Kellogg Institute receives $2 million grant from Coca-Cola

By BECKY BARNES Assistant News Editor

In a collaboration that breaks new ground in the merger of business and academic worlds, the Coca-Cola Company has donated two million dollars to the University of Notre Dame’s Kellogg Institute for International Studies to be used for a five-year program dealing with Latin American public policy.

The gift will be used to initiate a series of forums dealing with critical issues facing Latin America and to provide 15 four-year graduate fellowships for study at Notre Dame, according to Father Ernest Barteli, executive director of the Kellogg Institute.

Barteli said that Coca-Cola approached the University with the idea of a collaboration and called the move “a first” on their part.

Many of the ideas for the program originated in discussions with Pedro Pablo Díaz, director of external relations in Latin America for Coca-Cola.

“We don’t expect this program to sell an additional bottle of Coca-Cola in the short run,” Díaz told the people of Latin America. “We are doing this because it is the right thing for a company like Coca-Cola to do at this time in Latin America. The issues addressed will affect the well-being of Latin America in the future.”

“We are grateful to the Coca-Cola Company for this important and timely support,” said University President Father Edward Malloy. “It will greatly enhance the University’s involvement in a critical field of international study.”

The forums of the program will address such issues as hemispheric free trade, poverty, human rights, the environment, U.S. foreign policy and public and private ethics. Barteli said they will feature major decision-makers within Latin America along with researchers in the academic field, including Notre Dame faculty members.

The forums are designed to reach a variety of audiences, including a popular audience through Latin American television, Barteli said. They will also reach academic and professional fields through the publication of monographs that will result from the research papers, seminars and workshops that will accompany the forums.

Work has already begun on the first forum, to be held in the spring and focus on hemispheric free trade. Barteli said Haime Ros, senior fellow of the institute and professor of economics is directing the research part of the program.

The institute will work with Golden Dome Productions to produce a series of educational videos in cooperation with libraries and academic institutions within the U.S. and Latin America, Barteli added.

In addition, the institute helped to fund Golden Dome Productions’ filming at this summer’s Earth Summit in Rio, which will be used in an upcoming forum on the environment, he said.

The fellowships to be awarded are also a major component of the program, Barteli said.

Many of the current policy makers in Latin America received their doctoral degrees from American universities, “so the potential for service to the hemisphere out of these doctoral fellowships is pretty high,” he added.

The joint effort between the University and Coca-Cola is “somewhat unusual,” said Barteli.

He sees Notre Dame “at the leading edge of collaboration between the corporate world and higher education.”

Marines construct first tent cities for victims of Hurricane Andrew

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of Marines built the first tent cities for hurricane victims Monday, a full week after Andrew left thousands homeless, and the first two ships of a Navy convoy arrived in Homestead.

Thousands of people fumed in traffic jams as Miami-area residents resumed some of the first time since the hurricane struck.

“FEMA had distributed 80 checks totaling $16,000 by midday, said spokesman Edward Leon.

“Exactly how much of the money will go to homeowners, they say go to City Hall. I go to City Hall, they said, see the canes and yet they say we don’t have money.”

The confusion has led to domestic and foreign aid and cooperation being dumped in the trash after sitting in mud puddles. Health officials are worried about rat attacks and sanitary conditions. The stench of garbage could be smelled by people flying in a helicopter more than 300 feet over one area.

The system enables people in the relief pipeline to complain of a lack of coordination.

Make these the best years of your life

Mom... Dad... I got in!!! I got accepted to Notre Dame!!! O.K., just calm down, no need to panic. I visited the campus and read the brochures, so I already know all there is to know about the school... right? Great. Now I can get started polishing my resume and getting ready for the job market. That's what I'm working towards. My four years of college will not be spent just having fun. That's what I have in mind for my future. I will not let myself limit myself. Take in as much as you can and become a Eucharistic Minister for your dorm.

I thoroughly enjoy the different colleges and classes available. I find it best to take a wide range of classes, so as not to limit myself to one subject. I'm not a fan of the majors, but I do like to try different things. I thoroughly enjoy the different colleges and classes available. WEAVER GIVES UP AFTER 11 DAYS

NAPLES, Idaho (AP) — A fugitive who held off a small army of law-enforcement officers for 11 days at his remote mountaintop cabin surrendered Monday, an intermediary said.

The fugitive’s son and wife and a U.S. marshal had died in shootouts during the siege. Handy Weaver came out of the cabin with his three surviving children, an infant daughter and two older girls, said James “Bo” Gritz, who has been a liaison between Weaver and authorities since Friday. Gritz said he and an associate accompanied Weaver and his daughters.

“The situation is over because all of the family are out and they’re all safe,” Gritz told reporters. He said Weaver was put under arrest and was being flown to Boise. Gritz said federal authorities had agreed to let Weaver’s girls stay with a family that lives in the area.

Federal officials at the scene didn’t immediately confirm Gritz’s account.

Weaver, 44, a devotee of the Christian Identity Movement that combines Old Testament, right-wing and white-supremacist beliefs, and his family were holed up in the cabin since February 1991, when he failed to appear in court on a federal weapons charge. He allegedly sold sawed-off shotguns to an undercover agent.

Authorities traced the family to the cabin and conducted periodic surveillance, saying they hesitated to risk a confrontation because of the children.

On Aug. 21, six deputy U.S. marshals ran into Weaver, his son and Weaver’s friend Kevin Harris during a reconnaissance patrol near the cabin on Selkirk Mountain, about 40 miles south of the U.S.-Canadian border.

A shootout ensued, and Deputy Marshal William Degan and Weaver’s 14-year-old son, Samuel, were killed.

Weaver’s wife, Vicki, 43, was slain and Harris was wounded in a gun battle the next night. Harris, 24, surrendered Sunday to get treatment and was hospitalized in serious condition, authorities said.

More than 100 federal, state and local law enforcement officers and National Guardsmen had surrounded the cabin since the siege began.

Some have urged unified radio, frequencies for all relief agencies and a high-profile disaster czar, such as retired Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf.

Card said at a news conference Monday that the relief operation could only work with complete state and federal coordination, and he conceded there has been "a significant amount of red tape."

The first tent city was erected on Homestead's Harris Field by 450 Marines who had worked all night. Fourteen tents fit into each of the 198 tents.

Marines also set up a similar camp on parkland in adjacent Florida City. And an Army unit began building a 40-tent camp in Homestead. None of the three camps will have electricity, showers or kitchen facilities until at least Tuesday, but the military said it would not turn away anyone seeking shelter.

Residents of those neighborhoods have been reluctant to leave the ruins of their homes because they fear looting.

The Navy's USS Sierra, a destroyer tender from Charleston, S.C., arrived Monday with 15 tons of tools and a crew of 1,000, followed by the USS Oppurtune, a salvage ship from Little Creek, Va. Five ships were expected by Tuesday.

The Defense Department said that by the end of the day, south Florida would have 11,510 federal troops, 4,600 portable toilets, 15,500 radios, 24 portable food kitchens, 638,600 ready-to-eat meals, 240,000 cans of immediate and enough tents to hold 23,570 people.

It was difficult to confirm how much of that had arrived, in part because traffic was heavy and telephone service had not been restored to all areas. About 325,000 people still had no electricity.

Thunderstorms hit for a third straight day Monday and steady, seasonal rain was forecast throughout the state. The Federal Emergency Management Agency started handing out relief checks Monday in Louisiana, where the storm caused an estimated $400 million in damage. More than 50,000 Louisiana residents still had no power, and the Red Cross said 25,000 people there were homeless.

The number of deaths blamed on Andrew in Florida, Louisiana and the Bahamas stood at 35. In addition, many Floridians have been injured while removing fallen trees, falling off roofs, or stepping on nails and broken glass, and a relief worker remained in serious condition, emergency officials said.

The ruling came as candidates scrambled to get the vote delayed across the state, arguing that they weren't able to campaign and that many voters in South Florida won't be able to get to the polls Tuesday because of Hurricane Andrew.

The high court, in a one-page order issued upstate in Tallahassee, upheld Dade Circuit Judge Leonard Rivkind's postponement of Tuesday's primary until Sept. 8 for Dade County only.

But the justices rejected Rivkind's order to postpone the release of results from multi-county races that include Dade.

The state argued in a brief filed Sunday that Rivkind lacked authority to seal results outside Dade County.

Several candidates said they would ask a federal court today in Miami to delay the elections statewide. They said Dade wasn't the only county where hurricane damage would prevent people from voting.

"The only way to avoid confusion and chaos is to postpone the elections statewide," said Nicki Grossman, a county commissioner who is seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. House seat from a district stretching from the Fort Lauderdale area to the Keys. The primary includes races for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Bob Graham, and 23 seats in the U.S. House. Ten of those seats are vacant; four newly created because of the state's population growth, and six where the incumbents are retiring.

The election will choose Florida's first black member of Congress since Reconstruction. All three Democrats in one Miami-area district are black.

State Sen. Carrie Meek, state Rep. Darryl Reaves and University of Miami professor Donald Jones. Meek, considered the front-runner, scrapped politicking last week. "We've almost turned the political campaign into a hurricane-relief campaign," said an aide, Haile Jaahi.

Another Miami-area district will elect the first Cuban-born man in Congress. State senators Lincoln Diaz-Balart and Javier Souto are running in the Republican primary; no Democrats are running.

A Cuban-born woman, Ileana Ros-Lehtinen, is seeking re-election in yet another Miami district. Ros-Lehtinen was first elected in 1989 in a special vote to succeed the late Rep.

GIZA PLATEAU, Egypt (AP) — Restorers of the Sphinx are uncovering the long-hidden secrets of one of the ancient world’s greatest, mysterious legacies; even the story of how it was built.

Among riddles being answered is whether the main boulder crouching at the foot of the Giza pyramids originally had a beard — new evidence says yes — and whether the Sphinx was meant for a particular spot, definitely the former.

Who built the Sphinx? Why? How? What did the ancient Egyptians see on it that we cannot? Answers to these questions now are known, said Zahi Hawass, general antiquities director for Egypt.

"The Sphinx is more than other people see. Nobody writing about the Sphinx, about its dating and functions, has ever truly examined it," Hawass said. "For the first time, we see the Sphinx through an artist’s eye."

That is the key, Hawass said. The Sphinx is puzzling to the world, "but to a sculptor, it can be understood completely."

Among Hawass’ most significant insights is that the famous statue was carved into the solid rock, not the sun god Ra.

"Many Egyptians believe the Sphinx was a temple built by Pharaoh Cheops, who built the pyramids. Hawass said that the Sphinx was meant for a particular spot, according to a master plan."

"Artists started work on the Sphinx by outlining the face and neck. Architect then shaped the rest of the body. Artists again were summoned to give the statue its lion-shaped body and tail, and to finish facial details."

"Original stones in the Sphinx’s chest suggest they supported the weight of a statue. Remnants of a last temple are now in museums in Egypt and England."

"Sphinx artists worked as a team, producing a masterpiece, but over the centuries, they built various statues and statues."

"Among Hawass’ most significant insights is that the famous statue was carved into the solid rock, not the sun god Ra."

Tornado costs rise

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP) — Damage estimates rose to $8.5 million Monday from a tornado that cut a 21-mile swath through central Wisconsin, damaging more than 50 homes and businesses.

One person was killed by the tornado, and another died later of a heart attack.

"The storm touched down Saturday evening about nine miles west of Wautoma and cut across the eastern outskirts of town."

County emergency director Jerry Miller said the new damage estimate did not include reports of extensive damage. He said 48 homes and seven businesses were destroyed.

Donations of food and clothing were piling up, said Mark Marks, chairman of the Wautoma County Red Cross.

Ancient riddles of the Sphinx finally uncovered by historians

Murphy Brown claims Emmys

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hollywood’s cultural elite showed Dan Quayle what’s what by awarding "Murphy Brown" three Emmys, while "Northern Exposure," the offbeat show about a New York doctor in the Alaskan backwoods, won four trophies.

CBS’ "Northern Exposure," whose honors at Sunday’s 44th annual Emmy Awards included best drama series, tied for most trophies with "Northern Exposure," which won all technical Emmys for voice work.

"Murphy Brown" — attacked by the vice president as glorifying unwed motherhood — was named best comedy series, a triumph for voice work.

Clinton refutes GOP job claims

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Bill Clinton on Monday dis­missed Bush campaign efforts to ridicule the Democrat's plan for 8 million new jobs, saying Republican lack credibility on the issue and run the economy "into the ditch."

Clinton offered a reminder that Bush had promised to create 15 million jobs in his first four years "and came up 14 million short." The Demo­crat's proposal to generate 8 million jobs over the next four years is highlighted in a Clinton TV ad that began airing Mon­day.

Republicans "have no cred­ibility to say anything about jobs," Clinton told reporters in Little Rock, where he was tending to state business and meeting with Hispanic support­ers on get-out-the-vote efforts.

"They don't know how to create jobs. All they know how to do is give more money to the richest Americans, bankrupt the country and measure econ­omy into the ditch," Clinton said. He noted that Bush four years ago promised 30 million new jobs over eight years. In Bush's first 3 1/2 years, the number of non-farm jobs inched up just 923,000.

Clinton said just 100,000 new jobs over the last four years had come from the private sector, adding, "we produced almost that many private-sector jobs in Arkansas."

The Democratic nominee brushed off suggestions that Republicans had successfully put him on the defensive in the last two weeks with their re­peated attacks on his tax record.

"This week, we'll be talking about some different things," Clinton said. He noted that by some estimates, Bush would have to impose more than $1 trillion in spending cuts to fi­nance an across-the-board tax cut and other campaign promises. Bush has not stated what areas would be cut.

"We want you to wait til Jan­uary with baited breath to see what they're going to do," Clinton said.

Clinton said "there are only a few options and I think we ought to explore that this week."

The debate over taxes, jobs and economic growth also sur­faced elsewhere on the camp­aign trail Monday:

"While President Bush was at the White House focusing on hurricane relief efforts, camp­aign chairman Robert Teeter took aim at the Democrats' ad tout ing Clinton's record as Arkansas governor. 'We're very happy that Gov Clinton appears to be willing to run on his record,' Teeter said at a Washing­ton news conference. 'Gov. Clinton's record is one of taking a state...with some difficult problems and leading it nowhere.'"

"Dem­ocratic vice presidential candidate Al Gore, campaigning in California, said the Re­publicans were wrongly sug­gesting Americans must choose between jobs and protecting the environment. He added, 'you can create jobs and have economic success while protecting the environment and leading - way toward environmental responsibility.'"

"Vice President Dan Quayle, campaigning in Alabama, re­peated his assertion that elect­ing Clinton would mean higher taxes, insisting the Democrat "thinks you create jobs by raising taxes."

Clinton said he welcomed a tax debate, because Arkansas voters had approved various tax increases for education and economic development.

"If they want to have this election on their tax record against mine, on whether peo­ple got their money's worth here as opposed to the national government, that's fine with me," Clinton said.

personal rights lost in opinionated smoke-screen

Dear Editor,

As many members of the Notre Dame community are aware, the Administration has banned smoking in the University buildings.

While many people are upset by this policy, it seems to have made others extremely happy. That you are one of the satisfied ones, Mr. Regan, does not bother me in the least (The Observer, Aug. 25).

Your reasons for being in favor of the ban, however, seem somewhat smug and self-righteous.

You ignored the issue that the Administration and many other people consider most important: health.

While I agree that the rights of an individual extend only until they infringe upon the rights of another, I think that your evasion of Justice Holmes is quite out of place in your article.

I think that people who smoke are inconceivably, but you claim that you are "not concerned about possible risks" to your health.

The restriction on free speech that you mention, though, is directly concerned with health. Shouting "fire" in a crowd is not only inconsiderate, but dangerous. Indeed, that people might dislike what others say is not at all an issue in limiting free speech.

Along the lines of consideration, you claim to dislike "the horrid odor" you must inhale when around a smoker.

If rights were restricted by personal opinion, though, they would not exist at all. I personally would suggest a ban on certain types of music, ugly people, bad food, and people who like to spout rhetoric from a soap box.

Of course, all these things are subject to opinion, as is the description of cigarette smoke as bad smelling.

You can, of course, fall back upon the argument that cigarette smoke is dangerous, in spite of your lack of concern for this aspect of it.

I hope, however, that such an attack is confined to smoking in enclosed public space. If you wish to extend the ban on smoking to outdoor areas, as the University is considering, neither opinion nor health can be cited as reasons to do so.

To cite these would mean a ban on automobiles, factories, and the ethanol plant we all know and love. In addition, you would sound a bit too much like the environmentalists you abhor.

I can do nothing but protest your attack on smoking in general. Opinion simply cannot be a basis for the removal of another person's rights.

That you would attempt to use your preference for just that, and that you go so far as to say that cigarette smoke disgusts you more than just about anything else, it is a sad indication of the mindset of the community.

I read Ursula Le Guin's short story SUR just as this summer was coming to a close and I was thinking of our imminent return to campus. I am always amazed at how often the stories that I read seem relevant to my particular situation. It didn't take me long to connect Le Guin's story of nine women's journey to the bottom of the world to my anticipation of the coming academic year. During the coming year we will encounter difficult terrain and we will be required to share the journey with unlikely traveling companions. We will, no doubt live through some long nights and see some spectacular views along the way.

So, we begin our expedition to go and to see. Le Guin’s story is full of the courage of the voyagers. They were not willing simply to see things that others have already seen or go places that have become tourist traps. Le Guin says, “We hoped to go a little farther and see a little more; if not simply to go and to see.” Le Guin’s words became my end-of-summer challenge. I decided that I would make this year’s journey a special one by going a little farther and seeing a little more. I challenge all of you to do the same.

The Center for Social Concerns offers programs that will take you farther down the academic road to places that are not heavily traveled. We invite you to go into South Bend to meet fellow travelers who are full of important information and fascinating stories. There is most surely an excursion into our city that will suit your particular interest. You could help out at the Center for the Homeless or work at Logan Center. You may go and see how children live in our community by working for Headstart or by tutoring with the Neighborhood Study Help Program. During fall or spring break you can choose to go and see Appalachia or Washington D.C. or Chicago. At Christmas time consider the Urban Plunge, an experience that takes you a little farther and allows you to see a little more in your own home town.

Just as Le Guin’s characters needed each other to provide warmth and companionship as they traveled into the Antarctic region, you will need companionship along the way. All of the programs that the Center for Social Concerns offers include the opportunity to reflect with others about your experience as you go and see. You will find companions for your journey and a safe place to rest at the Center for Social Concerns.

I invite you to join me in this year’s journey into unknown territory. Let the Center for Social Concerns help you map out your trip. Le Guin’s nine women came home full of stories that changed their lives and the lives of the people they loved. By having the courage to go and to see you will add volumes to your personal story and the stories of those you touch along the way. Maybe in the end you will have collected material for a story that becomes for them a challenge just like Le Guin’s story was for me. Good luck as you take off on this 1992-93 voyage.

-Kathy Royer

WELCOME!
The Center staff joins me in inviting you to spend a few minutes reviewing the opportunities outlined in these four pages.

Again and again we hear from alumni in law, business, medicine, engineering, counseling, etc., that many of their service, social action, and experiential learning involvements have been extremely valuable to them in their careers. Please explore the challenges open to you. Stop in at the Center or give us a call!

ACADEMIC COURSES/EXPERIENTIAL SEMINARS

URBAN PLUNGE

The Plunge is a 48-hour immersion into the life of kind most Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students have never seen. 322 students made an Urban Plunge during early January 1992.

The purpose of the Plunge is to experience injustice, apathy and poverty; to increase awareness of people who are working to improve these situations; and to become more sensitive to values and reflect on ways to address Gospel concerns regarding the oppressed. (1 credit) An Information Meeting will be held at the Center on October 6 and October 14 (6:30-7:00 p.m.)

Working Side by Side: APPALACHIA SEMINAR

Each semester break approximately 90 students travel to the Appalachian region of Kentucky and West Virginia. Students spend the week working side by side with the people of the mountains. Through physical labor and person-to-person contacts, students experience the cultural richness of the area and begin to understand and analyze the social forces that influence the lives of the mountain people. (1 credit)

CULTURAL DIVERSITY SEMINAR

This seminar explores the rich cultural heritage of Chicago's ethnic neighborhoods and immigrant tradition. The corresponding problems of urban life and racism also are examined during the semester break experience. (1 credit)

WOMEN, CHURCH AND SOCIETY SEMINAR

This seminar is designed to acquaint students (during a week of involvement in Chicago) with the challenges of women in society and the church. This seminar studies gender issues and commitment to community and service. (1 credit)

LEADERSHIP ISSUES SEMINAR

The Leadership Issues Seminar is designed for students working in a leadership capacity promoting community service or official action. This course offers a multidisciplinary examination of leadership and empowerment issues and the opportunity to examine personal leadership styles in the context of ministry/service. (1 credit) include, as resources allow, service-learning trips to the L'Arche Daybreak Community in Toronto, to the rural south, and to U.S. - Mexico border region. Student leadership plays a key role in developing unique learning opportunities.

ADDITIONAL EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS

The Summer Service Projects are eight week sessions of community service facilitated by Alumni Clubs all over the country. 133 Notre Dame students took part this summer. A tuition scholarship is awarded to each participating student. The scholarships are provided by Notre Dame Alumni Clubs and the James F. Andrews Endowment. Every project is different: students work in shelters for the homeless, soup kitchens, homes for abused children, spousal abuse shelters, Headstart programs, camps for inner city children, etc. (2 credits) An Information Meeting for the 1993 SSP will be held at the Center on December 1 and January 20 (6:30-7:00 p.m.)

THEOLOGY COURSES

- Don McNeill, C.S.C., Ph.D. and Staff - Reading and reflection on issues raised by service experiences. Courses include: "Church and Social Action, "Theology and Social Ministry." (3 credits per course)

OTHER JUSTICE AND PEACE COURSES - Study and analysis of contemporary issues of justice and peace.

Jay Brandenberger, Ph.D. - "Children and Poverty."
Kathleen Maas Weigert, Ph.D. - "Introduction to Peace Studies, "Peace Movements in America, "Women and Men, War and Peace, "Power and Change in America." (3 credits per course)

LATIN AMERICAN OPPORTUNITIES

Students study in Mexico for a semester in the Program in Global Community of Cuernavaca. Also, in late may, the Center sponsors a one-credit Mexico Seminar.

PEACE AND JUSTICE PROGRAMMING

The Center sponsors or co-sponsors a variety of creative peace and justice programs throughout the year, including films, panels, invited speakers, performing arts and theme weeks (e.g., "A Call to Peacemaking"). Each opportunity focuses on an important issue of social concern (e.g., racism, poverty, the environment).

POST-GRADUATE SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Workshops, seminars and other meetings enable seniors to consider the integration of service into their chosen careers and/or the advantages of a year of two of volunteer service, e.g., Peace Corps, Holy Cross Associates. Contact Mary Ann Roemer (239-5293).

SENIOR RAP-UP GROUPS

Approximately 150 Notre Dame and Saint Mary's seniors participate in senior rap-up groups. Notre Dame seniors are invited to join about eight to ten of their classmates to form a senior rap-up group. They gather approximately once a month in a faculty or staff home where they plan and prepare a meal followed by informal discussion that focuses on the plans and concerns that students have as they approach graduation. Contact Mary Ann Roemer (239-5293).

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

This back-page special on the Center for Social Concerns focuses on the student service and social action groups and social concerns programs and activities connected with the Center for Social Concerns. There are other programs and activities conducted under the auspices of dorms and other groups. Current information on Center programs and activities is available throughout the year in The Observer and through the CSC Newsletter, mailed quarterly to alumnae.

This paid advertisement is made possible through the cooperation of:
- The Observer and who assisted in its production.
- Notre Dame Student Government, which partially defrayed the cost.
- The student groups that provided a writeup on their organizations
- Center Staff who assisted in its production.
The Faculty and Center Activities

Faculty participate in Center programs in two basic ways. First, they serve as resource personnel for many of our programs. Some are speakers in the FRIDAY FORUM series. Others serve as Urban Plunge facilitators in homes for an evening discussion to provide students an opportunity to reflect on and begin the analysis of their Urban Plunge experience. Some host the Senior Rap Up groups, groups that meet in the faculty’s home four or five times in the spring semester to converse about their undergraduate years at Notre Dame and to examine how social concerns are and will be integrated into their lives upon graduation. Others serve as advisors to the many service/social action groups, etc.

Second, they participate in programs held specifically for them. There is the FRIDAY FORUM series, a faculty-led talk discussion that meets three times each semester to talk about major themes. The fall semester is focusing on “Aging in America.” There is the annual faculty workshop, to be held this year on October 20, with the emphasis on “Option for the 90s: Experiential Education.” Occasionally there are reading groups, Urban Plunges for faculty, and other opportunities.

Faculty interested in getting involved in any of these opportunities may contact Dr. Kathleen Maas Weigert (239-531-9532).

Faith and Action: Collaboration with Campus Ministry

The desire for a deeper integration of faith and action in the lives of Notre Dame students has led Campus Ministry and the Center for Social Concerns to work towards a more creative and public collaboration. In moving towards this goal, Rev. H. Thomas McDermott, C.S.C., (right) serves as Campus Ministry’s liaison with the Center, and Eugene McClorey as the Center’s liaison with Campus Ministry.
Notre Dame Magazine celebrates 20 years of educating alumni and friends

By SARAH DORAN
Accent Writer

Most alumni magazines are designed to keep their readers abreast of what is going on on campus. Many often heavily focus on staged photos of big donors presenting checks and of old grads enjoying reunions. For two decades, Notre Dame Magazine has informed alumni with articles that go beyond campus events by addressing issues relevant to the lives of their readers.

“Our purpose is to provide continuing education to alumni and friends of the university,” said the magazine’s Editor Walton Collins, a 1951 alumnus. “That gives us the opportunity to do a lot of different things. As well as being about the University, we feel our hunting ground, so to speak, is any issue that well educated men and women would find interesting.

“We try to remind them of the feeling they felt when they were in school and at the same time try to address what people are encountering in their lives,” said Collins.

The quarterly magazine, which celebrated its 20th anniversary last spring, addresses issues by attempting to deal with the moral dimensions of contemporary issues. The issues that are featured in the magazine can be as far-ranging as television in our society to the place of women in Catholicism to "Woody Allen and the Meaning of Life."

The magazine has a full-time staff of three editors, a writer, and an art director. Collins and his staff of four produce the 80-plus pages of the magazine from their fourth floor offices in the main Administration building. It features a great deal of material from freelance writers, but gives preferences to alumni contributors, Collins said.

Among those who have contributed to the magazine in the past are Charles Kuralt, William Pfaf, James Reston, Max Lerner and Ira Berkow.

The four sections of the magazine are Notre Dame stories relating directly to the university, the features section (the largest of the sections), the alumni section, which includes both the classnotes and an alumni profile, and the perspectives section.

Notre Dame Magazine’s formula has produced quite a winning combination, Collins said. Its accomplishments have been noted by numerous awards, including last year’s silver medal for general excellence in university magazines, gold medal in writing which were both awarded by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). The magazine has also twice won the Silsby award from CASE as the outstanding alumni magazine in the country and in addition the Catholic Press Association’s Best Catholic magazine award.

The keys to success are simple, Collins said. “A dozen universities produce this kind of magazine,” he said. “To do it, you need first a vice president for university relations who is committed to this kind of publication. Second, you need a president who is tolerant of a magazine that presents the institution in an honest light. We’re not out looking for a scandal, but we will tell people what this place is about and they can then make their own judgements.”

Collins has been the Editor of the magazine for the past nine years. He had been employed in the journalistic field prior to coming to the helm of the magazine. During his tenure he has seen the magazine grow and change and also has seen it stick to its goals of informing well-educated readers of interesting topics in a morally influenced way, he said.

One hundred fifteen thousand copies of the magazine are printed each quarter and distributed free of charge primarily to alumni, friends of the University, benefactors and parents of students, he said.

Single White Female fails, not frightens, viewer

By PETER BEVAQUA
Film Critic

"Single White Female," is a psychological thriller about two women who live with an unspoken bargain intended to help both survive in the vast and often frightening canyons of New York City—a bargain that goes quickly and terrifyingly awry.

The film stars Bridget Fonda as twenty-something software expert Allie Jones, and Jennifer Jason Leigh as Hedy Schroeder, a thirtysomething style consultant. Allie and Hedy are ideal: a failing metropolis where the plight of sanity throughout society, as often as not frightens, the viewer, and the appearance on screen. Therefore, the viewing public of mainstream 1990's "action" takes place into a gothic and terrifyingly awry.

Schroeder tries to use Freudian themes in a way which would enable him to produce a thriller the likes of Alfred Hitchcock's "Vertigo," or Roman Polanski's "Rosemary's Baby." However, while cinematic psychological gurus such as Hitchcock and Polanski are able to stimulate the intellectual and rational curiosity of the viewer, Schroeder's film appeals shamelessly to the basic instincts.

Schroeder's previous works have created memorable Hollywood personas (i.e. Mickey Rourke's performance in "Barfly"). With "Single White Female," Schroeder is at the mercy of the Hollywood "system." Cautiously revealing all the subtleties, which if hidden would have allowed for a better film, he creates a predictable and tiresome tale of social hysteria.

The viewer never needs to question the whole film, nor is the psyche of Leigh's character ambiguous—this is a psychological thriller without any questions and ambiguities is analogous to a Western without six-shooters and horses.

Two bright spots shine in this otherwise dismal portrayal of recent Hollywood impotency. Bridget Fonda and Luciano Tovoli. Bridget Fonda's work is of merit, but even Michael Jordan needs four other warm bodies to work with her.

The best element of "Single White Female" is the camera work of Luciano Tovoli. Tovoli transforms the New York City apartment building where all the action takes place into a gothic chorus line which conveys through its mere presence an air of macabre distortion. It is a shame the camera ever goes inside.
COULOMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Despite a 2-9 record last year, Cooper prepared Ohio St. for opener against Louisville.

John Cooper is pretty sure he would have been charitably by Ohio State's fans if the same thing happened here. "I'd be upset, but I wouldn't be coaching here," Cooper said with a laugh during his first weekly news conference of the season Monday at the fishing theme place, I guess."

Cooper's 17-ranked Buckeyes rocketed Louisiana State in the season-opener for both teams. A year ago, Ohio State escaped a late surge by the Cardinals to win 23-15. The Cardinals were without quarterback Jeff Brohm, who broke his leg nine days earlier as a sophomore in Tennessee's fifth-year senior Eirk Watts stepped in and passed for 333 yards in four quarters.

Now Brohm, a farmhand with baseball's Cleveland Indians during the summer, is back and Louisville is itching to prove last year was a fluke. Congo starters join him for a fresh start.

"Last year was a disappointing year for us," Cooper said. "These things happen.

What the fifth-year Ohio State coach is most concerned about is his own team. Expectations are high with 1990 Big Ten champion Michigan State returning to the fold along with 14 starters. We're going to mix it up a little more offensively," he said. "We want to pass the ball more effectively and try to make some things happen on the extra pass of our running game. We still want to be known as a physical offensive and defensive football team, controlling the line of scrimmage and running the football. If people gang up on us like they were doing last season we're going to have to be able to throw the ball.

That means fifth-year senior Kirk Herbstreit, who has started two games in his career, must have a big season.

Cooper also said that he would go without four- and five-star recruits for a little more of a free rein to harassing the opposing quarterback.

"We're kind of turning the limestone a little bit more offensive and make some things happen. We're going to try to get more turnovers, particularly more interceptions than we had last year. And if we can do a disappointing statistic, we only got 13 last year and 13 Hobart can do a better job with that."

Opposing quarterbacks won't be happy about that. A year ago, outside linebacker Jason Simmons set school season marks for tackles with a loss of (18.5), sacks (10.5) and lost yardage (103).

Raymond Harris, penciled in as the starter at tackle, is missing practice and hasn't practiced the last nine days.

Cooper said if Harris is not back by Thursday, Smith would likely get the call.

Smith hailed from the team a year ago after charging Cooper and assistant coach Elliot Uptland. Smith, who still has enough concern for academics or players, was left out.

After running track last winter for Ohio State, Smith rerapped his Buckeyes twice after Uezec laid under fire.

Bengals Rookie Klingler could get starting nod

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals say they aren’t going to pressure quarterback of the future to make a big impact in the present.

The Bengals ended four months of negotiations by signing first-round pick David Klingler on Sunday night. General manager Mike Brown said the record-setting quarterback from the University of Houston will be given plenty of time to show what he can do.

“We took him for the long haul, not the short term,” Brown said. “This year will be a learning experience for him. David will get a chance to be our starting quarterback at some point and we believe he can do it.”

Asked if Klingler might challenge Don Hassel this year for the backup job, Brown said: “He’s not at number two now, and we’ll leave it to him to prove where he should be as things go along.”

Klingler joined starter Boomer Esiason, Hassel and four-year veteran Erik Wilhelm at quarterback. The Bengals are not likely to carry four quarterbacks on the roster. They do not have to do anything about Klingler for two weeks because he is on exempt roster status.

But it was considered likely that Klingler’s arrival would lead to Wilhelm’s departure in today’s final roster cut.

Neither Brown, Klingler nor his agent, Leigh Steinberg, would give details of Klingler’s contract. But it was reported to be worth about $7 million over four years.

The only higher-paid Bengal would be Esiason, who earns an estimated $3 million per year.

Klingler was the sixth overall pick in April’s NFL draft. His NCAA records including most touchdowns passes in one game (11) and in one season (54) showed he was ready.

“I didn’t expect it would take this long,” Klingler said of negotiations with the Bengals. “Obviously, I’m behind. But I’ve been throwing in Houston to anybody who would catch it, even my wife in the front yard a couple times. And at least I had four weeks of learning the offense” in minicamps and voluntary camps.

match against them in a spring tournament and expect them to be a good team.”

Ball State returns three starters, including 5-foot-10 setter Lorrie Vandenberg, who logged a school-record 1,224 assists last year. Hitters Lisa Hadorn and April Hoeltke are also back, while sophomore transfer Carin Zielinski, a Mishawaka native, will make a big impact if fully recovered from a shoulder injury.

Tonight’s match is the first of the season for both teams. Brown doesn’t believe that will be a problem for Notre Dame.

“There are always first-game jitters, but we can overcome that,” said Brown. “The team we start it experienced. I expect them to be a little nervous for the first few points, but that will go away.”

Will Bears close door on the Fridge?

CINCINNATI (AP) — There were no surprises today when the Chicago Bears cut nine players to get down to the 47-man roster for the upcoming NFL season.

Wide receiver Glen Kozlowski and defensive back Maurice Douglas were among those cut but both were expected to be recalled Tuesday when several players are expected to go on injured reserve.

Others cut were linebackers Mike Stonebreaker (formerly of Notre Dame) and Jim Schwartz; quarterback Paul Justin; wide receiver Eric Wright; tight end Todd Harrison; defensive end Eric Kumerow and fullback James House.

Defensive tackle William “The Fridge” Perry, who remains unsigned, made an appearance at camp. Perry appeared to be close to the 320 pounds that Ditka demanded before he would allow Perry to rejoin the team. The Bears have insisted that Perry’s contract be structured with weight clauses.

Asked if he was going to play with the Bears, Perry said “I’m going home to play with my sons.”

NEW YORK (AP) — Monica Seles looked like, well, Monica Seles today as she began the defense of last year's U.S. Open title by crushing Audra Keller 6-1, 6-0. Putting to rest at least momentarily the rumors that she might be ripe for an upset, Seles needed only 45 minutes to dispatch her bright red-clad opponent on the opening day of the year's final Grand Slam tournament.

In other early first-round matches on the hardcourts at the National Tennis Center, 11th-seeded Michael Stich of Germany, the 1991 Wimbledon champion, defeated Olivier Delaure of France 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and No. 7 Mary Joe Fernandez stumbled before stopping fellow American Donna Faber 3-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Seles, ranked No. 1 in the world and seeded No. 1, is in the unique position of having to defend her record. She has, after all, lost her last three trips to the final — to Graf at 5 in the world. Chopped liver, they're not. Still, the questions come. It's a bit surprising to me that Monica's lost three finals, but I really don't think that will affect her in the Open," Graf said. "I would say she has a big chance here."

The third battle on Stadium Court will be a rematch of Marc Rosset of Switzerland against fifth-seeded Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia. Rosset upset the heavily favored Ivanisevic at the Barcelona Olympics, red hot on to capture the gold medal. Ivanisevic, runnerup at Wimbledon, had to settle for a bronze medal and hints he might not last too long at the U.S. Open.

"When you've played too much tennis, you come to the point where you hate to see the court, hate to see the other guy across the net," Ivanisevic said. "I have to get over that or I'm going nowhere."

Then comes the Courier-O'Brien match. While Courier is expected to advance easily and face the winner of the Pablo Albano-Andrej Chesnovok match, he knows that another NCAA champion from Stanford, John McEnroe, made an impact on the U.S. Open just after winning his NCAA title in 1978, reaching the semifinals in the inaugural year at Flushing Meadow.

If the seedings hold, Courier will meet McEnroe, a four-time U.S. Open champion, in the fourth round.

"This is the one where you have to really bear down mentally," Courier said of the U.S. Open, where the crowd, noise and heat can easily distract a player's concentration. "You have to be fit to begin with, and you always know there's going to be at least one match over the course of two weeks where you aren't going to be at your best but you've still got to figure out how to win it. And for a player who's never done that, it can be overwhelming."

Honoring a friend or loved one has never been easier.

Pro Volleyball Players Kiraly, Timmons to visit Mishawaka

Special to the Observer

Karch Kiraly and Steve Timmons, two of the greatest volleyball players in the world, will be at Outpost Sports, which is located at 3602 North Grape Road in Mishawaka, on Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. according to owner J.V. Peacock.

Kiraly and Timmons anchored the USA to gold medals in the 1984 and 1988 Olympics. Timmons was also on the 1992 bronze medal-winning team and both are accomplished two-man beach volleyball players.

The former roommates are the sport’s first million dollar players, and last teamed up to bring an Italian League championship to 10 Miscellaneous for the first time in 39 years in May 1991.

Kiraly’s most recent accomplishments have come on the beach, where he and partner Randy Stoklos equaled a record of 13 straight wins.

Timmons is best known for revolutionizing the indoor game. Playing opposite the setter, his right back attacks from behind the 10 foot line gave the Americans a decided edge in international competition for 13 years.

After a free clinic and auto-graph session, Timmons will team with Penn High School coach Mark Watts in a match against Kiraly and Mishawaka’s Mike Filer.

Irish

Reggie Brooks and Lee Becton have both shown the talent needed at the collegiate level, but neither have much experience. And if something should happen to either one, the depth drops off considerably. Thus, Clark gives the coaches a tough choice to make, but one that many programs wish they had to make.

In the two weeks since the Los Angeles Times broke the story of the NCAA investigation of Demetrius DuBoise, the NCAA has yet to hand down a judgment. As the first game approaches, the Irish defense is facing the very real possibility that their captain may not be on the field when the Irish face Northwestern or Saturday.

To prepare for that possibility, Pete Berrich has been practicing with the first team defense, moving over from blocking up Anthony Peterson. He played there during last Friday’s scrimmage and has continued in that role in practice. Like DuBoise, Berrich is responsible for calling the defensive alignment in the huddle.

But replacing 127 tackles won’t be easy. If, in fact the Irish are forced to play without DuBoise. Almost as important is the leadership DuBoise provided on the field. In his absence, someone will have to pick up the slack in that department.

Clark, DuBose now in limbo for Irish

By RICH KURZ
Associate Sports Editor

It appears that Willie Clark’s quest for a permanent position isn’t over just yet. Not long after announcing that Clark, who was moved to tailback after last season, was going to move back to the secondary, he was back practicing on offense again.

Clark has begun all three of his seasons as a tailback, but in the last two he has been pressed into emergency duty as a defensive back and has ended up starting. The last move to offense was expected to be his last. Recently, however, Clark decided he wanted to go back to hitting people instead of being hit. But in the past few days, Clark was back where he began—tailback.

Ironically, part of the difficulty in keeping him at one spot stems from his tremendous talent. His speed and moves with the ball are unquestionable, and after bulking up to over 180 lbs., he seems more durable. But at the same time, his speed and his desire for the physical part of the game makes him a nightmare for receivers.

Given Holtz’s preference for a backfield by committee, Clark poses a dilemma for the coaching staff. Keeping him on offense means he won’t be on the field as much as he would as a full-time defensive back, but moving him to defense means the tailback spot would be left up to two unproven contributors.

Further complicating matters is the stability of the defensive backfield, which looks pretty much set. Jeff Barris and John Covington man the safeties with Tom Carter and Greg Lane at the corners. It’s difficult to see any of those players losing their roles to Clark, especially with LeShane Saddler and freshman Brian Magee pushing those four.

Volleyball set to open season against BSU

By DAN PIER
Sports Writer

After a preseason of fierce competition for starting spots, the Notre Dame women’s volleyball team is ready to open intercollegiate competition. Head Coach Debbie Brown believes the practices have prepared her team well for tonight’s 7:30 match against Ball State at the Joyce ACC.

“We had a good preseason,” said Brown. “It was so competitive that it was very difficult to select a starting lineup. I think we’re ready for the opener.”

The six players Brown selected all saw a lot of action last year. Janelle Karlan will start at setter; captain Alicia Turner and Christy Peters will be the outside hitters; Jessica Fliebelkorn and Cynthia May will be the middle blockers; and Marilyn Cragin will round out the starting lineup. As the preseason competition proved, however, the Irish are deep.

“Molly Stark and Nicole Coates will see a lot of court time tonight and throughout the season,” said Brown. “They could be starting before the season is over.”

Brown is also impressed with first-year players Brett Hensel and Shannon Tuttle. “Brett will play tonight, in the back row at least, and possibly more than that,” commented the coach. “Chains set well in the preseason. We won’t hesitate to use her if Janelle struggles.”

The Irish will face a formidable opponent as they begin their quest to earn head coach Randy Litchfield MAC Coach of the Year honors.

“I can only hope that what we did last year gives the whole team a huge amount of self-confidence,” Litchfield said. “I thoroughly expect this team to be the best ball-handling team I’ve had here.”

Brown concurred with Litchfield’s assessment of his team.

“AS a team, they have excellent defensive and ball-handling skills,” she said of the Cardinals. “We had a good显示出
