Flanner Co-Presidents win majority of votes from Mod and 'God' Quads in run-off

By LIZ FORAN
Associate News Editor

A near-sweep of the Mod Quad and slight majority of Main "God" Quad votes landed Flanner Co-Presidents Jonathan Patrick and Dennis McCarthy in the driver's seat of student government for the coming year.

"Dennis and I are really excited about the way things turned out," Patrick said. "We're excited to get into office and begin working."

With a platform emphasizing improved student government-student body communication, McCarthy and Patrick took 55 percent of the total vote, with 2,041 student votes in the election.

Kevin Klau and Larissa Herczeg took 45 percent, or 1,623 total Flanner votes cast for the run-off election.

Despite the controversy surrounding a late entry to the race, the Patrick/McCarthy ticket had the strongest support
cent of the 451 votes, while narrowing losing the north
Klaugerczeg took 61 percent of the South Quad votes, or 667 of the 1,103 votes from that area. They also took North Quad with 54 percent of the 806 ballots cast.

Although disappointed, Herczeg expressed support for the Patrick and McCarthy ticket.

"We want to congratulate JP and Dennis," she said. "Kevin and I both think that they'll do a good job."

"We also want to thank everyone who supported us throughout the election," she added.

"We could never have made it as far as we did without the support of our friends."

Only 37 of the 1,440 off-campus students voted in the election.

McCarthy owed 10 percent of their total votes to the Mod Quad, taking 75 percent, or 954 of the 1,267 votes cast.

They showed a slight majority on the Main Quad, with 54 per-
percent of their total votes to
Klaugerczeg took 61 percent of the South Quad votes, or 667 of the 1,103 votes from that area. They also took North Quad with 54 percent of the 806 ballots cast.

Although disappointed, Herczeg expressed support for the Patrick and McCarthy ticket.

"We want to congratulate JP and Dennis," she said. "Kevin and I both think that they'll do a good job."

"We also want to thank everyone who supported us throughout the election," she added.

"We could never have made it as far as we did without the support of our friends."

Only 37 of the 1,440 off-campus students voted in the election.

McCarthy owed 10 percent of their total votes to the Mod Quad, taking 75 percent, or 954 of the 1,267 votes cast.

They showed a slight majority on the Main Quad, with 54 per-
percent of their total votes to
Klaugerczeg took 61 percent of the South Quad votes, or 667 of the 1,103 votes from that area. They also took North Quad with 54 percent of the 806 ballots cast.

Although disappointed, Herczeg expressed support for the Patrick and McCarthy ticket.

"We want to congratulate JP and Dennis," she said. "Kevin and I both think that they'll do a good job."

"We also want to thank everyone who supported us throughout the election," she added.

"We could never have made it as far as we did without the support of our friends."

Only 37 of the 1,440 off-campus students voted in the election.

McCarthy owed 10 percent of their total votes to the Mod Quad, taking 75 percent, or 954 of the 1,267 votes cast.

They showed a slight majority on the Main Quad, with 54 per-
 Service

award given to Suzman

Helen Suzman, South African political activist and outspoken opponent of her nation's now abolished apartheid system, will receive the 1994 Notre Dame Award for international humanitarian service during a ceremony at Notre Dame on April 5.

"Helen Suzman confronted the legalized barbarism of a nation state with courage, compassion, and civilized self-assurance," said Notre Dame President Father Edward Maloney. "Her political career has been driven by the hunger and thirst for justice which the Beattleads believe and which is shared by the finest members of the Notre Dame community."

A member of the South African Parliament from 1953 until her retirement in 1989, Suzman, representing the Progressive Party, was the sole anti-apartheid member of that body from 1961-74.

During her stormy tenure in parliament, the occasionally acerbic Suzman regularly and publicly clashed with apartheid prime ministers Hendrik Verwoerd, Johannes Vorster, and P.W. Botha.

"This part of the campus really pulled together," Patrick said.

"We really want to thank everyone who supported us all over campus. We're really happy with the way things turned out."

Hundreds march for GLND/SMC

Students, staff, and faculty show support

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

Over three hundred students, professors, and staff marched on the Administration Building after taking a weekend trip to relax and get away from the pressure of campaigning and the election, Patrick said that he and McCarthy are anxious to get into office and get started on the ideas of their platform.

"We're going to start working on making WVFI an FM radio station in a couple of weeks," he said."

"We really are working to become the voice of Notre Dame."

"We're excited to start implementing our ideas," he added.

Hundreds march for GLND/SMC

Students, staff, and faculty show support

By DAVE TYLER
News Editor

Over three hundred students, professors, and staff marched on the Administration Building.

The rally, which began at the DeBartolo Classroom Building, lasted approximately forty minutes. After departing from DeBartolo, the march wound towards the Administration Building, where marchers stretched to form a human circle around its base, then passed through LaFortune Student Center and ended at the Fieldhouse Mall area.

The peaceful demonstration was marked by signs, chants, songs, and an attempt by some marchers to enter the Administration Building.

A crowd of Notre Dame students, faculty, and staff marched from DeBartolo to the Administration Building last Friday in protest of the administration's decision to bar GLND/SMC from using the Counseling Center.

The Observer/Christopher Muihs

see AWARD / page 4

see MARCH / page 4

see SECURITY, page 20

The Observer/Christopher Muihs

A near-sweep of the Mod Quad and slight majority of Main "God" Quad votes landed Flanner Co-Presidents Jonathan Patrick and Dennis McCarthy in the driver's seat of student government for the coming year.

"Dennis and I are really excited about the way things turned out," Patrick said. "We're excited to get into office and begin working."

With a platform emphasizing improved student government-student body communication, McCarthy and Patrick took 55 percent of the total vote, with 2,041 student votes in the election.

Kevin Klau and Larissa Herczeg took 45 percent, or 1,623 total Flanner votes cast for the run-off election.

Despite the controversy surrounding a late entry to the race, the Patrick/McCarthy ticket had the strongest support
cent of the 451 votes, while narrowing losing the north
Klaugerczeg took 61 percent of the South Quad votes, or 667 of the 1,103 votes from that area. They also took North Quad with 54 percent of the 806 ballots cast.

Although disappointed, Herczeg expressed support for the Patrick and McCarthy ticket.

"We want to congratulate JP and Dennis," she said. "Kevin and I both think that they'll do a good job."

"We also want to thank everyone who supported us throughout the election," she added.

"We could never have made it as far as we did without the support of our friends."

Only 37 of the 1,440 off-campus students voted in the election.

McCarthy owed 10 percent of their total votes to the Mod Quad, taking 75 percent, or 954 of the 1,267 votes cast.

They showed a slight majority on the Main Quad, with 54 per-
The Obsever

Theure

of smoking

Chances are you have seen me walking down the hall, arm draped over my large towel, beard turned up, cigar hanging from my lips. Smoking almost a pack a day is almost always a square at my mouth, for I am a smoker. Many non-smokers see a cigarette as a cancer stick. They see tobacco rolled up into paper with a piece of fiberglass on the tip. I see 54 mm of smoking pleasure. If I had a nickel for every time someone told me that smoking will kill me, I would be able to pay my tuition in several large bags of loose change. I know that smoking takes 15 years off my life, and that I'll be bad off then. Why then would I choose to continue what has been called the grossest of habits? The answer lies not in the cigarette itself, nor the chemicals that are in it. There is something else. There is a square out of a pack, opening my zipper and setting a spark to it that identifies with my inner soul. It is a bonding experience.

There is something truly romantic about being able to offer someone a smoke and a light, and sharing six minutes of your life with them. It is the people that make smoking rewarding.

Why in the world would my friends and I share a wind-chill below zero, just to have a cigarette? It is something deep within all smokers. It is the intimacy of sharing a bit of our lives that makes the few minutes in the cold a welcome study break.

It is standing in the open air, bundling up against the chill, inhaling a smoldering bit of dirt and igniting it. There is little greed among these smokers. One person with a pack means a pack for all. I know that sometime we will need, and there will be someone there. That is the way that smoker's karma works out.

There is a trust, a friendship, a common bond among smokers in this smoking-hostile environment. Complete strangers become friends, just for that few minutes on the back porch of La Fortune or the front steps of Riley. New acquaintances become valued friends in the time it takes to flick a Bic. That is the small plastic action figures — has added to the success of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and Power Rangers, which were based on TV programs. Bandai, the company that makes the hottest Power Rangers toys — the small plastic action figures — has added to the 1995 line of figures based on the upcoming Power Rangers movie. Other companies have products including games and cuddly versions of the Rangers. But success of the Rangers may dominate the toy business as they did in 1994. Children are fickle consumers and can suddenly develop a selectively tires of a toy. And there's a sheen of other action figure lines just waiting to take the Rangers' place. Several are linked to TV shows and movies, including Bandai's The Tick and Megamind; Kenner's The Mask; Playmates Toys Inc.'s Wild Cunningham's C.C. and Star Trek; and Tyco's BattleTech. Kenner's VR Troopers, already popular with kids, are back. And there are hundreds of action figures, plush toys, and games tied to shows and films scheduled for later this year, including "Casper," "Sailor Moon," "Masked Rider," "Pocahontas," "Judge Dredd," "Batman Forever," "Congo," and "Waterworld.

NEW YORK

Parents scrambling to guess the hot toy of 1995 may not need to look beyond Hollywood. The toys getting the most attention at this year's Toy Fair, the giant trade show focusing on toys based on TV shows or coming big-budget movies. Toy makers are taking more care with the entertainment value since the huge success of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and Power Rangers, which were based on TV programs. Bandai, the company that makes the hottest Power Rangers toys — the small plastic action figures — has added to the 1995 line of figures based on the upcoming Power Rangers movie. Other companies have products including games and cuddly versions of the Rangers. But success of the Rangers may dominate the toy business as they did in 1994. Children are fickle consumers and can suddenly develop a selectively tires of a toy. And there's a sheen of other action figure lines just waiting to take the Rangers' place. Several are linked to TV shows and movies, including Bandai's The Tick and Megamind; Kenner's The Mask; Playmates Toys Inc.'s Wild Cunningham's C.C. and Star Trek; and Tyco's BattleTech. Kenner's VR Troopers, already popular with kids, are back. And there are hundreds of action figures, plush toys, and games tied to shows and films scheduled for later this year, including "Casper," "Sailor Moon," "Masked Rider," "Pocahontas," "Judge Dredd," "Batman Forever," "Congo," and "Waterworld.

NEW YORK

Parents scrambling to guess the hot toy of 1995 may not need to look beyond Hollywood. The toys getting the most attention at this year's Toy Fair, the giant trade show focusing on toys based on TV shows or coming big-budget movies. Toy makers are taking more care with the entertainment value since the huge success of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and Power Rangers, which were based on TV programs. Bandai, the company that makes the hottest Power Rangers toys — the small plastic action figures — has added to the 1995 line of figures based on the upcoming Power Rangers movie. Other companies have products including games and cuddly versions of the Rangers. But success of the Rangers may dominate the toy business as they did in 1994. Children are fickle consumers and can suddenly develop a selectively tires of a toy. And there's a sheen of other action figure lines just waiting to take the Rangers' place. Several are linked to TV shows and movies, including Bandai's The Tick and Megamind; Kenner's The Mask; Playmates Toys Inc.'s Wild Cunningham's C.C. and Star Trek; and Tyco's BattleTech. Kenner's VR Troopers, already popular with kids, are back. And there are hundreds of action figures, plush toys, and games tied to shows and films scheduled for later this year, including "Casper," "Sailor Moon," "Masked Rider," "Pocahontas," "Judge Dredd," "Batman Forever," "Congo," and "Waterworld.

Brewers, wholesalers renew debate

INDIANAPOLIS

Brewers and wholesalers have renewed a 10-year-old struggle over Indiana's prohibition against establishing exclusive territories for beer sales. Bartholomew County Beverage Co. claimed in Marion County Superior Court last week that a price incentive implemented in May by the New Amsterdam Brewing Co., based on the Middlesex Protection Act. All reproduction rights are reserved.

The answer lies not in the cigarette itself, nor the chemicals that are in it. There is something else. There is a square out of a pack, opening my zipper and setting a spark to it that identifies with my inner soul. It is a bonding experience.

There is something truly romantic about being able to offer someone a smoke and a light, and sharing six minutes of your life with them. It is the people that make smoking rewarding.

Why in the world would my friends and I share a wind-chill below zero, just to have a cigarette? It is something deep within all smokers. It is the intimacy of sharing a bit of our lives that makes the few minutes in the cold a welcome study break.

It is standing in the open air, bundling up against the chill, inhaling a smoldering bit of dirt and igniting it. There is little greed among these smokers. One person with a pack means a pack for all. I know that sometime we will need, and there will be someone there. That is the way that smoker's karma works out.

There is a trust, a friendship, a common bond among smokers in this smoking-hostile environment. Complete strangers become friends, just for that few minutes on the back porch of La Fortune or the front steps of Riley. New acquaintances become valued friends in the time it takes to flick a Bic. That is the small plastic action figures — has added to the success of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and Power Rangers, which were based on TV programs. Bandai, the company that makes the hottest Power Rangers toys — the small plastic action figures — has added to the 1995 line of figures based on the upcoming Power Rangers movie. Other companies have products including games and cuddly versions of the Rangers. But success of the Rangers may dominate the toy business as they did in 1994. Children are fickle consumers and can suddenly develop a selectively tires of a toy. And there's a sheen of other action figure lines just waiting to take the Rangers' place. Several are linked to TV shows and movies, including Bandai's The Tick and Megamind; Kenner's The Mask; Playmates Toys Inc.'s Wild Cunningham's C.C. and Star Trek; and Tyco's BattleTech. Kenner's VR Troopers, already popular with kids, are back. And there are hundreds of action figures, plush toys, and games tied to shows and films scheduled for later this year, including "Casper," "Sailor Moon," "Masked Rider," "Pocahontas," "Judge Dredd," "Batman Forever," "Congo," and "Waterworld.

Brewers, wholesalers renew debate

INDIANAPOLIS

Brewers and wholesalers have renewed a 10-year-old struggle over Indiana's prohibition against establishing exclusive territories for beer sales. Bartholomew County Beverage Co. claimed in Marion County Superior Court last week that a price incentive implemented in May by the New Amsterdam Brewing Co., based on the Middlesex Protection Act. All reproduction rights are reserved.

The answer lies not in the cigarette itself, nor the chemicals that are in it. There is something else. There is a square out of a pack, opening my zipper and setting a spark to it that identifies with my inner soul. It is a bonding experience.

There is something truly romantic about being able to offer someone a smoke and a light, and sharing six minutes of your life with them. It is the people that make smoking rewarding.

Why in the world would my friends and I share a wind-chill below zero, just to have a cigarette? It is something deep within all smokers. It is the intimacy of sharing a bit of our lives that makes the few minutes in the cold a welcome study break.

It is standing in the open air, bundling up against the chill, inhaling a smoldering bit of dirt and igniting it. There is little greed among these smokers. One person with a pack means a pack for all. I know that sometime we will need, and there will be someone there. That is the way that smoker's karma works out.

There is a trust, a friendship, a common bond among smokers in this smoking-hostile environment. Complete strangers become friends, just for that few minutes on the back porch of La Fortune or the front steps of Riley. New acquaintances become valued friends in the time it takes to flick a Bic. That is the allure of smoking. Life takes on a whole different per­

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
At-risk, inner-city Hispanic students from Chicago were brought to campus last weekend with the hopes of getting them interested in higher education.

The visit was sponsored by Campus Ministry and an allocated fund from Hispanic under-graduates. Approximately thirty junior high and high school students from St. Philomena’s Parish in Chicago participated in the trip, the first of its kind at Notre Dame.

The youth stayed with student hosts from Friday afternoon until Sunday. Their full schedule included events such as the Notre Dame hockey game, presentations by Hispanic students and faculty, the ISO festival, mass at the Green-Phillips chapel, and other recreational and spiritual activities.

“When you ask an urban kid about college, they think of staying in the city,” said George Chaparro, youth director at St. Philomena’s. “This visit shows them that there’s something else out there for them.”

Many of the students “never knew college could be like this,” he said.

By sharing their backgrounds, stories of how they got to Notre Dame, and their collegiate experiences, the Hispanic student speakers helped to provide motivation for the youth, according to Tanya Coja, a trip coordinator.

“The trip is important because the kids don’t get too much encouragement for higher education and it shows them how indispensable it really is,” according to Manuel Zamarripa, an ND student who also helped to organize the visit.

Since “everybody has their head set on succeeding,” the trip made Camille Roque, a high school junior, look forward to attending college.

“It showed me what it would be like to have a big sister or brother on campus and the unity between Hispanics here,” said Maritza Fontanez of her visit.

Playing basketball with other students and talking with his brother on campus and the Notre Dame community not otherwise seen.

At-risk, inner-city Hispanic students were some of fifteen-year-old Ben Diaz’s favorite aspects of the trip.

Father Pat Neary of Campus Ministry and the Notre Dame community welcomed them to attending college.

“Working with the Observer these past two years has shown me many aspects of the Notre Dame community not otherwise seen,” said Fry.

It is my hope not only to enhance the coverage of these things, but also to provide a stronger editorial voice as well,” said Fry.

“I’m excited about the opportunity to work with John Lucas and next year’s General Board,” Regan said. “Next year should bring changes that will make The Observer a better newspaper.”

Fry and Regan will share the position until next fall, when Fry plans to study in London.

The Managing Editor is ultimately responsible for the editorial content and daily production of the newspaper.

Riley, a Dillon Hall resident, is from Erie, Pennsylvania and is a Finance and Computer Applications double major.

“I’m excited to have the opportunity to manage The Observer’s finances for a second year,” Riley said. “We have a lot of ideas to continue to improve the newspaper.”

The business manager oversees the operations board and maintains the financial budget of the newspaper.

Regan and Fry will begin in their new position immediately after Spring Break.
Adept in her role as a torn in the apartheid establishment's side, she averaged 200 palia side, she averaged 200 palia people at dawn or on a wintry evening in a shanty town, and bundling women and children into depo vans is a violence . The denial of collective bargaining rights and the low wages that result are a violence. I say that all the clear that circum
vence, that all the power
lease, that all the power herself, is responsible for the

In addition to her work in parliament, Suzman became internationally known as an advocate for South Africa's numerous political prisoners. It was in this capacity that she met by representatives of the administration. Effler said the group was asked to leave.

"We weren't there to break rules, so we peacefully turned around and left," said Effler.
Assistant Director of Notre Dame Security Phil Johnson said there were no other problems or incidents
stemming from the protest.

The march was not an authorized demonstration, said
Johnson. Demonstrators were asked to leave the building, so business would not be disturbed, he said.
Marchers were impressed by the turnout. "This is much bigger, much better than anyone expected," said senior Robert Guerra. "It's good to see faculty support here, and we need to see more."

Effler said that she hopes this march will influence University officials towards a decision to recognize GLNDSMC.

"We are ever hopeful that the administration will change its mind," she said.

"We'll keep doing this as long as it takes," said Effler. "It's up to them." News of Friday’s events spawned a small counter-protest.

Four people stood on the steps of the Administration Building in the midst of the other marchers.

The counter-protesters car-rried signs reading "Love the sinner, oppose the sin," and
"God's Law above man's pleasure.

No conflict between the two groups was reported.

Prepar ing for the future
A Saint Mary's student assists two area seventh graders on Hypatia Day, a day devoted to encouraging young women to pursue careers in the fields of math and science.

The Observer • NEWS

Monday, February 13, 1995

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR

Any full-time undergraduate or graduate student at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. Please submit a three page statement of intent with a résumé to John Lucas by Wednesday, Feb. 15 at 5 p.m.

For questions about the application process or for more information about any position, call The Observer at 631-4541.

NEWS EDITOR
Applicants should have news reporting, writing and editing skills. The News Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story and series ideas and is responsible for the content of the news section each day.

VIEWPOINT EDITOR
Applicants should have editorial writing and editing skills and an ability to deal with the public. The Viewpoint Editor manages a staff of copy and layout editors and columnists and decides what letters will run each day.

SPORTS EDITOR
Applicants should have sports reporting, writing and editing skills. The Sports Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story ideas and special sections, arranges travel accommodations for reporting trips and is responsible for the content of the sports section each day.

ACCENT EDITOR
Applicants should have features writing and editing experience. The Accent Editor manages editors, reporters and columnists, generates story ideas, and is responsible for the content of the Accent pages each day.

PHOTO EDITOR
Applicants should have photography and developing experience. The Photo Editor manages a staff of photographers and lab technicians and must work closely with News, Sports and Accent department editors in assigning photographs.

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR
Any full-time undergraduate student at Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. The editor manages Saint Mary's department, coordinates coverage with Notre Dame staff, generates story ideas on the Saint Mary's campus and is responsible for the Observer office at Saint Mary's.

The Observer/Cynthia Exronde

The Observer is now accepting applications for the 1995-96 General Board

Any full-time undergraduate or graduate student at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. Please submit a three page statement of intent with a résumé to John Lucas by Wednesday, Feb. 15 at 5 p.m.

For questions about the application process or for more information about any position, call The Observer at 631-4541.

NEWS EDITOR
Applicants should have news reporting, writing and editing skills. The News Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story and series ideas and is responsible for the content of the news section each day.

VIEWPOINT EDITOR
Applicants should have editorial writing and editing skills and an ability to deal with the public. The Viewpoint Editor manages a staff of copy and layout editors and columnists and decides what letters will run each day.

SPORTS EDITOR
Applicants should have sports reporting, writing and editing skills. The Sports Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story ideas and special sections, arranges travel accommodations for reporting trips and is responsible for the content of the sports section each day.

ACCENT EDITOR
Applicants should have features writing and editing experience. The Accent Editor manages editors, reporters and columnists, generates story ideas, and is responsible for the content of the Accent pages each day.

PHOTO EDITOR
Applicants should have photography and developing experience. The Photo Editor manages a staff of photographers and lab technicians and must work closely with News, Sports and Accent department editors in assigning photographs.

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR
Any full-time undergraduate student at Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. The editor manages Saint Mary's department, coordinates coverage with Notre Dame staff, generates story ideas on the Saint Mary's campus and is responsible for the Observer office at Saint Mary's.

The Observer • NEWS

Monday, February 13, 1995

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR

Any full-time undergraduate student at Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. The editor manages Saint Mary's department, coordinates coverage with Notre Dame staff, generates story ideas on the Saint Mary's campus and is responsible for the Observer office at Saint Mary's.

The Observer/Cynthia Exronde
NEW ORLEANS
A bitter divorce involving a professional football star. Allegations of assault. The/ant of drug-trafficking charges against a third person. And then a bloody multiple murder.

No arrests have been made, and police are being meticulous, partly because of the example of the O.J. Simpson trial.

At the center of the case is Bennie Thompson, a former New Orleans Saints player now with the Cleveland Browns.

The bullet-riddled body of Thompson's ex-wife, Tangie Thompson, 28, was found Feb. 5 in her upscale home. Also killed were her fiancé, Andrew White, 30, and the Thompson's 3-year-old son Devyn.

Thompson's lawyers issued a statement Friday saying he was "deeply distraught by any suggestion that he is in any way responsible for these brutal killings.

They said they have telephone records and other evidence that will verify where he was at the time the murders are thought to have happened.

Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans.

The couple's year-long divorce grew in recent decades as the upwardly mobile fled the city's troubles.

Each victim had multiple gunshots and other wounds, and the bodies in the den. Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans. They said they have telephone records and other evidence that will verify where he was at the time the murders are thought to have happened.

Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans.

The couple's year-long divorce grew in recent decades as the upwardly mobile fled the city's troubles.

They said they have telephone records and other evidence that will verify where he was at the time the murders are thought to have happened.

Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans.

The couple's year-long divorce grew in recent decades as the upwardly mobile fled the city's troubles.

They said they have telephone records and other evidence that will verify where he was at the time the murders are thought to have happened.

Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans.

The couple's year-long divorce grew in recent decades as the upwardly mobile fled the city's troubles.

They said they have telephone records and other evidence that will verify where he was at the time the murders are thought to have happened.

Relatives found the victims in Tangie Thompson's two-story brick home in east New Orleans.

The couple's year-long divorce grew in recent decades as the upwardly mobile fled the city's troubles.
Terrorist’s extradition
focus of religious group

By KATHY GANNON
Associated Press

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan
Madonna and Michael Jackson are terrorists just as much as people who set off bombs, and should be brought to Pak­istan for trial, a small but influ­ential Pakistani religious party demanded Sunday.

The demand appeared to be a reaction to the extradition of Ramzi Yousef, a suspect in the World Trade Center bombing.

"Michael Jackson and Madonna are the torch bearers of American society, their cultural and social values ... that are destroying humanity," said Nematullah Khan, a divisional chief of the anti-American Party of Islam group.

"They are ruining the lives of thousands of Muslims and leading them to destruction, away from their religion, ethics and morality," he said.

"Terrorists are not just those who set off bombs; they are also those who hurt others feel­ings," he said.

Yousef, described as the master­mind of the World Trade Center bombing, was arrested last week at an Islamabad hotel and brought to New York on a U.S. government plane.

Khan also called on Britain and Sweden to extradite au­thors Salman Rushdie and Taslima Nasrin, both sentenced to death by fundamentalist Muslims for insulting Islam.

Jamaat-e-Islami typically wins only three or four Parliamentary seats in Pakistan’s elections. But political leaders are wary of the group’s ability to mobilize pub­lic opinion.

It controls thousands of Mus­lim clerics who wield influence over Pakistan’s poor and illit­erate, most of whom are devout Muslims.

Many believe Yousef’s arrest last week was done quickly be­cause Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto feared a backlash from fundamentalist Muslims.

Khan warned Ms. Bhutto against extraditing Mir Aimal Kansi, suspected of shooting two CIA employees outside the agency’s Virginia headquarters in January 1993.

Pakistan and American intel­ligence agents have been searching for Kansi since he entered Pakistan after the shootings.

ATTENTION GRADUATE STUDENTS

The current Graduate Student Union President and Vice President will be holding an informational session on Monday, February 13 from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the Foster Room in LaFortune. Topics of discussion include: budget requirements, work load and other requirements of the office holders.

The Graduate Student Union is searching for interested candidates to run for the 1995-96 President and Vice-President positions.

Successful candidates will possess:

*Excellent communication skills
*Ability to work independently or as a member of a team.
*A desire to protect and improve the quality of graduate student life, in all its complexity
*A commitment to the democratic process, upon which the GSU is established

Previous officers have been compensated with a stipend of $1,500 per year, upon the successful completion of their terms.

For more information, please contact the GSU office at 631-4963 or e-mail Notre.Dame.GSU1@nd.edu.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Feb. 13... Information Session - 8 to 9:30 p.m. (Foster Room in LaFortune)

Feb 22... Submission deadline for candidates

March 6... Pre-election - 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (GSU Office, 219 LaFortune)

March 7... Pre-election - 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (GSU Office, 219 LaFortune)

March 7... Debate - 8 to 9:30 p.m. (Foster Room in LaFortune)

March 8... General Election - 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

-Hesburgh Library Concours/Arts & Letters
-Nieuwland Science 1st floor lobby/Science
-Cushing Hall/Engineering

Please note that the site of the Debate has been changed from the ND Room to the Foster Room. Also, the Pre-election permits all graduate students who can not make the General Election day to vote. On the General Election Day you must go to the site which includes your department.
Leftists disrupt service in Germany

By TERENCE PETTY
Associated Press

DRESDEN, Germany
Ten young leftists disrupted a Sunday prayer service marking the 50th anniversary of Dresden's destruction by British and U.S. bombers, raising the altar and shouting "Germans were the criminals, not the victims." Churchill Helmut Kohl and other dignitaries seated in the cathedral watched in disbelief as the protesters tried to unfurl a banner and tossed leaflets saying that commemorating the Dresden firebombing insults Jews murdered at Auschwitz.

Church ushers ejected them after a scuffle.

The disturbance aptly illustrated the moral complexities of paying homage to an estimated 35,000 Germans who died in the air raids that leveled this city on Feb. 13-14, 1945.

Church and government observers portray Dresdeners not as victims of the World War II Allies but of war begun by their own country.

The anniversary is being observed in lavish style. The city on Feb. 13-14, 1945.

Church and government observers portray Dresdeners not as victims of the World War II Allies but of war begun by their own country.

The anniversary is being observed in lavish style. The German government, snubbed by some Allied commemorations, has never marked a World War II event on such a grand scale.

Britain's Duke of Kent, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, arrives Monday for a wreath-laying ceremony at Dresden's main cemetery, where firebombing victims are buried.

American and British diplomats and military brass will also be on hand. orchestras will play classical requiems. Historians, poets and novelists will present their readings and lectures.

But not everyone is happy. Outside the Dresden Cathedra, a group of Catholic protesters who believed too much attention was being paid to German civilians killed a half-century ago — and too little to people dying in Chechnya today.

Unlike the leftists who caused the stir inside the cathedral, these were mainly middle-aged Catholics quietly carrying posters demanding that Kohl tell his friend, Russian President Boris Yeltsin, to leave Chechnya alone.

The demonstrators received icy stares from about 100 Dresdeners waiting to greet Kohl, who was not surprising. Many don't like it when they think someone is trivializing the firebombing.

When a man spotted an elderly woman carrying an anti-Kohl poster, he shouted, "Traimple the old cow to death!"

Another hoistered, "Go to Russia where you belong!" The woman yelled for police as someone grabbed her poster and threw it to the ground:

Dresden was leveled by two formations of British Lancasteres during the night of Feb. 13 and by American B-17 bombers in a Feb. 14 daylight raid. The attack has been likened to Hiroshima because of the carnage and civilian casualties.

The British raids unleashed a firestorm that swallowed most of Dresden's famed architectural splendors, including the 18th-century Church Of Our Lady, the 16th-century Dresden Palace and the Semper Opera.

Bodies charred beyond recognition lay in city streets and rinsed in fountains, where people had sought vainly to escape the flames.

More corpses dangled from treetops.

The world has argued for five decades whether it was immoral to firebomb Dresden, a city with little military significance.

Many Germans see the firebombing as a war crime perpetrated by Sir Arthur Harris, wartime head of Britain's Bomber Command. The United States is usually spared criticism because the B-17s caused far less damage.

Many Britons defend Harris and counter that Hitler's Luftwaffe laid waste to Coventry and numerous other British cities.

Sunday's prayer service was an attempt to heal 50-year-old wounds. It was conducted jointly by Dresden Roman Catholic Bishop Joachim Reinelt, Bishop Simon Barrington-Ward of Coventry and Bishop Simon von Tichvin of St. Petersburg, Russia.

At the front of the altar, youths stood with wooden crosses bearing the names of some of the hundreds of cities where civilians were targeted during World War II.

During a prayer, Barrington-Ward asked that leaders around the world try harder to bring an end to warfare, hate and destruction.

MANDATORY MEETING

For all those interested in running for either Class Office or Student Senate or Off Campus Co-Presidents

Monday, February 13, 1995
7:30 p.m.
Foster Room
3rd Floor LaFortune

PERI ARNOLD

PROFESSOR OF GOVERNMENT

SPEAKS ON

"DO WE REALLY NEED GOVERNMENT?"

Wednesday, February 15
7:00 p.m.
at
St. Edward's Hall

Gingrich criticized by Iranians

By TERENCE PETTY
Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus
Speaker Newt Gingrich's call for the overthrow of the Iranian government was "stupid" and showed a "lack of mental equilibrium," Iranian officials said Sunday.

"The idea of attempting to change the Islamic system of government in Iran is stupid," the speaker of Iran's parliament, Ali Akbar Nateq-Nouri, was quoted by the official Islamic Republic News Agency as saying.

Mahmoud Mohammad, spokesman for Iran's foreign ministry, said Gingrich's remarks betrayed a "lack of mental equilibrium," according to the news agency, monitored in Cyprus.

Gingrich said last week that the United States should ultimately aim to topple the Islamic fundamentalist regime in Tehran to combat the Islamic extremism spreading through the Muslim world and threatening the West.

The United States lists Iran as a rogue state that supports terrorism and is striving, with limited success, to isolate it economically to curb a major rearmament program under way.

Iranian officials said several million people shouting "Death to America" marched through the streets of Tehran on Saturday to celebrate the 16th anniversary of the founding of the Islamic republic after the overthrow of the U.S.-backed dictator, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.
Hearing dog aids students at Appalachian State

By MARCY DINUS
Assistant Campus Editor

At Appalachian State University, senior Jason Graves was not sure of how he would continue his music major after he was no longer able to able to accommodate his hearing impairment. As for Beamer, she seems to enjoy the hearing life she leads. "He really likes the music. He enjoys playing when we play," Graves said.

While writing a piece for the college's newspaper, Graves decided to take a short break from his studies to sit and reflect on what was learned. The writing process encourages students to "real-life" situations and helps them develop the critical skills outside of academia, he said.

The combined processes of goal-setting, participating in a performance evaluation, and composing a reflective essay about what was learned during the course, as well as making connections between the classroom and life, are skills that help people live full lives in a world of rapid changes and make a positive impact on society.

The service record, which builds on a decade of research in linking work and learning, has been generally viewed as mutually exclusive, unique in higher education. While many universities may talk about the importance of an internship or community service component to, at least, partially satisfy graduation requirement, many have not yet made their own connections between the classroom and life, and the required coursework to make the required coursework more than simply document what happened. The writing process encourages students to make their own connections between the classroom and life, and the required coursework to make the required coursework more than simply document what happened. The writing process encourages students to make their own connections between the classroom and life, and the required coursework to make the required coursework more than simply document what happened.

"That's not to say we've finished the process and can go back to some other business. Work still needs to be done," said Maslach. "Women here were excited when we hit the teens; now we're beginning to see an increase," said Christina Maslach, faculty advisor and a professor of social psychology.

One-third of associate professors is women. At the level of full professor, 14 percent are women.

Overall, the percentage of women in tenured faculty has gone from 13 to 18 percent in the past four years. Faculty from minority groups has risen to 12.5 percent of all tenured faculty, up from 10 percent in 1990.

"We need to say we've finished the process and can go back to some other business. Work still needs to be done," she said. Compared to other leading universities, however, they are behind in gender balance.

By KATHY HAUSMANN
Assistant Campus Editor

The number of women faculty members at UC Berkeley has increased by 276, while the number of female professors has grown by 303 of 1,428 faculty members are women, accounting for 21 percent of the faculty.

"Women here were excited when we hit the teens; now we're beginning to see an increase," said Christina Maslach, faculty advisor and a professor of social psychology.

One-third of associate professors is women. At the level of full professor, 14 percent are women.

Overall, the percentage of women in tenured faculty has gone from 13 to 18 percent in the past four years. Faculty from minority groups has risen to 12.5 percent of all tenured faculty, up from 10 percent in 1990.

"We need to say we've finished the process and can go back to some other business. Work still needs to be done," she said. Compared to other leading universities, however, they are behind in gender balance.

By KATHY HAUSMANN
Assistant Campus Editor

The number of women faculty members at UC Berkeley has increased by 276, while the number of female professors has grown by 303 of 1,428 faculty members are women, accounting for 21 percent of the faculty.

"Women here were excited when we hit the teens; now we're beginning to see an increase," said Christina Maslach, faculty advisor and a professor of social psychology.

One-third of associate professors is women. At the level of full professor, 14 percent are women.

Overall, the percentage of women in tenured faculty has gone from 13 to 18 percent in the past four years. Faculty from minority groups has risen to 12.5 percent of all tenured faculty, up from 10 percent in 1990.

"We need to say we've finished the process and can go back to some other business. Work still needs to be done," she said. Compared to other leading universities, however, they are behind in gender balance.

By KATHY HAUSMANN
Assistant Campus Editor

The number of women faculty members at UC Berkeley has increased by 276, while the number of female professors has grown by 303 of 1,428 faculty members are women, accounting for 21 percent of the faculty.

"Women here were excited when we hit the teens; now we're beginning to see an increase," said Christina Maslach, faculty advisor and a professor of social psychology.

One-third of associate professors is women. At the level of full professor, 14 percent are women.

Overall, the percentage of women in tenured faculty has gone from 13 to 18 percent in the past four years. Faculty from minority groups has risen to 12.5 percent of all tenured faculty, up from 10 percent in 1990.

"We need to say we've finished the process and can go back to some other business. Work still needs to be done," she said. Compared to other leading universities, however, they are behind in gender balance.
Well another student government election has come and gone and soon we'll all be feeling the effects and ramifications of our collective decisions of this past week.

Watching our beloved student democracy in action always renews my faith not only in the underlying republican principles on which our society is based but also in humanity itself.

Yeah, right.

Chris Kratovil

ND politics mean fraudulent campaign promises

Having just endured my second Notre Dame Student Government campaign election I am forced to ask myself the question "Is there a more frivolly self-centered process known to man?" Granted almost all democratic elections have an element of artificially and overwrought new extreme.

Perhaps the most striking feature of this past week was the absence of any real substance in the election, at least nothing of substance that I new extreme. Known to many? Granted almost all the elections is the act of promising something you know you can not deliver. In the week before the ballots are cast student government is purportedly capable of liberating us from final exams, cutting deals with the FCL over assigned broadcast frequencies and host stock III at Stephans. With, of course, the Grateful Dead headed band, transforming the very nature of person-to-person relations on campus, establishing some sort of bureaucratic off-campus student housing zone/security perimeter and quite possibly beating NASA to the punch and landing the first human beings on Mars (OK...I don't think anybody actually promised that last one but it was probably implied at some point).

There is now a well defined trend—if not nascent tradition—of making borderline absurdist promises during the course of their presidential campaign which leads me to believe that one of two things—neither of them desirable—is going on within the minds of our candidates.

One possibility is that they are so under-informed and naive as to the actual nature of their office they are pursuing that they themselves believe that their hyperactive rhetoric can be translated into reality (e.g. as seems to have been the case with the sincere but in retrospect utterly silly promise of last year's winners, to bring the Dead to our campus).

The other even less appealing possibility is that the office seekers are so possessed of ambition that they are willing to, like professional politicians so often do, simply tell people what they want to hear for the purpose of winning votes and padding their resumes for law school.

Hence, we are offered an appealing choice between naivety and outright fraud—the only applicable word for the act of promising something you know you can not deliver.

prime responsibility is to improve individual social lives and entertain-

ND politics mean fraudulent campaign promises

relational culture of our campus through working with the student body and the administration, as a vehicle for presenting our concerns and as an instrument for fostering mutual respect between faculty, students and administrators.

Student government lapses into irrelevance and irresponsibility when it conducts itself as an over funded party planning commission, a haven for individuals looking to pad their transcripts and/or a mostly ceremonial body used as a mere tool for University public relations (e.g. just open the promotional brochure to a certain page and see a picture of the Press and VP in front of the Dome, etc.).

In terms of demonstrable authority the student body presidency is an almost impotent office; every action is subject to veto by the administration and the administration has the right to shut down the entire operation if they were ever given sufficient provocation. However, the job in question is also the most visible and potentially vocal position available to an undergraduate at this university.

Thus if properly used as a "bolly pulpit," the presidency offers the potential for considerable influence. IP and Dennis campaigned and won upon the platform of becoming the "voice of ND." I wish them every suc-

success in their effort to transform student government from a breeding ground of cynicism into a serious advocate for our interests and concerns.

Christopher Kratovil's column appears every other Monday. He can be reached via e-mail at Christopher.D.Kratovil.10@nd.edu.
Dear Editor:

Accordingly 50 gay and lesbian NH and SMC alumni celebrated the first Winter Party on Jan. 29th, hosted by the Chicago Chapter of the Gay and Lesbian Alumni/ae of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. The event did not know about the gay student group from meeting in the counseling center. When the Associated Press interviewed the organizers, a number of them said that the story nationwide, many of us read this news in the Chicago Tribune, Boston Globe, and Philadelphia Inquirer.

We cannot believe that university officials did not know about the gay student group's meeting on campus for years. More importantly, what is wrong about this group's meeting on campus for years. University and college officials dare not consider her gay and lesbian students to be a four year institution, continuing to fail Notre Dame's Lesbian and Gay students, through this administration continues to fail Notre Dame's Lesbian and Gay students, according to The Observer. Like everybody knows that human dignity is vital to all students on campus. And how can one know and love God in the abstract, if one does not accept oneself and love another in the same reality of every day existence? Few of us are called to celibacy—even in the religious life, as the Church is now discovering.

My real concern is for the present students on campus. The Administration's actions are cruel, inhumane, morally repugnant, and will probably cost lives. As Andrew Sullivan illustrated during his recent campus appearance, the Church refuses to accept the fact, that will eventually run through the Church, Faith in God Himself, the Holy Spirit, and in particular, through the Bible. Granted, this may be "outmoded religious thinking," but what do we have without religion?

As Tolstoy wrote in Commentaries on the Orthodox Church, left God, he found nothing. Life was devoid of meaning. Nihilism says as much. Nihilism being a concept, we may not of our faith, that I presume the author of the letter would prefer to Aquinas or Augustine. Without God, with a soul, the human being has no dignity. This is not mutually exclusive. In point of fact, they are correlative. How can one know and love God in the abstract, if one does not accept oneself and love another in the same reality of every day existence? Few of us are called to celibacy—even in the religious life, as the Church is now discovering.

Andrew Sullivan said during his recent campus appearance, the Church has significantly failed her faithful twice in this century—during the Holocaust and during the AIDS pandemic. By adding to the pain, isolation, and conflict, the Administration continues to fail Notre Dame's Lesbian and Gay students, through this shameful ignorance, intolerance, discrimination, and on-Churchlike behavior.

David Paris
Claremont, CA

Monday, February 13, 1995

Dear Editor:

With deep sadness and dismay, I learned of the recent expulsion of the Gay and Lesbian students from the Counseling Center by the administration. As a gay student who has been hiding the knowledge of my identity all felt on campus as I struggled to accept my sexuality and my commitment to a strong Christian life and in order to heal that felt that the two are not mutually exclusive. In point of fact, they are correlative. How can one know and love God in the abstract, if one does not accept oneself and love another in the same reality of every day existence? Few of us are called to celibacy—even in the religious life, as the Church is now discovering.

My real concern is for the present students on campus. The Administration's actions are cruel, inhumane, morally repugnant, and will probably cost lives. As Andrew Sullivan illustrated during his recent campus appearance, the Church refuses to accept the fact, that will eventually run through the Church, Faith in God Himself, the Holy Spirit, and in particular, through the Bible. Granted, this may be "outmoded religious thinking," but what do we have without religion?

As Tolstoy wrote in Commentaries on the Orthodox Church, left God, he found nothing. Life was devoid of meaning. Nihilism says as much. Nihilism being a concept, we may not of our faith, that I presume the author of the letter would prefer to Aquinas or Augustine. Without God, with a soul, the human being has no dignity. This is not mutually exclusive. In point of fact, they are correlative. How can one know and love God in the abstract, if one does not accept oneself and love another in the same reality of every day existence? Few of us are called to celibacy—even in the religious life, as the Church is now discovering.

Andrew Sullivan said during his recent campus appearance, the Church has significantly failed her faithful twice in this century—during the Holocaust and during the AIDS pandemic. By adding to the pain, isolation, and conflict, the Administration continues to fail Notre Dame's Lesbian and Gay students, through this shameful ignorance, intolerance, discrimination, and on-Churchlike behavior.

David Paris
Claremont, CA

Monday, February 13, 1995

Dear Editor:

The letter to the editor titled "Community voices support for gays" was published in the Friday, Feb. 3, raised two central issues concerning the treatment of gay and lesbian students: that their basic dignity as human beings was being denied at the University, that the university's pursuit of the issue on religious ideology should be abandoned in order to have only轮胎 dignity to all people.

This second issue is particularly disturbing, as it calls into question the very heart of the education of Notre Dame. How can a Catholic university abandon its religious heritage on this issue? Moreover, how can a university, professing Faith in God and the Church, Faith in God Himself, be at odds with human dignity? Is God wrong? Is the Church wrong?

Does the University deny the human dignity of homosexuals and lesbians? I do not think a single participant thus far in the debate has denied, nor does it deny, the basic dignity of any human being. Gay and lesbian students have the same right to value and respect her gay attitudes and policies because it is at Notre Dame refuses to accept the fact, that will eventually run through the Church, Faith in God Himself, the Holy Spirit, and in particular, through the Bible. Granted, this may be "outmoded religious thinking," but what do we have without religion?

As Tolstoy wrote in Commentaries on the Orthodox Church, left God, he found nothing. Life was devoid of meaning. Nihilism says as much. Nihilism being a concept, we may not of our faith, that I presume the author of the letter would prefer to Aquinas or Augustine. Without God, with a soul, the human being has no dignity. This is not mutually exclusive. In point of fact, they are correlative. How can one know and love God in the abstract, if one does not accept oneself and love another in the same reality of every day existence? Few of us are called to celibacy—even in the religious life, as the Church is now discovering.

Andrew Sullivan said during his recent campus appearance, the Church has significantly failed her faithful twice in this century—during the Holocaust and during the AIDS pandemic. By adding to the pain, isolation, and conflict, the Administration continues to fail Notre Dame's Lesbian and Gay students, through this shameful ignorance, intolerance, discrimination, and on-Churchlike behavior.

David Paris
Claremont, CA

Monday, February 13, 1995
Compassion marks the real "silent majority"
The Quick and the Dead: Breaking the gender barrier

By HEATHER GORMAN

"The best advice I could give a twenty year old is study. Read. Live more lives than your own, then make your own." California Cooper has definitely lived more lives than her own through her literary works. They are a culmination of her experiences and second-hand observations. One must delve into the person of J. California Cooper in order to understand the importance of the worldwide human community.

California Cooper carries the innocence of the dolls into her life as well as into her stories. She leads a simple life in a green house in eastern Texas. She says, "I know God loves me, the color green, because I a green in the world is green." She carries this simplicity into her stories and remains as one of the most down to earth writers today.

But she "guards her privacy." She feels that she is a woman of the earth whose experiences are grounded on earth. She says, "it is my time to discover experience, think, read, or create. She rarely inquires about others that stay at her home. In an odd way people are an influence to my thoughts and how I view life, which with she has become so enchanted. It is from this solitude that her many remarkable stories have come.

Most of California Cooper's writing takes place in the beginning when the characters seem to come into her full of life and three dimensional. Most of her writing is done in longhand. Her thoughts, and she vows to never lose and eliminate her handwriting. She always keeps an old six-shooter that is her weapon of choice. After her death, her son, who also is a writer, will keep the gun in a safe. She wants her writing to continue where she left off.

Most of the characters in her stories are women. She feels that women are the best ones to write about because they are the best ones to write about. She says, "I write in the moments that I have and the moments that I have yet to come." She has written a series of short stories that have been published in various magazines and newspapers. The most recent is "In Search of Homemade Love." Among her most prominent works include "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life." She has written books on Mexico, "The American Lion Association's Book Award for Homemade Love." She has also written a novel that tells of her ancestors, "Matter is Life."
Mark Leyner: A postmodern Wunderkind speaks

By JOSH OSERSKY
Staff Writer

"Mather is strapped to a gurney about to be executed by lethal injection, when the phone rings." Thus starts Mark Leyner's latest novel-in-progress, read to a capacity audience at the Academy of Music Auditorium on a freezing Saturday night, February 13, 1993, by the postmodern Wunderkind whose tales of illegal growth hormone, debonair scientists, and restaurants that serve moose and sardines are on the menu tampona and methane mixed in the presence of lightening at the Hesburgh Library on Saturday night at the Sophomore Literary Festival and granted the following interview to Observer columnist (and fellow Hobokenite) Josh Ozersky.

What are your favorite medical journals?

I've fallen a bit out of touch, but I like the go-to-ad agency where I used to work and go through their used bin. I like the emergency room magazines. That's a specialty of mine.

You don't write too much about emergency medicine, though. You write more, like, autobiographically.

I think you're right. Part of the reason is that I'm in the new work, part of his last words are a job he once had with a gur- and a woman came in and the top of her skull was gone, and the kind of looked like a hard boiled egg with the top of the shell cut off. And it was a very beautiful flower that grew right out of the brain. So I can have this whole conversation about what sort of... She says to him, "Look, I'm sick of having these bangs falling over my frontal lobes every day. What can we do?"

I suppose I am more interested in pathology. And I like pathologists, and I like to say. They don't have to be forefront. I think that you just have a personal reason for enjoying — enjoying "may" be a little too strong a word.

What about biology journals?

Because there's also a lot about animals, like the shrimp in My Cousin, My Gastroenterologist that can only live in 660- sulfur water.

That came from Nature, I think, which is a British journal. I don't by any means do an exhaustive search of these magazines...

I think it's really fascinating that that aspect of my work still strikes me. Because just not what people expect in fiction, but there's this whole gulf in our culture between that kind of language, that expertise, and what the medical profession is allowed to know, that it still seems like the most esoteric, preventable, and what a terrible thing to lose in the world to people. Unfortunately.

When I was growing up, there were women using it with each other, or you at a bar and we hear, "You should learn a little bit of language that we thought was so important to knowing how to be, or how to legitimate or to manipulate each other intimately, that's what I think the main point of the things that my work is about. Once I was in a little tiny medical jargon, it's most interesting and most funny if its put into the mouth of the people who are just speaking to someone else. And they're trying to explain what they feel, and they're using some image that they do, through RNA transcription or something. It's like a nucleoside is drawn to a protein base, and there's nothing either of them can do, you know. You can't create a chain of amino acids that will eventually be something, and they'll wake up and go, "Can't you see, Bill?" You know

Did you just make that up?

Yeah, I'm reading an article in Scientific American about RNA polymers transcription.

I notice that jargon is very big tool with computer guys. There's no real authority except if you know those words.

Are you sympathetic to that position? Because I would imagine with the person to want everything translated into colloquial English.

I think there should be a certain arsiness. I mean, I'm not a democrat, necessarily, but I think there should be people who know things that other people don't know. I think if you get mad at someone because they don't understand you when you're speaking that way, you are an idiot. That's what happens with computer people. The trouble with computer people is that they are seeing the same thing, they were incomprehensible. So you'd have these dermatological tragedies walking around looking for someone to talk to using this impenetrable jargon, and the whole spectacle was full of pathos.

Do you thing growing up and growing up through William Burroughs was interesting or not?

Yeah, I think that in many ways I am the quintessential smart wiser kid who knows a little bit about everything that is going on. He knows the hands, he knows the science stuff, history, he's just absolutely knowledgeable. Just enough to wow people at the dinner table. The dinner table, a Snark, a talkie, a small kid is the arena where you hold court, where you hold forth. That's where you cut your teeth in my background. It's a big family gathering, where there are going to be a lot of smart people around, who is a little bit of fun. And then I think that the origin of all this stuff.

What about the time in which you grew up? You're Eighty-nine, right?

The times in which I grew up, in which this type of polygamy liberal education education was pretty much a normal. Not just the same person who knew who the coolest bands were or the oldest, the kinds of people I'd heard about Watson and Crick and their DNA research. That didn't seem odd, in the milieu I was growing up in. And then certainly as a perfect teen- age me. And kids today aren't as lucky. When I was a teenager, it was normal to hear of one of the rock stars you loved talk about Sex or something.

Yeah? Like who?

When Brian Jones died, Mick Jagger read a Shelley poem in Hyde Park before a concert. Though it was a hit of music, and the coverage too, since building Stone was a very differ- ent magazine. And it was opened avenues that were endless. I think the one time our friendship was through William Burroughs through Jimmy Page, because some Burroughs was inter- ested that Jimmy Page lived in Aluria Country's impostion in England. I don't know that that happens so much anymore. I don't know if Jimi Hendrix died, one of the other members of Guns N' Roses, he was a Matthew Arnold poem or something.

I was talking about watching Willie Wonka with your daughter, so you think you'll ever end up working any of that stuff into a book? Some- thing with the Oompa Loompa maybe?

My daughter calls that movie "Oompa Loompa." She doesn't call it Willie Wonka. That won't happen. She says, I want to watch something on television. So you want to see Oompa Loompa. It's sort of like Pret a Porter, and "Ready to Wear" in parenthesis. My copy of the video says Oompa Loompa and then "Willie Wonka" below. Some day want to do something for chil- dren. Right now I have a movie project, that's an adult movie project that could easily be a children's movie project.

An adult movie project? Like, an adult movie?

Not a adult movie, like you're thinking. With Vanessa Del Rio.

Yeah? Like who?

It think the kids would love it. I think kids would love the image of a woman getting her hair done, with the hair growing directly out of her brain, and she looks like a hard boiled egg. But I don't know if their parents would think it was too grotesque for their kids.

How much has your work been influenced by television?

Yeah, I don't think there's much that's really good on TV. I don't think it's influenced my love of language or the way I write. It's influenced the form of my work, by which I mean. TV is very hyperkinetic, with a lot of information packed in. I think specifically commercials. The form of commercials, I think that growing up with that has had an effect on all of us, on the way we process informa- tion, and the way we look at art. It's very difficult for people who have grown up with that to read 18th and 19th century literature, for instance. It seems so slow and tedious sometimes. Does John Austin have to describe a baw- lister for five pages? All of us who have grown up since the late fifties have this attention span problem because of this electronic environment we have grown up in. When I first start- ed, you get a reader reading seri- ously, I thought it would be wonderful to try to fabricate a kind of work that a reader couldn't skip anything. Here was the sort of thinking some frequently that readers couldn't skip ahead to see what was happening soon. The happening is ongoing and constant. You should be able to open my book at any page and find something enjoyable.

Josh Ozersky also writes a regular column for Viewpoint every Thursday.

"People think I'm a drug-crazed, cyberpunk version of Hunter Thompson."

It came as something of a surprise to discover that Martha Stewart's August 3 birth- day/housewarming party in East Hampton was merely a pretense to meet me—and not simply to meet me, but to gather material for her adorable profile entitled "Totally Brilliant...Totally Buff" which appeared in the September issue of Conde Nast Traveler, and from which the foregoing is excerpted. After all, I'm a ruthless, corrupt, self- indulgent hypocrite; an opportunist, compulsive womanizer, liar, bulbous and ampheta- mine addict. I approach a helpless effete antelope who's lying in the grass stupidly licking the gelatin that oozes from her hooves. Yet sometimes fiction is such doleful prey to my depredations that it sickens me, and I feel like abandoning it to the hye- nas and focusing my creative powers exclusively on poetry.

Both excerpts taken from "Et Tu, Babe," by Harmony Books.
Associated Press

NO B A

page 14 The Observer

silly. Like Shaquille O'Neal try­ing Olajuwon mak­ing one.

TUCSON, Ariz. The only points of the game by K.C. Roberts — with 1.6 sec­onds on the clock for Arizona and a California 74-72 upset over the Golden Bears, the Bears' sec­ond takedown of a Pac-10 team this season.

On C alifornia a 74-72 upset

Cal outlasts Arizona and tied the game twice. The Bears were not ready in this one, falling behind by 16 at halftime. A 3-pointer by Joe Dumars made it 79-69 with 6:18 left in the third quarter. O'Neal grabbed a rebound, dribbled the floor and passed to the basket, too. Then he fouled and cut the lead to eight.

That was as close as the East got. The West proceeded to outscore the East 12-10. Rik Mon­ don made the lead with two points, including two 3-point­ers. And the Bears' bench had sparse­ly been involved in the game.

The West was up 104-81, and that was all. No Bears started going around, and I think the crowd was a bit disappointed. But it got back on track.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Laramie and from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Hagar Center College. Dead­line for next-day classifieds is 5 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.

Silly. Like Shaquille O'Neal try­ing Olajuwon making one.

Arizona, the Golden Bears' sec­ond takedown of a Pac-10 team this season.

Arizona's long-in-bounds pass was not accepted, but Monty Buck­ley traveled. Given another chance, Arizona in­bounded from half-court with 1:11 remaining. But Blair couldn't get off a shot before the buzzer.

Arizona (18-5, 8-3 PAC-10) fell two points behind place­ment for the Bears, who knocked off Arizona at home for the second straight game. Cal built on its 41-32 halftime lead, scoring four of its first 16 shots in the second half, and trailed 55-38 with 15:15 left before going on its run.

The Bears were not ready in this one, falling behind by 16 at halftime. A 3-pointer by Joe Dumars made it 79-69 with 6:18 left in the third quarter. O'Neal grabbed a rebound, dribbled the floor and passed to the basket, too. Then he fouled and cut the lead to eight.

That was as close as the East got. The West proceeded to outscore the East 12-10. Rick Mond made the lead with two points, including two 3-point­ers. And the Bears' bench had sparse­ly been involved in the game.

The West was up 104-81, and that was all. No Bears started going around, and I think the crowd was a bit disappointed. But it got back on track.

C L IM B I N G  W A L L  S C H E D­ U L E

The climbing wall is currently open for use. The hours will be Sundays 2:00-5:00 and Wednesdays 7:00-10:00. The climbing wall is located in the Rockne Memorial Student Center. The wall is in­terested in using it as match team. For more info call Resports.

WANTED

Spring Break Bahamas Party Charlie Bar

Palm Beach, Miami, West Palm Beach & Miami Beach's Best Beach House Party Featuring: Ryan, D.J. Top 40, Beachfront Location, Pool, Hot Tub, BBQ, and More.

Oh man, you already had 104. Why? Math is a hard subject.

In the fourth quarter, things started to fall apart and the crowd lost interest before some binkies by Barkley woke them up. A time­out with 3:50 left, the Suns' gorilla mascot had the crowd roaring when Barkley wanted to join the fun. But as he took the ball in the west corner, Jurick held him back. Ma­jere pulled him back, and West coach Wes Paul climbed ran­ging on the court to stop him. Too.

After the East, for the Orlando Ana­heimers and Chicago's Scottie Pippen had 12 and ap­ache, and Hardaway added 11. Pam­mier, and his Pistons teammate, rookie Grant Hill, had 10.

After the East took the lead, 117-118, the deciding last year at Minneapo­lis, the West won for the third time in four years.

FRIGHTENED

As the Observer vue classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Laramie and from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Hagar Center College. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 5 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Laramie and from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Hagar Center College. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 5 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.

FRIGHTENED

As the Observer vue classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 Laramie and from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Hagar Center College. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 5 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.
Huskies upward bound

By JIM O'CONNELL
Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N.Y.

Connecticut is in its second year on top of the Big East. With Sunday's 77-70 victory over No. 10 Syracuse, the third-ranked Huskies have set themselves up for a chance at being No. 1 in the country and part of college basketball history.

The Huskies (19-1, 12-0) extended their own conference record with 17 consecutive regular-season victories and a victory it solidifies our spot on top. "It feels good," guard Kevin Ollie said of the possible leap to the top of the rankings Monday, it would be the first time teams from the same school have occupied the No. 1 spot in both polls. The Connecticut women's team (21-0) has been No. 1 since beating No. 10 Syracuse, the third-of-the-Big East. With Sunday's 77-70 victory over No. 10 Syracuse, the third-of-the Big East. That is the thing we have to take care of first.

Connecticut won the league last season with a 16-2 record and its only loss this season was an 88-59 thrashing by Kansas in Kansas City, Mo.

"We lost the Kansas game but got more focused," said Ray Allen, who led the Huskies with 18 points Sunday and was a big part of the effort to stop Syracuse's Lawrence Moten. "Once we get here we knew what we had to do be No. 1. This is a real tough place to play. When you play here and come out with a victory it solidifies our spot on top."

The victory gave the Huskies a two-game lead over Syracuse (17-4, 10-2), which it beat 86-75 earlier in the season. That game was a 25-point turnaround in the final 11 minutes.

Falcons fight off Bobcats in MAC match-up

By JIM O'CONNELL
Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN

Shane Kline-Ruminski scored 22 points and had 10 rebounds to lead Bowling Green to a 75-64 lead, one corner of the crowd of 31,211 at the Carrier Dome began shouting "We're No. 1."

Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun, who said the No. 1 ranking didn't matter to him, removed his starters with 2.9 seconds left and hugged Marshall as the senior left the floor. When the game ended, Marshall stood alone at midcourt with one finger raised high above his head.

Falcons upward bound

By JIM O'CONNELL
Associated Press

Syracuse's Lawrence Moten was able to muster 17 points, going 7 of 10 from the field, as the Orangemen were shut down by a tough Connecticut team.

Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim said. "In the Kentucky game (a 77-71 loss last Sunday) and this game we played as well defensively as we're going to play. Offensively, we had good opportunities and didn't connect on them and that's the bottom line in both games."

Donny Marshall and Knight added 15 points each for Connecticut, which finished 2-fore-11 from 3-point range and 28-fore-68 overall (41 percent).

Syracuse was about the same, going 4-for-18 on 3-pointers and 30-for-73 overall (41 percent).

"They missed shots but we made them miss shots," Marshall said. "We fought on every basket and every defensive possession."

Moten, who came into the game needing 20 points to surpass Derrick Coleman as the school's career scoring leader, finished with 17 on 7-for-18 shooting, 2-of-9 from 3-point range.

"The shots were good. They just weren't falling," said Moten, who has 2,141 points. "We missed too many easy hoops. You just can't do that against a good team."

Allen, Ollie and Daron Sheffer spent the day covering Moten.

"We didn't want the game to be stopped," Ollie said of keeping Moten from getting the school mark. "He'd get the ball and all that stuff. That gets them juiced up and gets the crowd going. We really didn't want it to happen to us."

When Sheffer made two free throws with 29 seconds left to give Connecticut a 75-64 lead, one corner of the crowd of 31,211 at the Carrier Dome began shouting "We're No. 1."

Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun, who said the No. 1 ranking didn't matter to him, removed his starters with 2.9 seconds left and hugged Marshall as the senior left the floor. When the game ended, Marshall stood alone at midcourt with one finger raised high above his head.

If you see sports happening, call The Observer. 631-4543
Indiana upsets Purdue

By STEVE HERMAN
Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. Charlie Miller has found his shooting touch and his confidence.

"It's the way I should have been playing the whole time. That's all I really have to say," the Indiana freshman said Monday after scoring a season-high 21 points in an 82-73 victory over No. 25-ranked Purdue.

Miller, averaging only 4.9 points on 41 percent shooting going into the game, hit 9-of-11 shots, including both his 3-point attempts, as the Hoosiers snapped Purdue's six-game winning streak and kept alive their own slim Big Ten title hopes.

"That's the way I told myself I had to do it. We really have to work on consistency as far as myself, and the team also," Miller said. "We just want to win these next seven games to get into the NCAA (tourney)." Miller said. "We just want to win these next seven games to get into the NCAA (tourney)."

The 6-foot-7 Miller, whose best previous game was 16 points against Northwestern, had 12 points in the final 10 minutes after that.

"It's hard for me to compliment IU, but they did a great job on defense," Purdue coach Gene Keady said.

"I thought Miller was a big player. He might be the most improved player on their team," said Gaddis.

Despite the losses, the team is hopeful. The offensive is keeping the plays going and the team attitudes are rising.

Indiana's top scorer was forward Alan Henderson, who hit 8-of-10 shots and had 26 points and a game-high 11 rebounds despite foul trouble in the second half.

"I knew I couldn't help the team at all sitting on the bench with 10 minutes to go in the game. So I tried to be cautious, maybe didn't go after a couple blocks I normally would have tried to get," Henderson said.

"That's something to work on, staying out of foul trouble," Jennings added 15 points and Brandon Brantley 13 for the Boilermakers.

"I just wanted to come out and play, because in the first half they made every look for me real tough," Martin said.

"They were switching and I probably only touched the ball four or five times in the first half. When they went to that zone, we had guys in the middle start flashing, and that kind of opened it up for us a little bit."

Indiana (14-9, 6-5 Big Ten) never trailed, but lost its big lead early in the second half when Purdue (16-6, 7-3) started hitting 3-point shots.

Conozzo Martin, held to one point in the first half, had five 3-pointers in the second half and finished with 20 points for the Boilermakers. A 3-pointer by Chad Austin pulled Purdue within 51-46, then two minutes later a fast-break slam by Justin Jennings brought Purdue within 55-52.

That's when Miller took over. He hit a 3-pointer to put the Hoosiers up 58-52, then after a free throw by Purdue's Roy Hairston, Indiana scored again on a basket by Brian Evans and a layup by Miller.

The Hoosiers continued widening the lead, and Purdue never came closer than seven after that.

"It's the way I told myself to compliment IU, but they did a great job on defense," Purdue coach Gene Keady said.

"I thought Miller was a big player. He might be the most improved player on their team," said Gaddis.

Despite the losses, the team is hopeful. The offensive is keeping the plays going and the team attitudes are rising.

Belles struggling to win

BY KARA MASUCI
Sports Writer

Yesterday, the Saint Mary's basketball team lost to Marian College by four at home. The final score was 74-69, bringing their record to 5-12. The leading scorers were junior forward Jennie Taubenheim and sophomore forward Marianne Banko.

The Belles have been working out of a slump since last Tuesday when, according to sophomore Sarah Kopperud, the team's mental attitude diminished. This problem is what affected the Belles Thursday night when they lost to USB by four points.

"Last Tuesday we felt apart team wise. Everyone was thinking differently and the offense was not running the plays. Also, we weren't making the free throws," stated Kopperud. Due to these problems, the Belles have been working on free throw shooting and new defense tactics in practice. This seems to be bringing the team back together.

"We played a special defense on Thursday night that didn't work as well as we thought it would. Yesterday, we played a 1-3-1 defense. However, we didn't get on the middle player. So, she was able to get in second and third shots," stated sophomore forward Kay Lalli.

"However, our five shooting was stronger at times. So, that proves that our practice is helping," Lalli added.

According to junior forward and guard Lori Gaddis, the free throw shooting at yesterday's game was one of the biggest problems contributing to the loss.

"Free throws were one of the most frustrating parts of the game. We got into a bit of foul trouble in the second half. The other team seemed to make every shot. While, we couldn't make any shots from the line," said Gaddis.

Despite the losses, the team is hopeful. The offensive is keeping the plays going and the team attitudes are rising.

GRAND OPENING

Trasuro's
Fine Jewelry • Accessories • Estate Jewelry

Valentine's Day Special Jewelry Sale

Located Across From Tracks on St. Rd. 23
2030 South Bend Ave.
South Bend, IN
273-1041
Hours: Sat. 10-2
M & T 10-6
Wildcats continued from page 20

Justice steal. Maybe a dunk by Marcus Young picked up two quick game with a sprained ankle, bucket from semi-healthy Keith Marcus Young. I 'erhaps even a continued from page 20 back.

Instead, the reality was much more grim. Hoover left the game with a sprained ankle, Young picked up two quick fouls, Williams was a non-fac-tor, and the Wildcats continued their explosion, stretching the lead relentlessly.

"We may have seen the No. 1 team in the country today," stated an obviously awed Irish head coach John MacLeod after the game. "They basically toyed with us for a while."

The Wildcats finished with six players in double figures, led by junior forward Walter McCarty, who scored 17 of his game high 20 points in the first half.

"We were very unselfish on offense, but it was our defense that was spectacular at all levels," stated Kentucky coach Rick Pitino.

Indeed, the stifling Wildcats man-to-man wreaked havoc with the Irish half court set. Notre Dame shot a miserable 23% from the field while committing 23 turnovers.

"When a team shoots such a low percentage, there are going to be a lot of offensive rebounds," explained Pitino.

Dohrmann continued from page 20

eighth-man. They're as good as the three or the one or the two on the Irish roster. But then I guess that's the problem. The Wildcats' No. 8 is Antonie Walker, after the game Pitino called him the most talented player he's had since Jamal Mashburn. Big problems.

Fans were painfully reminded of Notre Dame's mediocrity each time the Irish crossed half court. For as stingy as the Kentucky press can be, it was not the falling for the blue and gold. The press wasn't that bad, but once we got into our half court offense we got careless with the ball," senior guard Lammart Justice said. "That was what killed us."

Not-so-obvious reminders of better days floated around the Joyce ACC like snow flurries. LaPhonso Ellis sat behind the Irish bench recalling the days of dunks and flurries. LaPhonso Ellis sat behind the Irish bench recalling the days of dunks and flurries.

Moving one day, Notre Dame might find it has his team ready for the NCAA's. Stylish Kentucky coach Rick Pitino

Protest continued from page 20

GLND/SMC. Notre Dame officials beefed up security as a precautionary measure. We're all concerned when we have a nationally televised game, but yes we did increase security a little more than we normally would," said Director of Security Rex Raskow. "It has been an unsettling week on campus.

At halftime of the game, ushers and security surrounded the court but were not confronted. Over 100 students staged a sit-in during the halftime of the University of Massachusetts-Rutgers game last week in protest of remarks made by the Rutgers president concerning the genetic background of minorities. He has since apologized for the remarks.

"It wasn't even under consideration. In fact, I'm a little insulted that the administration would think we would copy Rutgers," Blandford said. "I thought they would give us a little more credit that we could come up with something original."

RECYCLE THE OBSERVER

Country Florists & Gifts

Remember your sweetheart with the FTD

"Beary Valentine Bouquet"
or choose from one of our many in-house bouquets.

We deliver!

Charge by phone @ 291-3937

Heaven & Earth

A Dozen Carnations Boxed

$19.95

We Deliver Worldwide!

143 Dixie Way South (St. North)
273-2272

Tonight at 8 PM

in the Library Auditorium

"Cooper's stories dramatize the wages of sin and the reward of patience, as well as the occasional sweet taste of revenge..."

--Chicago Tribune
Opponents pack their bags

By KC GOYER

Sports Writer

So, what did you do this weekend?"

Ask the women's basketball team, and you'll hear about two more victories for one of the nation's hottest teams. On Friday night, the Irish sent their conference rival the Butler Bulldogs scurrying for the steal and finding the open player at both ends of the court. She finished the game with 8 points, 4 rebounds, and game highs in assists with 5 and steals with 4.

Fields was all hustle as she could be seen scrambling for the steal and finding the open player at both ends of the court. She finished the game with 8 points, 4 rebounds, and game highs in assists with 5 and steals with 4.

The turnaround came at 9:59 in the second half. The Irish had recovered from a three point deficit to play a bucket-take a bucket for three minutes. That's when Kari Hutchinson and Letitia Bowen came in, Fields hit the 'J' and the momentum took off. Letitia Bowen was her usual force on the court, and registered her third consecutive double-double on Friday with 12 points and 10 rebounds. "We rebounded better in the second half," Bowen said, "and we turned it up on defense."

In keeping her characteristically hot shooting from the field, Gaither was 9 of 13 on Friday night, finishing the game as the leading scorer with 18 points. Gaither's shooting was no small feat as she was guarded by her tallest opponent in the conference. Lieslie Schultz, a 6'5" senior, is Butler's leading scorer as well as the school's candidate for All-American honors.

On Sunday night, the Irish extended their winning streak to 8 games as they earned their 13th victory in 14 games. The University of Chicago-Illinois came in with a respectable 7-3 record, but was unable to improve it as Notre Dame won 73-57.

The Observer/ Ruethling
The Observer • TODAY

MOTHER GOOSE & GRIMM

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Iraeli port
6 "To - Ring"
10 Flattened circle
13 Fail flowers
15 Under the weather
16 Accumulation
17 It's lined with bars
18 Patriotic pop quartet
20 Brits
21 Snoozing
23 "Just a "
25 Failures
27 Leadership group
30 Pigging exams
31 Bay window

DOWN
11 1985 film "Williams"
12 Slacks
13 World's Fair
14 Yak, slang
15 Yale Bulldog
18 Raviol
19 Suzuki
21 Hot milk
22 Rachel's cattle
23 Lox
24 My Mind
25 Polar covering
26 Wax light
27 Yard sections
28 Comic Johnson
29 Java
30 J.B. on

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

This week's answer is "The Bottom." So the puzzle is: "What is at the bottom of a lake?"

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Israel
6 "To - Ring"
10 Flattened circle
13 Fail flowers
15 Under the weather
16 Accumulation
17 It's lined with bars
18 Patriotic pop quartet
20 Brits
21 Snoozing
23 "Just a "
25 Failures
27 Leadership group
30 Pigging exams
31 Bay window

DOWN
11 1985 film "Williams"
12 Slacks
13 World's Fair
14 Yak, slang
15 Yale Bulldog
18 Ravioli
19 Suzuki
21 Hot milk
22 Rachel's cattle
23 Lox
24 My Mind
25 Polar covering
26 Wax light
27 Yard sections
28 Comic Johnson
29 Java
30 J.B. on

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

This week's answer is "The Bottom." So the puzzle is: "What is at the bottom of a lake?"

The Observer

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Make checks payable: The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Enclosed is $60 for one academic year.
Enclosed is $35 for one semester.

Name ___________________________
Address _______________________
City ___________________________ State ______ Zip.

CLOSE TO HOME

JOHN M. PFERSON

DILBERT

CALVIN AND HOBBES

D M 1 A S

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

34 Bay window
32
23
21
20
Irritate
19 Palindromic
17 It's lined with bars
16 Accumulation
15 Fail flowers
14 Yak, slang
13 World's Fair
12 Slacks
11 It's lined with bars
10 Flattened circle
9 1985 film "Williams"
8 Scanner
7 That guy's name
6 Shape of St. Anthony's cross
5 Comic Johnson
4 "A-Team" star
3 Followers:
2 Central arteries
11 Feelings, in slang
10 Playwright
9 Yale Bulldog
8 Bake in sauce
7 That guy's name
6 Roof covering
5 Makes watertight
4 Yard sections
3 Comic Johnson
2 Shape of St. Anthony's cross
1 "A-Team" star

Puzzle by Sidney L. Robinson

Picture credit:贺喜浩洲

Phone numbers:
30 Mrs. in Madrid
29 Two-legged
28 Florida city
27 Over 21, liquorwise
26 Rolled up
25 "For heaven's sake!
24 Bunting cres
23 Impediment, at law
22 Computer capacity, for short
21 Comfy throwaways
20 Folksy Guthrie
19 Watch's face
18 Actor Alan
17 J.B.
16 Yard sections
15 Yale Bulldog
14 Yak, slang
13 World's Fair
12 Slacks
11 Feelings, in slang
10 Playwright
9 Draped sailor's call
8 Central arteries
7 Involved in revolts
6 Roof covering
5 Makes watertight
4 Yard sections
3 Comic Johnson
2 Shape of St. Anthony's cross
1 "A-Team" star

Take a first Aid class with the American Red Cross! We'll teach you what you need to know to save somebody you love. From choking, bleeding or dozens of other life threatening emergencies. Call your chapter of the American Red Cross today. And know it all.

American Red Cross

Bill Watterson

Scott Adams

Know It All

American Red Cross +

AMERICAN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN
NEWSPAPER AD NO. AR.46-S10-1-03

OF INTEREST

"Taking the Job Search Beyond Campus Interviews" is the topic of a Career and Placement Services workshop today from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room of LaFortune. Topics to be covered include identifying and contacting prospective employers, sending correspondence, appropriate follow-up techniques, and writing successful cover letters.

Menu

Notre Dame

NORTH
Jumbo Fish Sandwich
Torillini with basil
Cheese Sauce
Broccoli Spears

Salt Mary's
Roast Leg of Pork
Beef Risotto
Oven Browned Potatoes

SOUTH
Roast Top Round
Chicken Teriyaki
Mushroom Quiche

Take a first Aid class with the American Red Cross! We'll teach you what you need to know to save somebody you love. From choking, bleeding or dozens of other life threatening emergencies. Call your chapter of the American Red Cross today. And know it all.

American Red Cross
SPORTS

Monday, February 13, 1995

Men's Basketball

Wildcats prey on defense-less Irish

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Associate Sports Editor

The opportunity was there for the patented run, the stretch of streaky shooting and crazy bounces that has been the one consistency for an otherwise unpredictable Notre Dame men's basketball squad.

Trailing by 16 at the break in an eventual 97-58 dismantling at the hands of the No. 5 Kentucky Wildcats, the Irish were in position to get the apheretic Joyce Center crowd back into the game and turn the momentum.

The script should have read like this. A few Ryan Hoover three pointers. A Lamar Matushak scoring.

Mission accomplished. When Ohio State came to town this weekend for a pair of games at the Joyce Center Fieldhouse, the Notre Dame hockey team had just one thing on its mind: beat the Buckeyes to avoid finishing last place.

And the Irish did just that. In a series that had basement ownership on the line, Notre Dame came ready to play, whipping OSU 5-1 and 4-3 to all but secure a ninth place finish in the CCHA.

Although Friday night's game was dominated by the Irish from start to finish, it will be most remembered for a wild, bench clearing brawl that occurred midway through the third period. In all, nine players received penalties in the melee, including a one game suspension for Notre Dame left wing Terry Lorenz.

Notre Dame's last two losses have come by a total of 77. But it is unfair to compare Kentucky and the Irish unless your restricting your scope to the wardrobes of MacLeod and Kentucky coach Rick Pitino. (MacLeod wins going away).

Notre Dame doesn't have that problem either. The Irish boast either Pete Miller, Brian Watkins, or Derrick Manner as their own set of canines.

---

Women's Basketball

The women's basketball team swept both Butler and UIC over the weekend.

---

Hockey

Friday night at the fights

Matushak scoring, brawl highlight successful weekend

By MICHAEL DAY
Sports Writer

Notre Dame Security was prepared for a Rutgers replay during yesterday's nationally televised basketball game, worrying that students would imitate the halftime sit-in which took place at Rutgers University last Wednesday.

Rumors surfaced earlier in the week about a possible protest during Sunday's game by members of see PROTEST / page 17

Security acts on protest rumors

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame Security was prepared for a Rutgers replay during yesterday's nationally televised basketball game, worrying that students would imitate the halftime sit-in which took place at Rutgers University last Wednesday.

Rumors surfaced earlier in the week about a possible protest during Sunday's game by members of see PROTEST / page 17

Freshman Derek Manner soared to score 12 points against Kentucky, but not all the Irish fared as well with the Wildcat's stifling defense.

---

IRISH SWEEP OPPONENTS

The women's basketball team swept both Butler and UIC over the weekend.