By SALAH NASRAWI
Associated Press

The PLO appealed an agreement with Israel Friday on Palestinian self-rule in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, and Jordan became upbeat about reaching its own peace agreement with the Jewish state.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, on the PLO’s Executive Committee, cemented the last block into place Thursday by announcing the PLO’s support for Baker’s plan.

President Clinton and PLO chief Yasser Arafat named a delegation to send to Washington for the signing of a PLO Information Minister Yasser Abed-Rabbo announced after the 9-3 committee vote.

In Jordan, an optimistic King Hussein told British TV on Friday that Jordan and Israel could move ahead on their own peace talks and agree on an agreement within the week. A senior Israeli official said in Washington an “agenda for peace” would be announced on Tuesday.

Baker said it would be “some time” before Jordan and Israel could hope to negotiate an agreement, but the two countries could agree on a process to resolve their problems “very, very soon.”

The pact between the Palestinian Liberation Organization and the Jewish state gives limited self-rule first to the Gaza Strip and the town of Jericho in the West Bank. It foresees a potential split in the region based on Israeli withdrawal from the eastern half.

“Minor reservations” expressed at the PLO ruling board’s meeting centered mainly on the economic aspects of the agreement, committee member Mohammed Zohdi Nashabati said. He declined to elaborate. Palestinians are concerned they will not have enough economic aid to make their fledgling government viable.

Opponents also castigate the accord for failing to deal with crucial issues such as the status of Jerusalem, which Palestinians want as the capital of their would-be state, and the return of refugees.

By SUZY FRY
New Writer

WASHINGTON

Philippe Couillard for health reform promises affordable coverage for all while making every business from Wal-Mart and McDonald’s to the corner grocer start kicking in for insurance. Workers will have to pay a share, too, as little as $60 a year or far more, depending on the coverage they seek.

The plan dangles the prospect of big subsidies for small business, and may let early retirees get health coverage at bargain rates at age 55 until they qualify for Medicare a decade later.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the 240-page document from congressional sources after the White House bought its grip on the closely guarded document.

It spells out how all employees would have to help pay for workers’ insurance. Most businesses and consumers would choose from health plans offered by federal, non-profit alliances in each state with the bargaining clout to force doctors and hospitals to restrain prices.

People could not lose their health insurance if they moved or changed jobs or had a life-threatening ailment. No one could be denied coverage because of his or her medical history.

Hillary Clinton said Friday the new system would force Americans to make “cost-conscious, informed choices” about health plans. Individuals, not their employers, would make the choices from a selection including: ex fruits of negotiated agreements and costlier fee-for-service plans.

The first lady told state legislators the White House was not set in stone on its approach, which President Clinton will pitch in a major address to Congress at least by the end of the week.

Under the American Health Security Act, states would set in stone on its approach, which President Clinton will pitch in a major address to Congress at least by the end of the week.

Under the American Health Security Act, states would set in stone on its approach, which President Clinton will pitch in a major address to Congress at least by the end of the week.

The accord clears the way for the granting of limited self-rule for Jordan and the PLO West Bank. But the accord, said Dowty, is not the “grand bargain” that many had hoped for.

The agreement opens the door for other Arab countries to sign peace agreements with Israel, but there is no need for regional groups to get on board by 1997. Big Israel companies would have to help pay for small businesses and low-wage workers to buy health policies, probably the part of Israel would drive the accords into the arms of Hamas, where future negotiations could be more difficult,” said Burrell. “We have Hamas to the accords.”

Future agreements between Israel and its Arab neighbors are now increasingly possible due to the Palestinian-Israeli accord, said Dowty.

Perhaps that among upcoming agreements will be an Israel-Jordanian accord, due to each country’s past achievements being centered around the borders of a Palestinian-Israeli accord, said Dowty.

Also, a Syrian-Israeli accord may be in the horizon if the two countries can settle the disputes on the Golan Heights, an area which Syria wants to regain control of according to Dowty.

For the United States, the agreement is a door for much improved relations with other Arab countries whose past talks have been hurt by U.S. support of the Israeli peace process.

“It has been a tremendous step in Mideast efforts,” said Dowty. “It absolutely improve U.S. relations with other Arab countries because of the U.S. trying to attain a balance with other states, especially the oil producing states.”

Also, President Clinton has been urging the United States to disengage with the PLO since its re-nouncement of terrorism and

THE NEW MIDDLE EAST

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>EGYPT</th>
<th>ISRAELI ( \text{ZONE} )</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Occupied by Israel</td>
<td>Gaza Strip</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Analysis: Agreement a watershied step in Mideast

By SARAH DORAN
Assistant News Editor

The PLO-Israeli agreement to be penned in a White House Ceremony today represents the biggest step taken in Mideast peace talks. Arab President Anwar el-Sadat traveled to Jerusalem in 1977, according to government professor Alan Dwyer.

Further, if the dual part agreement encompassing mutual recognition between the two parties and declaration of stages toward Palestinian self-rule in the Gaza Strip and West Bank town of Jericho “works,” it stands to represent the biggest breakthrough through in Mideast relations since the 1979-1980 Israeli-American agreement opening Palestine into Arab-Israeli states, according to Dwyer.

The accord will be an “excited and elated,” said philosophy and theology professor Father David Burrell. “This is an incredible step in the particular direction we have been reasonably upbeat about the Mideast.”

The accord is the result of the “dominant feature factor which has shadowed recent talks, in addition to the Clinton administration’s controversial Israeli Alliance, popular support and Hamas, according to Burrell. “Israel and the PLO recognized that if they could not get their act together, they would have to talk and negotiate with Hamas.”

The implications of the agreement, said Dowty, are “clear and substantial”.

The PLO-Israeli agreement will be an “exemplary act of Israel’s commitment to peace,” according to Dwyer. “We have Hamas to the accords.”

Future agreements between Israel and its Arab neighbors are now increasingly possible due to the Palestinian-Israeli accord, said Dowty.

Perhaps that among upcoming agreements will be an Israel-Jordanian accord, due to each country’s past achievements being centered around the borders of a Palestinian-Israeli accord, said Dowty.

Also, a Syrian-Israeli accord may be in the horizon if the two countries can settle the disputes on the Golan Heights, an area which Syria wants to regain control of according to Dowty.

For the United States, the agreement is a door for much improved relations with other Arab countries whose past talks have been hurt by U.S. support of the Israeli peace process.

“It has been a tremendous step in Mideast efforts,” said Dowty. “It absolutely improve U.S. relations with other Arab countries because of the U.S. trying to attain a balance with other states, especially the oil producing states.”

Also, President Clinton has been urging the United States to disengage with the PLO since its renouncement of terrorism and

Despite FCC ruling, loopholes exist

By BY THEO ROGUE

Though the intent of the Sept. 1 Federal Communications Commission ruling regarding cable rate regulation is to lessen the price-gouging tactics of cable companies, many loopholes still exist.

The basis of the ruling states that local government has the power to regulate prices when sufficient competition does not exist in a certain area. Michigan is one such example, with TCI, Choice and AES Inc. serving as the only cable company, with the will pay approximately three percent of their revenue to the city, an estimated $150,000 annually. If TCI improves their system by incorporating fiber-optics, the contract will be extended for five years.

However, the power of local government in this issue remains limited. In major cities, there is no need for regulation because of competition, but in smaller communities, “it is rather the city and consumers at the mercy of the cable company,” explains AES satellite dealer, Tom Burrell.

Burrell continues, “There are still too many gaps in the system for local government to effectively deal with the situation which is outside the confines of our jurisdiction.”

When Congress passed the law last fall, “the clear intent was to lower cable bills and put an end to skyrocketing rate hikes and other abuses,” Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee, told the FCC in a letter written Sept.

As expected, many of the stakeholders were aghast. The issue of cable companies

see CABLE / page 4

---

N/A
Under the Tarnished Probe

Notre Dame's football team and our country's scientists seem to have much in common these days. They can't seem to keep the politters happy.

Every loss, controversy, and questionable win is challenged, belittled, and scrutinized. Every triumph seems to be wrongly rewarded with skepticism.

While Notre Dame struggles with the AP poll, which is decided by several hundred writers, the fate of our science program in America is judged by the federal budget, and is chosen by our senators representatives and other bureaucrats.

Like the AP poll, our senators and representatives have certain favorite sons which always rank up high in the budget. Some programs are never, or only slightly affected by budgetary cuts, despite our deficit. Some programs must struggle to hold on to what they have, and pray that better results from their work comes soon.

Recently our space program has been on the backpedal due to the loss of the Mars probe "Mars Observer". Despite all attempts to revive it, NASA engineers and scientists expect the worst now, and there is more effort being spent trying to pinpoint the failure for sure than the return of the satellite.

This is not the only loss of our space program in recent years, and we've had successes between the losses. However, each accomplishment is treated very lightly by the public and the government. On the other hand, each error, delay, malfunction, and explosion, is scrutinized and second guessed till the whole incident reaches almost sensationalistic heights. Even when programs have been pulled out of the jaws of defeat - the Venus probe Galileo for example - the government's representatives have pulled out all the strings and have done little to make them readily welcomed by the officials than the information returned.

Galileo returned information about the geo- location of Venus, as well as about the weather, atmosphere, and greenhouse effect on Venus. It also provided us with a topographical map of the aerosol cloud planet - one we'll never see in person because of high temperatures all the way, as well as various other problems.

To fully extend a instruction-receiving antenna map of the shrouded planet - one we'll never see in person because of high temperatures all the way, as well as various other problems.

In the film "Jurassic Park," a get-rich scheme featuring five dinosaurs spelled disaster. Real life may be a bit kinder.

Two of the nation's richest entertainers this year owe their fortunes to the film's rampaging prehistoric beasts - Steven Spielberg, producer of the movie, and Michael Crichton, who wrote the novel.

But this year's list of top 40 money makers from Forbes magazine, which considers two years worth of income to smooth out big earnings swings, shows that most wealthy entertainers make money from more modern phenomena.

Consider the top earner. Oprah Winfrey became the nation's richest entertainer by owning the show she hosts and produces, as well as the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.

Slipping to No. 3 with $66 million from last year's top spot was funnyman Bill Cosby, dragged down by his TV show, "You Bet Your Life," based on a Glenn Miller classic.

Musician Phil Collins joined at No. 16 on the list last year's No. 13 with $47 million.

What guitarist Steve Vai and Phil Collins have in common these days is by their concerts and the music they produce, as well the Chicago studio where it's filmed. The Oprah Winfrey Show generates over $170 million in revenue. Her total take in 1992 and 1993: $98 million. Spielberg was right behind her. He clinched the No. 2 spot by pulling in $72 million in the last two years, thanks in large part to "Jurassic Park" box office sales that could reach $600 million in 1993. With a video cassette release upcoming, Forbes says, Spielberg could top the list next year.
Five CNN employees are killed

By REID MILLER
Associated Press

MOGADISHU, Somalia

Five Somali workers for Cable News Network were killed and four wounded Friday in a three-hour battle between rival clansmen that added a bloody new element to worsening violence in Mogadishu.

It was some of the heaviest clan fighting in months and climax ed a second day of attacks on U.N. peacekeepers. U.N. officials said at least 27 mortar shells or rocket-propelled grenades were fired at U.N. positions and that Pakistani soldiers were fired on again while clearing roadblocks. No U.N. casualties were reported.

The fighting came a day after U.S. helicopter gunships blazed away with machine guns and rockets at Somalis who ambushed Pakistani troops and American combat engineers clearing a road. Supporters of a fugitive warlord claimed at least 125 men, women and children died.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali expressed regret Friday over the high death toll but said U.N. efforts to disarm Somalis would continue.

Anyone Interested in Field Hockey come to Loftus Monday through Thursday at 9 pm.

Any questions call Christy at x2966 or Bonnie at 273-6591

Sandy Botham, 631-5420

Take The Challenge To Grow

As you consider various career options, we urge you to keep in mind that each CPA firm is different. It is important to find a firm that will give you what you want from your career.

Crowe Chizek, the 12th largest CPA firm in the country, offers the challenges and opportunities usually found only in the larger firms. Our size, however, and our demand for bright, creative people mean that every professional has the potential to become a partner or principal.

If you're looking for a firm where you have the opportunity to grow in a dynamic, exciting and challenging environment... one that offers traditional and non-traditional value to its clients, we look forward to showing you how together we can build an exciting future.

We will be on the campus of University of Notre Dame October 20, 1993

Crowe Chizek
Indiana: South Bend • Indianapolis • Elkhart • Merrillville
Michigan: Grand Rapids • Illinois: Oak Brook • Ohio: Columbus
Many questions face the return of Aristide

By MICHAEL NORTON

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti

The new government took office with a mandate to heal Haiti’s wounds. So far, it’s been helpless in the face of brutal repression by its armed opponents, including the assassinations of a major pro-democracy advocate.

Even diplomats who have been publicly upbeat about the U.N.-brokered restoration of exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide are now uncertain about the ability of his prime minister, Robert Malval, to prepare the way for the elected leader. Under the U.N. plan, Aristide is to return here Oct. 30 after two years of exile.

The main problem is the rising terror and violence, much of it generated by plainclothes police auxiliaries, or “attachments.” U.N. envoy Dante Caputo said Sunday night: “The structure of the so-called attackers, who actually should be called killers, must disappear,” Caputo told The Associated Press.

But the president of Haiti’s lower house says Malval can’t stop it. “Malval’s authority is null,” said Antoine Joseph, a key backer of Malval’s candidacy.

He said Malval hasn’t made enough efforts to reconcile with Haiti’s notoriously repressive military, which strongly opposes Aristide, and the president’s political opponents. “If Malval doesn’t initiate a frank, reassuring dialogue with the real forces of this country -- within a week -- he will either have to resign or to call in foreign troops,” Joseph said.

On Saturday, during a Mass commemorating the army-sponsored massacre five years ago of 11 pro-Aristide churchgoers, gunmen grabbed Antoine Izemry, a prominent pro-Aristide businessman, dragged him outside Sacre Coeur church and shot him in the head.

A priest at the Mass blamed the plainclothes police for the assassination.

Saturday night, foreign police and soldiers escorted about 25 terrified Haitians out of the Sacre Coeur church grounds. They had remained inside, fearful of the Haitian police who took position outside the church after the assassination.

Some of the 30 U.N. police and army observers, scheduled to leave over the weekend, will stay on indefinitely, a U.N. official said Sunday on condition of anonymity. The official didn’t say whether it was because of Izemry’s killing.

Malval’s government, in a communiqué Sunday, said the aim of the violence was “obviously to destabilize” the U.N. peace plan, signed by Aristide and army commander Raoul Cedras. It provided for the installation of Malval’s government last month and Aristide’s return to power in October.

The communiqué said legal steps had been taken against the attackers and the army had been ordered to “disband and dismantle these armed bands.”

But Joseph said Malval “has to reassert control” over the military, which issued its own statement Saturday night saying it disarmed Izemry’s death. The “attachments” and many soldiers despise Aristide, a popular Roman Catholic priest, and have vowed to kill him if he returns.

Negotiations for the accord took place in 17 secret meetings in Norway and other European sites throughout the summer and key figures included Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, PLO Chairman Yasir Arafat, and Norwegian Foreign Minister Thorbjorn Jagland.

Student Government needs you to help make The Guide, a student course evaluation book, a reality.

Join The Guide committee. It's a great way to get involved.

There will be a meeting on Monday, Sept. 13th at 7:00pm in the Student Government Office, 2nd floor of LaFortune.
Astronauts happy to be in space after four trys

By MARCIA DUNN
Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — On its fourth try, Discovery roared away on a satellite-delivery mission Sunday with five astronauts jubilant to be in space at last.

"Hey Houston, I gotta tell ya, you've never seen five happier guys up here," commander Frank Culbertson Jr. told Mission Control. "It's been a long time coming."

"You've never seen five happier guys up here," commander Frank Culbertson Jr. told Mission Control. "It's been a long time coming."

Culbertson and his crew had delayed releasing an experimental communications satellite — their first major job in space at last.

By MARCIA DUNN
Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — On its fourth try, Discovery roared away on a satellite-delivery mission Sunday with five astronauts jubilant to be in space at last.

"Hey Houston, I gotta tell ya, you've never seen five happier guys up here," commander Frank Culbertson Jr. told Mission Control. "It's been a long time coming."

Culbertson and his crew had delayed releasing an experimental communications satellite — their first major job in space at last.

Viacom and Paramount to merge

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Viacom Inc., owner of the MTV cable network, agreed Sunday to buy film and publishing powerhouse Paramount Communications Inc. in an $8.2 billion merger that would create one of the world's biggest media-entertainment companies.

Paramount Viacom International Inc. would generate more than $6 billion in annual revenue from such businesses as cable and broadcast television, film production, book publishing, theme parks and sports teams.

It would join the ranks of the world's largest media-entertainment conglomerates, a group led by Time Warner Inc., which had more than $13 billion in annual revenue from such businesses as cable and broadcast television, film production, book publishing, theme parks and sports teams.

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Viacom Inc., owner of the MTV cable network, agreed Sunday to buy film and publishing powerhouse Paramount Communications Inc. in an $8.2 billion merger that would create one of the world's biggest media-entertainment companies.

Paramount Viacom International Inc. would generate more than $6 billion in annual revenue from such businesses as cable and broadcast television, film production, book publishing, theme parks and sports teams.

It would join the ranks of the world's largest media-entertainment conglomerates, a group led by Time Warner Inc., which had more than $13 billion in annual revenue from such businesses as cable and broadcast television, film production, book publishing, theme parks and sports teams.

"This merger is an ideal strategic match between two strong and complementary companies with unlimited opportunity," said Viacom's majority owner, Sumner Redstone, who would be chairman of Paramount Viacom International.

Under terms of the deal, the companies said Paramount shareholders would get about $69.14 a share in cash and stock for their holdings.

The cash portion of the deal would amount to $9.10 a share, or a total of more than $1 billion. Viacom would also give Paramount stockholders 0.1 share of its Class A stock and 0.9 share of Class B stock for each Paramount share.

The deal, a topic of wide speculation for more than a week, was unanimously approved by both boards of directors, the companies said in a statement.

It was expected to be completed by early 1994, subject to approval by shareholders and federal regulators.

The pact would combine Viacom's huge capacity to distribute programs over its cable TV networks and cable systems with Paramount's considerable experience as a major Hollywood film maker and TV program producer.

In addition to MTV, Viacom owns the children's cable network Nickelodeon, the pay-TV channel Showtime and cable TV systems reaching 1.1 million people.

Redstone, who owns 76 percent of Viacom, will own 69.8 percent of the new company's voting stock and 38.5 percent of the combined voting and non-voting shares, the statement said.

Martin Davis, chairman and chief executive of Paramount for the past decade, will become chief executive of the new company.
ND should react positively to criticism

School has hardly started and the entire Notre Dame community—as well as the rest of South Bend—has come together to fight against a challenge from the outside. I am speaking not of the recent controversy arising under the title Under the Tarnished Dome. The authors claim that the Notre Dame football program is not the pure sports program that everyone here seems to think it is. This column is less about the specific allegations in the book—having no direct knowledge of the facts mentioned in the book—or—Notre Dame might do something to make themselves feel superior. I cannot attest to the truth or falsehood of the allegations, but I do feel it is reasonable that no big time sports program could be as silly-white as seems to be the perception here.

Such programs, by their very nature, corrupt the educational mission of the university. Notre Dame may have a high graduation rate for football players, but this does not say anything at all about the quality of the education received by those players and the amount of time put into classes. It is not what the university would like you to think. Further, it would seem that Notre Dame must work in order to compete with other schools which use steroids and engage in other unsavory activities—such as the "Convicts" or the other negative apppellations. ND fans seem to make up in order to make themselves feel superior—Notre Dame may be doing some, although not all, of the things mentioned in the book, and to dismiss the possibility completely out of hand shows the blind and unthinking attitude espoused by many fans. I need I point out that "fan" is short for "fanatic." Many at Notre Dame seem to have a persecution complex about those who are not ND fans. They feel that everybody out there is gunning for Notre Dame or envies ND so much that they will do anything to undermine the pure Notre Dame image. I do not think that there is a nationwide conspiracy to bring down the Irish. However, it is possible that some outside of the Gilded Dome—yes, there is a world outside—are sick and tired of the arrogance and measurments of ND fans. One example of this arrogance at the highest level will ruffle. Recently, a sports commentator on National Public Radio discussed Father Hesburgh's tenure on the governing board for college sports, which he joined after stepping down as president of the university. Apparently, whatever a controversy arose, Hesburgh would have a persecution complex. One member of the board. While some may be sick and tired of Notre Dame arrogance or wrong when students feel that ND is not ranked high enough—this does not mean there is an anti-Notre Dame conspiracy which is responsible for every critique of Notre Dame football. Perhaps rather than reacting instinctively on the line to defend a program of which they have no direct knowledge, people around here should at least be open to criticism which may or may not turn out to be valid.

Kurt Mills is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Government and International Studies.

Dear Editor,

Edward O'Connor suggests that "we have already given up Notre Dame's Catholic identity and have made a mission statement superficial." I, too, began sharing this belief passionately when he pointed out that in the mission statement "there is no mention of faith in Jesus Christ, no resurrection." If everything done at Notre Dame is not for the expressed purpose of glorifying Jesus Christ then something has gone seriously wrong. Of course this does not make many of us surprise. I felt we had already given up Notre Dame's Catholic identity when I was a freshman in 1970. The Scriptures and lives and thoughts of the best Christian saints of the last two thousand years are unfortunately not what has been guiding Notre Dame most of the last 20 to 30 years at least.

Father O'Connor fears that the secularization of Protestant universities are still being introduced into the Faith of evolution and its pantheistic philosophy. I'm afraid Notre Dame's un-written mission statement might rather read like this. Let every student be plainly instructed and earnestly pressed to consider the end of his life and studies here at Notre Dame is to get good grades so as to get a good job, which to have is earthly security. And therefore to lay money in the bottom as the chief concern of the twentieth century educated man.

Peter Helland
Class of 1978
South Bend
Signor Luigi Gregori's murals highlight Columbus' Journey to America.

By MATT CARBONE
Accent writer

One can't help but notice it — whether exiting off the Indiana Toll Road, flying into downtown South Bend Regional Airport, or driving down the tree-lined sidewalks of Notre Dame Avenue, the art work by Signor Luigi Gregori on the campus of the University of Notre Dame speaks to the history of America.

Signor Luigi Gregori was an artist-in-residence at the Vatican when he was granted leave by Pius IX in 1874 to reside at the Vatican when he was the Cross and other adornments for the portraitist of popes, had been asked by Notre Dame's founder, Reverend Edward Sorin, C.S.C., to paint Stations of the Cross. This noted Italian artist, a spend two years at the University on the Indiana of the young University on the Indiana Heart on the campus.

Tt was then that Gregori decided to create a splendid new basilica, a basilica that would be not only the heart of the university, but also the finest and most iconic building in the world. The project was not without its challenges, as the construction of the basilica involved the skill and determination of hundreds of craftsmen and laborers.

The basilica was finally completed in 1899, and the dedication took place in 1901. The basilica is a magnificent example of Gothic Revival architecture, and it remains an iconic landmark to this day.

The basilica's unique design and construction required the use of over 13,000 tons of stone, including granite, limestone, and sandstone. The stone was quarried from nearby sources, and the masons worked tirelessly to ensure that each stone was precisely cut and meticulously fitted into place.

The basilica's interior is equally impressive, with its soaring arches, intricate stonework, and stunning stained glass windows. The basilica's construction was a testament to the skill and dedication of the craftsmen and laborers who worked on the project.

The dedication ceremony was a grand event, with thousands of people in attendance. The ceremony included a mass, a concert by the university choir, and a speech by the university's president, Rev. Dr. John J. O'Connor.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.

The basilica's dedication was a landmark event, and it remains an important part of the university's history. The basilica's construction was a testament to the university's commitment to excellence and its dedication to the education of future leaders.
Irish volleyball wins classic over Illinois

By TIMOTHY SEMOUR
Sports Writer

Going into this weekend’s Reebok Challenge in Chicago, the Notre Dame women’s volleyball team was hoping to play competitively against the top ranked teams in the nation. Instead, they pulled off one of the largest upsets in their history in the program’s history, knocking off the Irish in five game matches. 15-13, 8-15, 15-16, 15-12.

The victory was something that I’m very pleased with this weekend and it was mostly against DePaul and Brown. “We’ve never beaten a top ten team before. The team played like we were playing against a top ten team just as dramatically as we did against DePaul and Brown.”

from behind to register a victory that will definitely grab the attention of the program has been seeking.

Against the Irish, the Brown team was able to dominate both the fourth and fifth sets, showing a slight disadvantage in the second set. The team had previously dominated in the first set. This win was significant for Brown, who has won just two of the last six games. The win over Notre Dame was a major victory for Brown, who has won just two of the last six games.

“Brown would have been even more impressive in the first set because we won 2-1, but we saw a lot of heart and character.” Following the upset, the Irish continued their impressive play despite losing the first set. The Irish won the next three sets, 13-15, 8-12.

“We showed we can compete with the best teams in the country that was our goal going in.”

SPORTS BRIEFS

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Office of Classified Ads, 1600 Lincolnway West, Room 217.

NOTICES
Experience the ultimate of all sports: SKYDIVING! Train with Great West Skydivers in Sept. and become a licensed skydiver in Michigan’s oldest & most experienced school. One hour south of Champaign-Urbana. 217-482-4822.

GERRI seeks BASS PLAYER and VOCALIST to complete garage band. Please call us if you are interested. Call Dave 1081.

TOASTMASTERS International. Meet Wed. Sept. 7 at 7 p.m. at Pete’s Pub. MCSC join us.

"ATTENTION: There will be NO off-campus women’s flag football team or any other sports team run on their own discrimination team.

LOST & FOUND

LOST A GOLDEN DOME CHARM FROM A NECKLACE—VERY IMPORTANT. LOOK 8334-4777.

LOST: Silver colored Sen’sè men’s watch, black leather strap, no band on back. Helen 7-23-64.

LOST: Silver cross on leather choker. Greater sentimental value, please call 631-2846.

LOST: OPAL PENDANT. PLEASE CALL 4248.

LOST: Dog with case of 3-1/2 x 4 disks on collar, on 1st day, between Dewey and South First St. Reward for its return. Jed (in jelly) in 3rd floor. The disks are labeled ‘ uso ’, ‘ Trails ’, “C”, and “d”. Very important to their master. Call 637-7056 if you find them.

WANTED

EXTERIOR PAINTERS

Experienced Student Painters needed for painting campus homes for Fall 2013. Call 1-800-636-2697.

CSC. Don’t miss it!!!

$5.50 HAIRCUTS

WANTING TO SHARE A ROOM: I have a spare bedroom in a house on 1371 S. 12th St. Contact me at 4248.

FREE SPRING BREAK TRIPS
FREE: Spring Break Trip to Cancun FREE: Spring Break Trip to Miami FREE: Spring Break Trip to St. Thomas FREE: Spring Break Trip to Galveston FREE: Spring Break Trip to Go Fish FREE: Spring Break Trip to Mexico.

WANTED FOR RENT

WANTED: Roommate needed at Turtle Creek. Please contact Call 287-7696.

WANTED: A PUBLICATION'S SPORTS WRITER

The Water Polo Club will have an informational meeting for all interested players at 9 p.m. tonight at Rolls Aquatic Center.

Intramural 3-on-3 basketball captains meeting will be tonight at 6 p.m. at Angela.

PERSONAL

$50 HANRUTCS

WANTED: Roommate for 22nd on 12th. Do you need a roommate for a generally you Polish Stud or Stud? I need a roommate please call 969-6219.

Thank you for your birthday! May God fill your life with many blessings. I’m proud to call him friend.

Raoul-Schoups knows how to work it! LACK

FREE: Happy Birthday, May God full your dreams. I’m proud to call him friend.

Dear Paul Schoups knows how to work it! LACK

Nearly 3000 students are expected to attend the 2013 Briar Top BARBECUE on Sunday, September 15, 2013 at 3:00 PM. The event will be held on the CSC campus and is free to all students, faculty, and staff. For more information, please contact the Office of Student Activities at 708-843-6947.

Please make sure to call with us if you want us to call.

Thank you for your birthday! May God fill your dreams. I’m proud to call him friend.

Cary is sososo very LEGAL!

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.

What are YOU doing for fall break? I’m having fun in Los Angeles with the Miss America Pageant. Please call 917-809-2135.
By MIKE NORBUT

Just over a week ago, the Notre Dame men’s soccer team was riding high following a 4-1 trouncing of 20th-ranked Rutgers and a tournament victory at the Indiana MetLife Classic. With this momentum and confidence, a victory in their first game against the 20th-ranked University of Notre Dame seemed automatic.

Butler stuns men’s soccer to open conference season

Butler was ranked third in the preseason Collegiate Conference poll, behind the second-ranked Irish and sixth in the conference but one, the powerful Georgetown team.

Coach Joe Plane said, “When your best player drops out, it has to be a depressant to the team.”

Although it was a tough loss to stomach, the performance of freshman Althoff brought nothing but superlatives to Plane’s mind. “He went from a first-year point guard to a first-year guard in the SEC,” he said.

The Bulldogs responded 43 seconds into the second half to retake the lead, when Barton capitalized on an Irish mistake, scoring from the left hand side. Forward Steve Weigher closed out the scoring at the 25:46 mark in the second half with a breakaway goal to put the Bulldogs out of reach. “Soccer is a game of chances,” continued Berticelli. “We’re going to have to turn these early season mistakes into positives later in the season.”

Bulldog goalie John Cone recorded three saves, stifling some Irish opportunities.

“We have to play these one game at a time and look past anyone,” said Berticelli. “Butler played really well. They deserved to win.”

The Irish will go on the road to play Detroit Mercy Tuesday afternoon, a team ranked only sixth in the conference but one that holds a 3-0 record.

“Detroit is always a feisty team. They’ve played us tough in the past,” Berticelli said.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, September 1, 1993

By DYLAN BARMER

Almost Wholesale Prices!

LaFortune — Sorin Room September 13 - 18 (Sat.)
10:30 am — 5 pm

General Information Meeting Thursday, September 6
7:00 PM at the C.S.C.

Questions? call 1-9013

Interested in representing Notre Dame at your high school during Fall or Christmas Break?

Join the Undergraduate Schools Committee at one of the following organizational meetings:

Monday, September 3
Tuesday, September 14
Wednesday, September 15

All meetings begin at 7 pm, and are held in Hayes-Healy Auditorium (room 122)

New members need to attend one session.

Returning members need only to stop by one meeting to receive current information.

Any questions?

Call Jennifer Carrier at 631-7505 or Luke Woods at 634-3333.

Surprise!

Happy 19th to a goofy Seana Z! We love you!

Love,
Mud, Scoe, Gill, Jenzie, M-n-M, Courtney, Fogie & Tasha

AS YOU WISH IMPORTS

Many new hand crafted accessories, clothing and jewelry from:

* Nepal * Mexico * Peru *
* India * Guatemala *

Almost Wholesale Prices!

LaFortune — Sorin Room September 13 - 18 (Sat.)
10:30 am — 5 pm

Spartan Spike V-BALL TOURNAMENT

CO-REC on 6
FridaY, September 17
STEPAN COURTS
8:00 PM

Register in advance at RECSports

DEADLINE — WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

Sponsored By

Ilness hinders men’s cross country

By DYLAN BARMER

The Notre Dame men’s cross country team opened their season Saturday morning in Washington, D.C. with a loss to a powerful Georgetown team.

The loss was marked by a strong Georgetown 1-2-3 punch and the subsequent knock out of Irish senior captain Mike McWilliams.

The Hoyas claimed the first three places in the race, with 1992 All-American Andy Dowling leading the charge. Dowling finished the 8000 meter race in 26 minutes flat, and was followed by teammates Seth Wetzel (26:01) and freshman phenom Brendan Hefnerman (26:04). Notre Dame’s own freshman sensation, Matt Althoff, finished fourth at 26:09, followed by junior Nate Rodier (26:10) and sophomore Derek Belder (26:14).

Joe Danlo finished eighth and John Cowan was 10th for the Irish.

Noticeably absent among this list is McWilliams, who had to drop out about a mile and a half into the race due to a recent bout with the flu.

Commenting on the importance of this loss, coach Joe Plane said, “When your best runner drops out, it has to be a depressant to the team.”

Although it was a tough loss to stomach, the performance of freshmen Althoff brought nothing but superlatives to Plane’s mind. “He went from a first-year point guard to a first-year guard in the SEC,” he said.

The Bulldogs displayed flawless execution, touting a 1-5 advantage in the first half. Defensively, Bulldog goalie John Concannon recorded three saves, stifling some Irish opportunities.

“We have to play these one game at a time and look past anyone,” said Berticelli. “Butler played really well. They deserved to win.”

The Irish will go on the road to play Detroit Mercy Tuesday afternoon, a team ranked only sixth in the conference but one that holds a 3-0 record.

“Detroit is always a feisty team. They’ve played us tough in the past,” Berticelli said.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, September 1, 1993

By DYLAN BARMER

The Notre Dame men’s cross country team opened their season Saturday morning in Washington, D.C. with a loss to a powerful Georgetown team.

The loss was marked by a strong Georgetown 1-2-3 punch and the subsequent knock out of Irish senior captain Mike McWilliams.

The Hoyas claimed the first three places in the race, with 1992 All-American Andy Dowling leading the charge. Dowling finished the 8000 meter race in 26 minutes flat, and was followed by teammates Seth Wetzel (26:01) and freshman phenom Brendan Hefnerman (26:04). Notre Dame’s own freshman sensation, Matt Althoff, finished fourth at 26:09, followed by junior Nate Rodier (26:10) and sophomore Derek Belder (26:14).

Joe Danlo finished eighth and John Cowan was 10th for the Irish.

Noticeably absent among this list is McWilliams, who had to drop out about a mile and a half into the race due to a recent bout with the flu.

Commenting on the importance of this loss, coach Joe Plane said, “When your best runner drops out, it has to be a depressant to the team.”

Although it was a tough loss to stomach, the performance of freshmen Althoff brought nothing but superlatives to Plane’s mind. “He went from a first-year point guard to a first-year guard in the SEC,” he said.

The Bulldogs displayed flawless execution, touting a 1-5 advantage in the first half. Defensively, Bulldog goalie John Concannon recorded three saves, stifling some Irish opportunities.

“We have to play these one game at a time and look past anyone,” said Berticelli. “Butler played really well. They deserved to win.”

The Irish will go on the road to play Detroit Mercy Tuesday afternoon, a team ranked only sixth in the conference but one that holds a 3-0 record.

“Detroit is always a feisty team. They’ve played us tough in the past,” Berticelli said.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, September 1, 1993

By DYLAN BARMER

The Notre Dame men’s cross country team opened their season Saturday morning in Washington, D.C. with a loss to a powerful Georgetown team.

The loss was marked by a strong Georgetown 1-2-3 punch and the subsequent knock out of Irish senior captain Mike McWilliams.

The Hoyas claimed the first three places in the race, with 1992 All-American Andy Dowling leading the charge. Dowling finished the 8000 meter race in 26 minutes flat, and was followed by teammates Seth Wetzel (26:01) and freshman phenom Brendan Hefnerman (26:04). Notre Dame’s own freshman sensation, Matt Althoff, finished fourth at 26:09, followed by junior Nate Rodier (26:10) and sophomore Derek Belder (26:14).

Joe Danlo finished eighth and John Cowan was 10th for the Irish.

Noticeably absent among this list is McWilliams, who had to drop out about a mile and a half into the race due to a recent bout with the flu.

Commenting on the importance of this loss, coach Joe Plane said, “When your best runner drops out, it has to be a depressant to the team.”

Although it was a tough loss to stomach, the performance of freshmen Althoff brought nothing but superlatives to Plane’s mind. “He went from a first-year point guard to a first-year guard in the SEC,” he said.

The Bulldogs displayed flawless execution, touting a 1-5 advantage in the first half. Defensively, Bulldog goalie John Concannon recorded three saves, stifling some Irish opportunities.

“We have to play these one game at a time and look past anyone,” said Berticelli. “Butler played really well. They deserved to win.”

The Irish will go on the road to play Detroit Mercy Tuesday afternoon, a team ranked only sixth in the conference but one that holds a 3-0 record.

“Detroit is always a feisty team. They’ve played us tough in the past,” Berticelli said.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, September 1, 1993

By DYLAN BARMER

The Notre Dame men’s cross country team opened their season Saturday morning in Washington, D.C. with a loss to a powerful Georgetown team.

The loss was marked by a strong Georgetown 1-2-3 punch and the subsequent knock out of Irish senior captain Mike McWilliams.

The Hoyas claimed the first three places in the race, with 1992 All-American Andy Dowling leading the charge. Dowling finished the 8000 meter race in 26 minutes flat, and was followed by teammates Seth Wetzel (26:01) and freshman phenom Brendan Hefnerman (26:04). Notre Dame’s own freshman sensation, Matt Althoff, finished fourth at 26:09, followed by junior Nate Rodier (26:10) and sophomore Derek Belder (26:14).

Joe Danlo finished eighth and John Cowan was 10th for the Irish.

Noticeably absent among this list is McWilliams, who had to drop out about a mile and a half into the race due to a recent bout with the flu.

Commenting on the importance of this loss, coach Joe Plane said, “When your best runner drops out, it has to be a depressant to the team.”

Although it was a tough loss to stomach, the performance of freshmen Althoff brought nothing but superlatives to Plane’s mind. “He went from a first-year point guard to a first-year guard in the SEC,” he said.

The Bulldogs displayed flawless execution, touting a 1-5 advantage in the first half. Defensively, Bulldog goalie John Concannon recorded three saves, stifling some Irish opportunities.

“We have to play these one game at a time and look past anyone,” said Berticelli. “Butler played really well. They deserved to win.”

The Irish will go on the road to play Detroit Mercy Tuesday afternoon, a team ranked only sixth in the conference but one that holds a 3-0 record.

“Detroit is always a feisty team. They’ve played us tough in the past,” Berticelli said.
By BRIAN LEWIS

Paced by two goals from sophomore attacker Michelle McCarthy, the Notre Dame women's soccer team rolled over the 16th ranked Wisconsin-Madison Badgers Friday night, 3-1. McCarthy, who struggled and saw less than average playing time in the last Irish contest against Butler, notched her team-leading fourth and fifth goals of the season to lead the unbeaten Irish in their first victory over a top-20 opponent this season.

"Michelle McCarthy had a great game," said Irish head coach Chris Petrucci. "It's great to see her back at the level of last year."

The victory extended the squad's winning streak, which is now at 14 games, to a season-high five matches. McCarthy's heroics set the tone back to last October, to eight games.

"I felt at times we played very great," said Petrucci. "The difference was that we finished our chances."

Although outshot by the Badgers 14-10, the Irish managed to convert on three of eight shots on goal. Freshman goalkeeper Jen Renole saved seven Wisconsin shots on the night.

With only 4:44 expired in the first half, McCarthy knocked home the first goal of the evening from just outside the goal line with Alison Lester and Cindy Dawes assisting. The score was frozen at 1-0 until nearly ten minutes into the second half when McCarthy netted her second with Dawes and Ragen Coyne assisting. Junior midfielder Jodi Hartwig capped the Irish scoring six minutes later and gave the Irish a comfortable 3-0 lead. Lester and Tiffany Thompson were credited with the assists.

Hartwig, who scored two goals in the 4-0 victory against Butler, is a nominee for Midwestern Collegiate Conference Player of the Week.

Susie Holt also scored the lone Badger goal with Cary Walsh assisting. It was the first goal allowed by Renole in her two and a half games played for the Irish.

One problem the Irish must overcome before Sunday's match-up with fifth ranked William & Mary is their tendency to play in spurts of intensity.

"I think we can play better," said Petrucci. "But in order to beat a team like Wisconsin you have to play well."

In addition to its potent offensive attack (19 goals through three games, this season) the squad has been able to rely on stellar play from its not often mentioned defensive corps.

Anchored by senior Andi Kurek and sophomores Julie Vogel and Ashley Scharff, the backfield has allowed only one goal through three games this season.

The Irish hope to continue their winning streak Tuesday night when they face Indiana.
TODAY
Monday, September 13, 1993

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

CALVIN AND HOBBS

WHAT A DAY! I FEEL LIKE I'VE BEEN RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Plaster of
6. Stuffy next
10. Role
14. Zinc
15. Hebridie isle
16. On the briny
17. Blind purchase
18. Curve to test a driver's nerve
21. Satellites
22. Top officers
23. Nudatory
24. Exquisite
25. Rio Grande city
26. Unbuilt
27. Ma jo r role
28. Region
29. Suffi x with ethyl
30. Lupine biped?
31. Sa vo ry jelly
32. Mardi Gras quote
33. Ratite birds
34. Fall guy
35. Pass receivers
36. Highly unusual
37. High ly unusual
38. Perform ed in excess
39. Suff ers audi bly
40. Suffer s audibly
41. Fortune's feature
42. Tarzan writes
43. From his body when he was
44. Was separated
45. Give s up
46. Gaz e fixed ly
47. Felt
48. Felt
49. "the dawn"
50. Bus fee
51. "— rhythm"
52. "the dawn"
53. Native of Tibet, e.g.
54. Native of Tibet, e.g.
55. Breakfast combo
56. Break fast combo
57. They may have lost of clay
58. They may have lost of clay
59. Right
60. "you should always save upgrades until you need it"

DOWN
1. Adrian or Plus
2. W.W. II losers
3. Outfit
4. Amm
5. Feel
6. Small songbird
7. Angeles Indian bread
8. Giants
9. West or Murray
10. Kind of wagon
11. Native of Tibet, e.g.
12. Pin of baseball
13. Editors
14. Type of firearm
15. Lea dulory ad
16. Riches
17. Relating to Julius or Augustus
18. Be an also-ran
19. Heat as—
20. Stylish
21. Square column
22. Phys. or chem.
23. Top pilots
24. Fall guy
25. Pass receivers
26. Speedy
27. Oh, wow!
28. Taser imitators?
29. Suffer s auditory
30. Suffer s auditory
31. Square column
32. Phys. or chem.
33. Top pilots
34. Fall guy
35. Pass receivers
36. Speedy
37. Oh, wow!
38. Taser imitators?
39. Suffer s auditory
40. Suffer s auditory

OF INTEREST

Weight Watchers at Work starts Tuesday, Sept. 21, 12:00-12:45. Register by calling Peggy Peterson at the Department of Human Resources, at 631-5389 by Sept. 14.

Bookfair money and books that have not been picked up by students must be picked up Monday, Sept. 13, from 4-8 p.m. at Stater Center. Any books not claimed by the owners will be donated to a bookstore or charity. This is your last chance!

Jerusalem Program information meeting will be held on Sept. 13, at 4:30 in 202 DeBartolo. All those interested in spending the Spring of 1994 in the Holy Land should attend.

Mock Trial Association first meeting will be held tonight at 9 p.m. in the Montgomery Theatre at LaFortune Student Center.

The first Amnesty International meeting for those interested will be Tuesday, Sept. 14 at 8 p.m. in the Montgomery Theatre at LaFortune. For more information please call Gregg Behr at 634-4288.

NOW/WMA Awareness Week begins tonight with the viewing and discussion of the movie "The Crying Game" at 6:15 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns.

DIVING HALL

Notre Dame
But terfield Wings
Sm ead's E ater
Baked Chicken with Herbs
Thai Bar

Saint Mary's
Hot Chicago Beef Sandwich
Chicken and Dumplings

Thursday, September 16

Student Union Board
Recruiting Meeting
7:00pm
Debartolo Room 101

Acoustic Cafe
9:00pm-12:00pm
The Huddle
HAIL TO THE VICTORS

Inside SPORTS

Women's Soccer
Michelle McCarthy's two goals lead the Irish past No. 16 Wisconsin.

see page 10

Volleyball
Christy Peters had 19 kills in Notre Dame's five-game win over No. 6 Illinois.

see page 8

Cross Country
Sarah Riley led the Irish in their season opener against Georgetown.

see page 10
Notre Dame wakes up the echoes

Irish nearly flawless in classic upset

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

It was at best the greatest upset during the Lou Holtz era. At worst, the win that hurled Notre Dame back into the national championship picture.

Notre Dame's 27-23 win over Michigan Saturday in front of an NCAA record 106,851 fans will find itself scripted in the pages of any book detailing great wins by the Irish and probably somewhere in the first chapter.

The Irish came out inspired, playing flawless on both sides of the ball during the first half. The defensive success was expected to some point, but the offense output was a shocker, considering the Irish had trouble moving the ball on a not-so-Michigan-like defense a week ago against Northwestern.

"We wanted to respond in our way to help Coach (Lou) Holtz," said safety Jeff Burris who two years after giving up "The Catch" to Desmond Howard, vindicated himself with two interceptions.

see UPSET / page 2

Irish speedster Mike Miller races past the Michigan defense on the way to his first punt return for a touchdown against the Wolverines since Notre Dame's Ricky Watters did it in 1988.

others receiving votes: Arkansas 88, Louisville 84, Michigan State 45, South Carolina 46, Iowa 45, Auburn 38, Georgia Tech 29, Virginia 29, West Virginia 22, Baylor 21, Southern Cal 18, Missouri 16, Fresno State 12, Clemson 9, Indiana 9, Mississippi 6, Kentucky 7, Vanderbilt 7, Georgia 6, Hawaii 4, Memphis State 3, San Diego State 2, Texas 2, 3 others with 1 each.
McDougal takes command of offense and starting job

By BRIAN KUBICKI
Associate Sports Editor

McDougal is not a flamboyant leader. He will not yell to motivate. He will not get in your face.

"I'm not a vocal guy. I like to lead by example," he admits.

More than he ever did. The boy he led Notre Dame on Saturday.

This run gave Notre Dame a surprising early lead, even a little bit more to that run than just good blocking. "He's a lot like Tony Rice, but he can throw a little better," said on-camera television show reviewing the game.

McDougal threw plenty better than he had in the Northwestern game, playing his leadership with 208 yards on 12 of 21 passing.

The most impressive example of his leadership came at the end of the first half. Michigan had just scored to bring the game towards the Wolverines.

After spending a timeout, the Irish came out with visible confidence in their quarterback. "We (the offense) felt really reassured when he went out there and led that drive," said tackle Aaron Taylor.

McDougal continued to reassure his teammates with his actions when in only 11 seconds completed a 15-yard pass to Derrick Mayes, got his offense back on the line and stopped the clock.

The most telling play of the drive was the final one. The team had driven into field goal range, but had 13 more seconds to try to score. On a called pass, McDougal couldn't find an open receiver and decided to scramble for the end zone.

Conventional wisdom says to throw the ball away and throw the field goal, but McDougal knew he could make it and only established himself as the starter, but a good one.

From the opening drive, an eighth play 83-yard march, the Irish showed that they were not the same offensive team Wickman had been two years ago.

The Irish were able to negate field position on the opening drive thanks to two Michigan penalties and a 14-yard gain by tailback Lee Becton on third down and seven. Becton hit center stage, hitting Lee Becton on third and seven at the 50-yard line. And rapping the drive, with a 43-yard option keeper, the same play that Tony Rice scored on to open the rout of USC in 1988.

"I didn't expect for the run to go that far, but the receivers did a great job of blocking downfield," said McDougal referring to key blocks by Mike Miller and Derrick Mayes in the Michigan secondary.

The opening drive seemed to fuel the Irish defense, as it held Michigan to only a field goal on its first possession, and scored a touchdown on its next two.

The offense continued to drive, scoring on a 24-yard Kevin Pendergast field goal set up by a 43-yard pass from McDougal to Clint Johnson and a 32-yard strike to keep the drive alive on third-and-eight.

"Seeing Kevin out there the whole game builds confidence," said offensive tackle Aaron Taylor. "The team felt really reassured when he went out there and drove the team on its first possession."

After a Wolverine field goal, both offenses exchanged punts, but Michigan's turned sour, as Irish returner Mike Miller scored 56-yards for the first punt return for a touchdown against Michigan since Ricky Watters burner the Wolverines in 1988.

"I started left, but I saw a hole open up in the middle," said Miller. "I was able to sidestep and defender and then I was in the open."

Michigan's Tyrone Wheatley made the score 17-10 with a 1-yard scoring plunge, but with 1:13 left in the half McDougal took it upon himself to bolster the locker room.

He scrambled for 18-yards when the drive seemed stalled on third-and-nine from the Notre Dame 36-yard line. McDougal then hit Dawson and Mayes for 20 and 15-yard gains. After stopping the clock with 13 seconds remaining, McDougal dropped back to pass and found no receivers open, so he tucked the ball away and 11-yarders later found the left corner of the end zone.

"They were playing man which leaves some holes in the defensive line," said McDougal who finished 12-21 for 208 yards and scored two touchdowns on a team high 66-yard rushing. "I was able to outrun the defenders to the end zone."

The Irish offense took the second half off, getting only a field goal on its opening drive before turning the game over to the defense.

Wheatley scored on a 4-yard run to open the fourth quarter and kept threatening throughout the period, but interception by Burrell and Bobby Taylor haled two drives.

Michigan quarterback Todd Collins found Mercury Hayes for a 13-yard score with 34 seconds remaining to pull the Wolverines to 27-23, but an onside kick attempt failed when Taylor fumbled the ball near midfield.

"This is probably the most difficult situation a team of mine has overcome," said Holtz, "considering we've only had two weeks of two-a-days practices and then we have to come into Michigan Stadium and play the No. 3 team in the country."

"This win feels great," said Taylor. "A lot of people counted us out, but we kept our heads up and drew strength from within."
Win adds to character of Holtz and Notre Dame

You couldn't help but question the man himself, Lou Holtz. All that The Book said, all the allegations tarnishing the man and the Dome. Could they be true?

What if the reason Notre Dame looked so bad against Northwestern was the Holtz was worried about The Book and not his team? The answer came Saturday.

Holtz is back. Notre Dame is back. And the book will only be used as a master.

It wasn't just that the win that silenced the doubters. It was the way Notre Dame won, who it was against, and how Holtz proved again he was the master.

"This win is a credit to coach Holtz and Notre Dame is back. He knew how to beat Michigan and he put his team in a position to win. Notre Dame wasn't as talented, not as experienced but he made them a better team.

"When adversity hits he (Holtz) becomes more intense this week then he has ever been in his life."

The best way to define Notre Dame is impossible to grasp and difficult to define, it is why Notre Dame won, and why the victory means so much.

The intensity of Irish and Wolverine fans is very similar, but Notre Dame fans are loyal. They love their team and how Holtz proved again he was the master.

The Wolverine players were cocky. The Irish player, "just because they were arrogant team are sweet. As long as the Irish have Holtz everything will taste sweet.

"A lot of people counted us out, but we kept our heads up and drew strength from within," said safety Bobby Taylor.

That strength was Notre Dame, impossible to grasp and difficult to define. It is why Notre Dame won, and why the victory means so much.

When the final gun had sounded and the players had let Lou Holtz climb down from their shoulders, the Notre Dame players walked down to the student section and saluted their fans.

It was a display which Michigan fans will have difficulty understanding, and an emotion which they may never understand. Not the winning or the joy in victory, but the pleasure in believing and having your faith reassured, and then being thanked.
Irish defense leaves Michigan stunned

By BRIAN KUBICKI
Associate Sports Editor

Fourth and two; Michigan's going for it.

As the quarterback drops back, the Notre Dame defense scrambles to recover. They had been getting a run not a diving touchdown catch.

The last time the Irish travelled to Ann Arbor, big plays like that fourth and two touchdown pass to eventual Heisman Trophy winner Timmy Brown, who helped lift the Irish into national championship contention with the win Irish fans threw oranges onto the field as a gesture of appreciation. The stadium that hadn't been felt in nearly a decade.

Michigan didn't.

The most surprising play game from Notre Dame's 39-28 victory over the Wolverines on Saturday was the fact that Holtz and his team had neither the talent nor the experience to overcome them. You even seemed to doubt your own abilities, at least publicly, when you said that you would take the voters of the Associated Press football poll to dinner if the Irish finished sixth or higher this season. Nobody believed it.

This time the distractions would be too great. Players and assistant coaches have come and gone. Lou Holtz remains.

Dear Coach Holtz,

After seven years of this kind of thing, you'd think people would come to expect it. Overcoming the odds to win the big games has become commonplace during your tenure that it shouldn't be a surprise that it happened again Saturday.

The 17-point fourth quarter comeback against USC in 1986 is ancient history. It couldn't happen again.

With the controversy about the Book and The Irish Journal writer relentlessly, you stood before the crowd at the first pep rally of the season and said, "You can stack the distractions as high as this roof and we'll overcome them."

Nobody believed it.

This time the distractions would be too great and your team had neither the talent nor the experience to overcome them. You ever seemed to doubt your own abilities, at least publicly, when you said that you would take the voters of the Associated Press football poll to dinner if the Irish finished sixth or higher this season.

Will that be cash or change? Adversity drives you to succeed like it drives most people to seek refuge. Few people could understand the intense scrutiny and criticism that is part of your job description.

To those who think common restraint, you've kept silent about this year's flurry of distractions, content to quiet your detractors with wins rather than words.

Silencing critics is easier atop the shoulders of your players than in front of a microphone. In your own mind you must have known all along what the rest of us discovered (or re-discovered) on Saturday—that the main ingredient to all those classic Notre Dame upsets over the past seven years still paces the sidelines. The irish are on their way to their first national title under Holtz.

Holtz did motvataion from a joke a waiter told him in a New Orleans restaurant. The difference between Notre Dame and Cheerois? Cheerois belonged in a bowl, Notre Dame didn't.

Holtz and the Irish proved on New Year's Day that they too belonged in a bowl, executing a brilliant defensive game plan—developed by Holtz—out the way to a 39-28 thumping of No. 3 Florida.