Dan Devine upset, but will sue

By JOHN LUCAS
Associate News Editor

Although he is upset by his portrayal in the new film "Rudy," former Notre Dame football coach Devine will not take legal action against Tri-Star Pictures, citing both his wife's health and his commitment to the University of Missouri as more important priorities in his life.

"Basically, there's not going to be any lawsuit," Devine said. "But I want to say that I was one of the most loyal and devoted Notre Dame people in the country, and I am very, very disappointed in the way the University handled this situation.

One particular scene in "Rudy" has upset Devine to the point of going to his South Bend attorney, Lyn Leone, had threatened to file a suit against Tri-Star Pictures based on defamation of character.

"He (Devine) has been in torment about this scene for quite a while, since he certainly wouldn't have retained my services over a year ago if he wasn't upset," Leone said.

The scene in question shows several Notre Dame seniors threatening not to suit up for the final game of the season if Rudy isn't allowed to play.

"This is all so wonderful," said one, who portrays Rudy in the film. "I'm very excited to be here. This is an inspirational story, a human interest kind of movie. I hope you all enjoy it as much as I have," Agnus said.

Devine said that Rudy was the only name on the screen's lips. "It's the hero of tonight," agreed Agnus.

"A lot of people worked hard to make this happen," said another senior, who had said as a producer to make him "the Bastian of Notre Dame," and it is something that wouldn't happen anywhere."

"But I want to say that I was one of the most loyal and devoted Notre Dame people in the country, and I am very, very disappointed in the way the University handled this situation."
Notre Dame ain’t no Drive Thru U

It is 3:00 a.m. on a Friday night, and we are returning from an evening in Chicago. We’re tired, it’s late, and we have class in five hours. The people in my car live in Lyons, Howard, Walsh, and Platten. They approach the security gate with the intentions of dropping the wooden post gate back to D2.

How could we have been so naive? Those roads aren’t for students to drive on! It’s a closed campus, I’m assured. They are trying to cut down on traffic. But how much traffic is there on campus at 3:00 a.m. on Friday? They can tell me, since we walked the whole thing—none.

Now the intentions of this are not so bad, because having a campus accessible a pied is wonderful, especially compared to larger schools where more pavement than grass.

Fine, I thought. I’ll head to the pointed finger and go out through Stepan to D2. A cordial “sorry” from the guard would have soothed the blow, but he was busy talking to the patrolman sitting in the booth with him. I’m glad they secured the gatehouse.

What bothers me the most is when we reached D2, there were two rather suspicious men wandering around. Isn’t that a better place?

The next day, I figure I’ll try again. Some destination, except it’s 4:00 p.m. A different guard but the same lone finger pointing to D2.

“Are you a student here?” the guard demanded.

“Give me your ID.”

I’m asking you a question. Why can those two cars just passed through here on campus and I can’t? I inquired.

“That’s a closed campus.”

This is a University community with around 10,000 students. It is obvious that students and the last ones to be allowed to drive on campus! If they do let us on because there is a wooden post in the back seat, they ask why we have any alcohol in the car?

Actually, I found the track to getting on campus in one place at a time in the area must be tuned.

The other night we figured we would try our luck again. The guard happened to be napping when we pulled up. Upon arousing his attention he let us through with a laugh. I was too embarrassed to attempt to dissuade him.

Let’s get down to the issue here. It is time to focus the security efforts of the University on the area where it is needed—to protect the University and its community. Why do we protect the University from its community?

Allow the students, before anyone else, to drive on campus. We all know you can’t park anywhere on campus, and it’s a much less subjective rule to allow only students through the gate. If we are the argument against this then that student parking lots are closer and larger, but realistically we just need to pick up or drop off.

Notre Dame Security can still allow non-students to drive on campus, but knows full well that all they do is clutter the campus trying to park.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of the Observer.

World at a Glance

Somali warlord has elusive past

NAIROBI

Mohamed Aidid, the Somali warlord accused of ordering attacks on U.N. peacekeepers, has never given up easily.

He once stayed alive in prison, it is said, by eating soap. Aidid then waited nearly two decades for the chance to take up arms and oust the U.S.-backed dictator whom he imprisoned.

To his supporters Aidid is a brave, patriotic and charismatic leader, and even his foes see the holding, 57-year-old former general said to be the next president of the East African country.

Aidid was trained at military schools in Moscow and Rome, but he is the son of a nomad and in a country with rich traditional roots in tribal feuding, fancies himself a poet. He is a Muslim with two wives and 14 children, most of whom live in the United States.

This has not deterred him from attacking American soldiers and by any measure, Aidid has shown himself to be a formidable opponent. To say Aidid, "ain't no to be insulted, he's been beaten but he can fight the best.

Aidid has largely bottled up half of the United Nations' 28,000 peacekeepers behind fortified positions in the capital, Mogadishu, and forced a painful reassembly of the U.S. role in Somalia.

And he has eluded capture for nearly four months despite a high-tech effort by the United States to bring him to heel with an elite group of army Rangers and Delta Force commandos.

Although in hiding, he demonstrated his power again with a new tactic. He has captured and executed a 2-year-old girl in labor in the back seat, they still ask if we have a health insurance.

Man freed from prison in health fraud case

CARVILLE

A man who switched identities with an uninsured friend so the friend could get medical treatment was released from prison Wednesday after serving nine months for fraud.

Benny Milligan, 35, was granted an early prison release by his wife and three young daughters. "When you can come home!" one of the little girls asked. "Right now!" Milligan replied. "I'm going to see my son and go out through Stepan to D2. A cordial "Sorry" from the guard would have soothed the blow, but he was busy talking to the patrolman sitting in the booth with him. I’m glad they secured the gatehouse.

What bothers me the most is when we reached D2, there were two rather suspicious men wandering around. Isn’t that a better place? But realistically we just need to pick up or drop off.

Give me your ID.

I’m asking you a question. Why can those two cars just passed through here on campus and I can’t? I inquired.

That’s a closed campus. This is a University community with around 10,000 students. It is obvious that students and the last ones to be allowed to drive on campus! If they do let us on because there is a wooden post in the back seat, they ask why we have any alcohol in the car?

Actually, I found the track to getting on campus in one place at a time in the area must be tuned.

The other night we figured we would try our luck again. The guard happened to be napping when we pulled up. Upon arousing his attention he let us through with a laugh. I was too embarrassed to attempt to dissuade him.

Let’s get down to the issue here. It is time to focus the security efforts of the University on the area where it is needed—to protect the University and its community. Why do we protect the University from its community?

Allow the students, before anyone else, to drive on campus. We all know you can’t park anywhere on campus, and it’s a much less subjective rule to allow only students through the gate. If we are the argument against this then that student parking lots are closer and larger, but realistically we just need to pick up or drop off.

Notre Dame Security can still allow non-students to drive on campus, but knows full well that all they do is clutter the campus trying to park.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of the Observer.

Today’s Staff

News

Thomas Mean Corinne Duran

Sports

Brianna Kolasky Lab Tech

Scott Mendelson Jake Peters

Production

Anne Marceau Jackie Moen

Accent

Tanya Kwarainskim

Graphics

Elizabeth Heath Chris Mullins

Indiana Weather

Thursday, Oct. 7

Acu-Wet forecast for noon, Thursday, Oct. 7.

National Weather

Thursday, October 7, 1993

SOMALIA attack

this week when his militia shot down two U.S. helicopters and wounded 78 in a fierce, 15-hour battle.

No charges in display of toy to page

ATLANTA

The inability of a teen-age legislative page to identify the lawmaker who showed him a fake penis made it impossible to bring charges, the state attorney general said Wednesday. State Rep. Jimmy Benefield acknowledged taking the toy to the House floor on March 23, but he never knowingly showed it to Jason Bunkley, who was then 13. The toy popped up when an apology covering it was raised. Attorney General Michael Bowers said a Georgia Bureau of Investigation report showed that "in all likelihood" Benefield displayed the toy to the child but the boy wasn’t sure. Bowers said he has no explanation for the boy’s inability to identify the individual. "What to do with Rep. Jimmy Benefield now is clearly up to the House. Bowers said. Jason’s mother reported the incident to House leaders, but there was no action until she took it to state prosecutors. The House-Ethics Committee voted in August to conduct its own investigation but postponed further action pending Bowers’ decision whether to prosecute.

Teen-ager convicted in “Hail Mary” slaying

PATERSON

A former altar boy was convicted Wednesday of strangling a teen-ager who died after being forced to recite the “Hail Mary” prayer. The jury convicted James Wanger, 19, of Clifton of murder in the Feb. 16, 1992, killing of 17-year-old Robert Solimine Jr. Wanger’s grandparents left the courthouse in tears, declining to speak to reporters, but Solimine’s father expressed satisfaction. “I knew he was guilty from day one”, Robert Solimine Sr. said. “The way he acted showed he was a cold-blooded killer.” Wanger could be sentenced to life in prison with no parole for 30 years.

Teen-ager convicted in “Hail Mary” slaying
College of Engineering wants to teach ethics

By NICK RIOS / News Writer

The teaching of ethics by engineering professors can help produce more ethically conscious engineers in the work force, according to Jerry Marley, associate dean of the College of Engineering.

"We should start concerning ourselves with figuring out a way of being careful of what we put into the pipeline; that way we won't have to be concerned with what goes out," said Marley, the first guest speaker in a three-part series called Campus Conversations.

Each person shares responsibility for three different levels of ethics, according to Marley.

"I think the first level of ethics is that of an individual per se, independent of whether they are professionals or not," Marley said. "A person should have some set of ethics that they must uphold at all times."

The other two levels are the ethical obligation to the employer or those who benefit from the final product and social ethics, Marley said.

"Socitally, the engineer must concern himself with the well being of the people and of society," he said. "For example, say there is a very cheap way of producing a product, but by doing it, it results in harm to society. It is the responsibility of the engineer to be sufficiently ethical not to choose that alternative of production."

Among some of the students that attended the conference were Matt Loesch, junior civil engineer, and Chris Falkner, junior mechanical engineer.

Both asked questions regarding ethics in technological engineering, environmental issues and practical everyday problems confronted on the job by engineers.

Falkner expressed concern about how the engineers could help make decisions that could help further destruct the environment. Loesch, on the other hand, asked whether all engineers are required to have a license by the state, according to Marley.

"The engineer therefore needs not to hold a license to practice," he said.

Although there are laws, they are hard to enforce, according to Marley.

The teaching of ethics by engineering professors can help produce more ethically conscious engineers in the work force, according to Jerry Marley, associate dean of the College of Engineering.

"We should start concerning ourselves with figuring out a way of being careful of what we put into the pipeline; that way we won't have to be concerned with what goes out," said Marley, the first guest speaker in a three-part series called Campus Conversations.

Each person shares responsibility for three different levels of ethics, according to Marley.

"I think the first level of ethics is that of an individual per se, independent of whether they are professionals or not," Marley said. "A person should have some set of ethics that they must uphold at all times."

The other two levels are the ethical obligation to the employer or those who benefit from the final product and social ethics, Marley said.

"Socitally, the engineer must concern himself with the well being of the people and of society," he said. "For example, say there is a very cheap way of producing a product, but by doing it, it results in harm to society. It is the responsibility of the engineer to be sufficiently ethical not to choose that alternative of production."

Among some of the students that attended the conference were Matt Loesch, junior civil engineer, and Chris Falkner, junior mechanical engineer.

Both asked questions regarding ethics in technological engineering, environmental issues and practical everyday problems confronted on the job by engineers.

Falkner expressed concern about how the engineers could help make decisions that could help further destruct the environment. Loesch, on the other hand, asked whether all engineers are required to have a license by the state, according to Marley.

"The engineer therefore needs not to hold a license to practice," he said.

Although there are laws, they are hard to enforce, according to Marley.

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

...CONSIDERATIONS

Boulder, Colorado, and Black Balloons at Birthday Parties

The teaching of ethics by engineering professors can help produce more ethically conscious engineers in the work force, according to Jerry Marley, associate dean of the College of Engineering.

"We should start concerning ourselves with figuring out a way of being careful of what we put into the pipeline; that way we won't have to be concerned with what goes out," said Marley, the first guest speaker in a three-part series called Campus Conversations.

Each person shares responsibility for three different levels of ethics, according to Marley.

"I think the first level of ethics is that of an individual per se, independent of whether they are professionals or not," Marley said. "A person should have some set of ethics that they must uphold at all times."

The other two levels are the ethical obligation to the employer or those who benefit from the final product and social ethics, Marley said.

"Socitally, the engineer must concern himself with the well being of the people and of society," he said. "For example, say there is a very cheap way of producing a product, but by doing it, it results in harm to society. It is the responsibility of the engineer to be sufficiently ethical not to choose that alternative of production."

Among some of the students that attended the conference were Matt Loesch, junior civil engineer, and Chris Falkner, junior mechanical engineer.

Both asked questions regarding ethics in technological engineering, environmental issues and practical everyday problems confronted on the job by engineers.

Falkner expressed concern about how the engineers could help make decisions that could help further destruct the environment. Loesch, on the other hand, asked whether all engineers are required to have a license by the state, according to Marley.

"The engineer therefore needs not to hold a license to practice," he said.

Although there are laws, they are hard to enforce, according to Marley.

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

...CONSIDERATIONS

Boulder, Colorado, and Black Balloons at Birthday Parties

Two things I love to preach against are Boulder, Colorado, and black balloons at birthday parties. The first attack may not be fair, the second I think is pretty well right on line.

My best friend from high school went to live in Boulder, Colorado, years ago. A lawyer married to a lawyer, he bought a beautiful house set against a beautiful Rocky Mountain backdrop, a young man's dream of what a young man could acquire. When he isn't overworking, I think my friend enjoys his fantasy. The downtown has been wonderfully gentrified into a pedestrian mall with chic shops and exotic restaurants and leftover longhairs playing acoustic guitar for take-home tips. There are plenty of recycling bins. When you walk the streets, you see plenty of people with stylish clothes and flashy hairdo's, but you never see a woman in hair curlers.

The thing I don't like about Boulder is how everybody looks. People are healthy and attractive and spend time keeping it that way. The whole town seems to go jogging in the morning and then rendezvous for big brunch at the piazza fantasy. The downtown has been wonderfully gentrified into a pedestrian mall with chic shops and exotic restaurants and leftover longhairs playing acoustic guitar for take-home tips. There are plenty of recycling bins. When you walk the streets, you see plenty of people with stylish clothes and flashy hairdo's, but you never see a woman in hair curlers.

Nobodys is fat. Almost nobody is black or brown. Almost nobody is old. You never see a retarded person. People have one or two kids. Everybody looks happily the same. It feels like the backdrop for a sit-com. I'm sure it must be somebody's definition of the good life.

One little problem there is that the cost of living is so high that the people who work in the cookie shops can't afford to live in the town themselves and are forced to stay in satellite villages far out of sight.

The poor, the handicapped, the aged seem to be kept far out of sight.

A colleague of mine recently had her thirtieth birthday. Her husband wanted to surprise her by decorating her office with crepe paper and balloons. I listened to my sermonette.

American culture is permeated with a corrosive fear of death. Undergraduates may pay big money to buy fake I.D.'s to prove they are older than they are, but the rest of society spends a fortune on makeup and chin tucks and hair dye to avoid the onrush of old age and the lurking specter of a constantly grim reaper.

In America we hide old people in nursing homes and protected apartments. Grandparents are sadly far removed from their families. If you want to make somebody feel happy, just tell them they look young.

It's crazy. When you have a birthday party on a year with some kind of special number, 30, or 40, or whatever, they give you black balloons, as if there was something to regret, as if you didn't want another year of this oppressive toil.

Christians love life. We receive each new day and new year as a gift. In the meantime, American culture wants us to hide from death and fear its approach. It makes sense. Who wants to get old when everybody is going to treat you badly, and try to reject you, and hide you away! Who wants to become a victim of someone else's fear? Who wants to join the crowd of marginalized who are never seen in Boulder? Our culture is full of fear and invites us all to hide from truth.

But Christians must love truth - the truth of death and the truth of handicap, the truth of poverty and the truth of weakness. That's who we are. Boulder uses zoning laws and black balloons use dark humor, but we cannot be kept from the embrace of our own lives.

Tom McDermott, C.S.C.

Solemn Vespers celebrated every Sunday in Sacred Heart Basilica 7:15 p.m.

All are Welcome

WEKNEND PRESIDERS AT SACRED HEART BASILICA

Sat. October 9 5:00 p.m. Rev. John Conley, C.S.C.
Sun. October 10 8:00 a.m. Rev. George Wiskirchen, C.S.C.
10:00 a.m. Rev. John Conley, C.S.C.
11:45 a.m. Rev. Edward Malloy, C.S.C.

SCRIPTURE READINGS FOR THIS COMING SUNDAY

1ST READING Isaiah 25: 6-10
2ND READING Philippians 4: 12-14, 19-20
GOSPEL Matthew 22: 1-14
Catholicism," where Catholics often pick and choose those Church teachings that they wish to believe.

This is not a major problem because throughout history this "pick and choosing" has taken place, according to Cunningham. Most Catholics try to live within the Church and follow its teachings to the best of their abilities.

His worry, however, is that people no longer have a "common store of knowledge" about the Church and that they may not pass down the values that they were taught to the next generation, he said.

The likelihood of major changes taking place in the Church, including the possibility of married clergy is unclear, according to Cunningham.

"Changes will not come from the top, but from the bottom," he said.

Some changes may have already taken place in the types of religious communities, he said. For example, many lay men and women are already conducting liturgies in areas where there are no priests.

However, Cunningham said that most people simply have not realized that these changes are taking place right now.

Look for the special ND football section in this Friday's Observer!

---

Forum continued from page 1

Catholicism," where Catholics often pick and choose those Church teachings that they wish to believe.

This is not a major problem because throughout history this "pick and choosing" has taken place, according to Cunningham. Most Catholics try to live within the Church and follow its teachings to the best of their abilities.

His worry, however, is that people no longer have a "common store of knowledge" about the Church and that they may not pass down the values that they were taught to the next generation, he said.

The likelihood of major changes taking place in the Church, including the possibility of married clergy is unclear, according to Cunningham.

"Changes will not come from the top, but from the bottom," he said.

Some changes may have already taken place in the types of religious communities, he said. For example, many lay men and women are already conducting liturgies in areas where there are no priests.

However, Cunningham said that most people simply have not realized that these changes are taking place right now.

Look for the special ND football section in this Friday's Observer!

---

GSU continued from page 1

representative who can help verify the legitimacy of travel claims from the College of Arts and Letters. The Travel Grant Committee will be holding an informational meeting addressing the current travel policy on October 13 at 7 p.m.

The GSU also discussed the upcoming proposal before the Academic Committee that graduate students must be ARD to be fully responsible for a course. ARD is defined as not only passed prems, but the dissertation proposal has been accepted. Teaching assistats, foreign language instructors and freshman seminar instructors are exempt from this requirement.

Vice President Ed Wingenbach stressed the need for more decision making.

---

Devine continued from page 1

ing to Devine.

"I happen to believe that the true story was a better story, but I'm not in Hollywood," he said. "I have no complaint about that, I have no complaints about anything other than the distortion of what a football team should be."

Even so, Leone said that it is her duty to continue to investigate the possibility of a suit against Tri-Star.

"The thing I'm looking at tonight is the evidence supporting damage to the longtime reputation this man has built up," Leone said.

After attending the screening of the film last night, Leone said that she will call Devine today and give him her best advice on whether there are grounds in the film to pursue legal action.

---

RFK continued from page 3

University Law School in New York, is a graduate of Harvard University.

He received his law degree from the University of Virginia, and a Masters in Environmental Law from Pace University.

He is a leader in the fight to clean up America's water reserves and has brought suits against companies responsible for polluting the Hudson River and Long Island Sound.

Kennedy will present his lecture tonight at 7:30 in Stepan Center. Tickets are on sale for three dollars and can be purchased at either the LaFortune Information Desk or at Stepan before the lecture.

---

Ethics continued from page 3

to Marley.

"Engineers must keep in mind that they have more information about how the physical world works, and it is their duty to pass this knowledge to the world in social issues."

---

Thinking About a Career in the Law?

Learn about education and career opportunities in this information-packed session!

Sat., Oct. 16, 9 a.m.-noon

• Hear from attorneys about careers
• Learn what's involved in law school
• Receive a comprehensive information packet

REGISTRATION ONLY $19

Call for Information or Registration

237-4261

Indiana University South Bend

Continuing Education

---

The Department of Music Presents

Johannes Geffert

Organist at Kreuzkirche in Bonn, Germany in a

Guest Organ Recital

Performing the Music of:

J.S. Bach, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, & an IMPROVISATION

Sunday

October 10, 1993

8:00 p.m.

Sacred Heart Basilica

The concert is free and open to the public.

---

"Tell Medjugorje that I am with you. I bless you. I beg you: protect Medjugorje, protect Our Lady's message!" — Pope John Paul II

"Medjugorje is a sign to all of you and a call to pray and live the days of grace that God is giving you ... pray to understand the signs of the time. This is a special time. Therefore I am with you..." — Our Lady from Medjugorje

---

Medjugorje

September 25, 1993, Message from Our Lady, the Queen of Peace

Dear Children! I am your Mother and I invite you to come closer to God through prayer, because only He is your peace, your Saviour. Therefore, little children, do not seek comfort in material things; rather, seek God. I am praying for you and I intercede before God for each individual. I am looking for your prayers, that you accept me and accept my messages as in the first days of the apparitions. And only then, when you open your hearts and pray, will miracles happen. Thank you for having responded to my call.

7:00 PM - TONIGHT! Feast of the Rosary - Hesburgh Library Auditorium

TESTIMONIES TO THE POWER OF THE ROSARY!

- in celebration of the Feast of the Rosary -

ALL NIGHT ADORATION- LEMAN'S HALL CHAPEL - ST. MARY'S

6:00 PM SATURDAY (OCT. 9TH) THROUGH 3:00 PM SUNDAY (OCT. 10TH)

for information contact CHILDREN OF MARY: CARLY (284-5220) or MARY (284-5219)

7:00 PM SATURDAY (OCT. 9TH) THROUGH 3:00 PM SUNDAY (OCT. 10TH)

Queen of Peace Mass - October 25th, 6:30 p.m. at St. Anthony Catholic Church in South Bend.

2120 E. Jefferson (corner of Jefferson and Ironwood) - Confessions begin at 6:00 p.m.

Come and receive Our Lady's October 25th message!

Rides available for Notre Dame and St. Mary's students: Contact Children of Mary (284-5220 or 284-5219)
LIFE WITHOUT IT BITES.

Here's something to chew on. No annual fee. Now that's something you can sink your teeth into.

IF YOU DON'T GOT IT, GET IT.
Former anti-war radical Katherine Power, who came out of hiding to confront her past, was sentenced to eight to 12 years in prison Wednesday for a 1970 bank robbery that left a police officer dead.

"To say that I am sorry for his death seems so utterly, utterly inadequate," Power wrote in a letter to Suffolk Superior Court Judge Robert Banks.

Standing in a packed courtroom, she said she "will continue to live my life from this day forward as a responsible citizen abiding by the law.

Banks, who heard emotional testimony from two children of the slain officer, Walter Schroeder Sr., went beyond prosecutors' recommendations by also ordering 20 years' probation.

Violating the probation would make Power liable to a life term in prison.

"I can think of no greater crime than the one committed by you and your accomplices," the judge said.

By JONATHAN YENKIN

A fugitive at the center of a billion-dollar scandal with links to Republican presidents and Democratic politicians was arrested in Spain on Wednesday, six years after fleeing the United States.

Miguel Recarey Jr., who ran International Medical Centers, fled while under indictment on fraud and wiretapping charges. IMC, Florida's largest health maintenance organization, collected nearly $1 billion from taxpayers before collapsing in 1987. Recarey was sentenced to eight to 12 years in prison Wednesday for his extradition to Miami, a judge today warned authorities.

Recarey was arrested in Madrid, the FBI said. The Justice Department will work to extradite him to Miami, said Andrew Duffin, head of the FBI office here.

Back to School

NATIONAL NEWS

Boston Welcomes Parents for Parent's Weekend and All Football Fans!

Open Friday and Saturday: 4-11 (as usual)
Special hours on Sunday: 4-8

CALL FOR RESERVATIONS: 256-1444

"Bridging The Racial Gap" October 7, 1993 7:00 p.m. 101 Debartolo

Guest Speakers:
Dr. Beverley Guy-Sheftall
Director of Woman Resource Center at Spelman College

Dr. Prage MacIntosh
Director of Center for Research on Women at Wellesley College in Massachusetts

Professor Angela Borelli
Assistant Professional Specialist of Romance Language and Literature at The University of Notre Dame

Sponsored by Multicultural Student Affairs and the Lilly Grant Foundation.

The Observer • NATIONAL NEWS

Thursday, October 7, 1993

Special hours on Sunday: 4-8

For more information call Bambi Guess Gamer at Dismas House 233-8522

Police arrest four teens

Four teen-agers were arrested in the highway road-stop slaying of a British tourist, and a judge today warned authorities against releasing information that could violate the boys' rights.

District Court Judge F. E. "Ted" Steinmeyer lifted a blanket gag order that had been issued in the case Tuesday, but said authorities may not publicize names or other details on the youths arrested.

The four boys, 13 and two 17, were arrested in the Sept. 14 death of 34-year-old Gary Colley, who was shot as he rested at an Interstate highway rest stop. His girlfriend, Margaret Ann Jagger of Bradford, England, was slightly wounded in the attack.

She told WTSF-TV in St. Petersburg that a state official called her in Britain with news of the arrest.

"For kids so young to get hold of guns, it's scary," she said. "It's sad.

The gag order forced the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to cancel a Tuesday night news conference about the arrests in the highly charged case.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement to cancel a Tuesday night news conference about the arrests in the highly charged case.

FREE:

one bedroom apartment with laundry facilities and board in exchange for night management duties which include:

• Overnight duty
• Daily reports to Director
• Assisting in the creation of a healthy community atmosphere
• Attendance at meals and house meetings

Check out the Crystal Ballroom

Nationally Renowned Trick-Shot Artist

Paul Gerni

October 11, 1993

Mini-Clinic & Masterclass
Games Area in LaFortune
3:00 P.M.

Trick Shot Exhibition
LaFortune Ballroom
8:00 P.M.

FREE ADMISSION
Valery Zorkin, Chairman of Russia's court, resigns

By ALAN COOPERMAN
Associated Press

MOSCOW

The contentious chairman of Russia's Constitutional Court resigned Wednesday, siding Boris Yeltsin of yet another thorn in his side. Valery Zorkin had been under growing pressure to quit since Monday, when Yeltsin crushed parliamentary opponents and ended his 18-month struggle with those who resisted his reforms.

The court is Russia's highest tribunal for constitutional issues. Zorkin, a 50-year-old former law professor, had led the panel of 13 judges since its creation in late 1991.

Yeltsin could not legally fire the chief judge, but the president's chief of staff reportedly urged Zorkin to quit on Monday. It was unclear whether he would remain a judge, and the ITAR-Tass news agency reported Wednesday he was suffering from an undisclosed illness.

Russia's Constitutional Court of Russia's court, resigns

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasir Arafat sat in chairs about six feet apart when photographers entered. After some urging, the two men moved to a couch and sat on opposite sides of the Egyptian president, Hosni Mubarak. But Rabin refused photographers' requests to shake Arafat's hand in front of the cameras, although his aides said the two later shook hands in private.

Rabin's coolness recalled his frostiness toward the PLO chief was noticeable. And as the PLO chief thrust it out when they met briefly for the signing of the peace pact, Rabin's coolness recalled his nonexistence. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

Britain to abolish right to silence

The British government proposed Wednesday to abolish a criminal suspect's right to silence in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.

Rabin, Arafat name peace committees

By ALYNN FISHER
Associated Press

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasir Arafat sat in chairs about six feet apart when photographers entered. After some urging, the two men moved to a couch and sat on opposite sides of the Egyptian president, Hosni Mubarak. But Rabin refused photographers' requests to shake Arafat's hand in front of the cameras, although his aides said the two later shook hands in private.

Rabin's coolness recalled his nonexistence. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

The move, announced at the annual conference of the governing Conservative Party, is one of a series of initiatives aimed at curbing a rising crime rate. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

"The so-called right to silence is ruthlessly exploited by terrorists," Home Secretary Michael Howard said. "What fools they must think we are. It's time to call a halt to this charade."

Under the new system, suspects could not be forced to answer the questions of police. But prosecutors and judges would be permitted to tell juries they could draw a "proper inference" from a suspect's silence.

The government abolished the right to silence in Northern Ireland in 1998—a change largely aimed at terrorism cases. The change announced Wednesday would apply only in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.

Britain to abolish right to silence

The British government proposed Wednesday to abolish a criminal suspect's right to silence in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The move, announced at the annual conference of the governing Conservative Party, is one of a series of initiatives aimed at curbing a rising crime rate. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

"The so-called right to silence is ruthlessly exploited by terrorists," Home Secretary Michael Howard said. "What fools they must think we are. It's time to call a halt to this charade."

Under the new system, suspects could not be forced to answer the questions of police. But prosecutors and judges would be permitted to tell juries they could draw a "proper inference" from a suspect's silence.

The government abolished the right to silence in Northern Ireland in 1998—a change largely aimed at terrorism cases. The change announced Wednesday would apply only in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.

Rabin, Arafat name peace committees

By ALYNN FISHER
Associated Press

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasir Arafat sat in chairs about six feet apart when photographers entered. After some urging, the two men moved to a couch and sat on opposite sides of the Egyptian president, Hosni Mubarak. But Rabin refused photographers' requests to shake Arafat's hand in front of the cameras, although his aides said the two later shook hands in private.

Rabin's coolness recalled his nonexistence. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

The move, announced at the annual conference of the governing Conservative Party, is one of a series of initiatives aimed at curbing a rising crime rate. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

"The so-called right to silence is ruthlessly exploited by terrorists," Home Secretary Michael Howard said. "What fools they must think we are. It's time to call a halt to this charade."

Under the new system, suspects could not be forced to answer the questions of police. But prosecutors and judges would be permitted to tell juries they could draw a "proper inference" from a suspect's silence.

The government abolished the right to silence in Northern Ireland in 1998—a change largely aimed at terrorism cases. The change announced Wednesday would apply only in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.

Rabin, Arafat name peace committees

By ALYNN FISHER
Associated Press

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasir Arafat sat in chairs about six feet apart when photographers entered. After some urging, the two men moved to a couch and sat on opposite sides of the Egyptian president, Hosni Mubarak. But Rabin refused photographers' requests to shake Arafat's hand in front of the cameras, although his aides said the two later shook hands in private.

Rabin's coolness recalled his nonexistence. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

The move, announced at the annual conference of the governing Conservative Party, is one of a series of initiatives aimed at curbing a rising crime rate. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

"The so-called right to silence is ruthlessly exploited by terrorists," Home Secretary Michael Howard said. "What fools they must think we are. It's time to call a halt to this charade."

Under the new system, suspects could not be forced to answer the questions of police. But prosecutors and judges would be permitted to tell juries they could draw a "proper inference" from a suspect's silence.

The government abolished the right to silence in Northern Ireland in 1998—a change largely aimed at terrorism cases. The change announced Wednesday would apply only in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.

Rabin, Arafat name peace committees

By ALYNN FISHER
Associated Press

Yitzhak Rabin and Yasir Arafat sat in chairs about six feet apart when photographers entered. After some urging, the two men moved to a couch and sat on opposite sides of the Egyptian president, Hosni Mubarak. But Rabin refused photographers' requests to shake Arafat's hand in front of the cameras, although his aides said the two later shook hands in private.

Rabin's coolness recalled his nonexistence. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

The move, announced at the annual conference of the governing Conservative Party, is one of a series of initiatives aimed at curbing a rising crime rate. It was denounced by trial lawyers and civil libertarians.

"The so-called right to silence is ruthlessly exploited by terrorists," Home Secretary Michael Howard said. "What fools they must think we are. It's time to call a halt to this charade."

Under the new system, suspects could not be forced to answer the questions of police. But prosecutors and judges would be permitted to tell juries they could draw a "proper inference" from a suspect's silence.

The government abolished the right to silence in Northern Ireland in 1998—a change largely aimed at terrorism cases. The change announced Wednesday would apply only in England and Wales. Officials in Scotland, which has a separate legal system, said they had not decided whether to make the change.

The government-appointed Royal Commission on Criminal Justice recommended in July that the right to silence be preserved. It said the possibility of convicting more guilty suspects was outweighed by the risk that increased pressure to talk would result in more innocent people being convicted.

Roger Pannone, president of the Law Society, an attorneys group, is opposed to the proposal, which he said would shift the burden of proof to the defendant.
Examining parietals and the Cinderella Syndrome at ND

Dear Editor:

The well-meaning folks at student government have recently petitioned on-campus students to support a change in parietals. The original proposal requested that parietals be extended one hour on week nights and weekends, and that they be moved back from 11 a.m. to 10 a.m. in the mornings. Support has been mixed on various points of the plan. But is such a proposal, which had a lack of demonstrable magnitude? In fact, it cried out, "we students are dissatisfied with the status quo and want it changed." The fact that student government feels it must negotiate with such a watered-down proposal suggests that the university policy is the same as the old one.

Parietals mean that Notre Dame students feel out of step with reality. This time honored tradition represents a clear symbol of "gender segregation" with respect to male-female relations. We become walking anachronisms whose interaction with the opposite sex is curtailed for the sake of fostering some opaque notion of decency. One example should shed light on my point. Tell me if this sounds familiar: You and a friend of the opposite sex are studying one night for a major exam the next day. You are together in a dorm room. You have read, analyzed, and reviewed the material for months. Now, you are taking the opportunity to compare notes and clarify your understanding of what needs to be understood. Suddenly, the hour approaches midnight, meaning it is time for you and your study partner to disappear from the dorm. You head over to the library, the most plausible place for studying. Soon, however, you will be forced to leave, for the building closes in a few hours. You might remark to yourself, "How stupid that I can't eat while I study." You further reason, "If I just wanted to eat I would go to LaFortune," but you remember that you don't want to study and eat in the Huddle, an environment clearly unsuitable for study. So why does the administration insist that parietals are for our own good? If parietals were instituted for some good purpose, then there would be no reason to exclude student opinion from even contributing to the revision of this "good" policy. Let's stop kidding ourselves.

The administration believes that, in the absence of parietals, students would be more likely to engage in sexual misconduct, which at Notre Dame, is any form of sexual conduct. If students are so bent on having sex, then they will engage in it at other times of the day, certainly not just during a time of the day when Big Brother most suspects it. The stroke of midnight may mean that Cinderella must come home, but it does not mean that

DOONESBURY

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"A dog is only a dog until he is facing you. Then, he becomes 'Mr. Dog.'"

Old Wise Man

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate. All Rights Reserved.
ACCENT

RUDY is here

Premiere benefits both the South Bend community and movie's cast members

By KENYA JOHNSON

White beams lighting up the sky, police escorts, long white limos and movie stars — the scene is not one with which South Bend is very familiar. But no one would have known that last night as TriStar Pictures' "Rudy" premiered at the Morris Civic Auditorium, thousands of people milled around downtown South Bend, chittering and chatting with celebrities such as Sean Astin and Ned Beatty, as if it were just another day.

Although not the most popular place for a movie premiere, the South Bend community received much praise from the "Rudy" cast.

"It's not like a Los Angeles premiere, but I like that," said cast member Ned Beatty. "It's a nice change. I actually think it's a premiere. But I like that." said Astin. Other cast members shared his sentiments.

"I loved this part when I first read it," said Robert Prosky, who played Father Cavanaugh.

"I had a good time with the entire project," said Ruettiger.

Prosky laughed as he remembered one scene in which he walks through Sacred Heart Church with Father Theodore Hesburgh.

"I seemed to fit right in, like the part was made for me," he said.

Beatty also felt that he was ideal for his role.

"I didn't study the relationship between Rudy and his father very much, but I think that worked best," he said. "I needed to develop my own relationship with Astin as Rudy and feel, for myself, how Rudy's father would feel or act in certain situations."

Beatty said it was "delightful" to work with Astin and that there is indeed a real father-son bond.

Probably most pleased with the evening was Ruettiger.

"I watched the movie 23 times and it's still strange to see," said Ruettiger. "It's really a powerful, emotional story. The last scene gets me each time."

Ruettiger insisted that the movie was not about football, but about "life, hopes, desires and dreams."

"I was ignored by a lot of people because I was a dreamer," he said. "But I wouldn't be standing here at this premiere today if it wasn't for the help and persistence of others that so much drive and recognized for what it was worth. They believed in me."

And that's what it's all about according to Astin — believing in oneself.

"This is not a movie about football, or about Notre Dame," said Astin. "It's an inspirational story about how one young man fought against all the odds to accomplish his dreams. It's a message everyone needs to hear, because we all doubt ourselves at one time or another."

Astin said that Rudy was a "fighter, not a quitter."

"He didn't let anything stand in the way of what he wanted to do," Astin said.

And so it goes: When someone tells you that dreams don't come true, think of Rudy.

"Rudy" cast member Ned Beatty escorts his wife into the Morris Civic Auditorium for the premiere.

Although Charles S. Dutton was not able to make the premiere, he was a memorable part of the evening from his powerful performance in the film.
The National Legion of SERV’s events include a weekly mass for the vocations at Notre Dame, with Rosary at the Grotto and a monthly Way of the Cross among St. Joseph’s Retreat House. Other activities sponsored by SERV are “Vocation Vigil,” a program which allows students to pray for at least one hour per month for vocations, and “Operation Andrew,” a program which guides and helps students to select and support a member of their community who is pursuing a religious vocation.

SERV strives to form groups of like-minded people who can join together and express themselves spiritually, regardless of whether they choose to enter a vocation or not.

“Students on campus need to know that there are people who want to assist them in any way they can in discerning a religious vocation,” said Tony Popanz, president of SERV. “Males and females contribute equally to the mission.”

Popanz said he considers SERV a vital function in the church today because of the problems it is experiencing with attracting students to the vocation.

Juliano recently completed his first book titled Notre Dame Odyssey: A Journey Through Sports and Spirituality on the Notre Dame Campus. The proceeds of the book, which is available in the bookstore, are entirely donated by Juliano to SERV for funding the program’s activities.

The goal of SERV is to make the members more aware of their Christian vocations, to pray for religious vocations, and to give support and encouragement to others through sharing prayers.

The National Legion of SERV hopes to establish programs on campuses throughout the U.S. and aid students in the discernment of religious vocations within the context of the Catholic Church, with Notre Dame serving as the focal point of the legion.

Now entering its fourth year, SERV has steadily increased in membership and now stands at a high of 55 student members and 25 associate members, which includes prensius, graduate students and faculty interested in showing their support for the organization. Juliano’s aim is not to report record highs of membership, but to express pride in the quality of the members.

“Losing my vocation (SERV) has steadily increased in membership. He sent information to high schools, colleges and churches around the country hoping to increase interest in the program, and he found the response to be significant.

“Everyday people are calling or writing asking for more information. They think it’s a good idea and a good concept,” said Juliano.

The National Legion of SERV hopes to establish programs on campuses throughout the U.S. and aid students in the discernment of religious vocations within the context of the Catholic Church, with Notre Dame serving as the focal point of the legion.

SERV strives to form groups of like-minded people who can join together and express themselves spiritually, regardless of whether they choose to enter a vocation or not.

“Students on campus need to know that there are people who want to assist them in any way they can in discerning a religious vocation,” said Tony Popanz, president of SERV. “Males and females contribute equally to the mission.”

Popanz said he considers SERV a vital function in the church today because of the problems it is experiencing with attracting students to the vocation.

Juliano recently completed his first book titled Notre Dame Odyssey: A Journey Through Sports and Spirituality on the Notre Dame Campus. The proceeds of the book, which is available in the bookstore, are entirely donated by Juliano to SERV for funding the program’s activities.

The National Legion of SERV’s events include a weekly mass for the vocations at Notre Dame, with Rosary at the Grotto and a monthly Way of the Cross among St. Joseph’s Retreat House. Other activities sponsored by SERV are “Vocation Vigil,” a program which allows students to pray for at least one hour per month for vocations, and “Operation Andrew,” a program which guides and helps students to select and support a member of their community who is pursuing a religious vocation.

Juliano recently completed his first book titled Notre Dame Odyssey: A Journey Through Sports and Spirituality on the Notre Dame Campus. The proceeds of the book, which is available in the bookstore, are entirely donated by Juliano to SERV for funding the program’s activities.

The National Legion of SERV’s events include a weekly mass for the vocations at Notre Dame, with Rosary at the Grotto and a monthly Way of the Cross among St. Joseph’s Retreat House. Other activities sponsored by SERV are “Vocation Vigil,” a program which allows students to pray for at least one hour per month for vocations, and “Operation Andrew,” a program which guides and helps students to select and support a member of their community who is pursuing a religious vocation.

Juliano recently completed his first book titled Notre Dame Odyssey: A Journey Through Sports and Spirituality on the Notre Dame Campus. The proceeds of the book, which is available in the bookstore, are entirely donated by Juliano to SERV for funding the program’s activities.

The National Legion of SERV’s events include a weekly mass for the vocations at Notre Dame, with Rosary at the Grotto and a monthly Way of the Cross among St. Joseph’s Retreat House. Other activities sponsored by SERV are “Vocation Vigil,” a program which allows students to pray for at least one hour per month for vocations, and “Operation Andrew,” a program which guides and helps students to select and support a member of their community who is pursuing a religious vocation.
Thursday, October 7, 1993

Men's golf finishes second in MCC

By ELAINE SIRMAK
Spons Wear

The Notre Dame men's golf team remained the bridesmaid of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference for the fourth consecutive year. The Irish were again unable to overcome the Xavier Musketeers to win the Sherwin-Williams MCC Men's Golf Championship last Monday and Tuesday. The Irish stayed consistent in shooting a 931 for the three rounds, but were unable to overcome the dominant Musketeers, who had 3 golfers finish in the top five of the tournament.

The Irish attack was led by juniors Mike Chaney and captain Chris O'Connell who shot in the mid 270's for the three rounds. Freshman Brian Donohoe was a bright spot for the Irish finishing seventh with a 228. Donohoe was named MCC newcomer of the year. The Musketeers were led by tournament medalist Brad Loomis, who shot a 223, runner-up Jim Utter with a 224, and head coach Doug Steinle, who was named MCC coach of the year.

Jordann continued from page 16

Flanked by his wife, Juanita, and Bulls owner Jerry Reinsdorf, Jordan looked relaxed and frequently flashed the cool smile that graces billboards and airwaves worldwide.

He still loves basketball and did not rule out a comeback, but said he never play for an NBA team other than the Bulls.

"I'm not making this a 'never' issue," Jordan said. "I'm saying I don't have the drive right now.", Jordan said.

Five years down the line, if the urge comes back, if the Bulls will have me and (commissioner) David Stern lets me back in the league, I may come back. But that's a decision I don't have to make at this moment," he said.

Stern, who attended the news conference, said Jordan's departure "means that an era is closing, that certainly one of the greatest players to play the game is leaving."

Jordan's departure follows the retirement last year of Bulls great Larry Bird and Magic Johnson, but Stern said the league is still strong.

Jordan's graceful athleticism seemed to defy gravity and generated lots of copycats, but no player could match "Air" Jordan's accomplishments.

Classifieds continued from page 12

I HAVE PITT, NEED USC. CALL FOR SWAP. JEFF 273-4119
glene: go 194 md in 45580

PERSONAL

ADOPTION

We offer love, encouragement and security to the precious life you are carrying. A full-time mom and loving dad; married 15 years, promises that your child will have every opportunity. Please call Phl and Maureen 800-600-4185.

Sophomores!!!

Consider a life of patient love from Mom, financial security from Dad, laughter and music in a country home for your baby. Please call Lynda and Pat at 1-800-206-5727 anytime.

NSYSC BALLROOM DANCE MEMBERS. There is no class at Spartan Thursday. Meet at the main mini at 7:45 for Dan O'Grady.

Get?? Call Laura: 4-3490

National Coming Out Day is Monday, October 11. Take the pledge! glenes: go 194 md in 45580

NSYSC RIGHT TO LIFE MEETING MONDAY 10/11 7:30 pm 107 LA FORTUNE

KL.

How's your beef? But a meal! Am I not home and she won't return your call EVER!!! We do lunch - how about San Miguel?

Gail Carey turns 21 at midnight.

REVENGE IS MINE!!!

Larimore - Now that our little secret has been discovered by our clever Aussie detectives, I must say goodbye to classifiable advertising....but don't worry, we'll get a new code name! (Good luck Amy, Carolyn, and Mo...you'll never figure us out) Love, Tara

TOP釧 NEXT WEEK

LOHMULLER A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

10) She lets us call her "kiddo"

9) She let's us have a permanent"smart phone"

8) She didn't freak out about the dorm room

7) We made security beat more than any other dorm on campus last year...

6) She has a damn clean room

5) She sends us lots of pictures and cards

4) She made Kenzie pick the tape off the ceiling last year after the SYR (and she did it!!)

3) She is 10% of the reason of the Happy Birthday! WE LOVE YOURS!--------------------

Hi Turtle, Bear, and Layne!!
Your bud, "me, me?"

Thanks for the Taco Bell, Kateri
Love,
Jonathan and Jason

SPORTS BRIEFS

A horseback riding day is planned for Sunday, October 10. A basic horse will ride, a four-hour tour from 10:30 until 2:30. The fee is $12 per person which includes transportation. Those interested should register in advance for the RecSports office by 5:00 pm on Thursday, October 7. The maximum number per ride is 10. For more information, call RecSports at 651-4100.

Attention skiers There will be a meeting at 8:00 pm on Thursday, Oct. 7 in Rec 127. Nieuwland Science Hall for all those interested in the Christmas Ski trip to Breckenridge, CO or in signing up for the Ski Team tryouts.

Enter now at RecSports Office Racquetball, Innterwale Water Polo and Ultimate Frisbee. Deadline Oct. 7th. Oct. 7th the maximum number per ride is 10. For more information, call RecSports at 651-4100.

Attention sailors! There will be a sailing club meeting tonight, 7 at the Clubhouse. Membership forms and dues will be collected at this

GLAMOUR MAKE-UP CLASSES!

Learn the secrets of Glamour...Make-up in a two hour class...not from a salesperson leaning over the counter. Classes include your personal makeover and a photo shoot. Book & Make-up also included. Call 291-2207

Beauty, Elegance & Style

THE WORKS BAR AND GRILL

Tailgate Party?

Our take-out tailgate menu has the Works!

Just place your order by Friday morning, and stop by to pick up your tailgate picnic!!

The Works Bar and Grill

50 W. Washington (Downtown) / 289-1288
US 31 M. (North Village Mall) / 277-1024
SR 23 fir Ironwood / 277-7744

Traditional Blt. Sandwiches*

Cheese and Cracker tractor $3.00

Veggie and dip tractor $3.00

SUBWAY

BUFFALO WINGS FOR 20. $55.00
TACO SALAD FOR 20. $45.00
BBQ MEATBALLS FOR 20. $55.00

Buffalo Wings for 20. $55.00

$37.95!

The New Six Foot Combo Special From SUBWAY is a Deliciously Affordable Change Of Taste For Your Next Group Function!

SUBWAY's New Six Foot Combo Special is a delicious combination of ham, bologna and salami, plus generous portions of cheese, lettuce and tomato, all on our own freshly baked bread. This is a welcome change from the usual Pizza, Chicken and Burgers.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE:

We're so sure that you and your group will love the Six Foot Combo Special that we will refund your money if you are not completely satisfied.

Great for Tailgate and After-Game Parties!

For more information, call the SUBWAY location nearest you:

SR 23 & Ironwood/277-7744
US 31 M. (North Village Mall)/277-1024
115 Downtown (Downtown)/238
Indian Ridge Plaza-Mishawaka/271-1772

Open 8 a.m. on home game days!

*All Turkey Based

The Observer • page 11

Marten continued from page 16
to knock him down off the court.

With the advent of the multi-million dollar endorsement contract, Jordan doesn't have to stay in the game for the money like his predecessors did. It's his decision to walk away to bet small change in $100,000 chunks on pots.

So Jordan is off to search for new horizons. He doesn't care what he decides to do, for him it will be more exciting than hanging around. He's waiting for someone to come along who will challenge his accomplishments.

$3.75 ALL SHOWS BEFORE FRI

SCOTLANDIAN • 291-4583

Fire Wife (PG-13) 4:15, 8:15, 10:45

The Scoundrel (R) 1:30, 4:30

Sheep in Wolf's Clothing (PG) 3:30, 7:30, 10:30

The Prodigals (PG) 8:30, 11:30

Cool Runnings (PG) 3:00, 5:00

Marvin's Room (R) 7:00, 9:30

TOOLBOX BREAKFAST CATHE

LOHMULLER A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

10) She let's us have a permanent "smart phone"

9) She let's us have a permanent "smart phone"

8) She didn't freak out about the dorm room

7) We made security beat more than any other dorm on campus last year...

6) She has a damn clean room

5) She sends us lots of pictures and cards

4) She made Kenzie pick the tape off the ceiling last year after the SYR (and she did it!!)

3) She is 10% of the reason of the Happy Birthday! WE LOVE YOURS!--------------------

Hi Turtle, Bear, and Layne!!
Your bud, "me, me?"

Thanks for the Taco Bell, Kateri
Love,
Jonathan and Jason

$3.75 ALL SHOWS BEFORE FRI

SCOTLANDIAN • 291-4583

Fire Wife (PG-13) 4:15, 8:15, 10:45

The Scoundrel (R) 1:30, 4:30

Sheep in Wolf's Clothing (PG) 3:30, 7:30, 10:30

The Prodigals (PG) 8:30, 11:30

Cool Runnings (PG) 3:00, 5:00

Marvin's Room (R) 7:00, 9:30

The Puppeteer (PG-13) 4:15, 7:15, 9:45

All other movies will be

Metro (R) 4:45, 7:30, 10:30

The Great Dane (PG) 6:30, 7:30, 9:30
By CRISTINA CORONADO
Sports Writer

In women's interhall football, Siegfried Hall slid past the Pasquerilla East fries last night in overtime. The game remained scoreless until the Siegfried team scored the winning touchdown during their first overtime drive.

Siegfried's defense kept the Pasquerilla East's offense from entering the end zone the entire time. "Our defense was the best I've ever seen them," Siegfried captain Angie Luzio stated. Meg Frost had a key interception for the defense as well.

Siegfried drops P.E. in overtime to even record at 2-2

By SCOTT CLEMENTE
Sports Writer

"It was an exciting win. We were quite happy with how it turned out," Siegfried player Kelly Duffy said. Siegfried hopes to carry their victory into their game with Pasquerilla West.

"We want to gain momentum to play P.W.," Luzio added.

Siegfried drops P.E. in overtime to even record at 2-2

Lewis 18, Knott 0

Lewis Hall shutout Knott Hall with a score of 18-0 last night at Carver Field. Lewis' record is now 3-1, putting them in playoff position.

The Lewis offense was explosive attaining three touchdowns. Julie Fleck stepped up to play quarterback for the first time today, because the original quarterback Mary Beth Failla was at the infamous 'Rudy' Premiere.

Fleck threw twenty yards passes to score the first two touchdowns. Both passes were received by Kim Gold, who played Julie Fleck's original position of tightend. "Both Julie Fleck and Kim Gold played great and stepped up into the positions they were needed in," Lewis coach Nick Harmon stated.

The Lewis team scored again, with a pass from Fleck to Katie Coughlin. "The offense was really well today," Fleck added.

Defensively, Lewis kept the game scoreless, which is their third shutout this season. The Lewis defense has only had 5 points scored against them.

"Our defense has been great," Harmon said.

The Knott team is looking to improve their record to 0-4.

"We're getting better," junior Beth Hanlon said. "We're not getting the plays the other team is getting. We just need a little luck."

Farley 6, Pasquerilla West 0

Farley just beat Pasquerilla West in a scoreless first and second half. Farley scored the only six points in overtime to surprise the favored Purple Weasels.

Reserve quarterback Tiernee Riddle ran the ball in for the touchdown. The team missed the extra point, when quarterback Molley Riestenburg was sacked at the ten yard line.

Defensively, Farley Hall had one interception by outside linebacker Mulura Mapes. The Pasquerilla West team lacked many players, including starting quarterback Bethany Riddle, due to the premiere of 'Rudy.'

"We didn't have half of our team," Pasquerilla West player Kathleen Gaines said.

The Farley team was also missing many of their offensive line because of the premiere. Despite the lack of some starting players, the Farley offense performed well.

Lyons hopes to avoid letdown tonight

By SCOTT CLEMENTE
Sports Writer

The fourth round of women's interhall football will take place tomorrow night as some of the top teams in the Gold League face off.

No. 3 Lyons takes on No. 7 Walsh in the game that will highlight the schedule. Lyons is coming off a triple-overtime victory of previously unbeaten Badin Hall. The win caused Lyon's power pool ranking to rise five and they are now considered one of the better teams in the league.

They are led by quarterback Julie Byrd and receiver Wendy Hollhaus, both of whom were instrumental in the upset of Badin.

Walsh is coming off a victory over Breen-Phillips last Sunday.

It was the team's first victory of the season, but they seem to be steadily improving.

In order for Walsh to win they will have to shut down the Lyons offense. Sophomore Genna Gwynn, who had an interception for Walsh on Sunday, thinks the defense is up to the task.

"Our defense is strong," stated Gwynn. "But we'll have to watch out for the bombs and concentrate on not letting any receivers behind us." If the defense is able to accomplish this, Walsh will have a very good shot at upsetting Lyons.

Badin vs. Howard

In the first game of the Thursday night schedule, fifth-ranked Badin will take on second-ranked Howard, as Badin tries to rebound from Sunday's loss to Lyons. Howard sits atop the Gold Division standings and is one of only two undefeated teams left in the league.

Sue Wassil, the quarterback for Howard, thinks that this could give Badin some extra incentive. "We've never defeated them and they are coming off their first loss so I'm sure they'll be coming at us extra hard," said Wassil.

The game will most likely be one of the toughest games Howard has played so far. "We are going to have to play very well to beat Badin," added Wassil.

Breen-Phillips vs. Pangborn

Also on Thursday night, Breen-Phillips will take on winless Pangborn. B.P. stands at No. 8 in the power polls after a 14-6 loss at the hands of Walsh. Pangborn, whose record stands at 0-3, is coming off a 24-0 whitewash at the hands of Howard.

B.P.'s offense, which opened the season with a 77 point performance against Lyons has struggled recently and could continue to do so. This week they have lost both of their running backs to injury.

This definitely limits our offense, but we have been working on some new things in practice that should compensate for the losses," said B.P. coach Chris Jones.
St. Ed’s hopes to continue early success against Alumni

By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

St. Ed’s, after winning their first game in six years, is back in action this week against an Alumni team that lost last weekend. St. Ed’s beat Sorin by recovering a blocked punt for a touchdown with 1:45 left in the game. Alumni failed to score a point in their 19-0 loss to Fullerton.

“We played well,” said Alumni coach Paul Zachrin. “We just couldn’t put the ball in the endzone.”

St. Ed’s is riding high with a 1-0-1 record. Their offense controls the ball, most of the entire game last weekend against Sorin.

“Our offensive line just dominated the line of scrimmage,” said Steds junior captain Greg Keenan. “It kept hitting hard and playing well.”

Cavanaugh vs. Carroll

Cavanaugh resumes their schedule against a Carroll team that has a dominating defense and a suspect offense. Carroll beat St. Ed’s 2-0-0 in the season’s first week and lost to Zahm last weekend 8-6.

Carroll had a scoreless tie against Zahm two weeks ago.

Belles’ soccer prepares to face Calvin College

By MARY GOOD
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s soccer team is facing a challenging match this afternoon as they take on Calvin College in Grand Rapids, MI.

After their victory over DePauw last Saturday, the Belles’ spirits are high. They had a couple days of rest and some good practices time, according to coach Tom Van Meter.

“We are anxious to get back and play,” he said.

The team has suffered some injuries in recent weeks, but three key players recovering from knee injuries have been practicing for today’s game. Seniors Patty Hand, Molly O’Connell, and Mandy Eiler all suffered knee injuries earlier this year, and may be available to play depending upon their progress.

“Their status still remains day to day,” Van Meter said.

Today’s matchup is going to be a difficult one for the Belles. Earlier in the season the Belles were defeated by Kalamazoo who subsequently suffered a loss to Calvin.

“This is a very important game,” said sophomore Rita Juster.

Van Meter also feels it is a key match, but admits it won’t be an easy one.

“It is going to be a break either way,” he said. “If the team executes the way it did against DePauw, I think we have a good chance.”

A Night of Mexican Culture

Pader Fokaldance Co., Santa Lucia (from Monterey, Mexico) at Strepas Center on Oct. 8.

Morrissey awaits struggling Grace

By G. R. NELSON
Sports Writer

The top match-up of week three in men’s gold league inter-hall football pits No. 2 Morrissey against No. 10 Planner.

Morrissey is coming off an impressive 20-0 defeat of Grace, a game in which they played nearly flawless football. Morrissey’s offensive line controlled the line of scrimmage, their backs ran well, and they committed no turnovers. Planner also played very well last Sunday, tying then top-ranked Stanford. George Reider, Morrissey’s captain, knows how tough Planner will be, but he remains confident.

“I imagine it being a very tough game,” said Reider. “But I’ll stack my team up against anybody.”

Stanford vs. Keenan

Another marquee matchup involves fourth ranked Stanford against sixth-ranked Keenan. Both teams are undefeated and this has the makings of a great game. Keenan beat Dillon 3-0 on a last minute field goal on Sunday.

In that game, Keenan’s defense was superb, but their offense struggled. For Keenan to have a chance against a well-balanced Stanford squad, they must get more productivity out of their offense.

Stanford is angry after their embarrassing performance last Sunday, a 6-6 tie against Planner. Stanford moved the football well, generating over 200 yards of total offense, but had trouble capitalizing once inside the red zone. For Stanford to turn yards into points, tailback Lamar Galliery must get more carries.

Stanford’s defense, despite allowing a long touchdown run to Planner, remains very confident.

“I feel like our defense will easily stop their offense,” said hard hitting middle linebacker Brett Galley. “When we scrimmaged them, we had no problem. I’m sure they’re improved, but we are hungry and angry.”

Grace vs. Off-Campus

Grace battles Off-Campus in a game where both teams are searching for their first victory. Off-Campus opened the season with a tough 6-0 loss to second-ranked Morrissey and had a bye last week. They are rested and ready to go.

Grace lost 20-0 to Morrissey last week and have been outscored 46-0 on the year. Grace’s quarterback Eric Hillegas believes part of the reason for the disappointing performances is youth at several key positions and a new complex offense.

But Hillegas is taking the losses in stride.

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports

Let’s Go Irish!

Friday October 8

#3 Notre Dame Women’s Soccer vs. Xavier
7:30 pm Alumni Field

#14 Notre Dame Women’s Volleyball vs. Alumni in a "Reunion Match"
8:00 pm JACC Arena
FREE ADMISSION

Sunday October 10

#3 Notre Dame Women’s Soccer vs. Evansville
1:00 pm Alumni Field
FREE ADMISSION with football ticket stub

MISA EN ESPAÑOL

domingo, 10 de Octubre de 1993
11:30 a.m.
Breen-Phillips Chapel

Todos Estan Invitados
All Are Welcome

Celebrante
Padre Timothy Scully, C.S.C.

Sponsored by
Campus Ministry
Cine Pimeria de Nuestra Senora
Crossword

- ACROSS
  1. Holy venture (10)
  2. Diamond surface (10)
  3. Collision in... (10)
  4. Guadiancanal river (10)
  5. Pitcher's stat (10)
  6. Adjective for a melodrama (10)
  7. Supplement (10)
  8. Refit (10)
  9. Wagon on track (10)
  10. Keyhole (10)
  11. Melodrama role (10)
  12. Households (10)
  13. Washes (10)
  14. Suffr with origin (10)

- DOWN
  1. Happening (10)
  2. Clear tape (10)
  3. Shadow follower (10)
  4. They can have a yard (10)
  5. Statue with limitations (10)
  6. People floating along (10)
  7. Melodrama role (10)
  8.事物 (10)
  9. Bicycle (10)
  10. smack (10)
  11. Property (10)
  12. Fervency (10)
  13. "It Be " (10)
  14. Study or cuddle (10)
  15. Bacteriologist (10)
  16. Choose (10)
  17. Canvas bed (10)
  18. Before to Byron (10)
  19. Koppel or Koehler (10)
  20. Borelli will speak in room 101, DeBartolo Hall at 7 p.m. (10)
  21. "Religious Vocation," given by Father Joseph Gallagher from the Archdiocese of Baltimore will speak in room 101, Hesburgh Library at 7 p.m. (10)
  22. "Four Decades as a Catholic Journalist," by Father Thomas Kennedy will be given in the Multicultural Center, 100 Main St., at 7:30 p.m. (10)

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Four Food Groups of the Apocalypse

Acoustic Cafe

Thursday Nights

9pm-12pm

in the Huddle

Robert Kennedy Jr.

"Our Environmental Destiny"

Thursday Oct 7

$3

7:30 pm

Stepan Center

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes"

Thursday Oct 7

8pm and 10:30 pm

Montgomery Theater

LaFortune Student Center
Womens soccer shuts down Wisconsin-Milwaukee

By BRYAN CONNOLLY

To keep a team from scoring is outstanding. To keep a team from shooting is unbelievable. Not only did the Notre Dame women's soccer team crush Wisconsin-Milwaukee 6-0 last night, but it also outshot the Panthers 24-0.

The sixth ranked Irish improved their record to 11-1 after rolling past 6-5-2 Wisconsin in an offensive blitz which featured five different scorers.

Junior midfielder Tiffany Thompson opened the scoring for Notre Dame 9:31 into the contest with an unassisted blast from thirty yards out to the left of the goal box.

Fellow midfielder Jodi Hartwig expanded the lead to 3-0 two minutes and 47 seconds later when she booted a loose Thompson corner kick through a crowd and into the net from five yards out.

Sophomore attacker Michelle McCarthy, who started at midfield because Ragen Coyne was out with a pulled hamstring, added two more goals before the end of the half to all but assure Notre Dame the victory. The goals, which were McCarthy's eighth and ninth of the season, were both assisted by freshman midfielder Candy Daws. Freshman forward Stacia Masters and sophomore forward Rosella Guerrero also earned assists on the scores.

With a reshuffled line-up on the field to open the second half, the Irish wasted no time getting back on the board. With just under eight minutes expired in the half, Masters received a 20 yard pass from Daws and booted it in her fourth goal of the year from 10 yards out.

Senior forward Tasha Strawbridge wrapped up the scoring when she kicked in a Kate Fisher corner kick for her first goal of the season.

"They're a very talented team," said Wisconsin head coach Susan Maynihan. "I respect them a lot. Hopefully we learned something from it."

"We played with a little bit more intensity than we did this weekend," said McCarthy. "We played alright." said Thompson. "We moved the ball well, and that's what we've been working on.

"It gives us some momentum going into the weekend," said Irish head coach Chris Petrucci, referring to the important conference contest with Xavier. "It sends us into the game with the right frame of mind."

"Even though this wasn't a huge game," said McCarthy, "it was very important to our confidence a little bit."

"It's good for us," added Thompson.

The Irish have now won 16 of their last 17 games, dating back to last October.

Daws' two assists brought her scoring line to seven goals and fourteen assists. Her 26 points place her at ninth in the Central Region and 16th in the nation.

Coyne is listed as question mark for the Irish's upcoming game at the University of Kentucky on Tuesday. She has six goals and six assists. Her 26 points place her at tenth in the region and 16th in the nation.

In the first half, the Irish outshot the Panthers 17-1.

Women's Interhall

by LINDSEY TANNER

With no tears, just that trademark twinkle in his eyes, Michael Jordan retired Wednesday from the game he redefined but hinted that basketball may not the main reason behind his decision.

"I was pretty much decided at that point where it has to evolve to Jordan's standards. He has nothing left to shoot for," Jordan said in an announcement that shocked fans and teammates alike. "I just feel that I don't have anything else for myself to prove."

At a news conference packed with hundreds of reporters at the Bulls' training center, Jordan said he'd lost the motivation to play and had thought retiring after leading the Bulls to their third straight NBA championship in June.

The 30-year-old superstar said the slaying of his father this summer was not the main reason behind his decision.

"I was pretty much decided at that particular time, but I think what it made me realize was how short life is," he said.

"I guess the biggest positive thing I can take out of my father not being here today is that he saw my last basketball game. THAT WAS A LOT," Jordan said.

Jordan makes retirement official

DEERFIELD, Ill.

No tears, but that trademark twinkle in his eyes, Michael Jordan retired Wednesday from the game he redefined but hinted that basketball may not have seen the last of him yet.

"I've reached the pinnacle of my career," Jordan said in an announcement that shocked fans and teammates alike. "I just feel that I don't have anything else for myself to prove."

At a news conference packed with hundreds of reporters at the Bulls' training center, Jordan said he'd lost the motivation to play and had thought retiring after leading the Bulls to their third straight NBA championship in June.

The 30-year-old superstar said the slaying of his father this summer was not the main reason behind his decision.

"I was pretty much decided at that particular time, but I think what it made me realize was how short life is," he said.

"I guess the biggest positive thing I can take out of my father not being here today is that he saw my last basketball game. THAT WAS A LOT," Jordan said.