Security incidents increase concern for safety

By LIZ FORAN
Assistant News Writer

An attempted theft involving a Saint Mary’s student was reported to Notre Dame Security last Monday, according to Assistant Director of Security Charles Hurley.

At about 7:25 p.m. on Monday, the student was walking on the side of the Galvin Life Science Center when a man on a bicycle passed her and attempted to grab her necklace, Hurley said. The man mistook the necklace and continued riding north without stopping.

The suspect was described as a dark-complexioned white male in his late 20’s to early 30’s. He was wearing a blue hooded sweater, blue shorts, and blue sweatpants. The hood of the sweatshirt, also blue, was up and tied around his face.

“This is the first time this type of incident has happened on central campus,” Hurley added.

In other security news, an area resident was arrested on campus last weekend on multiple charges after an incident involving a student, according to Hurley.

The man, a 44-year-old South Bend resident, was charged with public intoxication and battery after allegedly grabbing a female student and entering a dorm, Hurley said.

The incident occurred at about 9:20 p.m. on Friday outside of Pasquerilla East. A female PE resident was outside talking with two other students when they were approached by a man who was wearing a blue hooded sweatshirt, also blue, was up and tied around his face.

Mid-term break

Fæley sophomores Misy Ejehmen and Alumni junior Sean Dougherty take a break from studying for their mid-term exams to enjoy an autumn day on South Quad.

Political ideas easier for youths to discern

By MYRNA MALONEY
Assistant News Writer

When compared to the older generations of the American public, the capability of today’s younger generation to process political information and comprehend the electronic media is more developed, according to Kathleen Hall Jamieson and Jamieson, a professor of communication and dean of the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania, used video clips to complement her hypotheses that, due to the popularity of computers, video games and music videos of the 1980’s, the generation under the age of 30 is better socialized to comprehend the messages in political references in the entertainment industry.

“How is it that people under 30 learn about politics and many times the parent will see them twice as strict as those of the older generation. The younger generation requires to have a parent present during any questioning, and many times the parent will actually talk the child out of admitting to anything, he added.

Concerns were also addressed about the student involvement in the community. Jamieson said that the Center for Social Concerns worries about the effect that the fear of crime will have on community volunteers, who perform services such as painting houses, tutoring and other neighborhood projects.

Students need to know that this is their neighborhood,” she said. “Students need to want to be a part of community service in the area. We don’t want students to be afraid to go into the neighbor-

see ATTKGS / page 4

see SAFETY / page 4

Power shift possible in November

House Republicans need to pick up 40 seats to wrest control from the Democrats, fourteen more than the average number of House seats lost in midterm elections by the party in the White House. There are currently 52 seats being contested on the elections.

However, Arnold points out that the Republicans do not need to win 40 seats to effectively weaken the Democratic hold on the House. Even a lesser gain will weaken President Clinton’s capacity to effectively initiate legislation in the House, Arnold said.

There is a reasonable, about 50-50 chance, that the Republicans will gain control of the Senate, he said. “The Republicans need seven seats to achieve a majority. That is assuming that the Republicans will need a stunningly decisive victory in the House to achieve a majority.”

see JAMIESON / page 4

see NEWS ANALYSIS / page 4

see ELECTIONS / page 4
Dang it all to Hell, I want my Far Side

Well, unless you’re clueless or charted, you’ve heard the bad news already. Gary Larson is calling it quits and ending the “Far Side” for good. Like many of you, I find myself quietly saddened by Larson’s retirement. The Far Side was, and is, worse, sans Berke Breathed and now the big G.L., the Sunday funnies are a pretty pitiful place most of the time. Just look what we’ve left...

• Fred Bassett: “The cartoon so unfunny it needs a dumpster service.” This one centers around a dog who, for all intents and purposes, should have been put to sleep years ago. If you’ve never seen it, consider yourself one of God’s chosen.

• Andy Capp: The cartoon with three situational jokes, none of which has ever been funny. The first has Andy at a bar, loaded, trying to get a girl and saying “Hello, bab-y, you a-drink?” As a point of reference, I’ll finish with the always witty, “No.” The second has Andy coming home, loaded, arguing with “Pet” about why he has to work and hollering, “Hello, bab-y, you a-drink?” The third has Andy loaded (notice the pattern yet?) and out playing soccer. There has never been a joke like this one, as they may only print it in the minority of 10 states that eat it out. Really. Very funny.

• Family Circus: I can’t make fun of this one, (although Lord knows it deserves it) simply because I’ve always secretly dug the one where Billy is boxin’ around the neighborhood, and Andy is forced to follow the dotted line to see how many neighborhood dogs have tiny, little guy kicked. I always dug that.

• Garfield: Don’t get it he hate Mondays? It’s really endlessly hilarious once you’ve seen it the first time. Really. Very funny.

• Beetle Bailey: Or as I like to think of it, “The Best Most In Need of Updating.” The strip with a new one every week.

• Mark Trail: You may not have heard of this one, but they may only print it in the Yukon. I’m not sure. Basically, it’s the PBS of cartoons. Each week it tells you about a different animal and the unique way in which it stands out as “Mother Nature’s little freak.” My favorite one is the one where Andy tried to help a crowd of Chinese kids build an actual toy train for the protagonist. The last one has Andy loaded (noticed the pattern yet?) and out playing soccer. There has never been a joke like this one, but we see Andy in shorts, which is always amusing.

Sen. Feinstein: The preamble to design for dual citizenship for the children of foreigners born in Germany or immi­grants who spend more than eight years here. Also elected was Volker Beck of the Greens, who leads a national gay rights group.

California Michail Hufington has drawn nearly $17 million from his personal fortune to bankroll his bid for the Senate seat, sur­prising most political experts by setting a record for self-financed bids for Congress. Republicans are trying to make the most of the over­head with the weekend’s Federal Elections Commission report. Hufington, a Republican, contributed almost $2.1 million of his own money for the three-month period that ended Sept. 30. He has had a total debt of $5.5 million loan from himself to the campaign. That brings his total for the 1994 election cycle to nearly $16.8 million. Of that total, $5.6 million is in direct contributions from himself, while $7 million is in loans from him. Hufington’s oppo­nent, Democratic Sen. Diane Feinstein, trails far behind in spending. Her campaign report Monday showed has raised $9,081,647, and has spent $8,887,282. She’s given only another $8,000 in campaign contributions to the campaign. She lost the latest reporting period she borrowed $940,000 from First Republic Bank to help the campaign. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., holds the record for spending in the Senate. But the vast majority of the $17.7 million Helms spent for his successful re-election campaign in 1990 came from a direct-mail network that he has cultivated around the country.

GM will fight if recall is ordered

DETROIT

Secretary Federico Pena’s decision that millions of GM pickup trucks are unsafe, and it promised a court battle if the government orders a recall. “There is simply no legal or scient­ific basis on which to seek a recall of these trucks,” GM vice president Bruce A. MacDonald said in a statement Monday after Pena announced he had deter­mined that 1987-93 GM C and K series pickup trucks present an unreasonable risk of fire in side-impact collisions. An issue are the trucks’ “sidesaddle” fuel tanks, which are mounted outside the frame rails on the sides of the vehi­cles. Pena said that design caused fires that killed 150 people in crashes they otherwise would have survived, according to a National Highway Traffic Safety Administration analysis. “This design was selected for marketing reasons,” Pena said, adding that there was evi­dence GM knew it could make the trucks safer but it chose not to for 15 years. MacDonald said the suggestion that GM put sales ahead of safety was “outrageous and wrong” and that the company “stands fully behind these trucks, their safety record and the engineers who designed them.” If the government orders a recall after a hearing Pena has for Dec. 6, “we will defend our safety record against such an order,” he said.

INDIANA WEATHER

Tuesday, Oct. 18

The Accu-Weather® forecast for daytime conditions and high temperatures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Temp</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>South Bend</td>
<td>72°</td>
<td>76°</td>
<td>68°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne</td>
<td>70°</td>
<td>74°</td>
<td>62°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Indianapolis</td>
<td>71°</td>
<td>75°</td>
<td>63°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evansville</td>
<td>67°</td>
<td>71°</td>
<td>59°</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Accu-Weather® forecast for morning,

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Temp</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>South Bend</td>
<td>54°</td>
<td>58°</td>
<td>48°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne</td>
<td>54°</td>
<td>58°</td>
<td>48°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Indianapolis</td>
<td>53°</td>
<td>57°</td>
<td>45°</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evansville</td>
<td>50°</td>
<td>54°</td>
<td>42°</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NATIONAL WEATHER

The Accu-Weather® forecast for noon,

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Temp</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Atlanta 73° 51°</td>
<td>77°</td>
<td>69°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raleigh 71° 41°</td>
<td>75°</td>
<td>63°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Denver 60° 40°</td>
<td>64°</td>
<td>42°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York 58° 40°</td>
<td>62°</td>
<td>42°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boston 63° 45°</td>
<td>67°</td>
<td>47°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicago 76° 61°</td>
<td>80°</td>
<td>64°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philadelphia 69° 47°</td>
<td>73°</td>
<td>59°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miami 84° 74°</td>
<td>90°</td>
<td>64°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phoenix 63° 50°</td>
<td>67°</td>
<td>37°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Las Vegas 72° 62°</td>
<td>76°</td>
<td>52°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Minneapolis 62° 59°</td>
<td>66°</td>
<td>52°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Louis 78° 65°</td>
<td>82°</td>
<td>55°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Accu-Weather® forecast for evening,

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Temp</th>
<th>High</th>
<th>Low</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Atlanta 67° 46°</td>
<td>71°</td>
<td>41°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raleigh 65° 45°</td>
<td>69°</td>
<td>43°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Denver 56° 36°</td>
<td>60°</td>
<td>30°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York 50° 30°</td>
<td>54°</td>
<td>22°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boston 57° 37°</td>
<td>61°</td>
<td>27°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicago 70° 50°</td>
<td>74°</td>
<td>44°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Philadelphia 63° 43°</td>
<td>67°</td>
<td>33°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miami 83° 63°</td>
<td>87°</td>
<td>43°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phoenix 56° 36°</td>
<td>60°</td>
<td>16°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Las Vegas 71° 51°</td>
<td>75°</td>
<td>31°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Minneapolis 59° 39°</td>
<td>63°</td>
<td>29°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Louis 75° 55°</td>
<td>79°</td>
<td>41°</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Loveman discusses transition

By JONATHAN PICCINI
News Wire

Change can be damaging, especially in Latin America, where the new civilian governments are even more harmful to the rights of their citizens than the military regimes they replaced, according to Brian Loveman, professor in the department of political science at the University of San Diego. "The transitions from military to civilian governments have reaffirmed authoritarian and military traditions in the region," Loveman said when he spoke last night about "Protected Democracies, Transitions to Civilian Government in Latin America 1978-94."

According to Loveman, the transition from military to civilian government is harmful. Military coups have been a traditional way of changing government in Latin America. In fact a third of all the governmental changes in Latin America have included a military coup.

There are good reasons for military government in Latin America, according to Loveman. These governments were provided for in the constitutions of many nations. According to Loveman, every constitution in Latin America provides for a regime of exception. Marshall law and suspension of habeus corpus are two examples. "This is a tradition that provides for crisis by suspending the constitution and democratic tradition," said Loveman. "They are dictatorships governing under the mantle of legality. When Western officials talk about returning the military to its traditional role, they don't get it." Military rule tradition is according to Loveman.

Since 1973, several new civilian governments have been formed. Among them are Brazil in 1985, Ecuador in 1978, and Chile in 1990. These new governments are not, however, democracies as we understand the term. They are, as Loveman said, "Protected Democracies," which have the following characteristics: "You just can't trust people." According to Loveman, no government should be allowed to destroy the permanent interest of the country. As a result, the military is given the role of protector and "maintains residual sovereignty," said Loveman.

In the civilian, yet protected democracies, Loveman said, the "constitution becomes a sacrament for legitimizing the new government." While there have been several changes in many of the Latin American governments, the new "democracies" are in some ways even more oppressive than the old.

According to Loveman, in many countries there is formal representation of the military. Civilians are still tried in military courts for ordinary crimes. Furthermore, in some governments the military are given representation in the legislative branch. In Argentina, military leaders have protection. Commanders cannot be removed, even by the executive.

What we have "always in the background is this fear," Loveman said. "There has been destroyed as an ideological force." Although there have been changes, Loveman said, the underlying fear exists. "What we have most of all is protected democracy." The only solution to the problem will be "getting rid of military jurisdiction over civilians completely.

Investment Banking Opportunities at CS First Boston

CS First Boston, a leading global investment banking firm, will be recruiting for its financial analyst program. Positions are available in the Investment Banking Department. All seniors are invited to attend a presentation.

Presentation:
Wednesday, October 19, 1994
The Alumni Room
The Morris Inn
6:00 p.m.

Interviewing Schedule:
Investment Banking
November 14, 1994

For further information and inquiries, please contact:
Greg Miller
(212) 909-3061

Malloy's attendance unsettles to senate

By GWENDOLYN NORGLE
News Wire

The Reverend Edward Malloy, C.S.C., University president, was the speaker at the faculty senate meeting last Monday night.

According to the Reverend Richard McBrien, the Crowley-O'Brien-Walter Chair of the Faculty Senate, the Senators who shared their views of the meeting with him said they were "they were "unsatisfied" with Malloy's responses to their questions. The Senators' reactions were "more downbeat," according to McBrien, who said he thought the Senators felt Malloy "tended to be condescending." Faculty Senator and Professor of finance Richard Sheehan said, "I don't think he [Malloy] gave frank, candid, honest responses that the Faculty Senate wanted or deserved.

One of the questions asked of Malloy at last week's meeting concerned the appointment of Father Tim Scully, C.S.C. as Associate Provost. Scully was appointed to this position without being named a vice president.

According to McBrien, "had Scully been appointed as Associate Provost, without also being named a vice president.

In reaction to Malloy's response concerning the appointment of a new Associate Provost was done in a "crisis" situation, Sheehan responded that it was "an excellent appointment" on Malloy's part but do this without the trustees knowing before they vote poses the question - "what are you trying to hide from whom?" If the appointment was an opportunity, wouldn't be (Malloy) tell them (the Board) as soon as possible?"

Sheehan said he feels "something was hidden.

The Faculty Senate asked Malloy other questions concerning the role of the University in the governance of the University, the influence of the political and/or theological orientation of donors on the Administration's shaping of policies, and the criteria of the Colloquy's plan used in setting priorities for Colloquy for the Year 2000.

Malloy's response concerning the Colloquy was the same as what was stated in his opening year letter to the faculty on September 8, in which he said, "the Colloquy's plan is that the best and most informed decisions (presuming available funding) will result from the most comprehensive and exhaustive analysis of the options."

In reaction to Malloy's letter, the Colloquy's plan is to include a "concentration on physical development of the campus.

Malloy, also, communicated to the Faculty Senate what he wrote in his Annual Address to the Students, that he had the faculty need to do "this coming year and beyond is to sustain the momentum and to enlarge our sense of what we are called to become.

CAMPUS BRIEF

A portion of lake Road on the University of Notre Dame campus will be closed from 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, until 7 a.m. Thursday to accommodate construction involving the University's power plant.

The road, which is the main thoroughfare on campus, will be closed from Old Juniper Road to the A15 parking area immediately north of the Student Health Center. All traffic west of the road closure will have to use Old and leave campus through the University's Main Gate, Old Notre Dame Avenue, and all traffic east of the closure will have to use East Gate, on Juniper Road.

PHYSICAL THERAPY CLUB

Meeting Tonight!

9 p.m. 127 Nieuwland Hall

"Happy B-day Mike"

Always thinking about you and our past. They will never find out!!

 hugs and kisses...
Jamieson continued from page 1

the screen, among other things, were intercut, animated cheerleaders and a type of bird which the older crowd thought was a turkey while the younger

Jamieson continues lecture series at SMC

By LAURA FERGUSON
Saint Mary's News Editor

On Nov. 8, life for Kathleen Hall Jamieson will return to normal. As a leading expert in election campaigns and both a dean and professor of the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania, election day is a long awaited breath of air following the hectic campaign season of the fall.

Recently on her national lecture tour she spoke at Indiana University and in between, she appeared on "Good Morning America" via the ABC affiliate in Elkhart. In between all of her interviews and lectures, she teaches one undergraduate class a year and a team teaches a graduate course.

"I teach what I write," said Jamieson. "Lectures are an effective way to get our research out more quickly. We just finished a year-long project on the health care reform debate but the results won't be published for at least two years. We want our ideas out when they will make a difference."

Jamieson specializes in studying how voters learn information and uses the health care debate as a case study. According to Jamieson, response to the health care debate turned out to be similar to elections.

"Voters tried to get information the way they get it from the health care debate. The issue is one in an ongoing debate, he explained. According to Jamieson, this process is virtually unaccountable.

"We could be advancing the issue but we aren't because the reporters have left the beat," she explained. "If it is not brought up in the next Congress the public's needs will not be addressed."

In addition to Jamieson's public appearances and teaching responsibilities, she is the author of several books on political communication, including "Dirty Politics: Distraction, Deception and Democracy." This January, her latest work regarding women and leadership called "Beyond the Double Bind" will hit the bookshelves.

"According to Jamieson, this book is a rebuttal to Susan Faludi's 1991 book entitled "Backlash."

Jamieson says Faludi claims that women have made significant gains in recent years but are driven back. Although many groups in women's movement have adopted Faludi's ideas, Jamieson views "Backlash" as bad history and bad psychology.

In this rebuttal book, Jamieson illustrates several bind, she claimsFaludi has held back in the past. One such bind was the notion that a woman could not have an education and still be a good mother. "Now people believe that women can menstruate and think at the same time," she said.

Another bind involves aging and visibility, particularly of women. Jamieson pointed out that when women do become successful they won't reveal their age. "Ageing is viewed as a disability," she said. "Women have broken the age barriers of menopause but we noticed the bird four times on average while the majority of the older group that saw the same video four times had trouble recalling what they had seen," Jamieson said.

"Second, the younger audience didn't like the video. They felt it had no legitimate argument and that its main purpose was to ridicule the President," she continued.

"Conversely, the younger audience not only liked the video, but saw irony and read the meaning of the visual mark- ers," she said.

Jamieson noted the younger viewers interpreted the chick- en's image as an ironic parallel to Bush's "read my lips" claim. While younger viewers connected with the video by saying that chickens lack lips, the older audience literally interpreted the image of the bird to mean that Bush was a turkey.

"I believe they (the younger viewers) have learned distinct methods for doing this through their exposure to fast-packed music videos and computer images which have been brought up with, Jamieson said.

Jamieson also recently completed a study of communication in the health care reform debate that was funded by the Robert Wood Foundation. She specializes in using voter intake of information and the process by which they do it. "Her lecture was last night in Carroll Auditorium at Saint Mary's."

Elections continued from page 1

Even if the GOP does not win control of one or more houses, things are clearly looking up for the party. Across the country, Republican gubernatorial candidates are predicted to defeat their Democratic opponents. Arnold expects Republicans to win in Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, California, and possibly New York.

"The projected outcome of these races is an important indic­ator of a readily resurgent Republican party," said Arnold.

Likewise, Arnold points to the Virginia Senate race where Oliver North has mounted an increasingly effective challenge to incumbent Chuck Robb. Given that Virginia, particularly the northern half, is fairly urban and cosmopolitan, Arnold believes a North victory would reveal just how strong the right-wing of the GOP has become.

"This race is clearly a bit-­muss-test," he said.

As to how these developments will effect President Clinton's chances for re-election in 1996, analysts remain uncertain. Certainly, Arnold believes Congress will weaken Clinton's agenda.

"Surely (the Republicans) can pursue their personal agenda.

Safety continued from page 1 hook.

"I verk echoed her sentiments, saying "Students are very con­cerned about crime. We would hate these incidents to effect neighborhood involvement."

Ruszkowski said that, for now, students should use more caution.

"They should walk in groups or have someone give them a ride," he said. "Right now we are trying to address the problem."

The South Bend Police will soon be adding another district to the Northeast Neighborhood. Ruszkowski said, putting an extra patrol officer in the area at all times.

Ruszkowski especially stressed cooperation between police and community members at the solution to crime problems.

"Cops cannot do it alone," he said.

"Northeast Neighborhood is no different from any other neighborhood—somebody else had to see (the assaults). People are afraid to tell us when they see something because of reputation or other consequences. I blame them for not coming forward, but I can understand why they wouldn't."

Attacks continued from page 1

The subject, who tried to enter the provocation, he said.

The students began to walk away, and the subject alleged he stabbed the shoulder of one of the PE residents. The three then went inside of PL, which was Detoured at the time.

The man then entered the lobby of provocation contact was made, and the arrest was made.

In another incident over the weekend, a student was apprehended by security after inci­dents at two female dorms.

According to Hurley, 11:45 p.m. on Saturday, the Knott Hall dorm monitor contacted security to remove a male student from the dorm, reporting that he refused to sign in. According to the monitor, the student was seen running toward the towers.

The subject turned up later in Farley Hall. When the moni­tor made the contact second, the subject entered the dorm, took a ride, "he said. "Right hand, slightly injuring her hand and thumb, Hurley said."

The student still lives in Flanner Hall, and released to his rector, Hurley said.

The Creative Writing Program Department of English presents a reading by

ROBERT BUTLER Winner of the 1993 Pulitzer Prize

Wednesday, October 19
7:30 p.m.
Hesburgh Library Auditorium
Reception Following

This event made possible by the Paul M. & Barbara Henkels Visiting Scholars Series, College of Arts & Letters, Institute for Scholarship in the Liberal Arts, Department of English

The Observer • NEWS Tuesday, October 18, 1994

Saint Mary's News Editor

COMMUNICATION will return to Fall Festival is a one-day service project to show Notre Dame's support for the South Bend Community.

The project will be followed by a block party for all volunteers.

If you are interested in being part of a fall Festival '94, sign up in the dining halls, the CSC, or the LaFortune Information Desk.

A

Fall Festival Fall Festival is a one-day service project to show Notre Dame's support for the South Bend Community.

Students and residents will work together to beautify the Northeast Neighborhood by planting flowers and cleaning the interiors and exteriors of local homes.

Any Questions, please call Karen DuBay at 271-8992.

Any Questions, please call Karen DuBay at 271-8992.
Aristide appeals for truce

By Michael NORTON

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti—President Jean-Bertrand Aristide asked nations for reconciliation after behind his bullets proof shield Monday, hours after a mob shot the family home of Haiti’s new army commander. Aristide's plea was met with a cavity in the military, including cutting the army roster by 80 percent.

Fifteen buildings were set aflame and one man killed in the coastal town of Gonavès after a false rumor spread Sunday night that Maj. Gen. Jean-Claude Duperval had led a coup attempt against Aristide.

After three years of army rule, Aristide faces a major challenge to assert his nation’s autonomy over the army. At least 10 houses and five stores were burned in the city of Gonavès, including one belonging to Duperval’s mother and another belonging to the grandmother of former junta leader I.t. Col. Michel Francois.

A grain depot owned by the Brandts, one of Haiti’s richest families, was looted.

In a brief speech Monday at the National Palace, Aristide urged “creating a state of law like all modern societies.” Underlining Aristide’s plea for reconciliation, Duperval joined the Haitian leader on the palace stairs and helped him hoist the Haitian flag.

In the view ofDuperval offered Aristide a crisp salute and energetic handshake. The army chief was promoted last week to replace coup leader Raoul Cedras, who fled into exile.

Enthusiastic crowds briefly prevented Aristide’s motorcade from leaving the palace to lay a wreath at Haiti’s national museum. The army’s move was met with continued violence. Information Minister Herve Denis said anyone caught looting or targeting the homes of Aristide’s political opponents would be arrested.

Aristide’s motorcade was then used as a back door to get to the nearby museum.

Aristide officials sought Monday to put an end to the violence. Information Minister Herve Denis said anyone caught looting or targeting the homes of Aristide’s political opponents would be arrested.

SPECIAL OFFER! STUDENTS ONLY! Autographed by Joe Theismann, regular $49, now just $39

Football Today, reg. $49, now just $19

The nations will start new efforts to peace in the region.

Happy 21st Mike! ...from everybody in Kansas City and Wichita!

The Malabar, Cuisine of India

Re-opening at new location October 18, 1994
Open for Lunch and Dinner
1640 S. Bend Avenue • 271-0115
HOW TO KEEP PEOPLE’S HANDS OFF YOUR MONEY.

0 Carry only enough cash to last the day. Anyone who tries to borrow your last five spot isn’t a friend, anyway.

0 Label your spare-change jar “beetle farm.” Then, put your beetle farm in a jar labeled “spare change.”

0 Mark up every space on checks. Don’t leave room for someone to fill in their name and extra zeros.

0 Keep your wallet in your front pocket. It discourages pickpockets. So does wearing really tight pants.

0 Put your picture on your credit card. A Citibank Photocard is tough for anyone else to use, unless they look just like you.

WE’RE LOOKING OUT FOR YOU.
To apply, call 1-800-CITIBANK.
Thousands of Islamic militants stage riot

By JULIE CANNON

Saint Mary’s Board of Governance announced this week that it has received a small number of responses to the Haggar Improvement Project.

The survey will be available to students, faculty, and staff during lunch and dinner hours starting today and throughout the week. In other BOG news...

The Freshman Class Council had its first meeting last Wednesday. The tentative date for the Freshman class SYR has been set for December ninth. A Freshman class T-shirt is also in the works as a possible fundraising item.

On November 1st, students will be invited to stand together to form a giant "150" as part of Saint Mary’s Sesquicentennial celebration. It will be filmed and shown on "Good Morning America" on December 8th, which is the date of the official closing of the celebration.

Thousands of Islamic militants stage riot

By JULIE CANNON

Saint Mary’s Board of Governance announced this week that it has received a small number of responses to the Haggar Improvement Project.

The survey will be available to students, faculty, and staff during lunch and dinner hours starting today and throughout the week. In other BOG news...

The Freshman Class Council had its first meeting last Wednesday. The tentative date for the Freshman class SYR has been set for December ninth. A Freshman class T-shirt is also in the works as a possible fundraising item.

On November 1st, students will be invited to stand together to form a giant "150" as part of Saint Mary’s Sesquicentennial celebration. It will be filmed and shown on "Good Morning America" on December 8th, which is the date of the official closing of the celebration. in procuraing a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor sequesin procuring a reversal of the conviction resulting from his unfair trial. On recognizing this, however, I would ponder whether the remedies offered by the judiciary are truly that much more effective than those offered by the public. As reconsidering this issue, I have taken special note of the issues of O.J. Simpson, which comes after months of detailed daily coverage of a case, as has the entire country has been exposed to its conclusion that the trial judge had failed to utilize certain measures which significantly from another constitutional right—the right to a fair trial.

Kirsten Dunne

It is also generally agreed that a juror can be impartial without being uninformed and uninfluenced. This may well be true, but this notion is not free of difficulties. For example, we cannot truly measure the effect of any given piece of information on our opinions. We can say it has not biased us, but there is such a thing as unconscious bias.

The shortcomings of this concise statement become more obvious in highly publicized cases. Potential jurors, aware that the public may learn of their responses to certain questions, may tailor their responses to sound acceptable, and "acceptability" may not always coincide with a juror's views. Alternatively, potential jurors may feign impartiality based on their desire to be part of such a sensational case. These deficiencies are often underplayed by those who favor seques­
Dear Editor:

Shafi Ladha, Alumna Hall junior, writes that the hall notes "are a series of humorous newsletters written by an anonymous hall resident for the entertainment of hall residents..." and continues, "Do not criticize me for appreciating all types of humor."

In truth, everyone reserves the right to write what they please, to laugh at what they find humorous, and to defend their views when criticized. Our country grants us these rights, and more importantly, Our Lady, Notre Dame, encourages us to share our thoughts and beliefs with the community.

However, with freedom comes responsibility. When words can send chills up a woman's spine and needle pain in her heart, something must be wrong. Although members of Alumni and Carroll Halls claim that action has been taken to punish the men responsible for the hall notes, further responsibility must be taken by the men and the university to take steps in correcting the damage done. The university should assume the responsibility of following up on residence hall activities to help prevent similar incidents from occurring.

More importantly, the responsibility falls to the members of Alumni and Carroll Halls to work with the women's group (i.e. Women United for Justice and Peace, Feminist Forum, etc.) through the Center For Social Concerns to clear up their misconceptions about women and the university.

ROSEANN YBARRA
Breen-Phillips Hall

---

Rape: Violence not coercion

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter submitted by Irfan Khawaja on Tuesday ("Du Lac Confuses Sex, Violence," Oct. 11). In the letter Khawaja argues that the definition of "rape" used in the Du Lac handbook is "mistranslated." The letter says that the criticaltion of the section entitled "Information and Support Services for Victims of Rape and Sexual Assault," are not offered in a spirit of acrimony. I charge, however, that they are offered in ignorance. Khawaja's dictionary misstates the definition without serious examination, and then profers an unsubstantiated definition of his own.

On page 61, Du Lac says: Rape is "a crime of violence. It is motivated by the desire to control, dominate, andHumiliate, not the desire for sex...." Khawaja assumes that the definition is incorrect simply because it does not agree with his intuitions. The definition offered in Du Lac unquestionably matches with the prevalent psychological understanding of the crime.

In his book "Psychology and the Legal System," Lawrence Wrightsmen notes that "Experts regard rape as a crime of violence not of passion" (p. 303). Even Webster's Dictionary reflects this understanding, defining "rape" as "a violent or outrageous violation."

In his cursory evaluation of the definition, Khawaja replaces the word "violation" by the definition of the word "coercion," as if the two are synonymous. The words have different meanings and connotations. Violence is coercion, however, coercion is not always violence.

Physical coercion is but one of many forms. Accepting Khawaja's definitions, however, he still fails to provide a valid explanation of the definition given or a viable substitute.

Khawaja advances an economic theory to account for the occurrence of rape. According to him, rapists because "they see rape as a means of gratifying two sorts of desires (coercion and sex)..."

In other words, your local rapist rapes only because he sees it as a chance to kill two birds with one stone. It is an efficient crime for him. If he did not rape, he would instead need to assault someone and then have sex with someone else.

This explanation does not account for why a rapist involved in a sexual relationship would seek to rape, instead of just kill which is according to Khawaja, "much less risky."

Additionally, his analysis fails to take into account any of the facts behind the crime. Many men who rape cannot maintain an erection without assistance from their victims and many cannot ejaculate at all (Ibid. p. 306). A rapist who has been interviewed admits that sex does not motivate their criminal behavior. As one rapist said, "You know, I could get all the sex I wanted because my brother ran a chain of massage parlors. But if they were giving it to me, I wasn't in control. I wanted to take it" (Ibid. p. 309). I grant Khawaja the fact that not all coercive or violent tendencies result in rape. However, that does not mean that rape is not a violent crime. Rape is one of a panoply of violent crimes.

Khawaja's letter points the prove that the administration should not remove the passages in which he has objected. I would encourage Khawaja to educate himself about the true nature of rape. Thousands of rapes go unreported in this country every year because the stigma which is attached to the crime. Victims, who mistakenly believe that rape is a sexually motivated act, fear that they somehow encouraged the rapist. They think that they share in the guilt. This misunderstanding of the motivations behind the crime make it harder to bring rapists to justice.

NORA PISTEY
Fin year law student
Off-campus

---

Food Services strikes abroad, even in France

Dining Hall, Dining Hall, where are thou, my Dining Hall? How I miss thee, now that we are apart! I had scoured thee, Dining Hall. Yes, I admit, I laughed at your name. No longer shall these games continue, oh cherished Dining Hall. No longer will I allow others to mock thee, great Dining Hall. I count the days till we meet again, oh bast house of selection and nourishment!

DOMONIQUE SCHOTT

---

One would think that spending a year in France would entail at the very least a sampling of the staples of European cuisine. If not an occasional indulgence of fine wines, escargot, asiste de charcuterie, and baked brie; however, this is not the case.

And so these are my thoughts upon entering the "Restaurant Universitaire," known among the natives as the "RV." It is true that the dining hall is the staple establishment. It is also true that one can eat here for a reasonably low price. It is also true that there is a semi-variety of food served here. However, you must stop and define reality.

After I received my bi-monthly stipend, with which I must nourish myself for the following two weeks. I quickly decided to save some francs and eat at the RV. After several of us meandered across town in the bargain dining experience, we arrived at the RV. So far, so good. We found it. Now, the only challenge was buying the tickets for the meal. Some of us having only 45 minutes in which to eat and race across town for the 1:30 class, we decided to weave our way through the crowd. In my opinion, every college-aged French student in the entire city of Angers eats at the same time. At first glance, I wanted to compare it to trying to get into gate 17 of the stadium before the PSU game last year.

Lots of people—not much movement, and we didn't even have the tickets with which to buy the meal.

After several minutes of pushing and pondering, we purchased those good ol' bargain meal and tickets and scramble for the end of the lunch line. Twenty-five or so minutes later, we finally ascended the stairs to the "Plat Chaud" bar, the pasta bar, the cereals, second time for me.

We were rationed one dessert and one entre, or if one wanted to be wacky, two desserts or two entrees, and of course a plate of the daily specialty. Now, when I say dessert, I do not mean "Bouzot Creme Pie or endless soft chocolate chip cookies. I mean one piece of fruit or a cup of yogurt—maybe on a good day, an eclair. The definition of entree is one slice of cheese or one slice of meat or a bit of pate. Then, I walked over to the "Plat Chaud" sign and was welcomed by cauliflower and chicken. I thought, "Hmmm...not bad. I can eat this. It's inexpensive and an okay portion." Well, after a trip to the microwave to heat up my not-so-cheap meal, it was edible. And they do give you all-you-can-eat bread.

I went back that night with an optimistic attitude. Hambourgers and fries greeted me at the top of the steps. A good American meal, just what I needed! Well, the fries were not too terrible. But, I only got a bowl of lettuce with this "Plat chaud;" the dessert/entree option did not count. When I sat down and cut into the meat, it started mooing at me, then went off with the greens! Needless to say, I ate a lot of bread that night.

I've been back a couple of times, but each time my heart yearns for my NDH! How I miss the endless amounts of food! I long for the fruit selection, the bagels, the drinks, the salad bar, the pasta bar, the cereals, the cookies, the chocolate-chip muffins! Oh, Dining Hall, how I miss thee! So, my friends enjoy your meal today and go back a second time for me.

Domonique Schott is a sophomore French major spending this year in Angers.
What has more inside jokes than the Keenan Center's acceptance party, and some of Notre Dame's most talented comedy performers? You're right if you said Irish Accent, the campus' official skit and improv comedy troop. Created by two Sorin freshmen with high school experience in a comedy troop, Irish Accent plays to full houses twice per semester and allows Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students to perform the art of improvisational comedy. They also participate annually in the Skidmore College National Comedy Festival.

“We basically do short skits ala Saturday Night Live and improv skits,” said William Lajoie, a Planter junior and co-president of the eleven-member group. “With the improv, we ask questions to the audience and let them set up a situation,” he says.

What follows is spontaneous improvisation, resulting in absurd and hilarious scenarios as each member performing has a different interpretation of the same situation. “One improv is called the ‘sympathy of discontent.’ The audience supplies four pet peeves and four emotions,” says Kevin Schmitt, a Dillon senior and the other co-president. Another member of the troop then “directs” the four with hand signals so that their levels vary from silence to screaming.

The group gets the ideas for their sketches and improvises from brainstorming sessions. Not surprisingly, much of their material revolves around campus life. “We make fun of the stuff that everyone here at Notre Dame notices. We exaggerate ordinary things to make them funny,” explains Karen Lanigan, a psychology and French major from Pangborn.

Irish Accent, however, does not limit itself to inside jokes. A new skit involves The Scooby-Doo Gang of Fred, Daphne, Shaggy, and Wilma appearing on the Rikki Lake show. The characters and their relationships are satirical, and the sketches are told with a skit show type. “This is a less bit topical and sort of fast forward. The result is often pandemonium and slapstick comedy with performers tripping and running into each other.”

Irish Accent meets weekly for three hour practice. They perform tonight at 9 PM in the LaFortune Ballroom. Admission is $1.

Medical Minute

Do you party with ‘Mary Jane’? If so... What should you know?

By RYAN J. GRABOW

Long before we came to Notre Dame, I’m sure most of us have been taught by our parents, teachers, guidance counselors, and families about the evils of drug use, especially marijuana. Now that we’re at college, we want to know how to make our own choices. Since we’re calling the shots, here’s an A to Z about the effects of marijuana.

Immediate Effects on the Body

If you smoke marijuana (a.k.a. pot, dope, or weed) or have been with others who have, you know the immediate effects can vary from person to person and bit to bit. Reddening of the eyes, dryness in the mouth and throat, increased heart rate, euphoria, impaired short-term memory and ability to communicate, relaxation, altered sense of identity, distortions of hearing, vision, and sense of time, hunger (the munchies), lethargy, impaired reaction time and motor control, and paranoia or a panic reaction are all common experiences.

One cannot die from marijuana use, however, “acute panic and anxiety reactions,” described as intense fears of losing control, have been experienced after only a few hits. Addiction is unusually large concentration.

Why the Variety?

The variety of marijuana that is in use by chemistry patients to prevent nausea and suppress the urge to throw-up. Because of this effect on the body marijuana and alcohol are a deadly combination. Your body makes you vomit when you have ingested a dangerous level of alcohol. Puking then passing out is a defense mechanism. Due to smoking marijuana while drinking heavily, many college students have died because their bodies could not get rid of the alcohol quickly enough.

Bottom Line: Marijuana and drinking don’t mix.

It’s time to make educated decisions about our lives. You owe it to yourself to weigh the pros and cons before making your decisions. Some of you may still want to argue that there is no non-refutable proof that marijuana is dangerous or harmful to your health. If so, remember that before 1930 many believed tobacco was harmless too. Give the researchers a chance, by the time this is 100% proof, you or your kids may be it, and by then it’s too late.
It's college football's mightiest moment, and none of them is undefeated in the regular season and none meet in a bowl game.

Sound far-fetched? Well, it could happen.

Pick Auburn or Texas A&M on the Plains and none meet in a bowl. The last time five Division I-A teams were all perfect regular-season champs was 1979, when Alabama, Brigham Young, Ohio State, Florida State and McNeese State did it. They all played in different bowls and they all lost for national championship, which last best 24-22 to No. 2 Texas A&M in the Sugar Bowl.

The situation could be more confusing this year because of the NCAA sanctions against No. 4 Auburn (7-0) and No. 6 Texas A&M (6-0). What happens if the bowl probes are all one left out without a loss?

Cook said he might vote for Auburn because the Tigers would have completed their second straight 11-0 season. They finished fourth in the AP poll last season behind a trio of unbeaten teams, including national champion Florida State.

"If they're allowed to play, their games should count," Cook said. "You can't ignore a team that wins two years under a loss." Cook's ESPN colleague, Lee Corso, disagrees.

"Probation teams should not win the national championship because they can't win the last step, which is winning a bowl game," he said.

So who's got the inside track to the title?

For the top-ranked Penn State (6-0), which leads the nation in scoring and just beat Michigan at Ann Arbor, the situation could be more confusing this year because of the NCAA sanctions against No. 4 Auburn (7-0) and No. 6 Texas A&M (6-0). What happens if the bowl probes are all one left out without a loss?

Cook said he might vote for Auburn because the Tigers would have completed their second straight 11-0 season. They finished fourth in the AP poll last season behind a trio of unbeaten teams, including national champion Florida State.

"If they're allowed to play, their games should count," Cook said. "You can't ignore a team that wins two years under a loss." Cook's ESPN colleague, Lee Corso, disagrees.

"Probation teams should not win the national championship because they can't win the last step, which is winning a bowl game," he said.

So who's got the inside track to the title?
SMC Volleyball

Belles’ adrenaline too short lived, swept in three by U. Indy

By JENNIFER LEWIS
Saint Mary’s Sports Editor

Saint Mary’s volleyball has got to start believing in themselves, if they want to win, according to coach Julie Schroeder-Biek. The (11-12) Belles could not get passed the division II (12-9) University of Indianapolis in yesterday’s game. At one point in the first game, Saint Mary’s was up 14-6. However, you cannot win the game unless you score fifteen points and the Belles were unable to obtain the last point, surrendering to the Greyhounds 14-16.

“The team we started out with,” said Schroeder-Biek, “was not the team we finished the match with.” In the second game the Belles came up from behind (2-4) and pulled ahead 13-12 only to let the Greyhounds take the lead away and win the game 13-16. Saint Mary’s was reluctant to spike the ball, instead they gave Indianapolis numerous free ball and tips, allowing them to set up their offense with ease.

“Our players are thinking, I don’t want to be the one to make the error,” said Schroeder-Biek. “When they should be thinking I’m the one that wants to make the kill.” Sara Stronczek lead the Belles with only fourteen kills. Meg Kelly had seven kills and Betsy Connolly only had six. Saint Mary’s grew tired in the third game they were getting blocked and were low on net. Indianapolis swept them in three, making the final score 15-4.

Soccer

continued from page 16

the Irish pummeled Bowling Green 3-1. The long absent offense finally reappeared and complemented the always dependable defense. Now, the Irish must continue to improve, especially in developing consistency in their offense.

“It’s the hope of every team to peak at the right time. We hope to continue our progress and peak during the tournament (Midwest Conference tournament),” commented Dean.

Part of the Irish’s turn around could be attributed to the switch from a 3-5-2 system of alignment to a 4-4-2 scheme.

“Fortunately for me, I always got answers. And this summer, during my internship at Ernst & Young, I did everything I could to make the most of them. My name is Clay Scheetz, and I just spent three of the most productive months of my life experiencing the real-life challenges of working for a large professional services firm. I learned more than I thought possible in such a short time. To begin with, I found myself working on projects I wouldn’t have of working for a large professional services firm.

Another surprise was meeting so many people who are just as motivated as I am. All the technical know-how in the universe isn’t as important as possessing the desire to apply it. And when you’re made to feel like part of the team, as I was, there’s a certain electricity that develops as you move closer to finding the most resourceful solutions for each client’s unique situation. Everyone works together, sharing knowledge and maintaining a mutual “there’s always a better way” attitude that I think is highly unusual in a firm this size.

Actually, there are several unusual things about Ernst & Young, which, I’m convinced, is what keeps them on the cutting edge. They support their staff with a rare commitment to technological advancement. The firm also fosters positive attitudes toward work by developing flex-schedules for employees. It’s a way of letting those who have unusually demanding personal obligations balance their personal and professional lives. People enjoy working here. It’s obvious. And I did, too. Now, if anyone questions me about what internship I recommend, you know I’ll have only one answer: Ernst & Young.

The people at Ernst & Young possess an unquestionable amount of knowledge. So, as an intern, I had no choice but to ask a lot of questions.”
Vermin top Dawgs, Zahm bests St. Ed's for second straight win

By JACK MACLEOD
Sports Writer

Anthony Laboe. Chad Harrison. Stefan Borso. If you want to know why Carroll de­feated Alumni, these names are your answer.

Chad Harrison played a stellar game at quarterback. In the first half he completed three out of four passes, including a 20 yard scoring strike to fresh­man receiver Todd Kuczaj on the opening drive of the game. Harrison spent the day evading the constant rush of Alumni defenders Jim Delaney and Mike Denver, but was probably the only quarterback on cam­pus who did not throw an inter­ception this weekend, including Ron Powlus.

Anthony Laboe was Mr. Everywhere. On defense, Laboe made numerous open field tackles from his position at cor­nerback and intercepted a pass to stall an Alumni drive. On the offensive side of the ball, he had 100 yards—43 receiving and 55 rushing. Big plays by Laboe set up both scores for the Vermin.

After Alumni tied the game late on a touchdown pass from Conrad Hanson to Mike Morrison, Laboe caught a pass from Harrison to set up the game winning field goal.

Enter the injured Stefan Borso. Despite a broken hand, Borso stepped in and split the upights to give the Vermin a 10-7 victory over one of the league’s best teams, ending their regular season record at 3-0-1.

The Vermin will enter the playoffs as the favorite to win in the championship. "I’d say we have a decent chance of winning there," Laboe said.

Their chances will be even better if he can repeat his per­formance against Alumni.

Fisher 22, Sorin 0

Can you say total domination? The Fisher Green Wave can, and they said it loudly on Sunday as they man-handled the overmatched Sorin Otters in a game that should have ended at halftime because of the skunk rule.

In a well-balanced, multi­weapon offensive attack, Fisher racked up 22 points in the first half. They seemed to move at will on the ineffective Otter defense, alternating between a ball control type of ground game and a deep threat air attack.

Fisher quarterback Brian Hertz was the key to their offense. After throwing a 30 yard touchdown pass to Mike Carrol, he pitched to running back Jose Cortes on 10 yard scoring sweep. Finally, Hertz scrambled into the endzone for the last touchdown of the game.

In a statement not only to Sorin but to the rest of the league, the Green Wave opted to go for the two point conversion. Hertz found Dan McGinty with a lob pass, and the offen­sive onslaught had come to a close.

Sorin had little hope of coming back. Their best chance came when they intercepted a pass on the Fisher five yard line, but four plays later they had lost enough yards to be out of field goal range.

"We have improved on offense, particularly in discipline and execution," captain Chris Lacy said after the im­pressive display.

With the victory, Fisher’s record culminates at 2-2, enough to get them into the playoffs.

Zahm 5, St. Ed’s 0

The key to Zahm football this year is defense. Once again this week the defense held its opposition scoreless, continuing their season long shutout streak.

The Zahm defense stifled St. Ed’s quarterback with frequent sacks forcing poor throws that fell either incomplete or into the hands of Zahm defenders. The St. Ed’s running game was strong as usual, led by tailback Mike Nortz, but without the ability to successfully pass, the Zahm defense knew to expect the run and therefore had little trouble containing it.

The inconsistent Zahm pass­ing attack once again combined flashes of greatness with terri­bly thrown balls. The bright spot in offense came when quarterback Benji Hammond rolled out,aved several St. Ed’s defenders, and then found Rick Rios who scammed the final ten yards into the endzone for the game’s only score.

Zahm is still alive because of its impenetrable defense, and has finished the season on a two game win streak.

PA had already clinched a playoff spot, but Lewis came into the game needing at least a tie to secure a position in postseason. The Pyros seri­ously threatened the Chicken playoff chances with a scoring opportunity late in the second half.

PA drove the ball to the Lewis 20-yard line and Pyro quarter­back Kristin Doty found a streaking Marina Alkidas wide open over the middle, and she was on her way to an apparent touchdown.

However, Chicken captain and defensive back Tracy Cote came from nowhere to track Alkidas down and provide Lewis with the game saving tackle. As it was, the PE drive started out at the Chicken 5-yard line with just under two minutes remaining.

Lewis captured the fourth and final playoff spot with a 3-2-1 record, and PE finished the regular season with a 2-1-3 mark. The times and dates for the teams’ first playoff games have yet to be determined.
Stanford shuts out Dillon, secures tie for first

By NEIL ZENDER
Sports Writer

For Chris Pollina and the Stanford running attack, it was a usual day at the office. For Dillon's Big Red, it was like one of Wes Craven's nightmares. Pollina and company ran all over the Big Red for a 14-12 win on Sunday.

Dillon was unable to stop the potent Studs ground game. Pollina ran up 106 yards on just eleven carries. His backfield mate John Mele picked up 46 yards on 9 totes. Stanford's fullhouse backfield of Pollina, Mele, and Doug Polla ran up 149 yards. Chris Pollina has justified confidence in the ground game.

“Our running styles are very complimentary. Then you throw Doug in, and you have a slashing style. We all have really low centers of gravity that help us.”

He gives much of the credit to the offensive line.

“They just open up holes. They make it look a lot easier than it is.”

Stanford took the lead on their first possession of the game, a ten play fifty-yard drive that culminated in Chris Pollina launching into the end zone from a yard out. Pollina had runs of 19 and 18 yards that put the Studs in scoring position. Kris Kazlauskas’ blocked kick left Stanford with a 4-0 lead.

The Studs' second score came towards the end of the fourth quarter. Taking over at the Dillon 31, Pollina's 26 yard run brought them into Big Red territory. After a Mike Brown to Doug Pollina pass brought Stanford to the 1, Mele took over and plowed his way across the goal to clinch the game at 16-0.

Stanford dominated the game, limiting Dillon to a paltry 2 yards rushing, and garnering 11 first downs to the Big Red's 3. However, the Big Red did not play a bad football game by any means. They played a tough, physical, and scrappy ball game. Even though their running game was stifled, Dillon still managed to chip a few chinks in Stanford's armor through the air. Stefan Molina completed four passes for 56 yards.

Defensively, Stanford was boosted by the spectacular play of unheralded Turnover Machine Charlie Alger. Arguably the best Free Safety in the league, Alger's interception at the end of the first half set up Kazlauskas' 39 yard field goal that gave the Studs a 9-0 lead. It was Alger's fifth interception of the year.

Stanford ended the season with a 3-1 record, and will gear up for the playoffs. Dillon (0-3) closes their season against Grace on Wednesday.

Dillon falls to 0-5. Stanford finishes the season at 1-1.

Flanner 6 Morrissey 0

There's nothing greater than winning. Except maybe beating the other guy at his own game.

That's something Flanner experienced on Sunday, as they rammed the football down Morrissey's throat 6-0.

Flanner beat the Manor at its own game, doubling the defending Interhall Champion's rushing yardage. Running back Steve Hrovat and Matt Beajouin both picked up 35 yards, and scrambling quarterback Scott Lupo added 21. Flanner also doubled Morrissey's first down total, 7 to 3.

The Manor's vaunted ball-control attack didn't have much control to it. Morrissey's offense was out of sync for almost the entire game.

“You've got to give the credit to our defense. Our linebackers played really well. We stuffed them up front. We made it difficult for them to run, so they had to go to the pass. They completed quite a few towards the end, made us a letter nervous, but they beat Stanford, and Stanford's one of the best teams out here for sure.”

Flanner/Morrissey 0-0

Morrissey's offense finally threatened at the end of third quarter. Polk completed a ten-yard pass to Mark Nicholson put the ball on the Flanner 39. Another connection with Nicholson put the ball on the 25, but it was too late, and time ran out on the Manor.

Flanner accomplished what it wanted on the field.

“We didn't give up any big plays.” Keller said.

Regular Monthly gathering takes place on the third Thursday of each month. Come meet new and continuing colleagues, single, divorced or widowed.

REGULAR MONTHLY GATHERING
Thursday, October 20
5:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Loungue of the Morris Inn

For further information call John Cerber, C.S.C.1-8601 or JoAnne bunnage 1-4617

Co-sponsored by the Singles Group and Campus Ministry.

HOCKEY ENTHUSIASTS!

The Irish Youth Hockey League is looking for volunteers to help with our Youth Hockey League again this hockey season. We are looking for an informed and enthusiastic volunteer to come tomorrow night at the Ice Box from 7:00-9:00, each night. It is not necessary to attend both nights. We are looking for some students who have some skating ability, are reliable, dependable and enjoy being around energetic children.

For further information, please call the hockey hotline @ 277-7519 and leave a message.
Sources say Michael Miller dismissed from team
By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz took the first step toward removing a "cancer" on the Irish football squad by meeting with 20-30 players Monday to evaluate their standing with the team. Friday before the BYU game Holtz told his players, "there is a cancer on this team and the only way to remove a cancer is to cut it out."

It was a reference to an earlier statement Holtz made concerning the attitude of several underclassmen. A source said Holtz expressed his distaste for the attitude of some players and how it prevented the Irish from developing a team atmosphere. The source also said that the players called into meetings yesterday were predominately underclassmen.

"I've been meeting with players individually but for a variety of reasons," Holtz said. "To say there is a cancer on this team, that is ridiculous. We have no more problems than any normal team that is losing."

A source said that the meetings could result in the dismissal of some players. One player who appears off the Irish squad is senior Michael Miller. The much-troubled wide receiver did not practice the majority of last week and did not play in Saturday's 21-14 loss to BYU. He met with Holtz Sunday but was not with the team Monday to hear an inspirational speaker. One player said it had been assumed for several days that Miller was no longer with the Irish. While Miller's college career appears over, it is likely that a few players will transfer to other schools.

"There are certain obligations of being at Notre Dame and if people can't meet those obligations, then I've been telling them that I would be happy to help them transfer," Holtz said.

Notre Dame's coach also dismissed several walk-ons Monday, but left the door open for those players to return to the team in the spring.

Hockey

Irish skate past St. Francis 10-2
By TIM SHERMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

They have the talent and they're getting the experience. Now, the key for the Notre Dame hockey team is learning how to win.

The lesson was well-learned last Friday night as the Irish ramped over St. Francis by a score of 10-2. "The team played really well as a whole," said captain Brett Bruniks. "It's always nice to start the season with a win. It can only give us confidence." Most confident has to be sophomore defensemen Ben Nelsen. Nelsen, who impressed last season, notched a hat-trick to lead the Notre Dame's scoring barrage.

Finding the back of the net was a problem for the Irish last season, but you wouldn't have known it from Friday's effort.

Six different skaters, including freshman Steve Noble (2) tallied goals for the Schafer's club, while an additional eight had assists.

On the other side of the red-line, the Irish were just as solid. Goalies Wade Salmon and Matt Eisler faced just 19 shots.

"Defensively, we were solid, especially the freshman," Bruniks said. "It's always good to have that first game out of the way. They stepped right in to contribute."

Men's Soccer

Men hit the road to face DePaul
By JARED PATZKE
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's soccer team is yet to win a game on the road, in fact, they are yet to score a goal away from Alumni Field. The Irish look to end this five game losing streak and scoring drought as they prepare to travel to Illinois to take on DePaul today at 4:00 p.m.

The Blue Demons could very well be the answer to the Irish's traveling woes. Notre Dame has historically had its way with the Blue Demons, winning all 14 of their previous match-ups. Dominance would best describe the Irish's success against DePaul, out scoring them by a combined score of 63-3, no misprint, which includes a 7-0 shellacking of the Blue Demons last year.

Despite this huge advantage in past statistics, senior full-back Chris Dean is still looking for DePaul to pose problems for the Irish. "DePaul is a completely new team this year. They're always tough to play on the road because they play on such a small field we really have to adjust to it."

A victory on the road could very well be the final indicator that the Irish have fully recovered from their mid-season skid. After losing four of five games Notre Dame was searching for a glimpse of their old selves, that glimpse came while playing one of their best match-ups of the year tying SMU, the 10th ranked team in the nation, 0-0, building off the SMU game.

Football

HOLTZ CALLS MEETINGS TO RID TEAM OF 'CANCER'

By TIM SHERMAN
Assistant Sports Writer

Holtz calls meetings to rid team of 'cancer' in past statistic, senior full-back Chris Dean and his Irish hit the road to face DePaul today.

The lesson was well-learned last Friday night as the Irish romped over St. Francis 10-2. The team has historically had its way with the Blue Demons, winning all 14 of their previous match-ups. Domination would best describe the Irish's success against DePaul, out scoring them by a combined score of 63-3, no misprint, which includes a 7-0 shellacking of the Blue Demons last year.

The Blue Demons could very well be the answer to the Irish's traveling woes. Notre Dame has historically had its way with the Blue Demons, winning all 14 of their previous match-ups. Dominance would best describe the Irish's success against DePaul, out scoring them by a combined score of 63-3, no misprint, which includes a 7-0 shellacking of the Blue Demons last year.

Despite this huge advantage in past statistics, senior full-back Chris Dean is still looking for DePaul to pose problems for the Irish. "DePaul is a completely new team this year. They're always tough to play on the road because they play on such a small field we really have to adjust to it."

A victory on the road could very well be the final indicator that the Irish have fully recovered from their mid-season skid. After losing four of five games Notre Dame was searching for a glimpse of their old selves, that glimpse came while playing one of their best match-ups of the year tying SMU, the 10th ranked team in the nation, 0-0, building off the SMU game.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "It was a reference to an earlier state of the year tieing SMU, the Irish's most recent loss to the Blue Demons. The lesson was well-learned last Friday night as the Irish romped over St. Francis 10-2.

The win was driving to tie the score, Off Campus quarterback Kelly Guarin turned the game around with the play of the night.

Guerrin intercepted a Carrie Wienenke pass and ran it back 45 yards for a touchdown to help spark Off Campus to an 18-13 victory. It was Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

PW, playing for a possible playoff berth, jumped off to a great start. The Purple Weasles put together a solid six-play, 52-yard drive, capped by 20-yard touchdown pass from Wienenke to Sarah Sapp. Following the successful opening drive, both the PW offense and defense seemed in top form.

"It was a great team win for us," said Guarin, that the team was playing for a state playoff berth. PW was led by a 10-yard touchdown run off a reverse, PW regrouped and drove the ball from their own 20 to the Off Campus 45-yard line. However, Guarin's ensuing interception ended all hopes of a Purple Weasle comeback, and at the same time, cruelled PW's slim playoff chances.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.

"It was a great team win for us," echoed the Off Campus backup quarterback. "Guarin's third interception return for a touchdown this season.