Students march to protest crimes against women

By BETH REGAN
News Writer

Women and men from Saint Mary's, Notre Dame and the South Bend community joined together last night to walk down St. Mary's Road in a "Take Back the Night" march. The protesters marched from Le Mans Main Circle to O'Shaugnessy Hall, stopping at the Grotto for a moment of prayer for both the victims of rape and sexual assault and their attackers. Approximately 25 marchers held candles and banners while chanting, "We have the power, we have the right, join together and take back the night."

"Violence against women has become so commonplace that it is being ignored," said Catherine Adams, co-president of the Saint Mary's Center for Women's Alliance. "Although marches can't solve the problem, I hope that by joining together we will begin a crusade and create awareness."

"Although it may seem that Notre Dame is one big family, we have so little in the our dorms. This would have a specific PIN number to get into the dorm."

The card would have several technologies incorporated on it, according to Phil Johnson, director of Notre Dame Security. "There would be two magnetic stripes on it, each students' library bar code and their picture. It would be their identification card, their meal card, their debit card as well as a debit card."

As a debit card, it would allow students to add money to an account from which to deduct expenses on a per item basis.

Students could use the card for services such as laundry, copying and vending machines, as well as for facilities possibly including The Bookstore, The Huddle and The Oak Room.

"Students would no longer have to carry cash around with them," Johnson said.

The card could also be used in place of a detec to enter residence halls, he said. "The card would make the dorms safer because if the card was lost, whoever found it wouldn't know the PIN number to get into the dorm."

The new card system would be more cost effective and less problematic than the current one, Johnson added. "The card system in one computer database, as planned, would be easier and faster to cancel the card if lost," Holland said.

The card could be replaced quickly, as well, Johnson said. "The new card could be instantly produced here at Notre Dame through video imaging or by an instant polaroid," he said.

The current cards are sent off campus and take several weeks to arrive. For The Homeless Week, which began last Saturday and ends this Sunday, to increase awareness on campus about the problem of homelessness, according to Whitey Griffin, who is coordinating the week with Kellie Abbott.

"The main goal is just to get people to talk about homelessness some more to try to make more people aware of this problem," Griffin said.

The idea for having a week-long event came from last year's Homeless Day, which had a favorable turnout, according to Griffin.

The week will include "Fireside Chats," small, personal discussions to be held in various residence halls around campus. Featured at these chats will be actual homeless people, allowing students to talk with them one-on-one, Griffin said.

The coordinators of the chats said they are concerned that students may feel ashamed or guilty about having people who have so little in their dorms where the students have so much.

"This makes it all the more important, because in order for us to understand who they are, we have," Griffin said.

The week also includes a sleep-out Thursday at Stepan Center, directed by Fr. Tom McDermott of Campus Ministry, and Lou Nanni, director of the South Bend Center for the Homeless. The event will include films depicting homeless life, group discussions, guest speakers and mass, followed by a sleep-out, Griffin said.

NEW debit card system said to benefit students

By JULIE BARRETT
Assistant News Editor

Notre Dame Student Government is looking into a debit card system for campus use which would eliminate the need for cash payments to University vendors, serve as identification, provide access to campus facilities and dorms, and as a supplement to the established meal plan.

Student Government has sent out questionnaires to assess students' opinions about implementing the card system and to determine which campus services and facilities should be targeted first.

"Student government is hoping to use the results from the questionnaire to put pressure on the upper administration to accept the new card system," said Associate Provost Andrew Hollander.

"The card would have several technologies incorporated on it, according to Phil Johnson, director of Notre Dame Security. "There would be two magnetic stripes on it, each students' library bar code and their picture. It would be their identification card, their meal card, their debit card as well as a debit card."

As a debit card, it would allow students to add money to an account from which to deduct expenses on a per item basis.

Students could use the card for services such as laundry, copying and vending machines, as well as for facilities possibly including The Bookstore, The Huddle and The Oak Room.

"Students would no longer have to carry cash around with them," Johnson said.

The card could also be used in place of a detec to enter residence halls, he said. "The card would make the dorms safer because if the card was lost, whoever found it wouldn't know the PIN number to get into the dorm."

The new card system would be more cost effective and less problematic than the current one, Johnson added. "The card system in one computer database, as planned, would be easier and faster to cancel the card if lost," Holland said.

The card could be replaced quickly, as well, Johnson said. "The new card could be instantly produced here at Notre Dame through video imaging or by an instant polaroid," he said.

The current cards are sent off campus and take several weeks to arrive. For The Homeless Week, which began last Saturday and ends this Sunday, to increase awareness on campus about the problem of homelessness, according to Whitey Griffin, who is coordinating the week with Kellie Abbott.

"The main goal is just to get people to talk about homelessness some more to try to make more people aware of this problem," Griffin said.

The idea for having a week-long event came from last year's Homeless Day, which had a favorable turnout, according to Griffin.

The week will include "Fireside Chats," small, personal discussions to be held in various residence halls around campus. Featured at these chats will be actual homeless people, allowing students to talk with them one-on-one, Griffin said.

The coordinators of the chats said they are concerned that students may feel ashamed or guilty about having people who have so little in their dorms where the students have so much.

"This makes it all the more important, because in order for us to understand who they are, we have," Griffin said.

The week also includes a sleep-out Thursday at Stepan Center, directed by Fr. Tom McDermott of Campus Ministry, and Lou Nanni, director of the South Bend Center for the Homeless. The event will include films depicting homeless life, group discussions, guest speakers and mass, followed by a sleep-out, Griffin said.
Chalkings key to victory for ND football

Two years ago, Notre Dame Stadium was stripped of its trademarks to flashy tenennial logos. A year later, the Irish were victims of a 21-point comeback against their only viable opponent to play in the Stadium. And in the first three home games this year, the team tied the overrated Michigan Wolverines and allowed Stanford to eclipse a disappointing loss to Penn State in 1990 among the most satisfying in several years, after a hard-hitting defense stopping the run and primitive end zone chalkings. They represent straight.

And in a defensive battle, Notre Dame proved time and again that it was up to the task. And in the end, it was the primitive end zone chalkings that made the difference.

Four impressive was that it was won on guts and spirit. Quarterback Rick Mirer showed the same determination that beat Michigan two years ago, and that they seem to happen here more than anywhere else. But the Irish weren't about to stop coming with the loss of the chalkings.

After hearing Miami in 1990, Notre Dame failed to win a big game against a quality opponent at home this weekend.

Indeed, the victory over Penn State was among the most satisfying in several years, after disappointing losses to Penn State in 1990, Tennessee in 1991 and a tie against Michigan this year.

More impressive was that it was won on guts and spirit. Quarterback Rick Mirer showed the same determination that beat Michigan two years ago, and in a defensive battle, Notre Dame proved time and again that it was up to the task.

And in the end, it was the primitive end zone chalkings that made the difference. Is the football of yesterday back at Notre Dame? Not exactly. But the move back to chalkings could signal a rethink of the team's philosophy. And if Lou Holtz leads, the Fighting Irish will follow.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

Today's Staff: Production: Cynthia Enhardt
Contact: Melissa Cusick
News: Julie Barrett
Sports: Jason Kelley
Lab: Pat McHugh

The Observer (USPS 599 2-400) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction "With permission of The Observer.

---

WEATHER REPORT

Forecast for noon Monday, November 16

LINES SEPARATE HIGH TEMPERATURE ZONES FOR THE DAY.

FRONTS:

© 1992 Accu-Weather, Inc.

MARKET UPDATE

YESTERDAY'S TRADING

November 13

VOLUME IN SHARES

NYSE INDEX

UP 1,171

S&P COMPOSITE

1,524 to 1,222.58

DOW JONES INDUSTRIALS

+1,406 to 1,240.51

GOLD

1,210 to 1,240.51

SILVER

+2.41 to 31.57

---

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

■ In 1864: Union Gen. William Sherman and his troops began their "March to the Sea" during the Civil War.

■ In 1907: Oklahoma became the 46th state of the union.

■ In 1933: The U.S. and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

■ In 1984: The space shuttle Discovery landed at Cape Canaveral, Fla., carrying the first two satellites ever salvaged from space.

■ In 1985: Six Jesuit priests and two other people were slain by uniformed gunmen at the Jose Simeon Canas University in El Salvador in an attack later blamed on army troops.

---

INTERNATIONAL

Princess meeting with McCartney

LILLE, France: The Princess of Wales ended her three-day visit to France on a musical note Sunday with a meeting with countryman Paul McCartney at the French premiere of his classical "Liverpool Oratorio." In Britain, meanwhile, the London Sunday Express reported that Diana's husband, Prince Charles, responded indifferently in her offer to have a third child and save their crumbling marriage, according to the Daily News of New York. When her offer in the summer of 1989 was spurned, Diana reconciled herself to a marriage that would be a charade, the article said. It was written by Andrew Morton, whose earlier biography of the princess portrayed a lonely, suicidal woman who had suffered from bulimia.

New catechism to be unveiled

VATICAN CITY: Pope John Paul II on Sunday promised that the Roman Catholic Church's new catechism will be faithful to the Gospel but updated to meet today's needs. The catechism, to be unveiled Monday, will serve bishops, teachers, pastors and theologians in their teachings. The catechism reinforces church teachings against abortion, divorce and homosexuality.

NATIONAL

Term limits don't guarantee changes

WASHINGTON — Voters appended term limits for members of Congress from California to Florida, but they also re-elected a batch of lawmakers whose terms would exceed those same limits. In the 14 states that approved ceilings on the terms of members of Congress, 197, citizens in the same state went back to Washington 71 members of the House and three senators whose terms already would be up under each state's limits. "What it says is we may dislike the institution as a whole, but we love our individual mem­ber of Congress," said Vic Kamber, a Democratic political consultant who advised term-limit opponents in several states.

Few supermarkets in inner cities

BOSTON — Suburbs and supermarkets have fed off each other for nearly half a century, but Dorothy Mitchell and other inner city residents haven't been able to get good deals on food for years. "We just don't have the stores, and the ones we have are closing," said Mitchell, a 52-year-old widow who lives in Boston's Dorchester community. "I can't get on the bus and go out to the malls. And I can't afford a car." Instead, Mitchell is left the option of shopping at expensive convenience stores. It's a problem in cities around the nation.

OF INTEREST

■ Saint Mary's juniors interested in a career in computer science to meet countryman Paul McCartney at the French premiere of his classical "Liverpool Oratorio." In Britain, meanwhile, the London Sunday Express reported that Diana's husband, Prince Charles, responded indifferently in her offer to have a third child and save their crumbling marriage, according to the Daily News of New York. When her offer in the summer of 1989 was spurned, Diana reconciled herself to a marriage that would be a charade, the article said. It was written by Andrew Morton, whose earlier biography of the princess portrayed a lonely, suicidal woman who had suffered from bulimia.

■ The World Hunger Coalition needs help with shopping for and delivering Thanksgiving baskets to needy South Bend families. There will be a meeting tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns for anyone interested.

■ The Congress Bundestag Youth Exchange Program for Young Professionals is open to American citizens between the ages of 18 and 24. The program is a year-long exchange involving studying and working in Germany and living with a host family. Knowledge of the German language is recommended but not required. Information on the program is available in the Career and Placement offices.

---

TODAY AT A GLANCE

Princess Diana

Princess Diana's wedding to Prince Charles in 1981 was a media sensation that captured the world's attention. The wedding was held in London and was watched by millions of people around the world. The couple chose to have a charade and to be married for the sake of a marriage that would be a charade, the article said. It was written by Andrew Morton, whose earlier biography of the princess portrayed a lonely, suicidal woman who had suffered from bulimia.

New catechism to be unveiled

VATICAN CITY: Pope John Paul II on Sunday promised that the Roman Catholic Church's new catechism will be faithful to the Gospel but updated to meet today's needs. The catechism, to be unveiled Monday, will serve bishops, teachers, pastors and theologians in their teachings. The catechism reinforces church teachings against abortion, divorce and homosexuality.

NATIONAL

Term limits don't guarantee changes

WASHINGTON — Voters appended term limits for members of Congress from California to Florida, but they also re-elected a batch of lawmakers whose terms would exceed those same limits. In the 14 states that approved ceilings on the terms of members of Congress, 197, citizens in the same state went back to Washington 71 members of the House and three senators whose terms already would be up under each state's limits. "What it says is we may dislike the institution as a whole, but we love our individual mem­ber of Congress," said Vic Kamber, a Democratic political consultant who advised term-limit opponents in several states.

Few supermarkets in inner cities

BOSTON — Suburbs and supermarkets have fed off each other for nearly half a century, but Dorothy Mitchell and other inner city residents haven't been able to get good deals on food for years. "We just don't have the stores, and the ones we have are closing," said Mitchell, a 52-year-old widow who lives in Boston's Dorchester community. "I can't get on the bus and go out to the malls. And I can't afford a car." Instead, Mitchell is left the option of shopping at expensive convenience stores. It's a problem in cities around the nation.

OF INTEREST

■ Saint Mary's juniors interested in a career in computer science to meet countryman Paul McCartney at the French premiere of his classical "Liverpool Oratorio." In Britain, meanwhile, the London Sunday Express reported that Diana's husband, Prince Charles, responded indifferently in her offer to have a third child and save their crumbling marriage, according to the Daily News of New York. When her offer in the summer of 1989 was spurned, Diana reconciled herself to a marriage that would be a charade, the article said. It was written by Andrew Morton, whose earlier biography of the princess portrayed a lonely, suicidal woman who had suffered from bulimia.

■ The World Hunger Coalition needs help with shopping for and delivering Thanksgiving baskets to needy South Bend families. There will be a meeting tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns for anyone interested.

■ The Congress Bundestag Youth Exchange Program for Young Professionals is open to American citizens between the ages of 18 and 24. The program is a year-long exchange involving studying and working in Germany and living with a host family. Knowledge of the German language is recommended but not required. Information on the program is available in the Career and Placement offices.

---

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

■ In 1864: Union Gen. William Sherman and his troops began their "March to the Sea" during the Civil War.

■ In 1907: Oklahoma became the 46th state of the union.

■ In 1933: The U.S. and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations.

■ In 1984: The space shuttle Discovery landed at Cape Canaveral, Fla., carrying the first two satellites ever salvaged from space.

■ In 1985: Six Jesuit priests and two other people were slain by uniformed gunmen at the Jose Simeon Canas University in El Salvador in an attack later blamed on army troops.
Grant given to renovate chemistry teaching labs

By JOHN LUCAS

The University of Notre Dame has received a grant of $100,000 from the Ralph M. Parsons Foundation, to be used to renovate the chemistry department's undergraduate teaching labs. The award, along with contributions and other grants similar to the one recently received from the Kresge Foundation, will make up part of the estimated $8,000,000 needed to modernize and expand Niuewland Science Hall, according to Paul Helquist, department chair of chemistry and biochemistry.

Stated to begin in the spring of next year, the project should be completed by the end of 1993.

According to Helquist, the facilities are in need of modernization. "The labs we have now are 40 years old," he said. "This project will bring the labs up to modern day standards."

Founded in 1961, the Los Angeles based Parsons Foundation, to be used for chemistry teaching labs up to modern day standards." he said.

"Our Dame was picked because of the worthiness of our stated goal: to improve our science curricula," Helquist said.

According to Helquist, the University has looked to 20 different sources to raise the money needed to begin the Niuewland Project, including corporations, private individuals, alumni and other grants. Efforts in organizing funding have included correspondence through both the administration and the University Development Office.

Parsons Foundation, to be used has received a grant of $100,000 from the Ralph M. Parsons Foundation, to be used to renovate the chemistry department's undergraduate teaching labs. The award, along with contributions and other grants similar to the one recently received from the Kresge Foundation, will make up part of the estimated $8,000,000 needed to modernize and expand Niuewland Science Hall, according to Paul Helquist, department chair of chemistry and biochemistry.

Stated to begin in the spring of next year, the project should be completed by the end of 1993.

According to Helquist, the facilities are in need of modernization. "The labs we have now are 40 years old," he said. "This project will bring the labs up to modern day standards."

Founded in 1961, the Los Angeles based Parsons Foundation, to be used for chemistry teaching labs up to modern day standards." he said.

"Our Dame was picked because of the worthiness of our stated goal: to improve our science curricula," Helquist said.

According to Helquist, the University has looked to 20 different sources to raise the money needed to begin the Niuewland Project, including corporations, private individuals, alumni and other grants. Efforts in organizing funding have included correspondence through both the administration and the University Development Office.

Column Club

NOVEMBER 16, 1992

1) Student Alumni Relations Group (SARG) will hold a general meet­ ing on Tuesday, November 17, in the Lafortune Notre Dame Room at 7 p.m.

2) INTERNSHIPS: Student Alumni Relations Group Estern Program will host an informational meeting on Thursday, November 19, in the Lafortune Notre Dame Room at 7 p.m.

3) Anyone interested in joining the Notre Dame Snow Boarding Club, please call Scott at 281-1157.

4) Amnesty International WRIT-A-THON Sunday, November 22, at 7 p.m. in room 184 Nieuwland Hall. All are wel­ come.

5) "The Woman in Black," the annual fall production of the theater department, will be held in the Lafortune Notre Dame Room Wednesday, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. in room 184 Nieuwland Hall. All are wel­ come.

6) "Applying to Physical Therapy School" with speaker Dr. Jane Toth, Ph.D., P.T. of Grand Valley State University. Luncheon will be held at noon, November 19.

7) Campus Bible Fellowship meets Tuesday at the Campus House, 19525 Pendle Road at 7 p.m. For rides or directions call Steve or Charlene at 277-6990.

All registered clubs may place short announcements of meetings and activities in the CLUB COLUMN. Please call the Club Coordination Council Office by 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

Summer Help Needed in Latin America

Mexico, Ecuador, Paraguay, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Brazil

Work • Share • Live • Learn

You can have a summer full of adventure and personal growth while improving health for people of Latin America...

Volunteer!

Write or call: Amigos de las Americas
5618 Star Lane
Houston, Texas 77057
800/231-7796
713/822-5200

Application deadline: March 1, 1993. Incentives available for early commitment.

Senators seek more answers about MIAs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. senators investigating the fate of missing American ser­ vicemen in Vietnam said Sunday they will ask Vietnamese authorities for answers on spec­ ific cases and for more docu­ mentation.

Three members of the Senate Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs will begin a five­day visit to Vietnam and Laos on Monday. It will be the committee's last major trip be­ fore its final hearings and re­ port at the end of the year.

The report could significantly affect the pace of normalizing relations with Vietnam. Presi­ dent Bush has linked that pro­ cess to Hanoi's cooperation in accounting for the MIAs.

However, Bush has said no decision would be made before his term ends in January, so the issue will likely face President­ elect Clinton.

Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., the committee chairman, said he and Sens. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., and Hank Brown, R-Colo., will discuss specific MIA cases with the Vietnamese.

"We're going to be looking very hard at the 135 or so cases where there is the greatest likelihood that something ought to be able to be known about them, where they were either last known to be alive in captivity or where circumstances strongly indicate they should have been taken in prisoner of war status," Kerry said.

He said he would also deliver to President Le Duc Anh a letter from President Bush on the MIA issue that is meant "to encourage cooperation and to suggest good reasons for that."

He would not elaborate.

He said he believed it was the first time a U.S. president has written to his Vietnamese coun­ terpart since Richard Nixon, who left office in 1974.

The Communists defeated the U.S.-backed South Vietnam government in 1975. Since then, Washington has isolated Vietnam and imposed an aid and trade embargo.

The Bush administration has been lifting some restrictions — such as allowing telecommuni­ cations links — in return for Vietnam's cooperation in end­ ing the Cambodian war and in accounting for the 2,266 Amer­ ican MIAs.

Happy 20th Birthday Cindy McGunnigle

Love,
Mom, Dad, Brian, Dennis, Frosty, Spiky, & Tasha
Clinton supports tighter German asylum law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House on Sunday after a five-day Florida vacation that had lifted the president's spirits and readied him for a "dignified and cooperative" final two months in power.

"The president's in good spirits," Martin Fitzwater, the presidential press secretary, told reporters just before Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Boca Grande, a quaint village on tiny Gasparilla Island off Florida's Gulf Coast.

The president and Mrs. Bush flew by helicopter to nearby Fort Myers airport, where they parted company. Bush took Air Force One, a Boeing 747, back to Washington, and Mrs. Bush flew a backup jet to Houston to go house hunting.

Fitzwater said the Bushes had been deeply disappointed by the Nov. 3 election defeat but had used their time in Boca Grande to "reconsider themselves and their goals.

"You know, when you fight hard it's like a football game, really," Fitzwater said. "You put everything into it, you fought hard for six, eight months, you think you're gonna win. It's your whole life, and it takes a day or two to turn around your thinking. But by this time everybody is in good shape.

Fitzwater said Bush was committed to a graceful handing off of power to Bill Clinton.

"He wants a smooth transition. He wants it to be dignified and cooperative," the

Spokesman says Bush recovering from election

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House on Sunday after a five-day Florida vacation that had lifted the president's spirits and readied him for a "dignified and cooperative" final two months in power.

"The president's in good spirits," Martin Fitzwater, the presidential press secretary, told reporters just before Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Boca Grande, a quaint village on tiny Gasparilla Island off Florida's Gulf Coast.

The president and Mrs. Bush flew by helicopter to nearby Fort Myers airport, where they parted company. Bush took Air Force One, a Boeing 747, back to Washington, and Mrs. Bush flew a backup jet to Houston to go house hunting.

Fitzwater said the Bushes had been deeply disappointed by the Nov. 3 election defeat but had used their time in Boca Grande to "reconsider themselves and their goals.

"You know, when you fight hard it's like a football game, really," Fitzwater said. "You put everything into it, you fought hard for six, eight months, you think you're gonna win. It's your whole life, and it takes a day or two to turn around your thinking. But by this time everybody is in good shape.

Fitzwater said Bush was committed to a graceful handing off of power to Bill Clinton.

"He wants a smooth transition. He wants it to be dignified and cooperative," the

Spokesman says Bush recovering from election

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House on Sunday after a five-day Florida vacation that had lifted the president's spirits and readied him for a "dignified and cooperative" final two months in power.

"The president's in good spirits," Martin Fitzwater, the presidential press secretary, told reporters just before Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Boca Grande, a quaint village on tiny Gasparilla Island off Florida's Gulf Coast.

The president and Mrs. Bush flew by helicopter to nearby Fort Myers airport, where they parted company. Bush took Air Force One, a Boeing 747, back to Washington, and Mrs. Bush flew a backup jet to Houston to go house hunting.

Fitzwater said the Bushes had been deeply disappointed by the Nov. 3 election defeat but had used their time in Boca Grande to "reconsider themselves and their goals.

"You know, when you fight hard it's like a football game, really," Fitzwater said. "You put everything into it, you fought hard for six, eight months, you think you're gonna win. It's your whole life, and it takes a day or two to turn around your thinking. But by this time everybody is in good shape.

Fitzwater said Bush was committed to a graceful handing off of power to Bill Clinton.

"He wants a smooth transition. He wants it to be dignified and cooperative," the

Spokesman says Bush recovering from election

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House on Sunday after a five-day Florida vacation that had lifted the president's spirits and readied him for a "dignified and cooperative" final two months in power.

"The president's in good spirits," Martin Fitzwater, the presidential press secretary, told reporters just before Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Boca Grande, a quaint village on tiny Gasparilla Island off Florida's Gulf Coast.

The president and Mrs. Bush flew by helicopter to nearby Fort Myers airport, where they parted company. Bush took Air Force One, a Boeing 747, back to Washington, and Mrs. Bush flew a backup jet to Houston to go house hunting.

Fitzwater said the Bushes had been deeply disappointed by the Nov. 3 election defeat but had used their time in Boca Grande to "reconsider themselves and their goals.

"You know, when you fight hard it's like a football game, really," Fitzwater said. "You put everything into it, you fought hard for six, eight months, you think you're gonna win. It's your whole life, and it takes a day or two to turn around your thinking. But by this time everybody is in good shape.

Fitzwater said Bush was committed to a graceful handing off of power to Bill Clinton.

"He wants a smooth transition. He wants it to be dignified and cooperative," the

Spokesman says Bush recovering from election

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House on Sunday after a five-day Florida vacation that had lifted the president's spirits and readied him for a "dignified and cooperative" final two months in power.

"The president's in good spirits," Martin Fitzwater, the presidential press secretary, told reporters just before Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Boca Grande, a quaint village on tiny Gasparilla Island off Florida's Gulf Coast.

The president and Mrs. Bush flew by helicopter to nearby Fort Myers airport, where they parted company. Bush took Air Force One, a Boeing 747, back to Washington, and Mrs. Bush flew a backup jet to Houston to go house hunting.

Fitzwater said the Bushes had been deeply disappointed by the Nov. 3 election defeat but had used their time in Boca Grande to "reconsider themselves and their goals.

"You know, when you fight hard it's like a football game, really," Fitzwater said. "You put everything into it, you fought hard for six, eight months, you think you're gonna win. It's your whole life, and it takes a day or two to turn around your thinking. But by this time everybody is in good shape.

Fitzwater said Bush was committed to a graceful handing off of power to Bill Clinton.

"He wants a smooth transition. He wants it to be dignified and cooperative," the
Professors help cover staff pay cuts

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — It wasn't often that Santa Claus' name was heard in the solemn halls of the Louisiana State University economics department — until some professors covered their secretaries' pay cuts out of their own pockets.

In the music department, too, the faculty is pitching in to reimburse its staff for the week's pay the university took away to offset a midyear cut in faculty support and custodial staff.

"Some of these are single people, and some are single mothers. And we didn't feel like this is a very good plan," said Loren Scott, who chairs the economics department.

Secretary Donna Burton, who is divorced and raising an 8-year-old son while taking night courses, said a $400 salary cut would have hit her hard.

"I was starting to panic about Christmas even. You know, like telling my son about there's no Santa Claus," she said. "It turns out, there is a Santa Claus."

Louisiana state government is cutting $93 million this year, $45 million of it to come from higher education. That includes $9.3 million from LSU's Baton Rouge campus, which is raising their secretaries' pay cuts.

"The staff people don't have a choice, they make significantly lower salaries than we do and they're even less able to afford it than we can," she said.

"The writer and humorist lived in Hartford from 1874 until 1891. His former residence houses the Mark Twain Memorial, a privately run museum.

"About 50 students at Greater Hartford Community College who protested Friday said they felt uncomfortable about Twain's treatment of blacks in novels such as "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.""

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Student protesters at a junior college said they oppose plans to rename their school after Mark Twain because they question his treatment of blacks in novels such as "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn."

The writer and humorist lived in Hartford from 1874 until 1891. His former residence houses the Mark Twain Memorial, a privately run museum.

"About 50 students at Greater Hartford Community College who protested Friday said they felt uncomfortable about Twain's treatment of blacks in novels such as "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.""

The writer and humorist lived in Hartford from 1874 until 1891. His former residence houses the Mark Twain Memorial, a privately run museum.

"The students have too many questions about him," said Ania Noel, a student at the technical college. "Was he or wasn't he a racist?"

Investigation of murder broadened

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Prosecutors plan to broaden an investigation into the death of a millionaire rancher who was shot by deputies during a drug raid in which no drugs were found.

Ventura County District Attorney Michael Bradbury said preliminary findings indicate that the Oct. 2 shooting was justifiable because 61-year-old Donald Scott, partially blinded by recent cataract surgery, threatened deputies with a loaded handgun.

But Bradbury said those findings will not be released until he has more thoroughly investigated the scope and purpose of the raid on Scott's ranch home in the Malibu area.

"I have concerns about the entire operation," Bradbury said. "I have asked for an additional investigation. I will be personally reviewing all of this material."

The shooting led to allegations that the raid by about two dozen officers was motivated by a desire to seize Scott's property, rather than illegal drugs. He had refused to sell his ranch to the federal government.

W O U L D  $ 4 0 , 0 0 0 H E L P  W I T H C O L L E G E ?

You can earn more than $15,000 during a standard Army Reserve enlistment...

And another $5,040 if you qualify for the Montgomery GI Bill...

Plus if you have or obtain a delayed student loan, you could get help paying it off—up to $20,000 if you train in certain specialties.

And that's for part-time service—usually one weekend a month plus two weeks' Annual Training.

Think about it.

Then think about us.

And call today:

B E A L L  Y O U  C A N  B E  A R M Y  R E S E R V E
Thousands of Somalis reported starving at sea

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — A French vessel loaded with emergency supplies of food and water raced Sunday to aid about 3,000 starving Somalis aboard a ship in the Arabian Sea.

The rescue ship was not expected to link up with the refugee-laden cargo vessel, headed to Yemen, until daylight Monday, a duty officer at French military headquarters in Paris said on condition of anonymity.

As many as 100 children may already have died of starvation or thirst, according to sources in Yemen, who also spoke on condition of anonymity.

Meanwhile, in the Somali capital, Mogadishu, a clan leader continued to demand that U.N. troops withdraw from the international airport, which they began guarding on Tuesday to protect planes carrying relief food and medicine.

About 1,000 supporters of Gen. Mohammed Farah Aidid, the clan warlord who controls much of southern Mogadishu, marched through the city shouting slogans such as “We don’t want foreign troops.”

Unidentified gunmen from another clan opened fire on the demonstration near the airport but no injuries were reported.

Thousands of Somalis have fled clan fighting and a famine in their country that has killed at least 300,000 people since January. Two million more are said to be on the verge of starvation.

Russia launches rocket carrying gifts, peace prayers

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian rocket carrying a payload of religious icons, appeals for world peace and a stuffed toy dog took dreams of better business relations with the U.S. into orbit early Monday.

The three-stage Soyuz rocket blasted off from the once-secret Plesetsk space center near the northern Russian port of Archangel.

Mounted on the rocket is the Resurs 500 satellite and descent module, which will orbit Earth for about five days before splashing down in international waters about 200 miles off the coast of Washington state.

The Russian navy’s Marshal Krylov, an oceanographic research vessel, plans to fish the module out of the Pacific and take it to Seattle on Nov. 24, two days before Thanksgiving.

In Seattle, officials are planning receptions, art shows, folk song and dance performances, and a tour of the Krylov. Hundreds of Russian sables, dignitaries and others are expected to be on hand.

Come, Let Us Gather In Thanksgiving

Annual Thanksgiving Interfaith Prayer Service

“We Gather In Thanksgiving”

Thursday, November 19, 1992
7:30 P.M., the Basilica of the Sacred Heart

on the campus of the University of Notre Dame.
Lithuania sees verve of having former Communists back in power

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari has embarked on a new era of economic reforms, rekindling Mexicans clamping for changes, facing faster pace

Middle East peace talks expected to go forward

President Peres flew home later in the day after announcing that he expected the Middle East peace talks in Washington to move forward despite disagreements over Palestinian demands. Peres flew home later in the day. Mubarak and Egyptian officials had agreed during the one-day visit to try to break the impasse in the Middle peace talks.

But neither he nor his Egyptian counterpart, Amr Moussa, would disclose details of the plan to get the talks moving.

As they try to reinvigorate a peace agreement with Israel, Egypt is not participating in the Middle East peace negotiations but is helping mediate.

But they also said they would return. Former Communists back in power. From the Soviet Union appeared

Leaders of the former Lithuanian Communist Party now called the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy. Whenever a group of voters turned out for the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy.

But they also said they would return. Former Communists back in power. From the Soviet Union appeared

VILNIUS, Lithuania (AP) — Riots and protests over unemployment and social services are bringing the violence in Mexico's image. It's a question ofurrencies can be bridged, but did

But change may not be fast enough for many of the governing Institutional Revolutionary Party — the PRI, which has held power in Mexico since 1929 — is dominated by party dinosaurs who keep stealing elections.

In the northern state of Tamaulipas, on Wednesday

The government wages and hold down energy supplies. "What are we going to do, freeze all winter?"

"Actually, they've done a lot — to make our life impossible," said his wife, Valentina, an unemployed waitress. "Everything is bad now. We live in a house with two kids. I have no job, no welfare payments."

But they also said they would return. Former Communists back in power. From the Soviet Union appeared

Leaders of the former Lithuanian Communist Party now called the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy. Whenever a group of voters turned out for the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy.

But they also said they would return. Former Communists back in power. From the Soviet Union appeared

VILNIUS, Lithuania (AP) — Riots and protests over unemployment and social services are bringing the violence in Mexico's image. It's a question of currencies can be bridged, but did

But change may not be fast enough for many of the governing Institutional Revolutionary Party — the PRI, which has held power in Mexico since 1929 — is dominated by party dinosaurs who keep stealing elections.

In the northern state of Tamaulipas, on Wednesday

The government wages and hold down energy supplies. "What are we going to do, freeze all winter?"

"Actually, they've done a lot — to make our life impossible," said his wife, Valentina, an unemployed waitress. "Everything is bad now. We live in a house with two kids. I have no job, no welfare payments."

But they also said they would return. Former Communists back in power. From the Soviet Union appeared

Leaders of the former Lithuanian Communist Party now called the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy. Whenever a group of voters turned out for the Democratic Labor Party, promised that if they won, they would safeguard Lithuania's independence and continue to build a Western-style market economy.
Agents of death: what goes around comes around

The voters of California rejected Initiative 161, which would have allowed physician-assisted suicide by active measures, including lethal injection, on request of a terminally ill patient who has executed a written declaration to that effect. The voters of Washington State narrowly rejected a similar measure in 1990.

Despite the rejection of the California initiative, active and effectively involuntary euthanasia will soon be legalized in Oregon. The state'scourts, including the Supreme Court, have already ruled in favor of the Oregonians who have chosen to refuse all forms of artificial nutrition and hydration. The voters of Washington State allowed withdrawal of life-sustaining treatment from incompetent patients. The next line of cases will authorize passive euthanasia on the basis that withdrawal of food and water is a particularly difficult and distressing situation.

The law recognizes the legal right of a competent adult to refuse any and all forms of medical treatment, including food and water, at least where they are provided by "artificial" means.

With respect to incompetent patients, the courts generally allow withdrawal of artificially provided food and water based on the patient's previously expressed intent (whether by living will or otherwise) or based on the decision of the family or other health care agent that the patient would have wanted such withdrawal or that the withdrawal would be in his best interest.

In the leading case of Matter of Conroy, in 1985, the Supreme Court of New Jersey allowed withdrawal of a feeding tube from an incompetent but "awake and conscious" patient even in the absence of "any evidence at all, that the patient would have declined the treatment," if "the net burdens of the patient's life with the treatment...clearly and markedly outweigh the benefits that the patient derives from life."

In Cruzan v. Director, Missouri Dept. of Health, in 1990, the Supreme Court held that Missouri could require, if it chose, "that evidence of the incompetent's wishes as to the withdrawal of treatment be proved by clear and convincing evidence."

But Cruzan does not forbid the states to allow withdrawal of food and water on a lesser showing of the patient's intent or on the basis that withdrawal is in the patient's best interest in the absence of a showing of intent.

In these "right to die" cases, first, the patients are not dying. Nancy Cruzan would have lived for 30 more years. Second, the courts allow withholding, not of therapeutic medical treatment but of food and water that is neither burdensome nor useless in keeping the patient alive; and third, the withholding of food and water is intended to cause death.

Once euthanasia is authorized by withholding food and water, the allowance of active killing by injection or other means is inevitable. In Broudy v. New England Sinai Hospital, (Mass., 1986) Justice Neil L. Lynch remarked in dissent: "The withdrawal of the provision of food and water is a particularly difficult, painful and gruesome death...[The natural question is: Why not use more humane methods of euthanasia if that is what we endorse?]"

It is likely that the courts will agree with the Conroy court that the line between active and passive conduct in the context of medical decisions is far too nebulous to constitute a principled basis for decision making.

The next line of cases will authorize painless, lethal injections for incompetent as well as competent patients. We do as much for convicted murderers.

Eventually, if a terminal patient facing a lingering, painful death were to decline a lethal injection, that decision could be a factor in determining that he is incompetent and that the decision should be made for him by others. The quick, painless injection is easier on the "care givers." And it is cost effective.

Through legalized abortion, our law allows the intentional, direct killing of the innocent, contrary to the law of God including the natural law. Once absolute protection is re nounced, the life-or-death decision becomes a matter of utilitarian calculation.

In that climate, the defective, the vegetative, AIDS patients and other vulnerable classes are guaranteed losers. If the unborn child can be treated as a nonperson subject to execution at the discretion of others, so can an octogenarian on a feeding tube.

On June 28, 1992, the New York Times front-page the story that "several million Americans who retired with the promise of comprehensive medical coverage are now having those benefits terminated or sharply reduced by their former employers.

According to David M. Walker, a former assistant secretary of labor in the Bush Administration, "as many as 95 percent of employers either are cutting back on retirees' health benefits or will do so eventually."

As John Cardinal O'Connor said in 1989, "I predict that the right to die—which really means that hospitals and doctors and other health care providers will be required to kill—will dwarf the abortion phenomenon in magnitude, in numbers, in horror.

As mothers have become legalized agents of the deaths of their children, so children will become legalized agents of the deaths of their mothers—and fathers.

Charles E. Rice is a professor in the Notre Dame Law School. His column appears every other Monday.

DOONESBURY

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Blessed are those who can give without remembering, and take without forgetting."

Elizabeth Bibesco

Submit till it hurts.

QUOTES, P.O. Box 20, ND, 58401

Monday, November 16, 1992
ND For The Homeless

Homelessness touches our lives

Editor's note: One page in Viewpoint will be dedicated to "ND For The Homeless Week 1992" each day this week.

Dear Editor:

As the semester moves quickly toward a close, we would like to invite the student body to join us for a brief week of reflection on a subject which in some ways touches all of our lives—homelessness.

As the minute fraction of young persons in the world who are fortunate enough to receive a college education, we students may not immediately see the connection between ourselves and the homeless. Yet we hope that through a week of reflection, each one of us can come to a deeper understanding of homelessness and, more importantly, our relationship to this devastating problem.

Many people have asked us what our goals for this week are, why Student Government is sponsoring this week? Put simply, the answer is that we want to provoke thought and conversation around campus. To this end, we have planned a number of events for the week.

When this week is over, we hope to have provided a context which will give their times. In addition, we will explain these events and the posters in your dorms and Class Council representatives.

When this week is over, we hope to have provided a context which will give our fellow humans live. We must finally come not to be discouraged by the enormity of the problem at hand, but rather to recognize the challenge which the solution begins in our hearts, in our decision to be persons who care about each other, especially those in most urgent need.

Michael Griffin
Kellie Abbott
Co-Chairs, ND For The Homeless Week 1992

Who are the Homeless?

The following statistics and reflections are by no means hard data, but they do emphasize what the homeless are facing: In fact, most would argue that hard data does not exist. These statistics and guidelines rather serve as reference points for understanding better this problem which so plagues our society.

- Estimates of the number of homeless persons in the United States range from 600,000 to 3 million. It is understandably difficult to assess the number of such a transient and rapidly growing population. Surveys typically reflect the bias of the sponsoring group. Government officials have frequently underestimated the homeless population to further their own political ends. Homeless coalition forces, on the other hand, exaggerate numbers at times in order to call attention to the problem and to increase funding possibilities.

- The national homeless population is typically broken down into three groups: the mentally ill, substance abusers, and the working poor. Each of these groups represents roughly one-third of the homeless population. In reality, homeless persons fall into two or three groups at the same time.

- According to a 1990 Children's Defense Fund study, families with children represent more than one-third of the homeless, while one out of every four homeless persons in urban areas is a child.

- The average age for homeless persons in the United States is thirty-four.

- It is estimated that 23 percent of the homeless population nationally is made up of U.S. Veterans.

- Homelessness does not know age, sex, race, level of education, etc. Homelessness is indiscriminate and persons from all different backgrounds are represented in this population.

- It is commonly said that 40 percent of homeless persons are employable when they enter a homeless center. The over 60 percent often have acute problems, such as mental illnesses or chemical dependencies, which need attention before they are prepared for employment.

- Mother Theresa of Calcutta claims that poverty in the United States is worse than poverty in India. Even though poverty is more acute in such countries as India, the masses are able to share a commonality in their poverty. In the United States the poor are forced to live in the midst of one of the wealthiest nations in the history of civilization, and are viewed by many as failures,bums, drug addicts, alcoholics and rejects of society. It is this mentality which the homeless person must confront on an every day basis.

Several men shared this bed near the Watergate Hotel.

Editor's Note: The following was written by a resident of the South Bend Homeless Shelter:

Where are my babies today? I must find a way to live thru this day...to love from afar...having faith they are safe
I'd end this farce if I could, but today I must play this twist of twisted fate and kiss them with my spirit while wiping the tears away
Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to Mr. Mark Behr’s column “Nurture God’s children on love, not blind hatred” and Mr. Roberto Guerra’s letter—both of which appeared in the Nov.10 Observer. While both of these individuals correctly point out reasons against the oppression of homosexuals, I believe that the arguments presented by Mr. Guerra and Mr. Behr demonstrate a lack of tolerance equivalent to the “homophobes” that they claim to abhor.

First of all, Mr. Behr, you rightly note that “any form of willful oppression of human beings...is morally indefensible.” However, rather than respond to Mr. Fisher’s arguments with the respect he deserves as a fellow human being, you refer to his presentation as “hate.” Mr. Guerra’s letter also correctly mentions Jesus’ message of love while at the same time referring to “the hate that individuals like Mr. Fisher spew out of their ignorant mouths.” While each of you are correct in attacking unjust discrimination, your attacks demonstrate the same types of hatred.

Secondly, you each rely on an illogical argument against Mr. Fisher’s sexuality that further demonstrates intolerance. Mr. Guerra writes, “Maybe this man (Mr. Fisher) has in fact doubted his own sexuality...so he has turned to hatred in an attempt to deny his own feelings.” Mr. Behr asks Mr. Fisher, “Why do you hate that which you do not know? If you are not homosexual, what are you afraid of?” Obviously, neither of you are in a position to judge Mr. Fisher’s motivations, so why use this baseless form of argumentation? Both of you hate homosexuality, but does that mean that you are, in fact, heterosexual?

Thirdly, Mr. Guerra refers to contractions in the Bible that are “too many to note,” perhaps he could have referred to at least one. His attacks on those who believe that “All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and for prophecy, for correction, for instruction in righteousness” (2 Tim. 3:16) and interpret the Bible as such— as lacking -the intelligence to do so. I believe he should consider the possible interpretations for the rules or for the tools as people demonstrate further intolerance. This is not merely a semantic issue of language, however I will always believe that a God who speaks is much better than any form of moral intolerance I could somehow formulate on my own. I respect Mr. Guerra’s ability to formulate his own opinions. I only ask that he respect Mr. Fisher’s as well.

Disagreement between individuals is never a reason for personal attacks. While I have spent most of this letter discussing why the letters of Mr. Guerra and Mr. Fisher are not the same, I must also point out to Mr. Guerra that rather than go after Mr. Fisher, that a true biblical view on the problem of homosexuality requires tolerance and love. I Corinthians 6:9-10 states, “Do you now realize that the immoral­ious will not inherit the king­dom of God? Do not be deceived; neither the immoral, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor homosexuals, nor sodomites, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners will inherit the kingdom of God.” Thus, for individuals like Mr. Fisher who use the Bible for justification of their attacks on homosexuals, should be corrected. I believe the same treatment to those who have had more than one sexual intercourse outside of marriage, who have drunk on the weekends (that would never happen at ND).

I don’t advocate against discrimination against any of the above individuals. All that I do is question the Bible (Ju. 8:1-11). A truly Christian and Biblical response is to love the sinner and to remember that all have sinned.

I, too, have acted unrighteously more than once. At the same time, we must hate sin.

Perhaps, a better attitude for society would be to cease classifying individuals according to their sexual preference and let us relate as human beings. Perhaps, the lack of tolerance is a form of insinuation.

Sincerely,
Jeff Beshoner Graduate Student
Nov. 11, 1992

---

Dear Editor:

It’s that darning time of year again, and many of you non—Theology majors might be fretting over which theology class to take for your second University requirement.

Never fear—there is one course that fulfills the second theology credit and more importantly, allows you to reflect on your second University requirement.

The format of this class is simple and informal. Once a week for 2- hours, the class meets in a different locale each time. This time is used to discuss issues and themes that prove helpful to all of the class participants to share their individual experiences and feelings with one another. One might be asking what theological experience? This is exactly what Mr. Mark Behr’s column has brought to our attention. He has isolated his view of the class fits into the picture. On another day of the week, each participant in the class visits two elderly persons at a nursing home in South Bend. This, for me, was the most rewarding experience of the entire course.

Last year when I took this course, I visited two elderly ladies. During my visits, our conversations ran the gamut from light-hearted to more serious discussions.

One of the most positive aspects of this class for me was the fact that everything I learned throughout my nursing home visits and classmate was not forgotten or thrown away after the taking of a final exam. Rather I came away from this class having learned so many things that I now apply to my everyday life. I have gained two very beautiful friendships that I will always treasure and never forget.

If anybody is interested in taking Theology and Community Service, stop by the Center for Social Concerns and pick up an application today. Upon completion of this class, you too will know the answer to DART.

Aimee Nocero Off Campus
Nov. 12, 1992

---

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to Roberto Guerra’s letter (The Observer, Nov. 10) to Mr. Fisher’s (Oct. 23) argument against the act of homosexual­fulness.

Guerra seemed to think that Mr. Fisher wanted to condemn the people who are homosex­uals, but if he had read the first line of the article, he would have seen that it said, “Recent Observer reports and commentaries appear to be sending confusing signals rela­tive to the evil inherent in homose­xual activity.”

Please note, editor and readers, that Mr. Fisher did not say “...the evil inherent in homosexual people.”

Mr. Fisher is obviously an educated man. He did graduate from Notre Dame. He also put many hours of work into his article, a fact that demonstrates his concern about the topic of homosexuality in the Bible.

Mr. Guerra does make a good point in that the mission of the church is love and not hate, but he misinterpreted the article. Mr. Fisher didn’t condemn homosexuals, he condemned their acts.

If he had read, he would have seen that Mr. Fisher “shares Fr. Guerra’s view that homosexual way of life...is irreconcilable with the Christian way of life.” Please note that Fr. Malloy did not say homosexuals are irreconcilable with Christians.

I would also like to talk about the reliability of the Bible as God’s word and as a historical document. People today are confused due to the fact that the Bible is a collection of stories which are filled with contradictions on the time in which they lived?

Two semester of theology doesn’t cut it. Furthermore, where are these contradictions in the Bible? I would like to know why people today are never come across in my reading of the Bible. I think that people who hold the same view of the Bible as Mr. Guerra should do their own research. At least maybe even God forbid read it.

David Green Cavanagh Village
Nov. 10, 1992

---

Dear Editor:

Do not preach a ‘false love’

Mark Behr warns (The Ob­s­erver, Nov. 10) that if we do not take a vocal stand on the issues raised by Fr. Paul Fisher in his two page ad from last Friday, then “history will have no choice but to expose your sil­ence as support: as secret com­plicity.”

I certainly do not want to be condemned for my “complicity of silence.” But if I am accused of anything, it is the issue of homosexuality will my silence be construed as supporting Fr. Fisher or Mark­ Behr?

Certainly it will make things easier on the historians, who are always looking for evidence to condemn others.

But what if I do support Fr. Fisher’s position? What if I think that the hom­osexual activity is intrinsically disorder? Do I dare proclaim this?

If I do, I am guaranteed of one thing. I will subsequently be labelled a purveyor of hatred. Perhaps The Observer will even run my letter with a three-inch by eight-inch picture of the word HATE to forward readers.

What if I painstakingly de­clare...I am condemning a particular kind of activity without condemning anyone? Is it possible to judge an action as sinful without thereby hating those who perform this action?

I hope this is possible since I am a Christian and I am incapable of loving a sinner, I am incapable of loving a sinner as a fellow human being. I am encouraged to reject the sin but not the sinner.

Would it be going too far to say that it is appropriate to love a sinner if you do not hate their sin? If my friend is a drunkard

I do him no favor by winking at his vice as he blindly destroys his life. You preach a false love if you cannot distinguish the sinner from his sin.

It seems that for the most vocal readers of The Observer there is no such distinction. To them condemning homosexuality is tantamount to condem­ning-but-humanoids.

This doesn’t leave much room for love. But love isn’t about activity. Many people do in fact lie. Am I spewing hatred when I say it is wrong to lie? Am I spewing hatred when I say it is wrong to drink on the weekends (that would never happen at ND).

Currently the accusation of hatred seems to be “the rhetori­cal weapon of choice. I am weary of seeing it abused.”

Sincerely,
Brian Kelly
University Village
Nov. 10, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Better attitudes pave true roads to tolerance

Monday, November 16, 1992

Jeff Beshoner
Graduate Student
Nov. 11, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Do not preach a ‘false love’

Monday, November 16, 1992

David Green
Cavanagh Village
Nov. 10, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Better attitudes pave true roads to tolerance

Monday, November 16, 1992

Jeff Beshoner
Graduate Student
Nov. 11, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Do not preach a ‘false love’

Monday, November 16, 1992

David Green
Cavanagh Village
Nov. 10, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Better attitudes pave true roads to tolerance

Monday, November 16, 1992

Jeff Beshoner
Graduate Student
Nov. 11, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Do not preach a ‘false love’

Monday, November 16, 1992

David Green
Cavanagh Village
Nov. 10, 1992

---

Viewpoint

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Better attitudes pave true roads to tolerance

Monday, November 16, 1992

Jeff Beshoner
Graduate Student
Nov. 11, 1992

---

Viewpoint
By MATT CARBONE
Accent Writer

If the average Notre Dame student is asked, "What is Dismas House?", he or she is likely to respond, "The place where prisoners are housed," or "It's a halfway house." The inmate or ex-offender who lives at Dismas House is likely to respond, "It's a place where I can work toward becoming a better person." Those who visit Dismas House are likely to respond, "It's a place where I can do something for others and for myself." And those who have recently left Dismas House are likely to respond, "It's a place where I can learn to live on my own again." The response of the inmates, ex-offenders, and ND students who have passed through Dismas House is likely to be, "It's more than a halfway house; it's a place where I can learn to live on my own again." And that's what Dismas House is all about. The name Dismas House is derived from Dismas, the Good Thief, who suffered alongside Jesus and was saved. Dismas House provides Mexican food with a different flair. By EMILY HAGE
Accent Writer

Cactus Jack's offers tacos, burritos, and for dessert, fruit burritos and churros. Prices range from $2.50 to $4.00. The food is of high quality, and the service is excellent. The atmosphere is casual and inviting. There are many tables and chairs, and the food is served on wooden plates. The menu includes a variety of dishes, such as tacos, burritos, and enchiladas. The prices are reasonable, and the food is delicious. The staff is friendly and helpful, and the restaurant is clean and well-maintained. Overall, Cactus Jack's is a great place to eat, and I highly recommend it to anyone looking for a good meal.
Moon breaks arm in Houston win

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Moments after quarterback Warren Moon left with a broken arm, Lorenzo White fumbled on a touchdown run with 48 seconds left as Houston surprised Minnesota.

The Oilers drove 80 yards for the winning score, and avoided their first three-loss-giving streak in six seasons. Moon, knocked out of the last two games with a fractured upper arm after he scrambled 5 yards for a first down at the Vikings 40, is now in miss 3-6 weeks.

Moon completed 28 of 39 passes for 296 yards. Cody Carlson relieved, completed one key pass and was knocked off to White for the victory.

Houston (6-4) held the Vikings (7-3) to 174 yards and no offensive touchdowns. For the third straight week, Minnesota's defense scored as Anthony Parker returned a fumble 58 yards.

Chargers 14, Browns 13
San Diego uninitialized with San Diego ahead with a 45-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Miller with 2:05 left, and the Chargers held on when they forced Little Metcalf to fumble at midfield.

The Chargers (3-5) entered the game with the AFC's top defense, but were stung when Cleveland (5-3) marched 99 yards to take the lead in the third quarter.

San Diego preserved its road win when Bill Byrd and Darren Carrington jarred the ball loose with Metcalf with 52 yards left and safety Stanley Richard recovered at the Chargers 38.

Carrington returned an interception 69 yards in the first quarter, setting up Humphries' touchdown TD pass to Shawn Jefferson.

Steelers 17, Lions 14
Bubby Brister got into a game for the first time this season and threw a 1-yard TD pass to Tim Jordan with 2:50 left as Pittsburgh rallied at Three Rivers Stadium.

Brister started for most of the last five years before losing his job in training camp. When Neil O'Donnell was forced on that drive, the fourth quarter, Brister took over.

Bobby Smith became the first NFL player to run for 1,000 yards this season, gaining 106 yards on 25 carries. He tied a Steelers record with his seventh 100-yard game of the season.

Pittsburgh (7-3) took advantage of five turnovers by Detroit (2-8).

Young leads 49ers, Rams hold off Cowboys rally

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Steve Young became the 14th NFL player to run for 1,000 yards this season and the fourth to reach the milestone for the 49ers to hold off the Dallas Cowboys 27-23.

The 49ers (8-2) trailed 21-7 entering the final period before Young hit Jones on a 14-yard TD pass with 1:24 left. Young completed five of six passes for 80 yards, passed and ran for two TDs and leads the NFC East by two games.

Dallas' Gary ran for 110 yards and two touchdowns for the Rams (4-6) and Jim Everett completed 22 of 33 passes for 244 yards. Tony Zejeda kicked 33- and 44-yard field goals in the fourth quarter.

Cowboys 23, Rams 27
Bobby Hebert completed 22 of 33 for 291 yards and touchdown passes to Brent Jones in the fourth quarter, including an 8-yarder with 1:24 left as New Orleans beat Denver for the NFC West lead.

The 49ers (8-2) trailed 21-7 entering the final period before Young hit Jones on a 14-yard TD pass with 1:24 left. Young completed five of six passes for 80 yards, passed and ran for two TDs and leads the NFC East by two games.

Dallas' Gary ran for 110 yards and two touchdowns for the Rams (4-6) and Jim Everett completed 22 of 33 passes for 244 yards. Tony Zejeda kicked 33- and 44-yard field goals in the fourth quarter.

Cowboys 23, Rams 27
Bobby Hebert completed 22 of 33 for 291 yards and touchdown passes to Brent Jones in the fourth quarter, including an 8-yarder with 1:24 left as New Orleans beat Denver for the NFC West lead.

The 49ers (8-2) trailed 21-7 entering the final period before Young hit Jones on a 14-yard TD pass with 1:24 left. Young completed five of six passes for 80 yards, passed and ran for two TDs and leads the NFC East by two games.
Eagle on 18 lifts Love at Kapalua

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — Davis Love eagled the par-5 18th hole from 40 feet Sunday to break a tie with Mike Hulbert and win the $800,000 Kapalua International golf tournament.

Love’s final round of 6-under-par 66 gave him a total of 15-under 273 and the winner’s purse of $150,000.

Three times Love has finished second at Kapalua, including last year when Hulbert came from four shots back to catch Love in the last round and then beat him with a birdie on the first hole of a playoff.

This time Love turned the tables, coming from four shots behind Hulbert, who finished alone in second at 276 after a back nine 34 to beat Love, who finished in third at 277, coming from four shots back to catch him with his dramatic eagle on the 18th.

“Love settled the matter with his dramatic eagle on the 18th. It feels a lot better than it did a year ago,” Love said. “I knew I’d have to make eagle to avoid blowing the playoff because you knew Hulbert was going to make it. I made a couple of long putts today, which is unusual for me. The one at 18 was just icing on the cake. It was a lot of fun,” he said.

Playing one group behind Hulbert, Love watched from the fairway as Love rolled in his uphill putt. He knew then that he needed an eagle to get into a playoff.

Hulbert gave it a bold try, hitting his second shot 30 feet to the left of the pin, then sliding his eagle putt less than a foot by on the right of the hole.

He had to settle for birdie and the second place money of $91,000.

Miami, Alabama stay on course, Irish up to No. 7

No. 1 Miami and No. 2 Alabama remained on course for a Sugar Bowl showdown, while Florida State re-entered the national championship picture by jumping to third in Sunday’s Associated Press college football poll.

Miami maintained its solid grip on the top spot with a 48-0 victory over Temple. The Hurricanes received 61 first-place votes and 1,549 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama, which beat Mississippi State 30-21, was the runner-up again with one first-place vote and 1,483 points.

If Miami (9-0) and Alabama (10-0) remain undefeated and 1-2 in the poll, they will meet for the national title Jan. 1 in the Sugar Bowl. Miami has games remaining against Syracuse and San Diego State, while Alabama must play Auburn and either Florida or Georgia in the Southeastern Conference championship game.

Florida State (9-1) climbed two spots to No. 3 after tying Alabama, which beat Mississippi State 30-21, was the runner-up again with one first-place vote and 1,483 points.

If Miami (9-0) and Alabama (10-0) remain undefeated and 1-2 in the poll, they will meet for the national title Jan. 1 in the Sugar Bowl. Miami has games remaining against Syracuse and San Diego State, while Alabama must play Auburn and either Florida or Georgia in the Southeastern Conference championship game.

Florida State (9-1) climbed two spots to No. 3 after tying Alabama, which beat Mississippi State 30-21, was the runner-up again with one first-place vote and 1,483 points.

If Miami (9-0) and Alabama (10-0) remain undefeated and 1-2 in the poll, they will meet for the national title Jan. 1 in the Sugar Bowl. Miami has games remaining against Syracuse and San Diego State, while Alabama must play Auburn and either Florida or Georgia in the Southeastern Conference championship game.
Jeff Burris closes in on Penn State's O.J. McDuffie, but an unidentified Irish player already has the situation under control.

GAME 10 November 14, 1992

Notre Dame 17
Penn State 16

Reggie Brooks, on one of his career high 23 rushes, maneuvers through the snow around Penn State nose tackle David Thomas.

Senior Craig Hentrich prepares to kick one of his three field goals in Saturday's home finale.

Rick Mirer rolls out and looks for a receiver behind the protection of his offensive line. Mirer was 12-24 in his final home game, including the dramatic last second completion to Reggie Brooks.

Jerome Bettis hauls in a touchdown pass from Rick Mirer in the final minute. The two-point conversion that followed, secured the Irish victory.

Devon McDonald celebrates in the snow after the Irish completed a thrilling comeback to knock off Penn State in the final game of the series.
Penn State mounted a scoring drive of its own highlighted by a 15-yard pass which split end Tisen Thomas turned into a 46-yard play by dancing down the sideline to the Irish 14. The touchdown came when, on his third try, tailback Ritchie Anderson (26 for 73) made it over the top and into the end zone.

In retrospect, what happened after the touchdown gave the end of the game meaning. On the point after attempt, freshman Bobby Taylor got some hangtime and blocked V.J. Muscillo’s kick for what would become the Irish’s one point advantage.

The Notre Dame offense, stalled by the snow and the Penn State defense, tied up the game in the waning minutes of the first half on another Hentrich field goal, this one for 31 yards. Freshman Derrick Mayes led the team to the one-yard line. The Irish defense, led by Devon McDade and Jarrell and Irv Smith and runs combination of passes to Adrian the opening kickoff using a combination of passes to Adrian Jarrell and Irv Smith and runs by Brooks, Dean Lyle and Lee Becton, had to settle for the first of Craig Hentrich’s three field goals in the game.

Miler has a solid day for Notre Dame completing 12 of 23 attempts for a touchdown and 164 yards. The rushing crew, slowed by the snow, managed 201 yards for the game led by Bettis’ 89 yards on 15 attempts and Brooks’ 78 yards on a career-high 23 attempts. Smith topped the Irish receivers with four receptions for 15 attempts and Brooks’ 78 yards for a touchdown after taking over on downs at its own 34-yard line and Penn State quarter-back Kerry Collins (7 of 28, 131 yards) leading the team to the one-yard line. The Irish defense needed to execute a two-point conversion to shake off their loss playing this game, they’re a class team.”

Others in the Notre Dame locker room echoed Holtz’s sentiments. “I love playing Penn State, it’s always so competitive,” junior Jeff Burris said. “There is always added enthusiasm surrounding this game. I will miss it a lot.” So will college football.

Penn State bounced right back in the fourth quarter with a touchdown after taking over on downs at its own 34-yard line and Penn State quarter-back Kerry Collins (7 of 28, 131 yards) leading the team to the one-yard line. The Irish defense led by Devon McDonald and Demetrius Dullor stood tough preventing the Nittany Lions from scoring the touchdown on three tries and forcing the field goal which tied the game at nine.

The drama at the finale was set up by a Penn State touchdown late in the game which came after Smith fumbled the ball near midfield. Anderson, O. J. McDuffie, and Collins led the drive and fullback Brian O’Neal finished it off with a 13-yard touchdown run.

After Rick Mirer engineered a long scoring drive in the final minutes, the Irish once again needed to execute a two-point conversion to shake off their long-time nemesis.

A fierce pass rush forced Mirer out of the pocket, but he rolled right and released just out of the arms of an airborne Brian Gelzheiser, who had a sure interception, for a Notre Dame reception. The Irish took the lead in the third quarter on Hentrich’s 37-yard field goal.

Penn State stole away the lead near the end of the first quarter when Miler, under pressure, overthrow Libyan at the 15-yard line and safety Lee Rubin picked off the ball. He returned it to the Notre Dame 31, where the Irish defense forced the Irish to punt.

The Observer/Marguerite Schropp

The close games against Penn State usually didn’t go Notre Dame’s way over the past decade, but Saturday all the frustration melted away with the snow at Notre Dame Stadium.

After Rick Mirer engineered a long scoring drive in the final minutes, the Irish once again needed to execute a two-point conversion to shake off their long-time nemesis.

A fierce pass rush forced Mirer out of the pocket, but he rolled right and released just

The Observer/Marguerite Schropp

Notre Dame wide receiver Adrian Jarrell eludes a Penn State tackler.

Classic

continued from page 20

option play, and Penn State escaped again, 21-20. • 1992 - Payback time.

The close games against Penn State usually didn’t go Notre Dame’s way over the past decade, but Saturday all the frustration melted away with the snow at Notre Dame Stadium.

After Rick Mirer engineered a long scoring drive in the final minutes, the Irish once again needed to execute a two-point conversion to shake off their long-time nemesis. A fierce pass rush forced Mirer out of the pocket, but he rolled right and released just

The Observer/Marguerite Schropp

Notre Dame wide receiver Adrian Jarrell eludes a Penn State tackler.

Classic

continued from page 20

option play, and Penn State escaped again, 21-20. • 1992 - Payback time.

The close games against Penn State usually didn’t go Notre Dame’s way over the past decade, but Saturday all the frustration melted away with the snow at Notre Dame Stadium.

After Rick Mirer engineered a long scoring drive in the final minutes, the Irish once again needed to execute a two-point conversion to shake off their long-time nemesis. A fierce pass rush forced Mirer out of the pocket, but he rolled right and released just

Cargill, America’s largest privately-held corporation, is hardly a household name, but it touches nearly every household. "Cargill, America's largest privately-held corporation, is hardly a household name, but it touches nearly every household."

A tradition marked by independence, competitiveness, professionalism in management, and an underlying ethical commitment. These remain strongly in place in the Cargill of today."

Cargill is a Minneapolis-based, global corporation involved in commodity trading, processing, transportation and risk management. Cargill’s history exceeds 125 years; the company has grown to number 800+ plants in over 50 countries and employs over 63,000 people.

Please join our representative, Stephanie Bock, commodity merchant, to learn more about internships and full-time career opportunities in commodity merchandising.

Wednesday, November 18, 7:00 pm, Foster Room-
La Fortune Student Center

We seek candidates with:
• Any major
• The indefinite right to work in the U.S.
• The ability to make sound decisions to join our team.

Contact Career and Placement Services for further information. Equal Opportunity Employer
Youth hurts men's volleyball team

By KEVIN DOLAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's volleyball team got off to a rough start in preseason play Sunday night at the J.A.C.C., losing to Laurentian University of Canada.

The Irish lost 5-15, 13-15, 15-11, 15-11 and 12-15, but coach Kim Reefer credited the loss mostly to inexperience.

"We need more experience," said Reefer. "The outside hitter position is still up for grabs, we have a lot of youth... It's just our first match."

"If we play up to our potential, we should do well," she added. "We have a tournament coming up against Michigan and Michigan State, which should be very competitive."

"We came back in games 3 and 4 tonight, but we didn't play as well as I had hoped."

The Irish were led by junior middle blocker P.J. Stettin, who had 20 kills and 8 blocks by unofficial stats.

Solid performances were turned in by Wom Suh, who had several assists, and freshman Roger Yang.

However, the Laurentian combo of Roch Boucher and Paul Rainville were too much for the Irish.

Boucher finished with 18 kills and Rainville had 11 kills.

The Irish appeared confused at times in the second game, due in part to an error in the scoreboard when Coach Reefer placed Suh and Pat Madden in scorebook when Coach Reefer

"We told the Big Ten we will be very pleased to welcome to San Diego the conference's highest available team, based on the final conference standings," Dick Howard, president of the Holiday Bowl, said Sunday.

"We hope this illustrates... the value we attach to our association with the Big Ten."

Last week, Holiday Bowl officials said they might exercise their option to choose a wild card because of the sagging records of both Michigan State (5-5) and the University of Iowa (6-5).

"The Big Ten is pleased with the decision of the Holiday Bowl to commit to a Big Ten team in 1992," Big Ten commissioner James Delany said.

"The selection, which will be based on the outcome of Saturday's games demonstrates the Holiday Bowl's commitment to the relationship."

A LECTURE
BY
JUDGE STEPHEN M. SCHWEBEL
INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE
THE HAGUE
ON
THE WORK OF THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 17
4:00 P.M.
ROOM 220 - LAW SCHOOL
COURTROOM

The Mighty Ducks PG
Candyman R
Dracula R
The Haunted Mansion G
4:00 P.M.
4:30, 7:15, 10:00
4:45, 7:30, 9:45
5:00, 7:00, 9:15
5:15, 7:30, 9:45

Holiday Bowl still wants the Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — The Holiday Bowl plans to extend a bid to the third-place finisher in the Big Ten even if that team wins only six games, the NCAA minimum for bowl game appearances, officials said Sunday.

“We told the Big Ten we will be very pleased to welcome to San Diego the conference's highest available team, based on the final conference standings,” Dick Howard, president of the Holiday Bowl, said Sunday.

“We hope this illustrates... the value we attach to our association with the Big Ten."

Last week, Holiday Bowl officials said they might exercise their option to choose a wild card because of the sagging records of both Michigan State (5-5) and the University of Iowa (6-5).

"The Big Ten is pleased with the decision of the Holiday Bowl to commit to a Big Ten team in 1992," Big Ten commissioner James Delany said.

"The selection, which will be based on the outcome of Saturday's games demonstrates the Holiday Bowl's commitment to the relationship."

We can issue air and train tickets immediately for any destination. No service fee. No appointments needed.

Bowl Game Packages
Spring Break Trips
Lowest International Fares for Students
Eurail Passes
Vacation Packages
United Limo Tickets to O'Hare and Midway

Please see us early for the least expensive tickets.

(There is a $10 charge on airline voucher coupons)
The Notre Dame hockey team earned its first point of the season this weekend by tying the University of Illinois-Chicago Flames in the UIC Pavilion. After falling to the Flames by a score of 3-2 on Friday night, the Irish journeyed to Chicago on Saturday night and came back from a three goal deficit in the third period to claim a 4-4 tie.

In a physical contest, the Irish (8-0-1), fell behind early in the series opener at the Joyce ACC, as the Flames (8-3-1) took a 2-0 lead in the first period. Notre Dame captain Matt Osiecki scored on a power play with just under two minutes remaining in the period to bring the Irish to within a goal. Freshman defensemen Garry Gruber tied the game at two with 9:36 remaining in the period to hold on to its lead in the first period. Irish coach Ric Schafer was worried about snow? Don't be! Leave your car at home. Transpo Museums, shopping, sporting events, restaurants are all within easy reach aboard NICTD's South Shore Line. Worried about snow? Don't be! Leave your car at home. Transpo

Notre Dame's Curtis Janicke maneuvers with the puck in Friday night's loss to Illinois-Chicago. By BRYAN CONNOLLY Sports Writer

"This is one team in the league which we are more on par with than any other team in the league," Schafer said. "Maybe the players thought that would be the case."

The hockey team responded to its poor showing on Friday by playing much more inspired hockey the following night. Freshman Matt Bieck scored his first goal of the season four minutes and four seconds into the game to give the Irish a 1-0 lead which lasted until the Flames scored on the power play with forty nine seconds left in the first period.

Despite being out shot by the Irish in the first two periods 27-18, UIC managed to take a 2-1 lead into the third period, where it netted two early goals to take a 4-1 lead. The Irish responded to the deficit with an intense offensive attack led by captain Dave Bankoske. Bankoske sparked the Irish resurgence with two power play goals, the first coming nine minutes into the final period. Cutting to the middle of the UIC zone, Bankoske received freshman Jamie Ling's pass from the corner and rifled it from the slot through Flamer goalie Jon Hillebrandt's pads. He scored his second goal two minutes and forty three seconds later on a pass from behind the net by senior Eric Gregoire.

The Irish tied it up with only two minutes and forty seconds left in the game when freshman Jamie Morsch scored his second short handed goal of the season with Ling assisting.

Notre Dame managed three shots on goal during the scoreless overtime period while holding the Flames to none.Perrius Ellison led the Bullets with 23 points and 11 rebounds, Rex Chapman scored 21 points, and rookie Tom Gugliotta had 19 points and 15 rebounds. The Nets started slowly, hitting just two of their first 12 shots and falling behind 15-4. But by the end of the first period, New Jersey trailed only 34-30. The victory was the second straight for the Nets, while the Bullets absorbed their 15th consecutive road loss, including four this season.

"We couldn't quit, but we didn't quit and we just kept on going," said Schafer. "That's what it takes, and its like a win for us. It was a good effort by everyone."

"A lot of people wrote us off," said Bankoske, "but we showed a lot of character and came back for a tie."

The Irish know that they will need to build on this weekend's effort if they are to have success next weekend against Western Michigan, which is currently ranked 10th in the nation. They are hoping that the momentum they gained from this weekend's tie will carry over into the coming weekend's competitions and lead them to their first victory of the season.

Nets beat Bullets, Ellis scores 19 in Nuggets loss

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Drazen Petrovic scored 16 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter and Derrick Coleman finished with 20 points and 14 rebounds Sunday night in the New Jersey Nets' 111-104 victory over the Washington Bullets. The victory was the second straight for the Nets, while the Bullets absorbed their 15th consecutive road loss, including four this season.

"I'm still the same guy that I was in college and it's great to be back in New Jersey," Petrovic said. "It's a great start to the season."

The Nets started slowly, hitting just two of their first 12 shots and falling behind 15-4. But by the end of the first period, New Jersey trailed only 34-30.

Pervis Ellison led the Bullets with 22 points and 11 rebounds, Rex Chapman scored 21 points, and rookie Tom Gugliotta had 19 points and 15 rebounds.

The Nets started slowly, hitting just two of their first 12 shots and falling behind 15-4. But by the end of the first period, New Jersey trailed only 34-30.

Bucks 115, Nuggets 98

Blue Edwards scored a career-high 32 points and rookie Anthony Avent a season-high 28, leading Milwaukee past Denver. Edwards, whose career high in three years at Utah was 30, reached 30-plus points for the third time in six games this season. Chris Jackson led the Nuggets with 20 points while LaPhonso Ellis, Bryant Stith and Reggie Williams each had 19 for Denver, which lost its fourth straight game after a season-opening victory.
John Coyle wants to bring some NCAA Championships. Michigan, who finished with 54 points, won the meet with 35 points, technically advanced to the NCAA Championships, beating district favorite from 29 other schools located across the Midwest at the NCAA District IV Meet.

When the starting gun fired, Notre Dame fought for position. After 3000 meters it was clear the Notre Dame squad had nothing back, the Fighting Irish were no longer a team but a squadron on a mission to the national championships. Notre Dame's top runner, all-American Mike McWilliams, head off early to keep pace with a lead pack that included Oly­ pian Bob Kennedy. Irish captain Mike Gosnell and all-American John Coyle stayed back with his team and brought three of the top five runners through the middle miles. When Coyle headed out on his own, sophomore Nate Ruder stepped into the position of leadership. As Irish runner J.R. Meloro said, "We were running as a team. Out of the race the Irish were still running, but we ran really well, and we also ran really well as a team."

Clare Eichner, a senior from Wisconsin, was in the race, followed by Tracy Morris from Iowa and Michigan runners Karen Harvey and Molly Mc­ Clennon. Eichner, Morris, and Harvey advanced individually to 231 individuals fighting for po­ sition, there was a cluster of blue and gold jerseys doing it together.

When it was over, the Irish had the done far more than make the cut. They placed second in the meet behind Wis­ consin, beating Michigan by 26 points and demolishing Eastern Michigan by 37.

"It's a great feeling to have gone down there and accomplish what we had set to do," said Irish captain John Coyle. "This has been one of our goals all year long," said Irish head coach Joe Plume. "It was the best we ran all season." The question is, can they do it again? Can Notre Dame go to another big meet and put forth a team effort. The competition a week from now will be even greater than what they faced this weekend. "I think that we can run even greater, beyond anything I thought we could accomplish." Notre Dame scored the first nine points of the second game before LaSalle finally cracked the scoreboard when Notre Dame had its first of just five hitting errors on the night. Seniors Marilyn Craig and Alicia Turner came up with five kills and four digs, respectively.

Men continued from page 20

It's About Time.
It's About Space.

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Writer

For approximately twenty minutes Saturday, Bloomington, IN, was the sight for a scene of mass disorder, as the Notre Dame women's cross country team took on 202 other runners from 29 other schools located across the Midwest at the NCAA District IV Meet.

As the final competitor crossed the finish line, the Irish found themselves with an impres­ sive fourth place finish with 115 points, sandwiched in between five Big Ten powers. The University of Wisconsin won the meet with 35 points, defeating district favorite Michigan, who finished with 54 points. Both teams automati­ cally advanced to the NCAA Championships November 23.

The University of Iowa finished third with 185 points, and should qualify for an at large bid. Notre Dame will find out this afternoon if they were awarded an at large bid and a chance to compete in next Monday's national champi­ onship race.

"We were ranked fifth going in to the race, so we did better than everyone expected us to," said sophomore Sarah Riley, who finished 16th in the race. "Everyone ran well, and we also ran really well as a team." Clare Eichner, a senior from Wisconsin, won the race, followed by Tracy Morris from Iowa and Michigan runners Karen Harvey and Molly Mc­ Clennon. Eichner, Morris, and Harvey advanced individually to

For the Irish, Riley's 16th place finish set the pace, fol­ lowed closely by Stefanie Jensen (17th) and Eva Flood (19th). Kristi Kramer set the pace with 35th, and captain Lisa Gorski was 41st.

"Last year we finished in 11th place, and no one really ex­ pected anything from us this year," continued Riley. "Next year I think we'll be able to do even better." Whether or not they receive an at large bid to the NCAA Championships, the Notre Dame women's cross country team had an extremely strong showing Saturday, and has established itself as a national power.

Women finish fourth at District meet

By DANIEL PIER
Sports Writer

If the Notre Dame women's volleyball team could have writ­ ten a script for Saturday's final home match, it would probably have read much like the match that ended, but with one exam­ ple. The team might have agreed to show visiting LaSalle a little more mercy. After all, the Explorers made the trip all the way from Philadelphia only to score a mere three points in a 15-0, 15-3, 15-0ershelling. Coupled with a 15-4, 15-5, 15-12 win over Duquesne earlier in the day, the win com­ pleted an undefeated Midwest Collegiate Conference regular season for the Irish. Notre Dame (27-5, 7-0) will have the first seed in next weekend's MCC Tournament. If the Irish win that match or get an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament, they could host a first-round match in the NCAs.

Five of Notre Dame's six se­ niors started the match, but no one had a better idea of what they faced this weekend. How much more mercy? Can Notre Dame go to another big meet and put forth a team effort. The competition a week from now will be even greater than what they faced this weekend. "I think that we can run even greater, beyond anything I thought we could accomplish." Notre Dame scored the first nine points of the second game before LaSalle finally cracked the scoreboard when Notre Dame had its first of just five hitting errors on the night. Seniors Marilyn Craig and Alicia Turner came up with five kills and four digs, respectively.

It's about ads that you will place. We are Leo Burnett U.S.A., one of the world's largest advertising agency, and we are coming to Notre Dame and St. Mary's to recruit for our Media Department. So, on Wednesday come and listen to Leo Burnett and their key speaker. This is the opportunity to play every­ one, especially the seniors, and we played really, really well. It will be a special memory for them.
Heroes lift Irish over Penn State

By JENNY MARTEN
Associated Press Editor

Monday, November 16, 1992

Nick Smith (30) and Brian Hamilton stuff Penn State's Ritchie Anderson at the goal line.

The Observer/Pat McGuck

At Notre Dame Stadium, a classic contest

By JASON KELLY
Sports Writer

It was a classic ending to a classic series.

Notre Dame's 17-16 win over Penn State was another in a long line of fantastic finishes that have turned the annual Notre Dame-Penn State game into one of college football's greatest rivalries. But Saturday's game marked the end of the series as Penn State prepares to join the Big Ten.

"It has been a great series and it's too bad it has to end," Penn State coach Joe Paterno said after Saturday's game. "It has been good for college football. It seems like every game, with the exception of last year (a 35-13 Penn State win) ended like this."

When the excitement of Reggie Brooks' game-winning catch subsides, the Notre Dame-Penn State series will fade into history.

But the memories of the frigid November battles that have defined this rivalry will never fade.

*1987 - Notre Dame was 6-1-1 and fresh off an upset of top-ranked Pittsburgh, and Penn State was once-beaten and ranked fourth. National championship implications loomed large as the teams battled under the lights at Notre Dame Stadium. With the Irish leading 14-13 after three quarters, hopes were high. But they were soon dashed as Penn State quarterback Todd Blackledge connected with Curt Warner for a 49-yard touchdown pass, giving the Nittany Lions a lead they would never relinquish. The national championship went to Penn State, and a 6-4-1 record loomed ahead for the Irish.

*1986 - Lou Holtz's first season with Notre Dame. A season of near comebacks and close losses against the nation's best teams that earned the Irish nothing more than respect and six losses.

With third-ranked Penn State leading 24-13 early in the fourth quarter, it looked like Notre Dame would once again go to a one-point game. But in a repeat performance of the 1986 season, the Irish did lose, but they throw quite a scare into Joe Paterno's troops in the process.

Steve Beuerlein directed a 64-yard drive early in the final period to bring the Irish to within 24-19. And with 2:29 left, the Irish had the ball and a chance to win.

It was first and goal from the six in the final minute, but Penn State's defense would hold, as Beuerlein's fourth-down pass from the 18 to Mark Green left the Irish short of the goal line.

Another national title for Penn State, another tough loss for Notre Dame.

*1985 - A resilient Notre Dame team traveled to the snows of Pennsylvania to stake its claim as a national title contender. Sophomore Tony Rice was at the controls of the versatile Irish offense that helped the Mid-Americans win the national championship.

It was a last Irish touchdown, only a successful two-point conversion separation Notre Dame from victory. But Tony Rice was stopped short on an inside run, giving the Irish a 21-20 loss.

*1984 - Notre Dame came into the final game of the season with a 7-3-1 record, but in the previous meeting with the Irish and Wolverines in 1983, Michigan had defeated Notre Dame and 31 other schools last Saturday to decide who would go to the national championships.

The stage was set on a cool November afternoon.

The Notre Dame men's cross country team was to meet with the University of Michigan, the University of Eastern Michigan, the University of Wisconsin and 31 other schools last Saturday to decide who would go to the national championships.

It's the toughest district in the nation. Four teams are in the top 12, only three go on to nationals.

While the field is consistently strong Wisconsin is the clear favorite. The Badgers, ranked second in the nation, are strong contenders in this meet as well as the nationals. Notre Dame had faced Michigan and Eastern Michigan earlier this year. The Irish beat Michigan and Eastern Michigan by only one point.

However Michigan could not be counted out. The Wolverines are a far greater threat than before. They had improved dramatically since their loss to Notre Dame earlier this season and had recently leveled the field at the NCAA Championships.

But previous records and national polls mean nothing in the districts. The only judge is the clock.