Remembering Tom Dooley...

A look at the doctor, humanitarian, officer, and favorite son of Notre Dame

By SUZY FRY
Managing Editor

In the 34 short years of his life, Dr. Thomas Dooley, class of 1948, became known as more than a war hero and medical missionary. He embodied a humanitarian spirit that continues to influence the lives of millions everywhere. However, his life remains a mystery and a miracle.

Dooley's story begins with the over 80,000 patients he treated in the first 18 months of his naval career. It continues with the two dozen hospitals and orphanages he established throughout Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam under the auspices of the MDCO organization he later established and funded via the still existent Thomas Dooley Foundation.

The public disclosure of his "undesirable discharge" from the military due to his homosexuality under the Freedom of Information Act leads Dooley's story to the University of Notre Dame, 1995.

With the recent campus controversy between the University and the unrecognized group, Gays and Lesbians of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, Dooley has entered a debate that few, if any, know where he would have stood. Moreover, in this debate, the character and achievements of the real Tom Dooley appear to have been lost.

I saw him in life and I saw him in death. If I were to be asked if I thought he could be canonized, I would not hesitate to say that he could—but I think he would be in the Grotto, providing a memorial to the naval doctor who aided over 80,000 patients in his first 18 months of duty.
Coping with the SYN dilemma

I think we're a bunch of wimps. And I'd like to call your attention, especially before we see full of dances and other social events on campus. We're having trouble with the problem of hook-up fallout. You know what this means? It's not the time to hide behind your embarrassing past. What to do? Again.

Here's the problem: You spend an evening with your new friend, you make a new rule: Call the next day, re-call, not the next day, and probably not the day after that. So I have a proposition. Let's make a new rule. Call the next day, regardless of the time of day you had - hook-up or no. If we all make an obligation to do this, we'd alleviate the confusion, the pain, the embarrassment. The goal here is to diffuse the awkwardness.

It's almost like a post game wrap-up the next day after your quotes from the pertinent players. You soon learn the good, the bad, the ugly — won't let you forget the ugly.

"Of Homer Simpson, "Welcome to Splitsville," Perhaps you could say, in the immortal words
"to what's really important in life, like our studies, Sega, and Seinfeld. Date and/or scholarship. "Don is the greatest promoter to regain the heavyweight champi-
"and I look forward to working with them and seeing you soon."

Mike Tyson didn't mention when he hopes to return to the ring, but the chairman of the MGM Grand expects him to
"and I look forward to regaining the heavyweight championship. "Don is the greatest promoter in the world, as well as a
"the best," Tyson said, Thursday in his first public comments since his release from the Tennessee prison. Tyson's closest friends were said to have urged him to break ties with his longtime promoter over a number of matters, including his reported mismanagement of the 28-year-old boxer's business affairs.

Tyson said his fights will be televised by the Showtime cable network, and his bouts will be at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas. Tyson didn't mention when he hopes to return to the ring, but the chairman of the MGM Grand said he expects him to fight within six months. "I want to associate myself with the biggest and the best," Tyson said Thursday, and I look

Convinced in attack on FedEx crew

A jury rejected an insanity defense Thursday and con-

A jury rejected an insanity defense Thursday and convicted a former Federal Express pilot of attacking the crew of a FedEx jet with a hammer and spear gun at 18,000 feet. Auburn Calloway, 42, could get 20 years to life in prison for attempted air piracy. No date was set for sentencing. Witnesses said Calloway feared he was about to be fired, and Assistant U.S. Attorney John Fowkes told the jury that the 28-year-old person who is probably harmless, kind, and understanding. It's true.

In the unlikely event that your date had to leave the dance or event due to illness or emotional problems (in other words, you got dissed), it's probably best not to call. Instead, send a thank you note through cam-

Sentencing. Witnesses said Calloway feared he was about to be fired, and Assistant U.S. Attorney John Fowkes told the jury that the 28-year-old person who is probably harmless, kind, and understanding. It's true.

In the unlikely event that your date had to leave the dance or event due to illness or emotional problems (in other words, you got dissed), it's probably best not to call. Instead, send a thank you note through cam-

The Accu-Weather® forecast for noon, Friday, March 31.

The Accu-Weather® forecast for noon, Friday, March 31.
The Observer • NEWS

SMC unites juniors, moms

By LIZ RANKIN

Today marks the beginning of this year's Saint Mary's College Junior Mother/Daughter Weekend. This weekend, March 31-April 2, signifies a special turning point in the lives of many Saint Mary's juniors.

According to junior Nancy Schwoyer, Chairman of the Junior Mother/Daughter weekend, this weekend has traditionally been one for juniors to share with mothers their Saint Mary's experience: their friends, their home-away-from-home, and the lives they have made here at Saint Mary's.

This marks the first time that many juniors will enter into the bonds of friendship with their mothers; it is an occasion for participating juniors to show their mothers how, over the past few years, they have grown and changed. Often, this is an opportunity that is not usually afforded to juniors while visiting home.

Junior Class Vice President Erin Sherr, expressed an excitement for this weekend's events that is shared by many of her peers. She said, "I'm really looking forward to exploring a new relationship with my mom, one of friendship."

Tonight, the weekend will officially begin with a Wine and Cheese reception. According to Schwoyer, this will be a time for juniors to introduce their mothers to and socialize with the friends that they have made over their almost three-year stay at Saint Mary's.

The highlight of this weekend's activities is, however, the reception, lunch, and fashion show at the South Bend Century Center on Saturday. Schwoyer said, "We opted to present the luncheon with a more casual overtone, so as to allow the mothers and daughters to feel more relaxed."

Saint Mary's English Professor, and professional storyteller, Carole Walton, will provide the entertainment by presenting a tale about a mother-daughter relationship. Following this will be a fashion show, showcasing Saint Mary's College fashion majors' new Spring collection from Ganto's, a University Park Mall store. According to Schwoyer, unlike a runway show, the fashion show will prove to be light-hearted. She also said, "This is a time to talk to your mom, enjoy the events, and sit back and take it all in."

The committee felt that it was important to leave both Friday and Saturday evenings open for the students and their mothers to spend their free time doing whatever they wish.

Junior Stacey Feltos said, "I'm looking forward to show- see JUNIOR/ page 6

PROVOST'S DISTINGUISHED LECTURE SERIES

THEOLOGY DEPARTMENT

ELIZABETH JOHNSON, CSJ
PROFESSOR OF THEOLOGY, FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

"THE THEOLOGICAL SEARCH FOR THE LIVING GOD"

MONDAY, APRIL 3, 1995
8 P.M.

CENTER FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION
PUBLIC IS INVITED
Dooley continued from page 1

little shocked," said University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh. "When you are with somebody as they are dying, that gives you some little shocked," said University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh. "I have no continuity. Fishers also illuminates in his article that "Dooley constantly sought to restore the faith of others in the Church without revealing much of his personal situation, other than to state that he did not know how anyone could live without belief in God."

"His quest was as a healer and as a peace-keeper. He did this with strength and gentle-ness. He is to eliminate prejudice, wherever it exists. Weeping for ourselves and for our country is not enough. As the beacon that America pursues, he is to eliminate prejudice and hatred here for it to be eliminated abroad."

According to Anchor, the two men first met in 1938 after a long correspondence regarding Dooley's work in South East Asia. Anchor was in his early twenties in Laos in 1959, but the doctor's melanoma progressed to the point where he was forced to return to the U.S. prior to Anchor's return. Dooley's commitment to basic humani-Anchor concealed his homosexual-Anchor concealed his homosexual-Anchor concealed his homosexuality until 1990. In addition to his military involvement beyond the California National Guard and the Selective Service, he was asked to participate in a mis-sion for the U.S. Customs Intelligence Agency in Panama as a counter-intelligence agent. In October of 1990, they asked me to go to Panama to bring back some documents related to K-S, Noriega's terrorist squad within the Ministeria de Justicia. The resident agent would not risk walking them across for us." Anchor's efforts led to the arrest of 53 Noriega cronies, according to an Associated Press article in The San Francisco Chronicle (5 Dec. 1990).

However, the story is not that simple. Anchor only agreed to the assignment after President Bush consented to recognize Leonard Malovich, a friend of Anchor's who had been a sergeant in the Air Force and was not awarded the due recognition he deserved, with an honorary plaque on his grave site in the Congressional Cemetery in Washington, D.C. Upon completion of the mission, Bush sent a certificate to the Malovich family. A bronze plaque with the certificate emblazoned upon it will be placed on the site on May 31.

When asked why he maintains his position within the military, Anchor responded: "I have found a better fight can be waged from a more equal playing field. I was given the opportunity to increase my leverage within the military. I took this opportunity so I could change the military." Anchor concealed his homosexual-Anchor concealed his homosexuality until 1990. In addition to his military involvement beyond the California National Guard and the Selective Service, he was asked to participate in a mission for the U.S. Customs Intelligence Agency in Panama as a counter-intelligence agent. In October of 1990, they asked me to go to Panama to bring back some documents related to K-S, Noriega's terrorist squad within the Ministeria de Justicia. The resident agent would not risk walking them across for us." Anchor's efforts led to the arrest of 53 Noriega cronies, according to an Associated Press article in The San Francisco Chronicle (5 Dec. 1990).

However, the story is not that simple. Anchor only agreed to the assignment after President Bush consented to recognize Leonard Malovich, a friend of Anchor's who had been a sergeant in the Air Force and was not awarded the due recognition he deserved, with an honorary plaque on his grave site in the Congressional Cemetery in Washington, D.C. Upon completion of the mission, Bush sent a certificate to the Malovich family. A bronze plaque with the certificate emblazoned upon it will be placed on the site on May 31.

When asked why he maintains his position within the military, Anchor responded: "I have found a better fight can be waged from a more equal playing field. I was given the opportunity to increase my leverage within the military. I took this opportunity so I could change the military." Anchor concealed his homosexual-Anchor concealed his homosexuality until 1990. In addition to his military involvement beyond the California National Guard and the Selective Service, he was asked to participate in a mission for the U.S. Customs Intelligence Agency in Panama as a counter-intelligence agent. In October of 1990, they asked me to go to Panama to bring back some documents related to K-S, Noriega's terrorist squad within the Ministeria de Justicia. The resident agent would not risk walking them across for us." Anchor's efforts led to the arrest of 53 Noriega cronies, according to an Associated Press article in The San Francisco Chronicle (5 Dec. 1990).

However, the story is not that simple. Anchor only agreed to the assignment after President Bush consented to recognize Leonard Malovich, a friend of Anchor's who had been a
Students offer peace conference

Students' voices and opinions on the difficulties of establishing and maintaining peace among nations will be heard this Saturday at a student peace conference.

"It will be a place where students can share their academic work regarding peace and justice," said Ron Pagnucco, Notre Dame Peace Studies Association conference coordinator.

The conference will begin with a keynote dialogue featuring 1990 Notre Dame ROTC graduates Dan Fehey and Scott Moran. The two alumni will be speaking about peace building and peace keeping, with emphasis on military versus non-violent means. They will focus on how everyone, activists and soldiers alike, can work together in peace keeping. Fehey will also be sharing his experience as a conscientious objector in the Gulf War.

Following the dialogue, their will be a viewing of CNN's recent documentary "Guardian Warriors." The documentary focuses on the role American troops played in Haiti.

The second half of the conference will consist of two sessions of panel discussions focusing on such concerns as the former Yugoslavia, religion, peace and justice, and Haiti. Each panel will consist of three academic presentations by students and an ensuing discussion.

"I doubt there will be consensus (among the students in any of the presentations)," said Pagnucco.

International students will be present, including two students from Serbia and Croatia. Furthermore, schools including Michigan State University, Manchester College, Purdue University, and Indiana University-Fort Wayne will be sending representatives to the conference.

Saturday's conference is the third annual "Building Peace" conference. The first was established as a regional gathering to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Notre Dame Peace Studies Program.

The conference will begin on Saturday at the Hesburgh Center for International Studies and will continue into the evening. The event is free of charge and will be open to the entire student body.

---

travelmore
Carlson Travel Network

Europe!!

Carlson Travel Network is your local Europe Travel Specialist. Let us send you to Europe!

- Airfares Special STUDENT & FACULTY rates
- Rail Passes Low rates to Europe
- Car Rentals Discounted car rentals
- Experience Available in all European Countries

We know Europe - let us plan your trip!
1723 South Bend Ave.
- Next to the Notre Dame campus -
(219) 271-4880

APPLICATIONS

WWFI 640 AM

WWFI is now accepting applications for the '95-'96 executive board.

Applications available outside WWFI, 2nd floor LaFortune.

Deadline: Monday, April 3, 5:00PM

Remember: WWFI surveys are due April 4, 1995!
Sorin continued from page 1

The society's membership has grown rapidly in the last 15 years. In 1980, only 80 people were members, but that number has since grown to over 6000. Reagan credits the loyalty of the alumni and word of mouth for the increase in membership. "It's a testimony to the Notre Dame constituency that they want to see the University succeed," Reagan said. "Any university would love to have this type of support." Reagan stressed that this weekend's activities cost only a minimal portion of the society's donations. Typically, the society spends about 4 cents per dollar in order to raise funds.

Junior continued from page 3

"Artmoves should be a fun and relaxing part of the weekend." The committee is expecting over half of the Junior class and their mothers (over 400 women in total) to participate this weekend. Schwoyer expressed the enthusiasm of the committee and said, "We're glad to see the work that we began in September is all coming together. We're really excited for a great weekend."

Reagan said, "The center was very important to DeBartolo because it memorialized his wife." Reagan stated that additional funding was being acquired from other benefactors to support additional projects particular to the center, but declined to say more, stating that contribution details were kept confidential. "No date has been set for either ground breaking or completion of the project."

The building, which will be similar in size to the DeBartolo Building and the Business Building, would take approxi-

MD continued from page 1

instance I know of a private university teaming up with a state medical school to offer a M.D./Ph.D. program. We are trying to integrate programs that are mutually beneficial to both campuses," Castellino said. Students interested in the dual degree program must apply to and be accepted to both the Indiana University School of Medicine and the Notre Dame Graduate School. Individual applicants are then tracked and interviewed, O'Malley said. Those wishing to participate must indicate their preference of the SBCME on their applications. O'Malley said, "The SBCME is of eight branches of the Indiana University Medical School and covers only one half of the Junior class."

It's a testimony to the Notre Dame campus, M.D./Ph.D. program participants then go to the Indiana University Medical School in Indianapolis for their last two years of medical school. A residency period, as required of all medical school graduates, will usually take anywhere from three to six additional years, O'Malley said, bringing the total years of graduate education to between 10 and 13 years.

"This program requires very dedicated students," he added. Seven applicants are being considered for the two positions this fall, which will be the first year of the program, O'Malley said, "a couple" of which are Notre Dame students. "The applicants are all from in state this year," he said, "a fact he contributes to lack of publicity. "This is the first year of the program, and we just received the letter finalizing it last week," he said. "We are currently putting together a brochure which will be sent to other schools, especially their pre-med departments, which should draw applicants from across the nation."

Anyone interested in more information about the program should contact the Office of Director; South Bend Center for Medical Education; B22 Haggar Hall; telephone 631-5574.

4 Good Reasons to Call The Huddle For Delivery

$5 Deal

Any Large 14" Pizza for only $5
The Best Pizza at The Best Price
Call The Huddle At 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

$10 Deal

2 Large 14" Unlimited Topping Pizzas
and a 2liter Coke Product Only $10
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

$4 Deal

Large 14" Cheese Pizza Only $4
Now, That's a Deal!
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

Double Deal

You get 2 Large 14" 1 item
Pizzas for Only $9
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

Call The Huddle at 1-6902

We'll meet or beat any competitors coupon or deal, just call us and ask.
We Deliver 7 days a week- lunch, dinner and late nite.

Earn Quick Cash!

Still needed for Commencement:

Sign-ups are:

Fri 3/31 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Special Saturday 4/1 10:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
"Last day to sign housing contract Monday, 4/3"

Catering Employment Office
Basement, South Dining Hall
631-5449/8792

The Observer • NEWS

Friday, March 31, 1995

The Best Pizza at The Best Price
Call The Huddle At 1-6902

$5 Deal

Any Large 14" Pizza for only $5
The Best Pizza at The Best Price
Call The Huddle At 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

$10 Deal

2 Large 14" Unlimited Topping Pizzas
and a 2liter Coke Product Only $10
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

$4 Deal

Large 14" Cheese Pizza Only $4
Now, That's a Deal!
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

Double Deal

You get 2 Large 14" 1 item
Pizzas for Only $9
Call 1-6902

COUPON EXPIRES 5/30/95

Call The Huddle at 1-6902

We'll meet or beat any competitors coupon or deal, just call us and ask.
We Deliver 7 days a week- lunch, dinner and late nite.

Earn Quick Cash!

Still needed for Commencement:

Sign-ups are:

Fri 3/31 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Special Saturday 4/1 10:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
"Last day to sign housing contract Monday, 4/3"

Catering Employment Office
Basement, South Dining Hall
631-5449/8792

The Observer • NEWS

Friday, March 31, 1995
Students to protest controversial video

Notre Dame students will gather in the Fieldhouse Mall today from noon to 6 p.m. for a demonstration against the continued funding of the School of the Americas; a showing of the video "School of Assassins," an Academy Award nominee in this year's best documentary category; and a concluding Mass at 5 p.m.

According to its organizers, the event has been planned to express solidarity with human rights activists throughout the country who are working to make people aware of the Contras' human rights abuses.

The event is sponsored by the Institute for International Peace Studies and the Notre Dame chapter of Pax Christi, the international Catholic peace organization.

Senators cold to speeding up direct student loans

By SALLY STREFF BUZBEE

WASHINGTON

President Clinton's proposal to speed implementation of a new direct student loan program was rejected Thursday by Republican and Democratic senators despite their praise of the Education Department's administration of the program in its first year.

"Mary, one-year participants said Sen.

"Anybody can give money away," Jeffords said. "Getting it back is just not so easy.

The Education Department is developing ways to track possible problems with direct loans.

Senators cold to speeding up direct student loans

By SALLY STREFF BUZBEE

WASHINGTON

President Clinton's proposal to speed implementation of a new direct student loan program was rejected Thursday by Republican and Democratic senators despite their praise of the Education Department's administration of the program in its first year.

"Mary, one-year participants said Sen.

"Anybody can give money away," Jeffords said. "Getting it back is just not so easy.

The Education Department is developing ways to track possible problems with direct loans.

Dr. Vanessa Siddle Walker spoke yesterday at the Center for Social Concerns on the key role that teachers played in the impoverished South.

Teachers were "very supported by parents, and esteemed by children," according to Walker. In many cases, the African-American teachers were more educated and better trained than their white counterparts.

"They were a valued class within the race. They were respected because they earned it. To teach was an honor," Walker said. "In white teaching you didn't have the best and the brightest because there were other options. Segregation created this professional class.

The teachers cared about their profession and took it very seriously, according to Walker. In one instance, a group of teachers from North Carolina bordered a chartered bus and traveled all the way to Los Angeles to be able to attend a national teachers meeting.

"It was not just another meeting," Walker said. "It was a turning point." Walker pointed out that while necessary and important, desegregation diminished this environment.

However, according to Walker, by examining what was going on that was so special in these schools, we can get an idea about what schools need to do to make the schools better.

"I often wonder," Walker said, "when I go into schools where teachers aren't valued anymore, where community involvement is only the parents' responsibility, 'What can be done to make the schools better?'

As for a solution, Walker feels that there is no easy answer, nor a formula to follow.

Teachers shine during segregation

By SARA WOODEN

News Writer

Amidst the oppression of segregation in the South, teachers acted as a ray of hope for many students, said Dr. Emilie Vanessa Siddle Walker to an audience yesterday afternoon at the Center for Social Concerns.

Walker spoke, as part of a six-lecture series on "Equity and Excellence in America's Urban Schools," on "Historical Images of Teaching: Reviving the Perspective of African-American Teachers." Walker is the Assistant Professor of Education at Emory University.

The focus of Walker's lecture was segregation and the schooling of African-American children during the time of segregation in the South.

"If I said, 'Let's talk about segregated schools in the South,' you would almost immediately think of poor school houses, and school resources... and a school board that didn't care about the students," began Walker. "The only conclusion that you can come up with is that nothing good ever happened to an African-American child until they were rescued.

Walker went on to add that the problem with this national memory is that it equates poor facilities and resources with poor learning. Additionally, Walker said that it contradicts the memory of the people that attended the schools.

"These people don't remember being second rate," Walker said. "The facilities and resources, I want to stress, are just one part.

Walker felt that the teachers were positive influence in the education of segregated schools.

The students also held teachers in high esteem for good reasons. Students remember the teachers caring, according to Walker.

The teachers had high expectations for students. They told them, "You don't have to just be good, you have to be better. The teachers pushed them to excel, and they believed they could excel. They pushed them to try, both inside and outside of class," said Walker.

"There was this attitude," said Walker, "you think I can't, you think I can. You think you can. Students weren't allowed out to learn."

GET INVOLVED!
FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR FRESHMAN ORIENTATION COMMISSION

* Pick up applications in the Student Government Office, 2nd Floor LaFortune.
* Return completed applications to the Student Government Office by 5:00 p.m. Monday, April 3

LACROSSE

TOMORROW, Saturday, April 1st
3:00 p.m.
Moose Krause Field
(Lotus in case of poor weather)
Thousands of Rwandan refugees flee Burundi

By MATT BIGG
Associated Press

BUJUMBURA, Burundi

An estimated 20,000 Rwandan refugees, fleeing violence in their homeland, were expected to arrive in Bujumbura today to seek sanctuary in yet another country.

The Rwandan Hutus, who fled their homeland a year ago, were expected to go to the capital in central and north-central Burundi to Tanzania, spokesman Paul Struchiner of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees said Thursday.

They were responding to an attack by armed men on Majuri, one of seven refugee camps in northern Burundi, and in violence in Burundi's capital, Bujumbura, which has prompted an exodus to Zaire.

Twelve Rwandan refugees were killed and 22 wounded in the attack Monday at Majuri. Officials said it was unclear who was responsible.

The relief agency CARE reported that it expected 50,000 to 100,000 Rwandan refugees to leave for Tanzania, according to a statement released by the organization's headquarters in Washington, said an official familiar with the developments from Zaire.

By MATT BIGG
Associated Press

PARIS

Transport strike cripples Paris

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS
Associated Press

In their sharpest message to France's conservative government, transport workers crippled trains, trams, buses and subways with a nationwide walkout Thursday.

Demanding higher wages, demonstrating against expected job cuts and deploring police violence, tens of thousands of employees of state-owned transport companies began the 36-hour strike first thing in the morning.

The walkout was the largest since the conservative government of Premier Edouard Balladur succeeded the Socialists in April 1993.

Paris was choked by huge traffic jams as commuters took to their cars, bicycles or feet, or stayed home while most of the country's 38,000 transit workers stayed off the job.

On the highways leading into Paris, cars were backed up nine to 13 miles during the morning rush-hour. On the beltway around Paris, traffic jams stretched 17 miles long.

Nearly all the capital's subways were shut down while other trains and buses were running at only 30 percent on average. One out of four rail road lines were running, although it was business as usual through the Channel Tunnel.

At Orly airport, south of Paris, 1,000 workers at the money-losing domestic airline Inter Air demonstrated with colleagues from Air France.

They briefly interrupted preparations for two Inter Air flights by disconnecting electrical feeds to the planes. Air Inter used other carriers for half of Thursday's 400 scheduled flights.

***

All freshmen, sophomores and especially juniors interested in Graduate Study Abroad, don't miss the informational meeting with Professor A. James McAdams

Monday evening, April 3, 1995 at 7:00 pm in room 126 DeBartolo

LONDON $299
PARIS $335
FRANKFURT $389
MADRID $319
ROME $365

By ZEYNEP ALEMDAR
Associated Press

ANKARA, Turkey

Turkey wants to keep its troops in northern Iraq under U.S. command as a way to solidify its offensive against rebel Kurds, officials said Thursday.

The government intended to meet with the meetings this week with U.S. officials in Ankara and Washington to negotiate an official agreement with the meetings, the official asked not to be named.

More than 35,000 troops invaded northern Iraq on March 20 to wipe out Kurdish rebel camps used to attack Turkey. The Pentagon says 269 rebels and 17 Turkish soldiers have died since then.

The area is controlled by Iraqi Kurds who want independence from Saddam Hussein's government.

Turkey has promised to leave the region after rebel bases are eliminated, but wants to ensure the guerrillas don't come back.

The United States has been protecting Iraqi Kurds with air patrols since the Persian Gulf War in what is known as Operation Provide Comfort.

Prime Minister Tansu Ciller's chief adviser, Emre Gonensoy, was quoted by the Turkish press as saying Wednesday that the most likely option to form a security mechanism in northern Iraq seems to involve Provide Comfort.

"We do not want Provide Comfort to expand or interna­ tionally, but we shall see how to do it," said Gonen­ soy, who was in Washington. At the Pentagon, however, spokesman Kenneth Bacon denied that such a proposal had been made to the U.S. military.

And in any case, the Pentagon would not be in favor of such an idea, Bacon said, noting that Turkish officials have said the incursion would not be lengthy.

"We can't accept a permanent extension of this effort," he said.

Western countries have pressured Turkey to withdraw because of its invasion of civilians. Germany has imposed an arms embargo and the United States has increased its criticism of the operation.

The Turkish army was harrying civilians mounting a march on Paris Thursday when about 40 Iraqi Kurds arrived at a mili­ tary coordination center run by a Turkish diplomat to lodge complaints. They were told to relay them to local Iraqi Kur­ dish authorities.

Turkey denies harming civil­ ians, and the government said it was taking care to protect them.

But the international Red Cross said Thursday that Turkey was refusing it access to the combat zone.

Cross said Thursday that it was business as usual through the Channel Tunnel.

At Orly airport, south of Paris, 1,000 workers at the money-losing domestic airline Inter Air demonstrated with colleagues from Air France.

They briefly interrupted preparations for two Inter Air flights by disconnecting electrical feeds to the planes. Air Inter used other carriers for half of Thursday's 400 scheduled flights.

"Enjoy a unique experience in Oriental Dining!"

• Fresh Ingredients
• Lunch Specials starting at $3.50 include: egg roll, soup and tea
• Dinners starting at $5
• Private Dining Booths
• Custom cooking with no MSG
• Vegetarian Menu
• 15 Years of Service Award

For Reservations & Carry Out Call: 272-6702
For Dine-In Delivery Call: 272-2328

Cactus Jack's Mexican Grill & Cantina

Next to Edison

TEACHING AND RESEARCH ABROAD!!!
Revision of modern family roles needed

By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN

"We are too willing to condemn reconstituted families," indicated Frances Goldscheider during a forum held in the Conference Room on the first floor of Decio Hall.

The topic of the forum was, "Can new husbands and live-in lovers serve as substitute fathers?"

Goldscheider spoke to a crowd of equal parts students and faculty. She indicated that in considering reconstituted families, "there is not enough literature on the step-father. Too often, society focuses on the role of the step-parents, but also the effect that the step-parents have on the children."

"These days we are seeing an enormous disruption of the family," she said. "The age of the children when the step-father enters the household does have an impact on the extent of his involvement with them."

Goldscheider during a forum held in the Conference Room on the first floor of Decio Hall.

The topic of the forum was, "Can new husbands and live-in lovers serve as substitute fathers?"

Goldscheider spoke to a crowd of equal parts students and faculty. She indicated that in considering reconstituted families, "there is not enough literature on the step-father. Too often, society focuses on the role of the step-parents, but also the effect that the step-parents have on the children."

"These days we are seeing an enormous disruption of the family," she said. "The age of the children when the step-father enters the household does have an impact on the extent of his involvement with them."

Goldscheider described this "requires re-writing old scripts." The new anti-family attitude has only served to make these problems more difficult to solve.

Goldscheider's address, "The Construction of Women's Work and Family Lives after the Demographic Transition," was given as the third in a four part guest lecture series entitled "Life Course Transitions: Their Changing Character and Policy Implications."

These transitions result in changing relationships within a family. Two thirds of the years both mother and child will be alive they will both be adults. This changing situation requires increased flexibility and a reduced hierarchy. The typical parent-child relationship must be replaced with one in which the child is a near equal partner as an adult.

Sibling relationships also require changes. While a four year difference is drastic to ten and fourteen year old sisters it is inconsequential when the siblings are in their sixties. "A sixty and a sixty two year old don't talk about the older sister unless they're kidding" said Goldscheider.

While these changes in parent and child relationships and the transformation of sibling relations can be difficult, the transformation required of a household and the family is even more significant.

While at one time it was a news-worthy event for a couple to reach their Golden Anniversary it is becoming almost common for both partners to survive that long. In those years their are many transitions the marriage must go through.

Frances Goldscheider lectured yesterday on marriage and family life, in an effort to better educate the Notre Dame community of the changing roles in today's relationships.

From two working people right out of college to a retired couple, major life changes drastically affect the marital relationships. Children become the central focus for some time and change the dynamics of husband and wife. Suddenly the children become adults and no longer need the intensive services of their parents.

While one transition can be destructive, the many that are often seen in marriages are very hard to deal with if the proper attitudes and steps are not taken. According to Goldscheider, this problem is societal, not just a personal one, as it is commonly perceived.

The lingering question according to Goldscheider is: "Will men and women respond to challenges and maintain the family so specialized institutions don't become the caregivers of the twenty first century?"

Families that have shared all responsibilities and duties will be better able to deal with the transitions that will face them in the coming century. Corporations that deal with both men and women form a more equal, family-oriented perspective will help society in general, as well as increase their own positive images and productivity.

Goldscheider received her graduate and undergraduate degrees from the University of Pennsylvania and has written three books on the changing roles of families in the twentieth century.

She is currently a professor of Sociology at Brown University, along with being the editor of the Journal, Demography.
The attack of the media!

By MICHELLE FAUL
Associated Press

PORT- AU-PRINCE, Haiti
"Operation Uphold Democracy" is ending in triumph for President Clinton, who arrives Friday to transfer responsibility for the U.S.-led mission to the United Nations.

But as Haiti gears up for June elections, the smaller U.N. force will have to deal with a new kind of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.

The new violence has raised doubts about whether the American intervention has produced the "secure and stable environment" that U.N. resolutions set as a precondition for the handover to the smaller U.N. force.

Political scientist Jean-Claude Roy, who drew his friend and fellow conservative assassinated last week, was highly skeptical. "I came a long way from the period last year when Haitians were fleeing by the thousands from the brutal military regime."

"Haiti today is a nation where petty criminals are breaking roads to get to market rather than boats to market, as the thousands from the brutal military regime," he asked. "Sure, for the Americans. But not for us Haitians."

American troops landed Sept. 19 to oversee a deal by which President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, whom they helped back into office in 1994, will have to deal with a new form of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.

The new violence has raised doubts about whether the American intervention has produced the "secure and stable environment" that U.N. resolutions set as a precondition for the handover to the smaller U.N. force.

But as Haiti gears up for June elections, the smaller U.N. force will have to deal with a new kind of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.

The new violence has raised doubts about whether the American intervention has produced the "secure and stable environment" that U.N. resolutions set as a precondition for the handover to the smaller U.N. force.

But as Haiti gears up for June elections, the smaller U.N. force will have to deal with a new kind of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.

The new violence has raised doubts about whether the American intervention has produced the "secure and stable environment" that U.N. resolutions set as a precondition for the handover to the smaller U.N. force.

But as Haiti gears up for June elections, the smaller U.N. force will have to deal with a new kind of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.

The new violence has raised doubts about whether the American intervention has produced the "secure and stable environment" that U.N. resolutions set as a precondition for the handover to the smaller U.N. force.

But as Haiti gears up for June elections, the smaller U.N. force will have to deal with a new kind of insecurity resulting from political killings, a frightening crime wave and the unfinished business of economic recovery.
Pope pushes closer
to death penalty ban

By BRIAN MURPHY
Associated Press

VATICAN CITY

John Paul II

Friday, March 31, 1995

Pope pushes closer
to death penalty ban

In the encyclical, the pope declared, "We are facing an enormous and dramatic clash between good and evil, death and life, the 'culture of death' and the 'culture of life'." "We find ourselves not only faced with but necessarily in the midst of this conflict... with the inescapable responsibility to be unconditional pro-life," McBriney said the pope bowered the "culture of death" metaphor from New York Cardinal John O'Connor, who helped draft the statement. At the U.S. Catholic Conference, where officials recently completed building a lobbying network of 20,000 churches on abortion-related issues, the papal encyclical was welcomed. "It's both an intellectual and emotional shot in the arm. It will pick up the spirits of the pro-life movement," said Helen Alvare, at the Office for Pro-Life Activities. John Paul urged lawmakers to back legislation allowing abortion with restrictions if the alternative is legalizing abortion. It will free up some pro-life people who were worrying about supporting something which is not perfect legislation," Alvarez said. Bishop James McHugh of the diocese of Camden, N.J., said Catholic politicians who support abortion and euthanasia were put on notice such dissent is not acceptable.
Dear Editor:

As a triple doper who has been at Notre Dame in various capacities as student, teacher and staff member since 1957, I can no longer remain silent in regard to the controversy surrounding GLND/SMC.

Father Malloy's portrayal of the Catholic Church's teachings, and by her failure to require all organizations represented students of different religious faiths to explicitly affirm the claim of the Catholic Church to be the only true religion. Has O'Hara insisted that the various organizations which evidence a capitalist or entrepreneurial inclination explicitly affirm their adherence to Catholic principles of social justice? Would she impose upon an organization seeking to represent married students the condition that it explicitly condemn artificial methods of birth control?

Similarly, homosexuals have learned by bitter experience that labels such as "disordered" and "unnatural" can kill both the body and the spirit. Today, they inspire homophobic extremists to proclaim their ignorance and inhumanity, their irrational bigotry and hatred with banners reading "Thank God for AIDS." They continue to serve as pretexts for verbal and physical abuse and they share responsibility for the alarming statistic that problems related to sexual orientation account for thirty percent of youths and young adult suicides.

Just this past week someone very dear to me died of AIDS. Reflecting upon the trials and tribulations that this gentle and very caring young man had to endure throughout his life, I am compelled to conclude that there is within each and every one of us a small child who needs simply to be loved. If everyone would take that lesson to heart and come to respect the right of each individual to seek love as his or her own...
Fashion code red: The Oscars

What is with those flared lapses? I think they come from Dave Letterman (whose unfunny grierisms were even worse, wearing a kind of Whoopi for lamest Oscar host ever), every galleys a dead duck. No, Tom Hanks was sorely looking Armani tuxedos with big, foolish-looking lapses to the Oscars. Stephen Spielberg was even worse, wearing a kind of Captain Nemo suit, with enormous buttons and a fancy waistcoat, to go with his 1980s poses.

You can tell who wears suits the rest of the year and who doesn’t. Tom Hanks looked as uncomfor- tably as the college centers do on draft day, with their double-breasted suits and team-logos caps. But what can you expect of a man who wins in a campus run-up? I was one of the emotional pressure of receiving a second consecu- tive Oscar while his hot wife tearfully applauded him.

What a cheeseball Tom Hanks is. Nice guy? Ok, I admit he is a good actor, but that’s it. Hah! He wasn’t even the best actor in Bachelor Party. And the smarmy, tear-jerking, overacting cheezeball that it is! Boy, if there was a quicker than a uglier spectacle than watching Robert Redford, you can bet Algie and his audience wouldn’t have as presenters while Tom Hanks gets a second Best Actor award, I don’t know what it is.

But I’ve gone off the rails. I was talking about menswear. Did you see what Robbins was wearing? He looked like an Elvis impersonator in his shiny purple suit — or would you have wanted such a baby-faced weirdo.

Am also Beever, with his hipster jacket and Mark Antony bangs? Denzel Washington looked the classicist, in my opinion, in his nar- rowly tailored, left-Neckle. Although you have to admit that Quentin looked pretty damn good in his purple suit.

Or Keanu Reeves, with his hipster jacket and row lapels and white silk necktie. Although looked the classiest, in my opinion, in his nar- rowly tailored, left-Neckle. Although you have to admit that Quentin looked pretty damn good in his purple suit.

The only problem is that Laurrel Sprewell is the largest major in ND history, nearly 64 percent, for college. As for me, some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nineties. When I sit in the Student Union, I often think about some of my favorite Masses are still the ones that took place in the nine
And you thought there was nothing to do this weekend...

A Midsummer Night's Dream for a modern day audience

By KRISTA NANNERY

A bout five years ago, Professor Paul Rathburn had an epiphany. At the time, he was teaching Shakespeare for the Notre Dame London Program. Part of his regular curriculum included trips to area theaters as well as classroom visits by well known Shakespearean actors. Actors, obviously, bring a play to life. It was this aspect that brought Rathburn to the realization that such works were not written strictly to be read in the classroom. What better way then to get students to respond to Shakespeare's plays than to have them act them out themselves?

Enter a Lilly Grant and you have "Shakespeare in Performance," a course that Rathburn started from scratch and has been teaching at Notre Dame ever since. Students in the course come from both the English and Communication and Theatre Departments. Rathburn likens this mix of experience and non-experience that produces pretty exciting results.

"They've got talent, liveliness, enthusiasm, they're addicted to it. Kids that have never acted before are now dying to be in the productions," Rathburn says. "This production of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' is like nothing I've ever done before. It's awesome, an adrenaline rush with such a sense of energy. Professor Rathburn has left a lot of the action up to us. We're all having a lot of fun doing this."

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a delightful comedy, forever entertaining and romantic. Multiple plots trace the courtship and changibility of love as young couples fall in and out of love and misadventure. Puck, the play's mischievous spirit, confuses one Athenian for another and mistakenly pours a love potion in the wrong character's eyes. But happily, by the end of the play, each lover has found his or her correct match. In the meantime, Shakespeare brings a play-within-a-play into the action, using characters known as the Rude Mechanicals to show the absurdity of lovers' vows as well as comment on the acting industry. Amanda Rafuse, who plays Malis and a serious Shakespearean actor herself notes, "It's all kids and it's all kind of goofy. 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' comes down to being able to recognize the beauty of language and themes and make them applicable to modern day life."

The majority of the participants in this production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are English majors, not Communication and Theatre as one might think. The last time Michael Anggak acted, he was in elementary school. But he took "Shakespeare in Performance" last semester and has the role of Peter Quince in the production. "I haven't done a whole lot of acting myself, but being with all these guys, well, all in all, it's a pretty talented group." He adds that getting over his stage fright was at first tough, but the more he acts, the easier it gets.

Under Paul Rathburn's direction, the students have condensed what would normally be a three hour play into about eighty minutes, taking the funniest parts of six scenes and concentrating on the entertainment factor. The Athenian Lovers and The Rude Mechanicals retain their importance and the basic story line is followed, but Oberon and Titania's roles are diminished and the basic story line is followed, but Oberon and Titania's roles are diminished and the basic story line is followed. Students in the class commented that their class's interpretation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a playful, shortened version, quirky in its originality and certainly not meant to be read quietly.

This Weekend on WVFI

7:00-9:30 p.m.

Saturday

5:30-7:30 p.m.

Join Jeremy Burk, Ed Casper and Chris Kramer for dinner time as they showcase a variety of bands and artists described as "Old-time" favorites and "Heavenly to John Spencer's Blue Explosion show boasts of unique contests such as "If Kramer for dinner time as they showcase a variety of bands and artists described as "Old-time" favorites and "Heavenly to John Spencer's Blue Explosion show boasts of unique contests such as "If 8:30-10:30 a.m.

Wake up with Scott Baier's "Boner in the Morning" and start your Sunday with news, notes, music, and talk. Catch the latest sports scores, listen to commentary on local issues, and get yourself updated with the world outside of the ND community. The "Signs of the Apocalypse" segment touches on a current event that shows this world has just gone too far. "Take, for example, "Entertainment Tonight."" 100 number for viewers to call in and vote on whether or not they like "Kato" Kaib. Campus bands are showcased and played on the Campus Band Showcase while upcoming shows are announced and past performances critiqued. Also Scott as he opens WVFI's classic rock vault to pull out the old tunes by the Beatles and Journey.

8:00-9:30 p.m.

Relax and mellow out on Sunday night with Ira Wade's "Lazy Zone." Callers are welcome to discuss their love lives and receive advice. Listeners are also welcome to make the call on-air requests and dedications, but Ira will do it if you like. The weekly music mix will feature hits from the 1980s. Requests can be made to hear selected music of our childhood with known as Prince. The Second Coming, listens to on-air supergroups and one-hit wonders of the late 1980s. Requests can be made to hear selected music of our childhood with known as Prince. The Second Coming, listens to on-air supergroups and one-hit wonders of the late 1980s.

7:30-9:30 p.m.

Following Brianna The Friday night line-up is "The 600 Club." Host Justin Cole, or J.C., The Second Coming, listens to on-air supergroups and one-hit wonders of the late 1980s. Requests can be made to hear selected music of our childhood with known as Prince. The Second Coming, listens to on-air supergroups and one-hit wonders of the late 1980s.

By KRISTA NANNERY

A bout five years ago, Professor Paul Rathburn had an epiphany. At the time, he was teaching Shakespeare for the Notre Dame London Program. Part of his regular curriculum included trips to area theaters as well as classroom visits by well known Shakespearean actors. Actors, obviously, bring a play to life. It was this aspect that brought Rathburn to the realization that such works were not written strictly to be read in the classroom. What better way then to get students to respond to Shakespeare's plays than to have them act them out themselves?

Enter a Lilly Grant and you have "Shakespeare in Performance," a course that Rathburn started from scratch and has been teaching at Notre Dame ever since. Students in the course come from both the English and Communication and Theatre Departments. Rathburn likens this mix of experience and non-experience that produces pretty exciting results.

"They've got talent, liveliness, enthusiasm, they're addicted to it. Kids that have never acted before are now dying to be in the productions," Rathburn says. "This production of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' is like nothing I've ever done before. It's awesome, an adrenaline rush with such a sense of energy. Professor Rathburn has left a lot of the action up to us. We're all having a lot of fun doing this."

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a delightful comedy, forever entertaining and romantic. Multiple plots trace the courtship and changibility of love as young couples fall in and out of love and misadventure. Puck, the play's mischievous spirit, confuses one Athenian for another and mistakenly pours a love potion in the wrong character's eyes. But happily, by the end of the play, each lover has found his or her correct match. In the meantime, Shakespeare brings a play-within-a-play into the action, using characters known as the Rude Mechanicals to show the absurdity of lovers' vows as well as comment on the acting industry. Amanda Rafuse, who plays Malis and a serious Shakespearean actor herself notes, "It's all kids and it's all kind of goofy. 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' comes down to being able to recognize the beauty of language and themes and make them applicable to modern day life."

The majority of the participants in this production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are English majors, not Communication and Theatre as one might think. The last time Michael Anggak acted, he was in elementary school. But he took "Shakespeare in Performance" last semester and has the role of Peter Quince in the production. "I haven't done a whole lot of acting myself, but being with all these guys, well, all in all, it's a pretty talented group." He adds that getting over his stage fright was at first tough, but the more he acts, the easier it gets.

Under Paul Rathburn's direction, the students have condensed what would normally be a three hour play into about eighty minutes, taking the funniest parts of six scenes and concentrating on the entertainment factor. The Athenian Lovers and The Rude Mechanicals retain their importance and the basic story line is followed, but Oberon and Titania's roles are diminished and the basic story line is followed. Students in the class commented that their class's interpretation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is a playful, shortened version, quirky in its originality and certainly not meant to be read quietly.
HA tickles the funny bone

By LARRY WARD

Do you remember a couple of years ago when Saturday Night Live was the most hilarious show on television? Well, if you wish you could meet the people who envisioned all of those "Weekend Update," "Bill and Fran's" skits? Well, if you have always wanted to see these people perform their own jokes, now is your chance. On April 7, they will be at Saint Mary's College: Parlor.

Does this sound too good to be true? Well it is! April Fool! However, one can still enjoy the same type of sketch comedy made famous by the likes of Saturday Night Live by seeing HA, the campus Humor Artists, as they perform on stage.

Formed just this year, the group claims over fifteen undergraduate members with more aspiring comedians joining everyday. HA is the brainchild of Mark Marino, a graduate student in creative writing. He's assisted by clothing and stage design this year. Marino sat up a general call for Notre Dame/Saint Mary's students specifically interested in comedy sketch writing.

HA provides its members with an opportunity to perform and perfect their original and improvisational comedy both on and off stage. Similar to a comedy writing workshop, the group provides a unique outlet for experimentation and development. This workshop should make the transition to Notre Dame/Saint Mary's the university does not offer a course specializing in comedy writing. This was one of the reasons Marino formed the troupe. "Previously, this kind of opportunity did not exist," says Marino, "but they are definitely filling a void on the campuses of other, they worked together and worked together and worked together and..."

Producing a total of four shows each semester, the troupe employs some improvisation while relying heavily upon original comedic sketches inspired and created by members of the group. Everyone collaborates and works together, similar to a fiction writing workshop. The result is hands-on sketch comedy at its finest.

Their third production this semester, HA's "The Sound of Music Show" on Saturday night will include sketches, musical numbers, and a parody of the immortal Julie Andrews's musical. In that particular sketch, a group of very bad burlesque artists break into song—from "The Sound of Music." Mark Marino promises that "The skit entitled, 'Bob Has a Tapeworm,' relating the story of man's intense relationship with his parasite, is sure to be a sketch the audience will love."

"Boob has a Tapeworm," its signature work, they brought it back in one form or another each time they have performed. This is one of the reasons why they are about the same thirteen sketch-like, including two comedic songs.

Behind them performs one musical piece, in which Marino says, "If Lido Zeppelin had a collegiate dining hall experience, they would have written this song.

The group draws from both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's tap, ballet, and modern dance styles performed to a potpourri of musical selections, ranging from Tchaikovsky to Glen Miller to James Taylor. Look no further. Workshops are accepted by audition only.

HA tickles the funny bone. Has the brainchild of Mark Marino, who envisioned all of those comedy sketch writers? They brought it back in one form or another, they worked together and worked together and worked together and..."

Artsmove chases away the blues

By CHRISTINA TECSON

Mid-semester doldrums have appeared in full force. College students are tired of the same old thing and on the prowl for new, exciting and different things to take your mind off the eight papers you have to write by Monday. You have the urge to see a variety of different dance styles performed to a potpourri of musical selections, ranging from Tchaikovsky to Glen Miller to James Taylor.

Then you should be about thirteen sketch-like, including two comedic songs. This is one of the reasons why they are about the same thirteen sketch-like and costume designers, but especially, the cooperation and talent of the dancers. They brought it back in one form or another, they worked together and worked together and worked together and...

Photo courtesy of Saint Mary's Public Relations

Producing a total of four shows each semester, the troupe employs some improvisation while relying heavily upon original comedic sketches inspired and created by members of the group. Everyone collaborates and works together, similar to a fiction writing workshop. The result is hands-on sketch comedy at its finest.

Their third production this semester, HA's "The Sound of Music Show" on Saturday night will include sketches, musical numbers, and a parody of the immortal Julie Andrews's musical. In that particular sketch, a group of very bad burlesque artists break into song—from "The Sound of Music." Mark Marino promises that "The skit entitled, 'Bob Has a Tapeworm,' relating the story of man's intense relationship with his parasite, is sure to be a sketch the audience will love."

"Boob has a Tapeworm," its signature work, they brought it back in one form or another each time they have performed. This is one of the reasons why they are about the same thirteen sketch-like, including two comedic songs.

Behind them performs one musical piece, in which Marino says, "If Lido Zeppelin had a collegiate dining hall experience, they would have written this song.

The group draws from both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's tap, ballet, and modern dance styles performed to a potpourri of musical selections, ranging from Tchaikovsky to Glen Miller to James Taylor. Look no further. Workshops are accepted by audition only.

HA tickles the funny bone. Has the brainchild of Mark Marino, who envisioned all of those comedy sketch writers? They brought it back in one form or another, they worked together and worked together and worked together and..."
Kukoc’s triple-double leads Bulls rout

Associated Press

Michael Jordan followed his 55-point effort with a low-key 23-point performance Thursday night, adding 11 rebounds and six assists, leading the Chicago Bulls to a 100-82 victory over the Boston Celtics.

Unlike Tuesday at New York, where Boston’s six-game winning streak was out of the question, the Bulls led from start to finish.

After Celtics toiled with 69-63 late in the third quarter, the Bulls scored the first five points of the fourth quarter, extended their lead to 19 points, and added 14 more, giving them 12th win in 16 games and 19th in 21.

Kukoc’s triple-double leads Bulls rout

Cleveland for the fifth Eastern Conference playoff berth.

Celtics added 11 points in last game against the Miami Heat for the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.

The Celtics are 11-10 in the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The loss cost a lot of points to the Celtics.
Associated Press

Owen Nolan recorded his sixth career hat trick and Adam Deadmarsh scored goals 19 seconds apart as the league-leading Quebec Nordiques defeated the New York Rangers 5-4, Thursday night.

New York, which trailed 5-1, rallied for three goals and nearly tied the game when Brian Leetch's backhand shot hit the crossbar and tossed the puck away from Eric Lindros at center ice, skated deep into the Flyers' zone, got by defenseman Garry Galley and beat goalie keeper Ron Hextall from a sharp angle.

Philadelphia coach Terry Murray opted to pull Hextall after that goal, replacing him with Dominic Roussel.

Even the Devils power play came to life. Giguere's 10th goal at 2:37 of the second period increased the lead to 4-1. Three Flyers were caught low in the zone and Bryn stopped Giguere alone in front of the net. The power-play goal was just New Jersey's second in its last 22 chances.

New Jersey's penalty-killing unit coughed up its eighth goal in the last 18 chances as the Flyers climbed to 4-2. Yushkevich's drive from the point got the win for Brodeur, who was screened at 6:23 of the second. New Jersey is 7-0-3 when leading after two periods.

Philadelphia was without forward Claude Lemieux, who was serving the second game of a three-game suspension for sucker-punching the Islanders' Brett Lindros on Sunday. Philadelphia defenseman Eric Desjardins missed the game with a slight groin strain.

The Nordiques have won nine in a row and lead the Toronto Maple Leafs by nine points in the division. They have already clinched the regular-season title, the third straight loss, 5-4, Thursday night.

New York, which trailed 5-1, rallied for three goals and nearly tied the game when Brian Leetch's backhand shot hit the crossbar and tossed the puck away from Eric Lindros at center ice, skated deep into the Flyers' zone, got by defenseman Garry Galley and beat goalie keeper Ron Hextall from a sharp angle.

Philadelphia coach Terry Murray opted to pull Hextall after that goal, replacing him with Dominic Roussel.

Even the Devils power play came to life. Giguere's 10th goal at 2:37 of the second period increased the lead to 4-1. Three Flyers were caught low in the zone and Bryn stopped Giguere alone in front of the net. The power-play goal was just New Jersey's second in its last 22 chances.

New Jersey's penalty-killing unit coughed up its eighth goal in the last 18 chances as the Flyers climbed to 4-2. Yushkevich's drive from the point got the win for Brodeur, who was screened at 6:23 of the second. New Jersey is 7-0-3 when leading after two periods.

Philadelphia was without forward Claude Lemieux, who was serving the second game of a three-game suspension for sucker-punching the Islanders' Brett Lindros on Sunday. Philadelphia defenseman Eric Desjardins missed the game with a slight groin strain.
Georgia program takes giant steps

By CHUCK SCHOFFNER
Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS It's a long way from 17-11 and no NCAA tournament berth to 28-4 and a berth in the Final Four. The Georgia women made that leap in one year.
There are a couple of reasons.
One is the aging of last year's six highly touted freshmen into more mature, confident sophomores. They've been around the block a time or two now.
They know what to expect.
The other factor is just as important. She's Saudia Roundtree, a dynamic 5-foot-8 junior who plays with a pizzazz.
Roundtree stepped onto the Georgia campus last fall after being named the national junior college player of the year at Kilgore, Texas, and in one package gave the team someone who could drive, dish, pull and shoot at the same time or two now.

"She's given us a dimension of quickness on the perimeter," Georgia coach Andy Landers said. "Where that's really made a difference is in our defense. With Saudia out there, our other four kids can just stay back and play solid defense."

Roundtree's defensive abilities never were more apparent than in Georgia's 82-79 victory over top-seeded and No. 2-ranked Colorado in the Midwest Regional finals last Saturday. Basically, she took Colorado's All-American point guard, Shelley Sheetz, out of the game down the stretch.

Sheetz didn't score in the final 17 minutes and committed five second-half turnovers. With Saudia on the court, Georgia was able to rally from a 10-point deficit in the final five minutes.

Landers felt Roundtree fit in with the returning players the moment she arrived from Kilgore. Roundtree, though, said they needed a few practices to get into sync.

"They couldn't catch my passes," she said, laughing at the memory. "I was doing these behind-the-back passes I did in high school, and they weren't used to them. I had to stop doing that. They didn't know my game and I didn't know theirs."

But after the first two or three weeks, everybody blended in together. Everybody knew their role and that's important. We know we can't all be stars. We have to have some people who rebound, we have to have some people who score, we all have to play defense. We don't have anybody trying to play outside their role."

Roundtree's engaging personality enabled her to fit in on the court. It's hard not to like someone who lists the following as her basketball superstition: "If I make too many shots during warm-ups, I'm always scared I won't hit during the game. So I miss a few on purpose."

That humor, her ability to keep things loose, combined with her grit and determination — she worked the graveyard shift at a refrigerator plant last summer to earn her spending money — has been just what the Lady Bulldogs needed.

Digger keep that winning smile.
Happy a Double Birthday, Ryan!
Love,
Mom, Dad, Lisa, and Eric

NEW YORK

Settlement could be near

By RONALD BLUM
Associated Press

The baseball strike moved a bolt closer to a settlement Thursday night, but it was still uncertain whether the season would start this weekend with replacement players — or if at all.

"We are making some progress," union head Donald Fehr said after presenting a new offer to management.

Fehr spoke on the eve of a federal court hearing that could end the nearly eight-month walkout and stop the strikebreakers from taking the field Sunday night when the New York Mets play at Florida.

Earlier in the day, owners formally approved using replacement players in a 26-2 vote, with only Baltimore and Toronto opposed. New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner voted against replacements in an initial roll call, then changed to vote for them at the end of the conference call.

But with the court hearing and more bargaining ahead, teams weren't sure if replacement ball would start as scheduled.

"Right now, it's 50-50," Boston Red Sox chief executive officer John Harrington said.

Asked how long the uncertainty could go on, Harrington replied: "How 'bout 8:03 p.m. (Sunday). First pitch."

Acting commissioner Bud Selig did not appear quite as optimistic as Fehr.

"These things are not answered easily," he said. "I told Don I would respond to him probably sometime tomorrow."

The players' proposal called for an adjustment in the luxury tax rate placed on clubs. The new offer would have affected six teams in 1994, one more than in the union's previous plan.

Owners, who would commit about $2 million in bonuses to the replacements if the season starts Sunday, said all games with replacements would count in the standings.

With the Orioles still refusing to field a replacement team, the American League directed the Chicago White Sox and Texas not to travel to Baltimore next week for their scheduled games at Camden Yards and told the replacement umpires — the regulars are locked out — not to show up.

"Orioles managing general partner Peter Angelos has advised the league ... that he will not field a team for the first two weeks of the season," AL president Gene Budig said.

Budig said he will hold a news conference Sunday to announce his decision on the fate of the team and of Cal Ripken's consecutive games streak.

Owners have agreed to keep basically unchanged the current system of free agency and salary arbitration from the expired collective bargaining agreement The sides remain apart on the teams' demand for a luxury tax that would slow salary growth.

On the 231st day of the strike, U.S. District Judge Sonia Sotomayor told the sides she was inclined to hear oral arguments — not witnesses — during Friday's hearing at the U.S. Court House.

The National Labor Relations Board has asked Sotomayor to issue a preliminary injunction to restore free agent bidding and salary arbitration, which were unilaterally eliminated by the owners Feb. 6.

Teams say they have a right to eliminate both provisions to preserve their positions in collective bargaining, but NLRB general counsel Fred Feinstein disagreed and issued an unfair labor practice charge against them on March 15.

Feinstein then was given permission by the NLRB board last Sunday to seek the injunction.

The union's executive board voted Wednesday to end the strike if Sotomayor issues the injunction. Owners could lock players out, but it appears the pro-lockout faction will be unable to get the necessary 21 votes from among the 28 clubs.

President Clinton, speaking in Tampa, Fla., said he hoped owners wouldn't start a lockout.

"The judge is going to hand down a ruling in the coming days that would slow salary growth," Clinton said. "And I would just say, if the injunction stays and the owners do go back to work, then I hope they won't be locked out.

"Teams, many still at their spring training camps, prepared for the possible return of major leagues.

Andr  e W you ng

Former U.S. Congressman, Ambassador to the UN, and Mayor of Atlanta
Co-Chairman, Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games

Diversity the Key

How Atlanta Won the Olympics

Thursday, April 6th, 8:00 p.m.
Stepan Center

Admission is free. Tickets are available at the LaFortune Box Office and at the door. Sponsored by the Office of Student Affairs and the Office of Student Activities.

This lecture was made possible through a grant from the Lilly Foundation.
Super Sophomores leaders of Tar Heels

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
Associated Press

For years, North Carolina has relied on senior leadership for its success. In reaching this year’s Final Four, the Tar Heels have returned to the Big Eight guard.

Randy has developed into a leader and Pete Gillen worked the game of his life against Kansas in the regional semifinals, scoring 14 points while shooting a league-best 43.7 percent from 3-point range.

Good move. He averaged 28.5 points and 14.6 rebounds in his senior year of high school, then spent one year at a junior college before joining Oklahoma State and redhshirting during the 1991-92 season. As a sophomore in 1992-93, Rutherford started most of the first time in his career, Rutherford was named to the Big Eight’s all-defense team.

This season, Rutherford has improved all parts of his game. He is scoring 19.7 points per game, and his 142 3-pointers are the most in conference history. He is averaging 6.3 rebounds per game, 7.3 in the four NCAA tournament games — and his 69 steals are second-most on the team.

For years, North Carolina has relied on upperclassmen to take on increased responsibilities as juniors, it was still a team of more talented ones and the more heralded ones.

In 1991, upperclassmen ruled. Hubert.

The Cowboys rely on shooting of Rutherford

By OWEN CANFIELD
Associated Press

In order to beat UCLA on Saturday, says Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton, the Cowboys have to slow down the Charleston Hornets jet, then rode a bus with the sign "WRONG BUS" on it to their hotel in suburban Bellevue, Wash.

Some teams have been greeted with handshakes and a hotel lobby festooned in their school’s colors. North Carolina was greeted with a blue banner bearing the word “Carolina” with a basketball goal under it. There was a small group of autograph seekers to greet the players and coaches as they fled off the bus and headed immediately to their rooms.

"The only thing we’ve got to do is win it now," Stackhouse said as he got off the bus.

"We’re really excited. Hopefully, we’ll be as happy as we are now going back home on Tuesday morning," he said.

For Pat Sullivan, it’s the third trip to a Final Four, including the 1991 team, which lout an impressive freshman class, that lost to Kansas in the semifinals in Indianapolis. He acknowledged the transition in power, even if it takes some time to recall it all.

"That’s a lot of teams I’ve got to think about," Sullivan joked during an interview in Chapel Hill prior to the team’s departure.

"The difference, I guess, is the mixture of the young talent that we’ve had," he said. "When I was a younger player, it seemed like the older players were the more talented ones and the more heralded ones.

In 1991, upperclassmen ruled. Hubert Davis was the acknowledged outside threat, King Rice directed the team at point guard, Rick Fox was the team leader and Pete Chilcott worked the inside.

At New Orleans, while those freshmen had grown to take on increased responsibilities as juniors, it was a team led by senior George Lynch. When Lynch left, some felt that a vital component in the previous season’s title march was missing. There was a sense of division between the freshmen and new-comers Wallace, Stackhouse and McInnis, and the Tar Heels made an early exit from the 1994 tournament.

Sullivan said the roles have changed in that this year’s leaders aren’t based on class, but on talent. Those helped coach Dean Smith reach his 16th Final Four, two short of the record held by UCLA’s John Wooden.

Wednesday: In Seattle this afternoon, the Cowboys will face UC Santa Barbara in the West Regional final. It will be the first meeting between the teams since 1969.

Like Reeves, Rutherford is the inside game. He is averaging 6.3 rebounds per game, 7.3 in the four NCAA tournament games — and his 69 steals are second-most on the team.

"I don’t think anybody’s seen how he can really shoot the ball," said forward Scott Pierce, recalling some remarkable games of "horse" between Rutherford and former OU guard Brooks Thompson.

"He takes the shots that are open, and sometimes he just goes on a roll. He can make ‘em with people on him or falling out of bounds, it doesn’t matter."

One of those rolls came against Alabama in the second round of the East Regional. Rutherford made four straight 3-pointers in the second half, helping the Cowboys pull away and win.

He had another big day against top-seeded Wake Forest in the regional semifinals, scoring 23 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. In the game that got the Cowboys to the Final Four, a victory over Massachusetts, Rutherford hit a couple of dazzling second-half 3-pointers to help seal things.

"I don’t think anybody’s really seen how he can really shoot the ball," said forward Scott Pierce, recalling some remarkable games of "horse" between Rutherford and former OU guard Brooks Thompson.

"He takes the shots that are open, and sometimes he just goes on a roll. He can make ‘em with people on him or falling out of bounds, it doesn’t matter."

One of those rolls came against Alabama in the second round of the East Regional. Rutherford made four straight 3-pointers in the second half, helping the Cowboys pull away and win.

He had another big day against top-seeded Wake Forest in the regional semifinals, scoring 23 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. In the game that got the Cowboys to the Final Four, a victory over Massachusetts, Rutherford hit a couple of dazzling second-half 3-pointers to help seal things.

For years, North Carolina has relied on senior leadership for its success. In reaching this year’s Final Four, the Tar Heels have returned to the Charloote Hornets jet, then rode a bus with the sign "WRONG BUS" on it to their hotel in suburban Bellevue, Wash.

Some teams have been greeted with handshakes and a hotel lobby festooned in their school’s colors. North Carolina was greeted with a blue banner bearing the word “Carolina” with a basketball goal under it. There was a small group of autograph seekers to greet the players and coaches as they fled off the bus and headed immediately to their rooms.

"The only thing we’ve got to do is win it now," Stackhouse said as he got off the bus.

"We’re really excited. Hopefully, we’ll be as happy as we are now going back home on Tuesday morning," he said.

For Pat Sullivan, it’s the third trip to a Final Four, including the 1991 team, which lout an impressive freshman class, that lost to Kansas in the semifinals in Indianapolis. He acknowledged the transition in power, even if it takes some time to recall it all.

"That’s a lot of teams I’ve got to think about," Sullivan joked during an interview in Chapel Hill prior to the team’s departure.

"The difference, I guess, is the mixture of the young talent that we’ve had," he said. "When I was a younger player, it seemed like the older players were the more talented ones and the more heralded ones.

In 1991, upperclassmen ruled. Hubert Davis was the acknowledged outside threat, King Rice directed the team at point guard, Rick Fox was the team leader and Pete Chilcott worked the inside.

At New Orleans, while those freshmen had grown to take on increased responsibilities as juniors, it was a team led by senior George Lynch. When Lynch left, some felt that a vital component in the previous season’s title march was missing. There was a sense of division between the freshmen and new-comers Wallace, Stackhouse and McInnis, and the Tar Heels made an early exit from the 1994 tournament.

Sullivan said the roles have changed in that this year’s leaders aren’t based on class, but on talent. Those helped coach Dean Smith reach his 16th Final Four, two short of the record held by UCLA’s John Wooden.

Wednesday: In Seattle this afternoon, the Cowboys will face UC Santa Barbara in the West Regional final. It will be the first meeting between the teams since 1969.

Like Reeves, Rutherford is the inside game. He is averaging 6.3 rebounds per game, 7.3 in the four NCAA tournament games — and his 69 steals are second-most on the team.

" Randy has developed into a complete basketball player," Sutton said. "He’s always been able to score and shoot the ball well. In the last year-and-a-half, we’ve seen tremendous improvement in his ball-handling, his passing, but probably more than anywhere else his rebounding and his defensive play.

But there’s nothing like watching Rutherford get on a roll from 3-point range. He had the game of his life against Kansas in the final game of the regular season. While Reeves was being held scoreless for the first time in his career, Rutherford was scoring a career-high 45 points, including 11 3-pointers.

"I don’t think anybody’s seen how he can really shoot the ball," said forward Scott Pierce, recalling some remarkable games of “horse” between Rutherford and former OU guard Brooks Thompson.

"He takes the shots that are open, and sometimes he just goes on a roll. He can make ‘em with people on him or falling out of bounds, it doesn’t matter."

One of those rolls came against Alabama in the second round of the East Regional. Rutherford made four straight 3-pointers in the second half, helping the Cowboys pull away and win.

He had another big day against top-seeded Wake Forest in the regional semifinals, scoring 23 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. In the game that got the Cowboys to the Final Four, a victory over Massachusetts, Rutherford hit a couple of dazzling second-half 3-pointers to help seal things.
Michigan falls in triple overtime thriller

By HOWARD ULMAN

The Observer • SPORTS

Friday, March 31, 1995

Michigan back home.

The Observer • ASSOCIATED PRESS

By HOWARD ULMAN

Thursday's game was the longest in NCAA tournament history, outlasting the 99-minute, 28-second marathon in 1984.

Maine won its only championship in 1993, when it knocked off Michigan 4-3. But that only took 1:36 of the first overtime to determine a winner.

Both teams played cautiously as Thursday's endurance test wore on. And no one was more durable, or spectacular, than the goalies — Turco and Maine's Blair Allison, who stopped 47 shots and has played every one of Maine's games this season.

Maine's best chance of the second overtime came when Jamie Thompson went in alone and skated left to right across the slot. But Turco went down, reached out his left arm and smothered the shot with 4:40 left.

Thursday's game was the longest in NCAA tournament history, outlasting the 99-minute, 28-second marathon in which Bowling Green beat Minnesota-Duluth 5-4 for the 1984 championship.

Maine outshot Michigan 17-8 in that overtime after being outshot 11-6 in the previous period.

The Wolverines nearly ended the game 3-4 into that first extra session when Brendan Morrison took aim at the wide open right side of the net. But his hard shot clanged off the post and ricocheted harmlessly away.

Michigan scored twice in the first five minutes, but Maine crept back and took the lead 3-2 in Shermrhorn's power-play goal with 5:58 left in regulation. He's Maine's second leading goal scorer with 25.

Michigan, the highest scoring team in the country, ended a scoring drought lasting more than 50 minutes when Mike Knuble, the nation's leading goal scorer, tied the game with 5:09 left in the third period. His 38th goal came 18 seconds into a Wolverine power play and his jubilant teammates swarmed around him.

But Maine did the celebrating after Shermrhorn's goal. He won the faceoff to Turco's right and got the puck to Cardinal a few feet away. Shermrhorn, without hesitation, sped toward the net where no one picked him up.

Cardinal poked it through and Shermrhorn found the puck at his feet and backhanded it past a stunned Turco.

Kevin Hilton and Matt Herr had given Michigan a 2-0 lead, but Maine tied the game on goals by Jeff Tory on a power play at 18:01 of the first period and Brad Purdie at 1:06 of the second.

Then Shermrhorn got the goals Maine needed to continue its recovery from a season of turmoil.

It missed the NCAA tournament last season, in which it lost seven players to the Olympics and 14 games by forfeit because it used two ineligible players.

But the Black Bears began this season by going 14-0-5. Just one more win and their increasingly amazing climb back to the top of college hockey will be complete.
Final Four full of coaching experience

By JIM O'CONNELL

SEATTLE

The 11th Final Four to cap a 64-team tournament has a veteran field of coaches with an average age of almost 57 and a combined 90 seasons of Division I head coaching experience.

It is the fourth in 57 NCAA tournaments — all since 1991 except last year — to have four schools advance to the national semifinals without at least one looking for its first title.

Saturday's matches have UCLA, the champion of champions with 10 national championships, against Oklahoma State, the first repeat champion in 1946, and the two most recent winners, North Carolina, one of four schools with at least three titles, and Arkansas, the defending champion.

Jim Harrick of top-ranked UCLA is the lone Final Four rookie among the coaches, and only once since the tournament went to 64 teams (1993) has there not been at least one first-time among the coaches.

"From my standpoint, we don't change anything we do," he said. "It's one of the biggest social events in America, but I don't think the teams are involved in the social part of it." Arkansas led Arkansas to the 1991 title, and Arkansas, the one of four schools with at least three titles, and Arkansas, the defending champion.

By JIM O'CONNELL

4 seed. Since 1985, only two

Sutton led Arkansas to the victory would give him 10 in his 34th season at North Carolina, the dean of the current Final Four coaches. "It's not a given, even if you think you're a good team. Maybe sometimes we weren't deserving. I don't know about this year." This is only the third Final Four since 1985 not to have at least two schools from the same conference. In 1981, Kentucky won over a four-conference field and North Carolina did the same in 1983.

The last three national champions came into the Final Four as No. 1 seed and UCLA is the only top seed still going this year.

SLOW DOWN.

JILDO!

IT'S NOT YOUR 21st!

HAPPY 19th

LOVE

THE HEIFERS!

Male & Female models needed:

for free haircuts, perms, semi-permanent & permanent hair color

for advanced training in the most progressive Michiana salon

Call us now and schedule your new look!

272-1225

on Saturdays, during April & May, student discounts will be offered

women's cuts $20

men's cuts $12

Look for new location May 1st.

Emerald Cut
THE SALON & DAY SPA
BEAUTY BODY MIND SOUL
The Alumni-Senior Club is hiring BARTENDERS for the 95-96 season.

Pick up applications at Student Activities, 315 LaFortune. Must be 21+ by September, 1995.

DEADLINE: March 31, 1995
BASEBALL

By MEGAN McGRATH
Sports Writer

Baseball great and famous abuser of the English language Yogi Berra once said, “It’s like deja vu all over again.”

Anyone watching Thursday’s Notre Dame baseball game against Cincinnati who had seen Wednesday’s contest might have had that eerily familiar feeling for the first six innings.

Luckily for the Irish, the big seventh inning belonged to them as they went on to beat the Bearcats 5-4 at Eck Stadium.

Just the day before they had lost to Bowling Green by the same score.

Only Notre Dame head coach Paul Mainieri seemed oblivious to the similarities.

“Yesterday was one of those days that anyone can have,” Mainieri said. “It just proves that you can’t win them all. Today was a new day.”

But there were some unmistakable coincidences.

Like Wednesday, Notre Dame scored first. Craig DeSensi led-off the contest with a double, and then scored on an RBI ground-out by Ryan Topham.

But unlike the loss to Bowling Green, the Irish kept hitting after the first frame. Unfortunately, poor execution on the bases kept them from scoring. Irish lead-off hitters could play everyday puts us at a disadvantage,” Thomas said.

Among the teams the men will compete against are schools such as Louisville, Kentucky, and traditional powerhouse Ohio State. The tournament will be composed of five scores counting toward stroke play.

The women, who are coached by Ross Smith, challenge perennial Big Ten powers such as Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio State.

The Irish bull pen struggled a bit in relief, but managed to hang on for the win. Freshman Pat Davis started the eighth inning, and retired one batter before allowing two singles. He got another out before giving up a long-ball to left by junior Matt Prinzen.

But the bullpen came up solid. Junior Garrett Carlson was brought in to relieve, and struck out Ryan Stidham looking to end the eighth. Sophomore Larry Moeh was perfect in the ninth to earn his second save.

The Irish will square off against Butler in a series of double-headers at Eck Stadium this week end. Saturday and Sunday’s contests will be the team’s first Midwestern Collegiate Conference games.

The Irish were finally able to put together some big hits. "We had much higher intensity than yesterday,” Mainieri said. “Guys like Amrhin and Topham stepped up and got some big hits.”

Like Wednesday, Notre Dame received effective pitching from its starter. Against the Bearcats, Gregg Henebry earned his first win of the season by going six innings, surrendering no earned runs on just five hits.

“I was just throwing strikes and changing speeds,” Henebry said. “I was able to keep their guys off balance.”

The Irish bull pen struggled a bit in relief, but managed to hang on for the win. Freshman Pat Davis started the eighth inning, and retired one batter before allowing two singles. He got another out before giving up a long-ball to left by junior Matt Prinzen.

But the bullpen came up solid. Junior Garrett Carlson was brought in to relieve, and struck out Ryan Stidham looking to end the eighth. Sophomore Larry Moeh was perfect in the ninth to earn his second save.

The Irish will square off against Butler in a series of double-headers at Eck Stadium this week end. Saturday and Sunday’s contests will be the team’s first Midwestern Collegiate Conference games.

No blown lead this time

GOLF

Links teams to begin seasons

By JIM BELDEN
Sports Writer

The arrival of spring always brings a renewed sense of hope and enthusiasm to most anyone. This is especially true for the Notre Dame golf teams.

The men’s squad hits the links this weekend in the Johnny Owen Invitational, to be hosted by Kentucky, while the lady linksters travel to Bloomington to compete in the Indiana Invitational.

Both coaches have high expectations.

“I see this year’s team as having the best balance I’ve seen in my tenure here,” men’s coach George Thomas noted. “We fared well at the Embry Riddle Intercollegiate Tournament and it really helped to get in as many rounds as possible for the spring schedule.”

Likewise, the women feel a bit more confident after having already competed this spring.

“Katie King, who is a freshman, played well last weekend, so we’re looking for big things out of her,” assistant coach Tom Hanlon said. “In addition, Katie Shannon, our senior co-captain, has been solid for us all year.”

Even though the teams have had the opportunity to compete a bit already this spring, many of their opponents have the advantage of playing near-year-round, something South Bend obviously doesn’t accommodate.

“Traveling to face teams that can play everyday puts us at a disadvantage,” Thomas said.

Among the teams the men will compete against are such as Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio State.

Like Wednesday, Notre Dame scored first. Craig DeSensi led-off the contest with a double, and then scored on an RBI ground-out by Ryan Topham.

But unlike the loss to Bowling Green, the Irish kept hitting after the first frame. Unfortunately, poor execution on the bases kept them from scoring. Irish lead-off hitters could play everyday puts us at a disadvantage,” Thomas said.

Among the teams the men will compete against are schools such as Louisville, Kentucky, and traditional powerhouse Ohio State. The tourney will be composed of five holes with the top four out of five scores counting toward stroke play.

The women, who are coached by Ross Smith, challenge perennial Big Ten powers such as Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio State.

The Irish bull pen struggled a bit in relief, but managed to hang on for the win. Freshman Pat Davis started the eighth inning, and retired one batter before allowing two singles. He got another out before giving up a long-ball to left by junior Matt Prinzen.

But the bullpen came up solid. Junior Garrett Carlson was brought in to relieve, and struck out Ryan Stidham looking to end the eighth. Sophomore Larry Moeh was perfect in the ninth to earn his second save.

The Irish will square off against Butler in a series of double-headers at Eck Stadium this week end. Saturday and Sunday’s contests will be the team’s first Midwestern Collegiate Conference games.

PIZZA

PAPA JOHN'S

Arkansas Special

Lunch Special
1-10" Small
2 Topping Pizza
with 1 can of Coke

$5.95

N. Carolina Special

Netty Nine-Fifty
1-16" Extra Large
Two Toppings

$9.50

Additional Topping 50¢ each. Be sure to ask for your name.

STAY ON THE COUCH!

Order a Papa John's Final Four Special

And catch all of this weekend's action!

CALL 271-1177

OKLAHOMA ST. SPECIAL

One 14" Large
One Topping

$6.95

Two 14" Large
One Topping

$11.95

UCLA SPECIAL

Late Night Special
(9:00 p.m. until closing)

1-14" Large
One Topping Pizza

$5.95

Order a Papa John's Final Four Special

And catch all of this weekend's action!

CALL 271-1177
Irish seeing double with doubleheaders

Notre Dame splits two with Bowling Green
By NEIL ZENDER

Ernie Banks once said, "Let's play two." The Notre Dame softball team would probably prefer playing one. That would certainly improve their winning percentage. The Irish have a tendency of winning the first game, and then getting ambushed in the second end of a twin bill. Last week it happened against Ohio State.

Yesterday, the opponent was 4-10 Bowling Green. No. 22 Notre Dame opened against Ohio State. The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

The Observer • SPORTS

By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Irish have a tendency of winning the first game, and then getting ambushed in the second end of a twin bill. Last week it happened against Ohio State. Yesterday, the opponent was 4-10 Bowling Green. No. 22 Notre Dame opened against Ohio State. The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

The Observer • SPORTS

By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Coach Liz Miller is worried they might sneak up on the Irish.

These are the type of teams that will sneak up on us. It's tough, because they have no pressure on them. These are really big games for us. We can't have defensive letdowns." Wright State (4-9) will give the Irish pitchers a good test. They lead the MCC in hitting with a .327 average, Butler, on the other hand, appears more vulnerable. These have a team ERA of 3.12. Notre Dame's is a non-existent 1.43. The Irish will be bolstered by Kara McMahon's return after missing nine games after suffering a fractured cheek at the hands of a foul ball against Hawaii. Yesterday, McMahon played solid ball in her return, and showed no signs of being gun-shy.

Wright State, Butler await
By NEIL ZENDER
Sprint Wire

If they had a top notch agent, Notre Dame softball would be in a Doublemint Gum commercial. This weekend is double doubleheaders as the Irish begin their Midwestern Collegiate Conference season. On Saturday, they'll play two against Wright State at 1 p.m. On Sunday, they'll play another two against Butler at 11 a.m. The Irish will get a lot more than pure chewing satisfaction if they can notch four wins this weekend.

The Raiders and Bulldogs are middle of the pack teams, and Irish netters seek revenge

By B. J. HOOD
Sports Writer

The Observer • SPORTS page 25

The pressure is on the Notre Dame men's tennis team. After taking their last breather of the season last weekend, Notre Dame has five very important matchups remaining.

Three of the five remaining matches are regional matchups. Coach Bob Bayliss feels the Irish need to win two of those to secure a NCAA birth. The first of those is at 1 p.m. on Sunday against Northwestern.

Last year, the Wildcats defeated the Irish 4-3 in Evanston, and it was one of Notre Dame's two losses to regional opponents in the past four years.

Because of this, Bayliss feels the once defeated Wildcat team is "scary." Karl Von Shantz from Sweden and senior Jeff Giraldo are Northwestern's top players. They also have an outstanding freshman class featuring By Tarpley and Alex Witt, a friend of Irish player Ryan Simms.

Northwestern has a match Saturday against Penn State, and the Irish are hoping for a long and difficult match for the Wildcats on Saturday. If they don't get that, they will just have to rely on a hot Irish squad.

Ryan Simms could not participate on Sunday due because he can only participate on twenty-five tennis dates. Mike Sprouse stepped in at number one singles and won his match, following beating Indiana's best player on Saturday.

Ben Mencis also won his fifth consecutive match over the weekend. "I think you need seven or eight reliable players due to injuries and other situations that come up," Bayliss said. "(Mencis) lost some close ones early, and has come on strong. He'll be needed as the season comes to a conclusion."

Doubles have strong recently, and the number one singles tandem of Sprouse and Jason Pun continues to gain consistency.

Notre Dame gets a chance to play against the teams they are competing against in the Midwest Regional, since following Northwestern they will also play Michigan and Ball State—controlling their own destiny. If they peak through this important juncture of the season, that destiny will be at the Eck Tennis Pavilion for the Midwest Regional on May 6 and 7.

Men's Tennis

By B. J. HOOD
Sports Writer

The Observer • SPORTS page 25

The pressure is on the Notre Dame men's tennis team. After taking their last breather of the season last weekend, Notre Dame has five very important matchups remaining.

Three of the five remaining matches are regional matchups. Coach Bob Bayliss feels the Irish need to win two of those to secure a NCAA birth. The first of those is at 1 p.m. on Sunday against Northwestern.

Last year, the Wildcats defeated the Irish 4-3 in Evanston, and it was one of Notre Dame's two losses to regional opponents in the past four years.

Because of this, Bayliss feels the once defeated Wildcat team is "scary." Karl Von Shantz from Sweden and senior Jeff Giraldo are Northwestern's top players. They also have an outstanding freshman class featuring By Tarpley and Alex Witt, a friend of Irish player Ryan Simms.

Northwestern has a match Saturday against Penn State, and the Irish are hoping for a long and difficult match for the Wildcats on Saturday. If they don't get that, they will just have to rely on a hot Irish squad.

Ryan Simms could not participate on Sunday due because he can only participate on twenty-five tennis dates. Mike Sprouse stepped in at number one singles and won his match, following beating Indiana's best player on Saturday.

Ben Mencis also won his fifth consecutive match over the weekend. "I think you need seven or eight reliable players due to injuries and other situations that come up," Bayliss said. "(Mencis) lost some close ones early, and has come on strong. He'll be needed as the season comes to a conclusion."

Doubles have strong recently, and the number one singles tandem of Sprouse and Jason Pun continues to gain consistency.

Notre Dame gets a chance to play against the teams they are competing against in the Midwest Regional, since following Northwestern they will also play Michigan and Ball State—controlling their own destiny. If they peak through this important juncture of the season, that destiny will be at the Eck Tennis Pavilion for the Midwest Regional on May 6 and 7.

Women's Tennis

By MICHAEL DAY
Sports Writer

The Observer • SPORTS page 25

The pressure is on the Notre Dame women's tennis team. After taking their last breather of the season last weekend, Notre Dame has five very important matchups remaining.

Three of the five remaining matches are regional matchups. Coach Bob Bayliss feels the Irish need to win two of those to secure a NCAA birth. The first of those is at 1 p.m. on Sunday against Northwestern.

Last year, the Wildcats defeated the Irish 4-3 in Evanston, and it was one of Notre Dame's two losses to regional opponents in the past four years.

Because of this, Bayliss feels the once defeated Wildcat team is "scary." Karl Von Shantz from Sweden and senior Jeff Giraldo are Northwestern's top players. They also have an outstanding freshman class featuring By Tarpley and Alex Witt, a friend of Irish player Ryan Simms.

Northwestern has a match Saturday against Penn State, and the Irish are hoping for a long and difficult match for the Wildcats on Saturday. If they don't get that, they will just have to rely on a hot Irish squad.

Ryan Simms could not participate on Sunday due because he can only participate on twenty-five tennis dates. Mike Sprouse stepped in at number one singles and won his match, following beating Indiana's best player on Saturday.

Ben Mencis also won his fifth consecutive match over the weekend. "I think you need seven or eight reliable players due to injuries and other situations that come up," Bayliss said. "(Mencis) lost some close ones early, and has come on strong. He'll be needed as the season comes to a conclusion."

Doubles have strong recently, and the number one singles tandem of Sprouse and Jason Pun continues to gain consistency.

Notre Dame gets a chance to play against the teams they are competing against in the Midwest Regional, since following Northwestern they will also play Michigan and Ball State—controlling their own destiny. If they peak through this important juncture of the season, that destiny will be at the Eck Tennis Pavilion for the Midwest Regional on May 6 and 7.

• Specializing in engagement rings & anniversary rings - Award Winning Designs
• Custom Design and Repairs

255-7777
Cleveland Rd. East of U.P. Mall & US 31 North Village Mall

Located in the Heart of Everything!

diamonds

Remington Court

Montreal Rd.

Edison Rd.

McKinley Blvd.

Edison Rd.

Lincolnway East
Broncos bring strength

By MICHAEL DAY
Sports Writer

It goes back to that age old question: what is the telling mark of a great athlete, tremendous speed or brute strength?

Perhaps track and field fans will find out on Saturday when strength? tremendous speed or brute mark of a great athlete, question: what is the telling renowned for their performance in the strength and endurance events.

By M IC H A E L  D A Y

Not that the Irish lack strength or that Western Michigan is without speed and quickness, but there is no denying that each team’s forte falls at the exact opposite end of the spectrum. In this weekend’s dual meet, Notre Dame’s elite male athletes will go head to head against their WMU counterparts in an important early season test for both squads.

“Western Michigan is the type of team that is especially tough in an outdoor dual meet,” said head coach Joe Piane. “They have a couple of great runners, and they are strong in the outdoor field events: the shot put, and they are strong in the out-

Leading the way for the Irish through this Saturday will be emerging freshmen Errol Williams and Danny Payton. Williams is coming off a fourth place finish in the 110-meter high hurdles at the Stanford Invitational, while Payton captured second place in the 400-meter dash with a stellar time of 47.60.

“I’m pretty pleased with the progress I’ve made so far this season,” said Williams. “I am happy, but I am not too surprised. I would definitely like to get my time as low as possible and qualify for the NCAA’s.”

Also expected to contribute this weekend are junior John Carran in the 800, senior Joe Royer in the 1500, junior Jeff Hojnacki in the 800, juniors John Cown and Mike Smedley in the 3000, and sophomore Matt Althoff in the 5000.

In last weekend’s Stanford Invitational, Smedley placed first in the 3000-meter steeple chase, defeating his closest opponent by nearly 14 seconds. With a second place finish in the 5000, Althoff also enjoyed a successful outing for the Irish.

Competing in the field events for the Irish are senior Brian Headrick (high jump), junior Todd Johnathan (high jump), senior Dan Grenough (pole vault), junior Mike Fleish (shot put), and senior Greg Moretti (hammer throw).

“We’d like to use the meet as a chance to get all our people qualified for the IC4A’s,” said Piane. “We’d also like to get good performance from the guys doubling (competing in more than one event) like Royer, Payton, and Williams.”

Although most of the top women will use the weekend to rest and prepare for the Dogwood Invitational on April 8, the balance of the squad will be competing in the Indiana Intercollegiates this weekend.

Among those with the weekend off are junior Erica Peterson and sophomore Allison Howard. Last weekend at California, Peterson placed fourth in the 400-meter hurdles with a time of 1:00.82, while Howard’s time of 36.20 was good enough for fourth place in the 400-meter dash.

With the rough part of the track and field year rapidly approaching, the Irish women look to use the time for a little rest and relaxation before plunging head first into a rugged, yet promising outdoor season.

Junior Mike Fleisch will throw the shot put against Western Michigan this weekend.
Friday, March 31, 1995

THE OBSERVER

MOTHER GOOSE & GRIMM

CALVIN AND HOBBES

DILBERT

CLOSE TO HOME

PULP FICTION

By John McPherson

Call Jackie at 1-5303.

NAZ is this Friday starting at 7:30pm in Stepán Center.

THE OBSERVER is now accepting applications for the paid position of Design Editor.

Looking for design experience?
Paul Mainieri, the Notre Dame baseball team’s newest member, is more than just a coach. He is a Friend of the Game.

W e live in an age when the coaches of college sports tend to be more important than the players and programs themselves. Yes, Bobby Knight, that means you. Don’t try to hide, Junior and Senior Bowden, you’re included in this, too.

Therefore, when the University of Notre Dame was looking to replace successful baseball coach Pat Murphy, it wouldn’t have been surprising if the new hire was a blustery, self-important individual looking to make his mark on both the university and college baseball.

After all, the school had to find a successor to one of the most popular and accomplished coaches in Irish baseball history. In seven seasons, Murphy won over 300 games and took Notre Dame to the NCAA play-offs four times. In the last three seasons, the Irish were within a heartbeat of the College World Series, missing Omaha by one game.

It would have been a special kind of man to replace Murphy. Luckily for the Irish, on Aug. 25, 1994, Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal offered the coaching job to Paul Mainieri, who brings a quiet, easy confidence to the program in place of the bravado so common among today’s coaches.

“I know what this university stands for,” Mainieri says. “Sure it’s important to win, but this school stands for more.”