Peace Corps part of global advancement

By MEREDITH MCCULLOUGH
News Editor

As technological innovations in information and communication bring world economies and governments closer together, new world challenges are coming to call for new world solutions, according to National Peace Corps Director Carol Bellamy.

The Peace Corps can be part of that solution, Bellamy explained to the Notre Dame community Friday.

In this new international world order, national economic lines have become skewed and thinking globally is more important than ever, said Bellamy.

The Peace Corps' response to the challenge of global focus has been two-fold — on the one hand providing its volunteers with the skills necessary to survive in this new, multicultural atmosphere and on the other by refrocusing its own goal to better meet the changing needs of countries requesting aid.

Currently, the Peace Corps has close to 6,500 volunteers in nearly 90 countries, said Bellamy. Collectively, volunteers speak 200 languages.

In the fall of this year, the Corps provides its volunteers with extensive language training, but the truly valuable education comes from the volunteers’ "real work experience."

Although Peace Corps still sendsits volunteers to traditional third world targets like Africa, Asia and Latin America, it has also extended its focus towardseastern European nations including Poland, Russia and the Ukraine.

The Peace Corps is still concerned with traditional areas of development including agriculture, health and education.

Bellamy continues to bring the world home

By MEREDITH MCCULLOUGH
News Editor

Almost thirty years after returning from assignment in Guatemala, Carol Bellamy is once again faced with the toughest job she’ll ever love — but this time she’s in charge.

July 2, 1993, President Clinton named Bellamy the national director of the United States Peace Corps. Confirmed by the Senate three months later, she became the first return volunteer to head the Agency.

As the first former volunteer, Bellamy brings with her the unique perspective of seeing Peace Corps success and failure while in the field, she explained following a lecture Friday afternoon.

"You are a Peace Corps volunteer and you have the chance to make a difference wherever you are," Bellamy said. "As you ponder your Peace Corps experience, think about the difference you can make in the world."
Making dreams into reality

At night we lay our head on our pillow, shut our eyes and let the world of imagination and possibility take over.

Then the next morning we wake up to the stone-cold reality that our night of fantasy and dreams was simply an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

When we are young we all have dreams. We spend a lazy-wishing for the future and for what it holds for us.

"I want to be a dreamer."

"I want to be a president."

This postulating soon becomes more than a simple dream. As we get older our actions soon mean more and more in the whole scheme of things of our lives. And then our dreams gradually turn to those of practicality rather than those of possibility.

Once college comes around, reality comes knocking loud and clear in your ears and your heart. The idealism of previous years comes to butt heads with the reality of making it in this world, and just what that may entail.

The choice comes a time when you must choose between what they want to do in their heart and what their mind tells them is the practical thing to do.

The truly lucky person is the one whose road to supposed financial security is the same as his road to personal fulfillment. The person who made for us. Every person could use a little happiness. Who is this babbling idiot in our midst who doesn't even take the first step, so many give up and learn to live with each other," said Abner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

School to be named for Bart's school

Springfield Elementary seemed like a nice name for a new school. But wait a minute. Isn't that the name of Bart and Lisa's school on "The Simpsons?" Don't have a cow, man! Given 10 choices, students who will attend the new school overwhelmingly last month named the Simpsons' "School officials said they didn't realize the connection with the television show. "Quite frankly, none of us look at 'The Simpsons' School" including me," said(Forman Miller, spokesman for Greenwood County School District 50. But then parents caught on, and they say Bart is a bad role model. "Straight, but not Narrow."

"We need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

SUPER BOWL XXVIII

GEORGIA DOME

FOUNT LAUDERDALE, Fla.

Former Vice President Dan Quayle speaking of family values to about 3,000 religious conservatives, while 1,000 protesters outside called for tolerance and an end to bigotry.

Addressing delegates to a three-day "Reclaim America for Christ" conference, Quayle criticized rap music "that degrades women and advocates killing caps" and repeated his complaint that television's "Murphy Brown" glorifies single mothers.

I have the utmost respect for single mothers; my grandmother was a single mother. But when everything is said, it is in the best interest of the children to have both a mother and a father in the home," he said.

The demonstrators outside carried signs suggesting family values were being invoked at the expense of gay rights. Signs included "I Hate is Not a Family Value" and "Yes, it's true!"

"We need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

School to be named for Bart's school

GREENWOOD, S.C.

For most, dreams and reality come into a collision. Where a college grad who once worked for a "How to make it in the world" magazine served as an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

"I don't need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

school to be named for Bart's school

Springfield Elementary seemed like a nice name for a new school. But wait a minute. Isn't that the name of Bart and Lisa's school on "The Simpsons?" Don't have a cow, man! Given 10 choices, students who will attend the new school overwhelmingly last month named the Simpsons' "School officials said they didn't realize the connection with the television show. "Quite frankly, none of us look at 'The Simpsons' School" including me," said (Forman Miller, spokesman for Greenwood County School District 50. But then parents caught on, and they say Bart is a bad role model. "Straight, but not Narrow."

"We need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

School to be named for Bart's school

GREENWOOD, S.C.

For most, dreams and reality come into a collision. Where a college grad who once worked for a "How to make it in the world" magazine served as an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

"I don't need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

Ex-VP addresses Christian group

Ex-VP addresses Christian group

For most, dreams and reality come into a collision. Where a college grad who once worked for a "How to make it in the world" magazine served as an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

"I don't need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

School to be named for Bart's school

GREENWOOD, S.C.

For most, dreams and reality come into a collision. Where a college grad who once worked for a "How to make it in the world" magazine served as an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

"I don't need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

School to be named for Bart's school

GREENWOOD, S.C.

For most, dreams and reality come into a collision. Where a college grad who once worked for a "How to make it in the world" magazine served as an arena of empty images with no tangibility, no attempt at materializing into something more than just a vision of happiness.

"I don't need to reconcile the differences we can reconcile and learn to live with each other," said Ahner Mason, national president of the Log Cabin Club, a gay Republican group.

TV's 'Kojak' dies of prostate cancer

UNIVERSAL CITY

Telly Savalas, who made his mark playing movie hoodlum and a tough detective on "Kojak," was making his way to a Sunday as a charming man as smooth as his signature bald head. Savalas, surrounded by his family, died of prostate cancer Saturday at the Sheraton-Universal Hotel, said Mike Mammakos, his spokesman and longtime friend. "He was a true gentleman. He was very professional, always," said actress Shelley Winters, who appeared with Savalas in the 1961 film "The Young Savages" and the 1968 film "Buona Sera Mrs. Campbell." Savalas shaved head, lollipops and "Who loves ya, baby?" -- which grew into a national catch phrase -- made Lt. Theo Kojak one of the most memorable characters on television. Savalas remained grateful for the recognition. "I made 60 movies before 'Kojak' with some of the biggest names in the business, and people would still say, 'There goes what's-his-name,'" he once said.

TV's 'Kojak' dies of prostate cancer

UNIVERSAL CITY

Telly Savalas, who made his mark playing movie hoodlum and a tough detective on "Kojak," was making his way to a Sunday as a charming man as smooth as his signature bald head. Savalas, surrounded by his family, died of prostate cancer Saturday at the Sheraton-Universal Hotel, said Mike Mammakos, his spokesman and longtime friend. "He was a true gentleman. He was very professional, always," said actress Shelley Winters, who appeared with Savalas in the 1961 film "The Young Savages" and the 1968 film "Buona Sera Mrs. Campbell." Savalas shaved head, lollipops and "Who loves ya, baby?" -- which grew into a national catch phrase -- made Lt. Theo Kojak one of the most memorable characters on television. Savalas remained grateful for the recognition. "I made 60 movies before 'Kojak' with some of the biggest names in the business, and people would still say, 'There goes what's-his-name,'" he once said.

TV's 'Kojak' dies of prostate cancer

UNIVERSAL CITY

Telly Savalas, who made his mark playing movie hoodlum and a tough detective on "Kojak," was making his way to a Sunday as a charming man as smooth as his signature bald head. Savalas, surrounded by his family, died of prostate cancer Saturday at the Sheraton-Universal Hotel, said Mike Mammakos, his spokesman and longtime friend. "He was a true gentleman. He was very professional, always," said actress Shelley Winters, who appeared with Savalas in the 1961 film "The Young Savages" and the 1968 film "Buona Sera Mrs. Campbell." Savalas shaved head, lollipops and "Who loves ya, baby?" -- which grew into a national catch phrase -- made Lt. Theo Kojak one of the most memorable characters on television. Savalas remained grateful for the recognition. "I made 60 movies before 'Kojak' with some of the biggest names in the business, and people would still say, 'There goes what's-his-name,'" he once said.

TV's 'Kojak' dies of prostate cancer

UNIVERSAL CITY

Telly Savalas, who made his mark playing movie hoodlum and a tough detective on "Kojak," was making his way to a Sunday as a charming man as smooth as his signature bald head. Savalas, surrounded by his family, died of prostate cancer Saturday at the Sheraton-Universal Hotel, said Mike Mammakos, his spokesman and longtime friend. "He was a true gentleman. He was very professional, always," said actress Shelley Winters, who appeared with Savalas in the 1961 film "The Young Savages" and the 1968 film "Buona Sera Mrs. Campbell." Savalas shaved head, lollipops and "Who loves ya, baby?" -- which grew into a national catch phrase -- made Lt. Theo Kojak one of the most memorable characters on television. Savalas remained grateful for the recognition. "I made 60 movies before 'Kojak' with some of the biggest names in the business, and people would still say, 'There goes what's-his-name,'" he once said.

TV's 'Kojak' dies of prostate cancer
Knights gives $5000 to Centers

By TOM MORAN
New Writer

To mark the anniversary of the Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion, the Notre Dame council of the Knights of Columbus donated $5,000 to local Women's and Mother's Care Centers.

The donation was presented to a representative of the Women's and Mother's Care Centers on Jan. 21, the day before the twenty-first anniversary of Roe v. Wade.

"On the eve of a day that has traditionally been the occasion of political demonstrations by both sides of the abortion debate, our Council wanted to do something to help those women that are so often forgotten in our community," said Knights of Columbus Grand Knight Timothy Chasteen.

The Knights raised the money through the Steak Sales held on campus before home football games.

Although the Knights donate all their Steak Sale money to charities every year, this is only the third year that they have given money to the Women's and Mother's Care Centers, and the first time they have done so to mark the anniversary of Roe v. Wade.

Deputy Grand Knight Douglas Maurer says the Knights plan to make this donation an annual event.

"I think it's a very effective way of responding to that decision," he said, "because this is really going to help some young women directly."

The Women's Care Center was founded in 1984 with the mission to "lovingly reach out to pregnant young women and give them the help they need so that they can choose life for their babies."

The Mother's Care Center provides pregnant teens and teen mothers with housing, meals, prenatal and postnatal care, childbirth preparation, parenting classes, and career counseling. Both centers serve the South Bend/Mishawaka area.

Maurer said that the Centers were "ecstatic" over the donation.

He noted that the Centers usually only receive a few hundred dollars in donations from several sources, and that last year the Knights donated approximately $600 to the Centers.

Maurer said the Centers plan to use the money in several ways, including improvements on the housing for pregnant teens that have been evicted by their parents, and additional psychiatric help for tenants.

Nothing but net
A Notre Dame student does his Michael Jordan imitation during the slam dunk finals of the Late Night Olympics on Friday night.

NOTRE DAME APARTMENTS
"Newly Remodeled Apartments at Very Affordable Rates"

- Spacious 2-Bedroom Apartments
- New Appliances, Cabinets, and Carpets
- Entry Security
- Laundry Facility Available
- 4 Blocks From Notre Dame Campus
- Professional Management Team
- Skilled Maintenance Crew
- Private Off-Street Parking for Tenants
- Several Units Available for Immediate Occupancy

Now Taking Applications For '94-'95 School Year
For More Information Call 232-8256

VOTE IN THE
SMC STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT
AND VICE PRESIDENT OF ACADEMIC AFFAIRS ELECTION

January 25 at the Dining Hall
7:00 a.m. - 9:00 a.m.
11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.
5:00 p.m. - 6:45 p.m.

Off Campus students vote in the Off Campus lounge
1:30 p.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Juniors!

JPW Seating Reservations
(For the Dinner and Brunch)

Jan. 24, 25, 26
4-9pm Rm. 112 CCE

You must be registered (with payment) to reserve seating!

Check mail for information letter.

Questions? Call JPW Office 631-6028

Don't FREAK OUT
Jess!

You're only turning 20!
Love,
Michelle, Mandy, Dawn, Demian, Mike and Vince
Peace Corps support essential to Hesburgh

By KATIE MURPHY

Since its establishment over thirty years ago, the Peace Corps has counted University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh as one of its most ardent supporters.

In addition to overseeing the Notre Dame campus for the first five University Peace Corps summer training sessions, Hesburgh also supplied their initial service project in Chile. He was personally acquainted with Sargent Shriver and Harris Wofford, the authors of the executive order signed by then-President John Kennedy establishing the Peace Corps.

"I was working with (those) two fellows in Washington. I met them outside the White House as they went in (the day of the signing)," said Hesburgh.

Shriver and Wofford called Hesburgh that night because they needed project suggestions.

"I said I would give (them) one in Bangladesh, Uganda, or Chile. They chose Chile," said Hesburgh.

Six Notre Dame students participated in that first training session. Since then, more Notre Dame students have volunteered for the Peace Corps than any other university in the nation, according to Hesburgh.

Over the years, Hesburgh stopped in at various Peace Corps duty stations as he traveled the world. "I keep in touch," said Hesburgh.

Several years ago, Notre Dame hosted a 30-year reunion for Peace Corps volunteers. Loret Miller Ruppe, a University Trustee and former Ambassador to Norway, was also once director of the Peace Corps.

Volunteers currently number around 6500 and are present in over 85 countries on four continents. Hesburgh sees a bright future for the Peace Corps.

"It's probably going to get bigger. I hope that Notre Dame people continue to go in the Peace Corps, because it is a great experience," said Hesburgh.

Bellamy continued from page 1

unite for at least two years," Bellamy said. "But you are a return volunteer for the rest of your life."

Although Bellamy is now head of the organization, she is able to relate to the volunteers’ work, and its global impact.

To volunteer for the Peace Corps, "Is it to ignore problems at home," she said. "Once you have really made a commitment to do some sort of service, you will continue to do it. And I think you will be able to do it even more effectively domestically with the international experience."

There are currently 300 Peace Corps fellows in the United States, said Bellamy, working in everything from the Boston Housing Authority to the Los Angeles city school system in an effort to "continue to bring the world home."

According to University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh, it is not surprising that Bellamy has found her way back to the Peace Corps. After all, at a Peace Corps 30 year reunion, he noticed that nearly all of the return volunteers were still active in some sort of service.

"They got the bug in the Peace Corps," he said, "and they’ll never lose it."

Peace Corps

continued from page 1

vival in others. Notre Dame students have traditionally been active Peace Corps participants — and that has not changed over the years.

While the Peace Corps is no longer aimed primarily at youths who have just graduated from college, Bellamy encouraged students to continue to think about the Peace Corps — not just as a means of service, but as a response to a growing multicultural world.

ND STUDENTS VOICE CONCERNS

Do you have questions about parietals? Concerns about campus housing? Suggestions for improvements? Student Government is sponsoring a network through which members of the ND community can voice their concerns to the administration.

The activity will take place on Wednesday, January 26 and Thursday, January 27 from 11 am to 4 p.m. Student government members will be available at tables in front of the elevator on the first floor of LaFortune to listen to your questions, complaints, or suggestions.

All ideas will be forwarded to the appropriate administrative department. The administration has agreed to carefully examine the input, and, in some cases, send personal replies.

Students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to participate. If you have a concern, take advantage of this opportunity to make your voice heard!

JOBS AVAILABLE

If you are looking for a job, try the ND Job Network. The service is free, and provides information on summer jobs, internships, and even permanent positions. The Job Network can be accessed from any campus computer cluster, and it links alumni seeking employees and students looking for work.

Take advantage of Notre Dame’s alumni support, and use the Network when you search for employment.

BOOK FAIR MONEY STILL LEFT OVER

Anyone who sold books in the Book Fair must pick up their money by February 9 in the Student Government Office on the second floor of LaFortune from 8-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. weekdays.

After February 9, the money will become property of Student Government.

Calendar

Tuesday, January 25: "Nonviolent Social Movements and Transition to Democracy in Eastern Central Europe", Lecture by Bronislaw Misztal, 4:15 p.m., Hesburgh Center Auditorium.

Wednesday, Jan. 26 and Thursday, Jan. 27: Voice your questions, complaints, and suggestions to the administration via Student Government. 11 am to 4 p.m. First floor LaFortune in front of the elevators.

Wednesday, Feb. 2: Campus Conversations. Dean Keane, College of Business, talks about ethics and career opportunities. 6-7 p.m. Keenan Hall.
Whitewater: Tax records show Clintons' possible role

Associated Press

By BILL SIMMONS

Real estate venture appears to have put into the Whitewater company and were subsequently able to deduct from their personal income taxes.

According to tax records and interviews with Clinton advisors, the Clintons dedicated at least $41,000 in tax returns from 1978 to 1988 for interest on loans for Whitewater Development Co. Inc.

The Clintons' prime financial role at Whitewater may have secured a lot from the Whitewater development. She put the money in the company so that it could be sold and the $30,000 loan Mrs. Clinton had obtained in 1980.

One result of getting loans as individuals and putting them in the company was that payments on the loan sometimes went in the name of Whitewater, sometimes by the Clintons, sometimes in a case with the Paragould loan.

Clinton aiming at crime in State of Union speech

Associated Press

By RON DOURNIER

WASHINGTON President Clinton plans to expand his anti-crime package with the State of the Union address, supporting a "three-time loser" proposal to put the most violent felons in jail for life, administration officials said Sunday.

With polls showing crime as voters' No. 1 concern, White House speech writers are making sure Clinton's tough-on­thugs plans don't get lost in Tuesday's sweeping speech to Congress.

"Crime started out as a small component of the State of the Union address, but it's going to be a significant portion of the speech," said a White House aide helping to draft the speech.

In general, the State of the Union address is expected to review Clinton's first year in office, set goals for 1994 and repeat his key messages on a number of issues, including health care, welfare, crime, economic reform, education, and foreign policy. He will not unveil many new details of proposals in the speech, which aides said had not been completed Sunday.

"The president wants to talk to the American people about what he has accomplished, to tell them how he is doing the objectives he laid out — not only in the campaign but in the first year of his presidency," said Deputy Secretary Dee Dee Myers said.

"He will come across as a new Democrat," has slowly chipped away at the image of a man with no presidential reputation as tougher on crime. The Clinton administration proposal that includes 100,000 new police on city streets, boot camps for young non-violent offenders and a ban on some automatic weapons.

Expanding his gun control stance, the president plans to ask the Justice Department to study whether gun owners should undergo the same type of licensing requirements as drivers.

Attorney General Janet Reno said in an interview with NBC's "Meet the Press," that the administration wants to "crack down on repeat offenders. "We've got to identify the truly bad and put them away," she said.

Crime major focus of state lawmakers

Associated Press

By ARLENE LEVINSON

Stop the bloody violence, and you can start by locking up criminal kids and throwing their guns away. That's the public outcry state lawmakers and governors are hearing as they draft laws this busy election year.

Associated Press statehouse bureaus found these and more in a mountain of bills and proposals offered in the 44 legislatures meeting this year.

In sheer volume, anti-crime bills dwarf measures to draft budgets, improve education, fix welfare, get cracking on health care reform, and deal with persistent issues like abortion, drunken driving and gambling.

"As compared to education or the environment," Iowa state Sen. Jack Riley explained, "this is the hot button that gets us all re-elected."

Overall, reported crime is down. The FBI in October announced a 2.9 percent drop to 141 million reported crimes in 1992, the first decline since 1984.

But violent crime is up. And the violent are more often young.

While arrests of adults for murder and some lesser forms of homicide rose 11 percent from 1982 to 1991, arrests of juveniles for these crimes rose 93 percent, the Children's Defense Fund reported last week.

The numbers electrify lawmakers like Robin Taylor, a state senator in Alaska, who come-securing by a lot from the Whitewater venture "for which you have not received any return." In

"The president wants to talk to the American people about what he has accomplished, to tell them how he is doing the objectives he laid out — not only in the campaign but in the first year of his presidency," said Deputy Secretary Dee Dee Myers said.

"He will come across as a new Democrat," has slowly chipped away at the image of a man with no presidential reputation as tougher on crime. The Clinton administration proposal that includes 100,000 new police on city streets, boot camps for young non-violent offenders and a ban on some automatic weapons.

Expanding his gun control stance, the president plans to ask the Justice Department to study whether gun owners should undergo the same type of licensing requirements as drivers.

Attorney General Janet Reno said in an interview with NBC's "Meet the Press," that the administration wants to "crack down on repeat offenders. "We've got to identify the truly bad and put them away," she said.

Crime major focus of state lawmakers

Associated Press

By ARLENE LEVINSON

Stop the bloody violence, and you can start by locking up criminal kids and throwing their guns away. That's the public outcry state lawmakers and governors are hearing as they draft laws this busy election year.

Associated Press statehouse bureaus found these and more in a mountain of bills and proposals offered in the 44 legislatures meeting this year.

In sheer volume, anti-crime bills dwarf measures to draft budgets, improve education, fix welfare, get cracking on health care reform, and deal with persistent issues like abortion, drunken driving and gambling.

"As compared to education or the environment," Iowa state Sen. Jack Riley explained, "this is the hot button that gets us all re-elected."

Overall, reported crime is down. The FBI in October announced a 2.9 percent drop to 141 million reported crimes in 1992, the first decline since 1984.

But violent crime is up. And the violent are more often young.

While arrests of adults for murder and some lesser forms of homicide rose 11 percent from 1982 to 1991, arrests of juveniles for these crimes rose 93 percent, the Children's Defense Fund reported last week.

The numbers electrify lawmakers like Robin Taylor, a state senator in Alaska, who come-securing by a lot from the Whitewater venture "for which you have not received any return." In

"The president wants to talk to the American people about what he has accomplished, to tell them how he is doing the objectives he laid out — not only in the campaign but in the first year of his presidency," said Deputy Secretary Dee Dee Myers said.

"He will come across as a new Democrat," has slowly chipped away at the image of a man with no presidential reputation as tougher on crime. The Clinton administration proposal that includes 100,000 new police on city streets, boot camps for young non-violent offenders and a ban on some automatic weapons.

Expanding his gun control stance, the president plans to ask the Justice Department to study whether gun owners should undergo the same type of licensing requirements as drivers.

Attorney General Janet Reno said in an interview with NBC's "Meet the Press," that the administration wants to "crack down on repeat offenders. "We've got to identify the truly bad and put them away," she said.
Memorial
continued from page 1

Lyons has worked closely with MADD. Students Against Drunk Driving and the Office of Drug and Alcohol Education in an effort to build campus awareness of drinking and driving, according to Beatty. "The accident has definitely had an impact on every institution on campus that has tried to take charge of these issues of raising people's awareness," said Beatty. "If you can educate one person, you can save ten others."

The dorm took the initiative from the Office of Drug and Alcohol Education in spearheading a red ribbon campaign prior to Christmas Break. During the campaign, members of Lyons helped to place a box of red ribbons, designed to be placed on cars in an effort to increase awareness of drunk driving, in most buildings throughout campus.

Lyons also sponsored a December Fun Run, which planned to be continued every year, to raise money for a scholarship in Fox's name. One hundred and two of the dorm's residents participated in the run, raising over $3,800. Fox was killed when a car driven by Notre Dame law student John Rita swerved off the Douglas Road and hit her as she was walking back from Mater's Deli, accompanied by four friends after they had given up a lengthy cab wait, according to the St. Joseph County Police. Rita, who faces charges of causing a death while driving drunk and leaving the scene of a fatal accident, is scheduled for a Feb. 15 trial.

Carol M. Lyons will be remembered as a representative and role model by those who were lucky enough to meet her. Friends and family members have established a scholarship in her memory.

Lyons has served as president of Le Mans Hall for one year, serving as junior class president, while Sheedy serves as Lemans Hall president.

"Working on Board Of Dena's Deli, accompanied by she was walking back from Mater's Deli, accompanied by four friends after they had given up a lengthy cab wait, according to the St. Joseph County Police. Rita, who faces charges of causing a death while driving drunk and leaving the scene of a fatal accident, is scheduled for a Feb. 15 trial.

Carol M. Lyons will be remembered as a representative and role model by those who were lucky enough to meet her. Friends and family members have established a scholarship in her memory.

Lyons has served as president of Le Mans Hall for one year, serving as junior class president, while Sheedy serves as Lemans Hall president.

"Working on Board Of

Obituary
continued from page 1

able in the language and culture. "Our foreign students are going to miss her deeply," O'Rourke said.

Dedication and determination defined her actions. "It was easy to admire her because she worked so hard, especially to get her Ph.D.," said Reginald Bain, assistant professor of communications and theatre. Pilkinton received her doctorate in theatre after ten years of work last semester from the University of Michigan.

"It was a huge task. She was so pleased," said O'Rourke.

A native of Richmond, Virginia, Pilkinton received her

Elections
continued from page 1

gram, a Saint Mary's Fitness Week and a study day before final exams. The Sheedy and McNulty platform stresses service and the possibility of a new service center sponsored by both the Sisters of the Holy Cross and involving the Board of Governance. "The SMCSC would provide a concrete Catholic identity that we want to identify with," Sheedy said.

Sheedy and McNulty are also interested in starting a major-month program, and an all-school video library.

Experience runs high on both tickets. El-Ganzouri is presently serving as junior class president, while Sheedy serves as Le Mans Hall president.

"Working on Board Of

Memorial
The Observer/ Jake Peters
A memorial marker on Douglas Road will honor the memory of Lyons Hall freshman Mars Fox, who was killed at the site on November 13.

LAFAYETTE SQUARE TOWNHOMES

"Luxury Living You Can Enjoy & Afford"

"Where Tenants Are Of The Utmost Importance"

• 4 & 5 BEDROOM TOWNHOMES
• 2 BATHROOMS
• SECURITY SYSTEMS & SECURITY GUARDS
• KITCHENS WITH DISHWASHER, GARbage DISPOSAL, REFRIGERATOR & RANGE
• WASHER & DRYER IN EACH UNIT
• GAS HEAT
• CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING
• PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT
• SKILLED & RESPONSIBLE MAINTENANCE
• ONLY 1 MILE FROM NOTRE DAME CAMPUS

Meet Our Friendly Staff And Let Them Show You Our Beautiful Townhomes

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR '94-'95 SCHOOL YEAR FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 232-8256

Monday, January 24, 1994

A.B. from the College of William and Mary and her M.A. from the University of Virginia. Her energy and selflessness have made a lasting impression on her friends and colleagues.

Her delight in the simple things are what I will miss most," said Dreyer. "It is difficult for me to accept that I won't get a chance to sit down with her again."

Pilkinton's professional association with Notre Dame lasted three years, being her first as a professional specialist. Before coming to Notre Dame, Pilkinton taught at Saint Mary's College, Holy Cross College and Indiana University at South Bend.

The MBA students have arranged a memorial Mass for Pilkinton at 5 p.m. today at the O'Hara-Grace Chapel.

Govenance has been a valuable experience," said El-Ganzouri. "I have watched and learned from my leaders since my freshman year and I understand the amount of time, commitment and hard work that this position involves. I am willing to put everything into it next year."

Sheedy feels that any leadership position requires with a careful study of the constitution governing BOG is satisfactory experience.

"Although I haven't served directly on BOG, I feel that my experience as Le Mans Hall president is just as valuable," Sheedy said. "Le-Mans is a microcosm of Saint Mary's. The residents of the dormitory are all classes and organizations. I have successfully implemented my platform as Le Mans Hall president, and I feel confident that could do the same for the student body."
Serbs threaten block of wounded citizens

By SRECKO LATAL

SARAJEVO, Bosnia

The fate of the three badly wounded boys hung in the balance Sunday as U.N. aid officials worried that Bosnian Serbs would block medical evacuations from Sarajevo.

Two of the boys were brothers who were badly wounded when shells killed six children playing in the snow on Saturday. They were clinging to life in a hospital, and doctors hoped to send them to Bologna, Italy, on Monday.

A third boy, 16-year-old Amer Menzilovic, wounded in earlier shelling, may lose his sight if he cannot leave Monday for the United Arab Emirates, U.N. aid official Kfir Janowski said. The Bosnian Serbs, who have been besieging Sarajevo for 21 months, had threatened to block medical evacuations after noon Sunday unless officials released several Serb doctors, who were arrested last week as they tried to flee the city.

On Monday, at least three children were killed and five people were wounded in heavy shelling of the Cotroc section of Mostar, a key southwestern city divided between Croats and Muslims, said Bosnian Croat spokesman Vlado Pugarcic.

There was no U.N. confirmation of the deaths, although U.N. peacekeepers had been warned of intense shelling in Mostar.

Croatan TV said four children — two Muslims and two Croats — were killed and at least 13 people were wounded in Mostar. It showed footage of a blood-spattered street and an interview with a wounded boy who said he was riding his bicycle when a shell hit him.

At the intensive care unit of Sarajevos State Hospital, Eiver Ahemtovic, 13, gazed at the unconscious 11-year-old brother, Adam, who nearly died four times Saturday.

"Admir's life is in danger because he has lost a lot of blood," said Dr. Davorka Matovic, her frostbitten hands covered with wool gloves under plastic surgical gloves. If he continues to lose blood, doctors will have to amputate his left leg, she said.

His brother also was wounded in the left leg when shells hit the western suburb of Alispasino Polje.

"We were playing in the snow, when the first shell burst behind the house," Elvia said in a weak, thin voice. "We started running toward the door, but then another onepolitical close to the war zone.

"Are they really going to evacuate us?" he asked.

Local residents blamed the Serbs. The Bosnian Serb president and military leaders issued separate denials, insisting the Multinational force had shielded its own people to bring outside intervention.

Balkans were held in Romania's capital, the pope called out to "the political authorities in the region to remain burning until the end of the war in Bosnia.

His voice filled with emotion, the pope called out to "the political authorities in the region to ensure the free flow of humanitarian aid to the devastated area.

"Arms and mistrust must not stop these bringing food to the starving, help to the sick and the wounded," he said.

The pope added that his own personal commitment to humanitarian solidarity was "written with all ex-Yugoslavs, regardless of ethnic or religious affiliation.

The U.S. ambassador to the Vatican, Raymond Flynn, called the pope's plea a "dramatic and profound expression" of the frustration "with the inability of the current political process to stem the escalating conflict."
Gun control: Ban on private ownership will remedy violence

Recent events have further spurred on and widened the debate of gun control. The debate has, in the past, focused on a very narrow range of alternatives, and so many days should one have to wait before one can purchase an item which has no other use except to hurt and kill people. Apparently five days is sufficient to come to fruition against the existing fire power of the NRA. Opponents argued that such a waiting period will only make it harder for "law abiding" citizens to be able to purchase guns, and that criminals will be able to get guns by other means. Obviously, a five day waiting period will make it marginally harder to get a gun. Some of those "law abiding" citizens that the NRA is so worried about do actually use them to commit crimes. The rate is less than for those who do not go through legal channels. It is cowardice, and the rate of children and other family members are accidentally injured or killed by guns obtained through legal means than those purchased illegally.

A waiting period will do principally two things. First, it will prevent some criminals from obtaining weapons. Second, it will prevent "heat of the moment" murders where somebody, usually a man, will buy a gun and go kill his girlfriend because they broke up or something, or wife, or someone else after an argument. It will, in other words, cool off a period, during which somebody might have second thoughts about their actions. In this way, some murders may be prevented.

The NRA argues that this kind of gun control will not prevent all the guns from being sold. However, a nationwide system, where none of these "law abiding" citizens cannot just cross a border into a non-gun control state and acquire a gun immediately, will help prevent some gun violence. It will, however, come anywhere near addressing the whole problem.

The NRA claims that people need guns for protection against "law abiding" citizens, and anyway the Constitution provides for the uninfringed ownership of guns. Regarding the first, it has been shown over and over again, that people who try to use guns to protect themselves against some criminals frequently have the guns used against them. Regarding the second claim, the Second Amendment to the Constitution guarantees the right to bear arms, "to well regulate Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed." When I lived in Washington, D.C. before coming here, I frequently had occasion to walk by the headquarters of the NRA on Capitol Hill. I remember the first time I walked by the building I was amazed to see that inscribed on the front wall was the second half of the Second Amendment, referring to the right to bear arms, but not half stating why that right was enshrined in the Constitution, was omitted.

The first ten amendments completed the ratification process on Dec. 15, 1791. At that point, the young country had recently gained its independence, through the use of various militia forces, and had not created the massive standing army with which the United States currently attempts to guarantee the security of the country. That the NRA deliberately chose to omit the purpose of the Second Amendment indicates that they are disingenuous, and that disingenuousness, in turn, demonstrates that they know that their argument regarding an absolute right to bear arms by "law abiding" citizens does not hold water.

All laws have a social purpose, and that social purpose indicates the legitimacy or illegitimacy of the law. The social purpose of the Second Amendment was to ensure "the security of a free State." That social purpose is no longer valid since the security of the United States is now ensured — to the extent that any country can truly ensure its security — by the organized military of the United States, and by other means.

Some argue that people need to have guns to protect themselves from the government. Many of these same people also support the ridiculous notion that if only the people in Tiananmen Square had had guns things would have turned out differently.

They are right — there would have been a much greater slaughter of the students. In addition, anybody who thinks that they can accumulate enough firepower to overwhelm the fire power of the government is just plain stupid — the events in Waco last year should put any doubts on that point to rest. The NRA and others also claim that the right to own a gun is, first, protected because we live in a "free country" and thus individuals can do just about anything they want, and second, as mentioned above, necessary to secure individual and family security. Dealing with the second issue first, we have already seen how gun ownership and use can actually have the opposite effect. In addition, we seemed obsessed with obtaining absolute security, even at the expense of other values. Security has a lot less to do with owning the means to kill another human being than it does living in a society where the conditions for insecurity — massive disparities in wealth and widespread poverty — are not commonplace. Insecurity and violence will not disappear until these issues are added.

Related to the issue of insecurity is the supposed right and freedom to address such insecurity in almost any manner in which we see fit because "it is a free country." Most freedoms have some sort of limitations on them, especially when the exercise of a freedom will have negative social consequences. A person from Alaska told me a while ago that he was against gun control because he wanted to be able to take a handgun with him when he went into the Alaskan wilderness to protect himself from bears. At first glance this may seem reasonable. However, permitting him to purchase a handgun means that many other people will make the same kind of security claims for purchasing hand guns. Thus, guns will continue to proliferate, for where do such guns come from in the first place? The guns criminals use, for the most part, were legally bought at one time.

The NRA says that there is no empirical evidence that gun control works to lessen violence. They are wrong. Both Canada and Great Britain severely restrict the ownership of guns, and they have much lower rates of violence than in the United States.

In fact, citizens of these countries look to horror at the violence of our gun society, much like the Japanese were appalled and very puzzled when an ex-champion boxer shot and killed in the U.S. by some paranoid person with a gun who was later acquitted. Strong enforcement has worked in other countries, why not here?

Banning private ownership of handguns (as well as assault weapons which the NRA has pathetically tried to defend) would eliminate the possibility of gun accidents in the home and would severely restrict the number of possible weapons available to those likely to commit crimes. It will not do the whole job — addressing other deeper social problems are also necessary — but it would be a significant and needed start.

Kurt Mills is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Government and International Studies. His column appears every other Monday.

DOONESBURY

LET ME BE CLEAR, OUR CONVERSATION ABOUT THE GROWING SCANDAL CALLED "THE CLINTON PRESIDENTS' COCAINE PROBE" IS NOT A PROFESSIONAL MATURELY.

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"There is nothing new except that which has been forgotten."

-Mlle. Bertin
Dedicated college graduates offer services to urban and rural public schools

Teach For America

By THOMAS KANE

The emphasis of teaching is not parent families. Public education problems: important part of the program. Majors who commit to teach a professional development program with outstanding teachers, its provides underserved students the difference between teaching under-resourced urban and the TFA program, which itself. The parents and the children are usually very cooperative. "Children value education and are interested in higher education," said Tyler. "School is seen as a privilege, so attendance is good," said Tyler. Even with this support, TFA members face some daunting problems.

"There are lots of challenges. Some students have parents in jail, some come from one-parent homes," said Tyler. "One student even found a dead body. This is not your typical childhood life." Yet with "willpower, perseverance and determination" Tyler has come up with innovative ways to deal with the everyday challenges.

She has developed audio tapes for a Latino child to help with English pronunciation. This proved to be more effective and less time-consuming than the conventional drilling exercises. Indeed, the most challenging aspect of teaching is not the academics but rather managing a classroom, according to Bird. "Being consistent is the most important thing for teachers," said Bird. "They must be firm and calm when managing a classroom full of 38 different children," Bird said.

However, to be totally effective, the learning process must extend outside the classroom. They have enthusiasm, new ideas and a thirst to prove themselves," Durning added. The participants are also quickly accepted by the professional teachers with which they work with, according to Indira Tyler. Notre Dame graduates and corps members stationed in Houston elementary school. "Credibility is a matter of trust that must be established, being the new kid on the block," said Tyler. "However, doubts among the professional teachers quickly subside."

The TFA program is not only good for the person. It's good for the country. It's a positive way to change the education system," said Bird. "It's a worthwhile experience not only for ourselves but for all those children who've been needing us."

For those interested in applying to the program this year, applications must be postmarked no later than March 15. For more information, call Teach For America at 1-800-633-1230.

FOR ELIGIBILITY

- have a Bachelor's Degree by June, 1994
- have a cumulative undergraduate G.P.A of 2.5 or higher at the time of application as well as at the time of graduation
- fill out an application and participate in the interview process
- successfully complete Teach For America's Pre-Service Institute and Induction
- meet all the requirements of the state school district where they are assigned to teach, including any required standardized tests, routine procedures, and interviews
- take the National Teacher's Examinations
- be a United States citizen or, prior to participation in Teach For America, have received legal authorization from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Services to work in the United States

---

Students bring a new perspective that is not affiliated with the methods of the current system.

Elizabeth Lach

Students bring a new perspective that is not affiliated with the methods of the current system. Elizabeth Lach, a Houston elementary school teacher, said that "Children value education and are interested in higher education." She has come up with innovative ways to deal with the everyday challenges. Indeed, the most challenging aspect of teaching is not the academics but rather managing a classroom, according to Bird. "Being consistent is the most important thing for teachers," said Bird. "They must be firm and calm when managing a classroom full of 38 different children," Bird said.

However, to be totally effective, the learning process must extend outside the classroom. They have enthusiasm, new ideas and a thirst to prove themselves," Durning added. The participants are also quickly accepted by the professional teachers with which they work with, according to Indira Tyler. Notre Dame graduates and corps members stationed in Houston elementary school. "Credibility is a matter of trust that must be established, being the new kid on the block," said Tyler. "However, doubts among the professional teachers quickly subside."

The TFA program is not only good for the person. It's good for the country. It's a positive way to change the education system," said Bird. "It's a worthwhile experience not only for ourselves but for all those children who've been needing us."

For those interested in applying to the program this year, applications must be postmarked no later than March 15. For more information, call Teach For America at 1-800-633-1230.
Michigan moved the first leg in the jam atop the Big Ten conference standings, downing Illinois to leave only three unbeaten teams.

The Wolverines escaped from Champaign, Ill., with a 74-70 victory Sunday. Purdue pounded "Ohio State" 91-63, Minnesota edged Michigan State 68-66 and Indiana beat Northwestern 81-76 on Saturday to keep their shares of the conference lead.

Illinois fell into a tie for fifth with Tuesday's opponent, Wisconsin.

In Champaign, Steve Fisher had a choice. Return Juvwan Howard to the lineup or face the consequences.

Howard missed Thursday's game against Minnesota because of the chicken pox but returned to the lineup against Illinois.

"We're hopelessly beaten if we don't have Juvwan in that game," said Fisher, whose team is still missing Illinois' Greg King, also afflicted with the pox.

Howard made two consecutive shots at the start of the game and finished with six points.

Michigan (12-4 overall, 4-2 in the Big Ten) blew a 13-point lead in the second half. T.J. Williams' record-breaking fifth three-pointer at the Illini (10-4, 2-2) with a free throw with 1:39 to go, but Juvwan Howard rose hit two free throws to put the Wolverines up for good and two Michigan players with 12 seconds left to seal the victory.

Wheeler finished with 23 points in the win, including four 3-pointers.

Northwestern put up a good fight against Indiana but fell short in the final minutes for the second time this season to the highly ranked Hoosiers to remain winless in the Big Ten.

Damon Bailey scored seven straight points in the closing minutes to tie the game.

Coach Bob Knight said the Hoosiers couldn't find a way to defeat Northwestern.

"That was a game that happens sometimes, that the team that would have done it," Knight said. "If I'm watching this game I have to be rooting for Northwestern.

Indiana (11-3 overall) had to come from behind for its 22nd victory over the Wildcats.

Northwestern (9-5, 0-3) lost its final two lead on free throws by Todd Leslie and a 10-foot jumper by center Kevin Banks.

Bailey responded with four consecutive points that put the Hoosiers in front of 51-48 for good.

Free throws by Todd Leyard, J.R. Woods and Alex English IV were enough to put the game out of reach.

Balleymayer 16 for the Hoosiers. Cedric Nelson led Northwestern with 23 points, while Leslie added 17.

Cuozo Maruino scored a season-high 13 points and Glenn Robinson had 24 as No. 12 Purdue routed Ohio State.

The Rollermakers (16-1 overall) broke the open game with a 25-10 run in the first half of the way to a 46-32 lead at intermission. They put the game away by holding Ohio State 9-2, 24 to 26 in the first eight minutes of the second half.

Arriel McDonald's 12-foot running jumper with 1.9 seconds left capped a 16-point performance and gave Minnesota a victory over Michigan State.

McDonald, who also had a career-high 10 rebounds, broke a 66-66 tie by generating and putting up the off-balance shot, hands in his face.

Shawn Respert, whose 3-point tied the score with 36.2 seconds left, tried a long-pointer as time ran out, but his shot fell short of the rim. He finished with 33 points, but connected on only eight of 20 shots.

Towson Off added 13 points for Michigan State, 27 of which were in the second half, seven of them in the final 11 minutes.

Anthony Miller added 11 points and 13 rebounds for the Spartans (12-3, 3-1), who shot just 39.1 percent.

The Observer • SPORTS

Mon., January 24, 1994

SPORTS BRIEFS

Ultimate Frisbee Club: Tryouts for the team tonight at 10:15 in Edied. No experience is necessary and both men and women are welcome.

Questions? Call Tony at 232-7316 or Dave at 232-3484.

Skii Trip: There will be an informational meeting for those interested in the spring break ski trip to Wyoming on Thursday January 25 in 271 Newland at 8 p.m.

Questions? Call Tony at 232-7316 or Tom Zidar at 273-3105 or Kevin Malone at 232-3484.

ReSports: There will be a meeting for soccer officials at the JACC auditorium at 5:30 Thursday night. All interested officials please attend.

ReSports: Deadlines is Thursday January 27 for fall soccer and basketball and Campus Budminton Doubles.

Climbing Wall at the Rockne Memorial: Orientation work shop will be held Monday January 23 from 6-7 and Thursday January 25 from 5:30-7.

All users must attend an orientation before they will be allowed on the wall.

Hours of operation starting the week of Tuesday January 24-7:30 p.m. and Thursday 7-10 p.m.

Call 232-6100 for more information.

Classifieds

NOTICES

USL TEXTBOOKS

Pendola's Bks No ad & Howard
232-2936 x 11 to 9 & Sun 3-9 Sun

OCR TEXT END
Bobby Knight admits he deserved school's suspension

But he says it was due to his outburst toward crowd.

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. Indiana coach Bobby Knight says he deserved the suspension he received from the university for his actions in a Dec. 7 game against Notre Dame.

Knight, speaking out for the first time since the incident, said he never kicked his son, Pat. He admitted kicking a chair, but he said the suspension stemmed from his shouts at fans who booed his earlier actions.

Knight's version was reported Sunday in an interview with The Indianapolis Star.

"How many times have you seen Indiana play basketball? It's a lot. All right, now many times have you ever seen me kick a player?" he said. "How many times have you ever seen me kick a player?" He said. "So I rest my case on that part of it," he said.

The incident began with a bad pass by Knight's son during the game. The elder Knight called a timeout after the Irish scored off the turnover, and pushed his son into a seat.

What happened next is up for debate: videos of the game show Knight kicking at something. Knight says it was a chair, but many fans thought it was his son's leg.

Fans reacted by booing the coach, even though the game was being played on the Hoosiers' home court.

Knight turned, glared at the offending fans and responded with four-letter obscenities.

"How many times have you seen Indiana play basketball?" he said. "How many times have you ever seen me yell at a player? God can't count that many times," he said. "Now, how many times have you ever seen me yell at people in the stands?" He said.

"Never! So that's a different thing," he said.

Indiana cited Knight's "unsportsmanlike conduct" when it suspended him for the Dec. 10 Indiana-Tennessee Tech game.

Bobby Knight said he had no quarrel with the suspension.

"In view of what happened, the exchange I initiated with the crowd, I don't think it was either unusual or unnecessary when one reads the rule," he said.

although the Big Ten had suspended him for one game in 1985 for throwing a chair during a home game against Purdue.

The Big Ten declined to take further action against Knight this time, saying the university's suspension was appropriate.

"I've seen coaches in this league since grab kids by the shirt. I've seen coaches in this league since yell at kids. I've seen coaches in this league since kick the floor, kick towels, take their coats off, throw 'em down, kick chairs. I've seen everything," he said.

"What I haven't seen is a coach yell at the crowd, which is something I admittedly did and I think that separates the issue from anything else," he said.

Knight said he had no quarrel with the suspension.

"In view of what happened, the exchange I initiated with the crowd, I don't think it was either unusual or unnecessary when one reads the rule," he said.

Bellies

continued from page 16
better," said Popp. "I expect we will keep progressing and our times will get faster."

Jansen agreed. "As we continue to work and get our energy back, I expect that we will continue to drop times."
Jimmy Johnson knows how to pick 'em

Cowboys help their coach keep his foot out of his mouth

By JIM LITKE
Associated Press

IRVING, Texas

Big hair, big ego, big mouth.

If neither Texas nor football existed before Sunday, somebody would have had to invent both to make sure C.W. Johnson's very ambitious, very energetic son had some place to go and something to do.

Of all the people who could have replaced Tom Landry, the bald and taciturn coaching legend who engineered the Dallas Cowboys' first grand tour of the NFL, Johnson was just about the last name on everyone's list.

But Sunday, after Johnson's remodeled version of the Boys punished San Francisco 38-21 and set off in pursuit, again, of the Buffalo Bills, a second Super Bowl title and the start of another era of Dallas domination, his name was on everyone's lips.

Especially his own.

More than a few people wondered whether his IQ was as large as his shoe size when he picked up the phone Thursday evening and called a radio show to make the non-dramatic boast: "We will win the ballgame. And you can put it in three-inch headlines. We will win the ballgame." And a few others wondered how Johnson would go on talking with a foot stuck squarely in his jaw.

He wondered about neither.

"It wasn't much of a prediction," Johnson said in a rare moment of modesty. "But everybody made such a big deal of it, too. I really did it for our football team."

"I did it so we'd be loose and have that underlying attitude, you know, bottom line ... no excuses ... win. And our guys responded. They were kidding me the last few days that I wrote a check for them and they'd have to pay."

"Well," Johnson said, "they did."

Johnson's methods sometimes seem like madness. But there may not be a more resourceful coach in the game, a better motivator, a more shrewd judge of talent.

And for all his spouting of New Age psychology, no one reads the mood of a team better than Johnson. Which is why his boasts were hardly the recklessness everyone outside the Cowboys' training camp assumed it to be.

"I thought Johnson's comment was insane," San Francisco's Jerry Rice admitted afterward. "But I guess it was accurate."

How accurate only Johnson still really knows. What the rest of us can surmise is that he looked at practice early in the week and saw bruises and laboratory tests from a sluggish victory over the Niners tied it at 7 on the first play of the second quarter.

They added a fourth touchdown with 56 seconds left in the half and then held off San Franciscos in the second half after Troy Aikman was knocked out of the game when he was hit in the head by Dennis Brown's knee. Aikman was hospitalized with what trainer Kevin O'Neill said was probably a first-degree concussion "maybe more than that. He didn't know what day it was."

"Let's see how the tests come out and we'll go from there," O'Neill said of Aikman's fitness for next week's Super Bowl.

But Aikman's absence hardly mattered this week.

Without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl.

Johnson's prediction Thursday afternoon was right. But Sunday's dominant 49ers were a great offensive team," said Korn, signed as a backup for $1.5 million after being cut by Cleveland.

"They scored that TD to get within two scores. We realized we needed to put a drive together and get some first downs. We didn't want to go three and out and punt from our own 10-yard line."

That made it 35-14 and it was over. Eddie Murray tacked four of his five first-half possessions and breaking loose with two TDs in less than four minutes after the Niners tied it at 7 on the first play of the second quarter.

They added a fourth touchdown with 56 seconds left in the half and then held off San Francisco in the second half after Troy Aikman was knocked out of the game when he was hit in the head by Dennis Brown's knee. Aikman was hospitalized with what trainer Kevin O'Neill said was probably a first-degree concussion "maybe more than that. He didn't know what day it was."

"Let's see how the tests come out and we'll go from there," O'Neill said of Aikman's fitness for next week's Super Bowl.

But Aikman's absence hardly mattered this week.

Without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl.

Johnson's replacement, Bernie Kosar, threw a 42-yard TD pass to Alvin Harper to open a 21-point lead just 3:23 after the Niners cut it to 14 to 10 and seemingly grabbed the momentum on a 4-yard TD run by Ricky Watters.

"The San Francisco 49ers are a great offensive team," said Korn, signed as a backup for $1.5 million after being cut by Cleveland.

"They scored that TD to get within two scores. We realized we needed to put a drive together and get some first downs. We didn't want to go three and out and punt from our own 10-yard line."

That made it 35-14 and it was over. Eddie Murray tacked without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl. four of their five first-half possessions and breaking loose with two TDs in less than four minutes after the Niners tied it at 7 on the first play of the second quarter.

They added a fourth touchdown with 56 seconds left in the half and then held off San Francisco in the second half after Troy Aikman was knocked out of the game when he was hit in the head by Dennis Brown's knee. Aikman was hospitalized with what trainer Kevin O'Neill said was probably a first-degree concussion "maybe more than that. He didn't know what day it was."

"Let's see how the tests come out and we'll go from there," O'Neill said of Aikman's fitness for next week's Super Bowl.

But Aikman's absence hardly mattered this week.

Without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl.

Johnson's prediction Thursday afternoon was right. But Sunday's dominant 49ers were a great offensive team," said Korn, signed as a backup for $1.5 million after being cut by Cleveland.

"They scored that TD to get within two scores. We realized we needed to put a drive together and get some first downs. We didn't want to go three and out and punt from our own 10-yard line."

That made it 35-14 and it was over. Eddie Murray tacked four of their five first-half possessions and breaking loose with two TDs in less than four minutes after the Niners tied it at 7 on the first play of the second quarter.

They added a fourth touchdown with 56 seconds left in the half and then held off San Francisco in the second half after Troy Aikman was knocked out of the game when he was hit in the head by Dennis Brown's knee. Aikman was hospitalized with what trainer Kevin O'Neill said was probably a first-degree concussion "maybe more than that. He didn't know what day it was."

"Let's see how the tests come out and we'll go from there," O'Neill said of Aikman's fitness for next week's Super Bowl.

But Aikman's absence hardly mattered this week.

Without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl.

Johnson's prediction Thursday afternoon was right. But Sunday's dominant 49ers were a great offensive team," said Korn, signed as a backup for $1.5 million after being cut by Cleveland.

"They scored that TD to get within two scores. We realized we needed to put a drive together and get some first downs. We didn't want to go three and out and punt from our own 10-yard line."

That made it 35-14 and it was over. Eddie Murray tacked four of their five first-half possessions and breaking loose with two TDs in less than four minutes after the Niners tied it at 7 on the first play of the second quarter.

They added a fourth touchdown with 56 seconds left in the half and then held off San Francisco in the second half after Troy Aikman was knocked out of the game when he was hit in the head by Dennis Brown's knee. Aikman was hospitalized with what trainer Kevin O'Neill said was probably a first-degree concussion "maybe more than that. He didn't know what day it was."

"Let's see how the tests come out and we'll go from there," O'Neill said of Aikman's fitness for next week's Super Bowl.

But Aikman's absence hardly mattered this week.

Without a hair out of place, Jimmy Johnson and the Cowboys return to the Super Bowl.
Bills capture fourth straight AFC crown
By BARRY WILNER

Associated Press

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. —

Sorry, America, the Bills are back and Joe's on a roll.

The Buffalo Bills advanced to an unprecedented fourth straight Super Bowl on Sunday, beating Joe Montana and the Kansas City Chiefs 30-13.

What much of the nation outside of western New York feared — the only team to lose three consecutive Super Bowls, heading to Atlanta to try again — came true because Thurman Thomas was unstoppable.

"All you can ask in life is to have an opportunity," All-Pro defensive end Bruce Smith said. "We have an opportunity and we're going to take advantage of it."

Added quarterback Jim Kelly, "I think nearing the end of the week, more people were turning toward us and saying, 'We're champions in our own game.'"

For two magic minutes, he was the old Montana, slick and quick, whipping passes, moving Kansas City methodically down the field.

The NFL's combined yardage leader when the Chiefs battered the Bills 23-7, rushed for only 44 yards on Nov. 28, when the Chiefs battered the Bills 23-7.

The Bills knocked Montana from the game early in the third quarter, while Kansas City's defense kept groping at Thomas, who rushed for 186 yards — 131 by halftime — and three touchdowns.

"We believed in ourselves and the organization," Thomas said. "We hung together as a team.

"Going into the Super Bowl, we know what it takes. We know the mistakes we can eliminate. You have to rank this right up there with when we beat the Raiders in 1990. For this one, a lot of people didn't want us back. But our job is not done yet.

"This was the same Thomas who rushed for only 44 yards on Nov. 28, when the Chiefs battered the Bills 23-7. The NFL's combined yardage leader when the Bills won the AFC title in 1990, '91 and '92, Thomas went over 1,000 yards rushing in playoff competition with his biggest playoff output and second most of his career.

"We might have fallen to defeat the last three Super Bowls by a combined 109-60, has 2,000 yards rushing in playoff competition with his biggest playoff output and second most of his career.

Buffalo, which lost the last three Super Bowls by a combined 109-60, has won its four AFC titles by an aggregate 120-53-3.

"We had a sharp pain in my head."

"I had a sharp pain in my head."

"My head hurt and everything went wrong. I asked him if he was all right but he couldn't comprehend what I was saying. He was out of it.

"He took the ball, Montana said. "I don't remember much about the play."

"There were about three of us that hit him," Smith said. "I think when he came down, his head hit the carpet and he went 'Oohhh!' You knew something was wrong. I asked him if he was all right but he couldn't comprehend what I was saying. He was out of it again."

"My head hurt and everything went white for a couple of seconds," Montana said. "I had a sharp pain in my head."

Montana was helped off the field, listing a little, looking like a broken-down quarterback rather than the folk hero.

On the sideline, he sat on the bench, hands folded in his lap, a sort of vacant look in those electric eyes that have dissected NFL defenses so thoroughly over the years.

The word from the Kansas City bench was that Montana was dazed and being re-evaluated. No re-evaluation was necessary. Joe Cool was done for the day, Montana had showered. He spoke clearly and yet he wasn't all there.
Track opens indoor season at Purdue Invite

The Observer Staff Report

The Notre Dame men’s track team opened their 1994 indoor season Saturday at West Lafayette, Ind., participating in the Purdue Quad meet.

Senior co-captain Todd Herman placed first in the high jump with a jump of 7-1. Sophomore teammate Tom Mescall followed Herman with a second place finish in the long jump with a leap of 22-2 1/4.

Todd Johnston and junior Brian Headrick placed fourth and sixth with respective jumps of 6-7 and 6-5 1/2 in the high jump. Junior Dan Gremmough finished second in the pole vault with a vault of 15-3.

In the sprinting events, senior Chris Lilly placed third in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 7.68, and sophomore Grzegorz Wozniak both went 3-0 against Detroit Mercy.

Sophomore Mike Fleisch was Notre Dame’s top finisher in the shot put, with a sixth place finish, while senior Brian Kubicki followed with a seventh place put.

The Irish are idle until January 29-30 when the Midwestern Collegiate Conference Championships come to Notre Dame.

Irish fencers sweep weekend matches

The Observer Staff Report

The Notre Dame men’s and women’s fencing teams each defeated Michigan State, host Wayne State, Detroit Mercy, and Michigan Saturday.

The men’s team 6-3 win over the Spartans Saturday continued their 9-0 record on the day while senior Bernard Baez and senior captain Chris Hajnik finished 2-0 while freshman Bill Lester and Jeff Wartgow each added a win.

The foil team’s 9-0 shutouts of Wayne State and Michigan carried the Irish in their 16-11 win over the Tartars and State and Michigan carried the Irish in their 16-11 win over the Tartars and State and Michigan.

In Notre Dame’s 25-2 rout of Detroit Mercy, the epee squad finished a perfect 9-0 against the Titans. Seniors Ryan Girard and senior captain Grzegorz Wozniak both went 3-0 against Detroit Mercy.

“We came in with a take no prisoners attitude today, and with our outstanding results today I think that we accomplished it,” said men’s coach Michael DeCicco. “We really stepped up today and won the crucial bouts when we needed them. We proved that we belong among the elite of the Midwest.”

The women’s full team was equally impressive today in its victories.

The Irish lost only seven bouts in their 15-1 win over Michigan State, 11-5 win against Wayne State, 16-0 romp over Detroit Mercy and 15-1 creaming of Michigan.

Senior Noelle Biers cruised to a stellar 9-0 record on the day while senior Monica Wagner went 8-0. Sophomore sensation Maria Panyi rolled to an impressive 7-0 against the overmatched competition.

“Maria was just awesome today in her collegiate debut,” said Irish women’s coach Yves Auroll. “She had three touches against her in seven bouts, which is unbelievable. As a team, we definitely proved that we are among the tops of the Midwest.”

RESERVE OFFICERS’ TRAINING CORPS

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR PEOPLE ON THEIR WAY TO THE TOP.

If you didn’t sign up for ROTC as a freshman or sophomore, you can still catch up with your classmates by attending Army ROTC Camp Challenge, a paid six-week summer course in leadership training.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

For details, visit 216 Pasquerilla Center or call 631-6986

---

Saint Mary’s hoops dominates Anderson, 67-55

By ANNE NAPIERKOWSKI

Sports Writer

After a week of difficult and disrupted practices, the Belles remained focused on continuing their winning streak when they dominated Anderson University 67-55 Saturday afternoon.

“It was a tough week for us,” said coach Marvin Wood, “but the team has really come together.”

The Belles came together to pull ahead of Anderson 64-40 in the last five minutes of the game. Despite Anderson’s explosive 15 point run in the remaining minutes, the Belles stayed in control to secure the win.

“We didn’t get too worried,” explained freshman guard Sarah Kopperud, “we were confident that we would pick things up again.”

Much of the Belles’ confidence has been in forwards Anne Mulcahy and Jenne Taubenheim who led the attack Saturday with 20 points each.

“The team has been really patient in working the ball,” explained Taubenheim, “we’re not forcing it.”

Another key player in Saturday’s game was freshman forward Katy Lalli who chalked up 10 points and 15 rebounds.

“We had a lot of turnovers, but the team was rebounding well,” said Lalli.

“There wasn’t just one person, the whole team was playing together.”

With the win against Anderson, the team is confident going into tonight’s game against Olivet at 7 p.m. in Angela Ayres Gym.

“No matter who we’re up against, I know we can play with them now,” said Kopperud.

For the remaining games the Belles will continue concentrating on their zone defense and shooting. The practices have been effective in developing the team’s balance and in bringing the players closer together.

The team’s chemistry is good, they know what to expect from each other,” said coach Wood. “It is one of the best teams I’ve worked with at Saint Mary’s.”

---

Mexico Seminar

---

Center for Social Concerns

---

ON THEIR WAY TO THE TOP.

If you didn’t sign up for ROTC as a freshman or sophomore, you can still catch up with your classmates by attending Army ROTC Camp Challenge, a paid six-week summer course in leadership training.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

For details, visit 216 Pasquerilla Center or call 631-6986
CALVIN AND HOBBES

OUR LIVES ARE FILLED WITH TASKS DESIGNED TO REDUCE WORK AND INCREASE LEISURE. WE HAVE MORE LEISURE THAN WE'VE EVER HAD.

AND WHAT DO WE DO WITH THIS LEISURE? TAKING UP NEW INTERESTS. EXPANDED HORIZONS. THEMES.

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

1. Crop derivative
2. Non-foods
3. So-called "health foods"
4. Getting bigger

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Canyon sound
2. Cross-legged animal
3. August forecast
4. Bumbler
5. Mohawk Valley city
6. Kitchen fat
7. In (ready for release)
8. Like gold
9. Sign of summer
10. Have a tab
11. He's just...J. Cronin
12. Canyon sound
13. Cordage
14. Former
15. Pressed one's
16. In — (ready for release)
17. Sign of summer
18. On-the-cob treat
19. The British
20. The British
21. Welcome!
22. Russian parliament building
23. Has a tab
24. Violent downfalls
25. Russian parliament building
26. Violent downfalls

DOWN
1. Unique
2. Gorgeous
3. Pressed one's
4. Russian parliament building
5. Moscow Park events
6. Moscow Park events
7. Russian parliament building
8. Moscow Park events
9. Moscow Park events
10. Moscow Park events
11. Moscow Park events
12. Moscow Park events
13. Moscow Park events
14. Moscow Park events
15. Moscow Park events
16. Moscow Park events
17. Moscow Park events
18. Moscow Park events
19. Moscow Park events
20. Moscow Park events
21. Moscow Park events
22. Moscow Park events
23. Moscow Park events
24. Moscow Park events
25. Moscow Park events
26. Moscow Park events

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1. A
2. T
3. R
4. E
5. N
6. T
7. I
8. S
9. D
10. V
11. R
12. E
13. T
14. E
15. S
16. R
17. A
18. E
19. N
20. T
21. H
22. S
23. O
24. V
25. C
26. P

PUZZLE BY THOMAS W. SCHER

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

Just a fraction of what we spend on sports can help keep society in shape.

Dining Hall

Notre Dame
Top Round of Beef
Fried Clam Strips
Pastel Primavera
Monte Cristo

Saint Mary's
Call 224-4500 for menu information.

Student Union Board

THE GOOD SON

Friday & Saturday, January 28 & 29
at 8pm & 10:30pm
Cushing Auditorium
Admission $2

VERTICO

Thursday, January 27
at 8pm & 10:30pm
Montgomery Theatre
Admission $1
Rigorous practice pays off for Belles' swimmers

BY CHERYL GILLILLAND
Sport Writer

A tough week of practice proved valuable to the Saint Mary's swim team who won at Hillsdale on Saturday by a score of 132.5-78.5.

"As a whole, we did very well," said head coach Greg Johnson. "We seemed to be well." says head coach Fran Fraschilla.

It seems like no one else is, especially the Irish, who have dropped three in a row since upsetting Missouri.

Mary's swim team who won at Saint Mary's before, so I was really surprised to do so well," said Johnson. "I expected to see some improvement in the next couple of days."

As a whole, we did very well," said Johnson. "I expect to see some improvement in the next couple of days."

"It was really hard coming back after three weeks off, but we really came together to pull it off," said McHugh of their performance in Saturday's meet.

Other divers who placed were Barb Krantz with two second place finishes and Angie Mills with one fifth place finish.

"With help and practice, the divers should continue to improve and pull out some more victories for us in the next couple of weeks," commented Johnson.

The Belles are looking to continue their improvement in future meets.

"We keep getting better and better," said Johnson.

see BELLES/ page 11

Irish hockey fit to be tied, twice

By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team didn't lose a game this weekend.

They didn't win either.

Instead, they finished their weekend trip to Ohio with identical 3-3 ties at Kent State on Saturday and at Ohio State on Sunday.

The tie moved the Irish to 6-10-4 in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association and 8-14-4 overall.

The two points put the Irish into a sixth place tie with Ferris State in the CCHA standings.

"We wanted to win two games," said Irish coach Ric Schaad. "We played fairly well, but we didn't convert some opportunities.

In Friday's game against ninth place Kent State, sophomore forward Brett Brusincks put the Irish on the board first with his 5th goal of the season. After Kent tied the score, junior Brent Lamp scored his seventh goal of the season nine minutes into the second period.

However, Kent managed to score the next two goals to take a 3-2 lead Irish sophomore Jamie Lee-Carr and his team leading 11th goal to tie the score with 5:30 left in the game.

Both goalies had outstanding games as Kent sophomore goalie Scott Shaw made 30 saves and Notre Dame senior goalie Greg Louder made 31 saves.

"We dominated the first two periods only to see them take advantage of a couple of our mistakes," said Schaad.

"Louder is back in good form and we paid attention to our defense responsibilities."

"We had great goaltending," said Ling. "We missed some opportunities offensively."

In Saturday's game, 4,682 fans came out to the Ohio State Fairgrounds to see the last place Buckeyes battle the Irish. Ohio State broke out on top 43 seconds into the game on a goal by senior Ron White. Notre Dame senior captain Matt Olesiak tied the score with nine minutes left in the first period and the score remained the same until the third period.

In the final period, the Buckeyes scored two early goals, but Notre Dame rebounded to tie the score late in the period. Sophomore Chris Krull.

Jeremy Cee and the Irish hockey team tied twice this weekend.