News writer alumnus Peter Brown said in a lecture yesterday about the abdominal fat that you don't have to work as hard to lose then they currently are. Some cancers have been linked to extra fat. In his letter, Osagh expresses concern that Hungeling and Flynn are continuing to "waste their time on futile endeavors" by writing "a letter that comes off as whiny and self-important."

But Notre Dame students have no reason to fear that the Student Government office is being plagued by dissension and political infighting. Both Hungeling and Osagh claim that the two letters represent nothing more than a personal difference of opinion. "I wouldn't say that (the letter) is a big deal," said Osagh. "I just thought it would be kind of fun, to keep up light." "I'm not trying to defame Dave and Frank in any way," he said. "We're going to disagree on things. It would suck if we would agree on everything." Hungeling agreed that the uproar over the letters amounted to much ado about nothing. "I knew that his opinion (of our letter) was different than ours when we wrote it," said Hungeling. "I didn't have any problem with his writing it." "It's just a disagreement," Osagh continued. "I think it's good that there are two people in office who have different interests and ideas, and respect his right to write his own response."

However, Hungeling believes that the sexual assault which occurred at Lafayette the morning after the raid on Lafayette Square and consumed during pregnancy, age was an advantage for Hungeling. It's easy to become fat in high stress. "This fat is dangerous because it causes disease such as hypertension, diabetes, stroke, and some cancers have been linked to it," Brown said.

For women, fat is stored mainly in the thighs, hips, and buttocks. "This type of fat carries no increased health risk, as it does with men. Losing this fat is purely cosmetic and cultural," Brown said.

Genetically speaking, fat storage was an advantage for man's ancestors since it guaranteed energy in times of food scarcity. "Economic modernization allows for better access for calorie-dense, fatty foods, and you don't have to work as hard for them," Brown explained. Even though women don't share the same fat-related health risks as men, they have little bit about yourself in 20 years.

He attributed much of the obesity problem to jobs that men, women that challenged her," "Not transferring was one of the best decisions I've ever made," she stated. "I feel very grateful and blessed to have gone here for the past years," Whelan said as she addressed her feelings on attending St. Mary's College.

Mary's College, she responded "affirmatively and passionately."

While Tabor focused on more broad topics of St. Mary's, Whelan Whelan focused on the spiritual aspect of life at St. Mary's.

Whelan explored how being a part of St. Mary's College has helped her understand the spiritual growth she watched in others. She later found out that the spiritual growth had taken place within herself as well.

Whelan said that she considered transferring her first semester, but "the legacy of St. Mary's," "The legacy of St. Mary's," Whelan explained, "is the difference of an impact with us, either through our attitude or what we do is accomplished," he said. "We're going to try to do all we can," Osagh. "Hopefully, the people who came to the trouble of interviewing me will think of some fun stuff."

Saint Mary's seniors Anna Marie Tabor and Melissa Whelan discussed college experience, from the fears of freshman year, to the sadness of graduation, as part of the ongoing Sesquicentennial celebration of St. Mary's College, in a lecture entitled "How St. Mary's College has Influenced Me."

Tabor, who is a humanist studies major, claims that she came to St. Mary's for "love."

She said she was extremely impressed when she received photons and personal letters giving her information on the programs of St. Mary's, and that she managed to attend the following year.

It's a just a disgusting," Osagh continued. "I think it's good that there are two people in office who have different interests and ideas, and respect his right to write his own response."

However, Hungeling believes that the sexual assault which occurred at Lafayette the morning after the raid on Lafayette Square and consumed during pregnancy, age was an advantage for Hungeling. It's easy to become fat in high stress. "This fat is dangerous because it causes disease such as hypertension, diabetes, stroke, and some cancers have been linked to it," Brown said.

Genetically speaking, fat storage was an advantage for man's ancestors since it guaranteed energy in times of food scarcity. "Economic modernization allows for better access for calorie-dense, fatty foods, and you don't have to work as hard for them," Brown explained. Even though women don't share the same fat-related health risks as men, they have little bit about yourself in 20 years.

He attributed much of the obesity problem to jobs that men, women that challenges her," "Not transferring was one of the best decisions I've ever made," she stated.

Mary's College, she responded "affirmatively and passionately."

While Tabor focused on more broad topics of St. Mary's, Whelan Whelan focused on the spiritual aspect of life at St. Mary's.

Whelan explored how being a part of St. Mary's College has helped her understand the spiritual growth she watched in others. She later found out that the spiritual growth had taken place within herself as well.

Whelan said that she considered transferring her first semester, but "the legacy of St. Mary's," "The legacy of St. Mary's," Whelan explained, "is the difference of an impact with us, either through our attitude or what we do is accomplished," he said. "We're going to try to do all we can," Osagh. "Hopefully, the people who came to the trouble of interviewing me will think of some fun stuff."

Saint Mary's seniors Anna Marie Tabor and Melissa Whelan discussed college experience, from the fears of freshman year, to the sadness of graduation, as part of the ongoing Sesquicentennial celebration of St. Mary's College, in a lecture entitled "How St. Mary's College has Influenced Me."

Tabor, who is a humanist studies major, claims that she came to St. Mary's for "love."

She said she was extremely impressed when she received photons and personal letters giving her information on the programs of St. Mary's, and that she managed to attend the following year.

It's a just a disgusting," Osagh continued. "I think it's good that there are two people in office who have different interests and ideas, and respect his right to write his own response."

However, Hungeling believes that the sexual assault which occurred at Lafayette the morning after the raid on Lafayette Square and consumed during pregnancy, age was an advantage for Hungeling. It's easy to become fat in high stress. "This fat is dangerous because it causes disease such as hypertension, diabetes, stroke, and some cancers have been linked to it," Brown said.

Genetically speaking, fat storage was an advantage for man's ancestors since it guaranteed energy in times of food scarcity. "Economic modernization allows for better access for calorie-dense, fatty foods, and you don't have to work as hard for them," Brown explained. Even though women don't share the same fat-related health risks as men, they have little bit about yourself in 20 years.

He attributed much of the obesity problem to jobs that men, women that challenged her," "Not transferring was one of the best decisions I've ever made," she stated. "I feel very grateful and blessed to have gone here for the past years," Whelan said as she addressed her feelings on attending St. Mary's College.
What about the other holocausts?

This past Monday, when I should have been studying for an Analytical Chem test, I managed to catch the end of the Academy Award Ceremony and saw Stephen Spielberg receive two Oscars, both with his movie, "Schindler's List." During his second acceptance speech, he dedicated the crowd to the people whom they historically hate. Sadly, the people who are mean to them, I doubt that more than ten percent of the people would know about the horrors of genocide.

It's a such a dream, Spielberg said in finally winning an Academy Award, and it comes from such a nightmare.

The film won seven Oscars in a Monday night, including best picture and best director.

"I actually have friends who have won this before, and I swear I have never held one before," said a beaming Spielberg, clutching the statuette for best director. His only prior Academy honor was an Irving Thalberg award in 1987. That award, which is not in the shape of an Oscar, honors a filmmaker's body of work.

Spielberg reacted calmly at first, running down a list of thank yous.

He got there, in a choked voice and in the spok of the world. It was a moment when everyone can't be watching this... take a moment, it's a reference to the Jewish people who were killed by the Nazis.

"Schindler's List," the ton of movies, a single film, "Dance With Wolves" three years ago.

Much of Monday night's ceremony was a contrast between celebration and sadness, an Academy Award, and it comes from such a nightmare.

The Observer's Editor Patrice Miller

Dudley Moore arrested for battery

Actor Dudley Moore was arrested after a woman identified herself as his girlfriend said he battered her during an argument, police said today. The British-born star of "10" and "Archer" was booked and released on $50,000 bail after being arrested Monday for investigation of domestic abuse. The district attorney's office will decide whether to file a charge, said officer Lori Taylor. Police found that the woman sustained "minor but visible trauma to the neck area," she said. She added the injury was "not a deep wound" and the woman "is fine today." She thanked director Jane Campion, who won the Oscar for her portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Tom Hanks of "Philadelphia" was cited as best actor for his portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Holly Hunter won for best actress for her depiction of an unhappy, must bride in a Second New Zealand marriage. She thanked director Jane Campion, who was the Oscar for best original screenplay.

"Thank you for giving me a character and an experience that was so difficult to say goodbye to it because it's everybody's now," Hunter said.

In the most unexpected win, 11-year-old Anna Paquin captured the supporting actress Oscar for her part in 'The Piano." She said she was the second-smallest winner of a regular Oscar, trailing only 10-year-old Tatum O'Neal of "Paper Moon" in 1973.

Tom Hanks of "Philadelphia" was cited as best actor for his portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Tom Hanks of "Philadelphia" was cited as best actor for his portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

What about the other holocausts?

This past Monday, when I should have been studying for an Analytical Chem test, I managed to catch the end of the Academy Award Ceremony and saw Stephen Spielberg receive two Oscars, both with his movie, "Schindler's List." During his second acceptance speech, he dedicated the crowd to the people whom they historically hate. Sadly, the people who are mean to them, I doubt that more than ten percent of the people would know about the horrors of genocide.

It's a such a dream, Spielberg said in finally winning an Academy Award, and it comes from such a nightmare.

The film won seven Oscars in a Monday night, including best picture and best director.

"I actually have friends who have won this before, and I swear I have never held one before," said a beaming Spielberg, clutching the statuette for best director. His only prior Academy honor was an Irving Thalberg award in 1987. That award, which is not in the shape of an Oscar, honors a filmmaker's body of work.

Spielberg reacted calmly at first, running down a list of thank yous.

He got there, in a choked voice and in the spok of the world. It was a moment when everyone can't be watching this... take a moment, it's a reference to the Jewish people who were killed by the Nazis.

"Schindler's List," the ton of movies, a single film, "Dance With Wolves" three years ago.

Much of Monday night's ceremony was a contrast between celebration and sadness, an Academy Award, and it comes from such a nightmare.

The Observer's Editor Patrice Miller

Dudley Moore arrested for battery

Actor Dudley Moore was arrested after a woman identified herself as his girlfriend said he battered her during an argument, police said today. The British-born star of "10" and "Archer" was booked and released on $50,000 bail after being arrested Monday for investigation of domestic abuse. The district attorney's office will decide whether to file a charge, said officer Lori Taylor. Police found that the woman sustained "minor but visible trauma to the neck area," she said. She added the injury was "not a deep wound" and the woman "is fine today." She thanked director Jane Campion, who won the Oscar for her portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Tom Hanks of "Philadelphia" was cited as best actor for his portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Holly Hunter won for best actress for her depiction of an unhappy, must bride in a Second New Zealand marriage. She thanked director Jane Campion, who was the Oscar for best original screenplay.

"Thank you for giving me a character and an experience that was so difficult to say goodbye to it because it's everybody's now," Hunter said.

In the most unexpected win, 11-year-old Anna Paquin captured the supporting actress Oscar for her part in 'The Piano." She said she was the second-smallest winner of a regular Oscar, trailing only 10-year-old Tatum O'Neal of "Paper Moon" in 1973.

Tom Hanks of "Philadelphia" was cited as best actor for his portrayal of a lawyer with AIDS. Bruce Springsteen's "The Streets of Philadelphia" took the Oscar for best original song.

Holly Hunter won for best actress for her depiction of an unhappy, must bride in a Second New Zealand marriage. She thanked director Jane Campion, who won the Oscar for best original screenplay.

"Thank you for giving me a character and an experience that was so difficult to say goodbye to it because it's everybody's now," Hunter said.

In the most unexpected win, 11-year-old Anna Paquin captured the supporting actress Oscar for her part in 'The Piano." She said she was the second-smallest winner of a regular Oscar, trailing only 10-year-old Tatum O'Neal of "Paper Moon" in 1973.
Club helps in the job hunt

By GWEN DUFFIELD
News Writer

By offering motivational support and exchanging networking leads and contacts, the Job Search Club can help students to learn from each other in seeking employment, according to Cathy Nafe, Coordinator of Placement Services and career counselor at the St. Mary's Counseling and Career Development Center.

"By calling the alumni who have jobs you are interested in, you can get an overview in that area of employment of who is hiring and possibly get a contact from that person," said Nafe.

After locating a prospective employer, students should then draft a resume in which they describe their related work experience, their field of study, GPA, and any activities or community service which may contribute to their qualifications for that particular job.

"Employers want to know what you are as an employee can do for their company," said Nafe. "A student should target her resume to the type of job they are applying for," she continued.

Nafe stressed the importance of taking initiative in the job search by contacting the employer for an interview, instead of waiting to hear from them.

"All these companies are busy with their own work as well, so you need to take control and put it in your own ballpark," said Nafe.

Aside from the Job Search Club, the Counseling and Career Development Center offers students other career planning services to assist them in developing their career interests, according to Nafe.

"Students who have not yet chosen a field and want to narrow their focus can receive career counseling on an individual basis.

They may research their prospective interests in the Career Resource Library, use the Alumni Resource Network, or get actual job experience through internships or shadowing with employees from companies.

"Shadowing allows a student to spend half a day or up to two days with a person who has a job you are interested in to see exactly what that kind of work involves," said Nafe.

Students who are actively seeking a job in a particular field may seek job search counseling to set up job search plans and strategies.

This said, students must first assess their skills to determine what types of work they are good at and what they like to do, says Nafe. Then students should look for companies which look for these skills in their jobs and begin a networking process. This process consists of looking through the list of alumni on the Alumni Resource Network in the Counseling and Career Development Center.

The proposed extension of the Alumni Resource Network to the St. Mary's Counseling and Career Development Center offers students other career planning services to assist them in developing their career interests, according to Nafe.
Israel, PLO continue self rule talks

By SALAH NASRAWI

Associated Press

Tuesday.

reopen stalled peace talks, PLO occupied lands to protect Palestinians reached a tentative agreement that would meet a key PLO condition of anonymity, said the force would be under Israeli command.

Russia, Norway and other European countries have said they will contribute to the force, the sources said. Other international observers, such as the International Red Cross and the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, would also participate.

The Israelis also agreed to move an estimated four hundred fifty Jewish settlers in Hebron, on the city's outskirts, and to close a sixty-four-student Jewish school in Hebron, European diplomats said.

In addition, Israel and the PLO would set up joint police patrols in Hebron and other parts of the West Bank and Gaza, and about one thousand to one thousand five hundred Palestinian policemen trained in Jordan would participate in the force.

Samir Ghoseh, a member of the PLO's ruling executive committee, said the agreement also calls for moving international presence of three hundred to five hundred personnel in Hebron, sixty in Gaza and one thousand to one thousand five hundred in Jericho, said the sources, who included PLO officials and Western diplomats.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the force would be under Israeli command.

Russian Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat and Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres will be in Cairo, Egypt, then for a meeting of donor nations that have pledged to aid Palestinian autonomy.

Speaking on Israel's army radio, Peres said he had no plans to meet with Arafat soon. "We have to overcome very many obstacles and we need joint strength to do so," he said. "There will certainly be a meeting (with Arafat), but there is still no date yet and you can't talk in terms of 'soon' either." U.S., Russian and Norwegian envoys have been making intense efforts to lure Arafat back to the self-rule negotiations.

The Notre Dame Bookstore cordially invites you to attend a reception and reading by VALERIE SAYERS featuring her newest novel "The Distance Between Us". Ms. Sayers will also be available for autographs. (Refreshments will be available)

PLACEMENT EXAMS IN FRENCH AND SPANISH

In order to register for Romance language courses 102, 102A, 103, 201 or 241 by DART, students must be in the language sequence and have taken the course prerequisites. In French or Spanish, students may receive advanced placement into a course by taking either the CEEB, AP or Notre Dame exams. If you have previous language experience in French or Spanish, but are not in a language sequence and have not taken a placement exam, you must sign up for the departmental exam by calling the placement exam registration line at 1-6887 by 3:30 p.m. on March 24th. Exams will be open Monday - Saturday 9 am - 5 pm and Friday, March 25th. Results will be mailed by the registrar's office and students will be able to use DART to register for classes. If you have questions, please call the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures at 1-6886 or come to the department office, 343 O'Shaughnessy Hall.

YOU MUST BRING YOUR I.D. TO ENTER THE EXAM ROOM.

THE HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
"on the campus"

Ms. Sayers has that rare knack of appearing simply to open up a reality, as if it were so dear before her eyes that she doesn't have to create it so much as invite us in." - New York Times Book Review

Thursday, March 24th
3:30 pm - 5:00 pm
Greenfield's Cafe

(Hosted by: The HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE)

"on the campus"
Ph. (219)-631-5324
Open Monday - Saturday 9 am - 5 pm

Ph. (219)-631-6385

Saint Mary's Haggar College Center

Saturday, March 26
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Sponsored by:
ND Italian Club
SMC Italian Club
SMC International Club

When the Great American Dream isn't great enough

Have you considered THE HOLY CROSS CANDIDATE YEAR? A one-year program at Monac Seminar at the University of Notre Dame for college graduates interested in exploring the possibility of a lifetime of service as a Holy Cross priest or brother. Scholarship assistance is available.

Call or write for information:
Fr. John Conley, C.S.C.
Fr. Patrick Hanson, C.S.C.
Congregation of Holy Cross
Box 541, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556
(219) 631-6385

THE OBSERVER • NEWS

Letter

continued from page 1

"Above all, students should rest assured that their student body officers not only remain committed to bringing fun to the Notre Dame campus, but they also remain friends. "I wouldn't read it that Dave and I are mortal enemies now because I wrote this letter," Oraugh said. "It's not a big deal."
Anorexia, Bulimia found at ND

By MIKE GAGLIA
News Writer

Many Notre Dame students deal with the problems of an eating disorder in silence, but ample help is available, Rita Donley told an audience in LaForte's Poster Room last night.

In her lecture entitled "How to Help a Friend With an Eating Disorder," Donley, assistant director of the University Counseling Center, discussed warning signs and symptoms of eating disorders and steps people can take to get help for possible victims.

Donley gave an overview of the major disorders and their symptoms, including the familiar names anorexia and bulimia which are compulsive overeating, but all three involve a pattern of overeating and undereating. Major symptoms cited were 'eating rituals,' obsessive exercise and fasting, emotional isolation, low self-esteem, and large fluctuations in weight.

Although this list is far from complete, the occurrence of these disorders at Notre Dame is surprisingly commonplace. A recent survey conducted by the University Counseling Center revealed that 20.6% of Notre Dame women had a serious eating disorder and 46% showed symptoms of a problem. This does not mean that men do not suffer from these disorders; the incidence among men is merely less prevalent than in women. It is clear, however, that a problem exists at the university.

Donley gave a general overview of disorders, but the main focus of the presentation was to help and encourage people who know someone with a problem. "I do not want to encourage a witch hunt; you must resist assumptions and observe patterns of behavior over a period of time," Donley stressed. She mentioned that rumors may unfortunately come in to play if a friend does not approach the matter carefully.

A problem that does merit all of your attention is anorexia. Donley believes it does. She noted the surprising turnout (about forty students) as an indication that problems exist. The competitive academic and equally challenging social environments at Notre Dame only serve to aggravate these problems. Donley concluded the solution lies in recognition of the problem by family and friends, as well as those who struggle with these not-so-rare disorders.

If a problem is found to exist, however, one should "Pick a time and place that is low-stress, quiet, and private. When you speak of the problem, try not to judge, label, or shame the person. And the most important thing to communicate is that you care about them," she said.

The most likely reaction to any approach, however, will be denial and anger. "When you tell people you're concerned and back off, they're more likely to help, the only exceptions to this are when they are possibly suicidal or in immediate physical danger."

Donley also stressed the importance of personal caution when approaching a friend with an eating disorder. "It's important to take care of oneself as well." The problem should not begin affecting the friend's well-being to the point of doubling the negative influence of the situation.

The final question is, "Where does my friend go for help?" The University Counseling Center is one option, as well as Overeaters Anonymous. Donley also mentioned, "If you ever want to come to the Center and talk about approaching a friend, it's also an option."

Does the problem merit all of this attention? Donley believes it does. She noted the surprising turnout (about forty students) as an indication that problems exist. The competitive academic and equally challenging social environments at Notre Dame only serve to aggravate these problems. Donley concluded the solution lies in recognition of the problem by family and friends, as well as those who struggle with these not-so-rare disorders.

Suit settlement will change FBI gay policy

By BOB EDELCO
Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO

The FBI will not discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation under a settlement a judge approved Tuesday between the agency and a fired gay agent.

Frank Buttino's lawsuit was resolved in December when the Clinton administration promised equal treatment for homosexual and heterosexual FBI employees. Buttino was fired in 1990 after 20 years with the FBI.

A week before the administration announced the new policy, Attorney General Janet Reno barred all Justice Department agencies from discriminating on the basis of sexual orientation.

The Donald and Marilyn Keough Center For Irish Studies and
the Notre Dame English Department are delighted to announce a new course, available to students this fall:

English 01:01

Beginning Irish

An introduction to the Irish language.

MWF 10:10 - 11:00

Available on DART. Slots limited.

New classrooms

Some classes were held outside yesterday as Notre Dame students and faculty took advantage of a day of warm weather.

The Observer sports department is seeking individuals for the following positions:

Copy Editors
Staff Writers

Any interested parties contact George Dehmann at 631-4543 or come to the Observer Office 3rd Floor LaFortune.
Korean tensions rise, Chinese help sought

By PAUL SHIN
Associated Press

Tensions on the world's most heavily armed border escalated Tuesday, with North Korea accusing South Korea of provoking war, and South Korea saying its defenses better to ensure peace.

South Korean President Kim Young-sam said he would ask China, North Korea's only major ally, to help ease the tension standoff on the divided peninsula.

North Korea's official news agency accused South Korea's plans to deploy Patriot missiles and conduct military exercises with the United States "provocative acts ... and a declaration of war."

North Korea, after refusing to allow full inspections of sites where it is suspected of developing nuclear weapons, threatened Monday to pull out of an international nuclear controls treaty that could lead to a U.S. push for international sanctions.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.

"If pressure is applied on this issue, that can only complicate the situation on the Korean peninsula and it will add to the tension there," Li said in Beijing.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Michael McCurry said Chinese officials have indicated their willingness to work with the United States on the Korean situation.

China has backed efforts to get North Korea to permit the inspections. But Chinese President Li Peng called Tuesday that China would not support economic sanctions.
Drug shows promise for some cancer victims

By BRENDA COLEMAN
Associated Press

CHICAGO

A new study offers the best evidence yet that a powerful anti-cancer drug may cure some people with spreading tumors of the kidney and skin who otherwise would probably die within months, researchers say.

The findings also suggest that researchers are on the right track in fighting some cancers by boosting the body's immunity rather than attacking tumors directly with surgery, radiation or chemotherapy.

About 5 percent of 283 patients receiving high doses of the genetically engineered drug Interleukin-2 became cancer-free and stayed that way for periods ranging from seven months to eight years, the longest any patient in the study was followed.

Results of the study are published in Wednesday's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Interleukin-2 is believed to stimulate production of the body's T cells, white blood cells that orchestrate key immune responses, and of other "killer cells" that can target tumors but not normal cells.

The drug is the only treatment approved by the Food and Drug Administration for advanced kidney cancer, which will kill about 11,300 Americans this year.

It is being used experimentally on advanced melanoma, a skin cancer that will kill an estimated 6,900 Americans this year.

The lead researcher, Dr. Steven A. Rosenberg, chief of surgery at the National Cancer Institute, said the findings bolster arguments for trying to use the body's immune system to fight some cancers.

"There's been a lot of controversy about whether immunotherapy would ever be effective" against cancer, he said Tuesday.

Craig Cooper, 40, who underwent Interleukin-2 treatment more than two years ago for spreading melanoma, called the drug "miraculous," to take and "great stuff" to benefit from.

"I'm one of the miracles," Cooper said Tuesday from Dav- enport, Iowa, where he is a newspaper sports writer.

"I have a normal life," he said the husband and father of two, "I coach Little League baseball, play golf, do anything I want to do, basically."
Perry inspects missile sites

By JOHN DIAMOND

Associated Press

PERVOMASYSK, Ukraine

Defense Secretary William Perry stared over the brink of a Ukrainian missile silo Tuesday and saw a sign of disarmament.

In an unprecedented tour of a former Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile base, Perry witnessed the gradual dismantling of a site that had possessed the power to inflict heavy damage on the United States.

He stepped inside a missile silo into which he peered contained a rocket some 9 feet in diameter, but none of the 10 nuclear warheads that it can carry. They have already been removed and shipped to Russia for dismantling.

Perry also toured the underground command center that controlled some of the 700 warheads at Pervomaysk. Ukrainian officers demonstrated the steps they would have taken to prepare for launching missiles.

"As I stood there watching the sign admit that I was adored," Perry said afterward. "These two operators had the power to destroy every major city in the United States.

Already, the danger is decreasing. Perry said. Ukraine has shipped 120 warheads to Russia, where they will be disarmed. Half of those came from SS-24s at Pervomaysk.

Perry profusely thanked his hosts for "this historic trip," noting that no defense secretary had ever visited the base in south-central Ukraine.

"Two years ago, a secretary of defense could not even have imagined going to these sites," Perry said.

The tour was fitting in one sense. The United States is providing some of the money the Ukrainians need to dismantle their nuclear arsenal. Perry listened impassively as the Ukrainian officials explained their critical shortage of funds.

Deputy Foreign Minister Boris Tarasistak, the top Ukrainian arms control negotiator, said the $350 million already provided by the United States for this purpose, some of it signed over on Monday, amounts to only a fraction of the total cost.

Tarasistak estimated it will require $2.8 billion to remove warheads, dismantle warheads and destroy silos.

As Perry descended a narrow stairway into the command center, Ukrainian Defense Minister Vitalyi Radetskii cracked, "Keep the minister until he gives money.

When they looked down into the SS-24 silo, Radetskii assured Perry that 30 of the base's 46 SS-24s have been deactivated, and he invited Perry to look into any he wanted.

"We'll have a bet on this one," Radetskii said. "If there is a warhead, we'll pay. Otherwise, you pay.

That, of course, is precisely what the United States is doing. Perry defended the cost to U.S. taxpayers, noting the obvious, direct benefit of helping Ukraine.

"This seems like a lot of money but it buys us more defense than any other use of defense dollars that I could think of," Perry said.

Col. Gen. Volodymir Mikhtiuk, commander of nuclear forces in Ukraine, told of soldiers working round the clock to meet deadlines set by previous arms-reduction agreements. Some, he said, are homeless, and the base lacks money to buy spare parts for equipment involved in the dismantling process.

Without outside help, Mikhtiuk said, "We would be forced to stop.

In addition to the SS-24s, Ukraine also has 130 SS-19 missiles, each of which can carry eight warheads. Half of the 40 SS-19s at Pervomaysk have been deactivated. And of the 90 SS-19s at Ukraine's Khmelnytsky base, Radetskii would only say that a lot have been deactivated.

They have already been removed from the United States.

The Observer • NEWS Wednesday, March 23, 1994

Arizona sheriff takes on new Brady Law

By GEORGE CARTIES

Associated Press

PHOENIX

The Justice Department is defending the 5-week-old Brady Law from a country sheriff's challenge by arguing law officers need not always carry out background checks the new federal law requires for handgun buyers.

Graham County Sheriff Richard Mack may decide other duties are more pressing than making the checks, the U.S. Justice Department said in a legal brief filed Monday.

"I could do anything else," Mack said from Safford in southeastern Arizona. "I could stand on a street corner and wait for a kid to come by and talk to him on the dangers of drug abuse, and it would be more useful.

Carl Stern, a Justice Department spokesman in Washington, characterized the filing as a "hypothetical legal argument" rather than a guide to enforcing the law. He said local officials are expected to make reasonable efforts to carry out the background checks.

"To do nothing at all because you're opposed to what Congress has done would not be reasonable," Stern said.

Mack is challenging the gun law as a private citizen with his own lawyer and help from the National Rifle Association. Like other opponents of the law, Mack has argued it will swamp his department with paperwork and open him to lawsuits by gun victims in his rural county of 28,000 people.

The government brief, filed in U.S. District Court in Tucson, says the chief law enforcement officer in the jurisdiction where the gun is being sold must make a "reasonable" effort to conduct a background check. But it notes that Mack could "at any given time" decide his 12-member department is too busy to conduct the check.

The Justice Department brief was the government's first response to several lawsuits around the country challenging the law, which requires a five-day wait before a handgun is sold while local law agencies check the buyer's background for any crimes or psychological problems.

Firm agrees to pay fine

Associated Press

BOSTON

John Hancock Mutual Insurance Co. agreed to pay more than $1 million to settle claims that it illegally screened and dined Massachusetts politicians to gain influence over state legislation.

Authorities said Hancock lobbyist spent more than $35,000 from January 1986 to May 1993 on hundreds of meals, drinks, golf fees, water tickets and other gratuities to entertain state legislators.

The state Ethics Commission cited several examples where Hancock lobbyists influenced legislation. According to one company document, lobbyists helped kill a bill that would have banned AIDS testing for insurance coverage.

In a statement Tuesday, Hancock said: "We regret that this problem occurred, but we appreciate the government's recognition of our determination to step forward and correct it."

The Ethics Commission fined Hancock $110,000. In addition, the U.S. attorney's office accepted a $900,000 settlement, which authorities said would have been a probable penalty if the company had been indicted and convicted.

The Boston-based company also has agreed to cooperate in an investigation of the lawmakers involved.

Comments from fellow Notre Dame students who have seen David:

"Absolutely an excellent presentation — one of the best I've ever seen.

I laughed, I cried, I'd see it again and again. It was better than CATS! Seriously — Awesome"

"A presenter and presentation I will remember forever.

"Inspirational and educational."

"Excellent, bring him back."

"Quite a coup to get someone with a clear and important message."

"David was fabulous and entertaining with a clear and important message."

Sponsored by The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education and Students Against Driving Drunk.

BRADY TALKS

Wednesday, March 23, 1994

7 p.m.

Library Auditorium

Comments from fellow Notre Dame students who have seen David:

"Absolutely an excellent presentation — one of the best I've ever seen.

I laughed, I cried, I'd see it again and again. It was better than CATS! Seriously — Awesome"

"A presenter and presentation I will remember forever.

"Inspirational and educational."

"Excellent, bring him back."

"Quite a coup to get someone this good to speak.

"David was fabulous and entertaining with a clear and important message."

Sponsored by The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education and Students Against Driving Drunk.
Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter to South Bend Police Chief Ron Marcianek co-authored by the current student body president Frank Flynn and Student Body President-Elect David Hungeling. Although it is encouraging to see the two administrations and the Student Body President-Frank Flynn and Student Body President-Elect David Hungeling working together in encouraging the two administrations and the Student Body President-Frank Flynn and Student Body President-Elect David Hungeling working in such great accord with the students here, we cannot help but feel a little discouraged that they continue to waste their time on futile endeavors.

Sure, there exists an adequate amount of bad feelings between the South Bend Police force and a good number of the student body here at Notre Dame. I do not think that this is unusual though. I would hazard a guess that the relationship between the police and students in any good college town are strained at best. Students and police aren’t supposed to get along. The students here should be proud of the fact the police don’t like them. That means they are doing what any good college student should be doing, having fun and occasionally getting in trouble for it.

I do believe that Flynn and Hungeling are justified in stating that some of the police actions were rash. I did not get to Lafayette Square in time to witness what was going on firsthand, but the stories I have heard are believable. I have heard that the police were in the wrong, that their procedures were flawed and that the police force probably believe them to be.

The South Bend Police force does not exist so that it can baby sit the students of Notre Dame. Neither does Student Government. We are all big and girls and boys. Sometimes we screw up, sometimes the cops screw up. I do not think Flynn and Hungeling are justified in the position that they take. The most effective way of opening up fruitful dialogue with the South Bend Police force does not begin by insulting them. Surely, Student Government has better things to do than give the South Bend Police Department another reason to hate us.

Matt Osrach
Junior
Fischer Hall

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Students should stop whining

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter to South Bend Police Chief Ron Marcianek co-authored by the current student body president Frank Flynn and Student Body President-Elect David Hungeling. Although it is encouraging to see the two administrations and the Student Body President-Frank Flynn and Student Body President-Elect David Hungeling working in such great accord with the students here, we cannot help but feel a little discouraged that they continue to waste their time on futile endeavors.

Sure, there exists an adequate amount of bad feelings between the South Bend Police force and a good number of the student body here at Notre Dame. I do not think that this is unusual though. I would hazard a guess that the relationship between the police and students in any good college town are strained at best. Students and police aren’t supposed to get along. The students here should be proud of the fact the police don’t like them. That means they are doing what any good college student should be doing, having fun and occasionally getting in trouble for it.

I do believe that Flynn and Hungeling are justified in stating that some of the police actions were rash. I did not get to Lafayette Square in time to witness what was going on firsthand, but the stories I have heard are believable. I have heard that the police were in the wrong, that their procedures were flawed and that the police force probably believe them to be.

The South Bend Police force does not exist so that it can baby sit the students of Notre Dame. Neither does Student Government. We are all big and girls and boys. Sometimes we screw up, sometimes the cops screw up. I do not think Flynn and Hungeling are justified in the position that they take. The most effective way of opening up fruitful dialogue with the South Bend Police force does not begin by insulting them. Surely, Student Government has better things to do than give the South Bend Police Department another reason to hate us.

Matt Osrach
Junior
Fischer Hall

Band review lacked open-minded approach

Dear Editor:

Justin Cole’s article Monday, March 21 on campus bands dealt mainly with a ban but seemingly unsolvable problem that continues to perplex a large fraction of this University. It is a problem that they seem to wish for the police department another reason to hate us.

The end of the letter makes Flynn and Hungeling appear as the present-day Notre Dame leaders that many on the police force probably believe them to be. The South Bend Police force does not exist so that it can baby sit the students of Notre Dame. Neither does Student Government. We are all big and girls and boys. Sometimes we screw up, sometimes the cops screw up. I do not think Flynn and Hungeling are justified in the position that they take. The most effective way of opening up fruitful dialogue with the South Bend Police force does not begin by insulting them. Surely, Student Government has better things to do than give the South Bend Police Department another reason to hate us.

Matt Osrach
Junior
Fischer Hall
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IRA terrorism is not the answer

Dear Editor:

It was disappointing to receive David McManus's intemperate apology for the IRA ("God Bless the IRA", March 5, 1994). The Observer last week. It is so bad, that I wondered whether it was meant in jest. Without due re­ference to the contrary, we must take such writing literally, absurd as they are, much as we do those who deny the Holocaust.

McManus said that his heroes "may seem [sic] to be violent at times," he argued that their triumphs were a justified response to British/English oppression. (He never distinguishes between the British and English, much to the chagrin of Welsh and Scottish who can also claim to have suffered under English domination).

As I read on, I was expecting to see a list of the reprehensible actions of the IRA but there was none. It is as if the IRA are not the future but the past, McManus informs us, which is untrue. The IRA are justified because the British/English are evil. If McManus is not aware of atrocities upon the Irish ever since Cromwell all the way down to the Troubles, then he must be

And so they have.

Robert C. Brown

Graduate Student

Student union needs refocusing

Dear Editor:

This is a letter to clear up a misunderstanding which has been promoted by the Graduate Student Union (GSU). I must first state that I resent having to take time out from my work to address this issue. But I do feel that the graduate students are being grossly misrepresented. From reading the recent newsletters and advertisements in the Graduate Student Union, the GSU, one would be led to believe that the student body at Notre Dame supports radical feminists, the gay/lesbian movement, and is unhappy with the leadership of President Edward Malley.

Speaking not only for myself, but for the majority of engineers and mathematics/physics/engineering graduate students at Notre Dame, this is not true. The truth is, most of us are fed up with the fact that our dues, as graduate students at Notre Dame, are being misused in this manner. We object to, and are embarrassed by the impression which the GSU gives to the rest of the ND community that all graduate students support these causes.

You see, the majority of us do not have to complain about being victimized by the mainstream. Don't be mistaken, we have put up with our share of nonsense, we are forced to pay, are being misused in this manner, and we are fed up with the GSU. But membership is not optional, and we are forced to be represented by the GSU. We object to, and are embarrassed by the impression which the GSU gives to the rest of the ND community that all graduate students support these causes.

So, Robert C. Brown wishes us to address the IRA, but I believe the average graduate student may not wish to address the IRA. The truth is, most of us are fed up with our dues, as graduate students at Notre Dame, are being misused in this manner. We object to, and are embarrassed by the impression which the GSU gives to the rest of the ND community that all graduate students support these causes.

I believe that the majority of us do not have to complain about being victimized by the mainstream. Don't be mistaken, we have put up with our share of nonsense, we are forced to pay, are being misused in this manner, and we are fed up with the GSU. But membership is not optional, and we are forced to be represented by the GSU. We object to, and are embarrassed by the impression which the GSU gives to the rest of the ND community that all graduate students support these causes.

Graduate Student

eight of the tiny hands and feet of an innocent fetus, clenched in fear at the growth of relativeistic subjectivism, I can only hold my nose out of the wind. Is there no hope for a change in human nature? Of course there is. Moreover, it seems to me that however "groovy" contemporary observers may find them, the most more and more young people are coming to realize that relativism, one of the Hierarchical Magisterium should have in making their most personal decisions. The young man I quoted above, by his highly critical treatment of post-Cold War thought, confirmed my belief that the direction our culture is heading towards. Something truly is "blowing in the wind" and we are just about to feel it and that something, I would submit, is nothing less than the ideal of human life realized by the Serbs of "Aquino" seven hundred years ago. Read the Summa Theologiae and decide for yourself.

Josh Ozersky is a graduate student in American History.
The Works Restaurant caters to service organizations

By KATIE MEYER

Accent Writer

Would you volunteer to shut down your business to hide eggs and entertain children? That's what The Works Restaurant is doing this Saturday from 2 p.m.

They are hosting an Easter Party for Michiana Latchkey children.

South Bend previously knew The Works Restaurant and Hotel as The Old Spaghetti Works or The Spaghetti Factory. In January of last year they made a switch and became a local company.

Having been operational as a locally owned company for one year, The Works staff at 501 North Niles intends to engage in activities which will directly affect South Bend.

Who's idea was this? The finger should be pointed at Astrid Fingerhut. When she was hired at the Works, she asked her employers about the possibilities of doing some community service.

She 'hadn't planned on the response. It was overwhelming.' The Works is now planning an entire series of service activities and outreach programs in an effort to interact with the community.

They are kicking off this tradition with "A Year of Service".

Saturday's party represents only a part of the activities planned. In January the restaurant hosted a dinner for the Big Brothers and Big Sisters Club.

There are more activities to follow.

This Saturday the restaurant is hosting an Easter party for the Latchkey Kids Boys and Girls Club of Michiana.

The party will include a spaghetti dinner, an Easter egg hunt in the restaurant, and a visit by the Easter Bunny himself.

The maximum capacity of the restaurant is 120. They are expecting about 50 children who are less fortunate and friendships that form.

Easter comes to boys and girls

By ANGELA CORNYN

Accent Writer

On Saturday, March 26, The Works Hotel, on 501 North Niles Avenue, will be hosting its first Easter party from 2 to 4 p.m. for children from The Latchkey Kids and the Boys and Girls Clubs of Michiana.

Astrid Fingerhut, Marketing Director of The Works Hotel explained, "We are a new company, locally owned and the Easter party forms part of our program for what we have called 'The Year of our Community.' We would like to sponsor events that will contribute to our community.

The Latchkey kids club generally caters to children up to 12 years old.

They provide important services to children including tutoring, recreational activities and of course what all children love, snacks.

The Boys and Girls club likewise makes a meaningful contribution in the lives of young people up to 18 years old. They provide a meeting place with a wide range of activities and events.

Both of these clubs cooperate and do tremendous work to ensure that the children have the best amenities available.

"The Works has a long tradition in this area and as a new company we want to follow through on that.

By hosting a party for these children we will hope to help make their Easter special and one to remember," continued Fingerhut.

The festivities will include a spaghetti dinner, an Easter egg hunt in the restaurant, and a visit by the Easter Bunny with baskets. "This event has received marvelous support from the staff of the hotel," said Fingerhut.

"I have worked in many hotels but here the atmosphere is warm and the staff and guests are wonderful. We are all dressed up, learning good manners." neighbor," said Rumely.

To be included in the afternoon's festivities are a spaghetti dinner, an Easter egg hunt, and a surprise visit from the Easter Bunny.

This is the first year that the Latchkey Foundation has sponsored such an event.

"I hope to continue to sponsor the event," said Fingerhut.

To be included in the afternoon's festivities are a spaghetti dinner, an Easter egg hunt, and a surprise visit from the Easter Bunny.

This is the first year that the Latchkey Foundation has sponsored such an event.

"I hope to continue to sponsor the event," said Fingerhut.

By JANINE VAN LANCKER

Latchkey children await Easter

Latchkey Foundation Reaches Out to Less Fortunate.

Spring is in the air; the birds are chirping the weather is breaking and Easter is right around the corner.

To most children, that means a traditional trip to see Old Peter Cotton Tail waking up to a basket full of delicious goodies, and seeing who can devour his or her chocolate bunny first.

However, what about the children who are less fortunate and unable to participate those special events?

"I have worked in many hotels but here the atmosphere is warm and the staff and guests are wonderful. We are all dressed up, learning good manners." neighbor," said Rumely.

The Latchkey School was founded three years ago for the purpose of "providing a safe environment for children of the West Side after school and providing help with their homework," according to Rumely.

A basic rule child who does not have a place to go after school is a Latchkey child. However, no set criteria exists to govern who is able to attend the school and who is not.

"It's kind of word of mouth," explained Rumely. "There are no geographical boundaries." When students arrive at the Latchkey School, they are given a snack, time to play and lessons in art or music.

Then it is home work time during which they are, "helped and tutored by St. Steven's tutors from Notre Dame. Rumely finds the respect and friendship of the tutors are "very touching," she said.

"I have worked in many hotels but here the atmosphere is warm and the staff and guests are wonderful. We are all dressed up, learning good manners." neighbor," said Rumely.

The tutors are truly living the Christian message of love thy neighbor," said Rumely.
Terrapin basketball teams heading for the Sweet Sixteen this week. Hoosier and Boilermaker alumni are clearing out the sporting goods stores and trying to score seats to the big games.

The Indiana Hoosiers play College in the East Regional semifinal in Miami Arena on Friday. The Purdue Boilermakers left Tuesday for the Southeast Regional semifinal against Kansas in Knoxville, Tenn. Texas. Seats for this weekend's Indiana-Boston College game are selling $200 for upper level seats and $300 for lower level seats, said Audrie Kaminsky, a Miami resident and 1991 IU alumna. She said she expects prices to be at least $50 to $75 higher by Wednesday.

"It's sold down here," Kaminsky said. "We've psyched. You've got to realize how far away from everything we are here—so we've got to have Indiana coming to play to play.

Kaminsky has scraped together 20 tickets to share with her fellow Florida-based alumni, who recently revived the Miami IU alumni group. Flag makers around the state also have been busy as they field requests from fans buying IU and Purdue goods faster than producers can make them, said Karen Ezell, manager of the Flag and Banner Co. in Indianapolis.

"In fact, they've bought the flags right off our poles and come to our office to get them and when we said we're out, they've said, 'How about these on your poles outside?"" Buck said. "There's a usually a rush on IU goods this time of year because the Hoosiers are an annual NCAA tournament favorite. But Buck couldn't remember when the company last sold out of Purdue goods.

One of the more popular items are wind socks—huge streamers of colorful colors that blow in the wind.
Martin's range keys Purdue

By HANK LOWENKRON
Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. - Off-season work on his 3-point shot has paid off big for Cuonzo Martin and his Purdue teammates. The 6-foot-6 junior missed all seven 3-pointers he attempted in his first two years at Purdue. This season he's hit on 78 of 176 attempts, giving the Big Ten champs a valuable outside threat to go with the offensive potential of NCAA Division I scoring leader Glenn Robinson.

"We felt he could make 3-pointers and asked him to work on it during the summer," Purdue coach Gene Keady said Tuesday. "He increased his shooting range. Once he developed his confidence it's been really great."

"I knew it would be a plus for our team if I could knock the shot down," Martin said of the long-range bombs he has hit with a 64 percent accuracy mark that has helped him post a career-high 16.0 scoring average through the rest of the NCAA tournament. His inconsistent play at guard must improve if the Hoosiers are to beat Boston College Friday night and then have a chance on Sunday to reach the Final Four.

"My confidence is pretty good right now. I'm just playing with poise," Martin said. "We know the old story that you just play them one game at a time. That's what got us the Big Ten championship. That's what got us this far in the NCAA."

The two teams are meeting for only the third time. None of the players in Thursday's game had been born when the teams last met during the 1949-50 season and Kansas evened the series with a 60-52 victory on its home court.

However, the Jayhawks have a big edge in tournament experience. Purdue is in the Sweet 16 for only the third time. None of the players in Thursday's game had been born when the teams last met during the 1949-50 season and Kansas evened the series with a 60-52 victory on its home court.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - Steve Hart, likely to get a lot more playing time in place of injured Sherron Wilkerson, knows athletic talent alone isn't enough to carry Indiana through the rest of the NCAA tournament. His inconsistent play at guard must improve if the Hoosiers are to beat Boston College Friday night and then have a chance on Sunday to reach the Final Four, Hart said.

"Sherron picks up a lot of things I don't do right," said Hart, a 6-foot-4 freshman who averages 4.1 points a game and has played only less minutes than Wilkerson this season.

"He definitely is a player we needed and now I have to pick up my game," Hart said. "I have to start working on things he had over me that I'm going to have to improve in order to play. I relied on him and I think he relied on me for some things, too. I've just got to pick up my game.

Wilkerson, also a freshman, broke his left leg early in the second half of Sunday's 67-58 victory over Temple. He underwent surgery on Monday, and Dr. Steve Ahfeldt, a former Indiana player, inserted a rod and several screws to stabilize the fracture.

The Hoosiers aren't sure who will fill Wilkerson's spot. Normally, it would be senior Pat Graham, but Graham is playing with a sore, probably broken, left foot.

He hasn't practiced much the last three weeks. Nor has starting guard Damon Bailey, whose torn abdominal muscle has held him back.

Next in line, presumably, would be Hart.

"Ball-handling and delivering the ball are two key things," Felling said of Hart. "He doesn't catch the ball in traffic, which I think is concentration. Sherron just saw the floor better and Steve just doesn't see some things. He has sort of a predetermined thing on what he wants to do."
Goetz’s heroics salvage split in Bloomington

By MEGAN McGRATH
Sports Writer

Liz Goetz must have been saving her first career home run for a dramatic moment.

The waiting paid off as Goetz became the hero Tuesday evening in Bloomington.

With the Notre Dame softball team trailing 3-1 in the top of the sixth inning, Goetz stepped up and slammed a three-run shot, giving the Irish (12-12) and freshman pitcher Joy Batterbys (6-4) a dramatic win and a split of a double-header at Indiana University.

Notre Dame was beaten in a first game pitcher’s duel 2-1. The Irish looked as if they finally exercised the insecurities of their spring break performance in coming back against the Hoosiers, one of the toughest teams in the region and one of the only teams to beat second-ranked Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame began its comeback when Amy Rueker reached first on a fielder's choice and advanced on Andy Keys' sharp single to left. With runners on first and second, Batterbys hit a single to left. With runners on first and second, Batterbys hit a single, driving in two runs.

"We hit the ball hard," Miller said of the Irish. "Both teams played a good game, but we didn't take advantage of some opportunities by getting hits at the right time."

Notre Dame stranded eight base-runners in the game, including twice leaving senior captain Christy Connover, who led the team with two doubles, on the bases.

The Irish must now prepare for this weekend's Winthrop Invitational in Rock Hill, S.C. Notre Dame squares off against Drexel, Maine, Mercer and host Winthrop in pool play Friday and Saturday before beginning the single-elimination tournament Saturday night. Last season the Irish shut out Mercer 8-0 on a two-hitter by Kara Bran-denberger.

Kansas State given tough test by Gonzaga

By JOEL STASHENKO
Associated Press

Kansas State in the second round of the National Invitation Tournament that neither of its first two opponents, Arizona State and Chicago, could overcome.

Askia Jones scored a game-high 22 points, including two free throws with 4.9 seconds left, to preserve Kansas State's 66-64 victory Tuesday night. The Wildcats (21-11) advance to play the winner of the second-round game between the only teams to beat second-ranked Oregon State, Oregon and UCLA.

"We hit the ball hard," Miller said of the Irish. "Both teams played a good game, but we didn't take advantage of some opportunities by getting hits at the right time."

Notre Dame stranded eight base-runners in the game, including twice leaving senior captain Christy Connover, who led the team with two doubles, on the bases.

The Irish must now prepare for this weekend's Winthrop Invitational in Rock Hill, S.C. Notre Dame squares off against Drexel, Maine, Mercer and host Winthrop in pool play Friday and Saturday before beginning the single-elimination tournament Saturday night. Last season the Irish shut out Mercer 8-0 on a two-hitter by Kara Bran-denberger.

Upstart Siena wins again in NIT

By JOEL STASHENKO
Associated Press

Siena (23-7) reached the quarterfinals of the NIT for the second time since 1991. It advances to play the winner of Tuesday night's Old Dominion-Bradley game on Thursday.

Bennerman had 19 of his points in the first half, as Siena built a 12-point halftime lead and Tulane (18-11) never seriously challenged in the second half.

Bennerman opened the scoring for Siena with a 3-pointer 1:26 into the game, one of four 3-pointers he hit in the first half. He also made three free throws with 5:12 left in the half after he was fouled by LeVelle Simmons on a 3-pointer attempt, giving Siena its biggest lead of the half at 41-28.

The closest Tulane could get in the second half was 64-55 with 9:38 left.

"Reflections on Current Contentions"

Tuesday, March 29 7:30PM Stepican Center

$3 Students, Faculty, and Staff $5 General Public

Tickets available at the LaFortune Info Desk
Haskins upset with media

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS

Coach Clem Haskins has vowed to be more combative in dealing with officials and the media.

"I think Bobby Knight has the philosophy that media treat them like dogs, because most of them deserve it," said Haskins, the University of Minnesota men's basketball coach.

He was scheduled to attend risk suspension early next season after protesting the foul disparity between Minnesota's 91-58 win over Wisconsin and opposing centers.

Haskins had made his comments Monday in an interview with the Star Tribune as the team flew home from Sacramento, Calif., where the Gophers lost Sunday to Louisville in the second round of the NCAA men's basketball tournament.

Haskins was stung by criticism about the team's inconsis­tency during what he called a "very, very successful season."

In 1980 he had accepted the pressure to contend in early season, then he had accepted the pressure to contend in early season, then he had accepted the pressure to contend in early season, then he had accepted the pressure to contend in early season, then he had accepted the pressure to contend in early season, then he had reached the midpoint of the Big Ten schedule with a 5-4 record.

To Haskins, a 20-victory season should be reason for any praise. The failure to contend in the Big Ten was tied to Jayson Walton's season-long knee problems, he said.

But what of the frequent ups and downs? The Gophers defeated Wisconsin twice by more than 30 points and trounced Iowa in late-season wins.

They lost at Penn State and Iowa, and needed three over­times to defeat last-place Iowa at home. Walton played in all of those games.

"If we get in postseason play, people have no need to worry about ups and downs," Haskins responded.

The Choice Is Yours

An Honest Look At A Tough Question

College is definitely a time for decisions. "What should be my major? Where should I live? Where is going to do what finish school?" All are important questions because they affect our lives in significant ways.

Then there's the question of alcohol. Perhaps you, or others around you, have yet to really question the role alcohol plays day to day, weekend to weekend. If you live in a 'normal' college environment, you are constantly given the opportunity to decide how alcohol will play into your personal and social life, thereby affecting your academics, your relationships and your health.

"Alcohol doesn't play a role in my life..."

Alcohol abuse and conditions have become the number one health problem in America, and there are few people who have not been affected by alcohol abuse these days.

So lose jobs, suffer from alcoholism, achieve relationships breakup or divorce, or cause drunk-driving crashes. Even if alcohol isn't a huge factor in your life, chances are some of your family or friends have suffered negative consequences from their decisions to drink, or are showing signs of future problems.

Then, think of how alcohol affects you indirectly. Drinking and driving crashes are the number one killer of Americans aged 18-24. Is it any wonder your insurance rates are so high?

"Or did you know that 50 percent of all vandalism on college campuses are results of drunken behavior?" That money shows up on your tuition bill. Each time someone on your campus makes a bad decision regarding alcohol, you pay the price.

Think of all your friends on your residence hall floor, on your intramural team, in your first classes.

"How many will drop out of school for 'academic reasons' that are really related to party reasons?" How many will ruin romantic relationships because of alcohol-related behavior?

Will any drink to deal with a rough week?

All of these real life dangers are tied to each man or woman's personal decisions regarding alcohol. If your decisions about alcohol depend on the decisions of your friends, or if you are simply unable to predict what your decision will be from situation to situation, it's time to give some serious thought to the question, "What role does alcohol play in my life?"

Checking Yourself Out

In almost every area of life, evaluation is a valuable tool. Midterms come out, employees get 'review,' we step on a scale. By checking ourselves out, we can celebrate our successes and stop ourselves before our 'areas of weakness' get the best of us.

In five years at Tulsa he won an NIT championship, made three NCAA tournament appearances and had a 119-37 record before leaving for Arkansas.

Tulsa, which plays Arkansas in the Midwestern Regional semi­finals Friday night in Dallas, was never the same until Smith arrived from Kentucky, where he was an assistant under Rick Pitino.

With three consecutive winning records, the first two under adverse conditions, and the school's surprising run through the NCAA tournament, Smith is arguably one of the hottest coaching prospects around.

"If Benny Crum can build a championship team at Louisville, someone can do it at Tulsa," said Bob Gardner, a lifelong basketball fan.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, March 23, 1994

First Round of 16

'Tweet' for Tulsa

By DOUG FERGUSON

TULSA, Okla.

Coach Tubby Smith has Tulsa in the NCAA tournament's final 16 for the first time, and Golden Hurricane fans couldn't be more thrilled - or worried.

They have been through this routine before: Dynamic coach comes to small university with exciting, uptempo style; team makes a name for itself; coach leaves for bigger job.

It happened with Nolan Richardson when he arrived from Western Texas Junior Col­lege in 1980.

In five years at Tulsa he won an NIT championship, made three NCAA tournament appearances and had a 119-37 record before leaving for Arkansas.

Tulsa, which plays Arkansas in the Midwestern Regional semi­finals Friday night in Dallas, was never the same until Smith arrived from Kentucky, where he was an assistant under Rick Pitino.

With three consecutive winning records, the first two under adverse conditions, and the school's surprising run through the NCAA tournament, Smith is arguably one of the hottest coaching prospects around.

"If Benny Crum can build a championship team at Louisville, someone can do it at Tulsa," said Bob Gardner, a longtime season-ticker holder.

"I'm thinking Tubby is the right man to see him fulfill our dream."

But already Tennessee has expressed interest in meeting with Smith, and outgoing ath­letic director Rick Dickson said he's gotten a couple of other feelers.

"We're just telling everybody they need to wait until basket­ball is over," said Dickson, who leaves next month to become athletic director at Washington State.

Smith said he is willing to lis­ten to offers, "but I'm really go­ing to listen to the University of Tulsa first.

He was during a conference call Tuesday that Tennessee was an offer he would listen to, but he refused to elaborate.

"This is where I want to be at this point," Smith said earlier. "I think we've got a program well on its way to being what we all hope we can do. You've got to do the best job you can where you are. If you do, peo­ple are going to recognize you're doing a good job, and you're going to always be in the hunt for the first time."

Houston recognized that a year ago, and Smith was pre­pared to sign a contract until changing his mind at the last minute.

"Very simply, I just felt better here," he said.

SOUNDS UNLIMITED PRODUCTIONS

PRESENTS

SOUTH BEND RECORD & CD COLLECTOR'S SHOW

SUNDAY, MARCH 27TH

ADMISSION 13.00

AT: THE HOLIDAY INN (UNIVERSITY)

12500 N US 31 - 33 NORTH

DOOR OPEN AT 11:00 AM

BUY • SELL • TRADE

MUSIC COLLECTIBLES FROM THE

50's 60's 70's 80's 90's

LP's CD's cassettes, 7" singles, tapes, magazines, books - current prices - value inquiries welcome.

FOR DEALER INFO CALL: roots at (614) 375-2776

GUITAR PRIZES

NOTRE DAME COMMUNICATION AND THEATRE PRESENTS

A VIDEO BY TED MANDELL

WEDNESDAY MARCH 23rd 7:30 pm

ROOM 155 DEBARTOLO HALL

A NOSTALGIC COACH AND HIS CAMERA WANDER THROUGH THE MANY PERSONALITIES OF LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL IN SOUTH BEND, AND FIND THE PARENTS MORE FASCINATING THAN THE PLAYERS

Admission Free

Told from "The Choice Is Yours: An Honest Look At A Tough Question," BACCHUS Educational Pamphlet, 1991. BACCHUS of the U of M. and by doing so, you can best control whether or not your decisions to drink - or not to drink - are having negative effects on your "self image." After all, it is better for you to question the role alcohol plays in your life..."

"Or did you know that 50 percent of all vandalism on college campuses are results of drunken behavior?" That money shows up on your tuition bill. Each time someone on your campus makes a bad decision regarding alcohol, you pay the price.

"The Choice Is Yours: An Honest Look At A Tough Question," BACCHUS Educational Pamphlet, 1991. BACCHUS of the U of M. and by doing so, you can best control whether or not your decisions to drink - or not to drink - are having negative effects on your "self image." After all, it is better for you to question the role alcohol plays in your life..."

"The Choice Is Yours: An Honest Look At A Tough Question," BACCHUS Educational Pamphlet, 1991. BACCHUS of the U of M. and by doing so, you can best control whether or not your decisions to drink - or not to drink - are having negative effects on your "self image." After all, it is better for you to question the role alcohol plays in your life..."
Heart of the order gives Red Sox potent attack

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

Vaughn, who has been the team's most impressive hitter this spring, added: "It's the second year with (the same) batting coach," he said. "The players "have been together for a while now so guys know what they want to do at the plate."

"Everybody doesn't think we have the capabilities to go out and produce," he added. "We're going to surprise some people. They've got us picked in the division. Fine. We'll sneak up on somebody."

Boston is in the tough AL East with World Series winner Toronto, Baltimore, the New York Yankees and Detroit. But after beating the White Sox, Dawson was batting .391 with four homers, Vaughn .365 and Greenwell .326 with 12 games left. Last spring, Vaughn hit .403 with six homers, but Dawson hit .288 with two homers and Greenwell .261.

Going into Tuesday night's game against Minnesota, Boston had scored at least seven runs in six of its previous nine games and was averaging 5.7 runs per game compared with 4.3 last spring and 4.2 in the regular season.

Infielders Scott Cooper and John Valentin are back for their second season as regulars after hitting well last year. And in the offseason, the Red Sox signed two free agents who have start- ing jobs, Dave Valle and Ott Nixon.

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

GET REAL EXPERIENCE MANAGING A BUSINESS

APPLY FOR A STUDENT MANAGER POSITION AT THE HUBBLE

REWARDS:

- $6.10 PER HOUR
- WORK ON CAMPUS
- FREE MEALS AT WORK
- GREAT EXPERIENCE TO ADD TO YOUR RESUME

APPLICATIONS DUE: FEBRUARY 20

REQUIREMENTS:

- 15-20 IBS PER WEEK
- A STRONG DESIRE TO LEARN
- HARD WORK
- WORK SOME NIGHT SHIFTS
- WORK SOME WEEKENDS
- BE ABLE TO WORK EXTRA ON HOME FOOTBALL WEEKENDS

APPLY IN PERSON AT THE HUBBLE

LOKATED IN THE LA FORTUNE STUDENT CENTER

ASK FOR JIM. 631-6902

POSITIONS FOR FALL SEMESTER

TELEPHONE WILL BE MADE AS SOON AS THE SUCCESSFUL APPLICANTS ARE AVAILABLE

COULD WORK THIS SUMMER IF DESIRED

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

"I must say that I am especially happy for assistant coach Ed Faugher and seniors Greg Wozniak and Rian Girard who were on the 1991 team that finished runner-up to Penn State," said DeCicco. "Now they can go out there and prove them wrong."

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

"I must say that I am especially happy for assistant coach Ed Faugher and seniors Greg Wozniak and Rian Girard who were on the 1991 team that finished runner-up to Penn State," said DeCicco. "Now they can go out there and prove them wrong."

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

"I must say that I am especially happy for assistant coach Ed Faugher and seniors Greg Wozniak and Rian Girard who were on the 1991 team that finished runner-up to Penn State," said DeCicco. "Now they can go out there and prove them wrong."

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

"I must say that I am especially happy for assistant coach Ed Faugher and seniors Greg Wozniak and Rian Girard who were on the 1991 team that finished runner-up to Penn State," said DeCicco. "Now they can go out there and prove them wrong."

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 homers.

"I don't think there's a problem about peaking early," Greenwell said. "Hitting well in spring training could influence that could carry over into the season."

"I must say that I am especially happy for assistant coach Ed Faugher and seniors Greg Wozniak and Rian Girard who were on the 1991 team that finished runner-up to Penn State," said DeCicco. "Now they can go out there and prove them wrong."

---

SPORTS BRIEFS

LAST SHOT! Bookstore Basketball needs more teams!

Last day for sign-ups: Wednesday, day, 4-7pm in the Huddle, LaFortune.

---

FORT MYERS, Fla.
The Boston Red Sox are belting the ball again just two seasons after their last batting average since 1968.

Mike Greenwell, Mo Vaughn and others are hitting leadoff-type numbers, leading the heart of the order — all are hitting over .300. The team already had more homer runs and as many RBIs as they did when for the entire spring training a year ago.

Greenwell and Vaughn entered Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox improved the Red Sox record to 11-7. Their batting average went to .293, and they had 18 homers.

Last spring, they finished at 11-20 with a .276 average and 16 hom
Taylor

continued from page 20

Taylor’s responsibility extends beyond this. “Coach Holtz is definitely look­ing for me to provide more lead­ership this year,” said the 1993 Thorpe award finalist. “I’m tak­ing a big part of it upon myself. I’m the veteran. It’s important for me to set an example.”

This will be even more impor­tant considering the youthful state of the secondary.

Players such as Brian Magee, Travis Davis, and Tracy Graham, though talented, have not had the experience of Taylor. They will be counting on Taylor to pass on the knowledge he has gained during his two years as an Irish starter.

“Being a vocal leader will be the hardest thing for me,” observed the Longview, TX native. “However, with all the vacancies, I’m going to have to be more vocal, especially in calling cover­ages.”

Not only will Taylor be playing with new backfield mates this fall, he will also be playing under new defensive coaches. New defensive coordinator Bob Davies and sec­ondary coach Dean Pees will bring their philosophies to the Irish.

“It will be a big change for us,” noted Taylor. “This will be my fourth defensive backfield coach in two years, but I don’t think we will have any problem adjusting.”

A third adjustment that Taylor will have to make is his position. Last season, the first team All-American played at corner­back. However, with the graduation of Jeff Burris, Holtz has decided to shift Taylor to the vacated free safety spot.

This change should allow Tay­lor to better utilize his tremen­dous closing speed, leaping abili­ty, and hard-hitting.

“When I moved to corner­back last season I was a little uncom­fortable,” said Taylor. “Free safety is my more natural position. It’s the first position I played. I’ll be willing to play wherever the coaches think it will best help the team.”

With Taylor’s talent, as long as he is on the field, he will have a large impact. His impact may be even greater off the field.

Faust

continued from page 20

Faust was the last man to coach the Irish before Holtz took over in 1986. In five sea­sons with Notre Dame, he com­plied a record of 30-26-1, in­cluding 1-1 in bowl games. The Irish defeated Boston College 19-15 in win the Liberty Bowl in 1983. The list of well-known ath­letes to play under Faust in­cludes Allen Pinkett, Blair Kiel, Steve Beuerlein, and Dave Duerson. Only assistant coach George Kelly remains from the Faust era. Once an inside line­backer coach, Kelly now has a position in the athletic de­partment.

Faust has gone on to coach at the University of Akron, a member of the Mid-America Conference, where he has started to build a powerhouse on the small college level.

“We’re getting better, and we’re starting to be more com­petitive,” Faust said. “As long as we keep recruiting as we have done the past two years, we’ll be real competitive.”

Spring practice began last week for the Zips, but Faust gave the team the week off for spring break, deciding to take a trip to beautiful South Bend to visit his old stomping grounds.

Though he is gone from the limelight of Notre Dame, Faust still holds a special place in his heart for the school.

“It’s great to be back on cam­pus. Notre Dame is a terrific place,” stated the coach. “Any young person who goes here is a part of something special.”

But they could still use some words of wisdom from an ex­perienced Doner.
Summer Sanders enjoying life out of the pool

By MICHAEL FLAM
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS
In the summer of 1992, Summer Sanders charmed America with a sparkling smile and swimming that earned her four medals at the Barcelona Olympics.

Now 21, the Californian with the unusual name and the never-frowned personality still has reason to smile — even though her life involves staying dry.

Following the Olympics, Sanders gave up her collegiate eligibility at Stanford after two seasons, two American records and 10 NCAA championships. She still does endorsements for Speedo and Power Bar, and speaks to high school students on a nationwide tour.

And, she's a full-time senior at Stanford, due to graduate in December.

Sanders ended her collegiate swimming career to take advantage of the fleeting fame that came with her Olympic medals — two golds, one silver and one bronze.

"Opportunities from Olympic fame-type stuff don't come around that often and they don't last for long," she said.

"My parents and my coaches and I decided that it would be best, and we kind of guessed. It was a gut feeling.

"But I really feel good about this decision. I have to say I was questioning whether I should have given up my eligibility or not, but you always seem to want what you don't have. If I would have been swimming, I probably would have said, 'God, I should have given it up.'"

Sanders spent a few days in Indianapolis recently, pursuing her potential new career. A communications major, Sanders did commentary for CBS/TV at the NCAA Division I Women's Swimming and Diving Championships.

She also handed out the awards in the 200-yard individual medley, and later said it felt strange.

"It was really funny," Sanders said. "The weirdest part was walking out but not being a swimmer. I'm used to your teammates giving you high-fives and here I am leading." "I think the weird thing was she came in with my class," said Lea Loveless, a classmate of Sanders who finished second in the event. "I would've liked to see her on the first-place stand. The irony was staring me in the face when she gave me the award."

Opening Day is Coming!
And we want YOU to throw out the first pitch!

Would you like to represent the student body at the March 30 home opener of the 1994 Notre Dame Baseball season at the inaugural game of Frank Eck Stadium by throwing out the first pitch?

Just fill this out and return it to: Student First Pitch Contest Sports Marketing Department - JACC by 5:00 p.m. Monday, March 28

Name: __________________________
Address: __________________________
Phone: __________________________
Class: __________________________

Winner will be notified by 6 p.m. Monday, March 28.

BUZZER BEATER!!
BOOKSTORE BASKETBALL
LAST SHOT TO SIGN UP TODAY 4-7 PM AT THE HUDDE
BUT YOU'VE GOT TO SIGN-UP TO BE IN THE WORLD'S LARGEST 5-ON-5 TOURNAMENT.
FUN-FOULS-FRIENDS-FALLS-FREAKS

1994 Morrissey Manor Film Festival
Thursday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. Stepan Center
$2 Admission
Proceeds to Benefit: St. Hedwigs Outreach
I'M A H A T. TI A N. S O U S F U U-V

Wednesday, March 23, 1994 The Observer • TODAY

FROM NOW ON, MY GOAL IS TO FEEL GOOD ABOUT MYSELF.

I'VE DECIDED TO WORK HARDER AND BUILD SOME CHARACTER.

YOU'RE GOING TO HELP ME FEEL BETTER. I WISH I HAD A FACT.

NO, I'M NOT WAVING, UNTIL I GET THE SPECIAL TREATMENT I LIKE.

I'VE FOUND THE IMMEDIATE GRATIFICATION IS THE ONLY THING THAT HELPS ME.

I WONDER IF ANYONE ELSE IS AS STARED ABOUT THE FUTURE AS I AM.

TO WORK HARDER, TO EAT BETTER, TO FEEL GOOD. AID IN THWARTING EXTORTION OF FIRE, JUST TO WAY COMMENDED, O GREAT EMPIRE.

THE CONVINCING THREAT TO EXIST IS THE TEST.

I'M CONVINCED THE TEST IS GREAT.

EVERYONE ELSE IS NOT WORKING.
National Champions

Foilist Stan Brunner helped the men's foil team to a national championship last Sunday.

Epeeists win on final day to top Penn State

By JOE VILLINSKI
Sports Writer

In a more recognized sport, books would have been written about a comeback like this. ESPN would have given it top-billing, and across the nation, newspapers would have woven a story about a team with an uncommon determination that produced a team effort every time necessary.

However, for the Irish fencing team, its coaches, and the small handful of zealous fans, that all doesn't seem to matter. What matters is that the 1994 Notre Dame fencing team managed to accomplish what no Irish athletic team has done since 1988: win a national championship.

The fencing team added to their quiet tradition of success yesterday as they won their first NCAA Championship since the men's and women's championships were combined in 1990 and their fifth title overall.

"It's unreal," said an elated men's head coach Mike DeCicco. "We only won one weapon the whole tournament, but still captured the overall team title."

Notre Dame trailed Penn State by 275 points entering yesterday's epee competition, but the unbelievable performance by the men's epee team highlighted a 550-point deficit to win the team title yesterday.

Light Up Grace?

"We're No. 1. We're No. 1."

Those jubilant shouts were last heard around campus after the Irish defeated Florida State 31-24 in November. Another sign of that victory was the No. 1 sign being lit atop Grace Hall.

However, is that honor only reserved for the football team? Upon the fencing team's arrival last night, it was rumored that the vaunted Grace "No. 1" would shine again. Being the first national championship since 1988, this seemed to be an achievement worthy of illumination. However, it doesn't look like it's going to happen.

"We congratulate the fencing team and support them," said Grace Hall president Al Marchetti. "However, lighting the No. 1 is a tradition reserved for the football team when they rise to the top in the polls."

Bobby Taylor's role looms large

Junior safety plays teacher to young defensive backs

By TIM SHERMAN
Sports Writer

Bobby Taylor will be just as much of a coach as a player this spring. It was evident yesterday at the first day of spring football.

The junior free safety is the lone returning starter in the defensive backfield. Obviously, his talent on the field is a key ingredient for the Irish. However, as he adjusts to his new surroundings at free safety, Irish sophomore Bobby Taylor will take on the added responsibilities of calling the coverages and helping his inexperienced secondary teammates learn the nuances of the trade.

Gerry Faust returns for friendly advice

By MIKE NORBUT
Assistant Sports Editor

As the Notre Dame football team began practice yesterday, they were graced by the presence of an old friend. Gerry Faust, the former head coach of the Irish, rode shotgun in head coach Lou Holtz's golf cart for most of yesterday's drills, stopping occasionally to greet old friends or to offer a few words of encouragement to some of the new players. And who knows, he might have given Holtz a little free advice as well.

"Lou doesn't need any advice," Faust commented. "He's doing a great job here at Notre Dame. He's a great coach and a great friend. The work he has done here is unbelievable."

LATE INNING DRAMA

Junior Liz Goetz blasted her first career home run in the top of the sixth to propel the Irish to a 4-3 win and double-header split at IU.