HPC creates $25,000 service fund

By BEVIN KOVALIK
News Writer

The Hall Presidents' Council (HPC) unanimously passed a resolution to allocate $25,000 to an HPC Service Fund in accordance with the HPC Charter By-Laws. Coyle, co-chair.

House adjourns; Senate faces $27 million tax bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 102nd Congress stumbled toward adjournment Tuesday, the House going home but the Senate staying on to face a $27 billion tax bill and stubborn stalling by dissenting lawmakers.

It was a fitting finale for a messy, contentious Congress. House members approved the disputed tax bill on a 208-202 vote and left shortly after noon, presumably for the year — though they could return to session, if necessary.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt told President Bush in a telephone call: "We have now sent our members home. Our legislative effort has been completed." He said the House's adjournment would take effect officially once the Senate concludes.

But no one was sure when that would be.

The Senate remained in session Tuesday evening, despite the sundown start of the Jewish Sabbath. Clerks laboriously read aloud hundreds of pages of text of a tabled water projects bill — the result of stalling tactics by Republican Sen. John Seymour of California.

After more than six hours of reading, the Senate gave its clerks a rest and went into a recess "subject to the call of the chair." Senators were left standing by while Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell sought an agreement on how to proceed.

Senate leaders said Seymour agreed to assume that the reading would continue at a pace of 40 pages an hour, even though the reading had actually stopped.

Mitchell said the Senate may see CONGRESS/ page 4

A Hawaiian performance

Senior Taison Tanaka, Lyons Hall senior Diane Wong, and Ryan Delapena (left to right), members of the Hawaiian Club, dance the Hawaiian lula dance at the Fieldhouse Mall. Their performance was part of the week-long Multicultural Fall Festival sponsored by the Multicultural Executive Council.

Student-produced show broadcasts for first time

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
News Writer

Notre Dame Magazine, a student-produced show, aired for the first time last night on Heritage Cablevision channel 31.

The show is on one hour once a month, and is devoted to news, entertainment and sports at Notre Dame.

"It's the only show of its kind strictly devoted to Notre Dame," said Chris Schultz, creator and executive producer of the show. "It will feature everything on campus and will be as comprehensive as possible, covering news events in the past month, coming events, entertainment news, and sports." All reporting, editing and production of the show is done by students, with prior experience in radio or media classes.

"Heritage hands the studio to us to do whatever we choose," Schultz said.

According to Megan Thomas, the entertainment beat reporter, "Everyone is really excited about putting everything together, but we're a little bit nervous also. The first show is a little rough around the edges, but we're working to improve on it." "Notre Dame really doesn't have anything like this," Thomas continued. "Other colleges have entirely student-run television stations. It's really a great opportunity for us to really do everything by ourselves."

The target audience for the show is the student body of Notre Dame, according to Schultz, but he also pointed out that its cable availability on campus is limited to the common areas of dorms.

"We hope that with some promotion and if people watch the show more and more people get involved with it," Schultz said.

see TELEVISION/ page 4

Right-to-Life addressed

By GERALDINE HAMILTON
News Writer

As part of Respect Life Week, the pro-life activist group, Collegians Activated to Liberate Life (CALL) spoke at the Notre Dame Catholic Pro-Life group meeting about the need for people to become active in the fight to stop abortion.

Three representatives from CALL devoted a year to pro-life work, and they have been traveling for the last three weeks to midwest colleges to get support for the pro-life cause, said Bill Keen, co-president of the Right to Life group.

"CALL is an organization geared toward activism—toward getting people involved," he said.

The purpose of CALL is to create a community of network leaders dedicated to the pro-life cause, said Peter Heers, see CALL/ page 4

see DECISION/ page 4

Members await court decision

By COLLEEN KNIGHT
News Writer

As the Notre Dame Right to Life Organization celebrates National Respect Life Week, co-presidents Bill Keen and Claire Johnson and member Elizabeth Boyce await court decisions on their involvement in an abortion protest last April at a clinic in Champaign, Illinois.

Keen, Johnson and Boyce were arrested on April 17 along with 70 others at a "rescue operation" sponsored by the group Collegians Activated to Liberate Life (CALL) and they were all charged with criminal trespassing, mob

see DECISION/ page 4
Demands and regrets don't show tolerance

To hear them talk about it, victory has never tasted so good.

After lambasting NBC and the historically raucous "Saturday Night Live" for last week's performance by the equally outspoken Sinand O'Connor, Notre Dame's Student Senate is re-defining the term, which to most (including myself) had no knowledge of what she was going to do," the student paper The Observer said at Monday's senate meeting.

"The action displayed no tolerance, no respect," the paper wrote. "The senate got what it wanted. In a statement released Tuesday, NIC denounced O'Connor and apologized to the nation for her actions. "NBC had no knowledge of what she was going to do," the senate said. "Had we known NBC would not have permitted it."

Is this the "tolerance" McCarthy speaks off? I believe it was the senate and NBC have re-defined the term, which to most (including Webster) describes the "fair and permissible attitude toward opinions and practices that differ from one's own."

Of course O'Connor's opinions and practices differ from the senate's, and much of the Notre Dame community. She hails from a war-torn Ireland, mired in religious and social unrest. Few would be pressed to deny that O'Connor has legitimate grounds for her religious sentiment — just as few could deny the religious grounds that conservatives like Pat Buchanan possess such a power to judge. That is, after all, what tolerance is about.

The hypocrisy of the senate's resolution should overwhelm anyone with basic First Amendment knowledge and a working conscience. Not only did the senate overreact to the show, but the patience and appear self-righteous and self-serving in its media barrage, but the group ironically furthered O'Connor's argument by over-reacting.

In demanding that NBC drop its knees over O'Connor's actions, the senate asked the network to issue a judgment that her work was more than offensive, that it was hateful, intolerant and therefore unacceptable.

Surely, student leaders with a reverence for religion would understand that no human possesses such a power to judge. That is, after all, what tolerance is all about.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

WEATHER REPORT

Forecast for noon, Wednesday, October 7

Lines separate high temperature zones for the day.

---

TODAY AT A GLANCE

CAMPUS

Notre Dame alumna dies

BETHEL PARK, Pa. — David Freedy, 1989 Notre Dame alumus, died of cancer Sunday at his home in Bethel Park. Freedy was in his fourth year of studes at Vanderbilt University Medical School. The former Keenan Hall president and resident assistant received an undergraduate degree in biology. A memorial Mass will be held Nov. 1 at 4:30 p.m. in Keenan Hall. A wake was to be held today, and the burial is scheduled for Thursday morning. Condolences may be addressed to Freedy's family. 165 Santa Fe Drive, Bethel Park. PA. 15102

---

MARKET UPDATE

YESTERDAY'S TRADING October 6

VOLUME IN SHARES 284,392,700

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Stock</th>
<th>NYSE Index</th>
<th>NASDAQ Composite</th>
<th>Dow Jones Industrials</th>
<th>S&amp;P 500</th>
<th>Gold</th>
<th>Silver</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>NYSE</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>4,150.79</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NASDAQ</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>4,150.79</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dow</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>4,150.79</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>4,150.79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S&amp;P</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>4,150.79</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
<td>28,431.56</td>
<td>1,054.41</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

In 1866 — Cornell University was inaugurated in Ithaca, N.Y.

In 1960 — Democratic presidential candidates John Kennedy and Republican nominee Richard Nixon held the second of their broadcast debates.

In 1968 — The Motion Picture Association of America adapted its film-rating system, ranging from "G" for "general" audiences to "X" for adult patrons only.

In 1989 — Hungary's Communist Party nominated Marion Thomas of making sexuially inappropriate comments in her presence when she worked for him.
Equality Now working toward gender equality

By ALICIA REALE
Assistant News Editor

Equality Now is working for gender equality through dedication to international action for the civil, political, economic and social rights of women, according to Jessica Neuwirth, group president.

"Hundreds of women around the world are bought, sold, beaten and killed with impunity," she said at a lecture yesterday entitled "Equality Now: Human Rights as if Women Mattered."

"We change the flavor of the community through our impact," said Neuwirth. They also try to "interact in a proactive, constructive way to change the situation for women in the country," she said. "We provide women with alternatives, work to create opportunities in business. Over time we hope to elevate female status in the country."

There is violence to women in all cultures, including our own, which Equality Now works to combat, said Neuwirth. "Equality is a transcendental right," said Neuwirth.

"There are women's rights that have long been ignored in international organizations, national governments, traditional human rights groups and the press," said Neuwirth.

Hundreds of millions of girls and women around the globe continue to endure debilitating and often fatal human rights abuses, she said.

For example, in India 10-year-old girls are sold and exported to be wives in auctions held in back streets, and in Burma, women with AIDS are injected with cyanide and killed, said Neuwirth.

Human rights are not subject to erosion under cultural relativism. Cultures are not monolithic," she said.

Many international conventions protect human rights for women, such as international laws under the United Nations for equality and equal protection under the law, she said. Equality Now mobilizes action on behalf of women whose rights are not protected and promotes women's rights at national and international levels through mail campaigns, video witnessing, media events and public information activities, according to Neuwirth.

The group sees research from human rights groups, spokespeople, governments and lawyers. "Accuracy and precision are our highest priority," Neuwirth said. "We get and present facts. We let the facts speak for themselves."

The group also takes action through "advocation of human rights techniques which we use as catalysts for change," she said.

"We understand the importance of audio visual communication. Television and radio are the vehicles in which most people learn," said Neuwirth.

James Carberry, professor of chemical engineering at Notre Dame, is the latest recipient of the E.V. Murphree Award in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry from the American Chemical Society.

The award honors career accomplishments and contributions in research and development. This award is given every year, and it is unusual for an engineer to receive it.

James Kohn, assistant chairman of chemical engineering, expressed the department's "delight in having a chemical engineer recognized" by this notable award.

He graduated from Notre Dame in 1950 and received his Master's degree here, as well. He received a Ph.D. in chemical engineering from Yale University before returning to Notre Dame in 1951.

Carberry has distinguished himself through numerous publications and awards, including his acceptance to the National Academy of Engineering in 1989. He has also received many honors from the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, most recently their first Thiel Award (1992).

He advocates "knowing the answer before you begin" to find solutions. Intuition has provided the compass for his developments, he said. He is also quick to acknowledge the use of cooperative research with other disciplines, because others can bring a different perspective to a problem.

Carberry's research is primarily in the areas of explosion and catalysis, important in industrial catalyst operations. A significant accomplishment of his was the development of the Carberry-N-Dynacat process in 1964.

In addition to his engineering accomplishments he has also written a legal and scientific argument against abortion with Douglas Knise of the Notre Dame School, and uses this to implore important issues in education.

Carberry credits the source of his accomplishments to his students. He cites in particular the seniors' research projects - "their enthusiasm provides an inspiration."

He is currently working on molecular biology in collaboration with Cambridge University and Paul Huber from the Notre Dame Department of biology and life sciences.

Library donates computer to National Library of Poland

Special to the Observer

The University of Notre Dame libraries system has donated its HP 9000 computer to the National Library of Poland.

The eight-ton gift was transported by the University of Chicago and flown to its system with capital, Warsaw, according to LOT Polish Airlines, according to Robert Miller, libraries director.

The Polish National Library, located in a newly-constructed modern building that holds million volumes and employs almost 900 people, has been running computers over the last 20 years under strict Western embargo regulations for computer hardware and software.

Librarian recently returned from the University of Warsaw where he held a research faculty position in its professional library.

"The Polish National Library currently uses an IBM 3616, the system is now that no longer satisfies its growing needs," he said.

"We were in the same position until we replaced our IBM 3618. It is simply because we lack what we do with our old equipment."

Once the computer is on-line, the Polich government says that all dates and catalogs will be searchable beyond the library's walls.
CALL

continued from page 1
One and only three CALL representatives.

President of the revolutionary spirit of Jesus Christ and said that pro-life activists must stand up and do something to fight abortion.

"The selfish, self centered society we live in — that is the real root of abortion. The self-loss message of Christianity has been abandoned," said Heers. "Notre Dame is in a position to make a huge impact. It has the roots and the teachings."

Like the solidarity movement in Poland and the Civil Rights movement in the United States, CALL is a non-violent movement with no motive of loot and everything to gain, said Heers.

An interruption occurred when members of the audience voiced their concern about the criminal trespassing. According to Johnson, the protesters were accused instead of the agenda.

Decision

continued from page 1

action and resisting arrest for participating in the protest, according to Johnson.

The rescue group succeeded in saving the clinic a day and saving at least one human life before the protest ended at 3 p.m. All 73 protesters were handcuffed and jailed in a one-car garage jail at 9 p.m., Johnson added.

Last Tuesday, Keen and Boyce returned to Champaign in June for arraignment. According to Johnson, the judge found her guilty of criminal trespassing and resisting arrest.

Last Tuesday, Keen and Boyce returned to Champaign for a third time for their trials. Keen, a senior, pleaded no contest to the serious charge and was involved in the protest in April.

"In effect, I pleaded guilty and agreed to the charge," Keen said.

Because Keen took the option of a plea bargain, he was found guilty of the lesser charge of criminal trespassing. According to Keen, this charge holds with the possibility of 30 days in prison and a $500 fine. He will receive his sentence on November 13 and will be on probation until that date.

"I expect to serve some time in jail," Keen said. "When I did not sit down or even leave to the night and beyond noon. He never sat down or even left to campaign for re-election."

The judge found her guilty of both charges after she pleaded not guilty to the tax bill but a smattering of other bills passed by the House but left in limbo by Senate action. Among them was an anti-jacking bill, a housing bill that would raise the limits on FHA home loans, and a major energy bill.

Representatives said that even if the House held the tax bill until Saturday or even longer, the tax bill but a smattering of other bills passed by the House but left in limbo by Senate action. Among them was an anti-jacking bill, a housing bill that would raise the limits on FHA home loans, and a major energy bill.

"We must stand up for those who cannot speak for themselves, especially the unborn," Keen added.

While the court ruled that the project and most of the protesters were not guilty of criminal trespassing or resisting arrest.

Television

continued from page 1

The idea of the show was developed by Schulz after working at Heritage Cable as a volunteer sportscaster commentator on a community affairs show.

"Notre Dame is a very big part of the community," he said, "but it will be good for them to be able to see it newswise and entertainment-wise and in ways other than just sports."

Congress

continued from page 1

Democrats manage to dislodge the tax bill, Bush might vote it. Lawmakers in both parties were in a rush to return home to campaign for re-election.

But adjournment, already put off by one day, became elusive when Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, a New York Republican battling for re-election, snarled the Senate in a 15-hour filibuster over the tax bill after it cleared the House early Tuesday morning.

When he finally gave up, Senate Majority Leader, Tip O'Neill, a Democrat, emeshed the Senate in delay by invoking rules to demand the reading of the major bill.

"We are just really happy we have involved the public," Keen said. "We are just really happy we have involved the public."

"We are just really happy we have involved the public," Keen said. "We are just really happy we have involved the public."
Collins: Multiculturalism falsely portrayed by media

BY ALEX MONToya
News Writer

Multiculturalism is falsely portrayed by the media as a "negative ideal demanded by minorities only," Ava Collins said Tuesday.

Collins, director of the gender studies program, said that both the national media and education system have failed to demonstrate how multiculturalism is intended to bring people together.

"The national media and education system have failed to address the need for people to learn about each other and that education leaders are labeling multiculturalism as an unnecessary burden forced by special interest groups," she said.

"What is not being addressed is the nation's growing diversity and subsequently the need for all cultures to educate each other," Collins said.

These ideas, she said, are not being implemented by schools at various levels out of "a fear that the traditional classroom learning atmosphere will be changed forever.

Some changes have been made to textbooks, Collins noted, but there must be other changes. One idea Collins mentioned, formed by the Black Faculty Caucus at the University of Texas, is to recruit more minority faculty and help increase the diversity of the student body.

She also mentioned increasing recruiting of minority graduate students and encouraging them to pursue teaching careers.

Collins cited the media for misrepresenting multiculturalism and agreed it should not be regarded as just "a minority thing."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

MSA pledges support for use of force to end violence in Bosnia-Hercegovina

By JOHN CONNorton
News Writer

The Muslim Student Association (MSA), a small group of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, has begun efforts to increase awareness of the atrocities committed in Bosnia-Hercegovina.

Pledging to support the efforts of Senator Richard Lugar of Indiana, who has called for the use of force to end the violence in Bosnia-Hercegovina, the MSA has increased its presence on the Notre Dame campus to attract attention to the plight of Bosnian citizens, Muslim and non-Muslim alike.

Beginning with the multicultural fair this week, the MSA plans to stage events to gain support for what it feels is the best way to remedy the civil war in what was used to be Yugoslavia.

"We feel that the arms embargo should be lifted," said Abd Yousuf, Vice-President of the MSA, addressing the current United Nation's ban on weapons shipments to the troubled region. "What the Muslim Croats need now is something to defend themselves with."

Yousuf praised the efforts of Senator Lugar, citing his willingness to go out on a limb to convince Congress and the Senate to take action in Bosnia.

"Something has to be done now before the House closes" in two weeks, said Yousuf. "The U.S. and the U.N. must do something beyond talk. No peace till Bosnia is returned."

Student speaks before Spanish forum

Special to the Observer

Emil Bolongaita, a doctoral student in the government department, spoke last month before the Spanish Forum of the Chief Executive's Organization (CEO) in Madrid, Spain.

Bolongaita's presentation emphasized the need for CEO to help build corporate communities, initiate corporate communities, improve corporate culture, implement top-heavy management in inclusive cultures with open communication, and collaborative management through teams.

According to Bolongaita, his ideas for community were shaped by his experience in the international level.

He advised the CEO to build world community, initiate corporate communities in companies by changing corporate culture, improve corporate culture, implement top-heavy management in inclusive cultures with open communication, and collaborative management through teams.

Bolongaita, who also mentioned increasing recruiting of minority graduate students and encouraging them to pursue teaching careers, cited the media for misrepresenting multiculturalism and agreed it should not be regarded as just "a minority thing."

"The media," he said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

BOEING held meeting concerning possible engine-mount problem before 747 crash

SEATTLE (AP) — Boeing officials met with operators of early model 747 jets to discuss possible problems with engine mounts two weeks before a cargo version of the plane smashed into a Dutch apartment building, the company said today.

The Sept. 16 meeting was held because of a long standing concern about fatigue cracking in fuse pins, which hold the four engines onto the 747's wings, said Boeing Commercial Airplane Group spokesman Jack Gamble.

Boeing is redesigning the pins, and on Monday issued a service bulletin asking operators of some 747 models to inspect the pins and repair or replace them if necessary.

"We feel that the arms embargo should be lifted," said Abd Yousuf, Vice-President of the MSA, addressing the current United Nation's ban on weapons shipments to the troubled region. "What the Muslim Croats need now is something to defend themselves with."

Yousuf praised the efforts of Senator Lugar, citing his willingness to go out on a limb to convince Congress and the Senate to take action in Bosnia.

"Something has to be done now before the House closes" in two weeks, said Yousuf. "The U.S. and the U.N. must do something beyond talk. No peace till Bosnia is returned."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," he said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor.

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor."

"The media," she said, "has great power to influence and make an impact. Just look at Murphy Brown and Dan Quayle, and most recently, Sneed O'Conor.
Perot appears on national TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ross Perot bought 30 controversial television ads for President Bush as a presidential candidate Tuesday night, delivering a lecture on the sorry state of the economy spiced by a tongue-lashing of government officials who become lobbyists for other countries.

Perot said of such officials, "This is like a general switching armies in the middle of the war. They should come to serve and go home, not cash in."

The most of the ad, which forgoes the Madison Avenue touches of the Bush and Clinton campaigns, was filmed after Perot's announcement last Thursday that he was officially joining the race.

Called "Jobs, Debt and the Mess in Washington," the ad repeated many of the economic and government reform themes Perot has made in dozens of television interviews. Perot spoke from a desk, using a chart and pointer.

With the election just one month away, Perot is pouring his time and money into television, detailing economic troubles and his solutions, which include higher taxes, cuts in entitlements and government spending. Another 30-minute ad is scheduled for Friday night, and he also is to begin running 30- and 60-second commercials on the major networks Thursday.

Campaign officials provided an excerpt of Tuesday night's ad in advance.

In the excerpt, Perot strongly criticized government workers who become lobbyists and political campaign activists after leaving their federal jobs.

"That's like having Russian spies in the middle of a presidential campaign during the Cold War, folks," Perot said.

"The sickest thing of all, we had a key guy on the (International Trade Commission) leave and go to the other side in the middle of a negotiation. He knew the plans, the strategy, the detail," Perot said. "As far as I'm concerned, that's economic treason."

He gave no names.

Orson Swindle, Perot's national volunteer coordinator, said Tuesday night's ad would be typical for the campaign.

"We won't have Ken and Barbie images up there as you get with the Democrats or Indiana Fitzwater running around in his hat," Swindle said in a reference to Bill and Hillary Clinton and the safari hat of President Bush's spokesman, Martin Fitzwater. "You won't see that kind of stuff."

At least one more 30-minute ad after Friday's is being prepared but is unscheduled, spokeswoman Sharon Holman said.

Perot paid $380,000 to run the first spot on CBS, before the National League baseball game played to most of the country.

Swindle said Perot's participation in the presidential debates will be the crucial part of the Dallas billionaire's campaign. He said Perot would make some campaign appearances, too, but none had been scheduled as of Tuesday.

Bush, Clinton prepare for series of debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush studied at the White House on Tuesday for Sunday's debate. While Clinton summoned stand-ins for mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks. Clinton planned to hole up in battle­ground Missouri for the latter part of the week, practicing and trying to determine Bush attack avenues in advance of the real show, set for Sunday across the state in St. Louis.

Bush, meanwhile, charted his own debate tactics Tuesday from the White House, settling aside three hours for a session with chief of staff James Baker III, budget director Richard Darman, and other top policy aides.

If and when Bush moves on to re­hearsal debates — aides said there could be one Saturday at the White House — he would play dual roles, jumping back and forth between portrayals of Clinton and Perot, said a Republican source.

The budget director, who played Democrat Michael Dukakis in Bush's mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks.

Perot's charts

Ross Perot has outlined his reasons for the nation's economic woes in 21 charts. Some examples:

- U.S. business productivity
  - 32.5% Percentage of decade growth
  - 13.3% 1960-70
  - 11.3% 1970-80
  - 74.49% Ronald Reagan and George Bush (12 years)

Federal debt added during American presidencies

George Washington to Jimmy Carter

State of the economy spiced by a tongue-lashing of government officials who become lobbyists for other countries. Perot said of such officials, "This is like a general switching armies in the middle of the war. They should come to serve and go home, not cash in."

"That's like having Russian spies in the middle of a presidential campaign during the Cold War, folks," Perot said.

"The sickest thing of all, we had a key guy on the (International Trade Commission) leave and go to the other side in the middle of a negotiation. He knew the plans, the strategy, the detail," Perot said. "As far as I'm concerned, that's economic treason."

He gave no names.

Orson Swindle, Perot's national volunteer coordinator, said Tuesday night's ad would be typical for the campaign.

"We won't have Ken and Barbie images up there as you get with the Democrats or Indiana Fitzwater running around in his hat," Swindle said in a reference to Bill and Hillary Clinton and the safari hat of President Bush's spokesman, Martin Fitzwater. "You won't see that kind of stuff."

At least one more 30-minute ad after Friday's is being prepared but is unscheduled, spokeswoman Sharon Holman said.

Perot paid $380,000 to run the first spot on CBS, before the National League baseball game played to most of the country.

Swindle said Perot's participation in the presidential debates will be the crucial part of the Dallas billionaire's campaign. He said Perot would make some campaign appearances, too, but none had been scheduled as of Tuesday.

Bush, Clinton prepare for series of debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush studied at the White House on Tuesday for Sunday's debate. While Clinton summoned stand-ins for mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks. Clinton planned to hole up in battleground Missouri for the latter part of the week, practicing and trying to determine Bush attack avenues in advance of the real show, set for Sunday across the state in St. Louis.

Bush, meanwhile, charted his own debate tactics Tuesday from the White House, settling aside three hours for a session with chief of staff James Baker III, budget director Richard Darman, and other top policy aides.

If and when Bush moves on to rehearsal debates — aides said there could be one Saturday at the White House — he would play dual roles, jumping back and forth between portrayals of Clinton and Perot, said a Republican source.

The budget director, who played Democrat Michael Dukakis in Bush's mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks.

Perot's charts

Ross Perot has outlined his reasons for the nation's economic woes in 21 charts. Some examples:

- U.S. business productivity
  - 32.5% Percentage of decade growth
  - 13.3% 1960-70
  - 11.3% 1970-80
  - 74.49% Ronald Reagan and George Bush (12 years)

Federal debt added during American presidencies

George Washington to Jimmy Carter

State of the economy spiced by a tongue-lashing of government officials who become lobbyists for other countries. Perot said of such officials, "This is like a general switching armies in the middle of the war. They should come to serve and go home, not cash in."

"That's like having Russian spies in the middle of a presidential campaign during the Cold War, folks," Perot said.

"The sickest thing of all, we had a key guy on the (International Trade Commission) leave and go to the other side in the middle of a negotiation. He knew the plans, the strategy, the detail," Perot said. "As far as I'm concerned, that's economic treason."

He gave no names.

Orson Swindle, Perot's national volunteer coordinator, said Tuesday night's ad would be typical for the campaign.

"We won't have Ken and Barbie images up there as you get with the Democrats or Indiana Fitzwater running around in his hat," Swindle said in a reference to Bill and Hillary Clinton and the safari hat of President Bush's spokesman, Martin Fitzwater. "You won't see that kind of stuff."

At least one more 30-minute ad after Friday's is being prepared but is unscheduled, spokeswoman Sharon Holman said.

Perot paid $380,000 to run the first spot on CBS, before the National League baseball game played to most of the country.

Swindle said Perot's participation in the presidential debates will be the crucial part of the Dallas billionaire's campaign. He said Perot would make some campaign appearances, too, but none had been scheduled as of Tuesday.

Bush, Clinton prepare for series of debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush studied at the White House on Tuesday for Sunday's debate. While Clinton summoned stand-ins for mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks. Clinton planned to hole up in battleground Missouri for the latter part of the week, practicing and trying to determine Bush attack avenues in advance of the real show, set for Sunday across the state in St. Louis.

Bush, meanwhile, charted his own debate tactics Tuesday from the White House, settling aside three hours for a session with chief of staff James Baker III, budget director Richard Darman, and other top policy aides.

If and when Bush moves on to rehearsal debates — aides said there could be one Saturday at the White House — he would play dual roles, jumping back and forth between portrayals of Clinton and Perot, said a Republican source.

The budget director, who played Democrat Michael Dukakis in Bush's mock debates in 1988, has been carrying around debate briefing books for weeks.
Dear Editor:
The behavior of the Notre Dame student body at the recent Stanford football contest was alarming, asinine and in extremely poor taste.

Those of you who had the gall to heave projectiles were truly asinine.

We can assure you that the only people impressed were yourselves. You probably thought you were big shots, and those of us who attend football games for the benefit of our Irish community. Ha-ha-ha. Very funny.

We hope next time you will find some consideration for those of us who attend football games for the benefit of our devoted pigskin players, not for a laugh or a lark.

Next time, kiddies, keep the cups in your hands or under the stands. Let's work together to keep these selfish miscreants from turning our beloved stadium into a frickling fun house.

J.T. Burke
Off-campus
Steve Murphy
Alumni Hall

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to your publication's security policy. In Julie Barrett's article, "Crime policy applies to all," she outlined the reasoning behind publishing a student's name if he or she is arrested.

Barrett stated that it is in the interest of the student body when students are arrested, and The Observer intends "to provide the most thorough coverage of all security issues on campus and in the community."

Yet I feel that you have failed in providing the "thorough coverage" that you promise. While I disagree with the practice of printing students' titles in addition to their names, I can understand, to some extent, the reasoning involved.

I did not enter The Commons last weekend to conduct Scholastic business, but my position at the magazine does not end as I step out of the campus boundaries. I accepted my position at Scholastic, therefore, I accepted the responsibility it entails.

The security policy is supposed to ensure that students are being treated fairly, yet I feel The Observer was somewhat selective and irresponsible in its coverage of the S.U.D.S. raids at The Commons and, earlier this year, at Campus View and Turtle Creek.

The Observer claims that it will include the titles of varsity athletes, elected student government officials and publications editors, yet only a few students were pinpointed as holding titles while several more were deleted.

Why are some titles included while others were ignored? Do your reporters simply pinpoint those students whose positions are obviously obvious?

For example, there is a list of the Ball President's Council members in the student directory; none of the RFC members that have been cited over the past month have had their titles listed. I believe that they fit under the category of "elected student government official." Why were these titles exempted?

If your publication boasts of "thorough" coverage of such incidents, don't you think you should follow through and not discriminate against certain students?

I advise that if you plan to maintain this policy, your reporters should take the time to provide what you promise, not simply highlight certain students.

Margaret Kenny
Managing Editor
Scholastic
Oct. 2, 1992

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to your publication's security policy. In Julie Barrett's article, "Crime policy applies to all," she outlined the reasoning behind publishing a student's name if he or she is arrested.

Barrett stated that it is in the interest of the student body when students are arrested, and The Observer intends "to provide the most thorough coverage of all security issues on campus and in the community."

Yet I feel that you have failed in providing the "thorough coverage" that you promise. While I disagree with the practice of printing students' titles in addition to their names, I can understand, to some extent, the reasoning involved.

I did not enter The Commons last weekend to conduct Scholastic business, but my position at the magazine does not end as I step out of the campus boundaries. I accepted my position at Scholastic, therefore, I accepted the responsibility it entails.

The security policy is supposed to ensure that students are being treated fairly, yet I feel The Observer was somewhat selective and irresponsible in its coverage of the S.U.D.S. raids at The Commons and, earlier this year, at Campus View and Turtle Creek.

The Observer claims that it will include the titles of varsity athletes, elected student government officials and publications editors, yet only a few students were pinpointed as holding titles while several more were deleted.

Why are some titles included while others were ignored? Do your reporters simply pinpoint those students whose positions are obviously obvious?

For example, there is a list of the Ball President's Council members in the student directory; none of the RFC members that have been cited over the past month have had their titles listed. I believe that they fit under the category of "elected student government official." Why were these titles exempted?

If your publication boasts of "thorough" coverage of such incidents, don't you think you should follow through and not discriminate against certain students?

I advise that if you plan to maintain this policy, your reporters should take the time to provide what you promise, not simply highlight certain students.

Margaret Kenny
Managing Editor
Scholastic
Oct. 2, 1992

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to your publication's security policy. In Julie Barrett's article, "Crime policy applies to all," she outlined the reasoning behind publishing a student's name if he or she is arrested.

Barrett stated that it is in the interest of the student body when students are arrested, and The Observer intends "to provide the most thorough coverage of all security issues on campus and in the community."

Yet I feel that you have failed in providing the "thorough coverage" that you promise. While I disagree with the practice of printing students' titles in addition to their names, I can understand, to some extent, the reasoning involved.

I did not enter The Commons last weekend to conduct Scholastic business, but my position at the magazine does not end as I step out of the campus boundaries. I accepted my position at Scholastic, therefore, I accepted the responsibility it entails.

The security policy is supposed to ensure that students are being treated fairly, yet I feel The Observer was somewhat selective and irresponsible in its coverage of the S.U.D.S. raids at The Commons and, earlier this year, at Campus View and Turtle Creek.

The Observer claims that it will include the titles of varsity athletes, elected student government officials and publications editors, yet only a few students were pinpointed as holding titles while several more were deleted.

Why are some titles included while others were ignored? Do your reporters simply pinpoint those students whose positions are obviously obvious?

For example, there is a list of the Ball President's Council members in the student directory; none of the RFC members that have been cited over the past month have had their titles listed. I believe that they fit under the category of "elected student government official." Why were these titles exempted?

If your publication boasts of "thorough" coverage of such incidents, don't you think you should follow through and not discriminate against certain students?

I advise that if you plan to maintain this policy, your reporters should take the time to provide what you promise, not simply highlight certain students.

Margaret Kenny
Managing Editor
Scholastic
Oct. 2, 1992
One recent Sunday evening before the 500 mass, I encountered a beggar who wore a "Notre Dame" Irish hat but was standing in front of St. Matthew's Cathedral. It was the type of purchase they would make at the local discount store rather than the campus bookstore.

Nonetheless, the words, "Notre Dame," pierced my heart. Not only because it was a parish I was expecting to see this man who seemed as out of place here as past Foursirs of July when the hammer and sickle flew over the Beltway, but also amidst dozens of American flags on 16th Street.

He haunted the steps of the cathedral where President Kennedy's funeral mass was celebrated. I felt uncomfortable around him. Ignoring the beggar bothered me, but I'm not so sure it did, too. Recovering from my emotional response, I climbed the steps to stand face to face to another man. He was college-aged, sized in the church doorway watching those who entered the cathedral with the inscription, "Hate is Not a Family Value.

Immediately after making a protest statement against the Bush/Quayle family values de-definitions circulating in this year's campaign, I agreed with him, so he did not react as much as my "Notre Dame" friend.

Just then, the man I call The Scribbler came into the church. He was yelling something about never asking anybody for my damn... The litany is much too long to detail here.

I call him "The Scribbler" because he takes our bulletins, pretends to write on them, and then dumps them by the hundreds in the mailboxes on the corner of Connecticut and Rhode Island Avenues.

On any given day, he dumps home buyer's guides, nonprofit course booklets, newspapers, and magazines in that mailbox. I am certain that he is an alumnus of St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He is a person I avoid at all costs.

When I finally entered the cathedral, I wondered if the world outside the Washington Beltway was like the characters who attended mass here. I also thought of the snap judgments I made based on appearances with this different area from the bottom to the top of the nave.

Did my perceptions of the Bush/Quayle campaign of intolerance and unbelief actually apply to this usual mass? I hoped that the model of tolerance. Maybe I need to see on that side of the aisle. I need yes that night would be perfect setting in which to comprehend my questions. But not what anyone who has ever served at a downtown location can tell me. The priest admiral in his seat was out of weird and unusual events. As it turned out, mass that night was the perfect setting in which to comprehend my questions. But not what anyone who has ever served at a downtown location can tell me. The priest admiral in his seat was out of weird and unusual events. As it turned out, mass that night was

St. Matthew's Cathedral, with all its splendor, ministers to the influential as well as the home- less. When I serve as a lector at 5:30 I find the congregation from a different perspective. One volunteer usher calls my fellow lector, Celeste, "Duchess," he bows to her when she passes. He also motions his hands to collect the music from his seat whenever the spirit moves him. He never misses a Sunday evening mass, and he is certainly one of our unique parishioners. I do not see him as a bit weird but harmless.

Another parishioner tries to "stop The Admiral" whenever he shares his hand. She is a Central American immigrant who speaks English and cannot speak a word of English.

To me, she looks like she could be related to the Star Wars fictional character, Yoda. Yet her physical appearance only accentuates the cuteness of her spirit and faith. She attends mass every day, and is my favorite "unusual person" at mass.

"The Admiral" also attended mass that evening. He too is probably a St. Elizabeth's alumn. He has a full beard, neatly trimmed, but rather long hair.

I call him "Admiral" because he once wore a captain's hat in church while having a flag flag over his shoulders. As the priest delivered the homily, "The Admiral" saluted him from one of the elevated chapels at the side of the cathedral. Only those of us near the altar could see him. At the mass where I wanted to contemplate my tolerance, or maybe I should say my unbelief, I actually applied to this usual mass, I hoped that the model of tolerance. Maybe I need to see on that side of the aisle. I need yes that night would be perfect setting in which to comprehend my questions. But not what anyone who has ever served at a downtown location can tell me. The priest admiral in his seat was out of weird and unusual events. As it turned out, mass that night was

The Scribbler appeared every other Monday.

The important changes in Travel Grant Committee}

Kurt Mills

On the Other Hand

As many of you know, the travel grant fund of the Gradu ate Student Union has been one of the most popular and widely used USG services.

This fund is used to partially defray the costs of presenting a scholarly paper at a conference, and has been of great help to me in gaining graduate student recognition in the years.

What many of you probably do not know is that the guidelines used by the Travel Grant Committee has been changed. Below, I will talk about some of these changes, as well as the way in which these changes were made.

In the past, the students were able to submit a funding form either before or after the actual conference. This enabled students to submit the form even if they were going to get before hand, and second, to be able to pay for their expenses beforehand.

The new policy, which has been made of particular importance for students without credit cards, and even those with credit cards who would have to pay their bills before the conference, since most graduate students tend to live paycheck by paycheck.

In addition, knowing before hand how much they will re ceive might also make the differ ence in whether or not stu dents can afford to attend the conference. The committee has decided to restrict the process so that stu dents can only submit for reimbursement with full receipts after the conference.

Another decision was made of supposed fraud and wastefulness in the process. The claim is made that graduate students submitted forms before the fact that vastly underestimated the cost of their trip, and paid themselves did not receipts detailing their expend itures, as required.

In addition, supposedly the Travel Grant Committee has followed up on those who did not submit receipts. Finally, the students have trouble that if graduate students did try to rip off the fund, it amounted to nothing much or was very widespread.

By forcing the past Travel Grant Chair, Mel Hall, who had been involved with the committee to the committee followed up on all submissions.

If this were a problem, it would not be generally known. So the Travel Grant Committee should receive, rather than making wholesale changes, enforce the rules more strictly and follow up more closely so the claim is seen as interested in doing.

Polling all graduate students because of a few bad ap ples does not make sense, and insults the vast majority of graduate students who benefit fairly from the fund.

The previous Chair notes that the only outcome of these changes will be to make the job of the Travel Grant Chair easier, and make it harder for students to receive support.

We are also given no idea what percentage of our ex penses I had at St. Elizabeth's, and now works in Washington, D.C. as a desktop publishing specialist for the U.S. House of Representatives. His article appears every other Monday.

The new policy which com bines the position of vice presi dent of the USG, with the USG Travel Grant Committee, to make such continuity very diffi cult.

Finally, the timing of the full deadline was changed from November 15, to October 15, unfortunately for people knew this.

It was announced in the Graduate Student Newsletter, which was dated September 16, the new date for the deadline, and the back of the application form which had the revised form was approved on September 17, two days after the deadline.

After the deadline, and for various quarters, the deadline for this has been extended to Octo ber 15, although this has not been made widely known ei ther.

If you are concerned about this issue, you can talk with your departmental representa tive at the Student Council Meeting, or contact Gary J. Caruso, Graduate Student Newsletter. His column normally appears every other Monday.
Jahnelle Harrigan
Things, life, whatnot

On a higher level of smut

It's kind of scary.

Stay-at-home moms schedule carpools around them. Corporate executives re-arrange meetings because of them. College students skip classes to see them.

They're daytime television talk shows and I have to admit I'm a victim of their pathological intrigue, although I'm not sure why.

I'm not talking about sleazy tabloid shows like "A Current Affair." I prefer to see myself as being on a higher level of smut, led by my close friends Oprah and Sally Jessy.

When Phil Donahue perfected his talent of running up and down stairs through his audience with an outstretched microphone for anyone who would take it, the TV talk show took on a whole new meaning.

But why are we so enthralled with shows starring Geraldo, Maury, Faith, Jenny and Joan? Why are we willing to expose ourselves on national television? I prefer to see myself as being on a higher level of smut, led by my close friends Oprah and Sally Jessy.

A recent episode of "Sally Jessy Raphael" was titled "Babedom: boobs, boys and babes" to determine the REAL women in the group. It's not the cry of frustrated college students in this week before mid-terms, but of a confused young boy in 1906. The character is Richard Miller, teenage philosopher and aspiring student of love poetry in Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!"

The play traces the activities of the family of Nat Miller, a newspaper editor in a small Connecticut town in 1906. Miller's household consists of a concerned wife struggling to keep her family happy, an uncle whose relationship with Lily, the woman he loves, is tainted by an inability to deal with his drinking problem; and four children, the most troublesome of whom is Richard.

As he works through the rebellious stage of his youth, this young man convinces himself, with all the fleeting conviction of a love-struck adolescent, that cruelty and passion are the true driving forces in the world. In response, he rebels with all of his might (which proves not to be enough) against authority figures in his life.

Studying the works of poets like Shaw, Carlyle, and Wilde, Richard is moved by their romantic verse to court the young and innocent Muriel, whose father does not hesitate to express his dissatisfaction. Debates about Richard's rebellious antics ensue and in uncovering their significance, the Millers find that the passions of youth, while humorous and fleeting, may also be meaningful.

On a higher level of smut, the TV smut level is rising...tune in next week for "Transsexual cops who support Ross Perot and the women who love them." Yes, it definitely is kind of scary.
Lindros helps Flyers tie Penguins in NHL debut; Devils beat Islanders

Hockey's Chicken-Hunter

The Observer Wednesday, October 7, 1992

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eric Lindros scored a goal in his NHL debut Tuesday night, helping the Philadelphia Flyers rally for a 3-3 tie with the Pittsburgh Penguins as the NHL opened its 76th season.

Lindros, regarded by many as the game's No. 1 prospect, had only two goals on two shots. But he scored on the second one, intercepting a pass by Pittsburgh's Jaromir Jagr and rifling it past Penguins goalie Tom Barrasso 3:11 seconds into the third period.

That made it 3-2, and Doug Evans tied the game at 1:19.

Mario Lemieux paid the first dividend on his new 6-year, $42-million contract, scoring the first goal of his NHL just 46 seconds into the game. Kevin Stevens and Rick Tocchet added power-play goals for the Penguins, who were frustrated for a 2-1/2 goal advantage by Lindros.

Devils 4, Islanders 3

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Scott Stevens and Bobby Holik scored 1:19 apart as New Jersey got all its goals in the second period and held off the New York Islanders in a Herb Brooks' debut as Devils' coach.

Stevens and Holik connected on the power play after Bill Ranford's pass was intercepted by the Islanders the lead. The Devils made Brooks sweat in his opener after building a 4-1 lead late in the second period on goals by Alexander Semak and Zdeno Ciger.

Derek King scored with 3:3 seconds left in the second period and Marty McTiss made it a one-goal lead at 1:45 of the third.

I need 2 state GA's call fisa X445 leave a message for good penn St call 277-9797

I will pay top dollar for 2 or 3 football GA's this weekend.

NEED 1 NC State GA, call 277-8750.

NEED 1 Penn St. ticket, call 277-9882.

NEED FDU STUDEVNT ID, CALL JEROME JX160. INTO MIXED DUEL.

NEED NO FOOTBALL TICKETS.

I have 2 BYU GA's, 2 Penn St. GA's, 2 BC GA's.

I need 2 Penn state GA's, I have $$.

I need a pair of BC GA's, I have $$.

I need 2 intro to psychology test tickets.
HOCKEY

National Hockey League

MONTREAL CANADIENS—Tasted Patrick Lalime, left wing, to the Calgary Flames for future considerations.

NEW YORK RANGERS—Sent Craig Vignan, forward, and Brent Severyn, def­ tender, to the farm club of the American Hockey League.

BASEBALL

American League

SEATTLE MARINERS—Placed Juan Agosto, pitcher, and John Moss, outfielder, on waivers for the purpose of giving him their unconditional release. Named Norm Ranier, manager; Jeff Andrews, pitching coach; and Paul Thigpen, director of baseball development.

CINCINNATI BEARS—Announced that Louis Pivetta, manager, has rejected a contract extension.

HOUSTON ASTROS—Placed Denny Hocking, second baseman, on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Purchased the contract of Tony Eusebio, catcher, from the Texas League.

MONTREAL EXPOS—Placed Tom Fawcett and Jerry Wilk, infielders, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

NEW YORK METS—Sent Julian Nagle, pitcher, to the California Angels to complete a trade for Dick Schultz, outfielder.

BASKETBALL

National Basketball Association

DENVER NUGGETS—Signed Ernest Hilg, guard, and Francisco Calzon, forward, to 10­ day contacts.

INDIANA RACERS—Named Jeff Bristow as assistant coach.

MIAMI HEAT—Signed Harold Minor, guard, to a multi­year contract.

Controversial Basketball League

FAISO-ROGGER-MEVER—Fired Dennis Poeschek, defenseman, to St. John of the International Hockey League.

SAN JOSE SHARKS—Sent David Kelly, right wing, and John Vasiloff, left wing, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

OMAHA RACERS—Named Jeff Thomas as assistant coach.

ROCHESTER RENEGADE—Signed Derick De　

2.5, guard, and Greg Williams, for­

ted,

Weekly National League

American League at National League, 8:37 p.m., or 8:29 p.m., or

needed

AL at NL, if necessary

NL at AL, 8:26 p.m.

BASIL BASEBALL

American League

SEATTLE MARINERS—Placed Juan Agosto, pitcher, and John Moss, outfielder, on waivers for the purpose of giving him their unconditional release.

CINCINNATI BEARS—Announced that Louis Pivetta, manager, has rejected a contract extension.

HOUSTON ASTROS—Placed Denny Hocking, second baseman, on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Purchased the contract of Tony Eusebio, catcher, from the Texas League.

MONTREAL EXPOS—Placed Tom Fawcett and Jerry Wilk, infielders, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

NEW YORK METS—Sent Julian Nagle, pitcher, to the California Angels to complete a trade for Dick Schultz, outfielder.

BASKETBALL

National Basketball Association

DENVER NUGGETS—Signed Ernest Hilg, guard, and Francisco Calzon, forward, to 10­

def year contacts.

INDIANA RACERS—Named Jeff Bristow as assistant coach.

MIAMI HEAT—Signed Harold Minor, guard, to a multi­year contract.

Controversial Basketball League

FAISO-ROGGER-MEVER—Fired Dennis Poeschek, defenseman, to St. John of the International Hockey League.

SAN JOSE SHARKS—Sent David Kelly, right wing, and John Vasiloff, left wing, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

OMAHA RACERS—Named Jeff Thomas as assistant coach.

ROCHESTER RENEGADE—Signed Derick De　

2.5, guard, and Greg Williams, for­
ted,

Weekly National League

American League at National League, 8:37 p.m., or 8:29 p.m., or

needed

AL at NL, if necessary

NL at AL, 8:26 p.m.

BASIL BASEBALL

American League

SEATTLE MARINERS—Placed Juan Agosto, pitcher, and John Moss, outfielder, on waivers for the purpose of giving him their unconditional release.

CINCINNATI BEARS—Announced that Louis Pivetta, manager, has rejected a contract extension.

HOUSTON ASTROS—Placed Denny Hocking, second baseman, on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Purchased the contract of Tony Eusebio, catcher, from the Texas League.

MONTREAL EXPOS—Placed Tom Fawcett and Jerry Wilk, infielders, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

NEW YORK METS—Sent Julian Nagle, pitcher, to the California Angels to complete a trade for Dick Schultz, outfielder.

BASKETBALL

National Basketball Association

DENVER NUGGETS—Signed Ernest Hilg, guard, and Francisco Calzon, forward, to 10­

def year contacts.

INDIANA RACERS—Named Jeff Bristow as assistant coach.

MIAMI HEAT—Signed Harold Minor, guard, to a multi­year contract.

Controversial Basketball League

FAISO-ROGGER-MEVER—Fired Dennis Poeschek, defenseman, to St. John of the International Hockey League.

SAN JOSE SHARKS—Sent David Kelly, right wing, and John Vasiloff, left wing, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

OMAHA RACERS—Named Jeff Thomas as assistant coach.

ROCHESTER RENEGADE—Signed Derick De　

2.5, guard, and Greg Williams, for­
ted,

Weekly National League

American League at National League, 8:37 p.m., or 8:29 p.m., or

needed

AL at NL, if necessary

NL at AL, 8:26 p.m.

BASIL BASEBALL

American League

SEATTLE MARINERS—Placed Juan Agosto, pitcher, and John Moss, outfielder, on waivers for the purpose of giving him their unconditional release.

CINCINNATI BEARS—Announced that Louis Pivetta, manager, has rejected a contract extension.

HOUSTON ASTROS—Placed Denny Hocking, second baseman, on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Purchased the contract of Tony Eusebio, catcher, from the Texas League.

MONTREAL EXPOS—Placed Tom Fawcett and Jerry Wilk, infielders, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

NEW YORK METS—Sent Julian Nagle, pitcher, to the California Angels to complete a trade for Dick Schultz, outfielder.

BASKETBALL

National Basketball Association

DENVER NUGGETS—Signed Ernest Hilg, guard, and Francisco Calzon, forward, to 10­

def year contacts.

INDIANA RACERS—Named Jeff Bristow as assistant coach.

MIAMI HEAT—Signed Harold Minor, guard, to a multi­year contract.

Controversial Basketball League

FAISO-ROGGER-MEVER—Fired Dennis Poeschek, defenseman, to St. John of the International Hockey League.

SAN JOSE SHARKS—Sent David Kelly, right wing, and John Vasiloff, left wing, on waivers for the purpose of giving them their unconditional releases.

OMAHA RACERS—Named Jeff Thomas as assistant coach.

ROCHESTER RENEGADE—Signed Derick De　

2.5, guard, and Greg Williams, for­
ted,

Weekly National League

American League at National League, 8:37 p.m., or 8:29 p.m., or

needed

AL at NL, if necessary

NL at AL, 8:26 p.m.
Is Jack Morris the ticket to a title?

TORONTO (AP) — A little older, a little wiser and definitely a lot richer and a lot more relaxed, Jack Morris is ready again. Because when it comes to playing baseball's biggest games, there is no NCLS — pitcher with a bigger reputation.

Who could forget that chiffly last October, Morris standing alone in the Metrodome and Atlanta loaded in the bases, the game 7 in the World Series championship in the balance? The result: Morris steadying himself and the Minnesota Twins, finishing with a 10-inning shutout that earned him the MVP award?

Morris will be back on mound Wednesday night when he starts for Toronto against Dave Stewart and the Oakland Athletics in Game 1 of the playoffs. He's already won titles as a free agent, without Jose Canseco, and the Blue Jays forked over $10.85 million for two years and lured him away from his hometown Twins as a free agent.

At 37, the Blue Jays expected a lot and they got it as Morris matched a career-best with a 20-game winner with a ERA over 4.00 since Jim Merritt for Cincinnati in 1970, and just the 11th ever to do it. And it's true that such a stat could've left him this year in the company of pitchers such as Ramon Martinez (8-11, 4.00 ERA), Charlie Hough (7-12, 3.93) or Trevor Wilson (8-4, 4.21). But Morris and his manager have answers for that.

"Let me explain something about ERA," Morris said. "You get a guy on second base, two outs and the batter hits a ball way up in the lights. The infielder loses the ball in the lights, it comes down and drops at his toe, runs scores. Earned run."

"I always could've sworn they paid me on my wins and losses," he said.

Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston admits that Morris has given up a few runs. No that it matters.

"Actually, I don't think Jack's numbers are all that good as far as ERA," he said. "But except for Jack, we wouldn't be here."

"He's the kind of guy who if you put up a couple of early runs and he knows he needs to hold you to those, he will," Gaston said.

The Brave who cried when he left Atlanta shortstop Jeff Blauser hit a solo home run in the Braves' 5-1 win over Pittsburgh in the first game of the National League Championship Series.

A’s swagger intact with Canseco

TORONTO (AP) — Here come the Oakland A’s marching into Sky Dome, still full of swagger.

"We’re Rickey Henderson, strutting in the dugout. There’s Dave Stewart, preparing his death stare in the clubhouse. There’s another Athletics player in the outfield, singing ‘O Canada’ out loud, his voice echoing through the nearly empty ballpark.

Vip, Oakland is ready for playoffs, as always. Only one thing is missing. Where’s Joe?"

"Yes, it does seem strange to playing them in a big series without Jose Canseco," Toronto reliever Tom Henke said Tuesday, a day before Game 1.

"I mean, this guy has hit some mammoth shots here," Henke said. "There are a lot of other great players in the game, but not many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up."

No do many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up.

"Man, I've played in a lot of big games where Jose Canseco wasn't on my team," he said.

"You play in baseball 10 or 12 years, you get to play with a lot of players. I don't see anything strange about it."

The Observer is looking for business and economic students to write a guest column for the Business Page. If interested contact Business Editor Pancho Lozano at 239-7471.

A’s swagger intact with Canseco

TORONTO (AP) — Here come the Oakland A’s marching into Sky Dome, still full of swagger. A’s swagger intact with Canseco

"We’re Rickey Henderson, strutting in the dugout. There’s Dave Stewart, preparing his death stare in the clubhouse. There’s another Athletics player in the outfield, singing ‘O Canada’ out loud, his voice echoing through the nearly empty ballpark.

Vip, Oakland is ready for playoffs, as always. Only one thing is missing. Where’s Joe?"

"Yes, it does seem strange to playing them in a big series without Jose Canseco," Toronto reliever Tom Henke said Tuesday, a day before Game 1.

"I mean, this guy has hit some mammoth shots here," Henke said. "There are a lot of other great players in the game, but not many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up."

No do many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up.

"Man, I've played in a lot of big games where Jose Canseco wasn't on my team," he said.

"You play in baseball 10 or 12 years, you get to play with a lot of players. I don't see anything strange about it."

The Observer is looking for business and economic students to write a guest column for the Business Page. If interested contact Business Editor Pancho Lozano at 239-7471.

A’s swagger intact with Canseco

TORONTO (AP) — Here come the Oakland A’s marching into Sky Dome, still full of swagger. A’s swagger intact with Canseco

"We’re Rickey Henderson, strutting in the dugout. There’s Dave Stewart, preparing his death stare in the clubhouse. There’s another Athletics player in the outfield, singing ‘O Canada’ out loud, his voice echoing through the nearly empty ballpark.

Vip, Oakland is ready for playoffs, as always. Only one thing is missing. Where’s Joe?"

"Yes, it does seem strange to playing them in a big series without Jose Canseco," Toronto reliever Tom Henke said Tuesday, a day before Game 1.

"I mean, this guy has hit some mammoth shots here," Henke said. "There are a lot of other great players in the game, but not many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up."

No do many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up.

"Man, I've played in a lot of big games where Jose Canseco wasn't on my team," he said.

"You play in baseball 10 or 12 years, you get to play with a lot of players. I don't see anything strange about it."

The Observer is looking for business and economic students to write a guest column for the Business Page. If interested contact Business Editor Pancho Lozano at 239-7471.

A’s swagger intact with Canseco

TORONTO (AP) — Here come the Oakland A’s marching into Sky Dome, still full of swagger. A’s swagger intact with Canseco

"We’re Rickey Henderson, strutting in the dugout. There’s Dave Stewart, preparing his death stare in the clubhouse. There’s another Athletics player in the outfield, singing ‘O Canada’ out loud, his voice echoing through the nearly empty ballpark.

Vip, Oakland is ready for playoffs, as always. Only one thing is missing. Where’s Joe?"

"Yes, it does seem strange to playing them in a big series without Jose Canseco," Toronto reliever Tom Henke said Tuesday, a day before Game 1.

"I mean, this guy has hit some mammoth shots here," Henke said. "There are a lot of other great players in the game, but not many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up."

No do many carry teams or create comotions the way Canseco can. Canseco was the talk of baseball after his home run in the 1989 playoffs in Toronto landed in the top deck, near the windows of a hotel that overlooks left field. By comparison, his homer off the glassed-in restaurant in center field was a pop up.

"Man, I've played in a lot of big games where Jose Canseco wasn't on my team," he said.

"You play in baseball 10 or 12 years, you get to play with a lot of players. I don't see anything strange about it."

The Observer is looking for business and economic students to write a guest column for the Business Page. If interested contact Business Editor Pancho Lozano at 239-7471.
THE TRAVELERS COMPANIES

Invite

The UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME students to attend a presentation on career opportunities

Featuring Tom Helfrich, ND '72

Senior Vice President, Corporate Human Resources

Recent Notre Dame Alumni and Interns will also be available to talk about their experiences at The Travelers.

All majors encouraged to attend.

Refreshments will be served.

FALL INTERVIEW DATES:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ACCENT (Information Systems Management)</th>
<th>November 10-11, 1992</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>TMP (Telecommunications)</td>
<td>November 10, 1992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FMDP (Financial Management)</td>
<td>November 10, 1992</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MCEBO ASSOCIATES (Managed Care and Employee Benefits)</td>
<td>November 10, 1992</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

IH football getting intense as playoffs near

BY TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Sports Writer

With most teams already more than halfway through their four game regular season schedule, intensity in interhall football games will be high this weekend, as each team aiming to make the playoffs, which are only a few weeks away.

- Zahn 24, Sorin 0
  - Zahn ran its record to 3-0 by trouncing Sorin (1-2). Big plays were the key to the Zahn victory, as junior Rick Rios caught a 45 yard touchdown pass from sophomore quarterback Chris Hammond, who later connected with Pete Corry for another six. The ground game was also effective for Zahn, as team captain Matt Meng broke a 30 yard touchdown run for the third championship.

- OC 6, Grace 0
  - Off-Campus, aided by a strong effort from its defense, improved to 2-1 by blanking Grace (1-2). Behind the stifling play of noseguard Tom Miniscalco and the linebacking trio of Tom Pitstick, Matt Carr, and Matt Davis, OC limited the talented Grace backfield of quarterbacks Dillon (1-2). The difference in the game was a missed extra point after Dillon's first drive, which climaxied in a 1 yard run by Mike Fox. Flanner later answered with a 60 yard quarterback back sweep and converted the extra point for the eventual margin of victory. Dillon had a chance at more points late in the game, but Flanner recovered a fumble at its own 40 yard line with three minutes left and ran out the clock.

Keenan 7, Morrissey 0

Keenan went to 2-1 by shutting out Morrissey (1-2). Both team's defenses played well, but Keenan's Dave Detorre broke the game open with a long run for the game's only score. Morrissey coach Jamie McMillan noted that his team drove well the entire game, but laments the two fumbles in Keenan territory that prevented his team from getting on the board.

SPECIAL TO THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, October 7, 1992

The Observer page 13

Wednesday, October 7, 1992

The Notre Dame women's soccer team gets a rest from some sorts as it takes on Loyola tonight at 5:00 on Alumni Field.

After facing four nationally ranked opponents in eight days, the Ramblers give the Irish somewhat of a breather as they begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference schedule.

Notre Dame suffered three defeats during the four game stretch, but the one win over Wisconsin was called "the biggest in the history of Notre Dame women's soccer" by Irish coach Chris Petrucelli.

It is the first season of play for Loyola, which holds a 2-8 record (0-2 in the MCC) for Loyola, which holds a 2-8 record (0-2 in the MCC) and hasn't been able to score many," said Petrucelli.

An additional fact which won't help the Ramblers is the Irish currently have no players suffering from serious injuries.

"We are the healthiest we've been all year," added Petrucelli. "None of the players are injured seriously enough where it will effect their play."

---

THE TRAVELERS

An Equal Opportunity Employer

---

BRIEFS

- In the history of Notre Dame women's soccer by Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score, connected with Anthony Laboe for 15 yards yard score.

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

- * Irish Youth Hockey League is looking for ND students to coach or assist coaches during the upcoming hockey season. If interested, contact Scott Gosselin at 271-7414.*

- The Allkido Club will be having open practices on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-8 p.m. in Bockne 219. Everyone is welcome.

- RecSports is taking entries for campus badminton, men's and women's volleyball and co-rec basketball. Entry deadline is October 7.

- The Aikido Club will be having open practices on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-8 p.m. in Bockne 219. Everyone is welcome.

- The SMC track team will be holding an organizational meeting on October 12 at 8 p.m. in Angela Athletic Facility. Come to the meeting for more information and to meet the coach.

- The ND/SMC women's lacrosse team will practice at Saint Mary's at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday. If the weather is inclement, the team will practice at Loftus at 10 a.m. on Wednesday. If you have any questions, call Heather at 284-5103.

- The crew team will have a meeting on October 7 at 204 O'Shaq at 7:30 p.m. for all varsity rowers. Everyone should bring their checkbooks.

- Fellowship of Christian Athletes will be playing wallball tonight at 5 p.m. on court 2 in the JACC. All are welcome. If you have questions, call Ed at 283-1376.

---

The Department of Music Presents

Pomerium Musices

CONCERT OF LITURGICAL MUSIC IN CELEBRATION OF THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF NOTRE DAME PERFORMING RENAISSANCE MUSIC FOR SAKES OF THE CHURCH

Saturday

- October 10, 1992
  - 8:00 p.m.
  - Downtown South Bend
  - Marriott Lounge
  - Free Food 8p.m.-10p.m.
  - Specials 8p.m.-12

Come with your friends to watch Sunday night football, enjoy FREE food, great specials and Awesome Halftime Performances.
Irish volleyball attacks Indiana St.

BY DAN PIER
Sports Writer

Now that the Notre Dame volleyball team has its own game running smoothly, coach Debbie Brown wants her charges to concentrate on attacking their opponents' weaknesses. The Irish will have just that last night, defeating Indiana State 15-7, 15-12, 15-9.

"I was encouraged by the fact that we told them in practice what they would be open and they really worked hard to hit them in the game," Brown said of her hitters. "We were right on the corner, and we hit quite a few balls just out, but I encouraged them for at least trying to do what we worked on."

Notre Dame (13-2) started slowly and fell behind the Sycamores (7-9) 5-1 in game one. Christy Peters led a comeback, however, tallying six kills as the Irish took control. Brett Hensel served up an ace to finish off the game.

Notre Dame went on to a 9-3 lead in the second game. Outside hitter Marilyn Cragin and middle blocker Jessica Fiebelkorn led an efficient offensive attack which pounded out 23 kills and committed just 6 errors. Cragin and Fiebelkorn had six kills apiece in the game en route to leading the team with 13 each for the match. Those two seasons have been among the six offensive players who have seen a lot of action so far for the Irish.

"I felt very good about the offensive production of Jessica Fiebelkorn led an efficient offensive attack which pounded out 23 kills and committed just 6 errors. Cragin and Fiebelkorn had six kills apiece in the game en route to leading the team with 13 each for the match. Those two seasons have been among the six offensive players who have seen a lot of action so far for the Irish.

"I felt very good about the offensiv

Cavanaugh defeats Keenan in first round of interhall soccer playoffs

By KEVIN JANICKI
Sports Writer

After compiling a 4-0 regular season record, the Cavanaugh men's interhall soccer team continued its win streak into the playoffs with a 1-0 opening round victory over Keenan yesterday.

Cavanaugh goalie Pat Robinson stopped his fifth shutout in as many games.

Both teams played solid defense throughout the match until Tim Williamson put Cavanaugh ahead in the first five minutes of the game by placing a hard shot into the upper left corner of the net from forty feet out.

Cavanaugh's victory was a result of the right combination and the right chemistry.

"I really believe that the team is trying. Maybe it's the fact that we're not focusing on the fundamentals and just executing," Brown said.

Cavanaugh brings its win streak and strong defense against the winner of today's Alumni-Morrissey contest.

Thursday's games:
Carroll 3, Zahm B 0
Carroll finished the regular season at 4-0 with a 3-0 victory over Zahm B on Thursday. Rudy Christopher scored two goals while Tim Leahy added one for Carroll. On the season, Carroll scored fourteen goals while allowing only two. Carroll earned the number one seed in the playoffs and will face number eight Grace A on Thursday afternoon.

Grace A 6, Off-Campus 2
Grace A clinched the first playoff spot with a 6-2 win over Off-Campus on two goals by Stephanie Schoffner, two by Joeurdy, and one by Jaime Barr and Greg Butler.

Sunday's games:
Morrissey 1, Sorin 0
Morrissey clinched the sixth playoff position on Sunday with a 1-0 victory over Sorin on a goal by Jeff Hopkins. Morrissey finished the regular season 3-1. Morrissey will face undefeated Alumni today.

"Life is more difficult now in terms of getting a post-season bid," said VanMeter.

"The girls have to work a lot harder this week in preparation for the playoffs. We really worked hard to hit in the game, according to Brown.

"They definitely have been playing very well for us. It's just a matter of trying to find the right combination and the right chemistry.

"The last game was disappointing," Brown explained. "I really believe that the team is trying. Maybe it's the fact that we're not focusing on the fundamentals and just executing."
Inside Sports

Smash-mouth football returns as the Irish regroup

BY MIKE SCRUDATO
Sports Editor

Smash-mouth football is back. Irish coach Lou Holtz said yesterday that the team is “going to go back to the things we really believe in.” That means running the football.

Holtz believes that his team has had to rely too much on big plays throughout the first five games of the season. “We don’t need to make great plays, we just need to play great,” Holtz explained.

“When we weren’t the ball 28 to 30 times a game, that is not us. That is not the way great teams win. Great games are won by defense and controlling the football.”

“You just didn’t control the ball while falling into a rhythm, and it’s easier to get in that rhythm with the running game than the passing game.”

Holtz believes that this big play reliance could be the cause of the Irish’s second-half swoons over the past three seasons.

“We would go into the game wanting to knock a team out in the first half. We played so well in the first half of the four losses (against Stanford in 1990 and this year, Penn State in 1990 and Tennessee in 1991) that when we made a mistake in the second and third quarters in a game, we couldn’t come back,” Holtz said.

“From this point forward, we’re not looking for the knockout. We’re looking to go all 15 rounds.”

Another change in the Irish offense could be the use of the second-team Irish. Holtz plans to use for “a series or two” in the first half for the remainder of the season.

The second unit, though, has to show Holtz that they will not turn the ball over, not miss assignments, not get penalties and play with a lot of emotion and toughness to earn its playing time.

“In the past, at North Carolina State and Arkansas, I played two offensive teams in both halves. It’s something I believe in,” Holtz commented.

Holtz gave two reasons for the move.

“It’s not bad to have your first team on the bench watching other people perform, as long as those people are doing their job. Also, when guys know they’re going to play on Saturday, they have that confidence about their ability.”

Byperspective of the Irish, they have some dangerous players on the team. When opponents walk into a stadium that at home is what causes visiting opponents to pack it up in the fourth quarter and give up. When opponents walk into a stadium full of nearly 60,000 screaming fans, with the knowledge they are about to play in the house that Rockne built, home to 11 national championships, it certainly gives Notre Dame an edge.

Or at least it did until Stanford stunned the Irish at home two years ago. That played a seed in the mind of opposing players. Notre Dame could be beaten at home. So Penn State did it and Tennessee rallied to defeat Notre Dame as well. Teams weren’t packing it in the fourth quarter any more.

In 1989, the Irish were 6-0 and number one, and behind late to the Trojans. Everyone in the Stadium knew the Irish would come from behind, even USC. There was no way Tony Rice wouldn’t drive the Irish to score and win the game. The same thing happened in Rick Mirer’s first game as a starter, versus Michigan in 1990. Teams just didn’t come in and beat Notre Dame at home.

But now with the ploss taken off after a number of home losses visitors have heart instead of fear in the final moments of the game. The home-field edge the Irish has had in years past has disappeared.

If the Irish are to regain their spot at the top of the polls, the place to begin is at home. Until Notre Dame regains that hard-won home-field advantage, a national championship will be a tough goal to reach.

Men’s soccer expecting another physical game against Detroit

BY JASON KELLY
Sports Writer

It will be a typical Midwestern Collegiate Conference men’s soccer game.

When Detroit Mercy visits Alumni Field tonight to face Notre Dame, they will bring the physical style of play that is common in the MCC.

They will be bringing the second-leading scorer in the conference, Stephan Glover.

“Every time we play them it’s very physical and we’re expecting another tough game,” Irish coach Mike Berticelli said. “They also have two or three dangerous players that we will have to keep in check to win the game.”

The Irish have some dangerous players of their own, however.

After his hat trick Sunday against Dayton, freshman Bill Lanza now has four goals this season, which ties him for the team lead with junior Mike Palmer and senior Kevin Pendergast.

With a break or two, all three players could have several more goals this season. Those missed opportunities have been a major problem as the Irish have stumbled to a 5-4-1 start, with a 2-2-1 mark in the MCC.

With the sophomores and three freshmen in the starting lineup, inexperience is a big factor as the younger players try to adjust to the college game.

“You (youth) is definitely a major factor,” Berticelli commented. “Sometimes the younger guys are looking for a perfect opportunity, but they have to learn that it’s okay to make mistakes as long as they’re aggressive.

Young or not, the Irish have still missed scoring opportunities that could have changed the complexion of the season. But with eight games remaining before the NCAA tournament, there is still time to improve.”

“We’ve had a whole bunch of chances, but sometimes that net can seem pretty small,” Berticelli said. “We’ve been hammering away at it.”

“We are confident tonight to finish the way we are capable of finishing.”

Defensively, the Irish have proven that they can handle some of the best players in the country. Olympian Joe-Max Moore of UCLA and the MCC’s leading scorer Doug Tregeg of Xavier were both held scoreless by the Irish defense and sophomore goalkeeper Bert Bader is just one shy of the Irish career record.

But the defense has been steady this year and the offense remains Berticelli’s main concern.

“We can’t go away with being tentative,” he explained. “They (the younger players) have to learn to take risks and convert the tough chances, that’s what wins games.”

Notre Dame owns the series against the Titans, 2-0 at Moose Krause Stadium.

Bill Lanza

Dayton, freshman Bill Lanza now has four goals this season, which ties him for the team lead with junior Mike Palmer and senior Kevin Pendergast.

With a break or two, all three players could have several more goals this season. Those missed opportunities have been a major problem as the Irish have stumbled to a 5-4-1 start, with a 2-2-1 mark in the MCC.

With the sophomores and three freshmen in the starting lineup, inexperience is a big factor as the younger players try to adjust to the college game.

“You (youth) is definitely a major factor,” Berticelli commented. “Sometimes the younger guys are looking for a perfect opportunity, but they have to learn that it’s okay to make mistakes as long as they’re aggressive.

Young or not, the Irish have still missed scoring opportunities that could have changed the complexion of the season. But with eight games remaining before the NCAA tournament, there is still time to improve.”

“We’ve had a whole bunch of chances, but sometimes that net can seem pretty small,” Berticelli said. “We’ve been hammering away at it.”

“We are confident tonight to finish the way we are capable of finishing.”

Defensively, the Irish have proven that they can handle some of the best players in the country. Olympian Joe-Max Moore of UCLA and the MCC’s leading scorer Doug Tregeg of Xavier were both held scoreless by the Irish defense and sophomore goalkeeper Bert Bader is just one shy of the Irish career record.

But the defense has been steady this year and the offense remains Berticelli’s main concern.

“We can’t go away with being tentative,” he explained. “They (the younger players) have to learn to take risks and convert the tough chances, that’s what wins games.”

Notre Dame owns the series against the Titans with a 7-1 record since the series began in 1987. Detroit’s last win in 1990, when they defeated the Irish 2-0 at Moose Krause Stadium.

Atlanta’s gamble pays off in game one victory

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta’s gamble with John Smoltz wasn’t so risky after all.

Smoltz, a right-hander who struggled through September, added to Pittsburgh’s October woes Tuesday night, pitching a 4-1 shutout over the Pirates in the first game of the National League playoffs.

Smoltz held the heavy-batting Pittsburgh lineup scoreless until Joe Ledbetter led off the eighth with a home run to left field. That ended Pittsburgh’s postseason scoreless streak at 29 innings, one shy of the major league record.

Now the Pirates must come from a game down if they are to avoid becoming the first team since the Philadelphia Phillies of the late 1970s to win three consecutive NL East titles without advancing to the World Series.

Braves manager Bobby Cox gambled perhaps the whole series by starting Smoltz against the predominantly left-handed-batting Pirates, and it was rewarded. Smoltz gave up just four hits and struck out eight batters.

“I thought the game plan I had coming in, it ended up working,” Smoltz said. “I kept the guys off base ahead of (Andy) Van Slyke and Bonds, and didn’t allow them to get a big inning going. I got out of the gate good, but I stiffened up a little bit late and was able to get a five-run cushion.”

Smoltz, who shut out the Pirates 4-0 on six hits in Game 7 last fall, didn’t allow a hit until Ledbetter’s two-out infield single in the fifth.

The NL strikeouts leader was even more overpowering than he was in beating Pittsburgh twice last October. He struck out six and allowed only one runner as

see Basics/page 14