Homage to past heroes

Members of Notre Dame's ROTC branches pay homage and respect to POWs and MIA's during the POW/MIA Awareness Week ceremony on Friday. The week is designed to ensure that those who were prisoners or who are still missing are not forgotten.

Ruling clears the way for Demjanjuk to leave Israel

By ALLYN FISHER
Associated Press

Israel's Supreme Court cleared the way Sunday for the release of John Demjanjuk, setting aside appeals for a new Nazi war crimes trial after deposing his departure five times.

The ruling was expected to conclude a long saga involving the retired Ohio auto worker. He was acquitted July 29 of being "Ivan the Terrible," a Nazi guard who operated a gas chamber at Poland's Treblinka Death Camp during World War II.

Demjanjuk was free to leave Israel immediately, officials said, but his attorney and family were working out details of his departure and asked that he be kept in protective custody. Demjanjuk's son-in-law and a U.S. Rep. James Traficant, D-Ohio, planned to leave Monday to escort Demjanjuk.

Traficant said he expected Demjanjuk to be back in the United States before Friday.

The ruling by Justice Theodore Orr was the sixth time the court has dealt with Demjanjuk's case since his acquittal, when a five-member panel said there was reasonable doubt about his identity as Ivan the Terrible but found that he had been present at other Nazi camps.

Orr rejected appeals by Holocaust survivors and Nazi hunters who sought to have Demjanjuk retried on charges that he was at the Sobibor death camp as well as concentration camps. They had mounted an international search for Sobibor survivors who could identify Demjanjuk.

Orr's ruling refused requests for a broader panel of justices to review evidence to see if a new trial could be justified.

Israel's Attorney General Yosef Harish already had decided not to prosecute Demjanjuk further, saying the evidence was too weak and there was risk of double jeopardy, or trying him twice on the same charges. The Supreme Court needed exceptional circumstances to overturn the attorney general's decision. Orr's ruling meant those circumstances did not exist in Demjanjuk's case.

Justice Ministry spokesman Ettie Eshed said Orr also canceled a restraining order that had kept the 73-year-old Demjanjuk in an isolation cell at Ayalon prison near Tel Aviv.

Israel, Egypt sign peace declaration within months

By NEJLA SAMMAKIA
Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak met Sunday with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and said "most, maybe all" Arab nations are ready to follow Israel and the PLO toward peace.

Speaking to reporters after a two-hour summit with Rabin, Mubarak said he expects Israel and Syria will sign a declaration of peace within months. Mubarak said he'll try to speed their negotiations and that he and the Syrian president will discuss when Assad visits Egypt.

"Every country in the area wants peace," Mubarak said with Rabin at his side. "Enough hatred and bloodshed and killing, and using our revenues for war. I can tell you most, maybe all the Arab world supports the step forward for peace."

Syrian President Hafez Assad, in an interview with an Egyptian newspaper, said he was angry that Arab states had not coordinated an accord with Israel secretly, but said Syria would continue peace talks with Israel.

Rabin hastily arranged Sunday's summit at the Mediterranean resort to win support from friendly Arabs for the peace pact the Jewish state signed with the Palestine Liberation Organization in Washington a week ago. It calls for limited Palestinian self-rule in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank town of Jericho.

The one-day visit was Rabin's third summit with Mubarak since the Israeli leader took office in July 1992. Egypt, the only Arab country that has a peace treaty with Israel, has been instrumental in mediating between Israel and other Arab states.

Rabin returned to Israel later in the day. After their meeting, Mubarak noted Syria's desire for peace with Israel.

But he would not specify what he and the Syrian president will discuss when Assad visits Egypt later this week.

Minister shot during church service

By JULIE BARRETT

NORTH SALEM, Ind.

A Methodist minister was finishing his sermon Sunday when a woman shot him to death in front of his horrified congregation and 13-year-old daughter, police said. A woman he once dated was arrested.

The Rev. Roland Phillips, 36, of North Salem, was concluding the sermon before about 25 people at the United Methodist Church when he was shot three times in the chest, said Lt. Terry Brinker, a Hendricks County Sheriff's spokesman. He died on the way to a hospital.

Brinker said Elizabeth Mayberry of Bloomington approached Phillips during the sermon and asked to speak with him, but the minister asked her to wait until he was finished.

Mayberry then stood next to Phillips until he was concluding the sermon, when she pulled out a gun and shot him three times in the chest, Brinker said.

Authorities said a member of the congregation wrestled Mayberry to the ground while another parishioner took away the gun. A fourth shot was fired during the struggle, but it harmlessly hit a railing in front of the congregation.

Mayberry, 36, was held at the Hendricks County Jail.

She was expected to make a court appearance Monday, Brinker said.

Phillips, who was divorced, once dated Mayberry, Brinker said. But he added that police had no idea what prompted the killing.

The minister's 13-year-old daughter, Rachel, was in church when her father was killed, Brinker said.

Student contracts hepatitis

Special to The Observer

A freshman student residing in Dillon Hall has been admitted to the University Health Center with hepatitis A, a viral infection of the liver.

The student, whose home is in Ecuador, evidently contracted the disease some weeks ago, before coming to Notre Dame. Hepatitis A is spread through contact with surfaces contaminated by the feces of infected persons and requires prolonged, close personal contact for transmission.

The disease is not spread through normal, occasional contact in classrooms, dining halls, residence halls or other common areas of campus.

Those students at risk of infection include those from the above residence halls and prolonged exposure to the patient already are being notified by University Health Services and treated with gamma globulin. Other than to these students, this infection should pose no risk to the campus community.

Students and others interested in further information concerning hepatitis A may contact the University Health Center at 631-7497.

Israel's Attorney General Yosef Harish already had decided not to prosecute Demjanjuk further, saying the evidence was too weak and there was risk of double jeopardy, or trying him twice on the same charges. The Supreme Court needed exceptional circumstances to overturn the attorney general's decision. Orr's ruling meant those circumstances did not exist in Demjanjuk's case.

Justice Ministry spokesman Ettie Eshed said Orr also canceled a restraining order that had kept the 73-year-old Demjanjuk in an isolation cell at Ayalon prison near Tel Aviv.

Israel, Egypt sign peace declaration within months

By NEJLA SAMMAKIA
Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak met Sunday with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and said "most, maybe all" Arab nations are ready to follow Israel and the PLO toward peace.

Speaking to reporters after a two-hour summit with Rabin, Mubarak said he expects Israel and Syria will sign a declaration of peace within months. Mubarak said he'll try to speed their negotiations and that he and the Syrian president will discuss when Assad visits Egypt.

"Every country in the area wants peace," Mubarak said with Rabin at his side. " Enough hatred and bloodshed and killing, and using our revenues for war. I can tell you most, maybe all the Arab world supports the step forward for peace."

Syrian President Hafez Assad, in an interview with an Egyptian newspaper, said he was angry that Arab states had not coordinated an accord with Israel secretly, but said Syria would continue peace talks with Israel.

Rabin hastily arranged Sunday's summit at the Mediterranean resort to win support from friendly Arabs for the peace pact the Jewish state signed with the Palestine Liberation Organization in Washington a week ago. It calls for limited Palestinian self-rule in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank town of Jericho.

The one-day visit was Rabin's third summit with Mubarak since the Israeli leader took office in July 1992. Egypt, the only Arab country that has a peace treaty with Israel, has been instrumental in mediating between Israel and other Arab states.

Rabin returned to Israel later in the day. After their meeting, Mubarak noted Syria's desire for peace with Israel.

But he would not specify what he and the Syrian president will discuss when Assad visits Egypt later this week.

Minister shot during church service

By JULIE BARRETT

NORTH SALEM, Ind.

A Methodist minister was finishing his sermon Sunday when a woman shot him to death in front of his terrified congregation and 13-year-old daughter, police said. A woman he once dated was arrested.

The Rev. Roland Phillips, 36, of North Salem, was concluding the sermon before about 25 people at the United Methodist Church when he was shot three times in the chest, said Lt. Terry Brinker, a Hendricks County Sheriff's spokesman. He died on the way to a hospital.

Brinker said Elizabeth Mayberry of Bloomington approached Phillips during the sermon and asked to speak with him, but the minister asked her to wait until he was finished.

Mayberry then stood next to Phillips until he was concluding the sermon, when she pulled out a gun and shot him three times in the chest, Brinker said.

Authorities said a member of the congregation wrestled Mayberry to the ground while another parishioner took away the gun. A fourth shot was fired during the struggle, but it harmlessly hit a railing in front of the congregation.

Mayberry, 36, was held at the Hendricks County Jail.

She was expected to make a court appearance Monday, Brinker said.

Phillips, who was divorced, once dated Mayberry, Brinker said. But he added that police had no idea what prompted the killing.

The minister's 13-year-old daughter, Rachel, was in church when her father was killed, Brinker said.

Student contracts hepatitis

Special to The Observer

A freshman student residing in Dillon Hall has been admitted to the University Health Center with hepatitis A, a viral infection of the liver.

The student, whose home is in Ecuador, evidently contracted the disease some weeks ago, before coming to Notre Dame. Hepatitis A is spread through contact with surfaces contaminated by the feces of infected persons and requires prolonged, close personal contact for transmission.

The disease is not spread through normal, occasional contact in classrooms, dining halls, residence halls or other common areas of campus.

Those students at risk of infection include those from the above residence halls and prolonged exposure to the patient already are being notified by University Health Services and treated with gamma globulin. Other than to these students, this infection should pose no risk to the campus community.

Students and others interested in further information concerning hepatitis A may contact the University Health Center at 631-7497.
Cable television takes most Emmys in 45th awards program

PASEODA, Calif. — Cable television, long seen as a stepchild to the broadcast networks, passed into a new era Sunday as one of its own dominated the 45th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

"We broke the barrier," Home Box Office Chairman Michael Fuchs said backstage Sunday at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium after the cable channel won 17 Emmys, including 11 creative arts awards given in a Saturday ceremony.

Broadcast networks have traditionally been the Emmy powerhouses, even since cable was first recognized by the awards starting in 1987.

"Seinfeld," the HBO series that celebrates quirky humor amid the mundane aspects of everyday life, and the CBS drama "Picket Fences" won the top two series categories.

Co-star Michael Richards was named best supporting actor in a comedy; Kyle Boller received the same award for "Cheers." He was the first to win the award.

Mark Krejci

New Miss America will help homeless

It may be pursuing a new image, but the Miss America pageant hasn't left all of its beauty contest traditions behind.

Newly crowned Miss America Kimberly Clarice Aiken took a customized seaside frock in front of a pack of photographers Sunday. And, unlike her predecessor, Leanza Cornett, the 18-year-old Aiken said she likes to wear the rhinestone crown.

One of the youngest women to hold the title, Aiken — Miss South Carolina — bested 49 women to win the 1994 title Saturday night.

"This has all been very overwhelming for me," she told reporters Sunday. "I am willing to accept the responsibility.

Looking composed despite little sleep and a bad cold, Aiken said she wants to spend the next year working to help the homeless.

"My main goal is to get homeless people off the streets and get people who may become homeless not to be in that situation," she said. "I'd like to make the greatest difference.

Aiken is founder and president of the Homeless Education and Resource Organization in her hometown of Columbus, S.C. She said she has worked with children who live in homeless shelters and transitional housing.

As part of a new format for the 73-year-old pageant, contestants had to do their own hair and makeup and the dress code for the evening wear competition was relaxed.

Miss Georgia, Kara Kim Martin, 23, of Statesboro, won the pageant's outstanding lead actress award. She also was named Miss Outstanding of Georgia.

Vikram Bhatia

Veterans must change views of Vietnam

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

The movie based on him was half true and half Hollywood exaggeration," Cronauer said. Though he did teach English while he was off-duty, Cronauer said he never taught the Vietnamese in his class to swear.

And he said there never were the bags of fan mail and hundreds of phones calls for him that the movie depicted.

"I mean think about it. There aren't any phone booths that you can pass there — where are you gonna call from?" Cronauer said.

Ted Denson

INDIANA Weather

"Forcast. for 24-hour conditions and high temperatures

The men and women who served in Vietnam have been unfairly portrayed as everything from murderers and dope dealers, and it is up to veterans to set the record straight.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam.

"I never met a single murderer. I never met a single rapist. I never met a single dope addict. I never met a single baby killer. I never met a single closet praiser or any mad-slug-wall," Cronauer said in a speech to veterans Saturday in Columbus.

"What I did meet were a lot of honorable men and women who may not have been too happy about where they found themselves, but who were bound and determined to do their duty as well as they could," he added.

Cronauer, a communications lawyer, was the model for Robin Williams' break-the-mold disc jockey in Vietnam in the movie "Good Morning, Vietnam. The movie based on him was half true and half Hollywood exaggeration," Cronauer said. Though he did teach English while he was off-duty, Cronauer said he never taught the Vietnamese in his class to swear.

And he said there never were the bags of fan mail and hundreds of phones calls for him that the movie depicted.

"I mean think about it. There aren't any phone booths that you can pass there — where are you gonna call from?" Cronauer said.
Clinton tries to better communicate with public

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

President Clinton says he has learned to be more precise in words and deeds, in setting forth a vision for America.

"I think what I have to do as president is to try somehow to do a very simple but powerful job of getting the American people as we face each of these challenges," Clinton told Time magazine for its Sept. 27 edition.

The president, who faces debates on health care, a proposed three-nation free trade agreement and a plan to "reinvent government," admitted past failures in communicating his message to the public and focusing his attention on issues.

"I hope maybe I can do a better job as we go along now of letting people know that the big motivating factors behind these decisions are..." Clinton told Time magazine that Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO chair Yasser Arafat had agreed before last week's peace agreement signing to shake hands.

Any club wishing to place an entry in the Club Column must do so by 3 p.m. Thursday of each week. All entries will appear in the following Monday edition of The Observer. Please drop off entries to the Club Coordinating Council office on the second floor of LaFortune.

1. COMPUTER APPLICATIONS HONOR SOCIETY: Representatives of Andersen Consulting will be discussing opportunities with their company on Wednesday, September 22 from 7-8 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library Lounge. All those interested are welcome to attend.

2. STUDENT ALUMNI RELATIONS GROUP (S.A.R.G.): General Meeting on Thursday, September 23 at 7 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room on the second floor of LaFortune. All new members are encouraged to attend.

3. TOASTMASTERS OF NOTRE DAME: Meeting on Tuesday, September 21 at 7 p.m. in room 222 of Hayes-Healey. All are welcome.

4. ATTENTION ALL 1993-94 CLUB PRESIDENTS: Please check mailboxes for important information. Also make sure your Name, Address, and Phone number have been submitted to the CCC.

FINANCE CLUB CAREER NIGHT

Tuesday, September 21st 7-9.m. Monogram Room Joyce A.C.C.

Representatives from over 20 firms who recruit at N.D.

BUSINESS ATTIRE PLEASE

Seniors - Bring resumes Underclass - Never too early to start talking with firms

ND announces new faculty members

University of Notre Dame International Study Program

In DUBLIN, IRELAND JUNIOR YEAR ABROAD

INFORMATION MEETING TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1993 4:30 P.M. 117 DEBARTOLO

APPLICATION DEADLINE DECEMBER 1, 1993

Do you want to help others?
Do you want to be a community service volunteer?
Join us at a

CIRCLE K ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING

WHEN: MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 20 AT 8 P.M WHERE: LA FORTUNE • ND ROOM

For more information, contact Kimberly Gropp at 284-5438
AIDS marriage law overturned

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY

A Utah law that invalidated the marriages of people with AIDS was voided by a federal judge at the request of two families and the state itself.

The disabilities act says a public entity may not discriminate against a person with a physical or mental impairment limiting major life activities.

"AIDS is such a physical impairment," Anderson wrote in Friday's ruling.

Attorney Brian Barnard sued in July on behalf of two married couples and their children, who would be considered illegitimate if the parents' unions were voided. The women had contracted the virus before their marriages.

Gov. Mike Leavitt and Attorney General Jan Graham agreed the law was probably invalid, but they didn't want to make the admission in court. They did agree to block enforcement of the law until the next legislative session, but Barnard said that wasn't enough.

"These are sick people," he said. "They might die at any time. ... We said we would vigorously pursue the suit."

The women had feared that an insurance company would refuse to pay health benefits in the event of their deaths.

Police shoot teenage thief

Associated Press

EAST ORANGE, N.J.

A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen car was fatally shot by police officers who tried to arrest him and a passenger following a brief chase, authorities said Sunday.

Alquon Brown of Irvington was killed just before midnight Saturday after the 1989 Oldsmobile he was driving struck a metal post at a service station.

The Essex County Prosecutor's office said Brown tried to flee as officers struggled to gain control of the car, and that three officers opened fire when he drove directly at one of them. The three were treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

A 16-year-old Newark boy who was riding in the backseat was arrested, and authorities said he would be charged with being in possession of a stolen automobile and assaulting police officers.

A third person who jumped from the car as police followed it was being sought, said Ray Weiss, a spokesman for the Essex County prosecutor's office.

The shooting was under investigation and the case will be reviewed by a grand jury, said First Assistant Essex County Prosecutor Peter Francese.

AIDS marriage law overturned

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY

A Utah law that invalidated the marriages of people with AIDS was voided by a federal judge at the request of two families and the state itself.

The disabilities act says a public entity may not discriminate against a person with a physical or mental impairment limiting major life activities.

"AIDS is such a physical impairment," Anderson wrote in Friday's ruling.

Attorney Brian Barnard sued in July on behalf of two married couples and their children, who would be considered illegitimate if the parents' unions were voided. The women had contracted the virus before their marriages.

Gov. Mike Leavitt and Attorney General Jan Graham agreed the law was probably invalid, but they didn't want to make the admission in court. They did agree to block enforcement of the law until the next legislative session, but Barnard said that wasn't enough.

"These are sick people," he said. "They might die at any time. ... We said we would vigorously pursue the suit."

The women had feared that an insurance company would refuse to pay health benefits in the event of their deaths.

Police shoot teenage thief

Associated Press

EAST ORANGE, N.J.

A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen car was fatally shot by police officers who tried to arrest him and a passenger following a brief chase, authorities said Sunday.

Alquon Brown of Irvington was killed just before midnight Saturday after the 1989 Oldsmobile he was driving struck a metal post at a service station.

The Essex County Prosecutor's office said Brown tried to flee as officers struggled to gain control of the car, and that three officers opened fire when he drove directly at one of them. The three were treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

A 16-year-old Newark boy who was riding in the backseat was arrested, and authorities said he would be charged with being in possession of a stolen automobile and assaulting police officers.

A third person who jumped from the car as police followed it was being sought, said Ray Weiss, a spokesman for the Essex County prosecutor's office.

The shooting was under investigation and the case will be reviewed by a grand jury, said First Assistant Essex County Prosecutor Peter Francese.

AIDS marriage law overturned

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY

A Utah law that invalidated the marriages of people with AIDS was voided by a federal judge at the request of two families and the state itself.

The disabilities act says a public entity may not discriminate against a person with a physical or mental impairment limiting major life activities.

"AIDS is such a physical impairment," Anderson wrote in Friday's ruling.

Attorney Brian Barnard sued in July on behalf of two married couples and their children, who would be considered illegitimate if the parents' unions were voided. The women had contracted the virus before their marriages.

Gov. Mike Leavitt and Attorney General Jan Graham agreed the law was probably invalid, but they didn't want to make the admission in court. They did agree to block enforcement of the law until the next legislative session, but Barnard said that wasn't enough.

"These are sick people," he said. "They might die at any time. ... We said we would vigorously pursue the suit."

The women had feared that an insurance company would refuse to pay health benefits in the event of their deaths.

Police shoot teenage thief

Associated Press

EAST ORANGE, N.J.

A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen car was fatally shot by police officers who tried to arrest him and a passenger following a brief chase, authorities said Sunday.

Alquon Brown of Irvington was killed just before midnight Saturday after the 1989 Oldsmobile he was driving struck a metal post at a service station.

The Essex County Prosecutor's office said Brown tried to flee as officers struggled to gain control of the car, and that three officers opened fire when he drove directly at one of them. The three were treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

A 16-year-old Newark boy who was riding in the backseat was arrested, and authorities said he would be charged with being in possession of a stolen automobile and assaulting police officers.

A third person who jumped from the car as police followed it was being sought, said Ray Weiss, a spokesman for the Essex County prosecutor's office.

The shooting was under investigation and the case will be reviewed by a grand jury, said First Assistant Essex County Prosecutor Peter Francese.

AIDS marriage law overturned

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY

A Utah law that invalidated the marriages of people with AIDS was voided by a federal judge at the request of two families and the state itself.

The disabilities act says a public entity may not discriminate against a person with a physical or mental impairment limiting major life activities.

"AIDS is such a physical impairment," Anderson wrote in Friday's ruling.

Attorney Brian Barnard sued in July on behalf of two married couples and their children, who would be considered illegitimate if the parents' unions were voided. The women had contracted the virus before their marriages.

Gov. Mike Leavitt and Attorney General Jan Graham agreed the law was probably invalid, but they didn't want to make the admission in court. They did agree to block enforcement of the law until the next legislative session, but Barnard said that wasn't enough.

"These are sick people," he said. "They might die at any time. ... We said we would vigorously pursue the suit."

The women had feared that an insurance company would refuse to pay health benefits in the event of their deaths.

Police shoot teenage thief

Associated Press

EAST ORANGE, N.J.

A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen car was fatally shot by police officers who tried to arrest him and a passenger following a brief chase, authorities said Sunday.

Alquon Brown of Irvington was killed just before midnight Saturday after the 1989 Oldsmobile he was driving struck a metal post at a service station.

The Essex County Prosecutor's office said Brown tried to flee as officers struggled to gain control of the car, and that three officers opened fire when he drove directly at one of them. The three were treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

A 16-year-old Newark boy who was riding in the backseat was arrested, and authorities said he would be charged with being in possession of a stolen automobile and assaulting police officers.

A third person who jumped from the car as police followed it was being sought, said Ray Weiss, a spokesman for the Essex County prosecutor's office.

The shooting was under investigation and the case will be reviewed by a grand jury, said First Assistant Essex County Prosecutor Peter Francese.
Time announces major reorganization

By DAVID KALISH
Associated Press

NEW YORK
Time Inc. announced a sweeping reorganization Sunday aimed at cutting costs while positioning the company for future growth.

The reshuffling includes management changes at Time Inc.'s core New York-based magazines, some staff reductions, and the creation of a new business-to-market company products across a range of media.

"These latest moves will enable Time Inc. to expand its magazine, book and multimedia businesses while continuing to enjoy healthy earnings," said Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Reginald Brack Jr. The changes affect Time, Life, Fortune, Sports Illustrated, Money, People and Entertainment Weekly magazines.

Time Inc. said it would give each magazine more responsibility for its financial performance while trying to improve the quality of each.

Under the reorganization, new division presidents who oversee publishers will head Time and People magazines. Sports Illustrated already has a president. Fortune and Money magazines will share a group publisher.

Staff reductions will come mostly through attrition, the company said. There were no estimates of total job reductions, but cuts will be minimal, Time spokesman Peter Costiglio said.

The moves come as the magazines struggle to recover from the industry's recent recession. In the first eight months of 1993, all pages at Time magazine dropped 11.8 percent from the same period during the year before, according to Publishers Information Bureau. That compared with a 2.5 percent increase at U.S. News and World Report and a 2.8 percent decline at Newsweek.

Ad pages at Sports Illustrated dropped 16.6 percent, Money fell 7.2 percent and Fortune fell three percent, PIB reported.

Time Inc. also said it would develop and acquire businesses that fit into its strategy of marketing its products and services across a range of media outlets. Other plans include creating a national sales force to serve advertisers who want to place ads in more than one magazine.

Management changes, which take effect Monday, include:

- Time magazine Publisher Lisa Valk Long becomes president. Jack Haire, regional ad sales vice president in Chicago, becomes publisher.

- David Long, Sports Illustrated's regional ad sales vice president, becomes publisher. Donald Elliman Jr. continues as president.

Alcohol lobbyists battle over tax

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
Tensions in the alcoholic beverage industry have erupted into open warfare over which sectors of the business — beer, wine or hard liquor — should be taxed to help pay for a national health care plan.

The president of the National Beer Wholesalers Association last week wrote a letter accusing the liquor industry of "sweating off" the liquor industry of "an all-out attack" on beer that "has placed the common interests of the licensed beverage industries in great jeopardy."

NBWA President Ronald Sarasin told Fred Meister, president of the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States (DISCUS), that "beer, not liquor, is the beverage of choice of the young and drivers." And he said a rumored proposal to single out distilled spirits for a new tax "would perpetuate a 'beer subsidy' that is not rational and that sends the wrong message to young people.

Meister's letter was followed by a blitzkrieg advertising campaign touting the benefits of a beer tax and pointing out that 42 percent of the price of a typical bottle of liquor now goes for taxes.

The beer, wine and liquor industries, like many relatively narrow special interests, have banded together over the years with cigarette makers to lobby against higher excise taxes — so-called "sin taxes" — on their products.

But such groups also live in constant fear and suspicion that their goals will be sold out when the time comes for the coalition to cut final deals.

The alcohol-toxic alliance, the Coalition Against Regressive Taxation, already had been fractured this year by Clinton's signal that cigarettes would bear the brunt of new taxes to pay for health care reform.

Meister's letter to Clinton struck the most sensitive nerve of the beer industry. He pointed to the disparity between the taxes on an ounce of alcohol in the form of beer or wine, and in the form of distilled liquor. By that measure, beer taxes are already far higher.

"The long-held goal of the spirits industry to force up the taxes on beer and wine is now clearly exposed, and DISCUS has stooped to astonishingly ignoble tactics," Sarasin said.

"W hy should the beer and wine industries continue to work with DISCUS on any issue when it has clearly indicated it intends to destroy us by dramatically raising our taxes?"

Watch for The Observer's coverage of the signing of the National Service Act, coming this week.

September 24, 1993
Stapen Center 8pm

Students $8
General $15

Tickets available at the Info. Desk at LaFortune

- The Observer, page 5
German treasure returned
By BIRGITT POR茨Sch
Associated Press
QUEDLINBURG, Germany
A set of priceless treasures stolen by an American soldier after World War II has finally come home.
The items, dating from the eighth century, went on display Sunday at the Lutheran church in Quedlinburg nearly half a century after they were taken from the east German town.
About 800 guests, including federal parliament President Rita Süssmuth, attended a solemn ecumenical service celebrating the official opening of the display at the St. Servatii church.
The treasures include a rock-crystal reliquary shaped like a fish that some historians claim holds a lock of hair from the Virgin Mary. They also include a ninth or tenth century chest made of gold, ivory and precious jewels with the image of Germany's first elected king, Henry I of Saxony.
Other items in the collection include Henry I's jeweled comb, believed to have been used to comb out sins during religious ceremonies, and two jewel-inlaid manuscripts.
The items date from between the eighth to 16th centuries, with some crafted during the rules of Charlemagne (764-814) and Otto I (936-973). They had been stored at the Lutheran Church in Quedlinburg for centuries, but were hidden in a mine shaft and disappeared in April 1945 after U.S. forces occupied the city.

Australia to be a republic
Associated Press
DUBLIN, Ireland
Australian Prime Minister Paul Keating told Britain's Queen Elizabeth II that he hopes to declare his country a republic by 2001.
Keating took the unusual step Sunday of issuing a statement about his formal audience with the queen on Saturday at Balmoral Castle.
"I explained to Her Majesty that, notwithstanding the deep respect and warm affection felt towards her by the Australian people, there was a growing feeling that Australia should make the necessary constitutional changes to allow the appointment of an Australian head of state," he said.
The changes are needed to clarify Australia's identity as an independent nation, Keating's statement said, adding a referendum would be needed to approve the constitutional amendments.
Australia has been an independent nation since 1901, but the British monarch has maintained its titular head of state as in other former colonies, such as Canada and New Zealand.
The queen is represented in Australia by a governor-general appointed by the government, but many Australians believe the country should have a resident, elected head of state.
Keating said it would be appropriate for Australia to become a republic by 2001, the centenary of the federation of its individual states.
Australia would remain a member of the Commonwealth, a 50-nation association of Britain and her former colonies, and would welcome visits from the monarch "as head of the Commonwealth and the Queen of the United Kingdom," Keating said.

Making music
A guitarist from Oliver Syndrome shows his talent for the fans. Oliver Syndrome played Friday at Saint Mary's Havican Field.

THE TRAVELERS

ACCENT and TTMP Programs will be at Engineering Industry Day

If you have an interest in:
Information Systems or Telecommunications

and want to put your technical skills to use with a company that applies technical solutions within a dynamic business environment, please stop by our booth and talk with us.

ENGINEERING INDUSTRY DAY

* Dinner on Tuesday, September 21
* Fair on Wednesday, September 22

The Travelers
America's Umbrella ™
party was close to entering the legislature, according to preliminary results. Official results will be announced later this week after a recount, but the procedure is largely a formality and not expected to alter the results. The Left-leaning Social Democrats, who have ruled Hamburg all but four years since World War II, lost their majority but remained the largest party.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl’s Christian Democratic Union lost almost a third of its support from the previous election in 1991, according to results from all 1,679 precincts. “It’s a heavy loss for us and also for the Social Democrats,” said Peter Hintze, secretary-general of the Christian Democrats. The main parties “will have to work against the anger of the little people,” said the Social Democrats’ incumbent mayor, Henning Voscherau.

The vote kicked off a year of elections in Germany, including national parliamentary elections in the autumn of 1994. The Hamburg election has been closely watched to see the strength of the far right, which has had a resurgence in Germany since the country reunified in 1990. Radical right-wing parties won seats in recent years in three of Germany’s 16 state parliaments. Neither of the two right-wing parties running in the election had enough to enter the legislature. But their combined percentage of 7.6 percent was sure to worry the major parties.

The radical right-wing Republicans got 4.8 percent of the vote, just shy of the five percent minimum needed to enter the state legislature. In 1991 they scored 1.2 percent. The extreme right-wing German People’s Union, which did not run this time, got 2.8 percent of the vote. Both right-wing parties campaigned on anti-immigrant themes, blaming refugees for the country’s rising unemployment. The Social Democrats were at 46 percent, down from 48 percent in 1991. The Christian Democrats were at 25.1 percent, down from 35.1 percent, and the centrist Free Democrats were at 4.2 percent, down from their previous 5.4 percent.

Losing its seat in the Hamburg legislature is a blow to the prestige of the Free Democrats, the junior partner in Kohl’s national coalition.

“The vote is a thundering slap in the face,” said Werner Hoye, secretary-general of the Free Democrats. Yeltsin offered a compromise in the struggle Saturday, however, saying he would go to early presidential elections if the parliament would agree to new legislative elections. Neither Khasbulatov nor Yeltsin’s rebellious vice president, Alexander Rutskoi, rejected directly the compromise offer.

Hard-line lawmakers have resisted previous calls for early elections because it likely would cost many their jobs. Rutskoi called Saturday for restoration of the Soviet Union, saying the country was turning Russia into an economic basket case.

He suggested the president should be prosecuted for “all that has happened to the nation,” the Interfax news agency reported.
Analysis of homosexuality vague

Dear Editor,

In his column (The Observer, Sept. 16), Josh Ozersky, though certainly well-meaning in a vague, moralistic way, has given a complete misanalysis of homosexuality, both as a moral and social phenomenon. He himself admits this, "I am as baffled as the next man," and his column proves this conclusively. However, Ozersky's reasoning, if it can be called so, reveals that he is solidly in liberalism's fold. Indeed, he is but another aspect of liberalism's Promethean nature.

Ozersky claims that Doonesbury is part of "a well-meaning trend in recent years to minimize homosexuality" by incorporating it into popular media. This is wrong. If a belligerent assault of our sensibilities and moral dignity, by the media in an effort to ram their "alternative lifestyles" down our throats, is liberalism. The fact that Ozersky perceives it to be an attempt at minimization rather than legitimization and protest against traditional morality is a direct result of his misunderstanding of the nature of homosexuality as well as evidence of him being out of step with the current success of their propaganda on the mental softness of Americans in general.

The premise that homosexuality as an innate characteristic, like that of gender or race, carries with it the conclusion that homosexuality is not a moral characteristic, assuming free will is a necessary condition of moral acts. Ozersky buys this concern, even if he does not understand the conclusion it brings. "For people born gay..." One can imagine Ted Bundy following Ozersky's general assumption: "I'm sorry your honor, but I was born a serial murderer. As a result, I have had to live a life in secrecy, fear, and fugitive desire. If only Hollywood would minimize my genetic characteristic in comics and sitcoms, people would understand that serial killing is not an abomination, but something as natural as being a man having sex with another man. I can't darn well help that either.

Natural law is the basis for both the Catholic teaching on abortion, birth control, and homosexuality. Ozersky's complete lack of understanding of natural law, and reason in general, allows him to call this reasoning "pretty thin soup." Is it any surprise then, that two paragraphs later we find Ozersky cheerleading for "moral assimilation". He does not condemn homosexuality for being intrinsically unnatural and disgusting, but because it is "more of a shame to sleep with dozens of people," something which also applies to heterosexuality. Thus, his reasoning culminates in the assertion that "Few decent people, I think, really have anything against real love, whatever its mode." His assertion is as confused as his thinking. A natural sense of "decency" implies a "good" which implies moral standards grounded in nature. Ozersky must assert if he is to hold his argument, that there is no such thing as natural decency -- all decency, and morality must be "value judgments" based on an "amoral" "love". We can see that love, in this context, is convertible with the will, unrestricted by either nature or reason.

I have, I trust, exposed the liberal basis of Ozersky's "thinking." Like all good liberals, Ozersky holds onto a "morality," but that morality always, at bottom, presupposes that the human will triumphs over nature. The same nature which condemns homosexuality, also affirms, the belief that "all men are created equal. I wonder if Ozersky knows that the great Nazi propaganda move was titled, "The Triumph of the Will." It also, Doonesbury, was an attempt to "minimize" nature by ignoring natural differences (liberalism), and similarities (Nazism) for the love of will, and hatred of "the Law of Nature and Nature's God."

ANDREW FESE
Law School

DOONESBURY

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"People ask me, 'how do you sleep with that schedule?' Like a baby. I wake up every two hours and cry."

Lou Holtz
ND Head Football Coach
Church’s authority on natural law not limited

The subject of natural law comes up frequently in The Observer as well as in class­room readings. It may be helpful at the start of the year to try to get the concept straight. “A just law,” wrote Martin Luther King in his room during one of his many trips to Montgomery, Alabama, on Dec. 11, 1955, “is a law rooted in eternal law and natural law.” In that same spirit, he refused to give up her seat on the bus in Montgomery, and she made a national law statement. Legally enforced racial segregation is unjust in light of the natural law and a civil law that mandates it is void.

The idea of natural law is neither a merely sectarian Catholic teaching nor even a Christian invention. Aristotle and Cicero affirmed it. Everything is governed by a natural law according to its own nature. Thus a river will sink and grass will grow. The natural moral law, which governs human conduct, can be known certainly by reason. The first principle of the practical reason is self-evident, that in Thomas Aquinas’ words, “good is to be done and promoted, and evil is to be avoided.” The good is that in nature which is in the nature of the subject, whether a car or a man. It is good to feed gasoline to a car and not good to feed it to a man. It is not good, i.e., it is evil, for a man to steal since theft is contrary to the natural human inclination to live in community.

However, to declare that theft, abortion, etc., is objectively wrong is not to judge subjective culpability of the person who does it. To be morally culpable, one must know it is wrong and yet choose to do it. We generally have neither the right nor the capacity to judge the subjective culpability of anyone. Nevertheless, as Pope John Paul II said in Denver, “Moral truth is objective, and a properly formed conscience can perceive it.” St. Thomas described the function of the natural law as the “light of natural reason, whereby we discern what is good and what is evil.” The natural law is a rule of reason, promulgated by God in man’s nature, whereby man can discern how he should act so as to achieve his end of salvation.

But whose natural law are you going to apply? As Supreme Court Justice James Frank said in 1798, “The ideas of natural justice are regulated by no fixed standard, but a universal conscience, and the purest men have differed upon the subject of right and wrong, the natural law is inde­terminate and relatively useless as a higher standard for law and a guide for human conduct. Suppose you think abortion, or military service, or whatever, is wrong. But who are you to say? Even if we recognize that there is a natural law, how do we know for sure what it means?”

Reason can attain to the truth in moral matters. But if reason were our only guide we would find ourselves in confusion. Our intellects are weakened by original sin and sincere advocates can be found on both sides of most moral issues. Aristotle, who was a fair student himself, sanctioned infanticide. Some Christians in the last century upheld the morality of slavery. Today, people differ on the morality of abortion. They can’t always decide, but both are right. As St. Thomas tells us, “If we considered one action in the moral sphere of natural law, impossible for it to be morally both good and evil.”

“Was it fitting?” wrote St. Thomas, “that the Divine Law should come to man’s assistance not only in those cases for which reason is insufficient, but also in those things in which human reason may happen to be impeded…” Hence there was need of the authority of the Divine Law to rescue man from both these defects.”

Everyone has a pope, in the sense that everyone recognizes an ultimate authority on moral questions. If that authority is not one on earth, there is a pope on the papal throne who has been nominated by the bishops in union with him, who pronounces authoritatively on a matter of moral law. If the pronouncement’s binding force is not limited by the per­suasiveness of the arguments advanced.

The guidance of the teaching Church is essential if men are to achieve a consistently correct observance of the law written in their nature. The Church, however, is not an academic upperclassman or moralist. Rather, she incorporates the natural law and explains the teachings of St. Thomas, into her teaching of the truth, who is a person, Christ. And she teaches that truth by the direct authority of that divine person.

In giving this direction, the Church is not merely seeking to persuade. Rather, although she teaches that she is the source of the reasonableness of her position, she is expounding the law. For this reason, when the authentic teaching voice of the Church, whether the Pope or the bishops, speaks on moral questions, their pronouncements authoritatively on a matter of natural moral law, the pronouncement’s binding force is not limited by the persuasiveness of the arguments advanced.

Professor Rice is on the Law School faculty. His column appears every other Monday.

Columnist finds ‘Tarnished Dome’ a convenient pretext to grind axe

Dear Editor:

In his column of Sept. 13, Kurt Mills appears to be trying — rather desperately — to rec­ord his own deeply seated conflicts about the character of the school whose name will one day appear on his own diploma.

His effort takes the form of rhetorical sanctimony bombing that indescribably targets big-time collegiate football, the press, the Notre Dame student body, football fans and all others who, in his estimation, are not prone to endorse his unstated but explicit agenda. In fact, his second paragraph, with its conviction that the Looney and Vaeger book, Under the Tarnished Dome, is proper in spirit, if not provable in fact.

Mr. Mills clearly has an axe to grind, and I suspect that this book business represents a conven­ient and timely pretext to grind away. And grind away he does — in a piece notable mainly for the sluggishness of its argumentation and the lust­ness of its barely disguised bitterness. Typical of the tenden­tiousness that informs his piece is Mills’ best for suggesting that anyone who enters negative an­tagonism toward the Vaeger/Looney book has already been infected by the moral virus that, to his way of thinking, must necessarily attend major sports programs. Mr. Mills is resolve in his con­viction that “such programs, by their very nature, corrupt the educational mission of the uni­versity.”

Readers who may have only skimmed Mills’ column might want to re-read it and to pay particular attention to the pat­tern of vocabulary he deploys. There is much to be inferred about him and his position from the semantic choices he makes.

I offer a few especially pertinent points, and, I think, enlightening instances of his use of the broadest collective modifiers available to him, such as “the Notre Dame community”: everybody here; critical thinking seems to be sorely lacking among [all football fans]; the language is beyond curse words that pulsat with moral and psychic outrage (“recolled with horror”), “students are aghast;” “disgusting display;” “persecu­tion complex;” “arrogance of the reaction was astounding;” “lily-white;” “blind and insensitively anti-O. J. Simpson”; “many fans (fanatics);” 3) limping attempts at irony (“Leo Holtz — AKA god!”); and 4) a tendency to extrapolate in the most out­landish ways (case in point: his assessment of the supposedly deeper significance of the expression “we are ND”).

The point is that Mills pretends too much, and his rare homages to less stringent modes of argumentation (end of paragraph five and the “may or may not turn out to be valid with which he closes”), do very little to reconcile the mean­ingsubtly that shades the main of his outburst. What is certain — and even the conscious dis­tance himself from what he perceives to be the dim-witted boards of sports fans at Notre Dame, gets in the way of the analytical acumen he prizes, promotes, and which he seems so severely wanting in the insti­tutions (press, university administration, student body, Notre Dame/South Bend com­munity) that he is so quick to indict.

Not once does he entertain the thought that the book itself may be severe and — in­tent, interview technique and editorial manipulation, nor does he consider that Under the Tarnished Dome was a project designed for one purpose only: to make money for Messrs. Vaeger, Looney, Simon and Schuster, in which regard the University of Notre Dame is the only viable prey.

Have some, even many, Notre Dame supporters instinctively reacted against criticism of their school and team? Doubtless. For them, Notre Dame football has become an ideology and what is virtually all ideologies, there is ample room for misdirected ardor. I need only say that I remember a time when he was no more immune to that brand of ardor than those he so soundly wants to spank.

LOUIS MACKENZIE

Associate Professor of Romance Languages and Literatures
Chile program promotes service with studies

By ANALISE TAYLOR
Accent Writer

On the west coast of South America lies a newly developed and invigorating academic experience for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's undergraduates: a semester abroad in Santiago, Chile.

The Chile program was added to the foreign study sites offered by the Office of International Studies in March, 1993. This program is similar to those at other cities, yet it also has some significant, intriguing differences.

One of these differences is that students participating in the program will live with Chilean families in Santiago, as opposed to living in a dorm with only other Notre Dame or Saint Mary's students.

Also, students will attend the Catholic University in Santiago, which is also attended by Chilean students.

The net effect of these aspects is that it ensures that a student will become immersed in the culture and society of Chile, according to Father Don McNeill, CSC, director of Latin American Studies. McNeill was also involved in another special aspect of the program, helping to develop a course entitled, "Approaches to Poverty and Development."

For five credits, students in this optional experiential learning course work with impoverished youth in Santiago, attend seminars to get an understanding of the realities of poverty and development.

"I think the Chile program is the most rigorous and most fruitful because of the Catholic University of Chile. It's one of the top schools in Latin America."

—Tomas Fernandez
Chile Program Spring '93

service through our connections with the Holy Cross Fathers in Santiago," added Knelman.

Zahn Hall senior Tomas Fernandez agrees about the merits of the university.

"I think the Chile program is the most rigorous and most fruitful because of the Catholic University of Chile," said Fernandez, one of the first participants in the program. "It's one of the top schools in Latin America."

Fernandez also described one of the unique aspects of his learning during his time in the Chile program.

"Chile is in transition from a military government to democracy, so participants will live the transition politically and culturally," he said. "It makes you struggle with the issues yourself."

Going abroad may even answer students' questions about the Catholic faith, added Fernandez. "Chile is explicitly Catholic, and the experience could enrich the students' faith," he said.

The first semester at the Catholic University in Santiago begins in early March and runs to July, with the second semester beginning in early August and ending in December.

The orientation program takes place in the three weeks prior to the first day of classes.

The cost of the program is undetermined, but has been a little less than a semester at Notre Dame, Knelman said, because of its connection with a program offered by the University of Wisconsin and the University of Michigan.

An informational meeting is planned for Sept. 21, at 6:30 p.m. in room 125 of DeBartolo. Deadline for applications is Oct. 15.

Interested students should contact Claudia Knelman at 631-5882, or Father Tim Scully at 631-7052 or 631-6580.
Kinder and (not so) gentler Irish romp

Trio of backs do most of damage in second half

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Freshman Randy Kinder seemed to hug every person outside Notre Dame Stadium. “This was a special game for me,” said the East Lansing native, as relatives and friends engulfed him as he exited the locker room.

It was a special game for all the Irish running backs, as they combined for 283 yards rushing leading Notre Dame to a 36-14 win over Michigan State Saturday. Kinder shined the brightest, finishing with 94 yards on 12 carries.

Kinder, Willie Clark and Lee Becton supplied the rushing offense the Irish lacked in its previous two games, allowing Kevin McDougal to become even more effective through the air.

“Backs gave us a boost and I thought we were much better offensively this week,” said Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz. “I thought we were much better on offense this week.”

Paul Failla is a short-yardage quarterback, not to mention a short-tempered one.

With just seconds remaining in Notre Dame’s 36-14 rout of Michigan State, a frustrated Failla called a useless timeout, bringing a chorus of boos from the crowd.

After receiving some animated advice from Irish coach Lou Holtz, Failla returned to the field for the last play. He knelt down, let time expire and angrily pretended to throw the ball into the crowd.

Calling the timeout was a bad mental lapse, but a forgivable one. What isn’t quite so forgivable was Failla’s remarkable lack of poise in the face of adversity.

Playing quarterback at Notre Dame is a pressure-filled job, one that requires its occu-

See BACKS/page 2

Freshman Randy Kinder, an East Lansing, Mich., native, shined Saturday against his hometown team, leading a powerful Irish rushing attack with 94 yards.
By JENNY MARTEN

Irish opponents saw another aspect of the Notre Dame offense on Saturday when Lou Holtz unveiled the tight end pass for the first time.

With a group of three of the more talented tight ends in the country, it had been a mystery to many observers why Notre Dame had yet to utilize one of the more effective weapons from last year.

In 1992, the former starting tight end, Tyrone Smith, averaged 13.1 yards per catch with 20 receptions for 262 yards while then-junior Oscar McBride had 5 receptions for 29 yards.

While apparently waiting for the quarterbacks to mature on the field, the Irish used senior McBride, sophomore Leon Wallace and sophomore Pete Chryplewicz in purely blocking roles against Northwestern and Michigan, but against Michigan State their responsibilities were increased.

When asked why finally decided to throw to the tight ends, Holtz quipped, "I got tired of answering the question at the Quarterback Club every week."

He went on to explain that it is never a conscious decision to throw to the tight ends.

"The read takes you where you have to go. There was nothing said that we were going to go to the tight end. We've run the same patterns from all formations and, basically, whoever happens to be in the area is the guy that's going to get the ball," said Holtz.

After the game, Chryplewicz admitted that it had been a long time since the tight ends have been used as receivers, but was quick to hope for the trend to continue.

"They threw to us five times and none of us dropped it. Hopefully, that's a start," said Chryplewicz.

Irish senior quarterback Kevin McDougal was duly impressed with his tight ends. He threw five passes to them and all five were caught for significant gains prompting McDougal to promise after the game, "If they keep doing that, I'll keep throwing to them."

The first tight end pass of 1993 came on a third down and six situation in the first quarter. McDougal dropped a floater over the line to Wallace who ran it to make an eight-yard gain and a first down keeping alive a drive which eventually resulted in a touchdown.

The play was equally effective in the first half when McDougal used Chryplewicz three times on route to a Irish touchdown.

During the 49-yard march, Chryplewicz picked up six, 18 and 10-yard gains. On the two long gains, the sophomores from Sterling Heights, Michigan displayed his bulldozer-like rushing style which sent defenders reeling.

Holtz was pleased with his young tight ends.

"Chryplewicz and Leon Wallace have been playing a lot of tight end because Oscar McBride had a bad ankle," said Holtz. "I thought Chryplewicz played better than when I saw him last year. I caught the ball well."

McBride got his first taste of the tight end tight end pass pie in the fourth quarter when junior quarterback Paul Faila found him in the middle for an eight-yard gain.

Because of the injury hampering McBride, the entire tight end corps has seen significant time on the field.

Although Holtz is quick to praise the group, he is not ready to make any special changes in the depth chart or in the play calling.

"They performed very well against Michigan. We played all three of them today. We'll have to look at the film and see where we go from there," concluded Holtz.

Play of the Game

Player of the Game

Randy Kinder

6’1” 205 lbs.

freshman

Tightback

Playing against his home team, the East Lansing native rushed for 94 yards on only 12 carries, including a 33-yard burst in the second half.

All-Big Ten tailback Craig Thomas was held to only four yards in the second half after gaining 56 in the first thirty-minutes of play.

The Irish offense scored on two Kevin Pendergast field goals and on a one-yard run by freshman fullback Marc Edwards. A twelve yard touchdown pass from McDougal to tailback Lee Becton in the fourth quarter clinched the scoring.

Notre Dame’s defense looked impressive against the run and passing, holding Michigan State to just 238 total yards on the day. Michigan State was held to just 238 total yards on the day.

The Spartans were able to march 74 yards on 14 plays on their first possession, taking a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. Mill Coleman caught a 5-yard pass from Jim Miller with 14 seconds left. "I thought after the first drive that the last drive, we played good on defense," said Holtz. "We couldn't have communicated better."

The Irish defense also adjusted to a confusing tight end motion that the Spartans were using, one they hadn’t shown this season but used against Notre Dame last year.

"It took us a drive or two to realize what they were doing, but after that we were able to adjust," said linebacker Pete Bercich.

The convincing win went against the prediction that Notre Dame would suffer a letdown after last Saturday’s upset win over Michigan.

"We’ve been through that kind of thing before, and we wouldn’t (let it) happen," said Bercich.

Backs

from page 1

Kevin McDougal performed well.

For the second week in a row the turning point in the game came on Notre Dame’s final drive of the first half. Taking over near midfield with 1:04 left in the period, McDougal hit tight end Peter Chryplewicz with passes for 14 and 10 yards.

After an 11 yard completion to Mike Miller, McDougal hit Chryplewicz for ten more yards to the four-yard line. On the next play, fullback Hay Zellars found a seam across the middle and turned point in the game came on the offensive game plan.

Kevin McDougal had the best passing day of his career, looking more and more comfortable at the controls

Receivers

Played well as a unit, but a few dropped balls and some mental lapses kept them from a higher grade high.

Opening drive

Opened big holes for the backs, leading to the best rushing day of the season.

D-Line

Great job against the rush, put pass rush was lacking

Linebackers

Scotch played well, but they could have tackled better as a unit

Secondary

Prevented the big play, but Spartans were successful with underneath passes that kept some drives alive

Special Teams

Tough coverage, bad returns, and a missed extra point brought them down a way from a week ago

Coaching

Holtz outmatched Perles; good offensive mixture victimized MSU; defensive coaches made good adjustments after opening drive

Final Score

A solid overall performance keeps the Irish on the Dean’s List

Kelly
FOOTBALL MONDAY

SCORE BY QUARTERS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>QTR</th>
<th>TEAM</th>
<th>PLAY</th>
<th>TIME</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>MSU</td>
<td>Thomas 1 yr</td>
<td>6:44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>(Stoyanovich kick)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Farmer 1 yr</td>
<td>11:54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>McDougal 17</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>(kick failed)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Pendergast 26 FG</td>
<td>6:10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Pendergast 23 FG</td>
<td>11:40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Becton 12 pass from McDo</td>
<td>11:06</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>ug</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SCORING SUMMARY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STR</th>
<th>TEAM</th>
<th>FLY</th>
<th>TIME</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>MSU</td>
<td>Thomas 1 yr</td>
<td>6:44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>(Stoyanovich kick)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Farmer 1 yr</td>
<td>11:54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>McDougal 17</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>(kick failed)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Pendergast 26 FG</td>
<td>6:10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Pendergast 23 FG</td>
<td>11:40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>ND</td>
<td>Becton 12 pass from McDo</td>
<td>11:06</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>ug</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ND RUSHING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ATT</th>
<th>YDS</th>
<th>AVG</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>LG</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>84</td>
<td>7.0</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>76</td>
<td>7.6</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>73</td>
<td>4.6</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>42</td>
<td>8.4</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>-5</td>
<td>-2.5</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>37</td>
<td>5.3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>4.8</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>35</td>
<td>8.8</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>34</td>
<td>1.5</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>57</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>31</td>
<td>10.3</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>6.0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.0</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>82</td>
<td>10.3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>11.5</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>13.0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.0</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>8.0</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>4.5</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MSU RUSHING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ATT</th>
<th>YDS</th>
<th>AVG</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>LG</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>84</td>
<td>7.0</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>76</td>
<td>7.6</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>73</td>
<td>4.6</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>42</td>
<td>8.4</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>-5</td>
<td>-2.5</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>37</td>
<td>5.3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>4.8</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>35</td>
<td>8.8</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>23</td>
<td>34</td>
<td>1.5</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>57</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>31</td>
<td>10.3</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>24</td>
<td>6.0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.0</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>82</td>
<td>10.3</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>13.0</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>13.0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.0</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>8.0</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>4.5</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Irish quarterback Kevin McDougal runs away from Michigan State defensive end Rich Glover.
Holtz asks for depth and he gets it

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Ask and you shall receive.
Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz has been desperately searching for depth at the running back spots. After Saturday's win, he got what he was looking for.

Eight different backs carried the ball, and the result was the best rushing performance of the season. Freshman Randy Kinder and former free safety Willie Clark turned in stellar performances in a rotation with starting tailback Lee Becton.

The trio finished 1-2-3 in rushing. Kinder leading the way with 94 yards and Becton ripping off a 40-yard streak for the game's longest play from scrimmage.

"They are all different kinds of runners," said Holtz. "They all bring something to the offense."

Saturday each runner showed they can add more to the offense than just depth.

Clark, who has flip-flopped between free safety and tailback since arriving in South Bend, may be something to the offense. "Ty, and today was a tailback," said Clark. "I see fewer carries," said Clark. "I see some to the offense." Kinder back showed the fluid running style that made him one of the nation's top high school players in 1992. "The coaches stressed protecting the ball and I think I was worried so much about that I didn't just run naturally," said Kinder. "I gained my confidence as the game went on and I felt like I made some steps today towards becoming a good back."

Kinder also had the motivation. Michigan State was his hometown team and he was ridiculed for not staying close to him after graduating from high school.

"This was a very special game for me," he said. "It was me against those green and white jerseys. Becton remained steady, casually waiting for the blocks to form and taking what the defense gave him, which amounted to 76 yards on only ten carries. He is still the starter, but for now the three man rotation seems to be the way the Irish will lean in the remaining games.

"The competition is good, it makes all of us work harder," said Becton. "It keeps the backs fresh. That type of rotation is really effective."

Lost among the performance of the three tailbacks was a solid performance by fullback Ray Zellars and the first career touchdowns by freshman Robert Farmer and Marc Edwards.

Farmer, who along with Kinder was slated as the Irish tailback of the future, carried only four times but amassed 16 yards. Edwards only got two carries, one being his one-yard touchdown.

Zellars and Farmer combined with the top three tailbacks to give Notre Dame its best yards per carry average of the season. None of the five averaged less than four yards per carry. Becton and Zellars also had a hand in the passing game, with Zellars adding a touchdown grab and Becton in on three pass receptions.

"Coach Holtz told all the backs that we were going to get a lot of work," said Kinder. "We all wanted to do well and the line did a tremendous job blocking."

The success of the younger backs may come at the expense of playing time for Zellars and Becton but neither seems to mind.

"It is our job to inform them of what they are doing to face each week," said Zellars. "Things happen as the season goes on in which the younger players are not used too. It is our job to make sure the understanding what they are going to face."

This weekend the three man rotation is really effective.
Accent Writer

By MATT CARBONE

For thousands of miles along the Eastern seaboard, the Appalachian Mountains stand majestically, an enduring testament to the beauty of the United States. Nearby, in the strikingly impregnable peaks, there looms a disturbing testament being made about our country, a testament to the disparities between the rich and the poor, between the beauty and the ugliness of the United States.

The Appalachian Seminar, run annually by the Center for Social Concerns every fall and spring break, tries to teach Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students about these disparities.

It does this by sending approximately 120 students each break to various states within the Appalachia region, where they participate in various activities within the community, including home repair, clothing and food distribution, farming and children's day care.

According to the Seminar Learning Agreement which accompanies the application form, the goal of the Appalachian Seminar is "to introduce the student to the culture and social issues of the Appalachia region through experiential learning."

This "experiential learning" comes in the form of students performing physical labor for the community, and in discussions with members of the community and others working at the site.

The 127 spots available and around 180 applications received each year, some students must be turned away each year due to space constraints, according to graduate assistant Ilene Stanford, Appalachian Seminar coordinator.

But, she added, if a student was turned down once due to a lack of positions, it is almost certain that that student will be able to go the following year. Upon acceptance into the seminar, students will attend a two-hour orientation seminar at the CSC, where students will be given background information about "what issues they will face and the culture they're going into," said Stanford.

This October break, the 127 accepted students will travel to 11 different sites in Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and Mississippi.

Among the sites is a four-acre farm in Peace Place, KY. The farm is run by two Franciscan sisters, and aims to care for abused children who have been taken from their families, two to eight children live at the farm throughout the year.

Students at this site will have the chance to help maintain the farm and its buildings, as well as with a clothing distribution center run by the Sisters.

"The purpose of this class is to give students an opportunity to talk about the things in the culture which they learned about, didn't know about, or were surprised about." - Ilene Stanford, Seminar Coordinator

The purpose of this class is to give students an opportunity to talk about the things in the culture which they learned about, didn't know about, or were surprised about.

The Center For Social Concerns (CSC), however, realizes the hectic pace of senior year and that any Senior Rap-Up program, nostalgic seniors have come to expect from the last couple years, is going to face renewal challenges which lie ahead. Mary Ann Roemer, coordinator of the CSC's Rap-up program, met with the Student Senate in May to discuss its possible future. She explained that the students had a chance to talk about the things in the culture which they learned about, didn't know about, or were surprised about. "I saw many seniors near graduation and have lots of nostalgia about leaving Notre Dame and their friends," Roemer said.

What began as a small discussion over a meal in her home blossomed into the current Senior Rap-up sessions, where seniors discuss issues such as career anxiety, politics and religion.

Last year, approximately 160 seniors participated in the Rap-ups, which met in groups comprised of six men and six women; the groups gathered together six times during their senior year at the home of a staff or faculty host.

The role of the students is to plan the entire meeting, including preparing the meal and leading the discussion. "The students own the group," said Roemer.

The primary responsibility of the faculty hosts is "to try to keep the night interesting and provide the seniors with a relaxed atmosphere which allows students to get out of the classroom," she explained.

Some former participants in the Senior Rap-up highly recommend the experience. "The friendship aspect is really rewarding, but these groups are something deeper than simply meeting on a friendship level," said Chris Ford, a 1993 graduate.

"I got to see the direction other people were going and I could talk with my peers and see if other people felt like I felt," Ford added.

Some suggested topics for this year include: Would you come to Notre Dame or Saint Mary's if you could do it all over again? Do you perceive your family life differently since you came to college? How has your religious life changed? And what are your future plans and what about marriage?" Roemer said.

All seniors, no matter how confident they may seem on the outside, have fears of getting out into the world on their own and finding a job. "It was comforting to see everyone moving in different directions," Ford said. "I realized that we all need to find our own niche and not just follow everyone else's lead."

With commitment and genuine enthusiasm, "these discussion groups are mutually good for both the hosts and the students," Roemer added.

Intrigued seniors who wish to make the commitment, meet some friends and take a load off their chests can sign up for the seminar at the CSC for $20; the deadline is September 11.
Saint Mary’s soccer outlasts Rockford, 3-1

By CHERYL GILLILAND
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s soccer team captured a 3-1 victory over Rockford College on Thursday, overcoming a tiring bus ride and slow field conditions to post their second win in their first three games.

“It was a tough game after the long bus ride,” said Senior Captain Mandy Elder. “The field had high grass so the game was a lot slower than usual.”

Tom Van Meter

Senior Megan Dalsasso knocked in the Belles’ first goal twenty minutes into the game with an assist from Maura Sullivan.

Rockford scored unexpectedly on the Belles’ six minutes later, tying the game at one. “We were pretty lethargic at the beginning of the game,” commented Coach Tom Van Meter. “We knew we didn’t play as well as we could have.”

The Belles came back with full force in the second half. Dalsasso scored again to begin the half with an unassisted goal. “We really dominated the second half,” said Van Meter. “Rockford wasn’t able to get a shot on us.”

“Rockford’s goal was really unexpected, but we were able to pull out of it during the second half,” added Elder. With four minutes left in the game, freshman Bridg Keyes scored with an assist from Freshman Lisa Nichols.

“We played well once we got ourselves together after the long bus ride,” said Nichols. “I feel that we’ve worked well together as a team given that we’ve only worked together for the three weeks that we’ve been here.”

Elder also feels that the team has come together well. “We played well despite a rough start. Our defense was better, but we’re still working on it.”

Saint Mary’s’s Megan Dalsasso scored twice in the Belles’ 3-1 win over Rockford on Thursday.
Braves pound lowly Mets to stay in control of West

CINCINNATI

Matt Williams hit two more home runs, giving him 10 in his last 15 games, and drove in five runs as the San Francisco Giants completed a sweep of Cincinnati. The Reds lost their ninth in a row.

San Francisco arrived at Bicentennial Stadium with an eight-game losing streak that ended its 123-day stay in first place and let Atlanta take a four-game lead. The Giants reeled the Reds 26-4 to end the slide and start making up ground.

Marlina, 2, Cuba 1

Chicago's Chris Hammond allowed four hits in 7-2-3 innings and drove in a run with a squeeze bunt, leading the Florida Marlins over Chicago.

Hammond (11-11), who had lost seven straight decisions since July 2, struck out four and walked three. Bryan Harvey struck out the side in the ninth for his 45th save in 49 chances.

Steve Trachsel lost in his major league debut, allowing two runs in seven innings with five strikeouts and one walk. Jeff Conine hit his 15th homer in the first inning for the Marlins.

Blue Jays 10, Twins 0

MINNEAPOLIS

Toronto won its eighth consecutive game and opened a four-game lead in the AL East, as Juan Guzman scattered eight hits over eight innings Sunday, leading the Blue Jays over the Minnesota Twins.

Toronto, which had a team-record nine doubles by eight players, has its largest lead this season and a five-game advantage in the loss column with 13 games to go.

The winning streak is the longest for the season for the Blue Jays.

Red Sox 8, Yankees 3

BOSTON

Frank Tanana, 7-16 overall this season, allowed eight hits and walked three but New York made three errors and dropped four games behind division-leading Toronto with 13 games to go.

Danny Darwin (15-11) gave up three hits and one run in six innings. John Valentin had three hits and drove in four runs for Boston with an RBI double in the second, a two-run homer in the fifth that put the Red Sox ahead 4-1, and a run-scoring single in a four-run eighth.

White Sox 3, Athletics 1

OAKLAND, Calif.

Robin Ventura's two-run homer off Dennis Eckersley in the ninth inning gave the AL West leaders their 14th victory in 21 games.

Frank Thomas opened the ninth with a single off Eckersley (2-4) and Ventura followed with his 22nd home run.

Scott Radinsky (7-2) won in relief for the Blue Jays, and Roberto Hernandez got three outs for his 35th save.

Stickers provide phone info

Student Government and Campus Ministry are seeking student volunteers to distribute stickers to Notre Dame students which list crucial safety and security phone numbers on campus.

The stickers will be placed on each campus phone, and will provide students with quick access to such numbers as campus security, the Notre Dame Fire Department, and local hospitals. In the event of an emergency, the numbers will be easy to locate, and precious time will be saved.

The stickers will be available through each hall president and in the Student Government Office.

Tom Glavine won his 20th game of the year last night for the NL West-leading Atlanta Braves.

Any person interested in playing field hockey should meet at Loftus at 9 p.m. on Sunday through Thursday. If you have any questions, call Christy at 52966 or Bonnie at 273-6991. No experience needed.

Club Hockey-Anyone interested in playing club hockey contact Rob at X1950. Leave name, number and year.

SWM - Swimmers-Informational meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Regina pool for all those interested. It's time to start thinking now! There will be an informational meeting on Thursday, Sept. 23 at 8:00 p.m. in Martin Hall Science Center. All those who may be interested in the trip to Breckenridge, CO over Christmas vacation, or in trying out for the ski team should attend.

Anyone interested in coaching youth hockey for the ND youth soccer league call Debbie at 277-7519.

Any woman interested in playing lacrosse with the Saint Mary's/ND women's lacrosse club, please call Emily Hage at X2856 or Michelle McQueen at X2894 by Sept. 24. Beginners are welcome.

Notre Dame Sports Information is looking for volunteer help for the 1993-94 academic year. Our office handles statistics, press releases and media guides for all Irish varsity sports. For more information, call Rose at 631-7516.

Joint "flood relief '93"

Student Government, in cooperation with several other campus organizations, is offering ND students an opportunity to lend a hand to flood victims in the Midwest. Applications are now being accepted. If you are interested in going on the trip to St. Louis, where students will help local residents clean up from the results of this summer's devastating floods, you must submit an application.

Applications are available in the Student Government Office. Completed applications must be returned by 5 p.m. on Sept. 20. The trip should provide a terrific opportunity for service to a community in need.

The trip is co-sponsored by Student Government, C.I.L.A., The CSC, the Alumni Association, and Campus Ministry.
Browns’ comeback victory highlight of NFL action

By BARRY WILNER
Associated Press

Yo, Vinny, way to go. You too, Eric.

The Cleveland Browns, stymied most of the game, turned to backup quarterback Vinny TestaIve and on Sunday. TestaIve turned their game around, replacing Bernie Kosar and led them back from a 13-0 hole to a 19-16 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

"Browns is on our starting quarte­berback," Browns coach Bill Belichick said. "He had a little problem, Vinny on the other hand, scrambles around a little bit. That's what we brought him here for. He stepped up and did a great job for us today.

TestaIve got plenty of help from Eric Metcalf, who returned a free kick 37 yards, then scored on a 1-yard run with 2 seconds remaining. The Browns had no timeouts when they called for the run, and Metcalf swept in untouched.

"I felt good about it when they called the last play. I was a little surprised that no one touched me," Metcalf said. "This was a confidence-builder. We know now we are never out, no matter what."

Kosar was lifted after struggling to an 8-17 perfor­mance for 112 yards. TestaIve finished 10-for-22 for 159 yards and guided the Browns on a 90-yard drive to make it 11-10.

Raiders punter Jeff Goulet took an intentional safety, then Metcalf had his big return to the Los Angeles 45. Eight plays later, Cleveland won it.

Eight teams had byes this week — Miami, Buffalo, the New York Jets, Indianapolis, Chicago, Tampa Bay, Green Bay and Minnesota.

Seahawks 17, Patriots 14
At Foxboro, Mass., the Seahawks prevailed in a game between the top two picks in the NFL draft — Rick Mirer of Seattle and Drew Bledsoe of New England. Mirer, the No. 2 choice, was 12-for-16 for 117 yards and one touchdown before leaving with blurred vision in the third quar­ter. Bledsoe, the no. 1 choice, was 20-for-44 for 240 yards and a score, but was in­tercepted twice.

"It's not fair to call it (a per­sonal duel) because everyone out there played hard," Miler said. "I thought Drew played fine. I played all right, but the game is not just two guys."

The Seahawks, up 17-0 early in the fourth quarter, received 174 yards rushing and one touchdown from Chris Warren. Seattle won when rookie Scott Scissons' 54-yard field goal at­tempt bounced off the crossbar with 30 seconds left.

Cowboys 17, Cardinals 10
At Phoenix, Emmitt Smith came back from his long con­tract holdout and helped the champions to their first victory after two defeats. But it was Smith's replacement, rookie Derrick Lausic, who scored both touchdowns.

Smith finished with 45 yards on eight carries in less than one half of action. Lassic had 60 in 14 carries and Troy Alkman was 21-for-27 for 281 yards. His favorite target was Alvin Harper with six receptions for 136 yards.

The Cardinals (1-2) were held to 60 yards.

Chargers 18, Olens 17
At San Diego, John Carney sacked the Seahawks for con­ce­utive field goals at 29 with six against Houston, the final one for 27 yards with three seconds remaining. The Chargers are 2-1 and Carney scored all the points in both victories.

The Chargers intercepted Warren Moon four times, with Junior Seau getting two. Moon was lifted late in the game, as was San Diego's starting QB, Stan Humphries.

After Houston backup quarterback directed the Oilers on a 53-yard drive to Al Del Greco's 27-yard field goal for a 17-15 lead. San Diego backup John Frietsch moved the Chargers 75 yards before Carney's winning kickoff.

"I was hoping we'd score a touchdown and I'd only have to kick the extra point," Carney said. "But we moved it down and got it close. That made it nice for me." 49ers 37, Falcons 30
At San Francisco, Steve Young caught his own deflect­ed pass to set up Ricky Watters' 2-yard TD run, and the 49ers (2-2) had their third straight defeat.

Young threw for three TDs, Jerry Rice 43 yards on a reverse for a score and Watters rushed for 112 yards.

The 49ers' worst moment was when John Beattie 192 yards rushing by Eric Pegram, starting for the injured Eric Dickerson. No one has ever rushed for more yards against the 49ers. Bobby Hebert added three scoring passes to Andre Rison for Atlanta.

Eagles 34, Redskins 31
At Philadelphia, Randall Cunningham threw his third touchdown pass with four sec­onds left as the Eagles rallied from a 21-10 deficit. All three TD tosses were to Calvin Williams, who caught eight passes for 181 yards. His leap­ing 10-yard reception lifted the Eagles to their third straight victory.

"I just saw the two safeties, caught Randall's eye and he picked me up," Williams said of his winning catch. "We've been doing this for four years now and we're really relaxed in this situation."

Washington's Cary Conklin, filling in for injured Mark Rypien, also threw for three touchdowns. Washington (1-0) got 154 yards rushing from rookie Reggie Brooks, including an 85-yard TD run.

Suns 14, Lions 3
At New Orleans, the defense is no longer resting for the Saints. New Orleans (3-0) ranked an unusually low 26th in defense heading into the game. But Renaldo Turnbull had three sacks, Ricky Jackson recovered two fumbles and the Saints held Detroit (2-1) to 165 yards. Saints rookie Derek Brown rushed for 121 yards on 25 carries.

Former Saints linebacker Pat Swilling, traded to the Lions last April, played despite the death of his father Saturday. Swilling had only two tackles and jumped offside three times.

Former Irish star Reggie Brooks had an 85-yard run in the Washington Redskins' 37-34 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday.

Steelers 34, Bengals 7
At Pittsburgh, Neil O'Donnell threw for three touchdowns de­spite a sore arm and Barry Foster rushed for 103 yards. O'Donnell found Ernie Miles, Yancey Thigpen and Dwight Stone for TDs and was 21-for­25 for 189 yards and no in­ter­ceptions. The Steelers (1-2) had just one touchdown in their first two games.

Cincinnati (0-3) lost its fifth game in a row to Pittsburgh. After going 11-for-12 for 98 yards and a touchdown, David Klingler could not get the Bengals moving in the second half.
WIN $5,000* EVERY DAY FOR DOING WHAT YOU'D DO ANYWAY:

CALL YOUR PARENTS COLLECT.

It's as easy as dialing 1-800-COLLECT, instead of zero, when you make a collect call.

It's the 1-800-COLLECT $5,000 DAILY GIVEAWAY. Just complete your collect call between August 30 and September 28, and you'll have a chance to share $5,000 with the person whose number you're calling.

Call as often as you like. There are winners every day.

You'll also save up to 44% with 1-800-COLLECT. It's America's Inexpensive Way To Call Someone Collect. Use it every time you make a long distance collect call. That's all there is to it.

Bet you call Mom and Dad more than ever.

THE 1-800-COLLECT $5,000 DAILY GIVEAWAY

*1-800-COLLECT will love when a winner of $5,000. TO ENTER BY MAKING A 1-800 COLLECT CALL: Each time you make a 1-800-COLLECT domestic telephone call within the U.S. and Puerto Rico during the period of August 30 through September 28, 1993, you and the individual or company whose name appears on the telephone bill for the called collect telephone number referred to as Call Recipient are eligible to be randomly selected as potential winners to share a prize of $5,000. Calling day is 12:00 midnight EST up to the following 12:00 midnight EST. No purchase or telephone call necessary. TO ENTER BY MAIL, send your name, address, zip code and daytime telephone number on a post card (no larger than 3 1/2" x 6") and mail in a hand addressed 3 1/2" x 6" envelope, with first class postage affixed to 1-800-COLLECT Sweepstakes: P.O. Box 4396, Blair, NE 68009, IMPORTANT: ON LOWER LEFT HAND CORNER OF MAILING ENVELOPE, YOU MUST PRINT THE SPECIFIC DATE OF THE PRIZE GIVEAWAY (FROM 8/30 THROUGH 9/28/93) FOR WHICH YOUR ENTRY IS DESIGNATED. Enter as many times as you wish for as many days as you wish but each entry must be mailed separately. No mechanically reproduced entries permitted. Entries must be received by 5 business days after prize giveaway date indicated on your mailing envelope to be eligible for that daily prize.

3 SELECTION OF WINNERS' Each daily winner will be randomly selected from among all eligible 1-800-COLLECT telephone call entries and all eligible mail-in entries received for that day's giveaway. Random selection will take place 6 days after the specific prize giveaway date. Odds of winning a prize will depend on the number of eligible 1-800-COLLECT telephone calls completed each day and the time of day the call was made, and on the number of mail-in entries designated for each prize. Each potential winner is required to give name, address and telephone number of individual with whom he/she wishes to share prize equally. 4. PRIZES: 1 Grand Prize per day of $5,000 divided equally between Caller and Call Recipient. Call Recipient portion of the prize will be awarded to the individual or company whose name appears on the telephone bill for the telephone number called. If potential winner has entered via mail, refuse signature will be required to give name, address and telephone number of individual with whom he/she wishes to share prize equally. 5. GENERAL RULES: To be eligible, called person in entry must be 16 years or older as of 8/30/93. Sponsor's employees directly involved in the planning and implementation of this promotion and employees of its advertising and promotion agencies, and their immediate family members and/or those living in the same household of each are not eligible for any prize either as an entrant or designated recipient. If either potential winner of a daily prize is not eligible, per the above rules, the prize will not be awarded. Void where prohibited by law. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply. No substitution or transfer of prize permitted. All taxes are the sole responsibility of winner. Promoter is not responsible for telephone malfunctions or breakdown of telephone systems, for faulty telephone transmission or for lost, late or misdirected entries. In the event that technical difficulties prevent selection of a winner for any daily prize of the promotion, that prize will be awarded on the following day. Random selection of winners will be under the supervision of D.L. Blair, Inc., an independent judging organization whose decisions are final. By participating in this promotion, entrants agree to be bound by the Official Rules and decisions of the judges. COMPLETE terms are subject to any requirements or limitations that may be imposed by the Federal Communications Commission.
Men

continued from page 20

son and ended a two-game win streak.

Prado, who had just been inserted into the lineup, scored the only goal of the second half off a Chris Mathis pass to provide the winning goal for the Irish.

Michigan State came out with a lot of enthusiasm in the first half, shocking the Irish at the 5:26 mark when midfielder Andrew Hoff drilled a 20-yard shot into the right corner of the net past a diving Bert Bader. Notre Dame tied the game at one off a penalty kick from Bill Lanza at the 22:44 mark in the first half.

The tie did not last for long, however. The Spartans responded at the 36:27 mark, when Sean Nemrich scored off a Jon Petruskey cross pass, making the score 2-1.

"We're attacking well in the first half, but we left ourselves vulnerable to their counter-attack," said Berticelli Friday night. The Irish found themselves facing many three-on-two disadvantages in their own zone following stifled scoring attacks in the first half.

The Spartans could not hold the lead until halftime, however, as Notre Dame scored with 1:34 remaining. Junior Tim Oates capitalized on a dropped ball by Michigan State goalie Curtis Payment, scoring on an open net to even the score at 2-2.

Despite their offensive display in the first half, the Spartans could not muster any other scoring chances throughout the rest of the game, as they were completely dominated by the Irish in the second half.

"It was the same game in the second half," continued Berticelli. "But the adjustments we made defensively in the second half is what gave us the edge.

The Irish held Michigan State to only four shots in the second half, while gathering thirteen shots on goal offensively.

Notre Dame's next game will be Friday night at Alumni Field, when they host rival and top-20 power Indiana.

Yankees' fans impact game in an altogether new way

By JIM DONAGHY
Associated Press

NEW YORK

The Yankees called it destiny. The Red Sox called it a darned shame. What it was, was one of the most incredible comebacks in baseball game ever.

Players, fans and security guards were still buzzing about it Sunday, one day after a 13-year-old boy ran onto the field and saved the Yankees' pennant hopes.

Pinch-hitter Mike Stanley had just hit what appeared to be an easy, game-ending fly ball to left field Sunday, giving Boston a 3-1 victory.

But third base umpire Tim Welke was waving his arms wildly, indicating a timeout just as pitcher Greg Harris was making his delivery. After a brief argument by manager Butch Hobson, the game resumed, and the Yankees scored three runs for a 4-3 victory, keeping them three games back of Toronto in the AL East.

"A lot has happened this year to make me feel we might win it all," Stanley said. "It seems to be some sort of destiny that we win this division.

Police wouldn't identify the fan because of his age, but they said he was was part of a church group from upstate New York and that he cried before he was released.

The boy jumped over a short fence on the third-base side and started running toward second base where he was tackled by security guards.

"He was frightened," said one police officer. "I don't think he even noticed the Yankees won.

In the first three games of the four-game series, 13 people ran on the field. The stadium security force, one of the largest in baseball, said it was considering deploying more guards around the first row of box seats, but officials said Sunday it's virtually impossible to stop a rowdy fan who wants a moment of glory.

It was the second time this season that the Yankees have won at home because of fan interference. On Aug. 15, a 16-year-old boy reached over the right-field fence to catch a ball hit by Don Mattingly for a game-winning home run.

ND WOMEN SPEAK OUT

An invitation to the entire Notre Dame Community to listen to and speak about Gender Relations

Featuring:

Guest speakers
Poetry Readings
Music

*Open to Personal Testimony

September 20th
7:30 PM
101 De Bartolo

TOP Ten Reasons to Join Communities ND

10. No papers, finals or grades
9. Free candles
8. Monk wants you to
7. Better than an SYR for making new friends
6. Chance to talk about Sunday's Gospel ahead of time
5. Discover the challenge of adult Christianity
4. Easier to get into than an NDE
2. Terrific way to learn about your faith
1. Nobody goes to heaven by themselves

New Communities begin in January - find out what they're all about NOW

Come learn more about Communities ND:
- September 20; 9:00 - 10:00 p.m.; Faculty Dining Room (South Dining Hall above the Oak Room)
- Open to members of the classes of '95, '96 and '97
- Meet new friends - hear from student participants in current communities...

Refreshments Following Women

continued from page 20

The Observer • SPORTS

Women's soccer team's last eleven games, spanning the end of last season and the beginning of this season, all of which have resulted in Irish victories.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>MONTH</th>
<th>OPPONENT</th>
<th>RESULT</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>OCTOBER</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>Texas Christian</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>23</td>
<td>LASSALL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>25</td>
<td>PROVIDENCE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>30</td>
<td>Notre Dame</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NOVEMBER</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>Wright State</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SEPTEMBER</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>LaSalle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>7</td>
<td>BUTLER</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>10</td>
<td>Wisc.-Madison (#20)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>14</td>
<td>at Indiana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>17</td>
<td>MICHIGAN STATE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>19</td>
<td>WILLIAM &amp; MARY (#5)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Law School presents
Pamela Carter, Attorney General of Indiana on Race, Sex, and the Law: How a Black Woman Became Attorney General and How She Intends to Use The Power of that Office

Wednesday, September 22nd
Noon
in the Law School Courthouse
Volleyball coasts through Shamrock Invitational

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Sport Writer

Opposition is an overused modifier most times, but there are those instances when it becomes unavoidable.

This weekend’s Shamrock Invitational volleyball tournament was a classic example, as the 16th ranked Notre Dame squad took it to each of its opponents, dropping only one game en route to the championship.

Behind a Janelle Karlan blistering attack that racked up 96 kills, the Irish breezed past Cal State Northridge 15-4, 15-9, 15-10, and then racked William and Mary 15-6, 15-2, 15-12. After a brief lapse in the opening game, the Irish regained their composure and dropped 23rd ranked New Mexico 11-15, 15-2, 15-7, 16-14, in the finals.

“Overall, I feel that we played fairly consistently throughout the weekend. We were able to play everyone on the roster, and we showed great perseverance in the match against New Mexico,” remarked Irish head coach Debbie Brown, whose team improved to 8-2 after the tournament.

The New Mexico match was the one Notre Dame was most concerned with entering the tournament, and for awhile their fears seemed to be warranted. The Lobos confidently came out and took the first game, confounding the Irish with a series of difficult short serves and finesse tips over the net.

Their short serves really got us out of our rhythm, and we didn’t respond well to the soft shots,” noted Brown. “However, we made a good adjustment to that, and tried not to give them the chance to string points together.

The effect of the adjustment was immediate, as the scrambling Irish defense seemed to be everywhere on the floor in game two, closing down on the openings that had been so prevalent in the first game. Spectacular digs by Nicole Coates and Janelle Karlan, as well as the blocking of Julie Harris and Molly Stark, set the tone as Notre Dame’s athleticism started to take control.

“We started off back on our heels,” stated Brown. “But our defense really got better. To play that kind of defense, you have to practice that kind of defense, and we work very hard on that. It takes all-out effort, and I think we gave that.”

As the defense turned around, the offense took command, embodied in the spectacular outside hitting of Coates and Christy Peters. In a display of sheer power volleyball, these two took over the match, hitting Karlan’s sets through blockers and down the lines, completely turning the tempo of the match.

Peters, who was deservedly selected the tournament’s most valuable player, time and again went up against two Lobo blockers and drilled home a kill, providing the spark the team needed.

“We tried to focus on getting into the game. After we turned up the intensity, everyone got more involved,” stated Peters, whose offensive dominance was a gateway to her teammates involvement.

As she and Coates were pounding home kills on the outside, Molly Stark established the inside game with a number of kills off the quickset, and Jenny Birkner got into the act, scoring off backsets from Karlan.

However, in the tense fourth game, it was Peters who came to the forefront. New Mexico, led by all-tournament performers Alicia Bergman and Laurel Luman, mounted a gritty comeback, but Peters answered every rally with a definitive kill from the side.

“Christy had a good weekend all around,” commented Brown. “When it’s crunch time, we’re going to her.”

This weekend, she had all the answers, and accompanied by all-tournament teammates Karlan and Stark, the Irish closed out their third ranked opponent of the year in convincing style, further showing they are ready to take the national spotlight sooner than later.

---

SAVE $5.00 OFF ANY LUBE SERVICE

On U.S. 31 Between Douglas and Cleveland Roads 271-7767

ND/SMC PRE-LAW SOCIETY

General meeting for all new and returning students

- 7:30 in Cushing Auditorium
- Bring $5.00 dues

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME INTERNATIONAL STUDY PROGRAM

SANTIAGO, CHILE

Information Meeting with Father Tim Scally, C.S.C.

Associate Professor, Government
Director, Latin American Area Studies

Tuesday
September 21, 1993
at 6:30 pm
Room 125 DeBartolo

ALL STUDENTS ARE WELCOME!
SPELUNKER

CALVIN AND HOBBES

CROSSWORD

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

OF INTEREST

DINING HALL

Chicano Secret Service

The Students

STUDENT UNION BOARD

Tickets available at the LaFortune Info Desk
Seventh-ranked women's soccer scores huge upset

Tar freshmen recruit Cindy Daws scored two goals and notched four assists in the Irish's two wins this weekend.

Shamrock MVP honors as the Christy Peters wins Invitational this Irish dominate the see page 12

Irish post record eleventh-straight win

By BRYAN CONNLLOY Assistant Sports Editor

The confident cheers of the Notre Dame women's soccer team filled the air yesterday afternoon after the Irish scalped the Tribe of William & Mary in what was perhaps the biggest victory in the history of the program.

The 6-0 Irish squad handed 50th-ranked William & Mary a 1-0 loss and proved that it is a legitimate member of the nation's elite soccer teams.

The seventh-ranked Irish won by playing with a level of intensity and determination that was unparalleled by the Tribe. They clearly proved they were a better team.

"We showed that we can play with any team in the country, and not only play with them, but beat them," said Notre Dame head coach Chris Petrucelli.

"It gives us confidence," noted Irish tri-captain Allison Lester, "because we weren't intimidated by them. We treated them like just any other team."

Sophomore attacker Rosella Guerrero scored the lone goal for Notre Dame off a corner kick at the 49:11 mark in the second half with freshman midfielder Cindy Daws and junior midfielder Jodi Hartwig assisting.

Junior Tiffany Thompson's corner kick was first headed by Daws into the crossbar. Hartwig then booted the rebound off Tribe goalie Maren Rojas and the deflection headed right to Guerrero, who headed it into the right side of the net.

"It was every body's goal," said Guerrero. "I just happened to be the one who put it in."

Although the Irish only scored one goal, they dominated William & Mary in terms of scoring opportunities and time of possession. Notre Dame outshot the Tribe 18-8 and easily could have scored two or three more goals had luck been on Irish spank Spartans Running backs shine in 36-14 win

FOOTBALL 1993

By MIKE NORBUT Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's soccer team made a twin killing this weekend, downing rivals Michigan State and Evansville to improve their season record to 4-2.

In the Irish's 1-0 victory over Evansville yesterday, a goal from junior midfielder Tony Richardson with 6:52 to play in the first half proved to be the game winner.

"In our game against Evansville last year, Tony left with a broken leg," said Irish coach Mike Berticelli. "It's a tremendous thing for him to come back and play as well as he did."

Richardson's goal came during an Irish offensive flurry late in the first half. A corner kick by captain Mike Palmer had been booted away towards midfield following a scramble in front of the net. Defenseman Chris Dean drove the ball back into Evansville territory, where Richardson broke open and blasted a 25-yard shot past Purple Ace goalie Steve Hoeperswert.

Defense was the story of the contest, as the Irish were led by goalie Bert Rader, who collected nine saves for his second shutout of the season, and defensemen Brian Engesser and Dave Whitley. The addition of Kevin Adkisson, who had missed the first four games of the season, also helped Notre Dame to put the clamps on the Evansville offensive surge.

"When we play Evansville, we expect a physical game," continued Berticelli. "Sometimes it's as much a war as it is a game."

The physical nature of the game was evident in the number of fouls committed. The Irish tallied 23 fouls, while the Purple Aces finished with 29. The Purple Aces were led by Brian Loftin and Marty Schroering, who each had three shots on goal.

Evansville dropped to 2-4 on the season, including a 1-2 conference record with its loss yesterday. The Irish are now 2-1 in Midwestern Collegiate Conference action.

On Friday, the Irish fought off a tenacious Michigan State squad to capture a 3-2 win on a Ray Frade goal at the 32:44 mark in the second half. The loss dropped the Spartans to 3-3 on the seas-