.

"We did one heck of a job. We're proud of what we did," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Sullivan. U.S. Attorney James Madaus said as soon as Noriega is sentenced, he will be taken to Tampa for a trial on marijuana smuggling charges. If convicted in that case, he could be sentenced to 35 years in prison.

The defense said it would appeal the conviction.

President Bush called the conviction "a major victory against the drug lords."

"I hope it sends a lesson to drug lords here and around the world they will pay a price if they continue to poison the lives of our kids in this country or anywhere else," Bush said at a Washington meeting with Nicaraguan President Violetta Chamorro.

Defense attorney Frank Rubio was bitten and said the appeal would be based on issues including Noriega's prisoner-of-war status and the invasion.

"The United States government in its self-appointed role as world policeman ... saw fit to invade a foreign country and seize its leader," he said.

Call & wish him a Happy Birthday!
Zahm X1191
Love,
Mom, Dad & Aimee

The Observer
Students at high risk for AIDS

ATLANTA (AP) — American high school students are playing “Russian roulette” with AIDS, with the typical student having sex by age 16 and one in five having four or more partners, researchers said Thursday.

The national Centers for Disease Control reported that 19 percent of U.S. high school students have had four or more sex partners; the percentage jumps to 29 percent by senior year.

Male students were more likely to be sexually active, 27 percent to 12 percent. For black males, the figure was 60 percent, compared with 21 percent for white males.

The nationwide survey, conducted in 1990, shows a substantial proportion of students engage in practices that place them at risk for HIV infection,” the CDC concluded.

“The best way to explain it to kids is to say if you play Russian roulette and not knowing how many live bullets are in the chambers,” said Dr. Lloyd Kolbe, director of the CDC’s Division of Adolescent and School Health. “If you pull the trigger once, it can cause you to become infected.”

The CDC’s 1990 survey of high school health habits was its first, but the findings are dramatically higher than in similar previous surveys of sexual behavior. For instance, a 1970 survey of females ages 15-19 found 29 percent had ever had sex; by 1990, it was 54 percent, Kolbe said.

It’s too early to tell if teenage sexual behavior has changed since November, when basketball superstar Magic Johnson announced he was infected with the AIDS virus.

“Clearly it has renewed the fear of getting AIDS from a transfusion,” said Hill Truog, president of the Gulf Coast Regional Blood Center in Houston, which had received 15 to 20 calls by mid-morning.

AIDS, a tennis star of the ’60s and ’70s, said he believed he was infected by blood transfused after heart-bypass surgery in 1983. The date is significant, blood bank officials stress, because that was before banks began screening blood for the AIDS virus in 1985.

Happy 21st Birthday Stacey!

With love and pride,
The Notre Nerds

The Senior Class is Holding some Chicago Bulls Tickets for the April 13th game vs. Atlanta Hawks

$20 / ticket (includes mandatory transportation)

If interested, come to the Senior Class Office between 3-5 P.M.

First Come, First Serve
Buchanan to visit Purdue

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Republican presidential candidate Patrick Buchanan will visit Purdue University this month.

Purdue officials said Wednesday that Buchanan had been invited to the West Lafayette campus by the university chapter of College Republicans.

Buchanan’s address at 6 p.m. April 20 in Fowler Hall of Purdue’s Stewart Center will be open to the public.

Buchanan is challenging President Bush for the Republican nomination. Bush, meanwhile, has accepted an invitation from Purdue’s Student Senate to deliver the commencement address at the university’s graduation ceremonies on May 17.

In addition, Democratic candidate Bill Clinton will speak Saturday at the Indiana Democratic Party’s annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner.

---

New York Times columnist: No reason to fear learning about different religions

By JEANNE DE VITA

News Writer

"If you know one religion, you don’t know any," said Art Goldman, religion correspondent for the New York Times, yesterday quoting one of his teachers at Harvard Divinity School.

In his lecture, "All the Religion That’s Fit to Print," Goldman said, "I want to talk to you about listening, listening to others while hearing the sound of your own heartbeat."

After ten years as a general reporter for the New York Times, Goldman became one of the paper’s religion correspondents. He discussed his "inner voice," which he said, "taught me with a passion to listen to the Jewish voice within me."

"Interest stops at the door of our own faith," Goldman said. "You begin to see your own faith more clearly when you see others— you don’t know your own until you see others," he said.

"I had to know others (faith)," Goldman said, explaining his decision to attend Harvard Divinity School at age 35, after being offered the position of religion correspondent.

Goldman’s studies and struggles at Harvard from orientation to graduation were traced in his recent book, "The Search for God at Harvard."

"Twentieth century Americans are afraid of the interfaith encounter," said Goldman. "I am here to say there is nothing to be afraid of." Goldman discussed his early fears that by associating with other faiths, by learning about them, there would somehow he brought into those other faiths. But Goldman said he still "holds dear" both his profession as a journalist and his faith as an orthodox Jew and that "when they come into conflict, I have difficult choices to make."

Responses to Goldman’s book helped him to come to a new "richness in (his) understanding" of his identity both as a journalist and as a Jew. According to Goldman, his exposure to other faiths led him to an amazing dialogue. "Spirituality can express itself through many paths," he said, explaining the serenity he has experienced with Quakers, and the excitement experienced with Baptists.

Goldman also discussed the difficulty journalists have in covering non-institutional religious stories, and explained how he, as one of two full time religion correspondents for the Times tries to find out how each religion moves people and influences them.

According to Goldman, sexual issues such as contraceptives, homosexuality, and abortion, as well as women’s issues and black issues, confront struggles that the general, sophisticated reader can “wake up to.”

"Religion is rich," said Goldman, since 90 percent of Americans identify with, although not necessarily affiliated with, a religious denomination. "God’s back, and back with a capital ‘H,’" said Goldman, referring to the Times’ stylistic practice of capitalizing the words referring to God or Jesus. Goldman also said that over 1000 publications employ full time religious writers.

The New York Times column and regular religious pieces with New York angles were expanded in February 1990.

---

Right to life planning local protest

By MEREDITH MCCULLOUGH

Washington News Bureau

As part of their Right to Life Week, the New England branch of the Anti-Abortion Rights Organization Mary’s chapter of Flight to Life has planned a peaceful demonstration at the Women’s Pavilion on Ironwood Circle, according to Elsa Scheidler, president of the group.

Members of the organization will attempt to “dissuade” women seeking abortions and “educate” them about alternatives, said Scheidler.

She said they hope to “educate” women on the development of the fetus/embryo/unborn child, so they really know the facts before they choose to kill it. We want to take the blinders off,” said Scheidler.

Today’s demonstration is not to be confused with a "rescue" operation, according to Scheidler.

Opposed to a "rescue," which is a well-planned protest with intent to block doors of the facility, preventing all abortions from occurring that day, Scheidler describes her group’s efforts as “a simple demonstration.”

They will have picket signs, but will not engage in illegal activity or any severe consequences, she said.

Since legally the protesters cannot set foot on the Women’s Pavilion property, all persuasion must take place on the sidewalks.

"Because of the way the Women’s Pavilion is situated, women can practically drive right under our pickets," said Scheidler. "We are at least 20 yards away—Unless we raise our voices we cannot be heard."

This distance makes contact with those entering the facility difficult, according to Scheidler. Rather than rely on interaction, Scheidler said, "nine times out of ten we simply pray.

"According to Scheidler, most of those entering the clinic will not stop to talk to the protesters. They "tend to rush in," she said.

But of the few who do stop, Scheidler said that most of them are convinced by the arguments against abortion and seek alternatives at Pregnancy Life Line, a nonprofit organization next door to the clinic.

"We usually don’t get to see results of what we do," said Scheidler. "We do not know the impact we have."

The demonstration is an effort to raise awareness of the abortion issue during Right to Life Week, Scheidler said, but it is not a one time event.
said, 'What you do to the least of my brethren, you do unto your mother give you life and rather have her disembowel, womb, would you rather have you were the baby in the protection as the case is, or rather have her disembowel, scald, or dismember you?' he said.

Bush made his comments in a question-and-answer session after a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. In his prepared remarks, Bush urged Congress to pass an aid package for Russia by the time Boris Yeltsin visits in June.

Dialing that magical number
Rita Hajjar, a freshman from Pasquerilla East, selects her classes for next fall from her telephone by using the DART system. Dialing that magical number...
Fed lowers interest rate on loans between banks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve on Thursday unexpectedly lowered a key interest rate in a move apparently aimed at calming jittery financial markets and buying recovery insurance for the U.S. economy.

The Fed added reserves to the nation's money supply shortly before noon in a fashion that economists said clearly signaled a cut in its target for the federal funds rate, the interest that banks charge each other. Most economists said they believed the Fed had cut the funds rate by a quarter-point, from 4 percent to 3.75 percent. It marked the 16th time the Fed has lowered the funds rate since it stood at 8 percent when the recession began in July 1990.

Wall Street approved of the rate cut. The Dow Jones industrial average, which had fallen 94 points in the previous two sessions, rallied on word of the Fed's move, climbing 43.61 points for the day. The move came shortly after the Labor Department reported that wholesale prices edged up only 0.2 percent in March, indicating that inflationary pressures remain in check.

President Bush, who has been handling his own economic campaign, said the Fed's decision was a "good thing" and had been well received by financial markets. "I hope that this will guarantee that this fledgling recovery that we're seeing will now be a little more robust," Bush told the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Economists, caught off guard by the Fed's surprise move, gave a variety of reasons for the action, including concerns over rising wholesale prices and worries that this year's fledgling economic recovery might collapse, as a similar rebound did in 1991.

"The Fed is worried that economic history might repeat itself. Events are beginning to look an awful lot like last year," said David Wyss, an economist with DRI-McGraw Hill. "We had a couple of good months in 1991 before we went into any employment pickup, the money supply started falling and the budget deficit exploded out." The Fed's move Thursday was taken as an acknowledgment of those economic developments.

The 0.2 percent cut in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index matched the small February increase and left wholesale prices rising at a rate this year of just 0.7 percent.

Quayle defends jet use for golfing

Bush wants Congressional perks to end

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war of words over White House and congressional perks escalated Thursday as Vice President Dan Quayle sought to defend his use of military jets for golf trips and charged his Democratic critics with trying to divert attention from their own scandals.

House Democrats, meanwhile, asserted the White House was circumventing personnel guidelines by hiring workers for phony job descriptions at government departments, then detailing them to political duty at the White House.

In other signs of the strains in Congress, a rising GOP star in Washington Hall, Rep. Vin Weber of Minnesota, said he would not seek re-election. Weber, who wrote 125 bad checks from the House bank over 39 months, called it "the most sour" mood in Washington.

Also, New York Rep. Robert Mrazek, a Democrat who abandoned his Senate campaign, said he agreed to check him from addressing "real" issues. The House ethics committee recommended Mrazek be barred from the floor and from drafting, more than any other sitting member of Congress.

House panel in drug sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury alleged on Thursday that there had been a broad drug conspiracy at the House Post Office as it filed new charges against a former employee.

The indictment said a stamp clerk, who previously was indicted on a charge of embezzling cocaine, had appealed to him from addressing "real" issues. The House ethics committee recommended Mrazek be barred from the floor drafts, more than any other sitting member of Congress.

The indictment followed a significant expansion of the grand jury's investigation of the House Post Office. It charged against a former employee with embezzlement probe to one involving a broad drug conspiracy.

Mismanagement at the post office has raised intense embarrassment to lawmakers and had led to a House Administration Committee investigation of the facility — in addition to the criminal probe by U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens.

The 0.2 percent cut in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index matched the small February increase and left wholesale prices rising at a rate this year of just 0.7 percent.
Dear Editor:

Everyone knows how long Notre Dame has been around. For the past few years, no one has been able to tell us that this is the University’s Sesquicentennial year. Twenty years ago, this was another event which had an equally profound effect on this University which the administration has all but ignored. That is, the admission of women to Notre Dame in the fall of 1972.

If this doesn’t seem like an important issue to you, think about how different the residential life, social atmosphere, and educational experience must be now as compared to 1970, when many of our current seniors were born and no women attended Notre Dame. And think about the hot issues which everyone talks about now: co-ed housing and parties.

Then think about and wonder whether Notre Dame could be the unique place it is today if it were not for the admission of women. In spite of all this, very little attention has been paid to this event. In fact, the administration has made an astounding effort glorifying the great past (and, therefore, male) leaders of Notre Dame, while ignoring the role that women have played.

I challenge this University to prove its dedication to the ideals which it supposedly professed in admitting women 20 years ago and in designating the 1990-91 school year the Year of Women, by taking advantage of this opportunity to recognize the impact that women have had on the University and contributions that women continue to make to the Notre Dame community.

In commemoration of this important anniversary, the Gender Studies Colloquium has organized a panel discussion to be held this Sunday, April 12, at 7:00 p.m. in the Library Auditorium/Lounge entitled, “20 Years of Women at Notre Dame: Past, Present, and Future.” I invite all to come and hear the stories of women and men ranging from those who were here when women were first admitted to current students and professors. This topic is too important to have been ignored for so long.

Jennifer Evans
Gender Studies Colloquium
April 6, 1992

DOONESBURY

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"The one thing about being in love with someone is you know you're in love. You're either flying or you're about to kill yourself."

Kathy Acker

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE, ALL YOU NEED TO SUBMIT.

QUOTES. P.O. Box 9, ND, IN 46558
Editor's note: The following is the first installment of a two-part letter concerning the University governance.

Dear Editor:

Let me begin by commending Daniel Kinney for reporting on the current debate regarding university governance. Students should be interested in this debate, for its outcome could effect them in significant ways.

Because he reported the views of various administrators, Kinney's articles provide an opportunity that is relatively rare here at Notre Dame. The splendid condescension of o f various administrators, with administrators take to be at, accord them in significant ways.

It would seem, therefore, that the argument against greater faculty participation must be that any increase in the faculty's role would somehow endanger the Catholic character of the university. Case in point: O'Meara's comments. The Catholic character of Notre Dame is something that administrators take to be at stake. According to Dr. O'Meara, "If the whole question is left to the faculty at large, we have a lot of evolution to go through before we are ready to claim that we (the faculty) have a special responsibility. An imprint has not been made... that would enable us to successfully take on this responsibility."

"If you took faculty that were totally prepared by secular university administrations they have in their make-up to execute this for the future?"

The first thing to note about this rationale is that it is absolutely beside the point. No one has suggested that the faculty should have sole responsibility for preserving the Catholic character of the university. A modest revision of the Academic Council was formally proposed, and various faculty members have called for greater faculty participation in university governance regarding academic matters.

Dr. O'Meara is an excellent mathematician, but even he is not likely to be capable of proving that either proposal is equivalent to turning the whole Catholic character of the Catholic character of the University over to the faculty.

But suppose, for a minute, that greater power in the hands of the faculty is a threat to the Catholic character of the university, that faculty cannot be trusted with this role. This character. In this case, I am inclined to say that Notre Dame's efforts to be a Catholic university are already doomed.

Notre Dame will be no more a Catholic university than I am a qualified complex for young singles that happen to occupy the same plot of ground in the same city as Notre University. For it comes to Church goes on to the Notre Dame community, to the day in day out educating of students, the faculty do have a say in all matters of any importance. I want to be sure that the last point of the paragraph is not misunderstood, so I'll close by spelling it out. Suppose that, as Fr. Malloy said, something fundamental must be at issue to justify his veto. And suppose that, as Dr. O'Meara's remarks indicate, the Catholic character of the university is this fundamental issue. While it is true that the faculty is such that the Catholic character of the university could now be threatened by including six additional faculty members on the Academic Council, it seems to me that Notre Dame cannot now be a Catholic university.

In saying this, I am assuming that 'Catholic university' does not mean Catholic something or other. It means a relatively large, but a certain specific kind of university. And I say that Notre Dame was given a less adequate voice in the Sesquicentennial year. Thus, President Bush's top priority is re-election in 1992. he must choose to appease a wider audience than those who were justifying the administration's fears. And this is the reason for the faculty being asked for a greater role in governance regarding academic matters, not for the responsibility of preserving the Catholic character of the university.

But suppose, for a minute, that greater power in the hands of the faculty is a threat to the Catholic character of the university, that faculty cannot be trusted with this role. This character. In this case, I am inclined to say that Notre Dame's efforts to be a Catholic university are already doomed.

Notre Dame will be no more a Catholic university than I am a qualified complex for young singles that happen to occupy the same plot of ground in the same city as Notre University. For it comes to Church goes on to the Notre Dame community, to the day in day out educating of students, the faculty do have a say in all matters of any importance. I want to be sure that the last point of the paragraph is not misunderstood, so I'll close by spelling it out. Suppose that, as Fr. Malloy said, something fundamental must be at issue to justify his veto. And suppose that, as Dr. O'Meara's remarks indicate, the Catholic character of the university is this fundamental issue. While it is true that the faculty is such that the Catholic character of the university could now be threatened by including six additional faculty members on the Academic Council, it seems to me that Notre Dame cannot now be a Catholic university.

In saying this, I am assuming that 'Catholic university' does not mean Catholic something or other. It means a relatively large, but a certain specific kind of university. And I say that Notre Dame was given a less adequate voice in the Sesquicentennial year. Thus, President Bush's top priority is re-election in 1992. he must choose to appease a wider audience than those who were justifying the administration's fears. And this is the reason for the faculty being asked for a greater role in governance regarding academic matters, not for the responsibility of preserving the Catholic character of the university.

But suppose, for a minute, that greater power in the hands of the faculty is a threat to the Catholic character of the university, that faculty cannot be trusted with this role. This character. In this case, I am inclined to say that Notre Dame's efforts to be a Catholic university are already doomed.

Notre Dame will be no more a Catholic university than I am a qualified complex for young singles that happen to occupy the same plot of ground in the same city as Notre University. For it comes to Church goes on to the Notre Dame community, to the day in day out educating of students, the faculty do have a say in all matters of any importance. I want to be sure that the last point of the paragraph is not misunderstood, so I'll close by spelling it out. Suppose that, as Fr. Malloy said, something fundamental must be at issue to justify his veto. And suppose that, as Dr. O'Meara's remarks indicate, the Catholic character of the university is this fundamental issue. While it is true that the faculty is such that the Catholic character of the university could now be threatened by including six additional faculty members on the Academic Council, it seems to me that Notre Dame cannot now be a Catholic university.

In saying this, I am assuming that 'Catholic university' does not mean Catholic something or other. It means a relatively large, but a certain specific kind of university. And I say that Notre Dame was given a less adequate voice in the Sesquicentennial year. Thus, President Bush's top priority is re-election in 1992. he must choose to appease a wider audience than those who were justifying the administration's fears. And this is the reason for the faculty being asked for a greater role in governance regarding academic matters, not for the responsibility of preserving the Catholic character of the university.

But suppose, for a minute, that greater power in the hands of the faculty is a threat to the Catholic character of the university, that faculty cannot be trusted with this role. This character. In this case, I am inclined to say that Notre Dame's efforts to be a Catholic university are already doomed.

Notre Dame will be no more a Catholic university than I am a qualified complex for young singles that happen to occupy the same plot of ground in the same city as Notre University. For it comes to Church goes on to the Notre Dame community, to the day in day out educating of students, the faculty do have a say in all matters of any importance. I want to be sure that the last point of the paragraph is not misunderstood, so I'll close by spelling it out. Suppose that, as Fr. Malloy said, something fundamental must be at issue to justify his veto. And suppose that, as Dr. O'Meara's remarks indicate, the Catholic character of the university is this fundamental issue. While it is true that the faculty is such that the Catholic character of the university could now be threatened by including six additional faculty members on the Academic Council, it seems to me that Notre Dame cannot now be a Catholic university.

In saying this, I am assuming that 'Catholic university' does not mean Catholic something or other. It means a relatively large, but a certain specific kind of university. And I say that Notre Dame was given a less adequate voice in the Sesquicentennial year. Thus, President Bush's top priority is re-election in 1992. he must choose to appease a wider audience than those who were justifying the administration's fears. And this is the reason for the faculty being asked for a greater role in governance regarding academic matters, not for the responsibility of preserving the Catholic character of the university.

But suppose, for a minute, that greater power in the hands of the faculty is a threat to the Catholic character of the university, that faculty cannot be trusted with this role. This character. In this case, I am inclined to say that Notre Dame's efforts to be a Catholic university are already doomed.

Notre Dame will be no more a Catholic university than I am a qualified complex for young singles that happen to occupy the same plot of ground in the same city as Notre University. For it comes to Church goes on to the Notre Dame community, to the day in day out educating of students, the faculty do have a say in all matters of any importance. I want to be sure that the last point of the paragraph is not misunderstood, so I'll close by spelling it out. Suppose that, as Fr. Malloy said, something fundamental must be at issue to justify his veto. And suppose that, as Dr. O'Meara's remarks indicate, the Catholic character of the university is this fundamental issue. While it is true that the faculty is such that the Catholic character of the university could now be threatened by including six additional faculty members on the Academic Council, it seems to me that Notre Dame cannot now be a Catholic university.
By MICHAEL MASONE
Accent Writer

Hawaiian Club explores history

By JOHN FISCHER
Accent Writer

or many members of the Notre Dame community, spring will kick off on Sunday with the Fisher Regatta on St. Mary's Lake. Now in its sixth year, this charity boat race has quickly attracted campus wide participation.

Half of the proceeds from each boat's entry fee will benefit Fisher Hall's traditional charity, Andre House of Hospitality in Arizona. The other half will go to the Meghan Beeler-Colleen Hipp Memorial Scholarship Fund. This year's Regatta is dedicated in these two women's honor.

The Regatta began in the fall of 1986 through the efforts of one Fisher resident, Jay Farragher, who sought to "change the image of Fisher Hall." With the assistance of Hall Government and Student Activities, Farragher coordinated the first regatta in April 1987 with 14 boats.

The biggest boost to the regatta's popularity came from Bill Hickey, former Director of Food Services, who organized a lake-side picnic to accompany the running of the regatta. Five years later, the 1991 regatta proudly boasted 35 handcrafted vessels representing every dorm on campus.

The primary coordinator of the regatta since Farragher's graduation has been Ted Stumpf, Fisher Hall senior and Chairperson of this year's race. Stumpf has obtained the sponsorship of local business leaders and corporate sponsors as well.

In addition, WAOR will be broadcasting live from the lake on Sunday afternoon and Papa John's is donating a 30-40 person pizza party for the winners. And if this year's race follows tradition, Fisher and Lewis Hall residents will be eating a lot of those pizzas. Fisher has won 4 of the 5 men's division races on its workhorse boat, the "Green Seaman I." In the women's division, which began one year later, Lewis Hall has won all four regatta races.

In fairness to other dorms, the Regatta does not only reward its most seaworthy participants. There is also an award for the most original boat. St. Ed's Hall traditionally scores well in this category, and last year flaunted an impressive houseboat complete with barbecue pit. This year's total number of entries should go even further than last year's record-setting number, according to Stumpf. He has declared this a "semi-official year" due to which is allowing a smaller boat and campus organization to enter the race along with the others.

Ya gotta fish!

Fisher boat race expands

In the 1990 Fisher Regatta, St. Ed's Hall scored well in the category for most creative boat entry. This year, half of the proceeds from the Regatta will go to the Megh Beeler-Colleen Hipp Scholarship Fund, which is sponsoring their annual luau once again.

Fisher boat race expands and is about. The title of the faculty is " thrown into "islands through the generations" provided by the club's members.

The future of hula is in the entertainment. To arrive at the current form of Don Ho is no longer "change the image of Don Ho." According to Taison Tanaka, the entertainment will consist of tracing the history of hula, a traditional dance, from the time of the first Polynesian settlement of the islands through the Hawaiian monarchy and finally to the present day.

The commonly held perceptions of the luau which began this story are dispelled by Kristin Fernandez, freshman and entertainment supervisor. "The luau and hula", she said, "are grounded in religious traditions of the original Polynesians."

The original form of hula, called kahiko, was danced as a tribute to the four gods. At this time the musical accompaniment "was mostly chanted and chopper", according to Fernandez. She added that the dance was also sandwiched between spoken dedications to one of the four gods. A wawana, the modern form of hula, translated literally into "islands through the generations" or alternatively into the luau's official English name, "Islands Past, Present, and Future."

According to Tanaka, the entertainment will consist of tracing the history of hula, a traditional dance, from the time of the first Polynesian settlement of the islands through the Hawaiian monarchy and finally to the present day.

The commonly held perceptions of the luau which began this story are dispelled by Kristin Fernandez, freshman and entertainment supervisor. "The luau and hula", she said, "are grounded in religious traditions of the original Polynesians."

The original form of hula, called kahiko, was danced as a tribute to the four gods of the Polynesians. At this time the musical accompaniment "was mostly chanted and chopper", according to Fernandez. She added that the dance was also sandwiched between spoken dedications to one of the four gods.

A wawana, the modern form of hula, has no spoken portions and is typically performed to the accompaniment of two guitars. Like the "Tiny Bubbles" of the church luau, the most that of Don Ho, but cheesiness typically an according to Fernandez, use Don Ho music. She said.

To arrive at the current form of Don Ho is no longer "change the image of Don Ho." According to Taison Tanaka, the entertainment will consist of tracing the history of hula, a traditional dance, from the time of the first Polynesian settlement of the islands through the Hawaiian monarchy and finally to the present day.

The commonly held perceptions of the luau which began this story are dispelled by Kristin Fernandez, freshman and entertainment supervisor. "The luau and hula", she said, "are grounded in religious traditions of the original Polynesians."

The original form of hula, called kahiko, was danced as a tribute to the four gods of the Polynesians. At this time the musical accompaniment "was mostly chanted and chopper", according to Fernandez. She added that the dance was also sandwiched between spoken dedications to one of the four gods. A wawana, the modern form of hula, has no spoken portions and is typically performed to the accompaniment of two guitars. Like the "Tiny Bubbles" of the church luau, the most that of Don Ho, but cheesiness typically an according to Fernandez, use Don Ho music. She said.

To arrive at the current form of Don Ho is no longer "change the image of Don Ho." According to Taison Tanaka, the entertainment will consist of tracing the history of hula, a traditional dance, from the time of the first Polynesian settlement of the islands through the Hawaiian monarchy and finally to the present day.

The commonly held perceptions of the luau which began this story are dispelled by Kristin Fernandez, freshman and entertainment supervisor. "The luau and hula", she said, "are grounded in religious traditions of the original Polynesians."

The original form of hula, called kahiko, was danced as a tribute to the four gods of the Polynesians. At this time the musical accompaniment "was mostly chanted and chopper", according to Fernandez. She added that the dance was also sandwiched between spoken dedications to one of the four gods.

A wawana, the modern form of hula, has no spoken portions and is typically performed to the accompaniment of two guitars. Like the "Tiny Bubbles" of the church luau, the most that of Don Ho, but cheesiness typically an according to Fernandez, use Don Ho music. She said.
The Regatta is also known for its ability to persuade a panel of celebrity judges to monitor the event. Serving on this year's panel will be Sgt. Tim McCarthy of the South Bend Police Force, who is famous for his third quarter alcohol awareness puns at home football games.

"The Regatta staff contacted Willard Scott to be a judge," explained Stumpf. "But he was unable to make the event." However, they did send Scott a video tape of last year's race which he promised to air during his Friday weather broadcast, giving the Regatta its first dose of national television exposure.

The Fisher Regatta is traditionally the climax of the dorm's spirit week, including an SYB and Barndance. Replacing the Barndance this year was supposed to be a Bonfire for all of South Quad with live bands scheduled to play.

However, Stumpf ran into an obstacle while trying to organize the bonfire.

"The administration frowned on the idea. One reason that was given to me was that nothing like it has ever been done before," Stumpf said. In place of the proposed bonfire will be a smaller barbecue on South Quad as a farewell to Pangborn Hall.

This year's Regatta will be monitored by the South Bend Water Rescue Squad and all participants will be required to wear life jackets. Upgrading of water safety is one of the biggest improvements to this year's regatta," said Brother Ed Luther, Rector of Fisher Hall. Though the Regatta has never encountered any safety problems in the past, Luther warned, "You shouldn't wait until you have an accident to use prevention."

The finish line of the Regatta will be at the bottom of Holy Cross Hill. Overlooking it will be the St. Ed's Charity Carnival. Now in its fourth year, the Carnival hosts a booth from every dorm on campus, explained Stumpf.

Year after year, the Fisher Regatta has proven to be an effective fund raiser for timely charities. According to Luther, rectors from several dorms view it as an event which "brings students together" since all boats must be handmade by members of the same dorm.

In its short history, it has become a rite of spring, a celebration of good weather after six long months without seeing the sun. Simply put, "Ya gotta Regatta."

The Carnival encourages the whole campus to get involved, and according to the co-chairmen, somewhere around ten or fifteen dorms are setting up their own booths.

The proceeds from dorms receive will be able to donate to the charity of their choice. There will also be a common fund from non-dorm attractions (like the Moonwalk) that will be split up among three or four charities to be named later.

Last year, the common fund was donated to organizations like the American Cancer Society and the United Way. If all this talk of proceeds and charity has students concerned about their dwindling capital, it really shouldn't.

The Carnival has to offer.

BY KEVIN SULLIVAN
Accent Writer
ND student participates in one of the many games the St. Ed's Carnival has to offer.

T he birds are singing. The squirrels are romping. Spring has finally come.

That can mean only two things. One, even those overworked business majors will join the rest of campus in throwing off their Herculean academic duties. Two, St. Ed's Carnival is coming.

This Sunday from 12 to 6 p.m., the annual rite of the Spring season will burst forth on Holy Cross Hill. This puts the Carnival so close to the other big campus event, the Fisher Regatta, that feel obligated to Regatta can take place in both events with ease.

It should be well worth their while, since St. Ed's, with Carnival co-chairmen John Fry and Fred Swar have again delivered an event that could be shock full of fun.

The weekend warrior population at Notre Dame should be able to satisfy their appetites with booths like the Basketball Toss and Football Throw. Also, the ever-popular Moonwalk is back.

It is completely affordable. Participants will only have to muster up a quarter or two per ticket at the booths. With such booths filled with full and thrills, the St. Ed's Carnival will definitely help make this weekend one of the more memorable ones this Spring.
AIDS is the masterpiece of the Ape of God

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

The Devil has been portrayed in imaginative literature as the Ape of God. In all his pomp and evil works, the literature shows him imitating and outdoing the Creator Who made the world and saw that it was good. With the power of the fallen angels, however, it is lacking in essential goodness and truth, and becomes a mockery of the truth and beauty in the life of God.

Wednesday evening, seeing Arthur Ashe on television as a victim of the illness with Magic Johnson, I decided that I was coming up with AIDS, the Ape of God has produced his masterpiece.

As an acronym, AIDS has become the most frightening word in our language. Two years ago, just before New Year's in London, "The Times" carried a point that was so terse, it shouted at you in the middle of an otherwise blank page was the size-life picture of a packaged condom, accompanied by the words, "Bring a friend with you!"—the advice was obviously addressed to Times readers going on a holiday. At the bottom of the page, the manufacturers of the condoms identified themselves: AIDS Awareness Committee.

This simple layout made a complete statement about the riskiness of unprotected sex. There was absolutely nothing on the white space anywhere on the page.

CLOSED SECTIONS AS OF 7:00

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

The Ape of God must regard AIDS as his masterpiece, because it is impossible to blame a little of God's holy thunder.

Arthur Ashe contracted the AIDS virus from contaminated blood transfusions he received during his open heart surgery. Is it ironic that the blood administer to save this man's life has the potential to kill him? Blood pumped by the heart nourishes the brain and gives life to our limbs.

Last summer in London, my friend Peter found himself soaked with the blood of a woman whom he saved from being knifed to death in a pub brawl.

Later, worried that he might have contracted AIDS from his bloody encounter, Peter underwent testing, after the hospital doctors who treated the wound, agreed that Peter had exposed himself to the virus.

For a number of weeks, Peter was afraid to sleep with his wife, or to allow his young sons to touch his hands which were bathed in the blood; even his face nicked while shaving, or even their nails used at table.

Without the shedding of blood, says the Bible, there is no remission of sin. In the AIDS epidemic, the shedding of blood can cause all hell to break loose. We must consider, like Peter have become aware that blood from a stranger splashed on him accidentally, was the death of them. Doctors, doctors, and their patients wouldn't willingly touch you with a ten-foot pole, if they could avoid it.

Blood used to belong to the domain of health, holiness, and high-jinks; but it wasn't a menace to protect yourself from!. Blood is one of the most shocking and other sharp-edged things which could open arteries out of which blood would pour. The blood wasn't a threat, even if it trickled out of murder victim.

Soon, we see as we bleating, an alarm bell rings in our minds. The blood could be the herald of an external and signal danger of coming from AIDS as a sacrament of death.

We really don't have a clue to the way the divine blood is used. We have hard to imagine the dawn of the AWARDS 1986.

All AIDS victims, "The life is in the blood," which sustains us. Finally, with the AIDS virus, he is able to get in the blood. The blood is a language. The "life in the blood" without that tug of the mind that reminds us of blood can mean death.

What is the point I'm making? I think that if AIDS, the Ape of God has achieved his masterpiece of irony and mockery, we should run, not walk, to the hospital. For the next generation there may be no escape from AIDS, something as unguessable as the kick from changnim, something as unanswerable as the Energizer Rabbit. Finally, spirit thought of blood entered into our minds as an escape from which we have come.

Nobody can be sure how disastrous the AIDS epidemic will get. "Put not your trust in carnal," the Catholic Bishops say, and I agree with the Bishops.

But if I had a teenager bell-bent with lust, I'd tempted to sew condoms into the crotch of his jeans.

I'm not smarter or more experienced than the bishops. I'm only speaking my conscience, which I would keep private, if I thought I had the duty as a priest to do so. If a kid has to go home and tell his parents he has AIDS, I can't imagine them telling him, "At least you were Catholic enough to wear condoms."

I'm not sure that the Devil exists as the Ape of God. I'm not sure that AIDS exists as a sacrament of death. Nobody can be sure how disastrous the AIDS epidemic will get.
NOTICES

50/15
WORD PROCESSING
256-8657
$5 FOR BOOKS TO 4-10 M-St Fairdans Books: call 492-90
im todos 10:00 everyday

LEARN TO SKYDIVE! Classes every Sat. and Sun. at 8:00 AM.
Train and jump the same day. Modern equipment and training programs.
Licensed instructors. Call Skydive Hastings (316) 946-2055.

TYPING AVAILABLE
287-4302

TYPING
Pickup & Delivery
277-4506

LOST/FOUND

Still lost? Pitch your senior's class ring. Inside reads "AC 93". Lady 9 do not call. PLEASE return to 143 Faria Hall or college at X495.

LOST: My favorite brown SUEDE GLOVES. PLEASE return to Jan at X495.

Were you at I-80 on Friday night? If so, you happened to find a wallet with some cash inside at 4838. The watch has great sentimental value. Thanks.

WILSON SOFTBALL MITT ON THURS. 4:00 AT LEFT AT BRIDGEGAP FOR THE BLEACHERS NEAR BANISH HALL. IF MY MITT IT HAS GREAT SENTIMENTAL VALUE IF YOU HAVE ANY INFO PLEASE CALL MARGARET X2853.

FOUND: At Smorgasburg. 1 empty goofy looking beer can. Wrap it up with some shoelaces and drop by 305 Stu. Ifs call x1675

WANTED

- Silver drop earring with purple fragments in the sitting position for summer.
- Turtle Creek guys need two more roommates for next year. Call Brian at 277-6471.
- furnished Turtle Creek townhouse
  3 bedrooms
  2 bath
  2 car garage
  272-9540

- Need 1 male Lafayette Square, Dallas/El Paso after finals...
  $200/ month
  $300 per month
  233-1938

- Need 2 Bedroom
  Walking distance to area, fenced in patio, Semi-Furnished. Call 234-1886

- Need to buy 2 Tickets for Graduation
  I need graduation tickets if anyone is interested, for the baseball game.

- FOR SALE: 5 15 W. Marion; roomy 3 bedroom; call 331-1993

- Roommate wanted in our home, starting May 18th.
- Need 2 male students rent negotiable. 2 academic references accepted and signed.

- WANTED: W ALLET LT H U R S D A Y

- LOST—

- GRADUATION TICKETS NEEDED
  I need graduation tickets if anyone has any. I need to get to the athletic dept.: call collect (317) 364-0300 for more info.

- The beast at Tanagra
- Darmok and Gillard at Tanagra
- The Observer accepts all submissions by e-mail at 4 p.m. to the Dina Rice, (219) 234-8900. All photos to the Photo Editor, (219) 234-9331. All feature stories, news stories, and columns must be prepared. The change is 5 cents per character per day, including all spaces.

WANTED

who knows what could happen the ir heroes once toiled. And now park the ir cars where will be around forever, but not be too sure. The hallowed halls of Boston Garden will soon be a memory, and Chicago White Sox fans now park their cars where their heroes once toured. And who knows what could happen if George Steinbrenner ever gets control again in the Bronx. Baseball's palaces are slipping away, and nobody seems to care enough to replace them. But fortunately for fans and players alike, Baltimore does care. Thank you, Baltimore Orioles. You've given baseball a new place to call home.

---

TWINS...

The Twin Registry at the Department of Psychology needs you! Identical, Fraternal twins who are undergraduates (seniors welcome), grad students, faculty, staff or alumni are needed to form a registry for future psychology studies. Only one twin needs to be at N.D. Send your name and phone number to 118 Haggar Hall or call 271-9039.

---

FRIDAY EVENTS

SESSION I 7:30 P.M.
JUDGES JAM 11:30 P.M.

SATURDAY EVENTS

SESSION II 1:00 P.M.
SESSION III 7:30 P.M.

JUDGES

DAN MORGENSTERN
JAMES WILLIAMS
LEW TABACKIN
ED THIGPEN
BILL WATROUS
JOHN CLAYTON JR

---

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

COLLEGIATE JAZZ FESTIVAL

APRIL 10-11, 1992 - STEPAN CENTER

---

Track teams head for Dogwood Relays

By JOSEF EVANS and RIAN AKEY
Sports Writers

Following two consecutive weeks of impressive split-squad performances, the Irish men's track team returns to full power this weekend, competing in the Sea Bay Dogwood Relays in Knoxville, Tenn.

Head coach Joe Piane, pleased with last weekend's performances in Indianapolis and Austin, is optimistic about the Dogwood competition. "I think the group of kids that we're taking to this meet are really ready to race well," he commented. "They have had very good workouts over the past two weeks and they're running close to their potential and are not over-raced."

"John Coyle is training like a madman right now. He's been very focused and is ready to have a big outdoor season to follow up his indoor achievements. Thank you, Baltimore Orioles."

"The Notre Dame women's track team has been showing great improvement lately, and the key to that improvement may be their attitude. "The more, the merrier" seems to be the present feeling on the team, and if that holds true, this weekend's Dogwood Relays in Knoxville, Tenn., should prove successful."

---

Outdoor Track

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>WEEKEND SPORTS SCHEDULE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>APRIL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baseball</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Golf</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tennis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Move up to "MAPLE LANE APARTMENTS"

- 2 Bedroom Luxury Apartments (4 Apartments per Building)
- Locked Entry with Intercom System
- Full size Washer and Dryer for each Apartment
- Pool and Clubhouse facilities
- 6 minutes from Campus
- Flexible lease terms
- Bring in this Ad for $50 off 1st months rent

For further information call 277-3731 Located at Cleveland and Bendix

---

THE OBSERVER / Ann-Marié Conrado

Friday, April 10, 1992

---

Orioles

continued from page 20 wrecking ball. With Comiskey Park, baseball's original palace, already a thing of the past, the need is to lose another landmark.

However, what the Orioles have proven is that if it is time to say goodbye to a legend, an equally impressive stadium should take its place. Forget every dome from coast to coast, baseball deserves a better home.

Fenway Park, Wrigley Field, Yankee Stadium and Tiger Stadium are the only real legends still standing and Tiger Stadium may soon be the victim of a wrecking ball. Sure, it seems like Fenway, Wrigley Field and Yankee Stadium will be around forever, but don't be too sure.

The hallowed halls of Boston Garden will soon be a memory, and Chicago White Sox fans now park their cars where their heroes once toured. And who knows what could happen if George Steinbrenner ever gets control again in the Bronx. Baseball's palaces are slipping away, and nobody seems to care enough to replace them. But fortunately for fans and players alike, Baltimore does care. Thank you, Baltimore Orioles.
SMC softball drops two to Kalamazoo

By JENNIFER GUSTAFSON
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s softball team’s three-game winning streak ended yesterday when they lost to the Kalamazoo Hornets, 13-9 and 6-4.

Playing away from South Bend and without their star pitcher, the Belles had several good showings despite their loss.

Sophomore Sara Miller contributed three hits for the Belles, while Carol Grobner, Staci Bogataj, Shawn Patrick and Erin Wachter added two apiece.

Miller pointed out that the Belles continued their strong hitting.

“We really got the bats on the ball,” she explained. “We are a much stronger hitting team than we were last year.”

Miller also felt that the game was a learning experience.

“Even though we lost, we learned that we have a second pitcher, Carol Grobner, that we can fall back on,” said Miller.

The Belles will travel to Chicago this weekend to participate in the North Central College tournament. The Belles, who hope to improve on last year’s 1-2 record at the tournament, will be taking on Elmhurst College, Trinity College and North Central College.

The Belles will be without the leadership of senior co-captain Janet Lihoby, who underwent knee surgery on Wednesday.

“Not having Janet with us will put more pressure on our only other senior, Carol Grobner,” said Saint Mary’s coach Don Cromer.

SmC softball drops two to Kalamazoo

By JENNIFER GUSTAFSON
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s tennis team is looking to continue its winning ways against Taylor University tomorrow.

The Belles beat Valparaiso 9-0 on Wednesday after losing to Division I Bowling Green State University on Sunday.

Sophomore Thysama Darby has been on a roll this season, boasting a 12-1 record at number-five singles.

Darby feels that the win against Valparaiso should boost the team’s confidence level heading into tomorrow’s game.

“A tough loss at Bowling Green, it was great for the team to go back on track with an impressive win against Valpo,” said Darby.

Taylor boasts strong players at number-two and number-four singles, but is still aware of Saint Mary’s talent.

“Saint Mary’s is highly respected in our eyes and we are going to have to work hard,” said Taylor coach Tina Krause.

“Saint Mary’s is very reputable and for either team to win, it’s going to have to play its best.”

Sports Briefs

■ Sports Briefs are accepted in writing during business hours Sunday through Friday at the Observer office on the third floor of LaFortune. Please submit your name, brief, telephone number, and the dates the brief is to run.

■ Bookstore Basketball players who lost matches or a pair of gloves should call 283-1224 or 283-1096 to identify.

■ Antostal Bike Races are accepting applicants for the Fast Bike races and the Off-road Bike races. Races start at 4:30 p.m. on April 23 at Saint Mary’s. Register in the SUB office in LaFortune on Friday or Monday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Helmets are required. Questions? Call Karl Etzel at 283-2257.

■ The ND Martial Arts Institute will hold a belt testing and a seminar on Saturday in room 301 of the Rockne Memorial from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

■ A body fat testing session will be conducted by RecSports on Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the LaFortune lobby.

Saint Mary’s Student Government presents

Deborah Norville

ABC Radio Network talk show host former co-host, NBC TODAY

Issues Facing Women in 1992

Tuesday, April 14, 7:30 p.m.
O’Laughlin Auditorium
Admission free

Program support provided by the South Bend YWCA and the Saint Mary’s chapter of Women in Communication, Inc.
Lacrosse
continued from page 20
benefiting from the goalie play, and the goalies are benefiting from the play of the rest of the defense.”

The stellar play of the Irish midfield has taken some load off of Parent, Jewell, and the rest of the defense, as well as complementing the Notre Dame attack. In the Denison matchup, the middies netted six goals while delivering four assists.

“Our midfield has played exceptionally. Our attack has been getting a lot of goals, but often those goals are the result of the play from the midfield,” added Corrigan.

With six games remaining for the Irish, talk of an NCAA tournament bid has arisen. Corrigan quickly quieted those remarks, stating his team has too many games remaining to be thinking that far ahead.

“The NCAA is something which is way off,” said Corrigan. “We have three parts left to our season. The games on Saturday and Monday, the trip to Colorado, and our season-ending home games. We need to take each games as they come, and not dwell on the next game.”

The Mt. St. Mary’s game is scheduled for 2 p.m. at Moose Krause Stadium.

Tennis
continued from page 20
Dziura will be looking for his first doubles win of the year to go along with a 2-1 singles record. Lopez has gone 2-1 in doubles this year, including a win with Ted Eckert at the number-one position.

Wilson has seen action at three-doubles this year, teaming with Chris Wojtalik for a victory against West Virginia, and Payumo has won matches with both Coleman and Zurcher this season.

“It’s a bit of a risk,” stated Bayliss, “but it insures that we will be fresh.”

Sophomores Tad Eckert and Tom North will play at number-one doubles for the first time this year, but both are experienced. They also are coming off a big win over Ball State’s John Amos and Pierre Donmestrop on Wednesday. Their win clinched Notre Dame’s 6-3 victory over the 22nd-ranked Cardinals.

“Is a show of confidence for the way they pulled that match out,” said Bayliss. “They showed an awful lot of poise.”

The resurfacing of Dziura will not pose much of a problem for the Irish singles lineup. Moving up one notch will be Zurcher, Coleman, Forsyth, and North, and seniors Ron Rosas and Chris Wozjak will occupy the fifth and sixth spots. They have both played well in those spots all year.

“I’m confident in our ability to play well,” noted Bayliss. “I’m also anxious to see how we will handle it.”

As far as the other participants, Butler seems to be destined for a second-place finish. Butler has played most of the other teams in the conference and they have beaten them all,” said Bayliss.

Unfortunately for the Bulldogs, their undefeated conference record has a very good chance of coming to an end here at Notre Dame this weekend.
ND Rugby hosts April Madness

By SEAN SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's nationally renowned Rugby Club will make its second consecutive appearance in the National Collegiate Rugby Tournament this year.

Reminiscent of the recent NCAA basketball tournament, the 64 best collegiate rugby teams in the country will meet in the first round on Saturday to battle over who will be the 1992 national champion. There will be two first-round games held at Stepan Field on the Notre Dame campus.

“Whitewater has a big pack of forwards,” said Forteson. “But if we bring it to them, we’ll outlast them.”

Saying that Notre Dame has won its CARFU division (Chicago Area Rugby Football Union) for the past two years is an understatement. They’ve torn the division to threads.

In the CARFU tournament this year, Notre Dame won the championship with a combined score for the three games of 96-6. Last year, their combined score was 104-5. The CARFU championship earned them the invitation to the national tournament this Saturday.

By JENNY MARTEN
Associate Sports Editor

The 22nd-ranked Notre Dame baseball team (14-9) opens Midwestern Collegiate Conference play this weekend when Evansville (14-15) comes to town for a four-game series.

The Irish are coming off a tough loss to Purdue on Monday to rivalry is one of the more

Baseball opens MCC season against Evansville

By JENNY MARTEN

The 22nd-ranked Notre Dame baseball team (14-9) opens Midwestern Collegiate Conference play this weekend when Evansville (14-15) comes to town for a four-game series.

The Irish are coming off a tough loss to Purdue on Monday to rip the division to threads.

At 1:00 p.m., Notre Dame will play Wisconsin-Whitewater, and at 2:30 p.m., Southern Illinois will meet Miami of Ohio. On Sunday, the consolation game will be at 11:30 a.m., while Saturday's winners will play at 1:00 p.m.

Notre Dame forward Chip Forteson believes that the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater could be Notre Dame’s most formidable opponent this weekend. However, Forteson made it clear that Notre Dame will play aggressive and will use their speed and fitness to neutralize the Whitewater's size advantage.

Three years should be some great games, both teams match up well.”

Evansville comes into the game leading the MCC in several pitching categories. Senior John MacCauley is atop the MCC in victories with a 5-3 record and strikeout per nine innings with 54 for an average of 9.10.

MacCauley, last year's MCC player of the year, is the probable starter for Friday night's game and will face junior Chris Michalak (4-1, 2.82 ERA, 36 strikeouts), who is second in the MCC in both wins and innings pitched.

Junior Greg Willmig is third in the strikeout category and may face senior Jeff Tenbarge and Irish pitcher John MacCauley (4-1, 2.82 ERA, 36 strikeouts) in one of Saturday’s games.

Walania is fourth in ERA. Sophomore Corey Bromme and either sophomore Tom Price (1-1, 5.82) or Dave Sinnes (3-1, 3.86) will battle on the mound in the second half of the doubleheader on Saturday.

Sunday's game matches either sophomore Chris Helfrich or junior Jeff Tenbarge and Irish pitcher Pat Leahy (4-4, 3.55). The series starts on Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Cosevelski Stadium and continues with a doubleheader on Saturday starting at 1 p.m. and a single game at 1 p.m. on Sunday. Saturday and Sunday’s games will be played at Jake Kline Field.

“I love playing at Jake Kline,” said Bauch. “We play best there. It’s home to us.”

“Two thumbs up—way up. It’s one of the year’s best films.”

David Adams, NEWSWEEK

“A powerhouse movie... the work of a truly gifted filmmaker”

David Adams, NEWSWEEK
After an easy win over Western Michigan to close out their home schedule, the Notre Dame women’s tennis team hits the road again this weekend to face Louisiana State and South Alabama in Baton Rouge.

Only three matches remain in a season that has been full of ups and downs. After a 3-1 start, the Irish lost seven of their next ten matches to drop to 6-8. Since then, however, they have won three of four, including an upset of 17th-ranked Kansas, and head to Louisiana with a 9-9 mark.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m., the Irish face 23rd-ranked LSU, who they haven’t beaten in two attempts. Last season at Notre Dame, the Irish dropped a 6-2 decision to the Tigers.

“We’re going to have to play awfully well against LSU,” Irish coach Jay Louderback said. “We’ve been outdoors all week so that shouldn’t be a problem.”

Cricket club begins 132nd year at Illinois

By JOSEF EVANS
Sports Writer

Here’s a trivia question for you—name the oldest sport at Notre Dame. Football? No. Baseball? Not a chance. Try cricket. When the Notre Dame Cricket Club takes to the pitch this Saturday at the University of Illinois at Champaign, it will mark the 132nd year since the first team represented the school.

Though the sport eventually disappeared from the campus, it was re-founded last year when some of the students in the London Program developed an appreciation for the game and decided to bring it back to Notre Dame. It was not an easy going for them, though, as the club found that a long layoff from competition can make for a rough season, finishing with an 0-4 record.

Not surprisingly, many of the club’s members are from foreign countries where cricket is the national sport, such as India or Pakistan. Freshman Paul Pribaz, himself a native Australian, noted that most Americans do not and probably will not ever have much of an interest in the game.

“The glory of the game is that it takes five days to play,” said Pribaz. “I don’t think it’ll ever catch on here.”

Indeed, in the country with the world’s shortest attention span, cricket is not bound to catch fire anytime soon. However, the game the club plays is a shortened version, which campus fans may find to be a bit more to their liking.

“It’s called a limited-over game, and it’s a more exciting version,” commented Pribaz.

This year will also mark the first time sanctioned matches appear on campus in 100 years, as the team will face the Bears Cricket Club from Chicago on May 9 and Purdue on the newly built pitch on White Field North.
Track teams head to Dogwood Relays

22nd-ranked LSU is enough to get any baseball fan's juices flowing. The brick, arched facade will shame the jumbo fence and the natural grass, Oriole Park boasts one of the great backdrops in baseball. The scoreboard, shining the jumbo screen and luxury boxes found in many days gone by and give the youngsters a make the old-timers remember the great tradition from the baseball dictionary.

Aside from the asymmetrical outfield fences, the old Memorial Stadium home, and Sportsman's Park, which closed its doors in 1953, will go down in history as the place where midget Eddie Gaedel stepped to the plate. Oriole Park, however, will not only evoke memories of the great stadiums of the past, but it is a fitting atmosphere for "90s legend Cal Ripken. It to break Lou Gehrig's 60-year-old streak of consecutive games played.

Those comparisons aside, the Orioles will have to continue the tradition of their own former ballparks. Hall-of-Famers Brooks Robinson, Jim Palmer called the old Memorial Stadium home, and Jim Palmer will return as the Orioles manager. He will go down in history as the place where midget Eddie Gaedel stepped to the plate.

Senior Sharon Fisher, while not the ones who rack up outstanding individual statistics, but the individual who encourages the team to perform excellently.
The Baltimore Sun's Rick Sutcliffe, who stopped Cleveland with a five-hit shutout on opening day in the new brick beauty, says the upper deck along the left-field fence and the natural grass, Oriole Park.

Orioles Park plays host to the 20th-ranked LSU baseball team this weekend, and will have the opportunity to make the visitors remember the great ballpark in Baltimore.

Orioles Park a throwback to good ol' days

---

Men's tennis looks to continue mastery of MCC Championships

The prevailing question at this weekend's Mid-Continent Conference Championships will not be whether or not Notre Dame will continue its string of straight titles since entering the conference in 1989.

"Rather, it's will the team even lose a match?"

In their three years at the conference tournament, the Irish have dominated the opposition, winning 26 out of the 27 possible flight titles.

However, winning all nine of the flight titles this year might be a little bit harder.

Irish head coach Bob Bayless has decided to rest his top singles player and his top two doubles teams for the upcoming matches against Michigan and Purdue.

That means Notre Dame will be without the services of All-American Jim Palmer, the four-ranked doubles team of Dillaha and Chuck Coleman, and its number-two doubles team of Andy Zurcher and Wesley Embree.

In their place will be several talented but inexperienced underclassmen. Bayless will go with the tandem of sophomore coach Kevin Corrigan directed Notre Dame to the NCAA tournament.

To keep that ranking, Notre Dame must continue its consistent play against St. Mary's.

The Mountaineers are an experience-laden team, with a balanced offensive attack. Senior Charlie Horning is high point man for the Mount.

"We are a very patient team and I think that is what we do best," said Corrigan. "They are well-coached and well-disciplined."

Despite the impressive numbers, the Irish defense should have little trouble stopping the Mountaineers.

"They are a very patient team and I think that is what we do best," said Corrigan. "They are well-coached and well-disciplined."

"I think it is a little game of give and take," commented Corrigan. "The rest of the defense is improved her running but has improved as a person."

"The Saint Mary's track team has one such long-distance athlete."

Senior Sharon Fisher, while not the ones who rack up outstanding individual statistics, but the individual who encourages the team to perform excellently.

"I'm really happy that she's been on our program these four years. It's nice to see someone who's not only improved her running but has improved as a person," said Belles head coach Larry Srzzechowski.

Unlike most track athletes, Fisher has not trained very long. After being forced to join her high school basketball team, Fisher again followed her friends advice in her junior year and ran track.

"I joined the basketball team because I was told 'you're so tall, you should play basketball,'" explained Fisher. "I had never played basketball before in my life. All the girls on the basketball team went out for track, so they told me to go out for it with them."

When Fisher came to Saint Mary's, she tried out for the basketball team, but didn't make it. After that, she decided to focus on track.

However, collegiate sports still did not come easy for her. After one week of practice, Fisher quit the team.

"I never ran farther than three miles in my whole life," she said. "There was a woman coach for the long-distance runners and on the first day she told us to go out and run five miles. I said, 'What do you mean five miles?'"

"At the time it might have seemed like a long distance to her. Now, for me, it's a drop in the bucket," added Srzzechowski.

"If you take a look at how far she's progressed in the last few years, it's amazing. She's gone from a leisurely runner to a competitor," said Fisher.

Fisher returned to the track the next week. She didn't think she was ready for collegiate competition, but she was determined to stay with it. She admitted she asked Srzzechowski not to run her in the competitions, but she's glad that he did.

"Since that first year, Fisher has improved tremendously in the 1500 meters, cutting her time almost two minutes.

Her sophomore year was her biggest season. Working with a new long distance coach who took the time to help her improve her stride and form, Fisher was able to cut 30 seconds off her time.

Success continued into her junior year as Fisher broke the school record in the indoor 1500 (5:38.6). Since then, the record has been broken twice by freshman Fisher.

Lacrosse to take on Mount St. Mary's

No. 22 Irish hope to extend three-game win streak

By GEORGE DOHRMANN

Who could have imagined that after starting the season 1-3, the Notre Dame lacrosse team would be nationally ranked and thinking NCAA tournament bids.

Yet, that is where the Irish stand as they prepare to face Mount St. Mary's Saturday.

"I'm really happy that she's been on our program these four years. It's nice to see someone who's not only improved her running but has improved as a person," said Belles head coach Larry Srzzechowski.

Unlike most track athletes, Fisher has not trained very long. After being forced to join her high school basketball team, Fisher again followed her friends advice in her junior year and ran track.

"I joined the basketball team because I was told 'you're so tall, you should play basketball,'" explained Fisher. "I had never played basketball before in my life. All the girls on the basketball team went out for track, so they told me to go out for it with them."

When Fisher came to Saint Mary's, she tried out for the basketball team, but didn't make it. After that, she decided to focus on track.

However, collegiate sports still did not come easy for her. After one week of practice, Fisher quit the team.

"I never ran farther than three miles in my whole life," she said. "There was a woman coach for the long-distance runners and on the first day she told us to go out and run five miles. I said, 'What do you mean five miles?'"

"At the time it might have seemed like a long distance to her. Now, for me, it's a drop in the bucket," added Srzzechowski.

"If you take a look at how far she's progressed in the last few years, it's amazing. She's gone from a leisurely runner to a competitor," said Fisher.

Fisher returned to the track the next week. She didn't think she was ready for collegiate competition, but she was determined to stay with it. She admitted she asked Srzzechowski not to run her in the competitions, but she's glad that he did.

Since that first year, Fisher has improved tremendously in the 1500 meters, cutting her time almost two minutes.

Her sophomore year was her biggest season. Working with a new long distance coach who took the time to help her improve her stride and form, Fisher was able to cut 30 seconds off her time.

Success continued into her junior year as Fisher broke the school record in the indoor 1500 (5:38.6). Since then, the record has been broken twice by freshman Fisher.

---

Fisher provides senior leadership for SMC track

By CHRIS BACON

Determining the star athletes on a team sometimes it not as obvious as it may seem.

Real team leaders are not just the ones who rack up outstanding individual statistics, but the individual who encourages the team to perform excellently.

The Saint Mary's track team has one such long-distance athlete.

Senior Sharon Fisher, while not tallying high points at each track meet, has truly motivated the team with her enthusiasm—particularly the younger distance runners.

"I'm really happy that she's been on our program these four years. It's nice to see someone who's not only improved her running but has improved as a person," said Belles head coach Larry Srzzechowski.

Unlike most track athletes, Fisher has not trained very long. After being forced to join her high school basketball team, Fisher again followed her friends advice in her junior year and ran track.

"I joined the basketball team because I was told 'you're so tall, you should play basketball,'" explained Fisher. "I had never played basketball before in my life. All the girls on the basketball team went out for track, so they told me to go out for it with them."

When Fisher came to Saint Mary's, she tried out for the basketball team, but didn't make it. After that, she decided to focus on track.

However, collegiate sports still did not come easy for her. After one week of practice, Fisher quit the team.

"I never ran farther than three miles in my whole life," she said. "There was a woman coach for the long-distance runners and on the first day she told us to go out and run five miles. I said, 'What do you mean five miles?'"

"At the time it might have seemed like a long distance to her. Now, for me, it's a drop in the bucket," added Srzzechowski.

"If you take a look at how far she's progressed in the last few years, it's amazing. She's gone from a leisurely runner to a competitor," said Fisher.

Fisher returned to the track the next week. She didn't think she was ready for collegiate competition, but she was determined to stay with it. She admitted she asked Srzzechowski not to run her in the competitions, but she's glad that he did.

Since that first year, Fisher has improved tremendously in the 1500 meters, cutting her time almost two minutes.

Her sophomore year was her biggest season. Working with a new long distance coach who took the time to help her improve her stride and form, Fisher was able to cut 30 seconds off her time.

Success continued into her junior year as Fisher broke the school record in the indoor 1500 (5:38.6). Since then, the record has been broken twice by freshman Fisher.