Students: Thumbs up to 'Malcolm'

NEW YORK (AP) — They took Spike's advice Wednesday, and the Director of "Malcolm X" was right: His new movie was worth taking off from school to see, according to students who did just that.

"I wouldn't change a thing about this movie," said 16-year-old Tahira Duncan, who left the theater in tears after watching the film's premiere with her African American studies class from Montclair, N.J. "Malcolm X was a hero. He supported black unity. There are so many Malcolms dying at the hands of other black men, too many Malcolms. It has to stop," she said.

Duncan was one of about 300 students from Manhattan and Montclair who filed into the Victoria 5 movie theater in Harlem to see the latest Spike Lee film. Lee received permission — instead of heading to class. The movie opened Wednesday at 1,200 theaters nationwide.

The theater, located between the Apollo Theater and Malcolm X Boulevard, held a special evening screening for the group of students. The cast and crew of "Malcolm X" visited the movie in the theater.

Lee, speaking before the event's release, had encouraged students to see the film as a school assignment, citing life-size black icons to visit to see MALCOLM / page 4

Bishops defeat document that would have buried question of women's ordination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops defeated a key document concerning ordination for women Wednesday after struggling over it for nine years.

Women's ordination, far from laid to rest by Vatican edicts, is now out the bottle," Bishop Lawrence Cunningham, director of the U.S. bishops' doctrine commission, said after the bishops defeated the contentious document that would have settled the issue.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain, to challenge," he said.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.

The Vatican had intervened repeatedly in shaping the concept, but Vatican spokesman Joao Luiz Naves de Nery said, "I would not settle the issue."

He won passage of a plan for more "study and dialogue" about the issue before sending it to priests, not to contradict it but to explain it more persuasively.

"What we need now is to engage our people, to truly listen, to explain," he said.

The rejection of the document, which women's ordination opponents feared would provide them with a path to the priesthood, was hailed by women's ordination advocates as a victory.

The rejected document firmly prohibited women's ordination. While affirming women's equal dignity, it condemned unbridled sexual differences. It condemned discriminatory sexualities but said women partly share blame for it.
Should we take the low road or the high one?

There are two ways to get to the top.
Politics do it one way. Revolutionaries do it the other.

We see too many politicians in our generation. Do you know who they are? The young upwardly mobile suburban white kids who see their education as a means to an ignoble end: what they call financial security, and what should be called financial immortality.

The politicians have no imagination. They follow the same paths that brought their parents success. They mimic their successful forebears with their tastes in clothing, music, food and politics. These all-too-typical college students are busy climbing the ladder that their parents have built for them, where they will find easy footing toward a secure, albeit mundane future.

Meanwhile, the revolutionaries are off in another philosophical world, creating new ladders and developing radical ways to reach their own goals. They struggle at the bottom, choosing to ignore the system of advancement built by the generations before them, instead wrestling with idealism.

Once they have perfected their idealistic vision, they must scream to be heard, and throw tempests to be noticed by the mainstream. They look like immature adolescents in reality. They are the most sensitive and considerate individuals society has to offer. They have believed in themselves, and achieved without the help of others.

I try my hardest to be a revolutionary. I want to change the world, to turn it upside-down. But I fear that I am already climbing that ladder built by my parents. They are paying for my education at Notre Dame, which produces successful businesspeople. I want to use the most respected mainstream student publication at this school, writing little that could change anyone's life (unless football can change your life).

Fortunately, I haven't yet registered for any accounting classes, joined the Knights of Columbus, or supported a conservative politician. But I am very afraid of where I'm headed, and of where our generation is going.

I want to do it myself, but I also want the security of having help. I want to strive for something more than financial success, but I don't want to struggle to feed my children.

However, I know that I cannot have it both ways. That is the price one must pay to make a decision: I will start climbing the corporate ladder, reaping the financial rewards offered by the mainstream. Or will I build my own life, out of materials that I earn by myself? If I do the former, I will undoubtedly end up one of the typical white suburbanites engaged in the mundane existence of the businessperson.

By trying to be a revolutionary, I risk financial failure. But I also guarantee myself satisfaction. I will have built my own ladder.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Malcolm's widow: Movie portrays her as aggressive

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Betty Shabazz, the widow of Malcolm X, said their marriage and now the film about his life have thrust her into a role she never sought.

"I have been propelled on a bridge, on a trail, on a platform by this man called Malcolm," Shabazz told an audience at Harvard on Tuesday.

While she praised the Spike Lee film "Malcolm X," Shabazz said the portrayal of her own role makes her seem more assertive than she was.

Angela Bassett, who portrays her in the film, "came into that movement and cast her hooks and came up with the big fish," Shabazz said. "And I was always holding back. I would never have developed objectives to wheel the fish in."

But she said she was proud of her husband's legacy.

"Some of you who perhaps don't agree with him today, 10 or 20 years from now when your children are trying to secure their human rights or are denied options and opportunities, you will remember Malcolm."

Lopez: You can be paid to work for peace

By MICHELE TERRY
News Writer

Although many students looking for jobs working for peace and justice assume they must work for free, Professor of Government George Lopez said there is a market for such jobs.

Lopez, acting Regan director of the Kroc Institute for International Studies, said traditional, socio-political and service opportunities exist, and suggested that students try to incorporate a justice or peace issue into a traditional job, provided that it is possible.

"Persistence pays off" for students looking for such a job, said Lopez. Following up your resume with phone calls and visits is part of "getting an edge." He said it may surprise some students to learn that a resume should be longer than the one-page standard.

Experience is essential, according to Lopez. Seniors with weak resumes should consider taking the time after graduation to get that experience. He encouraged students to "create possibilities through flexibility."

Lopez added that it is impor-

It is time for U.N. to be 'peace maker'

By NANCY DUNN
News Writer

After more than 45 years, it is time for the United Nations to switch from being a peace keeper to a peace maker, according to Paul Tierney, who traveled to four sites to oversee peace-keeping operations as a delegate to a United Nations (UN) association.

Due to the end of the Cold War, the UN now enjoys more freedom in its peace-keeping operations, he said. Establishing 13 new operations in the past three years, the UN has matched the number it set up between 1945 and 1989.

While this new freedom is a positive sign, Tierney said there need to be reforms in the organization. As a delegate to the United Nations Association of the U.S., he evaluated the effectiveness of the UN peace-keeping operations.

Tierney credited the efforts of the troops in Cambodia, El Salvador, Cyprus and Golan Heights, recognizing their courage and dedication. Not only do the troops remove mines, patrol buffer zones, and disarm militias, but they are slowly being used in non-military settings to build roads or instruct local citizens in water purification techniques, he said.

While he praised the troops, Tierney said civilian leadership is seriously lacking within the organization.

Tierney suggested the creation of new standards for the selection and training of personnel. He suggested the establishing a standing force with common training to reduce confusion within the forces.

To play this new role, the UN needs more money, Tierney said. He gave three suggestions to increase revenue. First, establish a tax on the sale of weapons. Second, payments to the UN should be seen as part of the Defense budget, instead of being part of the State Department budget, he said. Third, interest should be charged on late payments.

This year, the United States is responsible for about 30 percent of the UN's budget. Tierney recognized that this number should be reduced, but noted that this averages out to only four dollars a person, while in countries such as Norway the payment averages out to about 13 dollars a person.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

CAMPUS VIEW APARTMENTS

1 & 2 BEDROOM

FURNISHED APARTMENTS

RENTING NOW FOR AUGUST 1993

FOR INFORMATION CALL 272 - 144
Clinton calls his one-on-one session with Bush "terrific"

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Clinton swept triumphantly into the capital Wednesday and held a "terrific meeting" with President Bush, soliciting advice on more than a dozen potentially global issues the Democrat could inherit.

Nine weeks before his inauguration, Clinton also made a symbolic visit to a crime-plagued black business district. "I do try to go out of touch," he promised well-wishers. Thousands of people strained against police lines for a glimpse. "I hope you'll never be disappointed," he told one supporter.

Clinton said he and Bush discussed such global tinderboxes as Russia, Bosnia and Somalia. "He was very candid," the president-elect said. "He gave me a lot of insights. The American people should be pleased."

"It was a terrific meeting," Clinton said. The White House characterized the talks as "warm and informal." The meeting ran 45 minutes over schedule.

Bush was waiting in the White House driveway to extend a handshake as Clinton stepped from his armored black limousine — on time, notable for the often-tardy Arkansas governor.

The White House visit was the first stop on a two-day whirlwind of high-powered meetings and social engagements with the leaders of the Washington establishment. Clinton's visit was intended to pave the way for a smooth transition and signal the new president's readiness to deal with Washington insiders.

Demonstrating his willingness to be a good neighbor to the community, Clinton went directly from the White House to Northwest Washington for a walking tour of one of the city's black business districts.

Clinton said he was trying to demonstrate his recognition that Washington is "a city — not just government buildings made up of people who don't want a handout but a handup."

Clinton dashed into the Hamilton Seafood Grocery, the Hamilton Laundromat and other stores near the Georgia Avenue intersection.

"That is a very heinous activity and shame on the Department of State that it happened," While absorbing the White House, Funk's investigation disclosed that Bush's chief of staff, James Baker III, became aware of the file searches no more than a day after the first took place.

The two most senior officials helping with the investigation were the assistant secretary of state for consular affairs Elizabeth Estes iPodi, appointed by Bush, and the acting assistant secretary of state for legislative affairs, Steven Berry, was also disciplined.

As for Tempos's allegations of White House involvement, Funk said in a memorandum to Acting Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger, "We found no evidence that the case under consideration has been studied and recommended to the president by his national security adviser, national security council staff and relevant department officials.

Church continued from page 1

people will use and study," McNeary said. "He is very happy with the new catechism.

Backer continued from page 1

Linebacker to relocate but not to the proposed location," said Arun. "I'm very happy with the proposal.

The White House — or any other external source — orchestrated an 'attack' on the Clinton files." Funk recommended that "less than 10" department officials be disciplined.

Eagleburger disclosed that he had offered his resignation to Bush because of his distress over the department's political activities before the Nov. 3 election.

"When this thing first developed and before the election, I offered the president personally my resignation. He refused to accept it," Eagleburger said.

He told reporters there were no plans to recommend criminal action by the Justice Department against department officials.

Funk had been asked to determine whether the department initiated the file search in response to external requests under the Freedom of Information Act or whether administration officials attempted to dig up damaging information on the Democratic presidential nominee.

Funk said the way department officials conducted the search made it clear they had not been merely responding to routine requests from the news media.

The Observer is now accepting applications for the following paid position:

Business Copy Editor

Please submit a personal statement and resume to David Kinney. Contact David at 239-5003 for more information.
former prime minister of Pakistan is arrested

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The government arrested former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto and her top advisers at a huge political rally Wednesday after they defied a ban on protest and called for the overthrow of the government. Bhutto had threatened that 100,000 marchers would storm Parliament. But the march, scheduled to begin 10 miles from the capital in Rawalpindi, was disrupted before it began.

Police barricaded the route, fired tear gas into the crowd and beat protesters. In the capital, Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif imposed emergency measures and troops patrolled in machine-gun mounted trucks. Thousands were detained around the country.

"My arrest won't make any difference. The struggle will continue," Bhutto said in a brief speech to about 40,000 supporters at a Rawalpindi park. Then she and party leaders were surrounded by 200 police and taken away.

Bhutto agreed to board the plane for Karachi after the government promised to release all opposition party supporters who were members of Parliament.

Bhutto, an articulate politician with a well-tested ability to attract crowds, says that Sharif's Islamic government is corrupt and repressive and rose to power through rigged elections. She wants President Ghulam Ishaq Khan to establish an interim government that would oversee new elections.

But her demands are unlikely to be met. Sharif's government has a solid majority in Parliament.
Man convicted for exposing woman to AIDS

HOUMA, La. (AP) — A man was convicted Wednesday of violating a state law that makes anyone exposed to the AIDS virus.

Salvadore Gambarella, 28, was convicted of exposing his former girlfriend and their child by having sex with her without telling her he was infected.

Gambarella testified that he told Darla Trosclair that he carried the HIV virus; Trosclair said he never told her.

Trosclair has tested positive for the HIV virus. Their child has not.

Neither Gambarella nor Trosclair has been charged with a crime.

DETROIT (AP) — A man beaten to death, allegedly by police swinging flashlights, had alcohol and traces of cocaine in his system when he was killed.

Malice Green had traces of cocaine in his blood when he was killed, according to an official who reviewed autopsy reports.

Dr. Phil Predmore, a toxicologist for the Oakland County medical examiner’s office, said today that a urine alcohol test — unlike a blood alcohol test — would not give a damn if he had a gallon of liquor in his system, there’s no excuse.”

Dr. Predmore, a toxicologist for the Oakland County medical examiner’s office, said today that a urine alcohol test — unlike a blood alcohol test — does not indicate whether a person drank enough to be impaired.

A person with alcohol in his urine may have no alcohol in his blood, Predmore said.

Green, 35, died of head injuries after being bludgeoned Nov. 5 on a street near a suspected crack house.

The final touches

Dave Krummen, a sophomore from Planner Hall, rehearses a scene from “A Place Called Candid” one last time before the premier of the Sophomore One Act Plays tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the LaFayette Ballroom.

Those who brought you The Freshman Four now present:

The Sophomore One - Act Plays

TONIGHT!

7:30 p.m., LaFayette Ballroom

Admission is $1

Sponsored by the Sophomore Class Council
CAMPUS MINISTRY...

WHAT'S THE FUTURE OF THIS RELATIONSHIP?

Frequently couples will come into the Campus Ministry Office hoping for a compatibility test, to see if they are truly meant for each other. Others come looking for an article on relationships that they might read or advice on what they should do now that they are interviewing for jobs that might separate them in the future.

They feel that their relationship is special, but just aren't sure of the next step. Should they look for jobs in the same city or should they test the relationship with some distance? Should they get engaged now or should they work for a year or two first and establish some career goals?

Campus Ministry has offered programs for engaged couples for many years, but a program for the engaged is not appropriate for a couple still exploring their relationship - the decision is not yet made; and the decision might eventually be to go on the relationship.

There are many issues and questions facing couples in significant relationships:

- how can we determine if we're really ready for marriage?
- should we try to find jobs, or pick graduate schools, that are in the same city?
- how will a long distance relationship affect us?
- how can you express your true feelings without pressuring commitment?
- how will the demands of career/graduate school affect our relationship?
- how might differences in our families of origin affect our relationship?
- how can we communicate better?

What's the Future of this Relationship? a program which Campus Ministry offers, includes one presentation on the stages of relationships and another on decision-making. There is also a marriage expectations quiz, but no compatibility test! There is time for responding to questions individually, and time for discussing answers with one's partner. A group-discussion period and a "folder of articles for additional information and reflection" are also offered.

If you are in a significant relationship and are asking the questions mentioned above, perhaps you would like to attend this semester's program.

"What's the Future of this Relationship?" will take place on Thursday, December 3, 6:30 - 10:30 p.m. Pre-registration required. Registration papers can be obtained in both Campus Ministry Offices (Library Concourse and Badin Hall). Deadline registration is November 30. There is no cost for the program. If you have any questions, please call Chris Etzel or Patty Ballard-Raccuglia, 239-5242.

Chris Etzel
Mariage Preparation and Enrichment Program

Famine relief agency notes hunger at home

The Challenge of Adult Christianity

Campus Ministry is organizing a project to invite undergraduate students at Notre Dame to join together in small groups of men and women, and over the course of time to share and work and pray together in such a way as to help one another to grow into a deeper Christian faith and sense of personal maturity.

Campus Ministry will offer a meeting format and suggested topics for the early discussions of each group, and will provide ongoing support for the group's shared life as it matures over time in trust and focus.

The original commitment is for a series of six meetings during the Spring semester of 1993, with each group to decide after that whether to continue its life in the coming year.

Sign-ups for the program, offered to first year, sophomores, and junior class students, will be held from November 30th until December 17th. An opening day "rally" for all potential community members will be held in LaFayette Ballroom on Saturday, January 16, 1993.

A further description of our hopes for this program will be presented in the next "considerations..." column.

Tom McDermott, C.S.C.

WEEDEND PRESIDENTS AT SACRED HEART BASILICA

Sat. November 21 5:00 p.m.  Rev. Richard Warner, S.C.
Sun. November 22 8:30 a.m.  Rev. Edward Malloy, C.S.C.
11:45 a.m.  Rev. William Beauchamp, C.S.C.

SCRIPTURE READINGS FOR THIS COMING SUNDAY

1ST READING  2 Samuel 5, 1-3
2ND READING  Colossians 1, 12-20
GOSPEL  Luke 23, 5-43
Dear Editor:

As many of you entered the dining hall today, you may have noticed—some to your great dismay—that "cold turkey" is for lunch. College students have a new labeling system in the works? I mean, isn't the turkey always cold? What will be next? "Cold peas" or "Cold meatless buns"?

Not to fear, trusted reader, the dining hall is not experimenting with a new labeling system but merely aligning with the Notre Dame chapter of the American Cancer Society to make a point. Today—Thursday, Nov. 19, 1992 is National Smokeout Day, which is the first day of every fourth year (election day, for those of you still in "South Bend".

The Great American Smokeout is an event which is held on the third Thursday in November—yes, a date occurring more often, and more eagerly anticipated than the first Tuesday in November. In November of every fourth year (election day, for those of you still in "South Bend") The Great American Smokeout—also called National Smokeout—was originally founded in 1977, but its roots reach as far back as 1971—to the birth of the senior class, and the day that Arthur P. Mullaney—a resident of Randolph, Massachusetts—ran a successful campaign to fund a scholarship for Randolph High School students.

Mullaney raised the scholarship money by challenging the smokers of the town to donate the money which they would have spent on cigarettes—for one day. So, you're wondering why the challenge is only for one day? Well, aside from the fact that—believe it or not—the dining hall could run out of cold turkey—for one day. Today. And, for those "purists" non-smokers, do not think that you will be outsmarted. We invite you to encourage a friend, an acquaintance, and—yes—as you do attend a Christian school—even an adversary to beat his or her addiction. So, you're wondering why the challenge is only for one day? Well, aside from the fact that—believe it or not—the dining hall could run out of cold turkey, the American Cancer Society believes that if smokers quit for one day, they may quit for a lifetime.

I recognize that this is an educated reading audience and that not all smokers want to quit. Therefore, I will not print the plethora of effects that smoking has on everybody’s life. I will tell you, though, that the goal of the 1992 Great American Smokeout is to help 25% of smokers give up cigarettes for 24 hours. So, now that we’ve introduced you to the Cancer Society’s challenge, the ball is in your hands.

Kick back, turn on the radio, and let doing the Butt take on new meaning for you as you squash your butts out—for 24 hours. An intended joke? Close, but no cigar!

If you didn’t know that today is National Smokeout Day, then let your 24 hours begin now. And, by the way, enjoy your cold turkey sandwich.

The Observer would like to thank all those who have written letters of support concerning recent events on the Viewpoint pages. In order to focus on more timely issues, we’re holding your responses. Our final decisions regarding the matter will be published Nov. 12, 1992, reaffirming our commitment to free speech in a context that will not misrepresent The Observer. Thanks to all the students, faculty, alumni and other concerned readers who supported our actions.

Serious injuries after victory over Penn State are forgotten

Dear Editor:

I have been a Notre Dame sports nut: renting a car in South Bend at 10 a.m. to drive to Purdue and buy tickets on the dead run to watch the Irish revenge the awful loss of 1950, driving to watch our team attempt to climb Don Schlundt’s dead run to watch the Irish revenge the awful loss of 1950, driving to watch our team attempt to climb Don Schlundt’s

But I haven’t read, seen or heard anything about the game of the NCAAs in Iowa City in 1954, getting back to St. Louis just in time for the routine Saturday morning quiz in human anatomy.

I have also noticed British soccer hooliganism: people killed in their dozens—because they’ve been trampled in a mass surge to invade the pitch. I know that at least two people were seriously injured after our thrilling comeback against Jim Paterno and his team; one in an intensive care unit for the better part of two days, the other still, so far as I know, dazed. But I haven’t read, seen or heard anything about that anywhere in the local media, nor do I know of a locally effective policy intended to insure that such potentially murderous behavior does not recur.

Adrian Stevenson

Thursday’s Verse

Thursday's Verse, P.O. Box Q, ND, IN 46556

DONESBURY

YOU KNOW, SAM, YOU'RE
VERY LUCKY TO BE RISING
UPON A BENCH SUCH AS THIS.

HERE YOU WILL HAVE THE CHANCE TO OUDNE A MOST EXCELLENT VIEW— THAT
OF THE CITY. IT IS THERE
THAT TRUE DARES AND DEEDS FIRST
ARE GIVEN TO YOU.

THE SURF IS AN AWESOME
THING TO TRY. IT CAN
LEAVE YOU UNMAGNIFIC-
ENT, AND JUST AS
SEND YOU CRASHING IN A
POOR MANNER.

WHY WAIT? LET'S GO
NOW!

BUT THERE'S A
WAVIN' PANTS
UP ON THE BEACH?

Ring them bells, submit.
QUOTES, P.O. Box Q, ND, IN 46556

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Freedom rings where opinions clash."

Adlai Stevenson

Ed Manier

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556 (219) 239-5303

1992-93 General Board

Editor-in-Chief

John Rock

Managing Editor

DAVID KIRKIN

 advertisi ng Manager

MARCIA YATES

Business Manager

RICHARD RILEY

News Editor

RICK MOODY

Sports Editor

MICHAEL SOUZA

Accent Editor

JILLIAN HARRIANG

Photo Editor

MARGARET SEMPIONE

Saint Mary's Editor

JANNA TOTTER

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary’s College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible.Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor. Commentaries, letters and inside columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.
‘New homeless’ are different from ‘old’

Editor’s note: The following article comes from Out of Shelter, a book about the homeless by Peter Rossi.

It is important to summarize what has been learned about homelessness from the social research of the past several years before examining what that knowledge implies about possible solutions.

The following points deserve recapitulation:

1. The new homeless were concentrated in a few segregated districts in the large cities. The new homeless tend to be dispersed more widely over the urban landscape, making extreme poverty and homelessness far more visible.

2. The new homeless are strikingly worse off than the old homeless. However, inadequate housing in the old cubicle hotels may have been, they still provided a modicum of shelter. A majority of the new homeless are completely without shelter, and the remainder are provided shelter in unsatisfactory dormitory accommodations.

Urban housing markets have been disrupted by the pervasive housing crisis, especially for unattached persons and for recently formed poor households. While much has been done to prevent homelessness, the lack of effective housing for young urban professionals, little or nothing is provided for the young urban poor. Furthermore, however, persons who are homeless may have been, their income levels were several magnitudes above those of the new homeless (in constant dollars).

3. The old homeless were almost all unattached men; many were old men at the end of their working years. The prospects for reattaining traditional life-course trajectories appear to be better for some of the new homeless than they would have been for the old.

4. The old homeless had a niche within the social ecology of the labor market, furnishing labor for seasonal or short-term, low-skilled jobs. The market for such jobs has shrunk considerably with the advent of new technologies. The new homeless—unskilled and often disabled—have little or no function to play in today’s urban labor market.

5. The old homeless were primarily whites. In contrast, the new homeless are drawn heavily from minority groups. In cities with high proportions of blacks, the homeless are overwhelmingly black. In other cities with large Hispanic or American Indian minorities, these groups constitute major portions of the homeless.

6. The characteristics of the new homeless elicit more sympathy, perhaps, than the “old men drunk and sober” of the Skid Rows of the past. It is more arresting and disturbing to see homeless persons dotted all over the downtown urban landscape than to have them concentrated in readily avoidable areas of the city, and even more disturbing when some of the ragged and dirty are women and men in what are considered their prime years.

7. The new homeless serve as reminders that the social welfare safety nets begun during the Great Depression and significantly augmented in the 1960’s are failing to prevent extreme destitution among an increasingly large portion of the urban poor.

8. The failure of the welfare system to cover those who are vulnerable to homelessness is a long-standing fault of a system that essentially ignores the come-support problems faced by unattached adults. The Reagan administration has not succeeded in dismantling any significant portion of the net, but has made the mesh so coarse and weak that many fall through and hit bottom. Those who are disabled by the handicaps of minority status, chronic mental illness, physical illness, or substance abuse are especially vulnerable.

9. The social welfare system has never been more attentive to unattached men, but now it appears to be as unresponsive to unattached females. The slow erosion of the safety net has left gaps in the system through which have fallen the men and women of the streets, the shelters, and the welfare hotels.

10. Likewise, the social welfare system does little to help families support their dependent adult members. Many of the old homeless, those of the 1950’s and early 1960’s, were pushed out or thrown away by their families when they passed the peak of adulthood, having reached age fifty or sixty.

11. Many of the new homeless are products of a similar process, but one that begins at age twenty-five or thirty. With their disabilities, they have exhausted the patience and resources of relatives and friends no longer willing or able to support them.

As a result, homelessness now looms large on our political agenda, and there is much concern about what can be done. I have suggested a number of measures that might be taken to reduce homelessness to a more acceptable level. These include:

- providing for the failure of our housing market by fostering the retention and enlargement of our urban low-income housing stock, especially housing appropriate for unattached persons;

- reversing the policy of the last two decades that has put personal choice above institutionalization for those so severely disabled that they are unable to make choices that will preserve their lives and physical well-being;

- entering the concept of disability to include conditions of mental or emotional character, and in particular, recognizing chronic mental illness and chronic alcoholism for the profound disabilities that they are;

- restoring the real value or welfare payments to levels above bare subsistence, to the purchasing power of the late 1960’s and;

- extending welfare benefits to unattached adults who are not senior citizens and the households that provide them with shelter and support.

There is considerable public support in the United States for a social welfare system that guarantees a minimally decent standard of living to all. Homelessness on the scale currently being experienced is clear evidence that such a system is not yet in place.

That the current level of national prosperity is literally without historic parallel is likely to be clear evidence that something can be done about the problem if the national will is there. I have tried to stress that public policy decisions have in large measure created the problem of homelessness. They can solve the problem as well.
Christians must fight abortion

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter written by Stephan Chisholm (The Observer Nov. 9, 1992) and to all those who share his view that abortion is a serious issue.

The abortion issue is not just another in a myriad of issues concerning the people of this nation; it certainly should not be for a true Christian. If to be a Christian means to imitate Christ, then we as Christians are called to spread the gospel of love, God's love. Love your neighbor. Die to self. Take up your cross and follow me.

The gospel message is full of instruction and advice on how to better the lives of others on how to better their lives and seek eternal life in the glory of heaven. I do not recall ever having read statements from Jesus instructing His followers on how to better their eternal lives, or how to better the lives of others in this world.

We are told in the Bible that Jesus, born in a manger, lived much of his life as a humble carpenter not a lucrative business. Had he lived in our time, he would have probably been a tenant farmer. Think of the obstacles on how to better the lives of others. How can a carpenter (not a lucrative business) be expected to impart knowledge on how to better one's life? No! The gospel message is full of instruction on how a follower can attain eternal life in the glory of heaven and how to better their lives. The gospel of Christ should be the center of one's life, not a mission of cashing in on the income of a sharecropper or a tenant farmer or aantu farmer. We should be providing our followers with the tools to better their lives, not the tools to make them money.

I believe that the truth of our message is encased in the people of this country who so much as to die for their beliefs. I think of those who were crucified. He, God's own Son, humbled Himself to save us. He was crucified.

I think of those closest friends, familym from whom our enemies. It is not being extremistic, humiliation by those who stripped Him in public and mocked Him, and the torment of seeing those who loved Him, especially His own Mother, weep for Him. This is who we profess to follow. Do we really try to imitate Christ or are we only trying to protect those historians who trust the man and exist known and His story.

If we are Christians, people truly trying to imitate Christ and follow His teachings, then we must make abstinence, or rather the butchering of dozens, or rather the butchering of dozens (for this is the gross reality of abortion) the central issue in our lives.

To sacrifice all, not to mention the lives of our innocent, to riducle, to save one life is to be Christ. To try to do a task that is beyond our ability, to murder one's own flesh and bone. God does not want us working developing within her, to be saved and her from harm.

It is our obligation as Chris- tians to fix our eyes on Christ, or to focus on the misfortunes of others. There are also times when one may need to do something to be or be too busy to sit down in the temple to pray. In such cases as well, one should be able to pass through the dining hall and grab something that boosts one can later or on another day. For example, one should be able to send a friend to do them this.

The rules about taking food from the dining hall say that every piece of pastry are allowed out the dining hall for fear that we have taken an extra piece of food.

The abortion issue is not just another in a myriad of issues concerning the people of this nation; it certainly should not be for a true Christian. If to be a Christian means to imitate Christ, then we as Christians are called to spread the gospel of love, God's love. Love your neighbor. Die to self. Take up your cross and follow me.

The gospel message is full of instruction and advice on how to better the lives of others on how to better their lives and seek eternal life in the glory of heaven. I do not recall ever having read statements from Jesus instructing His followers on how to better their eternal lives, or how to better the lives of others in this world.

We are told in the Bible that Jesus, born in a manger, lived much of his life as a humble carpenter not a lucrative business. Had he lived in our time, he would have probably been a tenant farmer. Think of the obstacles on how to better the lives of others. How can a carpenter (not a lucrative business) be expected to impart knowledge on how to better one's life? No! The gospel message is full of instruction on how a follower can attain eternal life in the glory of heaven and how to better their lives. The gospel of Christ should be the center of one's life, not a mission of cashing in on the income of a sharecropper or a tenant farmer. We should be providing our followers with the tools to better their lives, not the tools to make them money.

I believe that the truth of our message is encased in the people of this country who so much as to die for their beliefs. I think of those who were crucified. He, God's own Son, humbled Himself to save us. He was crucified.

I think of those closest friends, familym from whom our enemies. It is not being extremistic, humiliation by those who stripped Him in public and mocked Him, and the torment of seeing those who loved Him, especially His own Mother, weep for Him. This is who we profess to follow. Do we really try to imitate Christ or are we only trying to protect those historians who trust the man and exist known and His story.

If we are Christians, people truly trying to imitate Christ and follow His teachings, then we must make abstinence, or rather the butchering of dozens, or rather the butchering of dozens (for this is the gross reality of abortion) the central issue in our lives.

To sacrifice all, not to mention the lives of our innocent, to riducle, to save one life is to be Christ. To try to do a task that is beyond our ability, to murder one's own flesh and bone. God does not want us working developing within her, to be saved and her from harm.

It is our obligation as Chris- tians to fix our eyes on Christ, or to focus on the misfortunes of others. There are also times when one may need to do something to be or be too busy to sit down in the temple to pray. In such cases as well, one should be able to pass through the dining hall and grab something that boosts one can later or on another day. For example, one should be able to send a friend to do them this.
Accent

Keeping the faith

Communities ND brings students together to gain a better understanding of faith in their lives

By MATT CARBONE

Accent Writer

Notre Dame has always been known as a place that nurtures and strengthens a person’s religious faith. Now, through the efforts of Campus Ministry, there is an additional means by which to do this — Communities ND.

Communities ND is a new program developed by Campus Ministry in which “small Christian communities” of ten undergraduates meet for prayer, Bible study, and discussion of issues facing adult Christians in the modern world.

The purpose of these small faith groups, according to Kate Barrett, a staff member of Campus Ministry and one of the program’s founders, is to “integrate students’ faith into what it means to be an adult, and to get students talking about things they otherwise wouldn’t talk about.”

Barrett and others in Campus Ministry have been working on starting and having the program since the second semester of last year.

Every two weeks, the group will meet in the dorm of one of its members. There will be a reading and discussion of the upcoming Sunday’s Gospel, followed by a discussion of a topic concerning Christianity and worship in the present day.

Each group will be comprised solely of students, both male and female. The only basis that will be used for the formation of the groups will be at what times during the week each student is free, as indicated on the student’s application form.

Besides forming the groups, the only other way in which Campus Ministry will be involved in Communities ND is in the suggestion of topics to be discussed. Campus Ministry suggests these topics “to help the group become more stable and trusting,” says Father Tom Mc Dermott, another staff member and founder of Communities ND.

Suggested topics for next semester include “Families and Our Faith” — how did we learn our religion form our parents, “Relationships”, and “Turning Faith into Action.” Communities ND is “designed to invite people to take more responsibility in their own lives,” says Mc Dermott. “The real hope is that the students will energize people to service.”

Mc Dermott says that students have been looking for ways to come to a better understanding of their faith, and for ways to integrate this faith in their lives. He noticed a need for a program like Communities ND at the retreats held for graduating seniors.

“Again and again, I saw these graduates coming out of the retreats saying, ‘I wished I’d talked about these things sooner,’” says Mc Dermott. Through Communities ND, Campus Ministry hopes to remedy this situation by getting students talking about their faith in the earlier years of their academic careers.

Ideally, the faith groups would be formed in undergraduates’ freshman years, and would be kept together for all four years of the members’ time at ND. This year, however, sophomore and junior students as well as freshmen, will be allowed into the program.

For those interested in joining the program, sign-up forms will be available after Thanksgiving break in both the Bavin Hall and Hesburgh Library offices of Campus Ministry.

The program’s directors ask only that each student commit for six meetings; at that point, a participant is free to decide whether or not he or she would like to continue.

Each student also has the option of signing up with a friend, although Barrett does not necessarily recommend this, saying that Communities ND will be a good chance to meet new people.

Students interpret Shakespeare’s work through performance

By KENYA JOHNSON

Assistant Accent Editor

“There is something rotten in the state of Denmark.”

Students across the country would probably agree in identifying this famous quote from Shakespeare’s “Hamlet,” but few would understand it as well, as indicated on the student’s English course, but there is also Shakespeare’s “Hamlet,” but a fair amount of performing which takes place in the class.

“Traditionally there’s been a conflict existing between theater direction and literary critique,” said Rathburn. “We’re merging of the two different, almost conflicting perspectives is what makes the course so intriguing, according to Rathburn.

“The class attempts to create a marriage between theatrical approaches to Shakespeare on one hand and literary approach to Shakespeare on the other,” he said.

The students are asked to study the meter and verse of a line as well as the stage directions, which are imbedded in the text. Essentially, to fulfill both literary and theatrical approaches, the students must read closely and understand the text completely.

Young Laura Niemann said she didn’t really know what to expect from the class.

“It really is so much more intense than other literature classes because of the theatrics,” said Niemann. “I thought actually the class might be rather dry, but it’s far from it.”

Characters must be thoroughly researched in order to do a complete job. “To act out Benedict in just one scene of Act II of ‘Much To Do About Nothing,’ the student must know ‘everything’ about Benedict,” explained Rathburn. “Just reading the scene would not be enough. You must understand the whole Benedict character in order to portray him successfully.”

In the course, Rathburn stresses that plays are much more than documents or a history of ideas.

“‘The plays were not intended to be read quietly,’ he explained. ‘Shakespeare wrote his works to be performed.”

“If you just look at a musical score by Beethoven, all you would see is notes. You don’t have a symphony until it’s performed, just as you don’t have a Shakespeare play until it’s performed,” said Rathburn.

Shakespeare works depend upon the interaction of the text, the actor, and the audience, all of which are present in Rathburn’s classroom.

Students are judged not on their acting ability, but rather on their reasoning for the way they choose to act out a scene. The interpretations reveal how closely a student has read and how well they have understood the play, according to Rathburn.

Rathburn is not the only crusader on this literary quest. Mrs. Carol MacLeod, wife of Notre Dame basketball coach John MacLeod, teaches the students various acting and directing maneuvers that will help express clear, effective scenes.

MacLeod is a New York actress and has recently founded an acting theater.

“Don’t say enough about my class,” said senior Joanne Blasi. “We learn how the scenes really work. It’s also neat to work together and with Mrs. MacLeod and perform a production. People really get into it,” she added.

Shakespearean Performance is a recently established course resulting from a Lilly Foundation Grant. The class began in the 1988-1989 academic year and has by far been the “most dynamic” class, according to Rathburn.

Correction:

An Accent article in Wednesday’s Observer mistakenly referred to Phil Colen as the new member of Def Leopard. The name of the new member is Phil Campbell. The Observer regrets this error.
Wisdom said, "It's a chance of a lifetime," Syracuse guard Terrence Woods said. "It's the biggest happening ever at East.

"We're looking forward to it," Syracuse guard Terrence Woods said. "It's a chance of a lifetime."
NBA Individual Stats

NBA Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Position</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Avg. Stats</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Points</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Rebounds</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Assists</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Individual Categories

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Stats</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Points</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Rebounds</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Assists</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Team Records

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Week</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Boston Celtics</td>
<td>4-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Golden State Warriors</td>
<td>4-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Money Awards

- MVP Award: LeBron James
- Rookie of the Year: Luka Doncic

NBA Awards

- All-NBA First Team: LeBron James, Giannis Antetokounmpo, Kevin Durant, Stephen Curry, Nikola Jokic
- All-NBA Second Team: Anthony Davis, Pascal Siakam, James Harden, Bradley Beal, Luka Doncic

NBA Records

- Most points in a season: 72 points (LeBron James, 2018)
- Most rebounds in a season: 25 rebounds (Dennis Rodman, 1987)
- Most assists in a season: 25 assists (Steve Nash, 2006)

NBA Awards

- Most Valuable Player (MVP): Giannis Antetokounmpo
- Rookie of the Year: Luka Doncic
- Defensive Player of the Year: Joelembel Etue

NBA Records

- Most points in a season: 72 points
- Most rebounds in a season: 25 rebounds
- Most assists in a season: 25 assists

NBA Announcements

- Free Agent signings
  - LeBron James to the Miami Heat
  - Anthony Davis to the Los Angeles Lakers
- Trade Deals
  - The Golden State Warriors acquired Kevin Durant from the Brooklyn Nets
  - The New York Knicks traded Kristaps Porzingis to the Dallas Mavericks

NBA International Players

- International Earned
  - Giannis Antetokounmpo (Nigeria)
  - Draymond Green (Australia)
- International Drafted
  - Luka Doncic (Serbia)
  - nutzenis Giannis (Greece)

NBA News

- Team News
  - The Boston Celtics announced the extension of a four-year contract with Jayson Tatum
  - The Los Angeles Lakers acquired Rajon Rondo in a trade deal
- League News
  - The NBA and NBPA reached a tentative agreement on a new collective bargaining agreement
  - The NBA announced the cancellation of its upcoming overseas exhibition games in China due to the ongoing trade war with the United States

NBA Scoring Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LeBron James</td>
<td>Miami Heat</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Giannis Antetokounmpo</td>
<td>Milwaukee Bucks</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kevin Durant</td>
<td>Brooklyn Nets</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Rebounds Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Rebounds</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Joelembel Etue</td>
<td>Phoenix Suns</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anthony Davis</td>
<td>Los Angeles Lakers</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dewayne Dedmon</td>
<td>San Antonio Spurs</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Assists Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Assists</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chris Paul</td>
<td>Los Angeles Clippers</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Wall</td>
<td>Washington Wizards</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rajon Rondo</td>
<td>Boston Celtics</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

NBA Individual Categories

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Stats</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Points</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Rebounds</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Team Records

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Week</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Boston Celtics</td>
<td>4-0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Golden State Warriors</td>
<td>4-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Money Awards

- MVP Award: LeBron James
- Rookie of the Year: Luka Doncic

NBA Awards

- All-NBA First Team: LeBron James, Giannis Antetokounmpo, Kevin Durant, Stephen Curry, Nikola Jokic
- All-NBA Second Team: Anthony Davis, Pascal Siakam, James Harden, Bradley Beal, Luka Doncic

NBA Records

- Most points in a season: 72 points
- Most rebounds in a season: 25 rebounds
- Most assists in a season: 25 assists

NBA Announcements

- Free Agent signings
  - LeBron James to the Miami Heat
  - Anthony Davis to the Los Angeles Lakers
- Trade Deals
  - The Golden State Warriors acquired Kevin Durant from the Brooklyn Nets
  - The New York Knicks traded Kristaps Porzingis to the Dallas Mavericks

NBA International Players

- International Earned
  - Giannis Antetokounmpo (Nigeria)
  - Draymond Green (Australia)
- International Drafted
  - Luka Doncic (Serbia)
  - nutzenis Giannis (Greece)

NBA News

- Team News
  - The Boston Celtics announced the extension of a four-year contract with Jayson Tatum
  - The Los Angeles Lakers acquired Rajon Rondo in a trade deal
- League News
  - The NBA and NBPA reached a tentative agreement on a new collective bargaining agreement
  - The NBA announced the cancellation of its upcoming overseas exhibition games in China due to the ongoing trade war with the United States

NBA Scoring Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LeBron James</td>
<td>Miami Heat</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Giannis Antetokounmpo</td>
<td>Milwaukee Bucks</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kevin Durant</td>
<td>Brooklyn Nets</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Rebounds Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Rebounds</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Joelembel Etue</td>
<td>Phoenix Suns</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anthony Davis</td>
<td>Los Angeles Lakers</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dewayne Dedmon</td>
<td>San Antonio Spurs</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NBA Assists Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Assists</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chris Paul</td>
<td>Los Angeles Clippers</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Wall</td>
<td>Washington Wizards</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rajon Rondo</td>
<td>Boston Celtics</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Temple fires Berndt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Temple University officially ousted coach Jerry Berndt Wednesday, just before the end of his four-year term in a five-year contract.

The firing is effective after the game Saturday against Rutgers, Temple president Peter Liacouras said in a statement. Berndt could not be immediately reached for comment.

Liacouras said the university would pay for Berndt's final year from private donations, not public funds. He did not say whether a successor would be named.

"A change in personnel is always painful for everyone involved," Liacouras said. "It is even more difficult when the person is an honorable and decent as Jerry Berndt."

Temple officials allowed rumors to grow over the past week as school officials confirmed Clemson assistant Ron Dickerson had interviewed for the job.

And in Miami last weekend, the Owls had to deal with distracting rumors about their coach's job instead of a game-of-the-week top-ranked Hurricanes. Temple lost 48-0.

Hockey

continued from page 20

attention away from himself and prefers to concentrate on the team aspect of hockey.

However, as much as he would like to remain out of the spotlight, Ling ultimately has a difficult time doing it if he continues to produce points at his pace. The Irish look forward to the team aspect of hockey.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Southland Steamboat

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND

throughout the next four years.

There has been speculation that some players are unhappy that Steve Collins did not start at quarterback last weekend in a 15-15 tie against Oklahoma State.

Collins had played the previous two games in place of Cal Gundy, who was injured, and the Sooners had looked especially impressive in beating Missouri 51-17.

Most players refused to comment as they left the meeting, although those who did comment said it had nothing to do with the quarterbacks.

Gundy boiled through reporters and said, "There's no problems, no problems at all."

Later, Gundy returned and said the meeting did not go as well as he had hoped and the Sooners had looked especially impressive in beating Missouri 51-17.

Robert Correia, a senior linebacker, said the meeting had nothing to do with the Sooners' problems, no problems at all."

If you go back and watch the Oklahoma State film ... Cale will tell you himself that he wasn't the best player for that situation."

Linbacker Reggie Barnes, who said Gundy, is a coach, said "the things that were said were said for the betterment of this football team, not to cause any heartache or problems."

Logan Volunteers

Logan center is corner of Eddy & Angela-

 Logan center is corner of Eddy & Angela-

down road from JACC

Questions? Allie X3872

Juliette X4825

Logan center is corner of Eddy & Angela-

down road from JACC

Questions? Allie X3872

Juliette X4825
Indiana win highlights first night of preseason NIT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana ran its motion offense but the easiest points came when the Hoosiers were standing still.

Greg Graham scored 22 points Wednesday night and No. 4 Indiana used some deadly free throw shooting for a 103-80 victory over Murray State in the first round of the preseason NIT.

"I guess we concentrate more on free throws," Graham said. "I mean ... free throws are free throws. That's what they call them free throws."

The Hoosiers, 1-0, took a 33-36 lead at halftime and led by as many as 27 points as the Racers (0-1) repeatedly sent Indiana to the foul line. The Hoosiers hit 37 of 42 attempts, including 12 of 13 by Graham. Murray State made 15 of 21 free throws.

"The main thing is to concentrate," Graham said. "Free throws are really going to be important for us, because those are easy points. You're not going to get any easier points than free throws."

The victory sent Indiana into the second round of the tournament Friday night at home against No. 17 Tulane, a 70-54 first-round winner over Wagner on Wednesday night.

Calbert Cheaney and Alan Henderson each had 13 points for the Hoosiers, who have four starters back from last year's Final Four team, while Chris Reynolds and Damon Bailey each scored 12.

Florida St. 89, Siena St. 80

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Siena coach Mike Deane found out firsthand what he missed when Bobby Sura chose to attend Indiana State in preseason NIT.

"The main thing is to concentrate," Deane said. "Free throws are really going to be important for us, because those are easy points. You're not going to get any easier points than free throws."

The victory sent Indiana into the second round of the tournament Friday night at home against No. 17 Tulane, a 70-54 first-round winner over Wagner on Wednesday night.

"I guess we concentrate more on free throws," Graham said. "I mean ... free throws are free throws. That's what they call them free throws."

"With guards like that, you go to them because they can answer," Florida State coach Pat Kennedy said. "They're both just great guards."

Cassell had nine assists filling in for Charlie Ward at point guard for the Seminoles (1-0), who remain at home for a Friday night quarterfinal game against Iowa State. Florida State hit 19 of 26 shots in the second half and shot 60 percent. The 6-foot-5 Sura, last year's conference rookie of the year, made eight of 11 shots.

It was never in doubt after that. The Cyclones began running their fast break with abandon and built the lead to 78-51 on Howard Eaton's three-point play with 6:06 to play.

Ron Bayless scored 13 points for Iowa State, which shot 61.5 percent in the second half, while Eaton and reserve Morgan Wheat finished with 12 points each.

Tulane 70, Wagner 54

NEW ORLEANS — Tulane had the opening-night jitters, but shook them off to beat Wagner Wednesday night in opening round action.

"For the first time out of the box, I think the kids did a good job," Tulane coach Perry Clark said. "They were a little flustered at times, but it was a good win for us. They (Wagner) are going to want to win 20 games this year. This win is going to help our power ranking later in the season."

Antony Reed scored 20 points — six in the three seconds of overtime — as No. 17 Tulane rolled early over persistent Wagner.

Indiana State faces Indiana in the second round Friday night at Bloomington, Ind.

Valvano set to return

(API) — Five months after being diagnosed with cancer, Jim Valvano returns to work Friday night to broadcast the quarterfinals of the preseason NIT on ESPN.

"I feel pretty strong and I'm looking forward to getting back to work," Valvano said in a telephone conference call Wednesday. "When my eyes open each day and my feet touch the floor, I thank God for the day I have and say 'let's go get 'em.'"

Valvano takes treatment for his cancer every two weeks as an outpatient at Duke University Medical Center and every six weeks he spends two or three days in the hospital where he is treated with chemotherapy.

"I fight every day and it's an every day battle," he said. "Every day you get up and you go to work and you think about fighting and thank God for the day you have."

Last June, the ex-North Carolina State coach was diagnosed with metastatic adenocarcinoma, a cancer that can start in an organ or in glands and spread throughout the body. "When I found out, my reaction was not anger, it was incredulity," Valvano said.

My reaction was, 'Run that first again.' It was incomprehensible, followed by helplessness. I was no longer in control. I had always felt in control over my destiny and dignity. Being a cancer patient, you don't feel that control."

Valvano said he has pain in his lower back, hips and knees caused by the cancer. The chemotherapy treatment causes nausea ups sets his hands and feet and ringing in his ears. He has not experienced the baldness that usually occurs.

I have the toughest hair in the country," he said. "It's a medical miracle."
Berea, Ohio (AP) — Bernie Kosar returned to practice with the Cleveland Browns on Wednesday for the first time since he broke his ankle in September.

Coach Bill Belichick, however, is taking a wait-and-see attitude about how long it will be before Kosar can play. Belichick has already said he will stick with Mike Tomczak as his starter for Sunday's game at Minnesota.

"I can only go by what I see," Belichick said. "You can't plan too far ahead on this. You don't know what the circumstances are going to be.

Kosar has been sidelined since Sept. 14, when his right ankle was broken as he was sacked by Miami linebacker John Offerdahl. The injury occurred in the second quarter, but Kosar remained in the game and nearly rallied the Browns to victory in the closing minutes.

Kosar missed last 27-23 on Mark Higgs' touchdown run with seven seconds left. Doctors originally thought Kosar would need about six weeks to heal, but it has already been nine weeks.

"He'll start out going through drills and running some scout plays," Belichick said. "He's been going through rehab. Now he's ready to take the next step."

Wednesday's practice was closed to reporters, as usual, and Kosar said through team spokesman Kevin Byrne that he would prefer to wait until Thursday before commenting on how his ankle felt.

Should the Browns decide to activate him this week, they would have to clear a roster spot. Backup Brad Goebel, who had been serving as the backup to Mike Tomczak in the absence of Kosar and Todd Philcox, has not played since Sept. 20, when he broke his thumb in a win over the Los Angeles Raiders. He was activated for last Sunday's game against San Diego but saw no action.

Cleveland has gone 0-2 with Kosar, 1-0 with Philcox and 4-3 with Tomczak.

Practically Speaking...

Who should I contact?

John H. Gordon, EAD

*Consultant NOVA (PBS)
* Consultant 20/20(ABC)
* Consultant, Kennedy(NBC)
* Advisor, California State Archives

Monday, November 23 7 p.m.
Carroll Hall

$1 donation at the door, proceeds will go to the St. Jude Athletic Association.
Remember the less fortunate during Thanksgiving.

The Observer is searching for students who have experience working with Aldus Freehand, Adobe Illustrator, or QuarkXpress to work in the Ad Design Department. Please contact Kevin Hardman at 239-7471 if interested.

Career opportunities at J.P. Morgan

Interviews for Notre Dame seniors interested in Corporate Finance will be held in Chicago on Friday, January 8, 1993

Please submit a cover letter and resume by November 20 to:

Alice Richardson Fisher
60 Wall Street
J.P. Morgan & Co. Incorporated
New York, NY 10250-0060

JPMorgan

J.P. Morgan is an equal opportunity employer

Godfrey perfect choice as Irish swim co-captain

By ERIK JOHNSON

Sports Writer

The world of swimming is a wet and lonely one, especially at 6 A.M. on a snowy, windy, January morning. Many swimmers get tired of this sport, which involves swimming back and forth in a pool of chlorinated water and getting nowhere, after 6 or 7 years.

One would think that after 16 years of competitive swimming, John Godfrey would have been ready to hang up his goggles. His hard work and dedication to swimming at Notre Dame over the last 16 years has been three years of competitive swimming, but also for the experiences he has gained over the last four years.

Swimmers are a group of people who stick together and form life-long bonds. He feels fortunate to have formed these bonds with the others who swim. "It is one thing that I will have for the rest of my life, I will carry with me," commented Godfrey.

Godfrey, like almost all swimmers, has one goal left—the NCAA meet. Godfrey admits that he is thinking about qualifying for the NCAAs since he entered college. Although he has not achieved this goal yet, when he looks back over his college career, Godfrey sees nothing but satisfaction. "It has been very much worth it, and hopefully I'll still have some good times to come."

John Godfrey

NEW YORK (AP) — Barry Bonds' value as a free agent went up a little Wednesday after he was named the National League Most Valuable Player for the second time in three years.

Bonds was an easy winner over Atlanta's Terry Pendleton, receiving 18 of a possible 24 first-place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Bonds finished with 304 points, followed by Pendleton with 232 points, including four first-place votes, and San Diego's Gary Sheffield with two first-place votes and 204 points.

"I think this is probably the most important one because this one I'm giving to my mom. She deserves it," Bonds said of his second MVP award.

Bonds, the son of former major league player Bobby Bonds, led the Pittsburgh Pirates to their third straight NL East title by hitting .311 with 34 homers and 101 RBIs. He also scored 109 runs and walked 127 times.

The left fielder also won the MVP award in 1990 and was runner-up to Pendleton last year. He is the 10th player to win more than one NL MVP, joining such Hall of Famers as Stan Musial, Willie Mays and Ernie Banks.

"I have a lot of reactions," Bonds said. "Last year, statistically I thought I had a shot. I was very happy for Terry Pendleton. He's a good friend of mine."

For winning MVP honors, Bonds gets a $1 million bonus from the Pirates. That raised his 1992 income to $5.05 million.

"I never set goals for myself," Bonds said. "I prepare the same way every year. I would do the same things if you paid me one dollar."

The difference this winter is that Bonds is preparing to play for a new team in 1993. The Pirates will replace their field tender with a field tender who will be a looking at a contract that pays him at least $7 million per season.

The teams most interested in Bonds are the New York Yankees and Atlanta Braves. During the NL playoffs, Bonds went house hunting in the Atlanta area.

"Maybe by next week things will be a little clearer," said Bonds. "I don't really want to get involved in the negotiations. My agent will let me know what's going on."

The teams most interested in Bonds are the New York Yankees and Atlanta Braves. During the NL playoffs, Bonds went house hunting in the Atlanta area.

"Maybe by next week things will be a little clearer," said Bonds. "I don't really want to get involved in the negotiations. My agent will let me know what's going on."

Bonds has emerged as one of the best players in the major leagues because of his all-around abilities.

"I want to do it again," Bonds said of the MVP award. "I'm 28. I want to be the first to do it four times."
Holmes, Snyder Saint Mary's Twin Towers

By KILEY COBLE
Sports Writer

Belles basketball fans will be able to see their version of the Twin Towers perform on the court together this year.

Last year, seniors Julie Snyder and Kim Holmes both played center, so they played different times on the court. This year, however, Holmes is playing lead forward and will play the same time Snyder does, who retained her center spot.

Holmes has no problems in changing positions this year. "I played forward in high school and liked it. I'm happy just to play," noted Holmes.

These two players are used to spending time together, as they are both roommates and best friends. "People ask us if we get sick of each other," Snyder said. "We even have to guard each other during practice, but I never get sick of Kim." Holmes said that it is not a problem doing everything together with Snyder, because the two are so laid back about things.

The Twin Towers and the rest of the team did not look laid back yesterday afternoon, as they smashed Bethel College in a practice scrimmage, 105-50.

Snyder and other teammates concede that the whole team this year contributes to the success the Belles are already showing. "Because there's no one star, it seemed exciting to be a part of a developing program," said Riley.

Riley paces Irish sophomore class

By BRIAN KUBICKI
Sports Writer

The women's cross-country team had big expectations for its 13 freshman last season. There was no question they were going to be good, the question was who would be the best.

Sarah Riley in her sophomore year has emerged as the best in that talented class, and the best for the team this season as well.

After running solidly as a freshman but placing consistently behind classmates Eva Flood and Stefanie Jensen, Riley established herself early this season, pacing an Irish victory at the National Catholic Championships by taking the individual title.

"All of us are so close together, I just happened to be the one (who led the team)," explained Riley of this season's leadership on the course. Despite this close competition from her teammates, she was the team's top finisher up to the end of the season.

Riley finished off her season with impressive performances in her two last meets. Her first place finish in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference meet helped bring the team title back to Notre Dame. Then two weeks later at the NCAA District meet, she finished 16th, again pacing the Irish squad which finished in fourth place at the competitive meet.

Fourth place was not enough for the women to earn a bid to nationals, but Riley found good to accomplish for the experience. "Next year we hope to be in the top 15 in nationals and in the top ten my senior year," noted Riley.

Those seem like lofty expectations for a program that was elevated to varsity status only five years ago, but Riley found joining the unestablished team attractive for that reason. "I wanted to make an impact and be on the verge of attaining that goal this season and next season I school which finished in fourth place at the competitive meet.

Fourth place was not enough for the women to earn a bid to nationals, but Riley found good to accomplish for the experience. "Next year we hope to be in the top 15 in nationals and in the top ten my senior year," noted Riley.

Those seem like lofty expectations for a program that was elevated to varsity status only five years ago, but Riley found joining the unestablished team attractive for that reason. "I wanted to make an impact and it seemed exciting to be a part of a developing program," said Riley.

Riley brought with her to South Bend lots of talent and hefty credentials that hinted of the impact she would make. While running for Capolindo High School in Moraga, California, Riley garnered an individual conference title each of her four years and was the state champion her junior year.

At Notre Dame though, Riley has focused her attention on the team. When asked about individual goals, she responded, "Cross country is a team sport. I really really want us to go to Nationals."

Riley and her young teammates have placed themselves on the verge of attaining that goal this season and next season it seems almost certain. All that remains to be answered is whether Sarah Riley will lead them there or if yet another of the talented class of '95 will be the pace-setter.

The Observer/Marguerite Schropp
Senior forward Kim Holmes, shown here against Olivet last season, is one of the two Twin Towers for the Saint Mary's basketball team.
THINGS TO DO...

SPACEBALLS

Rick Moranis and John Candy blast off to a spaced-out universe where the wackiest of characters will have you laughing out of your seat! Now showing on Thursday.

MOVIES are shown at 8 pm and 10:30 pm in Cushing Auditorium.

STAR TREK VI

Beam aboard for the ultimate adventure in the final chapter of the Star Trek saga to THE UNDISCOVERED COUNTRY

Friday and Saturday. Don't miss it!
Phonz still flashes that same winning smile

By MIKE SCRUDATO

Juniors Frank Tolson, Tyrone Outlaw and Colin Carr made the most of the opportunity to be a part of the NBA's most exciting teams this season.

The Nuggets have a young and talented team, and Phonz was a key player in the team's success. He averaged 16 points and 8.2 rebounds per game, helping to lead the team to a 14-2 season.

Phonz is a keynote speaker at the annual NBA Awards Ceremony, where he will receive the award for Most Valuable Player. He has also been named to the All-Star team and is considered one of the best players in the league.

However, after TD's retirement and Danny White stepping down as head coach, the Cowboys are on top of the world. They have a young and talented team, and they are looking to make a deep run in the playoffs.

The Cowboys are a team that is built on teamwork and chemistry. They have a strong core of players, including Tony Dorsett and Danny White, and they are one of the most talented teams in the league.

In conclusion, Phonz still has that same winning smile. He has proven to be one of the best players in the league, and he will continue to be a key player for the Cowboys for many years to come.

For more information, see PHONZ/page 16.