TABA, Egypt—Israeli and PLO negotiators said in ending a week of talks Thursday that most outstanding issues on police, prisoners and civilian government matters could be resolved by early March.

"We’ve just waiting for decisions from higher authorities," chief Palestinian negotiator Nabil Shaath said.

"There is no need to hold further talks for months in weeks of talks. But the tenedency to delegate upward has stalled the talks for months in the past.

This week’s security talks focused on the Palestinian police force and the release of Palestinian jails in Israel. Both sides said the police issue was closed to terms of outlining co-ordination between the force and the Israeli army. Important details, however, were left for Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO leader Yasser Arafat to resolve.

The Palestinians want 10,000 police and 100 armored vehicles with machine guns. The Israelis want a limit of 6,000 police and 30 armored vehicles.

Others issues missing details include:

— Whether travel documents will be called "travel documents" or "passports.
— Whether Palestinian postage stamps with a green field to internal use, within the autonomous area, as Israeli deans, can be used for overseas mail as well.

Porter analyzes gender perceptions
By WENDY GRZYWACZ
News Writer

Although Thomas Aquinas’ writing did not often focus on women’s issues, his "austere view of gender roles" can be welcomed in the Catholic tradition of gender relations, according to Theology professor and Aquinas scholar Jean Porter, who gave a lecture yesterday.

Noting Aquinas does not have a lot to say about women, because of his centrality within the Catholic tradition, he has a "very positive role" in his "shared humanity" view of gender roles, Porter said. She explained that she was speaking "out of the perspectives" of her "tradition" as both a woman and scholar from a Catholic background.

Aquinas wrote that women were not "essentially different from men," and he believed that "non-moral" and "morally neutral" gender roles were created for the divine image," Porter said. She also welcomed his "sincerity and astringency" as she said the characteristic call to the "female sex" woman of traditional Catholic teachings, is not finally a good thing for women.

However, Porter also called attention to the White House to allow race-based scholarships

By CAROLE FELDMAN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Reversing Bush administration policy, the Education Department will allow colleges and universities to target scholarships to minorities in order to remedy past discrimination or diversify the student body.

People familiar with the department's policy decision said it was based on a finding that the race-based scholarships do not violate federal law.

"These kinds of programs have been around for a long time," Robert Atwell, president of the American Council on Education, said Wednesday night. "They are symbolically very important."

He applauded Education Secretary Richard Riley's decision to do so.

The future of race-based scholarships had been in limbo since 1990, when the Bush administration proposed that they be banned.

Riley expressed his support for the scholarships soon after taking office last year. But he agreed to delay any policy changes pending completion of a General Accounting Office review of the scholarships.

With the GAO's report in hand, the department has decided that schools may target scholarships toward minorities to overcome past discrimination, and, under certain conditions, to seek a more diversified student body, according to a person briefed by the department.

The person spoke on condition of anonymity. Details of the briefing were confirmed by two people familiar with its contents.

Education Department spokeswoman Kathleen Kohler declined comment on the department's decision. A formal announcement was expected later this week.

Opponents contend that race-based scholarships violate federal civil rights law and discriminate against white students by shrinking the amount of aid available to them.

"I think they're illegal," said Richard Komer, who was the Education Department's deputy assistant secretary for civil rights when the Bush administration sought to bar the scholarships.

Komer, now an attorney with a private interest group called the Institute for Justice, said his organization has no number of seats at a school can't be reserved for a particular race. Using the same argument, he said, "there could be a set of numbers of scholarships."

Richard Samp, chief counsel of the conservative Washington Legal Foundation, said the GAO report would only strengthen his hand in lawsuits challenging the policy.

The GAO reported last month that 4 percent of undergraduate scholarship dollars — and 5 percent of actual scholarships — were awarded on the basis of race.
Bengal Bouts... The epitome of competition

You have done thousands of push-ups and crunches for this moment. You have been started and stopped by countless jabs and rights for this moment, and you believe in this moment you march through the crowd, climb the stairs, and throw punches under the ropes.

Now that moment has arrived: The 64th Annual Bengal Bouts.

You have had through your classes for the past week, unable to pay attention. All you can conjure up is what you believe is about to happen. You turn to your left and think ahead to where you'd step into the ring for your bout.

You can now run twice as long as you once could. You can do three times as many push-ups. Your legs and stomach are hard; you’ve had long evenings.

You’re in the best shape of your life.

You stand in your corner, bearing but not listening to the introductions. All you can think is, “What is going to happen in the bout? Can I keep him down? Who will tire first? What if I lose?”

You are jolted out of your anxious reverie by the sound of the bell. You walk to the center of the ring, touch gloves, take a step back. The bell rings, and the combat begins.

The next six-and-a-half minutes are the longest and shortest of your life. When you look back on your bout tonight, and tomorrow, and countless times afterwards, it will have seemed like you’ve been away thinking this now, however. As you sit on the stool in your corner awaiting the final round, you cannot believe you will have another round to go. Your lungs are screaming. Your legs shake from fatigue. Yet when the bell sounds, you get up and touch gloves at the center of the ring.

You party, slip and jump, trying to remember and incorporate all of the punches, defenses and techniques you have been taught. It’s all you can do to keep you arms up. You feel like you can’t throw one more punch, let alone combinations of punches. Yet somehow you keep throwing.

After what seems like forever (How can 90 seconds seem like 100?), the bell rings, signaling the end of the third round and the bout’s conclusion.

Next to the laugh of a girl and the voice of Sinatra, this bell is the prettiest sound you have ever heard in your life.

You bug your equally exhausted opponent, prodded by your corner’s rejuvenation.

Bernie Lintcrome, sportswriter for The Chicago Tribune, put it best: “No place else in second half. It is the most honest admiration for each other than in the moment a fight ends.”

The decision is announced. An arm is raised. Winning or losing, you have done your best, pushing yourself further than you’ve ever been, than you ever thought you could.

In this moment, you can say, with pride, that you’re a Bengal Bouter.

For years, bashful Indian teen-agers have lived out their fantasies in the pages of romance novels imported from Britain. But now their dreams are coming home. A local publishing company just launched India’s first series of English-language romances written by and about Indian women, selling out its January and February editions. The books — with sex and just one kiss in the final pages — are far less explicit than the English Mills & Boon romance novels in which passion is vivid and sometimes steamy. But the new romances still challenge the conservative values of a country where marriages are arranged by elders and many love-starved teens dare not hold hands in public. Only 4 percent, or 35 million of India’s 880 million people, read English. Still, Rupa editors say there’s a big market for English-language romances cultivated by Mills & Boon. Kissing is all right, but just one. “In ‘A Symphony of Hearts,’” the February release, a 28-year-old filmmaker and her business tycoon sweetheart first kiss on the second-to-last page. Then they get married.

New Delhi

Indian Romance Novels Bring Love Home

Paper Defends Use of Doctored Photo

NEW YORK

A photo that could not have been taken before today appeared on the front page of New York Newsday on Wednesday — olympic skaters Nancy Kerrigan and Tonya Harding at practice on the same ice. All but underneath is a fake, the photo includes a caption saying the skaters “appear to skate together in this New York Newsday composite illustration. Tomorrow, they’ll really take to the ice together.” That’s exactly what happened and photos of the actual event became available this morning. Pictures blending those images together have increasingly become an ethical issue with advances in digital computerized editing techniques. Bill Serrin, a journalism professor at New York University, said the front page distorts reality. “If readers are going by a newspaper, they’re going to suspect it’s a real picture. And that’s why they put it on there, to sell newspapers,” he said. Don Forst, editor of New York Newsday, defended the picture as one that “set the table” for what would happen the following day in a dramatic story, and not a deception. “It wasn’t hidden; it was in 12-point type. We’re not thinking this now, however. As you sit on the stool in your corner awaiting the final round, you cannot believe you will have another round to go. Your lungs are screaming. Your legs shake from fatigue. Yet when the bell sounds, you get up and touch gloves at the center of the ring.

Taylor Will Undergo Hip Replacement

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, struggling with painful arthritis in her hip, will undergo hip replacement surgery next month, a spokeswoman said today. “She’s been in pain for some time,” Miss Taylor’s publicist, Chen Sam. Miss Taylor, 61, was hospitalized at St. Vincent’s Hospital and Health Center in Santa Monica on Jan. 14 for tests on her left hip, which she left abruptly on Jan. 17 earthquake forced evacuation of the hospital. A statement from Dr. John Moreland, an orthopedic surgeon, said Taylor has osteoarthritis in her left hip, a condition in which cartilage has worn out, “causing painful bone-on-bone contact. Taylor will be hospitalized from five to seven days, Sam said. The exact date and location of the operation were not disclosed.

Taylor Will Undergo Hip Replacement

LOS ANGELES

Actor Elizabeth Taylor, struggling with painful arthritis in her hip, will undergo hip replacement surgery next month, a spokeswoman said today. “She’s been in pain for some time,” Miss Taylor’s publicist, Chen Sam. Miss Taylor, 61, was hospitalized at St. Vincent’s Hospital and Health Center in Santa Monica on Jan. 14 for tests on her left hip, which she left abruptly on Jan. 17 earthquake forced evacuation of the hospital. A statement from Dr. John Moreland, an orthopedic surgeon, said Taylor has osteoarthritis in her left hip, a condition in which cartilage has worn out, “causing painful bone-on-bone contact. Taylor will be hospitalized from five to seven days, Sam said. The exact date and location of the operation were not disclosed.

ABC schedules Roseanne’s kiss

There may not be a kiss-off for “Roseanne” after all. ABC said Thursday it will air an episode of the popular comedy March 1 that features Roseanne Arnold exchanging a kiss with Marilu Henner. Exactly how that encounter will play remains to be seen, according to ABC spokesman Steve Battaglio, who said the segment had been shot but postproduction was not complete. “There have been discussions concerning how the kiss will be depicted,” Battaglio said. “Those talks are continuing.” He said the episode will also carry a parental discretion advisory. In the episode, titled “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell,” Arnold’s character, Roseanne Conner, gives ABC a bar with bisexual friends Nancy, played by Sandra Bernhard. After dancing with Hemingway, Roseanne makes a wisecrack that is misinterpreted. To the effect that the episode, which takes place in December, 1989, Roseanne, husband of the star and the series’ co-executive producer, charged that ABC was refusing to air the episode because of the kiss. He called the network’s decision misguided and “homophobic,” adding, “Roseanne is shocked.”

Indian Romance Novels Bring Love Home

Paper Defends Use of Doctored Photo

NEW YORK

A photo that could not have been taken before today appeared on the front page of New York Newsday on Wednesday — olympic skaters Nancy Kerrigan and Tonya Harding at practice on the same ice. All but underneath is a fake, the photo includes a caption saying the skaters “appear to skate together in this New York Newsday composite illustration. Tomorrow, they’ll really take to the ice together.” That’s exactly what happened and photos of the actual event became available this morning. Pictures blending those images together have increasingly become an ethical issue with advances in digital computerized editing techniques. Bill Serrin, a journalism professor at New York University, said the front page distorts reality. “If readers are going by a newspaper, they’re going to suspect it’s a real picture. And that’s why they put it on there, to sell newspapers,” he said. Don Forst, editor of New York Newsday, defended the picture as one that “set the table” for what would happen the following day in a dramatic story, and not a deception. “It wasn’t hidden; it was in 12-point type. We’re not thinking this now, however. As you sit on the stool in your corner awaiting the final round, you cannot believe you will have another round to go. Your lungs are screaming. Your legs shake from fatigue. Yet when the bell sounds, you get up and touch gloves at the center of the ring.

Taylor Will Undergo Hip Replacement

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, struggling with painful arthritis in her hip, will undergo hip replacement surgery next month, a spokeswoman said today. “She’s been in pain for some time,” Miss Taylor’s publicist, Chen Sam. Miss Taylor, 61, was hospitalized at St. Vincent’s Hospital and Health Center in Santa Monica on Jan. 14 for tests on her left hip, which she left abruptly on Jan. 17 earthquake forced evacuation of the hospital. A statement from Dr. John Moreland, an orthopedic surgeon, said Taylor has osteoarthritis in her left hip, a condition in which cartilage has worn out, “causing painful bone-on-bone contact. Taylor will be hospitalized from five to seven days, Sam said. The exact date and location of the operation were not disclosed.

Taylor Will Undergo Hip Replacement

LOS ANGELES

Actor Elizabeth Taylor, struggling with painful arthritis in her hip, will undergo hip replacement surgery next month, a spokeswoman said today. “She’s been in pain for some time,” Miss Taylor’s publicist, Chen Sam. Miss Taylor, 61, was hospitalized at St. Vincent’s Hospital and Health Center in Santa Monica on Jan. 14 for tests on her left hip, which she left abruptly on Jan. 17 earthquake forced evacuation of the hospital. A statement from Dr. John Moreland, an orthopedic surgeon, said Taylor has osteoarthritis in her left hip, a condition in which cartilage has worn out, “causing painful bone-on-bone contact. Taylor will be hospitalized from five to seven days, Sam said. The exact date and location of the operation were not disclosed.

ABC schedules Roseanne’s kiss

There may not be a kiss-off for “Roseanne” after all. ABC said Thursday it will air an episode of the popular comedy March 1 that features Roseanne Arnold exchanging a kiss with Marilu Henner. Exactly how that encounter will play remains to be seen, according to ABC spokesman Steve Battaglio, who said the segment had been shot but postproduction was not complete. “There have been discussions concerning how the kiss will be depicted,” Battaglio said. “Those talks are continuing.” He said the episode will also carry a parental discretion advisory. In the episode, titled “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell,” Arnold’s character, Roseanne Conner, gives ABC a bar with bisexual friends Nancy, played by Sandra Bernhard. After dancing with Hemingway, Roseanne makes a wisecrack that is misinterpreted. To the effect that the episode, which takes place in December, 1989, Roseanne, husband of the star and the series’ co-executive producer, charged that ABC was refusing to air the episode because of the kiss. He called the network’s decision misguided and “homophobic,” adding, “Roseanne is shocked.”
Community and church leaders gathered in The Hesburgh Center for International Studies last night to voice concern over the recent local and national rise in crime; and how the Michiana area can combat this problem. The Crime Initiative Conference for Church Leaders was headed by Reverend Sylvester Williams, Jr. of I.C.U. ministries in South Bend. This ministry manages WURS-FM, a local radio station dedicated "to the cause of a violence-free community". I.C.U. has targeted an area of South Bend for a door-to-door education campaign with the dual purpose of decreasing the hold of violent crime on the community and preventing the spread of violence into the younger generation. This targeted area, which is bounded by Portage street to the north, Williams street to the east, Western street to the south, and Olive street to the west, was selected specifically by Williams for its diversity.

Demographically, the area cuts across all boundaries, economically and socially. Williams stressed that there is good and bad here, "businesses both legal and illegal". He called last night's conference, in order to gain input from several church and community leaders in the St. Joseph county area and to foster interest in achieving five goals through this campaign: We must collectively move in unity, disregarding differences in faith and trusting in a common belief in Jesus," Williams said. He also stressed the importance of enlisting parishioners and making the people actively responsible for their safety.

Williams' five goals as stated by I.C.U. are: Education, Housing, Employment, Health and Safety, and Mental Health. Also represented was the Hesburgh Center for Peace Studies last night. This targeted area, which is demographically the area south, and Olive street to the north, Williams street to the south, and Western street to the west, was selected specifically by Williams for its diversity. He called last night's conference, in order to gain input from several church and community leaders in the St. Joseph county area and to foster interest in achieving five goals through this campaign.

"We are not here to be your sugar daddy," he said. "We are here to give hard facts." To illustrate the ideas behind this program, and the means of implementing them, Williams called upon Patricia O'Donnell, graduate student in sociology, who presented her master's thesis on the correlation between child abuse and violent crime and her concentration for the past five years has been violent crime. O'Donnell did her master's thesis on the correlation between child abuse and violent crime and her concentration for the past five years has been violent crime. O'Donnell presented three major focuses which any program of this kind must adopt.

The first is prevention, which, she said, starts in the home. In a study of prison inmates in 1986, it was found that inmates convicted of violent crimes were "far more likely to have been a victim of child abuse" than those convicted of nonviolent crimes.

Other precursors for violent crime are a lack of role models or employment for the youth of the community, or appealing alternatives for the benefits of a gang lifestyle. In order to reverse this dangerous trend O'Donnell suggested investment, both financially and spiritually, in these "high-risk" communities. Positive programs of improvement in education and housing, for example, would be a logical first step for the Conference.

A second important goal is the halting of career criminal violence. Statistics have shown that a small percentage of criminals commit a large majority of crimes, and intervening in this group is a crucial goal. "This is a short career," said O'Donnell, "and we only have a short time to catch and apprehend these criminals."

This means improvement of police-community relations by the increase of foot patrols and lessening the area which an individual officer patrols.

Thirdly, recidivism must be decreased, according to O'Donnell.

The amount of criminals who commit additional crimes upon their release from prison is on the rise, because the inmates in most cases think that they have no viable alternative. Prison re-entry programs and halfway houses have worked before, but O'Donnell warned, "If there was one specific program that was proven to work, it would have been implemented everywhere as a gang lifestyle."

In order to have the desired effect, the program must be integrated into the community. She applauded the leaders on their effort.

"Each individual we lose is a potential contributor to our society. It is worth the effort to prevent even one person from becoming a violent criminal," she said.

Suburban pastor Warren Wolmer expressed concern that suburban parishes live in a "comfort zone". He pointed out the racial and economic polarization of churches, and suggested concentrating not so much on the diversity of the church communities, but on our unity in Jesus.

"We have common ground that we can move forward on," he said. Also represented was the March For Jesus Campaign, which expressed concern about the involvement of territories Jim and Sharon Chump expressed interest in having a march in South Bend.

The march was started in 1987 when almost 15,000 people processed singing through a cold London rain. This year's march, scheduled for June 25th, will be worldwide, involving more than 100 nations Chump presented the march as part of a solution for the community.

"The sole purpose," he said, "is not to change peoples' doctrines and beliefs but to exalt Jesus Christ in the streets."
Feminism
continued from page 1
"undoubted ambiguities" and marked disinterest of Aquinas in women's issues.

Aquinas followed many of the beliefs of Aristotle, including his belief that women resulted from a "defect in biology" and that women were meant to be subordinate, especially in marriage, she said.

In her discussion of tradition, Porter called for a much greater inclusiveness - especially at Notre Dame, where the preservation of tradition is considered so important.

"This tradition can often be 'constructed and valorized in a way that can be exclusionary rather than inclusive," she said. Finally, what Porter called the "politicizing" of the reading of Aquinas on the campus of Notre Dame, urged her to call for "scholarly standards and objectivity" in the reading of his material.

Pangborn
continued from page 1

"If there are any questions please call Jake Peters at 1-5323 or Tom Lillig at 1-6900. This is not just a question of contraception," said binding. "It is a question of life and death, and every alternative should be available for discussion." Lienhard added that just because Notre Dame would make contraceptives available, it would not mean that they would support usage. He compared this idea to the presence of "dissenting theologians and non-Catholic students whose ideas are not necessarily supported by the university."

The judges concurred that the main failure of the affirmative team was their failure to address the Catholic character issue presented by the negative team.

According to the judges the negative team presented more relevant information, and addressed the topic of Catholic character more effectively. The Stanford team received votes from all three judges. Patricia Bianchetti assistant professor of philosophy, Ramzi Bishahian lecturer of computer science, and Catherine Chavez, law student. Escapee and Regel will advance to the final round of the debates to be held on Feb. 24 in LaFortune.

If you see news happening, let us know at The Observer: 631-7471
Senate bill federalizes too many crimes, says Reno

By MICHAEL SNIFFEN
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Too many crimes better handled by local police and prosecutors could become federal offenses under the Senate crime bill, Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday.

"There's an effort in some of the Senate provisions to federalize too many crimes that should be handled by local prosecutors and should be handled by local police officers," Reno told her weekly news conference. "They're not federal issues, and they're not a federal problem."

Reno did not say which provisions she objected to.

The $22.3 billion crime bill passed by the Senate last November would make gun-related violent crimes federal offenses subject to mandatory minimum sentences, such as 10 years in prison for possessing a gun during a robbery. Experts estimate more than half a million state and local offenses that could become federal crimes under the gun amendment alone.

In addition, the Senate bill would make federal crimes out of many gang-related actions, including encouraging someone to join a street gang involved in illegal activities.

House committees are at work on several crime measures that might be combined with the Senate bill in a conference.

The Clinton administration is growing more favorable to the Senate bill daily but still has not spelled out its position on many of its specific provisions.

FEC: LaRouche to receive funds

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Political extremist-Lyndon B. Johnson's 1992 presidential campaign will be paid an initial $100,000 in federal matching funds for an unsuccessful race he ran from prison.

The Federal Election Commission approved the payment Thursday to comply with a Supreme Court ruling that ended a legal squabble over whether LaRouche was entitled to the money.

"We feel there is no limit to what we can do, that it's out of our reach to really change the way things are. I feel there is no limit to what we can do—it only depends on how much of ourselves we want to give," said Shane, a member of the group.

The campaign may apply for more matching funds April 1, the FEC said. The final total will depend on the total amount of money raised for the campaign.

LaRouche—who has run for the Democratic presidential nomination in every election since 1976—was sentenced to 15 years in prison Jan. 26 after serving five years of a 15-year sentence. He was convicted of fraud and conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service by deliberately underreporting income over more than $30 million in campaign loans from supporters.

LaRouche received matching funds for his 1980, 1984, and 1988 campaigns, which featured warnings of global economic collapse, political upheaval and war.

But the FEC at first refused to certify LaRouche as eligible for the money for the 1992 race because of the conviction and past violations of federal election law.

"He was denied because of fraud related to fund-raising," FEC spokeswoman Kelly Huff said.

SHANE-
What a smile-then and now! Happy 21st Birthday!

Love,
Dad, Mom and Erin

Senator Bill Federalizes Too Many Crimes, says Reno

WASHINGTON

Too many crimes better handled by local police and prosecutors could become federal offenses under the Senate crime bill, Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday.

"There's an effort in some of the Senate provisions to federalize too many crimes that should be handled by local prosecutors and should be handled by local police officers," Reno told her weekly news conference. "They're not federal issues, and they're not a federal problem."

Reno did not say which provisions she objected to.

The Clinton administration is growing more favorable to the Senate bill daily but still has not spelled out its position on many of its specific provisions.

FEC: LaRouche to receive funds

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Political extremist-Lyndon B. Johnson's 1992 presidential campaign will be paid an initial $100,000 in federal matching funds for an unsuccessful race he ran from prison.

The Federal Election Commission approved the payment Thursday to comply with a Supreme Court ruling that ended a legal squabble over whether LaRouche was entitled to the money.

"We feel there is no limit to what we can do, that it's out of our reach to really change the way things are. I feel there is no limit to what we can do—it only depends on how much of ourselves we want to give," said Shane, a member of the group.

The campaign may apply for more matching funds April 1, the FEC said. The final total will depend on the total amount of money raised for the campaign.

LaRouche—who has run for the Democratic presidential nomination in every election since 1976—was sentenced to 15 years in prison Jan. 26 after serving five years of a 15-year sentence. He was convicted of fraud and conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service by deliberately underreporting income over more than $30 million in campaign loans from supporters.

LaRouche received matching funds for his 1980, 1984, and 1988 campaigns, which featured warnings of global economic collapse, political upheaval and war.

But the FEC at first refused to certify LaRouche as eligible for the money for the 1992 race because of the conviction and past violations of federal election law.

"He was denied because of fraud related to fund-raising," FEC spokeswoman Kelly Huff said.

SHANE-
What a smile-then and now! Happy 21st Birthday!

Love,
Dad, Mom and Erin

Senator Bill Federalizes Too Many Crimes, says Reno

WASHINGTON

Too many crimes better handled by local police and prosecutors could become federal offenses under the Senate crime bill, Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday.

"There's an effort in some of the Senate provisions to federalize too many crimes that should be handled by local prosecutors and should be handled by local police officers," Reno told her weekly news conference. "They're not federal issues, and they're not a federal problem."

Reno did not say which provisions she objected to.

The Clinton administration is growing more favorable to the Senate bill daily but still has not spelled out its position on many of its specific provisions.

FEC: LaRouche to receive funds

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Political extremist-Lyndon B. Johnson's 1992 presidential campaign will be paid an initial $100,000 in federal matching funds for an unsuccessful race he ran from prison.

The Federal Election Commission approved the payment Thursday to comply with a Supreme Court ruling that ended a legal squabble over whether LaRouche was entitled to the money.

"We feel there is no limit to what we can do, that it's out of our reach to really change the way things are. I feel there is no limit to what we can do—it only depends on how much of ourselves we want to give," said Shane, a member of the group.

The campaign may apply for more matching funds April 1, the FEC said. The final total will depend on the total amount of money raised for the campaign.

LaRouche—who has run for the Democratic presidential nomination in every election since 1976—was sentenced to 15 years in prison Jan. 26 after serving five years of a 15-year sentence. He was convicted of fraud and conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service by deliberately underreporting income over more than $30 million in campaign loans from supporters.

LaRouche received matching funds for his 1980, 1984, and 1988 campaigns, which featured warnings of global economic collapse, political upheaval and war.

But the FEC at first refused to certify LaRouche as eligible for the money for the 1992 race because of the conviction and past violations of federal election law.

"He was denied because of fraud related to fund-raising," FEC spokeswoman Kelly Huff said.

SHANE-
What a smile-then and now! Happy 21st Birthday!

Love,
Dad, Mom and Erin

Senator Bill Federalizes Too Many Crimes, says Reno

WASHINGTON

Too many crimes better handled by local police and prosecutors could become federal offenses under the Senate crime bill, Attorney General Janet Reno said Thursday.

"There's an effort in some of the Senate provisions to federalize too many crimes that should be handled by local prosecutors and should be handled by local police officers," Reno told her weekly news conference. "They're not federal issues, and they're not a federal problem."

Reno did not say which provisions she objected to.

The Clinton administration is growing more favorable to the Senate bill daily but still has not spelled out its position on many of its specific provisions.

FEC: LaRouche to receive funds

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Political extremist-Lyndon B. Johnson's 1992 presidential campaign will be paid an initial $100,000 in federal matching funds for an unsuccessful race he ran from prison.

The Federal Election Commission approved the payment Thursday to comply with a Supreme Court ruling that ended a legal squabble over whether LaRouche was entitled to the money.

"We feel there is no limit to what we can do, that it's out of our reach to really change the way things are. I feel there is no limit to what we can do—it only depends on how much of ourselves we want to give," said Shane, a member of the group.

The campaign may apply for more matching funds April 1, the FEC said. The final total will depend on the total amount of money raised for the campaign.

LaRouche—who has run for the Democratic presidential nomination in every election since 1976—was sentenced to 15 years in prison Jan. 26 after serving five years of a 15-year sentence. He was convicted of fraud and conspiring to defraud the Internal Revenue Service by deliberately underreporting income over more than $30 million in campaign loans from supporters.

LaRouche received matching funds for his 1980, 1984, and 1988 campaigns, which featured warnings of global economic collapse, political upheaval and war.

But the FEC at first refused to certify LaRouche as eligible for the money for the 1992 race because of the conviction and past violations of federal election law.

"He was denied because of fraud related to fund-raising," FEC spokeswoman Kelly Huff said.

SHANE-
What a smile-then and now! Happy 21st Birthday!

Love,
Dad, Mom and Erin
African army training stirs debate

By ARIEH O’SULLIVAN
Associated Press

JERUSALEM

Israel has approved a $50 million deal to send combat veterans to the Congo to train the army, but some Parliament members and parents backtracked Tuesday in sending young Israeli soldiers to the Central African Republic. A group of 20 more are slated to join them at a secret training area short of Serb defiance this week, and led by a retired one-star general are already in the Congo's capital.

Interior Minister Martin Meriér said Tuesday that it hired Israeli military experts to help put down an eight-month battle with opposition guerrillas claiming fraud in last year's elections. About 40 Israelis recently released from elite combat units and led by a retired one-star general are already in the Central African country. A group of 20 more are slated to join them at a secret training area short of Serb legislation and worried parents.

The Defense Ministry authorized the Israeli company to provide military advice to President Pascal Lissouba, who is fighting rebels loyal to ousted President Denis Sassou-Nguesso.

Meriér's comments were the first government confirmation that it hired Israeli military experts to help put down an eight-month battle with opposition guerrillas claiming fraud in last year's elections. About 40 Israelis recently released from elite combat units and led by a retired one-star general are already in the Central African country. A group of 20 more are slated to join them at a secret training area short of Serb legislation and worried parents.

The Defense Ministry authorized the Israeli company to provide military advice to President Pascal Lissouba, who is fighting rebels loyal to ousted President Denis Sassou-Nguesso.

Meriér’s comments were the first government confirmation that it hired Israeli military experts to help put down an eight-month battle with opposition guerrillas claiming fraud in last year's elections. About 40 Israelis recently released from elite combat units and led by a retired one-star general are already in the Central African country. A group of 20 more are slated to join them at a secret training area short of Serb legislation and worried parents.

The Defense Ministry authorized the Israeli company to provide military advice to President Pascal Lissouba, who is fighting rebels loyal to ousted President Denis Sassou-Nguesso.

The shirt that tells the TRUTH!

NOV. 13, 1994

FINAL

NOTRE DAME

THE REAL

1993 NATIONAL

FOOTBALL

CHAMPIONS

Printed in beautiful
NOTRE DAME colors

NATIONAL CHAMPS!

100% Heavyweight

NOTRE DAME

T-SHIRTS & SWEATSHIRTS

$15.95

$26.95

- Phone Orders Accepted
- 310-791-4002
- Visa-M.C.-CHECK

Winking systems, Inc.
3809 PCH, Suite 101
Torrance, CA 90505

DATE: SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 20
TIME: 7:00 P.M. - 8:15 P.M.
AT: FISCHER-O'HARA GRACE COMMUNITY CENTER

Sponsored by:
The University Counseling Center Campus Ministry
Fischer-O'Hara Grace University Village
Graduate Student Union

Refreshments will be provided!
U.S. to keep control of forces

By JOHN DIAMOND
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
In a revamped, still-classified proposal, the Clinton administration says the United States should retain command over its military forces involved in United Nations peacekeeping missions.
The proposal drafted by President Clinton's national sec­ tory team is a substantial reversal from a policy contemplated last year that would have involved rapid expansion of U.S. involvement in peacekeeping and the acceptance of U.N. command over U.S. troops.

Under the new proposal, the United States would yield operational control of military forces only on a case-by-case basis and could override an order from a U.N. commander.

The turnabout follows stiff congressional criticism about U.S. participation in the U.N. humanitarian effort in Somalia and concerns about the possibility of NATO air strikes over Bosnia.

A typical comment came ear­ erly this month from Senate Republican leader Bob Dole:
"United Nations peacekeeping
— both at headquarters in New York and in the field — is out of control."
The policy, titled "Presidential Decision Directive 13," is still in draft form. But administra­tion officials briefed law­makers and key congressional staffers on the proposal this week. A copy of an administration summary was obtained Thursday by The Associated Press.

PenTAGEN spokesman Kathleen delaski said Clinton has not yet signed the document but said it is "nearing a state of readiness." Congressional aides, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Clinton is expected to sign the directive in a matter of weeks.

According to the draft policy:
— The president "retains and will not relinquish command authority over U.S. forces participating in U.N. peace operations."
— The greater the likely U.S. combat role, the less likely that the president would "consider placing U.S. forces under operalional control of a U.N. commander."
— Contrary to Clinton's statedents during his presidential campaign, the United States would not establish any separate military force for operation under a U.N. command.
— The United States reserves the right to terminate participation in peacekeeping operations at any time.

The proposal also does not stipulate an end date for the U.S. participation. Clinton has anec­ docally said he would like to step down from Somalia service
soon in the year 1995.

The proposal could overrule an order from a U.N. commander.

The proposal also does not stipulate an end date for the U.S. participation. Clinton has anec­ docally said he would like to step down from Somalia service
soon in the year 1995.

The proposal also does not stipulate an end date for the U.S. participation. Clinton has anec­ docally said he would like to step down from Somalia service
soon in the year 1995.

Arthritis drugs may delay or halt Alzheimer's disease

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
Anti-inflammatory drugs used against arthritis also tend to slow or block the onset of mind-destructing Alzheimer's disease, a study suggests.

The study, to be published Friday in the journal Neurology, compared the drug-taking history of 56 pairs of elderly twins and found that the twin who had been taking anti-inflammatory drugs for arthritis was least affected by Alzheimer's.

"We found that the twins who had used anti-inflammatory drugs had four times greater likelihood of being the later-afected and the non-affected member of the pair," said Dr.

Arthur Andersen
is proud to announce the following University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College students have accepted employment offers to join us after graduation.

Christopher Adler, Chicago
Elizabeth Baillargeon, Chicago
Christopher Barry, Chicago
Angeles Beltri, Houston
Michael Bremmer, Chicago
Jane Brooks, Chicago
Robert Burke, Chicago
L. Russell Carr, Chicago
Carolyn Carson, Chicago
Dennis Dixon, Pittsburgh
Greg Graceffo, Boston
Amy Hughes, Chicago
Christopher Ike, New York
Regina Kearns, New York
David Kisch, Minneapolis
Aaron Kutylo, Chicago
Ann Laing, Dover
Daniel Lee, Chicago
Robert Leonard, Atlanta
Tiffany Loughren, Pittsburgh
Sarah Lowthorpe, Minneapolis
Elizabeth McConnell, Chicago
James McGuire, Minneapolis
Colleen O'Connor, Atlanta
Theodore Peterson, Cincinnati
Anne Pierson, Atlanta

Arthur Andersen
Arthur Andersen & Co. SC
Clinton: Probe to cost millions

By PETE YOST
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

President Clinton declared Thursday the Whitewater criminal investigation will cost tax-payers millions of dollars though "most of it has nothing to do with me." The prosecutor turned his attention to Mrs. Clinton's former law firm.

In Little Rock, Ark., a broad document called a notice subpoena was delivered to the Rose law firm this week including "an admission against any shedding or destruction of materials," said one person employed by the firm.

Special agent Robert Fiske's admission directs the firm to preserve information on computers as well as paper documents that may pertain to the investigation, less weighty to a second person who was read portions of the notice by a different Rose employee. Both people spoke on condition of anonymity.

After a report in The Washington Times last week raising the question of shredding, FBI spokesman Deets said the AARP will run an advertising campaign and the American Medical Association will take advantage of the threat.

Attorneys at the Rose law firm — who deny any shredding took place — have been gathering material for the wide-ranging investigation.

Robert Fiske's admission directs the firm to preserve information on computers as well as paper documents that may pertain to the investigation. Both people spoke on condition of anonymity.

FBI spokesman Deets said the AARP will run an advertising campaign and the American Medical Association will take advantage of the threat.
Peace talks to begin, former governor freed

By LAWRENCE KOOTNIKOFF

SAN CRISTOBAL DE LAS CASAS, Mexico

Government and guerrilla negotiators will meet Monday to begin talks to end the peasant rebellion in southern Mexico, the government said today.

Government peace commissioner Manuel Camacho Solis said the talks would be in the southern state of Chiapas, but he wouldn't specify where until Sunday for security reasons.

The announcement followed by less than 24 hours the rebel release of Abalon Castellanos Dominguez, the former governor of the southern state of Chiapas, kidnapped by the rebels Jan. 2, a day after his uprising began.

The Zapatista National Liberation Army attacked and controlled several cities Jan. 1 to demand better treatment for the Maya Indian peasants in the state plus better economic conditions.

At least 107 people, mostly rebels and civilians, were killed in fighting that ended with a unilateral cease-fire called Jan. 12 by the government.

The rebels' release of Castellanos was a gesture greeted by Camacho on Wednesday as a "f irm step toward peace." It was his first face-to-face encounter with the rebel Zapata­ sti National Liberation Army.

Castellanos, 70, returned to his ranch after being held 47 days in a remote forest hideout. He has said the rebels did not mistreat him and showed no sign of his ordeal other than a new beard.

Flanked by four hooded rebels, he walked to freedom along a dirt road in this tiny village in southern Chiapas where electricity was first introduced last year and telephones don't exist.

The 300 applicants approved as the rebels shouted, "Viva the Zapatista Army!" About 160 journalists were on hand as well as government officials.

"We have fulfilled our promise," shouted the rebels, carrying automatic weapons and wearing their signature ski masks and red handkerchiefs.

The unidentified man in civilian dress recited a list long of complaints against Castellanos, a retired army general who commanded the Mexican army in Chiapas before serving as governor from 1982-88. Rebels accuse him of stealing Indian land and jail­ling those who op­posed him.

Castellanos denied the charges but in a television interview broadcast late Tuesday, admitted failing to adequately address social injustices.

"I hope we will soon see peace and tranquility in Chi­ pas," Castellanos said in a brief statement after being examined by Red Cross workers.

His release was seen as a condition for peace talks. The government earlier released 38 suspected rebels and was preparing to free 32 others, acc­ ting to Mexican news reports.

In what may have been a similar gesture toward peace, the government announced a huge increase in spending for rural social programs.

The rebellion began New Years Day when the previously unknown Zapatistas briefly took over several towns in Chiapas, Mexico's southernmost state, to protest mistreatment and oppression of Indian peasants, most of whom live in poverty.

The fighting died down two weeks later after the government declared a unilateral cease-fire.

Castellanos, said by the rebels to be their only hostage, was kidnapped from his ranch. He planned to spend the night in his home before taking a military flight today from the Chiapas capital of Tuxtla Gutierrez to Mexico City. It was not immediately known if Castellanos would meet with President Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

In late January, the rebels said Castellanos had been sentenced to death but that they commuted the sentence to life at an indigenous community to atone for his sites against Indians.

A majority of the 3.2 million Chiapas residents are Indians, many of whom speak no Spanish and live in tiny farm plots without running water or electricity. Hospitals and schools are scarce. The Zapatistas say Indians are dying of curable diseases.

Christmas in April

Join together with seven of your friends to participate in Christmas in April (CJA).

CJA is a one day working session during which the South Bend community will join forces with the students, faculty, and staff of Notre Dame and St. Mary's to renovate and repair the homes of the needy, elderly, and handicapped residents of a South Bend neighborhood.

SIGN UP Tuesday, February 22nd and Wednesday, February 23rd, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Library Concourse LIMITED SPOTS AVAILABLE

Hardest hit by quake unreachable

By MUCHITAN ZAKARIA

LIMA, Indonesia

Rescuers found many roads blocked today when they reached an earthquake that killed at least 184 people on the island of Sumatra in southwestern Indonesia.

A government spokesman, Hotman Atik, said that the death toll was expected to rise. One unconfirmed report said 207 bodies had been recovered.

The earthquake shook southern Sumatra before dawn Wednesday, injuring at least 2,389 people when buildings collapsed and sleeping residents in Lima and other towns in the province of Lampung, about 125 miles northwest of Jakarta. Atik said 1,016 people suffered serious injuries.

Power was disrupted, phone lines cut and roads reduced to mud and rocks. Many injured remained trapped in the rubble waiting for help, and rescue­ ers in helicopter were hindered by heavy seas.

The earthquake had a Richter reading of 8.3, according to the office of the Indonesian Seismological Center in Jakarta. The U.S. Geological Survey in Washington put the strength at 7.2. Most of Lima's 50,000 residents crowded out in an open field Wednesday night, enduring aftershocks that sent some running for the door. Umpu Simba, a regent of Lima, said safe drinking water was in short supply.

The quake, the first in Lampung in 20 years, was felt throughout southern Sumatra. Tremors were also felt as far away as Jakarta.

Elwa, the land region nearer the center of the earthquake, is four miles north of Mount Pesagi, a volcano and highest mountain in Lampung.

In December 1992, an earthquake of magnitude 7.5 killed at least 2,356 people and destroyed thousands of buildings and homes on Flores Island, 950 miles southeast of Jakarta.

Weather

Fair

Mexico City $199
Costa Rica $973
Guatemala $845
Panama City $865

Mexico City is $199. Last price was $1175. Find low price by day. Fares are effective Jan 24 through March 31 and are based on roundtrip travel. Surcharges and taxes apply. Call for other worldwide airfares.

Council Travel

Unbeatably low, forfeiture

414-556-4321

Call for other worldwide airfares.

Student Travels magazine

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA

CIA
Chinese jetliner hijacked to Taiwan with 128 on board

By PATRICIA KUO
Associated Press

TAIPEI, Taiwan

A Chinese jetliner carrying 128 people on board was hijacked to Taiwan Friday, the government-run Broadcasting Corporation of China reported.

The hijacking took place in the first thin year and the 11th since last April. All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but his three co-defendants were freed in 1989 after an appellate court reversed their convictions because the government admitted that police had altered evidence.

The talks have bogged down over a number of issues, including jurisdiction over hijackers. China wants them returned immediately for trial, but Taiwan has insisted that each case be judged individually.

Taiwan also wants China to acknowledge the right of religious and political asylum.

Proposal called ‘utter hypocrisy’

By DONNA BRYSON
Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG

A leading Zulu nationalist ridiculed the latest peace offer from the ANC as a ploy Thursday, bolstering fears that political unrest may undermine South Africa’s historic election in April.

Mangosuthu Buthelezi, leader of the Inkatha Freedom Party, said the ANC’s characterisation of new political proposals as a compromise was “utter hypocrisy.”

White conservatives who also are threatening to boycott the first all-race election April 26-28 also reacted coolly.

But Buthelezi held out hope of an eventual agreement with the African National Congress and President F.W. de Klerk’s white-minority government, which led talks on ending apartheid and allowing the black majority to vote.

“We are committed to participating in the election — provided that they walk that extra mile,” Ruthelezi told state television.

Conservative whites and blacks, grouped in the Freedom Alliance, fear the ANC will win the election and impose a socialist dictatorship that will marginalise minority rights. They want sovereign or independent territories where they can govern themselves and maintain privileges enjoyed under apartheid.

Alliance leaders were expected to meet soon to discuss the proposals announced Wednesday by ANC leader Nelson Mandela.

Mandela said at a news conference his group had dropped its demand for a single-ballot system in the April vote.

The Alliance has demanded that voters cast two ballots — one for a national Parliament and another for regional legislatures. The ANC wanted a single ballot, with the votes applying to both assemblies.

A single ballot would have virtually assured the huge ANC a majority of seats in both the national and provincial legislatures.

Two ballots would give small, regionally based parties — such as Inkatha in the Kwazulu black homeland — a chance to establish power bases in their areas of support.

Mandela also said the ANC approved amending the new constitution to allow consideration of a white homeland after the election. He did not give details, but said the ANC supported having the current Parliament change the new constitution to incorporate such a clause.

Both the government and the ANC have firmly opposed setting up territories along racial lines, and it was unclear if Mandela’s statement indicated a significant shift in policy.

ERASMUS BOOKS
• Used books bought and sold
• 25 Categories of Books
• 25,000 records and paperback books in stock
• Online Database Search Service
• $2.00
• Approvals large and small

Open noon to six
Tuesday through Sunday
1027 E. Wayne
South Bend, IN 46617
(219) 232-6444

Pre-Law Meeting
February 21 at 7:30 p.m.
Cushing Auditorium

Guest Speaker:
Dean Link
from the Notre Dame Law School

Topic:
"The Future of the Law Profession"

The Future of the Law Profession

The Future of the Law Profession

Mary Coul FEATURING:
Martin Fink and

Friday, Feb. 18
9:00 - 11:00 p.m.

Cost: $3.00 per person

NITLEY'S CAFE

F R O M :  S L I C K E R  B O Y !

TO: SHANE IGOE

HAPPY 21ST BIRTHDAY,
SLICKER BOY!
FROM:
YOUR BIGGEST FAN,
NIKI TAYLOR

Advertisement Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.

All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but said he made the confession under duress.

Hill has been free on bail while appealing his conviction for helping kidnap the soldier, who was executed by the Irish Republican Army, but said he made the confession under duress.

The future is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Advertising Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.

All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but said he made the confession under duress.

Hill has been free on bail while appealing his conviction for helping kidnap the soldier, who was executed by the Irish Republican Army, but said he made the confession under duress.

The future is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Advertising Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.

All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but said he made the confession under duress.

Hill has been free on bail while appealing his conviction for helping kidnap the soldier, who was executed by the Irish Republican Army, but said he made the confession under duress.

The future is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Advertising Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.

All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but said he made the confession under duress.

Hill has been free on bail while appealing his conviction for helping kidnap the soldier, who was executed by the Irish Republican Army, but said he made the confession under duress.

The future is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Advertising Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.

All the previous hijackings, said the Associated Press Thursday, included passengers remaining in Taiwan for trial and the planes, crew and passengers being returned to China.

BUCCY said the Boeing 737 belonging to China's domestic Southwest Airlines landed at Taipei's international airport at 10:42 a.m. (9:42 p.m. Thursday EST). Officials said the Taiwan Air Force scrambled two F-5E fighter jets to escort the hijacked plane to Taiwan.

His appeal hearing is scheduled to begin next Wednesday in Belfast.

Kennedy to attend murder appeal

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II plans to attend the murder appeal hearing of his brother-in-law, Paul Hill, in Northern Ireland next week, a Kennedy spokeswoman said Thursday.

Hill was one of the Guildford Four who were convicted and spent 16 years in prison for the 1974 bombings of pubs in Guildford and Woolwich, England, but said he made the confession under duress.

Hill has been free on bail while appealing his conviction for helping kidnap the soldier, who was executed by the Irish Republican Army, but said he made the confession under duress.

The future is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Advertising Design Personnel

Applicants should have a strong interest in graphic design or commercial art; a knowledge of Macintosh graphics software, including Aldus freeHand and QuarkXPress, is helpful but not absolutely required. Applicants should submit a

April.
Redwood & Ross

Take a Break from JPW

THE BIG SALE

MENS

Quantity in Stock
1079 SUITS ..........................................values to $650...$129 to $289
320 SPORT COATS ..................................values to $295...$59 to $129
610 DRESS SHIRTS ..................................values to $85...$19 to $39
251 SHOES ..........................................values to $165...$34 to $79
860 TIES ............................................values to $55...$14 ea. or 2 for $25
547 SPORT SHIRTS ..................................values to $89.50...$19 to $39
194 SWEATERS .....................................values to $195...$19 to $89
451 PANTS ..........................................values to $125...$19 to $59
79 TOPCOATS ......................................values to $595...$149 to $299

LADIES

219 SUITS & SPORT COATS ........................values to $325...$99 to $159
189 SKIRTS ..........................................values to $235...$39 to $99
278 SWEATERS .....................................values to $165...$29 to $79
132 PANTS ..........................................values to $97.50...$24 to $39

Special hours:
THURSDAY 8 A.M. TO 9 P.M.
FRIDAY 8 A.M. TO 9 P.M.
SATURDAY 10 A.M. TO 9 P.M.
SALE STARTS THURSDAY AT 8 A.M.
(CLOSED WEDNESDAY TO PREPARE FOR THE SALE)

MANY OTHER SALE ITEMS NOT LISTED

Cash, check or bank card sales only.
Sorry, no Redwood & Ross charges, gift certificates, due bills or layaways.

Final markdowns have been taken. We have gathered the fall and winter merchandise from all 17 stores for one final clearance. Prices have been slashed 50% or more! All items are below cost! Because these items are from broken lots, sizes and patterns, we must clear them regardless of loss. If you can find something in your size, we'll send you home saving a bundle!
US-Japan trade war fears spark action on both sides

By DAVID THURBER
Associated Press

TOKYO
Under the threat of U.S. sanctions, the Japanese government decided Thursday to develop a wider range of measures to trim Japan's record trade surplus and possibly help defuse tensions.

Prime Minister Morihito Hosokawa and top trade negotiators agreed to focus on four areas: promotion of imports and foreign investment, deregulation, tougher anti-monopoly enforcement, and fairer government purchasing.

The decision reflects growing anxiety in Japan over U.S. threats of trade retaliation following a breakdown in talks in Washington last week on reducing the two countries' trade imbalance.

"The ball is in Japan's court," said the chief government spokesman, Masayoshi Takemura.

However, the government needs to plan the package carefully because it will "lead to a change in style and structure of the entire Japanese economy," Takemura said.

On Thursday, the United States announced that the trade deficit with Japan shot up nearly 30 percent last year to a record $59.3 billion, surpassing the $56.3 billion set in 1989.

The four areas in the new trade package reflect key U.S. complaints. But the package is unlikely to solve the key issue that caused last week's deadlock a lack of U.S. demand for sufficient benchmarks to measure the success of trade agreements.

Japanese contends specific goals would require too much interference in business decisions. Takemura said the new package might be worked out before a meeting of finance officials from the Group of Seven richest industrial nations on Feb. 26. Japan may send an emissary to Washington to explain the package once it is ready, he said.

Competition requires attention to value

By SUSAN MCCABE
Business Writer

Focusing on the ways in which a company must adapt in order to succeed in the new value-driven global economy, Mike Milligan, former vice president of Proctor and Gamble, claimed "the buzzword of the 1990's." Milligan explained the concept of "value" to today's consumers, who are no longer willing to pay the premium prices name-brand products often demand. He stressed Proctor and Gamble's commitment to move into this new value-conscious age while continuing to uphold its main purpose. This purpose is to "provide products of superior goods and value that best fill the needs of the world's consumers," said Milligan.

Milligan outlined three strategies for increasing consumer value without failing behind in the increasingly competitive market.

First strategy involves balancing product performance and price. The goal of this process is to provide consumers with the best overall product at the best value. Milligan used the example of Bounty paper towels to illustrate Proctor and Gamble's success in this area.

The second strategy for succeeding in the nineties is to broaden the definition of value to add a product to a product. For example, the current goal of Proctor and Gamble is to keep product costs flat for the next three years.

The third strategy involves an effort to increase both efficiency and reliability within the company. Milligan explained Proctor and Gamble's recent restructuring which will eliminate 13,000 jobs as part of this attempt to create a "leaner, faster, more flexible organization.

"Though these first two tips are important, Milligan also stressed that "the ability to win is based on the third tip. Rather, the most crucial element of value is "the performance and quality of products." This aspect makes value strategy number three—adding value through innovation—important.

This strategy involves improving value as well as adding value to products at no additional increase in price. Milligan cited products such as Cheer with ColorGuard and valspar's fortified Hawaiian Punch as recent examples of improved performance and quality.

Finally, Milligan stressed the importance of effective market-based strategies for succeeding in the nineties. "Value" is not seen as a price performing concept, but as a place in the marketplace.

Milligan, keys to successful marketing include extensive consumer research as well as continued expansion in the widening global market.

"We embarked on a new age of value consciousness," Milligan said, reiterating the need for a company to remain committed to its goals while making sure that consumers are able to say that a product is indeed a good value, it's a bargain."

Milligan's lecture entitled "Creating Value in the Value Conscious Nineties" was presented at the Center for Continuing Education.
Dear Editor:

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

We never had a lot of money growing up. But my parents always knew we were going to have a college education... Then, when I was accepted, Notre Dame was like the biggest thing in their lives.

With faces alive with love and admiration, this was just one of the many times that introduced me to the Notre Dame parent; someone I have come to admire, this was just one of those things in their life... Then, when I was a college educated... But my parents always said we kids were going to be part of the community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.
JUNIOR PARENTS WEEKEND & all the events that go with it

JPW Itinerary

Friday
1 p.m. to 7 p.m. - The Hospitality Room, located in the Dooley Room on the first floor LaFortune, offers information, maps, coffee, and the JPW guest book.
• Classic Notre Dame films shown in the main TV lounge of LaFortune: Wake Up the Echoes, Knute Rockne All American, Lou Holtz: Do It Right!, and This Is ND.
3 p.m. - A campus tour leaves from the Dooley Room in LaFortune.
7 p.m. - A brief reception in the Notre Dame Room for seniors and their guests.
9 p.m. to 1 a.m. - The Office of Minority Student Affairs open house in 207 LaFortune. All are welcome.

Saturday
9 a.m. to 11 a.m. - The London Program reunion for all Londoners in the LaFortune Ballroom.
2:30 p.m. - The Notre Dame Jazz Band performance in Washington Hall.
3 p.m. - A campus tour leaves from the Dooley Room in LaFortune.
2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. - The Center for Social Concerns open house.
5:30 p.m. - The Arts and Letters/Science Honors Program reception in 210 O'Shaugnessy.
2 p.m. to 4 p.m. - The Office of Minority Student Affairs open house in 207 LaFortune.
3 p.m. - The London Program reunion for Juniors who have studied abroad.
4 p.m. - ND R.O.T.C. receptions in the Pasquerilla Center.
8 p.m. - The Seeley G. Mudd Center reception for Social Concerns.

Sunday
8 a.m. to 10 a.m. - The Arts and Letters/Science Honors Program reception in 210 O'Shaugnessy.
2 p.m. to 4 p.m. - The Center for Social Concerns open house.
2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. - The Center for Social Concerns open house.
4 p.m. - The London Program reunion for Juniors who have studied abroad.
4 p.m. - ND R.O.T.C. receptions in the Pasquerilla Center.
8 p.m. - The Seeley G. Mudd Center reception for Social Concerns.

movies

University Park East
Schindler's List 8:15
In the Name of the Father 7:45
Grumpy Old Men 7:30, 9:40
My Father the Hero 7:10, 9:20
Philadelphia 7, 9:45

University Park West
I'll Do Anything 7, 9:40
Ace Ventura Pet Detective 7:30, 9:30
The Getaway 7:15, 9:50
Swarms of parents are invading campus this weekend. But it is not graduation and there are no football games. This mass migration of parents is due to the arrival of Junior Parents Weekend.

For the Class of 1995, this momentous weekend has finally arrived thanks to the dedication and hard work of many different organizations. Central to all the planning is the Executive Committee, headed by Farley Hall junior Christina Mulinazzi.

Mulinazzi, assisted by 15 other board members, has spent the last fifteen months finalizing the plans. For the Class of 1995, this momentous weekend has finally arrived thanks to the endless hours of dedication required to make everything possible for both parents and the student tickets.

Last year's JPW chairperson, Laurie Neiman illustrates what most students and parents do? "I think we're going to have a good time this weekend. In the end, everyone is on their own, and I think we're going to have a good time."

The weekend has finally arrived. In a short hour, the campus will be dotted with thousands of Notre Dame seniors and their parents. Meanwhile, on campus, activities catering to the junior class, what all the other students do? What do other students do? Nothing is going on around campus except for the Junior Parents Weekend. "It is neat to see sixteen students work hard and be rewarded with a great weekend. Lots of groups come together and cooperate to make the whole event," added Gayle Spencer student government advisor.

"It is a challenge to time everything right and fit everything together, for example preparing the food for the weekend," said Hoar. "And, it's a challenge to time everything right and fit it all together."

"It is a challenge to time everything right and fit everything together," added Dennis Koehler. "For both parents and the student tickets, it will be all about the beauty of Notre Dame experience. No other school has something like it. Large state schools are just too big, and the smaller schools do not have enough people," added Mulinazzi.

Looking back, Neiman has a slightly different perspective, on JPW. "Students finally get to become friends with their parents. Parents are introduced to the life of their children, but from the perspective of friendship."

"It is neat to see sixteen students work hard and be rewarded with a great weekend. Lots of groups come together and cooperate," he said.

Everything is ready for this weekend. Now, students just need to be sure they've picked up their tickets, and get ready for an amazing weekend, filled with "Lights, Camera, action."
Jesus loves all of His little sunbeams

Father Robert Griffin
Letters to a Lonely God

When the children ask, "Does He wants us as His sunbeams?" the reply-side of the question is, "Are we merely expendables whom He can use to punish the wrongdoers?" Would they believe that for the sake of the children He became a child? "My dears," I tell them, "He didn't come into this world to make a child's garden of verses. He saw much more sadness than you will ever see, because there were no miracle drugs to fight illness. He saw boys who were athletes dying young because they didn't have a Band-aid, and girls for whom childbirth would be entering the valley of the shadow of death. If you young was He as God's small servant when He discovered the relative unimportance of death and dying, because Love can be stronger than Death? As Aslan, the Lion, Lord of Narnia, He wept great lion-tears over Caspian, a dead king of Narnia, before bringing him back to life as a very young man. "But," said Eustace, Lord of Aslan, "hasn't he - er - died?" "Yes," said the Lion in a very quiet voice, almost...as if he were laughing. "He has died. Most people have, you know. Even I have. There are very few who haven't." Thank God the children are not like the People Living With AIDS who have allegedly given up on God and the Church because the going is rough. "If God were good," writes C.S. Lewis, "He would wish to make his creatures perfectly happy, and if God were almighty He would be able to do what He wished. But the creatures are not happy. Therefore God lacks either goodness, or power, or both." This is the problem of pain, in its simplest form. "Are the children too young to understand that being the Lord is no bed of roses? In the depth of His soul He is glorious as God, Yet, when the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us, He emptied Himself of Godhead and assumed the form of a servant. This is the dogmatic fact we must remember whenever we discuss the problem of pain. How can I convince the children that we have here a mystery, and not an evasive tactic papering over the Church's embarrasiment at having a God slow in answering prayer? Shakespeare writes of "this goodly frame, the earth...this most excellent canopy, the air...this brave overarching firmament, this majestic roof fretted with golden flore." Aslan, at the end of the chronicles, calls the whole, gorgeous fabric "the Shadowlands." Aslan says: "The term is over, the holidays have begun. The dream is ended; this is the morning." For us, the author says, "this is the end of all stories...but for them it was only the beginning of the real story...Now at last they were beginning Chapter One of the Great Story which no one on earth has read, which goes on forever in which every chapter is better than the one before."

All this is lovely, and undoubtedly true, but I have no doubt that the master saw the world as Shakespeare saw it. Even as the Shadowlands. He loved the land of milk and honey, as the Gospels show. The birds of the air and the lilies of the field made Him mindful of His Father's love, and He wept at the thought of Jerusalem in ruins because it looked so lovely steeped in moonlight. The Chronicles of Narnia re-tell the One Great Story of Death and Transfiguration. The world that was hard on Jesus is hard on children. That's why He loved them on His way to the Cross. C.S. Lewis wrote: "We may ignore, but we can nowhere evade, the presence of God. The world is crowded with Him. He walks everywhere, and because He has walked this way as a child, and because He died for the world as a lamb, His greatest iconogrophy. I think, is even more profound, He needs the children as His sunbeams? It sounds like sentimental Sunday school hype to me, but this doesn't mean that they don't give him joy.

I myself have no Narnian tales to tell the children, but sometimes I get their attention with an Irish poem. "In ancient shadows and twilights/Where childhood had strayed//The world's great sorrows were born/And its heroes were made/In the lost boyhood of Judas/Christ was betrayed."

"What is meant by the lost boyhood?" they demand to know. "The lost childhood I explain, is the moment of truth for any of us, male or female, when we've become partners to the great betrayals that go on all the time in the world. We suffer the loss of innocence that accompanies our forsothing the state of grace; suddenly, like everyone else, we need redemption. The shabbiness we start feeling doesn't ever go away. It was Christ's mission to regain all the lost childhoods — yours, mine, Judas's, and undoubtedly, Adolph Hitler's. That's why He became a man of sorrows acquainted with grief."

What could have happened in the boyhood of Judas that would have disposed him to betray Jesus with a kiss, when he was on the way to becoming the Messiah? "It could of been anything," I tell the children. "The weakness in Jesus like the weakness in the children close to Him." I started to tell them a story about Judas, as I imagined he might be as a boy. However, before I could get to the Deep Magic that could make Death itself start working backward. The stories I tell would never get children out of the Shadowlands.
Exceeding Expectations

It’s a big decision, choosing where to begin your career. There are many reasons to join Deloitte & Touche—our clients, our dedication to quality, our professional development opportunities, our people. People who enjoy what they do. Our mission is simple: to consistently exceed the expectations of our clients and our people.

With 15,800 people in more than 100 offices in the United States, and through our global organization, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu International, we offer clients worldwide an outstanding and diverse portfolio of services. For you, this means unlimited opportunities to grow, professionally and personally. So why not join a firm that will exceed your expectations?

Congratulations to the following students from the Class of ’94 who will be joining Deloitte & Touche:

Andrea Alexander  Mark Engel  Ashley Kocevar  Ed Neuffer  Janice Reis
Carlos Apacible  Thomas Fleming  Angie Kolbas  Dana O’Leary  Jon Ross
Mark Bangasser  Karen Grondin  Michelle Manning  Jon Oleksyk  Jennifer Schollenberger
Kevin Carrigan  Masahiro Hirao  James Martin  Maria Ortega  Gina Smith
Joseph Claussen  Ilean Hofmann  Amy Milko  Denise Paulin  Eric Stashe
Nancy Davis  Brian Kelly  Brian Murray  Michael Preissler  Timothy Walsh
Jean Etheloth

The above professionals are joining our offices in Atlanta, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Houston, Indianapolis, Orange County-Costa Mesa, Parsippany, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Jose and Seattle.

Deloitte & Touche

Accounting, Tax, and Consulting Services

We Listen. We Deliver.

Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu International

Deloitte & Touche is an equal opportunity firm. We recruit, employ, train, compensate, and promote without regard to race, creed, color, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, or irrelevant handicaps.
CALIFORNIA accepts Chaney's apology

The Observer/Sports

Jeff Brown, the best 1-point shooter in the Atlantic Coast Conference, made five long-range shots and finished with 17 points as the Clemson Tigers upset No. 2 North Carolina 77-70 Saturday night.

The Tigers (13-11, 4-7 ACC) fell but the first 55 seconds of the game, and now have the biggest upset in school history, beating the Tar Heels 64-62 Thursday night.

The 49ers (18-2, 6-1 Metro Conference) were losing eight straight coming in, but slowed Louisville's up-tempo game and were able to dominate Louisville in the final five minutes. Downes made all four of his 3-point shots in only 17 minutes off the bench.

Louisville (29-10, 7-2) saw its five-game winning streak snapped.

In the postgame, Louisville coach John Calipari said the Cardinals would lose their third straight game to close the season. The team, which cost Speros $2 million, was playing under Coach Mike and was the only one in the league to have an open its inaugural season in July.

The team, which cost Speros $2 million, was playing under Coach Mike and was the only one in the league to have an open its inaugural season in July.
Applicants for both positions should have a strong interest in basketball with the Houston Rockets atop the Midwest Division. Robinson's quadruple-double was the first since Hakeem Olajuwon did it on March 29, 1990. The only other players with quadruple-doubles since the NBA began keeping track were Nate Thurmond in 1974 and Alvin Robertson in 1986.

Pacers 84, Mavericks 73

Reggie Miller scored 22 points and Indiana took advantage of Dallas' 33 percent shooting to post a victory in the lowest-scoring game this season for the Mavericks. Dallas trailed 70-66 with 3:12 to play, but Vern Fleming hit a 15-foot jumper, Antonio Davis made one of two free throws and Miller nailed a 3-pointer with 1:29 left to push the lead to 76-66. Fleming added 19 points for the Pacers, who won for the eighth time in nine games. The Mavericks got 17 points from Jamal Mashburn.

Heat 115, SuperSonics 112

Steve Smith matched his career-high with 32 points and Grant Long scored Miami's final six points as the Heat ended Seattle's five-game winning streak. The win completed an impressive back-to-back-to-back victory by the Heat against two of the best teams in the league. Miami had a 109-101 victory over the Bulls at Chicago on Wednesday night. Glen Rice added 28 and extended to 40 his team record for consecutive free throws, going 7-for-7. Sean Kemp and Detlef Schrempf each had 22 points for Seattle.

Bullets 109, Timberwolves 108

Rookie Calbert Cheaney scored a career-high 30 points on 11-16 shooting as Washington extended Minnesota's road skid to nine games. Tom Gugliotta had 18 points and 13 rebounds. Doug West scored 26 and Chuck Person 24 for Minnesota, which has lost eight of nine overall and 14 of its last 15 road games.

Knicks 102, Cavaliers 95

John Starks scored 32 points and made all nine of his second-half shots as New York avenged its first three-game losing streak of the season.

The Observer • SPORTS

New Orleans is the third city to be mentioned as a new home for the team. Nashville and San Diego are the other two. A NBA committee headed by David Stern has used New Orleans as an example of a city that has passed a city charter to subsidize a new basketball facility.

The Louisiana Legislature has voted to sell $250 million in bonds for athletic stadiums and other projects including a basketball arena, but none of the bonds has been sold.

Edward said Louisiana will not be involved in any purchase of the franchise unless there is a "buy-out." "If there were an acquisition, we might be asked to assist in some kind of services," they said.

Hey Computer Users!

Check out these incredible new low prices and color the system!

Hey Computer Users!

HP DeskWriter 550C Printer for the Mac

HP DeskJet 550C Printer for the PC

West Lafayette, Ind. Former Purdue University quarterback Eric Hunter was arrested Thursday for allegedly breaking into a residence hall, police said. Hunter, 23, was carrying a knife, talking to himself and telling people he was Jesus, Purdue police said. After his arrest, he escaped from Wabash Valley Hospital and eluded police for 45 minutes.

Holtz continued from page 28

Jerry Smith said he had not looked inside the room, but did not know the man and had not given him permission to be there. "I'm not sure who he was," said officer Robert Callahan.

Hunter was arrested and taken to the Tippecanoe County Jail, said university spokesman Greg Zawisza.

Bagy Rouge, La. The Minnesota Timberwolves are said to be looking for a new home, and Gov. Edwin Edwards said they may find it in Louisiana.

The Timberwolves' face a multi-million dollar shortfall in paying off the debt on their arena. Without some help from government, they may have to move, KSTP-TV reported.

Gov. Edwin Edwards said Thursday that he has met with a group that wants to bring the Timberwolves to New Orleans.

"We are negotiating with the people who are negotiating to buy the 'Wolves," he said in a statement.

Purdue's Hunter proclaims himself Jesus during break-in

Summer Jobs in Cincinnati

Property Management firm is looking for individuals to work as landscapers. Work full time maintaining grounds at apartment communities throughout Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky.

Send a letter of interest to: Mark Ahern, 255 East Fifth St., Suite 2300, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. A pre-employment drug test will be required.

The Observer is now accepting applications for:
Assistant Viewpoint Editors

Viewpoint Copy Editors

Applicants for both positions should have a strong interest in journalism, editing skills and a knowledge of page design.

Applicants should submit a resume and 1-2 page personal statement to Suzy Fry by 4 p.m. Sunday, February 20, 1994.

For additional information, please contact Fry at 631-4542.

Associated Press

HEY COMPUTER USERS!

Check out these incredible new low prices and color the system!

The Observer is now accepting applications for:
Assistant Photo Editor

Sain Mary's Photo Editor

Sports Photo Editor Accent Photo Editor

Please submit a two-page personal statement to Scott Mendelshank by 5:00 p.m., Friday, February 18. For more information contact Scott at 631-3323.

Baton Rouge, La. The Minnesota Timberwolves are said to be looking for a new home, and Gov. Edwin Edwards said they may find it in Louisiana.

The Timberwolves' face a multi-million dollar shortfall in paying off the debt on their arena. Without some help from government, they may have to move, KSTP-TV reported.

Gov. Edwin Edwards said Thursday that he has met with a group that wants to bring the Timberwolves to New Orleans.

"We are negotiating with the people who are negotiating to buy the 'Wolves," he said in a statement.

Purdue's Hunter proclaims himself Jesus during break-in

Summer Jobs in Cincinnati

Property Management firm is looking for individuals to work as landscapers. Work full time maintaining grounds at apartment communities throughout Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky.

Send a letter of interest to: Mark Ahern, 255 East Fifth St., Suite 2300, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. A pre-employment drug test will be required.

The Observer is now accepting applications for:
Assistant Viewpoint Editors

Viewpoint Copy Editors

Applicants for both positions should have a strong interest in journalism, editing skills and a knowledge of page design.

Applicants should submit a resume and 1-2 page personal statement to Suzy Fry by 4 p.m. Sunday, February 20, 1994.

For additional information, please contact Fry at 631-4542.
By BARRY WILNER

associated Press

HAMAR, Norway
Clear out, champs. The kids are taking over.

Kids with names like Elvis, Alexei and Philippe got the jump on Brian Boitano, Viktor Petrenko and Kurt Browning — champions all.

The revolution in men's figure skating started in Thursday night's technical program, a messy affair of slipping and sliding. Boitano and Petrenko, the last two Olympic gold medalists, fell into oblivion, along with four-time world champ Browning.

That gave the kids an opening to skate through.

Russia's Alexei Urmanov, 20, grabbed first place going into the 4s. He let out a "Allez La France" and shouted, "But not on this night."

Urmanov said before being hustled away by Russian officials, "I don't know what happened, I haven't missed it all week," said the 30-year-old skater who finished eighth and acknowledged he might have been nervous. "Maybe I wasn't in the moment."

"It goes to show if the top names makes mistakes, (judges) will not hold them up there," said Boitano, the 1988 Olympic champion, was even worse. "Maybe it was my experience of skating for 15 years that helped me tonight. But who knows on Saturday night?"

The veterans know they have no chance.

Doug Leigh, who used to coach Browning and now works with Stojko, seemed to explain it best:

"There's young ones in every competition and as far as I'm concerned, they have a little bit of a competitive edge because they deal with the high risk factor."

"It's a different ballgame. For the people coming back, it had to be tough on them."

Boitano, Petrenko fall to younger skaters in short program
BENGAL BOUTS

TOURNAMENT MATCHES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>135</th>
<th>140</th>
<th>145</th>
<th>150</th>
<th>155</th>
<th>160</th>
<th>165</th>
<th>170</th>
<th>175</th>
<th>180</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>BL</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>BL</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>G</td>
<td>BL</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>G</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eric Davito</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
<td>Daniel Eckenberg</td>
<td>Bob Fike</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
<td>Daniel Eckenberg</td>
<td>Bob Fike</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
<td>Daniel Eckenberg</td>
<td>Bob Fike</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joel Pennington</td>
<td>Seth Jones</td>
<td>Tim Anxiety</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
<td>Daniel Eckenberg</td>
<td>Bob Fike</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
<td>Daniel Eckenberg</td>
<td>Bob Fike</td>
<td>Jeff Carter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chris Intern</td>
<td>Gary Hanks</td>
<td>Joe Heng</td>
<td>Matt Sitter</td>
<td>Chris Intern</td>
<td>Gary Hanks</td>
<td>Joe Heng</td>
<td>Matt Sitter</td>
<td>Chris Intern</td>
<td>Gary Hanks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
<td>@</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Logo Contest

Entries due 5pm 2/21. Turn them into Bethany Riddle’s mailbox in SUB or at the Student Government office.

PRIZE: 2 tix to the upcoming SUB concert...

Crazy stuff and other stuff, too.

---

NOTRE DAME APARTMENTS

_Nearly Remodeled Apartments at Very Affordable Rates_

- Spacious 2-Bedroom Apartments
- New Appliances, Cabinets, and Carpets
- Entry Security
- Laundry Facility Available
- 4 Blocks From Notre Dame Campus
- Professional Management Team
- Skilled Maintenance Crew
- Private Offstreet Parking for Tenants
- Several Units Available For Immediate Occupancy

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR '94-'95 SCHOOL YEAR

For more information call 232-8256

---

Hurricanes a special match for Irish

By KATE CRISHAM

Sports Writer

The 18-ranked Notre Dame women’s tennis team is preparing for a weekend of competitive matches—beginning with the 16th-ranked University of Miami Hurricanes.

"Anytime any Notre Dame team plays Miami in anything, it’s always a good match," said head coach Jay Louderback. "We’re definitely looking forward to playing them."

No current member of the team has ever faced Miami. The Irish were scheduled to play them in the first round of last year’s NCAA tournament, but the Hurricanes were forced to withdraw, due to injuries.

"I’m familiar with some of their players from playing them in junior tournaments in Florida, but our teams have never played each other," said senior captain and Florida native Sherrin Vitale. "It should be a very competitive match." Miami’s 2-3 record is deceiving. All three losses have come from top-20 teams, including last weekend’s loss to 4th-ranked Florida.

The 5-1 Irish are also recovering from a tough weekend loss. They suffered a 5-2 defeat on Friday to 15th-ranked Kansas, before bouncing back on Sunday with a 7-2 win over William and Mary.

"The loss to Kansas could end up being good for us," said Louderback. "We recovered and played them beat against William and Mary on Sunday.

"Kansas is a very good team," he commented. "We lost a real close match to (number-one ranked) Texas."

"For the most part, everyone played well against Kansas," said Vitale. "We proved we were able to bounce back by beating William & Mary." The other two matches of the weekend won’t prove any easier for the Irish. They will face Kentucky on Saturday and Northwestern on Sunday.

"Both of those teams will be tough," said Vitale. "They aren’t ranked, but they’ve received votes, and they’re really close to making the rankings."

---

Saint Mary’s handles Concordia, 72-62

By ANNE NAPIERKOWSKI

Sports Writer

With Saint Mary’s stellar performance in basketball last night, the opponents remaining on their schedule could be in for a tough battle.

Taking control early, the Belles dominated the entire game and finished off Concordia University, 72-62.

"We looked better than we have been looking," said head coach, Marvin Wood. "We got off to a good start. The girls did some nice things."

Shooting 45 percent, the Belles maintained a substantial lead throughout the game. However, Saint Mary’s responded by sinking six consecutive baskets, holding Concordia at 57.

"We were playing together really well," said center Barbara Howells. "It helped having a win behind us."

After suffering from a five game losing streak, the Belles turned things around Monday night. The win gave the Belles confidence going into Saturday’s game against (6-1) Texas.

"The win will be tested again when they take on Kalamazoo College," said Howells. "We played tough defense the whole game and we never let up," said Howells.

The defense also allowed the Belles to contain Concordia’s height. Howells was instrumental as Saint Mary’s battled Concordia’s six foot three center.

"We played tough defense the whole game and we never let up," said Howells.

The Belles’ offense looked equally as tough. Leading the game in scoring was sophomore, Jennie Taubenheim, who raked in 36 points.

"Everything was on tonight," said Taubenheim. "I think we learned a lot from our losing streak about what to expect and what to anticipate."

The Belles are hoping that the past two wins have set a precedent for the games remaining this season. They will be tested again when they go on the road this weekend to take on Kalamazoo College.
Norway cheering for Jansen in his last chance for gold

By ALAN ROBINSON
Associated Press

HAMAR, Norway
One more race. One more chance.

Dan Jansen's 10-year run of Olympic heartbreak ends with Friday's 1,000-meter race — one way or the other.

The race, almost certainly the last Olympic event for the speedskater from West Allis, Wis., could mark him for all time as a failure of almost mystical proportions in these Games — the showcase of winter sport where he has never won a medal.

Or he could break the string of Olympic losses that get more attention than all his triumphs.

The latest failure came Monday, when he slipped on a turn and placed eighth in the 500 meters, the distance he set the pace for with a new world record in January.

"I felt really sorry for Dan Jansen. He has to just relax and skate. If not, I'll go on — same thing," said. "If not, I'll go on — same thing." Jansen said. "If not, I'll go on — same thing."

"I'll just go out and skate. If it happens, it does," Jansen said. "If not, I'll go on — same old thing."

Jansen doesn't dominate the 1,000 like he does the 500, but he's won five of his eight races this season and usually leads the World Cup standings. He was only fourth in his two 1,000-meter races at the world sprint championships in Calgary on Jan. 18.

His Olympic record also suggests this isn't his race. He was 18th as an 18-year-old at Sarajevo in 1984, he fell in Calgary four years later and he faded to 26th place at Albertville.

France, in 1992. "But I'm more comfortable now in the 1,000," Jansen said. "I don't try to skate it anymore like it was the 500. I enjoy it almost as much as I do the 500."

And, as he noted after Monday's failure, there is a little more room for error.

Jansen will be all alone Friday on the Viking Ship Ice, but millions of speedskating fans will be cheering him on — here, home in America and elsewhere.

He's a superhero to the Dutch and the Norwegian, who love skating and have adopted Jansen as one of their own.

When he suffers, they suffer, too.

On Friday, the red, white and blue-clad Norwegians and orange-painted Dutch will once again hold up signs reading "Dan's the Man" and "Go Dan Gold" and "We Love Dan" and "Go DJ" — hoping, once again, that Jansen will be the day's hero.

Finally.

Only Jansen can set aside the burden of his history as a super sport where he has never won a medal.

And only Jansen knows if it is possible.

One more chance.

One more race.

The Observer • WINTER OLYMPICS

Friday, February 18, 1994

"La Bomba" set to win his fourth gold medal

By PIERO VALSECCHI
Associated Press

LILLEHAMMER, Norway
La Bomba will have to share the spotlight this time.

Alberta Tomba, by and away the most colorful figure at the 1992 Winter Games, blew into town Thursday sporting a goatee but found himself playing understudy to Tonya Harding.

The Italian skier will get a taste of the new order Friday, when his introductory news conference at the main press center follows directly after Harding's first Olympic encounter with the media.

Few people in Lillehammer would bet that Tomba will out draw Tonya.

Playing second fiddle is something new for the flamboyant Tomba.

Tomba, known internationally as "La Bomba" (The Bomb) because of his explosive style between slalom gates, reported to the accreditation center wearing the blue uniform of the Italian team.

He will stay initially at the main Olympic Village but said he might transfer closer to the slalom areas at Hafjell before the races.

He's been assured that his favorite pastas will be available there.

And only Jansen knows if it is possible.

Dan Jansen's 10-year run of Olympic losses that get more attention than all his triumphs.

The latest failure came Monday, when he slipped on a turn and placed eighth in the 500 meters, the distance he set the pace for with a new world record in January.

"I felt really sorry for Dan Jansen. He has to just relax and skate. If not, I'll go on — same thing." Jansen said. "If not, I'll go on — same thing."

"I'll just go out and skate. If it happens, it does," Jansen said. "If not, I'll go on — same old thing."

Jansen doesn't dominate the 1,000 like he does the 500, but he's won five of his eight races this season and usually leads the World Cup standings. He was only fourth in his two 1,000-meter races at the world sprint championships in Calgary on Jan. 18.

His Olympic record also suggests this isn't his race. He was 18th as an 18-year-old at Sarajevo in 1984, he fell in Calgary four years later and he faded to 26th place at Albertville.

France, in 1992. "But I'm more comfortable now in the 1,000," Jansen said. "I don't try to skate it anymore like it was the 500. I enjoy it almost as much as I do the 500."

And, as he noted after Monday's failure, there is a little more room for error.

Jansen will be all alone Friday on the Viking Ship Ice, but millions of speedskating fans will be cheering him on — here, home in America and elsewhere.

He's a superhero to the Dutch and the Norwegian, who love skating and have adopted Jansen as one of their own.

When he suffers, they suffer, too.

On Friday, the red, white and blue-clad Norwegians and orange-painted Dutch will once again hold up signs reading "Dan's the Man" and "Go Dan Gold" and "We Love Dan" and "Go DJ" — hoping, once again, that Jansen will be the day's hero.

Finally.

Only Jansen can set aside the burden of his history as a super sport where he has never won a medal.

And only Jansen knows if it is possible.
By MIKE NADEL
Associated Press

LILLEHAMMER, Norway

What else? A tie.

In its best-played and most exciting game yet, the U.S. hockey team tied Canada 3-3 Thursday night. And in tying (of course) the Olympic record with three ties in a tournament, the Americans left the ice with perk-ed up medal hopes and a feeling of accomplishment.

"There has been a lot of reference to our lack of intensity from start to finish, and probably they were well-deserved — until today," U.S. coach Tim Taylor said.

"I think we did our share of standing around in Games 1 and 2. We certainly took stock in that and realized that we put our backs against the wall by only coming out of the Slovakia and France games with a total of two points. I think we had a little bit more focuslessness."

The United States had rallied from two-goal, third-period deficits to tie France and Slovakia before tying Canada on Thursday after two Alpine skiing medals at a single Winter Games — a gold in the downhill and now a silver in the super-giant slalom.

"I think I'm having a dream Olympic," he said.

So is the U.S. ski team. Moe turned 24 Thursday, the same day he became the first American man ever to win two Alpine skiing medals at a single Winter Games — a gold in the downhill and now a silver in the super-giant slalom.

"I think I'm having a dream Olympic," he said. So is the U.S. ski team.

Moe turned 24 Thursday, the same day he became the first American man ever to win two Alpine skiing medals at a single Winter Games — a gold in the downhill and now a silver in the super-giant slalom.

"I think I'm having a dream Olympic," he said. So is the U.S. ski team.

Since a Jan. 25 pre-Olympic victory over Canada in Toronto, the U.S. team is 1-1-5 in exhibitions and Olympic play — including ties in its last five games.

"I made the statement in Toronto ... it's really hard to win a hockey game at this level. You can't make mistakes, you have to be focused from beginning to end," Taylor said.

"And now the kids are kind of jokes about it: Coach, ever since you said it's really hard to win a hockey game we haven't been able to do it."

Marchant scored after a hooking penalty on Canada captain Jason Joseph with 42 seconds left.

Taylor pulled goalie Garth Snow for an extra attacker, giving the Americans a 6-on-5 edge.

They immediately took advantage, with Marchant wristing a shot from the right faceoff circle through a tangle of players and past goalie Corey Hirsch.

It was the first goal of the Olympics for Marchant, the shortstop in a right faceoff circle through a tangle of players and past goalie Corey Hirsch.

They're satisfied with a tie and beginning to end,' " Taylor said.

"I didn't see it go in right away," he said. "All of a sudden I saw Corey Hirsch turn around ... and then everybody came over and tramped me."

Snow made 29 saves, including a penalty shot by Greg Johnson with 7:49 remaining to keep the U.S. team close.

Taylor praised Snow but said Mike Dunham, who was shaky in allowing four goals on 14 shots in the opener against France, would play Saturday against Sweden. Dunham, who almost always plays well against the Swedes, stopped 64 of 68 shots in his last two pre-Olympic exhibitions against them.

"I think we're a better team overall and not as happy as their coach.

"It's too bad because I think we did our share of proving to ourselves that we can beat somebody. I think this was more of a win than the first two games.

"It's going to be tough for us to show up at gate No. 30 of 41, pointing day for Norway," he said. "I made a little mistake, and I couldn't win the gold medal."

Some 60,000 people packed the finish-line area, a mass of humanity that stretched all the way up the 2,574-meter slope and into the forested hills.

They hung from trees, waved flags, sang with joy and down, trying to keep warm in the 5-degree temperatures and cold north wind. Children in troll suits got their feet massaged by Mean Machine from freez-ing, and every complexion turned the ruddy hue of Norway.

They sang "Happy Birthday" to Skaardal when he skied down first, and when Moe flew by, wearing bib No. 3, they sang just as loud.

"It felt like the whole town was singing "Happy Birthday' for me," he said. "I was kind of surprised."

He turned in the finish area, weaved and blew a kiss to the crowd.

Moe has one more chance to win yet another medal, and it's a pretty good one. He was third on Monday in the downhill portion of the combined, with the slalom half of the race scheduled for Feb. 25. He finished fourth in both combined races on the World Cup tour this season.

"I'm going to be tough for me in the combination slalom, but I'm more than happy right now," Moe said. "I can't believe I have two medals. After a gold and silver, it would be nice to add bronze, though."

The only other American man ever to win two Olympic skiing medals was Phil Mahre, but he got them in two different events, a gold in 1984 and a silver in 1980. Penelope Pitou was a double silver-medalist for Sweden in 1960 at Squaw Valley, Calif., and the great Andree Mead Lawrence won two medals in the 1928 Games at Oslo.

Anyone interested in reshaping Student Government next year:

Pick up application in Student Government Office 2nd floor LaFortune

Application deadline Monday, Feb. 28.
Track and field to perform for parents

By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

When many juniors are enjoying their half-furlongs on Saturday afternoon, 21 junior track and field athletes will have the chance to perform in front of their parents at Loyola against Drake University.

"We have a ton of juniors and they've all made contributions to our program," commented Notre Dame coach Joe Piano.

The men's team has 13 juniors in its line-up throughout the country. Distance stars JR Malos (Wooddell, NJ), John Cowan (Distrito Federal,MX), Joe Boyer (Naperville, IL), Nate Ruder (Fairport,NY), Shane DeCicco (Harvillie, NV), Chester Taff (St.Charles,IL) and Greg Fennel (Hackelstown,NJ) will have the chance to challenge some excellent distance runners from Drake.

"This is a good jumping off meet to look ahead for the rest of the summer," said Cowan.

"We're looking forward to JPW and we want to run a good show to make it better for our parents.

This meet and the next few weeks will give us a chance to put it all together, because we have one of the best teams in the country.

Other junior male standouts include high jumper Bran Bradrick (Richala,KS), pole vaulter Dan Gennropic (Peoria,IL), hurdlers Dan Amstel (Rye,NY) and sprinter Richard Antoine (Moreno Val­ey,CA).

"We'll have a lot of fun this meet and it will give our juniors a chance to run in front of their parents.

The women's team consists of 9 athletes dispersed throughout the country. The first Notre Dame All American runner Sara Wiley (Morga,CA) remains out with an injury, but Irish 5'5"" hurdle record holder Lisa Junck (Bregen, WI) will compete.

"We're very excited to run for our parents, and it will be a fun meet," said Junck.

Other junior competitors for the Irish include sprinter Mon­tionica Cox (Hempstead,NY), mid­distance runners Emily Husted (New Milford, NJ), Maureen Kelly (Mt Prospect,IL), Angelia Hessler (Columbia,MN), Kristi Kramer, another distance specialist in studying abroad this semester.

"Our women will have many challenges from Drake," explained Piano. "They have outstanding distance runners in the 1/4,1/2 and mile.

"It will be a special feeling to have all our parents here this weekend," explained Husted.

"We planned a junior team dinner and it should be fun." Husted's parents have seen her race previously at Notre Dame, and are looking forward to the other events and new faces they will encounter.

This meet is one of only two dual meets on the Irish schedule this weekend, a few of its members and behind-the-scenes Also, some individuals will be looking to pick up some well-deserved rest.

Charles Moore (Rye,NY), Amitie (Rye,NY), and sprinter By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad. As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad.

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad.

"It is also a very good possibility that Claudette could make the team in both of her weapons," he added.

"Each fencing weapon will see forty to sixty of the top under-20 fencers from the U.S. come to this weekend to predict what will happen with the skilled talent that will be present.

"It reflects back well on the program if the kids do well," said DeCicco.

As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.

"We'll have a lot of fun this meet and it will give our juniors a chance to run in front of their parents.

Other junior competitors for the Irish include sprinter Mon­tionica Cox (Hempstead,NY), mid­distance runners Emily Husted (New Milford, NJ), Maureen Kelly (Mt Prospect,IL), Angelia Hessler (Columbia,MN), Kristi Kramer, another distance specialist in studying abroad this semester.

"Our women will have many challenges from Drake," explained Piano. "They have outstanding distance runners in the 1/4,1/2 and mile.

"It will be a special feeling to have all our parents here this weekend," explained Husted.

"We planned a junior team dinner and it should be fun." Husted's parents have seen her race previously at Notre Dame, and are looking forward to the other events and new faces they will encounter.

This meet is one of only two dual meets on the Irish schedule this weekend, a few of its members and behind-the-scenes Also, some individuals will be looking to pick up some well-deserved rest.

Charles Moore (Rye,NY), Amitie (Rye,NY), and sprinter By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad. As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad.

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad.

"It is also a very good possibility that Claudette could make the team in both of her weapons," he added.

"Each fencing weapon will see forty to sixty of the top under-20 fencers from the U.S. come to this weekend to predict what will happen with the skilled talent that will be present.

"It reflects back well on the program if the kids do well," said DeCicco.

As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.

"We'll have a lot of fun this meet and it will give our juniors a chance to run in front of their parents.

Other junior competitors for the Irish include sprinter Mon­tionica Cox (Hempstead,NY), mid­distance runners Emily Husted (New Milford, NJ), Maureen Kelly (Mt Prospect,IL), Angelia Hessler (Columbia,MN), Kristi Kramer, another distance specialist in studying abroad this semester.

"Our women will have many challenges from Drake," explained Piano. "They have outstanding distance runners in the 1/4,1/2 and mile.

"It will be a special feeling to have all our parents here this weekend," explained Husted.

"We planned a junior team dinner and it should be fun." Husted's parents have seen her race previously at Notre Dame, and are looking forward to the other events and new faces they will encounter.

This meet is one of only two dual meets on the Irish schedule this weekend, a few of its members and behind-the-scenes Also, some individuals will be looking to pick up some well-deserved rest.

Charles Moore (Rye,NY), Amitie (Rye,NY), and sprinter By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad. As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.

"We'll have a lot of fun this meet and it will give our juniors a chance to run in front of their parents.

Other junior competitors for the Irish include sprinter Mon­tionica Cox (Hempstead,NY), mid­distance runners Emily Husted (New Milford, NJ), Maureen Kelly (Mt Prospect,IL), Angelia Hessler (Columbia,MN), Kristi Kramer, another distance specialist in studying abroad this semester.

"Our women will have many challenges from Drake," explained Piano. "They have outstanding distance runners in the 1/4,1/2 and mile.

"It will be a special feeling to have all our parents here this weekend," explained Husted.

"We planned a junior team dinner and it should be fun." Husted's parents have seen her race previously at Notre Dame, and are looking forward to the other events and new faces they will encounter.

This meet is one of only two dual meets on the Irish schedule this weekend, a few of its members and behind-the-scenes Also, some individuals will be looking to pick up some well-deserved rest.

Charles Moore (Rye,NY), Amitie (Rye,NY), and sprinter By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

Irish fencers to compete at Junior Olympics

By JOE VILLINISI
Sports Writer

While the fencing team remains an explosive Irish squad. As for the rest of the team, they will be receiving their second week off in a row because their meet in Philadelphia was canceled last weekend due to the snow storm on the east coast. However the two weeks off in a row leaves the team to compensate for these unexpected losses with top performances from their dangerous doubles trio, captain Andy Zurcher, recently ranked No. 36, and freshman phenom Ryan Stumme, still the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 32.
Bowling Green awaits slumping Notre Dame

By TIM SHERMAN

Sports Writer

If there ever was a crucial contest for an eight-place team, this is it.

Tonight, the Notre Dame hockey team travels to Bowling Green to face off against the Falcons. The game is significant for two reasons:

First, the Irish need points in order to secure their tenuous hold on their current standing in the playoff race.

Second, and most importantly, Notre Dame needs to start building momentum for the playoffs.

The Irish have won but one game, against this same Bowling Green squad, in any easy place to start a winning streak.

Notre Dame is the offensive team of the game, and the defense is the key to its success.

"Our last couple of games will set the tone for the post-seas­on," said Ben Nelsen.

Although Notre Dame already owns a victory over the Fal­cons, Bowling Green, is an easy place to start a winning streak.

In those two games the two teams have been consistent all year long, and must continue to provide leadership for this young team.

Ling leads the Irish with 21 points and Osiecki with 24 while lead­ing the defense.

These two need more support though. Reliable sources for more offensive output are freshmen Tim Harberts, Brian McCarthy, and Ben Nelsen.

Backline assistance needs to come from skaters like Cathy Gruber, Davide DalGrande, and Bryan Welch.

"We'll continue to work hard," said Schaefer. "Our time will come when we start to win these games."

Maybe it is that time.

HOOPS continued from page 28

haven't played in seven, I thought they took advantage of that.

Although O'Neill was quick to congratulate the Irish on the win, the underlying message of his post-game talk was one of bitterness.

The supposed controversy revolved around a scrapped Notre Dame game against Fordham and television coverage.

According to John Macleod, Notre Dame never signed a contract to play Fordham and the Marquette game was originally scheduled for Feb. 13 but the Warriors backed out to play Cincinnati on national television.

Marquette's argument seems a little weak in light of Notre Dame's upset of UCLA and defeat of Georgia on consecutive days at the beginning of February.

But by far the biggest hole in Marquette's conspiracy theory is Notre Dame's flawless play in the second half. With only two turnovers and 19 rebounds in the half, the Irish dominated offensively and defensively in a way that the rest of the year hasn't had.

Macleod was pleased with his team's performance.

"We did get rolling in the second half with perimeter shots, and then it opened up on the inside game as we were able to drive the ball and find

LAFAYETTE SQUARE OWN HOMES

"Luxury Living You Can Enjoy & Afford":
"Where Tenants Are Of The Utmost Importance"

• 4 & 5 BEDROOM TOWNHOMES

• 2 BATHROOMS

• SECURITY SYSTEMS & SECURITY GUARDS

• KITCHENS WITH DISHWASHER, GARBAGE DISPOSAL, REFRIGERATOR & RANGE

• WASHER & DRYER IN EACH UNIT

• GAS HEAT

• CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING

• PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT

• SKILLED & PROFESSIONAL MAINTENANCE

• ONLY 1 MILE FROM NOTRE DAME CAMPUS

Stay Tuned: 24-Hour Daycare Arriving Soon at Lafayette Square

Meet Our Friendly Staff And Let Them Show You Our Beautiful Townhomes

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR '94-'95 SCHOOL YEAR

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 232-8256

Page 25

SPORTS

BOWLING GREEN WINS FOR O'NEILL

In the year 1993, DePaul was 20-0 in its own facility, 20-0 in its own facility. The Irish were 11-0 in their own facility, 11-0 in their own facility. DePaul won 77-75.

Notre Dame leads 47-39, but DePaul is still nearly a foot taller. The Irish have won two in a row, including a win over Ohio State in their last game, but both teams have something to prove in this weekend.

"We have something to prove in this weekend. Notre Dame (10-14) is trying hard to finish another disappointing season on a high note, while DePaul (13-8) has lost five of its last seven and needs to rebound if it wants to retain any NCAA Tournament hopes.

"Our last couple of games will set the tone for the post-season," said Ben Nelsen.

Although Notre Dame already owns a victory over the Falcons, Bowling Green, is an easy place to start a winning streak.

B G owns 12-9-2 mark in the CCHA, which is good enough for a sixth-place spot.

Leading the way for BG are Jeff Wells and Brian Holzinger. Wells, one of the CCHA's best defencemen, leads his team in points with 28.

Junior center Holzinger is often the recipient of the feeds, as he has hit the lamp 14 times. In net, freshman Bob Petrie boasts 13 of the Falcons wins and looks to be one of the bet­ter young goalies anywhere.

Still, Notre Dame does have the advantage of this being their only game of the week end. This should allow the Irish to put everything they have into winning out the vic­tor­y, with no regard to the next day.

Also, Notre Dame has more riding on this game. A win would go a long way in secur­ing an eight-place finish and a playoff matchup against either BG or Miami.

A loss, on the other hand, would put the Irish closer to a first-round meeting with pow­erhouse Lake Superior St. Notre Dame has beaten the Lakers already, but LSUU will be a tougher opponent, due to the fact that they are the nation's top post-season team.

If the Irish are to get this vital win, they must be led by Jamie Ling and Matt Osiecki. These two have been the constants all year long, and must continue to provide leadership for this young team.

Ling leads the Irish with 21 points and Osiecki with 24 while lead­ing the defense.

These two need more support though. Reliable sources for more offensive output are freshmen Tim Harberts, Brian McCarthy, and Ben Nelsen.

Backline assistance needs to come from skaters like Cathy Gruber, Davide DalGrande, and Bryan Welch.

"We'll continue to work hard," said Schaefer. "Our time will come when we start to win these games."

Maybe it is that time.

THE LANGUAGE RESOURCE CENTER PRESENTS:

FROM THEORY TO PRACTICE: THE NATURAL APPROACH

A Teleconference:

February 23, 1994
3:00 PM - 5:00 PM
Room 116 DeBartolo Hall

Featuring panel discussion with Steven Krashen, Jeanne Egasse, and Randy Krashen. The language center will provide you with a copy of "The Natural Approach: The Language Resource Center Presents: From Theory to Practice: The Natural Approach."
Women's basketball streak ends at five wins

By DYLAN BARMER
Sports Writer

The buzzer sounded as time expired and the two teams left the court. The scoreboard at the JACC read 85-75, and both teams had seen their streaks come to an end.

Unfortunately for the Notre Dame women's basketball team, it was their five game winning streak that had been put to rest, along with visiting LaSalle's two game losing streak.

The Irish suffered a demoralizing loss on their homecourt last night, falling by 10 points to a LaSalle team that everyone should have beat.

In the first half, the Explorers had dominated the Irish, 54-38, and both teams were shooting 53.3 percent from the field and dominating underneath the basket.

Junior forward Letitia Bowen had 12 points and 10 rebounds in the first half. Blue scored LaSalle's first 17 points, before the Irish led from the outset, having lost their last two games, and at the end of the first half found themselves trailing the favored Irish by seven points.

In the first half of the game, the Irish led from the outset, shooting 53.3 percent from the field and dominating underneath the basket.

Senior Sherri Orlosky, who finished with just four points on 2-7 shooting after scoring 19 in the Irish's last game, was also upset with the team's second half performance.

"We didn't play good defense," said Orlosky. "They were beating us on the penetration, and we didn't rebound well either."

Freshman guard Beth Morgan also had a great first half, scoring 12 points on 4-8 shooting, including 2-3 from behind the three point arc.

As a whole, the Irish played well as a team, looking very much like the squad that had ripped off five consecutive victories. The scoreboard at the JACC at the close of the first half read 40-33, and it was the Irish who had the advantage.

The Explorers were boosted in the first half, two important factors allowed them to stay within striking distance.

LaSalle out rebounded the Irish 23-18, and sophomore guard Lori Sparling led all scorers with 14 points, hitting two of her four three point attempts.

When the game had come to an end and it was LaSalle who found themselves on top, the Explorers still had out rebounded the Irish, 54-38, and Sparling still led all scorers, with 25 points.

But LaSalle's second half performance, in which they outscored the Irish 32-25, was on means all Sparling. Early on in the half, it was another Explorer who beat the Irish.

Sophomore guard Alyson Blue dumped in 11 points for the Explorers in the game, with all 11 coming in the second half. Blue scored LaSalle's first five points in the second half, while the Explorers were coming from the foul line.

A 12-2 run enabled the Explorers to tie the game for the first time at 45-45, when Blue hit both of her free throws following one of 21 Irish second half personal fouls.

The Irish were unable to get the lead back in the game, managing only to tie the score three times following LaSalle's first lead, which came when forward Christie Donahue hit both of her free throws to put the Explorers up 47-45.

The Irish's last game, was also upset with the team's second half performance.

"We didn't play good defense," said Orlosky. "They were beating us on the penetration, and we didn't rebound well either."

Senior Sherri Orlosky, who finished with just four points on 2-7 shooting after scoring 19 in the Irish's last game, was also upset with the team's second half performance.

"We didn't play good defense," said Orlosky. "They were beating us on the penetration, and we didn't rebound well either."

Freshman Beth Morgan led the Irish with 22 points, the 13th time she has led the team this season. Bowen finished with 16 points, and led with 15 rebounds. Tootie Jones scored 12 points and grabbed six rebounds.

The team's record is now 16-6 overall, and 7-2 in the MCL.
Student Union Board

would like to welcome all of the Juniors' parents and wish them a wonderful and memorable JPW weekend!
Veteran boxers in the spotlight

Ten returning finalists highlight Bout's opening

By GEORGE DOHRMANN

It is a day when the taste of defeat is more sweet than bitter, where victory is measured in prayers from thousands of miles away.

It is the one time a fellow student brings good to mankind, when the violence within a boxing ring symbolizes a greater fight.

It is the Notre Dame Bengal Mission Bouts. Where strong bodied fights that weak bodies may be nourished. Now in its 65th year, Notre Dame’s annual boxing spectacle begins Sunday at 2 pm on the floor of the Stepan Center.

The bouts have raised over $200,000 in aid for the Holy Cross Missions in Bangladesh. Forty-eight students will step into the ring in hopes of victory for themselves and for the missions, just as former director Dominic J. Napolitano envisioned during the 50 years he served The Bouts.

Seven weight classes open fighting this weekend with 24 fights on the card. Five of the favored boxers received opening round byes and the eighth division, the heavyweights, will not provide a puncher versus a boxer matchup in the 140-pound division.

The 180-pound class features hard punchers David Morken and Greg Marks are evenly matched in the second fight of the 140-pound division and appear evenly matched in the 155-pound class.

The 155-pound class features five fighters with four years of experience. Most of them participated in Golden Gloves in high school and won state championships.

The 155-class group features fighters with experience and three newcomers who have passed the test in sparring during workouts. Sophomore Tim Mahoney and freshman Mike Manty lead the group batting Bailey.

Outside of the three deep divisions boxing fans can expect a few thrilling matches.

David Morken and Greg Marks are evenly matched in the second fight of the 140-pound division and veterans Bob Gane and David Heilman provide a puncher versus a boxer matchup in the 150-pound class.

“Every fight will be some good fights, there always is,” said Gerber.

Quaterfinal winners will square off in the semifinals on Friday at 9 am and 1 pm.

By JENNY MARTEN

Irish get first road win

By JENNY MARTEN

Irish get first road win