Play of the Mind transforms, enriches life

By JENNIFER HABRYCH

Saint Mary’s Editor

Farrakhan dismisses aide, lashes out at ADL

By SONYA ROSS

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan dismissed a top aide Thursday for "repugnant" remarks, just as Catholics have seen Abdul Muhammad for a Nov. 29 speech.

Farrakhan called Jews the "blood-sucking" and the black community, labeled the pope a "fop" and "defender of racism and anti-Semitism."

Farrakhan also accused Vice President Al Gore and the Anti-Defamation League of Israel of "brute" in preparation to destroy his life, his organization and other black leaders.

Farrakhan dismissed Khalid Abdul Muhammad for a Nov. 29 speech.

He called Jews the "blood-sucking" and the black community, labeled the pope a "fop" and "defender of racism and anti-Semitism."

Farrakhan also accused Vice President Al Gore and the Anti-Defamation League of Israel of "brute" in preparation to destroy his life, his organization and other black leaders.

Students express concern regarding AIDS education

There are a definite lack of programs on the campus, others are unaware of the educational programs that are currently taking place.

At Notre Dame, several students have expressed concern over a lack of university sponsored programs.

"There's not a whole lot of AIDS awareness on campus," said Muriel junior Kelly Ronen. "The system probably needs better advertising material. Current literature and periodicals were cited as a main source for students interested in educating themselves.

"Regardless of whether we have had a student with AIDS, the overall problem has become so big, its definitely

Mock trial hopes for nations

By GWENDOLYN NORGLE

News Writer

Following a first place finish in last weekend’s regional competition in Toledo, Ohio, Notre Dame is set to compete in the National Mock Trial Championship in Des Moines, Iowa during the weekend of February 25 and 26.

The team, made up of senior President Pati Pierson, and seniors Ed Contrall and Mark Gottrell, juniors Clark Weigel and Laurie McKenzie, and freshman Matt Mahony, was one of five in the Mock Trial Championship. Receiving individual honors at the tournament were Were Weigel as "Outstanding Witness" and Ed Contrall as "Outstanding Witness."

After receiving the case in October, the team had a law student and a judge critique their performance. All teams receiving the same case were judged individually with the highest rating being first place. Three members of the team act as lawyers and the other three as witnesses. The competition format centralizes on a rape case, both the plaintiff and defense roles of the same trial.

"Everybody gets along really well," Ed Contrall said. "Coming in as unprepared as we were, this was our chemistry as a team helped us to win."

The team, which is organized by students, was set four days before the competition to prepare the participants for the preparation of other school's, who consider mock trial a three-credit class and practice two semesters in advance, the Notre Dame team was considered "late," according to Contrall.

Despite their lack of preparation, the team "had a central theme," Contrall said.

With three weeks to prepare for the National Mock Trial Championship, McKeone stated her confidence in the team. "We're going to win at nationals," she said.

"We're trying to see ways to empower grazers and find our voices," Patrick White, associate director of the LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender) office of the university said. The whole weekend is planned around the value of giving voice to our explorations of the world and where we want to go, so we know where to go next.

Eleven of the nation's 22 remaining Catholic women's colleges are taking part in this weekend's competition. The hopes of discovering the similarities, differences and strengths that these institutions share.

"These colleges are as similar to so any other college can be, we're sort of like a family," White said. "It hope it will be an intense, honest and frank discussion.

Sessions of the competition will examine the Catholic women's and intellectual aspects of women's colleges as well as looking to the future here.

"We're looking to explore issues as students themselves would see it," White said. "It will hope it will be a chance to see how rich the experiences of the students are."

For many traveling to the competition the different is interested in learning what makes their specific college similar and different from other women's colleges.

"The important opportunity to gather from around the United States and figure out how different that is," according to Amy Lotano, a non-traditional student at the College of Saint Mary's in Des Moines, Iowa.

"I'm going to help a more complex picture."

And Saint Mary's students, who will make up a majority of the team, in addition to honored participants, are ready to see how their experiences in Notre Dame. Ind. measures up to other Catholic women's colleges experiences.

"I want to know if my experiences at Saint Mary's are similar to those at other colleges," Junior Theresa Radostits said. For Radostits, the impar...
Expanding those e-mail horizons

Is it some kind of sign that I am spending too much time on the University computing systems? Do I ever start to exchange e-mail with my roommate? The phrase itself alludes to some sort of mysticism. The notion of communication with this wonder of modern technology, though, is not limited to myself. I regularly share messages with someone—often even those I see everyday. We discuss bits of gossip and learn to amuse each other by competing for new and different kinds of keyboard smiley faces. OK, maybe it’s not the most useful use of my time, but important skills such as the versatile and standard smile :) or the more seductive wink :) may prove to be valuable in my search for employment. After all, in a government and French major supposed to do? My French courses and my weekly assignments and amusingness. The idea of sending a computer generated picture of an unclothed woman fascinating and exhilarates them. What would you do without your very own copy of the “how to” list of things to annoy your roommate or the 14 page “Brady Bunch in a natural state” story? Yes, maybe this reflects more on my choice of friends than the systems itself, but that’s a different story for another day.

Yet, to my benefit, the scope of my electronic mail has increased along at the edges of the clusters around campus. Because many of my friends are students at all the over the country that have e-mail systems, I am able to communicate with them daily. The system has helped to keep me in contact, and even with many friends from high school I probably would have forgotten by now. I am not ambitious enough to send letters from coast to coast, but it is enough to span that same agreement, if you will, with the sound of my voice sent through CTI’s fiber optics.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are the views of the Observer. They are not necessarily those of The Observer.

Today’s Staff

The Observer (ISSN 595-3300) is published Monday through Friday during dorm and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

World at a Glance

New wave of violence marks new year in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti

The bloody bodies of 10 young men were found on the outskirts of the capital Thursday as part of what witnesses said was a new series of killings and disappearances.

The 10 were among in an abandoned house when they were attacked with tear gas and guns, Thursday night, said a neighbor, Adele Francois.

Four hours later, Francois’ sister went over to the house to check and found the bodies, six inside the house and four outside. The motives for the slayings was not known.

There was a rash of killings after exiled President Jean Bertrand Aristide and army chief Lt. Basul Cedras signed a U.N. brokered agreement last July providing for Aristide’s return Oct. 30. The agreement collapsed after small street violence erupted by the army.

French fishmarket riots injure 28

PARIS

Fishermen ransacked a fish market, threw fish around supermarkets and blocked roads across France Thursday to protest seafood imports they say are destroying their livelihood. At least 26 police officers and two protesters were injured in the clashes, which came the same day that the government pledged $300 million in aid for the fishermen that most of the money was bound for big business rather than individual operators, many of whom feel threatened by cheap imports from Russia, Poland and South America.

In the worst rampage, about 1,200 protesters ransacked the central fish market near south of Paris, smashing crates and throwing fish on the ground and at police.

Some fishermen fired flares and guns for police, who responded by beating the demonstrators with batons and rifle butts and bashed several away, some of them bleeding from the head. Fifteen police officers and two protesters were injured in Paris. Tons of fish were destroyed.

IU wants more open Little 500

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.

Indiana University wants a competitive Little 500 bicycle race, but the group that sponsors the annual fund-raiser wants it to be open to as many students who want to ride. Some student riders have threatened to quit their positions on an advisory council if they do not get more say in running the event. An IU Student Foundation Trustee said, “I’ve been asked by the university president to take another look at the Little 500 in order to encourage more students to try out.” Rider’s rank in the United States Cycling Federation’s Category II will not be able to compete beginning in 1995. Category I riders already are banned.

“The more this becomes an intramural sport, the fewer people will come to see it. If you take the excitement away, who’s going to watch it?” said Randy Spruell, president of the Men’s Riders Council. But Steve Johnson, president of the student foundation, said his group is looking for the best interest of the event. “We listen to them on every issue. Sometimes they haven’t, but we feel all decisions have been in the best interest of Little 500,” said Spruell said eliminating the best riders would weaken the race’s prestige and hard attendance.

John Williams now music adviser to Pops

BOSTON

John Williams, the man who succeeded legendary composer John Williams has agreed to return to the Boston Pops as music adviser to help plan this year’s concerts and find his replacement as music director. John Williams has written music for television and film and won four Academy Awards for such films as jaws and The Bodyguard. He ended his 13-year tenure with the Pops with a Dec. 20 concert. At the time, Williams said he had wanted to dedicate more of his time to composing. He agreed to make several guest appearances as a conductor this spring. Kenneth Kaas, managing director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said Williams agreed to file his request to help plan the coming season, giving the Pops more time to find his successor. The search for a new conductor continues.

Indiana University wants a competitive Little 500 bicycle race, but the group that sponsors the annual fund-raiser wants it to be open to as many students who want to ride. Some student riders have threatened to quit their positions on an advisory council if they do not get more say in running the event. An IU Student Foundation Trustee said, “I’ve been asked by the university president to take another look at the Little 500 in order to encourage more students to try out.” Rider’s rank in the United States Cycling Federation’s Category II will not be able to compete beginning in 1995. Category I riders already are banned.

“The more this becomes an intramural sport, the fewer people will come to see it. If you take the excitement away, who’s going to watch it?” said Randy Spruell, president of the Men’s Riders Council. But Steve Johnson, president of the student foundation, said his group is looking for the best interest of the event. “We listen to them on every issue. Sometimes they haven’t, but we feel all decisions have been in the best interest of Little 500,” said Spruell said eliminating the best riders would weaken the race’s prestige and hard attendance.

John Williams now music adviser to Pops

BOSTON

John Williams, the man who succeeded legendary composer John Williams has agreed to return to the Boston Pops as music adviser to help plan this year’s concerts and find his replacement as music director. John Williams has written music for television and film and won four Academy Awards for such films as jaws and The Bodyguard. He ended his 13-year tenure with the Pops with a Dec. 20 concert. At the time, Williams said he had wanted to dedicate more of his time to composing. He agreed to make several guest appearances as a conductor this spring. Kenneth Kaas, managing director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said Williams agreed to file his request to help plan the coming season, giving the Pops more time to find his successor. The search for a new conductor continues.

IU wants more open Little 500

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.

Indiana University wants a competitive Little 500 bicycle race, but the group that sponsors the annual fund-raiser wants it to be open to as many students who want to ride. Some student riders have threatened to quit their positions on an advisory council if they do not get more say in running the event. An IU Student Foundation Trustee said, “I’ve been asked by the university president to take another look at the Little 500 in order to encourage more students to try out.” Rider’s rank in the United States Cycling Federation’s Category II will not be able to compete beginning in 1995. Category I riders already are banned.

“The more this becomes an intramural sport, the fewer people will come to see it. If you take the excitement away, who’s going to watch it?” said Randy Spruell, president of the Men’s Riders Council. But Steve Johnson, president of the student foundation, said his group is looking for the best interest of the event. “We listen to them on every issue. Sometimes they haven’t, but we feel all decisions have been in the best interest of Little 500,” said Spruell said eliminating the best riders would weaken the race’s prestige and hard attendance.

John Williams now music adviser to Pops

BOSTON

John Williams, the man who succeeded legendary composer John Williams has agreed to return to the Boston Pops as music adviser to help plan this year’s concerts and find his replacement as music director. John Williams has written music for television and film and won four Academy Awards for such films as jaws and The Bodyguard. He ended his 13-year tenure with the Pops with a Dec. 20 concert. At the time, Williams said he had wanted to dedicate more of his time to composing. He agreed to make several guest appearances as a conductor this spring. Kenneth Kaas, managing director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said Williams agreed to file his request to help plan the coming season, giving the Pops more time to find his successor. The search for a new conductor continues.

IU wants more open Little 500

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.

Indiana University wants a competitive Little 500 bicycle race, but the group that sponsors the annual fund-raiser wants it to be open to as many students who want to ride. Some student riders have threatened to quit their positions on an advisory council if they do not get more say in running the event. An IU Student Foundation Trustee said, “I’ve been asked by the university president to take another look at the Little 500 in order to encourage more students to try out.” Rider’s rank in the United States Cycling Federation’s Category II will not be able to compete beginning in 1995. Category I riders already are banned.

“The more this becomes an intramural sport, the fewer people will come to see it. If you take the excitement away, who’s going to watch it?” said Randy Spruell, president of the Men’s Riders Council. But Steve Johnson, president of the student foundation, said his group is looking for the best interest of the event. “We listen to them on every issue. Sometimes they haven’t, but we feel all decisions have been in the best interest of Little 500,” said Spruell said eliminating the best riders would weaken the race’s prestige and hard attendance.

John Williams now music adviser to Pops

BOSTON

John Williams, the man who succeeded legendary composer John Williams has agreed to return to the Boston Pops as music adviser to help plan this year’s concerts and find his replacement as music director. John Williams has written music for television and film and won four Academy Awards for such films as jaws and The Bodyguard. He ended his 13-year tenure with the Pops with a Dec. 20 concert. At the time, Williams said he had wanted to dedicate more of his time to composing. He agreed to make several guest appearances as a conductor this spring. Kenneth Kaas, managing director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, said Williams agreed to file his request to help plan the coming season, giving the Pops more time to find his successor. The search for a new conductor continues.

IU wants more open Little 500

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.

Indiana University wants a competitive Little 500 bicycle race, but the group that sponsors the annual fund-raiser wants it to be open to as many students who want to ride. Some student riders have threatened to quit their positions on an advisory council if they do not get more say in running the event. An IU Student Foundation Trustee said, “I’ve been asked by the university president to take another look at the Little 500 in order to encourage more students to try out.” Rider’s rank in the United States Cycling Federation’s Category II will not be able to compete beginning in 1995. Category I riders already are banned.

“The more this becomes an intramural sport, the fewer people will come to see it. If you take the excitement away, who’s going to watch it?” said Randy Spruell, president of the Men’s Riders Council. But Steve Johnson, president of the student foundation, said his group is looking for the best interest of the event. “We listen to them on every issue. Sometimes they haven’t, but we feel all decisions have been in the best interest of Little 500,” said Spruell said eliminating the best riders would weaken the race’s prestige and hard attendance.
Writers express middle class vision

By MELISSA SHELTON

The Catholic middle class provides an alternative angle of vision into late 19th-century Catholic history according to Rev. Paul Robichaud's seminar last night.

The Catholic Middle class is important to provide a broader vision of Catholic history and to show an "interesting bridge to a larger Victorian culture which was predominantly Protestant," said Robichaud.

Robichaud found that the best way to discover the workings of the Catholic middle class was by studying the writings of three regional writers of the 1860's; New England's Lois Imogene Ganey as an essayist and poet; poet John Bannister Tabb who represented the New Catholic South, and finally from the West, Charles Warren Stoddard.

These writers wrote to express their images of the Catholic connection with the rest of the Protestant community and show the development of the American Catholic.

A critical element in the development of national identity was the creation of public memory. From the writing of history to the weaving of stories, tales, and songs, said Robichaud. "The public memory written by these authors was a way of creating tradition and a means by which we can speak of Catholic nationalism".

This transition from a regional Catholic America with regional parishes and local associations began to change during the late 19th century. During this time Catholic associations had not only a regional group, but also a national group. Educational institutions were also developed during this time on a national level rather than local institution as with Notre Dame and John Carroll.

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

Don't drink and drive!

By JENNIFER LEWIS

In an attempt to organize a compatible security system for all resident halls at Saint Mary's College, Holy Cross Hall is planning to implement a card access system similar to that of LeMans or McCandless Hall. According to Holy Cross Resident Director Patty Warfield, Holy Cross is planning to get the card access system in the near future.

"We don’t know when, but we know we are going to get it," said Warfield. "The only obstacles are financial."

BY DAVID ESPO

Washington

The north door of Holy Cross near the post office is the targeted doorway to install the card access system. LeMans and McCandless Halls are currently using this system, which utilizes a computerized access card. However, all residents halls have the presence of a twenty-four hour desk attendant.

"We don’t know when, but we know we are going to get it," said Warfield. "The only obstacles are financial."

The vote was 337-74 to send the disaster relief bill — the largest in the nation's history — to the Senate for anticipated action next week. Congressional leaders hope to have the measure on President Clinton's desk by mid-month.

House passage came after a day of debate centered largely on whether and how much to shelter the deficit from the impact of the disaster bill.

The vote is 337-74 to send the disaster relief bill — the largest in the nation's history — to the Senate for anticipated action next week. Congressional leaders hope to have the measure on President Clinton's desk by mid-month.

House passage came after a day of debate centered largely on whether and how much to shelter the deficit from the impact of the disaster bill.

On a nearly unanimous vote that belied a divided House, lawmakers agreed to $2.6 billion in cuts. Two proposals for deeper cuts were defeated, one on a narrow 211-207 vote.

Opponents said cuts would merely slow passage of badly needed disaster relief.

ATTENTION SIC STUDENTS

DO YOU LIKE TO HELP OTHERS INTERESTED IN VOLUNTEERING?

THEN CONTACT THE SURV OFFICE AT X5368 OR CHECK THE VOLUNTEER BOARDS IN: HASSER, LEHANS OR THE SURV OFFICE

YOUR TIME WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED!
AIDS

in order to encourage increased student participation in AIDS programs, campus media, and particularly the student newspaper, play pivotal roles in making the Boston College program successful, according to Dr. Arnold Mazur, Boston College's director of health services.

"We've received a good deal of publicity for our programs," he said. "Articles in our campus newspaper are the single most effective way to promote AIDS education and inspire student participation."

While Munger and Laporta both seemed to have an idea about the different programs offered by their university, other students knew less about AIDS awareness.

"To be completely honest, I wasn't aware that there is anything official that Boston College is doing," said senior Mary Barnett.

Making students aware that there is an official university response must be one of the main goals of any kind of education, according to David Golden, director of health education and marketing at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

"Obviously it's going to be different at Catholic universities as far as what they can and can't do," Golden said. "But by keeping programs going throughout the year, as well as distributing condoms, we're trying to get students informed. Condom week is coming up right around Valentine's Day."

Condom distribution and education makes the AIDS education and prevention marketing programs at the University of Minnesota especially effective, according to several students.

The availability of condoms is a big part of the program, according to junior Brad Nelson. "You can pretty much get them anywhere.

The urban setting of the University in Minnesota in Minneapolis may have something to do with the success of the program there, according to junior John McCarty.

Career Opportunities For Computer Programmers

CSC Intelicom TRIS Division, located in Champaign, Illinois (home of the University of Illinois), provides software and billing solutions for the fast growing wireless communications industry. We are a subsidiary of Computer Sciences Corporation (CSC), a $2.5 billion multi-national corporation and leader in the field of systems integration.

Due to the tremendous growth of the cellular industry in 1993, we expect our organization to grow by 50% over the next 18 months. We need to hire several bright, energetic individuals with superlative programming skills for our Software Development group, so we will be interviewing for UNIX C and mainframe COBOL software engineers. CSC Intelicom offers a excellent compensation and benefits package which includes medical, dental, life, disability, 401K and profit sharing.

We will be on campus recruiting Computer Science and MIS majors on Tuesday, February 22. If you are interested in helping to create part of the future of the wireless industry, sign up on February 7 or 8 in the Career and Placement Services Office.
ASSOCIATED PRESS

A site has been restored Thursday of the troubled billion by the government and the expenditure of nearly $9 over the past 14 years, despite administration plans at a new cleanup, not lawyers."

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Clinton urges to speed up cleanups

Theodore's in LaFortune from 6:00—9:00 p.m.

Tickets go on sale Monday & Tuesday (Feb. 7 & 8) in

WASHINGTON

Associated Press

By KIM MILLS

H. JOSEF HEBERT

Correction: In a story in Wednesday's edition, The Observer incorrectly reported part of the platform of Erin King and Deitz Lefert. While the ticket does support the incorporation of a prejudice reduction workshop into Freshman Orientation, the program would be voluntary. The Observer regrets the error.

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

Washington

Clinton urges to speed up cleanups

Chopsticks

Worker's to be tested for alcohol

Time to Hit the Ice!

Assistance: By Associated Press

Washington

Pilots, truckers, bus drivers, train engineers and others in sensitive transportation jobs will be subject to random alcohol and drug tests under rules announced Thursday.

"We will do everything we can to ensure that when your child boards a school bus, the driver has not been drinking," Transportation Secretary Federico Pena said in a news conference.

"We are working to ensure that when you board the subway or a plane, a train or a bus, those responsible for your safety will have strong incentives to be sober and fit for duty."

Pena outlined new, comprehensive regulations including alcohol testing and expanding drug testing in the transportation industries.

"Taken together, these new rules will cover 7.4 million people — up from 3.6 million covered today by drug testing rules," Pena said.

Under the new rules, testing is required to start Jan. 1, 1995, for large employers and

Jan. 1, 1996, for employers with 50 or fewer safety-sensitive workers.

The new rules apply to workers responsible for the public safety, such as pilots, bus drivers, air traffic controllers, train signal crews, mechanics, truck drivers and subway crews.

The bulk of employees affected by the new rules — 6.6 million — are holders of commercial drivers' licenses.

Workers would be subject to alcohol and drug testing under five different conditions: before being hired or moved into a safety-sensitive job; at random intervals; after an accident; if the employer has reason to believe a worker has been drinking or using drugs, perhaps because of behavior or body odor; and after completing a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program.

Pena also proposed easing current drug testing procedures, which can call for a 50 percent rate of random testing for safety-sensitive employees. That rate could be lowered to 25 percent if the industry can show fewer than 1 percent of workers tested positive for illegal drugs for two consecutive years.

Random alcohol testing would begin at a rate of 25 percent. Pena said. But if an industry shows a positive test rate of 1 percent or higher for any given year, it would have to double its testing rate to 50 percent, he said.

Conversely, any industry with positive alcohol test rates of less than 0.05 percent for two consecutive years could reduce its testing rate for employees to 10 percent.

Those employers and industries who take drug and alcohol abuse seriously and act to eliminate it will be rewarded," Pena said. "Those who fail to do so will be required to step up their efforts."

The new regulations were mandated by Congress in the 1991 Omnibus Transportation Employee Testing Act. After years of failing to get such legislation through both houses, Congress passed the mandatory testing bill in response to a 1991 New York City subway accident in which five people were killed. The motorman, who fled after the crash, later tested legally intoxicated.

---

Attention Class of 1994! Senior Formal News

Tickets go on sale Monday & Tuesday (Feb. 7 & 8) in Theodore's in LaFortune from 6:00—9:00 p.m.

Also on sale Thursday, Feb. 10, in LeMans Hall at SMC from 6:00—9:00 p.m.

Don't forget your bid forms

---

Time to Hit the Ice!

Lewis Hall freshmen Katie Hazard, Aisha Sexton and Anne Sieben get their skates on for Physical Education ice skating class at the Joyce Acc.

---

Chopsticks

Chopsticks

Chinese Fast Food

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore

Time to Hit the Ice!

The Observer/Colleen Moore
Launch with cosmonaut opens new space age

By MARCIA DUNN
Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - Discovery rose with the sun and launched a new space age Thursday, carrying the first Russian into orbit aboard a U.S. shuttle.

The head of Russia's space program praised the prompt, perfect, liftoff, considered a prelude to a shared space station and maybe, some day, a joint trip to Mars. NASA's chief was so excited he got goose bumps.

"We're going to change the whole way we look at space. We're going to do it together, instead of competing," said NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin.

Discovery blasted off at dawn, piercing a clear sky on its way to a 218-mile orbit. The rising sun gave the huge clouds of vapor left in the shuttle wake a pale orange glow.

Joining the five Americans on board for the eight-day science mission was cosmonaut Sergei Krikalev, who wore a Russian flag patch on the shoulder of his orange flight suit.

It's the first U.S.-Russian manned mission since the 1975 Apollo-Soyuz docking and the first time ever that astronauts and cosmonauts have been launched in the same spaceship.

In a statement from Moscow, Russian President Boris Yeltsin called the launch "a vivid manifestation of ever-growing cooperation and partnership between our countries and peoples."

"We are beginning to understand that we need to combine efforts to solve the complicated problems both on Earth and in space, for the benefit of our peoples and the entire world," Yeltsin said.

The Russians were treated to a rare, trouble-free liftoff; even the weather was perfect.

"It is remarkable that this launch has been on schedule and everything is well, going all right," Russian space director Yuri Koptev told the shuttle launch team in Russian.

WASHINGTON

Ronald Reagan

Reagan returns to Washington

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Making a rare return to Washington to refly the flag of the Reagan Revolution, Ronald Reagan appealed President Clinton and the Democrats of stealing his ideas while trying to discredit his record.

Reagan used his speech to protect his legacy. These days in Washington, his deficits are cited more often than his fights against the growth of communism abroad and the government at home.

Reagan remembered the glory days.

"Who can forget those so-called 'experts' who said our military build-up threatened a dangerous escalation of tensions?" he asked. "What kind of fool, they asked, would call the Soviet Union an 'Evil Empire'?

"But as events have shown, there was nothing foolish in my prediction that communism was destined for the ash heap of history."

Watching Clinton's State of the Union address last week, he said, he thought about the correlation between imitation and flattery. "Only in this case, it's not flattery, but grand larceny - the intellectual theft of ideas that you and I recognize as our own."

But he said the Democrats were ignoring the lessons of history - "How swiftly storm clouds can gather on a peaceful horizon."

"The next time a Saddam Hussein takes over Kuwait, or North Korea acquires a nuclear weapon, will we be ready to respond? In the end, it all comes down to leadership.

He used his trademark humor to warn the changes since Clinton took over.

Flying over the capital, he said, "I could just see the excitement on the faces of the bureaucrats - knowing they would soon be managing our national health care system! Up on Capitol Hill, I saw that big white dome, bulging with new tax revenues."

And, in a jab at a turncoat ally, David Gergen, who once advised him and now advises Clinton, Reagan said he looked down from his plane to familiar sights. "The South Lawn, the Rose Garden ... David Gergen!"

The party was held in one of Washington's grand places, the Pension Building, built a century ago of 15 million bricks, where 1,500 clerks disturbed benefits for those wounded, maimed, widowed and orphaned in the Civil War. It now houses a museum.

ERASMUS BOOKS

- Used books bought and sold
- 125 Categories of Books
- 35,000 Hardback and Paperback Books in stock
- Out-of-Print Search Service
- $2.00
- Appraisals large and small

Open noon to six Tuesday through Sunday
1057 E. Wayne
South Bend, IN 46617
(219) 332-8444

SPRING BREAK

COMPLETE FIVE 6 NIGHT TRIPS

HILTON HEAD ISLAND
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
BURBANK/BEVERLY HILLS
MUSTANG ISLAND
BRECKENRIDGE/KEYSTONE
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND
DAYTONA BEACH
PANAMA CITY BEACH
STEAMBOAT SPRINGS
LAS VEGAS
VALE//BEAVER CREEK
ORLANDO/DISNEY WORLD
MUSTANG ISLAND
HILTON HEAD ISLAND
BRECKENRIDGE/KEYSTONE

FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-SUNCHASE

Friday, February 4, 1994
The Observer • NEWS

page 7
Farmers face decision on hormone

By SUSAN ALLEN

Dairy farmers across the nation, worried that the wrong decision will cost them dearly and destroy their reputation with consumers, are debating whether to use an artificial hormone to boost milk production. With the hormone becoming available next month, now could be the step forward.

Opponents, including Wisconsin — including some dairy farmers — went to federal court to halt production of the hormone. Wisconsin, Vermont, and two of the largest dairy producers, are considering proposals that would allow the public to find out which producers are using the hormone.

New York state's consumer protection chief wants all hormone-booster milk sold in his state labeled.

"Farm products are nothing without consumer confidence," said Vermont state Rep. Robert Starr, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. "If the consumer has the perception you're doing something wrong, you're not going to sell that product.

On Thursday, farmers and consumer advocates dumped milk at rallies in New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Minneapolis, and Washington and several other cities calling attention to the hormone debate.

Carrying signs that read "Cows just can't say no," about two dozen people gathered at the New York protest.

"This is not a food scare," said president Kris Elliott. "This is a consumer right-to-know issue.

The hormone is naturally produced by cows. Monsanto Co. has developed a chemical equivalent that boosts milk production by more than 10 percent.

The Food and Drug Administration approved the use of bovine somatotropin, or BST — also known as bovine growth hormone, or BGH — in 1993, ending nine years of government scrutiny.

The FDA concluded that the drug is safe for humans and animals, despite an increase inudder infections common among lactating cows. But Congress imposed a moratorium on the hormone's sale, a moratorium that ended Thursday. Monsanto intends to begin selling it Friday.

Other companies won't be waiting for legislative or court action.

The premium ice cream maker, Ben & Jerry's, plans to label its ice cream and frozen yogurt "hormone free" before the New York protest.

The ad would be this size and must be submitted by 1:00 p.m.

Friday, February 4, 1994

Children prescribe to lock young killers away for good

By CAROLYN SKORNECK

WASHINGTON

Children suffering from the violence of the streets are in for a harsh prescription Thursday for kids who kill: Lock them away for life.

"If a kid picks up a gun, pulls the trigger and shoots somebody, then he should be held accountable for going to jail and serving a life sentence," said Jane A. Wells, 15, told a congressional hearing on children and guns.

The ninth-grader from Washington cried while recalling the death of a friend shot 17 times "right beside me." She said that since a killer "took somebody else's life, I feel his life should be taken in jail.

Fernando Mateo, Jr., of Irvington, N.Y., who gave his father the idea to offer a successful toys-for-guns exchange in New York in December, was equally strict.

"If a child knows what he's doing and can distinguish right from wrong, he should be put away for life," said Mateo, 14, adding that such punishment should be imposed on killers as young as 11 years old.

Eleven white, black and Hispanic youths testified before the House Judiciary Committee's crime subcommittee, explaining the fascination with guns and the toll the weapons have taken on their young lives.

"If a child who uses guns thinks it will make people look up to him," said 14-year-old Alicia Brown, a junior high school student in Washington, who has lost five friends to gunfire since she was 13.

Lamented panel Chairman Chairman Bill McCollum, R-Fla., "We can't bring back the loved ones you've lost. We can't bring back your kids.

Elsewhere, President Clinton told students at a Washington junior high school that they should organize their neighborhoods and classrooms against crime and suspicious activity and said, "No one should have to go to school afraid."

The Senate, meanwhile, addressed school violence Thursday by approving an amendment to an education bill that would authorize $175 million in grants to school districts most troubled by high rates of crime and violence. Of the total, $75 million would be for the current year, with $20 million already appropriated, and $100 million would be for fiscal 1995.

Many of the children testifying before the House panel accused their schools of not supporting after-school programs like Boys and Girls Clubs to keep young people off the streets and occupied with positive activities.

They told of victimized friends, relatives and neighbors. "Of bullets flying so hap-hazardly that they are afraid in their own homes," a 14-year-old boy said.

The NDE 4th Day Community presents

Fr. Tom McDermott, CSC

"To eat the body of Christ, You must be the body of Christ."
U.S. gives warnings about travel in southern Egypt

By MARIAM SAMI
Associated Press

The U.S. Embassy urged Americans on Thursday to be cautious while traveling in southern Egypt after Islamic militants warned foreigners to leave the country.

Egypt's top law enforcement official dismissed the warning by the leading Islamic radical group fighting the government as a statement from criminals unworthy of public attention.

The rising tensions come as the government steps up its efforts to quell the militant uprisings, despite criticism of human rights abuses. On Wednesday, the government issued an order for security forces to shoot first when rounding up radical suspects rather than waiting for militant fire.

In its statement, the U.S. Embassy said its warning to Americans was "strictly precautionary."

It noted the warning Wednesday by al-Gamada al-Ahlii, or the Islamic Group, but also said it had no information about specific threats to U.S. citizens.

The embassy repeated a January warning for travelers to avoid bus routes through the provinces of Assiut, Minya and Qena, all radical hotbeds in southern Egypt. But it noted that extremist violence was "possible anywhere in the country."

The militant warning, the strongest to date by al-Gamada, comes after its two-year campaign to replace the secular government with strict Islamic rule and halt tourism, once the chief earner of foreign currency.

The tourism that once provided $3 billion yearly in revenues has been halved by the violence, which has killed three foreign tourists and nearly 300 Egyptians.

This has worsened unemployment and made the government hesitate in its campaign to privatize the economy.

However, foreigners haven't been systematically targeted as they are in Algeria, where Islamic radicals are battling an army-backed regime.

In a statement faxed to a Western news agency Wednesday, al-Gamada vowed to launch new attacks on the government to avenge the killing of seven extremist suspects a day earlier. It also issued its warning to foreigners.

"We call upon tourists and foreign investors to leave the country because the coming operations, God willing, will be extremely violent," the statement said.

Speaking to reporters Thursday, Interior Minister Hassan el-Alfy dismissed the warning. He said the government wouldn't allow "criminals to address the Egyptian public."

"The ministry absolutely refuses the so-called statement from the terrorist groups because terrorism has no voice, no aim and no thought," el-Alfy said.

He repeated his announcement Wednesday that security forces during raids would fire first on militants rather than wait to shoot in self-defense.

"Any policeman hesitating to use his weapon against a terrorist will be reprimanded," he said.

el-Alfy added, however, that any militant giving himself up would be treated fairly by police and the Egyptian courts.

British direct fire at Sinn Fein

By SHAWN POGATCHNIK
Associated Press

LONDON
Relations between Britain and the United States have undeniably soured because of Gerry Adams' headline-grabbing visit to New York, but the British are aiming most of their fire at the Sinn Fein leader rather than Washington.

Moving Thursday to seize back the public-relations spotlight, Britain likened Adams, head of the IRA's main political alliance, to Hitler's chief propagandist. It also suggested it would push ahead with reforms in Northern Ireland — with or without Sinn Fein.

Sir Patrick Mayhew, Britain's top official in the province, said he would introduce within two weeks an outline plan aimed at bringing peace to Northern Ireland.

"Progress in Northern Ireland cannot and will not wait for Sinn Fein," Prime Minister John Major told Parliament.

In New York this week, Adams portrayed himself as Northern Ireland's chief peacemaker. But he refused to say whether he would persuade the IRA to lay down its arms — the key to earning his party a seat at the negotiating table.

In a Dec. 15 declaration, the British and Irish governments offered to allow Sinn Fein into peace talks if the Irish Republican Army ended its 23-year campaign against British rule in Northern Ireland.

The British worked hard behind the scenes to prevent Adams' U.S. trip, but they want to keep private their anger with President Clinton and those U.S. politicians who successfully argued for his special 48-hour visa.

Adams had been denied a visa eight times because Sinn Fein, though a legal party, is linked to the IRA and its violent campaign against British rule.

The U.S. ambassador to Britain, Raymond Seitz, was summoned to Major's official residence Tuesday. He acknowledged Wednesday the visa debate had caused "a big tussle" in the Clinton administration.

U.S. government spokesmen defended the president's decision by saying the visa could serve as a "carrot" for Adams to seek peace.

British officials say it will encourage Adams not to compromise.

A senior official in Britain's Foreign Office said Major wanted to avoid a "public row" with America. But he added that the visa effectively let Adams "play the democrat" while the IRA went on with its violent campaign.
Family feels tightening borders

By ARTHUR ALLEN
Associated Press

FRANKFURT, Germany

She was born in Somalia and at age 5 moved with her family to Ethiopia. But in the sponge like war of bright children, she has soaked up a lot of German in six weeks of life in Transit Building 2-34.

The 7-year-old girl can count to 20 in German, recite the German children’s books volunteers bring to her bunk in the concrete dormitory at Frankfurt airport, where she sits in sweat pants and a blue dress, her hair in a ponytail.

When she says “Tschuess!” — “Good-bye!” — the little girl named Istanbul sounds like a native German. She has said it all too often.

Authorities have turned down six appeals for asylum since the girl’s family landed at Europe’s busiest airport Dec. 10. After each refusal, deportation loomed until a volunteer lawyer launched a fresh appeal.

Though few of the 33 million people passing through it every year are likely to notice, Frankfurt airport is becoming something of a epicenter to epitomize the hardening of western Europe’s border against refugees from eastern Europe, Africa, Asia and the Middle East.

From Sweden to France to Greece, police are tightening the rules and cracking down on illegal aliens. Germany, long the most welcoming nation for refugees, since last July has been closed to asylum-seekers. Native countries of war can stay temporarily, but Germany is narrowing that loophole, too. It has taken in 2 million refugees in the last five years, far more than any other European country.

About 37,000 refugees live around Frankfurt, a city of 500,000. That is about as many as in all of Iowa.

But German coffers are dry, alarm about foreign criminals is running high, and officials who spend billions to feed and house refugees are bent on closing the door to all but the most desperate cases.

Istanbul’s family would appear to fit one of those. They were shot at, robbed and threatened by rival Somali clansmen in Mogadishu, said her father, Abukar Osman. Mohamed, Istanbul’s 6-year-old brother, has a scar on his shoulder from a bandit’s stray bullet.

In Ethiopia, where they fled to in 1992, they couldn’t get enough to eat, the family says, and Marian, Istanbul’s mother, lost a son in childbirth.

Marian, 41, is six-months pregnant now. After the family’s last asylum appeal was rejected Jan. 26, she started having contraction pains out of fear.

She was admitted to a Frankfurt hospital for a possible miscarriage, but even that proved to be no safe haven. After one night at the hospital, border police got a doctor to release her and brought her back to the airport.

On the morning of Jan. 22, agents dragged Marian in handcuffs toward Lufthansa Flight 590, scheduled to depart for Addis Ababa, the capital of Ethiopia, at 10:56 a.m.

An unexpected reprieve came from the pilot, who refused to take her aboard, saying he couldn’t be responsible for a mid-flight breakup.

Two days later a judge declared the family could remain in Germany — until exactly four weeks after Marian’s new baby is born.

The family would be the first Somalis to be deported from Germany since Somalia’s civil war began in 1990.

In December, the government ordered 100,000 Croatian war refugees to leave by April. After an outraged response from advocacy groups, officials said they might allow Croatians whose homes are occupied by Serbs to stay.

For those who work with the refugees, the new climate is exhausting.

“The closer you get to these people and learn what they risk if you lose their cases, the harder it is to take on a new one,” said Roman Fraenkel, a Frankfurt lawyer who represents the Somalis.

At least four refugees threatened with deportation killed themselves in jail in 1993. On Wednesday, a desperate Russian evangelist set fire to himself in a Bavarian town square after getting an asylum rejection notice. He survived, with bad burns.

“Angola is my home but it’s no good now,” 27-year-old Daniel Massavi Lopez wrote in a note found in the Trier jail cell where he hanged himself in October.

U.N. officials have urged European states not to deport Angolans, but German policy is that Angola is safe. Lopez, who had fled military recruiters in 1989, felt otherwise. “I never wanted to kill,” he wrote.

The family’s last hope to move to Germany from Ethiopia, a land largely at peace, the asylum law gives them no chance of staying.

Ethiopia refuses to take them back, so the family is in danger of becoming ping-pong balls bouncing between German and Ethiopian courts and eventually landing back in Somalia, Fraenkel said.

College student convicted of first degree murder

By JEFF DONN
Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.

A 19-year-old college student was convicted Thursday of first-degree murder and sentenced to life in prison for fatally shooting two people and wounding four others at his school.

Wayne Lo, who received the mandatory sentence and won’t be eligible for parole, listened impassively as the verdicts were read.

Teressa Beverly, who was wounded in the 20-minute spree at Simon’s Rock College of Bard and uses a wheelchair, clutched a handkerchief to her face and cried.

A Hampden County Superior Court jury deliberated 18 hours over three days before reaching its verdict. The 12-member panel also convicted Lo of attempted murder and assault for the Dec. 14, 1992, rampage at the school in the western Massachusetts town of Great Barrington.

Lo, a native of Taiwan and resident of Billings, Mont., didn’t testify. His lawyers described him as a tortured loner who believed he was acting on God’s wishes and was insane.

Witnesses said Lo planned the shootings. They said he left a trail of quasi-religious writings and copied biblical passages to trick people into thinking he was crazy.

People who know Lo said he was a troubled teenager who sometimes voiced hatred for blacks, Jews, homosexuals, AIDS sufferers and the disabled. His convictions appeared to be random, according to court testimony.

Lo believed that God had told him to cleanse the campus of homosexuality, drug abuse and lying, according to testimony.

“I think the complete answer of a motive will always be something of a mystery,” said prosecutor Gerard Downing.

A student and a professor from the alternative school provided a college education to about 320 students, including some who leave high school early. The trial was moved from Berkshire County to make it easier to find impartial jurors.

Notre Dame Apartments

"Newly Remodeled Apartments at Very Affordable Rates"

- 2 Bedroom Apartments
- New Appliances, Cabinets, and Carpets
- Security Deposit
- Laundry Facility Available
- 4 Blocks From Notre Dame Campus
- Professional Management Team
- Private On Street Parking Available
- Several Units Available for Immediate Occupancy

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR 94-95 SCHOOL YEAR
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 232-8256

Notre Dame Apartments

- Spacious 2-Bedroom Apartments
- New Appliances, Cabinets, and Carpets
- Entry Security
- Laundry Facility Available
- 4 Blocks From Notre Dame Campus
- Professional Management Team
- Skillful Maintenance Crew
- Private On Street Parking Available
- Several Units Available for Immediate Occupancy

March Special

Welcome Back Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s Students

FREE BISCUITS & GRAVY FOR $2.79
MON-FRI ONLY
Serving NO MSG. Since 1965
Open 7 Days a Week
6:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
US 1 North in Roseland
(Racors from the Highway)
(201) 272-7433

Apple Pancakes
All day Saturday
Apple Pancakes
No Charge Needed

Hey, girl, you look good to me!

Happy Birthday Survey!

We love you beary much!

Love,
Amy, Jo-Ellen & Mike

Truly Affordable Living

Make your next move to Hickory Village and discover affordability, convenience and comfort.

We’re just minutes from University Park Mall, the toll road, Notre Dame and downtown South Bend. Our beautiful grounds are spacious and well kept... and we have an excellent service program that includes team sports, free aerobics classes, and much more.

Efficiencies from $270
1-Bedrooms from $325
2-Bedrooms from $395

Pool & Cabanas • Beautiful Landscaped Grounds
Laundry Facilities • Balcony or Patio
Air Conditioning • Class To Shopping
24-Hour Emergency Maintenance
Planned Activities with Free Aerobics
Stop by today and we’ll show you how 327-1800

Hickory Village
Mon.-Fri. 9-6, Sat. 10-4 & Sun. 12-4

HICKORY VILLAGE

"Newly Remodeled Apartments at Very Affordable Rates"
Vietnam trade expected to rise

By BRUCE STANLEY
Associated Press

HANOI

Without a U.S. economic embargo on Vietnam, American companies will be free to compete on equal terms for a stake in that poor but fast-growing economy which could become a powerhouse in Southeast Asia. Over the next three years alone, nearly $4 billion worth of deals are expected in aviation, telecommunications, heavy equipment and construction.

Corporate giants and small trading firms alike are getting into a market where such American brand names as Marboro and IBM already are well-known.

Officials of 24 U.S. companies opened in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City in anticipation of President Clinton lifting the embargo. In April, at least 60 firms plan to display their products at the first American trade show in Vietnam.

Until now, sanctions kept most of them from doing business here. Americans watched helplessly as competitors from France, Japan, Taiwan and South Korea crowded into communist Vietnam's newly liberalized economy.

"All this intense activity by foreign companies here in the past months is a sign of the strength and technology of American companies, which are going to be giving everyone a run for their money," said Gery Craft, a consultant based in Hanoi.

Some sales of "humanitarian" products were allowed under the embargo. In January, for example, the government announced that General Electric Co. would build two major health-care centers and a network of oil and gas pipelines.

Without the embargo, GE stands to sell $500 million worth of locomotives, aircraft engines, and medical equipment over the three years. "This amount of business would support about 5,000 jobs in the U.S.," said George Jamison, a spokesman for the company.

He said Vietnamese demand for GE products could result in $1 billion over a decade. Much of Vietnam's commercial potential stems from free-market reforms begun in late 1980s. With the policy of "doi moi," or renovation, it is expected economic collapse by freezing prices, closing unprofitable state-owned companies and inviting private foreign investment.

Infatuation was reduced to single digits by 1993 and annual economic growth has averaged 7 percent in the past three years.

Most of the initial money to finance such future foreign goods will come as project loans from the World Bank and other international lending institutions.

Few Americans predict a sharp increase in sales immediately. Instead, they expect modest growth and to take a long-term view.

Vietnam now has only one telephone for every 350 people, 80 percent of whom live in the countryside. The need for rural telecommunications means $200 million in possible sales over five years, said Craft, the American ambassador to Buddhist Inc. hopes to win some of the business.

Foreign companies have entrenched themselves in the telecommunications market: Telstra of Australia is to manage Vietnam's first undersea optical fiber cable system and Alcatel of France has installed 250,000 telephone systems. But "don't forget to keep an eye on the competition," said Keane.

Foreign companies have entrenched themselves in the telecommunications market: Telstra of Australia is to manage Vietnam's first undersea optical fiber cable system and Alcatel of France has installed 250,000 telephone systems. But "don't forget to keep an eye on the competition," said Keane.

Speaking as part of the Camp David conference sponsored by Student Government, Keane touched on the many areas that are influenced by ethical considerations, from the padding of expense accounts and the present Tony Harding-Kerry Kangria saga.

Ethics do not have to be a disadvantage in business transactions, said Keane. "In the long run, ethical behavior is unquestionably the best policy." You have to be careful what you are doing, as "a good long-term care benefit." Clinton has promised.

"Those benefits are vulnerable," said Vladeck, whose Health Care Financing Administration runs Medicare.

He delivered that warning to worried leaders of the American Association of Retired Persons after Cooper told them he was trying to "do a good long-term care" benefit to his bill.

On Wednesday the influential Business Roundtable, a group of 200 corporate heads, blacked the Cooper bill as "the best way to gain control of Medicare." Cooper's bipartisan bill would try to make health insurance more affordable without requiring employers to pay for coverage for their workers.

While the 215,000-member chamber last year endorsed the idea of making both employers and employees responsible for health insurance, it said Thursday it cannot support Clinton's employer mandate or any other mandate now before Congress.

The chamber's Robert E. Patricelli told the House Ways and Means Committee that the Clinton plan "proposes such a burden of high employer premium that it effectively discourages and counterproductive regulation and ... bureaucracy, that we believe it cannot even be used as a starting point."
THE OBSERVER

NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471
SAINt Mary'S OFFICE: 305 Haggar, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5366

1993-94 General Board
Editor-in-Chief
David Kozar
Managing Editor
Kevin Homan
Business Manager
Brian Kennedy
News Editor
Merrill McClough
Assistant Editor
Tara Hoy
Special Editor
George Delmonico
Assistant Editor
Kevin Johnson
Photo Editor
John Perry
Saint Mary's Editor
Jennifer Habrych
Photo Editor
Jake Peters
The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoints Editor, Assistant Editor, Photo Editor, Special Editors, and Saint Mary's Editor. Commentaries, letters and Inside Columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoints are available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The first expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

EDITORIAL

Breaching the silence on AIDS

So how can Notre Dame improve its efforts towards the expansion of AIDS education and awareness? Sure the AIDS Quilt will soon be here, but what about daily resources and what about reality?

AIDS is not an issue that when addressed is going to sacrifice our Catholic character. AIDS is not an issue that when addressed will promote contraception. AIDS is not an issue that when addressed will promote homosexuality. But AIDS doesn't discriminate—it doesn't care if it afflicts Catholics or homosexuals or intravenous drug users.

A cornerstone of the Church is compassion. Other Catholic universities have realized this, why can't Notre Dame? First and foremost, an updated policy must be made available to all students either in du Lac or in some other form similar to the alcohol policy.

But a handbook in itself will not even begin to remedy Notre Dame's problems. In order for any pragmatic steps to be made, the administration must confront the realities facing Americans in the '90s.

We have some suggestions:

- During freshman orientation all students are subject to pre-conference alcohol management, minority relations, the Honor Code and rape. Extending this program to include AIDS awareness would be worth the effort and the vital addition.

- People need to feel comfortable enough to talk. By utilizing the laid-back atmosphere of the weekly section meetings in the residence halls, a situation conducive to open dialogue will be created. After all, acceptance of an issue arrives most easily when it is discussed.

- In order to educate, there must be interest. By inviting such speakers as Jeanne Ashe, the wife of tennis legend and AIDS victim Arthur Ashe or Mary Fisher, the HIV positive mother who spoke at the '92 Republican National Convention, can stimulate discussion.

- Moreover, by introducing the cultural contributions of AIDS and HIV afflicted individuals to Notre Dame, a real sense of understanding and awareness can be obtained. Several artists such as Keith Haring, Gilbert & George, Tom W DAGAFF and Dimitri Galas have made it their purpose to reveal not only the disease but its impact on society as well. Perhaps an exhibit in the LaFortune, the Snite, or the Hershberg Library Concourse would help show the humanistic side to this epidemic.

The point is, Notre Dame must make some practical, pro-active steps towards awareness and education. As a Catholic university which purports to provide the ideals of enlightenment and compassion to its students, we are left with a sense of disappointment. However, this is an issue that can be resolved without compromising any of our Catholic heritage. This is an opportunity for Notre Dame to do what it does best: educate.

DOONESBURY

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Silence—the most perfect expression of scorn."

–George Bernard Shaw

Back to Methuselah
Economic and moral reform needed for violence

Friday, February 4, 1994

As to the economic aspect of this phenomenon, among white illegitimate births, only 1% occur in families with incomes of $75,000 while 69% occur in families with incomes under $20,000. Much more important to support this reform idea is not to supply cash but to provide a safe haven for victims of domestic violence, and this means responsibility for kids is conceived of outside of marriage. In the same way, if I were to give a professor a D or F because the student was unmotivated, how would the student react?

This proposal does not ask some women to sacrifice and argue, that Murray thinks women "get pregnant for the

It seems that Democrats who pick up the refrain which Republicans unsuccessfully but rightly began in 1992, "It's the family, stupid."

Mr. Peterson might be upset to know that we no longer have the same reputation as a bashing party. Rather, our dorm has become a consolidation of diverse and plural residence community. The mix of academics, athletics and social life is matched nowhere on campus. This fact is backed up by the enormous amount of women who want to transfer into the dorm for next year.

Administration chooses to convert wrong dorm

Dear Editor:

We are writing this in response to an article by Pete Peterson (the Observer, February 2). We write this letter not to thank him for expressing his views about Cavanaugh, his "ugly little dorm", but to respond to Mr. Peterson what North Quad is like in 1994.

First of all, Mr. Peterson resided in Farley, a dorm he characterized as "more mature". I think he would be discouraged to know that the reputation of Farley has become slightly tainted. The integrity of a dorm that chooses to be the sister dorm of Zahn has to be questioned.

With regards to Keenan/Stanford, we feel sorry for the people that are forced to endure that shocking palace. I guess all that 50" arches could have an effect on your attitude.

We are a group of students that cannot be dismissed by this dorm, we are a group who name your food sales, "The Trough", you bring ridicule upon our dorm.

That leaves our "brother" dorm, Cavanaugh. (I love to call Cavanaugh Zahn thrives on its terrible reputation. By subjecting their residents to such indignities, the residents gain a callousness to public opinion. Some people even believe that the reason that Zahn is more popular than Cavanaugh is the fact that the rest of the dorms did not want to have Zahn "guys" living in their dorm. Who could blame them? At least now, they are completely safe.

Finally, there is Cavanaugh. Morally, we would not know that we no longer have the same reputation as a bashing party. Rather, our dorm has become a consolidation of diverse and plural residence community. The mix of academics, athletics and social life is matched nowhere on campus. This fact is backed up by the enormous amount of women who want to transfer into the dorm for next year.

"The integrity of a dorm that chooses to be the sister dorm of Zahn has to be questioned."

DEAN: What does it mean to be a sibling dorm?

JACOB: It means that Zahn is the future of thequad is under-

This is the state of North Quad. Farley, Zahn, Cavanaugh and the future of the quad is under-

DEAN: It means that Zahn lives that way, Zahn thrives on its terrible reputation. By subjecting their residents to such indignities, the residents gain a callousness to public opinion. Some people even believe that the reason that Zahn is more popular than Cavanaugh is the fact that the rest of the dorms did not want to have Zahn "guys" living in their dorm. Who could blame them? At least now, they are completely safe.

"The integrity of a dorm that chooses to be the sister dorm of Zahn has to be questioned."

DEAN: Write us a letter, and we will publish it.

JACOB: We love you.

This letter was written to the Dean of North Quad.

Christian Philosophy

CHRISTOPHER COPPOLA

First and foremost, I believe that we should view the character of someone who commits a crime the first step on the path to justice is to take away their weapon. A man who uses his penis as a weapon of violence and injustice deserves to be disarmed. According to this, the thief should have his or her penis removed. If a punch meet a similar fate, in the world of sexual transgression, an individual's penis should have its or her tongue removed. However, if someone should sit on another person and consequently kill that person, then we can rule out off someone's butt. And what happens if a woman should rape a man? What punishment would this logic suggest? You'd better consult the Marquis de Sade on that question because the answer most certainly will not be found in the annals of American jurisprudence.

Ms. Santiola and I agree on one point: rape is a heinous crime. It should be punished to the fullest extent of the law. Rape in a marriage is a sin that cries out to heaven for vengeance. I believe this with all of my heart.

However, we in America have a system of laws that were designed to punish criminals. This system collapses when we take the law into our own hands and become the judge, jury, and executioner. The law was made to protect society, not to let John Bobbitt be. Because there is the one chance that a person could lose his or her right to have a penis removed due to a false accusation.

We live in a civilized country and we must be able to handle our tormentors outside of the law, we pursue a vendetta, an action contrary to the law, one which does not happen to be our friend's. (Fielder, February 7, 1994)

CHRISTOPHER COPPOLA

Fisher Hall

Dismemberment not appropriate punishment

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the viewpoint letter (The Observer shows poor taste with cartoon, the Observer, February 2, 1994). Ms. Santiola has men, are more likely to be perceived as the cause of crime and possible remedies never seem to be quite as remote, we seem to believe whether the problem is largely moral — people have no chance of escaping its relentless progress. But why?

When over break I remember my father repeatedly expressed his disgust at the breaking and entering in our school. The principal. I particularly remember that he was concerned for my future and that of my niece and nephew. I mention him in this letter (The Observer, February 2, 1994) because I believe in something longer than a day and age.

Finally, President Clinton de- voted a significant amount of his time to the source of the debate of the victim from the Southern minister trio and that of my niece and nephew. I mention him in this letter (The Observer, February 2, 1994) because I believe in something longer than a day and age.

"Fervent in his belief that "some­

Letter to the Editor

As to the economic aspect of the phenomenon, among white illegitimate births, only 1% occur in families with incomes of $75,000 while 69% occur in families with incomes under $20,000. Much more important to support this reform idea is not to supply cash but to provide a safe haven for victims of domestic violence, and this means responsibility for kids is conceived of outside of marriage. In the same way, if I were to give a professor a D or F because the student was unmotivated, how would the student react?

This proposal does not ask some women to sacrifice and argue, that Murray thinks women "get pregnant for the
The Observer • ETC.

Friday, February 4, 1994

etc.

Friday events

"True Romance," Snite Auditorium, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m., $2.
"Maltes," Cushing Auditorium, 8 and 10:30 p.m., $2.
"Cocktail" and "Risky Business," SMC Science Hall, 7:30 p.m., $2.
"Rendez-Vous comedy/Dating Game," LaFortune Ballroom, 7:30p.m. to 9:30p.m., Free admission, SUB.
"Crack-Ups Comedy Cafe," SM C Dining Hall, 9 to 11 p.m.
Babelfish Band, Mishawaka Midway Tavern, 9:30 p.m.
Elwood Splinters Blues Band, Madison Oyster Bar, 10 p.m.
The Road Apples, Alumni/Senior Club, 10:30 p.m.
"Intersection" 7:35, 9:55 p.m.
Iron Will 7:10, 9:30 p.m.
Intersection 7:35, 9:55 p.m.
"Cocktail" and "Risky business," SM C Science Hall, 9:45 p.m., $2.
"True Romance," Snite Auditorium, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m., $2.
"Cocktail" and "Risky business," SM C Science Hall, 9:45 p.m., $2.
"True Romance," Snite Auditorium, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m., $2.
ISO International Festival, 8 p.m., Washington Hall.
Tickets available at LaFortune Information Desk.
Saint Mary’s basketball vs. Carroll College, 2 p.m. AA.

Saturday events

"Maltes," Cushing Auditorium, 8 and 10:30 p.m., $2.
"Cocktail" and "Risky Business," SM C Science Hall, 7:30 p.m., $2.
"True Romance," Snite Auditorium, 7:30 and 9:45 p.m., $2.
ISO International Festival, 8 p.m., Washington Hall.
Tickets available at LaFortune Information Desk.
Saint Mary’s basketball vs. Carroll College, 2 p.m. AA.

Sunday

Misa en Espanol, 11:30 a.m., Brun-Phillips Hall Chapel, Padre Bruce Ceci. all are welcome.
"Three Men and a Cradle," French film Festival, Cushing auditorium, $2.

Movies

University Park East

Shadowslands 7:15, 9:50
Intersection 7:45, 9:55
Philadelphia 7, 9:35
Grumpy Old Men 7:30, 9:40
My Father the Hero 7:10, 9:20
Schindler’s List 8:15

University Park West

I’ll Do Anything 7, 9:40
Iron Will 7:10, 9:30
Bliss 7:20, 9:50

Romance beckons students at comedy dating game

By BEVIN KOVALIK

Hey singles- Are you sick of batting the bars, blind dance dates, crowded dorm parties and smoky clubs?

Well, the comical dating game "Rendez-vous" has come to Notre Dame from the Boston Comedy Company, so abandon your quest for the perfect match.

Billy Martin, the hilarious crowd-pleasing comedian, will serve as the show’s host, and will play cupid as students discover potentially true love or just laugh hysterically with their friends this evening at 7:30 p.m. in the LaFortune Ballroom.

Specially selected prior to the start of the show, ten women and ten men contestants will compete in four rounds until everyone is successfully matched.

During the start of each round one guest will interrogate three participants of the opposite sex, and based on the answers will choose someone to accompany them on a dream date, all expenses paid by the Student Union Board.

"The game will run just like the dating show on TV, but with a nineties twist," said Amanda DiGriGio, SUB coordinator.

Martin has implemented this dating extravaganza into his comedy acts across the country. He has written for "The Tonight Show" with Jay Leno, and has appeared on MTV, "Comic Strip Live," and other cable comedy channels.

"It’s not just a regular stand-up comedy act," explained DiGriGio. "Martin works this game into his entire show.""

Prize gifts for the lucky couples will include gift certificates to area restaurants, movie tickets, and perhaps tickets to Shakepeare’s "Romeo and Juliet" coming to Washington Hall, and tickets to the annual SUB sponsored spring concert, the band yet to be announced.

"This is something fun you and your friends can do before going out this weekend," added DiGriGio. "So, as the slogan goes you can come to meet your match or just come to laugh.

Daring and curious students who wish to participate in "Rendez-vous" may call the SUB office at 631-7757 before the festivities begin. Admission is free for everyone.

International festival offers cultural performances

By STEVE TANKOVICH

What do Lithuania, Italy, Lebanon, and Chile all have in common?

Sights and sounds from these countries will fill Washington Hall Saturday at 8 p.m. for the annual International Student Organization International Festival (ISO).

The festival is a mixture of performances representing many cultures on campus. Performers representing 35 countries will promote global awareness with authentic dances and musical recitals.

"The reason for the festival is to let different cultures throughout campus share their traditions and cultures with the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community, " said Esteban Cantillo, festival organizer.

"Everyone is welcomed and encouraged to attend," said Chamindra Dassanayake, festival coordinator.

Dassanayake and Cantillo are co-presidents of the ISO. They strongly encourage students from all cultures, including American, to participate in this annual ISO event.

"There is a notion here on campus that when you talk of something international you mean foreign," Dassanayake said, "but (the ISO) is open to anyone, any student can be a member."

In the past, ISO has sponsored a Latin American Dance, and the International Banquet. They also have several service programs, including visits to South Bend community schools to discuss international experiences, and working with an area woman who takes care of foster kids. Last April, they had a belated celebration of the 500th anniversary of the landing of Columbus.

Many of the performances at this year’s ISO Festival are becoming traditions in themselves. The ND Philippine Club will be performing Tinikling.

Tinikling is a complicated dance that involves performers dancing in rhythm through bamboo poles. Also, Troop ND will return for an American performance. This year will have two American acts, since the Ballroom Dance Club will also be performing.

We want to break the notion that Americans cannot participate in the performances, said Dassanayake.

Other performances at this year’s festival will include acts from Brazil, Guatemala, Mexico, Spain, France, and India. Also, the ND clubs Ballet Folklorico and Sabor Latino will perform.

Cantillo and Dassanayake would like to thank several organizations; the Hesburgh Peace Institute, the Campus Club Coordination Council, Student Government, the Alumni Senior Club, and the NCODC.

This festival is the first of two that the ISO will sponsor this year. The ISO will also be performing off-campus at the Century Center Bendix Theater on April 15.

Tickets for the ISO International Festival are $3 for students and $5 for the general public. They are available at the LaFortune Information Desk and at the ISO affairs office or at the door.
Accent Writer
By PATTI CARSON
They are valuable resources which reflect women's strength and vividly illustrate this theme and, organized that the art of quilting and the lives of many quilters from 1840 to 1950 in the Moreau Galleries at Saint Mary's College. This program runs from Feb. 4-27.

"In planning for our sesquicentennial year, we recognized that the art of quilting and the lives of many quilters powerfully and vividly illustrate this theme and, therefore, quilts have been given special prominence among this year's events," according to Dorothy Feigl, sesquicentennial committee chair and dean of academic affairs.

The picture of women's lives in the nineteenth century has been illuminated through the study of quilts. They are valuable resources which reflect women's social, political, and practical concerns in an age that often limited their participation to the domestic sphere.

Two of the few fields in which women could exercise their leadership qualities and pioneering spirit in the 1800's was missionary work and teaching. The Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Cross was founded in France in 1842.

This group of Sisters who arrived in northern Indiana in 1868 was full of pioneers and leaders in every sense. They found a thriving community comprised of European immigrants, Amish families, and even native Americans. All of these settlers possessed impressive textile skills, many in different styles of quilting.

Soon the Sisters were providing educational instruction for young girls of the surrounding community. In 1844, they founded Saint Mary's as an academy for women with special emphasis on the arts. Later to become Saint Mary's College, the Academy provided a rigorous academic program along with a year-end award premium for decorative needlework.

Saint Mary's became well-known as an outstanding educational institution, pioneering women's studies within a traditional framework. Many quilting revivals have surfaced in the past century, attesting to the enduring qualities of this artistic medium.

The quilts in this sesquicentennial exhibit span nearly one hundred years of change and tradition. They represent diversity of the community and the individual creativity of the quilters. Beginning with a quilt that traveled by covered wagon from Indiana to Pennsylvania in 1849 and ending with revival quilts of the depression era, each piece of artwork has its own interesting tale to tell.

The "Amish Picnic Roman Stripe Quilt," for instance, was made for Lydia Yoder by her mother Susie Miller in 1934 as a wedding gift. The blue velvet triangle in the center is taken from the mother's wedding gown.

Another interesting quilt on display is the Strawberry Appliqué Quilt. Crafted in 1875, this quilt was made for Charlotte Moore by Eva Bernhardt Fisher's troupeau in preparation for her marriage. Family story recounts that Eva grew tired of embroidering the seeds of strawberries and, therefore, left only the central wrenth as a detail.

"The Amish often leave a space in their quilts—a section to the least of their well-thought-out plans—to serve as an opening to let the spirit come in," said Sue Bender, author of Plain and Simple Journal.

The exhibition also includes a lecture by Elaine Hedges, author of Hearts and Hands. She will present a lecture entitled "Recovering the Past: Feminism and the Contemporary Quilt Revival." This presentation will take place on Friday at 7 p.m. in Little Theater.

Another lecture follows on Sunday at 3 p.m. in Little Theater. This is a presentation by quilt collector Rebecca Haarer entitled "Amish Quilts from Northern Indiana.

The Saint Mary's departments of Education and English will sponsor a program by local storyteller Kathleen Zmoda. She will present tales of women and

Quilt exhibition displays artistic tradition

By ROB ADAMS
Music Critic

Listening to emiLy's first release, "Walking Home on the Emergency Bed," and then listening to their new seven-inch, "Finer Time," is like taking a shot of vodka and   glugging a glass of apple juice. They're both there at the same time, but the second dose is a little easier to digest.

The band which began its career bouncing from song to song with seemingly little or no pattern and developing a musical unpredictability that Mr. Bungle might be proud of, has now drawn some boundary lines and is ready to take on all comers, somewhat symbolic of Lyle Taylor's cover art which depicts their home turf's porch.

Although only three songs longer, Finer Time is enough to exhibit the improvements that emiLy has crafted in only eight months. The trio's lineup, Joe Cannon on guitar and vocals, Mike Larmoyeux on bass, and Doug McEachern on drums, remains unchanged, but the talents behind the instruments are now supercharged, particularly from the bass and drums.

Early 1993 saw emiLy as a new band which often found itself trying to mold the skills of its three members together at a pace faster than most of its songs, resulting in something of a foot-race with Cannon leading the way. However, presently, their sound has the trio mounted on a three-seated bicycle, speeding ahead, speeding up, and waving to all their friends, family, and history.

"Two-thirds of our songs come from guitar lines," said Cannon, "a few come from Mike's bass lines and a few come from Doug's drum lines. I think Mike and I have more freedom in songwriting this year."

This updated alignment, created by the improvements made on the CD, are the sound they hope to take over the summer, finds emiLy in a position to claim its existence as a veteran of the campus scene...whatever that means.

"I get angry because there is a lot of talent on this campus that is getting completely ignored," said Cannon, "I have to give credit to Cielo for starting the excitement on this campus for underground music, but the problem is that if they are not on the bill most people will not be interested in going to see a campus show.

"Cartoon Sex," the first track off Finer Time concerns how fun sexual relationships are at our age, according to Cannon. "I think people find it too frightening," he screams at a peak in the song's layout, unflinchingly supported by Larmoyeux's railroad track-laying bass and McEachern's ingenious drum sequences.

"Finer Time" is about sitting around before you have any idea what you're going to be in a year and a half," says Cannon of the title track. "Finer Time" lessens its intensity the way a roller coaster's second hill is less intense; preparation for what is ahead is easier to achieve, but the rush is still there.

"5 (Frialator)" is an instrumental for the most part, but is possibly the strongest song emiLy has written to date. Cannon, electrified by the showcases each of the band members makes, reign to fuse together the three historical musical notions that make up emiLy's songs. Doug McEachern, whose furious drive which is rock and roll. Watching Cannon listen to the song is comparable to a father reminiscing about his son's first band recital.

"Listen to Doug here...when Mike plays the bass here he grinds his thumbnails into nothing...he always makes this face when we're about to begin...this is the place where Mike's bass sounds like grinding thunder...here we're going into battle..."

Cannon likens Larmoyeux's bass-playing to "(Frialator)" in "the at-walkers on the frozen plains of Hate" and about sums it up.

"The CD is a campus compilation but not done through the school because we'd have to censor it and do other nasty things with it," says Cannon.

"Other upcoming projects for emiLy include doing some studio recording next week (the band has about 17 songs that have yet to be recorded), a show at Dallyway's on Feb. 26, and a possible tour over spring break.

As far as Finer Time is concerned, the seven-inch has been sent to radio stations WXNU in Chicago, WCBN in Michigan, WBGU at Bowling Green, and WPBHz at Princeton, as well as a host of others. It is available for purchase from the band members, from Tracks, and from Orbit.

So what about the old emiLy?

"There are a couple songs from Walking Home on the Emergency Bed that we still get into," said Cannon. "There are a lot of ideas we like, we just don't like the way we chose to put those ideas together. We haven't superseded those songs, there are still six or seven that we'll be playing for a while."

Hence, although I would not recommend either of emiLy's releases to someone with heart disease, their music proves to be solid on both; Finer Time is just served with some parsley.

emiLy, a campus band coming of age

This strawberry applause quilt, which was crafted in 1875, was designed by artist Eva Bernhardt Plocher for her husband George Plocher. This quilt will be on display during the exhibition from Feb. 4-27 at Saint Mary's.

The quilt celebration continues throughout the summer with the "Quilt Lover's Trunk Show" at Haggar Center on June 4-5. The exhibition will also continue into the next academic year. The quilts give us images of home, tradition, art, and innovation. The quilt's expression:

"We wish to thank the quiltmakers themselves who represent one hundred years of artistic tradition that continues to wrap us in the warmth and beauty of history," said Marcia Pickard, exhibition committee chair.

emiLy is based on: ska, punk, and the furious drive which is rock and roll. Watching Cannon listen to the song is comparable to a father reminiscing about his son's first band recital.
I saw in the December issue of Common Sense that I have been outed by the delightful Ann Pettifer as a homo ludens, who awkwardly reveres the Church and the University which have allowed me a place in the sun. Obviously I could win stars for my crown as a prophet if I tried turning John Paul II into a laughing-stock.

But as Sam the Gonzophew warns us—he's one of Damen Bunnyn’s boys and dolls—"All life is 6 in 2 against..."

With odds like that, life is chancey enough without my making the change by joining Ms. Pettifer when she’s pointing out where the bodies are buried. If I knew where any bodies were buried, it would be my duty, I think, to pray for them, though it might sound mesus to add say as much. It isn't unkind of Ms. Pettifer to tempt me to publicly bite the hand that feeds her. I think she would invite you to bid adieu to the established Church of her perfidious Albion, of which I consider myself an only slightly lapidary member.

Didn't the present Archbishop of Canterbury say: "I see it as an elderly lady, who mutters away to herself in a corner, ignoring those on the floor?"

Ms. Pettifer would be able to tell, from the slightly-mutted cries of the press, that coming from this Amen Corner where I keep the night watch with the Lonely God, that being a tamed gryphon doesn't mean I've stopped belly-up to the sun.

Surely one should be able to see me turning the page at the point where I mused, when I mention it in print."

Of course, when I mention it in print."

"We can be admirable essayists. "We can be admirable essayists."

"I don't see why they would tell me a story. Ms. Pettifer urges "the estimable Gryphon to explore the dark side of his Camelot, where God's commandments are not kept and the truth is not admitted.--I have never doubt that there is a dark side to Griffin, and a dark side to the Catholic Church on the days when the Human Element seems to belong to party of anti-Chist.

Should the priest, the University, and the Church take to heart the Scriptures verse from 1 John placed at the beginning of Ms. Pettifer's admirable essay? "We can be sure that we know God only by keeping God's commandments. Anyone who says 'I know God,' and does not keep God's commandments, is a liar, refusing to admit the truth."
Despite tantrums, Knight demands discipline

By HANK LOWENKRON

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - Indiana coach Bob Knight demanded a clean-up session for his players. Sometimes, he fails to get it from himself.

As he worked the accomplishments of three NCAA "A" men and his onenships, 11 Big Ten titles, an Olympic gold medal and a college basketball there has been Bobby Knight a fiery temper.

The latest took place Wednesday night when he was exasperated in the second half after receiving two technicals for a series of cause-to-mispro, profanely-tired at the officials. The Hoosiers won in overtime 87-83.

It’s the third time this season that Knight, who became the center of the nation’s most important incident when he was arrested during the Pan American Games in Argentina allegedly beating a policeman, overshadowed the outcome of a game.

On Nov. 21, he was ejected from an exhibition game with Athletes In Action after accumulating two technicals. He was ejected for one game in December by Indiana after a verbal exchange with fans who booed him to express their displeasure over his allegedly kicking a player, Pat Knight — when he was a player.

The Big Ten said Thursday it planned no further disciplinary action for Knight for the latest incident, which some observers believe was a tool to motivate a team that was struggling.

“There will be no action,” Big Ten assistant commissioner Mark Rudner said. “It was a game situation, managed according to the rules calling for bench decorum. . . . Our office will receive a report from the officials. He was ejected and that’s going to be as far as we’re concerned.”

“I thought he would leave practice, and that’s what caused it,” said Ohio State coach Larry Bruner of the ejection.

Ohio State’s Larry Derberk is no stranger to Knight’s temper. The former Ohio State star belted a referee and got six years in prison when he played there.

Five years playing there, you have them playing six games as a freshman when Knight threw him out of a practice.

That was a little play, what he did sort of to motivate the team and the crowd,” Funderburk said.

Ejection in the Big Ten, Trailling 49-38 moments after Knight with 15:32 to play, the Hoosiers responded with 10 consecutive points in a 2:07 span to get back into the game.

“The game were on, par. 16 in the last of 16 minutes of the game, I thought the Indiana coach got a lot better,” Knight said. “I thought the officiating must have been better, also.”

Dan Dakich, an assistant to Knight who also played for him, credits the players for winning.

“It’s the third time this season that coach Knight always talks about, with the team, particularly seniors. With the way they’re playing out there, you have them playing as hard as they can. You have them elevating everybody.”

Dakich said.

Dakich said.

As you go following that Heinie phenomenon, that’s what has been teaching for Damon to do the four years that he’s here. Now he’s ready.

Well respected for his coaching by his counterparts, he’s been a boilby by others who own his sideline officiates often intimidate officials.

So did Indiana have one foul called against it in the second half before Knight’s ejection.

That Indiana, was called for three fouls until the overtime.

Dakich said.

The weekends were whisked by 24 fouls overall, compared to 14 by Indiana.

Dakich said.

The advantage 20-8 advantage at the line.

The Observer • COLLEGE BASKETBALL

BUU admits violations

Associated Press

MUNCIE, Ind. Ball State students told to the NCAA admitting to the violations that led to the resignation of coach Mark Underwood.

The university’s NCAA review committee Thursday all parties had agreed to a “summary disposition” procedure that will implement an official NCAA investigation.

Huskers resigned in October after a change in administration had revealed illegal inducements, extra benefits and unauthorized financial aid. Steve Payne, the Mid-American Conference tournament MVP last season, was one of the four still at Ball State, was suspended for two games at the start of the season.

He repaid $672 he was given a summer vacation stipend in 1991.

The Observer accepts classified business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the News Desk. In addition to ads and from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is 2 cents per character per day, including all spaces.

June 25, 1994

Page 17

Admissions demand discipline

AIDS Memorial Quilt

The NAMES Project

PEACE TO MARK GREG TIM ROB

SUMMER JOBS - ALL

IAN, & LIT. MEETING 6:30PM FEB.

IAN, & LIT. MEETING 6:30PM FEB.

INTERNATIONAL SUMMER OPPORTUNITIES

SPRING BREAK - PADRE ISLAND - WHERE ELSE are there at 23 Beddrom Condos. Parties, Beach, and so much more...

WANTED: Experienced, reliable, paid,proveu, HAPPY HOUR, 500 Week. OWNER DISCOUNT. Also Marco Island, Florida, Ft. Lauderdale, Ft. Lauderdale. 1-800-678-6386

What do you want for eSporting?rial?

APPALACHIA SEMINAR!

So did you get the gut of the puz

College of Business of Indiana State University

MUGS

On sale in the lobby of

6:30 Feb. 3 through 11

Sponsored by: ND Marketing Club

Is it in your mind?

I wanted: An exceptionally gifted tutor for advanced high school level courses. Test theory and proof knowledge wouldn’t hurt. I’m interested, leave a message Q 686-7292. Both parties are interested, leave a message @ 723-4245, 4:10 pm. Ask for Christine.

Wanted: A molded-to-shirt wet suit.

BSU admits violations

Associated Press

MUNCIE, Ind. Ball State students told to the NCAA admitting to the violations that led to the resignation of coach Mark Underwood.

The university’s NCAA review committee Thursday all parties had agreed to a “summary disposition” procedure that will implement an official NCAA investigation.

Huskers resigned in October after a change in administration had revealed illegal inducements, extra benefits and unauthorized financial aid. Steve Payne, the Mid-American Conference tournament MVP last season, was one of the four still at Ball State, was suspended for two games at the start of the season.

He repaid $672 he was given a summer vacation stipend in 1991.
University of Notre Dame
Summer Session 1994 Course List

The 1994 summer session will begin on Monday, June 20 (enrollment) and end on Wednesday, August 3 (final exams). Some courses — primarily in science, mathematics and languages — will begin and end before or after these dates. The summer session bulletin will contain complete schedule information. The bulletin will be available at the Summer Session Office (312 Main Bldg.) beginning on Friday, February 11.

Notre Dame continuing students — undergraduate and graduate students in residence during the spring semester of 1994 who are eligible to return in the fall — must use DART 1) to register for summer courses and 2) to add or drop courses through Friday, June 24. The DART PIN (personal identification number) for summer will be sent to all continuing students in early March. Course call numbers, along with all other course information, will be published in the summer session bulletin.

DART will be available for summer registration from March 14 to 31 and from May 2 to June 24. Students may register or make schedule changes whenever they choose during these periods; no appointment times are necessary.

Students may register for summer session courses at any time up to the first day of the course. Students who decide to register after DART closes on Friday, June 24, must complete the standard summer session application/course selection form.

Air conditioned and non-air conditioned housing and (optional) summer meal plans will be available. Forms for these services may be obtained at the Summer Session Office at any time during the spring semester.

Tuition for the summer session of 1994 will be $142 per credit hour plus a $30 general fee.

The 1994 summer session will begin on Monday, June 20 (enrollment) and end on Wednesday, August 3 (final exams). Some courses — primarily in science, mathematics and languages — will begin and end before or after these dates. The summer session bulletin will contain complete schedule information. The bulletin will be available at the Summer Session Office (312 Main Bldg.) beginning on Friday, February 11.

Notre Dame continuing students — undergraduate and graduate students in residence during the spring semester of 1994 who are eligible to return in the fall — must use DART 1) to register for summer courses and 2) to add or drop courses through Friday, June 24. The DART PIN (personal identification number) for summer will be sent to all continuing students in early March. Course call numbers, along with all other course information, will be published in the summer session bulletin.

DART will be available for summer registration from March 14 to 31 and from May 2 to June 24. Students may register or make schedule changes whenever they choose during these periods; no appointment times are necessary.

Students may register for summer session courses at any time up to the first day of the course. Students who decide to register after DART closes on Friday, June 24, must complete the standard summer session application/course selection form.

Air conditioned and non-air conditioned housing and (optional) summer meal plans will be available. Forms for these services may be obtained at the Summer Session Office at any time during the spring semester.

Tuition for the summer session of 1994 will be $142 per credit hour plus a $30 general fee.

Aerospace Engineering
- AERO 499. Undergraduate Research

Mechanical Engineering
- ME 298. Differential Equations and Applied Mathematics
- ME 327. Thermodynamics
- ME 334. Fluid Mechanics
- ME 342. Engineering Economy (London)
- ME 498. Engineering, Society and the International Community (London)
- ME 499. Undergraduate Research

Aerospace/Mechanical Engineering Graduate Independent Study
- AME 598. Advanced Studies
- AME 599. Thesis Direction
- AME 600. Nonresident Thesis Research
- AME 699. Research and Dissertation
- AME 700. Nonresident Dissertation Research

American Studies
- AMST 449. Writing Nonfiction
- AMST 498. Special Studies
- AMST 590. Thesis Direction
- AMST 600. Nonresident Thesis Research

Anthropology
- ANTH 405. Biological Anthropology
- ANTH 490. Archaeological Field School
- ANTH 491. Ethnographic Field Methods and Techniques
- ANTH 498. Directed Readings

Architecture
- ARCH 598. Advanced Studies
- ARCH 700. Nonresident Research

Art, Art History and Design
- ARHI 292. Art Traditions I
- ARHI 461/561. Twentieth Century Art 1900 to 1960
- ARHI 475/575. Directed Readings in Art History
- ARHI 593. Thesis Direction
- ARHI 600. Nonresident Thesis Research
- ARST 234/443. Metal Casting/Foundry
- ARST 284/489. Silk Screen
- ARST 311/411. Ceramic Sculpture
- ARST 409/599. Ceramics Studio
- ARST 433/533. Painting Studio
- ARST 435/455W. Drawing Workshop
- ARST 695/795. Special Studies
- ARST 855. Photography Studio
- ARST 859. Printmaking Studio
- ARST 678. Directed Readings
- ARST 708. Thesis Project
- DESN 2915. Graphic Design I
- DESN 470/570. Design of Eric Gill Workshop
- DESN 4955. Special Studies

Biological Sciences
- BIOG 496. Historical Natural History and Management of Central American Resources
- BIOG 496. Directed Readings
- BIOG 498. Undergraduate Research
- BIOG 569. Practical Aquatic Biology
- BIOG 599. Thesis Direction
- BIOG 669. Nonresident Thesis Research
- BIOG 672. Special Problems
- BIOG 699. Research and Dissertation
- BIOG 700. Nonresident Dissertation Research

Business Administration
- ACCT 231. Principles of Accounting I
- ACCT 232. Principles of Accounting II
- ACCT 334. Cost Analysis and Control
- ACCT 371. Financial Accounting Theory and Practice
- ACCT 470. Introduction to Federal Taxation
- BA 230. Statistics in Business
- BA 302. Legal Environment of Business
- BA 400. Corporate Strategy
- FIN 231. Business Finance
- FIN 300. Managerial Economics
- FIN 361. Business Conditions Analysis
- FIN 376. Business Financial Management
- MGT 231. Principles of Management
- MGT 248. Computers in Business
- MKT 475. Human Resource Management
- MKT 231. Principles of Marketing

Chemical Engineering
- CHEG 499. Undergraduate Research
- CHEG 590. Thesis Direction
- CHEG 699. Nonresident Thesis Research
- CHEG 699. Research and Dissertation
- CHEG 700. Nonresident Dissertation Research

Chemistry and Biochemistry
- CHEM 115. General Chemistry
- CHEM 160. Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 161. Organic Chemistry II
- CHEM 224. Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM 225. Organic Chemistry II
- CHEM 226. Organic Chemistry Laboratory II
- CHEM 417. Directed Readings
- CHEM 499R. Undergraduate Research
- CHEM 599R. Thesis Direction
- CHEM 699R. Directed Readings
- CHEM 699R. Research and Dissertation
- CHEM 700R. Nonresident Dissertation Research

Civil Engineering and Geological Sciences
- CE 498. Directed Studies
- CE 499R. Advanced Studies
- CE 599R. Thesis Direction
- CE 600R. Nonresident Thesis Research
- CE 699R. Advanced Topics
- CE 699R. Research and Dissertation
- CE 700R. Nonresident Dissertation Research
- GEOG 499. Undergraduate Research

Classical and Oriental Languages and Literatures
- COAL 290. Intensive Japanese
- COAL 340. Contemporary Japanese Culture
- COGS 200. Intensive Greek
- COGS 500. Intensive Greek
- COCG 300. Intensive Latin
- COGS 492. Introduction to Syriac Literature
- COGS 542. Introduction to Syriac Language
- COGS 580. Introduction to Syriac Grammar
- COGS 590. Introduction to Syriac Literature
- COGS 590B. Syriac Readings in the Classical Period
- COGS 590S. Syriac Readings in the Classical Period

Communication and Theatre
- COTH 201. Basics of Film and Television
- COTH 202. Introduction to Theatre
- COTH 361/561. Introduction to Film and Video Production
- COTH 419/519. History of Film I
- COTH 421/521. Acting Workshop
- COTH 480/580. Television Production
- COTH 493A. Broadcast Internship (WMDU)
- COTH 499. Research for the Advanced Undergraduate Student
- COTH 599. Special Studies
- COTH 599. Thesis Direction
- COTH 600. Nonresident Thesis Research

Computer Applications
- CAPP 243. Introduction to Computers
- CAPP 249. Introduction to Basic: Why People Do the Things They Do
- CAPP 315. Management Information Systems
- CAPP 497. Special Projects
- CAPP 498. Departmental Tutorial
- CAPP 499. Special Topics

Computer Science and Engineering
- CSE 221. Logic Design and Sequential Circuits
- CSE 232. Medical Imaging
- CSE 498. Directed Studies
- CSE 499. Advanced Undergraduate Research
- CSE 499R. Advanced Studies
- CSE 599. Thesis Direction
- CSE 600. Nonresident Research
- CSE 699. Research and Dissertation
- CSE 700. Nonresident Dissertation

Economics
- ECON 224. Principles of Economics II
- ECON 225. Introduction to Economics
- ECON 421. Money, Credit and Banking
- ECON 498. Special Studies
- ECON 599. Thesis Direction
- ECON 600. Nonresident Research
- ECON 687. Special Topics
- ECON 699. Directed Readings
- ECON 699. Research and Dissertation
- ECON 700. Nonresident Dissertation

Electrical Engineering
- EE 222. Introduction to Electrical Science
- EE 224. Electrical Circuits
- EE 233. Introduction to Electronic Circuits
- EE 242. Electronics I
- EE 498. Directed Studies
- EE 499. Undergraduate Research
- EE 599. Advanced Studies
- EE 599. Thesis Direction
- EE 600. Nonresident Research
San Antonio's David Robinson scored 19 points and notched eight rebounds as the Spurs beat the Cavaliers 98-97.

The Observer • PRO BASKETBALL

Spurs squeak past Cavaliers; Bulls win third straight

AP Photo

UCLA continued from page 28

"We'll be ready for them for sure." UCLA doesn't appear to have any major weaknesses that the Irish can exploit.

Speedy point guard Tyus Edney and explosive forwards Ed and Charles O'Bannon are among the nation's best at their positions.

Senior guard Shon Tarver was the Bruins' leading scorer a year ago and 7-foot center George Zidek clugs the lane. All five starters average in double figures. Ed O'Bannon leads the way with 18.9 points per game and Edney is scoring 14.8.

Tarver scored 13.5 points per game, Charles O'Bannon averaged 12.3 and Zidek is at 10.7. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has speedy point guards Lammarr Justice and Admore White and forwards Joe and Jon Ross are among the school's best at their positions.

Senior forward Monty Williams is the leading scorer and 7-foot center Matt Gotsch could barely clog a drain.

Only two Irish players have a double figure scoring average. Williams scores about 25 points per game and Ryan Hoover averages 10.

But Notre Dame has had matchup problems before. Against Duke, Notre Dame had beaten California so they would be unbeaten and No. 1 while they come to the Joyce Center, MacLeod joked, "I don't want them to come in at all.

"It looks like we are ready to go," O.Bannon said. "We are going to be ready to go." Notre Dame has already tuned up for the Bruins by beating Marquette and then Georgia 99, Lakers 88

Hakeem Olajuwon scored 10 and 7-foot center Maceo Robinson made a layup as he was fouled by John Williams.

"We were trying to get the ball inside to David for an easy basket," Ellis said. "I think we were so open we couldn't pick the jump shot. I was able to slip back door to the easy look. David found me wide open underneath the basket." Bulls 94, Jazz 85

R.J. Armstrong scored 20 points, Scottie Pippen added 19 and reserve center Bill Wennington scored eight in the final 6:52 to lead Chicago.

Karl Malone scored 24 points, but was held scoreless over the final 4:27 as the Jazz was held to its lowest point total of the season and lost at home for only the fifth time.

'Witty and Dreamlike, a remarkable book. The very best of the dream books.' - Neil Gaiman, "Sandman"

The Cowboys' leading scorer, averaging 14 points per game.

"We can't focus the whole week on UCLA," MacLeod said. "We also have to spend some time on Georgia." The Cowboys are currently 19-5 and forward Carlos Strong also averages 11 points per game.

The Bruins to the limit before falling 68-65 at Pauley Pavilion. Still, UCLA is a heavy favorite, even in the minds of some people close to Notre Dame.

"Aand if I were to wish that UCLA had beaten California so they would be unbeaten and No. 1 while they come to the Joyce Center, MacLeod joked, "I don't want them to come in at all.

"They have a lot of problems. The Bruins are a young team,

"We can't focus the whole week on UCLA," MacLeod said. "We also have to spend some time on Georgia." Georgia doesn't pose quite the threat that UCLA does, but Notre Dame is not yet to the point where it can overlook an opponent.

The Bulldogs are currently 10-6 and 4-4 in the Southeastern Conference.

Sunday's game, part of the Nike Supershow Classic, will be televised on ESPN at 3 p.m.

Guard Shandon Anderson is the Bulldogs' leading scorer, averaging 14 points per game.

Of course, with 19 and 15 rebounds, and George Lynch added 14 points and 12 rebounds.

Center Charles Claxton scores 11 points and grabs eight rebounds.

"It will be difficult playing two games in two days and we won't be able to focus completely on either team," MacLeod said. "But we'll be ready."
The first half lived up to the second ranked No. 1 Duke 89-78 consecutive week the country's game open in the second half 6-2 Atlantic rivalry had a 1 vs. 2 covered and couldn't get closer a 59-48 lead with 12:35 to play. Duke started the second half as it ended the first half with Chris Collins hitting a 3-pointer, his third in a row. Duke marked the two-point halftime lead when Collins made two 3-pointers in the first 3:18 around one by North Carolina's Derrick Phelps.

But the Tar Heels continued their torrid shooting while the Blue Devils tapered off. At one point Duke went 4-10 without a field goal. When Grant Hill finally hit a baseline jumper with 8:03 to play, it cut North Carolina's lead to 68-57, but by then the logout crowd of 13,767 was as loud as it has ever been at the Smith Center.

No. 10 Temple 65, Rhode Island 57
Temple struggled for more than a half against a 20-point underdog before the Owls' Big Three took over. Rhode Island was leading 33-31 with 13:28 remaining before Eddie Jones, Rick Brunson and Aaron McKie carried 10th-ranked Temple to a victory Thursday night.

"That team always gives us trouble," Temple coach John Chaney said.

The Rams have beaten the Owls in five of their last 11 meetings, including twice on Temple's home court.

Jones led Temple with 23 points and also had six steals. Aaron McKie had 15 points and 10 rebounds as Temple (15-2) boosted its Atlantic 10 record to 8-1. Andre Samuel led Rhode Island (7-10, 3-6) with 18 points.

No. 11 Massachusetts 62, Florida State 58
The Massachusetts Minutes lived up to their nickname again.

After playing catch-up with scrappy Florida State for most of the game, No. 11 Massachusetts erased a 10-point deficit in the closing minutes to down the Seminoles.

"It was a great win. I still don't know how we won it but I'm pleased," Massachusetts coach John Calipari said. "We managed to make the plays at the end."

"If we want to continue to win, we've got to come out of the gate better. We can't be a top team by coming from behind.

Rhode Island was leading the season. The team combined for 8 of 11 shooting from the floor and Joe grabbed eight rebounds. They also forced Duke center Cherokee Parks to miss 6 of 9 shots.

The reason Notre Dame nearly ended Duke's 87-game non-conference winning streak at home was mostly a large dose of Williams but also a dash of Ross, which has always been a bitter ingredient for Irish fans.

"I am concerned about what my players' coaches think and that is it. I am not concerned with what those people think," Joe said.

Notre Dame fans don't just think it, they have plastered inscriptions across the campus over the last four years. The annual Bookstore Basketball Tournament is the best example, the epicenter of Ross ridicule.

"Two Rosses don't make a right," Mr. & Mrs. Ross and three other guys who can't stand the Ross twins," and "The World Trade Center, The Ross Twins, and another unaccounted for national disaster," were a few unflattering team names that surfaced during last year's tourney. And the Keenan Review has always set aside a small portion of the show to criticize the twins.

"(It is criticism) is part of the responsibility of being an athlete at Notre Dame," Joe said. "I'm thinking about basketball and basketball players all have to go through it."

People think of the brothers as synonyms on the court. But they are different players as well as different with each other more clearly. He has gained 35 pounds since his first year at Storrs. He has improved his rebound average from under one game during his freshman year, to 5.6 this season. Offensively, however, he has never developed. He may finish his career without a double digit scoring game.

No. 20 North Carolina drils No. 1 Duke
No. 1 Duke (15-2, 6-2) never recovered and couldn't get closer than six points of the rest of the way.

This was the first time this storied rivalry had a 1 vs. 2 matchup, but the final margin shouldn't have been shocking. The last four times these teams have met, it was at least a 10-point victory for the home team.

It was the first 1-2 matchup since top-ranked UNLV beat Arkansas 112-105 on Feb. 10, 1990.

The first half Thursday night was something special as Duke took a 40-38 lead into the locker room. Except for the Blue Devils' 8-0 lead.

Brothers continued from page 28

spelling his brother and entering the lineup when coach John MacLeod goes with a tall line-up.

All will be needed if the Irish hope to compete with the Brunies and the O'Bannons on Saturday.

In the O'Bannons on Saturday.

of William but also a dash of Ross. Ross? Maybe Saturday, maybe another year. But will some people see it? No. Notre Dame has been dealt a new role by the brothers. Joe is clearly more physical. His role as a rebounder has been increased.

Dohman continued from page 28

not beat the Bruins in any thing.

Do something with the Go with the Irish because of their recent handicap law passed in the Indiana House of Representatives. Recently passed by the House, Indiana law would not be allowed within ten miles of the state border. Who knows what complications the basketball team may run into?

"Do it out of respect for Lou Holtz. Notre Dame was nice enough to choose Holtz over the basketball coach Terry Donahue. Think of all the John Ross twins. Notre Dame fans have all but abandoned the team. Lou Holtz would have mistreated the Ross twins. You'd think with the recent rise in education and the spiraling economy in California that the people of the state would watch their wallets."

"Lastly, do it because something has to be done. Notre Dame's Dwight Clay ended UCLA's 85-game winning streak against the Bruins. Against the team's last meet at the Smith Center, the Irish pulled a miracle upset. You see... Notre Dame is the only thing that is true. Or is that Disneyland?"
Cowboys hire Zampese

BY JOHN McFARLAND
Associated Press

IRVING, Texas

Saying he was "our guy from the word go," Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones on Thursday hired offensive coordinator Ernie Zampese of the Los Angeles Rams.

Zampese, 57, agreed to a three-year contract. He replaces Norv Turner, who was named coach of the Washington Redskins on Wednesday.

Turner was an assistant under Zampese in Los Angeles before taking over the Cowboys offense in 1991.

"Certainly he's the one we wanted for the job, he's a natural," Jones said by conference call from the Cowboys practice facility.

He knows the importance of the running game in our offense, so he was our guy from the word go," Jones said by conference call from the Cowboys practice facility.

Zampese has been the Rams' offensive coordinator the past seven seasons.

Last year, he coached the league's fifth-best running offense, which featured 1993 rookie of the year Jerome Bettis. Bettis finished second to Emmitt Smith in the NFL rushing title.

Smith said Zampese's arrival will ensure that the offense of the Super Bowl champions will continue to improve.

I know it's going to be very difficult to keep everybody, " he said.

The latest issue of "Sports Illustrated" didn't best summarize his season, labeling him Super.

"I don't feel like I'm Superman, I just feel like I went out and did my job the best I could," he said. "It's been a miracle season for myself."

Now he's ready for a little peace and quiet.

He said his shoulder, seriously injured during the Cowboys' 16-13 victory over the New York Giants on the last day of the regular season, isn't hurting too much.

"They (doctors) say let it rest, and they'll evaluate it in about two or three weeks," Smith said, adding he's experienced spasms previously.

Smith said he's even too tired to ponder the obvious question: can Dallas win a third straight Super Bowl, a feat never accomplished.

"I'm just going to try to relax from what happened a few days ago," he said. "People talk about a repeat, but its kind of premature really to start talking football hype for the fall."

Smith said he is concerned about the offseason.

Several key Cowboys, including Pro Bowlers Mark Stepnoski and Daryl Johnston, are unrestricted free agents.

"I think it's going to be important for the future of the Cowboys ... but I think it would be very important to keep it intact, what we do have right now," he said.

"I know it's going to be very difficult to keep everybody."

--

Smith seeks rest after Super year

BY JOHN McFARLAND
Associated Press

Not a bad year for Emmitt Smith.

He won his third straight NFL rushing title, and his Dallas Cowboys won the the Super Bowl for the second straight season.

Then there were those other things — the Super Bowl MVP award, the NFL MVP award and a spot in the Pro Bowl.

Smith, who did all that while missing the first two games and playing with an injured shoulder through the playoffs, even threw in a trip to Disneyworld for good measure.

"I've had a magical season," Smith said at a news conference after returning from the Florida theme park. "A lot of people will never be able to realize what it means to me because I'm not going to be able to describe it in you."

All of it was nice, he said, but without the Super Bowl victory, it didn't matter much.

"I think winning the Super Bowl makes everything ... it makes my whole season worthwhile, while," he said.

"It would have been very disappointing, even with all the things that I've done through the season, is to not win the Super Bowl," Smith was asked whether he obviously knows the offense well," Jones said by conference call from the Cowboys practice facility.

"He knows the importance of the running game in our offense, so he was our guy from the word go," Jones said by conference call from the Cowboys practice facility.

Zampese has been the Rams' offensive coordinator the past seven seasons.

Last year, he coached the league's fifth-best running offense, which featured 1993 rookie of the year Jerome Bettis. Bettis finished second to Emmitt Smith in the NFL rushing title.

Smith said Zampese's arrival will ensure that the offense of the Super Bowl champions will continue to improve.

"I know it's going to be very difficult to keep everybody, " he said.

The latest issue of "Sports Illustrated" didn't best summarize his season, labeling him Superman.

"I don't feel like I'm Superman, I just feel like I went out and did my job the best I could," he said. "It's been a miracle season for myself."

Now he's ready for a little peace and quiet.

He said his shoulder, seriously injured during the Cowboys' 16-13 victory over the New York Giants on the last day of the regular season, isn't hurting too much.

"They (doctors) say let it rest, and they'll evaluate it in about two or three weeks," Smith said, adding he's experienced spasms previously.

Smith said he's even too tired to ponder the obvious question: can Dallas win a third straight Super Bowl, a feat never accomplished.

"I'm just going to try to relax from what happened a few days ago," he said. "People talk about a repeat, but its kind of premature really to start talking football hype for the fall."

Smith said he is concerned about the offseason.

Several key Cowboys, including Pro Bowlers Mark Stepnoski and Daryl Johnston, are unrestricted free agents.

"I think it's going to be important for the future of the Cowboys ... but I think it would be very important to keep it intact, what we do have right now," he said.

"I know it's going to be very difficult to keep everybody."

--

Ryan gets command again in Phoenix

BY MEL REISNER
Associated Press

TEMPE, Ariz.

The punch is past, and Buddy Ryan's back a as a boss in the NFL.

A month after slugging a coaching colleague during Houston's final regular-season game, Buddy Ryan was hired Thursday as coach and general manager of the Phoenix Cardinals.

"You've got a winner in town," said Ryan, the Oilers defensive coordinator last season. "We're looking forward to winning. So today we start."

Ryan, who coached the Philadelphia Eagles from 1986-90 and led them to the playoffs three times, signed a four-year contract. He replaces Joe Bugel, who was fired Jan. 24 after a 7-9 season in which he failed to deliver on an ultimatum by owner Bill Bidwill to produce a winner.

The hiring comes as something of a surprise given that Ryan's stock was believed to have dropped considerably after he punched offensive coordinator Kevin Gilbride during a nationally televised game.

But Bidwill was unsettled by this latest run-in with a colleague and gave him the additional job of general manager, the first time the Cardinals have put one man in the dual role. The Cardinals had been without a general manager since Larry Wilson resigned Dec. 2.

"I have said we want to reach the next level," said Bidwill, who met with Ryan for two days before striking a deal. "Buddy Ryan has been to the next level. I anticipate he will take us there."

Ryan, who turns 60 this month, is entering his 25th year as an NFL coach. He takes over a team that has not been to the playoffs in a non-strike year since 1975 and has not won a playoff game since 1947.

"If there are any real good football players here, they're going to want to play for Buddy Ryan," Ryan said.

Ryan apparently became the Cardinals' top choice after the Washington Redskins hired Dallas offensive coordinator Norv Turner, who reportedly was offered the Phoenix Job of coach and general manager for $700,000 a year.

"I really didn't know that they didn't get him, and I don't really care," said Ryan, whose salary was not disclosed. "I mean, I knew Norv when he was a receivers coach with the Rams. I think I've got a better job than he's got."

He was out of football for two years after being fired by Eagles owner Norman Braman, who was unhappy with Ryan's tirades and the team's inability to get past the first round of the playoffs.

"Luxury Living You Can Enjoy & Afford"

"Where Tenants Are Of The Utmost Importance"

• 4 & 5 Bedroom Townhomes
• 2 Bathrooms
• Security Systems & Security Guards
• Kitchens With Dishwasher, Garbage Disposal, Refrigerator & Range
• Washer & Dryer in EACH unit
• Gas Heat
• Central Air Conditioning
• Professional Management
• Skilled & Responsible Maintenance
• Only 1 Mile From Notre Dame Campus

Meet Our Friendly Staff And Let Them Show You Our Beautiful Townhomes

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR 94-95 SCHOOL YEAR

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 232-8256
The surging Notre Dame women's basketball team will travel to the University of Loyola to face a daunting Ramblers team this Saturday in a game that will mark the first of six straight road games for the Irish.

The Irish women, 13-2 overall, now find themselves in sole possession of first place in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, with a 4-1 record in the MCC. Loyola, owners of a 5-12 overall record, is struggling this season, having lost their last two games and owning only one win in MCC play.

While the two teams seem to be heading in markedly different directions, Loyola's offense is not to be counted out. All five of the Ramblers' starters are averaging in double figures, with guards Clare Molloy and Lori Eiser at the forefront with 13.2 points per game. Notre Dame's offense is capable of countering anything the Ramblers may throw out, however, as they lead the MCC in scoring offense with 75.3 points per game. The Irish also lead in scoring margin (+10.5), free throw percentage (75.4), three-point field goal percentage (36.6), and rebound margin (+10).

They have also been sharp on defense, holding their opponents to an MCC second-best 64.8 points per game. Individually, freshman phenom Beth Morgan is leading the Irish with 16.3 points per game, while junior Letitia Bowen leads the team in rebounds with 9.7 a game. Senior point guard Karen Leary leads the MCC in free throw percentage with an 85.5 percent mark, good enough to rank her 14th nationally. As a team, the Irish are second in the nation in free throw percentage with a 75.7 percentage, behind only Bowling Green.

"By the numbers will translate into a win at Alumni Gym this Saturday night is the only question that remains to be answered," Irish head coach Muffet McGraw said. "Our Dame's all-time winningest coach, is not about to write off a victory over the Ramblers."

"The thing about Loyola," said McGraw, "is that they play very well at home. Butler, who beat us at our home court, only beat them by three at Alumni. While they have a very talented starting five, we have more depth as a team, and we hope to be able to wear them down. They are a very young team, and are improving with every game."

This game is important to the Irish, who seek to increase their lead in the MCC and earn a first round bye in the MCC tournament.

"This game is very important to our team," said McGraw. "We would like to stay in charge of the MCC, and consequently earn a bye in the first round of the MCC tournament."
Saint Mary's hopes to break streak

By KIMBERLY BERO
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's basketball team will strive to overcome a three-game losing streak when they play Carroll College tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Angela Athletic Facility.

The Belles, whose record stands at 4-10, dropped their third straight game Wednesday night against the University of Chicago.

"This game against Carroll College gives us a good chance to break our three-game losing streak," said head coach Marvin Wood.

The Belles will be relying on their four stalwart players, seniors Anne Mulcahy, sophomore Jennie Tausenheim, freshman Katy Lalli, and freshman Sarah Kopperud.

However, Carroll College has its own arsenal of power. Carroll's key player, Dana Demuri, is ranked nationally in both scoring and shooting percentages.

"Demuri is outstanding. She definitely poses a challenge," said Wood.

In preparation for Demuri and the rest of the Carroll offense, the Belles have been concentrating on both their timing and defense in practice.

"The girls have been working hard and enjoying themselves," noted Wood. "The team chemistry is great and their enthusiasm is at its highest point this season."

Fencers head east with confidence

By JOE VILLINSKI
Sports Writer

Things just don't get any easier for the Notre Dame fencing team.

After defeating defending NCAA champ Columbia last weekend in New York, along with St. John's and Rutgers, the Irish travel back east to Massachusetts to fence another slew of east Mike DeCicco schools headlined by an always tough Princeton squad.

"As a unit, this team may not have the skilled talent that it has had in recent years," said DeCicco.

"However, each fencer is working very hard to close the gap in that department."

So far, this gap has been sealed as the Irish sport a 5-0 record dating back to two early meets in November. Each succeeding meet has provided a different challenge, but each time the Irish stepped up to meet these tests.

Last week a team effort was needed in order to ensure the win.

"Last week showed that dual meet fencing is truly a team effort," noted DeCicco. "Against Columbia our full team really shined, while against St. John's our epee and sabre teams led us."

Besides Princeton, other teams the Irish face this weekend include North Carolina, Wellesley, Brandeis, MIT, Harvard, and Air Force.

Women's foil and epee will compete Saturday at Brandeis, while the men take on Air Force and Harvard at Cambridge. The teams will switch sites on Sunday as women's foil fences at Harvard and the men will face Princeton at Brandeis.

"We will once again compete against the best and see if we are really as good as we were at St. John's," said DeCicco.

HERE'S A COURSE THAT COMBINES ITALIAN AND ECONOMICS.

All You Can Eat
Spaghetti, Garden Salad, & Breadsticks
$5.95
Tuesdays, After 4PM

Talk about a heavy course load. If you're a Notre Dame or St. Mary's student or staff member, just show us your ID and we'll give you all-you-can-eat spaghetti with your choice of marinara, tomato or meat sauce. Plus unlimited fresh garden salad and warm garlic breadsticks. It's all just $5.95. And you don't have to be a math major to figure out that's a great deal!

The Notre Dame fencing team, shown here competing in the 1992 NCAA's, travel to Massachusetts this weekend.
They’ve played the best, now it is time to play the rest. However, in the CCHA, the rest are all great hockey teams.

After playing two of their past three games against top-ranked Michigan, the Notre Dame hockey team hosts two important conference games against the 20th-ranked Redshirts of Miami University (OH) on Friday and Saturday night at the Ice Dome.

This weekend starts the crucial stretch run for the Irish in which they hope to move up to at least sixth place by regular season’s end. This would give the Irish home-ice advantage in the first-round of the CCHA playoffs.

Right now, the Irish are in eighth place, but with a sweep this weekend, they could vault two spots. If this is to be the case, Notre Dame’s offense has to produce more goals. While the defense has recovered from its mid-season slump, the offense is sputtering. Although the Irish have had many scoring opportunities, the goals have been scarce.

Part of the recent trouble has been Michigan goalie Steve Shields, far and away, the nation’s best, but Notre Dame lacked a consistent scoring punch before facing the Wolverines.

Earlier in the season, the team’s freshmen had been providing a lot of points. Their production, though, has noticeably declined. A major reason for this could be the fatigue factor. Many were not accustomed to playing so many games at such a high level.

Friday’s game will be just their second in two weeks. This break should give the team, especially the freshmen, a chance to regain their legs. Look for skaters such as Tim Harberts, Terry Lorenz, and Brian McCarty to find their scoring touch next week.

If they, or other Irish skaters, step forward, Notre Dame will be in a solid position to make their stretch run. The defense and goalie have been solid as of late. With Greg Louder once again in control, the defense can worry about just doing their job, and not be concerned with who is between the pipes. Despite some recent line-up shuffling, the defense has seemed to improve.

They will need to continue their strong play against the streaking Redshirts. Miami has won eight consecutive games. Goalters Kevin Deschambeaut and Richard Shulmistra play in front of a defense that has allowed just ten goals in their past four games.

If not by either side of the ice, the Redshirts are led by sophomores Adam Seniors and Adam center Shawn Penn. Adams leads them in points, while Penn has tallied the most goals.

The Redshirts defeated the Irish in their previous meeting 3-1. These games mean a lot more and should prove to be highly competitive, as both clubs are battling to move up in the standings.

By BOB BAUM

Investigators continue to examine Harding case

As Tonya Harding skated Thursday, investigators considered whether she hid prosecution by initially lying about what she knew of the attack on rival Nancy Kerrigan.

The U.S. Figure Skating Association, meanwhile, was proceeding with steps that could lead to revoking Harding’s membership for unethical conduct. But that process could drag on far past the Lillehammer Games, and the U.S. Olympic Committee wasn’t commenting on what action it might take in the meantime.

Asked as she finished a practice skate what she thought of suggestions that she should remove herself from the Olympic team, Harding replied: “I don’t listen to what other people say.”

Harding, who has not been charged, admitted to authorities that she lied in the first part of her 10 1/2-hour interview at FBI headquarters Jan. 18.

She first told investigators she knew nothing about any involvement of her ex-husband, Jeff Gillooly, in the plot. She changed her story and implicated him only after her interrogators warned her it was illegal to lie to law enforcement authorities about her knowledge of a crime.

Under Oregon law, a person hinders prosecution by deceiving authorities to prevent the apprehension of someone who has committed a felony.

Kerrigan, a 22-year-old Richmond County deputy district attorney, said a New York Daily News report that Harding will be charged with hindering prosecution cut next week was incorrect.

“I am not excluding the possibility that the grand jury might choose to return hindering prosecution charges against someone in this case,” Frink said. “But at this point, it’s more speculation and no final decision has been made.”

Four people have confessed to plotting the attack on Kerrigan to knock her out of the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, and3 the N.O.H. has enhanced Harding’s chances of winning. They initially were charged with conspiracy. Harding also could face that charge if the grand jury determines it has sufficient evidence that she participated in the plot.

Kerrigan was struck down the right knee Jan. 6 in Detroit, where she was preparing for the national championships. In Kerrigan’s absence, Harding went on to win the competition.

Harding has said she had nothing to do with the plot but admits she did not come forward after her return to Portland, when she said she learned people around her were involved.

NBC News reported Thursday that Harding has been asked to voluntarily submit a handwriting sample and fingerprints to the FBI.

The FBI is examining scraps of paper found in a Portland restaurant trash bin that could help authorities break into Gillooly’s home. They are interviewing envelopes addressed to Gillooly and notepaper scribbled with doodles and the words “Tune Can Arena, Cape Cod” on one page and “Tony Kent Arena, Cape Cod” on another.

The FBI is also considering investigators that Harding made telephone calls to Kerrigan, one of which included an envelope addressed to Gillooly and note paper scribbled with doodles and the words “Tune Can Arena, Cape Cod” on one page and “Tony Kent Arena, Cape Cod” on another.

“Tony Kent Arena” is Kerrigan’s practice schedule at Tony Kent Arena in Portland, where an earlier attempt to attack Kerrigan was aborted.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami (Ohio) goalie Richard Shulmistra leads a defense which has allowed only ten goals in its last ten games.

By TIM SHERMAN

Miami (Ohio) goalie Richard Shulmistra leads a defense which has allowed only ten goals in its last ten games.

The Observer • SPORTS

Hockey faces powerful Miami
By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

One of the most underrated and under-publicized teams at Notre Dame will get the chance to showcase its talents among some of the nation's best this weekend. The men's and women's track teams host the prestigious Meyo Invitational meet this Saturday afternoon at Loftus.

"The meet is individually oriented and our kids will get to compete against some of the nation's top talent," said Notre Dame coach and meet director Joe Piane.

Twenty schools, including Big Ten powers Michigan, Purdue and Iowa, have entered athletes in the various track and field events. Other major competitors include Illinois St., Tulane, Eastern Michigan, DePaul and Marquette.

"It's an early season race, so it's an opportunity for kids to get an early seed in time for NCAA's and IC4A's," explained Piane. "This is our biggest meet thus far, and we have another big one later this month."

"There will be some good competition and it will be interesting to see if someone can compete and push our guys," commented Michigan head coach Jack Harvey.

The feature race of the meet will probably be the men's Mile. Michigan will have two of the best in the country in the race. Freshman Kevin Sullivan, a semifinalist in the World Championships summer, and sophomore Scott McDonald will compete against defending champion John Warren of Houston. Warren ran a 4:00 flat last year to win the race.

Notre Dame senior John Coyle, who ran a personal best 4:05 last year, expects this year's race to be even faster.

"It's definitely possible that someone will go under 4 minutes," said Coyle. "I hope to tag along and beat one of them in the last lap."

"It's one of the best fields I've ever been in," continued Coyle. "This is the first highly competitive meet for the whole team and we're looking forward to running well."

Other feature races for the men include the 800 meters, high jump, pole vault, 440 yards and the mile, 5,000 m, 200 m, 300 m and 3,000 m.

"The 800 will be an outstanding event," explained Piane.

The favorite in the event is Eastern Michigan's Tom Asinga, an Olympic semifinalist in the high jump, pole vault, 55 m, 200 m and 3,000 m. "This is the first highly competitive meet for the whole team and we're looking forward to running well."

Erica Peterson is one of the favorites in the 55 meter hurdles at Saturday's Meyo invitational. "The competition will be good and having people there who can jump will make me jump higher."

Two Notre Dame competitors are entered in the pole vault. "The best talents. The availability of New York Jets coach Bruce Cotul. Shula had ended 1993 thinking that his staff would remain intact despite a 3-11 season. Instead, he ended up with five new coaches, including an offensive coordinator and defensive coordinator."

Lynn resigned while the Bengal's staff was in Palo Alto, California.

Irish assistant moves up to the NFL

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Bengals filled out their largest-ever coaching staff Thursday by hiring Notre Dame assistant Joe Wessel to be defensive line coach.

Wessel, 32, spent the past three years at Notre Dame, where he coached linebackers and defensive backs.

Prior to that he was an assistant for six years at Louisiana State.

The hiring completed a reshuffling of coach Dave Shula's staff precipitated by the surprise resignation of defensive coordinator Ron Lynn and the availability of former New York Jets coach Bruce Cotul. Shula had ended 1993 thinking that his staff would remain intact despite a 3-11 season. Instead, he ended up with five new coaches, including an offensive coordinator and defensive coordinator.

Lynn resigned while the Bengal's staff was in Palo Alto, California.

French Film Festival

February 6-10

Three Men and a Cradle

Sunday at 3:00

Joe Wessel

Special $1 Off

Three Beautiful for You

Madame Bovary

Tuesday at 9:00

Cyrano de Bergerac

Wednesday at 9:00

A Femme Naka

Thomas Meighan

All shows at Cushing Reception to follow.
CALVIN AND HOBBES

JAY HOSLER

BIL WATTERSON

DANIELLE "Self" starter

8 Watched, with one (Part 3)

DON'T YOU MEAN "FEAST", HANNAH?

I'M AN ANGRY LITTLE MOGGIE WITH LUMPY GUTS FOR BRAINS!

SOONER, OR LATER, EVERYTHING FALLS FOR THAT

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

SPELUNKER

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

“Come on, Johnny — don’t be chicken... After it’s over, we’ll all be strawbrothers.”

OF INTEREST

DINING HALL

RENEZ-VOUS

Comedy / Dating Game
Friday, Feb. 4
7:30 Ballroom
Free Admission

Sophomore Literary Festival
February 18 - 17

French Film Festival
February 6 - 10

Cushing Auditorium
$5 admission for whole week

STUDENT UNION BOARD
Crazy Stuff... and More!!

Puzzle by Mark H. Maye

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-800-420-8566 (75¢ each minute).

NOSE DAME

SAINT MARY'S

Beef Noodle Soup
Mississippi Fried Catfish
Vegetable Calzone

Halibut
Veal Parmesan
Chicken Breast Gouda
Blé
SPORTS

Did someone say upset?

By JASON KELLY
Associate Sports Editor

You won't see Dwight Clay in a gold uniform with a big green clover stitched on the chest. You won't see Digger Phelps clad head-to-toe in plaid with a big green carnation pinned to the lapel.

You won't see Bill Walton's bushy red hair or John Wooden clutching a rolled-up program. You won't see Dwight Clay in a gold uniform for the Irish basketball woes the past two seasons but remain calm and distinguished.

But this display of integrity won't get them a spot on Larry King Live or best-selling autobiography, just a quite ride into the sunset.

In fact, Saturday's game against UCLA may be the last time the pair gains center stage, and for all the wrong reasons. Charles and Ed O'Bannon come to town as the hottest brother tandem in college basketball. They have led UCLA to a No. 4 ranking and a legitimate national title shot. The type of accolades Notre Dame hoped for its brothers.

"I have enjoyed my time at Notre Dame," said Jon, "the good and the bad." The bad has been dished out in heavy doses by Irish fans. And it will be like a rebirth Saturday if the O'Bannons play their usual style.

If the Rosses and UCLA's pair squared off in a game of two-on-two and all four hold true to their averages, the O'Bannons would win 31-8 and outrebound the Rosses 14-7.

In the simplest form, the O'Bannons are thoroughbreds while the Rosses are like that little horse that teeters back and forth in front of the stand. But Notre Dame needs the Rosses, even if the result, to some, is only worth a penny. When they play well Notre Dame is successful. Joe gives Notre Dame a solid defender in the paint and much needed rebounding. At times, Jon is a valuable reserve.

Like it or not, Notre Dame's success depends on strong performances from the Ross twins.

Irish Making Tracks
John Coyle and the Irish men's and women's track teams host the prestigious Meyo Invitational on Saturday.

see page 26

Inside SPORTS

Upset Brewing
Goalie Greg Louder and the Irish look for an upset against the 20th-ranked Miami (OH) Redskins.

see page 25

Their Kind of Town
Letitia Bowen leads the first place women's basketball team to Chicago to take on Loyola.

see page 23

JOCK STRIP

Bet it all on Notre Dame, because...

Notre Dame is the place where dreams come true.

Sure, it's easy to play it safe with the Bruins. Take the talent, the rankings, pick an O'Bannon and run with him. But why not back the underdog? Makeup for the dough you lost on the Rose Bowl.

• Throw your trust in the Ross twins, Joe and Jon. Their only difference is a mole. Jon's is on his neck. Joe's protrudes from his upper lip. Ignore the fact that they are going up against more skilled post players. This is one game. This is Notre Dame.

• Back the wounded veteran. Go with Irish forward Monty Williams. He has become one of the nation's top scorers despite a serious heart ailment. How can you not cheer for a guy with hypertropic cardio-myopathy? Most UCLA players couldn't say it or spell it, but they probably think they can catch it. They'll be stepping out of Monty's way all game.

• Go with meteorology. Notre Dame just beat Cal-State Northridge. They've proved themselves against a team from a warm climate.

• Back the Irish out of respect for John Wooden. The great coach began his career at South Bend Central only a few miles from the Notre Dame campus. But then again maybe we should leave Wooden out of this. The Bruin's public relations machine has already bled him dry. Rumors sur-faced that UCLA officials were asking permission to stuff the great coach upon his death and position him above a backboard in Pauley Pavillion.

• Cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame. It's just an old school that doesn't have much. Like Nebraska or Wisconsin - those schools

see DORHMANN / page 21

PROBABLE STARTING LINEUPS

FORWARD 13 Charles O'Bannon 6'6" Fr. 12.3 6.3
FORWARD 31 Ed O'Bannon 6'8" Jr. 18.9 8.1
FORWARD 25 Giorgie Zidean 7'0" Jr. 10.7 6.9
FORWARD 11 Tyrus Edney 6'10" Jr. 14.8 8.5
FORWARD 30 Danny Sheridan 6'8" Sr. 13.5 4.8
CENTER 24 Lamarr Justice 6'10" Sr. 4.5 3.6
GUARD 6 Jon O'Bannon 6'0" So. 12.7 5.6
GUARD 5 Ryan Hoover 6'9" So. 8.2 5.6
GUARD 30 Charles O'Bannon 6'1" So. 12.7 2.0
GUARD 3 Monty Williams 6'10" Sr. 4.5 3.6
GUARD 24 John MacLeod 6'4" Jr. 19.1 1.8
COACH
John MacLeod

see UCLA / page 20