The Observer
Tuesday, November 2, 1993 • Vol. XXVI No. 41

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S

Great Scott
By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

All Haley Scott worried about was making a fool of herself. She ignored what her teammates, family, and friends were saying. "It was good enough that she just swim," they kept saying. Good enough for them, but not her.

And last Friday, Haley Scott did what she needed to do. She won.

Twenty-one months after doctors told her that she would be lucky to walk again, the junior from Arizona sprinted 50-yards across the pool at Rolfs Aquatic Center and touched the wall ahead of the seven other swimmers in her heat.

It was just as she used to do before the bus accident that temporarily paralyzed her back and killed two of her teammates.

With her family and teammates surrounding the pool, Scott leaped to a quick start in the 50-yard freestyle and never looked back.

She smiled contentedly when she realized she won, pulled herself from the pool, and walked over to her teammates and coach to a barrage of hugs.

"Everyone was crying, even coach (Tim) Welsh," said team captain Kristin Heath, "except for Haley. We were all a mess, but not her.

Scott did not shed one tear. Not later when she hugged her parents, with her mom crying and her father saying over and over how proud they were of her.

She had done enough crying. When the doctors started putting rods in her back, the ones she can feel today, she cried. All the surgeries started to take a toll on her emotional-

And the scars each operation brought, reminders that

- Two years after being told she may never walk, Haley Scott swims again

ND quartet to perform chants, organ selections at Sacred Heart
By MARGARET VIDA
News Writer

Schola Musicorum, a quartet consisting of music professors, directors and a graduate student, will hold its first free performance tonight at 10 pm in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart. The programs are intended to be brief, exciting interludes, "something to offer a couple hundred years," said first year graduate student in musicology, Lewis Coleman.

The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously translated chant.

"Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a cantor, who would just sing, and the 'musicus' who would study and know the music's construction in addition to how it's performed." Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also," said Coleman.

"Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience," according to Bower. "The political transition was very significant because it was in a democratic, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now "take a step back." According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reforms.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles in their reforms. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy.

"Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military," he said.

In addition, Precht said they must "help heal the wounds" and achieve justice concerning the 1,000 people still missing from the seventeen years of the dictator-

"Chile is a country of contrast between the rich and the poor and he poor must not be neglected," said Precht. "It's so easy to forget the poor.

And also stated that the Church must play a role in aiding the poor.

Another challenge facing the new government of Chile is multiculturalism. Precht said that they need to face different cultures, and see a different perspective of life.

Finally, Precht said that they must also be aware of ethical problems in their society.

"There cannot be an ethical, or a good, society unless we have a source of inspira-

"This is something that hasn't been heard for a to offer a long time," according to Bower. The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously translated chant.

"Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a cantor, who would just sing, and the 'musicus' who would study and know the music's construction in addition to how it's performed. Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also," said Coleman.

"Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience," according to Bower. "The political transition was very significant because it was in a democratic, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now "take a step back." According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reforms.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles in their reforms. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy.

"Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military," he said.

In addition, Precht said they must "help heal the wounds" and achieve justice concerning the 1,000 people still missing from the seventeen years of the dictator-

"Chile is a country of contrast between the rich and the poor and he poor must not be neglected," said Precht. "It's so easy to forget the poor.

And also stated that the Church must play a role in aiding the poor.

Another challenge facing the new government of Chile is multiculturalism. Precht said that they need to face different cultures, and see a different perspective of life.

Finally, Precht said that they must also be aware of ethical problems in their society.

"There cannot be an ethical, or a good, society unless we have a source of inspira-

"This is something that hasn't been heard for a long time," according to Bower. The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously translated chant.

"Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a cantor, who would just sing, and the 'musicus' who would study and know the music's construction in addition to how it's performed. Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also," said Coleman.

"Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience," according to Bower. "The political transition was very significant because it was in a democratic, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now "take a step back." According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reforms.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles in their reforms. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy.

"Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military," he said.

In addition, Precht said they must "help heal the wounds" and achieve justice concerning the 1,000 people still missing from the seventeen years of the dictator-

"Chile is a country of contrast between the rich and the poor and he poor must not be neglected," said Precht. "It's so easy to forget the poor.

And also stated that the Church must play a role in aiding the poor.

Another challenge facing the new government of Chile is multiculturalism. Precht said that they need to face different cultures, and see a different perspective of life.

Finally, Precht said that they must also be aware of ethical problems in their society.

"There cannot be an ethical, or a good, society unless we have a source of inspira-

"This is something that hasn't been heard for a long time," according to Bower. The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously translated chant.

"Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a cantor, who would just sing, and the 'musicus' who would study and know the music's construction in addition to how it's performed. Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also," said Coleman.

"Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience," according to Bower. "The political transition was very significant because it was in a democratic, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now "take a step back." According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reforms.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles in their reforms. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy.

"Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military," he said.

In addition, Precht said they must "help heal the wounds" and achieve justice concerning the 1,000 people still missing from the seventeen years of the dictator-

"Chile is a country of contrast between the rich and the poor and he poor must not be neglected," said Precht. "It's so easy to forget the poor.

And also stated that the Church must play a role in aiding the poor.

Another challenge facing the new government of Chile is multiculturalism. Precht said that they need to face different cultures, and see a different perspective of life.

Finally, Precht said that they must also be aware of ethical problems in their society.

"There cannot be an ethical, or a good, society unless we have a source of inspira-

"This is something that hasn't been heard for a long time," according to Bower. The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously translated chant.

"Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a cantor, who would just sing, and the 'musicus' who would study and know the music's construction in addition to how it's performed. Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also," said Coleman.

"Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience," according to Bower. "The political transition was very significant because it was in a democratic, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now "take a step back." According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reforms.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles in their reforms. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy.

"Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military," he said.
Rest assured: the 'Noles will roll

And there were six.
Six unbeaten and untied teams remain in Division I-A: Florida State, Ohio State, Nebraska, West Virginia and Notre Dame. Six teams which have survived two months of football without dropping a game or settling for a tie.

But how many of those deserve an unblemished record, deserve to be included in the title hunt this season?

The coaches won't even vote for Auburn, which is on probation. If only because they can't prove themselves in a bowl game, the Tigers should be left out of the running unless no one else stands tw-o-and-oh on January 2.

West Virginia is the second-best team in a mediocre conference (and is led by a quarterback who once bought Rick Mirer for the starting job at Notre Dame). The Mountaineers will surely lose before the end of November. They'll be out of the hunt soon enough.

But who does deserve serious consideration?

Ohio State has been impressive so far, and has yet to face its two biggest challenges of the season: Wisconsin and Michigan. But even if John Cooper heads to the Rose Bowl, rest assured that he'll pull the traditional New Year's trick and get drubbed by UCLA.

Nebraska still plays in the Big Eight, which is why the Huskers (8-0) are behind both Miami (7-1) and Alabama (7-0-1) in the AP poll. Sure, they'll get killed by whoever wins in the Orange Bowl. But they have to face Colorado and Oklahoma each year. Not bad, at least, will play two challenging games in 1993.

Not so for the Irish.

Notre Dame has only one challenge this season: Wisconsin State. Notre Dame is ahead of only three teams in the Big Ten. The Irish have beaten two of those: Northwestern and Purdue. Pitt? Brigham Young? When Notre Dame scheduled these teams ten years ago, they were tough. Now, they're about as solid as a fuselage left out to thaw.

The '93 schedule is a joke. When the Irish won the national championship in 1988, they did it against the toughest schedule in the nation.

When Florida State wins the title this year, they will deserve the same plaudit. It will have beaten Miami, Notre Dame and Florida in its nonconference schedule.

FSU is clearly the best team in the nation.

The Seminoles have crushed every team they've shared the field with. Bowden, Ward and Co. are a fearsome bunch, and the only thing that might slow them down when they visit Michigan in two weeks is a solid dose of sleet.

Notre Dame certainly won't stop the 'Noles. No one should really wonder who will be undefeated when FSU leaves town. The question is whether Florida State will improve its points per game average (which now stands at 43.75).

Count on it.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

TODAY'S STAFF

News

Lab Tech

Liz Foran

John Bangham

Laura Ferguson

Production

John Rock

Beth Regan

Katie Young

Viewpoint

Rolando de Aguiar

Graphics

Brendan Regan

Rolando de Aguiar

Viewpoint Editor

Nation at a Glance

Tragedy at University of Wisconsin following victory over Michigan

When Camp Randall Stadium is full, the 77,745 fans it holds make it— for a few hours— the sixth largest city in the state. Only Milwaukee, with a 1990 population of 628,000; Madison, 181,025; Janesville, 96,466; Racine, 84,298; and Kenosha, 80,352, have more people than Camp Randall on Game Day.

3. Fence separating fans from the field collapsed. The most severe injuries occurred between railing and fence.

2. 3-ft. high iron railing (removed in cement) felt as the crowd pushed forward.

1. Within minutes after the game, people from the upper rows moved down.

When these fans were killed at the University of Wisconsin, the view was identical to the photo above. Seventy-five percent of Hispanics held that view, while 66 percent of whites and 53 percent of blacks. "Just look at the video and you can see they weren't guilty," said respondent Gerusalem Ortiz, 45, a machine operator from Huntington Park. Sixty-three percent of those polled felt that the verdicts were too lenient. Times Poll: Majority of Residents Say Verdicts Too Lenient

Rush Limbaugh says no to blue jeans

NEW YORK

Don't bother looking for blue jeans in Rush Limbaugh's closet. He doesn't own any. They make a political statement he doesn't agree with. "The generation I grew up with wore T-shirts, tie-dyes and jeans. Peace signs all over them," Limbaugh said. "At my little college, we had our contingent of antiwar protestors on campus, and they were all blue-jean clad."

Playboy magazine, which published a lengthy interview with the pugnacious commentator in its December edition, tried to change his wardrobe. Magazine officials tried to present him with a pair of size 44-longs. Playboy's Cindy Bakowitz, vice president of public relations, got as far as the reception area at Limbaugh's WABC Radio studio.

California museum features totem art

BERKELEY, Calif.

New York has the MOMA. Paris has the Louvre. Berkeley has the New Sense Museum, where art is strictly in the eyes of the beholder. The New Sense (say it fast) consists of a vacant, weed-strewn lot studded with weird objects, most notably a fistful of commodities painted fluorescent pink, orange and green. "What can I say? Art is whatever you can get away with, I guess," said Andy Ross of nearby Cody's Books. "I'd much rather have a nice monumental Picasso or an ice skating rink, but we have the museum."

Verdicts too lenient, Times poll says

LOS ANGELES

A majority of residents believe the verdicts in the Reginald Denny beating case were too lenient and jurors feared another riot, according to a newspaper poll. The survey in Tuesday's editions of the Los Angeles Times showed 67 percent of those questioned believed the jury was motivated by fears for their own safety and of another riot. Seventy-five percent of Hispanics held that view.

Flavor Flav arrested after shooting

NEW YORK

Flavor Flav of Public Enemy was arrested for allegedly shooting at a neighbor Monday in a dispute authorities say may have started over the rapper's girlfriend. The 34-year-old musician, whose real name is William Drayton, was in arrested Tuesday on attempted murder and weapons possession charges, police said. He was ordered held without bail. The shooting took place outside the high-rise apartment building where Drayton and the other man live and may have been over Drayton's girlfriend, said police Sgt. Michael McGrath. The incident occurred a day after another prominent rapper, Tupac Shakur, was arrested in the shooting of two off-duty police officers in Atlanta. Shakur, who was released on bail Monday, was charged with two counts of aggravated assault. The officers were released from a hospital Monday.

Drugs may have caused Phoenix's death

LOS ANGELES

River Phoenix lay dying on the sidewalk while his brother pleaded with a fire department dispatcher to send help for the actor, who collapsed outside a nightclub. "You must get here, please, you must get here," pleaded Robert Phoenix. "I'm thinking he had Valium or something."

First, the 23-year-old actor was writhing on the sidewalk while his brother pleaded with a fire department dispatcher to send help for the actor, who collapsed outside a nightclub. "You must get here, please, you must get here," pleaded Robert Phoenix. "I'm thinking he had Valium or something."

Then he lay motionless, as if sleeping. Within an hour, Phoenix was pronounced dead early Sunday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. An autopsy Monday was inconclusive, said coroner's spokesman Scott Carrier. Results of blood and chemical tests will take weeks, he said.

Indiana Weather

Tuesday, Nov. 2

Air company forecasts for daytime conditions and high temperatures

INDIANA WEATHER

The Accu-Weather forecast for noon, Tuesday, Nov. 2.
Rob Laux

The key to being an effective leader lies in relating leadership styles to situations and people, according to Rob Laux, program coordinator for the Office of Student Activities.

"How to be an Effective Leader," held last night in the Notre Dame Room of LaFortune, was the first of the three-part leadership forum sponsored by the Office of Student Activities.

"It is most important to understand your own leadership style and appreciate others' styles in relation to your leadership style," said Laux.

The conventional method includes people who like to deal with data and numbers, realistic people like concrete situations; investigative like to observe; articulate enjoy innovation; social have good people skills; and entertaining enjoy influencing others.

The most beneficial situation, Laux said, occurs when the personalities of group members complement each other. "Something important to try to do is to create some type of balance," Laux said.

Recognizing the different strengths of group members will make you more likely to be successful and the rest of the group to be happy, according to Laux. "It is very important to match your leadership style to your followers," Laux said.

"You praise people in public, "You start with a solid foundation of being healthy, a solid family background, and you go from there," said Laux.

Laux's talk included an overview of financial responsibility and the importance of being an effective leader. Laux said, "The key to being an effective leader is to relate leadership style to environment that they are in," added Laux.

When leading a group, Laux said, a person has five main responsibilities:

- Let them know the purpose of the group or goal.
- Let them know the facts including financial responsibilities.
- Let them know the tasks by discussing projects for the year.
- Let them know the schedule of deadlines.
- Let them know the balances.

One of the most important roles of a leader is to serve as a link between people in the organization. Setting priorities is the basis for being a good leader according to Laux. Health, family, academics and co-curricular activities should fail in this order.

First lady fires back at insurance industry

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Hillary Clinton accused insurance companies Monday of waging a deceitful campaign against the Clinton health plan to protect profits and preserve the status quo.

"It is time for you and for every insurance company in this country to say to the insurance industry, 'Enough is enough. We want our health care system back,'" she told more than 2,000 pediatricians.

"It is time for you and for every insurance company in this country to say to the insurance industry, 'Enough is enough. We want our health care system back,'" she told more than 2,000 pediatricians.

The group's new president, pediatrician Betty Loune, once treated Chelsea Clinton in Little Rock.

The first lady castigated the "Harry and Louise" television ads run by the Health Insurance Association of America that question key features of the Clinton plan.

"One of the great lies that is currently afoot in this country is that the president's plan will limit choice. To the contrary, the president's plan enhances choice," said Mrs. Clinton.

She referred sarcastically to the "homey kitchen ads" that said it was time for insurance companies who think their way is the better way.

"What you don't get to tell people is that it is said for insurance companies who think their way is the better way," said Mrs. Clinton.

"They like being able to exclude people from coverage because the more they can exclude, the more money they can make," she charged.

Tuesday, November 2, 1993

Laux, students explore effective leadership skills at forum

By CORRINE DORAN News Writer

Any club wishing to place an entry in the Club Column must do so by 3 p.m. Thursday each week. All entries will appear in the following Monday edition of The Observer.

Any club wishing to place an entry in the Club Column must do so by 3 p.m. Thursday each week. All entries will appear in the following Monday edition of The Observer.

Tickets will be sold for $5; for members who have paid their dues, the price will be $4.

---

JOB NETWORK LINKS STUDENTS AND ALUMNI

The Job Network is available free of charge to all students and can be accessed at any campus computer cluster. The program lists positions and new openings will be entered as they come in throughout the year.

The listing for each job opportunity includes the position available, a job description, location, qualifications, and a link to application information. There are opportunities for full-time employment, as well as for summer jobs and internships.

Jobs are already listed in the network, and new openings will be entered as they come in throughout the year.

The listing for each job opportunity includes the position available, a job description, location, qualifications, and a link to application information. There are opportunities for full-time employment, as well as for summer jobs and internships.

Making/Problem Solving. 7:00-8:00 p.m., Notre Dame Room, LaFortune. All are welcome.

First lady fires back at insurance industry

WEEK OF NOVEMBER 1, 1993

---

QUIZ BOWL BEGINS NOV. 8

Beginning November 8, students and faculty members will test their knowledge as they compete in the Faculty/Student Quiz Bowl. Each team will consist of four people. There will be at least one person of which is a faculty member. The competition will be similar in format to "Jeopardy," and will be a double elimination tournament lasting through November 11. Look for more information later in the week, and watch the Notre Dame Room for information on the brightest compete in the Faculty/Student Quiz Bowl.

---

The Observer • NEWS
Haley Scott continued from page 1

would last longer than the tears.

But all that was forgotten on Friday, because in the 26.10 seconds it took Scott to finish her race all the memories and scars were forgotten, and only Haley remains.

"I'm so sick of being someone who is hurt," she said days before the race, "sick of being an excuse. I just want to be a swimmer."

That is what she is today and has always been in her mind.

"If feels so good to be a part of the team. I missed that more than I missed the swimming," she said. "Taking trips with my teammates and practice, those were the things I really missed."

"I always knew I would swim again. I think the doctors stopped telling me what I could not do, because I wasn't listening."

Since the first day they said she couldn't, Haley said she would.

Every day since they told her no, she envisioned what her race all the memories and scars were forgotten, and only Haley remains.

"I'm so sick of being someone who is hurt," she said days before the race, "sick of being an excuse. I just want to be a swimmer."

That is what she is today and has always been in her mind.

"If feels so good to be a part of the team. I missed that more than I missed the swimming," she said. "Taking trips with my teammates and practice, those were the things I really missed."

"I always knew I would swim again. I think the doctors stopped telling me what I could not do, because I wasn't listening."

Since the first day they said she couldn't, Haley said she would.

Every day since they told her no, she envisioned what her race all the memories and scars were forgotten, and only Haley remains.

"I'm so sick of being someone who is hurt," she said days before the race, "sick of being an excuse. I just want to be a swimmer."

That is what she is today and has always been in her mind.

"If feels so good to be a part of the team. I missed that more than I missed the swimming," she said. "Taking trips with my teammates and practice, those were the things I really missed."

"I always knew I would swim again. I think the doctors stopped telling me what I could not do, because I wasn't listening."

Since the first day they said she couldn't, Haley said she would.

Every day since they told her no, she envisioned what her race all the memories and scars were forgotten, and only Haley remains.
Senate debates Packwood diaries

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
A nervous Senate, debating sex, allegations of possible criminal conduct and the right to privacy, waded reluctantly Monday with a historic motion to enforce a subpoena for Sen. Bob Packwood's "very, very personal" diaries.

"The Ethics Committee cannot turn a blind eye" to potential violations of criminal law and standards of conduct, Sen. Richard H. Bryan, the panel's chairman, said in asserting a need for the diaries.

Packwood had said that his more than 8,000 pages of writings include entries on the sex lives of fellow lawmakers. He added Monday that the diaries included references to history-making events and matters that "are very, very personal."

Even as he offered a last-minute compromise to a husbanded Senate, Packwood described how he had put his innermost thoughts to writing, including "family heartaches, disappointment, irritation with the car repairman."

He said a deal might be worked out if the committee would describe to him the potential criminal conduct it said it recently discovered in the diaries.

All eyes were on Packwood in the crowded yet hushed Senate chamber as he made his case. By turns combative and accommodating, he accused his colleagues on the ethics panel of acting as "prosecutor, jury and judge," but told the rest of the Senate the matter could be settled short of a showdown vote.

The debate focused on the clash between the ethics committee's determined inquiry — which began with allegations of sexual misconduct and intimidation against Packwood — and the personal" diaries.

When the committee requested those entries, Packwood's lawyers — who had been copying committee-designated pages — refused to provide them. The committee, having reviewed the diaries from 1969-89, then voted to subpoena the diaries from Jan. 1, 1989, to the present.

The full Senate now is deciding whether to vote to enforce that subpoena request.

As fire fades in California, thoughts turn to mudslides

By JEFF BARNARD
Associated Press

ALTADENA, Calif.
The raging wildfires that destroyed nearly 800 buildings and burned across 170,000 acres have left a new threat in their wake — mudslides.

As crews struggled today to close containment rings on the remaining fires, specialists planned to quickly reseed denuded hillsides with grass to hold mud against winter rains.

"There's virtually nothing left to hold any water on the slope. We get some major storms in there and it's like raining on cement or asphalt," he said.

Brown said he hoped grass would be planted on stripped hills within two weeks. Homeowners still recovering from the effects of the fires had already begun worrying about the new threat.

"We're going to pack up the china and the bedrooms and put them in storage," Connie Towne of Altadena said at a neighborhood party for fire survivors. "Once the soil builds up in the mountains it's going to be a wall of mud."

Cool, wet weather over the weekend helped firefighters get the upper hand on most of the major wildfires that broke out last week along a 200-mile arc from Ventura County through Los Angeles to the Mexican border.

The fires torched 171,304 acres, damaged or destroyed 815 buildings, including at least 685 homes, and injured 62.

A preliminary estimate from the state Office of Emergency Services put damage at $500 million.

Fire officials predicted complete containment of all blazes by Tuesday. However, the National Weather Service predicted that hot, dry Santa Ana winds would return Tuesday, which could fan any remaining fires.

The natural cycle of fires and floods or mudslides in the Southern California foothills is well known. For those who carve expensive homes into the steep hillsides, it means a one-two punch of disasters.

CAMPUS BRIEF

University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh has been selected to receive the Walter Camp Football Foundation's 1993 "Distinguished American" award in recognition for his work in the fields of higher education, civil rights, and other major social issues.

"It is a distinct honor not only for the members of the Foundation, but also for the city of New Haven and the state of Connecticut, to have the opportunity to salute an outstanding individual who has had such a significant impact on so many aspects of American life during the past half-century," said Robert Cargull, president of Walter Camp.

The non-profit organization is named for Walter Camp, the legendary Yale coach who is regarded as the "Father of American Football," and selects annually individuals for special awards.

Past winners include actress Susan Saint James, Bob Hope, Chicago Bears founder George Halas, General Alexander Haig, and coach Edwards Robinson of Grambling State University.

ENGLISH ACTOR DAVID DANSLEY PERFORMING

"SHAKESPEARE: EVERYTHING AND NOTHING"

This program will include excerpts from the works of Shakespeare, Jorge Luis Borges, Sarte, Kurt Vonnegut, George S. Kaufman and O.W. Holmes.

ATTENDING FEE:

No admission fee

NOTRE DAME COMMUNICATION AND THEATRE PRESENTS

TIME BOWL

9:30 - 11:30 PM Only $10 per lane!

TIME BOWL

9:30 - 11:30 PM Only $10 per lane!

STUDENT SPECIAL

Anytime! $1.35 per game Anytime!

BEACON BOWL

4210 L.W.W. Phone 234 -4167
Ill passenger freed from jetliner

By DALATOU MAMANE
Associated Press

The hijackers of a Nigerian Airways freighter freed one sick passenger today but refused to release nearly three dozen other hostages, most of them government officials.

The hijackers were believed to have singled out government employees as bargaining chips in their demand for the resignation of Nigeria's military-backed government.

By late Monday, however, Nigerian authorities said the hijackers only were demanding enough fuel to get to Frankfurt, Germany.

Four to six men armed with guns and knives took over the Airbus 310 Monday on a domestic flight from Lagos, Nigeria, in the Nigerian capital, Abuja. The plane was diverted to Niamey, capital of neighboring Niger, for refueling.

Various authorities have given different figures for the number of passengers and crew on the plane. The Niger Interior Ministry said there originally were 159 people on board, most of whom were released Monday.

Six crew members and 28 Nigerian government employees remained inside the aircraft parked on a runway of Niamey's international airport, according to the Niger Interior Ministry.

MOVIE NIGHT

The Law Firm of Ford, Cruise, Hackman Pesci & Close

presents an all-night tribute to law in the movies.

On the docket:

9:00pm A Few Good Men
11:20pm Presumed Innocent
1:20am Jagged Edge
5:20am Class Action

It's Fun, Free and Perfectly Legal!

The Faculty Upper Room Dinner-Discussion Series

"Faith and Professional Life"

The dinner scheduled for November 3 has been postponed.

It will be re-scheduled at a later date and invitations will be mailed.
QVC pressed to make decision on Paramount

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press

The pressure is on QVC bidder QVC Network Inc. to improve its bid for Paramount Communications Inc. or risk losing it to the moviemaker and publisher's chosen partner, Viacom.

QVC said Monday it was studying Viacom's revised $10 billion offer, the highest yet for Paramount, which essentially matched the $80 a share cash-and-stock bid that Viacom made more than a month ago.

Viacom offered $80 a share for 51 percent of Paramount on Monday, and QVC is planning a similar offer by Wednesday.

Analysts say Viacom's variety of broadcast and cable assets and its international reach give it the edge in competing with QVC, which is offering the same amount.

Dennis McAlpine, who has been analyzing the Paramount bidding war for the investment firm Josephthal Lyon & Ross, said "QVC is clearly under pressure because if everything is equal, they are not going to get any less." McAlpine said he was doing business with the company.

Viacom owns the MTV, Showtime and Nickleodeon cable networks. QVC's main business is cable shopping but it is led by onetime Paramount Pictures boss Barry Diller.

The video rental company Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. and regional phone company Lynex Corp. have agreed to invest a combined $1.8 billion in Viacom in the six months since the original Paramount deal was announced.

 Paramount offers plenty of what Viacom and its communications revolution are looking for, with its moviemaking and production track record, its rich library of films and programs and its book publishing operations.

The company said today it would likely vote against Nafta if it is submitted to the Congress in its current form, "but would win a November 14 show down, the company said. It is to win overw hile it remains overwhelming to rep eal a November 14 showdown, the company said. It is to win overw hile it remains overwhelming to rep eal a

Other issues, called on the Reagan administration to lift trade barriers among the United States, Mexico and Canada.

"They are doing battle with Mexico and Canada," said Andy Messick, an international trade analyst for Bankers Trust. "The administration has complained, but companies haven't done enough to help sell the idea of the engine of confidence in our future," he told the business leaders. "You all have to be missionaries."

President Bush, who chairs the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said the administration hasn't done anything to help sell the idea of the engine of confidence in our future." His executive director, the business leaders. "You all have to be missionaries."

BRIDGE

Viacom Inc.

NEW YORK

By LEE LINDER

The pressure is on Viacom bidder QVC Network Inc. to improve its bid for Paramount Communications Inc. or risk losing it to the moviemaker and publisher's chosen partner, Viacom.

QVC said Monday it was studying Viacom's revised $10 billion offer, the highest yet for Paramount, which essentially matched the $80 a share cash-and-stock bid that Viacom made more than a month ago.

Viacom offered $80 a share for 51 percent of Paramount on Monday, and QVC is planning a similar offer by Wednesday.

Analysts say Viacom's variety of broadcast and cable assets and its international reach give it the edge in competing with QVC, which is offering the same amount.

Dennis McAlpine, who has been analyzing the Paramount bidding war for the investment firm Josephthal Lyon & Ross, said "QVC is clearly under pressure because if everything is equal, they are not going to get any less." McAlpine said he was doing business with the company.

Viacom owns the MTV, Showtime and Nickleodeon cable networks. QVC's main business is cable shopping but it is led by onetime Paramount Pictures boss Barry Diller.

The video rental company Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. and regional phone company Lynex Corp. have agreed to invest a combined $1.8 billion in Viacom in the six months since the original Paramount deal was announced.

 Paramount offers plenty of what Viacom and its communications revolution are looking for, with its moviemaking and production track record, its rich library of films and programs and its book publishing operations.

The company said today it would likely vote against Nafta if it is submitted to the Congress in its current form, "but would win a November 14 show down, the company said. It is to win overw hile it remains overwhelming to rep eal a November 14 showdown, the company said. It is to win overw hile it remains overwhelming to rep eal a
In a sabbatical mood, I’m giving “A Left Jab” a rest in favor of a metaphor with fewer connotations of violence (‘jab’) and ideology (‘left’). A hard slider is a breaking pitch thrown with as much velocity as a pitcher can combine with the requisite spin. Moderation (irony in motion) is a central feature of a good slider.

Overheard at a bookstore in the square, “Do you have Veritas Splendor by John Paul II?” There is an ongoing sales competition in the annex. “Look under ‘Pop’! All we have for 1993 is Love and rectangularity. Would there be a second author?” “She’s touchy about the use of her name.”

Deprived of splendor, I thought it might be fun to re-read two new books: Simon LeVay’s The Sexual Brain and James Q. Wilson’s The Moral Sense. The juxtaposition appeals to the manly ideal of starting a fire with no matches. Nevertheless, two reviews require two columns and this one will review Wilson, setting the stage for a fuller discussion of LeVay’s book.

Simon LeVay is the leading American neuroanatomist whose spectacular micrographs of the primate visual cortex helped put Hubel and Wiesel on the plane to Stockholm. James Q. Wilson is a social psychologist and moral/political theorist so eminent even a business school (UCLA) can afford his salary.

Wilson argues that a huge body of evidence from evolutionary theory, primatology and brain science shows that the facts about the origin and development of moral reasoning is support broadly Thoreau, Aristotle and Aristotelian conclusions about virtue.

“Every individual has a sexual differentiation of the human nervous system and has published cellular analyses of the brains of hetero- and homosexual men, finding differences in hypothalamic centers regulating sexual behavior which may underlie dispositions to develop a variety of gender roles and sexual orientations, in various human environments. Reading the two books together produces a startling conclusion. In 1993, a biologically well informed Thoreau or Aristotle has excellent reasons for severe skepticism concerning the ‘virtues’ of authoritarian male hierarchies characteristic of nomadic, pastoral cultures antedating the agricultural revolution. In such societies, Wilson argues, typical, dominant males are necessary for reproduction but useless for nurturing children. Following the neo-sociobiologist and economist Robert Frank (Cornell), he sees good evolutionary reason to think males willing to assist gravely wounded human beings in distress even while traveling among strangers in an alien land would gradually supplant kings and heroes specializing in inter- and intra-tribal competition and aggression.

The Good Samaritan, queer by the standards for male behavior in pastoral societies, would have been that most reliable companion, who would help you when there was absolutely nothing in it for him. The sort of person you could trust with the kids. This conclusion has not been emphasized in the unstintingly favorable comments accorded Wilson’s book by Irving Kristol, Michael Novak and Alasdair MacIntyre, but it is integral to his argument. Wilson, unlike those Thomists and Aristotelians unfamiliar with evolutionary theory and human behavioral genetics, places human nature squarely in the context of human genetic and epigenetic variability.

Humans beings differ in genetic predispositions to succeed in various activities, and parental, epigenetic nurture of these predispositions is itself highly variable. Genes do not determine human nature, but they seem to make a significant contribution to the construction of micro-environments not shared by siblings in the same family. It is impossible for parents to create identical environments for all their children. Sibling interaction increases.

The human conscience, or moral sense, can be reduced neither to Oedipal fears nor to schedules or reward or punishment. It is rooted in the natural and historical development of various expressions of the virtues of sympathy, self control and duty, first unifying parent and child, then kinfolk, then, gradually and in part by aspiration, to wider groups of families and finally to all humanity.

Pastoral pomposity concerning the heroic virtue of the ‘soldier’ male at the top is vapidized by this biologically and historically sophisticated resuscitation of the Aristotelian-Thomist tradition......to be concluded. Ed Minick is a professor of philosophy. He is spending his academic year at Harvard.
Navy spooks Notre Dame on Halloween

Second half explosion ends Irish nightmare

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA

The Notre Dame football played in the spirit of Halloween on Saturday, scaring its loyal fans with a not so Irish-like performance at Veterans Stadium.

After falling behind 24-17 at halftime, Notre Dame exploded in the second half for 41 points and cruised to a 58-27 win.

The first half quickened the heart rate of hoards of Irish fans as a potential No. 1 vs. No. 2 matchup against Florida State seemed in jeopardy. It was the first time the Irish had trailed at halftime since Penn State in 1991.

But at halftime Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz let his seniors do the talking, and an inspired second half performance was the result.

"Whenever we're in trouble I tell the seniors not to go out to the field until they're ready," said Holtz.

When they did come out theIrish looked more like the second-ranked team in the nation. They knew they could run against Navy and returned to that game plan in the final two periods.

Returner Clint Johnson took the opening kickoff to the Navy 37 yard line and three plays later quarterback Kevin...
Freshman fullback Marc Edwards finds a hole in second half action against Navy. Edwards finished with 97 yards on 14 carries.

Win

from page 1

McDougal hit Lake Dawson on 10 yard scoring strike.

After holding Navy, the Irish took only two plays to take the lead on the ensuing possession. Freshman Randy Kinder broke through the line and stopped 70 yards later in the endzone for a 31-yard scoring plunge.

"I didn't show up in the first half," said Dawson. "We didn't play like we could. But the seniors basically told the team that we have too much at stake to let this game get away from us." Fullback Marc Edwards raised the lead to 53-27 with his third touchdown of the game. And on the next possession, Navy quarterback Jim Kubik's pass was tipped by receiver Damon Dixon and neutered by Donnie Dixon into the arms of Bobby Taylor. The Irish safety vaulted untouched 31-yards to complete the scoring.

The win gave Notre Dame the nation's longest winning streak to 16 games, and equaled the Irish record for consecutive road wins with 13.

The Irish fell behind 10-3 after Dixon slipped behind Burriss and scored on a 31 yard pass from Kubik. But Marc Edwards' first touchdown tied the score, but the ten yard line, the ball went almost immediately to Edwards, who scored from one, three and ten yards out. He also showed his breakaway ability with a 27 yard run in the third quarter. He kept another drive alive at the beginning of the fourth quarter with three consecutive runs, one for 18 yards and two for eight yards.

Edwards and the Irish didn't move the ball quite as well in the first half as they limped to the locker room trailing 24-17. But in the second half, they had just 20 yards. "We weren't worried (at halftime), we just decided that we had to go out and play the way we're capable of playing," said Edwards. "Things really started clicking in the second half. Everything just seemed to come together." The offense exploded for 41 second half points to sink the Midshipmen. Edwards played a key role in that explosion, not just with the ball, but without it also, opening holes for his teammates:

"Marc played a great game today," Kinder said. "When he wasn't running himself he was making some great blocks for us." Edwards' success is a vindication of sorts. A controversial Mr. Football selection in Ohio a year ago, he's worked to silence his detractors.

"You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's great just to be in that situation. But when you get your first impression with the coaches. Blocking... It's not glamorous, but it's important. You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said.

Player of the Game

MARC EDWARDS

6'2" 200 lb. Fullback

- Filling in for the injured Ray Zellers, last year's Mr. Football Ohio in ran for 97 yards on 14 carries and scored three touchdowns to boost the Irish running attack in his first career start.

Navy's Brad Stramkaz put the Midshipmen ahead with a scoring plunge from a yard out. Edwards' knotted the score with his second run from nine yards out, but a 53-yard pass from Kubik. That's followed immediately to Edwards, who scored from one, three and ten yards out. He also showed his breakaway ability with a 27 yard run in the third quarter.
Notre Dame's Brian Young chats briefly with USC quarterback Rob Johnson during the second half.

FOOTBALL 1993

Notre Dame (8-0)

Rushing yards

- Burris 4 53 13.2 1
- Zellars 1 135 13.5 0
- Failla 6 25 4.2 0
- Farmer 70 run (Pendergast kick) 11:20
- Becton 1 35 35.0 0
- Kinder 5 70 (p ass failed) 6:04
- Miller 3 43 14.3 0
- Young 10 11.0 0
- Other 7 11.0 0
- Total passing yards 487

Passing totals

- Burris 9 16 10.0 0
- Zellars 1 130 13.0 0
- Failla 6 25 4.2 0
- Farmer 70 run (Pendergast kick) 11:20
- Becton 1 35 35.0 0
- Kinder 5 70 (p ass failed) 6:04
- Miller 3 43 14.3 0
- Young 10 11.0 0
- Other 7 11.0 0

Offensive plays

- Notre Dame 73
- Total yards 855

Passing totals

- Burris 9 16 10.0 0
- Zellars 1 130 13.0 0
- Failla 6 25 4.2 0
- Farmer 70 run (Pendergast kick) 11:20
- Becton 1 35 35.0 0
- Kinder 5 70 (p ass failed) 6:04
- Miller 3 43 14.3 0
- Young 10 11.0 0
- Other 7 11.0 0

Rushing totals

- Burris 4 53 13.2 1
- Zellars 1 135 13.5 0
- Failla 6 25 4.2 0
- Farmer 70 run (Pendergast kick) 11:20
- Becton 1 35 35.0 0
- Kinder 5 70 (p ass failed) 6:04
- Miller 3 43 14.3 0
- Young 10 11.0 0
- Other 7 11.0 0

Passing totals

- Burris 9 16 10.0 0
- Zellars 1 130 13.0 0
- Failla 6 25 4.2 0
- Farmer 70 run (Pendergast kick) 11:20
- Becton 1 35 35.0 0
- Kinder 5 70 (p ass failed) 6:04
- Miller 3 43 14.3 0
- Young 10 11.0 0
- Other 7 11.0 0

Total yardage

- Total 855
- Passing 487
- Rushing 368
A new decade of dominance begins

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

It's not a decade any more. Now, it is just a lot.

Notre Dame's 31-13 win over USC made it eleven straight Irish wins over the Trojans and continued to reduce the grandeur of college football's greatest intersectional rivalry.

In recent years, the game has turned into a nice contest between Notre Dame and... the opponent being either Purdue, Navy or USC. "We have to get back to being the type of team Notre Dame is. We did it before and we can do it again," said USC head coach John Robinson. "We have to measure our progress by Notre Dame. And this is a good Notre Dame team. Seldom do we see a team as efficient as they were today."

Older fans will babble about O.J. Simpson or Anthony Davis, but that was scoring on all four of its first half possessions.

Simpson or Anthony Davis, but that was scoring on all four of its first half possessions.

Freshman fullback Marc Becton was teething. All Becton knows is beating USC, or more specifically, running all over them.

The junior tailback finished with 177 yards on 20 carries, the bulk of which came on a 70-yard touchdown run on the game's second play.

Paul Failla started at quarterback in place of the injured Kevin McDougal, and in the second start of his career guided the Notre Dame offense to near perfection. He connected on six of nine passes for 79 yards.

The Irish were eight of eight on first down conversions in the opening half, scoring on all four of its first half possessions.

"I felt we had an outstanding first half offensively," said Robinson. "We have to get back to being the type of team Notre Dame is. We did it before and we can do it again," said USC head coach John Robinson. "We have to measure our progress by Notre Dame. And this is a good Notre Dame team. Seldom do we see a team as efficient as they were today."

Assistant Sports Editor

Becton's run started the string of Irish scores. Freshman fullback Marc Edward's had a 2-yard scoring run on Notre Dame's next possession, and Jeff Burris followed with a one-yard touchdown.

After USC scored on a 15-yard catch by fullback Deon Strother from quarter­back Rob Johnson, the Notre Dame pushed the score to 22-7 with a 43-yard field goal near the end of the third period, proving to be the only Notre Dame points of the half.

Johnson got the Trojan offense going in the final period, as he repeatedly hit receiver Johnnie Morton for big gains. A 22-yard grab by the Trojan wideout set up the only touchdown in the final two quarters, an eighth yard catch by tight end Johnny McWilliams.

The vaulted USC running attack was held to just 69 yards on the ground, forcing Johnson to pass. The junior quarterback finished 29-46 for 269 yards and had one interception to go with his two scoring tosses.

"They play intelligent defense. They don't give up a lot of big plays, they are strong up front," said Robinson. "They don't give you anything easy or make any errors."

Taylor and Morton each rise to the challenge

By BRYAN CONNOLLY
Assistant Sports Editor

Prior to Notre Dame's match­up with Southern California, the stage was set for the duel between Trojan receiver Johnnie Morton and Irish corner­back Bobby Taylor.

As USC quarterback Rob Johnson's favorite target, Morton had been the Trojans' most dangerous weapon throughout the season. He was averaging eight receptions for 120 yards and one touchdown per game. He had already set five records this season for either Southern Cal or the PAC-10.

Through seven games this season he had caught at least six passes in six games and received for at least 100 yards in five games.

Knowing that USC head coach John Robinson preferred a run­ning game to the passing game, Morton trained hard in the off season to improve his speed and increase his value in the Trojan offense. As noted in last week's Sports Illustrated, he trained with the USC track squad in the spring and with James Lofton and world-class sprinter Bryan Bridgewater this summer in order to improve his speed.

Taylor, who is clearly Notre Dame's top coverage man, was challenged with the duty of shutting Morton down.

The result was perhaps the fiercest one-on-one match-up that either team will witness this season.

Taylor dominated the duel through the first half. He allowed only two receptions for 11 yards in the first quarter and one reception for 16 yards in the second.

After being held without a catch in the third quarter, Morton exploded for 85 yards on three receptions in the fourth.

The match-up climaxed during USC's second drive of the fourth quarter, when Morton caught passes of 16 and 41 yards to march the Trojans to the Irish 14 yard line. The drive was ended, however, when Taylor intercepted a pass intended for Morton and returned it 47 yards to the Southern Cal 48 yard line.

"We knew we couldn't stop him totally," Taylor said. "We just tried to hold him to a mini­ mum."

The Observer/Macy Hueckel
Professor Galmilow records the ideas of society on the big screen

By LARISSA HERCZEG

The American Dream, the notion that with luck, timing, and a little ingenuity, anyone can move from the poor house to a mansion, was a film director because of world events and the recent formation of the National Solidarity movement in Poland.

Galmilow has shared many of these events with the public in the form of her documentaries. Claiming she just "stumbles across ideas," she has directed films covering topics ranging from the life of a woman conductor during the opening of Eastern Europe. Among her more renowned films is Waiting for the Moon filmed in France, which tells the story of Gertrude Stein. Another successful effort was the film Antonia.

Released in 1975, the movie was extremely popular, and played in over thirty cities, receiving an Academy Award nomination. Galmilow discovered this idea when Judy Collins telephoned asking if Galmilow would record an interview between her and her former piano teacher, Antonia Brico. Brico was the first female symphony conductor during the 1940's. The final product was a radio program that allowed Collins to record a film that demanded a class of its own. Galmilow was denied an entrance visa to Poland, and was forced to be especially creative to produce the film.

The final product was a radical form of documentary, constructed from shots taken in America, long phone calls, and a few shots of actual events in Poland. This challenge to traditional notions was not easy, Galmilow said. "I felt like I was re-inventing the wheel." The end result was a film which Galmilow contends is her favorite. "Far From Poland, was the most original. It entailed the biggest risk," she said.

Although currently in the middle of a large film, Galmilow's past years have been focused on smaller pieces and teaching position at Notre Dame. While Notre Dame does not present the hustle-bustle of New York, its nature and students more than make up for many missing elements for Galmilow. She teaches Intermediate and Advanced Film Making for the Department of Communications and Theater. COTF Chairman Jim Collins teled her this idea when Janie 7:00, 42nd Street 9:00

November 2: Antonia/Janie's 7:00, Young Mr. Lincoln 9:30

November 3: Far from Poland 7:00

November 4: Two Laws 7:00, Young Mr. Lincoln 9:30

November 5: Looker 7:00

November 6: Waiting for the Moon 7:00, Mr. Smith Goes to Washington 9:00

November 7: The Last Days of Cleopatra 7:30, 9:45

November 8: The Crying Game 7:30, 9:45

November 9: Two Laws 7:00, Young Mr. Lincoln 9:30

November 10: Rules of the Game 7:00

November 11: Rome, Open City 7:00

December 3, 4: Menace II Society 7:30, 9:45

December 6: Rome, Open City 7:00

For complete, up-to-date information on the film series, call the Film Hotline at 637-7434. Individual admission to each film is $2.
RESEARCH & NEWS

ONE WEEK: For your fraternity, CRUISE SHIPS HIRING - Earn up to $1100 per calling. 1-800-932-0528, ext. 75. #3363. Thanks!

Typing AA CRUISE & TRAVEL JOBS. Experience necessary. For more information call (919)929-2874.

WORLD FREE! (CARIBBEAN, FLORIDA, CANCUN, BAHAMAS, JAMAICA,) TRAVEL SERVICES is now hiring canvas sellers. Sell only 8 trips & you go ‘941 CANCUN, JAMAICA, FLORIDA, BAHAMAS, CANCUN. Jam aica, Florida. Considered a defensive specialization. Injuries aren’t as bad as originally thought. The Bulls also announced that the injury to Scott Williams isn’t as bad as originally thought.

The 20 center, who averaged 5.9 points and 4.4 rebounds off the bench last season, sprained his tendon while stretching Friday. The Bulls feared he might be lost for the season, but tests showed the injury was less serious than first thought. Trainer Jim Patterson said Williams should be healthy enough to play in two to four weeks.

Jim Oates got the Irish on the board with only one tick left on the clock in the half, as he capitalized on a Monarch error to narrow the lead to 1-3-1.

That was as close as Notre Dame was to get, however, as the Monarchs retook the three-goal lead just 3:44 into the second half. Iniguez again scored off a Monarch giveaway and the victory snapped the loss streak.

"We played better, but we didn’t win. We played better, but we didn’t win. We didn’t put the ball in the back of the net," Oates said. When Oates dropped back on Friday, however, as they downed Delaware 4-0, freshmen goalkeeper Patrick Foursey recorded four saves in his first full shutout of his career.

Defender Dane Whitley noted what turned out to be the winning goal at the 36:17 mark, securing the only goal of the half to give Notre Dame a 1-0 lead. The Irish added three goals in the second half to put the game out of reach for the Fighting Blue Hens. Oates gave Notre Dame a 2-0 lead just 11:02 into the second half, giving the senior a career-high five points. Junior Rick Christopher and freshman Chris Mathews were credited with assists on Oates’ goal. Oates added another goal off a Chris Dean pass at the 66:24 mark to increase the lead to 3-0. Dean finished off the offensive barrage later in the second half of the game, scoring his first goal of the season off a breakaway to give the Fighting Blue Hens a 4-0 loss.

"We didn’t play a great game against Delaware, but we didn’t play as good as we thought we would,” said midfielder Jason Fox, who is one of only four Notre Dame players to start all 18 games this season.

The Irish defeated the Fighting Blue Hens off to only seven shots on goal, handing them their fourth straight loss and sixth consecutive game without a goal.

The Observer classifies classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Lafayette and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at 900 Haggan College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2.00 per character per day, including all spaces.

Tuesday, November 2, 1993

Soccer

continued from page 16

trolled the contest, but were unable to cash in on several scoring opportunities.

The Monarchs jumped out to a 1-0 lead at the 18:20 mark in the first half when Miko Iniguez squeezed a shot past Bert Bader. The lead increased to 2-0 less than ten minutes later, when Gino Bovina blasted the ball past an Emilio Romoro pass at the 27:11 mark.

The Monarchs added another goal with 12.23 remaining in the first half. Devon Payton scored off of a Micky Aoyae assist to give Old Dominion a 3-0 advantage.

Jim Oates got the Irish on the board with only one tick left on the clock in the half, as he capitalized on a Monarch error to narrow the lead to 1-3-1.

That was as close as Notre Dame was to get, however, as the Monarchs retook the three-goal lead just 3:44 into the second half. Iniguez again scored off a Monarch giveaway and the victory snapped the loss streak.

"We played better, but we didn’t win. We played better, but we didn’t win. We didn’t put the ball in the back of the net," Oates said. When Oates dropped back on Friday, however, as they downed Delaware 4-0, freshmen goalkeeper Patrick Foursey recorded four saves in his first full shutout of his career.

Defender Dane Whitley noted what turned out to be the winning goal at the 36:17 mark, securing the only goal of the half to give Notre Dame a 1-0 lead. The Irish added three goals in the second half to put the game out of reach for the Fighting Blue Hens. Oates gave Notre Dame a 2-0 lead just 11:02 into the second half, giving the senior a career-high five points. Junior Rick Christopher and freshman Chris Mathews were credited with assists on Oates’ goal. Oates added another goal off a Chris Dean pass at the 66:24 mark to increase the lead to 3-0. Dean finished off the offensive barrage later in the second half of the game, scoring his first goal of the season off a breakaway to give the Fighting Blue Hens a 4-0 loss.

"We didn’t play a great game against Delaware, but we didn’t play as good as we thought we would,” said midfielder Jason Fox, who is one of only four Notre Dame players to start all 18 games this season.

The Irish defeated the Fighting Blue Hens off to only seven shots on goal, handing them their fourth straight loss and sixth consecutive game without a goal.

The Observer classifies classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Lafayette and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at 900 Haggan College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2.00 per character per day, including all spaces.

Tuesday, November 2, 1993

Soccer

continued from page 16

trolled the contest, but were unable to cash in on several scoring opportunities.

The Monarchs jumped out to a 1-0 lead at the 18:20 mark in the first half when Miko Iniguez squeezed a shot past Bert Bader. The lead increased to 2-0 less than ten minutes later, when Gino Bovina blasted the ball past an Emilio Romoro pass at the 27:11 mark.

The Monarchs added another goal with 12.23 remaining in the first half. Devon Payton scored off of a Micky Aoyae assist to give Old Dominion a 3-0 advantage.

Jim Oates got the Irish on the board with only one tick left on the clock in the half, as he capitalized on a Monarch error to narrow the lead to 1-3-1.

That was as close as Notre Dame was to get, however, as the Monarchs retook the three-goal lead just 3:44 into the second half. Iniguez again scored off a Monarch giveaway and the victory snapped the loss streak.

"We played better, but we didn’t win. We played better, but we didn’t win. We didn’t put the ball in the back of the net," Oates said. When Oates dropped back on Friday, however, as they downed Delaware 4-0, freshmen goalkeeper Patrick Foursey recorded four saves in his first full shutout of his career.

Defender Dane Whitley noted what turned out to be the winning goal at the 36:17 mark, securing the only goal of the half to give Notre Dame a 1-0 lead. The Irish added three goals in the second half to put the game out of reach for the Fighting Blue Hens. Oates gave Notre Dame a 2-0 lead just 11:02 into the second half, giving the senior a career-high five points. Junior Rick Christopher and freshman Chris Mathews were credited with assists on Oates’ goal. Oates added another goal off a Chris Dean pass at the 66:24 mark to increase the lead to 3-0. Dean finished off the offensive barrage later in the second half of the game, scoring his first goal of the season off a breakaway to give the Fighting Blue Hens a 4-0 loss.

"We didn’t play a great game against Delaware, but we didn’t play as good as we thought we would,” said midfielder Jason Fox, who is one of only four Notre Dame players to start all 18 games this season.

The Irish defeated the Fighting Blue Hens off to only seven shots on goal, handing them their fourth straight loss and sixth consecutive game without a goal.

The Observer classifies classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Lafayette and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at 900 Haggan College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2.00 per character per day, including all spaces.

Tuesday, November 2, 1993

Soccer

continued from page 16

trolled the contest, but were unable to cash in on several scoring opportunities.

The Monarchs jumped out to a 1-0 lead at the 18:20 mark in the first half when Miko Iniguez squeezed a shot past Bert Bader. The lead increased to 2-0 less than ten minutes later, when Gino Bovina blasted the ball past an Emilio Romoro pass at the 27:11 mark.

The Monarchs added another goal with 12.23 remaining in the first half. Devon Payton scored off of a Micky Aoyae assist to give Old Dominion a 3-0 advantage.

Jim Oates got the Irish on the board with only one tick left on the clock in the half, as he capitalized on a Monarch error to narrow the lead to 1-3-1.
Swedes advance at French Open

By SALVATORE ZANCA
Associated Press

PARIS

Henri Leconte, in yet another comeback attempt, rallied to beat fellow Frenchman Thierry Comte in the first round of the Paris Open. Leconte was two points from losing then won nine of the last 10 rounds. "I was really tense," Leconte said. "Then I got loose in the third set."

The $2.1 million tournament has a top field. Nineteen of the world's top 20 players are entered in the 48-man draw. Wimbledon and U.S. Open winner Pete Sampras and Australian Open champion Jim Courier are the top seeds. Boris Becker is third-seeded and Michael Stich fourth.

In first-round matches, three Swedes won. Jonas Svensson defeated Marc Gooler of Germany 7-6 (7-1), 6-4. Magnus Larsson beat Carlos Costa of Spain 7-6 (7-5), 4-6, 6-2, and Magnus Gustafsson topped Wayne Ferreira of South Africa 7-6 (7-1), 6-1. Three Russians also won. Andrei Olshovsky downed Frenchman Rodolphe Gilbert 7-6 (9-7), 6-7 (3-7), 6-0. Andrei Chesnokov toppped Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 7-6 (7-4), 6-3, and Andrei Cherkasov defeated Henrik Holm of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

Also, Amos Mansdorf of Israel, the 1998 champion, beat Marcos Ondruska of South Africa 4-6, 6-4, 6-1; Malivai Washington downed Brett Steven of New Zealand 7-5, 6-3, and Olivier Delaitre of France beat Richy Heimberg 6-4, 6-4.

Swedes won. Jonas Svensson defeated Marc Gooler of Germany 7-6 (7-1), 6-4. Magnus Larsson beat Carlos Costa of Spain 7-6 (7-5), 4-6, 6-2, and Magnus Gustafsson topped Wayne Ferreira of South Africa 7-6 (7-1), 6-1. Three Russians also won. Andrei Olshovsky downed Frenchman Rodolphe Gilbert 7-6 (9-7), 6-7 (3-7), 6-0. Andrei Chesnokov toppped Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 7-6 (7-4), 6-3, and Andrei Cherkasov defeated Henrik Holm of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

Swedes win. Jonas Svensson defeated Marc Gooler of Germany 7-6 (7-1), 6-4. Magnus Larsson beat Carlos Costa of Spain 7-6 (7-5), 4-6, 6-2, and Magnus Gustafsson topped Wayne Ferreira of South Africa 7-6 (7-1), 6-1. Three Russians also won. Andrei Olshovsky downed Frenchman Rodolphe Gilbert 7-6 (9-7), 6-7 (3-7), 6-0. Andrei Chesnokov toppped Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 7-6 (7-4), 6-3, and Andrei Cherkasov defeated Henrik Holm of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

Schott tearful after absence from Riverfront Stadium

By JOE KAY
 Associated Press

CINCINNATI

Marge Schott, the Cincinnati Reds' crude and crusty owner, showed her employees another side Monday on her first day back on the job. Schott was tearful.

Schott was treated like a returning hero, not a chastised owner, when she drove up to her office at Riverfront Stadium for the first time in eight months. She hadn't been allowed inside during her suspension for making racist remarks.

Employees hung banners and balloons in the hallways, played "Hall of the Chief" when Schott's car pulled up, and cheered as she walked her St. Bernard, Schottzie 02, into the team offices.

Schott wiped away tears during a singing telegram bought by the staff, compared the reception to a World Series celebration, and said: "I don't know how they did all this," she said. "This was certainly something special."

Her first step into the office ended one of the toughest times in Reds' history and put Schott back in charge. She was allowed to be consulted on major financial matters during the suspension, but she couldn't make day-to-day decisions.

She said that was the hardest part of the suspension. "I'm a hands-on owner," she said. "To be suddenly removed from it, it's very different."

Although employees treated it like a holiday, Schott was low-key. Asked whether she was bitter about the suspension, she said, "No, no. It's just something that's over and done, and get back to reality." First, there was a party that surpassed Schott's expectations.

Schott said she was nervous when she got into her car Monday morning with the dog in the back seat and turned onto an interstate that leads to the stadium. "It's a very emotional time," she said.

She appeared to be taken aback when she pulled into her old parking space -- she parked somewhere else during the suspension and saw a makeshift red carpet lined with sign-stouting staff and fans.

Joyce Pfarr, her top assistant, gave her a sweater decorated with employees' names. Schott put it on, got a hug, and got pats on the back as she walked through cheering well-wishers.

Inside, she found banners and balloons everywhere. There was a singing telegram -- a man in white tuxedo bolted out "Hello, Margie, it's so nice to have you back where you belong -- and a bone for the dog.

There was a cake, bouquets of roses and a musical toy that played, "Take Me Out To The Ballgame." Schott examined everything, tears occasionally shining in her eyes.

"Of course, if I were a man, they couldn't do this, could they?" she asked.

During her suspension, a local newspaper columnist complet ed a book about Schott that depicted her as a lightweight tyrant despised by her employees. That's not the kind of reception she got.
Associated Press

The roadtrip started on an ominous note, as the Irish barely escaped being ambushed by a determined Northern Arizona team, rallying from an 8-6 deficit in the fifth game to win 10-15, 15-12, 15-7, 13-15, 15-12.

Stark proved to be the catalyst for the Irish, as the senior from Scottsdale, AZ made the trip a homecoming success, hitting 28 kills for a 330 percent increase while adding 14 digs, and 10 blocks for her second triple-double of the season.

However, beating the Lady Dons turned out to be the highlight of the trip, as the Irish dropped their first back to back matches of the season at Arizona State and Arizona.

Against the Sun Devils, Notre Dame's nine match winning streak came to a halt, as ASU prevailed 15-10, 15-2, 9-15, 15-10.

All-American Christine Garner proved to be the difference in the contest, as the sophomore outside hitter dominated all areas, hitting for 28 kills with a .345 percentage while compiling 23 digs.

"We don't have a hitter like Christine Garner that can get a good swing off a bad set," stated Brown. "What we do have is a balanced attack and a lot of people that can do great things if they play within the system." Brown's system starts with fundamentals, and it was there that the breakdown occurred. Notre Dame had 16 service errors to only two aces, while hitting just .182. The one area that did not fail was defense, as the Irish amassed 112 digs, led by 31 from Peters. Notre Dame's swing went ended on a down note, as Arizona pounded the Irish 15-14, 15-6, 15-9. The Wildcats used a well balanced attack, including four players with double figures in kills, while also taking advantage of numerous Irish errors.

Notre Dame hit a season-low .444, with 31 errors to only 33 kills. Only Stark reached double figures for the Irish with 10 kills, while Birkner keyed the defense with 13 digs.

Luckily for the Irish, returning to the Midwest against conference opponents proved to be the cure in abbreviating the losing streak. Tonight, the Irish look to improve on their MCC record by hosting Loyola at 7:30 in the J.A.C.C.

Volleyball continued from page 16

Bengals to decide on Sunday's quarterback

Annasciad Pinn

The Cincinnati Bengals have a week off to think and mend, so coach Dave Shula won't say until next week whether injured starter David Klingler or backup Jay Schroeder will start Nov. 7 against Pittsburgh.

The Bengals (0-7) have a bye Sunday at Houston. He revived during the off-season, started free agent with the Bengals quarterback who signed as a Washington and Los Angeles Raiders loss to the Browns.

"Klingler, right now, isn't healthy enough to play," Shula said. "If we had a game this week, I don't know if he would be able to play. If he did some good things in the ballgame."

Schroeder completed 17 of 31 passes, including one touchdown that could have erased the Oilers' 14-12 lead at that point. Schroeder also threw wide-open receiver Wesley Carroll in the opening drive of the second half on what could have been a 55-yard scoring pass with the Bengals then leading, 9-7.

The Bengals blew a 12-7 lead and the Oilers ran off 21 consecutive points for a 28-12 victory.

The Bengals plan practices on Wednesday and Thursday. Shula said the team will concentrate mostly on practicing fundamental plays.

If Klingler is not practicing by next Wednesday, Schroeder would probably start against Pittsburgh.
Perles not counting Spartans out of the Big Ten race

By JUDY DAUBENMIR
Associated Press

EAST LANSING, Mich.

Three strikes and you're out, not two, is how Michigan State coach George Perles figures this year's Big Ten race.

Perles on Monday said it was a "loose question" to suggest that the Spartans' two Big Ten losses mean the team has to set its sights on a bowl other than the Rose Bowl.

"I can't answer your question because it's a poor question because it isn't a fact, what you stated," he said when asked about Michigan State possibly missing a trip to Pasadena because of Saturday's 10-0 loss to Indiana.

Perles traditionally refuses to speculate about the conference race, saying he doesn't "play what-ifs." And he refused to say what he has told the team about their chances for post-season play.

"I just continue to work at our game and see what happens," he said.

But he conceded Michigan State (4-3 overall, 2-2 in the Big Ten) can't afford many more losses.

"We understand that we used up another strike," he said. Defensive end Juan Hammonds said the Indiana game was a missed opportunity.

"We feel like we let one get away from us. We feel like that is one we should have won," he said.

Indiana's defense lived up to its billing as tops in the Big Ten, Perles said. The Hoosiers limited Michigan State to 81 yards on the ground and 161 yards of total offense while shutting out the Spartans.

Perles said the play of the game was the 24-yard run by Indiana punter Jim Dicicillo after a high snap. That kept alive a drive that resulted in the game's only touchdown — a 17-yard run by tailback Jermaine Chaney in the second quarter.

Michigan State will be looking for its fifth straight home win when it hosts Northwestern Saturday. Perles said he also will be looking for some cooperation from the fans in staying off the field.

Spartan fans rushed the field near the end of the Iowa game, resulting in a penalty. Perles said fans were lucky that didn't result in the same kind of disaster as at Wisconsin Saturday when at least 69 people were injured as fans poured out of the stands and trampled those in front of them.

"It gets pretty rough out there. If somebody would lose their footing, it could be a nasty situation," he said.

Statistically speaking, Michigan State closes out the rest of the season with an easier schedule than the other Big Ten teams with two or fewer conference losses: Michigan State closes with four teams that have a combined record of just .315.

Mississippi has the toughest road, playing teams with a combined 16-5 in conference and a 1-3 conference mark. That amounts to a .786 conference winning percentage.

Ailing Michigan falls out of Top 25

ANN ARBOR, Mich.

When the 1993 football season started, Michigan has a lot to play for.

The Wolverines were seeking a second consecutive Big Ten championship, a record third straight trip to the Rose Bowl and a shutout at a national championship.

Now after eight games, Michigan (4-4, 2-1 Big Ten) would be satisfied with any bowl bid.

"We're playing for ourselves right now, not in a selfish manner but for Michigan football," coach Gary Moeller said Monday at his weekly news conference. "This is an important time to decide who we are and what we are going to do.

If the Wolverines are to play in a postseason bowl game, they must win two of their remaining three games. Moeller said he is unsure Michigan deserves such recognition.

"We have to earn the right to go to a bowl game," Moeller said two days after Michigan's 13-10 loss to Wisconsin. "No one gives that to you. There's no law that says you have to go to a bowl game," Moeller said. "That amounts to a .786 conference winning percentage of just .315.

"TUSCALOOSA, Ala.

Alabama coach Gene Stallings said Monday he doesn't expect that injured quarterback Jay Barker will be able to play against Mississippi.

Barker suffered a sprained left (non-throwing) shoulder in the Oct. 23 victory over Mississippi and sat out last week's 40-0 rout of Southern Mississippi.

"My gut feeling says no," Stallings replied when asked at his weekly news conference whether Barker could play Saturday when No. 5 Alabama hosts No. 4 LSU. "But there again, I'm not a trainer."

Stallings said Barker was continuing to recover quicker than expected and would even report to football practice on Monday to do some throwing.

"We're not going to put the pads on him Monday.

The thing that concerns us and talking to the trainer this morning is that he doesn't think (Barker) can take a good lick on that shoulder right now."

If Barker can't play, sophomore Brian Burgdorf will get another start.

Two other injured players, offensive linemen Jon Stevenson and safety Chris Donnelly, will return to practice this week, Stallings said, adding that the Tide came out of the Southern Miss game without any serious injuries.

The Crimson Tide (7-0-1 overall, 4-0-1 in the Southeastern Conference) already has clinched the Western Division title with three games remaining. Alabama will meet the Eastern Division winner, either Tennessee or Florida, in the league championship game Dec. 4 at Birmingham. The decision, the jobs, the challenges, the rewards.

Wednesday, November 3rd
4:00 -- 5:30 p.m.

The Center For Social Concerns

Mary Ann Roemer, The Center For Social Concerns

Judy Goebel, Career and Placement Services
By CHERYL GILLILAND
Sports Writer

Schroeder-Biek mentioned that she is concerned about being reseeded up and ready to go after playing four games and travelling so much over fall break.

"We were a little down in the middle of the season, but we've come together in the end, especially after winning over Ohio State last week," said Lawrence.

Senior Erica Freitag agreed, saying that the travelling throughout the season really made the team closer.

Last year, the Belles, who are currently 19-9, defeated Goshen College in tight games.

Schroeder-Biek noted that Goshen is a very scrappy team that can chase the ball. "They are definitely a team that we can't sit back on," she commented.

Freitag also added that Goshen can pick up a lot of things and that the Belles need to play hard and not give up.

"I'm upset that this is my last home game and my last year, but I'm looking forward to playing," said Freitag. "I think that we've had a really good chance of winning."

The Belles were victorious in their matchup Saturday.

Saint Mary's volleyball seeks to block Goshen College tonight at 7 p.m.

"We have five seniors, and I know that they want to go out as winners," commented Lawrence. "We all want to end remembering that we did win this season."

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS
Coach John Cooper says he knew his third-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes are better than No.15 Wisconsin going into their matchup Saturday.

It's just a question of proving it.

Asked at his weekly news conference if he felt his team was better than the Badgers, Cooper said: "I think we are, sure. But that means you've still got to play. We can't let somebody be more mentally prepared than we are. We've got to be focused and we've got to be emotional. And I think we will be.

A year ago, a Wisconsin team that finished 5-6 shocked Ohio State 20-16. That setback followed on the heels of the Buckeyes' 35-12 thumping of No.8 Syracuse. Fans called for Cooper to be fired.

When the Buckeyes lost again a week later, 18-16 to Illinois, the criticism reached a fever pitch.

But Cooper and Ohio State have gone 13-1-1 since.

This time around, Wisconsin is 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the Big Ten. Tied for second with Illinois and Indiana. An Ohio State victory would eliminate one more pursuer, just as Saturday's 24-6 victory over then-No.12 Penn State knocked the Nittany Lions out of the Rose Bowl picture.

"I thought we were better than them, I told you that last week," Cooper told a reporter. "I thought we had a better football team than Penn State. Now that doesn't mean you're going to go out and win the game."

Ohio State is 8-0 on the year and 5-0 in the Big Ten. Cooper said Ohio State's ability to concentrate on the opponent at hand has been the difference this season.

"We got to worry this week about Wisconsin only, don't worry about nothing else," he said.

"We haven't been 8-0 in a long time," said offensive lineman Jason Winrow. "Words can't express what that means. It'll be even sweeter next week when we're 9-0."

After Wisconsin, the Buckeyes play Indiana and then Michigan in the conference finale.

The Buckeyes beat Michigan 13-10 at home Saturday. After the game, 12,000 spectators erupted the field and fences at the foot of the stands gave way.

Seventy-five people were injured in the crush, 11 people were hospitalized.

Cooper said he didn't think the Wisconsin players, who helped remove some of the injured students, would be traumatized by what happened. Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said Monday that some players had met with counselors on Sunday.

"On other hand, you can turn that right around and say they're going to dedicate this game to those people," he said.

Thousands of Ohio State fans also streamed onto the field after the victory over Penn State. Fans tried to tear down the goalposts, but state troopers subdued them with a chemical spray.

Cooper said the excitement of Ohio State fans pleased him.

"I'm glad we're good enough to get 'em excited," he said.

The Associated Press

The Observer • Sports Tuesday, November 2, 1993

COLUMBUS

Cooper said he didn't think the Ohio State fans pleased him.

"Typically, we confiscate and do not return tickets which are used by non-students," Scholl said. "But in light of how big a game this is we decided to return them to the students." Scholl also said that illegal use of tickets has not been a problem this year, but the increased number of illegally transferred tickets at the USC game proves there is a problem.

University of Notre Dame Department of Music

Concert

Schola Musicorum
Alexander Muckly, Calvin Bower, David Adams, Lewis Coleman with organist Gail Walton

GREGORIAN CHANT
Organ works by Giovanni Froschbaldi (1535-1604)

Tuesday, November 2, 1993
10:00 p.m.
Basilica of the Sacred Heart
Admission free; open to the public

Tired of getting homework?
Then give some!

N.D. and S.M.C. Seniors:
Be teachers in the Southeastern United States!

Informational Meeting:

• Thursday, November 4 at 6:30 pm
• Meet in the Notre Dame Room
  (on the Second floor of LaFortune)

If you are unable to attend or have any questions, please contact either Fr. Tim Scully, CSC (1-7052) or Sean McGraw (257-9524).
Crossword

ACROSS
1. Accomplished pianist
2. City NW of Chicago
6. Symbol of courage
9. Gave a lot of lip
12. Under way
14. Human rubbish
16. Disadvantages
17. Popular
20. Ground meat treat
21. Smoothly mobile
22. Martin come on
23. Wrongdoings
24. — by land
25. Soothing word
26. Radio
27. Boats
28. Resound
29. Old timers
30. Gaelic
31. Capital near the Skaggerak
32. Mrs. Warren's creator
34. Foremost
36. Stravinsky
40. Working colorists
41. Tentative, e.g.
42. Previous prefix
43. Attorneys, collectively
44. Sarcastic, e.g.
46. Food for stage
52. Very urgent
53. Oafish one
54. Precious
56. Biting
58. A pound has
62. Eosin user
64. Prev. prefix
66. Fabric fuzz
70. Esteez highly
72. Lough of N. Ireland
74. Not more than never
75. Feast at which match is served

DOWN
1. IV, glante center
2. City NW of Chicago
4. Symbol of courage
5. Gave a lot of lip
8. Under way
9. Human rubbish
10. Disadvantages
11. Popular
12. Ground meat treat
13. A lot of lip
14. Under way
15. Over the fence
20. Smoothly mobile
21. Martin come on
22. Wrongdoings
23. — by land
24. Soothing word
25. Radio
26. Boats
27. Boats
28. Resound
29. Old timers
30. Gaelic
31. Capital near the Skaggerak
32. Mrs. Warren's creator
34. Foremost
36. Stravinsky
40. Working colorists
41. Tentative, e.g.
42. Previous prefix
43. Attorneys, collectively
44. Sarcastic, e.g.
46. Food for stage
52. Very urgent
53. Oafish one
54. Precious
56. Biting
58. A pound has
62. Eosin user
64. Prev. prefix
66. Fabric fuzz
70. Esteez highly
72. Lough of N. Ireland
74. Not more than never
75. Feast at which match is served

Four Food Groups of the Apocalypse

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Food Group</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Meat</td>
<td>Animal products</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dairy</td>
<td>Milk products</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fruits</td>
<td>Plant products</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vegetables</td>
<td>Plant products</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Coffee Break

Italian Poet

Colorful First Shepherd

First Shepherd

SPELUNKER JAY HOSLER

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

STUDENTS!

Don't pass up an opportunity to embarrass your friends for only $20!
Buy a Birthday Ad for your Buddy.
Call The Observer Advertising Office for Details 631-6900

THE Observer • TODAY

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

OF INTEREST

THE Observer • TODAY

JAY HOSLER

THE Observer • TODAY

GARY LARSON

STUDENTS!

Don't pass up an opportunity to embarrass your friends for only $20!
Buy a Birthday Ad for your Buddy.
Call The Observer Advertising Office for Details 631-6900

THE Observer • TODAY

JAY HOSLER

THE Observer • TODAY

GARY LARSON

OF INTEREST

THE Observer • TODAY

JAY HOSLER

THE Observer • TODAY

GARY LARSON

OF INTEREST

THE Observer • TODAY

JAY HOSLER

THE Observer • TODAY

GARY LARSON

OF INTEREST

THE Observer • TODAY

JAY HOSLER

THE Observer • TODAY

GARY LARSON

OF INTEREST
Irish beat Butler for record against Butler and Evansville

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Assistant Sports Editor

Coming off two disappointing losses to No. 17 Arizona State and No. 18 Arizona, the Notre Dame volleyball team rebounded quickly against conference opponents Butler and Evansville, jumping out to a 2-0 conference record and taking the inside track to a third consecutive MCC crown.

In improving its record to 19-5, the Irish were able to dominate a Butler team that had been viewed as its toughest test in the conference, overwhelming the Bulldogs 17-15, 15-13, 9-10, 15-1, 15-1.

"That was the best job we've done all year of getting up on a team and not giving them a chance to get back in the game," explained Irish head coach Debbie Brown, who ran her career record against MCC foes to 19-0. "We put a lot of pressure on them with our serving, and they were stuck in a rotation they didn't want to be in."

Notre Dame hit a solid .278 for the match, getting especially good production out of the junior middle blocker Keely Stark, who had a team high 17 kills, and junior outside hitter Nicole Coates, who added 14 kills and three service aces.

However, as has been the case whenever the Irish have been successful this season, defense keyed the victory, led by junior outside hitter Christy Peters, who continued to show why her multi-dimensional play makes her an all-around candidate, notching 27 digs to join her two blocks, two aces, and 12 kills.

"I was very pleased that the team responded as well from the disappointing losses in Arizona," stated Brown. "They had their best practice of the year the Thursday before Butler."

This work ethic carried through to Sunday's match against out-gunned Evansville, as the Irish coasted to an easy 15-5, 15-8, 15-1 victory in just 50 minutes.

Notre Dame was able to utilize many different combinations in getting experience for the entire squad, as eleven different hitters notched a kill for the Irish, led by 12 from Peters, eight from Stark, and seven from increasingly improved freshman outside hitter Kristina Ervin, who also registered seven digs.

"I think it was a very good team effort all the way around," commented assistant coach Steve Schick. "Everyone on the floor worked very hard all the way through the match, and I was pleased to see that type of effort from all the starters.

Notre Dame was never seriously threatened in the match, allowing the Aces to hit the score only once. The Irish also enjoyed a 7-1 advantage in goalie chart, as well as leading the Irish and all other MCC teams.

The Irish success against the MCC came at a necessary time, as the team came up short in the first round of this weekend's seven team tournament. Their first match will be Friday after noon versus either Butler or Detroit-Mercy.