WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton will give his first televised address to the nation Monday night, promoting an economic program that top administration aides say Sunday would ask for sacrifices from all Americans.

The administration said the president's plan would propose closing loopholes to specific spending cuts to save money, while a top Democrat in Congress said that the president would tell Americans what he believed should be affected by a new broad-based tax on energy.

The White House confirmed Tuesday that in its effort to control the deficit, it was considering limits that in its effort to control the deficit, it was considering limits on the payments received by doctors and hospitals under Medicare, the giant government program that supplies health care for 35 million elderly and disabled Americans.

Officials said that Clinton was still making final decisions on the outlines of the huge package, but based on a variety of comments, the economic plan was shaping up to be the largest deficit-cutting package in history, proposing about $250 billion in spending cuts over five years and what Republican said would be $250 billion in tax increases over that same time period.

White House officials conceded Sunday that virtually every American would be asked to contribute to the plan, either through benefit cuts or higher taxes.

President Clinton

"I am not going to tell you that this package is going to exclude anybody," White House budget director Leon Panetta said on CNN's "Face the Nation." As part of a stepped-up sales effort, the administration announced that Clinton would address the nation from the Oval Office at 9 p.m. EST Monday. Officials said Clinton would speak for only 10 minutes and would not reveal any specifics of the package that he will unveil Wednesday night in a joint address to Congress.

George Stephanopoulos, Clinton's chief spokesman, said the president would tell the American people, "We're all in this together. Everybody is going to be asked to do their fair share."

Several Republicans said Sunday that they believed the administration was going overboard on tax increases and promised stiff opposition to the program unless more was done to cut spending.

Clinton campaigned on a pledge to cut incomes taxes for the middle class while raising taxes on higher incomes. In addition, he promised to cut the budget deficit in half by 1997 by increasing government investment in highway construction, worker retraining and other spending.

However, administration officials said Monday that the middle class tax cut will be sacrificed because of soaring interest costs. But they said the middle class will be asked to pay higher taxes in the form of a new energy tax.

Stephanopoulos said that the administration planned to take the fight to the special interests, saying at one point the administration sees ECONOMY: page 4

Debates reach quarterfinals

By COLLEEN KNIGHT

News Writer

The quarterfinals of the Iceberg Debates will begin tonight as the top eight teams of the tournament debate whether health care professionals should be prohibited from assisting terminally ill patients in self-administered suicide.

These goals will be achieved, with the highest ranked teams competing against the lowest ranked teams, according to chairman Amy Listerman. In the preliminary rounds, teams were paired randomly, and the teams with the best records advanced to the quarterfinal rounds.

The debates have gone smoothly so far, Listerman said, despite that they had to add a tiebreaker round to determine the seventh and eighth seeds for the quarterfinals. Morrissey defeated Pangborn and Alumni B defeated Keenan in Thursday night's debate and Alumni C defeated the positive position on the resolution that Notre Dame should recognize pro-choice student groups.

Tonight's quarterfinal rounds will have three judges instead of two, in case of a tie, deciding which team advances.

Top seeded Breen Phillips will face Alumni B and second-seed Dallaway tonight.

Wilkinson announces future goals of her administration

By PATRICE MILLER

An increased student activity fee, another laser printer and stairmasters for Alumni Athletic Center are the future goals of MaryBeth Wilkinson, the Saint Mary's student body president-elect.

The first issue that her administration will address is the increase in the student over five if the activity fee is increased. The Board of Government will have more funds available, allowing more flexibility to work on the other goals, Wilkinson said.

But she warned, "Everything is not going to happen this year. It's going to be a lot of work before we're there."

Wilkinson is concerned with students making the most of the facilities Saint Mary's has to offer, such as Dallaway's Coffee House and Haggar College Center. She hopes to attract students to use these features by arranging for prominent female speakers to come to the campus, she added.

A long term goal of her administration is increasing Dallaway's popularity with the student body, said Wilkinson.

The plans for Dallaway will include renovations, allowing student workers to participate in the work-study financial aid program and launching a publicity campaign to attract more entertainers and bigger audiences.

The goals for Haggar include poetry readings and offering more interaction on an informal level, according to Wilkinson and professors. Wilkinson hopes to attract more extra-curricular and social activities that will encourage students to use the facilities that are available to them, she said.

Another goal is the investigation of the discrepancy between the departmental curricula of the advanced W's and the Senior Comprehensive, she continued.

Even the lonely can enjoy Valentine's Day

Some strange things have happened this past week.

Building an entire Lufthansa plane of passengers and crew at day with a pistol.

Wilbur, the Spokelunker, supposedly got around 30 votes in the student government runoff, but they weren't counted because the powers that be decided only to count the votes for the officially registered candidates.

The head coach of the University of California basketball team landed the top recruit in the country over UCLA. St. P 南warded for this by being fired.

And then, of course, there was Valentine's Day.

I have never been entirely fond of February 14. I may be lonely on the 14th. But I'm not alone in my loneliness.

I share my situation with the Police song "Message in a Bottle." In the song, Sting sings about an lonely island castaway who puts an SOS message in a bottle and throws it into the sea. One morning, he finds a million bottles washed up on the shore. "I'm not alone in being alone," he says.

That's how I feel. I may be lonely on Valentine's Day, but I'm not the only one. That, at least, can get me through the day. And for some of us, that's Valentine's Day.

Marky Mark denies being racist

Marky Mark says he beat a Vietnamese man in 1985 not because he's racist, as authorities contended, but because he was drunk and high on marijuana and wanted the man's beer. The 21-year-old rapper, whose real name is Mark Wahlberg, served 45 days of a 90-day sentence for the beating. Wahlberg, who is white, also was involved in two attacks on black elementary school children in June 1986. He and two others followed the children shouting "Kill the niggers" and throwing rocks, according to court documents. Wahlberg signed an agreement that he would refrain from racist attacks. However, he called that incident "a yelling match between me and some kids."

Malloy wants more graduate programs

MALCOLM X. Pitt. Notre Dame's graduate programs should parallel its athletic and undergraduate programs, President Rev. Edward "Mee" Malloy told the university's trustees. "If Notre Dame can become more of an actor in graduate education, I think we might have more of a role in influencing government and other national organizations," Malloy told the 50-member board during its winter meeting over the weekend at the Blod-Carleton Hotel. "As the leading Catholic institution in the country, we think we should have greater input into international policy-making."

Below are the boards of directors operating in the same world as the Ivys. St. Stan's, Vanderbilt, Duke, Southern Cal and Northwesterns," Malloy said. Notre Dame has 23 Ph.D. programs, but Malloy and the trustees would like to see more added in the areas of literature, history, government, and civil, electrical and computer engineering.

Platt receives Lilly Faculty Fellowship

By MEGAN BRUCHAS

News Writer

Thomas Platt, associate professor of biology at Saint Mary’s College, is the recipient of a Lilly Endowment Faculty Open Fellowship for the 1993-'94 school year. Platt, one of 10 faculty members chosen by the Endowment from Indiana schools, has decided to use the grant to study parasites of Australian turtles. Platt and his family will leave this summer and spend three months in Australia, working at James Cook University in Townsville. Platt has spent several years trying to find the parasite Spirorchids, which has not been found in South America, Africa or Australia, he said. "I wanted to be able to have the opportunity to look at turtles in one of those areas," said Platt. Platt will take specimens with him from other turtles that he has collected for comparison. Specimens found throughout Australia will be studied at the University.

"It’s very exciting and scary to go to a place that you have never been before and uproot your family," said Platt.

The endowment is a mid-career opportunity for professors going on sabbatical. It provides extra funds to improve their research.

The Lilly fellowship differs from most because the research that the professor does must somehow go back to the school. Platt said he hopes to introduce parasitology into his molecular biology course or possibly introduce a separate course in this area. He also hopes that this opportunity will help with senior comprehensive projects and get students involved.

"It would be my hope to have a number of people doing small parts of the whole project," said Platt.

NASA releases photos of shuttle crew cabin

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA released Sunday photos of the space shuttle Challenger’s smashed crew cabin after they were made public by a New York man who sued under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

The space agency said 45 photos show debris from the wrecked crew cabin became public documents after they were released to New York artist Ben Sarao on Feb. 3.

Sarao had submitted a Freedom of Information Act request for the pictures in 1990. It was denied, appealed and then became the subject of a federal lawsuit against the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The lawsuit was settled earlier this month.

Sarao released the photos to The New York Times, which published one of them Sunday.

The photos "are far fewer than what he had originally requested," said NASA spokesman Jeff Vincent.

The pictures were taken after the crew cabin was recovered from the Atlantic Ocean in January.

All seven astronauts aboard the Challenger, including New Hampshire schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe, were killed when the shuttle exploded shortly after takeoff on Jan. 28, 1986. It crashed into the sea off Cape Canaveral, Fla.

"NASA screened the photos very carefully saying that this privacy consideration, that longer family would be protected," Vincent said.

The families were consulted throughout the process and none of the astronauts’ personal effects are shown in the photos, according to Vincent.

The pictures include parts of an airlock the astronauts passed through for depressurization, parts of the rear wall of the crew cabin and a window frame from the shuttle, Vincent said.

Tyson lawyer to argue for appeal

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Mike Tyson should get a new trial because a judge blocked testimony from witnesses challenging the truthfulness of testimony from witnesses who say they watched Tyson rapist her six months earlier in his Indianapolis hotel room.

Tyson, 26, was convicted Feb. 16, 1992, after a jury found him guilty of raping a woman in his limousine because the passionate scene between the two people was witnessed by the spectators. They argued that the evidence should have been allowed because it was relevant to the case.

Appeals lay out the strategy both sides will follow in oral arguments before a three-judge panel.

Tyson's defense team discovered at mid-trial three witnesses who say they watched Tyson and Washington making love in the back of his limousine.

"We believe the witnesses that would have contradicted Washington's testimony that she and the boxer never touched each other in the car after she rebuffed an initial kiss.

The Indiana appeals judges on Monday will hear the challenge to an appeals court ruling in part they came to support the Marion Superior Court's decision to keep the witnesses off the stand, ruling in part they could not testify forward too late.

The state, led on appeal by state Attorney General Mark Beutt, chief deputy attorney general, says the witnesses' testimony would have been incorrect.

tration was "going after the doctors and hospitals" because they were to blame for healthcare cost spiraling out of control.

While insisting that Clinton was still making final decisions, he and Panetta indicated that the administration was considering limiting payments to doctors and hospitals in the Medicare program. Neither would address a New York Times report that such a plan would save $35 billion or more over four years.

"We've got to confront the issue of healthcare costs in the budget," said Panetta, noting that Medicare and Medicaid, which provide healthcare for the poor people, represent half of the projected growth in the government's deficit in coming years.

In an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press," Stephanopoulos said that in addition to the possible spending cuts in the Medicare program, the administration is considering returning to Capitol Hill Thursday morning for a televised town-meet-and-answer session with lawmakers.

"The president's plan to reform Medicare's economic package, which.panetta said that proposals to eliminate unnecessary programs and streamline government services would save $34 billion over the next four years.

The administration has said it would seek to boost the top income tax rate for Americans making more than $200,000 per year to 36 percent, up from 31 percent.

Nine Vanderbilt students hurt in fire at university

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Nine Vanderbilt University students were injured Sunday morning in a fire that erupted while they were removing paint from statues outside a fraternity house, university officials said.

One of the students, Robert Tidwell, 19, Atlanta, was in critical but stable condition at Vanderbilt University Medical Center suffering from burns, hospital spokesman Lee Poston said Sunday.

Tidwell's injuries were not believed to be life-threatening, said Steve Caldwell, Vanderbilt's associate dean of students.

Four other students were listed in fair condition with burns at Vanderbilt, Poston said. They were identified as Mark Burgett, 19, Buffalo Grove, Ill.; Curt "Chip" Lemka, 18, Houston, Texas; Tony Vitale, 19, Santa Monica, Calif.; and Chris Eller, 19, Wayne, Ind.

Caldwell said the students were injured about midnight during a social event at Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Apparently the students were attempting to remove paint from lion statues outside the fraternity house when the paint remover they were using ignited and began to burn uncontrollably, he said.

Caldwell said the can of paint remover also may have ignited.

Organizers: More gangs interested in peace summit

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Gangs from around the country have expressed interest in taking part this spring in a national peace conference for street gangs, an organizer said.

Gang leaders from Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and Minneapolis met earlier this month in Washington, D.C., to pledge peace and announce the national gathering scheduled for April 30-May 2 in Kansas City.

Organizers have been meeting with gang leaders from several states to organize a summit.

Carl Upchurch, the summit's chief organizer, said after a weekend planning session Monday, the summit's organizers plan to bring together more than 100 gang leaders.

"We've got to confront the issue of health care costs in the budget," said Panetta, noting that Medicare and Medicaid, which provides health care for citizens, while making more than $200,000 per year, to 36 percent, up from 31 percent.

"We're going to propose a surtax on millionaires.

Here Upchurch is director of the Council for Urban Peace and Justice in Granville, Ohio. News of the summit was greeted with skepticism by police, said Sgt. Hardie Smith, coordinator of the Police Department's street gang task force.

The violence often associated with the gangs represented at the Washington meeting - Crips, Bloods, Different Nation - were enough to make Kansas City police wary of the conference.

"We still have some major concerns," said Upchurch.

"We'll address any safety concerns at an open forum when the conference opens.

WASHINGTON (AP) — All through the presidential campaign, the voters kept this little secret: No matter how much President Clinton unveils when he unveils his economic plan Wednesday, they were convinced he would raise taxes on just about everyone.

But don't expect them to like it when President Clinton unveils his economic plan Wednesday and proves them right, testing his relationship with the American public at an early crossroads of his presidency.

WASHINGTON (AP) — All in Washington, on the dollar bill in your pocket may be the most familiar likeness of America's first president, but it's no match for the best portrait.

Researchers at Mount Vernon, George Washington's colonial home, say that among the numerous likenesses of the first president, the 1796 portrait by Gilbert Stuart, which is in the basis for the dollar bill portrait, is one of the least flattering and may be the least similar to the founding father.

"People have this one image burned into their brains, and this is the image they see being made fun of in February, choppy prices with his hatchet," said Ann Rauscher, a spokeswoman at Mount Vernon, and a museum.

In Washington's day, artists couldn't do his portrait, eager to make money by reproducing it, either by hand from the original or on engravings, Rauscher said.

Through the years, painters had Washington standing at his bucolic Mount Vernon estate, the site of the first capital of Princeton: majestically leading his troops across the Delaware River for wintering intensely from Stuart's unfinished canvas.

Charles Willson Peale is credited with the first authentic rendering of the general. He painted seven versions, starting with a 1772 portrait of Washington at 40.

His most famous likeness has Washington at the Battle of Princeton in 1779, one hand on his hip, the other on a cannon. The head has an oval shape, narrow jaw, thin nose and acuminate mouth.

Issues test labor's White House ties

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — Organized labor thinks it has a friend in the Oval Office after 12 years of Republican rule, but the new relationship has yet to be tested on issues such as health care reform and trade, which mean the most to labor.

“We’re going to have our disagreements,” said George J. Kourpias, president of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. “But we had disagreements before. At least now we know somebody is going to be listening.”

Kourpias and other labor officials said in interviews that although they foresee friction with the Clinton administration on some important issues, the Democrats’ return to the White House can only be welcome news.

“It’s going to be a friend of labor — 100 or 1,000 times the friend that the previous two presidents were,” said Robert Carson, executive secretary of the Hawkeye Labor Council, an AFL-CIO body representing about 100 local unions in seven Iowa counties.

“We want somebody who is going to have sympathy for our concerns. I think we have that here,” said Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers.

Labor unions figure they need some sympathy after the Reagan and Bush years. The Republican administrations generally sided with those who argued that unions had too much power in the workplace and that the federal government should try to reduce unions’ ability to limit hiring to union members.

Relations with the Clinton administration will be a principal topic of discussion at AFL-CIO’s executive council meeting this week in Bal Harbour.

Bush’s private life is now low profile

HOUSTON (AP) — Life as a private citizen has given Bob Dole a chance to get out of the headlines and do something else impossible while living in the White House — pick up his own takeout lunch.

“He didn’t give us a warning,” said Lusie Coleman, who works at Otto’s Barbecue. “We’d been looking for him to come by soon. We’re always glad to see him when he comes.”

When Bush showed up earlier this month to pick up a “half order of links, half beef, beans and a Diet Coke,” he came with only two other men, Ms. Coleman said.

Bush has followed his plan to keep a low profile, granting no interviews and just-one photo opportunity since coming to Texas after President Clinton’s inauguration on Jan. 20.

Tourists cruise through his new neighborhood eager for a glimpse of the home he and wife, Barbara, are renting while their new house is built on an adjacent lot.

“They’re super people,” said Robert Koster, a plumbing contractor working on their new home. “I was so impressed by them, I couldn’t even tell you what they said. I was kind of in awe of talking to them. But they were very nice.”

Bush was seen at a recent Houston Rockets-Chicago Bulls basketball game with his son, Neil. He staffed arranged for pictures to be taken during a visit by Turkish President Turgut Ozal.

“I’m not going to interview,” Bush reminded reporters who showed up for the photo session.

His spokesman, Andrew Maner, feeds off calls from the media and others seeking the ex-president’s attention, saying Bush wants his privacy.

Survey: Most disagree with King acquittal

NEW YORK (AP) — Most American jurors would have convicted the four Los Angeles police officers acquitted on most charges last year in the videotaped beating of Rodney King, according to a new survey.

The poll also found that when jurors face a conflict in testimony between a police officer and a defendant, 51 percent of the jurors said that justice would not necessarily be served. Among black jurors, 70 percent felt this way.

While jurors have trouble believing police officers, they are impressed by expert witnesses, according to the poll.

Ninety-five percent of jurors who heard expert testimony during criminal trials were impressed by it; 68 percent found it very believable and 27 percent found it somewhat believable.

Deere teams with Mayo Clinic

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — In a sparkling new building employees of the world's leading maker of farm machinery are lining up to see four new doctors at a company clinic created in cooperation with one of the nation's top medical centers.

Deere & Co. teamed with the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. to establish the facility where the goal is to cut company health care spending while preserving high-quality treatment.

The prestige of the Mayo
name helped win
Deere employees to abandon their family doctors, officials said.

Opened in January, the state-of-the-art clinic has its own lab and drive-up pharmacy. Minor surgeries are performed. It already is considered a success in attracting patients.

"We signed up 13 percent of the eligible population," said Michael Hammes, president of John Deere Family Health Plan.

"We were left with fewer good-paying patients. And, as a result, we won't be helping as many patients who have the ability to pay," said Dr.
James Bull, a family physician in Siberia.

Deere plans to build a second clinic near a factory complex in Waterloo, Iowa, and may expand its clinics' services to other area companies.

"Clearly Deere is in this as a business, and we're looking at the commercial possibilities," Hammes said.

Both partners want to see if medical costs can be controlled by physicians following disease management strategies developed by Mayo and Deere under a company grant.

"Some call it cookbook medicine and say every patient is different," said clinic director, Dr. Richard Bartsh. "It's not a cookbook. We're simply removing question marks by applying as many disease management strategies as we can. Every patient wants to practice good medicine, and this will help," Deere spokesman Rob Combs said.

Deere's work with Mayo Corp. has led to the company's first comprehensive marketing campaign.

In 1976, Parkinson's disease erected a company Grant to Deere with $1.303 million.

"A major challenge was to establish the facility where workers would be treated by someone they would trust and respect, " said4 Deere's Robert Burnett of the clinic.

This week, the company collapsed its five clinics into a new arrangement.

"We're not sure what the cost will be, but we're trying to make sure the program is financially sound," said
Deere's Jeffrey Thompson.

The clinic, which is commercially run, will be managed by Texas Medical Management Inc.

Mr. Thompson said the company will pay
Deere's 1.203 million
employee health package.

"The clinic's an insurance company branded service, " he said.

"This is a first step in developing a comprehensive employee health plan." Deere's Thompson said.

"We're looking at the benefits of building a health
management program, " he
said.

"We're looking at the benefits of building a health
management program, " he
said.

Devout communists buy into capitalism

VOLGOGRAD, Russia (AP) — Lenin stared down from a freestanding portrait as Viktor Perchin, who fought Stalingrad, filled up and became the first worker to own a share in the tractor factory where he has worked for 39 years.

How did Perchin, wounded defending communism in World War II, feel about being a pioneer of Russian capitalism?

"I'm a member of the Communist Party! I never left it!" Perchin said at a privatization gala in this Volga River city, formerly Stalingrad, that for two generations was the Communist Party's shining symbol of victory over fascism.

The 83-year-old electrician, who visited the factory where he works, said Stanislav Prokopenko, an electrician who visited the privatization center with his wife, Olga, an engineer.

They plan to invest in the cement factory where he works, he said, because "we know that's stable."

For hours, Volgograders invoked workers from the Russian State Property Committee to have to invite the investors. They sought assurances that their tiny slices of the pie would not be worthless when a new bankruptcy law takes effect March 1 and the state-curtailed subsidies to insolvent firms.

"We learned a lot, but we won't buy this time around," said Volgograd's mayor, Yury Bulatov.

In the next few months, as many as 12 more Volgograd firms are sold.

For hours, Volgograders quizzed workers from the Russian State Property Committee on how to invite the investors. They sought assurances that their tiny slices of the pie would not be worthless when a new bankruptcy law takes effect March 1 and the state-curtailed subsidies to insolvent firms.

LONDON (AP) — On the fourth anniversary of a death edict against writer Salman Rushdie, Iran's spiritual leader reiterated that the order was irreversible and called on Muslims to kill him.

Rushdie, an Indian-born naturalized Briton, immediately went into hiding and has surfaced only occasionally to give speeches in the United States, Britain and Scandinavia.

He has been constantly guarded by British police and shuttered from address to address to elude what would be assassination.

The British government sev­ ered diplomatic ties with Iran over the incident, and government officials and writers around the world have urged Tehran to re­ scind Khomeini's edict, or "fatwa."

But Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, Iran's spiritual leader, said: "The fatwa on the apostate Salman Rushdie must be imple­ mented without a doubt, and it shall be implemented."

"It is the duty of all Muslims who can reach this mercenary writer today to remove this harmful being from the path of Muslims," Tehran Radio quoted Khomeini as saying at a meet­ ing in Tehran of Islamic clergy and students.

The broadcast was monitored in London.

An Iranian government char­ ity has offered $2 million plus expenses for Rushdie's execution.
Humanae Vitae is a prophetic call to reason and sanity

When President Clinton revoked the "gag rule" on abortion counseling and moved to allow homosexuals in the military, a discussion generally centered around these as unrelated issues. In fact, both abortion and "gay rights" are closely related. This 25th anniversary of Humanae Vitae, Pope Paul VI's 1968 encyclical on birth control, is a fitting occasion to ask many of the questions which abortion, the homosexual movement and other phenomena are manifestations of.

Contraception is wrong because, as Pope John Paul II said in Familiaris Consortii in 1981, "When couples, by means of recourse to contraception, separate these two meanings that God the Creator has inscribed in the being of man and woman and in the dynamism of their sexual condition, they devalue the arbiters of the divine plan and manipulate and degrade human sexuality and with it themselves and their married partner by altering its value of total self-giving.

It is a question, therefore, of domination: who is in charge, the man or the woman? For Humanae Vitae, incidentally, Pope Paul also explained the legitimacy of partial abstinence from sexual relations during the woman's fertile period, provided that such partial abstinence is practiced for "serious motives."

The general acceptance of the morality of the act of contraception is a major factor in the following developments:

• Abortion. Contraception is the prevention of life while abortion is the taking of life. But both involve the willful separation of the unitive and procreative aspects of sex. The contraceptive mentality tends to require abortion as a backup. And many so-called contraceptives are abortifacients that they cause the destruction of the developing human being.

• Euthanasia. Once the contraceptive ethic and abortion acrustomed people to the idea that burdensome lives are not worth living, the way was clear for euthanasia for the aged and the "useless." If man in the arbiter of when life begins, he will predictably make himself the arbiter of when life ends.

• Homosexual activity. If sex has no inherent relation to procreation, and if man, rather than God, is the arbiter of when life begins, he will make himself the arbiter of when life ends.

•Pornography. Like contraception, which reduces sexual relations to an exercise in mutual masturbation, pornography is the separation ofsex from life and the reduction of sex to an exercise in self-gratification.

• Promiscuity. According to Humanae Vitae, warned that contraception would cause women to be viewed as sex objects, that "man, grown used to the employment of anti-conceptive practices, may finally lose respect for the woman and, no longer caring for her physical and psychological equilibrium, may come to the point of considering her as a mere instrument of selfish enjoyment, and no longer as his respected and beloved companion.

• In vitro fertilization. Contraception is the taking of the uninvisable without condemning it. Objections to the legiti­

Graduate Student Union ‘fails to keep its promises’

The following is a critique of the work of the Graduate Student Union (GSU) in the past ten months.

There have been many failures to follow through on several worthwhile projects with the perception of how the GSU should work. Some of the blame must be shared by both the Graduate Student Council itself, which has been characterized as a perversion of how the student representatives and every single worthwhile initiative, as described in the First Amendment, has been frustrated.

The best way to uphold the First Amendment is to use freedom of speech to allow people to share information and participate in the democratic process. The president has shown a lack of thought towards the student representatives, and has failed to uphold the promise of democratization, by not taking any actions towards the GSU.

Organization provides free legal assistance to low-income individuals

By KATIE MURPHY

A young wife desperately wants to divorce her abusive husband. A couple is unfairly evicted from their home. An elderly man struggles to afford home health care for his ailing wife, who is afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease.

These situations don't seem too special until you consider the legal organization that fights their battles. The Legal Services Program of Northern Indiana is a private, non-profit corporation which provides free legal assistance to low-income individuals. The young woman, the couple, and the elderly man all sought help from Legal Services.

"It's easy to say there is equal justice for the poor, but in reality, there just isn't," said Deborah Cataldo, Legal Services community resource development director.

Legal Services seeks to fill this gap in the provision of justice. Founded in 1953 by a group of attorneys and community leaders, Legal Services serves 24 Indiana counties, and assists the help of 122 volunteers in offices in South Bend and Lafayette. A paid staff of 31 people is involved as well.

"Legal Services forced Legal Services to bring volunteers into the organization," Cataldo said.

The decision we made was to close the gap. We pulled together and initiate the volunteer program," she said.

Of the 122 volunteers currently working with Legal Services, 29 are Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. They work in areas ranging from client intake to attorney assistance and research.

"The volunteers gather all of the information about a client's problem and then give it to the attorneys to review," said Cataldo.

"The students bring with them a lot of idealism, a lot of heart, and a lot of energy," said Cataldo. "It's refreshing to have the volunteers in our program - a part of for four years," she said.

The student volunteers work up the "ladder" and gain legal experience as well.

According to Robin Cochrane, a senior at Saint Mary's majoring in psychology and English literature, "Even if you're not going into law, it's just fascinating. You learn so much about the legal system works."

Cataldo credits much of the program's success to the work and dedication of the volunteers. "We would not be able to operate without the students or the volunteers in our program. They're vitally important," said Cataldo.

"'Shades of Orange' now at the Snite

By JOHN CONNORTON

The art-world system inadvertently works to fix artists so that through success they are kept in the same slot that they are used to. One is encouraged to repeat, discouraged to explore..." reads the only placard to repeat, discouraged to explore. One is encouraged to the Snite Museum. "Shades of Orange" in tribute to Yogi's deep love of the color orange. From the gazgo, one is immediately struck by the presence of the color, sometimes just a little dash, at others its presence is bold and glaring.

"Shades of Orange" is part of the annual faculty show. It is currently on display in the East Galleries, I III O'Shaugnessy Hall through April 4. Many of the works of art professor Don Vogl, pictured above with a painting, are on display now through April 4 at the Snite Museum of Art. Vogl's watercolors do not fail to impress.

The center piece in the first room, "Forever Summer," is characteristic of Vogl's impressive acrylic work. Like many of his other acrylic paintings, "Forever Summer" is marked by tremendous strokes of orange and similar colors, red, pink, maroon.

Orange dominates most of Vogl's acrylic works, but he does not ignore the vast palette of the group of all artists. His numerous watercolors on display make wide use of all the colors in the rainbow. Depicting a wide range of backgrounds, including Morocco, France, Spain, Portugal, and even the Notre Dame campus, Vogl's watercolors do not fail to impress.

"It's refreshing to have the students and the enthusiasm for the work here," said Joe Adams, a junior majoring in economics and philosophy, has been a volunteer at Legal Services for nearly three semesters.

"It performs a necessary service because a lot of people who can't afford an attorney, don't really know about the law, and what their rights are," Adams said.

Aside from helping the community, students gain a learning experience as well, said Adams. "It's sort of a bubble here at Notre Dame. This program shows you into the real world," he said.

Karen Melchert, a senior communication major at Saint Mary's, agrees with Adams.

"It really has made me appreciate everything in my life. We're very secluded from the outside world on our campus," said Melchert.

For Melchert, who is interested in pursuing law, the work with the people was the most important aspect of her work with Legal Services.

"One thing that I have really taken away from this experience was giving back to the community which I've been a part of for four years," she said.

The student volunteers work up the "ladder" and gain legal experience as well.

According to Robin Cochrane, a senior at Saint Mary's majoring in psychology and English literature, "Even if you're not going into law, it's just fascinating. You learn so much about the legal system works."

Sabres’ win headlines NHL wrap

(AP) Indiana, which took a three-game lead over Michigan in the Big Ten, was two votes short of being the unanimous No. 1 team in the second Heisman poll.

The Hoosiers (22-2) won both of their previous two games, including a win over Michigan (19-4), which lost at home to Penn State and an impressive home win over Minnesota, and they got 39 of the 61 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky (18-2) held second despite splitting its games this week. While Michigan (20-3), which moved from sixth to third in the second ballot, has a commanding lead in the Big Ten.

The three luckiest guys in the world on Sunday were the three lucky ones who got to spend time with Mario Lemieux for the second overtime.

Junior Tootie Jones, who tallied 8 on 4-of-6 shooting.

To build on the momentum, Notre Dame went on a 10-0 run after a three from Ford, with Stephanie Smith scoring the final six points of the run. This run was key in the Irish's win over Dayton, tallying 18 total points off the bench. Sophomore guard Audrey Gomez was perfect from the three-point line.

Notre Dame improved their record to 11-10 overall, 7-4 in the MCC, while Dayton, who was paced by Sanders 17 and coming off the bench was 10-10- averaging in double-figures, and eight assists and is now senior co-captain Coquese Washington's teammate.

"I guess I'm used to it now," said Gomez of coming off the bench. "It doesn't really bother me."

Also leading the Irish was senior co-captain Coquese Washington, who had 11 points and eight assists and is now averaging in double-figures, and coming off the bench was junior Tootie Jones, who tallied eight on 4-of-6 shooting.

Notre Dame's win over Dayton was their third straight against an opponent they lost to earlier in the season. The Irish had beaten Boston College and USC, and kept close with Duke and Indiana.

But on February 7, the stress fracture bug hit the Irish again, as forward Carl Corwin went down with a foot injury similar to Kurowski's. Then Jason Williams, who had played solidly last week, started Notre Dame's win over hapless Dayton, suffered a bruised lung and was unavailable for Kentucky.

After the loss to the Wildcats, MacLeod ran down the discouragingly long list of injuries, and added: "...and Elmer Bennett has a broken finger." He paused. "Yeah, even our former players are getting hurt."

"With Bennett in Grand Rapids, Mich., playing CBA ball, Notre Dame had eight scholarship players available at tip-off Saturday, and it looked like the personnel situation could get no worse."

But things would indeed deteriorate further for MacLeod's team. Notre Dame had fought back to within three with just under 13 minutes left in the second half, but early in the second half, not only were the scholarship players that were available.

And Kentucky ran over the Irish.

"I'm not sure if we were bored, and began to falter against the Irish, plays with the players who made them. Kentucky quickly extended its lead, and never looked back on its way to a 19-point win."

Flying through the lane toward the basket and an easy two, his brother Jon appeared. Eight seconds later, he was gone. Mashburn went to the line and sank two free throws, pushing the lead to 11.

With one scholarship player remaining on the bench for the last 12:23, MacLeod had no chance to take out tired legs, and talk about terrible plays with the players who made them. Kentucky quickly extended its lead, and never looked back on its way to a 19-point win.

Injuries deplete ailng Irish lineup

By ROLANDO DE AGUIAR

On Saturday, Kentucky had a big assist on its visit to the Joyce ARC.

Specifically, Notre Dame, and its lack of depth. During the second half, when the second-ranked Wildcats were finally starting to look bored, and began to falter against the Irish, Notre Dame's bench ran out.

And Kentucky ran over the Irish.

John MacLeod knew his lineup was shallow before this season started. With the departure of four starting seniors, experience was a valuable commodity on the Irish bench. And Monty Williams was cleared to play, and the Irish had twelve scholarship players available.

But things took a turn for the worse. Coquese Washington announced plans to transfer to Texas, and freshman guard Keith Kurowski went down for the season with a stress factor. And then there were ten.

But Notre Dame often overcame their deficiencies in maintaining a record near 500 through the first 20 games of 1992-93. At 9-11 entering Saturday's game with Kentucky, Notre Dame had beaten Boston College and USC, and kept close with Duke and Indiana.

Women's tennis fails in upset bid

By RIAN AKEY

The SUB-sponsored movie "Singles" was a big hit at the Cushion Auditorium this weekend. For the Notre Dame women's tennis squad, however, singles—as in tennis matches—were not a winning strategy. The Irish fell behind 4-2 in both matches, eventually losing 6-3, 6-4 over Marina Sansosti, while Faustman outlasted Sheri Bass 6-2, 2-6, 6-2. In Sunday's match against the Volunteers, Lord cruised to a 6-3; 6-1 victory and Faustman won 6-4, 7-5. Notre Dame failed to win a match in the one through four positions in both matches.

Even after trailing 4-2 in both contests, the Irish could have pulled out victories by winning all their doubles matches. Notre Dame, however, could not respond to the pressure and managed only one win in its six doubles matches.

"That lone victory came against Kentucky when freshman Wendy Crabtree, paired with junior Lisa Tholen, won 7-6 (7-5), 6-4. The squad had high hopes for an upset going into the weekend, but still are not giving up hope. "We're all a little disappointed with how the matches turned out," said Lord. "We had hoped to do better, but now there's next weekend to look forward to. There's no time to dwell on it."

Notre Dame hosts Louisiana State and Texas Christian at Eck Pavilion this Friday and Saturday.

The Notre Dame women's track team travelled to Muncie, Ind., Friday for the Ball State Invitational, featuring five of the strongest running teams from the Midwest.

A number of excellent individual Irish efforts were overshadowed by the strong Ball State team performance. The distance events finished in first place with 63 points, trailed by Notre Dame with 42.5 and Ashland University with 42.5 points.

"We knew Ball State had a very, very good team, and they turned out to be tough in the distance events," said distance runner Becky Alferii, who took first place in the 1000 meter run Friday. "We had some really good performances individually, but we felt we could have done better as a team."

Ball State had equal distribution of strength in both the sprinting and distance events, placing a competitor in the top four in every race. Sprinter Tameka Borders won both the 55 and 200 meter dash, while Da'ruju Claiborne took first in the 55 meter hurdles. Cardinal runner Patty Baker won the mile run, edging Western Michigan runner Stacey Kilburn and Irish runners-Stefanie Jensen, Emily Husted, and Kristi Kramer.

In the key event of the meet, the 3000 meter run, Baker took first ahead of Notre Dame runner Eva Flood and another Ball State runner, Christie Wood, edged out Sarah Riley for third.

Two free throws by Jalen Rose with 6:01 to play gave the Wolverines their last lead, 78-76. "It was some solid defense and a Michigan team turnover on its next three possessions."

Brian Evans scored a season-high 17 points and No. 1 Indiana remained unbeaten in the Big Ten with a 93-92 victory over fifth-ranked Michigan on Sunday, the Hoosiers' 11th consecutive win.

The last win for Indiana (22-2, 11-0 Big Ten) came in double overtime at Penn State on Tuesday night when an admit- ted blown call by an official allowed the Lions to a chance to tie the game. Things looked bleak at home against the Wolverines (19-4, 8-3) early as the Hoosiers trailed by 13 in the first half. But Indiana's trademark defense came through as Michigan went without a field goal for 6 1/2 minutes until a last-minute 3-point barrage, including a shot at the buzzer that made the game seem closer than it was.

"The first point I want to make, and it is possibly the most important point of all was that we were able to leave the floor at halftime just down two points," Indiana coach Bob Knight said. "It nearly got away from us again but we did a really good job of hanging in there and our guys off the bench contributed."
CCHA upset refreshing for struggling Irish hockey team

"It's so much more fun to win."

Those were the sentiments of Notre Dame hockey coach Mike Schafer after the Irish knocked off No. 3-in-the-Nation Ohio State 3-2 in an overtime thriller on Saturday night. The Irish, who had lost 7-4 at Bowling Green on Friday night, rebounded with a solid effort and gained their first win since January 9.

"We work very hard and we deserve more," but we've gotten some tough breaks throughout the season," said Schafer.

"Tonight, we had the effort plus we got a break at the end."

After a scoreless first period in Saturday-night's game, Ferris broke into the scoring column at the 10:34 mark of the second period and gained a 2-0 lead with six minutes remaining in the session. However, with 1:49 left, Irish sophomore wing Brent Lamppa rifled a shot past Ferris goalie Craig Lisko for his second goal of the season. "I was just in the right place at the right time," said Lamppa.

"I knew we could come back," he commented. "It was just a matter of time."

After scoring six goals in his rookie season, Lamppa had scored only one goal this year until Saturday. "I've had plenty of chances, but I haven't been able to put it in," he said. "My stick connects, and maybe I'll start pecking for the playoffs to help the team."

Both teams had numerous chances to gain the lead in the third period, but defense prevailed. "We had a solid defensive effort and Dan Sawyer and Greg Logue played exceptionally," said Schafer.

Lamppa's goal injected new life into the Irish. "This is a monstrous win, because we've had so much adversity," added Lamppa.

The next match for the Irish is tonight, when they host Loyola-Chicago. The game begins at 7:00 in the auxiliary gym at the JACC.

Bettis hopes to impress at NFL combine

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While quartered in Texas, Mike Bettis, who feels he's come out among the top five prospects in an otherwise so-so crop of ball carriers, was among about 350 collegians at the annual NFL Scouting Combine ending today at the Hoosier Dome.

"I've done everything running, blocking, catching the football," said the 6-foot, 240-pound Bettis, who feels he offers the NFL a blend of power and speed. "Basically I just hope the interest (by NFL teams) is there, but I would really like to go with someone who will use me a lot. I think I can do a lot of different things, and I can upgrade the skills that I have."

New England has the first pick in the April 25-26 draft, while Seattle, which finished last in the NFL in offense last year, has the second selection.

"Muir, an outstanding athlete and leader. I think he's probably going to be a little better pro player than he was a college player because he's going to have more experience in a different setting, or having a mentor, that he didn't have at Penn State, and we were tired from travelling all day in Europe.

The next match for the Irish is tonight, when they host Loyola-Chicago. The game begins at 7:00 in the auxiliary gym at the JACC.

Bettis was one of 37 underclassmen who gave up their college eligibility for a chance to be drafted this year. Another was quarterback Drew Bledsoe of Washington State, who along with Muir is seen as a first-round certainty, possibly even the No. 1 pick.

"We weren't considering him until January when he declared he was coming out," Allman said. "When our evaluation is completed, I'm sure he's going to be one of the top five or six players."
Swim teams have successful weekend in Chicago
Men finish dual meet with victory

By ALLISON MCCARTHY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men’s swimming team ended their dual meet season Saturday with a solid victory over the University of Chicago-Illinois winning 127-100.

The men continued to show the balance and depth that has given them a dual meet season record of 11-2, losing only to Roger Green and 21st-ranked Purdue.

"We were very pleased with our team’s strengths," said Irish coach Tim Welsh.

Tom Horenkamp, a freshman from Bloomington, Ill., won both the 500 free and the 1000 free.

"This was our last tune-up meet prior to championships," Welsh said. "We were able to race a shorter format which encouraged us to pay attention to sprinting and sharpen our sprinting skills."

"This is a very positive note on which to enter the championship season," added Horenkamp. "We had speed when we needed it and endurance where we needed it. It’s a great way to wind the dual meet season."

Two of Saturday’s individual victories came from junior diver Sean Hyer. Hyer captured first place in the one meter and three meter diving events with respective scores of 296 points and 282 points.

The men continued to show the balance and depth that has given them a dual meet season record of 11-2, losing only to Roger Green and 21st-ranked Purdue.

"We were very pleased with our team’s strengths," said Irish coach Tim Welsh. "It illustrated the importance of team balance and the power of depth."

Notre Dame had 1-2-3 sweeps in four of the eleven swimming events—the 100 back, the 200 free, the 500 free, and the 1000 free.

"After eight of the nineteen events were over, we had won four and they had won four but we were still ahead by twenty-five points," Welsh said.

Tom Horenkamp, a freshman from Bloomington, Ill., won both the 500 free and the 1000 free at 4:52.4 and 10:01.1, respectively.

"When Jon and I were out of the game it obviously had a big impact," Welsh commented. "When Jon and I were out of the game it obviously had a big impact." "Tom Horenkamp, a freshman from Bloomington, Ill., won both the 500 free and the 1000 free at 4:52.4 and 10:01.1, respectively."

"I was very pleased with the way that I swam," Horenkamp said. "These were two of my top times this season in two of my top events, and I’m looking forward to swimming them in the championship meets."

Chicago area sophomore Alan Shaw and junior Jim Boran were both part of a 1-2-3 sweep in the 200 freestyle.

"I thought it was very nice that the Notre Dame swimmers from Chicago could have a good meet in their hometown," Welsh stated. "We tried to showcase the Chicago kids and they did a great job."

Men's tennis captures Ice Volleys

By JONATHAN JENSEN

Making their presence known on a national level, the sixth-ranked Notre Dame men's tennis team captured the prestigious Ice Volleys tournament in Bloomington, Minnesota this weekend, beating 23rd-ranked Minnesota on its home court and then downsing a tough San Diego squad for the championship.

"This was an exceptional weekend for us," said Irish coach Bob Bayliss, who praised the total team effort. "It's a very strong tournament and a great win.

The Irish first faced Minnesota on Friday night in front of boisterous home crowd and battled back the Golden Gophers their first loss of the season, snapping a 10-match winning streak with a 6-1 romping.

They started by winning the doubles point on the strength of wins by seniors Chuck Coleman and Will Forsyth at one-doubles and Mark Schmitt and Chris Wojtalik at two-doubles, while senior Ben Rossa and freshman Jason Pun lost their first match of the year at the third spot.

Despite the opening lead, the Irish won in a second-straight match after Coleman, Schmitt, and Wojtalik all lost the first sets of their matches. Though Wojtalik ended up losing his match at five-singles with Dominic Rodriguez 6-4, 7-6 (7-5) Coleman came back to down Dean Price, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, 6-2 at three-singles.

Then Forsyth won at one-singles, 6-2, 7-6 (7-5) over Rick Naumoff, and Todd Miller defeated Roger Anak in 1st in his first opportunity at six-singles to upset the Irish win.

"It was a terrific effort," said Bayliss, see TENNIS/page 15

William's can't lead Irish over Wildcats

By MIKE SCRUDATO

Monty Williams could not do it alone, though he tried.

The senior forward had 28 points and 10 rebounds, but second-ranked Kentucky was just too much.

Every play we put on the court, Pitino had them in the right defense," Williams noted.

Notre Dame stayed close to the Wildcats depth wore down the Irish and coasted a three pointer to pull the Irish with 15:44 remaining.

Williams drained a jump hook to cut the Kentucky lead to 48-45 with 1:44 remaining.

"Monty had a great first half, but he just ran out of petrol," John MacLeod said.

Williams was not the only one to run out of petrol; as the defense and up tempo offense took advantage of the depleted Irish bench.

"The Wildcats fed Notre Dame's surge with a 9-0 run during which both Joe and Ross fouled out. With Carl Cozen (foot surgery) and Schmidt also rallied, defeating Ross Lead 6-7 (7-5), 6-4, 6-2 at three-singles.

Then Forsyth won at one-singles, 6-2, 7-6 (7-5) over Rick Naumoff, and Todd Miller defeated Roger Anak in 1st in his first opportunity at six-singles to upset the Irish win.

Youth pushes women past Lady Flyers

By JONATHAN JENSEN

You could say it was a surge of youthful exuberance that lifted the Irish women's basketball team to a 92-80 victory over visiting Dayton Saturday night. An Irish coach Muffet McGraw started two freshmen for the first time this season, producing her highest career high.

McGraw inserted freshmen forward Casey Poor into the lineup along with freshman Stacy Fields, and the formula worked to a tee, as Poor scored five of the Irish's first seven points and ignited an 11-5 Irish lead. White Fields posted a game-high 30 points and five from Fields, and after Poor and Audrey Gomez's first inside bucket from the field and the three pointer, the Irish held a slim 41-39 lead through a couple of sophomores.

The Irish were in jeopardy after Coleman, Schmidt, and Wojtalik all lost the first sets of their matches. Though Wojtalik ended up losing his match at five-singles with Dominic Rodriguez 6-4, 7-6 (7-5) Coleman came back to down Dean Price, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, 6-2 at three-singles.

Phoenix Suns Gorilla, the large home crowd was uplifted.

Meanwhile, the Irish held the 15-6 lead thanks to Fox's five and four from Fields, and after another inside bucket from Poor and Audrey Gomez's first three-pointer, the Irish held their biggest lead at 18-8.

But the Irish held a slim 41-39 halftime lead due to hot shooting from the field and the line by senior guard Sherri Saunier and sophomore Jamee Roberts.

However, if the freshman shooting (Fox and Fields was a spark in the early going, it was a coup of sophomores who took over the reins in the second half.

Senior Letitia Bowen and top reserve Audrey Gomez insured the Irish lead through out the second-half, with Gomez's perfect three-point shot proving to be the catalyst for a 10-point Irish run and the biggest lead of the game some time away late in the second-half.
